Of Interest to Veteran In his first annual report, Col. F. Ainsworth, Chief of the Record and Pension Bureau of the War Department, says that the index-record card system which has been instituted in that bureau, has made it possible for a small number of clerks to keep the work up to date. Under the present system 40 clerks are able to answer 1.000 calls a day, while under the old system 280 clerks could only make an average of 150 such reports per day. Under the new system all that is needed to make an exhaustive search of a man's entire military record (which includes the hospital record he may have), is the name of the soldier. his company and regiment. If thes be given, lack of knowledge on the part of the claimant, or his widow, de pendent parents or children, or the willful withholding of information by the claimant of a record which might disqualify him from receiving a pension, are unimportant matters to the bureau. Besides this, the system now in use in this bureau, enables the history of every soldier to be accurately given, which in times past was an utter impossibility, for the reason that the hospital records, containing more than 10,000,000 entries, were without an index, and the labor was too great to permit a careful search of the records. A test of the new system was made, which covered a period of ten years prior to the use of the new system. One hundred cases for each year were taken at random, so as to fairly repreall been returned to the Pension office without any record of hospital treatment or disability being found These 1.000 cases were then re-examined by the index-record card system to ascertain if they disclosed hospital treatment, or disability, and dence of treatment in from one to a dozen different hospitals in 295 cases out of the 1,000 examined was found. Under the old system Col. Ainsworth thinks that at least one-third of the claims were returned without evidence. many of the cases being those widows and orphans, in which direct and positive evidence of disability would have been found under the present system. This system also prevents the use of the original records of the bureau, named Cabaniss recently told me that mummy cloths, as well as other fabrics, which are already in a deplorably Abrahum Lincoln worked for his father were formed worked. mutilated condition because of frequent handling by the clerks. The original muster-rolls have been patched, many of them copied and have been put in the best condition possible under the circumstances. The work of this bureau is brought up to date each day of the week and complaints are no longer heard from other Departments of the Government from this cause.

Stole a Grave.

or three of the Kansas regiments, among them the Fifth, were in camp at Helena, sometimes brigaded with the Fourth Iowa. At the same time the Second Wisconsin Cavaly was there, a fine, soldierly, highly respect; able command. One of the Second Wis-consin died, and his comrades with proper decorum prepared for a regular military funeral. Some went out and dug a grave and returned to camp be fore the funeral procession moved. It ne day that the Fifth Kansas also had on hand the body of a departed patriot. Not being given to idle ceremonies, they simply carried it the burying ground, intend ing to dispatch the business without unnecessary expense of time. The Wisconsin party had not yet arrived and the Kansans found a grave ready and waiting for a tenant. What we the use of digging another? The de funct "Javhawker" would not care who prepared his "home." him in, quickly filled in the earth and went back to their camp or their horseracing. Presently came the mournful column of the Wisconsins, marching as a funeral guard of honor, with solemn tread and wailing dirge, their fallen comrade borne at their head. The diggers led them to the spot where they had left an open grave. The rest may be imagined. But the Second Wiscon had had experience; they recognized the genius of the Fifth Kansas. the "Jayhawkers" could steal a grave

Stood Up for the Badge. Many were the thrilling episodes an adventures of the great war which fell in fascinating recitals from the lips of Gen. Sherman, but they are either recorded in the pages of his autobiogsaphy, or are too long and discursive to set down here. One little flash of hamor is, perhaps, worth preserving from all the war talk which we en-fering and plundering committed by one of his brigades, and, being resolved to put this offense down, he isvery strict orders, menacing with death any one who should transgress. The brigade in question wore for its badge an acorn, in silver or gold, and the men were inordinately fond of this distinctive sign. Several cases of disobedience had been reported to the General, but the evidence vas never strong enough for decisive action, until one day, riding with an orderly down a by-lane outside the post, Thomas came full upon an Irishnan who, having laid down his rifle, with which he had killed a hog, was busily engaged in skinning the anima with his sword bayonet, so as to make easy work with the bristles, etc., before cooking some pork chops.

'Ah,' cried the General, you rascal,

'What do you mean, sir?' exclaimed

Gen. Thomas.
"'Why your Honor,' the soldier reolied, this bad baste here had just been disicratin' the regimental badge, and so I was forced to dispatch him. It's atin the acorns I found him at!"

Even Gen. Thomas was obliged to laugh at this, and the soldier saved his life by his wit."-London Telegraph.

To the Old Battlefields.

There will be a grand excursion of he old comrades and their wives to the historic scenes up the Tennessee River o view the place where Gen. Grant and his victorious army moved southward into the Confederacy. Leaving Paducah, Ky., viewing Fort Henry Fort Donelson, Savanah, Crump, & Landing, Pittsburg Landing, and the battlefield at Shiloh and Corinth, where there are National Cemeteries in which sleep thousands of the boys who wore the blue and the grav.

The trip will be made via Evansville, Ind., where they will take a steamer of the Evansville, Paducah & Tennessee River Packet Company, which will carry the party up and back. round-trip will only cost $8 fron Evansville, which includes meals and state-room. It also includes a ride of 825 miles for six or eight days; cheaper than staying at home.

They will aim to be at Shiloh on the anniversary of the battle, April 6 and , and will hold special services at the National Cemetery on that date.

Col. E. T. Lee of the Forty-first Illinois, of Monticello, Ill., invites the old comrades to join this excursion and visit again the old scenes of other days where the first great open field battle was fought in the West between the two great armies, led by Grant and Al hert Sidney Johnston, which made this battlefield forever a historic scene The members of the Forty-first Illinois and the old Fourth Division, commanded by Gen. Stephen A. Hurlbut. are especially invited, and all others may wish to go. This famous battlefield should be preserved and kept acred, for everywhere, from the land ing to the old Shiloh Church, it is trewn with graves where sleep the boys who wore the blue and the gray, and their bones are continually being plowed up by those who are improving small farms on the battlefield. Shiloh is as much entitled to be preserved as liettysburg or Chickamauga, and it should be done, and all the historic marked, so that they can be dentified by those who will visit this amous battlefield in the future. Let all those who desire to go on this excursion in April next send their names to Col. E. T. Lee. Monticello, Ill., that suitable accommodations may be made for all who wish to go. Many have already given their names for the trip. -National Tribune. _

Lincoln as a Versifier.

T. J. McMunn, of San Antonio, in 1832. At that time a great rise ocurred in the Sangamon river, and steamboat, taking advantage of the nigh water, came up the stream. My friend was then a child, and whistling of the boat frightened him. Lincoln, then a tall, angular young nan, took him in his arms and carried him aboard the boat. After the departure of the craft Lincoln wrote ome rhymes about the incident, one which the Cabaniss family preserved. It runs thus:

The Illinois Suckers, green and raw, Collected on the Sang

To see a boat come up the stream.

They surely thought it was a dream." "For this doggerel he invented a melody, and he and others sang it. The song never found its way into print. The elder Cabaniss always told his children that the amiable, kindly Lincoln would develop into a grea

A strapping young fellow appeared efore the commission of inspection: "You claim exemption from military rvice?" inquired the presiding office "Yes, sir."

"I am subjected to a most serious ffliction.

"Step into the next room!"

"Why, it isn't-"Step into the next room!"

Our man entered the adjoining apart ent, where he was made to undres from head to foot, after which he preented himself again before the committee, this time sans coat, sans vest, sans everything.

-Figaro.

Although Lincoln was universally egarded as one of the most amiable of men and was scarcely ever known to show anger, those acquainted with him in his youthful and obscure years have declared that he had naturally a flery temper, which he struggled against until he mastered it completely. After having become a prominent figure in the counsels of the nations, he was a pattern of self discipline and self conjoyed.
"General Thomas," said he, "junior which would give color to this belief, to me in rank, but senior in service, "The most important victory a man was a stern disciplinarian. He had re-

A serious danger menaces the health of the people of this country in the numerous alum baking powders that are now being urged upon the public. There is no question as to the detri-mental effects of these powders upor the system. Every Board of Health, every physician, will tell you of the unwholesome qualities they add to the lum.

Even small doses of alum, given to children, have produced fatal results, while cases of heartburn, indigestion griping constipation, dyspepsis various kindred gastrie trouble irritation of the mucous membrane caused by the continuous use of food prepared with the alum or alum-phos-phate powders, are familiar in the practice of every physician.

at last I have caught one of you in the list not possible that any prudent housewife, any loving mother, will time, and I will make an example of knowingly use an article of food that you, sir.

"Bedad, General, honey," said the or perhaps cause the death of her or perhaps cause the death of her children.

How shall the dangerous alum pow-ders be distiguished? And how shall the danger to health from their use be avoided:

Generally, alum powders may be known from the price at which they are sold, or from the fact that they are accompanied by a gift, or are disposed of under some scheme. The alum powder costs but a few cents a pound to make, and is often sold at 20 or 25 cents a pound. If some present is given with it, the price may be 30, 40 or 50 cents a pound.

It is impossible to name all the alum powders in the market, but any baking cowder sold at a low price, or adver-tized as costing only half as much as ream of tartar powders, or accompan-ied by a present, or disposed of under any scheme, is of this class, detrimental to health and to be avoided.

to health and to be avoided.

But the easy, safe, and certain protection of our bread, biscuit and cake from all danger of unwholesomeness is in the use of the Royal Baking Powder only. This powder is mentioned because of the innumerable reports in its favor by high medical authorities, by the U. S. Government, and by the official chemists and Boards of Health, which leave nosionthe as to its entity. which leave no doubt as to its entire freedom from alum, lime and ammonia, its absolute purity and wholesomeness. While its use is thus a safeguard against the poisonous alum powders it is satisfactory at the same time to know that it makes the whitest, light-est, sweetest and most delicious food, which will keep moist and fresh longer, and that can be eaten with immunity hot or cold, stale or fresh, and also that owing to its greater strength it is more economical than others.

These facts should incline consumers to turn a deaf ear to all importunities to buy the inferior powders. If a grocer urges the sale of the cheap, imoure, alum brands, it should be borne in mind that it is because he can make more profit on them. The wise house-keeper will decline in all cases to take

A curious accident recently befell a trolley car at Seattle, Wash. The car, which runs from Ballard to Seattle, was standing on a switch built out on the wharf over the bay. The piling of the wharf gave way and car fell twenty feet, striking two piles which bored two holes in the floor of the car. The tide was out and the water was only two feet deep, quently no one was drowned. If the accident had happened a few hours later, at high tide, the car would have fallen into eighteen feet of water and all the passengers would probably have been drowned.
