

Lady Lakers raid the Raiders

By AMY HEIDEN
If a female high school basketball player can have a counterpart in the National Basketball Association, then spunky little D.J. Ferris, all 5'3" of her, would have to be compared to Spud Webb of the Atlanta Hawks.
Both are small—almost tiny compared to other players—both are lightning quick, both can do things other players don't think they could possibly do—and most importantly, both make good things happen for their teams.
Lightning-quick would be the word to describe both players, and Ferris lived up to that description Thursday against the Marlette Red Raiders with some quick and crucial steals that helped the Lakers gain a 61-46 win over the Raiders.
Ferris scored 13 in the game, while Beth Roestel, Anne Sturm and Holly Esch each had 10. Tammy Smith and Jodi Weisenbach each scored 8. Esch and Sturm also pulled down 6 rebounds each, while Roestel and Smith each had 2.

"That's one of the good things about this team. Everbody's capable of some nice scoring, and we don't have to depend on any one player to do all our scoring for us," says Coach Paul Beachy.
First half pressure on the Raiders gave the Lakers a whopping 28-12 lead by halftime. Although the Raiders lit up the scoreboard first, it wasn't long before the Lakers made mincemeat of their defense and overtook them, leaving the bewildered Raiders to wonder what happened.
Since Thursday was Parents' Night at Marlette, Raider Coach Terry Reid

didn't have a lot of time to spend with his players, but he must have given them an earful because they came out in the second half and played like a different team.
They matched the Laker scoring, with each team answering the other's points. At one point, the Raiders were within 10 points of the Lakers, but that huge lead built in the first half kept the Lakers out of danger.

"We played an exceptionally good first half," Beachy said. "We made them shoot over us, and we'd get the rebound. In the second half they played much better."
Their record now stands at 9-3 overall, and 6-0 in the league. They'll host Vassar on Tuesday night, and travel to Caro on Thursday, in two league contests.

Eagle girls lose to NH

By KATHY MEYER
The Caseville girls' basketball team lost to North Huron 71-24 Thursday.

Penny Murdoch scored 14 points and Jill Miller scored 7. Selina Koenig scored 21 points for North Huron.

Lakers get tested, get tough

By AMY HEIDEN

The vaunted Laker football offensive machine, designed to strike fear in the hearts of opposing defenses, has been steaming along this year, scoring 278 points.
And the defense, no slouches themselves, have held their opponents to only 47 points.
That machine spit and sputtered a bit Friday night when it met up with the Marlette Red Raiders, an adversary just a bit tougher than previous ones. The Raiders were also playing their homecoming game, adding emotion to a game already hyped as one of the biggest of the year.

But the Green Machine prevailed, dampening the homecoming celebration by handing the Raiders a 30-14 loss, and taking sole possession of first place in the TBA. Marlette was first in the end zone with a 20-yd. scoring run by Rod Anderson, and the PAT was good, giving the Raiders a 7-0 lead.
Scott Fisher scored minutes later for the Lakers, but when the PAT attempt failed, the Lakers were trailing by a point.

The officials began to get into the game in the second quarter, when a Fisher TD was called back on an inadvertent whistle. With a Raider face mask penalty, the Lakers got the first down on Marlette's 15-yard line, and Eric Wissner snagged a 12-yd. pass from Jeremy Esch to score. Fisher's 2-pt. conversion gave the Lakers a 14-7 lead.

The Raiders' next TD tied the game at 14-14 late in the period. Then Raider Nathan Ross intercepted an Esch pass and raced downfield with the clock ticking away the second quarter. Just as time ran out, he was tackled out of bounds just short of the end zone and the teams went to their locker rooms with the game still tied.

The Lakers were handed a 15-yd. clipping penalty on the first play of the third quarter, but Dan Gonzales more than made up for it when he intercepted a potential Raider TD pass near the 10-yd. line.
Their possession didn't last long though, as they were forced to punt and a facemask penalty gave the Raiders first down at the Lakers' 44-yd. line.

Wissner's interception at the 36-yd. line set up the Lakers' next scoring drive, which saw Fisher run for his second TD, breaking the tie. Esch's 2-pt. conversion run gave the Lakers a 22-14 lead with just over three minutes left in the period.

The fourth period was spent moving the ball up and down the field, and trading turnovers, with a Laker fumbled snap recovered by the Raiders, and an interception by Mike Keefer which allowed the Raiders to take over on their own 38-yd. line.

After Esch rushed for the second down to the 21-yd. line, a 10-yd. penalty against Marlette gave the Lakers a big first down at the 11-yd. line.

Two plays later, Rick Duffy took a 6-yd. pass from Esch for the TD, and Fisher's 2-pt. run gave the Lakers a 30-14 lead.
On their next possession before time ran out, Brian Bollenbacher raced 48 yards, only to be hauled down just short of the end zone.

Laker Coach Bill McLellan said the game was the first tough contest the Lakers had handled.

"It was a good test when we played Bad Axe, and this game was good for us. It made us scramble. This was the first time we were tied at the half," McLellan said.
"You've got to win both halves. The Raiders were fired up at the start of the second half, but that big interception by Gonzales took some steam out of them, I think. I think, too, that we composed ourselves and did a good job of overlooking the penalties we were handed."

Scott Fisher had his best game yet, with 100 yards rushing in 14 carries and 2 touchdowns. Reggie Ignash carried 7 times for 39 yards, Eric Wissner carried 6 times for 8 yards, Jeremy Esch carried 5 times for 44 yards, and Brian Bollenbacher had 48 yards in 2 carries.

Esch also completed 6 of 11 passes for 66 yards. Reggie Ignash also led the defense with 15 tackles, Mike Keefer had 13, and Brian Ignash had 11.

The Lakers' record is now 7-0 overall, 6-0 in the league, good enough for holding down sixth place in the Detroit Free Press statewide Class CC rankings.

The Vassar Vulcans, now holding down the bottom spot in the TBA rankings with 6 losses and no wins, will visit this Friday in the season's last conference game.

To each a different mission . . .

DEAR MR. ROSS:

In our city, there are some schools in very depressed areas. Many of the school children are in dire need of underpants. For the past several years, my husband and I have not given gifts to each other and have instead bought underwear for the children in one of the schools.

As outgoing president of my garden club, I was entitled to a gift. I asked them to give $7—they gave me $10. I put $10 of my own with it and snagged my good husband for an additional $34. We bought boy's underpants, but we still need to buy for the girls. It is a never-ending problem. If you could see your way to donate $50 or $100, it would be greatly appreciated and put to good use. I'll close hoping and praying I hear from you soon.—MRS. W.C., Vancouver, Wash.

DEAR MR. ROSS: I'm writing, because I feel that someone who is doing the very best she can and cannot make ends meet needs your generosity. I work with a lady named Rose, who is 57 and employed by the city as a payroll clerk. When I first met Rose, her husband was seriously ill with emphysema. He was in and out of the hospital for several years, amassing a huge debt, which was left for Rose to pay off little by little. This lady works whenever and wherever she can. Her refrigerator went on the fritz, and she lost all her food. After that, her car started giving her trouble.

DEAR MRS. C.: I'm amazed with the various missions some folks take on. I know a Minneapolis woman whose mission is to soak the feet of the homeless. I know a retired barber in Florida who provides free haircuts for the elderly. I know a nun in New York who hands out soap to anyone who is dirty. Among these helping souls, I can count you and your husband, who have chosen to clothe the bare bottoms of underprivileged children.

Whatever the case, you're all doing the Lord's work. Please continue your good deeds with the $300 check I'm sending. All children deserve the cleanliness and modesty that come with wearing underwear. As adults, it is our responsibility to provide it.

DEAR MRS. R.: Why is it that when it rains, it pours? I can't stop the rain, but I can hand Rose an umbrella. Please present her with my forthcoming check with which to purchase a new refrigerator. And, if only to prove we've chased that dark cloud away, I've included some extra to stock her new fridge with groceries. Rose definitely sounds like a deserving soul. Thank you for writing and allowing me the opportunity to add to the quality of her life.

DEAR MRS. M.: Who is "we"? You are hardly the voice of your entire community. Chances are you are someone who wrote for assistance, and you're bitter because you never received any.

It there was ever anyone who needed your help, it's Rose. I have watched her for days on end eating peanut butter sandwiches for lunch because she has no way of keeping anything else.—MRS. S.R.

DEAR MRS. M.: Who is "we"? You are hardly the voice of your entire community. Chances are you are someone who wrote for assistance, and you're bitter because you never received any.

poor people who really needed it. Now we know what kind of man you really are. You never do anything from the goodness of your heart.

The only time you help is if a newspaper makes a federal case out of your gift. You're about as caring as a mule is obedient. We sure don't miss your column in our newspaper. In fact, we're every glad you're not in it anymore. Thanks for doing us this one favor.—MS.J.M., Rochester, N.Y.

DEAR MRS. M.: Who is "we"? You are hardly the voice of your entire community. Chances are you are someone who wrote for assistance, and you're bitter because you never received any.

I'm grateful for the time I did appear in your paper, because a lot of Rochester residents were able to receive help. Fact is, many have held onto my address and are still writing, and therefore, I'm still helping. All I can say is, "I can help some of the people some of the time, but I can't help all of the people all of the time."

PRESCHOOL STORY HOUR

"Animal Tracks" will be the theme for the Oct. 23 Tuesday Preschool Story Hour Program. Stories will include "Crickletoots Book of Animal Tracking" and "Let's Look At Tracks." Exercises, a fingerplay, flannelgraph, song and a game will be part of the activities the children will participate in.

Children from age three to five are invited to attend either the 9 or 10:30 a.m. sessions. A registration fee is required, per family per year.

BORROW TOYS IN PROGRAM

The toys available at Pigeon District Library's Toy Lending Program have been carefully selected to fit a child's interest and abilities. Some selections are available for every age up to five years. The toys will help children try, experiment and learn by involving them in activities with a wider variety of toys than an individual home can provide.

The experience of learning to enjoy borrowed materials and returning them to share with others will provide an excellent introduction to the library and will encourage each child to use the library as a resource throughout his/her school years and the rest of his/her life. A two-week check-out is available for these toys.

SUPERNATURAL

Have you heard things that go bump in the night. Seen a ghost? Well, you're in good company.

One-third of the American public says that ghosts and spirits are real. Americans are a nation of believers in supernatural phenomena, according to a national public opinion poll commissioned by "Parents" magazine.

According to the poll, those 21 to 34 years old were more inclined to believe than those over 55.

The 55-and-over generation nevedid trust mysticism and the occult, but they did trust governmental leaders, church leaders and doctors.

Now young people don't trust politicians, their church leaders, they don't even trust their parents anymore. But at the same time, they're very gullible in regard to the more exotic types of claims. People want to believe it because they want to have faith and trust in something. The common denominator of paranormal beliefs is that they offer the possibility of transformation — the promise of going beyond the current situation.

Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. McGathy

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. McGathy, shown here in their 1940 wedding photo, will be observed at an open house on Sunday, October 28, at the Community Center in Sebawaing, from 2:00-4:00 pm. The event will be hosted by the couple's children: Charles W. McGathy of Sebawaing, Ray McGathy of Bay Port and Roy McGathy of Lapeer.

Charles E. McGathy and Lillian W. Naffien were united in marriage on October 19, 1940, at St. Peter Lutheran Church in Linkville. Rev. Farver officiated at the ceremony.

In addition to their 3 children, the couple has 10 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren.

PHS Class of '36 reunites

The 1936 class of Pigeon High School met Oct. 6 at Frankenmuth for lunch with 28 present.

Five members of the class were absent and guests were teacher Iva Leinbach Sturm, Mrs. Louise Baur and Mr. and Mrs. Leland Strieter.

Members of the class who attended were Helen Soldan Fahrner, Helen Schumacher Garthe, Richard Heck, Ellen Koch, Elsie Kuehn, Kenneth McAulay, Wesley Murdoch, Edgar Strieter, Evelyn Van DeVoort, Otto Voelker, Arnold Weiss, Orville Yackler, Emma Zabel and Nelmer Wright.

It was decided the next reunion will be held in 1992 at Pigeon, with an exact date to be set later.

Anniversary celebrated

Pearl and Earl Hartman celebrated their 56th Wedding Anniversary on Saturday, Sept. 29. They had dinner with their family, Dolores Hartman and Janet and Wayne Kranz.

Pigeon news notes

What They Don't Read Can't Hurt Them. WRONG!

CAUTION SAFETY GLASSES WITH SIDE SHIELDS MUST BE WORN IN THIS AREA

The old saying "What they don't know can't hurt them" couldn't be more wrong. Workplace illiteracy costs an estimated $225 BILLION yearly in lost profits and related costs.

Illiteracy hurts the employer and the employee: a steelworker misorders $1 million in parts because he can't read well; an insurance clerk who doesn't understand decimals pays a claimant $2200 instead of $22; and an injured autoworker who can't read the signs to the first aid station takes an hour to find help. Help build a workforce ready for the year 2000--encourage employees to develop their literacy skills and support them when they take that scary first step.

From the Mayor's Desk

A REPORT FROM CASEVILLE MAYOR FRANK MALOSKY

Council received the annual audit report which shows a fund balance of $214,467 as of February 28, 1990. The audit shows Caseville in good financial condition.

The issue of the village of Caseville trying to push water into the township is not true. Caseville does have water to sell and would like to see those who need water to take advantage of the opportunity to get good water.

DPW superintendent and the entire council were upset with the letter that appeared in the paper along with the accusations that Caseville's water is not the best.

I have visited the water plant and reviewed the State Health Department reports on samples they have taken and all have been in accordance with State specifications.

This writer believes no one should falsify a record just because they do not agree with a certain issue. A letter from the village attorney will be sent to the person who made the accusation. I do hope that with this letter the issue will be dropped.

Council denied a request for a curb cut for Bay Mini Mall (where the old post office was located). The present owners tore down the building to create more parking. Council denied the request, as it would eliminate two to three parking spaces on M-25.

The Controller's office is considering taking a census count in the village, as all indications are Caseville will be short-changed in population numbers according to the Census Bureau. Municipalities have until April to challenge the Bureau.

The Downtown Development Authority is moving ahead in promoting much needed off-street parking. Council adopted a resolution stating Caseville does have deteriorating properties and it is necessary, for the best interest of the public, to halt property value deterioration, increase property tax values, and promote economic growth within Caseville.

Council also passed a resolution to grant a $2500 loan to CDDA for operating funds, which will be paid back when CDDA's Development and Tax Increment Financing Plan goes into effect in December.

Caseville's DDA consultant will be presenting the above plans this week to CDDA. There will be a public hearing set for Monday, Nov. 12, 7 p.m. in the Village Hall for public comments on the above plans.

Anyone interested, please attend and let your ideas be known as to what you would like the DDA to be doing in Caseville. CDDA meetings are held every third Tuesday of the month at 7 p.m. at the Village Hall.

The burning ban has been lifted until Dec. 1. You may burn leaves and brush only. Please do not take advantage of this ban and burn rubbish, etc.

You should call the village or township office and let them know when and where you will be burning, so an alarm will not be called in.

Youngsters in Caseville will be having an extra Halloween treat again this year. Council set trick or treat hours from 5:30 to 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 31.

After 7 p.m., children are invited to go to the IGA parking lot for hot dogs and cider. IGA owners, Linda and Terry Hogan and Gus Heine-man, have again been very generous in doing something for Caseville's young people.

In addition to the free hot dogs and cider, a pumpkin decorating contest is being held. Any child from three through ten can enter just by going to the IGA and picking up a pumpkin to decorate. There will be three cash prizes for two age groups.

There were approximately 300 to 400 hot dogs served last year. This program was started last year when the new owners took over. Again, thanks go out also to our police chief and the local firemen for all the time and assistance they give to make Halloween a special night for Caseville youngsters. Motorists please be extra careful of the trick or treaters that night.

Caseville's recycling chairman Bud McCormick got assurance from the village council that Caseville will be going ahead with the recycling program. It seems the DNR representatives are taking a good hard look at just what equipment Caseville needs to implement the program.

As mentioned in previous articles, $9 million was appropriated to six communities to be used as Pilot Communities to do complete recycling programs. Caseville's share of the $9 million is $155,000, far short of the amount first announced when Caseville's share was supposed to be approximately $2 million.

I cannot understand the DNR's position on recycling. Sixth District Commissioner Martha Thuemmel attended our council meeting and informed council that Oakland County had considered building an incinerator, but have decided not to at this time. Now there is rumor that the four counties in this area are considering building an incinerator.

Everyone should know that when burning items such as paint, batteries, etc., you get a contaminated ash and where will that leave Michigan as far as burying the ashes? Information from the commissioner is that Huron County Commissioners will possibly consider action on the issue this week.

Caseville council's action indicates that everyone in the area should give complete recycling a try.

Residents in Caseville may have noticed that an old landmark, the Caseville Lumber Elevator is being torn down. In one way it is a shame to see such a structure as this demolished, especially with all the good old lumber and beams that were used to construct the building.

But in conclusion, a thank you goes out to the owners for cleaning up an old and worn out warrior to make room for a more modern one.

Finally, Caseville's insurance specifications are completed after months of going over the coverage Caseville needs. The Finance Committee recommended that Caseville advertise for bids, which will have to be in by 4 p.m., December 3, 1990. Any insurance agent interested in bidding, may pick up a set of specifications at the village office.

Caseville received two certificates of Achievement from the Michigan Municipal League for accomplishing and completing the new Harbor and the new Water Treatment Plant. We more or less came in second, but what other community undertook two projects such as ours in one year?

Council approved by a four to two vote, pay raises for the treasurer of 50 cents an hour, bringing the hourly rate to $7.50 and a $3,316 increase to the village controller, bringing the salary to $21,100 per year.

A request from village employees for a full day off, with pay, on December 24 and January 31 was turned down by council. Employees now work half days on the above days.

HAVE YOU NOTICED white and blue "H" signs on lawns throughout area neighborhoods, but didn't know what the "H" stood for?

The "H" stands for hospital and the sign campaign is just one of the methods being used by the Michigan Hospital Association to get the attention of political candidates this election year.

"We Care" is a statewide campaign to remind lawmakers that hospitals still "care", but need the "care" of everyone else to continue to do their work. The campaign is intended to raise the priority of health care in this election year and to get elected leaders' commitment to a "healthy" future for Michiganders, according to spokesmen from the Michigan Hospital Association.

Signs, buttons and banners are available from Scheurer Hospital, 170 N. Caseville Road, Pigeon.

Health Dept. says: Watch your child for Head Lice!

The Huron County Health Department has reported increased incidences of head lice throughout the county. The following article explains some of the myths about head lice, prevention strategies and treatment.

Each year approximately three million Americans, most of them children under age 12, are infested with head lice.

Though a problem throughout the year, more than half of all head lice cases occur from August to November, with peak incidence at back-to-school time. The following tips will help parents (and children) get through the lice "season" a bit more easily.

There are many myths surrounding the transmission of head lice. One of the most prevalent is that good hygiene and hair cleanliness will prevent infestation. This is not true.

Lice are indiscriminate. They like clean hair as well as dirty, short as well as long hair. Interpersonal contact is the key to transmission; although head lice can neither jump nor fly, they do crawl rather rapidly from place to place and person to person. Fortunately, there are some preventive measures parents can take to reduce the chances of infestation of their children:

Discourage sharing hair brushes, combs, headgear and radio headphones. These are some of the easiest ways for lice to be transmitted from one child to another.

Encourage your children's school to establish a policy for assigning individual coathooks or lockers. The incidence of lice infestation tends to be higher in classrooms where more than one child shares the same storage space for clothing and personal belongings.

Try to keep children in their own beds. Statistics show that more than half of children with head lice have family members who are also infested. Sharing beds and personal belongings puts children at risk of infestation.

Head lice are sometimes difficult to identify. They are tiny insects approximately one to two millimeters long. Lice nits (eggs) can often be mistaken for dandruff.

However, unlike dandruff, nits can't be easily combed out. A telltale sign of lice infestation is itching of the scalp, ears and neck. A definitive diagnosis is based on the observation of live adults, nymphs or nits.

To identify lice, here are some things parents can do:

Institute weekly head checks during "lice season"—the peak months are August through November.

Search for lice and nits in the following areas; behind the ears, at the crown of the head and at the nape of the neck. A magnifying glass may be helpful in spotting the tiny lice and nits.

Check towels, after towel drying a child's head, for signs of lice. Although it is impossible to drown lice, they tend to seek a calmer haven if they have been roughed up during towel drying.

Examine your child's closet to see if lice have made the journey from garment to garment, particularly hats or caps.

Effective treatment of head lice includes three steps: use of a pediculicide (lice-killing medication), removal of nits and cleaning of personal items and the environment (i.e. pillows, furniture).

Such measures can help kill live lice and prevent eggs from hatching, thereby avoiding a reinfestation. Here are some specifics:

If your child has head lice, speak with your doctor, pharmacist, or the Health Department regarding the use of a lice-killing shampoo or creme rinse. Follow the directions of the medication exactly. Usually all household members should be treated.

Carefully clean clothing and personal belongings that could be carrying lice. Infested clothing should be washed in very hot water and put through a dryer cycle on high for at least 20 minutes. Clothing that cannot take high temperatures should be dry cleaned.

An alternative to dry cleaning is to put items in sealed plastic bags for 14 days. Don't forget stuffed animals when cleaning the environment.

Don't forget to "nit pick." Many schools will not permit children to return to the classroom unless they are "nit free." Nit picking can be made easier by using a specially designed comb available with some pediculicides or at the Health Department.

Don't suspect your pets are lice carriers. Pets may drag in a lot of little critters, but head louse is not one of them. Pets do not need to be treated or observed for human head lice.

Check your child regularly for lice and nits, particularly during the peak season which runs from August through November.

On the subject of blame, the by-word is DON'T. Lice infestation can be traumatic to both parent and child. Educate children to treat grooming aids such as combs and brushes as they would their toothbrush—a personal item not for sharing.

If you have any questions about head lice or need additional information, contact the Huron County Health Department in Bad Axe at 269-9721.

She was a special Pigeon visitor...

There were thousands of people celebrating this summer's Farmers' Festival in Pigeon, but one of them would probably win the prize for "coming the furthest distance" — if such a prize existed!

Ingvald Rusberg from Oslo, Norway enjoyed some of the Farmers' Festival festivities, while she visited the Harold Libka Family. The Libkas returned to Harold's hometown of Pigeon for festival fun, and brought the Flint Township Lions Club Exchange Student along, as she was staying with the Libkas, to visit Mr. and Mrs. Neil Libka in Pigeon. No doubt Miss Rusberg had lots of stories to tell the folks back home in Norway about the Thumb Area...

Brady's Flats . . .

By DUANE GUENTHER

It was a stern but loving mother who blocked the kitchen door leading to the back porch that fateful morning.

Thinking back, I now understand the mixed emotions she must have felt. What thoughts raced through her mind as she watched her youngest son eat the carefully prepared breakfast and then gather up his hunting gear and reach for the long, slender gun standing like a sentinel in the corner next to the table?

First, she would certainly be proud that her baby was finally man enough to go hunting by himself. But, also with that giant step into manhood came the extra worry associated with a young man and his gun being alone together.

The brief frown quickly faded and as she stepped aside to allow me to pass, her hand thrust forward revealing a large package wrapped in wax paper.

I knew without opening it that it would be a sumptuous lunch, really more like a full meal for most people, and since I had peeked as she was preparing it, I even knew what I would be dining on later that day.

It was a clear, late October morning when I crossed the road in front of our house and headed for the patch of woods that appeared as a low dark cloud on the eastern horizon. My clothes were the same ones I wore every Saturday throughout the year, tennis shoes, faded jeans, with a patch or two decorating the thighs and knees, and a flannel shirt.

However, one article of clothing set me aside from my normal attire and that was a slightly oversized shell-vest handed down from an older brother.

It was faded from many years of use and Mom had to sew large darts in the shoulders to make it fit half way decent. There were several rows of shell loops in the front, a large game bag attached to the back, and pockets on either side, one of which held my lunch.

Over my shoulder rested my most cherished possession, a battered Winchester single shot 12 gauge. It wasn't really mine, but my brother told me I could use it until I saved enough money to buy my own. I couldn't wait for that day because each time I discharged the gun I caught a resounding slap to the cheek that always brought tears to my eyes.

The woods appeared nearer now and I felt a tinge of excitement at the thought of what lie beyond. I would be hunting in a place my buddies and I had named Brady's Flats.

It was a broad floodplain caused by the rising spring waters of the tumultuous creek which now meandered passively through its middle. Both sides were hemmed in by an almost impenetrable stand of hardwoods generously laced with the necessary underbrush that always holds game.

I wasn't sure what I would be hunting that day. The season afforded me many opportunities and as a young boy, I would gladly take each as they arose.

More than likely it would be a squirrel scampering through the treetops, or perhaps a rabbit exploding from one of the several piles of debris scattered throughout the flats. Maybe if I was lucky, it would be a gaudy rooster, cackling as it rose on thunderous wings. Whatever, I thought to myself, whatever.

I stepped through the last screen of trees at exactly the same moment a large, Canada goose set its wings and dropped contentedly into the creek. I felt my heart leap into my throat at the possibility of bringing such a bird home to a beaming mother.

Dropping to my stomach, I began a slow and deliberate approach that would have brought envy from the finest trained infantryman. The distance lessened.

When I reached, what I thought to be a good killing range, I leaped to my feet and began running wildly towards the bird.

Scared into flight, it beat its wings furiously in order to gain the necessary altitude that would carry it to safety. At that point, I stopped, thumb-ed back the small, silver hammer and brought the gun to my shoulder.

The jerk of the trigger slammed the stock against my cheek. Tears welled to my eyes and as I brushed them away with the back of my hand, I caught a glimpse of a giant, black and gray bird cartwheeling towards the ground.

Several bounding steps brought me to the creek's edge and reaching down, I plucked my first ever Canada goose from the water.

Lutheran Women plan fall rally

The LWMS Thumb Circuit, an organization of women of the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod, will hold their fall rally on Friday, Oct. 19, at Trinity Lutheran Church, Elkton. Registration is at 6:30 p.m. and the meeting starts at 7 p.m. Guest speaker will be Pastor Gary Richmond, chairman of the Michigan District Board for Parish Services. His topic is "Spiritual Renewal in Our Congregations." Other highlights of the rally will be a report by Pastor Schaeewe on the Home and World Mission projects, voted on at the Spring Rally and also a report on the National LWMS convention.

Church notes

CHANDLER GUILD

The Chandler Presbyterian Guild conducted its Oct. 10 meeting in the home of Marvline Richards with Marge McPhee as co-hostess. A dessert luncheon was served.

Marge McPhee presided at the business meeting, opening with prayer. Roll call response was "Where I Had My First Date." A donation was voted to the Alma College Scholarship Fund. Eleanor Wilson will serve as treasurer for the year. Millie Kain gave a report on Canada, a mission in Arizona.

The least coin selection, "Celebration of the Journey," was read by Margaret Fleming. Mildred Ballagh gave the lesson on "The Creation." Mrs. McPhee will host the Nov. 7 meeting.

'I've got to sell ALL that popcorn??!!'

CROSS LUTHERAN KIDS are "poppin' up" popcorn sales all over town for the next two weeks, as part of the school's annual fund-raising popcorn drive.

Proceeds raised will go towards teaching supplies, says Principal Marge Robison.

FISHERMEN KNOW HOW . . .

"HE SAID TO THEM, 'FOLLOW ME, AND I WILL MAKE YOU FISHERS OF MEN.'" MATTHEW 4:19

In this season we see so much World Series and college and professional football that we think everyone is watching or talking about those sports. Actually, statistics show that neither baseball nor football has the most followers. The favorite sport of all ages is fishing.

In Matthew 4, Jesus calls us to be fishers, too—not to catch Walleyes or Perch, but people!

We are to "catch" people for His kingdom, because He died to save all mankind for eternity. We become "fishers" of people when we tell them the great news of full and free salvation for all through Jesus' sacrifice.

Fishermen are patient, working and waiting to get results, and they must be resourceful and tactful. So it is with Christians who tell others of Jesus.

HELP US, LORD, TO BE FAITHFUL FISHERMEN. AMEN.
