

70 miles in a straight line. Here the delicate and beautiful scenery more than pays for all the inconvenience and cost of getting here, and I can assure my studies even better than at home.

There are now six of us here: Dr. Cross and wife, and I, quite aged and feeble; Mr. Cushing and wife; his health is quite uncertain; but he has returned from Bhamo, and hopes to rally here, before the rains, so that he can stay in the country.

Our week ago today our school closed and the native teachers and pastors' meeting followed, the next Saturday and Sunday. It was full of interest, even though I could understand but little.

A fishing party from Winchester, Kentucky, occupying two cars for their equipment, passed through here on the Monday afternoon train en route for the Little Teton fishing grounds.

A report from Riggsby Utah says that one of her citizens and professional betters in her peculiar system of manual relations has finally been brought to the bay of justice and punishment.

Teachers make your school a school. May the day be hastened when all schools will be abolished. It is a pity that in a country full of ignorant workers there are so many teachers who do not care a fig about making a school worth a cent.

Our compound consists of about five cases of lead and copper, and five best quality of four lead and five best very redly-built rooms, three bath-rooms, the most essential part in this country, store-room, &c.

On the ponies went ahead, for they and the elephants are mutual enemies. When two miles from home, we came to the Kabong river, a wide but shallow stream at the season; they forded, stopping by the way to let our ponies drink. Four miles further on, reached Tantan, a small Burman village, on the Sitang river. Here we dismounted, put ourselves and saddles into a small ferry boat, and were soon on the other side, the ponies swimming after us.

News of the Week

New Hampshire Senator
The New Hampshire Senate, in a recent vote for United States Senator, gave 161 votes for Henry W. Blair, and 95 for Harry Bingham.

The Portland, Oregon, Election
On the 12th, the Republicans elected the Mayor and two Councilmen, the Democrats the balance of the ticket.

Shanghaied by a Mob
John Moore, who grossly assaulted and then murdered Miss Woodard, on the 13th, near Willford, S. C., was banged by a mob of one hundred and fifty armed men, who rode into Spartanburg.

Sweep Over the Falls
Mrs. A. Kolland, of Leige, Belgium, at Niagara Falls, borrowed a drinking cup from her husband, while visiting the Three Sisters Islands, and stooping for a drink fell into the scilly running waters, and was swept over Horse-shoe Falls.

Western, the Walker
Edward Payson Weston is the winner of the champion bet taken from this country by Rowell. His distance was five hundred and fifty miles in six days, the best long distance foot race on record.

Revolutionary
A special dispatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer from San Antonio, Texas, says: Border disputes being information of the State of Nuevo Leon, Mexico. The Revolutionists are seizing towns in the State of Tamaulipas, and pressing men into service.

John Kemmer, a German, at South Holyoke, Mass., had his three children, all girls, aged six, four and one year, being unable to support them. He has been out of work since February.

Explosion occurred at 3.30 in the morning, recently, at six mines on the land of Stephens & Sawyer, two miles from Emaus, Pa. A boiler burst with terrific force, killing five men outright and seriously wounding four others.

Several German papers announce the death of Herr Franz Motz, parish priest at Pechkirchen, from a wound caused by a steel pen. He had a careless habit of leaving his pen in the inkstand, with the point sticking upwards.

A Reuter dispatch from Cape Town, via Madeira, states that Prince Louis Napoleon, the Prince Imperial of France, accompanied by other officers, left Col. Woods' camp to reconnoiter.

A Cincinnati paper, from reliable statistics, computes that about ten thousand kegs of beer were sold daily in the city during Saengerfest week. At two dollars per keg this would amount to $18,000 per day for the brewers, or $180,000 for the week.

The California Republican State Convention met in San Francisco, and adopted a platform, of which the following are the leading points: It reaffirms the principles of the Republican party; denounces the attempt of the Democracy to interfere with the free elections; sustains the policy of the party to the faithful application of the new Constitution.

George C. Gorham, who holds a proxy, and was placed on the Committee on Platform, presented a separate resolution, reciting the receipts and expenditures of the railroad company, and demanding a reduction of one-fourth of the rates of charges after January 1 of the current year.

The Bohemian Sharpshooters, an association composed of some twenty individuals, had a picnic the other day at Silver Lake, Green corner of Ogden-avenue and West-avenue, Chicago. During a dance one of the sharpshooters engaged in a quarrel with Volney Clark, a visitor, and after using him up pretty badly, had him ejected from the ground.

The Congressional report gives the following account of the close of an exciting debate in the United States Senate on the Army Appropriation Bill.

Mr. Conkling, who had been walking slowly back and forth behind the benches, advanced to his seat and said: "Mr. President, I was diverted during the commencement of the remarks, the culmination of which I heard from the member from Mississippi."

Mr. Lamar—Mr. President, what I intended, sir, to be said by Mr. Cockrell called Mr. Lamar to order, and Mr. Conkling proceeded. Whether I am willing to respond to the member from Mississippi depends entirely upon what that member intends to say and what he did say, and for the time being I do not choose to hold any communication with him.

Mr. Lamar—I will state what I intended, sir, to be said by Mr. Cockrell called Mr. Lamar to order, and Mr. Conkling proceeded. Whether I am willing to respond to the member from Mississippi depends entirely upon what that member intends to say and what he did say, and for the time being I do not choose to hold any communication with him.

The Chair demanded quiet in the gallery. I have only to say that the Senator from New York understood me correctly. I did mean to say just precisely the words and all that they imported.

The President sent a message to the representatives of the Army Appropriation Bill. His Private Secretary at the same time, delivered to the House a message from the President returning the Judiciary Expenses Appropriation Bill without approval.

The President's objections to its approval are directed solely against the clause of its second section, which provides that "no department or officer of the government shall during said fiscal year, ending June 30, 1880, make any contract or incur any liability under any of the provisions of title 20 of the revised statutes, authorizing appointment or prepayment of general or special Deputy Marshals for service on election days, until appropriation sufficient to meet such contract or pay such liability shall have first been made by law."

The President in his veto message, takes ground that it is his sworn duty, upon the Constitution, to see that every law upon the statute book be faithfully executed until repealed or pronounced invalid by a competent tribunal; that the appointment of Deputy Marshals for Congressional elections in California and the Westchester district of New York will be required by title 20 of the revised statutes during the next fiscal year, and that, although the fulfillment of this requirement may be of very little practical importance as regards those elections, they nevertheless illustrate a principle, and be therefore can not attach his signature to a measure which proposes to prohibit the execution of that law by precluding the necessary appointments.

The message also asserts that although thousands of necessaries under the Federal election laws have been brought before the courts in various parts of the country, their constitutionality has never yet been called in question, and that, aside from his hitherto expressed convictions as to their importance and value, he must continue to enforce them until they are set aside by a proper judicial tribunal, or repealed by the means provided in the Constitution.

The President fully concedes the right of Congress to legislate for what purposes the various items of money appropriated by it shall be used, and that he is bound to withhold his signature from this bill in its failure to make any appropriation for the compensation of Deputy Marshals of election days.

and the first section of this bill, after minute detailing the objects for which the various items are separately appropriated, concludes with the following explicit declaration: "No part of the money hereby appropriated shall be used to defray the expenses of any election under or in virtue of title 20, revised statutes, or any provision of said title."
