

United in marriage

Diane Jean Ballard of Bad Axe and Donald Edward Schember of Elkton were united in marriage on Saturday, October 14, 1989 at First Methodist Church, Bad Axe, with the Rev. Richard Rolfe officiating the double-ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of the late Betty and Emerson Ballard, and the groom is the son of Jean Schember, Bad Axe and Edward Schember of Elkton.

Organist was Genny Henderson of Bad Axe, and the soloist was Mrs. Debra Ramento of Maui, Hawaii, sister of the groom.

The bride was given in marriage by her sister, Peggy Rinnert, and brother, Gary Ballard. Her gown was a formal sheerganza style with a high neckline and long sleeves accented with pearls and lace. Lace appliques adorned the full silhouette skirt and hem of the gown. A chapel train fell from the waistline. She wore a derby style hat trimmed with flowers and pearls. A silk illusion veil completed her attire. She carried a colonial bouquet of fresh white miniature carnations, red roses and baby's breath.

Kay Ballard of Bad Axe was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Sue Klimkowski of Unionville, sister of the bride. Veronica Martinez of Sebawaing, Jan Davis of Owendale, niece of the bride, Sue Weiss of Bad Axe, Cheryl Dickendesh of Sandusky, and Trudy Schember of Bridgeport, both sisters of the groom.

The maid of honor wore a burgundy satin and lace gown with a fitted bodice and lace inserts which were repeated in the long mutton sleeves. The skirt featured a large Dior bow at the back. The bridesmaids wore rosy mauve gowns identical with the maid of honor and carried colonial bouquets of silk miniature carnations, mauve sweetheart roses accented with lace and streamers. Corresponding halos were worn in their hair.

Flower girl was Angela Ballard of Sebawaing, niece of the bride.

Best man was Brad Ballard of Sebawaing, brother of the bride. Groomsmen were Tony Sweeney of Elkton, Gary Sy Jr. of Unionville, nephew of the bride; Dave Ringvski of Bad Axe, Jim Pawlowski of Harbor Beach and Mark Dickendesh of Sandusky, brother-in-law of the groom.

Serving as ushers were Eric Ballard of Sebawaing and Scott Sy of Unionville, nephews of the bride. Ringbearer was Travis Dickendesh of Sandusky, nephew of the groom.

A reception was held at VFW Hall in Pigeon for approximately 400 guests. After a honeymoon to Northern Michigan, the couple will reside in Elkton.

LIPP-VOELKER

Janice Elaine Voelker and Charles William Lipp were married Nov. 4 at the Salem United Methodist Church, Pigeon.

The 4 p.m. ceremony was performed by the Rev. Timothy Hastings.

The bride is the daughter of Otto and Anita Voelker of Pigeon. The groom is the son of Viola Lipp of Lincoln, Neb. and the late Paul Lipp.

She asked her sister, Faye Ignash, to be matron of honor.

Best man for the groom was Fred Duvan, brother-in-law of the groom.

Family and friends gathered at Sherwood-on-the-Hill, Gageton for an evening reception.

The couple traveled to Brazil before settling in Midland.

Janice, a registered dietitian, is employed by the Marriott Corporation. Charles, a chemical engineer, is a research leader for Dow Chemical.

Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John Fleming

John and Delores Fleming of Merrill celebrated their 25th Wedding Anniversary on Saturday, Nov. 18 with a Eucharistic Mass, dinner and reception hosted by their children at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Merrill.

The former Delores Wolfram and John Fleming were married on Nov. 21, 1964 at St. Francis Borgia Catholic Church, Pigeon by Rev. Fr. Glenn Cronkite.

The couple have seven children, John Jr. of St. Charles, Pat of Saginaw, Pam of Mt. Morris, Nancy of Caro, Robert stationed at Norfolk, Va. and Mary and Sara of Midland. They also have five grandchildren.

Talking about Booyaw

The battle lines were drawn.

Vic, my mother who was crippled by arthritis and practically blind, sat in her favorite recliner-rocker near the kitchen door, head craned around the frame so her voice could be heard above the clatter of pots and pans.

Aunt Tress, her younger sister, was in the kitchen hovering over a steaming kettle perched upon the gas range. Their voices raised and lowered in a friendly disagreement over the contents and method of preparation of "booyaw", a traditional French soup.

I had started the argument by prodding the girls to share with me some stories of their childhood which was spent along the western shore of Saginaw Bay shortly after the turn of the century. One thing led to another and before I knew it they were digging in the freezer and sorting through the pantry for "booyaw fixin's".

"Tress! You know I don't like Catfish in my booyaw", my mother's voice was starting to quiver as the argument heated up.

"That may be so", Tress answered, "but our Ma always made it this way and that's the way I'm making it now."

"Harumppppp", Mom snorted, "it's not near as good as Whitefish."

The 2 sisters, one in her early 90's and the other in her late 80's were sparring like a couple of teenagers and I was beginning to think I had opened a can of worms.

Later in the afternoon, the 3 of us gathered at the dining room table set with large, crock, soup mugs and a cutting board piled with slabs of crusty French bread. Without knowing it at the time, I was ladled a steaming bowl of Michigan history.

The "booyaw" that my mother and aunt had argued about is a French-Michigan dish that may very well date back to the 1600's when first, the Coureur de Bois, and later the Voyageurs plied the shores of the Great Lakes in search of the beaver. The soup, or stew, as some call it, was a staple of both of these groups. Its name, in fractured form, is thought to have come from the French "bouillabaisse", a highly-seasoned fish stew that was popular on the continent at the time.

The base for my aunt's booyaw was fish — boiled fish. And, although she preferred Catfish because of its fat content, I'm sure that my mother's choice of Whitefish was probably more authentic than that of my aunt's.

Once the boiled fish becomes white and flaky it is removed from the pot along with some of the stock. The rest of the stock is returned to a boil and dried, split peas are added. When they are soft the fish are returned and the fire is reduced allowing the contents to simmer slowly.

Later a small amount of lard was cut into some flour and the 2 were added spoon by spoon until the broth thickened into a chowder-like consistency. Spices were added to taste and the pot was pushed back to simmer most of the morning or afternoon. The longer it simmered, the better it became.

Historically, pots of booyaw have been known to occupy space on woodstoves for weeks at a time. As the contents were reduced, new ingredients were added to keep the pot full and ready for hungry appetites.

Although the booyaw I ate that day may have originated along some, then unknown, Michigan stream by a group of famished voyageurs who spiced up their standard ration of dried peas with a little freshly-caught fish, it could have just as easily been introduced by a more cultured clientele housed at Port Michilimackinac. Whoever was responsible, it is good to

OUTDOOR REPORT

Michigan's late elk season will take place on December 5-12. The DNR announced that 110 Michigan residents have been selected randomly to hunt during this period. The successful applicants were drawn from more than 42,000 persons who applied for the licenses. In an earlier hunt held October 17-22, 66 elk were killed by 80 hunters. A new state record for weight was set by Gary McCoy of Alma. His bull elk weighed 790 pounds, field-dressed.

The cold, windy weather not only hampered the deer opener, but also raised havoc with late fall fishing. Steelhead, walleyes, and perch are the fish most fishermen are after, and the cold weather has slowed down fishing action quite a bit. Perch were still active on the west side of the Bay, walleyes were reported fair on the Saginaw River system, and steelheads were best at the Betsie, Platte and Boardman rivers on the western side of the state.

Duck hunters got a shot in the arm during the Thanksgiving holidays when the second part of the split waterfowl season opened for a few days. Plenty of ducks and geese are still in the area, and the high winds and bad weather coupled to make it an exciting weekend.

Huron County got good news and bad news from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers when they announced the rivers and harbors it would dredge during 1990. According to the latest information, the harbor at Bay Port will be dredged, but the harbor at Port Austin will not be on the list.

Many automobile accident related spinal injuries of the neck are often times being misdiagnosed by medical doctors and hospitals as nothing more than muscle spasms, and are usually treated with pain killers and muscle relaxants. Chiropractors have a minimum of 4 years education and training in the analysis and correction of spinal structural and biomechanical disorders that can occur from being in a car accident. If you're in a car accident, who would you trust to care for your spinal injuries?

Welcome To ELKTON'S OPEN HOUSE Flea Market every week in Elkton!

LOLA MORIN of Elkton and Frances Richmond of Pigeon look over some of the items at Richmond's table at the Elkton Flea Market.

Flea markets have become more and more popular through the years as Americans try to stretch a dollar further and further.

And there can be plenty of bargains to be found at flea markets. But flea markets are usually held only during warm weather.

Every Friday and Saturday, right in downtown Elkton, there's a flea market offering all kinds of unique items, at least until Christmas and maybe throughout the winter, organizer Max McKenzie says.

"OUR FLEA MARKET has been here since September, and we've had a nice positive response from customers," McKenzie says.

ALTHOUGH THE market is usually only open on Friday and Saturday, the vendors will keep the doors open on Sunday, Dec. 3, when the Open House takes place.

Usually 12 vendors occupy the building, he says, but more are expected for Elkton's Open House weekend.

Along with the usual flea market merchandise, many Christmas craft items will be available at Elkton's flea market.

Looking back at Elkton's past

Have you ever wondered what Elkton looked like three-quarters of a century ago??

This excellent old Post Card photo of Elkton's Main Street is from the collection of Donna Deming of Bay Port, who shared it with The Progress-Advance recently. It was mailed Nov. 12, 1913 -- 76 years ago! It's looking north from the blinker light corner, and clearly shows several long-gone buildings... as well as some structures still standing (and in business.) Notice all the electric poles, as well as the horse hitching posts ... both of which are long gone around town...

IT'S A STATE RECORD!

Laker community pledges $5,800 in first CROP Phone-a-thon

Pledges of more than $5,800 for Meals on Wheels and the CROP Program put the Laker Future Farmers of America in the holiday spirit as they completed their first-ever phone-a-thon for CROP during Thanksgiving Week.

Working in teams of about 18 to 22 in two to three-hour shifts, 110 students made over 525 phone calls that resulted in the successful pledge effort. The students worked from Pigeon Telephone Company's board room where Plant Manager Marty Caverly and company employees Dennis Hebert and Doug Freeman had installed a 10-line temporary system hooked to one number.

PLEDGES RANGED from 50 cents to $100 and came from as far away as Florida and Colorado. Many local businesses responded to the request for dollars, as did individuals from all over the western side of the Thumb. A few individuals took advantage of the call-in number and called in their pledges, but most pledges were obtained from outgoing calls.

STUDENTS IN THE first calling shift on Monday morning knew the total was going to be high as they raised $1,000 in the first hour. By Monday evening, over $4,000 had been pledged. Surprisingly enough, the two shorter shift times on Tuesday produced another $1,800 in pledges.

While students worked with lists and telephones, several FFA officers keyed mailing information into a small computer and began stuffing envelopes with receipts and return envelopes. CROP Community Organizer Wanda Eichler said she had picked a $6,000 figure out of the air for the drive.

"WE HAD NO IDEA what to expect. The community and the kids came through with flying colors. One student, Tim Frazho of Bay Port, had over $350 in pledges from his calls alone during the first shift."

"I hoped to top last year's giving of $3,200," said Don Wheeler, Laker FFA advisor. "When we went over that, I set a goal of $4,000. We reached $4,000 by Monday night and the kids just kept going."

"We hope that everyone who pledged will send in their checks as soon as they receive their return envelope and receipt in the mail," he added.

THE DRIVE WAS NOT without complications. During the first hour, it was obvious it would be a good idea to track who had been called. By late Monday morning, a computer was used to help compile lists of successful calls. That list was posted by the second day and students would check their calling lists against their pledge list.

"I know we called some people three times," said Eichler. "We apologize to those who put up with our disorganization this year. The kids were definitely enthusiastic and we didn't have the computer system ready for crosschecking calls already made as soon as we now realize is necessary."

TWENTY-FIVE PERCENT of the money to be collected stays in the Thumb Area as a contribution to Meals on Wheels. The remaining 75% will be used to purchase beans for shipment overseas for hunger relief work.

In addition to the phone-a-thon pledges, local churches have taken offerings for CROP. Their contributions, coupled with the annual FFA drive, will add up to a grand total for CROP. That figure will be announced in mid-December after most of the pledges have been received.

CROP HAS BEEN involved in hunger work for 42 years in the U.S. and the Pigeon area has participated during those years.

The Laker FFA students raise more CROP dollars than any other FFA in Michigan and have received numerous awards for their hunger and relief efforts.

PLEDGES CAN BE returned to Laker High School, 6136 Pigeon Road, Pigeon, MI 48755. Checks should be made out to CROP or to the high school and clearly marked for CROP. All donations are tax-deductible. For further information, contact Don Wheeler, Laker FFA, 453-2776 or Wanda Eichler, CROP Community Drive, 453-3342.

Recycle your trash this Friday-Saturday

Huron County is collecting recyclable materials at the Huron Community Fairgrounds on Friday, Dec. 1 from 12 noon to 4 p.m., and Saturday, Dec. 2 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Materials which may be brought to the drop-off site in the Arena Building, Soper Road entrance, include paper, glass and plastic items, says County Recycling Coordinator Dee DeFord. Drop-off dates will be the first and third Friday and Saturday of each month, at those times. All material must be clean and separated by category, she says. The Recycling Office phone number is 269-2471, in the County Building, Bad Axe. Items which can be dropped off include newspaper, office paper, corrugated cardboard, glass (brown, green or clear), tin and aluminum cans, plastic milk jugs and colored detergent and shampoo bottles, DeFord says. Next drop off dates are Friday and Saturday, Dec. 15 and 16.
