THE S. W. FARMER'S CLUB.

The June meeting of the Farmer's Club was held at the residence of Amariah Hitchcock in Sharon on Tuesday the 5th, having been postponed from Friday on account of the funeral of Junius Short.

The attendance was large, and the interest of the meeting was considerably enhanced by the presence of several substantial farmers of Sharon and Gragg Lake who had been invited to attend, among whom were M. E. Keeler, J. Irwin, J. Hood, W. S. Crafts, also Rev. G. B. Wallace of Manchester. Our friends Henry Calhoun and Palmer found room for ye editor and wife in their comfortable wagon, and have our thanks for the kindness.

Arriving at the place of destination we found that a jolly party had already arrived and were having a pleasant chat. We were kindly received by Amariah and his sister Mary who soon made us feel at home.

The meeting was called to order by President Merithew, the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, then the death of Vice President Junius Short was announced and on motion a committee consisting of Richard Green, Henry Palmer, and Mat D. Blosser was appointed to draft suitable resolutions.

Mrs. H. C. Calhoun read an interesting poem entitled "Five Cents a Glass," which was followed by an essay by Mrs. L. D. Watkins on "Invisible Fertilizers," which was also followed on the same subject by B. G. English, Esq.

The club then entered into a discussion of the subject, and it was evident that the members had given the subject considerable thought and research, but authorities disagree, and the humble farmer of Southern Washtenaw must be excused for doing likewise. The discussion served to awaken new ideas in the minds of all, not excepting the older members and we doubt not it will prove beneficial.

The discussion was followed by an original poem by Mrs. F. Spafard which was received with loud applause.

The question as to whether we should hold a picnic in August, with the Norvell club at some lake, was discussed, and almost every one was in favor of it, but there was a diversity of opinion as to which lake we should go to, consequently a committee was chosen, consisting of Messrs. Frank Spafard, J. G. English and Mat D. Blosser, to choose a site and make arrangements.

The backwardness of the season has no doubt put a damper on the spirits of the members who were anxious to go into the corn contest this year and nothing will be done about it.

The committee on resolutions reported the following, which on motion, were adopted:

WHEREAS, The Great Master above, who doth all things well and against whose decree we should not murmur, hath permitted death to enter our society circle and remove from our midst, our honorable and beloved vice president Junius Short, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That in his death we have lost an esteemed member and the community a good citizen, therefore

RESOLVED, That we extend to his sorrow stricken wife and family, our heartfelt sympathy, in this their great affliction.

RESOLVED, That these resolutions be published in the Manchester Enterprise, and a copy sent to the family of our deceased brother.

While the business of the meeting was being transacted the ladies occupied the front and the gentlemen the back parlor, but as soon as supper was mentioned general mixing up and "choosing your partners" was the order. It is seldom one sits down with a happier set of mortals than was seen at the home of the Hitchcocks on this occasion, and the elegant collation furnished was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Supper over the members spent an hour or more in viewing the beautiful home of the Hitchcocks. The farm consists of 500 acres, 350 of which is improved. The land was bought from the Government by Philip Hitchcock, the deed being signed by Andrew Jackson. The house is a large two-story structure made of pressed brick. It is surrounded by a fine lawn and at the west of the house is what is called their centennial grove, as it was laid out and planted to trees in 1876. Immediately in the rear of the dwelling is a comfortable tenement house, and farther back are commodious sheep barns with basements, cow stables, horse barns, corn cribs, smoke house, tool and carriage house, etc., several of which are supplied with water. By a wind mill over the well nest, the house there is a convenient site for a large barn which Mr. H. intends to erect at no distant day and of which he stands much in need to shelter his numerous crops.

In the orchards we found a variety of apple, peach, and plum trees and grape vines and small fruits were numerous and of good selection. On the east side of the farm we saw Several fields of 40 acres each, in which wheat and grass looked fine. Last season he raised at least 2,300 bushels of wheat, 400 bushels of corn, and 150 tons of hay, etc.

His farm is at present stocked with 300 merino sheep, 11 head of cattle Durhams and Holsteins, 7 horses, and a fine lot of hogs.

It is needless for us to say that Mr. H. is one of the substantial and progressive farmers, practical in every sense, and backed by an abundance of capital, he makes farming a pastime as well as a profitable investment.

Mr. & Miss Hitchcock are graduates of Hillsdale College and Miss H. was for some time a teacher in our Union School. Their book cases full of choice volumes, and other evidences of refinement, convince us that they enjoy each others society, seeking to improve their minds and contribute to the enjoyment of others.

It was with much reluctance that we said good night to our friends, but the threatening storm clouds in the west urged us to hasten homeward.

There will not be another meeting of the club until September, the programme of which we will publish in due season.

Sheep Notes.

The ram Comet, recently imported from Vermont by W. M. Chapman and purchased by S. S. Brewster, of Hanover, was sheared last week, and yielded over 30 pounds of wool.

Grass Lake News: Dr. Raymond brought in his wool clip on Monday, the first of the season in this market, which he shipped to Boston. He had 1,365 pounds, averaging 11 pounds 6 ounces per head, and was an extra good lot.

Will N. Adams, of Jackson, reports that his old stock ram sheared 25 pounds, but died three days after shearing. His ram lamb Don sheared 19 1/2 pounds, a two-year old ram sheared 22 pounds, one lamb sheared 17 pounds, 17 other ram lambs, sheared an average of 15 1/2 pounds, 15 two-year old ewes sheared 14 1/2 pounds, 2 two-year old ewes averaged 10 pounds, 5 yearlings averaged 14 1/2 pounds, and 1 three-year old ewe sheared 16 1/2 pounds. We have a sample from a two-year old ram which is very fine.

Couch Dorr, of Sharon, has just purchased of Levi Arnold of Plautwell, Mich., to head his herd of Jerseys which he brought from the east last spring, the noted Jersey bull Henry Rex, No. 7276, A. J. C. C. H. R. sired by the famous prize bull, Cash Boy, 2248, his sire the king of Jersey bulls, Rex 1330.

I crossed over the Brooklyn bridge, for the first time, the other day. It is considerably more than one mile long, from the top of the hill where the station is being built, in Brooklyn, to Chatham street. The large station in Brooklyn is to be used by the steam-drum cars for waiting-rooms, etc., and a smaller building of that kind is being framed at the New York end. I am afraid that foot-passengers are not going to have the most perfect view of the river, if they pass through the middle of the bridge, which I understand to be their avenue, leaving the sides to vehicles. The cars, I understand, are to run on the second floor of the bridge. I was admitted at a gate, and put on an asphaltum walk in the middle of the Brooklyn approach, along which I went for a thousand feet or more, and then climbed down a ladder, or esplanade steps, to the northern flooring, in which a crack occurred here and there, showing the frightful chasm below, one glimpse from the top was enough to make a man flinch. The flooring on this side was planks, but the parapets being up, there was no danger.

When I reached the east tower, the magnificent character of the arch there seemed to show more wonderfully than from the surface of the river below. It is a fact that on the top of each of the towers, two houses can be built of 20 feet front and 123 feet depth. Any man who owns a house and lot of the full depth in New York, can look out of his back window on his yard and his neighbor's, and consider that both of them should be covered by another half building, or as the top of these bridge-towers. The East river assumes a beauty of color and extent from the bridge, that one could hardly imagine. Nearly the whole river, from Governor's Island to Blackwell's Island, lies under the eye, and it seems to be the principal thing in the New York landscape, and those buildings which border it, especially toward Williamsburg, rise enormously from their great bulk, in general, sugar refineries. New York itself seems, from the Brooklyn end of the bridge, like a town on a hill which rises to a certain profile or parapet, and beyond that is smoke and vagueness, and upper works are, for the first time, fully visible to every spectator, turn the eye to other things. None of Robling's bridges seems lighter than this, the imposing nature of the towers and the breadth of the bridge making one almost forget that it is the cables that are doing the work. The bridge is as solid as a hurricane road in the middle of the country; it neither rattles nor trembles, and however nervous one is stepping over it, at first, he soon feels secure, and least he sees on the ever opening panorama. Though I crossed on a rather raw day, I hardly observed the wind. The bridge was full of carpenters, painters, brick-layers, and I understand that the rolling stock for the cable-railroad is being shipped to the factory at Langhams, in New York Tribune.
