Investigate Forestry Conditions.

Wesley Bradfield, first assistant.
United States forestry service, and A. A. Winne, an expert in timber and lumber, both from Washington,
have been in Lansing and procured
data that will enable them to investigate forestry conditions in Michiand forest fires. One of the documents from which they took copious notes was the report of the special forestry commission appointed by Gov. Warner, which report stirred up a zensation in connection with the state land office when it was published. The investigators from Washington left for the upper peninsula, planning to go over that field before snow flies and to work back through the lower peninsula.
