Smallest township votes quickly!

BARQUES - There won't be a long line of voters at Pointe Aux Barques Township, at the northern tip of the Thumb next Tuesday morning, November 6, when polls open for the 9 registered voters who are expected to turn out in person in Michigan's smallest election precinct.

Actually, there are 39 registered voters in the township, but only a few reside in the Pointe resort year-round, so the others will be mailing in their absentee ballots, from Detroit, Miami, New Orleans, Tarrytown, NY, and a dozen other towns and cities across the US.

With Sunday's change to Central Time, dawn will probably be breaking over the little community along Lake Huron, that is still displaying towering yellow and red maples, brown oak trees and brilliant green pines.

When the first voter steps through the door of the home of Ned and Ellen Hilborn — which will be the polling place Tuesday the balloting will be as official and correct as the most sophisticated and populous precinct anywhere in Michigan.

The Hilborn residence displays a small sign in front, denoting it is the residence of the "Superintendent" of the communi-"Eight wonderful years" is how Hilborn, a returned Viet veteran who was once stationed at the nearby Port Austin Air Base, describes his years on the job. Ellen Hilborn, his wife, is the township treasurer. They met when he was based at Port Austin and she resided in nearby Pinnebog.

With only 9 resident voters on hand all through the year, and 5 township officers required by law to conduct township business, it means that more than half of the adult population holds some kind of public office.

There will be some changes in the township lineup of officers after the November 6 election. Helen Gilbride, of Pointe Aux Barques and Grosse Pointe, is not running again for the clerk office, which she had held for 10 years. She is an unopposed candidate to remain on the township board for another term. Running for the clerk office which she is leaving is Anne B. Milligan. Mrs. Hilborn is a candidate to succeed herself as treasurer, and Ruth Glancy is a candidate for township supervisor, unopposed, to succeed Charles Clippert, who is not running again. Joe Farley is running for another term as board member, and Mrs. Gilbride will succeed John Sabo, who has been a board trustee for the past decade.

When voters come into the polling place on Tuesday morning, they'll sign their ballot applications and they're checked off just as they are in Detroit or Lansing or anywhere

Complex ballot faces us Tuesday

Local voters will be greeted by one of the most varied and complex ballots ever in the 1984 Presidential General Election this Tuesday, Nov. 6, at various township and city balloting precincts

Besides the obvious choices between re-electing Republican President Ronald Reagan or Democratic challenger Walter Mondale, Thumb Area voters will also choose one of two U.S. Senators from Michigan, their Congressional Representative, eight educational nominees for state and university boards, State Representative, County Prosecutors, Sheriffs, County Clerks, Treasurers, Registers of Deeds, Drain Commissioners, County Commissioners, Township Board members and an occasional township millage proposal - PLUS electing seven persons to state and local judgeships on non-partisan ballots.

Then, there are three proposals being presented to voters, to cap off an extremely involved election day, with voting possible from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

In some areas, an estimated one third of all votes are being cast by absentee ballots, following Republican and Democratic drives encouraging persons to vote this way. Absentee numbers are higher locally, some township officials say, but total 20% or 25% of ballots in most local PRESIDENTIALLY SPEAKING: PRESIDENT Ronald Reagan and Vice President George Bush are seeking re-election to another four-year term, and are opposed by former Vice President Walter Mondale and Cong. Geraldine Ferraro.

Libertarian Party candidates are David Bergland and James Lewis, Workers World Party candidates are Larry Holmes and Gloria LaRiva, Socialst Workers Party hopefuls are Mel Mason and Matilde Zimmerman, Workers League candidates Ed Winn and Helen Halyard and Communist Party USA hopefuls Gus Hall and Angela Y. Davis.

Three couples of Independent presidential candidates are Lyndon LaRouche and Billy Davis for the two top jobs, Sonia Johnson and Richard Walton and Dennis Serrette and Nancy CONGRESSIONALLY: Two Democrats and two Republicans are vying for the U.S. SENATOR and 8TH DISTRICT CON-GRESSMAN seats up for election. Incumbent Democratic Sen. Carl Levin (D-Detroit) is being opposed by Republican hopeful Jack Lousma (R-Ann Arbor) for the six-year term. Incumbent Cong. Bob Traxler (D-Bay City) is being opposed by John Heussner (R-Marlette).

STATEWIDE, two persons will be elected to terms on the STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION from among four major party candidates. Republicans Dorothy Beardmore and Cherry Jacobus are running against Gumecindo Salas and John Watanen, Jr.

Two MSU BOARD OF TRUSTEES posts are being sought by Democrats June Kretzschmer of Pigeon and Charles Vincent, against Republicans Dean Pridgeon and Kathy Wilbur. Two U of M BOARD OF REGENTS seats are being sought by Republicans Neal Nielsen and Veronica Latta Smith against Democrats Marjorie Lansing and Robert Nederlander. The two WAYNE STATE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF GOVERNORS seats selected statewide this year are being sought by Democrats Winifred Fraser and Denise Lewis, against Repubicans George Bashara and Gary Artinian.

STATE PROPOSALS: Three statewide proposals initiated by citizens will be decided next Tuesday.

PROPOSAL A would provide a State Constitutional

Amendment to control the state's beaucracry's rules by a joint committee of the State Legislature. Critics say it will clutter the Constitution, will allow a few legislators to control the executive branch and will give lobbyists a chance to stall reforms. Backers say it will insure the Legislature has a chance to control the state's massive bureaucracy.
PROPOSAL B would establish a new state fund - the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund - which would be similar to the present Kammer Recreational Land Trust Fund, but one which couldn't be raided by lawmakers. The Kammer fund uses royalties from mining plus oil and gas drilling on state-owned land to purchase and preserve public lands. In all, more than $142 million has been "raided" by the Legislature, which could not be possible with the new fund.

PROPOSAL C, by far the most controversial of the state plans, would roll-back tax levels to 1981 levels, and would require public approval of any new tax increases. Opponents say 20,000 jobs would be lost and $2.3 billion in state tax revenue and matching federal funds would be lost if it passes. and the citizens would do what lawmakers should be doing Backers, including former gubernatorial candidate Richard Headlee, say state and local spending are out of hand and must be controlled somehow.

Dozens of groups, including Gov. Blanchard, state educators, local school districts, the UAW and others oppose the law, which would affect income, single business, cigarette, liquor, motor fuel and vehicle license taxes - but not school millages, since those already are voted upon by the public.

New taxes would be required by majority approval by voters or four-fifths approval by lawman

STATE HOUSE: A Fairgrove incumbent is being challenged by a Bay Port newcomer for the 77TH DISTRICT STATE REPRESENTATIVE seat, for a two-year term. Incumbent Republican Dick Allen (R-Fairgrove) is opposing Democrat Duane S. Harder (D-Bay Port) for the seat.

Allen voted against the state income tax proposal and is opposed to the Voters Choice proposal. Harder says his chief goals are to help the small businessman and farmer

The 77th District includes all of Huron and all but three southern townships in Tuscola County.

COUNTY GOVERNMENT: Most Huron County election decisions were made during the August Primary. County-wide, only the SHERIFF post is challenged.

Incumbent Republican SHERIFF Richard V. Stokan is being challenged by Democrat John E. Stickney of Port Hope.

Other County positions are Republicans and unopposed.
They include: PROSECUTOR Karl Kraus, CLERK Helen Lemanski, TREASURER Roberta Moetteli and REGISTER

OF DEEDS Frances Holdwick. COUNTY COMMISSION opposition is seen in only one District, number 6, as incumbent Republican Ron Knoblock (R-Port Austin) is challenged by Caseville Police Chief Jack Jensen (D-Caseville), for the two-year seat on the six-member board Incumbent Republicans Calvin Reibling (R-Elkton) in Please turn to Page 5

TED AND ALBERTA SCHUBEL on the rear porch of their home in Port Austin. When Schubel was first elected Huron County register of deeds, it was November, 1930, and he reamined in office through 1938. In 1939 he went into banking at Port Austin and Caseville, and in 1945 the Schubels returned to the Pointe, remaining until their retirement. He managed the workers who maintain buildings at the Pointe, operated the golf course and looked after the general well-being of the community. The Schubels' 2 sons, when they were boys, caddied and ran errands, just as he did. One is Judge John Schubel, Huron County district judge, and the other is Dr. Jerry R. Schubel, oceanographer and author of related books, on Long Island, NY. Ted still golfs at the Pointe whenever weather permits, and Mrs. Schubel hikes and bikes nearly every day. He is 83, and they have been married 52 years. Single in his first year as register of deeds in 1930, Schubel lived in Bad Axe, but after he and Alberta were married they moved "north" and have lived there since. Mrs. Schubel recalls when Ted was first elected, the officeholders and their families had Christmas parties and other get-togethers. "It was such fun", she recalls. Schubel is the only living ex-register, as all those who held office from 1939 to 1979 are deceased. The present register of deeds is Frances Holdwick of Harbor Beach.

WESTERN LAWYERS PLAN APPEAL

AFTER GUILTY VERDICT FRIDAY

Lawyers for Ellen Jane Western say they plan to appear her first-degree murder and conspiracy to commit murder verdicts handed down Friday afternoon by a St. Clair County jury. The 39-year-old Bad Axe woman was found guilty by the four-man, eight-woman jury following 14 hours of deliberation, in the Jan. 22 shooting death of her husband, Jerry Huron County Circuit Judge M. Richard Knoblock revoked Mrs. Western's $100,000 bail, and she is remaining in the St. Clair County Jail in Port Huron. She will be sentenced at 9 a.m. on Friday, Nov. 9, along with the other two persons already convicted in Huron County's first murder trial in nearly eight years.

Ralph Ross, 52 of Caseville, pled guilty to second degree murder last month for his part in helping Mrs. Western find a murder last month for his part in helping Mrs. Western find a "hit-man" to kill her husband. Michael Bieri, 32 of Elkton, was found guilty of first-degree murder for receiving $4000 for pulling the shotgun trigger in the case. Mrs. Western and Bieri face life sentences with no parole, while Ross faces 10 to 20 years after he became a prosecution witness.

Mrs. Western was charged with seeking someone to harm or kill her husband, who she said had beaten her. An estimated 30 people were contacted by Ross, who admitted to a love affair with Mrs. Western, to find a murder "hit man" to kill Western.

Her attorneys say they plan an appeal. Huron County Sheriff Richard V. Stokan – a family friend of Jerry and Ellen Western -- said after the verdict was read that he would again make contact with friends, advising them to "tell the entire truth, from the very beginning" if they or family members were in trouble with the law. "If they are friends of the sheriff, they can't expect that if they are involved in a criminal activity, I can overlook it," Stokan said Friday.

Mrs. Western's family members said after the trial Stokan had given only one side of the story.

UNIONVILLE WOMAN RECOVERING Becky Austin, 18 of Unionville, is in critical condition at St. Mary's Hospital, Saginaw, following a Thursday night accident on Colling Road south of Elmwood Road near Caro. Tuscola County Sheriff's Deputies said she lost control of the auto and her car skidded sideways, striking a tree. Caro Firemen used their "Jaws of Life" equipment to free ther from her vehicle.

CAR-DEER ACCIDENTS UP

Traffic accidents between cars and deers are up nearly 20% in Huron County, and law enforcement officials are frustrated with the hunters' delight of more animals being

In Huron County, 438 car-deer accidents were reported in 1983, up from 371 the year before. The story's the same in Tuscola County, where 372 were reported last year versus 346 in 1982. Sanilac County reported 413 accidents in 1983, against

"We definitely have a problem with car-deer accidents," says Michigan Department of Natural Resources Wildlife Biologist Dave Dominic. "Each year it seems to get worse. It's a wonder more people aren't killed.'

Herd sizes have increased in recent years, and now average seven or eight deer per square mile. Dominic reminds motorists that it is illegal to remove a deer from an accident scene unless the state police or sheriff's department have been contacted.

MAN TURNS HIMSELF IN
Steven S. Simon, 20 of Millington, turned himself in to State Police at Caro Friday in the shooting of DNR Conservation Officer Timothy Burke of Caro. He was shot in the face by suspected poachers Oct. 20 in the M-46 and Sheridan Road area southwest of Caro.

Simon's bond was set at $250,000, and he was to be arraigned Monday in 71st District Court, Caro, on attempted murder and felony firearms charges. The attempted murder charge carries a maximum life imprisonment sentence.

Burke and officer Juris Didrichson, 36 of Sebewaing, were chasing a red and black vehicle when a shot was fired, striking Burke in the face through shattered windshield glass.

COUNTY VALUES "ON HOLD"

Equalization apportionment reports for Tuscola and Huron Conties are being held up due to a legal battle in Owendale-Gagetown School District which straddles the county line. A legal ruling must be made in Huron County on whether or not to aply the Headlee Tax Limitation rollback factor (taking the multiplier to .9877 instead of 1.00) in Tuscola County property in the Owen-Gage District.
Owen-Gage School officials say the rollback doesn't apply to them, while Tuscola County Prosecutor Scott Stermer says he feels the ruling no longer applies. About $9200 in Tuscola County taxes are involved.

Huron Commissioners are set to decide the county's apportionment numbers this Wednesday (Oct. 31), while no date has been set again in Tuscola.

POLICE BLOTTER NEWS

Nicholas Konke, 17 of Caseville, was treated at Scheurer Hospital, Pigeon, and transferred to Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, and released later Friday, following a roll-over car accident about midnight Thursday at M-25 near Gagetown Road. Huron County Sheriff's Deputies say his vehicle entered the south ditch, hit the edge of a driveway, rolled over and struck a tree, landing on its top, as Konke reached for his lighter. Leroy Schember, 39 of Unionville, was treated and released at Bay Medical Center for eye injuries early Friday morning, after his vehicle entered the west ditch on Lange Road near McAlpin Road southeast of Sebewaing. emocrats rightfully this season have complained that President Reagan recalls quotes and ideas of former Democratic presidents too often. They say his methods of bringing up concepts by one-time leaders of the opposite party is not fair, or right, or really cricket.

We think they have a point. But President Reagan needn't look any further than his own party, if he wants some inspiring words to live by. And the words come from a well-liked president, but one not especially remembered for eloquence or for great speeches: Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Washington Post Columnist Richard Cohen recalls an arms reduction speech made in April, 1953 by the newly-elected President Eisenhower. He'd only been in office for three months at the time he spoke to the American Society of Newspaper Editors, but Eisenhower biographer Stephen Ambrose says that April 16 message was "the finest speech of his presiden-

Here's what President Eisenhower said, regarding the Soviet-U.S. relationship and the just-beginning arms race:

"The worst to be feared and the best to be expected can be simply stated. The worst is atomic war. The best would be this: a life of perpetual fear and tension; a burden of arms draining the wealth and labor of all people.

"Every gun that is made, every warship launched, every rocket fired, signifies, in the final sense, a theft from those who hunger and are not fed, those who are cold and not clothed.

"The cost of one heavy bomber is this: a modern brick school in more than 30 cities. It is two electric power plants, each serving a town of more than 60,000 population. It is two fine, fully equipped hospitals.

"We pay for a single fighter with a halfmillion bushels of wheat. We pay for a single destroyer with new homes that could have housed more than 8000 people.

"This is not a way of life at all, in any true sense. Under the cloud of threatening war, this is humanity hanging from a cross of iron.'

Whew. That's quite a comparison, when these "needed" military equipment lists are compared with truly needed improvements for living, here and abroad. Why doesn't President Reagan quote past presidents in his own party? Perhaps because they didn't say what he's say-

If anything, the width, breadth (and expense) of today's weaponry makes each bomber worth 60 or 100 or 200 school buildings...or more. Not only has the arms race continued, it has escalated massively since President Eisenhower warned about too much power being assumed by the "military-industrial complex." Truly, Ike was a simple man, but he was Both our nations have enough firepower to completely eliminate the entire world several times over -- right now. Whether we build the B-1 or Stealth Bomber, they'll only add more capacity for something we already have in excess. Prehaps President Reagan is trying to tire out the Russians with our defense spending -- not with weaponry, but with cash. As writer Cohen notes, "We won't bury them, we'll bankrupt them.

Surely we have better priorities for our tax monies. Yes, we want a strong defense. But we already have one stronger than we'll ever truly

Our bridges, highways, sewer systems. schools and hospitals are crumbling now, but the money to repair or replace them isn't available. It's destined to go to the military, for some reason only a misguided president must know. It's certainly not apparent to the citizenry at large.

Roses and Thorns

Trivially speaking...

Between shelling corn and harvesting beets, life needs a little excitement these days. Certainly the Lions, Wolverines and Spartans are not providing much excitement to-date. Laker football and girls basketball are definitely exciting, but it is a most difficult thing for a University of Michigan alumnus to cheer for a team whose colors are green and white and whose fight song is the same tune as that of some little school just east of our State Capitol.

Life did get exciting for 10 minutes this week when a newsletter from my alma mater's math department had a 'mind bender" problem. You see, I thrive on solving such things others would consider trivial. Each monthly issue of "Discovery" magazine has inside the back cover such mind bender problems. The classic problem to-date was about a census taker standing on the front porch of someone's house asking the ages of their three daughters, only to be told that the product of the ages is 72 and the sum is the street adress of the house (which the census taker could see, but we did not know). The census taker said he could not figure the three ages from that information; so the owner said that the oldest ikes chocolate cake -- and with that information the census-taker figured out the three ages. What were the three ages? An, such delightful trivia. (By the way, the answer will appear in next week's column. Any mind bender experts can phone in their solution to Sound-Off).

()n a slightly different side of trivia, two Pigeon residents, Mark Rummel (the Desert Fox) and Paul Clabuesch (if your feet are too big and your head is small, you can go to State just to play football) have thrown down the gauntlet for any and all challengers to a friendly game of Trivial Pursuit! The stakes have yet to be established, but I am sure part of which will be $1.00 in fines at next week's Rotary Club for my brash descriptions of the above two characters. Ah, such is Well anyway, I recently read about a college student majoring in physics who would do Rummel and Clabuesch proud. This student was exceptionally brilliant (mediocre would have been sufficient to do these two proud), but this was part of his problem. Test questions were so mundane and simple, that he had to look for the trivial and out of the ordinary answers that fit the question.

One physics final had a problem: "Explain in detail how you would use a barometer to determine the height of a building." Now the obvious answer would be to determine the barometric pressure difference between the base and top of the building and thereby compute the height through a simple formula. Well, this was too obvious for our student. So the following are answers he listed to this question.

the building. Tie the string to the barometer. Then lower the any new events. ราง เก็บ คราย เพลาะ เพลาะ เพลาะ เพลาะ เพลาะ เพลาะ เพลาะ เพลาะ เพลาะ พลาย พลาย พลาย พลาย เพลาะ เพลาะ เพลาะ เพลา barometer over the side of the building and feed out the string until the barometer touches the ground below. The height of the building equals the length of the string fed out plus the length of the barometer. NOTE: the barometer must be used in solving the problem.

2) Place the barometer in an upright position on the ground. Measure the height of the barometer and the length of the shadow it casts. Then measure the length of the shadow cast by the building. The ratio of the barometer height to the ength of its shadow is the same as the ratio of the building height to the length of its shadow. Since three of the four parameters are easily measured, the fourth can be found by

3) Take the barometer and an accurate stopwatch to the top of the building. Hold the barometer over the edge of the building. Drop the barometer and time how long it takes for said barometer to smash on the street below. With that time it is easy to figure the height of the building, since the acceleration of a freely-falling body under the influence of gravity expressed as the rate of increase of velocity per unit of time with the value at sea level in a latitude equal to that of the building is 980.1018 centimeters per second per second. 4) Lay the barometer flat on the ground a few blocks from the building. Point the barometer toward the building. Now raise the edge of the barometer closest to the building whle me through the years in my leaving the edge farthest from the building on the ground. As work with the Senior Citizens soon as the barometer points directly to the top of the of Caseville. It has been my building, determine the angle that the barometer makes with the ground. Since the building makes a 90° angle with the ground, we have a right triangle with vertices at the base of the building, the top of the building and the base of the barometer. Since the distance from the base of the building to the barometer can be easily measured, and we have the angle at the vertex of the barometer, then the height of the building is easily found - it equals the distance from the harometer to the building's base times the tangent of the angle formed by the barometer. 5) If you do not have much time nor any interest in mathematical trivia, then the final solution is for you. Simply take the barometer into the building and knock on the manager's door. When he/she comes to the door say: "I'll give you this barometer if you tell me how high this building 'Thus, you have determined the building's height by using

No doubt there are many more solutions out there in "reader land" but I probably will not be around next week to listen to them. The Desert Fox is not known for his compassion. # RECOLLECTIONS

By GEORGE KEIM

DEAR EDITOR:

Some time ago, a few of us fellows were talking about how some of the older cars looked and ran. My Mother told us when she saw her first car, they heard a noise and some neighbors across the road velled there was an automobile coming past. So, they all ran out to see it.

Soon a thing came down the road. The dust was flying. One of her brothers had climbed up on an old building close to the road, so he could see it better. And they talked about it for

My Dad said people used to call ahead on the elephone -- which people had before the cars came out - and told the people that an automobile was coming. And if there were any horses close by the road, they'd run to the back of the farm and stay there until you got

He-said cars made an awful noise, and when you met one on the road, the people in the car would stop and ead the horses past. If they didn't stop, you'd have to hold your horse pretty tight. A lot of them would run called Bruch cars going past. They were little cars with the steering wheel on the right side and were chain driven.

Some cars had the gear shift on the outside and drivers would stick their hands out of the side curtains to shift gears. People often had flat tires and a lot of people used to stop beside the road and fix their tires.

One of my uncles once went to Bad Axe and only had one flat tire and thought he did pretty good!

Another man drove from Midland to Bay Port, which is 60 miles, in three hours and bragged how he made 20 miles per hour. If anybody went into the ditch, the whole countryside found out about it. And people didn't want a sedan car because they said if it went into the ditch, they would cut themselves all up.

Our first car was a 1917 Studebaker. Mother never drove a car, but it took a good man to drive that

Letters from our readers

Letter to the Editor:

I would like to thank all the people who have supported pleasure to have been there to serve you, especially in my endeavor to complete the ly people I have met and worked with as we all looked forward to the day when this complex would be completed. This project has been my goal for the last eight years since the beginning of the Casevile Senior Citizens

I was just informed at our last meeting by John DiVincentis, chairman of the Senior Citizens Commission that I have been relieved of my position as Secretary-Treasurer. I have been told to submit my resignation by next Wednesday, which would be Oct. 31. I personally feel this is not a Halloween Prank, rather a great injustice to my services over the years. I am in touch with the right sources to try to secure my position as I do not feel this request was justified.

I would appreciate your support in this matter, and together we will see this injustice corrected. Again, want to thank all of you senior citizens of Caseville for your loyal support.

Dorothy Fogle (EDITOR'S NOTE: Since this is our last issue prior to Tuesday's election pitting Divincentis against Mrs. Fogle, It should be pointed out this letter is a portion of one viewpoint in an on-going dispute between two persons seeking election to the temporary Caseville Township Supervisor's post.)

Usually all resident voters come in early to cast their ballots, and then there's a wait until around 10:30 am when the first and only — mail of the day arrives, so election day absentee ballots can be counted.

Party preference is usually Republican, sometimes by unanimous count, but some longtime residents remember times when as many as 2 or 3 Democrats voted their preference. Schubel explained that by stating that when G. Mennen Williams was a governor candidate for his 6 terms, he always received some votes. "Mrs. Williams had lived at Pointe Aux Barques as a girl, and so the family was well-known here. Naturally, they had friends and he ceived its name in the days of French traders and trappers, who said it resembled the prow of a ship. A government survey in 1833 called it "a rough, rocky, small-caverned cape". Its development into one of the finest summer colonies in Michigan began in 1896 by Stanford T. Crapo, a Pere Marquette Railroad official who recommended that the company sell Tipof-the-Thumb land to Detroit socialities for a summering place. Twice daily, during the summer, a train arrived from Detroit, stopping at the private station which later became the golf house. A special train, dubbed "The Flyer", arrived early Friday evening after stopping only at Port Huron, and departed again early Monday for the convenience of working husbands whose families summered at their elegant resort homes. A comprehensive history of the area is given in a book Schubel published in 1970, which he named "Pointe

So, Tuesday's election day pace will be a reflection, an image, of life at Pointe Aux Barques — in which, somehow, the personal and friendly and revered attitudes of years long gone have managed to survive. There they remain an island, an oasis, in today's automated world. Bud Guest, longtime radio commentator and son of the late poet, Edgar A. Guest — who had a home at the Pointe — summarized it all when he wrote a note of thanks to Schubel for his copy of the Schubel book, concluding with, "Some times I wish time had stood still back then, and we could keep those joys for all

"Is Conservation a Good

Supply Management Tool?"
By BOB DRISCOLL

Discussion on the 1985 Farm Bill will soon turn to debate

It is apparent that legislators from both parties are committed to getting the job done quickly. We also know that the cost of the new farm program will be a major issue. In other words, write a Bill that is quick, cheap and of course, popular.

The National Corn Growers Association thinks the USDA's decision not to have paid diversion for feed grains in 1984-85 could cause a repeat of 1982's record corn harvest and may severely depress prices next year. USDA officials did not agree, saying that a five percent paid diversion would have reduced participation because growers wouldn't have wanted to idle another five percent of their acreage.

SOVIETS POINT TO AG PRODUCTION CRISIS The President of the Soviet Union, during a special meeting of the Central Committee, said he was beset by the acute crisis in Soviet agriculture production and proposed a plan to irrigate huge tracts of land in the southern part of that country. Western diplomats said the proposals present little change in the USSR's conservative and centralized system.

SOVIET HARVEST IN TROUBLE

Logistical problems are slowing the Soviet Union's grain harvest, especially in corn. The U.S. Agricultural Attache in Moscow recently reported that field losses may be high this year because a lot of corn and sunflowers aren't harvested and good weather won't last much longer. USDA is now estimating the Soviet grain crop to be 65 million tons short of the 240 million ton target.

NO EXTENSION OF DAIRY PROGRAM

Agriculture Secretary John Block, in comments before the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, said the Reagan Administration has no intention of extending this year's paid dairy diversion program beyond the March 31, 1985 expiration date. Industry sources claim the success has been questionable because of poor farmer participation.

Harvest in all areas dropped behind normal this past week with only 17% of the corn harvested in Ohio, 35% harvested in Iowa, 42% harvested in Illinois and 30% harvested in Indiana. Soybean harvest in the major producing states is behind schedule even more with yield and quality losses likely. Two weeks of heavy rain in the delta saturated fields and damaged crops there with Louisiana and Arkansas the hardest hit. # Elbing-Navock married at St. John's

Miss Deborah Ann Navock of Bad Axe became the bride of Gerald Henry Elbing of Pigeon in a double-ring ceremony on Saturday, Oct. 6 at St. John's Lutheran Church, Pigeon. Rev. Philip K. Press performed the ceremony for the children of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Navock of Port Austin and Mrs. Lucille Elbing of Pigeon and the late Hilmar

Special wedding music included "Wedding Prayer," "Trumpet Voluntary," "The "Trumpet Voluntary," "The Wedding Song," "The Lord's Prayer" and "Trumpet Tune." Organist was Elaine Schulze and soloists were Jeannie Fritz and Veronica Fluegge, both cousins of the groom.

The altar was decorated with arrangements of white gladiolis, ruebrum lilies, pink and burgundy carnations and the unity candle was surrounded with ruebrum lilies and pink and burgundy carnations.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a satinessa gown with a beaded schiffli yoke and high collar with long shirred sleeves trimmed with schiffli lace at the wrist. The peplum around the fitted waistline was accented with a headed motif, the flared skirt was completed with a beaded trim at the hemline which also encircled the chapellength train. She chose a derby hat made of schiffli embroidery and trimmed with pearls. The illusion netting with beaded edge and back pouf completed her ensem-

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of gardinias, bridal white roses and stephanotis which trailed throughout the bouquet along with ivy greens.

Karen Navock of Bad Axe. cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a lusterglo knit gown in burgundy, featuring a v-neck in front and back of dress, double spaghetti straps and sun-burst pleats falling from the fitted waistline. The gown was completed with a long-sleeved jacket made of chiffon and trimmed with chantilly lace at the wrist, high neckline and fitted waistline. She carried a bouquet of pink, white, burgundy and rose carnations, white button mums, spider mums, ruebrum lilies and status and ivy greens trailing throughout the bouquet. She wore a hairpiece of star flowers and baby's breath. Also attending the bride were bridesmaids Carolyn Collings of Filion, friend of Westland, sister of the groom, Ann Elbing of Pigeon, sister-in-law of the groom, Jeanne Craig of Lansing cousin of the bride, all wearing gowns identical to the honor attendant's, except in shades of pink, candy, blush and daphne rose. They carried similar bouquets to the maid of honor's. Flower girl was Teresa Elbing of Pigeon, niece of the groom, She wore a satinessa knit gown matching the bride's and carried a basket of pink and burgundy and white carnations, bridal white roses, button

Standing up for the groom was his brother, Ronald Elbing of Pigeon. Groomsmen were Ron Navock of Port Austin, brother of the bride. Harold Collings of Filion. friend of the couple, Joe Kot-tyan of Westland, brother-in-law of the groom, Vern Navock of East Detroit, cousin of the bride. Ushers were Jeff Wurst, Ann Arbor, friend of the groom and Joe Chagnon of Brighton, cousin of the bride.

Ringbearer was Preston Susalla of Detroit, cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a floor-length gown of medium blue knit which featured a chiffon capelet and a sunburst pleated skirt. She wore a shoulder corsage consisting of a gardenia with blue blows and stephanotis.

The groom's mother chose a sky-blue lusterglo knot floor-length gown with an attached chiffon capelet and a gardinia shoulder corsage with blue bows and stephanotis.

The newlyweds greeted their guests at a reception at the Ubly Fox Hunters Club, Ubly. The wedding cake was decorated by the bride for her special occasion.

The bride is a graduate of Port Austin High School and is employed in the Huron County Clerk's office.

The groom is a graduate of Laker High School, Michigan State University's Institute of Agricultural Technology and the National Institute of Technology Livonia. He has accepted a position with General Electric in Utica, N.Y. as a Quality Assurance Technician.

Following a two-week honeymoon to the eastern states and Canada, the couple will reside in Utica, N.Y.

Dead frogs and floating ducks

I could tell at a very early age that I was not cut out to be a violator. There I was, minding my own business and enjoying an afternoon of spearing frogs with a couple of buddies when out of the bushes stepped Hank Predmore. Now Hank was the sort of man who would scare the daylights out of you even if he wasn't a game warden. But dressed in his official uniform, complete with a badge pinned on his vest and a gun strapped to his side, he made the strongest of men wither before his piercing eyes.

"Hurump!" he exclaimed, "Just as I hought, spearing frogs out of season." "What season? You talking to us? What frogs? I didn't know there was a season on frogs, did you? You wouldn't be kidding us. would you?" We were all shouting questions

"Hold on there," Hank countered. "Don't give me any of this malarky! I know professional frog market hunters when I see

"Honest, Warden Predmore, we didn't know there was a season on frogs, we didn't want these old frogs anyway, see, we were just going to throw them back." We choked out our alibies in unison while grabbing the gunny sack and making motions to tip it

"Just a minute," he said. 'I believe you may be telling the truth, and it sure isn't going to do those dead frogs any good to be pitched back into the water.

Hank Predmore explained in a very fatherly fashion that there was indeed a season on frogs, and we were indeed violating that law. But, he was a boy once and remembered the fun of spearing frogs, so he would let us go this time. He made us promise that we would read up on all the game laws (there weren't any hunting safety courses in those days) and never, never break any of them again. We nodded our heads so fast our teeth began to rattle, and picking up the bag of limp frogs, headed for home on a dead run. From that day on I had a great deal of respect for Hank Predmore and all other game wardens, and also became very conscious of game laws and made a promise to myself that I would never be a violator.

But here I was on an opening day duck hunt with my brother Lyle, his friend Johnny and Johnny's father-in-law Ralph, about to become entangled in a situation over which I had no control.

We had started the hunt early in the morning after a breakfast which had included, but was not limited to, a dozen eggs, a couple rashers of bacon, mounds of fried potatoes, loaves of toast and pots of steaming, rich black coffee. Motoring across the bay, we left Ralph and his little one-man duck boat on the side of a heavy bank of cattails. We then proceeded to a stake blind a quarter-mile away that sat in the middle of a good-sized pothole

Johnny and Lyle were expert duck hunters and in no time we had ducks in the limit, Johnny held up his hand and said in an authoritative voice, "We better stop now. You know Ralph, he always shoots one over his limit." Lyle and Johnny looked at each other sort of funny and I began to wonder what they meant.

I knew Ralph pretty well. He was a duck hunter from a different era. Born and raised in the marsh, he had hunted for the market when waterfowlers could use live decoys and had little or liberal limits. It had been difficult for him to change to the modern game laws and sometimes felt that the marsh and bay belonged to men like

We picked up the decoys and starting the motor, headed for the spot where we had dropped Ralph off. Just before we arrived, the bow of the punt boat slid out of the marsh and headed out to meet us.

"How'd you do?" Johnny yelled to the grizzly, old man. "Skunked," came his reply. "Poor day for

Ralph reached behind him and picked up an old grain sack, heaving it in our boat. Lyle grabbed the bag and dumping the contents on the floorboards, counted out seven Mallards and two Black Ducks, Five over his limit, and put together with our living

I felt terrible and made myself a promise. As soon as I was old enough to hunt alone, I would never knowingly take advantage of breaking a game law. And especially, never involve a gullible young boy in a crime he did not commit.

made the hunting party four ducks over their limit. I quickly thought of Hank Predmore, and my knees began to shake. Ralph calmly tied his boat to the back of ours and jumped over the gunwale and sat

"Got a job for you!" he barked out the

He reached down and picked up four of the Mallards and shoved them back in the bag. Then he untied the anchor and placed it is the bag, and secured the top with binder

"You hang onto this, and when we get in thet cut, hold it over the side." He spoke the directions slowly and concisely. "But don't drop them until I tell you to.

I did not like the situation I was in. Being a 14 year old in the company of grown men told me to keep my mouth shut. Any arguing or discussions would not be tolerated. I was told to do a job and if I wanted to hunt with them again. I had better do it.

The throttle was shoved into high gear and the big boat skimmed across the water and headed for the channel. We coursed the entire length of the big cut with no incidents, but as we turned into the small cut where the duck shack was located, two khaki-clad men moved toward the boat dock.

"Not yet," Ralpih hissed in my ears. The boat nosed up to the dock and as Lyle jumped out to tie off the bow, Ralph leaned orward and whispered, "Now!"

I let the bag drop and without looking back, began to gather up the loose gear and transferred it to the dock. The wardens checked our licenses and looked over our limit of ducks. All the time Ralph stood in the back of the boat working feverishly with a long punt pole. First he would push boat from one side and then switching the pole in his hands, would work on the other side. It seemed funny to me, for the boat was tied to a post at the end of the dock, and Ralph sure knew how to ram the stern to dockside and wedge the pole in the mud to hold it there.

The wardens were finally satisfied and left. Lyle and Johnny looked at each other and smiled sheepishly. I felt relieved and felt sorry for the ducks lying on the bottom of the cut.

"You can come ashore now Dad," Johnny chided. "The work's all done."

"Just you never mind." Ralph said. You're lucky I stayed in the boat. Those ducks were too fat for the weight of the and chor and when the lad dropped them over the side, they popped right back to the surface. The worst part was whenever I pushed them down with the punt pole, they would pop us on the other side of the boat.

Ralph was chuckling to himself as he serambled on his knees to retrieve the bag-I felt terrible and made myself a promise As soon as I was old enough to hunt alone, would never knowingly take advantage of breaking a game law. And especially, never involve a gullible young boy in a crime he t regular intervals, the elected leaders of a free land like ours must answer to the people for their past performances. On these occasions, the voters have to decide whether to retain those already in office or replace them with their challengers; while at other times when there is no incumbent seeking re-election, the choice is simply between the promises of untried newcomers. Whatever the situation at any level of government, the people must arrive at their own decisions after a careful study of the issues; along with a great deal of prayer that a wise choice will be made and that the nation will unite behind the winners. So be sure to VOTE; and give thanks to God at your House of Worship for this right to choose our leaders who do not rule, but serve us. Then pray for their success, whoever they may be.

PLAYOFF PICTURE: The Green Machine carried 81.1 playoff points into the game with Marlette which was good for second place in the Class C, Region Two standings. Detroit St. Martin five of nine passes for 92 DePorres was first with 92.6 points, followed by Lakers and Pontiac Catholic with was successful on two of 76.8, Birmingham Country Day with 72 and Center Line St. Clement with 71.7.

DePorres. Catholic and Country Day all maintained undefeated 8-0 records with victories last Friday, although this week's playoff points were not computed at press time.

The top four teams in Region Two were all undefeated with two games remaining to be played. Only the two teams with the most points in each region advance to the post-season playoffs.

Coach McLellan says there is a distinct possibility that his team could complete a perfect 9-0 season, but not qualify for the playoffs. That situation is possible because Lakers is included in the same region as football powerhouses at Detroit-area parochial high schools.

In wire service polls last week, Lakers were tied with St. Ignace for second place in the state by UPI, while the AP listed the Green Machine at fourth.

FINAL STANDINGS: Lakers claim the Thumb B championship with a 7-0 record followed by Vassar at 6-1, North Branch at 5-2, Caro at 4-3, Bad Axe at 3-4, Cass City at 2-5, Marlette at 1-6 and Imlay City at 7-0.

JVs WIN: The Laker junior varsity gridders improved their record to 6-2 with a 28-12 victory over Marlette. Steve Pyc scored on a 20-yard ran and Jim Warren carried the ball on a 19-yard touchdown run in the first half. Pyc also ran in a two-point conversion to give Lakers a 14-6 halftime lead. Laker's final two touchdowns came on runs of one yard by Pat McArdle and 43 yards by Ken Ziel. Randy Heckman was perfect on both second-half PAT

The defense was led by Kel Hill with 12 tackles; Brian Kohl with seven, Jay Bushey with six and Paul Kreh and Mark Seley, with five stops

Club news ORDER OF EASTERN STAR

Eleanor Perry, Eva Grigg, Lois Anderson, Kathryn Reed and Julie May, guest soloist of Sebewaing Chapter #407, visited the Ubly Marian Chapter for their installation of new officers ceremony last Saturday.

The Sebewaing chapter conducted the ceremony of initiation for two new members last Thursday, Oct. 25.

PIGEON LIONS CLUB

The meeting was called to order by Vice President Ron Damm and the following guests were introduced, Ron McClumpha and Tom Main.

Thirty-nine Pigeon Lions answered roll call, in addition to the two guests.

It was moved and supported that the club donate $300.00 to Meals on Wheels.

Vice President Damm read the following correspondence: 1) November Regional Meeting of Zones 1 and 2 will be held in Sebewaing on Nov. 20, 2) Sebewaing Lions celebrate their 25th anniversary on Saturday, Nov. 10, 3) Leader Dog School notified the club that they received a $100.00 donation from the Pigeon Townliners Extension group.

It was moved and supported that the club's annual Christmas Party be at "Sherwood on the Hill" on Dec. 8.

The annual Halloween Masquerade Party at the Pigeon VFW Hall was a great success, thanks to the hard-working committees. Next meeting date has been changed from Nov. 14 to Nov. 13 because of deer hunting at Ralph Kain's in Owendale.
