Are you posted on lumber? Yes? Then you want the best your money will buy. If not, you want the best anyway. The surest way to get it is to buy here. We are cranks on quality, and consider nothing too good for our customers. But don't imagine because our grades are high, our prices must be the same. 'Tis not so. You can't get lower prices anywhere. Run in and see us next time you need building material.

People are asking where their winter's supply of fuel is coming from. The wood is nearly all used up and the coal supply is exhausted. At this time last season many had put in their coal supply but now the mines are closed and the railroads refuse to hand what coal there is on hand at the mines. Unless the trouble is settled soon there will be much suffering from cold before a supply can be secured.

PROBLEMS FACED BY

From Farmers' Review: The ex reme and long continued drouth of last summer presented some new conditions and problems to be solved be fore we can be sure of making farming remunerative, when such conditions prevail. Opportune fall rains produced a fne growth of late pasturage, which, with the exceedingly mild winter helped the farmers to car ry most of their stock through in fair shape. All surplus stock was sold early in the season. Prices were but feed was very high, so high, in fact, that those who kept their choice ows and fed for milk found their percentage of profit on the wrong side this winter. Spring is with us again. however, and the weather has been emarkable for pushing all farm work. As of our clover was winter-killed all and all of our tame grasses seriously damaged by drouth and winter-killing, we are increasing our forage crops to supply the lack of hay. I have lived in Wisconsin more than forty years and I cannot remember that in this locality we ever had to import hay, corn or oats to supply our farm deficiencies. We usually use large quantities of bran and middlings and commonly have farm produce to sell to pay for them, but it was all the other way the past year. • • The silo has not come into general use here. A few have them, but most of the farmers seem to favor the corn husker and shreider and use the corn crop that way. > SHOULD BE LIMIT TO THE WATER IN BUTTER

Abroad the question of water in butter appears to be quite a serious one. The foreign butter sellers or butter makers have been quite successful in working into butter an abnormal quanparsioned ferror of a Romeo. But repassioned ferror of a Romeo. But had not told her so. How could be had not told her so. How could be her equipped mentally than his you-three years. And now, gentlemen, the courts, where the butter counts where rish courts, where the butter contained in excess of 20 per cent of water. In a few instances the water content has been in excess of 30 per cent. Doubtless parallel cases have been discovered in German courts. Anyway the German government has now established a rule that all pure butter must contain at least 80 per cent of butter fat. Henceforth the aggregate of salt, water and casein in butter cannot exceed 20 per cent of its weight. In England a law is about to be put in force requiring butter to contain not in excess of 16 per cent of water. The people that ship butter to England and Germany must take cognizance of these facts, els they may find some of their consignments of butter tied up under the custody of officials delegated to look after the enforcement of this law.

HYDRAULIC SEPARATORS ARE OF LITTLE VALUE

From a government bulletin we take the following: Everything claimed for the hydraulic separator can be equally well done in a shot gun can, and if water below 40 degrees F., or ice can be obtained to bring the temperature down to 40 degrees F., the thoroughness of separation will be far superior to separation by any hydraulic separator. The only case where there is an advantage in using the method is in milk from cows far advanced in lactation, and then the efficiency of the process is about equal to deep setting in ice. This method is no more efficient than the old-fashioned shallow pan setting, with the disadvantage of greatly increasing the volume of skim milk to be handled, and, in case hot water is used, as is sometimes advised there is the added inconvenience of the rapid souring of the milk. If any dairyman wishes to try the method there is no patent to prevent him using the process to his heart's content.
