The German newspapers in commenting upon the proposal Egyptian advance to Dongola still show an intense hatred for England. The National Zeitung, for instance, scorns the idea that England will do anything to help Italy in the straits into which that unfortunate power has come in Africa, and hints that England will acquire Kassala as a result of the campaign. Most of the myspapers regard the Dongola movement as a clever move on England's parts to silence clamor on the Egyptain question, and to offer an answer to France and all those who press her for the evacuation of Egyptory years to come.
