The Canadian was reported on Friday evening lost to a very fair house. The singer had gained more confidence and rendered the piece in an easy style. Saturday evening the price of admission was reduced to twenty-five cents and the entertainment repeated by request. The audience was small and some of the singer's skirted their parts. The Queen and Queen appeared before the footlights and acknowledged the tribute paid them by the audience, and sang a beautiful solo. (We hope to bill for a concert at some future date.) Mr. Ferris responded to the call and sang a select piece.

Two-thirds of the audience of each evening was composed of people from the country and neighboring villages. This was occasioned by a bad state of roads caused by the recent snow storm. This object is a definite one to be handled, but we have an interest in it which we wish disclosed with kind feelings to us and all, and a desire to let our reader, whom we wish to serve,

First, we would say to the Christian and the Philanthropist, if the drama can take the preference by the hand and bid them welcome; go and see them play. The drama will always exist, and the players will always play to suit their audience, therefore if good people patro them they will strive to meet their approbation. Elevate the player and he will elevate his profession. Mr. Stevens' troops we visited each evening, and are happy to say that we failed to note a few words or action during their stay in our village; we met them often and found the true gentleman and lady predominating. We also give the Canadas our undivided attention, and are happy to say we failed to discern any bad traits in their company. The Queen and the Queen—she was spoken the most. If anything could be more laudable than the representations of the Queen, Zerah and their supporters, it was Miss Williams and her associates in East Lyman; each should have been witnessed by every one who has a whole soul and half a heart, and we are sorry they were not.

Second and last. The consequence of this contention has resulted most disastrously to the drama, the Canadas, the Hall and the Printer. Mr. Stevenson paid expenses nothing more; he cannot afford to pay us another visit, consequently Mr. Goodyer loses his rent and we the printing. The receipts of the Canadas were $255.55, expenses $257.20; cannot be repeated on these figures. Friends, this is not right. Mr. Goodyer is one of the finest halls in the State to accommodate your amusements and we do not consider his demands for a large share of our support, therefore we appeal to your better judgment, and we sincerely hope our enemies may be forgotten and that our citizens will unite and extend invitation to the best talent to be found, and support them as other towns do.

The Literary Society have secured the services of President Fairchild, who will lecture at the hall. Monday evening, and we copy the following from the Empire State:

THREE-DAY DINNER IN HONOR OF PRESIDENT FAIRCHILD. Michigan's brightest young men will appear before our citizens on Monday evening next at Goodyer's Hall, and deliver his celebrated lecture "Three Days in Rome." He has received many arrangements in New England, and we copy the following from the Empire State:

The celebrated Lawyer Priest, Fairchild of Michigan, addressed a large audience on Monday evening at the Brick Church. His lecture was the abest we ever heard, and we hope may suffice wherever. His manner of delivery, and how he treats his subject lucidly and so comprehensively, last evening he lectured again to a full audience, and the audience was so interested that he remained for an hour, continuing him one of the most able and interesting speakers that has ever graced our city—(Rochester Democrat).

As Clerk of Wadsworth's store yesterday, we noticed the clerks were very busy marking goods, and the day before, the day after, and the day after again, making up packages for the market. A couple of new competing druggists have sprung up opposite of Wadsworth's, and the clerks are now marking goods for them, and we are told that Wadsworth's is to close up his business.

Short Notice.

Having had many years experience in this place, and having had many opportunities to observe the wants of the public, I have found that the public are anxious to purchase goods and many will take the advantage of it. They are enterprising men bound to sink or swim.

Wm. Bennett, the Senior member of the firm, is continually buying goods in New York City and shipping them to his partners, who bring them before the people. Our readers will find Wm. Fargo at this popular establishment. He is serving his time and will be happy to introduce his friends to Camp, Winters & Co., also to the many piles of dry goods that fill the Mammoth Store. If you visit Jackson, call at this house and bring a piece of Calico. The rush is great but the piles of goods are greater. Call and secure your Holiday Presents.
