The Owosso Press.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 12, 1867. Number 38

THE Owosso Press,

PUBLISHED EVERY

Wednesday Morning

BY

J. M. CLARKSON & CO.

OFFICE,

Owosso, Shiawassee County, Mich

Office on the Post Office Block.

LARGEST PAPER PRINTED IN THE COUNTY.

Subscription Terms:

$2.00 per year, invariably in advance

Books, Pamphlets, Posters, Handbills, Cards, Small Tickets, Blank Notes, Bills, Circulars, printed in the neatest style.

State News.

A man was shaved twice by a barber in Kalamazoo, Sunday morning.

The final finish to the Grand Traverse papers are reported uncopied by the Press.

A fire on the night of May 29th, destroyed Forest Hallow the Fair grounds at Battle Creek.

Henry Parkard of Grand Rapids, recently died from an overdose of opium, taken to relieve physical pain.

The city authorities of Detroit offer a reward of $500 for the arrest of the man who committed a murder.

Twin brothers and the wife of Mr. Bracken, both of Greenville, were married on the same day, in Grand Rapids, to change of relatives.

Near St. Clair, one man was thrown from his wagon and the wheels passed over him causing such injuries that he died in a few hours.

Dr. Ferguson, of Coldwater, was run down by a team on the 4th, and crossing a main street had his shoulder blade broken.

The Jackson Citizen mentions the case of a colemoner convicted at the Sheriff's sale, and the Sheriff is left in a serious fixed or dilemma, and was finally bounded by the prisoners by prior contract that release.

That usual Colonel and a Mrs. Jones have eloped together from Jackson. Detectives are on their track, and Colonel Jones's wife and daughter and Mrs. Smallwood are daughters.

Gov. Rose has received the Mobile Times, Tuscaloosa Observer, Alabama and Gilmore Counsel, and filed their issues with his appointment.

Thomas Rogers has turned his experience and his trial promises to be very large. All ships are looking freely.

The remains entire Lincoln will not be taken from Fremont for a season. Mr. Rutherford, the father of Russian Minister, is expected to be interred.

The American Homeopathic Institute by a vote of 36, against 32, has decided to admit lady delegates to membership.

The Indians about Cottonwood Kansas, are reported as so delighted at the prospect of a visit from the Peace Commission.

Mr. A. Stetson of Kalamazoo, on a bet of seventy dollars, ate 100 eggs and broke open the door of the Kalamazoo Jail, the church in that village, and has not vomited every thing around him, because he thinks he could do it if he pay only before he could be detected.

The directors of the Port Huron & Lake Michigan Railroad Company, report that 61 miles of rockbed have been graded, and the road bed completed; that 4 miles are ready for the rail, and that the road bed for the last year under contract is finish, and the road bed for the last year under contract, 27 miles, is to be put under contract next week.

Philemon Clement was acquitted and fined at Ionia over week ago for assault and battery, and it was conceded that he acted not justly, but the jury said they thought he was in the manner that others had acted upon Rogers. The Rogers case was by unequal nature, and when the ill-feeling of the parties to the prosecution is defined himself, they find. John Morgan has been acquitted as one of the gang.

Robert Henry Hendershott, the Superintendent of the Keyoshowa, has got up a new sensation by stopping the Sunday cars, and has filed a complaint against the Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad. Hendershott belonged to the Indiana Legislature and he another resides at Jackson. Hendershott and his wife are members of the Methodist church, and he has been appointed to Jackson with Bishop and Dresser. Hendershott is a man of ability, of the three attorneys up.

Literary and Personal.

Paris's beauty in Paris brought between 25,000 francs, 25 thousand of all sizes, and 18 crowns.

Roberts Brothers will shortly publish Mrs. Stowe's Lady Byron Vindicated, in a volume of about 200 pages.

The Pompe Bernard concert at Saratoga, on the 4th, drew a crowd of 10,000. The audience was larger than ever.

Jean Beaucer publishes a novel in the Paris newspaper, indignantly denying the report that she has good sense.

The Sanitary Commission of the New York Times, Tribune, Herald, Post, Evening Post, Evening Mail, Commercial Advertiser, Journal of Commerce, Express, Sun,

Of Course, Pete

Wednesday, June 12, 1867.

[illegible]

[illegible] Supreme Court of Michigan, Judge Campbell, delivered the following opinion in the case of Stewart Gordon, who had served out his sentence in the State prison, and made a speech at Detroit, in which he vituperated his theory of the rule of Judge, or the absolute rule of law in that city. The substance of his remarks is given in telegraph, reports as follows:

"As his sentence has endured in the whole, although the time was shortened by good behavior, he thought he was the discharged from the prison, and that they meet to Andrew Johnson who has repudiated in a part of youth from a political party, and who had not brought on by any works of his own."

Prentiss Indictment, informed us that it upon a national journal made into a summary appeals and stirred up the people to the Democracy, and that relied about was for that reason, proceed by military authority. But the same transcendent power of Judge Kelley's statement is that the rule is not always in the citizens, or the delegate of citizens. This takes in the nature of a conclusion is extraordinary in the front of the protestant of the Democrat party to impose the northern mind with the belief that citizens of the South are in rebellion, repudiating and authority disposed as ever, and therefore unfit to be trusted with the government of Congress. It makes it more apparent than ever before, that it is only a chosen is unfital hatred of every body this does not endorse the creed, and for this reason they place every possible obstruction in the way of reconstruction, and neglect no opportunity to inflame their followers against southern people.

A Radical Test in Dangerous.

Gov. Wells, the favorite of the radicals in executive of Louisiana, has fallen into disfavor and begs superabundant in his functions by order of Gen. Sheridan, department commander, and one Flanders is now exercising the duties of Governor of Louisiana. It is stated that Sheridan overthrow the blacks', for at last year in the conduct of Wells in recognizing the legitimacy of the attempted reassembling of the defunct convention of 1864; and he states that Gen Wells' policy begin to remain a branch, he was unable to find him in effect into the protection of a military guard. These facts ought to make the radicals ashamed of themselves for the course pursued by their leaders the election had fall in crossing Wells and scouting the President of inciting the riot.

Wells did not surrender his authority very gracefully, considering his radical training proposed, and only had to be induced to radical measures. The following from telegraph reports given an inkling of the feeling of the clique which he commended to the line of others:

A U.P.-32 Saturday forenoon Brevet Brigadier General John W. Forsyth, of Colonel Sheridan's staff, called on the executive office, in Mechanics' Institute, and presented the following communication to Gov. Wells:

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH MILITARY DIVISION,

NEW ORLEANS, June 7th.

To Mr. J. Madison Wells, Re-Governor of Louisiana.

Sir—Gen. Flanders has informed me that he made an official decision on you for the remarks of the office which you have heretofore held as Gov. of Louisiana, and that you have confined to turn than ever to him, disputing the right to remove from office any, so, although you have administered and had up on up to the time of your appointment, I, therefore, and Brevet Brigadier General Sheridan, Maj. Gen. U. S. A., Com. Fifth Division.

After reading the communication Gov. Wells turned to Gen. Forsyth, the other "I believe" to the report.

"The Governor then called upon Major Ryan, of the patrol of Regiment, to have witness to what he had said.

Prison Pardon.

Prison Pardon.

In spite of angle (and could supposed) [illegible] appear to grace, [illegible] Gen. Sheridan, Gen. Hancock, New York has been [illegible] Gen. Wells'

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

[illegible]

[illegible] Ontario [illegible] Pontiac [illegible] Saginaw [illegible] Bay City [illegible] Detroit [illegible] Toledo [illegible] Cleveland [illegible] Buffalo [illegible] Niagara Falls [illegible] Rochester [illegible] Albany [illegible] Troy [illegible] Boston [illegible] Portland [illegible] Montreal [illegible] Quebec [illegible] Chicago [illegible] Milwaukee [illegible] Dubuque [illegible] Cairo [illegible] Memphis [illegible] Vicksburg [illegible] New Orleans [illegible] Galveston [illegible] Mobile [illegible] Savannah [illegible] Charleston [illegible] Wilmington [illegible] Norfolk [illegible] Baltimore [illegible] Washington [illegible] Richmond [illegible] Lynchburg [illegible] Nashville [illegible] Chattanooga [illegible] Knoxville [illegible] Augusta [illegible] Macon [illegible] Atlanta [illegible] Montgomery [illegible] Selma [illegible] Memphis [illegible] Charleston [illegible] Savannah [illegible] New Orleans [illegible] Mobile [illegible] Galveston [illegible]

[

OWOSSO ARGUS, JUNE 12, 1887.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Sunset Scott.

Sunset Scott, the famous humorist, has retired to do well by his gains. He got to be twenty-one, or thereabouts, and then he started out to see the world, and pick up adventures, and make a fortune, and generally enjoy himself in sporting him in the world. He had a good, healthy boyish appetite for fun and adventure, and he was in the right mood for it, too, for he was a good-natured, jolly fellow.

"I'm a Yankee, I know you, from my shoes and stockings," said my uncle to him one day, as he saw the copper's tacks.

"Well, I guess I am," said the boy, with a laugh that showed all over the world. They took him upstairs and fed him well, for he was a good-natured, jolly fellow, and Ben forthwith engaged the best corpse in Spring Garden, and ordered the best coffin, and the time could make as good a layout as any man. "Be economical in the matter of the bed-ticking," said Ben, "for I'm a good-natured, jolly fellow, and I'm not particular about being much dressed on coming round."

The bill was made out, and old Steve added it with a cheque for $80,000, accompanied with this note: "Dear Ben—Bury Scott in the best possible manner, and if you do so without a hitch I'll forward a check to take a full back upon, which will add to you a good living."

Business or a Humbug.

An honest boatman, anxious to exhibit the wonders of a clear horse museum, obtained a special holiday. Before time sounded, accordingly, he left with him a couple of hours, and he proceeded himself at the dock for the steamship.

"Ay! ay! sir, I'm at your service!" said the boatman.

"Are you business to-day? Isn't most over, and I have a holiday on purpose!"

"No matter, this is a close day and the museum is short."

"Why, what for? Isn't the public supposed to have the right of entrance?"

"Well, I guess, I will go in."

A ticket gave my gentleman the right of admission, and he entered the clean museum, and, say, say, say, nothing!

"I ahsayy say, ha! there's a lot of them, I guess, and we're going to have a good time."

"Ay! ay! sir, in fact—time particularly week in the week," said John, smiling with all possible politeness.

Mrs. Astor Heaves.—Some years since the daughter of a fashionable family on Fifth avenue, New York, who was only 14 years of age, was wooed and won in childish fashion, by a gentleman of 17 and they were clandestinely married in church. The parents, informed of this time to meet the two made one at the church door. The groom was expelled out of hi-school, and the bride locked up in her room. She [illegible] Mr. Astor, who was [illegible] years her senior. Of course he became [illegible] and wealth brought her many [illegible] the disappointed parents, and [illegible] in faithful correspondence with her husband. Not long since she returned to New York. The first person she observed on landing was her husband. Not he had grown manly and handsome, and was eager to embrace his child. The parents did not object this time.

Jonathan Goodwin.—Jonathan Goodwin, the young Prince impostor, of Tonica, has been managing a circus in Cuba, on a mechanical set, and the carnival which here him was relished to go [illegible] Tonica.