

Elkton blood drive collects 62 pints

Bloodmobile Coordinator John A. Champagne said two one-gallon donors were recognized. They are Jean Lockhard and William Denbrock.

Two givers finished their fourth gallons Monday. They are Art Priebe and Larry Rosenthal.

Champagne and the Jaycees wish to thank the ladies of Elkton Missionary Church and other volunteers for their work in making this drive successful.

RETIRING: A familiar face in the Western Thumb Area is hanging up his trucker's license and retiring.

Calvin Brown of Bad Axe - known as "Brownie" to his Earl C. Smith Transport

Company customers - is leaving his Pigeon area route after 34 years in the industry. Brownie has spent 25 of those years in freight handling here in the Thumb, including the last 13 years with the Smith firm, based in Port Huron. Previously, he worked with Blair and Great Lakes Express, now known as Branch Motor Freight.

"Oh, I'll miss it," he says of his job, "but I'll miss the people the most." He hopes to travel and little and just "enjoy life," Brownie says.

Inspector Gordo's Minute Mystery THE CASE OF THE Fatal oversight

It took only five minutes on a hot August night for Johnston to kill Muto and rob him of $4,500.

Five minutes before 11 p.m., the time the main feature at the corner movie theater began, Johnston stepped across the hall and knocked at Muto's door.

Being admitted, Johnston closed the door behind him. Muto stared questioningly at Johnston's brown-gloved hands; his eyes opened wide with fear as Johnston drew his gun. The silencer whistled twice. Muto fell.

Taking the dead man's keys, Johnston opened Muto's strongbox and put $4,500 in cash into his pocket. Then he dialed the police.

"My name is Johnston," he said. "I'm calling from Mr. Muto's apartment at 508 Grandier Ave. There's been a murder!"

Hanging up, Johnston slipped out of Muto's apartment, dropped the gun down the garbage chute, and went across the hall to his own room. There he removed his gloves and hid the money.

He was waiting in Muto's room when Chief Cook arrived. He said: "It was too hot to sleep, so I decided to go to a movie. As I stepped into hall, a big man dashed out of Muto's door, knocked me down, tossed something into the garbage chute, and raced downstairs."

That night the inspector related the case to Inspector Gordo, concluding with: "Johnston claimed he had not been in Muto's apartment for a week. But after our lab boys got through there, Johnston confessed. I suppose you can guess why." Answer on page 8

PRESELECTING A FUNERAL HOME

There are a number of important advantages to choosing a funeral home in advance of death. To begin with, it will enable you to find the one that best suits your needs. As with most other professions, there is a whole range to choose from. With a little effort on your part, you can surely find a mortuary that will offer the arrangements you want, at what you feel is a fair price.

Having pre-selected a mortuary can be especially helpful if you or a loved one dies away from home. They can help make arrangements with a mortuary where the death took place. If the place was another country, this is doubly true. A U.S. Embassy or consulate abroad MUST have the name of mortuary in the home city in order to ship the body. Having named one will save the survivors from having to investigate and decide upon a mortuary under pressure of haste and grief.

Laker Drama Club offers 'Glimpses'

The Theatre for the Performing Arts of Laker High School will present the production "Glimpses" on Thursday, March 22 and Friday, March 23 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, March 25 at 2 p.m. in the Laker Auditorium.

This collection of plays, monologues and short playlets by several playwrights also includes original poetry by a Laker student, according to Director Chris Schulz.

"The students comprising the Laker Drama Club have been concentrating on their acting ability and are very excited about this modern theatre experience," Mrs. Schulz says. "This production is about adolescence. It reflects young people's views, their thoughts and recollections."

The players hope to describe to their audience in both serious and humorous ways the thoughts of young people as they are growing up.

Tickets are available at the door or from Drama Club members. "Glimpses" is being prepared in cooperation with the Dramatic Publishing Co., of Chicago.

"Support your local theatre and be with us on March 22 and 23 and March 25 at 2 p.m.," the group invites.

OBSERVATIONS BY PUBLISHER MARK RUMMEL AND ANYBODY ELSE HE CAN GET TO WRITE 'EM!

BREAK-IN IS A VIOLATION - Yes, our business was one of four burglarized early Sunday morning in Pigeon. For the first time in at least 35 years (probably forever), an unknown person or persons tried to separate this already marginally-profitable business from some of its scarce cash.

Luckily, no money was taken and no equipment was damaged or removed. Our pride was hurt, and there's certainly a feeling we have personally been violated. "Why us?" we wonder, over and over.

Actually, a break-in is somewhat helpful. It's amazing how sloppy we all get from time to time - in leaving petty cash accessible, in not registering serial numbers, in using doors which don't lock tightly. Those things are being changed. Burglar alarms are being considered, doors strengthened and so on.

Profit from our experience. Take an extra precaution right now at your residence - or business. It might be worth a few dollars to save many more.

RANDOM THOUGHTS - I was certainly surprised at how DIRTY most of our local snow is... along with windows, cars, etc. after the "big snowfall" of last Tuesday.

I've never seen such dirty snow, especially in ditches. And SLIPPERY! I drove to Saginaw Monday morning, when many Saginaw area schools were called off or delayed due to slippery roads. That's an understatement. Side roads were impassable, with no traction - and no stopping ability, either. It's amazing what the wrong combination of cold temperatures and freezing drizzle can do!

I'M DISGUSTED - TV's "News Department" should be ashamed of last week's drug abuse series. WHY do they have to show us "actual re-enactments" of how junkies shoot up? What good does that serve, except to give unsuspecting people (usually very young people...) more information than they really need?

That isn't public service. It's a public disgrace. Next will come prostitution, gambling and other vice "re-enactments." These are in VERY poor taste and are unneeded.

SCHOOL PRAYERS - They're starting to again debate our "right" to pray as groups in public schools. Stop it! It's not allowed by our Constitution. Get the budget balanced first! They've never REALLY stopped kids from private prayers, if they've wanted to. Quit meddling!

GARY HART - Isn't it amazing how one charismatic man, who looks much like JFK, can derail the "Mondale Machine," that has been rolling along building steam for almost two years? Gary Hart will make this year's election events even more interesting. The best laid plans of...

SARAH UPDATE - We haven't said a lot about our little blonde bombshell, but since Sarah just turned three, we think she deserves some printer's ink.

Sarah celebrated her third birthday with nine little friends, and THAT'S a challenge for any mom and dad! They're not quite ready for organized games and such, but they enjoy playing with somebody else's toys!

Sarah's favorite gift was from her aunt and uncle. She got two goldfish, her first "pets." She promptly named them Gingerbread and Lisa, after her favorite kitty-name and human-friend. She also got an easel from her grandma and grandpa and enjoys painting, coloring and chalking on it. She can't wait for school.

And, it seems, school can hardly wait for her. That little bundle we brought home from the hospital so recently is really looking forward to pre-school this fall...

WISH I'D SAID THAT - In most small children, cleanliness is not next to godliness...it's next to impossible!

Want to see France?

High-school age youths can spend three weeks in France through Rotary International's Youth Exchange program this summer, according to Pigeon Rotary Club exchange officer Scott Meyersieck.

An opening for a three-week stay this summer - including 15 days in suburban Paris and six days in southern France and the Mediterranean - has recently become available.

Interested high school students between ages of 15 and 19 should contact Meyersieck immediately at 453-2324 for details.

Sheriff Richard V. Stokan says county workers or prisoners could complete much of the work needed. Additional office space, a meeting room and public reception room would be added under the new second-floor recreation area, moving from ground level.

Commissioners will decide whether to continue the alterations at a future meeting.

Thumb Weekly News Round-Up

BUS VOTE SET MAY 14

As reported here last week, Huron County voters will be asked to approve funding for the Thumb Area Transit (TAT) System in a May 14 special election.

County commissioners approved the election last Tuesday, which would total two-tenths of a mill on property taxes, if approved. The three-year levy would raise about $145,000 annually. Currently, the TAT has local expenses of about $90,000 this year, expected to rise in the future as state funding is reduced.

Sanilac County voters will be asked to approve a three-year, 0.2 of a mill property tax request on May 15. Rejection of the vote would mean an end to the transportation system by about Oct. 1. If only one of the counties passed the millage, service would continue there.

The money is needed to cover operating costs after the state Department of Transportation cuts its support from 75% to 50% on Nov. 1, according to TAT Board member Peter Ney, who is also a Huron Commissioner.

The two-tenths of a mill would cost homeowners 20 cents for every $1000 in assessed valuation on their property. A property with $20,000 valuation would require an additional $4 a year for the TAT support.

6 VIE FOR TREASURER POST

Six persons have applied for the interim job of Huron County Treasurer, to replace the retiring Arnold Schweitzer as of March 31.

They include: Roberta Moeltel of Elkton, currently deputy treasurer; Warren Krohn of Elkton; Harriett Kuhn of Pigeon; Robert Witherspoon of Port Hope, and Leo Ziegelmann and R.B. Brown, Jr., both of Bad Axe.

Huron County Clerk Helen Lemanski said the six applications have been received as of last Friday, but she expects one or two more persons may apply before the 5 p.m. filing deadline on March 30.

She, Probate Judge Neil MacCallum and County Prosecutor Karl Kraus will choose a replacement April 6, to serve until the term ends Dec. 31. The post will be replaced officially during the Aug. 7 Primary and Nov. 6 General Elections.

Mrs. Lemanski can answer any questions at 269-9942. Applications should be sent to her in care of Huron County Building, Bad Axe, MI, 48413.

JAIL CHANGES EXPECTED

Huron County Commissioners are considering a list of jail modifications, following a meeting last week with consultant Gus Harrison.

He said cost of needed changes would be about $125,000, which primarily surrounds a fire escape leading to the third floor. Variances would be sought for most other areas not in compliance.

Sheriff Richard V. Stokan says county workers or prisoners could complete much of the work needed. Additional office space, a meeting room and public reception room would be added under the new second-floor recreation area, moving from ground level.

Commissioners will decide whether to continue the alterations at a future meeting.

COUNTY POPULATION DOWN

Thumb Area counties have dropped population in the past three years, according to figures from the state Department of Management and Budget.

HURON COUNTY had 36,459 residents in April 1980, added 1860 births and 1254 deaths in that time. Another 1358 left the area, for a July, 1983 population estimate of 35,707.

TUSCOLA COUNTY had 56,961 in 1980, added 2816 births and 1447 deaths in that time. Another 3238 persons left Tuscola, for a July, 1983 count of 55,092.

SANILAC COUNTY started with 40,789 citizens in 1980, added 2078 by birth and lost 1293 by death. Another 2086 persons left the county, for a July, 1983 total of 39,488.

Michigan started with 9.26 million residents, added 454,834 by birth and lost 245,788 by death from 1980-83. Another 315,544 persons left the state for a July, 1983 population of 9.16 million.

HAIST IS HONORED EDUCATOR

Pigeon native Don Haist will be recognized March 22 as Middle School Administrator of the Year by the Michigan Association of Middle School Educators' Conference.

Haist, now principal of Unionville-Sebewaing Area Middle School, was judged on how he related with youth, as well as service to the school and community. He is the son of Willard and Leah Haist of Pigeon.

FISH PLANTINGS ANNOUNCED

A total of 175,000 fish will be planted off Harbor Beach and another 175,000 at Port Hope and Grindstone City this year, according to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Harbor Beach will have 75,000 Lake Trout and 100,000 Chinook Salmon, while Port Hope gets 100,000 Coho Salmon. Another 75,000 Chinooks will be released at Grindstone. All numbers are down slightly from past years, officials say, since the number of fish in DNR hatcheries has declined in recent years.

POLICE & COURT SUMMARY

More than $12,000 in guns, audio and video equipment - plus a 1982 Camaro - were stolen in a Feb. 24 break-in at a Sand Point house on Happy Lane. Two dozen guns were taken, as were two color TV sets and a video recorder. Jerry Watson of Pigeon reported the break-in to Sheriff's Deputies.

Joyriding charges against James Machowicz, 18, of Pigeon, were dismissed by Huron County Circuit Judge M. Richard Knoblock.

St. Clair County Sheriff's detectives say missing Yale farmer Charles Wilt may have left the area on his own. He disappeared Feb. 13 after attending the Marlette Livestock Auction, and his empty cattle truck was found on a Chicago parking lot last week. No sign of the 43-year-old man has been found.

As we see it editorially

Don't restrict our free travel!

Imagine you're driving down one of Michigan's beautiful state highways, enjoying a peaceful Sunday afternoon drive and, coincidentally, violating no laws.

What right, then, does the state have to subject your auto - and you as driver - to a spot check in the proposed "sobriety checklanes" now being considered in Lansing?

What right? No right at all!

Don't get us wrong. The idea of stopping motorists to determine if any are intoxicated is noble in concept. Not only would drunk drivers be apprehended, but would-be drunk drivers might not imbibe as much because they MIGHT get stopped in a randomly-placed checklane.

The people who want stiffer drunk-driving penalties think sobriety checklanes are a good idea. And they're right - to a point.

Yes, drinking drivers might be fingered. But the vast majority of drivers, more than 95% in fact at any time, are innocent. They'd be subjected to stops and searches, and they'd have to prove they AREN'T drinking drivers.

That's not how our American system was begun. You're not considered guilty and required to prove your innocence. In our nation, it's the other way around.

Unfortunately, sobriety checklanes violate our constitutional right of freedom to travel. They stop us from enjoying those beautiful Sunday afternoon drives and other simple pleasures. They assume all drivers are guilty, forcing the truly innocent to prove their status.

Opposing these checklanes is not a popular stand. In recent public hearings before the Michigan Task Force on Drunk Driving, paralyzed motorists permanently injured by drunken drivers explain how helpful such a checking system would have been, to avoid their tragedies.

RECOLLECTIONS of by-gone days

By GEORGE KEIM

DEAR EDITOR,

In February of 1911, my family and part of my Grandmother Swartzendruber's family moved from the state of Iowa to Michigan. We had our furniture and several horses loaded in several box cars and came with the train. Grandma and her family moved to the farm on Geiger Road where George Swartzendruber, Jr., now lives, and we moved to the farm where Art Haag now lives. I always liked to go to Grandma's place, because she always had such good meals. And I remember that big mulberry tree she had in her front yard. If the berries were ripe in the summertime, I'd eat 'til I couldn't anymore.

Uncle Dan was always there and he always talked so nice to me. I remember when he got married to their neighbor's daughter, Mary Maust.

They had a big wedding and one boy broke out with the measles. Before two weeks were up, everybody who hadn't had them got them! Uncle Dan got them real hard.

Soon after the wedding, Uncle Dan had a 1913 or '14 Model T Ford. It had a brass radiator and I had some rides in it.

He was a good farmer and he always had a lot of chickens and pigs and some very good cows and good horses, too. I helped him thresh and fill silos.

One time, we were threshing beans together and he and I were the pitchers. We had four wagons and the weather was warm. Well, we kept the machine going 'til the machine broke down for awhile.

We were so tired that we sat back of a stump. When the next team came out, Dan put his hat on the fork and waved to it. That night we were tired and hungry, but we went at it again the next day.

Well, Uncle Dan retired a while ago, and now he and Aunt Mary are moving to the home in Fairview. He's the last uncle I've got and I'll sure miss both of them.

In Joel 2:28, it says "your old men shall dream dreams and your young men shall see visions." Well, that's true, because we old people often dream of what we've done and the young men dream of what they are going to do.

SINCERELY YOURS,
GEORGE KEIM

Our hearts truly go out to such unnecessary victims. These people didn't deserve what they got. But why penalize ALL drivers, trying to catch the few who abuse the system?

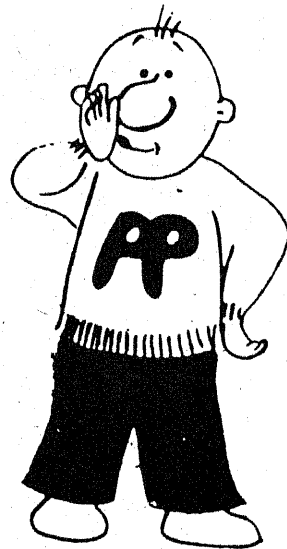

Why not ban drinking altogether? Or, ban drivers from even ENTERING autos until at least four hours after their last drink? Or - better still - require cars to not drive faster than 20 miles an hour? That would stop most injuries.

Yes, sobriety checklanes would only go up at night, near high crime areas. Now, at least. Later, they'd be placed anywhere and could go up at anytime. They're just not constitutional!

The point is simple: it's unfair to judge all drivers to be possible drinkers by forcing everyone to prove their innocence in sobriety checklanes. It's a good idea, but the majority would pay for the minority's excesses. And such action is illegal, because it violates our freedom to travel unimpeded.

CMU SENIOR

Yes, occurrences do change from freshman year in college to senior year in college. Besides the most obvious occurrence - growing up, other things seem to become more important, while some things become less important.

Getting phone calls when you were a freshman was a really "big deal." You and your roommates would scramble to see who could get to the phone first, and it didn't matter much if the call wasn't for you. As a senior, you let the phone ring a few times just for good measure, and then bicker back and forth between you and your roommates as to who will answer the phone.

Getting mail is still a "big deal," but when you're a senior you don't write others as often as you did when you were a freshman. As a freshman, you'd spend hours avoiding homework, or whatever, and save part of your time just to write letters - not any more. And for the first time, junk mail is just that - junk mail!

If you skipped a class when you were a freshman, you went on a guilt trip that justified why you missed class. As a senior, more time is spent finding reasons not to go to class, and heaven forbid if you should show up early for a class.

More differences between freshmen and seniors next week...
Be sure to have a super week!

CREAMY BEEF STEW

Sour cream adds a tangy flavor to this delicious stew.
2-2 1/2 lbs. boneless beef chuck, cut in 1/2" slices
1 T. butter
1 c. water
1/2 c. chopped onion
1 T. prepared horseradish
1/2 t. salt
Carrots, peeled and cut in 2" pieces
Cauliflowerets, fresh or frozen
1 green pepper, cut in 1/2" pieces
1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms
1 pkg. (9 oz.) frozen cut green beans
GRAVY:
2 T. all-purpose flour
1/2 c. water
1/2 c. drippings
1 c. dairy sour cream, at room temperature

Brown meat in melted butter in a Dutch oven. Add water, onion, horseradish and salt. Cover and simmer about 1 hour and 15 minutes or until meat is almost tender. Add carrots; cook about 30 minutes. Add cauliflower, green pepper, mushrooms and beans; cook 10 to 20 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Remove meat and vegetables to warmed serving dish; keep warm. For gravy, combine flour and water until smooth; stir into drippings. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cook two additional minutes. Blend some gravy into sour cream; return all to pan. Heat over low heat to serving temperature. Makes 8 servings.

Helpful tip... Make a pincushion by stuffing a fabric square with steel wool. The pincushion will hold the pins and keep them sharp too.

Letters to My Cousin Gus

Dear Cousin Gus:
There is always a thrill and an emotional afterglow when the hometown area is mentioned in the press, on TV, or even in church circle tea talks. When the reference comes in book form it is thrice blessed and merits mention. Such is "Blue Highways," which came my way this past month due to a happy circumstance of having a birthday and a thoughtful granddaughter who has a temporary job in the M.I.T. bookstore in Boston.

Subtitled "A Journey into America," the book is a travelogue of an America that seldom gets its name in the paper, a land of back roads, small towns and common people. Taking the pen name of William Least Heat Moon, the author is 38 and at loose ends. His marriage is breaking up and he has lost his college teaching position. He decides to do his soul-searching on the road so in a rebuilt Ford Van, he criss-crosses America and tells you about it - no, he does more. He takes you along on a fascinating journey.

Only in a general way is there a schedule of time and place. Most of the time the weather, circumstances and the mood of the author determined the itinerary of each day. Casual conversation with a hitch-hiker seemed to be a factor in the car-ferry crossing of Lake Michigan to Frankenfort. Least Heat Moon's first night in Michigan was spent in Mt. Pleasant. It was late spring and the Thumb was suggested as a good place to visit. The town names of Sebawaing, Pinnebog, Pigeon, Bad Axe and Rescue were intriguing so the author drove around the Thumb by way of Bay City, Caseville, Port Austin and Harbor Beach.

The book says nothing of industrial Michigan, the automobile industry or our large cities. The state gets eight pages and six of those are of the Thumb; its people and its problems. Harbor Beach where the author spent the night apparently merited "the good life of a small town" label but unfortunately he never got to Pigeon. Perhaps just as well - two pages of narrative tell what happened as a result of an innocent question, "Where can I get a good hamburger?" He was directed to the Crow's Nest, but I will give no further details - if you wish to know "what went on one Friday night in May in Harbor Beach," you will have to read the book.

Cast bean ballots soon!

There's just a little time left for dry bean growers to cast their ballots in the referendum on the continuation of the Michigan Bean Commission, as all votes must be postmarked no later than March 12 to be counted.

And, Michigan Department of Agriculture referendum administrator Jean Story says, growers must be sure to sign their ballots, or they will be disqualified.

Bean Commission Chairman LeRoy Schluckebier says it is important that growers vote. "The Commission is the growers' voice in the dry bean industry domestically, internationally, and in the state of Michigan," he says.

The Bean Commission is funded by a 5-cent per hundredweight (cwt.) assessment paid by growers when they sell their beans. Shippers are assessed 1-cent per cwt. on dry beans they buy, which is matched by 1-cent of the grower assessment, to fund the Production Research Advisory Board.

The Research Board, directed by Greg Varner, uses variety research plots, disease trials and grower meetings to communicate the latest information about growing dry beans to farmers all across the state.

The balance of the grower assessment — four cents — is used to fund Commission activities, including promotion and product development. International and domestic programs are pursued with these funds.

"Without the Michigan Bean Commission, there would be no group representing Michigan dry bean grower's interests in research, the international arena, or with governmental policy makers," Schluckebier says.

"There are groups in other parts of the country that represent their growers in these areas, and Michigan growers must be heard!"

Take PIK title by March 31

Huron County farmers must take title to their Payment-In-Kind (PIK) corn by Saturday, March 31, according to Huron County ASCS Director Jimmy LaVoie.

Failure to take title to the grain by March 31 will mean forfeiture of the grain.

There are two ways farmers can take title to the grain, LaVoie says. Those who are receiving PIK grain from an existing loan must go into the ASCS Office and sign for the commodity.

Those who are receiving PIK bushels from the government (CCC), have received a "PIK Entitlement" form. This can be redeemed by taking it to the elevator listed on the form, instructs LaVoie.

For more information contact the ASCS office in Bad Axe.

Dairy tips at Farmers' Week

Dairy farmers can increase profits by feeding Holstein steers for the beef market. They can learn how and why during Farmers' Week and Natural Resources Days, March 19-24 at Michigan State University.

The program runs from 9:45 a.m. to Noon on March 20 in 109 Anthony Hall.

"Holsteins are as efficient as beef cattle in the daily rate-of-gain during their growth stages," says Gary

Weber, research assistant in the MSU Department of Animal Science. "There are several ways to efficiently manage a Holstein's growth so that they can be sold as market beef."

The degree of profit will depend upon the individual's kind of dairy operation, type of feed and the farmer's management ability, Weber says.

Purchase price, market price and feed costs are among the factors to consider when raising Holsteins for the beef market. The purchase price of Holsteins is generally lower than the price paid for beef feeders, and the market price is usually 10% lower, says Weber.

Holsteins yield the same percentage of edible beef from the carcass but have more bone, less fat and angular shaped muscles. This means the nutritional value and flavor of the meat is the same, but the cuts have different shapes, he explains.

Just about all the current practices for feeding beef can be applied to the production of Holsteins for beef, including the use of feed additives and implants to achieve maximum efficiency of inputs. These practices will be detailed by beef nutrition specialists during the program at Farmers' Days.

Program participants will also be shown several Holstein carcasses that have been fed as market beef. The evaluation will be conducted in the MSU Meats Laboratory.

Farm Bureau Women plan busy Ag Week

Huron County Farm Bureau Women are promoting National Agriculture Understanding Week next Sunday, March 18 through Saturday, March 24.

"We want to inform the public of the many commodities grown and raised in Huron County," the women say. "We are proud of the job our people in agriculture have accomplished," member Cyndy Rathje added.

Farm Bureau Women will have placemats in county restaurants during Ag Week. "We invite you to share our interest in reading the facts presented on our placemats," they say.

The group is also sponsoring an "Ag Baby Contest." Parents of the first baby born during the week at each of the hospitals in Pigeon, Harbor Beach and Bad Axe will receive a gift bag of Huron County-grown products.

YOUR PROBLEMS...

By MAUDE ORIS

DEAR MAUDE:

My wife and my mother get along like a typical cat and dog. They're bickering all the time. During many of the arguments, I'm asked who I agree with. I'm darned if I do and darned if I don't, so to speak. I love them both, but what can I do?

Signed, STUCK IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR STUCK: This is a typical mother-in-law syndrome, a common antagonistic relationship. I realize the position you're in - you have to live with your wife and it's "unAmerican" not to love your mother.

I suggest you confront them with your predicament and tell them independently that if this continues, it will either kill you with a broken heart or give you an ulcer. If they REALLY care about you, they'll realize the shallowness of their actions.

If that doesn't work, Tahiti is a great place for single men. Good Luck! M.O.

DEAR MAUDE ORIS:

Last week, I received a poison-pen letter from an apparent neighbor, threatening the demise of my pet. Needless to say, the letter really bothered me.

How could anyone stoop so low to make such a threat - and not be man enough to step forward and tell me to my face that my dumb (but innocent) pet might be bothering them in some way? What can I do?

Signed, JIM

DEAR JIM: Weasels like that really bug me, too. Sneaky, underhanded threats are typical of back-boneless bums. I'm convinced that demented minds are dangerous.

Be mindful of the complainant's concerns, and keep a watchful eye on your pet. If anything unusual happens, contact the authorities. Destruction of personal property constitutes a misdemeanor or felony, and that weasel will be subject to criminal prosecution.

My only hope is that the rat reads this. Good Luck! M.O.

DEAR RODNEY DANGERFIELD: People earn respect, they don't buy it. If it's important to you to be one of those pompous puppets, then you'd better pitch your pennies and "flash the fifties."

Personally, I don't believe in the social stepladder of success. It's not where you've come from that counts, it's where you're going. Good Luck! M.O.

PeopleCare:

A Helping Hand.

Because you cared.

When medical costs for a month-old baby born with a hole in its lung ate up the parents' income, the family was rescued from unpaid bills.

When a penniless, elderly woman's furnace broke, money for emergency repairs saved her from a heatless winter weekend.

PeopleCare. You proved you do.

In 1983, people like you helped more than 19,000 Michigan residents by giving to a program called PeopleCare. The program provides food, clothing, shelter and other emergency needs to people who can't afford them. PeopleCare is sponsored by Consumers Power Company and The Salvation Army.

On behalf of those 19,000 people, thank you.

Now, Michigan needs your help again.

There are still thousands of unemployed Michigan workers and their families, and countless others who need help -- your help -- to make it through the hard times.

Here's how you can help.

During February, Consumers Power will ask all residential customers to make a one-time donation of $1 to PeopleCare. (Larger donations are, of course, most welcome). Details of how to participate will accompany February Consumers Power bills.

You don't have to be a customer to help. You can send your check, payable to "The Salvation Army/PeopleCare," to: PEOPLECARE, Consumers Power Company, 4000 Clay Avenue, S.W. Grand Rapids, Michigan 49508. All donations are tax deductible.

The Salvation Army makes all decisions on who receives aid, how much, and for what--food, shelter, clothing, or other emergency needs of an individual or family.

The need is great. But so is the generosity of Michigan residents. It's true. PeopleCare.

Lemanski seeks re-election

Huron County Clerk Helen M. Lemanski recently announced she will seek re-election to the same office as a Republican candidate in the Aug. 7 primary.

Mrs. Lemanski has served as county clerk since 1981. Prior to her election as clerk, she served as deputy county clerk for 26 years. Recent improvements in the clerk's office include conversion of the circuit court files to the color-coded filing system and inclusion of the county payroll and expenditures with the new IBM 88 computer.

In 1981 Mrs. Lemanski reduced the fee for Huron County certified copies from the state-set fee.

Mrs. Lemanski is presently secretary of the Huron County Republican Committee.

She and her husband Robert have one daughter,

Helen Lemanski

Bobbi, a sophomore at Central Michigan University.

They are parishioners of St. Mary's Catholic Church of Kinde where Mrs. Lemanski is a member of the Alter Sodality.

The Lemanskis reside on a farm in Dwight Township.

Thanks A Million Thumb Outdoor Report

By PERCY ROSS

DEAR MR. ROSS:
For five years, I managed the service department and then worked six years in sales for a local automobile dealer. I'm leaving in two months. Between my wife and me, we've saved enough for a down payment for our own dealership.

From your experience, Mr. Ross, do you have any advice to offer me? I'm risking everything my wife and I own. — J.M., Texas.

DEAR MR. M.: With 11 years of experience, your going into this business is not a risk. It's a good investment. The best advice I can offer is the same that Henry Ford gave many years ago, when visiting one of his new dealers. He suggested changing the garage sign from "Sales and Service" to "Service and Sales."

DEAR MR. ROSS:
We just spent all of our savings to buy another house. In the basement is a great wine cellar.

Neither I nor my wife drink, but it sure would be nice to have a good supply of wine on hand when entertaining guests. Will you stock our wine cellar? We're sending you an invitation to our housewarming. — W.W., Delaware.

DEAR MR. W.: Thanks for the invitation. I suggest you invite Ernest and Julio Gallo instead.

DEAR MR. ROSS:
I'm a widow. I lost my dear husband four years ago. My problem is termites in my house. I'm terribly worried about losing my home to them, and it frightens me to death. The county does some work for needy senior citizens, but their services don't cover termites.

I know my house is old, but I've lived here 39 of my 70 years. My only income is Social Security. If I could only borrow the money, I could repay you in small monthly payments. Thank you for your time. — Mrs. G.H., California.

DEAR MRS. H.: I contracted with Star Termite and Pest Control, near you, to take care of your problem. They reported to me your home is severely infested with dry wood termites, which require fumigation while your house is under a large tent.

You must be out of your home for 24 hours during fumigation. So plan on spending the night with a friend. My $100 check should be enough to take your friend to breakfast, lunch and dinner. Enjoy your day, while the company puts every termite to sleep. Your peace of mind will be my repayment.

You may write to Percy Ross, in care of The Progress-Advance, P.O. Box 460, Pigeon, MI 48755.

The recently released results of a trout fishing survey conducted by the DNR's Institute for Fisheries Research, brought out some surprising responses.

The surveys were sent to 2,800 anglers picked at random. Of these, 2,000 had bought trout-salmon stamps, 400 purchased one-day fishing licenses, and 400 had senior-citizen fishing licenses. 1,765, or 63% of those surveyed returned their questionnaire.

Of particular interest to Thumb area residents, was the response to a question that asked to rank factors important when choosing a fishing spot. The answer receiving the most votes was public facilities. Mentioned were launching slips, docks, restaurants and motels. In other words, people from Huron County should be looking to improve these facilities if we want to draw outside fishermen and the dollars they bring for our economy. The second answer, was nearness to home, another plus for our area, and ease of access.

Most of the respondents listed Great Lakes fishing as the most popular, followed by trout streams and inland lakes. Fishermen also were not necessarily interested in trophies. For example, 45% favored catching many smaller fish, while 39% favored one larger one.

An agreement has been made between Michigan and Ontario to swap turkeys for moose. Over the next three years, Michigan will exchange 150 turkeys and receive 30 moose. They plan on releasing the moose in the U.P. and hope that they might flourish in a similar manner to the elk releases of 70 years ago. At present, the moose which were once plentiful in Michigan, are almost extinct. A few remain in isolate spots of the U.P. and Isle Royale.

Ice taxis

Daybreak was only a pale promise in the eastern sky when I pulled into the empty parking lot at the end of Geiger Road. Previous laid plans called for a friend and I to meet at 7 a.m. to go ice fishing for perch, but a quick glance at my wrist watch told me I was early. I nosed the car to the ice's edge and shutting off the lights and engine plunged myself into a dark and silent world. Allowing my eyes to grow accustomed to the gloom, I began to pick out familiar landmarks against the horizon.

The Bay that snuggles between Rose Island and Maisou Island is very familiar to most area outdoorsmen and when I peered intently I could make out the low rise of Defoe Island as it belled up from the otherwise flat expanse of frozen ice. Every few seconds a strobe light from a tower near Bay City would punctuate the darkness with its piercing shaft. I began to think of the many events that crowded my mind with pleasant memories of this spot.

Over 35 years ago I sat in my brother-in-law's ice shanty, hypnotized by the slowly spinning decoy and speared my first pike. A little one, barely over the size limit, I kept him imbedded in the sandy bottom for five minutes. All the time I was trying to get up enough courage to bring him through the hole, but worrying when I did, he would somehow get off and I would lose him.

This part of the bay also provided me with some excellent duck hunting. Back in the era of the "staked out" water sanctuaries, the sky and water would team with great flights and enormous rafts of divers. Shooting your limit of Cans, Bluebills, or Redheads was not determined by the number of ducks, but rather by how good of a shot you were, or in case, how many shells I had.

To the north, dark shadows would soon materialize into Masiou Island brought back instant thoughts of bass fishing in Dynamite Cut, and looking down from a tree blind on a huge buck that never showed himself enough for a clean shot with my bow.

My daydreaming was broken by the drone of a pickup pulling in the parking lot. Must be my buddy, I thought. As the truck slid by I noticed it was the wrong make and color. The driver maneuvered it next to me and started unloading a snowmobile from the back. Seeing the snowmobile made me shudder. The ice was still too treacherous to drive my car on, and the fact I didn't own a snowmobile meant a long, cold walk awaited me this morning. Too bad Art Beatenhead wasn't around with one of his twinkling lights of Rose Island. Too bad, I thought, too bad.

Art Beatenhead was a Unionville farmer and the father of one of my best boyhood buddies. In 1951 he bought a Model "A" coupe for Bob Sting for around $50. After stripping off the body, except the hood and windshield, he built a small flat-bed on the frame and for the next two years had a ball hauling his fishing cronies on the ice at Mud Creek.

The lightweight "Jitney" (a name everyone would soon call this type of vehicle) was perfect for its new task. Easy to push out if stuck, and simple to jump off if it broke through the ice, it gained instant popularity.

So popular, in 1952 Pop Hines from Rose Island contacted Art and proposed a business venture. Pop suggested Art set up an ice taxi a shanty rental service using the parking lot of "Pop's Place" as his headquarters. It didn't take long for Art to recognize the potential of the idea, and the next winter he and his son Larry began an eight year stint which proved to be a profitable, as well as popular, operation.

Art bought another Model "A" and lengthened the body into a tandem. Later he added a four-wheel drive Jeep and a cut-down '50 Chevy. The Model "A's" had flatbeds to carry the passengers while the Jeep and Chevy pulled box sleds.

The operation went something like this. If you wanted to go fishing Art or Larry would meet you in the parking lot. For a fee of 25 cents they would take you any place inside the islands. When you were ready to come off the ice, one of the four vehicles would be near enough that a simple wave of the hand would instigate immediate action, and for another 25 cents they would take you back to the parking lot.

My daydreaming was broken by the drone of a pickup pulling in the parking lot. Must be my buddy, I thought. As the truck slid by I noticed it was the wrong make and color. The driver maneuvered it next to me and started unloading a snowmobile from the back. Seeing the snowmobile made me shudder. The ice was still too treacherous to drive my car on, and the fact I didn't own a snowmobile meant a long, cold walk awaited me this morning.

If you wanted a shanty, $3.50 rented one for four fishermen. This price included wood for the stove and round-trip transportation for the group. A pike speared would have to part with $2.50 for the same services. However, even at these prices, people were sure Art and Larry were trying to fleece them.

Accurate records kept by Art showed the winters of the late 50's to be mild and the safety of the ice was always questionable. Skeptics of the taxi service did not pay heed and continued to drive their cars on the frozen surface. During the time Art and Larry were in operation, each year would produce a minimum of 25 cars going through the ice. But try as they may, they could not always convince their customers of this potential hazard. In the end, it would be their four-wheel drive Jeep and a couple of hand-jacks that helped extract the non-believer's cars.

Art would mark his trails with Christmas trees. Being on the ice every day helped him to keep tabs on soft spots or other areas to avoid. He soon had a regular route similar to a mailman or milkman. Fishermen who used his taxi on a regular basis said they could set their watch by Art. And in the evening, he and Larry took special precautions to make sure no one was left on the ice. This even included pounding on shanty doors.

In 1969 and 1960, Art and Larry branched out beyond the islands. Constant requests for better fishing helped them make the decision. But this new venture was not without problems. The ice outside the islands was not nearly as safe, so the Jitneys began to carry planks to help them cross cracks that popped up in unlikely places. The fun and merriment that seemed to accompany the trips on the inside, now became a grim game of survival. Larry later confessed he hated every minute of his runs on the outside. According to him, it just wasn't a good place to be.

Art sold his entire operation in 1961 to Clayton Carr of Gagetown. It ended a colorful era for fishermen in the Rose Island area. And although the original equipment has been junked or scattered in the 20-odd years that have passed, the first Model "A" still lies on a reef about one mile north of Sand Point. A fitting burial for a Jitney whose very existence was to protect cars from doing the same thing.

A blast from the north of my friend's pickup jarred me back to reality. "You been waiting long?" the question came from the crack in the window. "No," I answered. "We better get going," the voice came back, "it's a long way out there."

"Wished we could hail a taxi," I muttered. "You say something?" my friend questioned. "Nope," I answered, "just dreaming outloud."

VILLAGE OF PIGEON

Regular Meeting and Public Hearing of the Village Council of Pigeon, Michigan

Meeting opened by President Diebel at 7:03 p.m. and roll call was taken. Present were: James Armbruster, Kenneth Licht, Fred Orr, Dryden Haist, Tony Kala and Norris Diebel. Absent were: Paul Walsh.

Motioned by Kenneth Licht supported by Fred Orr to approve the minutes of the previous meeting as presented. Carried.

Police report was given by Village Marshal Dave Wickert stating that they had 33 customers complaints and 2 PD accidents. And only one drunk driving arrest for the whole month of January. The council accepted the report as given and complimented officer Wickert on the good job he is doing.

Financial report given by Clerk McArdle, stating that the General fund had total deposits of $42,696.23; total disbursements of $49,187.55 and a fund balance of $239,425.47. Accounts receivable of $9,779.10; water and sewer receivables of $97,115. Unpaid bills of $4,125.96. Interest earned in 1983 from all funds of $27,580.24. Motion by Armbruster supported by Licht to accept the report as presented. Carried.

Regular meeting was recessed by President Diebel and opened the public hearing on the federal revenue sharing funds and 1984-85 budget adoption. Clerk McArdle presented and explained the budget and spread of the Federal Revenue sharing funds. Showing $1,000.00 to General Fund for the Library, $18,000.00 to Major Street for Blacktopping Harley Street, $8,000.00 to Local Streets for Curb and Gutter on Nitz Street. Mrs. Anna Marie Clabusch and Mrs. Janet Heckman representing the Pigeon District Library stated that the library was allowed to receive up to 10% of the $18,345.00 that we received from the Federal Revenue sharing funds and Mrs. Clabusch was wondering if the council would consider it, since they are having considerably more activity. They agreed to consider it. After correcting two misprint errors it was motioned by Armbruster supported by Licht to adopt the budget as corrected. Roll call vote: Armbruster, Yes; Licht, Yes; Orr, Yes; Haist, Yes; Kala, Yes; President Diebel, Yes. Absent: Paul Walsh. Carried.

Joe McArdle with the help of councilman Ken Licht did an in-depth study of the new water and sewer rates and felt that the new rates were going to hit the large water users quite hard. It was recommended that we back off some on the large water users so, we don't discourage business and manufacturing from coming to Pigeon. Motion by Haist supported by Armbruster to revise the water and sewer rates as follows:

	Water	Minimum	Minimum	Minimum
Up to 1" meter	4.50	8.25	11.00

Motion carried.
 President Diebel opened the sealed bids for the village audit. They were all bid on a one year term and a three year, as follows:

	One year	Three Years
1984	1984	1985
Hyzer, Hill and Booms	$4,200	$4,000
Wietke, Fangel & Schaefer	3,450	3,350
John E. Walsh, Minimum	2,250	2,500
Maximum	2,500	2,750

The audit bids were turned over to the finance committee for review and recommendations brought back to the next council meeting to act upon.
 The burning ban and the trash and garbage survey was presented showing the burning ban votes of 105 for and 217 against. On the trash and garbage pickup, one of the Village Contract for weekly pickup 189 votes; customer contract their own pickup 26 votes; the village once a month pickup 147 votes. The council suggested that the Ordinance committee of Orr and Walsh see about establishing an ordinance for it and a set of specs for bidding on the contract for once a week pickup.

The DPW report by Don Otto stated that a tire went bad and the other one badly worn, so with permission from President Diebel he had two new ones put on it. And we had a water leak in one of the pump houses and they have it repaired.

Motion by Licht supported by Armbruster that we have the DPW erect two stop signs, one on Nitz Street going East at Brush Street and one on Brush Street going North at Nitz Street and leave the yield signs where they are at the same intersection. Carried.

The council suggested that Don Otto get a hold of our water health inspector and find out if someone could drill a well on their property within the village limits for their own use.

The council was presented a new water tower inspection contract from Dixon Engineering of Cadillac, Michigan to replace the one we turned down last year for a promise of a free inspection that never happened. Motion by Haist supported by Armbruster to sign the contract and get it set up for good weather. Carried.

Mr. Otto asked the council if they wanted to send Mike Graf and Jim Kohl to the water certification school again this year so we can have more certified employees. The council approved.

Motion by Armbruster supported by Licht to appoint Robert East to the Zoning and Planning commission to replace Terry Damm who declined at this time. Carried.

Motion by Haist supported by Armbruster that we pay the Zoning and Planning Commission $20.00 per meeting attended. Carried.

Motion by Haist supported by Licht to give the zoning and planning commission a petty cash fund for miscellaneous expenses the sum of $50.00. Carried.

Joe McArdle presented the council with a set of insurance specifications for the village insurance bids. The council suggested changing the Umbrella policy limit from $2,000,000.00 to 3,000,000.00 and put the specs out for bids.

The Huron Solid Waste plan for the two landfills sites, that the council turned down at a previous meeting. After having the plan thoroughly explained to them it was motioned by Armbruster supported by Haist to reverse their decision and accept the Huron County plan. Carried.

Bill and Thomas Breaky who are hoping to build a 16 unit apartment housing in Pigeon requests a letter of fact that there is water, sanitary sewer and storm sewer at the site and that we would support it. And that there is a need for it in Pigeon. Also, that the proposed property is zoned multiple dwelling.

There being no further business meeting adjourned at 9:58 p.m.
 Respectfully submitted,
 Norris Diebel, President
 Joseph L. McArdle, Adm. Clerk

FAITH SAYS THAT SELF-IMPROVEMENT BEGINS WITH PRAYER

Who rises from prayer a better man, his prayer is answered.

— George Meredith

"The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much."

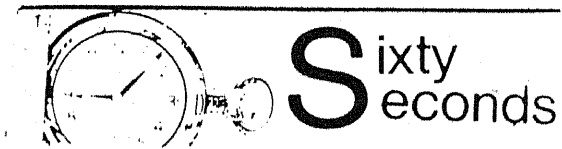

— James 5:16

Whatever the adherence to our faith may be, most of us recognize the fact that we are far from perfect in our thoughts and actions, and would like to improve ourselves any way we can. Of course, how easily this can be done will depend a great deal on how far we have strayed from the ideal conduct prescribed by our faith or the prevailing culture. However, in any case the first step toward this reform program is prayer, both at our House of Worship and away from it; and it must be the right kind of prayer. So, instead of asking God for material advantages, try praying for the health of your family and friends, for peace and happiness in the world, and above all, for guidance to help you become a better person. Then, if you are truly sincere about this, you will make a real effort in that direction and find in the process that some of your prayers have already been answered.

The devil's creed

Read Genesis 3:1-6.

It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. Matthew 4:4. If the devil had a creed, what would it be? Let us approach the answer by asking: What ideas and popular slogans most damage our Christian faith, most advance the devil's cause? Certainly the devil's creed would include the question he put to Eve: "Did God really say?"

He is always putting question marks behind every truth of the Bible: "How do you know there is a God? How do you know the Bible is God's Word? Did God really say that Jesus is the world's Savior?"

Another part of his creed would be: "Stand off and criticize!" Never help to improve any situation in the home, church, or nation; just complain about what other people are trying to do.

Again the devil has done much harm with the question, "What's the use? You can't do anything about conditions, so don't try to improve them. What's the use of striving against temptation, of bearing the cross after Jesus?"

There is just one answer to the devil's creed. Jesus gave it when He was tempted: "It is written."

We, too, need to have that answer handy whenever Satan would undermine our Christian faith and life. And in hearing and reading God's Word we find the answer again and again.

Father, teach us to recognize Satan's lies so that we may always overcome them through Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Oeschger earns top Farm Bureau award

ED OESCHGER

Ed Oeschger, CLU, of Bay Port has earned Farm Bureau Insurance Group's 1983 Distinguished Sales Award, the highest honor bestowed by the Lansing-based insurer.

Oeschger received the award during the company's recent sales convention in Dearborn.

The award, presented annually to the company's top agent based on outstanding sales and client service, was also received by Oeschger in 1979.

Oeschger produced nearly $13 million in new life insurance volume in 1983 and led the company in total new premium last year. He was also the company leader in the number of new life insurance policies issued in 1983.

Elton Smith, Michigan Farm Bureau president and vice president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, called Oeschger a respected leader in the Farm Bureau organization.

"I've admired Ed for many years, particularly because of his activity in the Huron County Farm Bureau and in the agricultural community, Smith stated.

Oeschger is secretary on the Michigan Livestock Exchange Board of Directors, a former member of the Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port School Board, including four years as Board president and active in the Kilmanagh United Methodist Church.

In addition to several national awards for his insurance business, Oeschger earned the Chartered Life Underwriter (CLU) designation, an accomplishment requiring several years of study and high ethical standards.

Oeschger and his wife Mildred have two sons.

Lots of Laker sports similarities...

The Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port basketball and volleyball squads experienced many similarities this year, and Laker fans hope to see that continue after the Green and White spikers captured the district tournament crown last Saturday.

Both teams finished their seasons in second place in the Thumb B Conference and displayed outstanding talent throughout the year.

Both teams were tied for the league lead on Feb. 23, only to falter in the final two weeks of the season.

The basketball and volleyball teams both placed behind Thumb B Champion Vassar, after each split a pair of contests during the regular season.

The deciding factor in the Thumb B race for both teams was Bad Axe, which featured outstanding play to prevent Lakers from sharing the Thumb B trophies.

Last Saturday the Laker Volleyball team charted the course for the Green Basketball Machine to follow in the district tournament. The spikers won the district title with a well-rounded game that combined an explosive offense with an opponent-deflating defense.

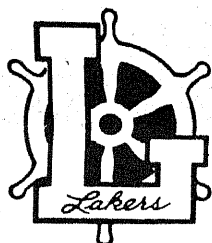

For the Laker basketball squad to earn the district trophy to place beside that of their athletic sisters, the same type of balanced effort is required. One edge Laker fans can provide in the upcoming district basketball and regional volleyball tournaments is their presence and vocal support for their favorite teams.

THE LAKER VARSITY BASKETBALL CHEERLEADERS

— Leading the school spirit throughout the year and during the district competition for 1983-84 are the following ladies, front row, Bernadette Voelker and Susie Emerson; middle row, Joely McGathy, Leanne Deneen, Tammy Ginter, Kris McArdle and Teri Damm; back row, Melissa Dietzel, Cindy Winter and Amy Buchholz.

To the safe fisherman: When I went out fishing on Monday, the ice was plenty safe enough. I do want to thank the Coast Guard for letting us know the ice was breaking up near shore, and to the private people who helped with the boats. The safe fisherman might leave the harbor on a calm morning and then run into a violent storm when he could use Coast Guard assistance.

I'd just like to wish everybody in Caseville a good day. Caseville is a fantastic place to live. Thank you.

Congratulations to the Laker Girls' JV Volleyball Team for winning all their games this year. I understand it's a first. Thanks to Mr. Tyler for coaching.

I'm not a lawbreaker, but I think it's harassment the way the Pigeon policeman is bothering people who aren't doing anything wrong.

Sara, you're the greatest friend anyone could have, sweets. Love, you-know-who.

I think all dogs in Pigeon should be tied up, not just everybody else's. All dogs should be treated the same.

We're proud of you at the Pigeon Inn, Mike and Peggy, and we like the 50s and 60s music. Sometimes, how about trying a band or a disc jockey that plays today's music, too?

The Pigeon cop is going way overboard trying to catch minors with alcohol. If he continues with this, I do not think he will be around long.

To a certain sophomore male who forces younger girls into the boys' locker room: where is your head? What you did is disgusting. Why don't you grow up and act your age?

I thought they were going to paint the Laker wheel on the cable TV dish next to the high school. That would look great, wouldn't it?

PCB silo trial seeks jurors

The difficult task of selecting a jury is underway in the $4.2 million PCB-silo contamination trial, which began Monday before Huron County Circuit Court Judge M. Richard Knoblock.

The small-town atmosphere makes jury selection more difficult than big cities, shown when two of the first 60 jurors interviewed were excused as relatives of Judge Knoblock. "We live in a small community, and this is the biggest thing that's happening here," the Judge told reporters Monday.

Roger A. Haley, his wife Valerie and his mother Florence are suing Monsanto to Chemical Corp., C&B Silo and Michigan Silo Co., contending their Owendale farm was contaminated by polychlorinated biphenyls used as a sealant on farm silos. They say the PCB contaminated their land, livestock and family members, and originally filed the suit in 1977.

Judge Knoblock said the Haleys are claiming property damage and health hazards against the firms. He told the packed courtroom he anticipates a "complex and probably long-lasting trial," but doesn't expect it to last into May.

Three groups of 60 potential jurors are being interviewed this week. Twenty-three of Monday's first group were excused after initial questioning. Six regular and two or three additional jurors are expected to be seated by the end of the week.

Attorneys on both sides have agreed not to comment on the case in recent months, before jurors are empaneled. "I'm afraid of poisoning the jury," Judge Knoblock said Monday.

EYE OPENERS

By Dr. Douglas A. Buehler, Optometrist

VISUAL SKILLS AND READING

A child's ability to read successfully depends on the integration of eight visual skills which most of us take for granted. A thorough eye examination of a young child learning to read will test:

1. Visual Acuity—the ability to see objects clearly when near or at a distance.
2. Visual Fixation—the ability to aim the eyes so they can focus on a stationary object or read a line of print, and the ability to follow a moving object with the eyes.
3. Accommodation—the adjustment of focusing the eyes as distances change (chalkboard to book/book to chalkboard).
4. Binocular Fusion—the ability of the brain to gather information from each eye and form one image, thereby eliminating double vision or the suppression of vision in one eye.

Next column: More essential visual skill. Presented as a service to the community by Dr. Douglas A. Buehler, OPTOMETRIST, 7267 W. Michigan Avenue, Pigeon, Michigan. PHONE 453-2506

Michelle Stahl topped the Eagles with 19 points and 18 spikes. Gela Kretzschmer added 14 points, 67 sets and four blocks, and Stacy Bennett nailed 21 spikes.

"It was one of our best performances all year," commented coach Cheryl Wascher.

Directly following the game, medals and the trophy were presented by Caseville Superintendent James Stahl to coach Wascher and her victorious team.

The Eagles now move to regional action at Dryden on Saturday.
