they should prepare them independent of each other. However, Dr. Bliss very kind by volunteered, to give to the press the de-000, and his friends are not at all backwar t in saying and doing what they can to help the old man along. Dr. Reyburn's bill amounts to the sing sum of $10,800, he charging $100 for each day he was in at tendance upon the ease, and an extra $100 for each night he put in at the White House. Drs. Agnew and Hamilton, it is said, will value their services at $15,000. Dr. Boynton and Mrs. Edson are not taken into account by the friends of Dr. Bliss. They say Mrs. Edson is not recognized by the medi cal fraternity of Washington as a member of the profession, and Dr. Boynton is a believer in homeopathy and therefore does not come within the definition of a physician as the friends of Dr. Bliss understand it. Besides, Dr. Boynton, they say, has acted outrageously since Garfield's death, and they don't think him entitled to any reward or sympathy. If either Mrs. Edson or Dr. Boynton are allowed anything they

I have ordered an entirely new set of boxes and postoffice outfit, including new corrugated cuspadors for the use of the female clerks. I look upon the appointment myself as a triumph over error and wrong. It is one of the epochs, as I may say, in the nation's onward march toward political purity and perfection. I don't know when I have noticed any stride in the affairs of state which so thoroughly impressed me with its wisdom. Now that we are co-workers in the same department I trust that you will not feel shy or backward in consulting me at any time relative to matters concerning the postoffice department affairs. About this time the young man became conscious that he had for some reason been singled out by the passengers as an object of great interest, and it suddenly occurred to him that they might think the old man's remarks were might think the old man's remarks were pursonal to himself. He endeavored to get in a word or two, but the old man would brook no interruption.

But that's not all," he went on; "a BALTIMORE.
