OFFICIALLY A DISASTER...

Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac are among 22 Michigan counties which have been declared federal disaster areas in the wake of last week's rainfall flooding, making the Thumb Area eligible for several types of assistance plans.

Tuscola County disaster figures have topped $38 million, with the heaviest damage in low-lying Vassar. Huron County encountered more than $14 million in damages, while Sanilac disaster estimates are more than $10 million.

An estimated 131 housing units are needed in Tuscola County temporarily, while Huron needs 54 and Sanilac nine. Tuscola is eligible for $6.3 million in home and small business

Farmers Home Administration loan totals are $1.5 million for Tuscola, $1.5 million for Huron and $1 million in Sanilac. Lake Huron water levels rose nearly three inches from Sept. 10-12, says the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers -- nearly a Statewide, more than $320 million in damage has been reported. Home and business losses are set at $135 million, and agricultural damage has totaled nearly $120 million. At least three people died, 89 were injured and 13,000 flood-damaged houses were reported statewide. Internal Revenue Service says taxpayers who suffer property losses from the recent flooding may be eligible to claim a casualty loss on the federal income tax forms. More information is available by consulting free IRS booklets No. 547 ding two of the last teacher strikes in Michigan.

The 72 Cass City teachers returned to work Wednesday after Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick Joslyn ordered teachers back to work. And, the 54 Harbor Beach teachers returned to classrooms Friday, after a two-year contract was hammered out in Huron County Circuit Court. Harbor Beach teachers get a 4% pay raise this year and 5.5% next year, following the four-week strike.

Still unsettled is the Unionville - Sebewaing Area School District, whose 58 teachers have been working since Aug. 26 without a contract. A state mediator has been assigned to the USA negotiations, with meetings to begin Sept. 30 and Oct. 2. Negotiations are continuing there, plus in Vassar, Reese, Marlette and Sandusky.

CLEANING HOUSE for many Western Thumb area residents like Ned and Barb Zagorski of Pigeon, pictured above, was a necessity after the flooded Pigeon River returned to the confines of its banks. The Flood of '86 left a trail of mud, ruined appliances and soggy furniture in many basements, including the Zagorski's.

Where household items are pictured drying out in the back yard, flood waters were negotiated with the family canoe. The water was so high the swing set over Barb's right shoulder was nearly completely submerged.

Although Zagorski's freezer in the flooded basement was rendered useless when the insulation was soaked by the foul water, it didn't give up without a fight. Ned says he found the freezer floating in the basement, but could still hear the motor running on the compressor. RICH SWARTZENDRUBER PHOTO For one last look at the Flood of '86 see to pages 12 and 13.

The September issue's 11 million copies contain a pull-out section called the Smell Survey, which has six white blocks you can scratch-and-sniff. These are artificially created smells, and we're each supposed to tell the NG people what each spot smells like. Surprisingly, different people conjure up different ideas

The Federal Reserve Board has approved the proposed acuisition of NewCenturyBank of Frankenmuth by First of merica Bank Corp. The affiliation should be completed following U.S. Justice Department comment period and First of America's sale of its Harbor Beach bank to Community Financial Corp., to be completed before Dec. 31.

NewCentury Bank Corp. has assets of $1.1 billion and operates eight banks in mid-Michigan. After the merger, First of America will have more than $6.6 billion in assets, 40 affiliate banks and more than 330 offices statewide.

Huron County Bank of Harbor Beach is being established before year end, with John Pattison service as president and director and Jack Terrill serving as vice president and a director. TACA leaders say they plan to appeal to the state Aging Agency, although a turn-over of senior citizen programs is to begin Oct. 1. No timetable has been set for the appeal, if any.

And, Tuscola County's Board of Commissioners plans to ask voters Nov. 4 to transfer its millage funds from TACA to the HDC, which requires a public vote. No additional revenue would be needed – just an approval vote, since Tuscola has a .2-mill tax program for senior programs earmarked to go to TACA annually.

or other times of distress. It's nice to see people put aside their differences and work together for a common good. So, those of us remaining here on this soggy globe will have to invest muscle effort, elbow grease and brain power to get lives back to normalcy as soon as possible. It's a big hill ahead, but look what we've already put behind t wasn't us all (we hope)!

A strong parallel holds true for our farming brothers and sisters, around which our entire area is entwined. Already poor prices and high costs have flattened enthusiasm of local farmers, not to mention their bank accounts. Yes, times could be better -- but they won't improve if we maintain poor attitudes.

Farmers have lost an estimated $50 million in the Thumb Area, turning what would have been splendid yielding crops into marginal or failed results. What a disappointment -- but we're in this together!

We've got to THINK we can master these adversities. Not in a simplistic fashion, but with a right attitude. It's easy to see the gloom -- why not look forward to the prospect of better days ahead?

Farming conditions -- like last week's flood victims - aren't going to improve overnight. But they WILL get better (and sooner) with a positive attitude. A little time down on everyone's knees wouldn't hurt either.

Remember, that little engine that could might easily have been forgotten, as one of so many little engines that didn't....

SUPERINTENDENT'S

Adult education

by HARRY BRUNET LAKER SCHOOLS SUPERINTENDENT

For many, many years the adult residents of our school district have been denied the opportunity of attending adult education classes. With the opening of the Huron County Skill er feeding the Center, a county-wide consortium was developed offering all 1 between the types of adult education. Basically, the adult resident is y. Most of our given three options: high school completion, college courses mmon occur- and enrichment classes.

The high school completion is the offering that we are most interested in. Through these classes, a person who dropped ore I could get out of high school for whatever reason can get their diploma at no tuition cost. At the present time, these high school classes are being taught at the Bad Axe High School. All high school completion classes comply with the graduation requirements for the Bad Axe Schools. The reason for using the Bad Axe program is to receive state aid. Our school district receives no state reimbursement. This does not rule out our high school being used for completion classes. If our adult enrollment becomes large enough, classes will be offered at Laker High School. All that is lacking are the numbers.

The other types of adult education have tuition or fee charges. These classes are being offered either for college credit or are taken because the individual wants to enhance his or her skills in a specific area. Some of these enrichment classes are being offered this year at Laker High School.

As we stated, the key to the adult education program is the high school completion. This is the one that is free and receives most of the advertising. If you dropped out of school, why not re-enter? A diploma can do a person a great deal of good. All that is needed is the desire to re-enter school. There are no age restrictions.

How is the Skill Center going? From our end, the sender, it is going great. We have 112 students taking classes either in the morning or afternoon session. The changing of starting and dismissal times has smoothed out. The later dismissal at the Elkton Center is perhaps the most noteable. In prior yars. the Elkton School dismissed at approximately the same time that Active Industries, Inc. was changing shifts. Now the traffic is gone when these students are crossing the street.

As with any newly-constructed schools, the Skill Center is experiencing many of the delays all of us have faced whenever we open a new building. These are minor problems, and will be taken care of as the school year progresses. What is foremost is that we have the Skill Center, and that it is being used by all school districts throughout Huron County.

The last few weeks, we've heard a lot of people talk about the high water and floods that hit our community. A lot of people never saw anything like it and I saw water going over roads and fields underwater that I never saw

A lot of people say they never saw water going over the road west of Pigeon. Well, if you weren't around before 1942, you didn't see it because in 1942 the water did go across the road then and in about 1947 it went over the roads again and ran down to Mud Creek and into the lake. When I was quite young. the Gould Addition of Pigeon was always under water in the spring. I remember once the water was high on the sidewalks east of what is now the Gulf Gas Station - too high to walk on. People walked up on the road and there were big ditches on each side of the road then. When my Father was timekeeper and boss in the Quarry on Weale Road south of Pigeon, he took mealong that day they had a real heavy rain south of us And when we came to the road going to the quarry. the water was so deep that almost ran into the Well, this last flood in Vassar - I'll have to admit that I never saw the likes of the water. I just couldn't see how the water could get so high when the river had gone down so far. The water was four feet deep or the ground floor of a lot of houses, and peoples' basements were full.

There were a lot of young people who had all their urniture ruined.

We pumped out some basements and helped people carry out some furniture. Everything was covered with silt and was slippery You were suppos ed to wear rubber gloves and you had to be registered and wear a badge to be identified.

By MAVIS PECHETTE

Water, water...

You see, I was one of those stranded in the Flood of '86. I saw the sign on Sturm Road and while I was thinking about turning around, I noticed another car coming toward me. It must not be too bad, I thought. That driver must have come through that section so it should be okay for me to proceed. Never did I think that the other driver might have already turned around and was heading for safer, dry territory.

Gently I eased into the water on the road. Of course it got deeper as I went. The motor stalled once but did restart immediately. I gained a dry spot on the high side of a curve and pondered whether to go ahead or turn around and navigate back through where I had just come. Figuring it couldn't be any worse, I elected to proceed.

That was another big mistake. I soon discovered it could be worse, and was. The water came upu over the hood, the motor quit, and the car swung sideways with the current Probably the auto wasn't floating, but it certainly felt like it

Water came in on the floor first. Thank heavens number three son, who was my passenger, didn't panic. He realized he couldn't open the door against the force of the water. Very calmly he skinned out through the open window and swung on the roof of the car. Later when I asked him how he managed that so smoothly he told me it was just like getting out of a demo car. Maybe that's a redeeming feature of the demolition derby and all those care we have cluttering up our place. He must have been practicing with his brothers.

While he was getting out I was gathering things from the seat of the car. Mail went up to the ledge of the rear window. Newly-purchased medicine crammed into the purse. Better put the watch in also. Then it was my turn to exit. I haven't had the practice the boy has but I managed to get myself out through the window. I found I was backwards to get up on top so I had to get a solid footing inside again to get turned around. By that time the water inside the car had reached window level so my feet were wet when I did reach the roof.

Several people had stopped on Filion Road. We must have put on quite a show for them. People usually don't get to see such acrobatics outside of the circus. Next time we'll sell tickets. It's a good thing my training was in physical education. It wouldn't have helped a bit if I were a music major and could only sit there and sing.

Some of the on-lookers waded to our rescue. Bruce Leipprandt, Dave Wolfe and L.J. Wade (isn't that an appropriate name?) sloshed toward us as we stayed on our perch. wasn't sure how much deeper the water would be. I waited to see if they were going to swim or walk all the way.

I thought I had gathered the important things but was grateful when Dave reached in the car and retrieved the keys and garage door opener. He suggested leaving the car there until the water receded. That sounded like a good idea to me. The three rescuers escorted us through the waist-deep water to safety and the Wolfes gave us a ride home. We are very thankful for everyone's help and concern.

One of the things left in the stranded car was a set of dishes. They were packed in a California Cooler cardboard box. I met the tow truck on Sunday to remove the car from the road which was no longer part of the river. One of the first things I noticed was that the box was gone. I'd like to have seen the looks on the faces of the thieves when they discovered plates, cups and saucers instead of bottles.

Looking back at the whole escapade, I realized that wasn't frightened at the time it was happening. However, l did have trouble sleeping that night and that was when I was terrified of what could have happened. God's watchful care is all around us, even when we make dumb mistakes. From now on, I'm paying close attention to ALL warning signs, not STINKY HOGS: The state Air Pollution Control Commission last week rejected a Department of Natural Resources recommendation to exempt a proposed "hog hotel'' near Kalamazoo from state air pollution rules.

The action effectively ends a long policy of exempting farm odors from Michigan air pollution guidelines. Opponents of the planned set-up said the facility is a livestock "factory," not a farm, and should be exempted -- and the state panel agreed.

The facility, owned by Tobe Strong, proposes to confine about 1000 hogs for marketing, and collect their waste in a 900,000-gallon lagoon. It would be sprayed on the farm, but nearby residents complained the operation would smmell threaten groundwater and lessen the home values.

P.I.K. MEET: A meeting is planned tonight (Wednesday) to explain Payment In Kind (P.I.K.) certificates, sponsored by the Huron County Corn Growers through Cooperative Extension Service and the ASCS.

The 8 p.m. session will be conducted at the Huron Community Fairgrounds Activity Center meeting room off Soper Road, and interested persons are invited to attend. ASCS County Director Jimmy LaVoie will speak on "How P.I.K. Certificates can be bought and sold.'

Hello. My name is Tina Bieri. I am a senior at Caseville High School and I will write the news for the 1986-87 school year.

We have been in school three weeks now and everything seems to be going by so fast. From basketball and football games to Homecoming and float building, everyone seems to be keeping busy.

There are no new teachers in the high school, but one familiar face is that of Mrs. Watts, our new counselor. Mrs. Watts used to be the sixth grade teacher and accepted the position of elementary principal and guidance counselor

The girls' basketball team is 1-3 overall. They lost to Owen-Gage 36-53 during the Invitational Tournament and came back to beat Port Hope 37-7 in the consolation match. The team played Cass City and Akron-Fairgrove and dropped both games, 30-40 and 32-61, and Kris Grigg were selected offense and defensive players of the week.

The annual seventh grade camp arrived! Seventh Sept., 15-18. Camp counselors were Yvonne Miller, Colleen Kopack, Tim Smith and Mike Mohr. They were staying at Sleeper State Park and studied the outdoors with advisors Mr. Winkler and Mrs. B. Quinn.

The Future Homemakers of America, Caseville chapter, elected officers for the coming year: President Vicky Karle, Vice President Tammy Forman, Secretary Cindy Eimers, Treasurer Becky Dubey and Student Council Representative Kelly Bowers. Their advisor is Mrs. Debra Fritz. The group plans to sell mums for

Michigan hunters can look forward to a great goose season and an average to poor duck season during the 1986 fall hunt. Both seasons will run from October 11, until November 19, with the bag limit of geese set at 2 per day, and the duck limit will be governed by the point system. Local hunters had hoped the season would run concurrently with that of the northern lower peninsula, but at the last minute, Huron County, although above the line which separates the 2 seasons, was attached to the southern portion of the lower penin-

DNR officials are looking forward to a banner goose year. They have even predicted the 1986 season to surpass the record season of 1985, when more than 62,000 geese were killed. In addition to the regular Canada goose season, Michigan again will be permitted a late extended winter hunt in the Southern Michigan Goose management Area. This 46-day hunt, January 1 - February 15, was established in an effort to control nuisance populations of local giant Canada geese. The daily limit will be 2 birds.

The duck season is predicted to be improved over the record low 1985 flight of 62 million birds, but is still below the long-term average number of 84 million birds. The season will be opened for 40 days, and will not be liberalized as far as bag limits are concerned. The daily bag limit will be 100 points with a maximum harvest of 5 ducks. Point values on individual species remain unchanged from 1985 with one exception, no canvasback hunting will be permitted. Hen mallards and black ducks remain 100 point birds; wood ducks, redheads, and hood mergansers are 70 pointers. The 35-pointers include drake mallards, pintails, ring-necks, goldeneyes, buffleheads, ruddy ducks, old-squaws, and scoters. Twenty-point ducks include widgeon, blue and green-winged teal, shovelers, gad-wall, scaup and the large mergansers. A special scauponly duck season, limited to designated waters, will be permitted for 16 days following the close of the duck season. The area in Huron County is the open waters of Saginaw Bay, southwest of a line from the tip of Point Lookout to Sand Point.

Saturday, September 27, will mark the 15th annual observance of National Hunting and Fishing Day. Serving as Honorary Chairman for NHF Day is George Brett, All Star third baseman for the World Champion Kansas City Royals

A buck to remember

My car bounced along the rutted, county road, its headlights stabbing into the inky blackness of this early October morning.

South of me lay the farm. Not much of a farm by my hometown standards, but a farm nevertheless. It was owned by a young man who had dreams of becoming independent, but, that independency was coming slow. Poor land, coupled by poor crop prices had strapped him into finding a

He appeared at the barn one morning. Calloused hands and threadbare clothes told me he worked hard, but it was the sharp, piercing eyes that had landed him the position. Eyes that seemed to say he would never quit, and never quit was his motto. After putting in a full day at the golf course, he would return to the farm and remain in the fields long after dark.

It was his complaining that finally led me to the farm. One day during lunch he started grumbling. It was a rarity for him, but on this day he was fed up.
"Those damn deer," he muttered through a mouthful of bologna sandwich, "they're going to eat me out of house and

My ears perked up at the mention of deer, and I quizzed him about his statement. He proceeded to tell about a herd that had descended on his cornfield. "They just pile in there every night and strip the cobs right off the stalk," he said. When I mentioned the possibility of bow hunting on his property during the fall, he turned and stared me squarely in the eyes.

'Haven't had much luck with hunters,' he said, "they always do more damage I tried to explain that I wasn't that kind of hunter and would certainly like a chance to prove myself. But, try as I may, he wouldn't give me permission to hunt. I forgot all about it until late that September, when out of the clear blue sky, he walked up to me and announced he would let me hunt on his farm this year, but I couldn't bring anyone with me. I felt my heart do a little flip-flop in my chest, and I assured him he would have no trouble with me following his rules.

I arrived at the farm a good 2 hours

Whatever I did, I didn't want to spook the deer I knew were feeding in the corn.

After parking the car, I slipped the bow out of the case and started to pick my way through the woods and to the tree blind I had built a few weeks ago. The air was thick and heavy and the dew in the grass let me move silently towards the blind. Maybe this morning, I thought to myself, maybe this morning I would get a crack at the buck I had seen each morning for the last week

I reached the tree and quickly mounted the ladder that led to the lofty perch. From the platform, I could watch a well-worn deer trail leading to and from the cornfield. Each morning, just before daylight, at least 6 or 7 deer would come down that trail, but the big buck always lagged behind and as daylight crept over the horizon, he would disappear into the

I heard the deer coming before I even saw them. The steady clip-clop of their sharp hooves beat on the hard surface of the beaten path.

Lakers rain on Marlette homecoming parade

SWARTZENDRUBER

Somebody should leave a wake-up call for the Laker football team at 7:30 on Friday nights. For the second consecutive week the Elkton - Pigeon - Bay Port football squad seemed to come alive after a sluggish start to post a lopsided win at the final

Last Friday, Marlette celebrated a narrow 7-6 deficit along with other homecoming activities at halftime of the game. The prospect of a Red Raider victory was washed away with the rain that fell during the game, however, as the Green Machine geared up to outscore their hosts 28-0 in the second half to earn a 35-6

After possession was exchanged three times on consecutive plays, Marlette threatened to take the lead before running out of downs on the Laker 18-yard line with seconds remaining in the quarter.
