Finger Nail Biting

Mothers who punish their children for biting their finger nails should, in the light of recent French experiments, start punishing themselves instead.

For finger nail biting, which is termed nothing more than finger nail eating, has been found to be a disease caused by hunger. Sufferers, according to the French scientists, are not hungry for food, but for two vital elements in food, notably vitamins B and D.

Quite by accident, during the treatment of an alcoholic patient for nervousness, was the discovery made. The patient, fed a diet rich in vitamins B and D, suddenly stopped biting his nails.

Several children afflicted with the habit which has distressed so many American mothers, were given the same diet, with the discovery that the disease can be eradicated in eight or ten days by dietetic means.

Experiments applied to animals revealed further that cannibalism can be induced in a female of a species by feeding a deficiency diet, and can be eradicated by proper nourishment.

The models, of unbreakable glass, are being copied from those used to demonstrate to the geology classes at the University of Michigan. The Michigan model is a cone of iron, swung point upward on a tripod, and with the bottom sealed. When filled with water and heated from the bottom, the mechanics of the operation of the natural geyser are revealed.

Beautify Parks by Planting Elm Trees

Several of southern Michigan's state parks will be beautified this winter by the planting of 1,500 small elm trees. These trees, varying in size from 12 to 15 feet high, will be planted in the several Dodge Brothers and Bloomer Parks and the Walter J. Hayes Park.

The elm trees are the first large hardwood trees to be planted in the state parks. Several thousand smaller maple, elm, oak and locust trees have been planted in various parks in past years.

Since Michigan began a program of beautification of its state parks, about 300,000 white, Norway and jack pine seedlings and transplants have been planted and more than 5,000 shrubs of various kinds have been placed.

Mrs. Howard Burt Dies After Long Illness

Mrs. Mabel Brigham Burt, daughter of Frank and Grace Brigham, was born into this world at Ortonville, July 31, 1905. Following an illness of ten weeks, God, in his infinite mercy, saw fit to take her from this world on February 2, 1933 at the early age of 27 years, 6 months and 2 days. Yet into these few brief years was crowded a most complete and eventful life.

A short service was held Monday at the Waterford home, after which a service was held at the home of her parents at 2:30 p. m. Rev. F. R. Walker was in charge. Burial was in the Ortonville cemetery.

Sorrow came early into this young life. Mabel was but three years of age when her mother passed away. Thus, at an early age, her life's mission was actively begun in bringing comfort to a grieving father's heart. Later, following her father's remarriage, it became her privilege to help her new mother in rearing three brothers: Gordon, David and Grant. Sorrow came afresh when Grant was accidentally taken away May 10, 1928.

Mabel and Howard first met in the second grade at school. They were childhood sweethearts, graduating from Ortonville High school in 1923 together and went away to college together. She graduated from the History and Music department of the Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti.

Married September twentieth 1924 at the beginning of their second year in college, they have been blessed with six children, five of whom survive the mother: Howard, Jr., 7, Lois, 6, Max, 4, Elaine, 18 months, and Barry, 11 weeks. Donald Frank Burt was born February 24, 1930, and died October 18, 1930.

A host of friends have joined the relatives in mourning the passing of this loved one. She was a member of the Methodist Church and the Order of the Eastern Star.

Exemplifying her life in her last illness, this loving mother thought not of her own suffering but only of her family, never complaining, smiling after the cruellest of trials, courageous to the last, fighting to live that she might sacrifice more for her loved ones.

Could aught more be said for so noble a life than this: "She did only good; she had only friends; she lived and died for her loved ones." May we quote from a friend, the following tribute:

Reverie

At the death of Mrs. Mabel Burt last week Mrs. Minnie Saltzer wrote the following poem and sent it to Mr. Burt as it is so characteristic of Mrs. Burt as we knew her I am passing it on to you.

In fancy I can see her tripping down the village street,
A smile of joy upon her sweet young face.

The tendrils of her hair cling lovingly to her cheek;
The bobbing curls add to her winsomeness.

Now seated at an organ in the church
She renders praise to God,
While the fresh girl voices of the choir
Pour out their songs of joy.

Next, I see a maiden with her lover,
So pensive, sweet and dear, And then
I picture her sweetly smiling, as
She sits gazing up into the eyes of her husband.

Still another picture comes to me:
A mother bending o'er a bed
Wherein her babies sleep.
The same sweet smile is on her face,
As she tenderly tucks them in and arranges the light.

Today the scene has changed,—
The little happy child is now a memory.

The smiling maiden too is gone,
The loving wife and mother has ceased her ministrations.

The quiet form in which her soul reposed
Is all that is left to those who mourn her passing.

Rest on dear little mother, peaceful be your sleep.
Knowing that some day your loved ones will again be with you over there.

Even as you have gone to those you loved and lost awhile.
Minnie H. Saltzer.

New Sheriff Intends To Fulfill Pledge

When Roy Reynolds was a candidate last fall for the office of sheriff of Oakland County, he pledged that if he were elected, he would give honest law enforcement.

His activities during his first month in office indicate that he intends to fulfill that pledge. Slot machines disappeared as soon as he took office. There were only four in the village of Holly, and as soon as the business men were requested to remove them, they did so without any trouble at all.

Walter Arnold continues as deputy under Sheriff Reynolds. In accordance with instructions from headquarters, he notified all blind pigs known to be operating that they would not be tolerated. Several closed on receipt of the notice. The sheriff was in the community last Saturday, warning those that have not closed that unless they took the warning, the officers would close them by using an ax on their places.

The ax of the law has been used already in other parts of the county and the sheriff evidently means business.

Three Million and a Half of Names

Added to Uncle Sam's Income Tax Roll by New Law Now in Effect

When congress last June passed a new revenue act in the endeavor to balance the budget, it made subject to its income tax provisions an additional number of persons estimated at three millions and a half. A realization of this fact is brought home by the appearance in the press of information relating to the payment of income taxes.

There are two kinds of forms on which personal income tax returns are made, and it is important that you use the proper one. Form 100-A a single sheet blank, is for reporting net incomes of not more than $5,000. Form 1040, a larger folded blank, is for net incomes of more than $5,000. The latter form must also be used by business and professional men and farmers, regardless of the amount of the income.

A farmer who keeps no books or keeps his books on a cash basis is also required to fill out another form, 1040-F and attach it to his return. There is still another form for corporation returns.

While all returns must be filed by midnight March 15, and at least one-fourth of the tax paid at that time, the rest of the tax, if desired, can be paid in three equal installments on June 15, September 15 and December 15. This permits individuals to budget their tax payments.

Under the law the exemption for married men and heads of families has been decreased from $3500 to $2500, the exemption for single persons is reduced from $1500 to $1000 and the 25 per cent reduction allowed in "earned incomes" has been entirely eliminated. The tax rate is 4 per cent on the first $4,000 above exemption and 8 per cent on the remainder. The exemption allowed on each child or dependent is $400.

Income tax return blanks are being mailed by the internal revenue collectors to those persons who paid a federal tax last year, but the three millions and a half who are paying the tax the first time must apply for their own. Failure to do so is punishable by added penalty, fine or imprisonment.

TELEPHONE LINE CARRIES MEDICINE TO SICK WOMAN

When the Devil's River at Del Rio, Tex., overflowed its banks during the recent flooded condition in the Rio Grande Valley, washing out a bridge between Del Rio and Comstock, a telephone line was utilized in a unique manner to transport medicine to a sick woman.

Prior to the flood, a lineman working for the Del Rio and Winter Garden Telephone Company had been sent to Comstock, across the river, and when the bridge was washed away he was unable to return to Del Rio. Meanwhile, the superintendent of the telephone company was at his office in Del Rio when a cowboy came in and told him that he needed help badly. The cowboy's mother was sick in Comstock and needed medicine which could be obtained only in Del Rio and although he had the medicine, there was no way of getting it across the river.

In this emergency, the superintendent, T. J. Paul, telephoned the lineman and had him come to the Comstock side of the river, where there is a two-wire toll line crossing some 700 feet in length. Accompanied by the cowboy, Mr. Paul then went to the Del Rio side where he placed a wire loop over one of the toll wires and then cut the other wire, attaching the end of it to the loop. The medicine was wired to the loop, and the lineman pulled it across the river and then delivered it to the sick mother.

Mr. Paul, in turn, pulled the cut wire back with another wire which he had provided for the purpose, and then spliced it into service again.

Advocate Many Ways To Help Conditions

Ideas advanced by farmers for the improvement of agricultural conditions which were presented at meetings during Farmers Week included price fixation, non-interference with governmental functions, harder work at home, better loan facilities, decreased taxation, improved grading of products, regulation of trucking, and dozens of other remedies.

Practices advocated by N. P. Beebe, Niles, were sale of quality goods, use of an attractive package, and the employment of good salesmanship. Mr. Beebe grows the largest amount of vegetables on muck soil of any middle-western farmer and his ideas apply more particularly to truck crops.

Ernest A. Reuhs, Caledonia, said, "Farm efficiency has never as much as scratched the surface. We still work much as our fathers and grandfathers did. There are a lot of extra things to do to raise that extra money we need for our taxes, but, to do this, we must start at home instead of trying to run the government.

G. S. Felt, Sparta, urged the farmers to improve the quality of their soil to reduce the per bushel cost of producing crops. Mr. Felt explained how he had built up a run down farm by the use of green manures and the keeping of livestock through which the produce of the farm could be marketed.

A round robin discussion by growers of regulated harvests for beets brought forth an array of conflicting opinions about the proper time to pull beets and the proper way to pile them. The dispute was unsettled but the growers participating were somewhat cheered by the prediction by C. R. Oviatt, crops specialist, M. S. C., that higher prices are on the way.

Michigan Scientists Uncover Ancient Fort

Discovery of a large house of fort-like construction, which was probably built by the inhabitants of ancient Karanis, in Egypt, to ward off attacks of desert raiders, has been reported to the University of Michigan by Director Enoch E. Peterson, of the University's Egyptian Expedition.

Karanis, an Egyptian town existing from the third century B. C. to the fifth century A. D., is being completely excavated by the Michigan party, now in its ninth season. The recently found building is of large size, with very thick walls and windows tapering to the outside. It stands on an elevation on what was the desert side of the town and near the grain storehouses, so that it seems to have been used to protect these stores from the marauding tribes which from ancient to modern times made life uncertain for towns on the desert borders. A number of papyrus scraps, written in military red ink, indicate that a Roman legion called the Secunda Traiana Fortis was stationed in or near the building in the third century.

FARMERS WEEK HAS LARGE ATTENDANCE

Honors won through election to office in rural organizations, through the exhibit of prize winning farm products, or through the display of personal skill in contests brought prominence to hundreds of Michigan citizens at Farmers Week, which ended February 3 at Michigan State College.

Nearly every community in Michigan shared in the honors although the districts nearest East Lansing made the heaviest contributions to the attendance, which was probably the largest in Farmers Week history. Nine thousand people attended the Thursday night feature program and 6,000 saw a similar list of events the preceding night.

Farmers Ask Answer To Loan Questions

Continued questions by farmers concerning the extent and the methods of obtaining government funds for financing farm production and marketing operations led to an open forum discussion during Farmers Week at which College staff members and officials of the credit corporations answered questions.

The seven agencies which supply funds for different types of loans were explained by Dr. H. S. Patton head of the economics department at M. S. C. Dr. Patton said there was some duplication of work between these agencies and that a revision of their activities later would perhaps facilitate their work.

"As long as the farmer continues to sell his products individually, he will have to obtain his credit individually," was the statement of Gifford Patch, Jr., M. S. C. Mr. Patch pointed out that Michigan farmers had been able to obtain credit when they belonged to such organized groups as the cooperatives handling livestock, fruit, beets, and celery in Michigan.

John W. Barton, manager Federal Intermediate Credit Bank, Minnesota, advocated the amending of Michigan laws to permit the filing of chattel mortgages with the county clerk instead of with township clerks, as at present. Mr. Barton stated that the present requirements delay the granting of loans in this State.

E. G. Wanek, Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, said that the Federal Land Bank is starting no foreclosure proceedings against Michigan borrowers who are really making an effort to save their farms.

A Man of Vision Sees Unfading Values

In establishing the Music Hall at Hartland J. R. Crouse has made a far reaching investment in the intangible from which he invites those in the surrounding community, and any others who may wish, to gather the dividends. Under the leadership of Miss Nellie B. Huger, excellent programs of vocal and instrumental music, as well as other forms of art, are presented there each week. Her untiring efforts are establishing Hartland Music Hall as one of the music and fine arts centers of the state.

When the announcements of these programs can be secured early enough in the week for publication, they will be carried in our columns. A lasting appreciation of any form of art is vital in every life if it is to be lived to the full. Mr. Crouse is placing the nurture of such appreciation within the reach of everyone who is able to attend the programs at Hartland Music Hall.

POULTRY CULLING

A poultry culling demonstration will be conducted by K. D. Bailey, County Agricultural Agent, at the farm of L. N. Bogart, 2½ miles west of Novi near Grand River at 1:00 p. m. Tuesday, February 14th. Poultrymen are invited to attend.

SHEEP DRENCHING

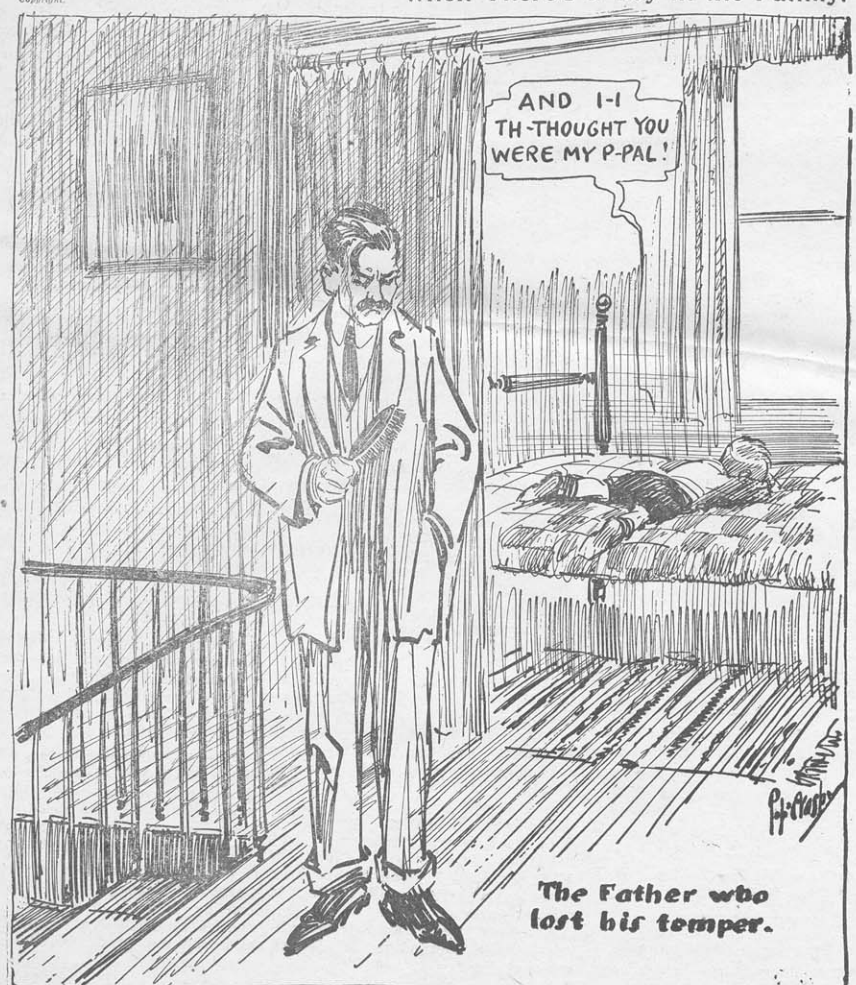

A sheep-drenching demonstration for the control of internal parasites will be made at the farm of Jay Tindall, 7 miles east of Holly on M-87 at 1:00 p. m. Saturday, February 11th. Interested sheep men are invited to attend.

New Sheriff Intends To Fulfill Pledge

When Roy Reynolds was a candidate last fall for the office of sheriff of Oakland County, he pledged that if he were elected, he would give honest law enforcement.

His activities during his first month in office indicate that he intends to fulfill that pledge. Slot machines disappeared as soon as he took office. There were only four in the village of Holly, and as soon as the business men were requested to remove them, they did so without any trouble at all.

Walter Arnold continues as deputy under Sheriff Reynolds. In accordance with instructions from headquarters, he notified all blind pigs known to be operating that they would not be tolerated. Several closed on receipt of the notice. The sheriff was in the community last Saturday, warning those that had not closed that unless they took the warning, the officers would close them by using an ax on their places.

The ax of the law has been used already in other parts of the county and the sheriff evidently means business.

Three Million and a Half of Names

Added to Uncle Sam's Income Tax Roll by New Law Now in Effect

When congress last June passed a new revenue act in the endeavor to balance the budget, it made subject to its income tax provisions an additional number of persons estimated at three millions and a half. A realization of this fact is brought home by the appearance in the press of information relating to the payment of income taxes.

There are two kinds of forms on which personal income tax returns are made, and it is important that you use the proper one. Form 100-A a single sheet blank, is for reporting net incomes of not more than $5,000. Form 1040, a larger folded blank, is for net incomes of more than $5,000. The latter form must also be used by business and professional men and farmers, regardless of the amount of the income.

A farmer who keeps no books or keeps his books on a cash basis is also required to fill out another form, 1040-F and attach it to his return. There is still another form for corporation returns.

While all returns must be filed by midnight March 15, and at least one-fourth of the tax paid at that time, the rest of the tax, if desired, can be paid in three equal installments on June 15, September 15 and December 15. This permits individuals to budget their tax payments.

Under the law the exemption for married men and heads of families has been decreased from $3500 to $2500, the exemption for single persons is reduced from $1500 to $1000 and the 25 per cent reduction allowed in "earned incomes" has been entirely eliminated. The tax rate is 4 per cent on the first $4,000 above exemption and 8 per cent on the remainder. The exemption allowed on each child or dependent is $400.

Income tax return blanks are being mailed by the internal revenue collectors to those persons who paid a federal tax last year, but the three millions and a half who are paying the tax the first time must apply for their own. Failure to do so is punishable by added penalty, fine or imprisonment.

TELEPHONE LINE CARRIES MEDICINE TO SICK WOMAN

When the Devil's River at Del Rio, Tex., overflowed its banks during the recent flooded condition in the Rio Grande Valley, washing out a bridge between Del Rio and Comstock, a telephone line was utilized in a unique manner to transport medicine to a sick woman.

Prior to the flood, a lineman working for the Del Rio and Winter Garden Telephone Company had been sent to Comstock, across the river, and when the bridge was washed away he was unable to return to Del Rio. Meanwhile, the superintendent of the telephone company was at his office in Del Rio when a cowboy came in and told him that he needed help badly. The cowboy's mother was sick in Comstock and needed medicine which could be obtained only in Del Rio and although he had the medicine, there was no way of getting it across the river.

In this emergency, the superintendent, T. J. Paul, telephoned the lineman and had him come to the Comstock side of the river, where there is a two-wire toll line crossing some 700 feet in length. Accompanied by the cowboy, Mr. Paul then went to the Del Rio side where he placed a wire loop over one of the toll wires and then cut the other wire, attaching the end of it to the loop. The medicine was wired to the loop, and the lineman pulled it across the river and then delivered it to the sick mother.

Mr. Paul, in turn, pulled the cut wire back with another wire which he had provided for the purpose, and then spliced it into service again.

Advocate Many Ways To Help Conditions

Ideas advanced by farmers for the improvement of agricultural conditions which were presented at meetings during Farmers Week included price fixation, non-interference with governmental functions, harder work at home, better loan facilities, decreased taxation, improved grading of products, regulation of trucking, and dozens of other remedies.

Practices advocated by N. P. Beebe, Niles, were sale of quality goods, use of an attractive package, and the employment of good salesmanship. Mr. Beebe grows the largest amount of vegetables on muck soil of any middle-western farmer and his ideas apply more particularly to truck crops.

Ernest A. Reuhs, Caledonia, said, "Farm efficiency has never as much as scratched the surface. We still work much as our fathers and grandfathers did. There are a lot of extra things to do to raise that extra money we need for our taxes, but, to do this, we must start at home instead of trying to run the government."

G. S. Felt, Sparta, urged the farmers to improve the quality of their soil to reduce the per bushel cost of producing crops. Mr. Felt explained how he had built up a run down farm by the use of green manures and the keeping of livestock through which the produce of the farm could be marketed.

A round robin discussion by growers of regulated harvests for beets brought forth an array of conflicting opinions about the proper time to pull beets and the proper way to pile them. The dispute was unsettled but the growers participating were somewhat cheered by the prediction by C. R. Oviatt, crops specialist, M. S. C., that higher prices are on the way.

Michigan Scientists Uncover Ancient Fort

Discovery of a large house of fort-like construction, which was probably built by the inhabitants of ancient Karnis, in Egypt, to ward off attacks of desert raiders, has been reported to the University of Michigan by Director Enoch E. Peterson, of the University's Egyptian Expedition.

Karnis, an Egyptian town existing from the third century B. C. to the fifth century A. D., is being completely excavated by the Michigan party, now in its ninth season. The recently found building is of large size, with very thick walls and windows tapering to the outside. It stands on an elevation on what was the desert side of the town and near the grain storehouses, so that it seems to have been used to protect these stores from the marauding tribes which from ancient to modern times made life uncertain for towns on the desert borders. A number of papyrus scraps, written in military red ink, indicate that a Roman legion called the Secunda Traiana Fortis was stationed in or near the building in the third century.

FARMERS WEEK HAS LARGE ATTENDANCE

Honors won through election to office in rural organizations, through the exhibit of prize winning farm products, or through the display of personal skill in contests brought prominence to hundreds of Michigan citizens at Farmers Week, which ended February 3 at Michigan State College.

Nearly every community in Michigan shared in the honors although the districts nearest East Lansing made the heaviest contributions to the attendance, which was probably the largest in Farmers Week history. Nine thousand people attended the Thursday night feature program and 6,000 saw a similar list of events the preceding night.

Farmers Ask Answer To Loan Questions

Continued questions by farmers concerning the extent and the methods of obtaining government funds for financing farm production and marketing operations led to an open forum discussion during Farmers Week at which College staff members and officials of the credit corporations answered questions.

The seven agencies which supply funds for different types of loans were explained by Dr. H. S. Patton head of the economics department at M. S. C. Dr. Patton said there was some duplication of work between these agencies and that a revision of their activities later would perhaps facilitate their work.

"As long as the farmer continues to sell his products individually, he will have to obtain his credit individually," was the statement of Gifford Patch, Jr., M. S. C. Mr. Patch pointed out that Michigan farmers had been able to obtain credit when they belonged to such organized groups as the cooperatives handling livestock, fruit, beets, and celery in Michigan.

John W. Barton, manager Federal Intermediate Credit Bank, Minnesota, advocated the amending of Michigan laws to permit the filing of chattel mortgages with the county clerk instead of with township clerks, as at present. Mr. Barton stated that the present requirements delay the granting of loans in this State.

E. G. Wanek, Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, said that the Federal Land Bank is starting no foreclosure proceedings against Michigan borrowers who are really making an effort to save their farms.

Over 2,000 eager depositors visited the Depositors State bank of Northville during the first five days after it had opened. Less than half of the amount allowed under the moratorium was withdrawn and the deposits of those days were larger than the withdrawals.

Potter, Justice of the Michigan Supreme Court, Frank D. Fitzgerald, Secretary of State, Grover C. Dillman, State Highway Commissioner, and Webster Pearce, Superintendent of Public Instruction, have been invited.

Joint committees from the house and senate of Michigan have asked permission to make the third investigation of Michigan State college since July, 1932. Sen. McKenna, chairman of the senate committee, says it is planned to make the investigation sweeping and all complete, intending once and for all time to set at rest idle rumors and unfounded charges and to bring out into the open all the matters that thus far have been the subject of secret inquiry and white-wash verdicts.

The Civic Veteran Association, newly organized in Ferndale, has been formed by residents of long standing in that city to promote the ideals of a true community spirit, to foster good government. Their stand is that the need for an economical, efficient and sane municipal government is of vital importance.

Petitions are being circulated in more than six thousand school districts in the State. It is expected that early next month these petitions with signatures of thousands of Michigan voters will be laid before the Governor and the State Legislature, asking the State to provide some means of school support to relieve the burden on property, and to provide enough revenue so that the public schools of Michigan may be maintained.

Don'ts From the Flower Lady

Don't overlook mulching the garden, not only for protection from the dangerous effects of white frost but also from the alternate freezing and thawing of late winter and early spring, which is so apt to heave plants and bulbs out of the ground.

Don't use a mulching material that might mat down for that would smother plants. Cornstalks, marsh hay or straw would be fine to use.

Don't think that February is not a good month to do better gardening. Right now there are new garden books to read and new catalogues to look thru. It is also the time to decide on what new plants and new kinds of seeds to buy.

Don't put off repairing and sharpening your garden tools. Much more can be accomplished with a hoe or trowel that is sharp.

Don't fail to prune your shade trees while they are still dormant.

Cottonseed vs. Linseed Meal for Feeding

By J. P. Hoekzema

Q. How does cottonseed meal compare to linseed oil meal for feeding dairy cattle? C. F.

A. Linseed meal has usually been considered a superior feed to Cottonseed meal for dairy cattle. This was due to the fact that many feeders had an idea that Linseed was laxative and that Cottonseed was constipating. Cottonseed is higher in percentage of protein being about 37% as compared with Linseed of 31%. At the present time the price of Cottonseed meal is lower than for Linseed meal.

At the Michigan State College an experiment was run to determine which of these two feeds was the better. Five calves were placed in separate groups when ninety days old. One lot was fed Cottonseed, ground corn, bone meal, timothy hay, and silage while the other group received linseed meal in place of the cottonseed meal. These lots both grew normally and it was impossible to tell one lot from the other. The cottonseed meal group were fed as high as 17 pounds of cottonseed meal a day and as much as an average of 9 pounds per day for the entire lactation period. These five cows have produced the second generation who were fed the same ration as their dams. Four of the daughters are in milk and are producing very well. The results of this experiment show that the heavy feeding of cottonseed meal along with a properly balanced ration to dairy cows is a safe procedure. A greater use of cottonseed meal by Michigan farmers would mean a considerable saving in the cost of protein when protein can be purchased cheaper in the form of cottonseed meal.

If your flock of chickens is to average 160 eggs for this year the standard for this month is 12 eggs. Does your flock meet this amount?

At the present low price of eggs it might be a good idea to look over the flock and pick out a few of the loafers to either sell or have for dinner some day or days.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

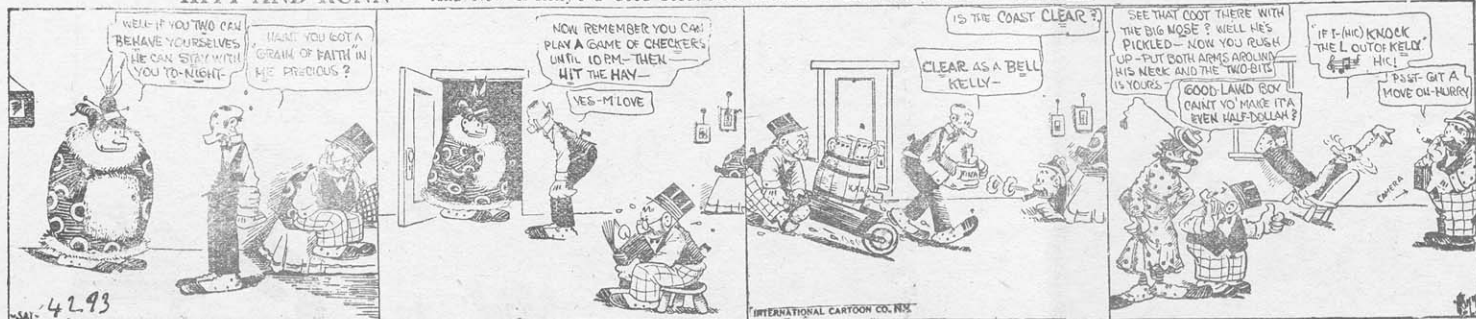

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blasts up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.
