Jumping up, they found the house afire, covered with kerosene, and the barn burning down. The house was saved. Frank Stapley, one of the sons, has been arrested charged with arson.

Hog cholera is prevalent in Monroe county. John Tackmann, a lineman working for the Bay County Electric company, passed through the throes of electrocution at Bay City, while making a splice of a wire. Tackmann had held a wire and could not drop it. Men working with him tried to rescue him, but could not reach him. A message was then sent to the works and the current shut off. Tackmann had both hands terribly burned to the bones, besides blistering his hands and arms nearly to the elbows. It is estimated he took a current of 500 volts for at least 10 minutes. He will survive.

OVER 200 ARE LOST.

TERRIFIC GALE OFF OF GREAT BRITAIN'S COAST. Scores of Vessels Wrecked and Crews Perish in Great Numbers—Life-Savers Do Brave Work—Other General News of Importance. A gale of hurricane proportions swept over the coasts of Great Britain for over 48 hours and spread death and destruction among the shipping and fishing vessels. Returns are naturally slowly coming in but it is known that fully 200 lives have been lost. Some idea of the force of the gale can be gathered from the fact that two heavy railroad engines were blown off the track near Liverpool. From all parts of Ireland where there is fully a two-foot snowfall, some reports of the severity of the gale which has been accompanied there by heavy snow storms. Hundreds of fishing boats are missing, and numerous wrecks are reported. In addition, the waters were filled with weather-bonna vessels. Much loss has also been caused to live stock, houses and produce. The landing stage at Londonderry has vanished and the steam ferry was sunk. During the height of the fury of the gale the steamship Hampshire was driven ashore in St. Ives' Bay, Cornwall, and was pounded to pieces near Gurnard's Head. Twenty-one of the Hampshire's crew were drowned, only one man managed to reach the shore and the steamship was wrecked. The coast guardsmen manned their lifeboats and were preparing to go to the rescue when the Hampshire was wrecked. The coast guardsmen were unable to get to the rescue until late in the evening. Three yachts and two coast-guard vessels were ashore near Greengreen.

Despatches received from Hanff say that the seashore for thirty miles is strewn with the wreckage of three vessels. At Grangemouth the barkentine Betty was wrecked on the rocks, but the crew was saved. An unknown steamer was wrecked on the rocks near the mouth of the Forth and seven lives were lost. Several fishing boats have been lost off the same spot. In Lough Foyle two wrecks are reported with 12 lives lost.

Many vessels sought shelter badly before the storm. One of the high-jutting cliffs of the English channel and two vessels perished on the Goodwin Sands. The Deal life boat went to the assistance of the crew of one of these vessels but only a few of the crew were rescued. The life boats could get alongside of them and the sailors perished.

The Ramsgate fishing fleet was caught in the gale and nearly all were badly battered by the sea. Two of the fleet were stranded and their crews were rescued by the life boats. The schooner Wicklass was wrecked near Yarmouth and five of her crew were drowned while the boat lay on a ledge of rocks, pounding to pieces in fragments.

The packet boat Killarney, from Millford, arrived at Cork and reports that when 15 miles out she sighted the disabled National Line steamer Helvetia. The Helvetia was wrecked on the rocks and was unable owing to the tremendous sea, to take her in tow and was obliged to leave her to her fate.

Aron Brundye, aged 37 years, having a wife and one child, was horribly injured in Mayor Torrence's saw mill at Muskegon. A piece of wood, thrown from a saw, entered his body, lacerated his bowels, making a wound nearly five inches long. His arm was broken, and he will probably die.

Wm. Flynn, an aged laborer of Ann Arbor, was taken to the Dearborn asylum. His elderly wife at first made a frantic resistance to the officers, and then pleaded most plaintively to be taken with him. They were living in abject poverty, although reputed to own considerable property.

SILVER MEN ARE GAME.

The Fight for Free Coinage of Silver to be Renewed in the Regular Session. Washington special: The indications are that the free coinage fight will be renewed with rather increased vigor at the opening of the regular session of congress. The measure to ward such a stubborn warfare for silver in the two houses during the extra session, appears to have gathered confidence by the events which have followed the repeal of the silver purchase act, and an organization of the kind is now being perfected. For the past two or three weeks the silver men have been singularly quiet. The reason for this has now become apparent. The silver men were waiting for a sufficient period to lapse, after the repeal of the Sherman act, in order to demonstrate to the people that the silver purchase law was not the cause of the great financial depression and that its repeal would not prove the panacea for all the commercial evils which have been the result of the time. They think the demonstration of this fact is apparent to the American people now, so the silver men are preparing to say to congress next month that the legislation demanded by the administration has been failure in restoring commercial prosperity, that the position of the silver men in urging free coinage at the late session has been vindicated. With this object in view, Chairman Biand, of the committee on coinage, wants and measures is preparing a bill, which he, as the leader of the free coinage men, will introduce at the opening of the next session.

"UNCLE JERRY" RUSK DEAD. Ex-Secretary of Agriculture Passes Away at His Home—Brief Biography. Ex-Secretary of Agriculture Jeremiah M. Rusk died at his home at Verona, Wis. He had been ill for two weeks and his death was not unexpected.

Mr. Rusk was born in Maryland, June 17, 1830. He received a good education. When 23 he moved from Ohio into Wisconsin, taking a farm near Ripon. He served in the military service of the United States during the war of 1862. When he was elected to the state legislature in 1862. When the war broke out he was commissioned major of the Wisconsin volunteers. He fought with great bravery and at the close of the war he held the brevet rank of brigadier-general. He was state bank controller, from 1866 to 1870. He was a member of the 42nd, 43rd and 44th congresses. In 1884 he was elected governor of Wisconsin for 12,000 majority over the opposition. He served as secretary of agriculture under President Harrison and was one of the ex-president's closest friends.

Rank, Municipal Scandal at Toledo. For four months the board of revision is investigating the municipality of Toledo, O. It has reported the result of its labors to the city council, and showed that the most extravagant and reckless practices have prevailed in the methods of each department of the city in the purchase of supplies; that the city has for years been practically without a head; one city official deposits city cash in his own name and at the close of the year he claims the salary with interest, he thinks it due, without regard to warrant or voucher; many officials have held public moneys delivered to them for months instead of putting them in the city treasury; many have had their claims for city orders advanced weeks before the goods were delivered, and many bills have been paid two and three times. A city comptroller will be appointed and the matter remedied.

Powderly is Upheld. The finance committee of the general assembly, Knights of Labor, in its session at Philadelphia made a report in which the general executive committee was exonerated and the order funds itself in a fair financial condition. In the report among other things the committee recommends that the order dispose of its political headquarters building at Philadelphia and erect a new one at the headquarters of the order in some more central point. Indianapolis was one of the points mentioned. The report fully sustains Grand Master Workman T. V. Powderly and the executive board in the manner donated relief to the order by the order, and the members of the committee are very well satisfied with Powderly's explanation.

Was Lynched, but Deserved His Fate. Fred Gustavson, a laborer, aged thirty-two, of Ottumwa, Ia., enticed the four-year-old daughter of Jonas Sax into the room of a boarding house and criminally assaulted her. The child, although horribly maltreated, was able to drag herself home, but now lies at the point of death. Gustavson was brought to Justice Tritt's office for preliminary examination. The culprit was wrested from the hands of the officers and dragged out of the side door. He held the mother of the child stood with a rope and gave it into the hands of the mob. It was immediately placed about the wretch's neck and he was hanged to the balluster of the outside stairway leading to the office.

Seven Deaths in a Hotel Fire. A disastrous fire occurred at Merrill station, near Beaver, Pa., resulting in the total destruction of a three-story frame hotel. The fire was discovered at a sliding door between the hall and a room used as a store and post-office. There were 35 boarders sleeping in the second and third floors, many of whom jumped from the windows and were badly cut, bruised and burned. After a census of the boarders could be taken there were found the severe burns, death and at least ten badly injured. All the bodies were recovered, but were unrecognizable.

Killed War in Kansas. C. Elliott, a pit boss, shot and killed Will McKover, a Negro miner, at Pittsburg, Kan. During a quarrel the Negro rushed at Elliott with a pick, but before he could reach him he met two fatal shots. The town is full of Negroes armed to the teeth, and every citizen carries a Winchester. Excitement runs high and should a fire be fired on either side, a terrible race war would result. Elliott is out of the way till a safer time.

Roland Withenbury, aged 13 years, accidentally shot and killed himself while hunting near Glendale, O.

STILL A REPUBLIC.

QUEEN "LIL" OF HAWAII NOT YET ON THE THRONE. Minister Willis Rather Slow in Presenting His Instructions and Cleveland's Intervention Still a Mystery—Alleged Synopsis of Blount's Report. The Oceanic steamer Australia has arrived at San Francisco from Honolulu and the news she brought was hardly what the American people were expecting. It was almost generally believed that the queen would have been restored to the throne by the new minister to Hawaii, Willis, and that the provisional government had been overthrown. This anticipation was well grounded upon the recently published letter of Secretary Sherman which showed the present administration's feeling that it would be but justice to give the ex-queen her throne.

It was therefore with considerable surprise that it was learned that Minister Willis had merely presented his credentials to the provisional government and had not even mentioned his instructions from President Cleveland. There were several Hawaiians on board the Australia and they expressed great surprise when they heard of the sudden action of the government and intimated that Minister Willis had found affairs in a different state than he had anticipated, and seeing that the provisional government was well prepared to hold their own against any sudden action of the United States, he concluded to await further instructions from the United States.

The steamer China had arrived at Honolulu with Minister Willis over a week before the Australia sailed for Hawaii. The Minister's explanation of nature had occurred in the islands. Among the passengers on the Australia were the ex-United States consul at Honolulu, H. M. Severance. In an interview ex-consul Severance said: "No assurance was heard of anything about the restoration of the queen being intended by President Cleveland. There was no talk of bloodshed or resistance. In fact, so far as I have been able to learn, all the recent excitement over Honolulu is a great mistake. The nature had occurred in the islands. The dispatches from Honolulu detailing the reception of Minister Willis by the provisional government give President Cleveland's letter introducing Mr. Willis, which reads: 'To His Excellency Sanford Dole, President of the Provisional Government of the Hawaiian Islands. I have made choice of Albert S. Willis, one of our distinguished citizens, to reside near the government of you excellently. He is a man of very extraordinary and ministerial talents, and I am confident that his entire confidence and ability is of the highest order, and that he will constantly endeavor to advance the interests and prosperity of both governments and so render himself acceptable to your excellency. I therefore request your excellency to receive him with pleasure and to give full credence to what he shall say on the part of the United States and the Hawaiian government. It is the wish of you of the best wishes of this government for the Hawaiian Islands. My God have your excellency in his wise keeping.'

The Honolulu papers were in ecstasies over the evident good will expressed toward the provisional government. The passage in President Cleveland's letter: "He will constantly endeavor to advance the interests and prosperity of both governments and so render himself acceptable to your excellency," was commented on to the fullest extent, and the Hawaiian Star, prints the sentence for several days at the head of its editorial column in bold type, under the heading, "Good Cheer from Cleveland." Other papers were equally full of the same, and it is in the fact that the provisional government up to the hour of the signing of the Australia had no knowledge of the purpose of Minister Willis to restore the queen. Washington dispatches, however, are believed by some naval officers that Minister Willis has found things so different from what his instructions led him to expect that he has assumed the authority to refer operations until he received further instructions.

Blount's Report. Secretary Blount has at last given out a synopsis of Commissioner Blount's report which shows that Minister Stevens landed the troops from the Boston long before there was any valid excuse for their presence on the government built island. It is thought that he declined to remove them when requested to do so by the government and informed that the authorities were willing and thoroughly able to preserve order and protect American interests; that these troops were stationed across the street from the government building in which Minister Stevens knew the revolutionists were about to read their proclamation and that the revolutionist committee relied upon the American troops to protect them in this act of rebellion. Minister Stevens recognized the provisional government according to a preconceived program before that government had obtained possession of the departments and military power at Honolulu, and that the military power of the United States was used to install the provisional government.

It was Commissioner Blount's report which induced President Cleveland to take steps toward the restoration of the Hawaiian monarchy. It is well to say also, that Minister Stevens denies every imputation cast upon himself and the officers of the Boston. It is now simply a question of clarity.

Union Tobacco works, Clarksville, Tenn., burned. Loss $35,000. Gov. Peck will issue a call to the people of Wisconsin for aid for the Hurley sufferers.

A sawmill boiler burst at Hendersonville, Ky., and killed Harvey and Cohen, brothers.

Fires have been started in three glass factories at Bridgeport, O. They will employ over 1,000 men.

The scale has been settled in Youngstown, O., and the iron mills have resumed after 23 weeks idleness.

Gen. L. A. Grant, assistant secretary of war, has resigned, and Gen. Doe, adjutant general of the Wisconsin national guard, will succeed him.

A MONSTER STRIKE.

Lehigh Valley Railroad Completely Shut up—Over 1800 Men out. Philadelphia: A general strike was ordered on the entire system of the Lehigh Valley railroad. The immediate cause is the company's refusal to recognize any committee or body of men as the representative of the employees of the road. After repeated attempts made by the grand officers of the several railway organizations to gain audiences with the officials of the road, and after a sub-committee from the general committee sitting at the Bingham House, Philadelphia composed of bona fide employees of the road, had failed to secure recognition from the road's highest representative in this city, First Vice-President Voorbes, the order to quit work was telegraphed to all the employees along the line of the road. The result was that a general strike was declared. Over 1800 men will be idle until the matter is settled.

Buffalo: Freight traffic on the Lehigh is stopped, but several passenger trains have been running. The telegraph operators will probably join the strikers.

Populists to George nize. Washington special: Is the Populist party to continue in the political field? This is one of the questions which are now agitating certain political circles.

The Populists, in reply, will form a party of great national organization, which will probably be brought together under another name. The Populist party will have the same relation to this new party that the old free soil and abolitionist parties bore to the Republican party.

When asked what would be the issue upon which the new party would organize, he said, "The issue is now between the money power and a gold basis, on one side, and the producing masses, on the other. The money power has a large volume of money on a gold, silver and paper basis on the other. That will be the great issue in 1896, and it is one upon which the people will divide without regard to former party differences."

Seminary Fire—Two Girls Burned. The Edgewood female seminary, near Madison, Wis., a Catholic institution conducted by the Dominican sisters and valued at about $75,000, was destroyed by fire, and two lives were lost. Marjorie Rice, aged 7 years, of Siren, and Maggie Rice, of Maggie Stack, aged 6 years, of Chicago.

Before the sisters in charge knew of the fire, the halls in the upper part of the building were completely filled with smoke. The sisters made daring efforts to rescue the girls. They were one room in which or near which the fire must have originated, were sleeping little Marjorie Rice and Maggie Stack. Access to their room was almost impossible, it being completely filled with smoke. When the little ones were finally reached they had been suffocated to death.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF TRADE.

New York, Nov. 20.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s review says: Business is gaining, but it is a constant complaint that the increase is slow. This is because very few realize how heavy business has to drag after it in climbing up against the tide of uncertainty.

Business has been generally quiet during the past week in the fact that November payments are far more satisfactory than were feared, and that the extension of the month would have seemed alarming other ways. Merchants who collect part of the amount due are not so large as usual.

The condition of the iron trade in purchases for consumption, if lessening, has still made it impossible for many firms to go on as before. The condition of the iron trade is improving, but they wisely await the revival of the iron industry. Twenty-four firms in all kinds of iron have wholly discontinued, against fourteen closing. Yet less than the year ending last year, the failure for the week have working full time in the United States, against 25 last year, and 25 in Canada, against 23 last year.

Oddfellows are increasing. The 46th annual session of the grand encampment of the Oddfellows was held at St. Louis, Mo., with a good attendance. Grand Representatives Jewell and Maybury in their annual reports say that the condition of the order calls for devout thanksgiving on the part of every Oddfellow in the land. The net increase in membership during 1892, was over 50,000, unprecedented in the history of the order and from what has been learned of the increase this year it is greater than last year. The total membership, including the D. D. E. branches, is estimated at over 1,000,000.

The colonel halted and faced about. "Will this do?" he asked.

"Yes," said the major. "I believe. The sun shines across the glade?"

"But we had better toss for positions anyhow," said the colonel, and he drew a coin into the air.

"I will take the southern end," he said. The colonel bowed acquiescently.

"I presume you will be satisfied if Israel attends to the loading?" the colonel remarked.

"Quite," returned the major, ignoring the last words.

"Then, Israel, load those pistols, and do it carefully," commanded the colonel.

"Yes, marse kunn!" mumbled Israel, picking up the weapons mechanically.

He moved over to a nearby stump, and for a minute sat motionless with the pistols in his lap.

"Ten paces!" he asked. The major nodded, and the other was irritated more than ever by his silence.

"Well, as if he suspected me of having sister designs on his establishment. Then he replied:

"Well, as for anything to drink, you'll have to go to the pump in the back yard. That's all we get to drink around these parts."

"Of course I do," he answered. "and fine ones, too. How many'll you have?"

"Oh, a couple," I said carelessly, selecting that number from a box he offered me.

"Those," said the apparition, swelling with pride, "are the very best twofers you can buy for miles around."

"Twofers?" I repeated, as I lit one of them and tried in vain to make it draw.

"Yes, twofers—two for five cents. You see, I used to keep one ofers, but the boys around here thought they were too expensive, so—"

"That will do," I said, somewhat testily, tossing a dime on the counter as I turned to leave the place.

While riding on horseback along a lonely Jersey road about ten miles back of Lake Hopatcong one day last week I approached a small hamlet of some half dozen houses and a general store.

I stopped my horse, dismounted, and ascending the steps leading to the store, found the door locked.

"Hey, there!" I shouted, pounding and kicking at the door. There was a sound of shuffling feet, and soon the door was swung slowly open.

"Are you the proprietor?" I asked. "I be," he replied.

"Well," said I, "do you keep anything to eat or drink in your place?"
