Charity to Caseville swim to benefit Cancer Society

By RICH
SWARTZENDRUBER

For most people, the prospect of a non-stop 9.3 mile swim is about as likely as sky diving without a parachute.

That is not the case for Scott Ourth of Pigeon, who only sees the swim across Saginaw Bay from Charity Island to Caseville as a challenge. He will attempt the feat on Saturday, Aug. 3 as a fundraiser for the American Cancer Society. Pledges will be received from people who wish to be a part of the unusual benefit event.

Ourth says the idea first occurred to him while he stood on the breakwall at Caseville Harbor thinking about the name of the island he was looking at.

The American Cancer Society was chosen at the beneficiary of his efforts because he lost several family members to cancer, Ourth says. He also is dedicating the event to Roy Lawrence, who also recently recently lost a family member to cancer.

"I feel like (Lawrence) has given so much to the community, I'd just like to give something back," says Ourth.

Long-distance swimming is nothing new to the trim, six-foot, 180 pound man. While in U.S. Marine Corps Officer Candidate School, he once swam five miles in Cherokee Lake, which is connected to Chesapeake Bay on the Atlantic coast.

The Saginaw Bay crossing will be much shorter than the 21-mile distance covered by English Channel swimmers. On the other hand, Ourth will have to work harder in the fresh water to stay afloat, compared with the more buoyant salt water of the ocean.

Ourth is not attempting the long-distance swim because he has too much time on his hands. A factory machine operator by day, Ourth is also working toward his Masters Degree in Administration by attending evening classes at Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant.

Despite his busy schedule, he still manages to maintain a rigorous training program consisting of swimming, running and weight lifting. His swimming consists of laps the length of Caseville beach, amounting to about a mile. He also runs about six miles per day, completing three in the morning and three in the evenings, in addition to weight lifting.

"I'd recommend (the training schedule) for anybody who wants to lose weight," Ourth jokes.

He plans to begin his swim from Charity Island at sunrise and hopes to make it to the beach at Caseville by late afternoon or early evening. A boat with medical personnel will accompany him during the event.

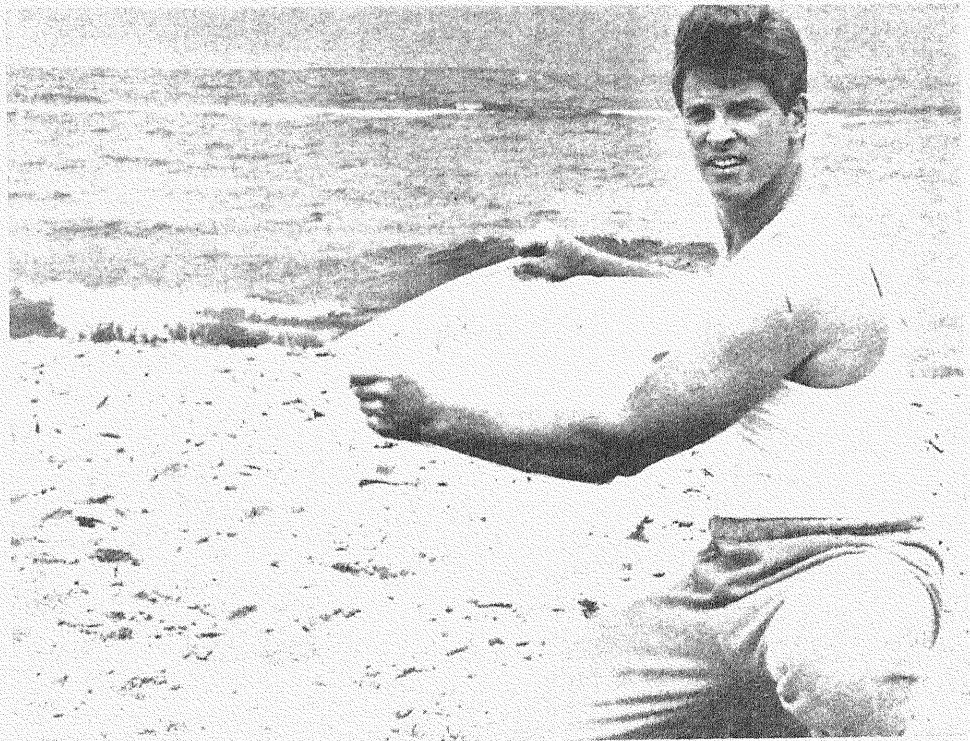

"I'll probably be stopping every mile to get my blood pressure and temperature taken to make sure I'm not getting hypothermia," Ourth says. "I'll probably be sucking on peaches, honey and that type of food along the way," he adds.

People can pledge money for the event by contacting Ourth at P.O. Box 156, Pigeon, or by calling 453-3595. Pledges can also be made by stopping at the Progress-Advance office in Pigeon.

Donations on the day of the event will also be accepted by Cancer Society representatives who will be present all day at Caseville beach.

A confident Ourth says he hopes to make the swim an annual event. Perhaps in the future a group of hardy swimmers would like to join him in the unique fundraising activity.

HOW FAR? seems to be the question of Scott Ourth who plans to swim the 9.3 miles between Charity Island and Caseville as a fundraiser for American Cancer Society. At that distance, the island appears as just a small dark line on the horizon behind Ourth.

Lakers again seek 4 1/2 mills this fall

By RICH

"Apparently this was a case of 'let George do it.'"

That was the explanation by Superintendent Harry Brunet for the Laker School District millage defeat at the annual school election on June 10.

Brunet told Laker Board of Education he believes more people in the community support the proposed 3 1/2 mill renewal and one mill increase than oppose it. The issue was defeated, he said, because many didn't bother to cast their vote at the polls on election day.

Discussion about the next step to take on the millage issue dominated the Laker Board meeting last Tuesday. The meeting was rescheduled to conform to time limitations for the period between the annual Board elections and the resulting Board reorganizational meeting. Future Board meetings are scheduled for the second Monday of each month.

Brunet said people he spoke with after the election believed the district didn't campaign hard enough. The Laker Superintendent expressed frustration by saying, "We campaign from the moment school starts until the doors close in the spring. We are constantly projecting an image of this school by the quality of academic and special activities people see during the year."

Among other explanations for the millage defeat was the fact that farmers are faced with a harsh economic climate at the present time.

Brunet responded by pointing out over $1.6 million of property taxes were refunded to farmers in the Laker district under Public Act 116 in 1982, the most recent year these figures are available. He added Michigan Treasury Department figures show the Laker district tops all Class C schools in the state in the amount of property taxes refunded to farmers under PA 116.

Board President Bruce Baur, a Bay Port area dairy farmer, agreed with Brunet and added, "Many farmers get 100 percent of their property taxes back right now."

"It isn't a case of overtaxing. It is an attitude of apathy out there," stated Brunet. He reminded Board members that their approved budget for the 1985-86 school year required the 4 1/2 mill proposal to maintain the current program.

After discussing the options available, the Board voted unanimously to again ask Laker taxpayers to approve the 4 1/2 mill request at a special election set for Sept. 9.

LEADERS: In the annual Board reorganization new officers elected include President Bruce Baur, Vice President Virginia Leipprandt, Secretary Jim Clabuesch and Treasurer Yvonne Bushey.

LOAN: Board approved an $80,440, five-year loan at 6.9% interest from Thumb National Bank of Pigeon to purchase two new buses. Newly elected Board member Paul Clabuesch, Vice-President of Thumb National, abstained from voting on the matter.

BIDS: The high bids submitted by Bus Mart of Danville, Indiana were accepted for two used diesel buses. The proposals amounted to $4,786.01 bid for a 1976 model and $6,736.01 bid for a 1978 bus. Business Manager Bob Drury noted this will probably be the last bus purchase for several years.

OTHER BIZ: Board also:
• Appointed Jim Clabuesch as Laker representative on the Huron County School Boards Association Board of Directors. Leipprandt was named alternate;

• Passed a resolution of support for Senate Concurrent Resolutions 151 and 151 which encourages public school to teach awareness of handicapped people and also adult foster care facilities;

• Decided to review the district's athletic policy at the August meeting;

• Passed a resolution of support for Leipprandt in her re-election bid for a seat on the Michigan Association of School Boards Board of Directors;

• Congratulated Brunet on his election as a regional representative of Michigan Association of School Administrators, and • Entered closed session to discuss negotiation strategy in teacher contract talks. The next negotiation session is scheduled for July 10.

Pigeon sets hearing on new zoning plan

Pigeon residents will have one more opportunity to look over the village's master zoning plan at a public hearing Monday, Aug. 5 at 7 p.m. at Pigeon Village Hall.

Pigeon Council voted to conduct the hearing so all residents have a final chance to inspect the village's first zoning update in more than 25 years.

Three primary areas have had zoning designations changed since the original April 17 public hearing -- and all have been changed either to their original designation or to comply with their actual use. The areas are several former residential lots on Paul Street adjacent to the Dutch Kettle, now zoned "business," the proposed First United Methodist parking lot (former parsonage) on W. Michigan Ave., and returning two designations to a parcel on Hartley Street owned by Robert Spence.

All other decision discussed at the April 17 hearing will remain as proposed, according to Zoning Chairman Fred Orr. His group considered all questions from that meeting and met with involved persons to make these final decisions.

Property owners within 300 feet of the affected areas should receive a registered letter notifying them of the meeting.

In the future, Orr noted new properties being annexed to the vill will be zoned immediately. The proposed new zoning ordinances will add restrictions about placement of satellite antennas, and outline maximum fence heights and set-backs in residential areas.

Any rezoning to be done won't change your property's valuation, officials say. Values are based on property use, not zoning designation, Orr's committee members say.

Whether or not the village will pursue formulation of a master plan is still up for discussion. Orr said his zoning advisor, Howard Anderson of Bay City, will perform master plan groundwork -- including researching town inventory, population trends, etc. -- for about $5000.

Thompson breaks Elkton leadership tradition

By RICH SWARTZENDRUBER
For the first time in Elkton history, the village council was chaired by a woman.

Elkton Mayor Pro Tem Barbara Thompson presided over last Tuesday's monthly Council meeting in the absence of Mayor Elmer Ropp, Jr. According to longtime Councilman Neilan Hoffman, all previous meetings of the local governmental body were chaired by men.

PAVING: Only one bid was received for surfacing two village streets with a new paving material containing slag. The proposal from Wood Construction Corporation of Troy quoted a price of $9,308 for resurfacing two blocks. Council decided to refer the matter to village engineer K. Don Williamson for his recommendation.

MILLAGE: The current village millage rate of 11.6691 will remain the same as last year's levy. Due to an increase in the State Equalized Valuation, an estimated $150,000 in additional revenues will be generated by last year's millage rate.

Council members pointed out Elkton's rate of 11.6 mills is the lowest in Huron County, according to Councilwoman Dede Russell.

REQUEST: DPW Superintendent Walt Forster relayed a request from Active Industries to use part of village property to extend a drainage ditch the company is constructing.

The matter was referred to the Streets, Sidewalks and Drains Committee for further study.

In a separate discussion on a drainage issue, Council decided against installing an underground drain and catch-basins to cover the present ditch near the village's south well.

Russell advised Council not to spend the $1800-2000 needed to complete the project because federal revenue sharing funds have dried up.

SIDEWALKS: Forster informed Council the village sidewalk repair and construction project is nearly completed. He added future sidewalk improvements will be funded jointly by property owners and the village according to village ordinance.

Cash prize awaits lucky angler

SEBEWAING — A cash prize of $500 awaits the fisherman who catches the biggest Walleye in the Sebewaing Sportsmen's Club second annual Walleye Tournament next weekend, Friday to Sunday, July 12-14.

Anglers vying for their share of $3,000 in cash and merchandise will try to best last year's record catch of 9 lb. 5 oz. landed by Elmer Krauss, formerly of Sebewaing, and now of Florida. His $500 prize winner was 28 7/16 inches long and was caught at 5:45 in the afternoon.

Of last year's 467 Walleyes caught, all major prize-winning fish weighed at least 8 1/2 pounds.

Sportsmen everywhere are invited to the waters of Saginaw Bay and Lake Huron on the western side of Michigan's Upper Thumb for a weekend of fun and challenge.

Teams of two to four persons are asked to submit their $30 registration fee at Don's Sport Shop or Kelly's Western Auto, both of Sebewaing or may phone Tournament Chairman Dan Kuhl at 883-2136

ELKTON'S FIRST LADY Barb Thompson experienced two "firsts" last week. The first woman to chair a meeting of Elkton Village Council discovered an Easter lily she planted outdoors last year burst into bloom again this week. At a family gathering on the Fourth of July, Thompson discovered these two flowers and three unopened buds on the plant she nearly mistakenly hoed out as a weed earlier this spring. She says each year she plants an Easter lily outdoors for, but this is the first one that produced its snow-white flowers for a second time. RICH SWARTZENDRUBER PHOTO

August brings 'Relief Sale'

During the last 18 years, the annual Northern Michigan Relief Sale has attracted thousands of visitors during the first Saturday in August.

This year Mennonite, Brethren and Amish churches of Northern Michigan will cooperate in the 19th Annual Northern Michigan Relief Sale. During the years since it has begun, the Fairview Sale has grown in size, attendance, inventory and proceeds. Last year approximately $64,000 was raised for world relief.

The Relief Sale, located at the county fairgrounds three miles west of Fairview on 75 acres of rolling wooded countryside, provides a setting for auctioneers who keep the bidding lively for the large outdoor crowds. A variety of shops and concessions are located on the grounds, adding to the interest and excitement of the sale.

Among the items to be offered at auction this year are handmade quilts, comforters, afghans, a hand-crafted grandfather quilt and rustic 4x8 ft. playhouse made by Ora Troyer of Fairview, collectables, furniture, firewood and other items. Troyer will also donate one of his famous quilting frames.

By PERCY ROSS

DEAR MR. PERCY ROSS: I'm 21 years old and have a 1 1/2 year old baby. I also have epilepsy. My life has gone straight downhill since it started. My so-called "boyfriend" dumped me when my seizures turned from petit mal to grand mal. I think he must have been ashamed when I started seizing around his friends.

Right now, I'm living with my uncle, and he's helping me by watching my little girl. I can't afford a babysitter.

I work at a fast-food place, and the only reason I was able to get this job is because I sort of lied on my application. I said "no" where it asked if I had any medical problems. No other place will hire an epileptic without any schooling or experience, and I sure couldn't afford that I don't even drive; I can't.

My worst problem is trying to afford my medication for my seizures to keep them under control so I don't lose my job.

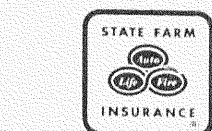

I take phenobarbital, Mysoline and Tegretol. I'm supposed to be taking them three times a day, but I only take them once at night so I don't have to buy as much and they make me so groggy. But now, Mr. Ross, I'm starting to have more seizures. I'm really scared I'll lose my job for lying on application if I have a seizure at work. I don't know what I'm going to do to stop my epilepsy. Will you help me in some way? — Ms. M.W., San Bernardino, Calif.

Laura Holtzhouse unites with Robert Keys

Laura Holtzhouse of Caseville became the bride of Robert Keys of Grand Rapids in a ceremony before 250 guests at First Evangelical Free Church, Grand Rapids on Saturday, June 1. Dr. N.A. Weins solemnized the vows for the children of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Holtzhouse of Caseville and Mr. and Mrs. William Keys of Grand Rapids.

Lily of the Valley, accented with greens and a unity candelabra arrangement graced the nuptial altar.

Soloists and duets were sung by Amy Hutchinson, Kendal Hager and Arnold Ashley. Special music included "Friends," "Wedding Prayer" and "My Vow to You," written by the bride.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a full-length white victorian-style gown featuring a high neckline, puffed sleeves tapering down to her wrists and a back layered with ruffles of lace. Her cathedral-length veil was of crown lace and pearls, edged with victorian lace.

The bride carried a bouquet of white roses, mums and greens.

Her maid of honor was her sister, Cynthia Holtzhouse of Caseville, who wore a full-length rose-colored taffeta dress with puffed sleeves and an open jacket to complement the spaghetti-strapped dress. She carried a bouquet of roses, carnations, baby mums, baby's breath with pink and white satin streamers.

Two friends, Jean Bishop of Britton and Ruth Jones of Holt and junior bridesmaid Jean Keys of Grand Rapids, sister of the groom, completed her bridal party. The bridal attendants also wore gowns and carried flowers identical to the maid of honor.

Dean Agee of Grand Rapids, friend of the groom, was best man. His brothers, John Keys, James Keys and Michael Keys, all of Grand Rapids, were groomsmen and ushers were Dean Lamb of Wheeling, Ill. and Jeff Reuteler of Grand Rapids.

The mother of the bride wore a full-length mauve crepe two-piece dress.

The mother of the groom wore a full-length aqua and lace dress.

The newlyweds greeted their guests in a reception room at the church, then left for a 10-day honeymoon to Tennessee. They are now making their home in Evert.

The bride and groom are both graduates of Grand Rapids Baptist College

Kelly Ginter marries Greg Hovermale at Elkton

Bridesmaids identically attired in lavender taffeta tea-length frocks preceded Kelly Jo Ginter to the altar of the Elkton United Methodist Church on Saturday afternoon, June 22 as she exchanged nuptial vows with Gregory Thomas Hovermale.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ginter of Elkton and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hovermale, Livonia.

More than 250 guests witnessed the candlelight ceremony performed by Rev. James Kummer, Elkton United Methodist Church and Rev. John Shinn, Calvary Baptist Church, Canton. The altar was graced with antique candelabras enhanced with sword fern and baby's breath and lavender and white ribbon.

The windows were also graced with candelabras and lavender and white daisies, sword fern and baby's breath and ribbon trim. The communion table unity arrangement was similar to the windows.

Instrumental selections were offered by Mrs. Donna Shinn, pianist, Westland, Mrs. Debi Ackerman, organist, Elkton and Gloria Hurley, flutist, Marquette. Vocalists were Dale and Debi Ackerman, Elkton, Glenn and Jean Flint, Adrian and Steve Flint, Waldron. Musical selections chosen were "Through the Eyes of Love," "This is the Day," "He Has Chosen You For Me," "We are the Reason," "Makes Us One" and "Trumpet Voluntary."

The bride approached the altar with her father as the groom sang "Truly." Her gown featured an illusion yoke silhouette with Juliet sleeves in white amour fabric, trimmed in venise lace. The skirt and full attached train featured three rows of ruffles. To match a floral halo of silk flowers and pearl peps. The veil had two tiers of imported veil and pouf back.

The bride carried a bouquet of white daisies, stephanotis, clouds of baby's breath and ploumosa were fashionable to the country look.

The bridesmaids approached the altar as Gloria Hurley, flutist, played the theme from "Ice Castles." Matron of honor was Mrs. Debbie Root, friend of the bride, Kalamazoo. She wore a lavender tea-length dress of taffeta, featuring a full skirt with gathered bottom ruffle, fitted bodice and lace underlay, gathered self necktie and featuring a white satin ribbon sash to complete her country look. She carried a hand held bouquet of lavender and white daisy mums, baby's breath and tree fern. Lavender and white ribbon was braided down the stems.

The bridesmaids were Lisa Swartzendruber, friend of the bride, Pontiac; Shelly Ginter and Jackie Ginter, sisters of the bride, Elkton; Michelle Binder, Pigeon, Kit Patterson, Lansing and Kari Mortson, Rochester, N.Y., all friends of the bride. They were dressed identically to the matron of honor and carried similar bouquets with white ballerina picot braiding on stems.

Flowergirls were Abbie Krause, cousin of the bride, Bad Axe and Courtney Binder, friend of the bride, Pigeon. They each wore "Little Darling" country-style ballerina-length dresses of lavender and white checked gingham with full bottom ruffle, eyelet trim and poufed sleeves. Their white dotted-swiss pinafores featured a gathered bottom eyelet ruffle with eyelet and lavender ribbon trim and shoulder ruffles and lavender satin sash. Abbie carried a petite bouquet similar to the bridesmaids and Courtney carried a white wicker basket of lavender and white rose petals.

The groom chose as best man Jim Mills, friend of the groom, Plymouth, Groomsmen were Duane Stother, friend, Livonia; Brade Hovermale, brother, Livonia; Mark Tucker, friend, Spring Arbor; Brian Kersten, friend, Livonia; stephanotis highlights. Mrs. Hovermale chose a dusty rose street-length dress with a lace bodice and long sleeves. Her corsage was identical to the one worn by the bride's mother.

Host and hostess were Gary and Sherry Whittakee, friends of the couple, of Redford. They greeted guests at a reception in the church fellowship hall.

After a week's honeymoon to Maine, the couple is residing in Plymouth.

NERVOUSNESS? Chiropractic Helps

The dictionary defines nervousness as "having nerves easily affected; high strung; excitable; jittery. It is often difficult to remain calm in today's hectic world, but we all know people who seem to become unduly tense and excitable — the man who becomes highly irritated when interrupted in his work, the student who "freezes" and cannot pass his test, the housewife who becomes frantic at the prospect of company coming.

EXCESS EMOTION CAN BE PHYSICALLY HARMFUL
When you are angry, your blood pressure elevates and your body chemistry changes even your blood clotting level alters and it is possible to bleed to death from a minor cut. Unbearable pain can squeeze veins shut and restrict circulation. The tension headache is only one of the possible problems which can result from such stress.

People ordinarily begin to walk in the midst of noise and confusion, but some people suffering from nervousness, become more and more agitated.

When such people can no longer cope with the problems and annoyances of life, they suffer what is commonly called by the medical profession, "neurosis." The technical term for this is "neurosthenia." Statistics show 6 out of every 100 persons nervous to the point where they are unable to carry on major activities.

WHAT CAN CHIROPRACTIC DO ABOUT NERVOUSNESS?
Chiropractic can help nervous conditions to clear up, the explanation for this lies with the brain and its part in the mental process of an individual.

Our knowledge of external conditions is received through our senses: sight, taste, smell, touch and hearing. The eye may see, but the interpretation of what the eye sees occurs in the brain, the ear picks up sounds, but again, the interpretation of these sound waves occurs in the brain. This is true of all our special senses. If our brain's interpretation of commonplace events becomes distorted, we may find ourselves extremely nervous.

What is a Spinal Subluxation?

The term spinal subluxation is applied to a displacement, misalignment or fixation of a spinal vertebra which interferes with the transmission and function of the nervous system predisposing or causing neuro-muscular or neuro-physiological changes within the body. Spinal subluxations lay the foundation for disease by altering the musculoskeletal balance of the body, causing breakdown in nerve function and abnormal body chemistry with loss of resistance.

Is a Spinal Subluxation Causing Your Nervousness?

Attend either LIFE & HEALTH TALK held every Wednesday at 12 noon or 6 p.m. and you and your family will be entitled to a complimentary subluxation check. This service includes:

1. Instrumentation to detect the presence of subluxations and degree of nerve injury.
2. Motion studies of the neck and low back
3. Palpation of involved areas.

NERVOUS IMPULSES

To function properly, the brain must receive tiny, electrical type impulses which are transmitted continuously over your intricate nervous system. Just as the liver, stomach or any other organ of the body is supplied with nerve fibers to carry these "messages" which maintain normal function, so the tissues of the brain must receive proper nerve impulses to function normally.

The nerve fibers which convey these impulses from one part of the brain to another, from the spinal cord back into the cranial cavity, are called "recurrent" fibers. If something happens to prevent these fibers from carrying the proper vital nerve energy, the tissues they supply become abnormal in their function.

SUBLUXATION

A subluxation is a misalignment of the vertebrae of the spinal column. This vertebral subluxation produces an irritation of the nerve trunk and, in turn, produces a distortion in the impulses transmitted over that nerve.

Chiropractors are highly skilled in locating spinal subluxations and restoring spinal integrity by chiropractic adjustments. When the vertebrae are adjusted to their normal position, the impaired nerve functions normally and the cause of nervousness has been eliminated.

YOUR DOCTOR OF CHIROPRACTIC

is a representative of the world's largest drugless healing profession, and a healing science most modern in concept.

Rather than administering drugs, your chiropractor determines if neurological complications are at the root of the problem, then he works to eliminate this basic cause, thus restoring and maintaining health.

Keeping your health is better than waiting for sickness to strike. It is your great advantage to visit your doctor of chiropractic on a regular basis.

DEATH CERTIFICATE

The death certificate is a very important legal document. To begin with, in most instances it is necessary to have a permanent certificate of death before burial or other disposition can take place. Following that, a valid death certificate may be absolutely essential for claiming various benefits and settling insurance policies.

The funeral director will be happy to help in the preparation of the death certificate. He will require certain vital statistics in order to complete the document. It is important that these be ABSOLUTELY ACCURATE. These vital statistics are: full legal name; date and place of birth; social security number; address; length of residence; name of spouse; name and birthplace of father; and maiden name and birthplace of mother. The cause of death and the date and place of burial or cremation will also become a part of the death certificate.

You Are Never Too Busy To Go To Church

Like most of us, you are a very busy person. In spite of this, you are too kind-hearted and civic minded to refuse when you are asked to contribute your efforts toward some worthy cause, which leaves you swamped and in a state of anxiety over how you will ever keep all those promises. You should never make more commitments than you can handle; but since you have, get started instead of wasting time worrying about it. And in any case, take the time to go to Church; for it will give you a chance to rest and recharge your spiritual batteries. Later, you will be amazed at how much you are able to accomplish. Remember, whenever you think you don't have time to go to Church, that is when you really need it the most.

Alas, what is more blessed than to put cares away! —Gaius Valerius Catullus

Come unto me all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest! —Matthew 11:28

THIS WEEKEND MARKS the Second Annual Sebewaing Sportsmen's Club Walleye Tournament and if it is anything like the first one, the fishermen can hardly wait.

The Sebewaing tournament was the most successful of last year's four contests, and a lot of anglers will be trying to beat the record walleye caught by last year's winner, Elmer Krauss. Although Elmer landed a beautiful fish during the contest, there was a feeling that Alan Rundel, his fishing partner for the day, might have had the best catch.

believe that he would top Elmer's prize with little trouble. When the fish finally broke the surface, Alan's hopes were dashed, as the mystery fish turned out to be a carp. What was really unique, was the fact that someone else had already caught the carp, and the fish had broke free, but not before tangling the line around one of its fins. The snarl of monofilament created by the fouled fish provided the hook-up for Alan's lure. If you don't believe the story, just ask Elmer Krauss or Bill Harcourt.

perience their first dove season this fall. The proposed season would run from Sept. 15 through Oct. 6, with a daily bag limit of six birds and 12 in possession. The legal hunting area would be south of a line from Ludington to the mouth of the Saginaw River in Saginaw Bay. This would include the Thumb area. Wildlife biologists project that about 40,000 Michigan hunters would take part in this type of a season.

IT LOOKS LIKE MICHIGAN elk hunters will have more animals to hunt this year as the DNR Commission increased the number of elk to be killed to 120 animals. This is 70 more than was allowed last year. The season, which will run from Dec. 10-15, is used to pare the estimated herd of 1,100 animals.

I think that bad fence in Pigeon should be removed immediately. It is very hazardous to cars and bikers. I almost got hit by a car coming down Frank Street that couldn't see me.

Way to go, Buck. You deserve the best always. From A.

I'd like to know what we're going to do about our county commissioner serving Caseville and Port Austin. He has six lawsuits against him. Is it true there will be a petition out to recall this man? We for one, would be glad to sign a petition for his recall.

Thanks for the long efforts, Caseville village and township officials, to help bring improvements to Michigan Oven and Brighton Metals. Some of you get criticized needlessly.

Thanks for Cruise Night, Big John. We loved it! Do it again this fall, please.

So the Bad Axe radio station has a "staff meteorologist?" Give me a break. He does his weather forecast from another state. If you really want to be in the big time, why don't you play better music, with fewer stupid ads?

We're very glad Porky's is here in Pigeon. We've come in quite often. Keep up the good work and good food, Porky and Porkettes.

We think the Co-Op flag dedications are a very good idea. Keep them up.

Now that we're getting a new water tower in Pigeon, how about having a contest to design some proper "Pigeon" artwork? It will be visible from Caseville Road, and all the tourists. How about a clever, cute Pigeon bird - that's using our town's unusual name the right way.

We appreciate Scheurer Hospital's expansion. They have faith in our area, to keep improving health care. Thank you, staff and management.

Detroit Edison burned out a new water pump motor which DPW Supt. Don Otto says will cost more than $725 to replace.

Council will get bids from local electricians for the project and will complete work as soon as possible.

Council turned down a request to block off parts of N. Main Street and Michigan Avenue for a street flea market during the July 25-28 Farmers' Festival. An area near village parking lots will be used instead.

Work will begin soon to remove railroad track crossings on Nitz and Hartley Streets, so repaving projects on the former Grand Trunk Railway crossings can be smoother. Grand Trunk authorized the village to remove those portions crossing streets, while the railroad is responsible for removal of all other track between Caseville and the railway end of line north of Imlay City.

Council will seek bids on paving projects for the year including final surfacing for Nitz Street and other main streets. Council also voted to hire Alert Tree Service to remove storm removed trees.

Village President Dennis Gistel asked Village Board member Otto to bring proposed new ordinances to a council meeting concerning sidewalk digging, tree services, establishing street changes, and other services and regulations at special meetings requested by individuals.

Council will meet with Pigeon Historical Society representative Bradley Lutz, to discuss storage of remaining items in the Historical Museum on W. Michigan Street. Building owners, First United Methodist Church, plan to take down the former parsonage July 13 for additional parking space near the church.

Whitefish! A new way

If there's one thing Fred Kolar likes to do better than fishing, it's whitefish fishing.

Living on the shore of the east arm of Grand Traverse Bay allows him to partake of his passion whenever the mood arises, and it arises often. Fred and I married first cousins and it was through this relationship that we became good fishing buddies.

Fred, disenchanted with his life as an engineer at General Motors, picked up stakes some 15 years ago and moved his family from Royal Oak to Acme, a small hamlet just north of Traverse City. After dabbling in the plastic industries for a few years, Fred qualified for his contractor's license and now builds houses for a pastime and fishes for a living, or so it seems.

I have fished with Fred for many years. At first we chased trout, both summer and winter, using downriggers, pumping wire, long lining and tip-ups, but later I watched my partner grow restless as the fish population crashed in the midst of the Indian fishing controversy.

It was at this time that his interest seemed to swing toward the whitefish, and in no time, he was considered by many to be the dean of the whitefish-fishing fraternity.

Fishing for whitefish is a simple operation. Most anglers motor small boats to selected spots and then use ice fishing-sized rods to jig for the fish with Swedish Pimples. During one of my many visits to Fred's place I assumed that his invitation to "go fishing" would employ this time-tested method.

Was I in for a surprise.

On this particular trip, after a 3 1/2-hour drive from home, we arrived in Acme after dark. I had anticipated some friendly conversation followed by a good night's sleep and an early morning fishing trip. Instead, we were met by a smiling host, and a waiting boat about to take me on an adventure I would never forget.

"Ready for some whitefish spearing?" Fred asked as I stepped from the car. I bid my wife goodnight (she is used to these types of unplanned outings when we visit her cousin), and grabbing a jacket, jumped into the waiting car with Fred.

I had never speared whitefish before, and was skeptical about doing it after dark. Fred put my fears to rest and, as the car hurtled through the darkness toward a waiting slip at Deep Water Point, explained this old style, but seldom used, manner of fishing.

Whitefish are bottom-feeders. Spring and early summer finds them in deep dark holes during the daylight hours, but after dark they cruise the shallows in search of bait-fish. Fishermen rig lights beneath their boats and stalk the fish via a spearer located in the bow.

However, as simple as it may seem, the major ingredient for a successful whitefish spearing trip is a lake that is absolutely flat. The slightest ripple disturbing the water's surface will make it impossible for the fishermen to see.

I was in luck, as the night was one of those rare evenings when everything appeared to be perfect. We arrived at the boat launch about 10:30 p.m. and slid the boat off the trailer and into ominous looking black water. Once the boat was pushed off shore, Fred began to busy himself with preparing the boat for the night's fishing.

First, he lowered a 3 X 1 1/2-foot piece of plywood overboard. On it, three 500-watt lightbulbs were mounted, and wired in their respective reflectors. The entire apparatus was then secured to the bottom of the bow by means of three shock cords attached to eyebolts positioned at the bow, and on either side of the front seat.

A platform, complete with waist-high bow rail was located in the front of the boat to accommodate the spearer. From this vantage point, he could survey the waters in front of the boat, and direct the motor operator as to the direction he wanted to go.

Next to him was a rack, running the length of the boat that held three 15-foot spears. The first three feet, which included the tines, was constructed of metal, while the remainder was wood. The spears were painted white and their handles were striped in luminous paint.

Once the fisherman propelled the spear at the fish, the boat continued on. The wooden handle caused the spear to float and the fisherman, with the help of the paint job, had an easy time finding, and picking up the fishing instrument.

We ran the boat upshore for about a mile and after slowing down, Fred suggested that I take the first turn on the platform. As I was positioning myself in the front of the boat, Fred connected the submerged lights to the batteries. The suddenness of the resulting panorama almost made me fall out of the boat. The lights, coupled with the calmness and clarity of the water, produced a strange phenomenon, comparable to flying.

The water, although almost 40 feet deep, was so transparent it became invisible, and the boat appeared to be suspended above the bottom as if attached by some sort of gossamer cables.

As a boy I had often dreamed of making the creek water disappear so I might be able to see the rocks, broken glass, and elusive bullheads that lurked beneath its muddy, brown surface, and here I was, having that dream come true.

Fred shoved a spear into my hands and instructed me to point it in the direction of the fish. That way, he would know which way to steer the boat as we chased our quarry across the flats. He gunned the motor and I was surprised at the speed he maintained as we began our evening of fishing.

The bottom of Grand Traverse Bay unfolded before me like the scene in a Jacques Cousteau TV special. Large and small boulders studded the bottom, vegetation, swaying like slender, green, hula girls, kept time to the pulsating rhythm of the outboard, and everywhere -- everywhere, there were fish.

Small baitfish darted in and out of the moving light. Carp, dark, fat and ugly, lazied along the bottom, and suckers appeared behind every rock. I could see I was going to have a problem, and that was distinguishing the whitefish from the rest of its piscatorial cousins. Fred quickly pointed out that the whitefish moved with a wiggling action that resembled a fast moving snake, and as soon as he imparted the information, I spotted the first target of the evening.

Any thoughts that this type of fishing would be like shooting fish in a barrel were quickly dispelled. The fish twisted and turned like a mouse in a maze, and my constant movement of the spear indicating the direction changes had Fred rocking the boat.

The fish finally straightened out and I let the spear fly. Missed him by a mile. I turned to look at Fred who smiled, shrugged his shoulders and handed me another spear. The remainder of the night was a comedy. Try as I may, I simply could not hit any fish. After a couple of fruitless hours, I relegated myself to the position of driver and let Fred handle the spearing chores.

He rubbed salt into my wounds by promptly impaling a couple of dandies. The whitefish is a succulent morsel, ranking right up with the walleye and perch as excellent table fare. Fred's wife pressure cans them and they end up on the dinner plate as a substitute for tuna fish. They are delicious in salads, or sandwiches, but in their fresh state, can be broiled, boiled, fried, or grilled as the main dish.

One of my favorites is when they come out of Fred's smokehouse. The legal limit is 12 fish per angler, and when you fish near the midnight hour, you can include a 'wo-day limit within a night's fishing.

I was interested in the whitefish test netting that was conducted in the southern end of Lake Huron last year, and wonder if the chance for spearing whitefish may exist within a close proximity to the Thumb.

I found whitefish spearing to be an exciting sport, and if, like me, you end up without any fish, the view is still terrific.
