Foreword

In preparing this volume of the WOLVERINE, we the Class of 1920, have striven to give expression to the Victory Spirit so characteristic of the year 1919.

We have included in this volume all those features which time and custom require in a book of this nature.

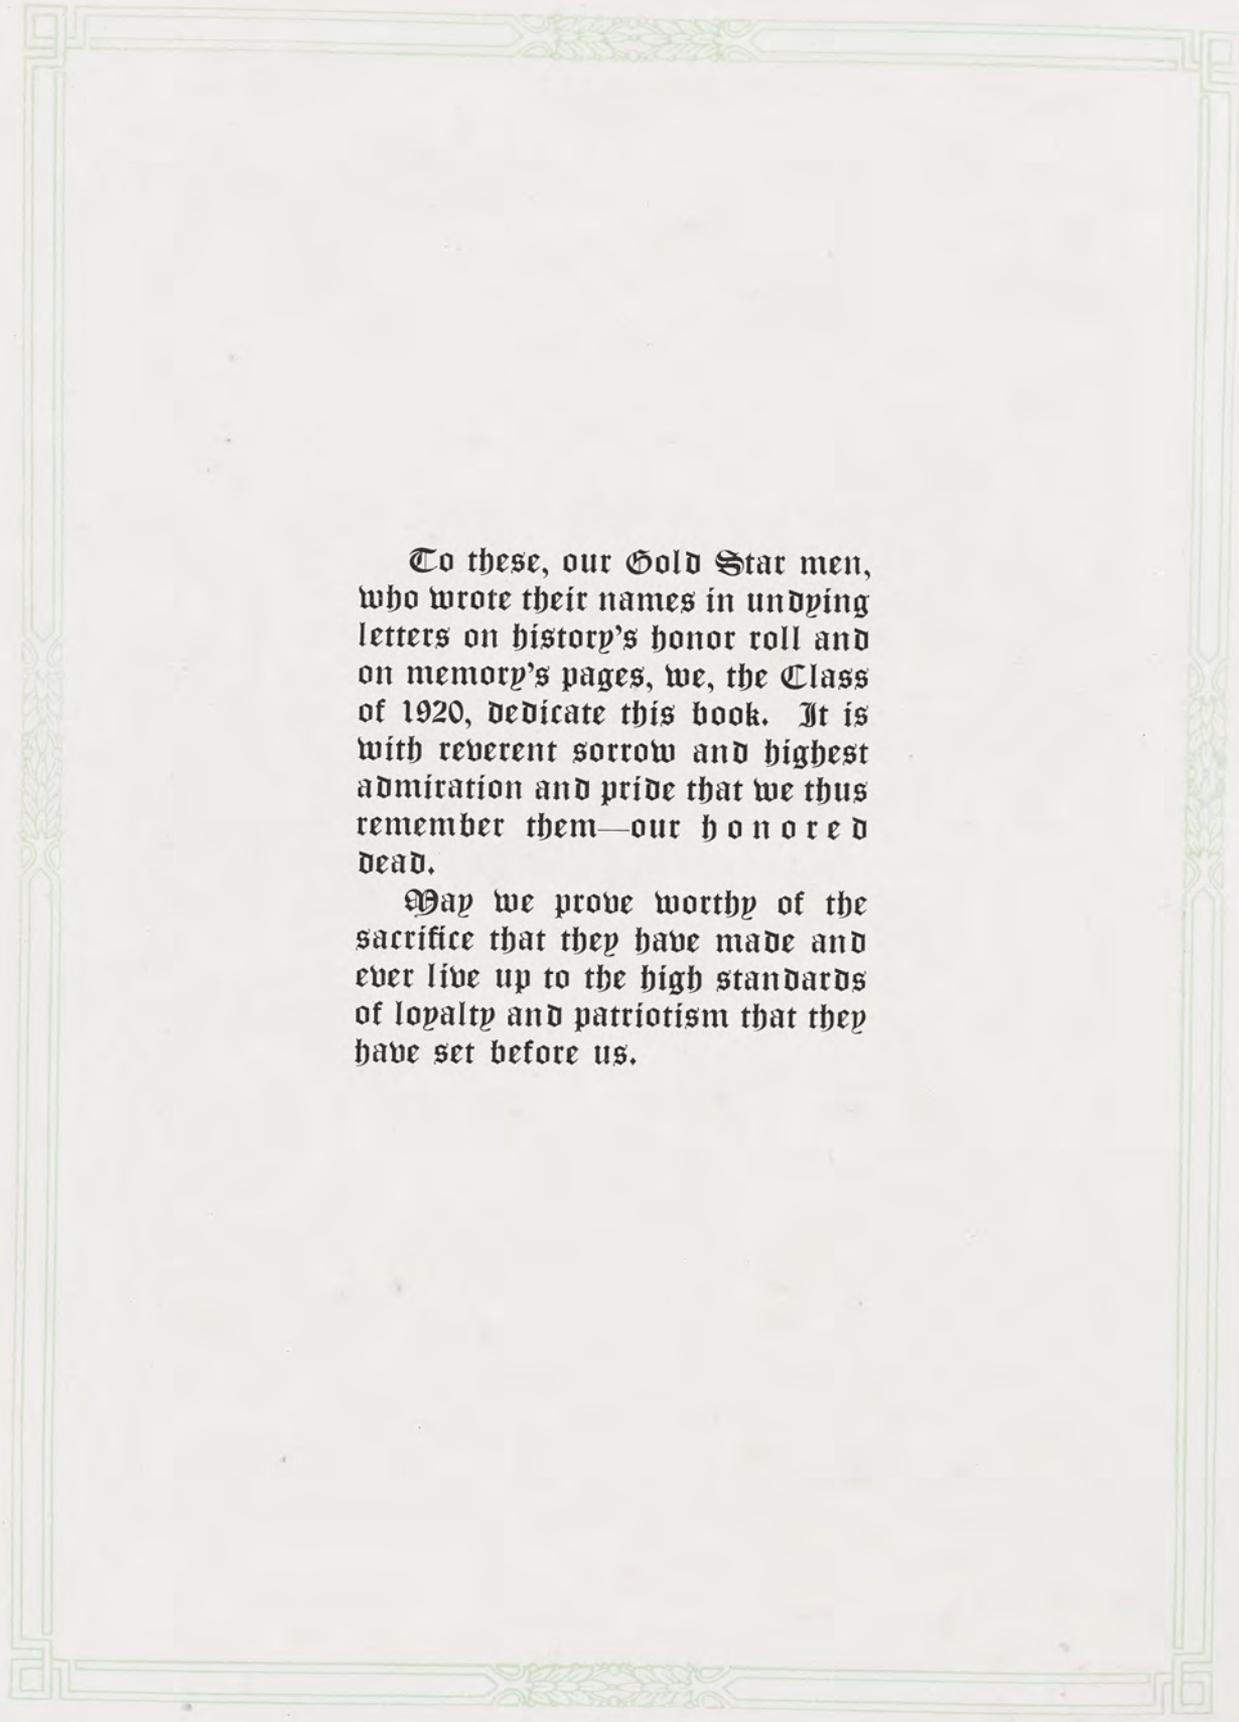

To suitably commemorate the unique activities which have occurred on the Campus during the past year, we have added an entirely new section devoted to the S. A. T. C.

We hope that this book may serve as a life-long reminder of the friendships and associations which we have formed here and that it may ever bring back to the reader some of that subtle spirit which pervades the campus.

It is our earnest hope that this purpose may be fulfilled.

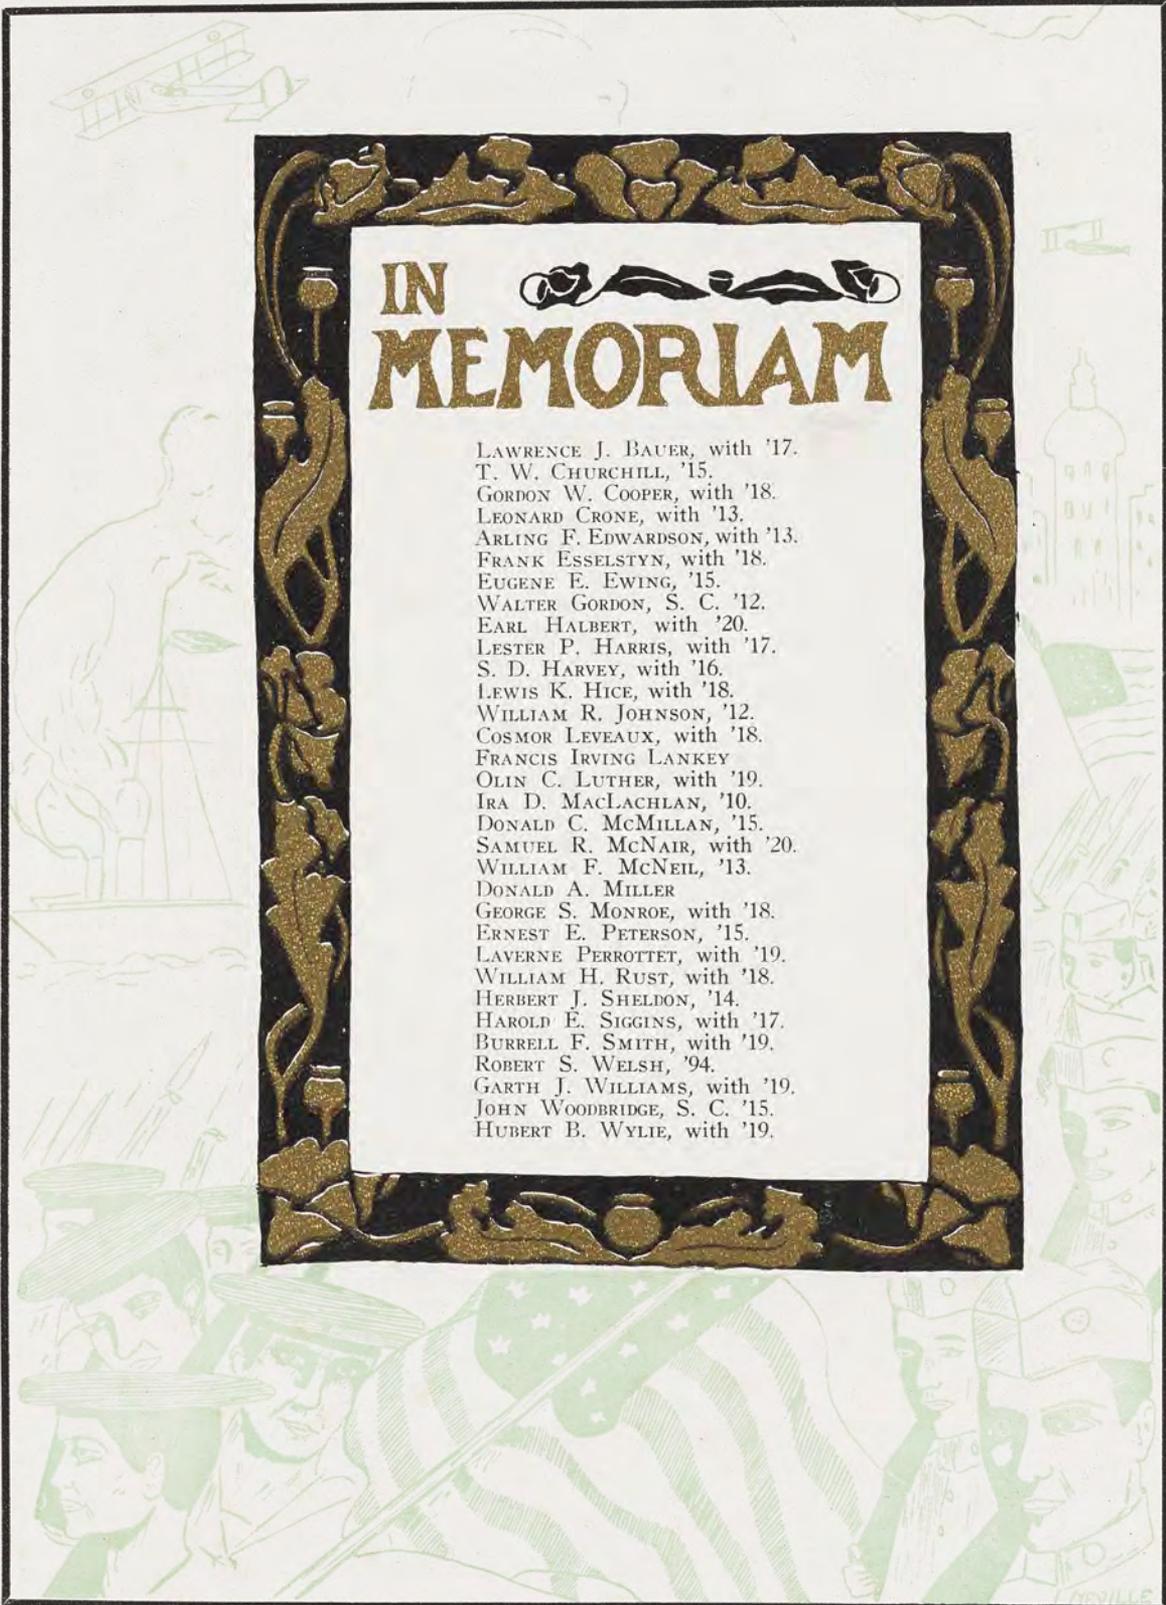

THE EDITORS.

A. J. T.

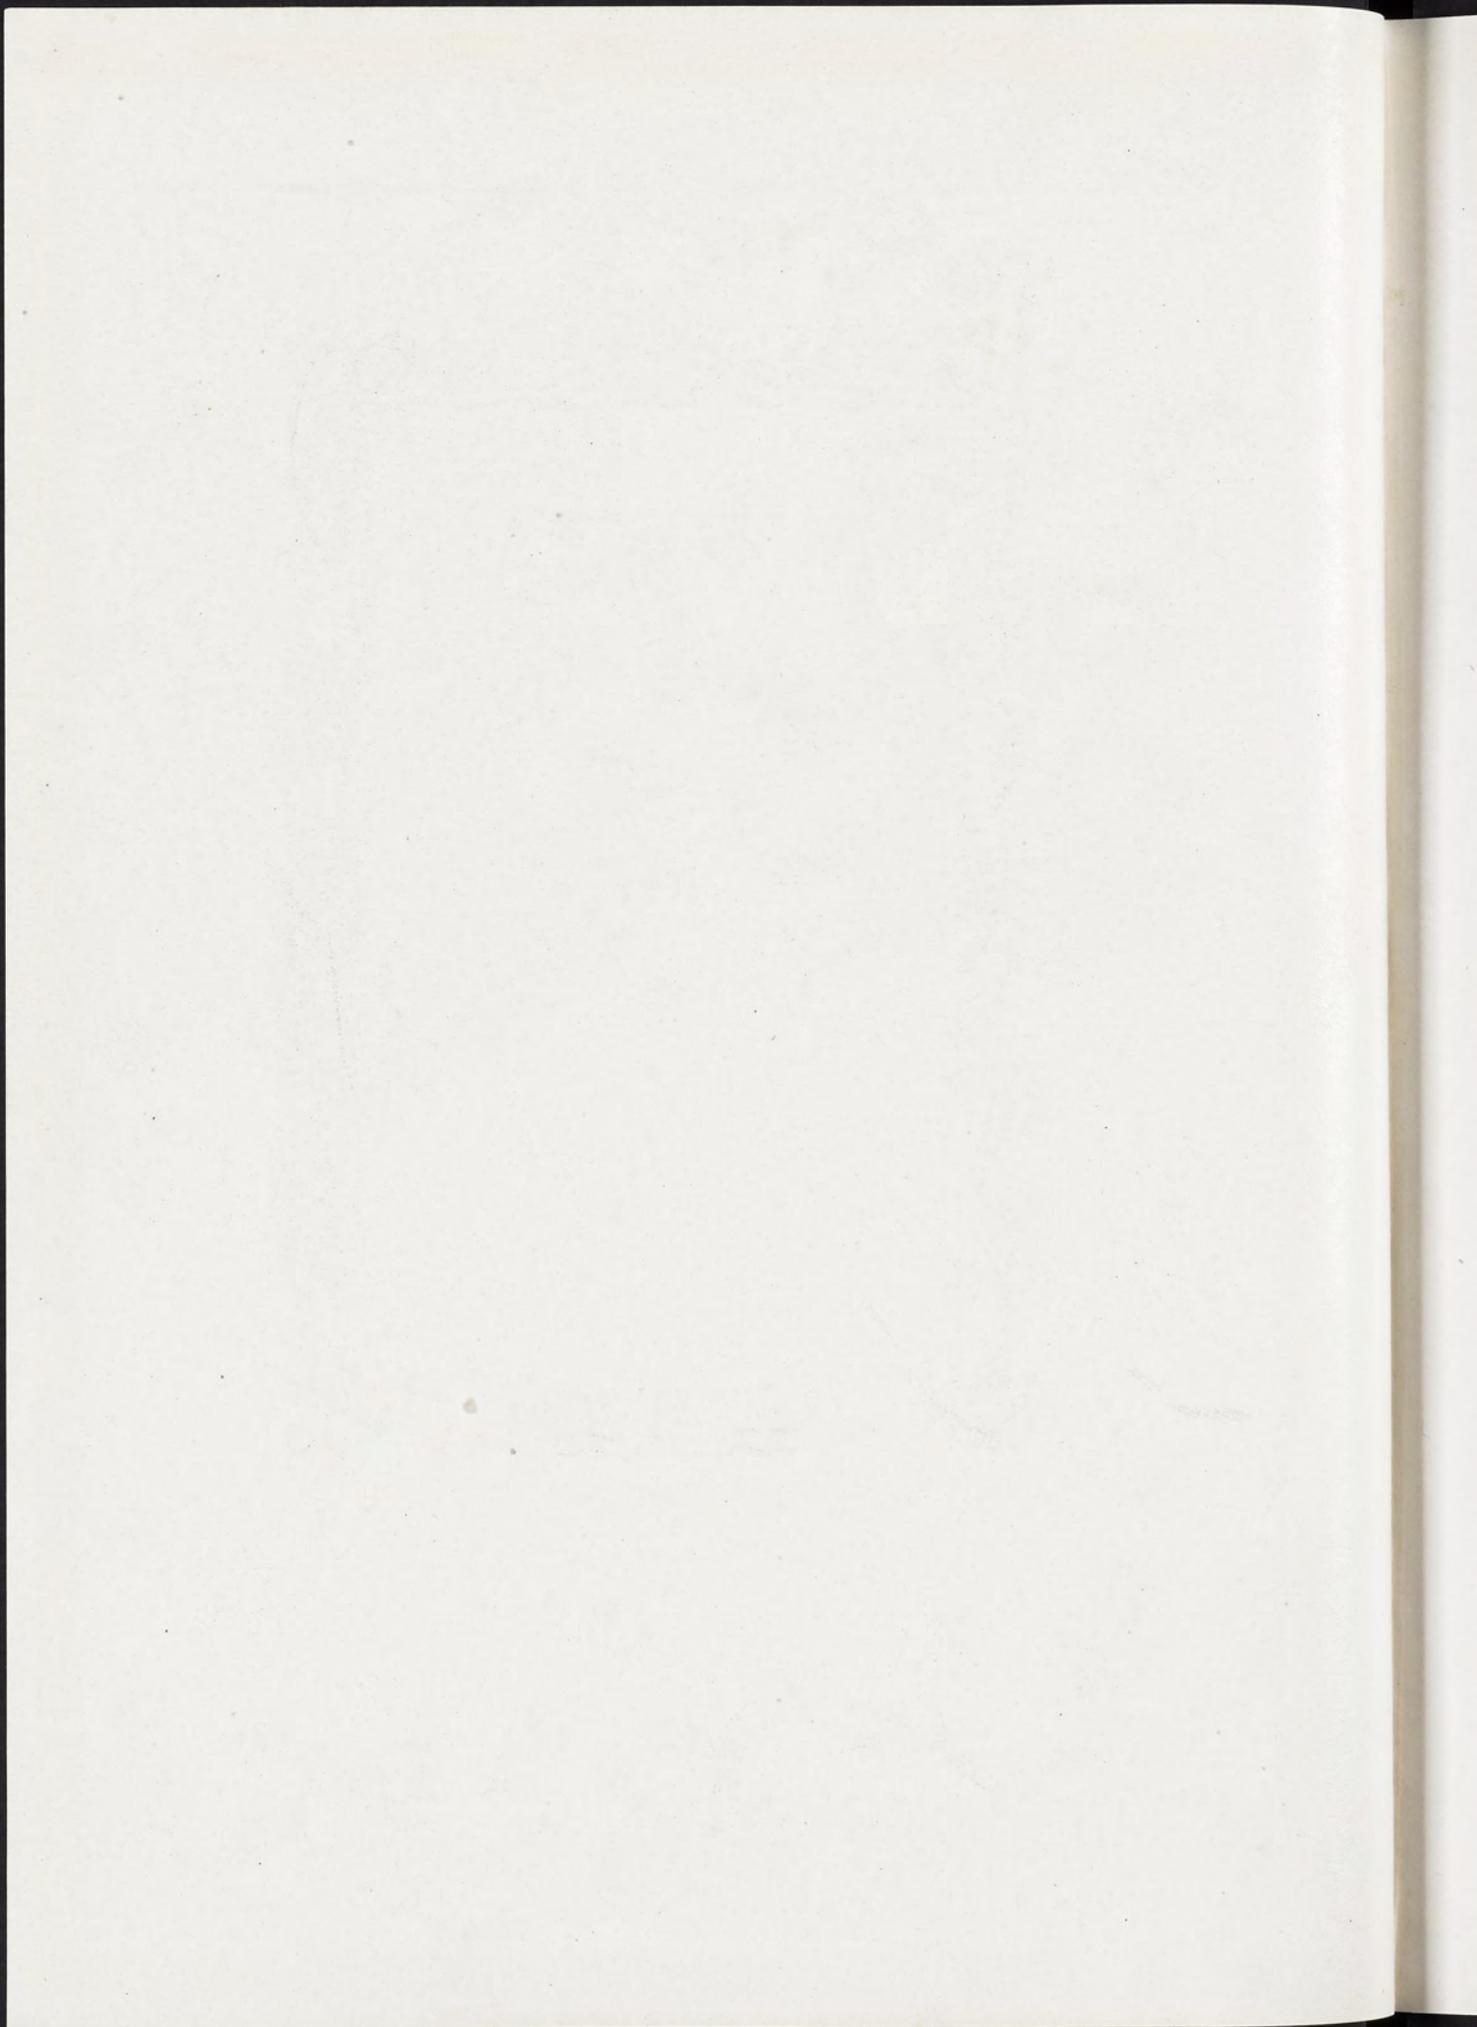

To these, our Gold Star men, who wrote their names in undying letters on history's honor roll and on memory's pages, we, the Class of 1920, dedicate this book. It is with reverent sorrow and highest admiration and pride that we thus remember them—our honored dead.

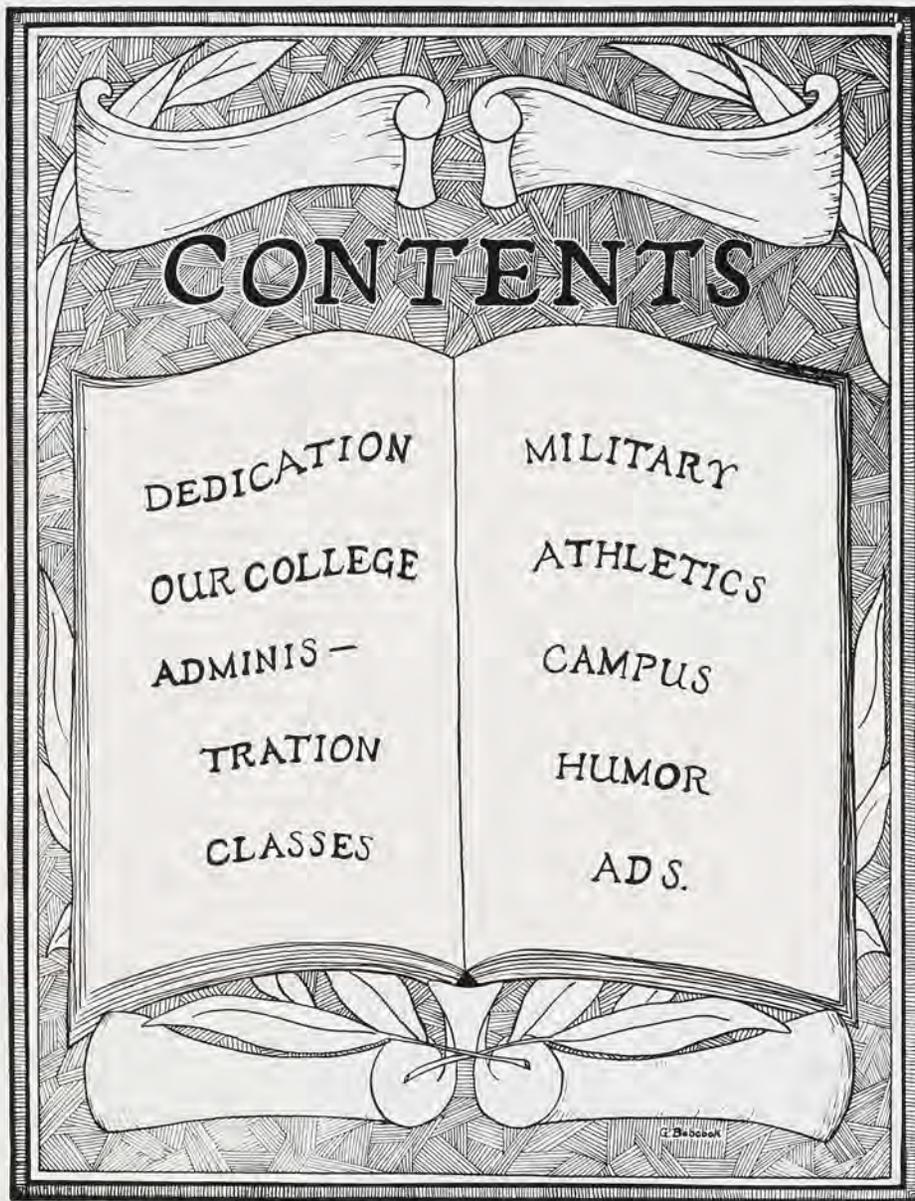

May we prove worthy of the sacrifice that they have made and ever live up to the high standards of loyalty and patriotism that they have set before us.

Dear Old Pal—

*I'm home again! Home again!
Isn't it a glorious feeling?—to be back from the crash and shock of shell—back at the M. A. C.?*

—Dear Garden of Memories, Land of my Dreams—All is as I had imagined, when, during the long night watches far, far away, I stood on guard.—

—I look through a patchwork—sunshine and shadow—to the Terrace shrouded in clouds. I dream of those days of adventure—before every cloud brought a memory of battle—of cannon's smoke and scenes of carnage.—

—See, yonder is old Morrill Hall—hallowed by the enchantments of memory. Its ancient walls are ever young and vibrant. I hear its voice echoing over the Campus.—

—As I see the Botany Building framed in its setting of trees, I think of the lessons we learned there—of the mysteries lying concealed beneath the verdure and the bark of the oak and the spreading elm.—

—The old Ag. Hall still stands unchanged—massive and substantial—like a lighthouse sending forth its beams of knowledge. It typifies the sturdy agriculture of a prosperous state.—

*—As I catch a glimpse of Olds Hall
—through a vista of sheltering trees—
I am reminded of you, my old Pal. I almost see you on the steps—with a “slip-stick” under your arm.—*

—Look! Here where stood old Williams, the flames have done their work. Oh God! Blot out the memories it brings to mind of ruined homes and buildings—of cities lying in ashes.—

—Old College Hall!—Is this not a desecration, polluting holy ground? No! But like the churches full of wounded, 'tis a symbol of a nation's wealth and manhood sanctified by dedication to a just and holy cause.—

—Mirrored in beauty I saw it—our newest and proudest achievement. My heart filled with joy and pride and I thought, " 'Tis a fitting emblem indeed of our strength for peace or for battle."—

*—I turn to the Chemistry Building—home of such wisdom and learning—
I am glad that the scientists there are not perverting God's laws and compounding poison gas with its horrors.—*

*—As I see the old sights again, friend,
—as I catch the spell of the Campus
—my heart again burns with the spirit
—the old spirit heightened by absence.—*

—I have seen the Marne and Somme, the Aisne and River Meuse, but the dear old winding Cedar is the fairest of them all.—

—I crawled through the forest of Argonne where cruel death stalked close at hand, but give me the walks by the Cedar—toward Pinetum, down Lovers' Lane.—

—Shade and shadow—vaguely mysterious—symbol of life's checkered path. New light also is flooding into my soul—where remembrances through tumultuous—and college—and life—have new meaning.—

—Old Pal, what a thrill of joy to see that banner wave. Though the stars in our Service Flag are uncounted, those in Old Glory are safe.—My heart is full—full of joy, of pride, and of strange emotions—I fear 'tis too full for expression, so good-bye, old Pal, good-bye.

"The Agricultural College can best promote Public Welfare by training men and women for social and vocational leadership—the foundation of which lies in possession of integrity of thought and purpose, ability to reason keenly and base that reasoning upon fundamental and well grounded principles."—Jordan.

Lord Bacon truly says that there are three things which make a nation great and prosperous—a fertile soil, busy workshops and easy conveyance of men and commodities. A proper balance among the three factors enumerated has enabled the United States, within the last century, to develop her agriculture to great proportions, with a rapidity unparalleled in the history of the world. This country has just furnished the world with an illustration of her patriotism and agricultural greatness in the self-denial and saving by all her people and in greatly increased food production, that our own and allied armies and starving peoples of other countries might be fed. And now, with the cessation of hostilities, the establishment of peace and law and order throughout the world is in part dependent on the American food supplies.

The special demands of the war period have led to an unbalancing of our normal systems of agricultural production, endangering the maintenance of our soil fertility, which results in an unprecedented demand for the immediate application of educational and investigational factors in directing the readjustment along the safest lines. As the special demands upon American Agricultural Colleges during the war demanded training bearing directly on military activities, both agricultural education and investigation suffered a severe curtailment. Considering the present status of the world's general political, industrial and economic conditions, there probably never has been a period in our history when more enormous demands of great importance confront the agricultural educator and producer than at present.

Engineering: The art of organizing and directing men and of controlling the forces and materials of nature for the benefit of the human race.

Good physique and health, clean morals and good manners, acute senses and an alert mind, a cheerful disposition and a kindly heart, common sense and a sense of humor are the essential characteristics of a young man who aspires to be a success in any profession and as a useful citizen.

The engineering profession wants men of this type who have the natural aptitude for engineering work and who are willing to undergo the long training—technical and practical—necessary to secure recognition and responsibility.

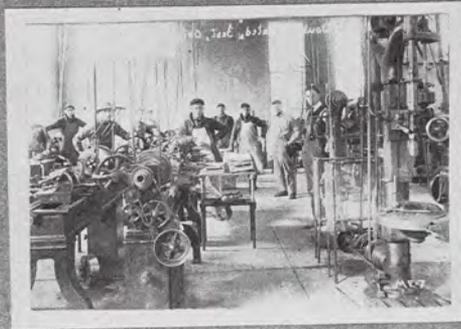

The technical training is usually obtained in a college or university during a four-year period following high school and equips the young man with some fundamental knowledge of the sciences, some skill in handling instruments and making computations, and some useful information, but is chiefly valuable in imposing the habit of observation and thought necessary in solving the problems of practical experience, and in the inspiration of intellectual mass action and team-work.

The practical training follows the college course and is frequently a lonesome and tedious experience. The outcome is reasonably certain however to the young man who is purposeful and masterful, and who surrounds his daily tasks with a vision of achievement still ahead. This vision he will create and foster with his human relations and ultimately he and his brother engineers will find themselves honored as members of a great profession, great because useful, "a benefit to the human race."

Home Economics involves the carefulness and inventiveness and watchfulness and readiness of appliance. It means the economy of your grandmother, and the science of the modern chemists. It means, in fine, that you are to be perfect and always ladies, and to see that everyone has something to eat and wear.
—Ruskin.

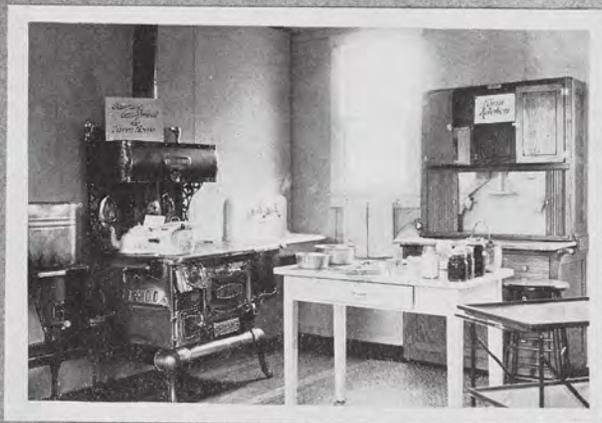

It has been truthfully said that Home Economics includes all these subjects which relate to the art of right living in the home and the community.

A study of these subjects should develop each young woman as an individual and as a member of society. It should give her information along scientific, economic and artistic lines; develop her memory and reason, give her accuracy and breadth of vision, skill of hand and the spirit of unselfish service. It should help her to live more efficiently, more helpfully and more happily in the professional world or as the director of her own home.

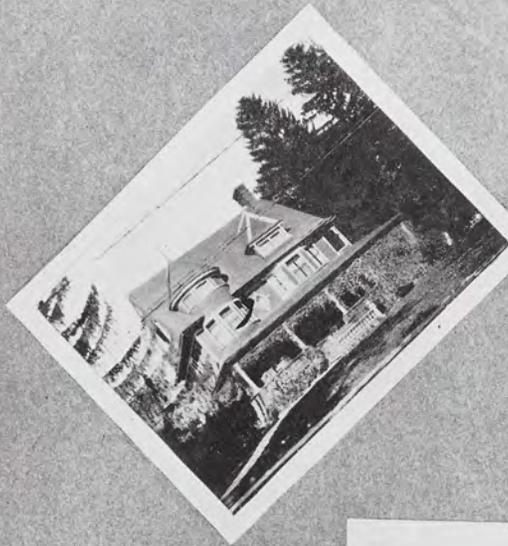

Many opportunities are open to the graduate in the teaching field, both in the regular schools and in the technical schools. Extension work offers a new and interesting field. The need and value of the trained dietitian was proved during the period of the war. Women have also had some opportunity to show what they could do in the trade and commercial world. There is more and more demand for the woman with skill in selecting and planning of clothing and interior furnishings.

There is always a place for the woman who can prove herself worthy of the responsibilities and privileges of the profession of homekeeping, whether it be in the institution or her own private household.

VETERINARY.

This, the youngest of the fully established four-year courses offered at the Michigan Agricultural College, aims to equip the student, in the broadest sense, as a graduate veterinarian and render him competent to enter upon the work of one or another of many fields of usefulness and public service.

The livestock investment within the state, aggregating a figure approximating if, indeed, not exceeding $200,000,000, affords a tangible claim to the importance of training men competent to deal with problems incident to the cure and prevention of animal disease. Besides a ready compensation in general practice, men trained in an institution of this type, where diversified and resources abound, find a constant demand for their services in investigation and research work; as teachers; in commercial life with biologic laboratories and pharmaceutical houses; and as farm managers. Moreover, graduates of this course in veterinary science are eligible and have proven themselves adequately qualified to take the competitive examination for appointment as inspectors in the work of the Bureau of Animal Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, for appointment to veterinary service in the United States Veterinary Corps, and for the municipal control work.

BATTALION REVIEW

FORMAL INDUCTION

Memories

On October 1, 1918, the Students' Army Training Corps was organized in practically every college and university in the United States. This branch of the Service was the outcome of a meeting of military men and educators held at Chicago during the last week of August. The whole organization was under the supervision of the Committee on Education and Special Training at Washington. The main object of the S. A. T. C. was not to give the men an education at the expense of the Government, but was to give the military authorities an opportunity to pick men for the various Officers' Training Camps. The training Detachments which had been established in many of the technical schools throughout the country were made a part of the S. A. T. C. and designated as "Section B."

At M. A. C. only the Auto Mechanics were organized to receive the formal induction into the S. A. T. C. on October 1st. Most of the Collegiate or Section A men had either been late in arriving or were awaiting their induction papers. Soon after the first of the month the other companies were organized and on the sixth, uniforms were issued to the men. There were very few "fits," and still fewer Army hats, but we were lucky to get as much as we did.

On the second day, all were put under quarantine while the Medical Department began its much dreaded processes of vaccinations and inoculations. When the Company Sick Lists began to grow and the men began to appear at the back door of the Infirmary at all hours of the day suffering with fever, coughs, and colds, the scarifier and the hypodermic syringe were suddenly thrown aside and the white mask and robe were donned, for the dreaded influenza was making itself felt in camp. Classroom work, which had been begun during the first week, was entirely forgotten and the fight to save lives was begun. Eight barracks which had been erected for the use of the men, were made ready for use as hospitals, the more serious cases being taken care of in the four small cottages which in peace times were used as hospital wards for contagious cases.

Each company took its turn at guard duty, and this required practically every able bodied man in the company. Under the efficient leadership of Capt. Wm. E. Murchie, Commanding Officer, and Capt. John M. Henderson, of the Medical Corps, the epidemic was finally checked though not until seventeen had paid the great price. Too much praise cannot be given to the Lansing and the East Lansing units of the Red Cross, whose members worked night and day to supply equipment for the use of the men.

As soon as the men were convalescent they were sent to the barracks of the State Troops, located about a mile from the College. Here the men were fed by Jake and otherwise well cared for, the Red Cross continuing its good work by providing the men with sweaters, books, magazines, and all sorts of good things to eat. About this time, or to be exact, on October 26th, Captain Murchie received his Major's Commission and on the evening of the 31st the whole post turned out to celebrate with the Major. That evening will always be remembered by the men, not alone for the pleasure of greeting the Major, but also because the welcome announcement that the quarantine would soon be lifted, was made.

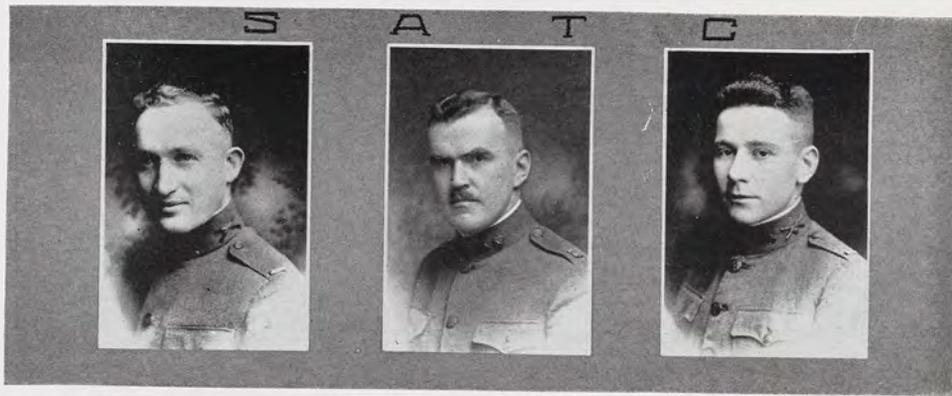

Classes which had for so long been forgotten, were resumed on November fourth. When the quarantine was finally raised on the seventh, it was an excited gang that visited East Lansing for the first time in five weeks. Passes were issued and some of the men were examined for Officers' training camps. An artillery major from Camp Taylor appeared in camp and after talking to the men who had been assembled for the occasion began his private "examinations" on what seemed to be any and every subject with the exception of military. He seemed very serious, but he must have enjoyed a good laugh after every interview.

About two o'clock on Thursday afternoon, November seventh, the whistles in Lansing and at the College began to blow and there was much excitement in camp. It was reported that an armistice had been signed. The companies were all assembled on the drill field south of the Athletic Field and reviewed by Major Murchie and Major Byer, the officer from Camp Taylor. The report of coming of peace proved to be premature and when the whistles awakened us at five o'clock Monday morning, there was scarcely a stir in Camp, and classes were conscientiously attended throughout the day. The report that the Armistice was signed and was to take effect at noon that day, was found to be true. The men hardly knew whether to be glad or sorry but when we had considered those who had gone "over there" no one could feel sorry that the conflict was ended. There was disappointment, however, at losing the chance to help.

A number of men had been sent from here to the officers' camps on the 11th and 12th of October. Others had been assigned to camps, and some were ordered back to M. A. C. after having boarded the train which was to have taken them to Camp Taylor. All that was left for consideration was the subject of discharge. Classes were attended a little more regularly. The bayonet drills lost their punch, the pass was found to be a little more easily obtainable. Even the officers seemed to hate the discipline which had to be maintained until the last Discharge had been handed out on the 21st of December. From all reports, the companies at M. A. C. fared a great deal better than did those at many of the other schools. The men were fairly well equipped and were well fed, as Army grub goes. While the army experience of a great many of the men began and ended at M. A. C., a unique experience that will not soon be forgotten, a large number of the men returned to attend college, and many more are sure to have felt the spirit of M. A. C. and will hear her call to prepare themselves for greater achievements.

P. F. BRIDGES, 1st Lt. Inf., U. S. A.....Terre Haute, Indiana

 J. J. McROBERTS, 2nd Lt. Inf., U. S. A.....Decatur, Illinois

Companies A and B were composed of men in the Auto-Mechanics' Course of the Army School, which was established at M. A. C. May 15, 1918. These companies constituted Section B of the Students' Army Training School, and belonged to the Third Detachment of Mechanics who have been trained here by the Government. Each Detachment was to remain eight weeks, after which the men were classified and sent to Army Camps for further military training or to await transportation overseas. The Third Detachment came here the middle of September and was under quarantine when the other S. A. T. C. companies were organized, thus being required to stand the strain two weeks longer than the rest, and being deprived of the "pleasure" of receiving more military work in a cantonment, due to the signing of the armistice.

The men of the Army School entered all of the camp activities, especially athletics. When the call for football material was issued, they produced some men who helped make the M. A. C. team one of the best in the Middle West. Companies C, D, and E couldn't furnish anyone willing to match his strength and science against Butcher of Co. A, so the same company produced Forner, who was equally as good, to amuse the "gang."

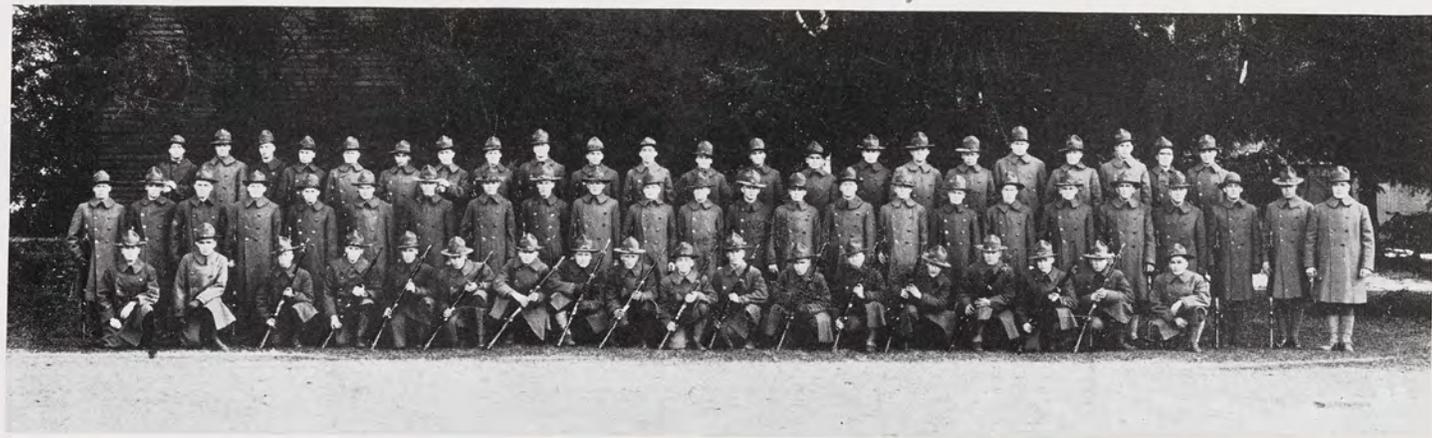

The picture shows that Company B was at home in the social as well as in the athletic world. They had also a banquet in Lansing, and combined with Co. A in giving a party in the College Armory.

There is no doubt but that the experience with the Army School at M. A. C. has led those in authority to see the value of vocational training in the technical schools. There is now a plan under consideration for the establishment of vocational courses at M. A. C., a plan having its conception in the Army Schools which proved to be so successful in accomplishing the purposes for which they were established.

COMPANY C

FISKE

CLEARY

S. L. FISKE, Capt. Ind. U. S. A.....State Constabulary, East Lansing, Michigan
J. A. KINNEAR, 2nd Lt. Inf., U. S. A.
E. E. MCQUILLEN, 2nd Lt. Inf., U. S. A.....Texas A. & M. College, College Station, Texas
O. J. CLEARY, 2nd Lt. Inf., U. S. A.....Ypsilanti, Michigan

The first hundred men reporting for induction into the Students' Army Training Corps were assigned to Company C, and in the forenoon of October 1st were sworn into the Military Service of the United States, being the only men in the scholastic section of the S. A. T. C. who were thus bound to Service.

Shortly after taking this first step in Army life, the men were assigned to squad rooms in Well's Hall and on the fourth floor of the Engineering Building. Those who were lucky drew cots, mattresses, and blankets, the rest learned to sleep on an Army cot later.

As soon as sufficient men had arrived, the Company was organized under the able supervision of Lieutenant Fiske with Hans Keydel as First Sergeant. With the transfer of the Naval Unit to S. A. T. C. jurisdiction, Company C's muster roll contained 287 names.

About a week after the organization of the Company, practically all its non-coms were sent to Officers' Training School at Waco, Texas, and company reorganization was necessary. Also at this time the M. A. C. students in the Engineer and Medical Enlisted Reserve Corps were transferred to Company C, just in time to be quarantined with the rest of the detachment in the strict "flu" quarantine, a period which can bring but one pleasant memory; the memory of classes missed—a period which was alike distasteful to those who suffered in the hospitals and those who did extra duty in company and hospital details.

With the resumption of drills and the raising of the quarantine, Co. C revived in spirit and pep which showed up in the parades and reviews; and then when the armistice was signed and we were told that we would be discharged sometime before the last of June, the letters S. A. T. C. took on the new meaning, "Stick around till Christmas."

While stickin' 'round, several pleasant evenings were enjoyed. The banquet at the Lansing Chamber of Commerce can scarcely be described, but it had a close rival in the Well's mess hall feed which followed it.

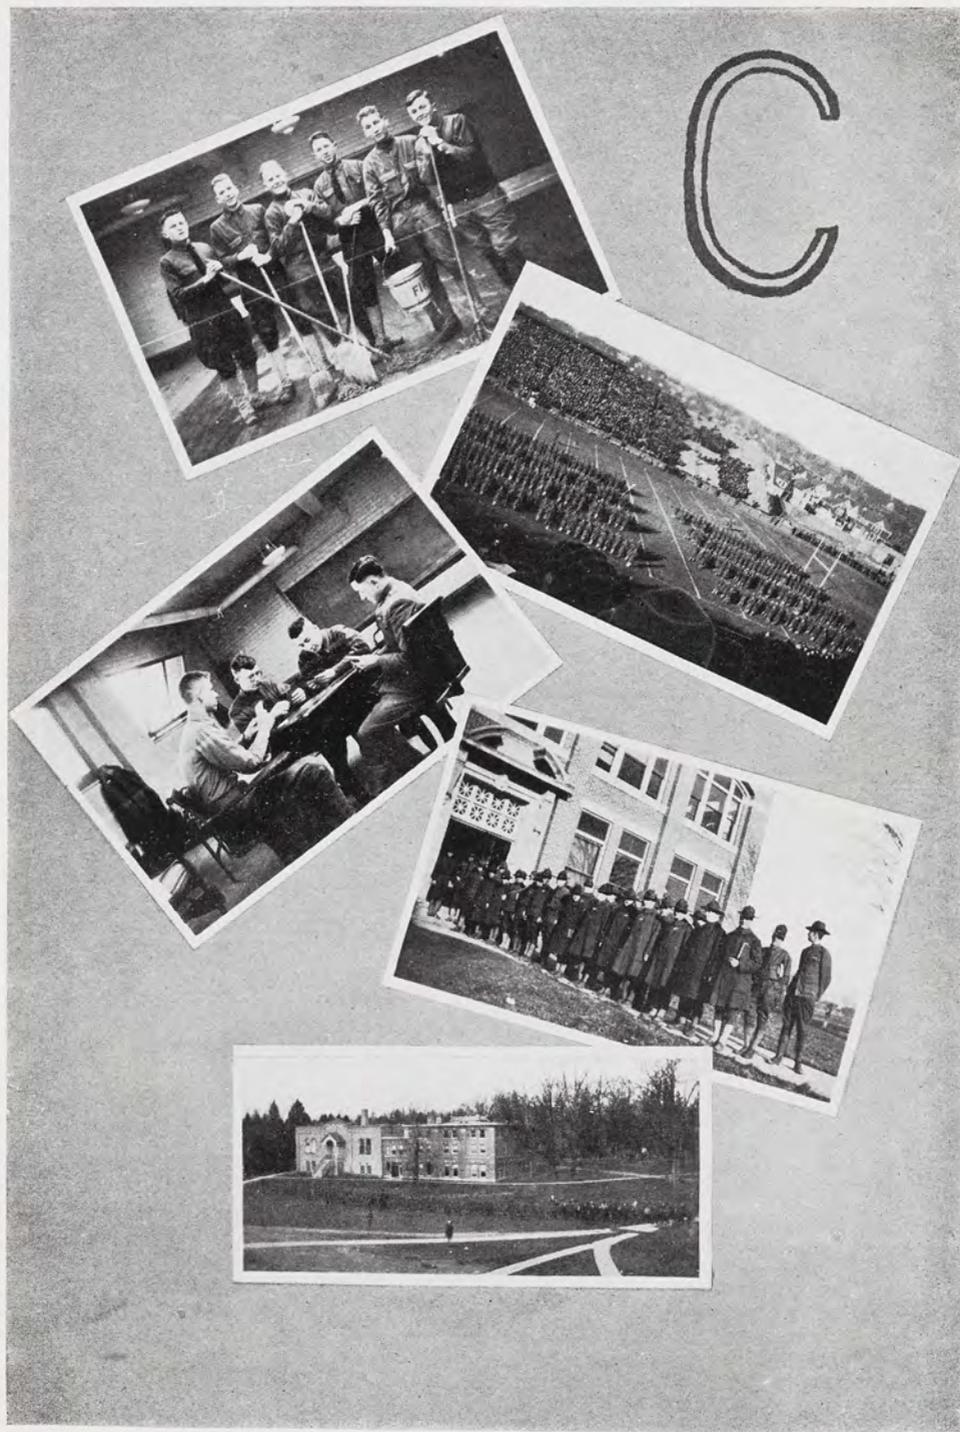

Company C, although the first company formed was the last to be disbanded, and the best all the time. Again we hear, "What is Company C made of?" and again listen to the answer,

"DYNAMITE!!!!!!"

Navy Warfare at M. A. C.

In Ward C, Wells Hall were quartered last fall fifty-three men who were in the Naval Unit of the S. A. T. C. Although the gobs were out of luck from the start, they certainly showed a game spirit and were perhaps the most prominent in backing college activities during their stay. One look at the roster will convince you that they had enough material to start a war all of their own, which they did. With the aid of the fighting "Vets" (led by Doc Kreuger) and of Companies A and B (composed of mechanics), the John Paul Joneses raised enough noise to cause any officer to call out the guard. The calling out of the guard only happened once when the Company E officer went to the rescue of one of his sergeants who was being reformed by the hard-boiled sailors. This happened during the mustering out of the S. A. T. C.

The unit upon this occasion was confined to quarters so as to give a few of the spotted men time to catch a car for home.

The unit was under command of the army officers until the latter part of their stay when Ensign Frees took charge. Under Ensign Frees men were given more freedom than before. They gave a dance at the Masonic Temple, Shook's Orchestra from Detroit furnishing the music. They were the last unit to leave M. A. C.

Company D was organized on October 2nd from the men who were first to arrive or were first to get their induction papers from their local boards. They were not only first here but came with a purpose which they showed by the way in which they entered into all activities.

Those men who were inducted first had the opportunity of dragging a cot, mattress, and blankets up the four flights of the Agricultural Building, knowing all the time that there was an elevator which was in good running condition, for it was frequently used by the various officers at times when they didn't have anything to carry either.

As Russell Burr put it, "the next day the non-coms were chosen by lottery, Lieut. Colville picking out the lucky numbers." The work of drilling was now begun, and in a few days our swift Supply Sergeant of the Home Guards began to issue some uniforms, after the other companies had had their pick. Several men from the company were sent to Officers' Training Camp on the 11th (the worst men in the Company), and we had an ideal bunch left. Five men from the Company gave their lives during the "flu" epidemic. Those who were not sick stood guard faithfully and took their turn at hospital duty.

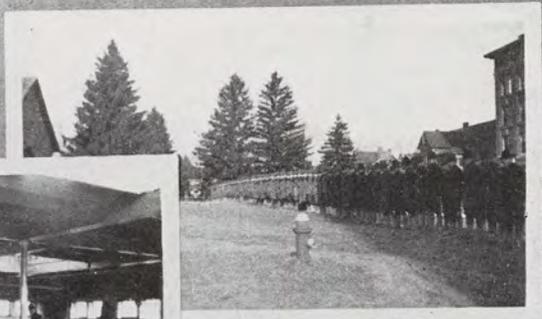

At the boxing and wrestling matches, Spencer's proteges got results. The company produced some "real stuff," as shown by the final bouts.

Did you say that Company D had some party? There was never a function given to equal the grand Military Ball given by Company D, in Agricultural Hall on December 6th. Even Captain Fiske advised his company not to try to give a party as it couldn't possibly equal ours. And after that banquet at the Masonic Temple on December 19th, it is small wonder that Company D is so well represented on the campus now that regular school has been resumed.

GENERAL REVIEW OF ATHLETICS 1918-1919

Since that memorable football team of 1917 made its record of unbroken defeats, to which we point with pride as evidence of M. A. C.'s sacrifices and loyalty, the history of athletics has been one of a struggle for existence. At times it seemed that intercollegiate competition must be abandoned and even intramural sports given up. But despite the seemingly overwhelming handicaps, athletics were not forsaken and managed to tide over the trying period.

In the spring of 1918, despite the fact that men were leaving for training camps and officers' schools in increasing numbers, Coach Brewer managed to build up a baseball team that went through the season with the splendid record of seven victories and five defeats. Track was hard hit, but despite this, the team won the Michigan Intercollegiate Championship. Cross-country was abandoned entirely. One of the hardest blows of the year was felt when Coach Brewer left to take charge of athletic work in the Southern Department.

With the fall came the crisis in athletics. Confronted by an almost hopeless outlook, football seemed doomed. But the establishment of the S. A. T. C. made possible one of the best teams that M. A. C. ever had, despite the fact that they won but one out of their four major games.

Then came peace and now the period of reconstruction. Basketball was the first to show the early effects of the new state of affairs. Although still somewhat handicapped by a lack of material, the team went through the season with a record of eight victories and seven defeats.

But varsity sports are not the only ones to feel the effects of the reconstruction. The new year brought with it the return of Coach Brewer to his old post as Director of Athletics. Extensive plans for the development of intramural athletics have been set on foot, and even at this early stage give promise of much success.

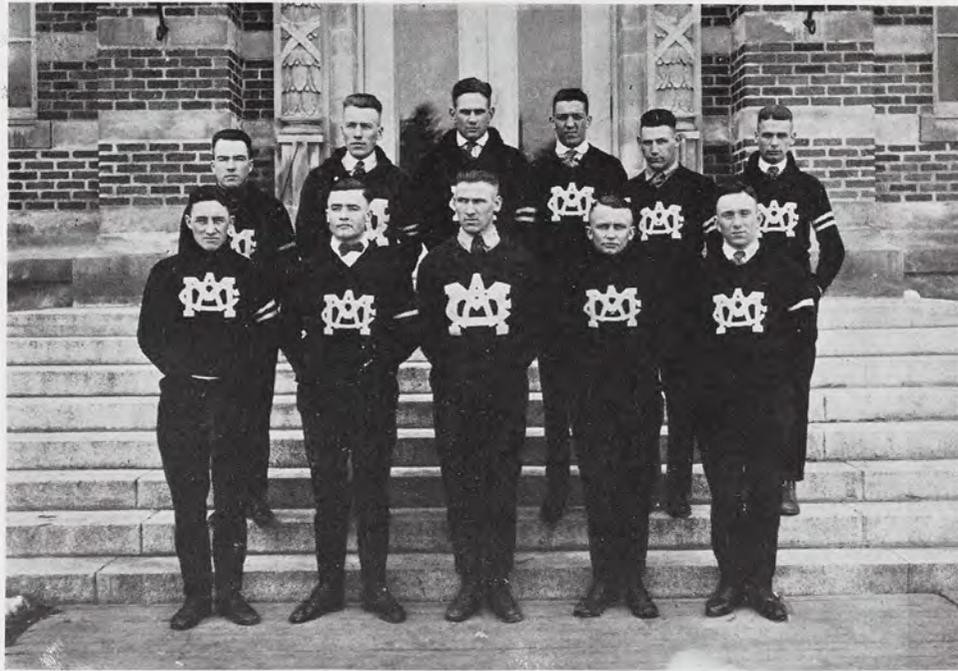

The facilities offered by the new gymnasium afforded splendid advantages toward the development of interclass and intersociety athletics. A series of intersociety competition was carried out in basketball, indoor baseball, volley ball and track, while interclass competition was held in basketball, boxing, wrestling, swimming, and track.

The intramural activities wound up in a blaze of glory in the Athletic Carnival staged in the gymnasium on March 15th, when the finals in all interclass and intersociety events were held. The interclass swimming meet held at this time was a huge success and brought out some excellent material for a varsity team. It is hoped that swimming will soon have its place as a varsity sport.

At the same time were inaugurated the girls' intersociety relay races, in which the honors of the respective girls' societies were upheld by a quartet of knights selected by each society. This feature met with approval on all sides and it is hoped that it will become an annual event.

The feeling of reconstruction extended not only to the student body but also to the faculty, and competition in various sports was held all winter among teams selected from the faculty.

With the coming year we expect to reap the full benefit of the athletic readjustment. The future is bright in all branches of athletics, particularly in varsity sports, and successful seasons are looked forward to for all of next year's teams.

CHESTER L. BREWER

Chester Leland Brewer, Director of Physical Education, broadened his already wide field of experience during the past year by lending his services to the Government during the closing months of the war. From July 1918 until February 1919 Mr. Brewer was Director of Recreational Activities for the Southern Department of the United States Army, operating under the War Department commission on training camp activities. This was a continuation of work started in the summer of 1917, when Mr. Brewer spent three months in organizing the plan of camp recreational work for the War Department. His duties as recreational director included executive supervision of all camp entertainments, as well as of the physical training itself. From his headquarters at San Antonio, Texas, Director Brewer looked after the health and welfare of nearly four hundred thousand men.

In returning to take up his work at M. A. C. Mr. Brewer gave up opportunities to take an active part in the reconstruction program of the Government, believing that greater work lay ahead of him in the college field. He was urged by the War Department to accept a position as Divisional Athletic Director in France, and also to take a leading part in the Physical Education Service, by means of which the War Department expects to introduce compulsory physical training throughout the country.

M. A. C. people are proud of the national recognition which has been accorded their Athletic Director. Mr. Brewer holds many positions of honor in the collegiate world, being a member of the American Athletic Research Society; The American Physical Education Association; the Directors of Physical Training in American Colleges; the Playground and Recreation Association of America; and the committee on rules of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Athletic Board of Control

The Athletic Board of Control first came into existence in June 1915, when the need of such a body, to help in the carrying out of matters related to athletics was keenly felt. The purpose of this board is to act, in conjunction with the heads of the athletic department; in passing on all financial obligations, in assisting in arranging the schedules, and in promoting athletics at M. A. C. to their highest standard and efficiency. The Athletic Board of Control has become an important factor in the control of athletics at M. A. C.

MICHIGAN AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE MILITARY BAND

Under the leadership of Professor Clark, the band is rapidly regaining the spirit which made the organization known throughout the country. Upon demobilization of the S. A. T. C. unit at the college, the band was reorganized with about twenty-five members.

The work was handicapped during the winter term by the poor acoustic properties of the band room in the gymnasium. Notwithstanding this the band appeared creditably at many student gatherings, presented one Sunday afternoon concert in the armory and a concert to the legislature at the capitol.

At the opening of the spring term, the band moved into its new quarters at the armory. This term promises to be a very busy one for the band in boosting M. A. C in all its activities.

John grasped the opportunity to make the Varsity in his Freshman year, and made the most of it. Bos played a hard, consistent game at tackle, and the Aggies are indeed fortunate that John has three more years on the gridiron.

ED. JOHNS

Ed. was confined to the hospital during the early part of the fall, and consequently he started rather late. However he soon proved his worth at a guard position, where he played a strong, dependable game throughout the remainder of the season.

HERB. DUNPHY

Herb. came to M. A. C. with a good football reputation, and immediately took advantage of the opportunity to make the team his first year out. He played his best game at front half in the "Battle of the Mud" when we outfought Notre Dame. After his year's experience he should make a fine record next season.

When it comes down to pure fighting spirit and grit, Siwash takes the prize. In the hard-fought battle with Notre Dame, he had the misfortune to dislocate his collarbone, but, nevertheless, he finished the rest of the season, though handicapped by the use of a shoulder brace. As captain of next year's veteran team, Siwash should finish his gridiron career in a blaze of glory.

"SHORTY" SNIDER

Last fall, Shorty played his second year in the backfield. His natural speed and ability made him a great ground gainer, and a player who was feared and respected by his opponents. Shorty has one more year on the football field, and we can expect great things from him next Fall.

DICK VAN ORDEN

Van was a graduate from the All-Fresh team of the previous year. He immediately stepped into a place on the Varsity and made good. At guard, he played a strong, consistent game. After his year of experience, he should be of great value in building up next year's team.

JACK SCHWEI

Opposing teams soon learned that it was impossible to gain around Jack's end. Time after time he smashed up their end runs. Jack was also very fast and the opposing team very seldom gained much ground in running back punts. Jack will also be back next year to help produce the best team M. A. C. ever had.

HARRY GRAVES

Notre Dame still remembers how Harry used his "tank" methods on them and smashed through their entire team for the touchdown that won the game for the Aggies. Graves has weight, speed and natural ability and in another year ought to become a fullback of wide reputation.

DEANER FERRIS

Our diminutive general struck terror into the hearts of our opponents by his brilliant open field running and his accurate passing. His generalship was very good and the team worked nicely under his direction. Ferris is to be congratulated on his splendid work with a new team.

ED. YOUNG

Although Young started the season rather slowly, by hard and faithful work he developed rapidly and played a very acceptable game at end. He was very good on defense, but was especially clever at catching long forward passes.

The 1918 Football Season

The football season of 1918 brought forth one of the best teams that M. A. C. has ever had, and yet, paradoxical as it may seem, a team that won but one out of four major games.

In the fall of 1918, in the absence of Director Brewer, the destiny of football at M. A. C. was placed in the hands of Coach Gauthier. The outlook was far from bright. The call for candidates found but four monogram men available as a nucleus for the team, together with a limited amount of inexperienced material. The organization of the S. A. T. C. brought several good men of varsity calibre, but the military regulations made necessary by this organization placed both coaches and players under a decided handicap. Upon this rather uncertain basis, Coach Gauthier set out to build his machine, with results that more than justify the reputation that the Aggie mentor has built up for himself in past years. From a humble beginning, due to the ravages of the war, a formidable eleven was moulded.

In the opening games both Albion and Hillsdale fell victim to the Aggie machine, by 21 to 6 and 66 to 6 scores respectively. Then came the "flu" epidemic. After three weeks of sickness and inaction the ban was lifted, and Western State Normal was taken into camp by a count of 16 to 7.

The Purdue game, the following week, although spelling defeat for the Aggies, brought out the true calibre of the team. Although losing by a score of 6 to 14, the Farmers outplayed the Hoosiers in every department of the game, rushing the ball for ten first downs as compared with two for Purdue. Over-anxiety, with attendant fumbling, resulted in defeat for M. A. C.

In a sea of mud, M. A. C. laid claim to recognition by vanquishing Notre Dame, the following week, by a score of 13 to 7. Playing against a team that held the undefeated Great Lakes eleven to a 7 to 7 score and overwhelmed Purdue 26 to 0, the Aggies overcame the Catholics' lead in the second half, and battered their way to victory in a game marked by but little fumbling and devoid of flukes.

Next came the long-awaited Michigan game. Out-played, but game to the last, the Farmers lost 6 to 21. It was the second quarter that spelled defeat for the Aggies, Michigan counting two touchdowns in quick succession in this period. Not until the final quarter did M. A. C. manage to cope with the situation and get the better of the argument. In this period, the Aggies scored their sole touchdown after a wonderful display of forward passing.

On Thanksgiving Day, the team journeyed to Madison for the final game of the season, with Wisconsin. In a field of slush, the Aggies had the game won until the last few minutes, when the Badgers nosed them out 6 to 7, despite the fact that the Farmers showed more fleetness in the backfield and a stronger line than their opponents.

The return, next fall, of practically every member of this year's team and the addition of a number of veterans of former years, who will be released from service, giving promise of a highly successful season in 1919.

CHESTER L. BREWER

Chester Leland Brewer, Director of Physical Education, broadened his already wide field of experience during the past year by lending his services to the Government during the closing months of the war. From July 1918 until February 1919 Mr. Brewer was Director of Recreational Activities for the Southern Department of the United States Army, operating under the War Department commission on training camp activities. This was a continuation of work started in the summer of 1917, when Mr. Brewer spent three months in organizing the plan of camp recreational work for the War Department. His duties as recreational director included executive supervision of all camp entertainments, as well as of the physical training itself. From his headquarters at San Antonio, Texas, Director Brewer looked after the health and welfare of nearly four hundred thousand men.

In returning to take up his work at M. A. C. Mr. Brewer gave up opportunities to take an active part in the reconstruction program of the Government, believing that greater work lay ahead of him in the college field. He was urged by the War Department to accept a position as Divisional Athletic Director in France, and also to take a leading part in the Physical Education Service, by means of which the War Department expects to introduce compulsory physical training throughout the country.

M. A. C. people are proud of the national recognition which has been accorded their Athletic Director. Mr. Brewer holds many positions of honor in the collegiate world, being a member of the American Athletic Research Society; The American Physical Education Association; the Directors of Physical Training in American Colleges; the Playground and Recreation Association of America; and the committee on rules of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

GENERAL REVIEW OF ATHLETICS 1918-1919

Since that memorable football team of 1917 made its record of unbroken defeats, to which we point with pride as evidence of M. A. C.'s sacrifices and loyalty, the history of athletics has been one of a struggle for existence. At times it seemed that intercollegiate competition must be abandoned and even intramural sports given up. But despite the seemingly overwhelming handicaps, athletics were not forsaken and managed to tide over the trying period.

In the spring of 1918, despite the fact that men were leaving for training camps and officers' schools in increasing numbers, Coach Brewer managed to build up a baseball team that went through the season with the splendid record of seven victories and five defeats. Track was hard hit, but despite this, the team won the Michigan Intercollegiate Championship. Cross-country was abandoned entirely. One of the hardest blows of the year was felt when Coach Brewer left to take charge of athletic work in the Southern Department.

With the fall came the crisis in athletics. Confronted by an almost hopeless outlook, football seemed doomed. But the establishment of the S. A. T. C. made possible one of the best teams that M. A. C. ever had, despite the fact that they won but one out of their four major games.

Then came peace and now the period of reconstruction. Basketball was the first to show the early effects of the new state of affairs. Although still somewhat handicapped by a lack of material, the team went through the season with a record of eight victories and seven defeats.

But varsity sports are not the only ones to feel the effects of the reconstruction. The new year brought with it the return of Coach Brewer to his old post as Director of Athletics. Extensive plans for the development of intramural athletics have been set on foot, and even at this early stage give promise of much success.

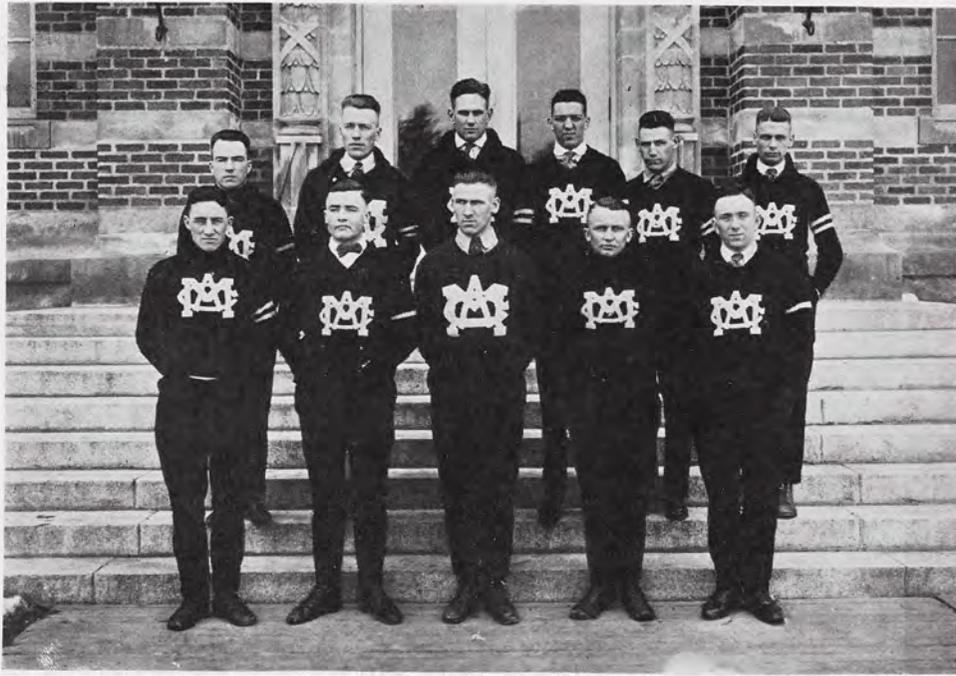

The facilities offered by the new gymnasium afforded splendid advantages toward the development of interclass and intersociety athletics. A series of intersociety competition was carried out in basketball, indoor baseball, volley ball and track, while interclass competition was held in basketball, boxing, wrestling, swimming, and track.

The intramural activities wound up in a blaze of glory in the Athletic Carnival staged in the gymnasium on March 15th, when the finals in all interclass and intersociety events were held. The interclass swimming meet held at this time was a huge success and brought out some excellent material for a varsity team. It is hoped that swimming will soon have its place as a varsity sport.

At the same time were inaugurated the girls' intersociety relay races, in which the honors of the respective girls' societies were upheld by a quartet of knights selected by each society. This feature met with approval on all sides and it is hoped that it will become an annual event.

The feeling of reconstruction extended not only to the student body but also to the faculty, and competition in various sports was held all winter among teams selected from the faculty.

With the coming year we expect to reap the full benefit of the athletic readjustment. The future is bright in all branches of athletics, particularly in varsity sports, and successful seasons are looked forward to for all of next year's teams.

The 1919 Basketball Season

The 1919 basketball season was one that in many respects was a decided success. Despite a late start and a dearth of offensive material, Coach Gauthier succeeded in building up a team that finished a strenuous season with a record of eight victories and seven defeats.

Due to the unusual conditions occasioned by the disbanding of the S. A. T. C., work was not begun in earnest until the first of the year. With three veterans as a nucleus, Coach Gauthier set out to build a winning team. His success may be seen by glancing at the season's results, which show that out of the first nine games played, seven resulted in Aggie victories.

The season opened at East Lansing with the Western State Normal game. The Teachers fought hard, but were beaten by a single point. Close on the heels of that came the Oberlin disaster and the Aggies returned from Ohio on the short end of a 24 to 14 score. Victories over Kalamazoo College, Western State Normal, and Camp Custer officers led up to the Indiana trip.

The first game of the trip was played against Wabash. Handicapped by a small floor, M. A. C. was beaten 28 to 19. Then came the DePauw and Notre Dame games, both of which resulted in well-won victories for the Aggies.

Revenge for the Wabash defeat came the following week, when the Boilermakers were royally entertained at East Lansing. The large floor proved their undoing and the score of 37 to 26 tells the tale.

Following the Wabash game, the team slumped badly, losing five out of the remaining six games. Hope won out 18 to 21, and then came DePauw, in search of revenge. Long-range shooting proved the Aggies undoing, and the game went to DePauw, 12 to 21.

Before the largest crowd that ever witnessed a basketball game at M. A. C., Michigan and the Aggies battled through ten minutes of extra play before the Wolverines managed to score the winning basket. The score of 17 to 19 does not tell the real tale of the game, for Michigan was outplayed throughout, the Aggie scoring machine failing when points were most needed.

Following on the heels of Michigan came Notre Dame. The game was a success from the Catholics' standpoint, for despite the fact that they were unable to score but a single basket in the second half, they nosed out the Aggies by a lone-some point.

The second Michigan game was without a doubt the best played game of the season. Offense and defense worked to perfection and the Farmers managed to secure a comfortable lead at the outset of the game. They were never headed, and the score of 33 to 24 tells the tale of sweet revenge.

The season ended with the Hope game, which was lost 20 to 26.

The credit for the Aggies' showing is due to the tireless efforts of Coach Gauthier. The wonderful teamwork and defense, that he developed, proved the undoing of many of M. A. C.'s opponents.

Not a man of this year's team is lost by graduation. With the addition of some excellent All-Fresh material and the return of several old men next fall, the season of 1920 promises to be a great success.

The 1919 Basketball Season

LARRY KURTZ

As Captain of this year's quintet, Larry was an important factor in the success of the team. His speed and shooting ability made him a guard who could be depended upon to cause any team unlimited worry, either on offense or defense. His faculty of finding the basket when points were most needed resulted in more than one Aggie victory.

AL GARRATT

Al finished a very successful second season at guard. He played a steady and consistent game, continually breaking up the opponents' plays, and occasionally tossing a basket when it was most needed. As Captain of next year's veteran team, Al should finish his activities on the court with a splendid record.

SHORTY SNIDER

Shorty was the third veteran about whom this year's team was built. Playing his first game of basketball last year, Shorty developed into a forward of no mean ability. His natural speed and gameness made him a dependable man on both offense and defense.

WAYNE PALM

Wayne started his basketball career at M. A. C. as a guard on last year's All-Fresh team. Due to the lack of offensive material he was given a trial at forward and made good. More than one team has reason to remember his accurate basket shooting. Ask Michigan.

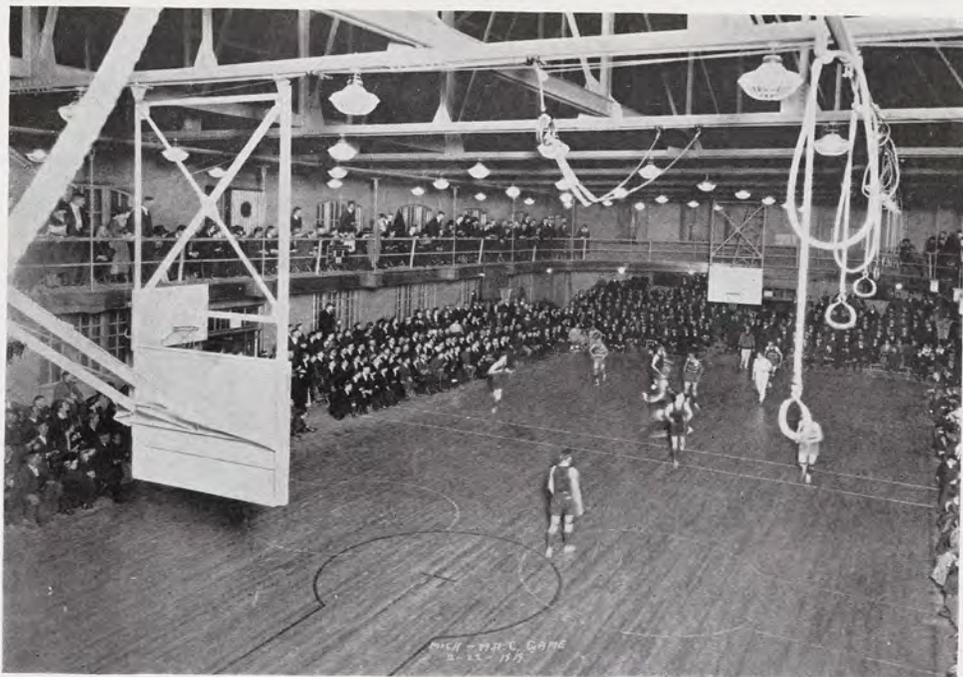

JACK FOSTER

Jack Foster was also a graduate of last year's All-Fresh team, and this year was first choice for the pivot position on the Varsity. His height and speed made him a star on both offense and defense. Big things are expected of Jack next year.

The 1918 Baseball Season

When the first balmy spring days of 1918 called out the candidates for the baseball team, Coach Brewer found upon taking inventory, that there was not an overabundance of material from which to make a team. Only three veterans, Capt. Demond, Hammes, and Mills being available. However, by the use of the veterans and several of the men who had played on the All-Fresh team the previous year, the Coach whipped together a team that made the 1918 baseball season a success, as we won seven and lost five games.

We started the season with a rush by taking Alma into camp by a 16-7 score. The following week we trampled over Olivet by a count of 9-3. The next day after a hard battle the Kalamazoo College game was placed on the right side of the record, the score being 6-4.

Our good fortune could not last forever and accordingly we dropped the next game to Michigan by a 12-2 score. In this game our new team made many costly errors, and these, together with heavy hitting on the part of Michigan, cost us the game.

The team came back strong the following Friday when it journeyed to Orchard Lake and placed the Polish Seminary on the short end of an 11-9 score. This was a fine feather in the Aggies' cap as we were the first college team to beat the Seminary on their own grounds. The victory was due to the heavy hitting of the entire team, and to Paul Donnelly's splendid pitching. The following day we played the Ypsilanti State Normal at Ypsilanti, and due to a strong attack of overconfidence we dropped the game 4-1.

The game with Notre Dame was lost in the ninth inning, when our opponents scored five runs and took the game which apparently should have gone to the Aggies.

We dropped the next game to Indiana University by a score of 8-3. The game was lost due to the loose playing of our own team and their inability to connect with the ball when hits meant runs.

After the Indiana game, there followed a three-day trip in which the Aggies covered themselves with glory. In the first game, we easily defeated the Kalamazoo College by a score of 10-8. The following day the Western State Normal was given a decisive beating by a score of 10-3. This was sweet revenge as we have not been very successful against the Western State Normal during recent years. The following day, the team whitewashed Notre Dame 4-0. We completely outclassed them in every way. "Frenchie" Demond pitched a wonderful game, holding the hard-hitting Irishmen to one scratch hit. This game proved conclusively that the Aggies had one of the best teams of the Middle West.

The last game of the season was played at Ann Arbor where we lost to the Conference Champions by a 5-2 score. The game was hard fought and featured by many thrilling plays, one especially when the Aggies completed a triple play in the first inning with the bases full and no one out.

The credit for the success of such a new team as ours goes to Coach Brewer. It was his guiding hand and quiet instruction that kept the team steady and dependable in many trying positions.

"FRENCHIE" DEMOND

Captain Frenchie Demond played his last and best year of baseball for M. A. C. Equally at home in the pitcher's box or in the outfield, he was especially reliable with the big stick, leading the team in hitting. His one hit game against Notre Dame was his best feat of pitching. We shall miss Frenchie on the diamond next year. So long "Cap." and good luck.

JOHN HAMMES

John was handicapped at the first of the year by being brought in from the outfield and placed in a new position at first. However he played the position in a reliable and steady manner. Next year John will be Captain of a team largely made up of veterans and he should have his biggest and best year on the baseball field.

GEORGE HAYES

Through hard and faithful work George made the team in his Senior year. His fielding was of the very best, and his accurate throws from the outfield cut off many runs at the plate. George made rapid progress throughout the season and his loss to the team next year will be keenly felt.

"RED" COLLINSON

The fellows will always remember Red for his light heartedness and good humor. He was the life of the party on trips. However Red could be serious while behind the bat, as he worked hard and played his difficult position in a very acceptable manner.

WARD ANDREWS

Andy was a star around the hot corner. His fielding was very good, but his hitting was even better as he walloped the ball for an average of .333. Andy is a clever third baseman and a fighter, in which capacities he will be of value in building up next year's team.

HOWARD PETERS

Howard came through in fine style, plugging the big hole left at short by the graduation of "Chi" Fick. No one on the team worked harder or more earnestly than did Pete, and we surely hope that he comes back to use the "big stick" in another "Spring Drive."

"JOHNNIE" JOHNSTON

A year's experience on the All-Fresh found Johnnie listed for a berth on the Varsity. Hard-hitting and heady, he was a valuable back-stop. Unfortunately a broken thumb in the Notre Dame game put him on the bench in midseason. We look to "Johnnie" for big things next year.

"SHORTY" SNIDER

Although Shorty was a clever outfielder, he took especial delight in walloping the ball in a lusty manner. As a result of a bad shoulder, Shorty's arm bothered him considerably, but, from the way that he has been showing up in other sports, we are sure that he will be a big asset on another year's team.

"LEFTY" DOSCHER

The team and the crowd always breathed a sigh of relief when they saw the ball soar out over left field, as they knew that "Dosch" never let them get by. Lefty is a natural baseball shark, and plays a good consistent game.

ORSON KELLOGG

Kelly has played his last game on the athletic field for M. A. C. The death of Orson Kellogg has taken from our college one of her most loyal sons. His bright and cheery ways will be missed both in the class room and on the athletic field. His loss will be keenly felt by all who knew him.

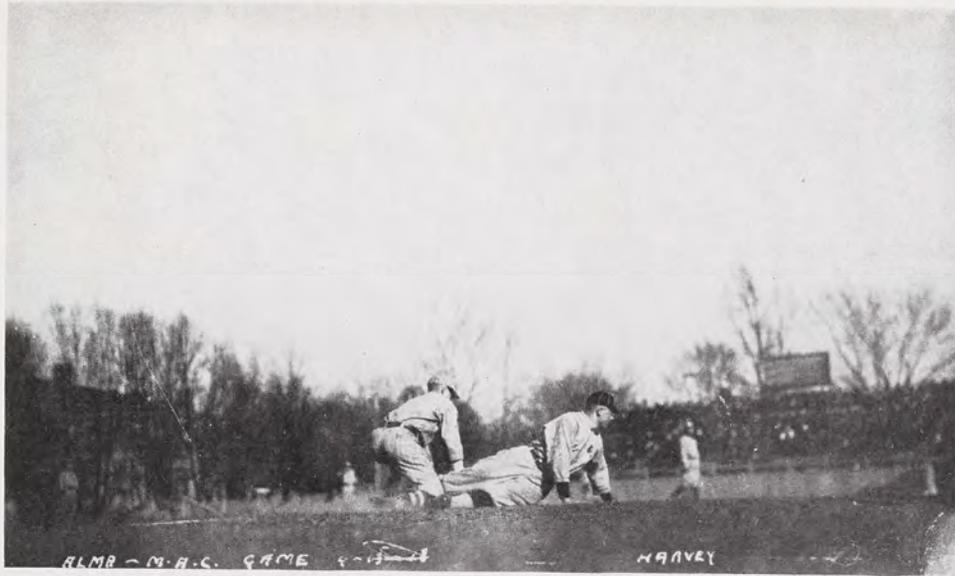

PAUL DONNELLY

We were indeed fortunate in having a dependable southpaw for a pitcher. Paul had a large assortment of puzzlers, which he knew how to use to the best advantage. No doubt the Polish Seminary will long remember his efficient work against them at Orchard Lake. Next year Paul should be at his best, and ought to make a splendid record.

GEORGE MILLS

George was handicapped during the first part of the year by being confined to the hospital. Consequently, it took him some time to get back into condition. However, near the end of the season, George was pitching in a very acceptable manner.

The 1918 tennis season was truly on a war basis. But two games were played, both with Ypsilanti Normal. The first resulted in an M. A. C. victory, 5-1; the second in a 3-3 tie.

During the summer an open tourney was held while the army school and the summer session were in progress. Honors in the singles went to Palm, and in the doubles to Nicholson and Young.

The M. A. C. Annual Carnival and Circus

The M. A. C. Annual Carnival and Circus held in the New Gymnasium, April 27th, 1918, was a huge success. It was a success financially and a success as far as enjoyment was concerned.

The various societies took inventory of their available talent, and each put on an entirely new and original stunt. Never before in the history of the institution had such an array of entertaining artists been gathered together.

The center of the floor was roped off and converted into a dance hall, and needless to say, under the capable management of Siwash, the floor was always crowded with dancers. Under the running track the various side shows were under full sway. Every type of show imaginable was there. The Follies, the Movies, and the Minstrel Shows, featuring noted campus artists, attracted large and appreciative audiences. Inviting places of refreshment were near at hand where anything from tea to ice cream could be obtained. Museums and Scientific Hospitals were attempting to enlighten the wondering college students. Games of chance were running wide open, and anyone in gambling mood could try his luck. The spectators were always in danger of being nabbed by the police and taken before the severe looking judge who usually imposed a substantial fine upon the prisoner for being there. At one booth—REVENGE. And here how lustily each young man soaked his favorite Prof. with all the strength of his good right arm, and then proudly he walked away with the little tag fastened to his coat which read, "I have soaked Prof. So-and-So. Have You?"

The fun continued until late into the evening when at last the students wended their way home, each with an empty pocket, but each much richer with the pleasant memory of an enjoyable and well-spent evening.

Baseball

The All-Fresh Baseball Team, owing to the conditions imposed by the war, was deprived of a regular schedule. In fact they played but one or two outside games. However their aid in developing the Varsity squad was invaluable. Some promising material was discovered among the yearlings, and they should aid materially in building up next year's Varsity team. The following men were awarded numerals.

Interclass Baseball

For the second time in as many years the Class of 1918 won the interclass baseball championship. The Seniors were close pressed by both the Sophomores and Freshmen, but they played consistent ball throughout the season and won the series quite handily. Their only defeat was administered by the Sophomores in an extra inning game, in which the final score stood 7 to 6.

Interscholastic Basketball Tournament

The first annual State Interscholastic Basketball Tournament was held at M. A. C., March 28-29, 1919. The entering teams were divided into two classes, according to the registration of the schools which they represented; those having a registration of over 400 being placed in Class A, those under 400 in Class B.

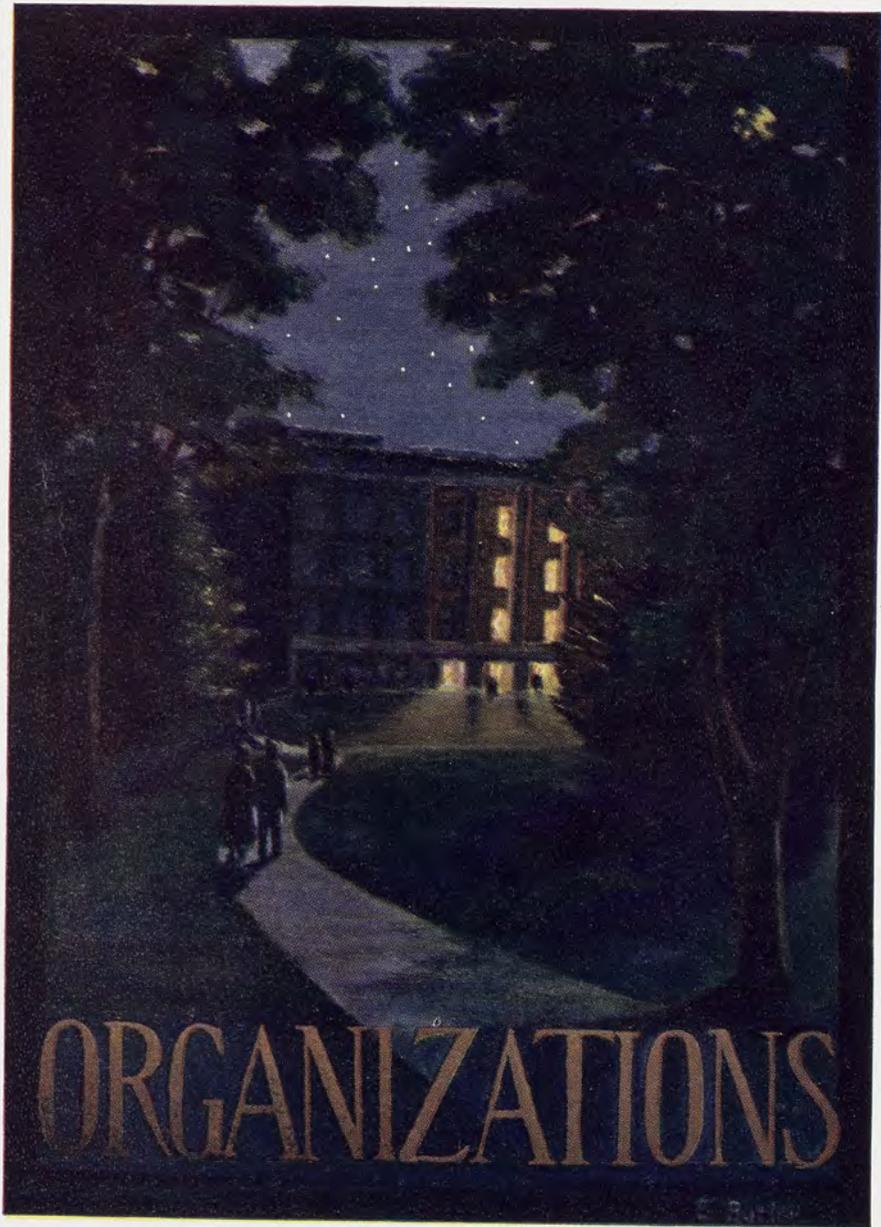

In Class A, Holland captured the honors from Detroit Northwestern, while in Class B, Cadillac won out over Greenville. In the consolation series in Class A, Battle Creek won out with Detroit Northern as runner-up, while in Class B, Chelsea beat out St. Mary's.

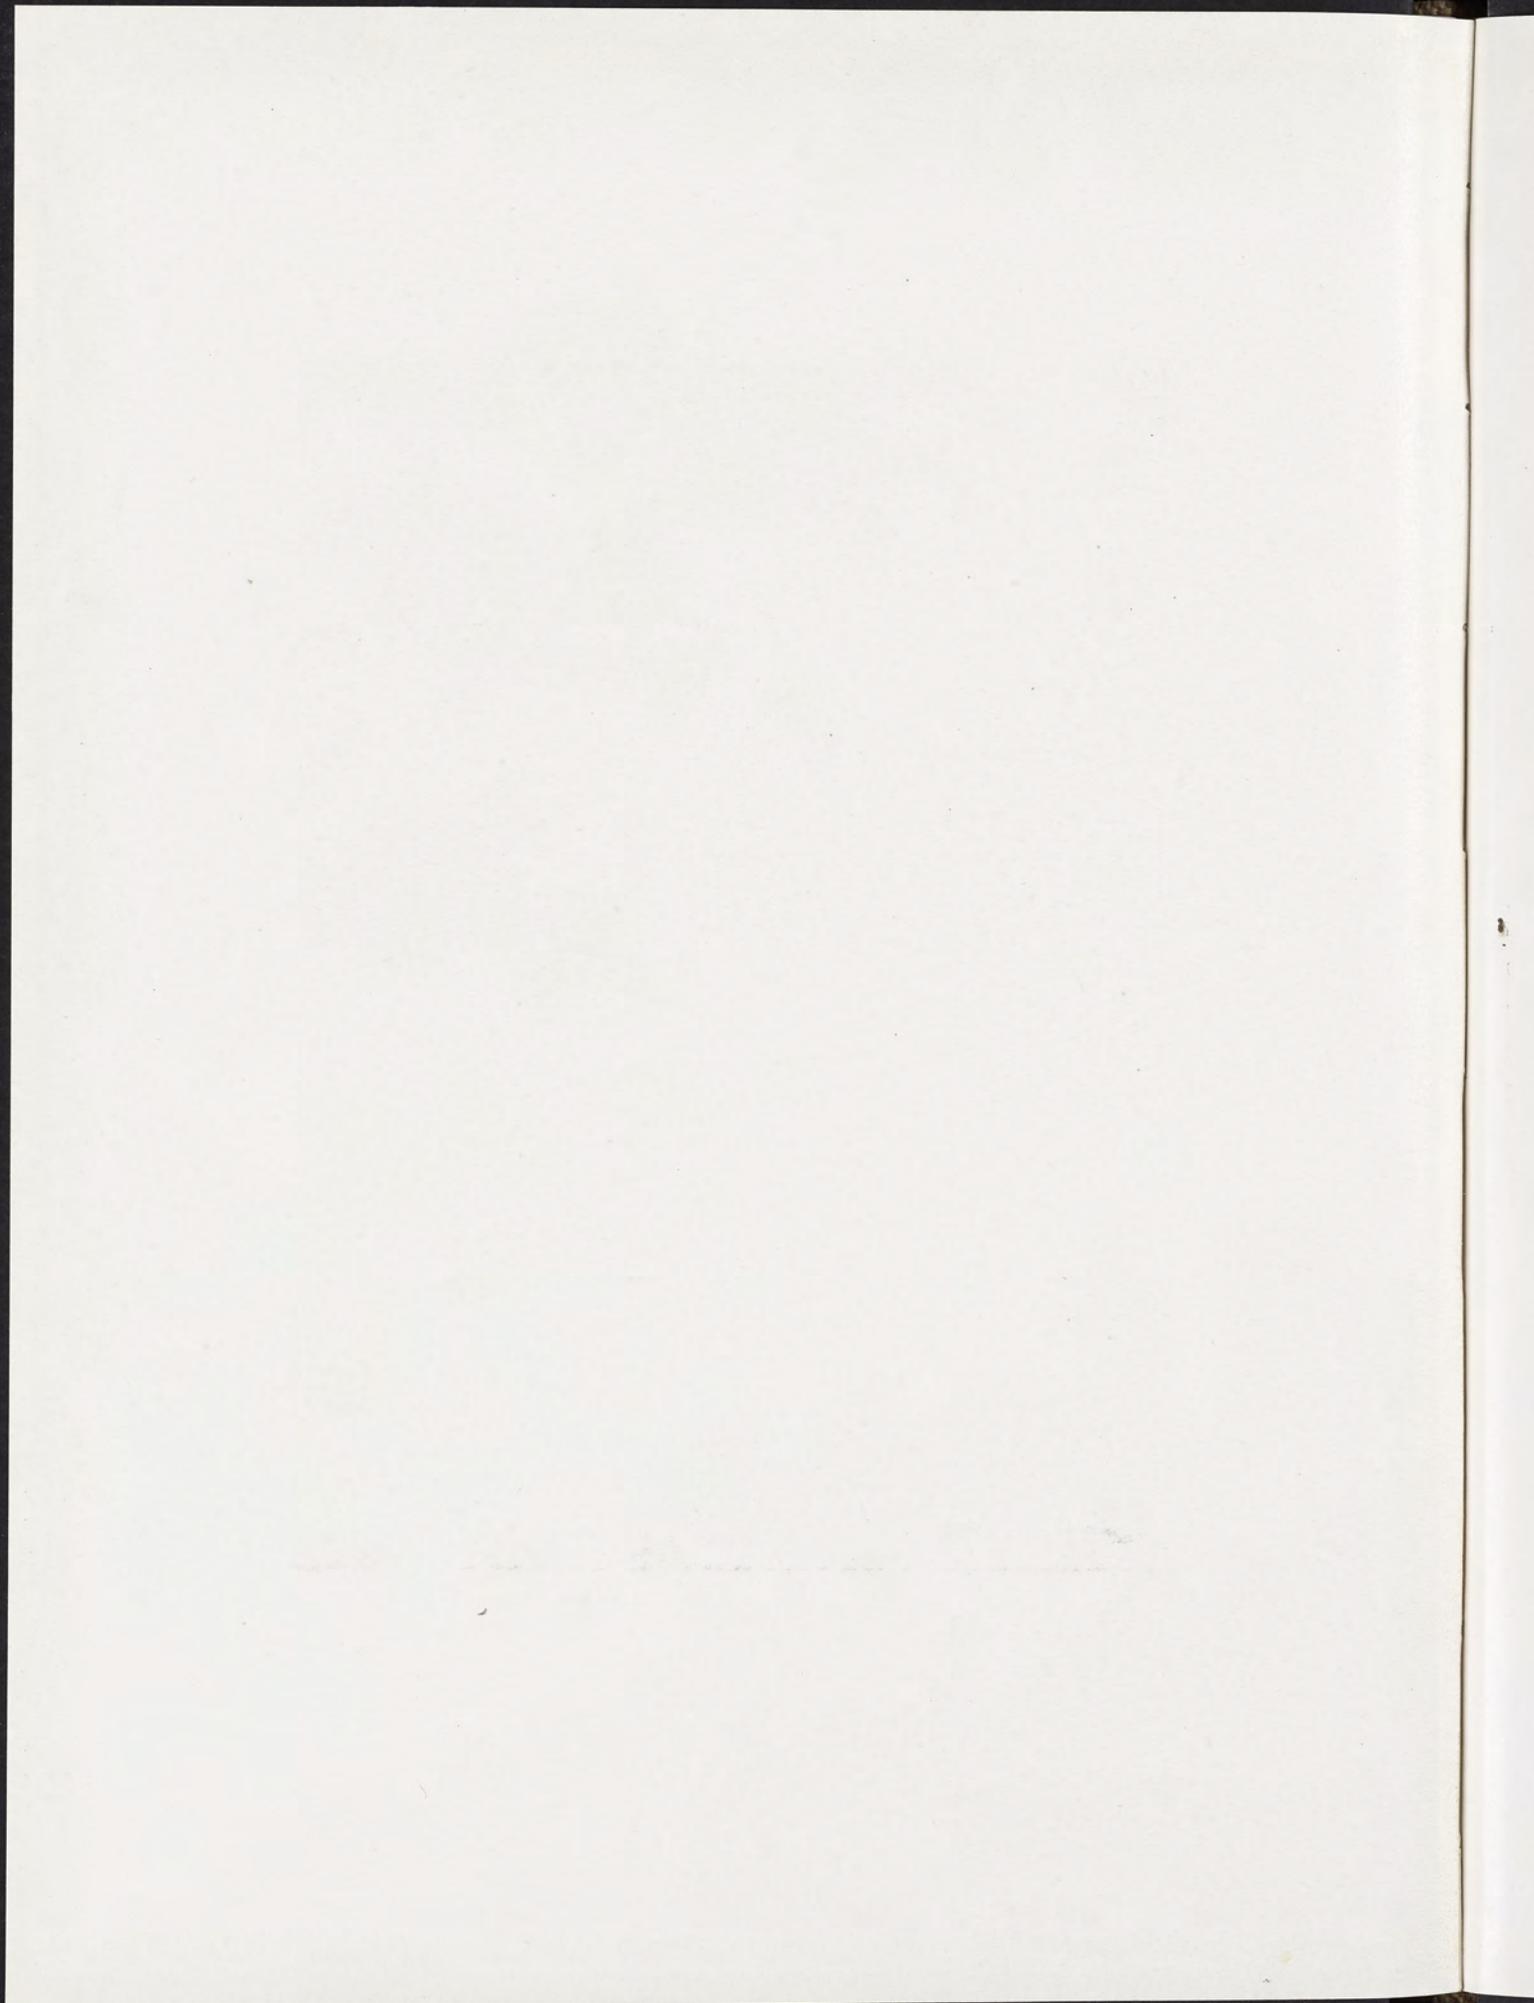

The standings in the championship series were as follows:

TAU BETA PI

National Honorary Engineering Fraternity

Alpha Chapter

1892

Tau Beta Pi is the national honorary engineering fraternity and as such has branches in all of the largest engineering schools. This chapter, Alpha of Michigan, was the first one to which the parent chapter of Lehigh University granted a charter.

The Alpha chapter of Michigan has just passed through a critical stage in its existence. Twice in the last two years its membership has been reduced to one, but now that the war is over we look forward to the time when the chapter will again be normal in size.

Eligibility to membership in Tau Beta Pi is restricted on the basis of scholarship to the first eighth of the Junior class and the first quarter of the Senior class, and those finally admitted to membership must qualify on the grounds of integrity, congeniality, and brotherhood.

The regular bi-weekly meetings of the chapter are devoted to the advancement of a spirit of liberal culture. It is the purpose of the chapter to participate actively in the social life of the college, and to work for the betterment of the Engineering course.

M. A. C. owed me nothing.
 She gave me all She had.
 For all that I took from Her I shall repay Her.
 May I be strong to help Her prosper and Grow.

This might well be taken as the creed of the M. A. C. Association.

The livest M. A. C. folk, both graduates and former students make up the Michigan Agricultural College Association. No man or woman who has drunk of the spirit of M. A. C. can leave Her Campus without an overwhelming feeling of loyalty and good will. The M. A. C. Association has been formed to organize this college good will into result producing alumni loyalty, for we believe that most good can be accomplished by a number of people joining together in a common endeavor.

Our object is to make our Alma Mater, the Michigan Agricultural College, increasingly popular and we shall exert our strength to support Her, to widen Her influence in Michigan, to develop Her powers, to keep strong men as Her leaders and provide Her with every means She requires to maintain Her place as the first Land Grant College in America.

Membership is open to anyone who has completed one term's college work. The Association holds its annual meeting at Commencement time.

The M. A. C. RECORD, the official college weekly is the publication of the M. A. C. Association. The RECORD has two distinct aims; the first to firmly tie Alumni and former students to Alma Mater; the second to keep them in touch with each other. The Association also helps maintain a permanent secretary and an office for the keeping of alumni records. The mother Association and the spirit of M. A. C. are bolstered through the organization of many local associations throughout the state. Every student who leaves M. A. C. should get in touch with the Association in his community, or if none exists there, he should start one.

The M. A. C. Association first presented the idea of the M. A. C. Union and were entirely responsible for its organization. The Association also conceived the idea of the Union Memorial Building and have taken upon themselves the promoting, organizing and launching of the building fund campaign.

"An Alumnus is the devoted son of a good mother. A devoted son best serves His Alma Mater by remembering Her in his strength and in Her weakness."

MENS STUDENT COUNCIL

Men's Student Council

The re-opening of the College on a peace-time basis found Student activities badly disorganized with two vacancies in the Council to be filled. The Representatives of the Student Body efficiently handled the work of reorganization of activities and reclamation of customs and convincingly proved the value of M. A. C.'s democratic form of government.

Women's Student Council

The principle activities of the council during the past year have been confined to a revision of the Women's Regulations, making them more liberal and democratic. A substantial sum was added to the Students' Aid Fund by a very successful Valentine Party held in the Women's Building.

INTER-SOCIETY UNION

The year has been one of reconstruction. Unity of action among the literary societies has been promoted by the Union, and a get together spirit firmly established. The Inter-Society Union has earned for itself a position among the really essential organizations on the campus.

The League of the Silver Cross

The aim of the League of the Silver Cross is to promote unselfish service, sociability, and the development of character. The organization is open to any, and all young women of the institution. To further promote these ideals, the League conducts social evenings and the Sunday Morning Bible Study Class in the Peoples' Church.

The Farmers' Club is an organization composed of the students of agriculture. This Club was organized in 1899 to further the interest of agricultural enterprises. From that time since it has been the aim of the Club to obtain speakers who ably present subjects to the members other than those studied in the class room. Owing to the war conditions the Club has not prospered as well as in the past, but with the advent of next term we expect to be upon a normal basis. All agricultural students are eligible, and we hope that all will turn out in the future and make the Farmers' Club the strongest organization at M. A. C.

The M. A. C. Forestry Club which is rapidly building up to its old standard promises to be one of the most active clubs on the Campus. At the meetings which are held semi-monthly, Forestry topics are discussed by the members of the Club. At nearly every meeting special speakers are brought in to give talks on some special phase of Forestry. These meetings are very interesting and are well attended.

This year, as usual, the Club is putting out the Forestry Annual. This Annual covers not only the work done by members of the Club, but also the work done by the Forestry Alumni in different sections of the country. It also gives a complete list of the addresses of the Forestry graduates.

Cap Night

A pleasing feature of the Commencement Week programs of the past two years has been the fact that they have been carried out before the close of college so that alumni and others coming for commencement may see the college in full swing and take part in the student term-end customs, particularly "Cap" night.

The usual procession headed by the band, or rather what was left of it, started from William's Hall about dusk Thursday evening, gathering into its column the alumni contingent at the library and the seniors at the Women's Building. With a few less fireworks, but with much noise, the parade moved to the "hollow." Here the usual fire blazed of course, but not for the purpose of consuming freshman lids, for on this cap night a big box beside the fire received the little brown caps to collect them for the Belgian Relief.

Cap night speakers were N. L. Reed, '19, who acted as master of ceremonies; Clarence E. Holmes, '93, President DeMond of the graduating class, and R. B. Huxtable, the new senior president.

The 1918 Commencement

Commencement for the class of 1918 was the most unusual graduation ceremony in the history of the college. Out of a senior class of 143, which was only half the number of previous year's graduating class, less than a hundred sat in cap and gown before the platform. Numerous vacant chairs in the senior section marked the absence of men gone in answer to the call to service. It was the first commencement to be held in the new auditorium in the gymnasium. But more unusual than all of these was the commencement address of Dr. Liberty Hyde Bailey, '82, one of M. A. C.'s own graduates and probably her greatest agriculturist and philosopher.

Nothing has effected our scores of alumni visitors more than the sight of the remains of old College Hall and the ruins of William's Dormitory. Many an old time graduate can tell you of the stunts he pulled off in "Bills" during his sojourn there as one of the many it has lodged since 1870. The morning chapel in College Hall, the oldest agricultural building in the world, also remains a vivid scene in his memory among all of the recollections he has of these two beloved structures.

We, of the present day, have memories also, more recently of those who fought for M. A. C. in the war just ended. Why not commemorate our fallen heroes with a great Memorial Hall of a nature useful to the campus and occupying the spot so loved by those who went before us? Surely, such a memorial would be a most fitting reminder of the lives of these men and serve to keep the principle for which they fought foremost in our memories.

The 1920 Junior Prom.

The Junior Prom of the Class of 1920 was held April 4, 1919 in the new gymnasium.

Before the dancing, a banquet was given at the Women's Building, which in turn was preceded by a formal reception by the patrons and class officers.

The favors for the ladies were hammered silver "French lockets" mounted with a silver M. A. C. J-Hop monogram. The favors for the men were genuine seal bill folds embossed with a monogram similar to that which featured the lockets.

Immediately following the banquet the class passed to the gymnasium which was tastefully decorated with green and pink, the color scheme being carried out by means of prepared green oak foliage and other decorating material which was imported from Alabama. Shook's Orchestra of Detroit, ensconced in a bower in the center of the floor, held the enthusiasm of the dancers until the wee small hours of the morning.

The committees responsible for the success of the prom were in charge of the following chairman:

AN HONORABLE CAUSE

When "Bills" Hall burned, many cockroaches were made homeless. This stricken nation has been roving through the tunnels at the college all winter. It has been almost impossible to find a home for these unfortunates, so a committee has been appointed to take care of the once happy families which occupied that ancient building in the center of the campus. On account of the immigration laws, the "Coop" and Terrace will not allow them aid or comfort. The clever little insects absolutely refuse to go to Wells Hall because of the fact that they would have to go through Club D; this would be very fatal to these sensitive creatures who have long been known to be very careful about their place of habitation. The college authorities would not think of allowing them to live in Abbott because of the unsanitary Fresh who are staying there. Something should be done, and the committee in charge of collecting funds for these Blatte Orientalis will gladly receive your contribution.

ANGLING NOTES

As fish run in schools, the bookworm would seem to be the proper bait for them.

If a grind is called a bookworm, why is not a Civil Engineer called an angle worm?

ANOTHER FISHY ONE

The beauty of some Freshmen girls is enuf to give a fellow the Painters' Colic.

OUR ATHLETIC FACULTY

The war hath wrought wonderful changes upon this elliptical sphere of ours. The cylindrical cones called stars look down on their deciples on earth to see a new era. Nowadays it is not at all uncommon to see a member of the faculty with his hair cut or his clothes pressed and in the latest style too. But perhaps the last thing that one would expect of these factotum (Note; the editor went to the dictionary to get this word) is their unnatural relish for athletics. Before going on with this article let us pause to define the word faculty from the author's standpoint.

A faculty is a group of persons of all shapes, sizes and forms (taking in the alpha, beta and gamma forms of iron and also the amorphous state) who teach us what we know not of in order to mold us into a state such that when we are Juniors we decide that we know more than the faculty does.

To go back to the subject it is hardly imaginable to think of some of our instructors performing wonderful athletic stunts but it is a fact they have vanquished any team in any form of athletics that the students can put forth. First let us look into some of these games. I do not need to mention the amount of material there is among our faculty for the Mexican games, and as for pitching pennies, marbles or shooting dice, the field was overcrowded at the first tryouts. One could go on indefinitely telling of the different games suited for our deans, professors and instructors but on account of time and space we must by reason of Newton's Law of Gravitation, let the matter drop.

AN EVERY-DAY EVENT

The young man ariseth in the morning and adorneth himself in golden raiment.

His socks are as white as the driven snow and as light as the wafted zephyrs of a summer's eve.

His gloves are of yellow chamois sewed with black silk and he is some kid.

His hat is of fuzz bedecked with a cute little bow which followeth on behind.

Upon his arm is worn, very becomingly, a cane of shellaced hickory.

And his suit is made in accord with the high cost of living—the material is used minglingly. It fitteth him quick.

He betaketh himself to the Apothecary where he surpriseth a fair young damsel dressed with the delicacy of the gazelle. She pretendeth to be in the act of making an order but she will suffer herself to be blown to a nut sundae by the young man.

As they pass out the young man giveth the soda jerker a wink which he understandeth and is satisfied. For he knoweth that the young man is broke, and that he will receive his payment when father's monthly pension check arriveth.

HINTS ON ETIQUETTE

It is considered unpolite, in the best society, to place the knife, fork and spoon in the mouth at the same time.

When the finger bowl is passed be careful not to break the dish or spill contents in an attempt to stand up for your American rights. No—the residue is not for your sauce.

Never drink tea or coffee without the spoon in the cup, and if you wish to be extremely polite, drink out of the saucer.

Refrain from using the table-cloth as a napkin, as some people cannot afford a clean table-cloth every day.

BEAUTY HINTS

Equal parts of sulphuric acid and nitric acid remove superfluous hair from the face.

One quart of potassium cyanide mixed with seven drops of water makes an excellent drink. It is refreshing and beautifying.

Hydrogen Sulphide mixed with ammonia makes an excellent perfume.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

QUESTION. No. 69,342,937.
"Why do I talk so much? How can I stop it? (J. S. H.)

ANSWER: Talking is an art and like anything else that is art, it can be made a nuisance. Women generally are the best talkers and the disease is often caught by fellows who hang around them very much. Of course an over-abundance of brains and nerve will cause constant talking also. There are two ways to get rid of it. One is quick and the other slow. The former is to take 10 grams of arsenic and 5 oz. of carbolic acid. The latter is to sit on the car-track and wait for a college car to run over you.

QUESTION. No. 69,342,938.
"What is considered the usual length for hair to grow before cutting? How much does a hair-cut cost?"

ANSWER: A man's hair need not be cut until it reaches .73216 inches below the topmost spear of hair at the middle of the right eyebrow at the front and at the time of cutting, the hair at the back of the head should hide the collar (if you have one). The advantage of keeping the hair at this minimum length is that you can wear a linen collar instead of a rubber one. (The author stated that upon one such occasion he wore a collar 7 weeks, 3 days, 6 hours and 17 minutes—Editor.) The cost of a hair cut varies with different shops, but Hank and Frank by use of an electric pair of horse slippers can cut your hair at the nominal price of 40 cents, or in other words the price of 4 hamburgs.

DECALOGUE FOR FUSSERS

1. Thou shalt denote thyself to a study of the quirks and twists, the hesitates and slides of the newest of new dances.

2. Thou shalt adorn thyself with a suit of Mapes' best, with wide cuts and curves. Yea, and kid gloves shalt thou wear, and a hat of doggiest fashion.

3. Thy hair shall be parted on the very edge of thy cranium, well sleeked, and with a touch of frou-frou.

4. Thy fingernails shall at all times be well trimmed, shined and glassed.

5. Sweet words and honeyed compliments shalt thou use, and abhor the crudeness of Club D slang.

6. One cup, three maccaroons and one cigarette shalt thou juggle with one hand and wave the other languidly as thou speakest.

7. Thou shalt be serious and impressive with young girls, saucy and impudent with old ladies, and just a bit snobbish with thy classmates.

8. Thou shalt be bold, but not too bold, keep a sensitive hand on the wheel, and never lose headway when she comes into a new mood.

9. Beware the little broken laugh that spoils a kiss, keep a wary eye on the stage setting, and be sure thou lackest not ardor.

10. And, above all, as the Social Aides insist, be "precious."

NOTICE TO FRESHMEN

Perhaps you are aware of the fact that Professor C. S. Dunford's nickname is "Duke." The reason for this is readily explained if you would look into a 1912 "Wolverine." His picture is therein and your minds will be greatly enlightened as to how M. A. C. instructors get their nicknames.

When you curse the M. R. Co., think of the electric lines in the East. "Steve" Corey says that the cars in the East stop at every house and twice at double houses.

ROOM RULES FOUND IN I D WELLS

1. GENTLEMEN upon entering will LEAVE THE DOOR WIDE OPEN or apologize.

2. BE SURE to scrape your feet IN THE MIDDLE OF THE ROOM—it keeps our room tidy and the land-lady in a good temper.

3. PROFANE LANGUAGE is expected at ALL TIMES, especially if LADIES are rooming in our house.

4. Gentlemen are requested TO SMOKE and talk especially during STUDY HOURS; TOBACCO AND CIGARS WILL BE SUPPLIED. Cigarette fiends especially encouraged.

5. PUT YOUR FEET ON THE TABLES, or lean against the DESK, it will be of great assistance to those who are studying.

6. Should you need the loan of MONEY, do not fail to ASK FOR IT, as we do not require it for COLLEGE PURPOSES. Our folks send it merely for LENDING.

7. Those wishing to pass away time should remain AS LONG AS POSSIBLE, take a chair, AND LEAN AGAINST THE WALL, it will preserve the wall and may prevent its fall upon us.

8. Our hours for listening to SOLICITORS for BENEVOLENT PURPOSES are from 6:30 to 10:00 A. M. BOOK AGENTS 10:00 A. M. to 1:00 P. M. OFFICE SEEKERS and CANVASSERS all day. WE EAT AND STUDY AT NIGHT.

Young lady to Shenefield, entering College Resident with Downer, "And whom did you wish to see?"

"Shen." (after a pause)—"I don't know, ask Downer."

AT J-HOP

Freshman (to his partner)—“What have you got that dress so long for?”

She—“Because, I am a Senior.”

Fresh—(who is trying his best to fill a borrowed dress suit)—“That’s the reason I am wearing my trousers so long, I am a Senior too.”

“Duke” Dunford—“What is one of the checks to the increase of population?”

Bright Soph—“Er-er, the census, Professor.”

SCIENTIFIC

She—“I don’t see how those freshmen keep their little caps on their heads.”

He—“Vacuum pressure.”

She—“The man I marry must be a hero, brave, daring and gallant; he must have enough to support me comfortably; must have a country home and above all, be honest.”

He—“That’s all very good, but this is love—not a department store.”

COTTAGE SPICES

He—“What makes water run?”

Coed from Cottage—“Specific gravity.”

Coed from cottage—“Let’s see that little book.”

He—“Which one, my pocket book?”

Tripp, calling at cottage—“I want to get a non-traveling chair.”

Mac also calling at cottage—“A chair with a back is needed at the cottage.”

Guest at a party said to strange girl with whom he was dancing:—“When are you going to marry Ralph?”

She—“Oh, I am his country cousin.”

Barber—(to Baldy)—“Hair dyed, Sir?”

Baldy—“Yes, it died about eight years ago.”

Nobody Knows

Absolute knowledge I have none,
But my aunt's washerwoman's sister's son
Heard a policeman on his beat
Say to a laborer on the street
That he had a letter just last week,
Written in the finest Greek,
From a Chinese coolie in Timbuctoo,
Who said the niggers in Cuba knew
Of a colored man in a Texas town
Who got it straight from a circus clown,
That a man in Klondike heard the news
From a gang of South American Jews,
About somebody in Borneo
Who heard a man who claimed to know
Of a swell society female rake
Whose mother-in-law will undertake
To prove that her seventh husband's sister's niece
Has stated in a printed piece
That she has a son who has a friend
Who knows when the war is going to end,
But won't tell.

NEVERMORPS

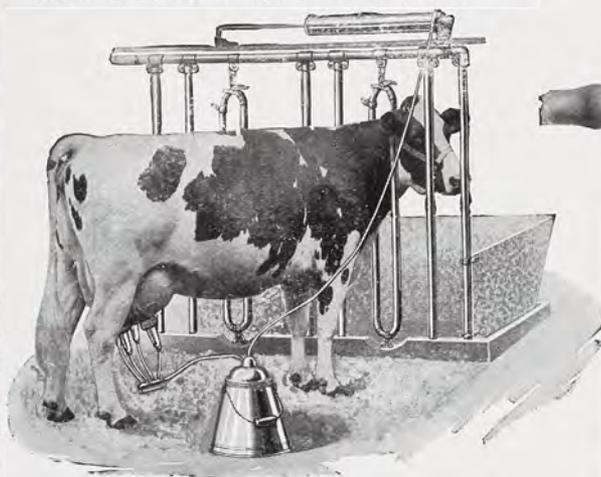

Students' Army Training Corps,
You sure made us awful sorps;
Clumsy, tiresome, hopeless borps.
We were shot—but shed no gorps,
Studied little, poked morps,
Rak d the campus, scrubbed the florps,
Soaked up goulsh, learned to snorps,
Had experiences galorps,
'Nuf to make an angel rorps.
Now, imposter all is orps;
Fare you well—please shut the dorps—
Student Army Training Corps.

Poor Budge, he cannot take a bath
He is so awful stout,
For when he gets into the tub
The water splashes out.

A CHEMICAL RHAPSODY

O, come where the cyanides silently flow;
Where the carbonates drop o'er the oxides below
Where the rays of potassium lie white on the hill,
And the song of the silicate never is still.

Come, O, come, tum titti tum,
Peroxide of soda, and uranium.
While alcohol's liquid at thirty degrees
And no chemical change can affect man-ganese,

While alkalies flourish and acids are free,
My heart shall be constant, sweet science to thee.

Yes, to thee, fiddle-de-dee.

HINGE-DOOR LADDER SILOS

COPYRIGHTED

There's ONLY ONE Ladder Hinge Door

This one outstanding feature distinguishes the Lasco Vitrified Tile Silo and the Ladder Hinge Door Wood Stave Silo from all other makes. They are the only silos in the world equipped with the famous Ladder Hinge Door.

The Principle of the Ladder Hinge Door

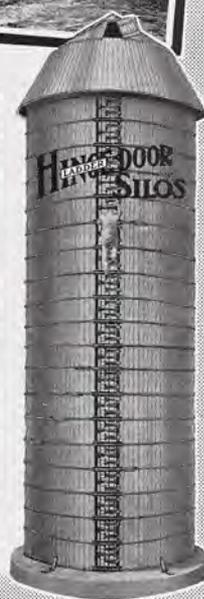

Each door is fastened permanently to the silo with two large malleable iron hinges, which form a perfect ladder from the base to the roof of the silo. The hinges extend 7 inches from the door, thus allowing ample room for a foothold when climbing the silo. Hinge Doors are safe and easy to climb in wet or icy weather, and one simple operation of a sliding lever opens and closes the door.

When the time comes for you to buy a silo, be sure to investigate the famous Ladder Hinge Door. You will find them in your own county. Over 35,000 are in use—and are giving their full measure of satisfaction to the owner.

NOVO POWER

For every purpose where dependable service and long life are necessary, you will find the Novo Engine. A compact, self-contained Engine, simple in construction, with few working parts. Very simple to operate.

Novo outfits built on the same Standard for reliability that has made the Novo Engine famous, include: Deep Well Pumping outfit, Force Pumping outfits, Diaphragm Pumping outfits, Hoists in forty sizes and types, Saw Rigs, Air Compressors, etc.

Novo Engines run 80% of the gasoline driven concrete mixers as well as all gasoline driven back fillers.

A Novo Engine on your spraying rig means excellent service, as operating on side hills or over rough ground has no effect on it.

Our book "Reliable Power" will give you further information.

When We Run an Elevator Through to Peking

Once upon a time I dug a hole
Looking for a six dollar coal,
And dug down very deep this coal a-seekin'.

I dug for many nights and days
In new and in old-fashioned ways
Until I came out in China, right at Pekin.

A Manderin then collared me
To make me into Chop Suey;
Through every pore was perspiration
leakin',

But after while I hooked Hop Lee
To form a Chinese Companee
To run an elevator through to Pekin.

Hop Lee and Me
Are the Companee;
We sold stock for a billion yen;
We have a ton of yen and cen
To take up through the hole again
When we get the elevator running.
Hop Lee, said he, "We big foolee
To go around the world by sea
But alee same, much likee me
To sell Mellican man, his Chop Suey
Make wellee much like, we makee he,
When we run an elevator through to Pekin.

Army Song at Fortress Monroe

When President Wilson called for Volunteers
I shouldered up my gun,
And the first "—" German that I saw,
I dropped my gun and run.

Chorus—

Oh! that Bloody War—
That Bloody War.

The Captain said "To fire at will."
I says, "Which one is he?"
The Captain he got sore as "—,"
And fired is gun at me.

Chorus—

The Captain said, "The flag is down,
Go get it if I could."
I said, "No sir, there's others here
That are just as good."

Chorus—

“Flunk.”

“Will you have your lunch on deck?”
asked the cook.

“No, throw it in the ocean—it will save time and trouble.”

Of Course

He—“Is that you, darling?”

She—“Yes, who is this?”

MR. FARMER:

You are one of the producers of the nation's wealth, because the farm is a foundation of wealth. The portion of this wealth to which you are entitled depends on how you manage your farm; what assistance you give nature by using good seed, by providing a proper seed bed, by distributing the seed in the correct proportion by use of accurate seeding machinery, and by carefully cultivating and harvesting.

Good judgment combined with good tools will get good results.

We have made a careful, scientific study of agriculture in all its branches. We offer you the product of these years of study and experience in the John Deere Full Line of Agricultural Implements.

Write us for “Better Farm Implements and How to Use Them.” Let us help you win your share of success in the agricultural world.

For the past fifteen years the Educational Department of the Bureau of Engraving, Inc., has been collecting a vast fund of information from the experiences of hundreds of editors and managers of Annuals.

This data covering organization, financing, advertising, construction, selling and original features has been systematically tabulated and forms the subject matter for our series of reference books. These are furnished free to those securing "Bureau" co-operation in the making of engravings for their books.

Begin where others have left off. Profit by their experience and assure success for your Annual.

Jack Spratt, he likes them fat,
The beauties on the screen;
They sort of rest his eyes, he says,
For Mrs. Spratt is lean.

Her hair was her crown of glory,
But when she became his bride,
He found it was her nightly custom
To lay her crown aside.

Fresh.—"How is it that you never suffer from the cold?"

Soph.—"Oh, I'm always wrapped in my work."

Prof.—"What are you doing—learning anything?"

Student—"No, Sir, listening to you."

McLean—"Shut up, Powers, I can't hear myself think."

Powers—"Excuse me, I have lost my eye teeth and can't see what I say."

Prof. Hedrick (in Economics)—"Kuder, what is money?"

Kuder (after long pause)—"Money is a medium of exchange."

Prof. Hedrick—"That's right, but so is a freight car."

Small Boy—"Mother, am I descended from an ape?"

Mother—"I don't know, Johnnie, I never knew any of your father's people."

When to Animal Hub. I go,
A little praver I utter low.
I say in accents soft but deep,
Here's where I lay me down and sleep
The gift of common courtesy

No upper classmen lack
You hear them greet
Each friend they meet,
"I'm glad to see your back."
