Elkton seeks parade entries

Parade entries are being sought for this year's Elkton Old Fashion Days celebration June 15 through 17.

The Grand Parade is planned Saturday, June 16 at 11 a.m., rain or shine, according to organizer Shirley Cunningham. "We're hoping you or your organization will again enter old cars, floats, machinery (not to exceed two pieces) and bands," she says.

Any persons interested in entering a unit in the parade should contact her in care of Ron's Party Store, 2 N. Main, Elkton, phone 375-2780, as soon as possible.

The parade will line up at 10:30 a.m. at Elkton Elementary School on the north end of town. It will move south along Main Street and turn east on M-142 at the blinker light, where it will disband at the Elkton Co-op Farm Produce Company.

Volunteers are needed for many portions of this year's event, sponsored by the Elkton Community Club. Mary Motz of The Hair Shoppe is general chairman and Terry Heck of H & H Insulation is coordinating the master schedule.

Main events include softball tournaments for men and women, a tug of war, Rotary Club chicken barbecue, auction, strawberry social, kids' games, teen dances, square dances, bingo, a water ball fight, community church service, demolition derby, old fashion community picnic and others.

ELKTON CLEAN-UP: About a dozen Elkton Community Club members pitched in Saturday morning for a spring "town-cleaning" job in the village.

The volunteers leveled gravel, trimmed grass and brush, washed down sidewalks and made ready to paint designated buildings, to help beautify the town, according to organizers Mary and Jay Motz of The Hair Shoppe.

Here, Arnie Russell, Terry Heck, Jay Motz and Barb Wills work on gravel behind the former theatre building, as Elkton DPW worker Glen Iddings runs the loader tractor.

Organizers are getting the town "spiffed up" for the June 15-17 Old Fashion Days. They gave special thanks to Oliver Township Fire Department volunteers for washing down sidewalks, the Elkton Co-op Farm Produce Co. for donating weed-killer and outgoing Village President Randy Haley -- who bought breakfast for the 6 a.m. early risers.

Youth Corps summer students will paint the backs of buildings in coming weeks, Council member Fred Santos, Sr., said Saturday.

CASEVILLE EAGLES AWARD SCHOLARSHIPS -- A scholarship check amounting to $1,000 will be presented to a deserving Caseville School senior at graduation ceremonies on Saturday, June 9, thanks to the generosity of the Caseville Eagles.

The Laker High students got special assistance from Bob Fluegge of Pigeon Motor Sales, who provided a similar car for practice efforts.

New arena highlights Aug. 5-11 Fair

An artist's sketch of the new Huron Community Fair Arena

BAD AXE — This is the year of the Big Change in Huron Community Fair which will run Sunday, August 5, through Saturday, August 11.

The big change will be using a brand-new $500,000 arena for the first time, moving many outdoor shows and animal programs out of the weather and into a sheltered area for exhibition and judging, according to Ray Errer, manager for the past 4 years and a 20-year member of the board.

The big new structure has a main section 130 x 200 feet with a clay bottom, with bleachers along the east side of the arena. There's an overhead 20 x 20 door to permit entry and exit of the largest equipment and machinery.

In addition, there's a connected 75 x 50 meeting room with tile floor over concrete, equipped with utilities, restrooms and men's and women's showers. There's a serving bar, sinks and cabinets with wiring for microwaves.

The big arena is a metal structure, in tan-and-brown, with brick facing. It's warmed by a gas-heated boiler and adjoins a large convenient blacktopped parking lot.

Animal shows for horses, dairy and beef cattle, sheep and swine will be scheduled for the new indoor arena, as will the livestock sale on Thursday afternoon, August 9. Housing for horses and dairy cattle will be in 2 lean-to's along the east and west sides, each 200 x 30 feet.

"With the new arena available for the 1984 Fair — which will be the 116th showing — we'll offer conveniences and shows that won't be at the mercy of the weather. We'll have events such as we've never been able to schedule before, without regard to the weather, and we're expecting record crowds throughout the week," Errer explained.

Besides being protected from inclement weather, the arena will offer off-season events, too, Errer added.

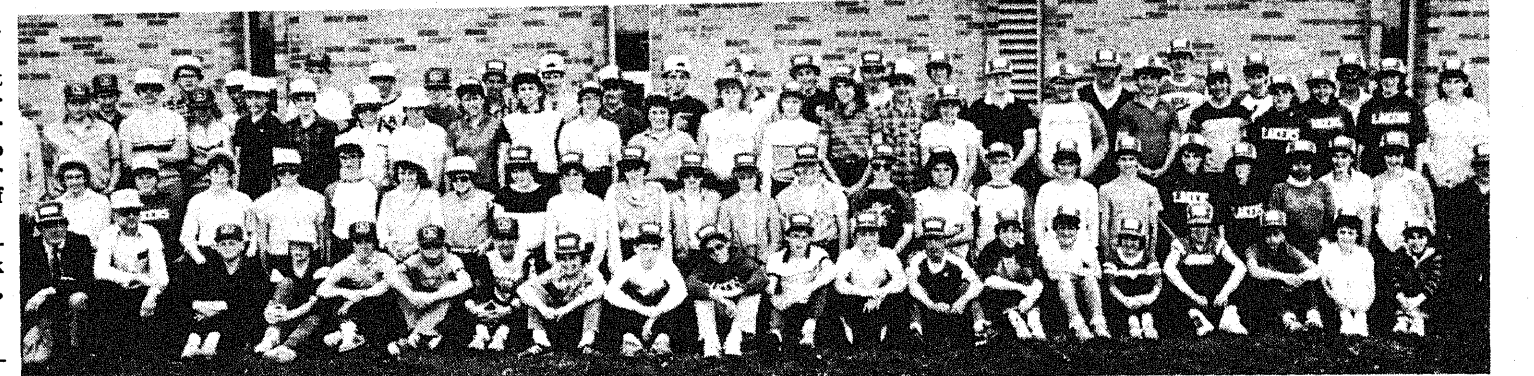

"This is a farming county, and we'll have horse, cattle and farm equipment and machinery shows at other times than during Fair Week," he declared. "We'll have sports shows, car displays, tractor pulls, livestock events for 4-H, FFA or particular breeds of animals, and there'll be an excellent means to view animals and merchandise for sales and auctions," he concluded.

Errer said that construction costs were covered by money allocated by the County Board of Commissioners from county funds. The Board of Commissioners, which was in charge of planning and construction, decided that the best way to have something worthwhile for the whole county was such a meeting room and arena, rather than to dole out small quantities of money to many widespread areas.

The August 5-11 Fair Week will be a busy one, Errer pointed out, with the big-crowd events still scheduled in front of the grandstand. The emphasis will be on agriculture, with animals and farm products as main attractions. There will be entertainment, too, musical show, crowning of the Huron County Bean Queen, country-western, 2 demolition derbies and horse and machinery pulls, and tugs-of-war will also be scheduled.

READY TO GO: These eighth graders at Laker Junior High School were trying their hats on for size as they prepared to leave for their trip to Washington, D.C. when this photo was taken last week. The group is now in our nation's capital for first-hand observation of our federal government.

Identification of the young travelers is aided by hats donated by Thumb National Bank and Trust and Gettel Implement Company, both of Pigeon and Sohigro of Elkton.

Stokan seeks re-election as Sheriff

BAD AXE — Huron County Sheriff Richard V. Stokan of Bad Axe has announced that he will seek re-election for the office of sheriff.

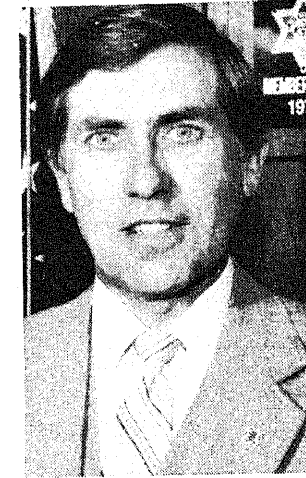

Sheriff Stokan has held the office since 1973 and is known for his leadership in law enforcement. The 1980s have been a real challenge for law enforcement administration with the fast-changing pace of laws that have been passed and legislation being introduced to protect the rights of the criminal, Stokan said. "We need someone who will speak out for those of us who are asked to pay the expenses and live within the law ourselves," he added.

Sheriff Stokan has set priorities such as:

1. Training for law enforcement officers within the Sheriff's Department and other law enforcement agencies wishing to take part. This will enable officers to better serve and protect the citizens of Huron County and to be more responsive to the citizens' needs, he explained.

Sheriff Richard V. Stokan

2. Working together with the school districts of Huron County to provide educational and safety programs to help students become more aware of law enforcement functions and the active part that they can play in helping prevent crime. These programs are also put on for other groups and organizations. The cooperation of law enforcement agencies working together has helped combat crime and helped to keep our roadways safe to travel, Stokan concludes.

Sheriff Stokan has served as president of the Michigan Sheriffs' Association is secretary of the Huron County Law Enforcement Training Commission and is a member of the Huron County Chiefs Association. He is chairman of the Marine Safety Committee for the Michigan Sheriffs' Association and serves on the committee that initiated the TAM Program — Techniques of Alcohol Management, which serves in training licensed beverage people throughout Michigan the techniques of alcohol management to help combat drunk drivers.

MEMORIAL TIME — This weekend marks the first official "summer holiday." Record numbers of tourists are expected on state roads, and you're probably going to be among them. For the sake of your family and friends, DRIVE CAREFULLY. And enjoy Michigan's best summer ever!

DESK CLEARING — Remember this is "FIX-UP YOUR MAILBOX WEEK." Rural Postal Service customers are reminded to clear weeds away, straighten, paint or otherwise check over your mailbox, now through Friday, May 25. Pigeon Postmaster Marty Thiel says it just takes a few moments — but will help your mailman AND keep deliveries as safe and consistent as possible.

Sugar beet planting for the Sebewaing District of Michigan Sugar Company has been completed, thanks to last week's near-perfect farming weather. Approximately 20,000 acres have been planted, about the same as last year.

Most area fields have sprouted and are doing well — and Tuesday morning's shower should have given those young plants a good starting boost.

Congratulations to Ron and Janet Heckman, son Ryan, niece Angie Lawrence, plus Gil and Naomi Wichert, who got down on hands and knees Monday night to plant nine flats of flowers at the west end of Pigeon. This is the third straight year volunteers (usually led by Ron H.) have helped beautify the curbsides on the way into town.

Now, here's a challenge: why doesn't somebody volunteer to do the same on the south entrance of town, near the VFW Park? That's an ideal place. And I'm sure similar spots could be found on north and east ends, too. Several local groups, including the Pigeon Chamber of Commerce, will help fund such projects.

Just ask... and get planting! Congratulations to Tina Dennis, a Laker High School senior (and co-author with Melissa Bivens of our "Laker Look Out!" weekly school column). Tina's been named an honorable mention finalist in The Detroit Free Press' annual 1984 Michigan Academic All-State Team. Way to go, Tina!

Congratulations are also in order for Bruce and Barb Krohn and Ron and Donna Krohn, Elkton brothers and sisters-in-law who are featured in an excellent story on farm wives in the May 19 issue of the Michigan Farmer. Very interesting!

3 ARRAIGNED IN CIRCUIT COURT FOR WESTERN MURDER

Pre-trial hearings for Michael L. Bieri, Ralph C. Ross and Ellen J. Western were set for 2 p.m. on Friday, June 8 in Huron County Circuit Court, in connection with the Jan. 22 shotgun murder of Jerry L. Western, Bad Axe.

Huron County Circuit Judge M. Richard Knoblock denied bail for the three defendants during Friday's arraignment. District Court Judge John Schubel had likewise denied bail to the three, who allegedly conspired to murder Ellen Western's husband.

Bieri, 32 of Elkton, pled not guilty to the single charge of first-degree murder, through his attorney, Ross, 51 of Caseville, stood mute to charges of conspiracy and first-degree murder, as did Ellen Western, 39 of Bad Axe.

Bieri is charged with shooting Western in the back and has implicated himself, Ross and Mrs. Western, police report. They say Ross and Mrs. Western paid nearly $5000 to have Western killed.

"I picked up Jerry Western and drove out to his farm and shot him," a portion of Bieri's statement said. "Ralph Ross said he was going to kill me and my family if I didn't kill Western," the statement said, made April 27 to Sheriff's Detective David Neuendorf.

TRANSIT VOTE WINS NARROWLY

Mass transit service in Huron County will continue for up to three years, following the 1984 "yes" to "1412" no" vote to continue the Thumb Area Transit Authority last week.

The proposal asked approval of 20 mill for operations, following state funding cutback of bus funding. Fewer than 8% of county voters went to the polls here.

It was a different story in Sanilac County, however. The question was defeated by a 3-2 margin, which means bus service there will be discontinued this fall.

Strongest Huron County support was found in the City of Bad Axe, which voted 321-104 in favor — singly providing the 183-vote victory margin.

Local balloting included: TOWNSHIPS — Brookfield 48 yes, 38 no; Caseville 109 yes, 36 no; Chandler 24 yes, 30 no; Colfax 79 yes, 75 no; Fair Haven 24 yes, 29 no; Grant 17 yes, 23 no; Lake No. 1 29 yes, 19 no; Lake No. 2 27 yes, 16 no; McKinley 32 yes, 21 no; Oliver 55 yes, 57 no; Sebewaing No. 1 16 yes, 36 no; Sebewaing No. 2 18 yes, 45 no, and Winsor 63 yes, 45 no.

RECALL WORDING REJECTED, NEW WORDING IS FILED

The Board of County Election Commissioners rejected the original recall wording filed against Caseville Township Board members Mike Power, Wayne Anderson and Wallace Hart.

The Commissioners met last Wednesday and said the wording was too vague, as had been the decision earlier in the month in the petition filed against Supervisor James Reeves. But, new language has been filed against all four officials by Delores Bieri of Pigeon, Katherine Farkas, Dorothy Benetts and Betty Shorkey, all of Caseville. The Commissioners including Huron County Probate Judge Neil McCallum, County Treasurer Roberta Moetteli and County Clerk Helen Lemanski, will decide on clarity of the new petitions in a special meeting set for Tuesday, May 29.

The recalls are being sought because of the Caseville Township officials' support for a general aviation airport, which has been earmarked for $1.05 million in federal funding. The petitioners say no vote has been allowed on the project, which would be built in the two-square mile area bounded by Crescent Beach Road on the north, Caseville Road on the east, Dunn Road on the south and M-25 on the west.

The original petitions were rejected because the township officials were not directly linked to the airport issue, the Election Commissioners said.

FIRM CURBED PCB USE

Monsanto Company's environmental control director says the company took steps beginning in 1970 to control the use of PCBs and to make customers aware of possible dangers, during testimony Thursday in the $4.3 million ongoing lawsuit filed by the Roger Haley Family of Owendale.

The family claims the St. Louis-based company and two now-defunct Michigan silo builders used PCBs, or polychlorinated biphenyls, as a sealant on two of their farm's silos. The Haleys claim they suffered financial losses and health problems because of PCB contamination on their farm from 1972 to 1977.

The official, William Pappageorge, testified in Huron County Circuit Court the firm became aware in 1969 that man-made PCBs were present in the environment. A year later, he said, Monsanto discontinued open use of PCBs in products such as sealants and paints.

The Haley silos were coated with CUMAR, a silo sealant containing Monsanto's AROCLOR 1254, about 1965. Closing arguments are expected to begin next Tuesday, with the case going to the jury two or three days later.

Inspector Gordo's Minute Mystery THE CASE OF THE Impoverished artist

The body of Monty Shell, an impoverished 65 year old painter, lay over a table in his sweltering one-room apartment. A bullet had entered his right temple. On his right side, by the leg of his chair, was an old-fashioned, single action revolver.

The table was bare except for a cracked plate, a saucerless cup, knife, fork and spoon and an overturned salt shaker.

"Shell has been peddling his sketches for a dollar or two in the local bars," said Sheriff Cook. "His doctor says he was stricken with heart failure two months ago and nearly died. You might say he ate a last meal and committed suicide."

"Correction," said Inspector Gordo. "There was a bit about him in today's paper. A small but fashionable art gallery announced a one-man showing of his paintings next month. He had everything to live for."

Gordo opened a small cupboard layered with dust. One plate and cup, and a setting of cheap silverware, however, were quite clean. Next he opened a paper garbage bag and sniffed.

"This food was put in the bag within the past three hours, or about the time of Shell's death," asserted Gordo. "Longer than that and it would have begun to spoil and smell in this heat."

Gordo shut the bag. "I shouldn't close the case quite yet, Sheriff. Shell had a dinner guest who tried to cover up his presence here."

What made Gordo so certain?

As we see it editorially

Some short words to live by

This space has often been used to present sage advice and wise words from others. We never claimed to have a limitless font of knowledge - after all, most "words to live by" were robbed from some other speaker anyway.

But national columnist Ann Landers recently re-presented the "seven-line lesson on living" in Sunday newspapers, and it's a dandy. We're betting almost anyone could remember it, too, since it's not that long or unusual to memorize. It goes like this:

"The six most important words in the English language are: I WAS WRONG -- PLEASE FORGIVE ME;

 "The five most important words: YOU DID A GOOD JOB;
 "The four most important words: WHAT IS YOUR OPINION?;
 "The three most important words: CAN I HELP?;
 "The two most important words: THANK YOU;
 "The one most important word: YOU, and
 "The least important word: I."

They're short, simple and sweet and decided to the point. Too many times all of us tend to put that "I" word in front of the "YOU" version of a person's reference. Too many times we put others aside and try to take center stage ourselves.

That's not the way it's supposed to be. Our Creator's example was never that way. We shouldn't attempt living our own existences that way either.

Yes, it's easy to get caught up in the importance of being me. It's simple to put our own problems, shortcomings, fears or even high points into the first position - casting aside all else.

That's not how we're meant to be, though. Remember, the golden rule talks about doing things for others - before it even gets to "you." Now that we're talking this way, are we LIVING in this direction, too?

So many times this space ends up with an admonition such as "the choice is up to you," or "what happens now is your concern." Those words are especially true right now.

If you wish to enjoy a fuller life and receive more on this globe than you get, try those seven phrases above. Don't just think about them, live them. It's not difficult - but it's not a normal way of living, either.

But its benefits far outweigh the costs or the shortcomings of living for others. Believe it or not!

LIFE... After College

By KAMI BUCHHOLZ

(EDITOR'S NOTE: It's hard to imagine, but recent CMU graduate Kami Buchholz has earned her degree! Kami has written an estimated 200-plus columns about college adventures since her 1980 graduation from Laker High School.

Now that she's in the job world, we'll be hearing from her now and then about that new life phase.

Kami, thanks for all your columns during your college career... and best wishes!

By KAMI BUCHHOLZ

You'll notice a name change beginning with this column... now that I'm a college graduate (graduates are allowed to boast a little), these occasional columns will revolve around the work world and just generally life after college.

The most important aspect of the work world is the search for a job. You, along with thousands of other persons, are seeking a position that suits your talents and will supply you with an income - no more counting pop cans and selling back school books for money.

Your first contact with a prospective employer is your resume, and hopefully this paper inventory of your attributes will get you an interview.

It's at an in-person interview, some first "interviews" may be over the telephone, that you must put your best foot forward. Numerous books have devoted space to proper attire "required" to give a good impression. And you some degree, you put an axe between you and your prospective future boss if you present yourself in "grubby" clothes - jeans and sweatshirts just don't make it.

But the most important aspect of a job interview is you - your personality. Overcoming the nervous syndrome of being interviewed for a job isn't easy, but you're only handicapping yourself if you give out signals indicating you're nothing but a bundle of twitching nerve endings.

More on the interview itself in the near future.

Be sure to have a super week!

Letters from Our Readers

Thanks for Meals on Wheels

Dear Editor:

Every so often we need to remind our community and area that our Meals on Wheels program is alive and still going strong.

I wish we could list the volunteers that daily make the trip to the hospital and deliver a hot, nourishing meal to our shut-ins or others not capable of preparing a nutritious meal, so important to their good health. Some of them have carried meals for the entire eight years we have been serving the area. They are the unheralded heroes that never receive the publicity they deserve nor would they be comfortable with it if they did. They serve for the satisfaction of helping others.

We receive many fine comments and words of appreciation from the people receiving the food daily. Helping them to be able to remain in their homes has always been our goal and being able to have a contact everyday is equally appreciated, for those living alone.

Also we too are the victims of inflation and for the benefit of our many contributors to our financial obligations, we need to mention that the meals have increased in price as of May 1.

However we will continue to serve anyone in need of a meal. No particular charge is made, only a donation as desired. We manage without the use of any state or federal funding and do so with pride in caring for our own.

I cannot say enough about our Laker FFA chapter that contributes so generously every year from their C.R.O.P. collection. They not only feed hungry nations with our beans from the local elevator, but also have a genuine concern about the people in their own area, encompassing Elktion, Bay Port and Pigeon. We will continue our serving as long as we have that kind of commitment from our local people.

Thank you, Mae Yackle, Interfaith Council

Reader speaks out on Benefit Dinner

Dear Editor:

The Hospital Benefit Supper at Lakers on Friday evening, May 17, was a very delicious meal served in an attractive setting by courteous and helpful waitresses. We enjoyed it in the company of friends, neighbors and supporters of our local hospital, and it was a pleasant evening. All of us appreciate the presence and service of the hospital in our community. I'm sure the supper was designed to generate more support for it. And that is good. Let's give it our loyal and generous support.

I believe many of us were disappointed that the entertainment at the supper was marred by a "cess-pool mentality." All of us know that such a mentality exists in our society. I had not expected to find it so freely displayed in that setting. Too much of what was presented was an insult to the intelligence, dignity and self-respect we have developed through the example of our parents and the teachings and practices of our church.

ches. And more importantly, for us Christians, through the example and teachings of our Lord Jesus.

Humor is a congenial form of interaction with others and I love it. It adds sparkle to life. On the other hand, vulgarity and smut help destroy the morals of society. And a society that can no longer blush is in trouble. I could have spent the evening more profitably by staying at home, eating bean soup and reading a good book. A higher moral caliber of entertainment will serve us better.

This note is not intended as criticism of those who did the planning. Surely they did not expect this either. It is intended, rather, to urge us to ask for something all of us can enjoy together.

My congratulations and best wishes to all in our community who are concerned about the welfare of the public and who do something about it. God bless you all.

Sincerely, Luke Yoder

RECOLLECTIONS of by-gone days

By GEORGE KEIM

KEIM HONORED: Longtime Progress-Advance writer George Keim, center, received a special plaque for outstanding school support and as an inspiration to youngsters from Elktion - Pigeon - Bay Port Schools this week. Presenting the award is Junior High School Librarian Donna Gaskill, left, and Laker Supt. Harry Brunet, right.

DEAR EDITOR,
 Some people have a few highlights in their lives. Others have a lot. I've had several, but the last one came last Thursday (the 17th of May).
 I was invited to come to the Laker Junior High School to get an award from the school in recognition of my writing. After receiving my award, I passed out some prizes to the winners of a writing contest they had held. I didn't get to read any of them but I'm sure they were good.
 I would encourage anyone, young or old, who feels like writing stories to DO IT.
 I'm not much of a writer, but I was past 65 before anybody took interest in what I wrote.
 When I went to school, we had the Palmer Method to write, and we were to use "full arm" movement as they called it. We had to practice doing push-pulls and making ovals.
 Sometimes the teacher tapped us on the fingers with a ruler if we had our fingers sticking out too far!
 Once in a while, we had to write with pen and ink and I could never write with those things. They stuck to the paper and you always had a blotter close by.
 The school had stub pen points but the teachers used to tell us we had to learn to write with those other pens because you could always write with the stub ones.

 One teacher once told me that when I wrote with a pen, it looked as if a chicken walked on a clean board with dirty feet.
 I know everybody doesn't have a talent to write but if you do, don't get discouraged. Hang in there and some time you'll make it.

Another thing that impressed me was the friendliness of the teacher. Mr. Brunet took me around a little and I saw some classes in session and I almost wished I could go to school again.

I only had an eighth grade education, but no matter how high you go in school, you've got to use it right - or it doesn't do you a lot of good.

In Eccl. 1:18 it says "For in much wisdom is much grief and he that increaseth knowledge increaseth sorrow." That doesn't mean that you shouldn't get educated, but my experience has been that the less I knew about some things, the better off I was, which saved me a lot of grief.

SINCERELY YOURS, GEORGE KEIM

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Deadline for this next week's SOUND-OFF is 12 noon this Saturday, May 26, due to the Memorial Day holiday.)

I think it's pretty interesting that our architect for the new Caseville apartments came here by plane. We don't realize how many hundreds of people would do so, if an airport was available. The airport neighbors have nothing to worry about, since it will be an asset to their land, not a liability.

We enjoy the trivia questions each week. It's just another little reason we look forward to the paper every week.

With vacation bible schools coming up soon, I think it is important that churches take up special offerings to pay for the costs of treats and other expenses.

I think it's a shame that a church activity has to have beer at it in order for some people to come. What's even more downgrading is combining beer and a vacation bible school picnic where children are present.

It's hard enough trying to teach your children right from wrong in a Christian way. What kind of examples are we setting for our children when we go to a church activity and there's beer there? Let's start setting a better example and put a stop to it. What would Christ think if he were present at this picnic?

To Alan M., a great and funny friend. Happy birthday.

We're former area residents and we really enjoy the Laker class pictures printed each week. We look forward to coming back home Sept. 22. Keep up the good work, committee.

25th Anniversary plans continue

Plans for the Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port High School's 25th Anniversary Celebration (September 21 & 22) are proceeding well, according to publicity chairperson Debbie McBride.

"Right now we're getting lots of questions about the entire weekend. People are even beginning to ask about reservations for the dinner/dance at the Colony House," McBride stated. "We're working on details and prices now and are planning on a second flyer, sometime in June, which will detail the costs and 'how-to-make reservations' within it!"

"We want to have as many people as possible get advance reservations. We feel that this will really aid in smooth flow of people throughout the weekend."

"One question we're being asked is 'Where is everyone going to park for the game?'" McBride added. "The Anniversary Committee is planning on running shuttle busses during the entire for most of the afternoon. So people will be able to park in town and then take the bus to the school."

Some additional things, McBride added, that the community can be on the lookout for are:

➤ T-SHIRTS: An order for a special 25th Anniversary T-shirt has been placed and should be on sale in the next few weeks. Watch the Progress-Advance for details.

➤ BUTTONS: Special numbered buttons, which are presently being printed, will be a celebration must. These buttons could have your lucky number on it.

They will also be on sale soon.

Remember, the money from every item that you purchase goes toward making this Anniversary Reunion Celebration a great success.

If you would like further information about the Anniversary Celebration, please write to the 25th Anniversary Committee at their special mailing address: P.O. Box 122, Pigeon, MI 48755. Mark your calendar now to "Celebrate 25 Years of Class" September 21 & 22, 1984.

Operation CARE helps motorists

Michigan State Police will again participate in "OPERATION CARE," emphasizing traffic safety this Memorial Day holiday weekend, May 26-28, according to Department Director Col. Gerald L. Hough.

Hough explains that "CARE," an acronym for "Combined Accident Reduction Effort," has been a campaign in Michigan and other states for several years, helping to hold the line on summer traffic casualties. Michigan's participation in the "CARE" effort last Memorial Day weekend held traffic deaths to 13, he says.

The State Police have also joined the Automobile Club of Michigan in an eight-day voluntary buckle-up program aimed at state motorists from May 24-31. Called the "All-American Buckle-Up," the campaign's theme is to double the 18% of motorists now using seat belts.

Over the past five Memorial Day holidays in Michigan, only one of 45 persons killed in a motor vehicle was wearing a seat belt. By wearing a seat belt, a minimum of 300 lives could be saved annually in Michigan, Hough adds.

Club news & notes

RUSH LAKE FARM BUREAU
The Rush Lake Farm Bureau group conducted their May meeting in the Hal Conkey home Thursday evening, preceded with a potluck dinner.

Mona McBride presided at the business meeting. William Ballagh gave highlights from the Rural Leader. Opal Dufty led the discussion topic, "The Long Road to a New Farm Bill," stressing farm program decisions of recent years seem to be stuck in a rut. The decisions have been mostly a reaction to the past and the present with little thought of the future. Opal reviewed the Fun Sheet on Grains.

There will not be any meetings during the summer months. The September meeting will be with the Roy Duftys.

ELKTON SENIOR CITIZENS
Sixty-two members of the Elkton Senior Citizens were present at the regular meeting last Tuesday at the Elkton Civic Center.

Dr. Wilson gave the invocation. The chairman welcomed Doris Beaver, Catherine Protzman, Hazel Beach and Emma Morley. New members of the group, Mike and Millie Renn, were welcomed. "America" was sung and the Pledge to the Flag given.

The Gemmels led in group singing. The birthdays of Laura Lenzner and Max Ritter were observed with the Birthday Song.

It was reported that Bea Gregor is home now. A card was signed for Ossie Wilson, who is in Sunny Acres. Florence Southworth told of the help people can get after being hospitalized through the proper county agencies provided by the government.

Edna Wakefield introduced Joyce Rapes, who spoke about nutritional needs of older people. She urged single people to be particularly concerned about eating a balanced diet.

Next week's program will be an open meeting.

Thumb area OUTDOORS

By DUANE GUENTHER
LOTS OF TROUT and salmon activity has been reported during last week. Cool temperatures of both air and water have the fish in close to shore. Large and small boats have been rewarded with some good size fish. At the top of the Thumb, both Port Austin and Grindstone City have been hotspots for lakers, browns and kings. Harbor Beach is currently having one of the best springs for king salmon in its short, sport fishing history.

SO FAR, THERE HAS BEEN LITTLE SUCCESS in the young walleye season. High winds have kept the bay rough, and the heavy pressure that is bound to come around Memorial Day, hasn't materialized as yet.

Don't look for glowing reports from fishermen, as walleye addicts are a closed-mouth group. . . .

IT TOOK A MICHIGAN FISHERMAN with a Michigan-made lure about 30 minutes last Wednesday night to land what may be both a new Michigan and world record brown trout from Michigan waters.

Robert Henderson, 46, of Vestaburg, was fishing on Arcadia Lake in Manistee County when the fish struck.

Bay Porter named to List

DeeAnn Richmond of Bay Port is among 204 Alma College students named to the Dean's List for outstanding academic performance during the 1984 Winter Term ending April 20.

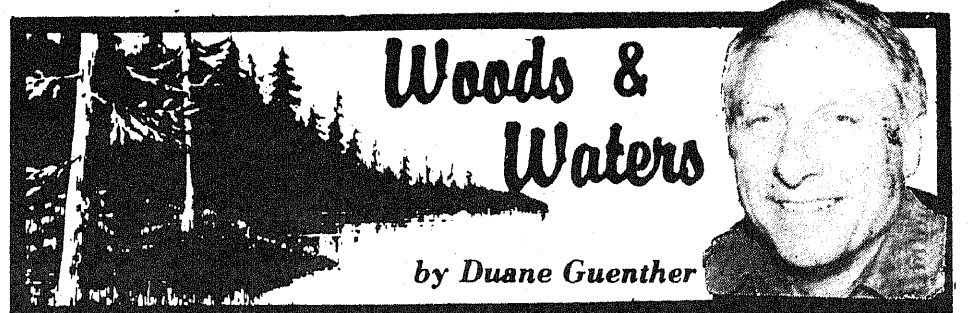

Students who achieve a 3.5 or better grade point

The big fish weighed 34 pounds, six ounces. The current state record brown trout weighed 31 pounds, eight ounces. The current world record brown trout weighed 33 pounds, 10 ounces and was caught in Utah in 1977.

Before the fish can take its place in the record books, it must be positively identified by scientific methods as a brown trout. Positive identification is necessary because brown trout and Atlantic salmon share many of the same characteristics.

average during a term while carrying a minimum of 13 credits (at least eight of which are evaluative grades) are named to the Dean's List.

Richmond, a 1983 graduate of Laker High School.

May is for morels

It was an unusually warm spring day. The dull browns and tans of the woodlot were giving way to new shoots of vivid greens and young buds of pale yellow. The man and his grown son had parked their station wagon just off the rutted road, and donning knee-high boots to protect their feet from the squishy mire they knew they would encounter, grabbed grocery bags and headed up the high, timber-strewn knoll looming in front of them.

They had been here before and knew the terrain. Skirting the obvious wet spots, they plowed forward in an incessant manner, nervously glancing at their watches. They only had two to three hours before they were due back home for the celebration of a birthday. Their eyes scanned the litter on the forest floor, searching for the tell-tale sign of their quarry.

The man let out a grunt of satisfaction, and bent to separate some dead leaves. There, all but hidden from view, was a Morchella Crassipes, or more commonly known as a morel. He pinched the stem close to the root and lifting the mushroom for a quick, close inspection, deposited it in the grocery sack. As he turned, he spotted another, and another, and another. The ground was literally alive with morels.

"C'mon over here," he instructed his son. "You're not going to believe this."

They quickly went to work. Pinching and shaking these small members of the mushroom family to rid them of accumulated dirt, they filled bag after bag. It was a bonanza. Neither of them could remember seeing so many morels. They hardly had to take a step to be able to reach enough of these delectable little morsels to fill one of the bags.

Soon every container was filled. In an effort to save time, the bags were tied together and draped over a pole with the men headed to their shoulders and started the trip back to the car. They continued to spot morels everywhere. They kicked them, stepped on them and bemoaned the fat that they had run out of containers and time.

They reached the car, transferred their loads to the trunk and headed home. When they measured out their treasure, it was discovered they had picked over 3 1/2 bushels of morels in just under two hours.

No, this story did not take place in Mesick, the mushroom capital of Michigan — or in Roscommon, Kalkaska, Traverse City, Gaylord, Grayling or any of the other "Mushroom Hotspots" that exist in our state. These morels were found in Huron County.

How do I know this? Because the people in the story were my father-in-law and brother-in-law. Both devoted morel addicts, who until the death of my father-in-law, were a super morel-producing team. My brother-in-law now carries on alone and each spring, finds him like many others in the strange cult, bent over at the waist, scanning the floor of mature timber stands

In search of the precious woodland delicacy. To those of you who aren't afflicted by the springtime urge to search for morels, it must seem as if people are crazy. Just think about the thousands of otherwise normal people driving for miles for the privilege of enduring mosquito bites, wet feet and a backache from stooping, all for the chance to return home with a mess of morels. The object of this quest is no ordinary mushroom. It's the morel, that stalked, spongy-topped fungus whose appearance in May signals the coming of the true spring.

It has been suggested that the romance of the morel lies chiefly in its brief period of availability, but I feel that most people seek it out because it is one of the most tasty mushrooms found, and it is so easy to identify.

The true morel has a deeply pitted, hollow top portion that's attached at its base to a hollow stem. Other mushrooms with folds or gnarled caps that bear some resemblance to the morel are attached only at the top, the same way an umbrella is attached at its handle.

Morels range from creamy-white to black, but all have the deep, spaced pits in the cap, a light-colored stalk and a hollow interior. No matter where you look for morels — whether in your own backyard or some secret swamp around Gagelown — the first morel is the hardest one to spot. The morels blend quite nicely into the mottled browns of last year's leaves, and until your eye becomes adept at seeing the mushrooms in spite of their protective coloration, you can be literally walking on morels without spotting one. But, like the people in the first part of this article, veteran morel stalkers get as close to the ground as they can and look toward the sky. Doing this sort of a squat throw morels into a silhouette that make them easier to see.

Don't forget to go equipped with baskets or cardboard boxes to stow your harvest in. Plastic bags do not protect the morel against breakage and they also promote hot, moist conditions that result in rapid spoilage.

Pick only fresh, young mushrooms, stem and all, so you can be sure of a positive identification. Trim off the lower part of the stem and remove any debris before you add it to your collection.

Keep morels cool and well-ventilated until you get home. Then clean and process or cook them as soon as possible. They are very perishable and lose quality rapidly.

If you should get more than you can handle, be sure and give me a call. I'll be glad to take some off your hands . . .

THE OWL THAT COULD NOT FLY

Karen Kasserman

Age eight, second grade at Elkton Elementary School, teacher: Miss Stephenson

Once upon a time there was a Little Owl. He climbed a tree. He could not get down. He could not fly. I wonder why?

The mother flew up in the tree. His father came and asked Little Owl to come with him to the moon.

"No! I can't fly!" said Little Owl. Father flew to the moon. Mother put Little Owl in his bed. "You need sleep," said Mother.

"Why?" asked Little Owl. Mother said, "You need your sleep because you will be going to a birthday party."

"How will I get down?" said Little Owl. "I don't know," said Mother. "Maybe I can teach you to fly."

"But it is only a little bit before I'm going to the party," said Little Owl. "Go to sleep," said Mother. "I will see if Father is coming from the moon. He is coming. I have to get you a present for the birthday party," said Mother.

"Oh, get two kites for a present," said Little Owl. When Mother Owl returned, Little Owl went flying holding onto his kite. "Mother I'm going to the birthday party now," said Little Owl.

"I am falling down!" said Little Owl. "I am flying now!" said Little Owl.

CARL'S HALLOWEEN PARTY

Clay Kelterborn

Age 12, sixth grade at Elkton Elementary School, teacher: Mrs. Kennedy

One halloween, Carl was planning to have a great big party. He was going to have all of the cats in the neighborhood come over, so he did. But there was only one thing missing. Carl thought to himself, trying to figure out what was missing.

Then it finally hit him, "A pumpkin," he said. "Halloween isn't Halloween without a pumpkin," he said. Then Carl went into deep thought. Where can I get a pumpkin? Finally Carl got an idea. Why don't I get a pumpkin from Mrs. Smith's pumpkin patch? So Carl went over to Mrs. Smith's pumpkin patch and that was when all the trouble started.

In the first place, Carl forgot to tell his friends that he was going to get a pumpkin, so all of his friends picked up the scent of his tracks and started to follow them. Second, there were people out in Mrs. Smith's pumpkin patch picking pumpkins for her. Carl wanted to hurry back with a pumpkin so his friends wouldn't wonder where he was.

Well, things didn't turn out the way he would have liked them to. Just as he was entering the pumpkin patch, he all of a sudden heard a lot of barking, screaming, and meowing, and sure enough, around the corner came all of his friends with all the neighborhood's dogs right behind them. Carl started running through the pumpkin patch with about 50 cats and dogs behind him. Pumpkins were flying all over the pumpkin patch. The workers were running in all directions yelling and screaming, and running into each other. A few pumpkins even went through the window of Mrs. Smith's house, one of them landed on her dinner, and another on her head. Mrs. Smith went into a state of shock, she didn't know what was happening. One of her servants went over to the window to see what was happening.

When he got to the window a pumpkin went flying through the window and hit him in the face. Then a cat went flying through the window and scratched his face. He was in such a bad state of shock he didn't know what hit him. He was so scared that he started to run all over the house knocking things down.

Finally Mrs. Smith got him to stop, he was shaking all over. Mrs. Smith asked him, "What on earth is going on around here?" The servant finally calmed down and said, "A zombie head flew in the window and hit me! Then a witch flew through the window and scratched my face with her long nails." Mrs. Smith said, "Are you out of your mind? I've had enough of this nonsense. I'm calling the police."

Meanwhile, outside throughout all of the fighting Carl said, "I do believe I have caught myself a rather nice pumpkin," Carl yelled. "Hey guys, let's go home now, I think I got a good pumpkin." So the cats and dogs went home.

On the way to Carl's place, each cat that had a dog chasing it would lead the dog to its home. Then the cat would have the dog chase it around in circles until the dog was dizzy. Then the cat would go over to Carl's house.

Meanwhile the police arrived at Mrs. Smith's home. Mrs. Smith and her servant told them their story. The police thought it was so funny they fell on their faces laughing. Mrs. Smith was charged with disturbing the peace, and well, you could imagine what they did with the servant when he told that ridiculous story about the witch and the zombie. They took him to a psychiatric ward.

As for Carl and his friends, they had a pretty unusual Halloween that no one will forget in that part of the town.

FROM MICHIGAN TO MEXICO

Carrie Bator

Age nine, fourth grade at Elkton Elementary School, teacher: Mr. Lang

For our summer vacation, my mom, dad, my brother Joey and I decided to go to Houston, Texas to see my Aunt Mary Jane and Uncle Bryan.

The first day we drove through Michigan and part of Indiana. We stopped at Pizza Hut for supper and slept at the Red Roof Inn.

We drove from Indiana to Louisville, Kentucky and went to the Kentucky Derby. Along the way, we saw the beautiful mountains. We stopped at Mammoth Cave. We walked half way through the cave and they shut the lights off on everyone. It was very dark and scary, but lots of fun!

We went to the place where Abraham Lincoln was born and saw his log cabin and a movie about his life. Our family ate at a restaurant and slept at Traveler's Inn. We got to Nashville, Tennessee, looked around for awhile, and I bought a purple and white shirt and a pin with my name on it.

We went to Memphis and stopped at Elvis Presley's house. We took a tour all around his house. He had a long waterfall inside his house. It was all very beautiful and big.

We slept in Jackson, Mississippi and got up early in the morning and started driving again. (We sure have been driving a lot!) We were heading towards New Orleans.

On our way, we drove over the Ponchatoula Causeway Bridge. It's 24 miles long and goes over a large lake. We walked all over New Orleans and went for a ride down the Mississippi River for two hours.

We finally got to my Aunt Mary Jane's and Uncle Bryan's house in Houston, Texas and stayed for a week. While we were there, all of us went to the NASA Space Center and learned a lot about space. We spent all day swimming in the ocean and collecting shells at a beach near Galveston.

My mom and dad still wanted to go farther south, so we drove to Corpus Christi, Texas. We went for a walk by the ocean and ate supper at a restaurant. There was a pool at our motel and we spent three hours swimming. It was very hot.

The next day, we drove to South Padre Island and stayed at a Holiday Inn on the ocean. The water was as clear as glass and we saw: Tiger Fish, lots of big jellyfish and Portuguese Man-of-War. My dad almost stepped on one, but it stung his shoe instead.

We walked for a long time and found a baby jelly fish and millions of sea shells, but then we decided to swim in the pool at our hotel. (It wasn't so salty.)

We headed for Brownsville, Texas and crossed over the Rio Grande River into Matamoros, Mexico. We had to pass the United States Border Patrol, because it was a different country. We didn't stay long because it was getting late and we wanted to drive up to San Antonio, Texas.

We walked through the Alamo and on the river walk. (That was beautiful.)

On our way home we stopped at Hot Springs in Arkansas and saw lots of natural hot springs. We had driven five thousand miles! The best part of our trip was being with my family.

MY TRIP TO FLORIDA

Sherry Stauffer

Age 10, fourth grade at Elkton Elementary School, teacher: Mr. Lang

The day I left, we went to Plymouth. The city is different than the country. There is too much noise!

Then we left to start our long journey to Florida. The car was packed because my cousins David, Tina, Mom, Grandma, Aunt Linda, my sisters Michell and Terri and I were in the car.

In Ohio the houses were all as skinny as toothpicks. They were really tall too.

Then we went to Kentucky. The mountains looked they were green with all the trees. We also looked over a little cliff.

After that we drove through Tennessee. It had mountains too. Some trees had pink flowers on them. It was a little hotter in this state.

Georgia was the next state we went through. We stopped at a motel with a pool. The water was warm!

In the morning, we took off. We saw the red clay on the side of the road. Then we went right into Florida.

We met my two aunts and uncles. We stayed at my aunt's that night. The next day we went to an amusement park. It had a roller coaster. That was fun!

A few days after that, we went to a miniature golf course. It had little houses all over. They also had a little store. Inside the building, where the golf clubs were, there was an arcade. That was so much fun!

They had bumper boats there also. My sister, Terri, and I got hung up on each other. Our uncle, Doug, got us off.

After that we went on miniature race cars. Terri, my sister, couldn't go on them because she was too short.

We even got play licenses. Our pictures were on them. I went about 20 miles per hour. We went around about two curves.

One evening we went to the beach. The water was salty. You couldn't open your eyes because of the salt.

The next day we packed up and left. The car was packed more than going down because we got some stuff at a sale. In no time we were out of Florida and in Georgia. We ate supper at a fancy restaurant. We got two rooms at a motel. This one didn't have a pool.

When we got home it felt good to sleep in our own beds. My dad said he will take us back some day and go to Busch Gardens and Disney World. I hope so.

WHEN TROUBLE CAME

Danielle Damen

Age eight, second grade at Elkton Elementary School, teacher: Mrs. Eby

My name is Alison. I was once an only child. All I had was cats to keep me company. Then one gloomy Friday the telephone rang.

My mother answered it. She seemed excited when she talked. She put it down and said, "Guess what, you're getting a brother."

I wanted to call him Page, but my mother called him Jeff. Then my mother and father went to see him. I was just too excited. It seemed the day would never end. But finally they came home.

I wanted to know all about him. A week later we went and got him. He looked so cute. When we got him home it was "pass the baby."

Then one of my mom's friends had a baby shower for Jeff. There was a kitten at the place it was at. I got to keep the kitten.

I named it Molly. At first the other cats were mean to Molly. But they got used to her. She was the best kitten in the world!

At first he got all the attention, and everyone kept asking, "How's your brother doing?" This made me feel very, very mad, and I could not do anything about it. But things got a little better.

He thinks I'm the greatest sister in the world and is always glad to see me. And I'm busy most of the time so I get lonely to see him. And now he can crawl and can get into more and more trouble all the time, but I still love him!

THE MAN WHO SWALLOWED A SPRING

Christina Iris

Age eight, second grade at Elkton Elementary School, teacher: Mrs. Eby

Once there was a man who liked to eat everything! One day he saw a spring that looked good so he ate the spring, and you know what happened? His neck stretched out like a spring!

After a few days he discovered that he could stretch it or flatten it anytime he wanted.

One day he had to go to a bakery that he had never been to before and the worst thing had happened. He had to go on a bumpy road! His head went right out of control and he had to go to a wall and bang his head on it and then it was over.

Mostly he thought he was really neat. One day he noticed that the spring had fallen to his stomach! And that very day he was invited to a party. So the night came for him to go. When everybody was eating, a woman was watching him when his tummy sprang out!

She said, "Why did your tummy do that?" He said, "Oh I just took a deep breath." So he went through that for a year.

But one day he saw that the spring had fallen to his knee! He went to a gym that morning. While there, he jumped the highest because he had a spring in his knee. But when he walked his knee would jerk a lot.

One day he just couldn't stand it so he called the doctor. The doctor took the spring out and the man was happy!

MY HERO

DeeDra Hewitt

Age 11, sixth grade at Elkton Elementary School, teacher: Mrs. Kennedy

Once upon a time there was an elephant named Swany. Swany was born by a beautiful lake full of graceful swans. Just after he was born, his mother was captured and sent to the zoo.

Swany was looking for his mother, when he backed up and fell into the lake. He hadn't ever been in the lake before, so of course, he was frightened. Some swans nearby heard his frightful cry.

"Sounds like that little fellow is in trouble," said a caring swan. She couldn't have little swans, so she cared for other little animals. The rest of the swans called he Mama Swan. Mama went over and told Swany not to be scared. Swany became attached to Mama Swan. He thought that, because his real mom was so loving, this must be his lost mom.

One day while Mama Swan was swimming near the shore, Swany heard something that went CRACK! He didn't think much of it. (It was the sound of a stick breaking.)

Then, all of a sudden, a red, sly, old fox lunged towards Mama. (Apparently the fox didn't see the two-ton elephant sitting by the edge of the woods.) The fox missed but he looked like he was going to try again.

Mama was flapping her wings, yelling and she was trying to get away from the fox. Swany heard his mom yelling out. He rushed to the water and wrapped his long trunk, (which has 40,000 muscles alone) around the surprised fox's neck. He swung the fox around and around his head, then he let the fox go.

When it landed, he ran off to the far side of the world. The fox was never seen again.

"Swany! My are you strong and ... so brave! You saved my life Swany. You are my hero!" said Mama Swan with tears in her eyes.

"We can to anything together," replied Swany. "I love you Mama Swan."

Said Mama, "I love you too, Swany." And Swany blew a big kiss to his favorite mom.

Swany the elephant and Mama Swan, the foster parent, lived happily ever after.

ERIC, THE RECORD-BREAKING MOUSE

Jason Gardner

Age 12, sixth grade at Elkton Elementary School, teacher: Mrs. Seeley

Chapter 1 - New Ones in Town

Joe and Priscilla mouse were a decent couple living in Lentaville. Priscilla was a small colony of mice, and was a town of friendliness and caring between all rodents.

That was why, when Priscilla announced her pregnancy to her husband, it was immediately known through the land.

The next month went very slow through the town, for when a baby was to be born the whole town was excited.

Joe was particularly excited, for he had been hoping to have a son ever since he was married. Now was his chance.

The day the babies came was a dull, gloomy day until their presence lit up the town. Joe breathed a sigh of relief as the third baby arrived as a ¼ pound baby boy mouse.

Along with the baby boy, he also was presented with two daughters.

Chapter 2 - Eric, The Beloved Son

Priscilla dressed the girls in fine dresses of silk, whereas Joe dressed his son in mouse jeans (which can hardly be seen with the naked eye) and a cotton shirt.

The babies soon grew old enough to speak, and must be given names. It was the mother's job to name the girls, and the father's to name the boys.

The girls were named Cathy and Sarah, and Joe's beloved son was named Eric. Eric was given the finest of everything, for he was the smartest, the most athletic and the most spoiled too.

His teachers said that he was the smartest young mouse in the school's history.

Chapter 3 - Fame and Fortune

After many years, Eric graduated at the head of his class and married a mouse named Savanah.

Savanah and Eric were very happy all through their years together. Savanah was a nurse and worked at the Lentaville Hospital. Eric went into physics, was a famous mathematician, and was a famous sports star all through the mouse world.

On his chest, Eric proudly displayed a medal given to him from Einstein himself. He was given the medal after explaining the theory of relativity to Einstein one dark and gloomy night, while eating salt herring. (If you've ever heard a mouse talk while eating salt herring, you can barely keep from laughing.)

He also made a speech in front of the president of the mouse world. It went like this:

"Friends and neighbors, I have called you here to explain how a paw print times the square root of a tail swish equals three scratches percent. As you know, a paw print equals two wholes, and the square root of a tail swish is two wholes. Therefore, a paw print times a tail swish equals three scratches percent makes four."

"So," concluded Eric, "That all means that two times two equals four."

The audience loved it, and knew he had the makings of a fine mouse.

A statue of him was made and placed in the center of Lentaville.

Chapter 4 - Eric, the Sports Star

Eric was a mouse who never gave up, and so it was when he wanted more than anything to run the 5 meter run in 6.2 seconds.

Eric trained and trained but could only make it in 10.7 seconds. He took vitamins, ate extra portions of cheese and finally, one day, he made it in 6.2 seconds.

Now that he had done that, he set a new goal. He wanted to wrestle, and win, King Kong Mouse! King Kong Mousey was a nine inch, 11 pound mouse. (That's like seven feet, 250 pounds in human measures.)

"Eric," said his father, "You're a very brave mouse, but to wrestle King Kong Mousey, that takes guts!"

"Yeah," said his mother, "You might be splattered all over the floor."

"No, I won't," said Eric. "I'm gonna beat him."

Eric trained for two months before he was ready to fight King Kong Mousey. The fight was scheduled for September 8, in the auditorium in the middle of Lentaville.

Eric could hardly wait for that Friday to come. It was Wednesday, and Eric was sure about the fight - he knew he could win.

The day of the fight finally rolled around, and Eric was up with the sun doing warm-up exercises.

The crowd was already gathering around the ring. His sisters, mother and father were in the crowd.

The judge of Lentaville was to referee the fight. "In this corner, weighing 11 pounds, standing nine inches tall," cried the judge, "King Kong Mousey."

From the crowd came great cries of boo! and nay - nay! "And in this corner, weighing three pounds, and standing six inches high ... Eric the Great!"

The crowd let out screams of applause and praise to Eric. (By the way, Eric the Great was Eric's fighting name.)

The bell rang and immediately Eric was knocked to the ground by a blow from King Kong Mousey. Eric staggered back up, and gave Mousey a hard rabbit punch and then an uppercut.

Chapter 5 - Eric the Champion

Mousey fought back with a fast fist in Eric's stomach. Eric socked Mousey in the nose and then the stomach. Then Eric gave him the old one-two in the face. Mousey hit the canvas like a log and stayed down for the 10 count.

Eric had won! Eric beat King Kong Mousey!

Eric was an old mouse, and retired as a famous, smart, athletic and record-breaking mouse. He had one son, and later on in the year 1896, Eric died.

A DRAGON NAMED ARKON

Aaron Bouck

Second grader at Elkton Elementary School, teacher: Mrs. White

Chapter 1 - The Lonely Boy

One day, a boy named Chris was walking down a dirt road. Chris did not have any friends to play with. He had raggedy old jeans and an old red shirt. Sometimes he would pick up a stone and throw it in the river by the road. Most of the time he would fish. Chris liked to catch carp and trout.

Chris was lonely. He said, "I wish I had a dragon to play with." He always dreamed of having a dragon.

"If I had a dragon I would name him Arkon," thought Chris. He and Arkon would be good friends. They would even be like brothers. Arkon and Chris would never be separated.

They would never be separated. They would always be friends and have fun.

But would the dragon like him for a permanent friend or brother? Chris thought that they would be good friends forever.

Chapter 2 - Chris Meets Arkon

It was in the early days of spring. Chris was walking down the road again. He walked by the river and there, sitting on the river bank, was the perfect dragon he had always dreamed of.

Chris could not believe his eyes! He had always dreamed of meeting a dragon, but he never thought his dream would come true.

Chris said, "Hey dragon, will you come here for a few minutes. I want to talk to you."

"You do? Do you really mean that?" said the dragon. "I sure do, come over by me. I think I'll name you Arkon," said Chris.

"Yes, I really like that name! What is your name?" said the dragon.

"My name is Chris. Do you like my name?" "I sure do. Let's be friends," said Arkon.

"O.K.," Chris said, "Let's go to my house." "Let's go!" replied Arkon.

While they were walking Chris said, "I always dreamed of having a dragon like you for a friend. I have no friends to play with except you."

"Well," said the dragon, "I didn't have any friends either, that is, until I met you. I hope we are friends forever!"

And Chris replied, "So do I, Arkon, so do I!"

And this very day Chris and Arkon have remained the best of buddies!

Record sugar acres set

Michigan sugar beet growers are planting a record 73,000 acres of sugar beets for Michigan Sugar Company this spring, surpassing last year's record

72,500, making it the largest in the sugar company's 78-year history. "The growers are very enthusiastic about this year's sugar beet crop," says Davis Sunderland, vice president of agriculture for Michigan Sugar Company. "We probably could have contracted over 100,000 acres if we had the slicing capacity," he adds.

The price structure of sugar beets as related to other crops has made sugar beets a profitable crop to grow this year. During the 1982-83 season, Michigan Sugar Company paid its growers more than $46 million or an average of $35.70 per ton.

Another reason why growers are anxious to plant sugar beets is because of the durability of beets.

"Sugar beets have always been the most durable crop in regards to sustaining adverse weather conditions, and with the addition of near perfect weed control, beets are now a very dependable crop to grow," says Sunderland.

The cold, damp spring weather initially put Michigan Sugar Company's growers slightly behind their five-year average for spring planting. But during the last week, growers planted nearly 10,000 acres a day, bringing the crop back on schedule.

Last year Michigan Sugar Company produced a record 330 million pounds of sugar.

IN WAR OR PEACE, LET US PAY HOMAGE TO THEIR SACRIFICE

We fight not to enslave, but to set a country free.

— Thomas Paine

"He will swallow up death in victory; and ...will wipe away tears from off all faces."

— Isaiah 25:8

Almost every day we hear about someone who gave his or her life to rescue another living creature. It might be the man who drowned while saving a child from a drainage ditch; or the mother who pushed her toddler from the path of an oncoming car and then fell in front of it; or the father who died in the burning house after getting his family out; or the driver who crashed into a power pole to avoid hitting a dog; or the policeman killed in an explosion while shielding another person with his own body; and so on. Let us honor them all; as well as the heroes throughout our history who died on the battlefield so that we could continue to enjoy the freedoms we usually take for granted. Remember them in your prayers wherever you are, including your House of Worship, which you still have the right to choose because of the price in human life that was paid for it.

From humdrum to hilarity

Read Romans 12
Whatever you do, eating or drinking or anything else, everything should be done to bring glory to God. I Corinthians 10:31 Phillips.

The composer Rossini said, "Give me a laundry list, and I'll set it to music."
Ordinary, drab, cheerless routines of life can be turned into delightful music.

Don't let the ordinary get you down, God is saying: strive for the extraordinary. Do your tedious and boresome work as worship.

Your surroundings may be irksome and exasperating — fighting traffic, breathing foul air, facing assembly-line drudgery, teamed up with unregenerate and vulgar workers. So? Free your spirit from earthly shackles, rise above the glumness, turn the dreary into delight.

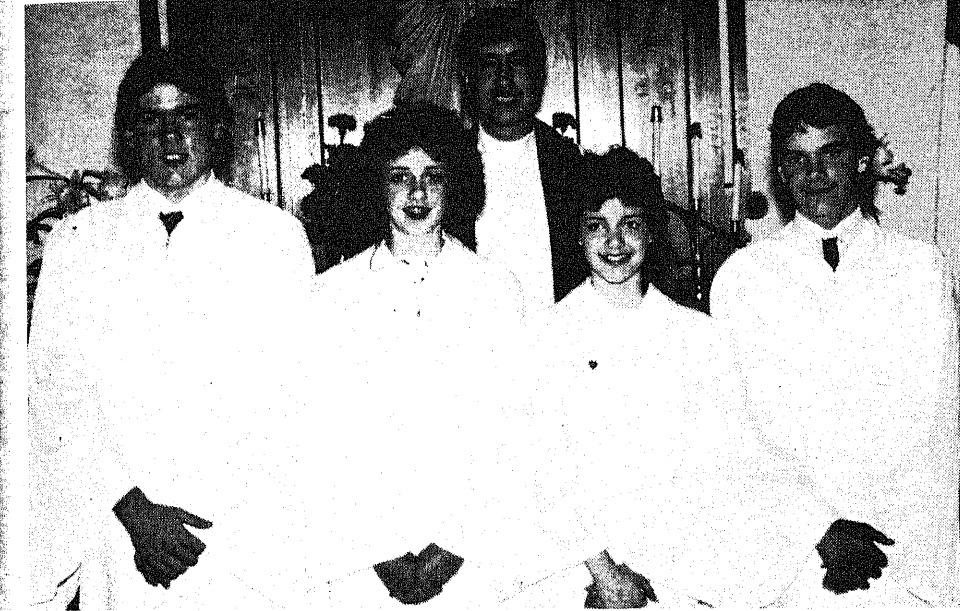

Start thanking God for hands to work, for freeways to use, for cars to drive, for homes and dear ones to love.

Rise upward into the world of the spirit. There taste the Father's love, the Savior's grace, the Holy Spirit's friendship.

Realize who you are: a redeemed, loved, cherished child of God, a temple of the Holy Spirit, a member of Christ's body, a bearer of marvelous gifts, an heir of a fabulous estate.

Set the laundry list into music!

Dear Lord, instead of being a groundling chained to this earth, let me rise upward into the holy and heavenly. Amen.

Changes were announced by Fr. Theodore LaMarre, pastor.

Good Shepherd burns mortgage!

More than 100 members and friends of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church enjoyed watching church leaders Tom Wing, left, and Bruce Baur burn the Caseville church's $85,000 mortgage during special services and potluck dinner Sunday night.

Pastor Randall Schultz and others look on during the ceremony, which came 10 years and one day after the May 19, 1974 dedication of the sanctuary building. The 15-year mortgage was paid off five years early, and Pastor Schultz noted nearly $500,000 has been spent on ministry work in the community in that time.

"We Will Build a House, With Prayer Its Deep Foundation" was the original slogan. Architect was Merritt, Cole & McCallum of Farmington, while Supervising Contractor was Carl T. Rummel of Sebewaing. The church is planning a new building project, to add Sunday School rooms and a Fellowship Hall.

ORGAN DONATIONS

Thanks to the miracles of modern medical science, healthy organs from the body of a deceased person can be successfully transplanted to help restore the health of a living person. These commonly include kidneys, corneas, hearts, livers and skin.

The decision to make such a donation is, of course, a personal one. It might be well to add, however, that virtually all religions in the United States have no restrictions in regard to the donation of organs to help another patient regain his or her health.

One should also keep in mind that the donation of an organ in no way modifies one's funeral arrangements. The removal of the organ is carried out in an operating room by a team of surgeons and nurses for transplantation to the recipient. Then, after a brief post-mortem, the body can be transferred to the funeral home and the decedent's wishes carried out as specified and desired.

except when the circus comes to town. It makes me sad to tell them we just don't have the money. I've entered many contests to see if maybe we could win some circus tickets but never have any luck. Could you possibly help make this happen? We would be mind standing if we can't get seats. -- Ms. M.O., New York.

Dear Mr. Ross: I'm a 29 year-old Puerto Rican mother of four young boys whose father has left us. So far we've been able to get by in a small apartment in the Bronx. We get $290 a month from public assistance and $188 in food stamps. It's tough going, but by pinching pennies we somehow manage to scrape through. I walk with the boys to parks and museums that are free. My boys are good, Mr. Ross. They never complain

Dear Mrs. O.: I called David Rosenwasser of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus. The good people from "The Greatest Show on Earth" feel as I do: All young children should have an opportunity to see the circus with their mom and dad. I always wanted to never get to see the circus as a boy. Thanks to Mrs. Rosenwasser, your family will see it all at the Madison Square Garden. From his office we're getting tickets for five of their best seats for Saturday of this week. From my office I've sent a check for plenty of hot dogs, peanuts and soda pop. To make your day even more memorable... my good friends at Fugazy Express are chaffering you there and back in their newest Lincoln limousine. Hope you all have a real good time.

Dear Mr. Ross: There are people who are always complaining about the Internal Revenue Service and taxes, taxes, taxes. Then there are those who remind us (as if we don't already know) that only two things you can be sure of in life are death and taxes. I prefer the IRS, don't you? D.D. Sr., Colorado.

Dear Mr. Ross: I live alone. I'm 75 and need two canes to get around. I do most of my shopping by mail. By the time I've written friends and relatives who all live far off, the postage has taken a big bite out of my Social Security check. I can't afford telephone calls. Stamps seem like such a small thing, but when you buy a lot they all count up. -- Mrs. H.W., New Jersey.

Dear Mrs. W.: I'm sending you 100 postage stamps and a supply of stationery. And with New Jersey Bell I've arranged to pay $100 for long distance phone calls to your friends and relatives. To save money, I use my phone a lot on Saturdays and Sundays. Just because you have difficulty getting around doesn't mean you have to be lonely.

Dear Mr. Ross: I'm single and have a good paying job with IBM. I worry a lot and can't begin to tell you how difficult life has been since graduation from college three years ago. I could use an extra $10,000 for a one-month vacation in Monte Carlo to forget my problems -- unless you can suggest a better way. -- S.R., Oklahoma.

Dear Mr. R.: One way to forget your problems is to help others solve theirs. As for a vacation in Monte Carlo... no dice.

Percy Ross welcomes your letters. Write him in care of The Progress-Advance, P.O. Box 460, Pigeon, MICH 48755. Include your telephone number, if you wish, for a personal reply.

The Caseville Chapter of the National Honor Society are scheduled to induct eight students in a ceremony tonight (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. in Caseville Public School gym.

To be eligible for membership consideration, students must have a cumulative grade average of 85 percent. Additionally, potential members must meet high standards of leadership, service, character and citizenship, according to chapter advisor Colleen Bednerek. Leadership is based on the student's participation in community or school activities.

To meet the service requirement, the student must have been active in service projects in the school and community.

Character is measured in terms of integrity, behavior, ethics and cooperation with both students and faculty. Citizenship is measured by the student's participation in civic-related organizations and/or activities. Members were evaluated by the faculty council.
