BRIEF ITEMS ABOUT MICHIGAN PEOPLE AND THINGS.

State Taxes as Apportioned to the Various Counties by Auditor-General Turner are Much Higher Than Formerly-Leg-talature of 1893 Blamed for It.

Apportionment of State Taxes Apportionment of State Taxes.
Anditor-General Turner has completed the apportionment of the state tax for 1895 among the 84 counties of the state. The total tax is $3,013,919.52 and is large when compared with the tax of $1,659,135.89 in 1894 and $1,931.-214.69 in 1893. In explanation of this tax of $1,000 to 1895. the fact is pointed out that the owing to the current expenses of the legisla-ture the state tax is greater for odd ture the state tax is greater for odd than for even years. Then various reasons are given for the increase in the amount of the tax this year. It is shown that the legislature of 1893 failed to incorporate tax clauses in some of its appropriation bills and these appropriations had to be paid and the deficiency made up by the legislature of 1893 even neglected to provide for the payment of its own expenses in the general purpose bill. The total deficiency made up by this year's legislature is $760,009.39. The care for the instanceusedan increase in that appropriation of over $100,000, and new institutions also made a heavy draft on the tax, of over $100,000, and new institutions also made a heavy draft on the tax, the Newberry asylum alone receiving $165,000. The auditor-general says that these deficeacies having been cared for the tax for 1896 will drop to about the normal figure—$2,000,000.

Michigan's Great Peppermint Crop. Michigan's peppermint crop for 1895 s been harvested. The United States medigan's peppermin crop for 1893 has been harvested. The United States raises nine-tenths of the world's product and Michigan two-thirds of the American output. It is raised in large quantities in St. foseph. Allegan, Kalamazoo, Wayne, Cass, Van Buren, Ottawa and Muskegon counties. The acreage in the state is about 130,000, and it is estimated the crop this year will approximate 150,000 pounds of oil. The average price paud was $1.60 a pound. Peppermint is easily cared for eas after it is planted all the farmer needs to do is to keep it free from weeds. It is cut like hay and distilled like whisky. A. M. Todd, the well-known Prohibitionist of Kalamazoo, has the largest distillery in the country, from which the oil is shipped all over the wend. from which the oil is shipped all over

NOT AN AMERICAN CITIZEN

If Born of Foreign Parents-At Least the Attorney-General So Claims.

Wong Kim Ark recently arrived at Wong Kim Ark recently arrived at San Francisco from China, and demanded a landing on the ground that he is a native of California. The collector of the port refused him landing, claiming he is not an American citizen. The decision was in accordance with an arrangement with the attorney-general, who is anxious to test the rights of American bown Chinese to rights of American born Chinese to land. According to the contention of the government, a person born in the United States must not at the time of his birth be subject to any foreign power, thus making it indispensable to citizenship by birth that the parent be an American citizen, for if the father be alien the child will be subject to the country of the sire. In other words, to, be an American citizen by birth one must be born of Ameri-can parents. If this contention of the government is upheld, the standing of all people born in the United States of alien parents will be greatly affected.

Anti-Fusion Law is Constitutional.

The supreme court of Michigan has filed an elaborate opinion in the mandamus case brought by Albert M. Todd to compel the election commissioners of the counties comprising the Third congressional district to print his name on the ticket of each party nominating him, claiming the so-called anti-fusion law of the last legislature to be unconstitutional. The opinion, written by Justices Grant was concurred in by Justices Hooker and Long. Chief Luctice Moderath and note it in the case. Anti-Fusion Law is Constitutional. Justices Hooker and Long. Chief Justices McGrath did not sit in the case.

Justice Grant says:

When each voter has been afforded the opportunity and has been provided with reasonable facilities to vote the constitution has been compiled with. All else is regulation and lies in the sound discretion of the legislature, to whom alone such regulation is committed Courts cannot hold them unconstitutional because in their judgement they are harsh or unsisc or have their origin in partising purposes. Courts have nothing to do with the motives of Justice Grant says:

At His Own Price for Spot Cash.

Those who are acquainted with the stock of Kempf & Co. know it as a clean up to date stock as perfect in style and quality as it is possible for a stock of Dry Goods, Carp is and Groceries to be. The goods are all Staple, Substantial and New. When it is possible to get hold of such a stock at one's own price it is indeed a stroke of lucky merchantdising. This we have done and as a result we are now in possession of Two Large Stocks of Merchandise in Manchester. Of course we don't want two stocks here—we don't want to run one ck in opposition to another. In fact, we didn't want the stock at all but could not resist so big a bargain. The question now arises what to do with it. Will we move it to some other town and close it out where the sale will not antagonize our other business here or will we close it out in Manchester. The first suggestion would seem more sensible, more business like and no doubt nine business men out of ten would adopt that course and this is what we first decided to do. Upon more mature deliberation however we have decided Jamie Shanks, who was with Mr.
Russel as his fisherman, had gone over it to no purpose with a fresh fly. They were grumpikhly discussing whether they should give Dalbreck another turn,

To Sell the Entire Stock in Manchester.

We want to bring more people to Manchester. We want to popularize ourselves in the minds of the whole community as BARGAIN GIVERS. The public likes bargains and apt to think well of the giver of them, therefore, instead of giving to strangers the benefit of This Great Purchase we propose to gain prestage and the good will of the people we know and with whom we hope to have lifelong business relations.

This Sale Commences Saturday, October 5, and will last until the stock is closed out.

Czarina and the Woman Question. The influence of the Russian empress is strongly felt in the sphere of intellectual progress. She has manifested great interest in the growth of the woman movement, and in court circles this subject is one that engrosses much attention. It is related that a meeting of feminists was recently about to be held in the capital, and that the empress was anxious to obtain fuller information about the precise aims of advanced Russian women than she was likely to get from the St. Petersburg The ladies of the court, as well as the czar himself, were questioned on the subject, but at that time their knowledge of the matter was not very extensive. The empress therefore dispatched one of her secretaries to the meeting, with orders to take a full report of the proceedings. This she has also done on every similar occasion subsequently, so there is every appearance that the court will now be kept well in touch with the aspirations of the pioneers of feminism in Russia.

PINESS AND HEALTH.

She Tells an Industrial News Reporter 'Her Experience and Relates Her Husband's Marvelous Escape.

From the Industrial News, Jackson, Mich.

Mrs. C. H. Cline, who lives on the corner of Perrine and Pearl Streets, Jackson Mich., has for two years been troubled with indigestion and nervous pivostration. Her heart would apparently stop beating. She would suffer great pain, in fact she honestly thought she was going to die. Her troubles were brought on by a severe attack of la grippe. Sieep was nearly a stranger to her all this time, and life had become a burden to her until she was advised by friendly neighbors who had used Dr. Williams. Pink Pils to give them a trial, which she did, and it would be hard to find a more grateful woman in Michiganthan Mrs. C. H. Cline, as prominent physicians had given her up while to-day she is able to do her own work and is as pleasant a little body as one would like to visit. She used three Pink Pills a day only, the last one just before retiring, whion always insured her a good night's rest.

Mrs. Cline is only 30 years old and could ill afford to let her life slowly ebb away. It is difficult for one to describe her ailments, but we can say to all afflicted that if they will call on or write to Mrs Cline they will not only be thoroughly convinced of the merits of these little friends, for she persists in calling them such, but she will also tell you of her marvelous cure, and we can guarantee that she will convince you that she owes her life to-day to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which she would not be without for their weight in gold.

This evidence is only a repetition of what all people say who have tried this wonderful remedy. It's as faithful a friend as one could possibly introduce into their household, never failing, always reliable in times of greatsuffering and danger. Now, to show how sincere she is, also mentioned that she induced her husband, Mr.C.H.Cline, to try the remedy. Everybody around here knows the affabe and efficient Charlie, who for the liast ten years has been in the employ of the Michigan Central Railroad and who was sorely afflicted with excruciating pains in the chest and also with one of the

HARVEST IS RIPE."

MOCH SUFFERING FOLLOWED BY HAP-

By Jay Lee. T HAD BEEN A had beaten down on . the dry and dusty stubble field unrelenting force; the cattle since early in the lying in the shade, or standing in the little pools ater, all that was left of the brook that usually ran through the pasture, and standing there, placidly switched their tails and contentedly munched their everlasting cuds, seemingly as happy as though the pasture was knee leep with fresh, dew-besprinkled clover.

In the stubble field adjoining, there were no such signs of contentment. All day long, while the sun was the fiercest, men and teams had hurried from the field to the barn and back again, going in with wagon piled high with the sheaves of grain, and coming back empty, save as to the boy or man who drove the horses. It was the last day of "wheat hauling," and Squire Stevens was anxious that the crop should be housed, to be thrashed at his leisure. It was nearly sundown, and the intense heat of the day was somewhat abated. Not until then did I venture far from the low, rambling house that seemed to retire in the shade of the great elms that towered above it, and find my down the little, grass-grown lane, toward the great barn. The las load was entering the barn yard, and the Squire with his big straw hat pushed back, and pitch fork in hand walked with tired, but satisfied, tread pehind the wagon. He stopped when he saw me, and chafflingly said:

"Well, missy, you come along to help when the sun goes down, do you, and the last load is in?" "Oh, no." I replied "I didn't know you needed help, or I should have been here before '

The Squire laughed. Lots of account you'd be in the harvest field, now; wouldn't you? But I can tell you that my sisters used to turn out with a hearty will, and help when the work was pushed. Yes, sir, father used to say that Cynthia was the est son he had."

"But, Squire," I put in, "you wouldn't allow your daughter to go into the

"WHY YOU DEAR OLD POP." harvest field and help haul grain, now would you?"

"Allow? Why, bless your heart, I couldn't drag her there with a four-horse team. Not that I'd want to," he added after a pause, "for times have for it now."

changed, and there ain't the necessity I burst into a laugh to think of Dorothy Stevens in the harvest field; the daintest little maid in all the country round, with a proud little will of her own, and yet a lovable disposition. She was the apple of her father's eye, and many staid old neighbors considered her a spoiled daughter.

While we spoke she came bounding into the yard on her saddle horse, and with a nod to me, she turned to the

as he helped her dismount. "Well, yes," replied Dorothy, "unless the crop fails, you know, and I believe Walter Scott said: "The Bishops and that happense sometimes. Do you the lawyers talked better than the know," she rattled on, talking to neiththat happens er of us in particular, "I've been think-ing of that very thing to-day. It's promised that what-so-ever a man sows that shall he reap, but it seems to me that that holds goods more especially with weeds than it does with a good crop. I know pop here, fusses around a sight about his seed wheat and his seed corn, and then the crop falls some-times, while if a little bit of 'cheat' gets in the wheat once it lasts for years. And I guess it's pretty the same way with sowing other things good deeds, you know, and all that I can go along being a model girl for months at a time

I'd like to know when you tried that experiment," put in the Squire, but Dorothy did not deign to notice.

"—and I don't see that any great crop is harvested; but let me slip up once on something, and I'm sure to get once on sometang, was a man on the father, well, you'll have to admit that that's a good thing," said the father,

"if you didn't get into trouble, there no telling where you'd land." "I wasn't complaining about the troube I get into: I'm willing enough to abide by that," replied the daughter, "if I sow 'cheat,' I expect to reap it, but my complaint against nature is don't always harvest wheat even when we sow good seed."

"Well, at least," I put in, "if you plant wheat, you don't reap dust and if you'll allow me to mix my metaphors."

"You mean we don't get 'cheat?" said Dorothy. "I'm not sure of that. Don't you remember the tares in the Bible? To be sure, though, somebody sowed them; I suppose the sower ought to have kept awake and watched his crop. I guess that must be the way of it; a crop grows if you give it haif a chance, while a good crop has to be sown with care, and watched and tended, nursed and petted, and then you don't know whether it will grow or not."

"Dorothy," said the Squire, "you're getting to be a regular pessimist. Let's go to super and see it a good squaremeal would do you good," and we all went into the house.

"Oh, I don't think so," replied Dorothy from her place at the head of the table. "I see a great many fields where a harvest of any sort seems impossible hot day: the sun I came past the Hazard place, this afternoon, and if you'll believe it, there was Abby, herself, out in the wheat field with that boy that lives there, get-ting in the wheat."

The Squire looked at his plate, muttering something about it being a

"That's just what I thought, and said," continued Dorothy. "I told her it wasn't right for her to be doing such drudgery, and reminded her that men were intended to do that kind of work, but she only said, 'For men must work, and women must weep,' and then added, Well, Dorothy, I prefer to do a little more work and a little less weeping, for my part,' and went on tossing the sheaves up on the wagen. Now, what want to know is, when is Abby Hazard going to reap her reward? There she has been toiling away on that little old farm ever since I can remember, kind, faithful and intelligent, doing more good to this neighborhood than half the men in it put together, and yet her life becomes harder, every year. Where's her harvest?"
There was a curlous look on Squire's face as he said: "She might have had a harvest years ago, if she if she would only cut the grain when it ripens.'

Dorothy looked at him as though she did not understand, but he seemed to have nothing more to say, and after a time she asked: "Why has she always lived there

"Because she's a very foolish woman," the Squire blurted out. cause she's the salt of the earth, that's why. You see," he continued in a salmer tone, "the Hazard farm was left to her and her worthless brother, on conditions that one of them live on it; if they both leave it, it goes to sor of a missionary society. Dick always was a wild chap, and he'd never been here since his grandfather's death, leaving the care of the place, and more than that, on Abby's shoulders, for he was always giving notes to pay his debts, and when they fell due, Abby paid them. That's why Abby worked paid them. That's why Abby worked like a slave, and that's why she never— harvested her reward." The Squire stirred his tea in an absentminded way.

Finally Dorothy said, "But Dick's dead, 10w."
"Yes, but his debts hain't paid, and Abby hasn't learned any sens "Why, father!" exclaimed Dorothy, surprised at his warmth, "How hasn't she learned?"

The Squire made no reply but cor tracted his brows, and sat in seeming perplexity. As Dorothy poured another cup of tea, she said more to me than to him:
"Why don't some good man marry her? She'd make an excellent wife. The Squire started. "Do you think so, Dorothy?" "Yes, I do," she replied. "She's the most intelligent woman in the town-

A large number of 'officers, French and English, were assembled at our lookout station, behind the twenty-one-gun batto look on, says a writer in an English paper. Our sailors gun detachment mounted on their parapets and took off their hats, saluting the Russians. The Russians returned the compliment. The English gun was brasure. Then they fired-a very good shot, too. The third shot from Jenny went clean through the Russian embrasure and up went two gablor The blue jackets jumped up on their parapet and cheered, thinking they had beaten their opponents. Not a bit! A minute afterward down went the gabions and out came the Russian gun again. Several more shots were fired from both sides, all very good ones. Jenny got a nasty thump, but it did her no harm. At length, I think the seventh shot from our side, we saw the Russian gun knocked clean over. Our fellows cheered vociferously and the Russians mounted their parapet and took off their hats in acknowledgment of their defeat. All the batteries then ploomers, says the Boston Herald, not only for bicycle use, but for wear generally. She thinks that woman needs a street or walking dress which can be worn on every outdoor occasion, and a dress that must do away with long skirts and petticoats. "If," she says, woman will follow the pursuits of man she must have a practical costume. She can not wait to grasp her skirts if she must catch hold of a particular railing given the first shot as the senior gun; to leave a street car. She can not get on a chair to wind the clock without danger from her skirts." She can no see how a woman should think of riding a bicycle without wearing bloomers. The conventional woman dress should only be kept for the opera, the dinner party, the club luncheon, and such other occasions, and should be for women what the clawhammer attire is for men. She thinks that the knell of the long skirts, which she characterizes as dangerous as well as inconvenient, has sounded, but she adds that "women can only afford to sacrifice the grace of the skirts at the altar of neces-But why all this arguing, and why not adopt bloomers incontinently? Thus ended the great vived all the fun they poked at bangs, at hoopskirts, at big hats and their hearse-like, tall ostrich-plumes, and at all the other fashions that have, from time to time, been so dear to femininity. Let those who covet bloomers for everyday wear don them without more ado, and thus show the courage of their convictions. The chances are, however, that an overwhelming majority of the sex can not bring themselves to remain indifferent to the plates in the fashion periodicals and to the charm which a pretty, well-fitting, and tasteful gown exercises over every suscepful gown exercises ore.

Keep the Baby Fat.

"CAVE SPRING, GA., May 21, 1884.

"My baby was a living skeleton. The doctors said he was dying of Marasmus. Indigestion, etc. The various foods I tried seemed to keep him alive, but did not strengthen or fatten him. At thirteen months old he weighed exactly what he did at birth—seven pounds. I began using "Scorr's Emutaion," sometimes putting a few drops in his bottle, then again feeding it with a spoon; then again by the absorption method of rubbing it into his body. The effect was marvelous. Baby began to stouten and fatten, and became a beautiful dimpled boy, a wonder to all. Scorr's Emussion supplied the one thing needful.
