In Case You Missed It

Turf managers are quickly realizing the benefits of combining Kentucky bluegrass and bermudagrass as part of a two-grass system that can provide a better-quality playing surface throughout the year in the transition zone, where cold winter weather and hot, humid summers are common. In the March 5, 2021, issue of the USGA Green Section Record, we discussed the benefits, establishment and management of bluemuda.

Coming Up Next Issue

Many superintendents once believed smooth and fast greens could only be achieved with walk mowers – but things are changing as triplex technology has improved and the need for efficiency increases. In the April 2, 2021, issue of the USGA Green Section Record, we will explain how courses are reaping the benefits of triplex use on greens, how to calculate the potential return on investment, and how to avoid common issues.

Winter Injury Resources Webinar

Friday, April 2 | 10:30 AM EDT

The bitter cold temperatures that hit the south-central U.S. in February have many golfers and superintendents wondering what the effects will be on turf health and course conditions this spring. This webinar aims to provide superintendents with key resources needed to assess the severity of turf injury and develop a sound recovery plan.
