RED CROSS RELIEF
SAVES THE KIDDES

Belgian Children Get Their First
Real Meal in Many Months

Washington, D. C. The War Council of the American Red Cross announces the following cablegram from the Paris headquarters of the American Red Cross in reference to the work of the Red Cross in caring for the repatriated refugees from devastated districts in France and Belgium.

There arrived last week at Evian where the repatriates from France and Belgium are received back into France, a train loaded with Belgian children. There were 680 of them, thin, sickly, alone, all between ages of four and twelve, children of men who refused to work for the Germans and of mothers who let their children go rather than let them starve. They poured out of the train, little ones clinging to the older ones, girls all crying, boys trying to cheer. They had come all the long way alone.

"On the platforms were the Red Cross workers to meet them, doctors and nurses with ambulances for the little ones waiting outside the station. The children poured out of the station, marched along the street shouting, 'Meat, meat, we are going to have meat', to the casino, where they were given a square meal, the first in many months.

"Again and again, while they ate, they broke out spontaneously into songs in French against the German, songs which they had evidently learned in secret. The Red Cross doctor examined them. Their little claw-like hands were significant of their undernourished bodies, but the doctor said, 'We have them in time. A few weeks of proper feeding and they will pull up.'"

Reversed.

"When we were first married I gave my wife a regular allowance."
"And now?"
"Now she takes all my salary and lets me have the allowance."

The Soldier's Pledge

By Maj.-Gen. James Parker

The gray, grim warrior assigned to command the eighty-fifth division at Camp Custer is the author of possibly the first patriotic song written by an American major-general.

"America, thy sacred flag we bear
Against thy foe across the ocean wide.

America, with lifted sword we swear
By those who for their country's
Liberties have died,

That right and freedom shall not perish
from the earth,

That justice and humanity again shall
live,

That peace and happiness shall have
another birth,

All this we swear, America.

"America, the thunder of thy guns,

Thy fleets, ten thousand airmen in the skies

Shall show thy boastful enemy, the Huns,
That victory follows everywhere the eagle flies.

Heroic France and glorious England by thy side,

We pledge our lives to bring thee fame
and victory,

The great republic shall not, will not, be defeated,

And this we swear, America."

U. S. SOLDIER IN FRANCE

Likes the Country and Sees Signs
That Are Both Novel and Interesting.

Ben Matteson has handed us a letter from a son of his niece, from which we are allowed to excerpt the following:

France, Nov. 12, 1917.
"A short time ago I was on the soil of the United States of America, now I am treading on the soil of France. Well France is sure some place, plenty of sights to keep both your mind and time occupied. It is nothing uncommon to see the natives around here wearing wooden shoes and riding around in two-wheeled chariots with sleighbells on the horse, sure some queer sights to me. Most all the buildings are stone structures with tiled roofs. Another queer feature is the house of the native; it has no floor and in one corner you may see a pen with several shoats in it, and with the children's bed beside it. Many of the buildings are very old. One church, which is a very historical building, is said to have been built in the year 808.

Another queer sight to me is the way in which people travel. Autos are very scarce as gasoline has such an outrageous price that one can hardly afford it. Each family has an allowance of a very few quarts each month, so people are compelled to travel by the aid of gas. It is not an uncommon thing to see the people riding about on bicycles. They have places here which are the same as our livery barns, except they rent out bicycles. Old men and women 60 and 70 years of age ride them. Well, as I have probably written too much now, I will close. My address is Private Clarence Robertson, Co. E, 166 U. S. Inf., 83 Brig. Div. American Expeditionary Forces via New York. I am always anxious to hear from you all."

The government expects to receive from income taxes about $1,201,000,000 before July 1, including $666,000,000 from individuals and $535,000,000 from corporations. Every unmarried person earning more than $1,000 during the last year, and every married person or head of a family who made more than $2,400 must file with the internal revenue collector of his district any time before March 1, a statement. He will be notified before June 1 of the tax due and payment will be due by July 15. The government expects every man to attend to this business himself and if he does not there is a stiff penalty. However, a government official will be sent out to accommodate the people in filing these statements. One will be at the Manchester post-office Jan. 24.

Mr. Beal, the county fuel administrator, says: "It is very strongly urged that dealers hold their coal for the use of the village and city dwellers and decline to sell to farmers wherever it is possible for farmers to secure wood for fuel."

"To Take French Leave" Is

Phrase of Uncertain Origin.

The origin of the phrase "to take French leave" has been the signal for many a philological contest, but the outcome of them, for the most part, has been to increase interest in the question. It has been plausibly suggested that the custom of disappearing unobtrusively from a crowded reception, instead of elbowing one's way through a throng of people, to reach the hostess, is a custom which was the natural outgrowth of courteous consideration for everyone involved, was borrowed by the English from the French. Again, it has been suggested that the French, in the phrase "French leave," has no connection with the French people, except to the extent of what is implied in the etymology of the word "frank," meaning free, and that the expression may mean simply a permission not granted but assumed. But the question is further muddled by the fact that the French have a phrase "prendre congé à la manière Anglaise," or "se retirer à l'Anglaise," with precisely the same significance, with the hit at the English. In Germany the phrase is identical with the English. From Hilpert's German Dictionary it would appear that it is more than 100 years old, while the custom which it celebrates, withdrawing without final leave taking, was an established practice in Germany 300 years ago.

Something Learned Every Day.
He—Poor Brown! He has lost all his money in a wild-cat mining company.

She—Mercy! I didn't know you had to mine for wild cats.

Works Both Ways.
"Do you consider it a good idea for a bank to send every depositor a statement once a month?"

"Well, some might be glad to see it. Others might not like to be reminded so constantly of how little money they have."

Foresight.
"I'm taking lessons from a man who teaches people how to remember."
"Is he pretty good?"
"I guess so, but he doesn't seem to have much confidence in his methods."
"How is that?"

"I notice he makes his students pay him in advance, so there will be no chance for them to forget to do it after they finish."

Overdoing it.
The Son—Well, Dad, a young fellow has to have his fine.
The Sire—Sure. But when you got hung out of six places in one night you're getting more than your share.

RED CROSS WORK
SAVES SOLDIERS
FOR NEXT SPRING

MEN AT FRONT ARE HEARTENED
BECAUSE THEIR FAMILIES ARE CARED FOR.

GENERAL PERSHING CO-OPERATES

American Leader and Gen. Petain Aid in Relieving Distress, Thereby
Keeping Up the Morale of the Army.

That the work which the Red Cross is doing in France to alleviate suffering among the families of Frenchmen who are fighting at the front represents a saving of 1,500,000 men is the opinion of William Allen White, noted writer and owner of the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette, who has just returned from France.

"It is not probable that our army in France will get into the fighting to any large extent until next spring. The real war work that should interest the people of America this winter is of an economic rather than of a military character. It will be carried on by the Red Cross in France, its purpose being to relieve needy conditions in the homes of French soldiers who are in winter quarters in the trenches at the front.

Comfort Women and Children.
"It is felt by the military officers of both nations that nothing could do more to keep up the morale of the French soldiers during the coming winter than to bring comfort to women and children at home. The soldier's knowledge that his family is being well cared for will take a great load off his mind and hearten him to stand up against privation which otherwise might break his spirit and render him of no physical use.

"Maj. Grayson, M. P. Murphy of the Red Cross, Gen. Pershing and Gen. Petain of France are working in unison to perfect the plans for the relief of families of soldiers, the military commanders believing that it will be of the greatest benefit to both armies. It should be kept in mind that every soldier who is saved this winter means the saving of an American boy when the big drive begins next spring. Some American boys will have to take the killed or who breaks down under the strain.

"This particular relief work means, therefore, that French soldiers will be saved for work in the spring and American lives will be conserved at the same time.

Spoke Without Thinking.

As the doctor was showing some friends through an insane asylum he drew their attention to a stately old woman wearing a paper crown. He explained that she imagined she was the queen of England, and for their amusement he advanced toward her with a courtly bow and said: "Good morning, your majesty."

The old woman looked at him and retorted scornfully: "You're a fool, sir."

The doctor was greatly astonished, but totally collapsed when one of the party remarked innocently: "Why, doctor, she was sane enough then."

THE "NEW-WAY" ENGINE

Buy Now Before Prices Go Up

The scarcity of material and the unprecedented demand for power on the farms will soon make a shortage of farm engines and higher prices. It is bound to. Yet there never was a time when you could better afford to invest in an engine than now. At the present prices for farm products less bushels than ever of potatoes, grain, fruit, etc. will pay for an engine. On the other hand, the farm laborer is demanding higher wages, the cost of feeding him is double what it formerly was. Good hired men are scarce at that.

YOU CAN DEPEND UPON THIS ENGINE

The "NEW-WAY" Engine can be harnessed to any belt driven machine about the place. It will take the place of a hired man and then some. The "NEW-WAY" is waterless, never overheats but is always ready to go and deliver its full rated horse power, Summer or Winter.

YOUR LOCAL DEALER WILL SHOW YOU

He will explain the many points of "NEW-WAY" superiority. He will prove to you that price is not everything to consider and that you can save money and trouble by purchasing a "NEW-WAY" waterless engine rather than the common variety or mail order gasoline engine.
