Eugene Gascho is teaching his son Jeremy, age 1½, one of the finer points in life -- how to keep up with an ice cream cone before it melts, as June ushers in Dairy Month in Michigan.

It is Jeremy's first solo attempt with his own cone, and it looks as if his father is enjoying his, too! Jeremy is the son of Eugene and Suzanne Gascho of Pigeon.

Laker 33 graduation

A proud group of parents, grandparents, other family members and friends witnessed Sunday's graduation ceremonies for 120 members of the Laker High School Class of 1983.

Here, the group is marching in, as William Denbrock leads the Laker High Concert Band. Details and more photos on pages 20 and 21.

OBSERVATIONS BY THE PUBLISHER AND OTHERS STILL BUSY TIMES - Lots of tourists are beginning to make the summer trek here to the beautiful Thumb Area, as summer's warm days draw near. There's still lots of other things going on, too.

For instance, Saturday night is the time for Caseville High's graduation. Ceremonies begin at 7:30 p.m. Then, Caseville United Methodist Church is dedicating its new addition in 2 p.m. services, with an open house to follow at 3:30 p.m.

And, the Pigeon Local of Michigan Milk Producers Association is offering free glasses of milk with each meal purchased Sunday (June 5), at the Dutch Kettle and Lamplighter Restaurants in Pigeon - in honor of National Dairy Month. See our special Dairy Salute pages elsewhere in this week's Progress-Advance.

Enjoy yourself -- and enjoy summer life here in the Western Thumb Area!

FAMILIAR FACE -- Remember Mean Mary Jean? She was the Chrysler advertising girl who helped the company sell lots of cars 10 years ago. Her real name is Judy Strangis - and her tomboy image of 1973-74 is being updated to a sleeker style for 1983. She's 28 years old and is proud to say she still weighs 92 pounds.

Not everybody can say they weigh what they did 10 years ago, can they?!

We're looking for nominations for the top five over-played songs of 1982-83. Send us or tell us your nominations, and we'll try to publish them if we get enough entries. There are SO MANY songs that fit that description, maybe the list should have 20 or so, instead of just five!

Anyway, anyone who goes to weddings, night spots or other places with where bands play can add a few. Here are our two nominations, to get the idea rolling: 1. Proud Mary

2. Bad, Bad Leroy Brown
When both these songs were new, they were great. The originals are still super. But they've been overplayed (probably because they're both easy to play) and we're sick of them! Give us similar nominations — and we'll print the SPEAKING OF BANDS -- Dick Wagner and the Frost are back together again, bringing one of Michigan's premiere 1970s bands back together again. Dick Wagner was lead guitarist for my favorite group of all time (even more than the Beatles, honest), Saginaw's own, the Bossmen. He and Lanny Roenicke (bass), Warren Keith (piano) and Pete Woodman (drums). They were excellent—and actually had a bigger 1965-ish following than another Michigan band of the time, Bob Seger and the Last Heard.

Seger, of course, became a national superstar. Dick Wagner worked with Alice Cooper for many years and coauthored some of Cooper's biggest hits, but he's back together again with the Frost. They're playing in northern Michigan and will probably hit the Tri-Cities in mid-summer. Can't wait to hear them!

Energy plan set for Caseville School

Caseville Public School is planning to spend some -- to save some money

The School Board of Education has hired the Bay City architectural firm of Wigen, Tincknell and Myer to prepare an energy efficiency plan for the school, including replacement of single-pane windows in the school building. Anticipated energy savings during the next eight to 10 years will pay for the project, according to Supt. James Stahl.

He says bids for the actual work, expected to cost about $50,000 will be sought after the energy plan is com-COMPUTER CLASS: An "early-bird" computer class will be part of Caseville's 1983-84 school year. Math teacher Barbara Quinn will conduct the trial class for 12 weeks, and it will run from 7:30 to 8:15 mornings, ahead of regular classes.

REPAIRS & BUDGET: Supt. Stahl was authorized to seek bids to repair the gym roof and begin necessary paperwork to borrow against 1983's anticipated tax revenues. The Board amended the present budget, to increase revenues by $3119 to $794,447 and decreasing expenses by $61,958 to $767,668 for the present '82-'83 budget. Caseville CPA Melvin P. Dutcher was again hired to conduct the school audit. BUDGET HEARING: The proposed Caseville School budget for 1983-84 will be discussed at a public hearing set for 6:30 p.m. on Monday June 20. Copies are available for inspection at Stahl's office. A "Truth in Taxation" hearing will also be conducted that night, at 7 p.m., immediately ahead of the regular Board monthly meeting for June.

ELECTION: Margaret Barton, Colleen Cottick and Rosemary Delmotte were named election inspectors at the annual school election on June 13. Connie Power is an alternate.

Caseville voters have no millage requests this year, and will cast ballots for two four-year terms. Incumbents Jacqueline Miller and Fred Fortsch are the only candidates running.

everal major publications in our free land carried a little news item which most readers probably glanced at and forgot In this business, such short stories are called "fillers," since that's usually what they do -fill in a small empty space. The brief story

"As of April 28, every Romanian who owns a typewriter has to register it with the police and show sample pages typed on the machine."

The new order prohibits anyone to own a typewriter who has a criminal record or who, in the government's view, poses 'a danger to public order or state security.' '

"The Romanian government didn't give the reason for the order.'

Romania is located near Hungary and Poland, in what once was called Eastern Europe. Of course, Romania's biggest neighbor, the Soviet Union, occupies the tiny nation.

The Russians don't want Romanian citizens to be able to speak freely, even with as nonviolent a weapon as a typewriter. They're trying to stop a flow of information, so Romania doesn't become another problem "satellite" country, similar to Poland. Russia has been trying to stop Poles from speaking among themselves for years now, confiscating printing presses, typewriters and more.

Apparently, this same technique is just beginning in Romania.

We in the United States have the choice to say and think whatever we wish, within reason. If we wish to drive to the city, or up north or to visit Aunt Lou in Columbus, we just get into our cars and do it. That's a freedom we take much too much for granted.

And if we don't like what Roger Mudd, Dan Rather, the Detroit Free Press or any other media news person has to say, we can sit down and write them a letter -- or call or visit them, stating our views.

But can you imagine having a government so petty that it must register your typewriters?! Can you visualize a government so obsessed with keeping people down-trodden, quiet and uninformed that it requires its citizens to furnish a sample of typed words? That's just in case an unflattering viewpoint is expressed, of course. Then the Romanian government can check its files, and figure out whose typewriter was used -- so that viewpoint won't be express-

It's incredible. We complain that too many lawsuits are being filed in America today (and it's true), but you can't complain, talk back or stop harassment in Romania. They won't let you get near your typewriter to comment!

Whatever shortcomings our land has, we're extremely blessed to be able to live here. We're so fortunate we will probably never fully appreciate how wonderful our lives are, compared to some, such as the people in Romania.

It's incredible what agony some persons must live through. Pity the poor Romanians. They have to complain in writing, by voice...and in their hearts. Typewriters are too dangerous, their government says.

Talks concerning U.S. grain sales to Russia will begin this week, starting discussions American farmers hope will lead to a new long-term trade agreement with the

The talks will be held during routine, two-day consulations between representatives of the two nations, beginning Wednesday (today) in London, U.S. Ag Secretary John Block and U.S. Trade Representative William Brock said Friday. The consulations were scheduled earlier this year under terms of the current agreement, which expires Sept. 30.

Officials have declined to say what sales levels they will propose or how many years they would like any new agreement to run. Under the current pact, Moscow is required to buy at least 6 million metric tons of American wheat and corn annually. If Russia wants to buy more than 8 million tons, further approval from the U.S. government is needed.

Block has said he'd like to expand U.S. grain exports by requiring a higher minimum Soviet purchase. For the year ending Sept. 30, the U.S. has offered to boost sales to 23 million tons. So far, Russia has bought just over the 6 million ton Rain, rain go away is the lament of local farmers, who have seen rain sprinkles or showers everyday since Saturday. Michigan has recorded nearly six inches of rain in May, nearly double the usual 2.6 inches for the month.

That wetness has put many area farmers two weeks behind in plowing and planting. About two-thirds to nine-tenths of local corn is planted, experts say, but about half the soybeans are still unplanted. Navy bean plantings are being delayed, which can decrease yields. Some sugar beets may have to be replanted, Huron County Co-op Extension Director Jim LeCureux says. "Cold is the main problem," he said recently. "We need more growing degree days."

Area bean production is returning to normal levels this year, as lower production should stabilize prices, according to local experts. The result may be a stabilized market and better market prices next fall.

Many North American dry bean producers are reducing acreage to get away from the over-production set in motion by the huge Mexican colored bean contractrs of 1980 and 1981. Michigan provided Mexico with 112,000 metric tons of beans worth $60 million in 1980 and 180,000 metric tons worth $63 million for 1981 - accounting for approximately 60% of the

Now, USDA estimates for the central Michigan "bean belt" show that actual plantings might be much less than earlier estimates, which showed a 20% drop fropm 1982 levels. USDA's national bean estimate is that 1.214 million acres of beans will be planted this year, only 63.8% of last year's acreage. Michigan shows the exact same figures - an estimated 360,000 acres will be planted in Michigan, or 64% of last year's acreage

Similar cuts will be made in Ontario's bean production says Charles Broadwell of the Ontario Bean Producers Board. Before last fall's very high bean harvest, prices per 100 pounds were holding at $20 or better. Then they tumbled to the $9 range in the winter, before recovering to today's $15 range. Ag economics experts estimate the break-even point for raising hundredweights of beans is somewhere between

Speaking of navy beans, a new variety to be watched by bean growers this summer is C-20. It offers a potentially superior yield to other varieties, says MSU's bean

In Michigan Dry Edible Bean Production Research Advisory Board test plots in 1982, C-20 had a state average yield of 2197 pounds per acre, compared with Seafarer's state area with their proposed average of 1652 pounds. It outyielded Seafarer by 33%, or about six cwt. (hundredweight) per acre, Kelly says.

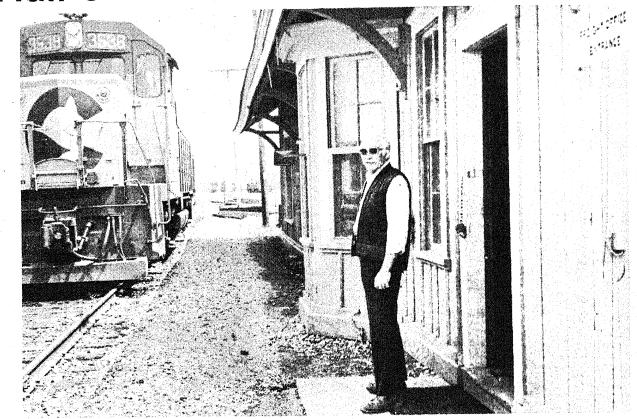

C-20 is being grown as founda farmers won't be able to buy certified seed until 1985 for the MSU-developed variety. It has shown some tolerance to white mold and even outyielded other upright varieties such as Swan Valley, Kelly says. C-20 had 2136 pounds per acre in Huron and Sanilac County plots, versus 1763 pounds for Swan naires in all states. First national and Michigan estimates will be published about June 29, followed on July 12 with estimates of yield and production for several major crops. Estimates of hog and pig numbers will be reported on June 22 and cattle numbers on

June outlook good for food

Rain and cold weather figure prominently in the June food outlook. The weather has shortened many fruit and vegetable crops across the country, but to date Michigan crops have largely been spared, says Ada Shinabarger, extension food marketing agent.

The worst state news is that the asparagus and strawberry crops will be delayed by as much as two weeks. Of course, this can turn out to be the best news because it means the fresh season for homegrown asparagus and strawberries is extended an additional two

The peak for fresh asparagus supplies is now forecast for this first week in June, with the crop available throughout the month. Bulk packs of 10 and 30 pounds are being offered in many supermarkets during the peak supply period.

Michigan's strawberry crop will be in good volume by the second or third week of June. Fresh strawberries will be available throughout most of July, Shinabarger predicts. Watermelon plantings were delayed and then washed out by rain storm across the South. Southern Florida's crop is still the first to come to market and will be back on track by the middle of June. Watermelon from northern Florida, Georgia and other areas will all peak after the aimed-for July 4 weekend. Look for seasonally low prices during mid-year. Georgia, the state with the largest fresh production, lost almost half its crop because of an April cold snap. The Carolinas also lost sizeable proportions of their peach crops.

California is predicting the largest nectarine and peach crop ever (their peaches mainly go into cans). The plum and pear crops are also looking good. A good crop of Valencia oranges will come to market in June. The California sweet cherry crop is off 50%, but Washington has a good crop of sweet cherries.

The gaps in the supply of California fresh vegetables accurred in May as predicted. Better quality head lettuce, at lower prices, should be available again this week. Broccoli quality has already improved. Other vegetables in good supply now include new, long-white potatoes; carrots; dry onions; green beans and increasingly, sweet corn. Eggs are very likely a shopper's best protein in value right now. Prices are

Whatever your choice in navy beans, we've got your seed!

FLEETWOOD is a navy bean variety released by Agriculture Canada, Research Station, Harrow, Ontario in 1978. This variety is a tall bush-type which tends to produce a few short vines in some years. It is resistant to the alpha, beta and gamma races of bean anthracnose caused by Colletotrichum lindemuthianum and to the Type (V1) and NYIt (V15) strain of bean common mosaic virus.

In three years of overstate trials in Michigan, Fleetwood has averaged 18.26 cwt. per acre compared with 17.31 for Sanilac, 16.23 for Seafarer and 16.22 for Tuscola.

SANILAC was the first of the bush-type navy bean varieties developed and released by the Michigan Ag Experiment Station and USDA. Sanilac is a selection from a threeway cross in which a bush-type mutant Michelite bean developed by x-ray was the principal recurrent parent. The Plants of Sanilac are upright, bush-type, vary from 14 to 21 inches in height, and produce a short determinant runner up to 14 inches in length. Sanilac is resistant to the V1 strain of common mosaic, anthracnose (alpha, beta & gamma strains), and halo blight but is susceptible to common and fuscous

Sanilac is a mid-season variety that matures in 85-95 days. It is adapted for production under a wide range of climatic conditions. Yield and canning quality of the beans are good.

SEAFARER is an early maturing navy bean with excellent canning quality. It was developed cooperatively by the Michigan Ag Station and USDA and released in 1967.

The plants of Seafarer are upright, bush-type, and range from 13 to 19 inches in height. The seed is smooth, white and indistinguishable from Sanilac. Seafarer is resistant to anthracnose (alpha, beta, gamma strains) and common bean mosaic, though susceptible to common blight, as are all the navy varieties. It is widely adapted and yields well in a diversity of environments. Its principal advantage is early maturing

NEPTUNE (Protected Variety) is a new variety of navy bean released by Michigan State University. This variety is one of the new upright short vine navy varieties that resists lodging and is more suited to direct harvest than the conventional

It is resistant to the common bean mosaic races V1 and V15, and halo blight, but is susceptible to the four races of anthracnose, and common fuscous blight. Neptune is a full season variety comparable to Fleetwood.

Marie and Paul Leipprandt are in partnership with his brother and own a dairy farm near Pigeon. They farm 1,000 acres and milk 100 Holstein cows. The idea for Dairy Diplomats came, she says, from Huron County's Dairy Promotion Committee, which is made up of representatives from four milk marketing locals. At the same time that Leipprandt and a friend, Millie Renn of Elkton, were attempting to organize dairy women, ADAM had received complaints about the quality of milk served in some schools because of improper

The group visited seven public and 15 parochial and country schools in the area and explained to school cafeteria managers and custodians the importance of getting milk right into the cooler when it is delivered. Other suggestions were followed and the Diplomats earned a respect in the community which has helped them in following through with other projects.

Now, says Leipprandt, the Dairy Diplomats number over 60 in Huron County, and appears to be one of the most organized groups of dairy women in Michigan. This year's officers include: Chairman Marie Leipprandt of Pigeon, Vice President Millie Renn of Elkton, Secretary Joyce Koglin of Port Hope and Treasurer Lorene Zagata of Sebewaing.

The Huron County group is now setting its goal on getting county restaurants to use only "Real Seal" dairy products (natural, nonartificial dairy products). Those who comply with this will receive a plaque from the American Dairy Association to hang in their restaurant. Leipprandt says that 20 restaurants in Michigan have already been certified, and that they are working to get local restaurants to comply.

Another very successful project of the local Dairy Diplomats is the selling of a dairy cookbook entitled "Mealtime Mastery." Leipprandt reports that five cases of books have already been sold locally, and anyone wanting a book may contact her at 453-3864 or Millie Renn at 375-2768.

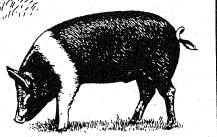

The Dairy Diplomats will be holding their annual Dairy Banquet July 23 at the Sportsman's Club Rapson.

June Dairy Month: a tasty celebration

This consumer may not be thinking much about the producer right now: she's too busy enjoying the product.

We'd like to say "thanks dairy farmers, for the bounty of delicious dairy foods we enjoy. And for helping build our community and our economy."

Keep that ice cream coming.

"Pink Dairy Delight Punch"

This recipe for Dairy Punch is a perfect way to welcome June as Dairy Month. It has been served for several large groups, including the 1982 Huron County Dairy Banquet and the 1983 Sebewaing Michigan Milk Producers Association Annual Meeting.

½ cup lemonade mix 1 - 1 liter chilled ginger ale

Dissolve mix with ginger ale. Add: l qt. strawberry ice cream

2 qts. milk

A little ice may be added, if desired.

Submitted by Lillian Gremel, Sebewaing.

Helpful tip ... A quick cake icing can be made out of mashed bananas. Add a little soft butter, lemon juice, cream and some confectioners' sugar to the mashed banana, and mix

Milk marketers amend order

CHICAGO -- More than the required two-thirds of affected dairy farmers pooled through their cooperative associations have approved a U.S. Department of decision amending the Southern Michigan federal milk marketing order. Edward T. Coughlin, dairy official with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service in Washington D.C., said the amendment will provide handlers with a limited credit from the pool toward the cost of transporting excess milk supplies unusually long distances to manufacturing outlets for August 1983.

By Dr. Douglas A. Buehler, Optometrist GAS PERMEABLE CONTACT LENSES Q. What are the new "gas eable" contact lenses?

A. They are made of igid plastic combined with other materials which per mit oxygen to flow through and reach the eyes, offers tient whose eyes require hard contact lenses in order to see sharply and clearly. Gas permeable lenses are more durable than soft contact lenses The greatest advantage o the gas permeable lens is that it can give clear vision to patients with a moderate to high degree of astigmatism; this is not always possible with soft contact lenses. Research and testing is still going on to determine whether gas permeable lenses are safe for extended wear. These lenses have not been approved by the Food and Drug Administration for this purpose and, until they are, should not be prescribed for other than daily wear. Presented as a service t he community by Dr. Douglas A. Buehler

FAITH CAN SAVE A MARRIAGE WITH A LESSON IN MANNERS

ivorce is a terrible tragedy, and it often stems from such a simple thing as poor etiquette; a result of the couple expecting too much of each other and too little of themselves. The adjustments of marriage are difficult at best and some disillusionment is inevitable, but the one thing that should NOT change is the couple's basic manners toward each other. They should try to maintain the same level of courtesy that they would extend to a guest visiting in their home. When a difference of opinion occurs, as it eventually will, they should avoid the use of harsh words and seek areas of compromise instead. This is worth every effort; and the House of Worship, the choice of which may itself be a compromise, is the place to learn this. Indeed, the lessons of love and good manners can help to save a marriage that may have begun right there at the CASEVILLE DEDICATION: A Day of Dedication and Celebration is planned this Sunday, June 5 at Caseville United Methodist Church, in recognition of the church addition recently completed.

Rev. Brent McCumons says a 10:15 a.m. Morning Celebration Worship Service is planned for members, and the Dedication Service is planned for 2 p.m. An Open

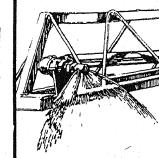

econds

House will follow at 3:30 p.m., and the public is invited to attend and participate, according to church members.

The two story addition at the rear of the historic church includes a multipurpose roon, pastor's office and church office, choir rooms, restrooms and Sunday School classrooms.

Ground-breaking was Feb. 22, 1981 and the addition was consecrated April 4, 1982. Sunday's service also marks burning of the mortgage on the building, largely paid for with pledges by members prior to ground-breaking.

THE FOX FAMILY

-- Traci Anderson

5th Grade, Bay Port Elementary, Teacher: Mrs. Schmuck One night a lonely, hungry fox named Tod had got lost in a dark and floomy forest. He was without a home or a friend. While he was shimpering, he bumped into Vixey, a lady fox. It was love at first sight for both of them. Now, they are showing and and proving their love. Tod said, "Will you accept a walk with me?" "Sure," Vixey said. Tod swung his paws to the right saying, "Ladies first!"

Vixey chuckled accepting the "Ladies first." They held paws and walked on through the dark forest. Then Vixey replied, "Hey you know, Tod, there's this one restaurant deep in the forest. It's where animals go to spend time with each other when they first meet. The Funky Fox its called. Oh, it's great!"

"Well then, come on! We've got no time to waste!" said a hungry Tod. They ran swiftly through the forest. When they got there, they danced until they were all tuckered out. Afterwards, they ordered Italian Spaghetti. While they were slurping on the spaghetti, they didn't realize that they were slurping on the same piece, and when they were at the end of it they were touching lips just as if they were kissing. Vixey chuckled and turned around. Tod licked Vixey's cheek. She turned around and they nuzzled noses. At midnight, they left.

"Do you have a burrow?" Tod asked. "Yes, I do," Vixey said. So she showed Tod the way. When they got to the burrow, they crawled in.

"Oh Vixey, it's lovely! Where's the bedroom? That's all I'm interested in. I'm tired!"

Vixey chuckled and said, "I don't blame you. Here it is. Make yourself comfortable.'

Tod stared sleepily at the bed, and climbed in while Vixey followed. First, they wished on a star, then they whispered to each other softly about the future together. From the day they met, every day was the same. In the morning, they would take nice walks and at night, they would dance the night away. But one morning when they were walking, Tod said, "Vixey, I have a present for you." He took out a small box and opened it.

"Oh Tod, an engagement ring& It's lovely! Thanks! Oh, that reminds me ...," Vixey said, pulling out a small box.

Tod opened it. "Oh, it's . . . it's beautiful." Tod stuttered, gazing at the gold watch in the rectangular box. He looked at Vixey and said, "Vixey, next week, ah, will you marry me?" Vixey gave Tod a "do you mean it" look, and Tod nodded. They hugged eachother for joy! And sure enough, the following week Vixey, in her bridal gown, and Tod, in his tuxedo, got married. Now, the church door creaked open and the exitement began! "The Wedding March" song began, Vixey and Tod were scrambling to get to their car with animals throwing rice not far behind! "Come on, hurry Tod!" Vixey cried. Tod was behind trying to catch up with Vixey. "Ah, ah, ah, ah," cried Tod, "Wait for me!" Finally, he caught up with his fox holes all over the place. wife. Suddenly, a little blue package tied with a ribbon with rice inside came down upon them. "Catch it Tod! Let's go!" Vixey said. Tod clutched onto the package and scrambled into their Cadillac. They could still hear the animals cheering as they got into their cars. Tod started the motor, and off the bridal foxes went with cans banging on the forest gravel and made her better. car horns tooting for joy. By the time the two foxes arrived at the Funky Fox restaurant, the animals were already there in the cause of taking a short cut. The couple entered and bowed Vixey and Tod danced to easy, soft songs. Then, it was time to cut the cake. It was a wonderful reception. By the time it was over, the pair was all tuckered out. When they were home, they "hit the sack" right after they had gotten out of their bridal clothing and slipped into their p.i.'s. It was a peaceful night. Vixey was just about to lick Tod's cheek when, "Ca Boom!" Lightning zigzaged across the cloudy sky, rain came pouring down a thunderstorm! Tod and Vixey peered outside. "Oh no!" cried Vixey. "It's flooding the ponds and rivers and knocking down trees! Ohhh, it's

"Oh, don't worry yourself! Hey, look, it's calming down! Come on!" said Tod, trying to act calm. Vixey followed gingerly. But then, it started to act up again! "Oh, Vixey, you're right!" cried Tod, "It's drowning the flowers and grasses! The forest is going to be ruined!" All night, "crash bam boom bam!" The horrible sounds kept everyone awake. There was no longer a peaceful night. Well, days went past and became more peaceable. But one day, when the sun was shining bright, a surprise came about the forest. Vixey had a baby fox cub called Reddy! Barking and yipping, Reddy loved all the attention. He tried to look at everyone, but there were too many. He looked at his parents. Mommy, Daddy, said Reddy in a squeaky voice. Everyone exchanged looks and cheered! "Reddy said his first words!", they cheered. Reddy jumped at the styrange noise. A couple weeks later, the fox family went for a nice walk in the forest. Reddy was pplaying in a stroller with Vixey pushing it. Suddenly, to Tod and Vixey's astonishment, Reddy jumped out of the stroller and landed on his hind legs and started to walk and twirl and dance! The parents stared at Reddy, then at each other. Tod nodded, folded the stroller, and threw it in a river.

Reddy was still dancing and twirling. When he settled down, the walk continued. Vixey and Tod held paws. It was very peaceable. Suddenly, dogs were howling, guns were shooting, "They're on our trail!", cried Vixey, "Hurry!" They srambled through the forest, Reddy yelping with fright.

When they got to their den safe and sound by going in a river and fooling the dogs cleverly, Vixey put Reddy to bed and went to the window with Tod and looked outside. "Oh no!", cried Tod as they heard dogs howling in the distance. 'They'll harm the forest and homes with their

"oh dear, oh dear!", said Vixey, shaking. Reddy was whimpering.

"All we can do," Tod said, "Is hope.
"And hope we'll do!", said Vixey, shaking as she heard the dogs howling in the darkness. The next morning it was quiet. The fox family woke up. Vixey got Reddy out of bed. They all went to the window and peered gingerly out the window. "The sun is out, the flowers and grasses are growing," Vixey said in a soft voice. "The birdies are singing," said a curious Reddy. The dogs are gone," said Tod, very relieved, "After we get ready, let's go for a walk. Come on!" Soon they were starting out. Flowers and grasses were popping out everywhere. Birds were flying gracefully overhead. The sun was shining brightover the forest. Everything was beautiful again. Reddy was trying to name all the pretty things in sight, and succeed-"Well, our wish came true!," said Tod, "I have a beautiful wife.

"A handsome husband," said Vixey, smiling. 'And a darling son, Reddy!'', said the parents. Reddy

'Oh it's such a pretty world!", Tod said, taking a deep breath and started to drink from a river. Then they relized that "Love Boat" was about to start. They hurried home quickly. When they reached home, they turned on the TV and olopped on the couch. They signed when they found out they were just on time. Reddy climbed on Tod's lap and licked him and his mother. They licked him back softly. Reddy settled back on Tod's lap lazily. Then, the "Love Boat" theme came on TV. Vixey and Tod hummed along. "Ohhh Tod, doesn't this song bring back good memories?," asked Vixey.
"Oh yah!", said Tod, his eyes twinkling as he remembered back to the good ol' times which he hoped to relive on their anniversary, the following day. The End.

THE ADVENTURES OF CHEEVERS

-- Brenda Beyer

9 years old, 4th Grade, Bay Port Elementary, Teacher: Mrs.

INTRODUCTION

Cheevers is a very mischievous puppy. See what happens when he jumps out the window. Will he survive? What does he do for food? Will he meet a new friend? He encounters enemies. Is he able to escape from them? Join me in his un-

CHAPTER 1 - THE ESCAPE

Cheevers lives in a gorgeous two story house in Greensville. He has a nce clean home with plenty of food to eat. After a tiring afternoon Cheevers races up the stairs and plunks down on his favorite spot in the middle of Priscilla's

When Priscilla arrives home from school, she discovers Cheevers isn't at the door to meet her like he usually does. Priscilla wonders where her dog can be. She takes her school books up to her room. When she gets there she is very surprised at what she sees. There right in front of her, Cheevers curled up on the middle of her pillow.

"Oh boy, what a dog!" exclaims Priscilla. She decides to leave him there and goes downstairs to eat her supper.

After Priscilla leaves Cheevers wakes up and discovers the bedroom window has been left open. He decides it is time to go exploring so he jumps right out of the open window and crashes into the rose bushes below.

Cheevers gets up and looks around. No one has seen him fall and other than his dignity being hurt, he has only one huge thron stuck in his paw. He carefully removes the thorn and is ready to go exploring.

Priscilla's home is near a forest which Cheevers loves to go into and play. Off he plods into the deep dark forest. At first it is such fun racing through the trees and bushes. After awhile Cheevers becomes bored and decides to find something else to do. He thinks iat would be fun to find a friend to play with.

Cheevers looks and looks for one of his friends, but no one is out in the forest. He is about ready to go back home when he spots a black body sitting by a log. It is a furry black body and Cheevers thinks it looks llike one of his friends. Cheevers runs over to the log and calls out to the black furry body. Just as he reaches the log, the black furry body turns around and a BLACK AND WHITE SKUNK frowns directly at Cheevers! 'Don't squirt me!" begs Cheevers.

To his surprise the skunk instead of squirting his asked, 'What are you doing in this forest?"

'I am exploring,' answered Cheevers. "Why are you doing that?" asked the skunk.

"Because I want to and it is very boring at home with no one to play with. None of my friends are outside today, answered Cheevers sadly. "Well, come along with me because I love to go exploring." invited Skunk.

"I would be delighted!" exclaimed Cheevers with a broad "What are we waiting for, come on, let's be on our way," said Skunk. As they romped through the forest a big dark shadow approached them. "LOOK OUT!" yelled Skunk.

"WOW! that was close, I almost got eaten up," said Cheevers. "What a super friend you are! You saved my life. I would be very proud to have you for my friend."

"Shucks, it was nothing," replied Skunk very much embarrassed. "Let's forget about it and get on with our exploring." "Okay," agreed Cheevers and off they went.

CHAPTER 2 - TRIP TO THE DUMP When they came out of the forest they spotted a dump at the bottom of thi hill. "Are you thinking what I am thinking?"

"You bet fI am. Let's go!" exclaimed Cheevers.
They ran in the direction of the dump ad when they got there began digging for food. "Hey, I found something over here. What is this anyway?"

"Oh, that's just an old TV antenna," giggled Skunk. "You can't eat that!' "Don't laught at me," said Cheevers. "I'm hungry and anything looks good right now!"

Suddenly something grabbed both animals from behind and picked them up. The next thing they knew they were in a very dark place and someone slammed a door shut. Help! Help!" cried Skunk and Cheevers. "Who turned out the lights?" asked Cheevers.

"Nobody did, silly, we're inside of the local garbageman's dump truck." Skunk said much more bravely than he felt. "No wonder it smells so bad in here!" said Cheevers plugg-

"Garbage isn't exactly perfume," quipped Skunk. "We are sitting right in the middle of a whole day's collection of gar-

Oh, I see," said Cheevers in a very nasal sounding tone. "Maybe while we are in here we could find something to eat," suggested Skunk.

"Well let's start looking," said Cheevers impatiently, "I found something. It better not be another antenna or I'll . . Hey! What is this? It looks like Priscilla's favorite doll that vays sits on her bed.''

'What is a doll?" asked Skunk curiously. "I am not exactly sure but all I know is that we must get this doll back to Priscila," said Cheevers with determination. "Who is Priscilla?" asked Skunk.

"She is the girl I live with," replied Cheevers. "I must get this doll back to her right away.

"How are we going to get out of here and get the doll back?" pondered Skunk. "I have a plan," announced Cheevers. "Come here and I will shisper it to you." After he whispered the plan to Skunk they sat very still and waited. Finally the truck stopped and the door opened.

"NOW!" commanded Cheevers and out they charged right over the garbageman.

"STOP! STOP!" yelled the garbageman.
"Keep running Skunk," Cheevers hollered to his friend. "I'm running, I'm runnng," panted Skunk. "Where are we running to anyway?

"Follow me," said Cheevers. "Crawl under here Skunk. He won't find us here." Cheevers, do you still have the doll?" asked Skunk "Is it

'Yes I do," whispered Cheevers. "We are lucky I didn't drop it when we were running.'

'What do we do now?" asked Skunk. "We are going to make a run for it," announced Cheevers. "When I say GO we will run over to the forest. It is right

"All right," said Skunk. "I'm ready." "GO!" commanded Cheevers. They both ran as fast as they could.

CHAPTER 3 - MORE TROUBLE

"Did we make it Cheevers?" panted Skunk. "Did we escape the garbageman? Cheevers, where are you?" He turned around to find his friend.

"I'll come and help you," primised Skunk.
"No!" yelled Cheevers. "He will get you too."
"I am not afraid of the garbageman anymore because I have my secret weapon," said Skunk. "I am sure when he sees me he will release you immediately." Skunk walked directly up to the astonished garbageman and told him to let his friend go immediately. Needless to say the garbageman cooperated and the two friends along with Priscilla's doll were on their way back ato Priscilla's house.

CHAPTER 4 - THE ADOPTION

When Cheevers and Skunk arrive at the house they find a very sad little girl sitting on the porch. Skunk stayed behind and hid in the rose bushes and Cheevers ran to Priscilla. 'What is wrong, Priscilla?" asked Cheevers.

"I can't find my favorite doll," she replied sadly. "I think it fell into the garbage by mistake and it was taken to the

"Priscilla, I have two surprises for you," said Cheevers. "I have found your lost doll. "Oh! Cheevers," cried Priscilla as he gave her the doll back. "I thought I would never see my doll again. Thank you for finding it for me.' "Priscilla," said Cheevers quietly. "I did not find your doll alone. If it hadn't been for my new friend saving my life in the forest, you would not have seen your favorite doll or me ever

'What do you mean?" asked Priscilla. "Skunk," called Cheevers. "Come out from behind the rose

Skunk slowly came out from behind the rose bush and walked over to Priscilla. Her eyes grew wide with fright. "Don't be afraid Priscilla," said Cheevers. "Skunk is the new friend that saved my life."

Priscilla smiled at Skunk and said, "If Cheevers likes you then so do I. Would you like to become part of our family?' Skunk smiled from ear to ear and replied, "That is the best thing I have ever heard. Now I will have a real family too!"

From that day forward Cheevers and Skunk were like brothers and very best of friends. They had many good and exciting times together as they played in the forest and went exploring. The End.

SUE ANN AND THE DOLL HOUSE MYSTERY -- Dawn Swartzendruber

9 years old, 4th Grade, Bay Port Elementary, Teacher: Mrs.

Hold on to your chairs for some fun and excitment with Sue Ann and her new doll house. Cuddle close to a friend while you read about the secret of the doll house and try to help Sue

Ann solve her mystery.

Now we will begin "Sue Ann and the Doll House Mystery." It was the day before Sue Ann's birthday as she was in school. She could hardly wait to get home because her mother said she could open one of the pretty presents that were on the dining room table.

Sue Ann knew exactly what present she was going to open. It was the one with the big blue bow near the center of the table. She thought it might be a pretty doll house like the one in the toy store across the street from her home. Or it could be a cute cream colored teddy bear that she longed to stroke and hold in her arms. Anyways she was going to open that

Just then the teacher called on her, "Sue Ann, what is a related sentence for 9 x 12?"

"Teddy bear," answered Sue Ann. That's what made everybody giggle. Once they got started they couldn't stop till everyone in the sixth grade class ahad hiccups.

"Well, Sue Ann, you may day dream in the corner untill the bell rings!" said Miss White with amusement flickering through her eyes. As Sue Ann got up, she felt her face grow hot with embarrassment. Just then the bell rang. "Saved by the bell." she thought.

She didn't waste much time getting home as she usually did, because she was very m uch excited. That night, after dinner, Sue ann got a surprise. Her mother said since she was such a good girl she could open two

Sue Ann got exactly what she wanted, a doll house and a cream-colored teddy bear. She put together her doll house. Then she picked up her teddy bear and turned on the T.V. to watch "Knight Rider." After awhile her mother said it was time to go to bed. Sue Ann turned off the T.V. and went willingly to bed not knowing what she would find in the morning. The next morning was Saturday. Sue ann got up early to open her presents and play with them before her cousins came for her birthday party. She got a camera and a new doll that had beautiful long curls down her back. Whe could open and shut her eyes, too! Sue Ann also got a cotton dress and two lace petticoats and some clothes for her doll to match. She also got two pairs of Jordache jeans and a pale yellow monogrammed sweater. Her birthday dinner was delicious. They had turkey, olives, raw carrots, corn, coleslaw, mashed potatoes, strawberry pie, and chocolate pudding. After that she was mighty tired so she went to bed. She had left her new doll downstairs.

The next day Sue ann got dressed in her favorite Jordache jeans and her new sweater. Today was Sunday, no school. Today she could stay home and play with her doll house. She had a breakfast of: eggs, bacon, and pancakes with orange juice to drink. When she was done, she decided she was going to play with her doll house. Even before she got to the den she sensed something was wrong. Sure enough, the doll house was wrecked up! three little plastic windows were popped out and there was mud all over the first floor. The door fell off and the furniture was scattered all over the place!

Then Sue Ann looked at her doll. By now she was crying, but I wouldn't blame her. "Oh, Oh," she sobbed. "Look at my poor dolly.'

still crying and she was picking up her doll, or what was left of it anyways. It was all muddy and three parts were broken and one side of her face was crushed.

"Well," said her mother, "we can always buy a new one." After that Sue Ann felt a little bit better, but not much. She wondered who or what had done this to her doll house.

Then she turned back to her doll house and frowned even harder, "Well," she thought first things first." And she started humming as she started to clean it up. While she was working she got an idea. It was, that she was going to stay up and catch who or what was doing it, red handed!

That night she decided she was going to stay up again that night but only this time she was not going to fall asleep! that night she was in the same big chair holding the same teddy bear when she heard a soft scraping noise from the back door. When she found out it was only the wind she got really ittery. Just as she was going to cover up with a blanket a pup came bouanding in. He jumped up on the chair and licked her face. (He got mud all over.) Now he found a different

'Now, I don't have to worry about my dollhouse and new doll. He never meant any harm he just wanted a place to stay and picked my doll house. He must have found my doll and tried to play with her but when he dropped her she broke." she thought. She went to get him a bowl of milk for he must have been very hungry.

By that time, it was morning and Sue Ann went upstairs to ask her mom if she could keep the cute puppy. When her mom saw the little stinker she couldn't say no! So Sue Ann got to keep him.

She named him Patch because of his black brown and grayish white fur. And they lived happily ever after. The

I. SHYNESS

Once upon a time there were two seals named Sammy and Sandy. They lived in the Arctic Ocean and on the shore of the North Pole. They didn't know each other very well. Sammy liked Sandy but he knew she wouldn't like him. Well, Sandy thought the same way. They always would see each other in the ocean or on the shore, but they would never talk to each

II. SCARED

One day Sammy was going to talk to Sandy, but then his friends talked him out of it. The next day Sammy wasn't going to let any of his friends talk him out of it. He was scared because he thoought he would say something wrong or do something stupid. He went up to Sandy and told her his name. Sandy already knew his name, but she didn't want to hurt his feelings so she didn't tell him. They talked for ten minutes and they learned more about each other.

Sandy finally answered "Nothing important." Sue still thought that something was wrong with Sandy. The next day she still didn't eat anything. Sandy was getting very hungry. She would only eat a couple of fish a day but she said to herself "If this is what I have to do to get back to the ocean then this is what I'm going to do." Another reason why Sandy wanted to go back to the ocean was because she wanted to see Sammy. She wanted to thank him for saving her life. The next day one of the zoo keepers saw that Sandy was acting funny. He tried to give her alot of food because she looked skinny. When he threw a fish at Sandy, she wouldn't touch it. He knew something was wrong with Sandy, so he called for a meeting. They had the meeting the same night he mentioned it. It was with all the zoo keepers, the veterinarian, and the owner of the zoo. All the zoo keepers noticed how Sandy wouldn't eat. The veterinarian who checks the animals regulary noticed that oo. They decided to give Sandy a checkup. She was alright except for that she wasn't eating. They left a box of fish for her to eat. Sandy thought to herself "Now they know what's wrong with me." After she said that, she gobbled up the fish.

The next day the zoo decided that they would take her back where they found her. All of Sandy's friends were sad to see her go, but they could see in Sandy's eyes this is what she wanted. They went by plane. Sandy started to feel sick but she didn't show it because she said to herself "I'm almost home and I'm not going to ruin it." It took four hours to get there, but it was worth it. The first time she saw it, she knew it was "home.

VII. TOGETHER

When Sandy was put into the ocean, she searched for Sammy. She couldn't find him. She looked the next day. She didn't find him, but she found one of her friends, Sarah. They were both glad to see each other.

Sandy replied "In a zoo." "How in the world did you get there?" Sarah asked. "It's a long story" Sandy said "Do you know where Samy

Sarah asked "Where have you been?"

Sarah answered "I just saw him and he's very sad." Sandy asked "Why?" "Well ever since you went to the zoo, he's been very sad."

Sandy knew she had to find Sammy before he would get any sadder. She searched, and searched for Sammy. She finally found him by a rock. She went up to him and poked him. He turned around, he saw it was Sandy, and he was so happy to see her! He had so many questions to ask her. His first question was "How did you get here?" She answered "On a plane." "Why have you been so sad?" Sammy answered "Because you left and that was just like losing a member of my family." She thanked Sammy for saving her life. He responded, "It was nothing. I would have

Her mother, hearing the crying going on downstairs, came running to Sue Ann's aid. When she got there Sue Ann was to thank Sammy more for saving her life. She would throw a

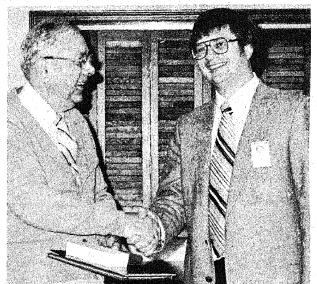

VIII. THE PARTY
Sandy invited all of his friends and her friends. They had the party on the shore of the NOrth Pole. It had a big cake. In rosting it said "Thank you very much Love Sandy." There was a table next to it with many presents on it. Sammy was just swimming around when one of his friends Stan, came up to him and said "Let's go to my house to eat."

"Okay" Sammy said. (Stan wanted Sammy to come to his house because that's where the party was.) He walked in his house and everyone shouted, "SURPRISE!" He wondered why they were giving him a party. Sandy came up to him and said "I'll never be able to repay you for what you did." After she said that she gave him a kiss. The End.

Scenic notes

By MAVIS PECHETTE The women golfers of Scenic Golf and Country Club played "Duffers" Delight" on Tuesday, May 24. The delightful number was 48 and through a process dicap three winners were declared. Georgina Kreh hit the magic number exactly while Rita Gogola and Louise Welshans were close. Shirley Keating and Joyce Kretzschmer had chip-ins for prizes and Edna Dutcher recorded birdies on holes no.

Twenty ladies enjoyed an afternoon of cards. Winners at the bridge tables were Peggie Hunt, Marian Rathe, Lola Tropea and Hazel Osterhoudt. Rose Whitten was the pinochle winner. Tuesday, June 7 is Mother-Daughter Day for the Women's Division. Mothers and Daughter golfers will tee of at 8 a.m. with prizes awarded for longest and shortest drives. There will be a luncheon as 12:30 followed by an afternoon of cards for Mothers and Daughters. Members should sign up in the locker room for luncheon reservations.

Fish fly on mayfly

While on vacation last summer, we were forced to make an unscheduled stop in LaCrosse, Wis. for car repairs. While the Blazer waited patiently at the local Chevrolet dealer for a bearing to be bussed in from Minneapolis, my wife, daughter and I waited impatiently at a cute, little county park bordering the Mississippi River.

At dusk, our first night there, Betty and I were returning to our camper, from what I hoped would be my last trip to the bathroom, when we passed by one of the many Pepsi-Cola machines that dotted the campground. There, perched against the glass that covered the faint, flourescent glow, were a dozen mayflies.

"Oh, look!" Betty said, pointing in the direction of the machine, "fish flies." "No," I answered authoritatively, "mayflies."

"Well, they call them fish flies where I come from," she answered.

"I come from the same place, and they're mayflies," I mumbled back, and promptly received a poke in the ribs and the invitation to race back to the camper.

I forgot all about the incident until the next morning, when over my second cup of coffee, the local newspaper revealed that a causeway crossing the Mississippi had been closed down the night before because of the slippery conditions caused by a large concentration of insect bodies. Fish flies, the article continued, had appeared in such numbers that the local police har ordered the lights surrounding the bride turned off, and the bridge itself closed to all traffic.

As I laid the paper down, three things came to mind: first, it was obvious that whoever wrote the article, didn't know a mayfly from a fish fly; second, the water in this part of the Mississippi must be fairly clean to host such a large population of mayflies; and third, I had a sudden, nostalgic tug for the shoreline of Saginaw Bay as it was in the late 40's and early 50's.

Those readers old enough to remember this era, will recall the problems that these supposedly harmless insects caused.

Towns, like Unionville, Sebewaing, Bay Port and Caseville would have millions of mayflies descent on them during the warming trend that occurred in late May and early June. Curfews on outdoor lights would go into effect, motorists rigged up screens to protect their radiators from being clogged with the bodies, and every morning would find disgusted residents armed with brooms and shovels cleaning up the mounds of dead insects that littered the streets and sidewalks.

Mayflies may have been a nuisance to people that lived along Saginaw Bay, but they were very valuable as a food source for fish. Perch, bluegills and trout considered them one of their favorites. The emergence of the enormous numbers of mayflies in the Saginaw Bay vicinity. coincided with a remarkable increase in fish numbers. During the mid-50's a noticable directly related to an increase in lake and stream population. It was also noticed, that as the mayfly diminished so did the perch population of the bay.

roday, one will rarely witness a mayfly hatch unless you are in the vicinity of clear, unpolluted water. That usually means trout streams in the northern part of the lower peninsula and upper peninsula.

A hatch of mayflies appears in the late spring and early summer as a rather spectacular swarming flight during which mating takes place. The individuals in a swarm are all males, and they often fly up and down in unison. Sooner or later females will enter the swarm, and a male will seize a female and fly away with her.

After mating in mid-air, both the male and female die. Their average life is between 24 and 56 hours as adults. Before the female dies, she will deposit her fertilized eggs into the shallow parts of lakes or streams.

The eggs are laid on the surface of the water or are attached to vegetation or stones. Anywhere from two weeks to several months later, depending on the species, they will hatch. The young nymphs, known as wigglers, swim with the current along the lake or stream bottoms, finally burrowing themselves into the sand or particles of

As I laid the paper down, three things came to mind: first, it was obvious that whoever wrote the article didn't know a mayfly from a fish fly; second, the water in this part of the Mississippi must be fairly clean to host such a large population of mayflies; and third, I had a sudden nostalgic tug for the shorelin of the Saginaw Bay as it was in the late 40s and early 50s.

Those readers old enough to remember this era will recall the problems that these supposedly harmless insects caused.

It is here, under water, that they spend the majority of their life. They feed on aquatic sediment which moves past them, either by grabbing it with their tusk-like jaws or scraping it from rocks with their forearms.

In order to grow, the nymph must shed its skin. The shell-like skin is tough and inelastic so the mayfly gets out by splitting it down the back. This molt, as it is called. takes place as many as 30 times during its

After their first or second year, depending on the quality of water they inhabit, and the amount of food available, they will begin their emergence. This occurs individually when each mayfly is large enough, wellnourished enough, and the weather is warm enough. But since there are so many nymphs, it appears that all of them emerge at

The emergence begins when wingpads and wings form under the last of their larval skin. Their body becomes buoyant and they float to the surface. Now the skin splits down the back and the winged mayfly crawls out. Although this is an adult stage, it is not the final stage, and they will leave the water and find shelter nearby. Here, they shed one more time and become a true adult. For the next one to three days, they will join others to form a swarm, where they will mate and die to end one cycle and start another.

It is during these final hours of the mayfly's life, that things are frantic both on the water and the land. Any trout fisherman will attest to the wild behavior of fish at this time. Half-crazed with the availabilty of food, fish lose their caution for a short time, and jump, slurp and slash at anything that resembles the delectable mayfly.

Enters the dry-fly fisherman. With his expert, or not-so-expert imitations of the famous "Hexagenia limbata," he stalks the streams ready to fill his creel. Subsequently, a lot of poor fishermen think they are good fishermen, as most everybody that is in the water gets in on the action.

The mayfly is a member of the order, Ehemeroptera -- ephemero, meaning, "for a day," or "short-lived;" ptera, meaning "wings." The Latin name is thereby translated to mean a winged insect that only lives for a day. Michigan's most popular and numerous species of Ephemeroptera is the Hexagenia limbata.

The fish fly, on the other hand, is from the insect order Neuroptera. This is a completely different form of insect, related to the familiar Dobsonfly. It has a rather large head in proportion to its body, and no tail. Fish fly or Mayfly, the name matters not.

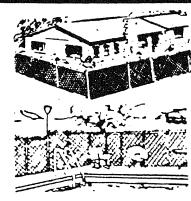

But when you find them, you will find clean water, and lots, and lots of fish.

End of school year spells F-U-N!!

Bay Port students have lots of fun playing outdoor games!

A vaseline and cotton ball passing game is pretty sticky business for first and fourth graders at Bay Port's field day.

Elementary students in Bay Port and Pigeon recently had a field day -- literally. Physical education instructor Deb Sturm organized the field days Friday and Monday, with Elkton students scheduled to participate Wednesday (today)

Events for the children include the high jump, water relay, 100 yard dash, distance run, distance relay and basketball shooting. Other special events for age groups were hula hoop and Frisbee throw for kindergarten students, long jump for third and sixth graders, cotton ball transfer by Vaseline on the chlid's nose for first and fourth graders, obstacle course for fifth grade and the softball throw for grade six.

Each student participated in four of the events of his

All the students are winners, as everyone is awarded a ribbon in recognition of their participation.

Piano students certified

Ten local piano students of Pam Dubey, Pigeon, played at the National Piano Playing Auditions in Midland on Monday, May 16.

The pianists passed the auditions with superior marks and are now members of the National Fraternity of Student Musicians, sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, teacher division of the American College of Musicians, of which Mrs. Dubey is a member.

Auditioning students were: Peter Ruiz de Castilla, son of Dr. and Mrs. P.A. Ruiz de Castilla, Caseville; Carleen Kauffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Kauffman, Elkton; Kris and Sherry Elenbaum, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Elenbaum, Sebewaing; Tracy Kropp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Kropp, Pigeon; Andrea Maust, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Dale Maust,
