K. O. T. M. Bi-Ennial Review. The seventh bi-ennial review of the upreme tent, K. O. T. M., was held at Reports of officers showed that during the past two years 1,200 new tents were instituted with a charter membership of 23,180. In that time there were 1,059 deaths, the average amount paid beneficiaries being $1,635.10, a total of $1,752,435.12. For total and permanent disability $51,548 has been paid. There were 20,902 life beneficiary certificates annulled by reason of suspension. There is a total of $50,964.63 in the general fund, and a grand total of $2,319,046.56. The number of certificates in force is 118, 667, representing death benefits amounting to $162,710,500, an average of $1.534.65. The total membership of the K. O. T. M. and the L. O. T. M. now aggregates 278,181.

The report of the lady supreme com mander of the L. O. T. M. shows that during the year ending Dec. 31, 1896. 203 new hives were organized, and that on July 1, 1897, there were 618 hives in good standing, with a total membership of 22,605. The income of the order from assessments is $163,935 per year and from other sources $31, The amount of life benefits is stated as $15,314,500. The report of the supreme medical examiner shows that 13,705 applications were received since the last review.

vote of 40 to 30, agreed to the conference report on the bill. The announcement of the result was greeted with en thusiastic applause by the crowded chamber. Althought the result was a foregone conclusion yet this did not abate the eager interest attached to the close of a great contest. Early in the day the debate was listless, though enlivened at times with virulent criti cism by Mr. Allen and by a speech from Mr. Burrows, of the finance committee. Messrs. Caffery, Morgan and Stewart occupied the time up to 3 o'clock, when the vote was promptly taken. This closed the great labor for which the 55th congress assembled in extraordinary session, and after stubborn resistance, at times threatening a deadlock, the Senate concurred with the House in a resolution for the final adjournment of the session at 9 p. m. A trestle on the Zanesville & Ohio-River railroad, near Marietta, gave way as an excursion train was passing over and two cars plunged through and were wrecked. About 15 persons were seriously injured, a number being burned, but it seems a miracle that no one was killed. Lieut R. E. Perry has sailed from Boston on the steamer Hope for north-ern Greenland where he will establish a settlement which will be used as a base of supply for an expedition to start for the north pole in 1898. The party comprises 43 persons, including Mrs. Peary and their daughter; Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Lee, of Merdian, Conn., and a number of scientific men. Frank M. Reed, of Anderson, Ind. claims to have completed a gas generation from a crude oil burner which is capable of producing 33 per more heat than from coal, and would enable the largest warships to carry fuel enough for a trip around the world. He also has invented an absolutely bullet and shell proof storage tank. One man at the valves could take the place of 30 stokers now necessary on a great war vessel. Reed's representative is at present demonstrating these inventions before the authorities at Washington.

> the Result. (From Detroit News.)

Our representative called at 118 Michigan Avenue, the residence of Mr. Quintus Hummel. Mr. Hummel is a veteran of the late war, and received in the campaign, an injury which has given him much pain and suffering since. He belonged to a Michigan cavalty regiment and his horse becoming frightened one day reared up, throwing him backward. In falling he struck his spine on a sharp stone, inflicting a deep cut over five inches long. The ing a deep cut over five inches long. The injury affected the kidneys. About two years ago the left kidney started to bleed, and has been doing so ever since. Mr. Hummel, in a few pointed sentences, gave our representative the following account

"The accident of my war days left me in bad shape; pain in my back and spine rendered me almost useless, and I was compelled to give up work entirely. I could not turn over in bed without assist-I could not turn over in bed without assistance. I have spent hundreds of dollars in various ways trying to find relief. Physicians have told me my spine was honeycombed for 13 inches. I had given up in despair, never hoping for relief, when a friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills, and they have done me a world of good. The pains have disappeared from my back, and the bleeding of my kidney hes almed. and the bleeding of my kidney has almost entirely stopped. I know I can never be entirely cured, as I would have to be 'a new man,' but Doan's Kidney Pills have' done more to make me feel like 'a new man' than all the other things I have tried during past years. I have not had any recurrence of the pain or bleeding since

"I should think so!" the new-comer assented. "We did have larks! row morning." What days on the river! And what nights in college!" The Bishop moved uneasily in his chair. Then he glanced at the Bishop-ess and the two Bishopinas. "My dear," he said, wriggling inside his black apron, "it is very hot in here. I think I will take Mr. Travers out in the garden a little." The Bishopess' face expressed sincere relief. Mr. Travers' talk tended not to edification. She, too, glanced at the Bishopinas. "I would Edward, if I were you," she answered. "Perhaps Mr. Travers smokes. He might like a cigar." She threw out the hint in the firm voice of one who implies that tobacco within the house was not permissible at Bishopstow.

"Ah, you don't smoke now, then?" Travers put in, with a note of sur-"Well, that's odd. Given it up? Must have cost him a wrench, though, Mrs. Mitchell. Never saw him at Oxford without a short biar-root pipe in his mouth, bar chapel or lec Did I, Mitchell?

The Bishop rose solemnly, stood for moment by the open window with his episcopal legs in a studied attitude of episcopal doubt, and then led the way into the garden. It was a beau-tiful West-Indian night; tropical moonlight lay pale green upon the floor of the verandah; fireflies flitted in and out; the scent of large white flowers was heavy on the air. Travers thought it all beautiful. He had only arrived at Tortuga that morning, and had come straight up to Bishopstow to make his first impression of the tropics under his old friend's roof and his old friend's auspices.

The Bishop selected a sequestered spot at the furthest end of the verandah, placing a long deck-chair for Travers, where he was least likely to be overheard by the two Bishopinas.

"Yes," he continued, in a bland professional murmur, "we have a Great Work here, and I feel that abstinence from all appearance of evil is a necessity of my usefulness."

John Travers lighted a cigar. Its smoke blew towards the Bishop. "Capremarked.

The Bishop sniffed it regretfully. "It has a delicious fragrance. I will admit," he answered with reluctance. Travers leaned back in his chair and What fun we had chaffing her Well, she's married a doctor now, and has a son at Brasenose."

CURIOUS TRIBE OF INDIANS.

The government's attention was lately called to a strange people, known as the Muskwaki, occupying a small tract of land in the eastern central part of Iowa.

Although the Muskwaki have for nany years been close neighbors of the whites they have always held themselves strangely aloof from the latter. They have ever been peaceful, and, to all appearances, law-abiding; yet the whites have never been able to know them, to exchange gossip with them nor even to corrupt them. On account of this unusual reserve the Muskwaki have always been regarded as a mys-

Prof. W. J. McGee has just returned to Washington from an interesting visit to these people, made on behalf of the bureau of ethnology.

The Muskwaki number in all about 400 souls, who occupy 3,000 acres, all their own.

Their agriculture is purely aboriginal, the crops consisting principally of the aboriginal Indian corn, beans and pumpkins. Their only domesticated animals are ponies and dogs. They have no end of strange customs and beliefs. One of these is their sacrifice of dogs as an important part of certain religious ceremonials. To them the dog is a sacred animal but they may resort to dog flesh and sustain the spark of life thereby when all other supplies of human food have been cut

They treat whites coming to their villages as we commonly treat ordinary street beggars. This contempt is not expressed in threats or actual deeds of violence, but rather by condescension

The Muskwaki object to having their children educated in the agency school, because there they must associate with white children. They say that the white children attending are not always honest, that they have been known to be deceitful and sly and sometimes to lie and take things which do not strictly belong to them. Honesty is one of the prevailing virtues of the Muskwaki.

It is rare that the Muskwaki of either ex intermarries with the whites. There have been but six cases since the tribe has lived among the whites.

These people have excellent physiques and great stature. They dress more like Mongols than red men, wearing odd turbans woven of hemp and

Her Lucky Mistake.

That little mistake of Miss Margaret Williams, the typewritist of the state house, which necessitated the calling of an extra session of the legislature, instead of costing New Jersey several nundreds of dollars, as was expected, has saved the commonwealth about $45,850. Instead of having three days for registration purposes, as provided in the election bill, the names of voters will be registered in one day. The taxpayers of the state are grateful to Miss Williams, Miss Williams, by substituting the word "provided" for "prohibited' in an anti-gambling bill, made pool-selling in New Jersey a possibility. The bill provided for a special election so that the people could approve of the amendments to the constitution which passed two legislatures. The new bill provides for only one day for registration. Under the was placed in a position of some tempt- passed the legislature the election would have cost about $102,000. Under the bill passed because of the error it will cost $56,150. Senator Johnson of Bergen county has written to Miss Williams, explaining to her how she has really been of service and that the state is under obligations to her for creating the opportunity for making the correction. Other legislators have written in the same strain. Miss Williams' mind has been greatly relieved in conse-

It was sunny day in February and the streets were swarming with a multitude of Chinese-men, women and children-all arrayed in their richest holiday at The children especially, with their bright faces and black eyes, and in their pretty costumes, formed a most pleasing and interesting feature of this living oriental picture. Everybody eems to be happy and good natured and ever-and-anon, as a group of friends met, they stopped and, amid much ceremonious bowing, exchanged and has been reduced by nature into the compliments of the season, for this a pure black earth unmixed with roots, festive occasion was nothing more nor less than the celebration of the Chiless than the celebrat less than the celebration of the Chinese new year. The idea of celebrating New Year's day in February may strike some readers as odd. But since this has been the Chinese custom from time immemorial and is older by several thousands of years than our accentance of January 1 as the proper time, the Chinese, perhaps, are not far wrong in supposing themselves to be at least as much in the right as ourselves. This question, however, was of no concern to this merry holiday throng. They were quite satisfied with the arrangement and with the utmost belief in their own superiority, they felt at heart an in-born contempt common to all Chinese—for outside barbarians." This term embraces all This term embraces all nations not living within the sacred boundaries of the oriental empire, and includes the inhabitants of all world and these unfortunate outsiders are broadly divided into two classes-

A deposit of most remarkable mud discovered in Indiana, has of recent years been attracting wide-spread at-tention. It is located at the Indiana Mineral Springs, Warren county, and has been formed by the action of the water from the famous Magno-Lithia prings. Through counties again the springs. Through countless ages the foliage of magnificent oaks on the hillside has annually fallen into a basin been soaking this deposit and saturatbeen soaking this deposit and saturating it with mineral waits, until now there is a layer of medicated mud about two acres in extent and from ten to twenty feet in thickness.

The strange medicinal value of this peculiar, black, porous substance was accidentally discovered by an old soldier, Sam Story, who had brought rheumatism home from the war and suffered with it for years. He was attempting to dig a drainage ditch through the mud deposit, and after in-dulging in this useless experiment for a week or more; gave up the idea, but meanwhile had been cured of his rheu-matism.
