Smashing Satchels.

A deliberate suicide occurred at Dayton Monday. The dagman at the Fifth-street railroad crossing observed a man walk past him along the center of the track. As a switch engine was approaching he hailed the man, the dagman took notice of him. Absorbed in musing, north of Gilbertsville the man stepped off the track as though to let the engine pass. Waiting till it was almost on him, he threw himself deliberately in front of the engine and was cut across the rail, and in an instant his head was severed from his body. He was afterwards identified as William Jones, a native of the Soldier's Home, a German, about fifty years of age.

Semi-Hostile State of Affairs in Europe.

A Vienna correspondent on the 24th says: If the latest news be true, affairs in Constantinople are more and more assuming the same semi-hostile phase as before the meeting of the Berlin Congress. Turkish troops are being moved into positions vacated by the Russians, and earthworks are being repaired and armed before Constantinople and Gallipoli. The Turks are arranging to increase their forces, and are commanding half-pay officers to active duty. A special committee for the defense of the Capital has been formed at the Serakskerate. Important Land Decision.

The Commissioner General of the Land office has rendered his decision in the case of Hall, Sunderland and others, against the California, involving an important question as to the proper interpretation of the act of July 31, 1876, which provides for the sale of coal lands before receiving patents to pay costs of survey, selection and conveyancing, and Commissioner Williamson holds that this requirement was a new burden or condition imposed upon the Government, and that, therefore, it is applicable only to lands earned after the date of the new enactment, and not to any lands earned prior to that date. He also holds incidentally that this provision does not apply to any road in aid of which the Congress did not reserve the right to amend the original grant, and also that it is not applicable to lands granted to a State to use in the direct or the encouragement of the construction of railroads.

Bomb Struck Up in Missouri.

A Sedalia dispatch of the 24th October says: "The execution of Richard P. Isaac took place here to-day in the presence of a thousand people. At 11 o'clock the jail at eleven o'clock, arrived at the scaffold, followed by an immense throng, at 1 o'clock. A speech of half an hour he admitted the killing of Henderson B. Clarke, warned everybody against wrong doing and carrying concealed weapons; confered everybody to turn to Jesus and keep the commandments of God, claimed to be prepared for eternity, and expressed no fear. Before he broke down twice while speaking, and was considerably affected. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Brown, and at 11.56 Sheriff Stevens cut the rope, and the body fell seven feet. In five minutes he was pronounced dead, but for a few minutes was cut down and the body was given to the friends.

Attempted Assassination.

A Madrid dispatch says that the King of Spain was driving through a street known as the Calle Mayor on the evening of the 25th of October, a man in a house fired a pistol at him. The King was not touched, and continued on his way to the palace. A Madrid dispatch says: The man was immediately seized by the soldiers and taken to prison. He would be assassin is named Juan Moncas, aged twenty-three, by trade a cooper, a native of Terragona. He states he is a member of the International Society, and his crime was premeditated. He arrived at Madrid, October 20. Moncas was rescued from mob violence by the officers who wished to lynch him. All the foreign Ministers and Diplomatists in Madrid have congratulated the King on his escape. A solemn te deum was sung. Judicial proceedings against Moncas have already commenced.

Heavy Loss by Fire.

At an early hour Saturday morning the extensive establishment of Christian Kiesel, located at the Rockwell Place, East Buffalo, N. Y., was completely destroyed by fire, involving a loss of $125,000. The building consisted of an ice-house, pork-packing department, store-house, two slaughter-houses, smoke-house, engine house, sheds, etc. They were of brick and wood, and the main structure was three stories in height. Owing to the inflammable material, and the insufficient water supply for that section of the city, the firemen were only able to save the surrounding property, and they were fortunate in preventing the destruction of the stock-yards. In the third story of the main building there was the fire that was discovered were about one hundred and fifty live hogs. About fifty escaped, the remainder were found roasted about the streets and yards. The insurance aggregates $60,000 on $125, two being on the buildings, $44,000 on the stock and $8,500 on the machinery.

Heavy Bank Robbery.

Between six and nine o'clock Sunday morning masked burglars entered the Manhattan Savings' Bank Building, corner of Broadway and Bleecker-street, New York, and handcuffing the janitor, made him, under threat of instant death, reveal the combination of the safe to them, and deliver up the keys of the bank. They rifled the bank of presumably a large amount of money, twenty-two boxes known to have contained bills were found on the floor quite empty. Alarm being given, the janitor broke the bank occupying the ground floor, with entrances on both Broadway and Bleecker-street. The officers hastened to the bank, was robbed of securities to the amount of $2,575,700, of which $2,565,700 were registered in the name of the institution, and are not negotiable, and $16,000 are made payable to it, $75,000 are in coupon bonds, and $1,000 in cash. For the purpose of preventing loss to depositors it was deemed advisable that the payments be made without delay. Ample funds are provided by the bylaws of the institution.

European Trouble.

A Vienna dispatch says the most essential points in the definitive treaty between Russia and Turkey—namely, the war indemnity and time for withdrawal of Russian troops—are still undecided. Great expressed in diplomatic circles that the Eastern Roumelian Commission will encounter difficulties in fixing the frontiers of the Bulgarian inhabitants. Russia is resolved to maintain the present administration in Eastern Roumelia, and has nominated the province. The Porte insists on assuming the financial administration of the province. The Porte insists on assuming the financial administration, subject only to the supervision of the Commission, and the Bulgarians continue agitation in favor of annexation to Bulgaria.

The intended withdrawal of the British fleet from the vicinity of Gallipoli has been abandoned in consequence of the recent insurrection in Eastern Roumelia. Bessarabia was surrendered to Russia Monday. There is an extensive Bulgarian insurrection on Northrote. Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking at Wolverhampton, admitted that the Turkish Government is bankrupt, and would not be a renewal of war. It was impossible to ignore the fact, he said, that Bulgaria seems to be raised against the Turkish rule, and the Turkish rule in Bulgaria is contrary to the spirit of the Treaty of Berlin.

Attempted Wife Murder and Suicide.

A special to the Commercial, from Marietta, dated October 25, says: Our city is profoundly stirred over a domestic tragedy that took place here last night. The circumstances are substantially as follows: Some four or five years ago Henry Tyler and Miss Nellie Nicols, both of this village, and took up their abode in this city, where they continued to reside until about two months ago, when Tyler left his wife, as the cause he abused her and did nothing for her support. He shortly afterwards went to Chillicothe where she remained until a day or two ago when she came back and went to her father's, who resides some two miles above here on the Muskingum River. Tyler procured a horse from a livery stable here and rode out to where she was staying. Going into the house he said, "Dorcas, are you going to come back and live with me?" She replied "Let me right and support my property I will." Upon her answer, without another word he drew a revolver and fired at her, inflicting her, two of them taking effect in the head and one striking her hand as she threw it up to shield herself. She fell, but was hastily mounted his horse and rapidly returned—the city—leaving the people wondering how he lived that he had killed his wife and if any officer attempted to arrest him he would kill him also, and blow his brains out. Officer Gaw, an officer appeared on the scene, but Tyler, with revolver in hand, warned him off or he would shoot him. The officer left, but returned shortly with assistance, and Tyler was surrounded by a large number of men who had gone out to find Tyler stretched upon a bed, bleeding profusely from a pistol wound in his right temple. He died about an hour after firing this fatal shot, but remained unconscious. He left a letter saying that he loved his wife, but that he knew she would not live with him. Jealousy was undoubtedly the cause of this act. From latest reports it's thought Mrs. Tyler may recover.

The Tea Trade.

A special to the Cincinnati Gazette of October 24 says: Some Philadelphia merchants to-day called upon the Chinese Embassador and discussed the question of opening direct relations with China, and special relation to the tea trade. This is the first reception given by the Chinese to the civilizes. The tea merchants propose to Chinese Embassador to discourage the exportation of teas which were artificially colored, and to set tea sale on a natural condition, as they are used in China. The Minister showed his shrewdness by informing the deputation that the Chinese people would be glad to export teas in the natural condition, as it cost them much less, and that artificially colored teas would not be exported a day longer than there was a demand for them. A Washington dispatch says: Advices received by the embassy for its own use was brought in. The Minister said that the various Chinese Consuls in America and Europe were unknown to and unused by the tea consumer in China. They were especially appeared by Chinese tea exporters for the foreign markets, were colored by chemical and mechanical process, together with the poison methods of putting up teas for foreign markets, not only condemned it less acceptable and beneficial, but more expensive. He expressed the opinion that if boards of trade in New York and Chicago were to make known the fact that pure teas were not only more palatable, but less expensive, it would be a benefit to both the producer and consumer. There is, said, in reality but one kind of tea plant, and from this both green and black teas are produced. The expression "green and black," do not signify to Chinese the color of tea, but have reference to the period of gathering. "Green" indicating, not "green" color, but unripeness. Young Wing, in the course of his speech, made the important admission that he was confident that tea could be successfully cultivated in certain portions of the United States, but that Chinese labor would be necessary to successfully do this, and he added that Chinamen are not disposed to emigrate in great numbers to this country in view of pending prejudice and agitation against them in California.

A Botanist and a Mechanic.

A mill horse does good service as, day after day he goes round and round; but his monotonous work is apt to make him stupid. It is with man as it is with the mill horse, day after day the same duties begets mental dullness. The lawyer, the doctor, the clergyman, the farmer, or the mechanic, who does his work and only that, is likely to become as dull as a mill horse. All workingmen, whether they labor with brain or with hand, or with brain and hand, require some pursuits outside of the daily toil, in order to keep mind and body in perfect health. We commend to workmen in the city the example of the mechanic whose botanical success is chronicled in this paragraph:

Mr. John Williamson, whose lately published book on the "Ferns of Kentucky" has met with such a hospitable reception, is a young Scotch mechanic of Louisville. The illustrations, which are the distinctive feature of his book, are all of his own drawing and etching, while the fresh descriptive text shows much careful and original investigation. Inasmuch as Mr. Williamson's botanical studies have been pursued amidst the engrossing cares of a laborious mechanical labor, it is interesting to know that he is the same in the shop as a workman, but that on the contrary he is a first-class metal-worker. Altogether there is much to be commended in the example of Mr. John Williamson.

THE agent of Theodore Thomas went to a small city in Michigan to make arrangements for a concert. The editor of the only paper in the place, and after a description of Thomas, his orchestra and the beautiful classical music they performed, he asked the editor what he thought the prospect for business would be. "Well," replied the editor, "the success of the Thomas troupe depends entirely upon the sort of end man they have got. If Thomas has two durned good end men you'd do well. But if you just get one durned one our people won't patronize the show."

A WRITER on the effects of good taste says "a man's dress should not be remarkable. That is why we always said a black patch should not be seated on white pants, or vice versa.—Picayune.

A MAN must be mightier than the of society avoiding its merits, and bearing witness to its superiority over other results for malarial disease. It is especially popular throughout the West, wherever fever and ague prevails, as it does many of the fairest and most fertile portions of that vast region.

Are Fat People Healthy?

Why are fat people always complaining? asks some one who is evidently of the opinion that a erroneous notion that health is synonymous with fat. Fat people complain because they are diseased. Obesity is an abnormal condition of the system, in which the saccharine and oleaginous elements of the food are assimilated to the partial exclusion of the muscle-forming and tissue-producing elements. In proof of this, it is only a fact that obese persons are short-lived, that excessively fat people are never strong, and seldom distinguished for mental powers or activity. Besides, they are the easy prey of acute and epidemic diseases, and they are the frequent victims of gout, heart disease and apoplexy. A'an's Anti-Fat is the only known remedy for this disease. It reduces in size, is absolutely harmless, and is warranted to remove the most confirmed case of obesity, or corpulency.

A COUGH or cold taken between now and Christmas frequently lasts all winter. This is certainly the case with people who have weak lungs. The most convenient, reliable and inexpensive remedy is Brown's Bronchial Troches. It is to be used internally and externally.

LAST winter we warned our readers against buying the large packs of worthless horse and cattle powders, and as it is now time to begin to think of what we shall give them not to throw away their money, we simply remind our readers that Dr. Hess's Medicated Powders are pure, but we know of no others that are.

A THOROUGHLY good Cabinet or Parlor Organ is worth too much to be left out in the cold. Tallmann & Co., Baldwin & Hamlin make the best. The prices are a little higher than others, but it is worth it as much it is cheaper in the end to obtain the best.

AN ESTABLISHED REMEDY.—Brown's Bronchial Troches "are widely known and established remedy for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, and other troubles of the Throat and Lungs. 25 cents."

The military court of inquiry relative to Lieut Badger stands adjourned to Nov. 19.

"Inky" Thomas has gone to making ink again. His circulars, soliciting orders, were received in this town yesterday.

A baggage smasher was recently nearly killed by a trunk. The trunk belonged to a traveling elephant. Retributive justice.

Tilton gave his new lecture, "Hearts case," recently, and by a strange coincidence the second edition of Mrs. Beecher's "How to make Home Happy" appeared on the same day.

Hundreds of Canadians are invading this State, this fall, looking for work in the lumber woods. They say they get better food and quarters than when in the employ of Ontario lumbermen.

The balance of cash in the State treasury, Oct. 26, 1878, was $301,284 65; receipts for the week ending Nov. 2, were $18,720 82; payments during the same time were $72,290 45; balance in treasury Nov. 2, 1878, $247,712 02; decrease for the week, $53,563 63.

Our Supreme Court has just decided that (1) a school district is a municipal corporation, and in a suit by a teacher to recover his wages, cannot be garnished, even by its own consent; and (2) there should be no deduction from the wages of a school teacher on account of holidays.

The editor of the Ypsilanti Sentinel, Mr. Woodruff, is slowly recovering from his protracted illness, and we hope soon to have him again wielding his pen upon the Sentinel. He states that this is the first material suspension of his labors since entering upon editorial duty on the Sentinel in 1846. Too long without a little rest.

Boys think they have no rights which older people feel bound to respect, and sometimes such is the case. The older sisters won't have them in the parlor; they are considered a nuisance in the kitchen. Banished to the woodshed or some other place, the lessons learned in that "some other place" by and by make a red-ribbon club necessary to reform those "homeless" boys.

Pumpkin pie is "one of the institutions of the country." The city article is fearfully and wonderfully made, and usually from "two pieces" to one half inch in thickness; and he who undertakes to "locate" the north half of the southwest quarter of a section of it, will be forever after harassed with doubt as to whether it was originally intended for a mustard plaster or a bran poultice.

Many good people are terribly worried over what is said about them "Never chose a lie; let it alone and it will run itself to death," said Beecher—long before the Brooklyn's candle cast its shadow upon him—and the words are ever true. Said an honest old back smith, who urged to sue for defamation of character: "I can go into my shop and hammer out a better character than all the courts can give me."

Our Supreme Court has decided, during its present session, that the statute allowing females claiming at large in the public highway to be taken by any person and publicly sold by a public officer, and providing that after the expense of the proceedings and of keeping the animals were paid, the remainder should be paid over to their owner, who should be allowed a certain time in which to redeem them, is not unconstitutional as directing property rights without due process of law.

THE EXCURSION TO KANSAS.

By the announcement of the excursion in last week's issue, the route was marked out for those who desire to take this splendid trip. But to be more particular. The excursionists who go from Manchester can take the 10 o'clock mail to Jackson, where they may change cars to the M. C. Ry. for the 9 o'clock express, which arrives in Chicago about 7 o'clock in the morning, giving about three hours in Chicago. Thence, without change of cars, however by Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Ry., that winds its way across the broad and beautiful prairies of Illinois, crossing the great Mississippi river at Quincy, on to the Hannibal & St Joseph Ry., through Missouri and across the large Missouri river to Kansas City; from thence to Topeka and Wichita, as the party desire.

It would be almost needless to speak of the achievements these railroads have attained for both comfort and speed, to take people to visit the western country, besides going through the garden of the Western States; also seeing the sights at a less expense than ever before offered.

Passenger agent Soule of the Michigan Central is doing everything to make it an extremely comfortable trip, giving the party an extra car from Jackson through. The party can return any time within forty days, on any train of the above route.

Suicide and Mob at Ann Arbor.

Howard Williams, of Muskegon, a student at Ann Arbor, was found dead in his room, on Wednesday morning of last week, having commited suicide. A proposed matrimonial alliance with a "soiled dove," of Ann Arbor, with whom he had become too intimate, and the consequent displeasure of his father, appear to be the cause of the rash act. On Thursday night, between 500 and 600 students attacked the house where "the young woman" boarded, and after badly scaring the inmates, with a fusillade of revolvers and missiles thrown, in response to shots fired from the house, bedlam broke loose for a season, and the biggest mob Ann Arbor ever saw, yelled and hooted and blazed away "permiskis like" till their wrath was exhausted, and yet nobody seriously injured! When at length Sheriff Case was able to "get a word in edgewise," and the students found that legal proceedings had already been taken to oust the establishment, they finally dispersed.

Considering that this establishment had been permitted to exist for nearly a dozen years, the uprising looks very much like a case of spasmodic morality, and it is to the credit of Ann Arbor that there is a sentiment inaugurated looking not only to a suppression of vice but also of that spirit of lawlessness apparent among a portion of the university students.

J. H. MILLER.

CLINTON.

A batch of runaways. Wednesday, John Palmer and Chris. Smidt were driving cattle; Smidt in the buggy. One of the animals turned to go back. Smidt, with whip in hand, undertook to jump out in order to turn the creature. The horse, seeing the whip, expected a blow, whereupon he "let out." In the sudden start, S. was thrown on the wheel. After some little time he managed to get hold of the wheel and held it from rolling, going in this manner some half mile, when he got hold of one fine and succeeded in stopping the equine. The next morning, Palmer, who owned the said horse was driving through town when the runaway of the day before began kicking, demolished the dash and broke both thills.

On the same day, Alonzo Clark was driving on a back street, in a democrat wagon, when a little girl's flirting a red shawl caused the horse to sheer to one side in such a manner as to throw Mr. C. out. The horse very deliberately passed on to its own stable and stopped as quietly as if the driver had the reins. No harm.

On the eve of the same day, a Mr John Grieshapper was taking something "nourishing" at a saloon near the railroad track; the cars came along, his horse broke loose, and made a bad wreck of the buggy and harness. On Friday night Mr. Grieshapper had another runaway, between here and Tecumseh; another breaking of harness and buggy.

Edwin R Smith is of the opinion that it pays to advertise. Last week he advertised in the Tecumseh Herald, and on Monday the household was made glad by the arrival of a little stranger. Well, it's a candidate for political honors.

The result of our township election was as follows: Prohibitionists polled 96 votes, Nationals 81, Democrats 112, Republicans 126. Establish a law against H-ll in this township.

The M. E people are taking down their steeple, and are to shingle over the roof under the spire where it stood. It was faulty in construction; has always leaked.

Ninety nine women out of every hundred are now out after those "paller" layers.

One by one the traditions of the fathers have their underpinning ruthlessly knocked out. It is now asserted that the chipmunk is more cunning than the fox. Next thing the American eagle will be styled a bigger coward than a setting hen. Then what?

Horrible Business in Kansas.

From a correspondent of Oswego, Labette County, Kansas, we learn that a horrible double murder, a short distance from that place, is charged, a farmer named Wm. Hurst, and his wife, being the victims. The murder was first discovered by a boy of nineteen, who, hearing groans in Hurst's house, opened the door, and found Mrs. Hurst lying on the floor with a gash in her head, and her dead husband hanging entered near the bridge of the house. Her husband was lying dead upon the bed. She stated the party who did the shooting was Theodore Munstergan, and that after committing the deed he had driven away with their team. Munstergan was arrested and when brought before the dying woman, she positively identified him as the murderer. It is reported that Munstermann was taken from the officers on Sunday night and lynched.

Hanlon Acwd.

Secretary Evarts has written a letter to John Welsh, our Minister to England, in which the question whether it shall be paid is seriously considered. The case and grievances that must be considered before the money is turned over. The previous letter to the same gentleman leaves the matter of payment discretionary with the President, and dependent upon the facts the correspondence, which can hardly be completed by the time fixed for the payment on account of new complications which have arisen, growing out of the attack upon our fishermen of the coast of Newfoundland. It is held by many that a formal indorsement of the work done by the local authorities in driving off our fishermen are totally inconsistent with our relations to Britain that the local laws of her colonies may control the terms upon which our ships can fish, and that these may override the terms of the treaty. It is held that these local laws virtually prohibit American fishermen from enjoying the benefit which we are about to pay, and, therefore, it is deemed exceedingly doubtful whether payment will be made until more satisfactory conclusions are reached than seem to be promised under the present state of correspondence.

The Woman in Red.

Her Mysterious Trouser.

Soon after Lincoln's inauguration in 1861, Paris was invaded by newly appointed ministers and consuls. Among them M. Clay, on his way to Russia; Mr. Marsh bound for Italy; Anson Burlingame, appointed to Austria, who would receive him, and one or two others, besides Frenzel, who was sent on a special mission to purchase arms. Of evenings, at the Hotel du Louvre, the fun was fast and furious—the fun of the kind that had done duty on the stump during the preceding campaign were told again for the benefit of those who had spent the summer of '60 abroad and missed it.

"Burlingame," said a Kentuckian, who happened to be of the party, "tell 'em about the gal in red." Burlingame coloured up, looked at—Clay, and replied, "Tell it," said Clay, "I'd—rather." And this was the story: At one time several years before, Burlingame and Clay were stumping together in the West. One evening they had received a particularly warm welcome, and had returned to the hotel, where they were sitting in their room, smoking and congratulating each other on their success. Suddenly strains of music were heard outside. "They are serenading us," said Clay, "open the window and let in the music." "I'd—rather," said Burlingame. But Clay persisted, so Burlingame stepped to the window and opened it, and began: "Fellow-citizens, I hardly know how to thank you for this—this—this proof of your kind—kind regard. Mr. Clay and myself are indeed grateful—" Just at this point a voice in the crowd broke out shouting: "Boys, that ain't the gal in red. Let—her—go, and they vanished, leaving the astonished orator of the "visitin' committee" to—finish. They swore each other to secrecy and—keep it quiet for some time, but it leaked out somehow, and they had to make a clean breast of it.

It is a terrible thing to see a strong man writhing in the agonies of his first throes, when, bereaved, and bedridden, the struggle for the mastery in the strife about him, and victory favors one or successively, at most, the sickness and colic, regulates the bowels, cures dysentery, and diarrhœa, whether arising from heating or other causes. An old and well-tried remedy. 22 cents a bottle.

Every paper says that "by this time all down Eastern Kansas they have hunted up and have laid in a supply of Jackson's Condition Powders." It would be a wise thing for people hereabouts to lay in the absolute. It is the most valuable medicine in the world.

Horse and cattle powders, if unadulterated, are of insufficient importance, but the large packs now sold are trash. Only one pinch of the genuine Jackson's will be absolutely pure, and those are Sheridan's.

Try each one of several markers had taken the highest medal at one of the great world's exhibitions there. Would it be a fair to question which was best? but Mason & Hamlin have taken the highest honors at every such competition for twelve years.

Parsimony with the wholesome or great comfort of a good cup of coffee, Jackson's Java Mixture is a delicious and economical beverage. For sale by all grocers. Ask your grocer for it. Take no other. Sold in packages only. Price, 25 cents a pound.

For Coughs, Colds and throat disorders, use "Brown's Bronchial Troches," having proved their efficacy by a test of many years. 25 cents a box.
