We are permitted to publish the following letter from John Rushiton, of this city, to his wife. Mr. R. enlisted as a curious specimen of an epitaph enin one of the Indiana Regiments, early , in the war, and has been in active ser fought the revolution: .Vice ever since.

. Suprell, Va., Nov. 28, 1862. My DRAR WIFE . . In our march to Black Water about which I have already written you, we lost nine men, either killed or taken prisoners. think they were taken, as they were strangling, and probably took the wrong road. Before we started for the woods I fired thirty of my fifty rounds of ami munition, when we enthered, and it was every man for himself. We found a rebel cavelry picket who syrem the river and probably took our men, though the Cantain marked them desectors. This minght, as there is too much rouning wound the country of nion who can't keep up but can run to burns on the road, and finally gut taken prisoners. which many of them wish, or they are pereled and then go home. ing good business in Tennessee. . He is the right kind of a man, and the govin the North, as there is but one issue, while our institutions and laws are set at defiance or threatened by armed foes.+ The reason I would like to be in the army of the Petomac is, that it is moving, and something is about to be done. A soldiers life is no easy one, if he does his duty, and government can not afford to keep four or five hundred thousand men lying idle in camp. I see there are thousand officers absent without leave, and the President has dismissed a hubdred of them. I am glad of it, and hope It is strange the officers take so much Rhaumatism when on the match, and the men so little. I have slept in the halfand it has not taken me yet! I have only to hope that this war will soon lie brought to an honorable end, and we be again at home with the loved ones, but I could not rest easy there until the job we have undertaken is finished.
