Disney's rules to live by still valid at 60!

As you read this, the voters of our nation will have chosen a new president to hopefully lead this country until 1992, at least. Perhaps the winner is the man of your choice, or perhaps you think he's the worst choice since your last presidential loss. Either way, a new era and new mood is ahead for us all.

Like New Year's Eve, the day after the Presidential election is a time to dream... a time to consider what should be improved and what great advancements may lie ahead. Out with the old and in with the new seems to be the theme everywhere...

America's best-known dream factory turns 60 years old this summer. It's survived through Republican AND Democratic presidencies, through wars, floods, famines, troubles, turmoils and happinesses of all types.

Yes, Walt Disney's empire celebrates its 60th birthday on Nov. 18 with lead star Mickey Mouse's birthday. That was the day the first talking cartoon "Steamboat Willie" opened in 1928, and the rest is history.

To celebrate, the Disney people will release their 27th feature movie, Oliver & Company, based on Charles Dickens' Oliver Twist (with animals playing the characters, in true Disney fashion).

If we want to look at hope, optimism and dreams, look no further than Walt Disney. His company was

On the election's end and foreclosures

Can it be? The election is over (well, almost over -- some of you pick up your paper on Tuesday!) and November is well on its way toward Thanksgiving. We're dealt an early Thanksgiving this year, one just two weeks away from this Thursday, and then we're launched out into the marvelous heights of Christmas again. Thank God! Holidays come no matter what, just like babies!

From a diet of one political ad after another, we'll go to television and radio as usual, not without lots of comments about how good it is to have the election time over. While it has been a mean spirited election, somehow or another, the deep running waters of freedom and democracy will take over.

After the election, we will agree to disagree. We will again get along with each other and learn to work within whatever party's ideology sets the path for the next four years. That is the strength of our system, and we need to be reminded of it as we live this 51st consecutive presidential election here in the 212th year of the republic called The United States of America.

So what now for November in the Thumb? Harvesting continues at a muddled pace. Foreclosure notices have been dotting the daily papers at County Central all fall. One cannot help but notice them and wonder and weep for those caught in the awful finalness of the bottom of the economy. Always we want the good news. Often we fail to deal with the news that isn't good at all.

Is it always so in farm society? Are there always those whose personal and business lives bear the brunt of times changing? Does society (that's us, folks) just accept these changes as part of natural order or do we ask questions like: is it okay for people to lose their land?

Then, too, where in all of this is our compassion for those who must administer the foreclosures? The sheriff, the lawyers, the judges, the bankers, the appraisers, the auctioneers? And where do we stand side-by-side with the families who leave the land? Do we do that in our neighborhoods? At the coffee shops? In our church sanctuaries and classrooms? Around the kitchen table that soon will belong to another family?

Little is being said in Huron County these days about foreclosures. Little is being said about tough times for some people. The stories are out there. Somehow, compassion must be extended, not pity. Somehow society has to begin addressing the massive shifts in land ownership and the gradual loss of family farms.

So, Thanksgiving comes and with it the blessed chance to sit down at a holiday table with family and friends. Let us remember those who do not share in the bounty. Share Thanksgiving through your donations to a local food pantry or by visiting a shut-in or someone living alone.

Life can be full to overflowing as we share of that which is given to us in full measure this November.

nearly broke in 1954 as he launched his most-memorable enterprise, Disneyland. It got the company out of the movie-cartoon business, and into a far more profitable endeavor, amusement parks. Floriday's Disney World soon followed, as did Disney parks in Japan and France.

It wasn't — and isn't — all luck. It wasn't just fate, the Disney people work hard to "get lucky." And they still follow Walt Disney's own five secrets to success, which are fascinatingly applicable in our daily life, whether we're men or mice. They are:

Think tomorrow — Walt Disney looked past the daily frustrations and disappointments which haunted his early work life. He always tried to make today pay off tomorrow. Tomorrow's promise can get you through a bad today;

Free the imagination — Walt Disney himself wasn't afraid to think new thoughts or dream new dreams, if he really believed in them. You've got to think like a kid in making cartoons to attract kids.

Strive for lasting quality — Don't produce something shoddily now, Disney believed. Put the effort into it to make it last, and that will pay off in the long run.

Disney painted Jiminy Cricket in 27 colors, to show he's a "colorful" personality. "If the show is good enough, the public will pay us back for it," Walt Disney himself said. He was right!

Have "stick-to-it-ivity" — Disney's own fortitude also guided him and pushed him through projects which seemed insurmountable early on. He lived in the belief that any mountain could be climbed, any stream forded if the person wants to badly enough.

Finally, Have fun — Walt Disney said "The way to make things work is not to worry and to get interested in some little idea that looks like fun." Yes, this part of the theory sounds too simple to work, but it's true: Walt Disney lived these principles, and the enterprises he founded 60 years ago next week survive today, even though he died 22 years ago at age 65 of cancer.

And just think how many millions of people Walt Disney has made happy in those years, all around the world.

He's lived by these five principles, and millions have found happiness because of them.

And to think, as Disney often said, "it was all started by a mouse..."

Pastor explains views on abortion

DEAR EDITOR:

The past election has raised a variety of issues and emotional responses, both to the candidates and the issues they champion. Among the most notable issues statewide is Proposal A, the one dealing with who pays for abortions for persons receiving public assistance. This was the subject of Mark Rummel's recent comments in The Progress-Advance.

Mark's point is well-made in that it does not seem fair to deprive a poor woman the right to an abortion simply because she is poor, when the same right is given to someone who has the ability to pay for it. One of the most heard campaign ads stated that the voters were not asked to decide whether abortions are right or wrong, but rather who pays for them.

As a pastor and a concerned citizen, I feel it is important to question some of the assumptions raised by Proposal A.

First, I am not satisfied that Roe vs. Wade, which gives a woman the right to seek an abortion, addresses the moral and ethical issues that surround this action. As I read the Scriptures, I believe that God has placed a high value on human life, even while that life is part of its mother's body. The Psalmist wrote, "For you created my inmost being; you knit me together in my mother's womb. My frame was not hidden from you when I was made in the secret place... your eyes saw my unformed body. All the days ordained for me were written in your book before one of them came to be." (Psalm 139: 13, 15, 16, NIV).

I understand this to mean that life begins at the first day of conception. Do we have the right to terminate that which God has defined as life even in the mother's womb? Of course, we know of exceptional cases when the mother's life appears to be in jeopardy if she were to continue a pregnancy. That is not, however, the same issue as abortion on demand.

Secondly, I object to the concept of presenting Proposal A to the public as a matter of fiscal prudence. The argument was given that an abortion costs $350. To support a child from birth to age 18 was listed as being 10 times more costly (the second figure may be a bit underestimated at that).

RECOLLECTIONS Of By-Gone Days BY GEORGE KEIM

DEAR EDITOR:

When I was around five years old, one of my uncles had the bad luck of breaking his leg. He was plowing with what they called a "bull tractor" that only had three wheels. The tractor hit a stone and tipped over and his leg got caught in the drive wheel.

I was still too young to know all about it, but he had to go to Bad Axe, which was the closest hospital. He had to stay there for quite awhile. My mother went over there on the train and missed it to come home. My folks didn't have a car and there wasn't a train coming home, so she called up to our place because we did have a telephone.

Dad couldn't go after her so she went to a hotel in Bad Axe overnight and came back the next day. It only cost $1.00 to sleep overnight in a hotel and they gave you your supper and breakfast for 50 cents extra. She just had enough money for it. Of course, in those days nobody carried very much money with them.

I remember when the women seldom had more than $5.00 in their handbags (that's what they used to call purses those days).

The next time she went over there she took me along. Dad took us to the depot with the horse and buggy. The steam engine that pulled the train made a lot of noise when the train started. Mother and I sat on a seat where we could look out and see the country.

When we came to Elkton, the conductor came through the car and said, "Elkton, Elkton!" and some people got off and some people got on, then the train started out again. Some young man came down the aisle with candy and bananas to sell, but my mother didn't have enough money and she said it wasn't good for me to eat on the train.

Soon the conductor came through the car and said, "Grassmere, Grassmere!" and some more people got off and on. Soon we came to Bad Axe and everybody got off.

My mother knew the way to the old Hubbard Hospital where my Uncle Jake was. It wasn't dinner yet. I looked the room over and when it was time for dinner, my mother had a lunch along for us.

In the afternoon a lady that knew us who was working there took me around and showed me the kitchen and some other sick people.

When it was time to go home, we went to the depot and the conductor came through the car again and called "Grassmere!" and "Elkton!" and "Pigeon!" and there was my Dad with Dandy hitched to the buggy.

To get us in cost about $1.50 for both of us to get to Bad Axe and back. In Matt. 10:9-14 we read how Christ sent his disciples on a journey and told them not to take any money or extra clothes along.

Well, years ago it was a journey to Bad Axe. One of my uncles went over and back and only had one flat tire and he thought he had done pretty well!

Pastor Wayne Keim discusses abortion issues

It is obvious to state that abortion terminates the life of the unborn fetus. Without having resolved the issue of when life begins, it seems crass to suggest that it is cheaper to end the life of an unborn baby than to allow that child to be born and grow to maturity.

Thirdly, I would raise the question of responsibility for the sexual freedom which often leads to unwanted or unplanned pregnancies. Sex education and the use of contraceptive devices addresses only a small area of the problem. Perhaps our churches have been delinquent in our failure to articulate God's standards of holiness in sexual relationships.

A reminder from the Scriptures is timely and appropriate in this regard: "Marriage should be honored by all and the marriage bed kept pure, for God will judge the adulterer and all sexually immoral." (Heb. 13:4 NIV). The standard of purity in our conduct should be presented and reinforced as responsible and pleasing to God. It makes sense to plan to be co-creators with God and to follow His guidelines.

Sometimes we have been hasty in passing judgment against those who have made wrong choices or have been caught in situations they did not choose. A baby's need for a mother is absolute. A woman, however, can decide whether or not she wants to become a mother. Motherhood as God intended it can and should be a rich and fulfilling role for the woman who desires it. The choice of motherhood should come before the event of conception, rather than during a pregnancy.

Too often an unplanned pregnancy forces a woman into a role she did not choose. Many times the man who imposed this decision upon a woman has abdicated his responsibility to support his partner and the unborn child he helped to conceive. Perhaps the man who has abandoned his role as a responsible father is more liable for censure in the event of abortion than the woman who obtains it.

Let us return to the question asked by Proposal A. Who pays for abortions? We do. One and a half million babies are aborted each year in the United States alone. We ought not to be distracted by the cost in terms of money alone.

Of far greater concern is the loss of innocent lives that will never be born. We ought also to be concerned about the violence done to other needy human beings who suffer from hunger, from abuse, from illiteracy and from racial prejudice.

I call to question the priorities of a government that allocates thousands of dollars to remove a harmless pile of sand from the horizon at Unionville while recipients of Meals on Wheels worry about funding. I wonder about the reasons nations can cooperate to save a pair of gray whales in Alaska but seem unable to deliver food to starving children in Ethiopia.

May God call us to return to a sense of holiness in all human life and may that sense motivate us to do our part to serve one another.

Respectfully submitted, WAYNE J. KEIM, pastor, Fairhaven Mennonite Church

Demon activity is real, reader says

DEAR EDITOR:

The demon activity and devil worship in this area is very real. We tend to say my children and grandchildren are not affected directly so it does not concern me. "It will go away... It's just another phase our youth are going through."

Church, we need to be "bold as lions." Prov. 28:1 "These signs shall accompany those who have believed. In my name they will cast out demons and they will speak with new tongues" Mark 16:17.

We need to speak directly to demons as Jesus did. He told them "Go." We too should tell them to go (We are His disciples and have been given authority to do so).

Speak directly to them, using the name and blood of Jesus. Speak to the demons of suicide, spirit of religion, dissatisfaction, depression, sexual perversion, demon worship. Bind them and tell them to "be gone."

Invite Jesus Christ to flow in and around us. We are enforcing Christ's victory over Satan.

If each reader would be responsible for his family, friends and neighborhood, we could make a difference — with God's help. He would send revival — the vessel must first be cleansed.

Get together with a few friends and pray. Go to the school and find the evil one. Remember Harry Truman! He lived five miles away from Mount St. Helen. He did not believe the authorities when they told him it would erupt. His belief brought him death.

Just remember we are more than conquerors through Him who loves us.

SINCERELY, VIOLA VOELKER

DEAR EDITOR:

This letter is to applaud both Sally and Mark Rummel for a recent honor bestowed upon The Progress-Advance by the Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals.

On Nov. 2, you received recognition by the MASSP for the excellent work you do on behalf of the four area schools you cover so well. Not only do you highlight athletics and other typical items, but you go beyond the usual standards of journalism to highlight all areas of schools.

MASSP appreciates your efforts, and I want to congratulate you on this honor!

"AS I SEE IT..." By HARRY J. BRUNET

State Football Playoffs

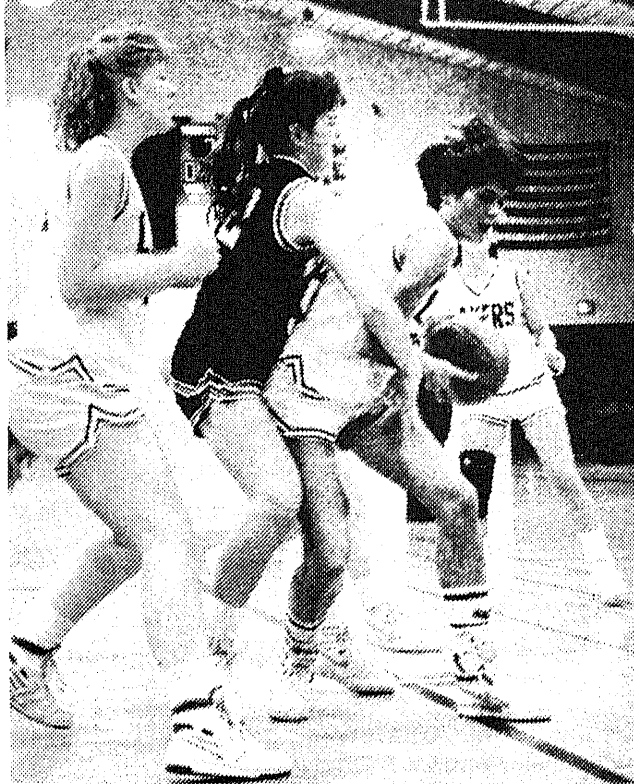

By HARRY J. BRUNET
The state football playoffs have been one of the more successful post season offerings sponsored by the Michigan High School Athletic Association. It has definitely determined the champion in each of Michigan's four school class divisions. As with any state rankings, there is much hype and hoopla with the ones who can survive the preliminaries to make it into the championship bracket. These football playoffs have definitely added their share of excitement to an already exciting high school athletic event. Michigan's Class divisions — A, B, C and D — are designed to make levels of competition equal. The A schools are the largest and the rest follow according to their student enrollments. On paper, this sounds as though it's a fair and just way to align teams for the post-season tournaments. Unfortunately, this is not the way the system works. For the past several years, there has been a definite distinction between Michigan's public and the private-parochial schools. The public Class B and A schools have done very well against private or parochial schools in state playoffs. This can be attributed to their student numbers and their athletic talent pools being equalized. The big difference occurs in the Class C and D schools. Here you have a whole new ball game! The metropolitan parochial schools have no boundaries, and their overall student population will be the same as any Class C or D school. Their athletic talent is not Class C or D caliber, it is Class A. (A comparison is that one Huron County school could draw players from any other local district.) The Detroit Parochial League recognizes this in itself when they have their playoffs. Depending on how many they feel can qualify in any of the four classes, depends on how they assign their championship playoffs at the Pontiac Silverdome.

ing on the part of an athletic association to get that "good kid" from across town to come over and play football for us. The result of that Brown City/Laker game was a lopsided victory for the Lakers. A few years later, Brown City went up against dePorres — equal talent pool, what a laugher! Brown City had a good Class C football team, but not one to compete against the talent of St. Martin de Porres. Not all private and parochial schools get in on Michigan's high school big time. It's been fairly well-controlled and doled out to certain few. In Class A, Birmingham Brother Rice Catholic Central and Warren DeLa Salle. In Class B, it's Dearborn Divine Child. In Class C, always dePorres, this year super-power Orchard Lake St. Mary's and one in awhile, Pontiac Catholic, now called Oakland County Catholic. It's not just the Detroit metro area that beats the push for athletic talent, nor is it all parochial schools. Detroit Country Day searches far and wide for super talent, in their quest to dominate Michigan's Class C athletic programs. Around the state you will find Class C powers at Muskegon, Traverse City, Kalamazoo and Saginaw. Not much can be done to stop a Nouvel, dePorres or a Country Day from enticing the best area athletes to attend their schools. There is, however, a movement to exclude them from our schedule. This is what is happening to Saginaw Nouvel. Their football league is the Detroit Metropolitan area. Few of the schools in the immediate Saginaw area want to play a school like Nouvel. Despite this vast talent pool that the metropolitan areas have to draw from, we still have to play them in post-season play. Every once in awhile, one of the little fellows like Erie-Mason in football last year or the Lakers in football and basketball will come along and "do a number" on one of these little-big schools.

Two more Laker wins

By AMY HEIDEN
With this week's games being the last for regular season play, the Lady Lakers basketball team is giving it all to finish with a bang. And last week's two victories are proof of their determination. MARLETTE ACTION: In their previous meeting, Marlette had prevailed over the Lakers 65-54 and the Lakers had revenge on their minds when they hit the boards Tuesday night. They took the lead early in the game and refused to give it up. The Green and White had three players in the double-digit column as Connie Schulz paced the Lakers with 17 points, Brenda Buschlen had 16 and Tracie Henne came up with 10 points. Marcia Putman was the key player for Marlette with 22 points, but her play wasn't enough to get the victory. Coach Paul Beachy was pleased with the team's efforts against the state-raided Red Raider team. "Our girls came out and played good basketball. We played as a team and had some very good defense."

Schulz and Buschlen were especially effective at the free throw line, with Schulz getting all five of her charity throws, while Buschlen made four of her six tries. VASSAR BLOW-OUT: While the Laker-Marlette game was no walkover, the next game on the schedule was "no contest," according to Coach Beachy. The Lakers simply stopped the Vulcans cold, 46-27. Tracie Henne was the Lakers' ace in the game with a game high 20 points. The Vulcans could only manage 12 points in the entire first half, while Henne had 10 points in the first quarter alone. She was also effective from the free throw line, getting 10 of her 13 tries. FINAL WEEK: In this week's games, the Lakers will contend with a good Caro team on Tuesday and Friday's game with Bad Axe will end regular season play. The team is automatically in district tournament competition in single-elimination

We're Asking You...

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION, ASKED BY BRENDA BUSCHLEN:
"Winter will be here soon! (sigh). What's your favorite winter sport or activity? Why?"

Downhill skiing with friends, because I did it for the first time last year and it was a lot of fun!

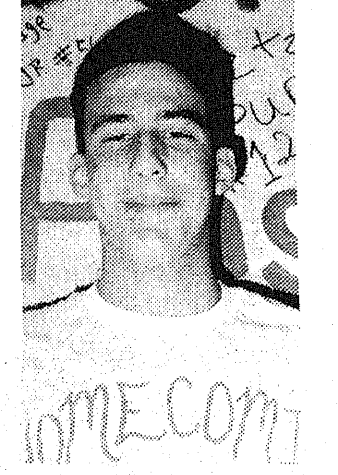

Walking, because it makes me feel good.

I like Laker girls' volleyball and boys' basketball, and playing gin rummy with my wife, because they're all good pasttimes.

Ice skating, because it takes skill.

Basketball, because it's a fun indoor sport.

Thanks a Million By Percy Ross

Elderly woman fears falling tree; photographer asks for case of film

DEAR MR. ROSS:

I'm a 77-year-old, black female. Since 1973, I've had chronic health problems — everything from infections to high blood pressure to cancer.

Mr. Ross, I hate to ask for help, but I need it. I have a very large old tree on my property that lightning struck. It needs cutting down, but the city won't do it because it's on my property, not theirs.

Every time a storm comes up, I pack my medicine and clothes and stand by the door, afraid that big old tree will fall on my house. If it does, there will be no more house — it'll be smashed to pieces. The tree man said he could cut it down for $250. On my fixed income of $313 a month, I'll never be able to get the job done. Do I have a prayer? — Mrs. K.A., St. Louis, Mo.

DEAR MRS. A.:

From what you've described, you won't have a prayer in the world if that tree comes smashing down on your house. However, my dear lady, you turned to the right person for help and you're getting it — but not because you're 77, not because you're black, not because you've suffered ill health.

You're receiving help because you live with fear and fear consumes one's spirit. So you just use my check to get that nasty old tree cut down and I'll feel better knowing that you can sit out the next storm in relative comfort. — $$$$$$$$$ —

DEAR MR. ROSS:

I'm a homemaker with three boys, ages nine, six and four. We've lived in our home for eight years, but over the past year we've had some bad experiences with vandals — everything from slashed tires to smashed mailboxes.

Last month two of my sons left their bikes out in the yard and they were stolen. Our insurance won't cover the loss because it's less than $500.

My kids have learned a hard lesson at an early age. If you could send $125, we could replace the bikes. More importantly, we could teach them that not all people are cruel, heartless thieves. — Mrs. P.R., Tacoma, Wash.

DEAR MRS. R.:

I don't see where one experience of thievery is going to cause your children to think that the rest of the world is cruel and heartless. Besides, I've always felt funny about assuming the role of the "Good Guy" who makes everything OK. I'm only one of countless others who do good in this world.

In sending you my check to replace the stolen bikes, I ask that you stress the lesson of responsibility: If you're careless with your belongings they will either be ruined or worse yet, stolen.

If you can teach them THIS lesson at an early age, you've given them a wealth of education that applies to all phases of life.

DEAR MR. ROSS:

I have a unique business proposal for you. Many immigrants come to me for fingerprints and photos so they can obtain amnesty and green cards. Most of them are Latinos and quite poor. The Los Angeles Police Dept. no longer provides this service, so I charge them $10. I think it's a bargain, but to them it's a real hardship. Sometimes I can help out and give discounts to families, but I still have to cover my expenses. It's all fine and well to be a good Samaritan, but not at the expense of my own welfare.

You may write to Percy Ross in care of The Progress-Advance, P.O. Box 35000, Minneapolis, MN 55435. Please include your telephone number with your letter.

If you could help me buy a case of Polaroid 669 film which costs about $200, I could give the photos away for free. In other words, you supply the film and I'll provide my camera and labor. The money we'd be saving then could go toward food or a bus ride back home or even a pair of tennis shoes for a family member. How about teaming up with me in my efforts to give these folks an opportunity in America? — Mr. B.H., Los Angeles, Calif.

DEAR MR. H.:

I'll go to my grave believing that America is the land of opportunity for all. And in that belief I see the opportunity to give as well as receive.

In sending my check for camera film, you've provided me with a unique opportunity to touch many lives indirectly and for that I say, "Thanks a Million!" — $$$$$$$$$ —

WHERE'S THE WILL . . .

A will can be a powerful legal instrument - but only if it is found and filed with the appropriate court official. If the will cannot be found, it is worthless.

Take care to keep your will in a safe but not obscure place. Inform your executor, lawyer, and family members of the location of the will, as well as the location of other valuable papers and documents, including insurance policies, stocks and bonds, and detailed burial instructions if any.

safe deposit box may not be opened for some time following death. Probably the best place to keep such documents is in a truly fire-proof safe in your home or, perhaps, your lawyer's office. Wherever it is kept, be certain to inform several key persons of its location.

United in marriage

McCormick-Hessler

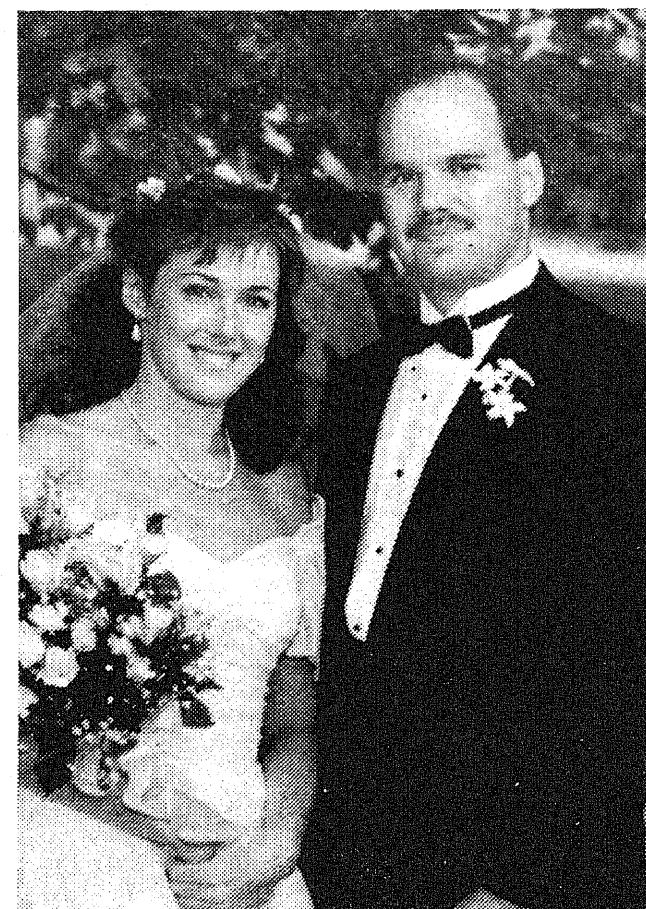

Leslie Susan Hessler of Ann Arbor and Michael Mark McCormick of Chicago, Ill. united their lives in marriage in an early evening wedding ceremony on Saturday, Oct. 15 at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Ann Arbor.

Officiating at the ceremony which united the children of Dr. David W. and Helen Hessler of Ann Arbor and Bruce and Donna McCormick of Caseville were the Rev. Canon G. Alexander Miller and the Rev. Father Theodore LaMarre.

Organist was Dr. Strode and special readings were offered by Bruce W. McCormick, father of the groom and William Olson, uncle of the bride.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a white silk gown with a sheared bodice, a chapel-length train and short puff sleeves. Her fingertip-length veil was secured by a floral (roses) headpiece and she carried a bridal bouquet of long-stemmed roses.

Preceding her down the wedding aisle was her sister, Laura Hessler of Ann Arbor, who attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a full-length taffeta gown in midnight blue. She carried six long-stemmed coral-colored roses.

Local news notes

Darwin and Kimberly Farnum of Ypsilanti announce the birth of their son, Nicholas Ryan, on Tuesday, November 1, at St. Joseph Hospital, Ann Arbor. Nicholas weighed 7 pounds, 15-1/2 ounces. Maternal grandparents are Jean Bennett of Ypsilanti and Jack Goble of Lexington, KY.

Paternal grandparents are Willis and June Farnum of Owendale. Nicholas has a sister, Jessica, 2, at home.

Attending bridesmaids were Kathy Stocking of Chicago, Ill., Christi Balas of Ann Arbor, Karen Kindt of Ann Arbor, all friends of the bride and Maureen Eisengruber of Sebawaing, sister of the groom. They were attired identically to the maid of honor and carried coral-pink flowers.

The groom asked his brother, Kirk McCormick of Kalamazoo, to be best man, assisted by groomsmen Kurt Wieck of Ft. Collins, Colo., Bill Kelly of Lansing, Mike Denny of Kalamazoo, all friends of the groom and Robert Johnson of Holland, brother of the groom.

Ushers were Joe Eisengruber of Sebawaing, brother-in-law of the groom and Craig Guster of Saginaw, friend of the groom.

The newlyweds greeted 170 guests at the University of Michigan League Ballroom before leaving on a honeymoon trip to San Francisco, Calif. Guests attended from Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Colorado and Canada.

The bride is a graduate of Western Michigan University with a Marketing degree. She is presently employed as a Leasing Administrator, Schaumburg, Ill. The groom is a WMU graduate with a Petroleum Marketing major.

He is a Territory Sales Representative with Shell Oil Co., Oak Brook, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. McCormick are now making their home in Naperville, Ill.

Stahl plans Alma event

Alma College junior Michelle Stahl of Caseville was one of four students who served on the Presidential Inauguration Committee which planned the Oct. 28 Inauguration of Dr. Alan J. Stone, Alma's 11th president.

Faculty, administrative and student committee members also planned two other inaugural events, an athletic symposium on Oct. 26 and a religion symposium on Oct. 27.

Stahl and others on the committee had worked since August monitoring the long list of details necessary for this major college celebration. The committee was involved in every aspect of the planning, from publications to floral arrangements, from luncheon menus to the sequence of the delegates.

Stahl served as a co-chair in planning the party and dance which concluded the week's events with a Halloween theme and was named "Midnight Masquerade." Student committee members also assisted with invitation mailings, parking details and campus publicity.

Stahl, a 1986 graduate of Caseville High School, is the daughter of James and Sharon Stahl of Caseville. Actively involved in Alma's Community Government, she is serving this year on the Academics Standards Committee. She is majoring in business administration and history at Alma College.

United in marriage

McKinnon-Libka

St. John's Ev. Lutheran Church in Pigeon was the site of wedding vows spoken by Mary Lou Libka and Michael Raymond McKinnon on Saturday, Oct. 15.

The Rev. Paul Schleis performed the double-ring ceremony before a congregation of 175 guests. The bridal couple are the children of Neil and Joan Libka of Pigeon and Ray and Rita McKinnon of Rockford, Ill.

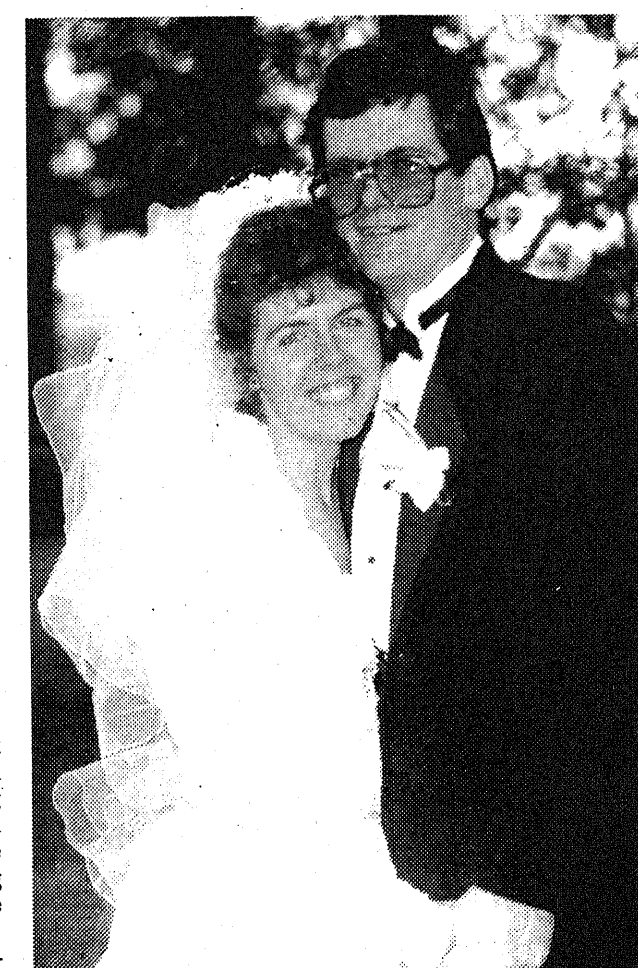

Organist Elaine Schulze and soloist Jean Fritz performed "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer." The congregation joined together in singing "O Perfect Love."

Escorted on her father's arm, the bride chose a satin gown featuring a hand-pearled basque waist bodice with a Queen Anne neckline and bishop sleeves. Innumerable scroll lace cutout motifs accented the skirt and cathedral train. Matching wide border lace encircled the hemline. Her headpiece was waist-length featuring pearl cascades and lily of the valley.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of gardenias and white roses accented with spider ivy and ferns.

Alice Libka of Mt. Morris, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a teal-length royal blue gown with scalloped-edged lace over a satin slip. The dress featured scalloped short sleeves and a front neckline and was accented with a satin cummerbund and back bow.

Bridesmaids included Lorraine McKinnon of Ames, IA, sister of the groom and Jan Komas of Flint and Mary Miller of Indianapolis, Ind., friends of the bride. The bridesmaids wore ankle-length royal blue gowns with handkerchief hemline lace over taffeta slips. Their dresses featured bodices gathered at the waist with satin sashes.

The maid of honor and the bridesmaids each carried arm bouquets of autumn colored roses, mums and hyacinths brought together with sheer royal blue lace.

Flower girls Hilary Libka of Rapid City, S.D., niece of the bride and Melissa Ferolie of Rockford, Ill., niece of the groom, wore similar dresses to the maid of honor. The girls carried brown wicker baskets filled with the autumn colored flowers and royal blue ribbon.

The groom asked his friend Ron Lindflott of Ames, IA, to be his best man with groomsmen Rich Holder of Rockford, Ill., Rudy Abiera of Highland Park, Ill. and Mike Harte of Atwater, Calif.

Helping to seat the guests were ushers Pat Libka of Westland, brother of the bride and Tom Ferolie of Rockford, Ill., brother-in-law of the groom. Ringbearer was Beau Donnell of Mt. Morris, nephew of the bride.

The mother of the bride wore a dusty rose street-length dress with a gathered bodice and pleated skirt.

The mother of the groom chose a teal green street-length dress. Both mothers wore wrist corsages of white roses and gardenias, accented with opalescent ribbon.

The Pigeon VFW Hall was the site of the reception, decorated with royal blue satin ribbon, white bells and white and blue streamers. Diane Davis of Burton, a friend of the couple, made all the flowers for the church, attendants and reception. In addition to the fresh flower arrangements on the side cakes, reception music was provided by Reynold Jay of Saginaw, cousin of the bride.

Guests attended from Nova Scotia, Saskatchewan, California, South Dakota, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and various areas of Michigan.

Following their one-week honeymoon trip to Florida, the couple is making their home in Flint.

Club news

PIGEON WORTH WHILE

The November meeting of the Pigeon Worth While Club was held at the home of Bertha McAulay with President June Kretzschmer presiding.

Debbie Christner, Hugh O'Brien Youth Leadership Seminar representative from Laker High School, presented a report about her experiences and thanked the club for sending her.

Duane Guenther offered a program on "Conservation," speaking on the crisis created in the U.S. by a lack of concern with preservation and conservation.

President Kretzschmer gave a review of the Proposals that were to face the public at the Nov. 8 election.

Achievements

Commander Ronald M. Greene, formerly of Kinde, was promoted to his present rank on Oct. 3 at ceremonies held at the Enlisted Personnel Management Center in New Orleans, La., where he currently serves as Director, MCA Liaison/Systems Management.

COMMANDER
 Ronald M. Greene

He was one of only six Naval officers in his specialty to be selected for promotion this year.

The 1961 graduate of North Huron High School was a member of the school's track, basketball and baseball teams. He enlisted in the Navy in 1962 and was commissioned as a Warrant Officer in 1971.

As one of the highlights of his Naval career, Greene traveled to Saudi Arabia earlier this year as part of a special team to analyze and recommend improvements to the Saudi Navy Personnel Manpower Systems.

Commander Greene is the son of John and Agnes Greene, long-time Kinde residents and he is married to Helen Ann (Schuette)

Greene, formerly of Pigeon. They are the parents of three children, Mary Keys and John Greene of Dale City, Va. and Linda Ryan of Windsor Locks, Conn. They also have two grandchildren, Elizabeth and Christopher Ryan.

Relatives who attended the ceremony included his wife, Mrs. Helen Ann Greene, who had the privilege of putting the bars on Commander Greene's one shoulder while a superior officer placed the bars on the other shoulder, daughters Mrs. Linda Ryan and Mrs. Mary Keys and son John Greene, Mrs. Viola Schuette and Mrs. Dorothy Young.

Commander and Mrs. Ronald Greene will move to the Washington D.C. area before Jan. 1, 1989, when he will be serving in the Navy Annex at the Pentagon.

Pvt. Craig D. Haag, son of Craig C. and Barb B. Haag of Elkton, has completed an Army administration course at Fort Jackson, S.C. Students were trained in the preparation of military records and forms. Instruction was also given in the fundamentals of the Army filing system, typing and operation of office machines. He is a 1987 graduate of Laker High School.

A total of 60 seniors lead the honor roll for the first marking period of the first semester at Laker High School, according to Principal Craig Douglas. The honor roll constitutes a 3.00 or better grade point average with an asterisk denoting "all A's."

AAA Michigan advise that hunters should know where members of their party are at all times, especially when armed. Of course, wearing blaze orange clothing is a state law, but some hunters say that wearing more than the minimum blaze orange required is a good idea.

And, Huron County Sheriff's Deputies say Huron County has recorded 349 car-deer accidents this year, as of Oct. 31. That number could rise above 400 by year's end, officials note.

quarry, but there is a downside to those large numbers. Thanks to that record herd size, nearly 40,000 car-deer accidents occurred in Michigan in 1987, resulting in over 1,700 injured persons, four deaths, and millions of dollars in property damage.

In Huron County in 1987, there were 522 car-deer accidents, with 18 persons injured in those accidents. Officials at Farm Bureau Insurance say that in 1987, the company settled nearly 2,500 claims involving car-deer collisions, totalling over $2 million.

And not only does a large herd of deer mean car-deer accidents, it means that those deer are using crops in the fields for sustenance.

MANAGEMENT: Last year, the state issued 40 crop-damage permits in Huron County to farmers whose fields are being damaged, and 59 deer were killed on those permits.

One way the DNR is hoping to diminish the huge herd and minimize crop damage is to open 62 bonus hunting sites—up 47 from last year—where crop damage from deer feeding is prevalent and near highways where deer often collide with vehicles.

The bonus areas allow hunters to apply for an antlerless-only license and a hunter's choice license to use with the first deer hunting stamp.

While hunters are in the field, caution is needed to keep injuries to a minimum. Last year, eight hunters died and 34 were wounded during the three deer seasons.

LET'S HELP REBUILD THE LIVES THEY WOULD HAVE GIVEN

We send the members of our armed services into battle in unavoidable situations, knowing with sad hearts that many of them will not return home. There are, however, others who will, for although they have risked their lives for us they did manage to survive; even though in some cases with permanent disabilities. Let us never forget what we owe them for what they have done for us. We must give them every possible advantage in the way of job opportunities, housing, education and all the things they will need in order to resume their place in our society. We should also thank the Lord at our House of Worship for their safe return, and pray for their future well-being. It is incumbent upon us to do whatever we can to help them reconstruct their lives, which they were prepared to sacrifice for the preservation of our freedom.

As God give us to see the right, let us care for him who shall have borne the battle.

God the Peacemaker

READ HOSEA 6:7-7:7

All of them are hot as an oven, and they devour their rulers. All their kings have fallen; and none of them calls upon Me. Hosea 7:7

We Americans have the privilege of going to the polls to elect a President and other public officials. Candidates have been campaigning for a long time. Debates of issues got hotter as election day approached.

We're so blessed in our nation! In some other countries the political situation at times gets much hotter.

Violence and revolution may replace the process of free elections.

Unfortunately we do have other violence in our country.

Robbery and murder are no strangers to us. Political intrigue is not absent. People are hurt by hot tempers and selfish passions in matters of money and power and sex. Christians have the power available to keep things cool—in their own lives, in their relationships with others, and in the society in which they live.

By resting on the promises of God we can be calm and reflective rather than hot and bothered.

Praying to God for our fellow citizens and for our rulers is the way to peace in the land.

For Christians, earthly peace is the fruit of peace with God in Jesus Christ.

GRANT, O LORD, that our faith in your promises may keep us calm and confident in our lives. AMEN.

Youth director hopes to make a difference

By AMY HEIDEN

LAURA SUNNERVILLE

Like so many other jobs, a Youth Director in a church has traditionally been a young man's job.

And in accepting that position at Elkton United Methodist Church, Laura Sunnerville expected a few drop-outs among the teenage boys in her youth group.

But so far that hasn't happened.

"When I first came in, I was concerned that I might lose a lot of the guys. But Pastor Jim Kummer is around, and if the guys wanted to talk to another man, he's available. I just haven't seen any drastic changes in the program," Sunnerville says.

Her church activities don't always leave time for other things, but Sunnerville says she loves to ride horseback. "We've got about 10 horses on the farm now back in Martin and we own four of those."

"But I can't have a horse in my apartment," she laughs. She also enjoys cross-stitch sewing when she has a chance, along with reading.

Sunnerville doesn't consider herself a pioneer in any way. "I didn't come here to prove anything. I just came here as a servant, and this where God has brought me. Hopefully, I can make a difference."

Progressive Bazaar coming Nov. 19

The Progressive Sunday School Class of the Elkton United Methodist Church is creating its 13th annual Holiday Bazaar and Luncheon at the Elkton Civic Center on Saturday, Nov. 19 from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Lunch time is 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., and on the menu are two soups, sandwiches, bars, pie, milk and coffee.

Available for sale are many bazaar items, including comforters, crafts, knitted and crocheted items, doll clothing, baked goods and the famous cookie corner. Dish clothes, cards and napkins are also available, planners say.

"Come and spend some time with us. Have your lunch and then do some of your holiday shopping from the many bazaar items offered," organizers say.

Church news, notes

CHANDLER GUILD
Mrs. Roland Nelson was hostess to the Chandler Presbyterian Guild on Wednesday with Mrs. William McCarty serving as co-hostess. A dessert luncheon was served. Marvline Richards presided at the meeting, leading in prayer; "The 10 Commandments."

Mrs. McCarty read the least coin selection from Circle of Prayer. Roll responded by eight members was "A Country I'd Like to Visit." Members brought layette items for Church World Service.

Mrs. Richards gave a report of the women's meeting she attended at Westminster Church in Bay City. The theme was "Let Your Living Waters Flow." Margaret Fleming led the lesson from the Book of John. Mrs. Rae Young read the minutes and gave the sewing quota. There are table napkins available at the church for sale, it was mentioned.

The Christmas Party will be Dec. 7 at 8 p.m. at the Chandler Presbyterian Church.

Coupon Cookbook Marion Joyce

America is a land of cheese lovers. Millions of adults are now watching their cholesterol in their diets. In response to those of us who love cheese but are concerned about reducing fats and cholesterol, KRAFT has developed a whole new cheese product line, "KRAFT Light Naturals reduced fat cheeses." These are excellent cheeses, not necessarily intended as diet cheeses or cheeses for individuals at high coronary risk. However, they do have less fat and fewer calories than traditional full fat cheeses. KRAFT Light Naturals reduced fat cheeses have less than 20 mg. of cholesterol per serving (1 ounce). The cholesterol reduction comes from a 1/3 reduction in fat in these KRAFT Light Naturals.

KRAFT Light Naturals is a line of natural cheeses, nutritionally equivalent to full fat natural cheese. It is not processed cheese nor a cheese substitute. Cheese has always been a favorite with cooks as an easy way to transform ordinary dishes into something special. KRAFT Light Natural cheeses are as versatile as other cheeses and can be used like any natural cheese in cooking, snacking, sandwiches, etc. KRAFT Light Naturals come in chunks, slices, and shreds and are available in eleven of the most popular natural cheese varieties and sizes. Two of these varieties are "very low sodium" items for sodium conscious consumers. You will be doing family and friends a service if you introduce them to these cheeses. Start with the recipe below.

BROILED SWISS RYE APPETIZERS

1 cup (4 ozs.) shredded KRAFT Light Naturals Reduced Fat Swiss cheese	1/4 cup finely chopped green pepper
1/3 cup KRAFT light reduced calorie mayonnaise	1/4 cup finely chopped radishes
	18 party rye or pumpernickel bread slices, toasted

Combine cheese, mayonnaise, peppers and radishes; mix well. Spread mixture onto toast; broil until lightly browned and cheese is melted. Makes 1 1/2 dozen.

for the beet piles was made with a garden rake, and then came the topping. You had to handle each beet with a topping knife about 15 inches long. Some had a hook at the front end, so that the toppers could hook the beet and bring it toward them.

Distance between beet piles depended on how far you wanted to throw them. In a 40-rod row, there were about 20 piles of beets, or a pile for each 2 rods, more or less.

When Dad had a 3-ton load on a wooden-wheeled wagon, it was considered a "big load".

HAND LABOR in a sugar beet field is seen here on a photo taken on the present Franklin Koch farm on Riskey Road, in about 1917. The man holding the team at left rear is George Koch, the couple in front of him, holding beets and beet knives are Mr. and Mrs. Kramarenko. Standing behind Mrs. Kramarenko is Henry Koch and seated on the loaded wagon at right is Rudolf Koch, with Mrs. Koch standing in front of him. The man in right foreground, topping beets, is not identified. Photo provided by Clyde Leiterman of Bach.

When we had a normal fall, a load could be filled in the field and hauled out by 2 horses. When it rained and the field got muddy, beets had to be "swamped" out. That meant a lot of hard and extra work, as a partial load was forked by hand into the wagon beet box. Then it was pulled into the yard or lane, where the area was hard and dry. Some farmers used a stone-boat, a wooden sled-like contrivance that held one or two piles of beets. These would be hauled out of the field, dumped onto the pile in the yard. About a half- or 3/4-load was loaded in the field, and the rest was finished out from the pile of "swamped" out beets in the yard.

LOOK AT NOW

Beet crews today ride in comfortable truck cabs with a heater and radio. When Dad hauled beets, it was usually cold, and to stay warm he walked alongside the wagon all the way to the weigh-station. In our case, that meant a haul of 3 miles, for which he drove one-half mile west on Haist Road to Maxwell, and north 2 1/2 miles to the rail siding where cars were left for farmers to pitch their beets in.

I believe the station was named Rosevear, located about 3 miles east of Pigeon. Unloading the wagon was hard work, too, as the train car was higher than the wagon box, and the unloaders had to pitch the beets up and over the side of the car.

Some days when at the station, the train came through and the steam locomotive blew its whistle at the crossing. That meant that farmers had to stop unloading and hold their horses, as they might panic and run away unless calmed by their owners. After a few such passings, horses were used to the whistle and rattle of the train, and would stand firm without any fuss.

When the farmer got part-way done unloading, the station attendant came with his "tare" basket for a sample of the beets on which he graded for dirt. Then a given-percent was taken off as "tare".

My Dad could make about 3 trips a day, if he had a load ready at night for an early start next morning. By the time the horses had made the 3-mile trip, they were sweated up and so horse blankets were carried and the team was covered up during the unloading.

SOMETIMES IT GOT LATER

When the season ran into November and rain fell and froze the ground and beet piles, it was necessary to use a pick axe to loosen the piles so they could be forked into the wagon.

If my Dad made 3 trips a day and each load weighed 3 tons, he would have hauled 9 tons. Today farmers can haul 4 times that weight in one load.

When all was done and only the tops remained in the field, they were often the beet fields for a year or so and made enough money to send for the rest of the family. My Grandmother Metzger and uncles, Peter, Henry and August, and Aunts Ann and Marie emigrating from Russia to here.

My Dad came from Hungary and also got his start with sugar beets. We worked our own, Grandpa's and some for neighbors.

Those were the good old days, and they were filled with lots of hard, hard labor.

Today's modern beet-harvesting machinery has taken much hand labor out of the beet field and shortened the beet harvesting season.

I'm sure not many who can remember those days would ever vote to go back to that time. Perhaps they will enjoy this journey back—in memories.

How can you count on great claims service? No problem.

Many may say they have great claims service. Only some can prove it. Auto-Owners polled their customers, and found almost all of them are satisfied with Auto-Owners Claims Service. (Nobody's perfect, but we're trying.)

So right now there is a great effort to please the few that aren't and continue the "common sense" approach to settlements that made Auto-Owners so popular in the first place.

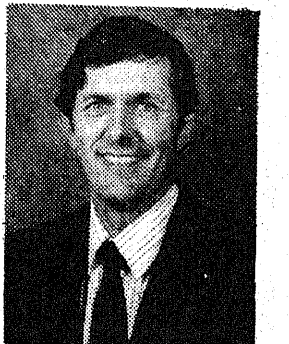

See your Auto-Owners agent. Because although there are many that say they have great claims service, Auto-Owners works harder every day to prove it.

Woods & Waters By Duane Guenther

Wing shots

The flock of Bluebills came out of nowhere and buzzed downwind just outside our decoy string. Their wings cupped and their feet came down, but instead of landing they kicked into high gear and tried desperately for the sky.

I jumped to my feet and throwing the gun to my shoulder, pulled on the lead duck and felt the shotgun's kick. The birds kept climbing. Although almost out of range, I again pointed in the general direction of the last duck and when the sight plane felt right pulled the trigger. This time a drake folded in mid flight and crashed to the water. I shook my head in wonderment, I had missed the first and easiest shot and pulled off a minor miracle on the last one.

I have once read where the secret to shooting a shotgun is to possess perfect hand-to-eye coordination and be very familiar with your gun. In other words, you must be gifted and practice a heck of a lot. I, like the average hunter, am neither.

However, I have been in the company of some very fine wing shots, young boys born with the natural ability, and wealthy men who have spent countless hours on the trap and skeet ranges. While I've admired many of them, none could compare with my brother, Lyle. When it came to shooting a shotgun, he was my idol and I secretly hoped to emulate his skills some day, which I never have.

Lyle taught me to hunt, and to him hunting was duck hunting. It mattered not if the targets were quick-springing mallards jumping out of a pothole or fast-flying flight ducks screaming out of a leaden sky. When his shotgun spoke, ducks rained from the heavens.

I may sound like a hero worshipper and during my younger days, I probably was. When I grew older and was able to decipher good shooting from a lucky shot now and then, I knew I was not mistaken.

Lyle's favorite gun was a Winchester Model 12. He still has it although he quit hunting years ago. The gun barrel was an extension of his arm and the sight was just another eye. Together they wove a magic that had me gulping in disbelief.

Lyle was not a show-off and never wasted ammunition sky busting or taking fancy shots. He had an uncanny ability to measure birds within the effective range of his gun and was able to mount and discharge the weapon with unbelievable speed. Just like Roy Hobbs, he was a natural.

I remember one particular day when we were set up on the Southern point of the Middle Ground marsh. A west wind had flight ducks moving and although numerous flocks had given us a look, none seemed satisfied enough to settle in. We were thinking about moving our setup when Lyle spotted about 15 Bluebills coming straight at us.

"I don't think they'll pass close enough," I remember his saying, "but just in case they do, be ready to take them on your side."

He was right, they don't pass close enough, at least not on my side. But they veered to the left and hung for a split second over the front end of the blind. Lyle grabbed his gun and with a staccato-like burst of gunfire, 3 birds stopped in mid air and plummeted toward the water. I hadn't raised my gun because I would have been shooting right over his head, but I didn't mind. That moment gave me an excellent opportunity to view his shooting undisturbed. It was fantastic.

He wasn't only proficient with the Model 12, for a few seasons he hunted with an original English muzzule loading shotgun. Although this shotgun could not compare with the Winchester in muzzle velocity and hitting power, it didn't seem to bother his shooting ability. He still continued to knock ducks out of the sky. Only now we would have to wait until the cloud of white smoke dissipated.

It was a sad day when my brother gave up duck hunting. His feelings toward killing birds had changed drastically, and he told me he could no longer find any fun in hunting ducks.

I don't hold that against him. Everyone has the right to make his own choices, I am only sad because I lost a great hunting partner and the chance to watch one of the finest wing shots on Saginaw Bay perform.

I'm sad, but I'm just as sure the ducks were happy.....

Winning season characterizes LJK Ladies

By DAVE WOJZICKI
The seventh grade Lady Laker basketball team recently finished a very successful basketball season, ending with a 8-2 record.

They also won the USA-Immanual Basketball Tournament held two weekends ago. Eighth grade coach Lynn Sahl has a lot to look forward to next year when she inherits this talented and enthusiastic bunch of kids.

The seventh grade Laker basketball team had 17 members, all of whom contributed to the success of the team.

Team members are Julie Schulz, Christa Keim, Kari Gardy, Michelle Pitcher, Tracy MacDowall, Heather Maxwell, Becky Farver, Trisha Rosenthal, Theresa Kranz, Carrie Kasseman, Kim Sturm, Kari Fisher, Shannon Sdao, Wendy Seley, Shelly McCain, Imma Young and Darlene Jaworski.

"LIFE at LAKERS"

By AMY CSANYI
To continue the series on Laker High School's academic departments, I interviewed Mr. Paul Beachy, Mr. Dennis Gaskill and Mr. Doug Rees in the Science Department.

MR. BEACHY: I talked to Mr. Beachy, who teaches Earth Science and Physical Education, about what he likes about his classes this year. He says he likes using his new books, which take a different approach on the same topics.

Beachy says he likes teaching the high school age group because "When you are around young people, it keeps you young." Beachy also says he likes to make the students think, "Whatever you do in life, you have to think."

If Beachy wasn't teaching, he would most likely be a conservation officer because he loves the outdoors.

MR. GASKILL: Mr. Gaskill is teaching three levels of biology this year, Biology I, Biology II and Environmental Science (which is the same as General Science).

Gaskill likes to see how interested his students are and adds that the new textbooks in Environmental Science help a little, too.

Gaskill likes teaching biology because he says, "You can't avoid biology. Whatever you do, whether it's getting married or going off to college, it will always involve biology."

If Gaskill wasn't teaching, he would raise horses, become a veterinarian or, like his oldest daughter, go into animal science.

MR. REES: Douglas Rees teaches Chemistry, Physics and a computer course. Why these subjects? He says he was always attracted to science and math.

This year Rees likes his classes because they're smaller in size, adding "The 12th grade is a neat bunch of kids."

He enjoys teaching because he likes working with high school age students. If he wasn't teaching, he says he would be in farming or in the chemical industry.

PRESIDENTIAL PREVIEW: The Laker High School students spoke out on Nov. 3 about who they feel should be in the Oval Office. Here is what the students had to say about what went on.

FRESHMEN: Holly Esch says the school should let students vote. She is voting for Bush/Quayle. Michelle Siemen believes it gives the kids a chance to tell what they feel. She is voting for Bush/Quayle. Michelle Champagne says it gives someone else a chance. She too, is voting for the Bush/Quayle ticket.

SOPHOMORES: Missy Liska, who is voting for Bush/

Quayle, says that voting is fun to do. Shelly Dean, also voting for the Republican ticket, says that voting gives the students a chance to voice their opinions. Kris Clunis, who is undecided on who she will vote for, says she likes the election because it teaches the students how to vote.

JUNIORS: Jason Gardner says that a student election shows what the kids are thinking. He is casting his vote for Bush/Quayle. Mike Schmitt says that "we should have our say on who should be president." As of yet, he is undecided on who he will vote for. Debby Christner, who is also undecided, says that students should know more about what's going on in our government.

SENIORS: Amy Hebert, who is voting for Bush/Quayle, likes the chance student voting gives to kids. Jamie Randall, also voting Republican, says students should be more involved in politics. J.D. Talaski says the youth of America should understand the democratic process of the U.S. Government. He is casting his vote for Dukakis/Bentson.

The Village of Elkton will be flushing hydrants on Sunday, November 13 from 11:00 p.m. - 7:00 a.m. Slight discoloration may be noticeable.

AMERICAN LEGION AUX. JEAN POST 543

The Nov. 2 meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary opened at 7:30 p.m. by President Marie Darby with a Prayer Poem by Mary Gardner, chaplain.

The Pledge of Allegiance and Preamble of the Constitution was given by all. Secretary Eileen Tait read the minutes of the previous meeting and Treasurer Dorothy Beadle gave the financial report. Members were asked to contribute generously to the Holly Berry Fair which was on Saturday, Nov. 5.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile Drive is this Thursday, Nov. 10 from 2 to 7 p.m. at the American Legion Hall. Sponsors urge residents to give blood. "You may save a life," they add.

Donations were contributed to St. Roch's Food Pantry, Caseville Community Christmas Fund, Clothe-A-Child, Sunny Acres Nursing Center and Chaplain of Four Chaplains.

CASEVILLE RETIREMENT CLUB

New officers and committee members were named at the Nov. 1 meeting of the Caseville Retirement Club at the American Legion Hall. A total of 130 members, three guests and one new member were present.

President Margaret Wilhelm asked all to stand and greet their neighbors and the Lord's Prayer was recited before lunch. The business meeting was opened with the Pledge to the Flag.

The following officers and committee members were elected: President Margaret Wilhelm; Vice President Beulah Adams; Secretary Virginia Krieg; Treasurer Norma Farver; Advisory Board members Tom Beadle, Al Potter, John Kavalor, Ed White, Chet Rutkowski and Marge Heckman; Historian Ed Krieg; Publicity Ella Dunning; Hospitality Emma Potter; Kitchen Chairman Peg Hill; Custodian Hank Hill; Travel Committee members Ray Gerrard, Andy Lakatos, Helen Stilwell, Marion Fournier and Ed White; Decorating Committee members Sue Reynolds; Social Activities Committee members Ed White, Ray Gerrard, Hank Hill, Ed Krieg and Harold Dunning; Euchre and Pinochle Committee Al Potter, Joe Garant and John Kavalor.

Celebrating birthdays were Ray Gerrard, Rose Morosini, Elizabeth Patterson, Donald Draves, Leonard Hellman, Steve Prisky and Ella Marries.

Feted for anniversaries were William and Anna McBride, Marvin and Sally Krebs and Richard and Vivian Papps.

It was noted that Betty Piche is home recuperating from a fall and that Henry Zakrzewski is out of the hospital following leg surgery.

Andy Lakatos announced that sign-up with a small deposit for the Niagara Falls trip on Jan. 12 and 13 has begun. Those wishing to visit Midland on Jan. 27-28 and 29 may also sign up now.

ROLLER RINK HALLOWEEN MADNESS! The following winners were named at the Caseville Roller Rink Halloween Costume Party on Sunday, Oct. 30.

TIP OF THE THUMB VFW AUX. #2236

The Tip of the Thumb Auxiliary #2236 VFW met at Veterans Memorial Home on Oct. 25 for the regular meeting, with 17 members present.

President Jessie Otto called the meeting to order. Chaplain Marie Stirett opened with prayer, followed by the pledge to the flag.

Petition for membership was read by Treasurer Anita Gettel.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Treasurer's report was given and bills were presented. Official communications from National Department were read.

Thank you notes were read from sister Betty Ooten for local hospitality during the inspection Oct. 11. Also, Special Olympics Director Dale Hill thanked the group for its donation. And, Rose Calhoun, chairman of Voluntary Services at Saginaw V.A. Medical Center thanked the group for the assistance of Marie Darby, Jessie Otto, Verna Thede, Anita Gettel, Bette Horn and Erma Rounds, in helping the patients at a District 10 bingo party Oct. 8.

Marie Stirett reported the mayor of Brown City will dedicate a Veterans' Memorial there at the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month. The Post and Auxiliary are invited to attend the service.

Eleanora Trost, chairman of the Department Presidents' Tea on Oct. 16 thanked everyone for making it a success. Legislative Chairman Phyllis Vollmer urged members to vote Nov. 8, and PAC Chairman Erma Rounds urged members to support candidates who are in favor of veterans' bills.

During the business meeting, members voted to give Verna Thede money to help defray expenses to attend the VFW National Convention and the Big 10 Conference. Also, a sum of money was donated to the VFW National Home in Eaton Rapids for two projects. Cliff Witkovsky was given a sum of money for setting up and taking down tables, chairs, etc., for the Presidents' Tea.

Due to circumstances beyond the group's control, there will not be a Doe Party this year.

Julie Witkovsky reported some of the members are asking about their current five-year pins. It was decided to do this at the January meeting, when District President Verna Thede makes her official report to the Auxiliary. Chaplain closed the meeting with prayer.

The Progress-Advance's LISTENING EAR Just call 453-2323 24 hours a day

In the July 28 publication of the Huron County Board of Commissioners minutes, Treasurer Roberta Moettelli stated that $116,000 in a capital improvement fund for the medical care facility is there which can be used. I'm wondering why it's not being used, instead of asking for a millage increase.

(Huron County appropriates $250,000 annually for the Facility, of which $200,000 is sent to the state as required by law as a contribution toward the care of Medicaid patients. The balance is used by the Facility for operations, according to information from its governing board. About 70% of patients there are Medicaid. The county's annual appropriation would be discontinued if the millage is approved by county voters. Plus, the millage will better help the facility handle inflationary cost rises.)

Once again, we've been robbed in this playoff handling. Schools like Lakers don't get fair breaks in any of these decisions. The big-city powerful forces always get their way, and we stay home not at the games like we should be.

If you haven't given blood recently or have never done so, you're welcome at our American Red Cross Blood Drive this Thursday, Nov. 10 from 2 to 7 at the Legion Hall, Caseville. Thank you.

What's wrong with our weather these days? We've never had five days of rain, like this week, or months of drought like this summer or so much rain like two years ago? When will we get regular weather again. (A recent Reader's Digest story gives several explanations for the worldwide ex-need real candidates for these terrible times. All this abortion talk is sinful. They should be banned, period. Am wondering if those of you who call the Air Force Base one of Huron County's most scenic areas -- "the bay and the lake are beautiful" -- have ever been there? When you can't see the lake from M-53, how do you expect to see it 1/2 mile off road amid farm crops and fields of tumbleweeds, brush, rocks? We were at the open house. The Base itself is a beautifully-kept area, but to see the lake you'd have to climb a tower to see it! That's not for everyone! Thank you.

Really enjoyed the "Great Storm of 1913." Well done.

How about some words about our Libertarian candidates? All we know about are Dukakis and Bush. We play next week. Their record now stands at 12-6 overall and 7-5 in the Thumb B Conference.

JV ACTION: The junior varsity teams split two decisions last week as they met Marlette and Vassar in two conference games.
In the contest against Marlette, the Red Raiders were victorious 36-33. Three players had 10 points each for the Raiders, while Kathy Buschlen was the leader for the Lakers with eight points. Tammy Smith and Anne Sturm both had six points in the game.
The Laker JV team did the same thing to the unlucky Vassar team that their older counterparts did — they soundly defeated them, 40-27. In the first quarter alone, the Vulcans could only manage a single point, while the Lakers had 11 on the scoreboard. The second quarter saw the Vulcans coming back, outscoring the Lakers 10-8, but it wasn't enough to take the lead at the half.
The Lakers dominated the game with nine players putting points on the board. Tammy Smith led with a game-high 10 points and Holly Esch contributed seven. The Junior Varsity team now has a winning 14-4 record overall.
