The fisheries of the Red sea and the Bay of Bengal are still however, as celebrated as they ever were in classic days, a though the fair can no longer hope for the produce by the peck, as Varro-at second-hand-self they used to: "Altera exorat virum semodium margaritarum." For all the scatedy of pearls, we now get them also from go, the seas of China and Japan, from Panoma, Tahiti, the Gambier islands, and Australia. The pearl market is no longer at Rome, at the Margaritarius portious; but in the hands of the Amsterdam. Hamburg, London, and New York dealers, who buy up all this harvest of the sea. There are numerous bivalves which give pearls, bad, indifferent or better: but the true pearl-oyster-if oyster ir can be called, for it is exactly like an exaggerated cockle—is the Mytilus mardaritgerus, or Lintadin et a. which measures from four to sx inches in diameter and an inch and a half in thickness. The oceanic variety differs from the East Indian, and gives a tiner gem. The Tuamotu archipelago, to the east of the Society islands, is perhaps the greatest pearl-lishery in the men especially of Faiti, and one of the Anaa or Chain island, are well known in this trade-more dreadful far than sapphire-gathering-for plunging into twenty-five fathoms of water, in the teeth of sharks, and remaining as long as three whole minutes under water. A famous diver of Anaa escaped not long ago from a shark with the loss of a breast and an arm, and many of them go down never to come up again. If they make too many punges in their day's work at the beginning of the season, which comprises the summer months, from November to February, they bring on hemorrhage or congestion; and after some years passed in the occupation paralysis is certain. Few of these divers work for themselves, but ean earn 4 shillings a day from the pearl-traders. With a wooden tube some sixteen inches long, ten inches equare, and glazed at one end, they prospect from their boats the bottom of these translucid seas; the glass end, Diving-bells have been introduced by some houses in the trade; but the natives will no longer work in them, saying they bring on early paralysis of the legs.

Like his edible relative, the pearloyster also has his enemies and parasites. A flat fish called tahercta by the natives of this achipelago makes great ravages among the young fry; it resembles the eagle-ray, which is so destructive in European oyster-beds. There is another, a long fish with powerful jaws for crunching the fullor kotohe, and does not seem to have been identified by naturalists. There murex, which spends its time boring holes right through the oyster, and a the worst pest of all is probably a marine worm, locally called the needle-worm, which pierces a network of galleries, like the book-worm or the teredo, between the outer and the inner surfaces of the shell, and so ruins the mother of-pearl; which when so damaged is known in the trade as worm-eaten. A Terrible Cough Cured.

"In 1567 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried Aven's Unional Piectonal, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the Pectonal a permanent cure was effected. Lam to the very

manager of the

Largest Hotel Enterprises of America, says that while a passenger from New York on board a ship going around Cape Horn, in the early days of emigration to California, he learned that one of the officers of the vessel had cured himself, during the voyage, of an obstinate disease by the use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Since then Mr. LELAND has recommended Aver's Sarsaparilla in many similar cases, and he has never yet heard of its failure to effect a radical cure.

Some years ago one of Mr. DELAND's farm laborers bruised his leg. Owing to the bad state of his blood, an ugly scrofulous swelling or lump appeared on the injured limb. Horrible itching of the skin, with burning and darting pains through the lump, made life almost intolerable. The leg became enormously enlarged, and running ulcers formed, discharging great quantities of extremely. offensive matter. No treatment was of any avail until the man, by Mr. LELAND's direction, was supplied with Aven's SARSAPA-RILLA, which allayed the pain and irritation, healed the sores, removed the swelling, and completely restored the limb to use. Mr. LELAND has personally used for Rheumatism, with entire success; and, after careful observation, declares that, in his belief, there is no medicine in the world equal to it for the cure of Liver Disorders, Gout, the effects of high living, Salt Rheum, Sores, Eruptions, and all the various forms of blood diseases.

We have Mr. LELAND's permission to invite all who may desire further evidence in regard to the extraordinary curative powers of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to see him personaily either at his mammoth Ocean Hotel, Long Branch, or at the popular Leland Hotel, Mr. LELAND's extensive knowledge of the good done by this unequalled cradicator of blood poisons enables him to give inquirers much valuable information.
