Dedication

To Robert Sidney Shaw, Dean of Agriculture and Director of the Experiment Station, we dedicate the 1922 WOLVERINE. For nearly a score of years he has devoted his earnest services to the welfare of the farmers of Michigan and the students of M. A. C. As temporary steersman of the Aggie Ship, he has avoided the rocks and shoals of transition, and given the vessel safely into the hands of the new captain. Let us remember his efforts as we set sail on the open sea.

ROBERT SIDNEY SHAW, B. S. A.

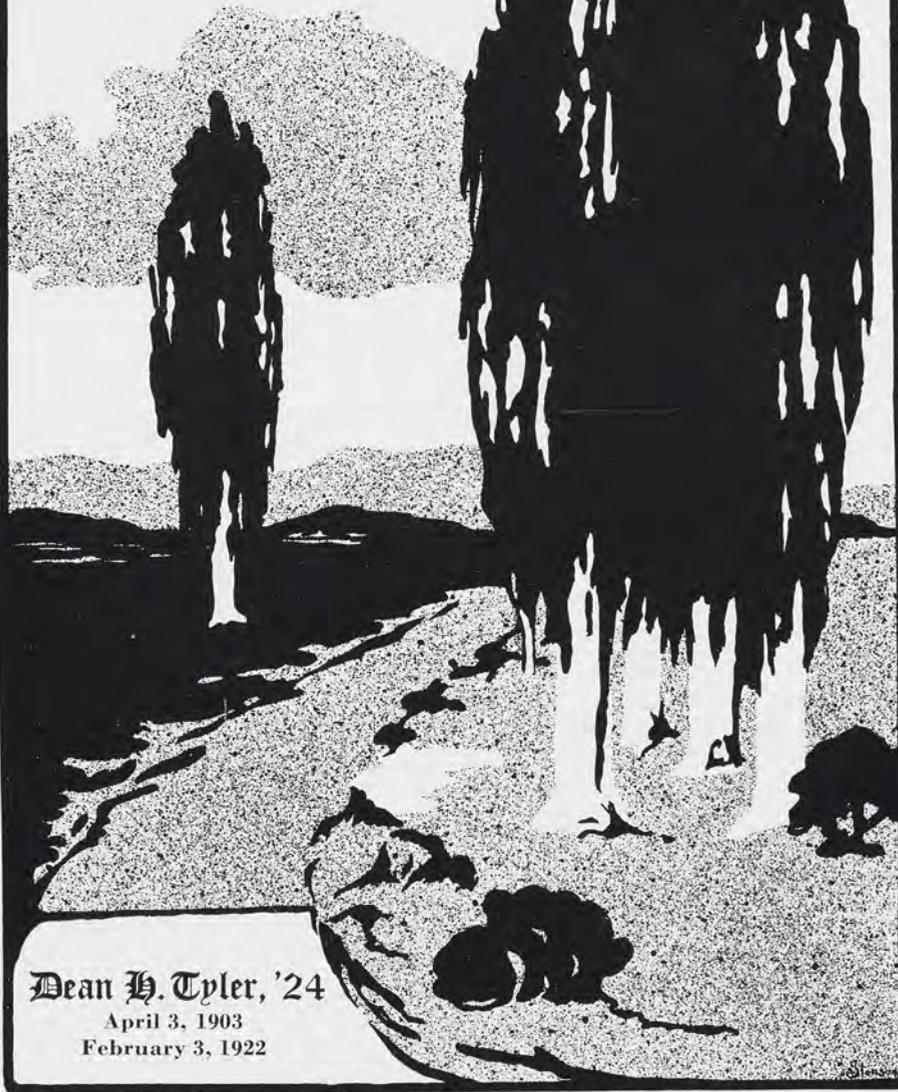

Foreword—

IN years to come when the World can look upon your life with just pride in your achievements, may you again turn to these pages and find herein a simple collection of pleasant memories of dear old M. A. C. The Staff can have no greater reward than to feel that it has accomplished this much.

DAVID FRIDAY, A. B.

"The Michigan Agricultural College has just completed the sixty-fifth year of its history. During this period it has demonstrated the value of a type of education which was non-existent when it was established. It is now entering a changed world. The problem of education here, as at other educational institutions, is to adjust the curriculum, as well as the quality and spirit of instruction, to the needs of a nation which has proven its economic and industrial leadership; and which is striving to take its moral position among the nations of the world. The College must train a citizenship which shall be cultured in the broadest sense of that term. Her men and women of the future must know history and politics, economics and literature. They must know the ends toward which democracy is striving, as well as the technical means by which the conditions of well-being must be established for all."

It is a far cry from the rudiments of farm methods, taught in College Hall sixty-odd years ago, to the comprehensive training in agriculture, science, and the arts offered at M. A. C. today.

Had the greenest freshman of '62 been informed, upon his arrival, by some sophomore sage of '61 that he, the freshman, was about to embark upon the mysteries and delights of organic chemistry, trigonometry, surveying, poetry, music, and military strategy—had he been confronted with all this, in sooth, he would have fancied himself in a university rather than an agricultural school.

But farmers of 1922 demand that their leaders shall be versatile men. Therefore the Agricultural course at M. A. C. includes, besides the technical training in efficient farm methods, considerable supporting work which aids in all-around development. In the Agricultural division are the technical departments of Soils, Crops, Animal Husbandry, Dairying, Farm Management, Horticulture, and Forestry. The student has the option of studying General Agriculture or of specializing in Forestry or Horticulture.

Rapid strides in co-operative marketing made by the Farm Bureau have disclosed the importance of the business side of agriculture. The subject of economics therefore is certain to receive increasing attention in the future in the agricultural curriculum.

Home Economics

MARY E. SWEENEY, M. S., M. A.DEAN
EUDORA H. SAVAGE, B. S.DEAN of WOMEN

Home Economics is not a science, but an assembling of all the sciences.

The successful manager of a household must have a working knowledge of nutrition, sanitation, psychology, interior decoration, finance, and a myriad other subjects. It is to fit M. A. C. co-eds for the eventualities of home life that the course in general Home Economics is intended.

But the recent call for trained dietitians, bacteriologists, hotel matrons, textile experts, and high school teachers of home economics has led to the establishment of specialized courses of study. Within the last year the division has undergone radical changes. A system of majors and minors has been so worked out that girls may arrange their courses to suit their particular needs. The division now consists of two departments, one of Food and Nutrition and the other of Clothing and Textiles.

Technical training may prepare for the profession of institutional manager, cafeteria director, visiting housekeeper, director of nutrition clinics, hospital dietitian, demonstrator for commercial firms, expert in commercial and textile laboratories, county home demonstration agent, extension specialist, special editor on women's magazines and publications, director of educational work in retail stores, expert buyer for merchants, and teacher in general and vocational home economics courses of high schools.

Veterinary

FRANK W. CHAMBERLAIN, D. V. M., B. S. ACTING DEAN
E. T. HALLMAN, D. V. M. PATHOLOGY O. A. TAYLOR, D. V. M. PHARMACOLOGY
J. P. HUTTON, D. V. M. SURGERY AND MEDICINE

When the hogs are stricken with cholera and the mare is ill with colic, the veterinarian becomes the "man of the hour." His profession is not extremely popular. But the services of these physicians who mend the ills of the animal world are yearly worth millions of dollars to the state of Michigan alone.

M. A. C. was one of the first institutions of learning to offer a four-year course in Veterinary Medicine. Since the division was established in 1910, the profession has gone through the inevitable vicissitudes wrought by the motor car and the tractor. However, the pendulum of popularity is swinging from the tractor back to the draft horse. Such public services as meat and milk inspection, sanitation and tuberculosis control have contributed to increase the demand for trained men, until now it is stronger than ever.

The division at M. A. C. consists of three departments—Anatomy and Pharmacology, Surgery and Medicine, and Pathology. Students are required to become familiar as well with Animal Husbandry, Chemistry, Physics, English, and Botany.

By taking a four-year college course, the prospective veterinarian is enabled to elect a certain amount of cultural study while at the same time he secures the advantage of contact with college life and the many-sided development which it makes possible.

Music

JOHN S. TAYLORDIRECTOR

When M. A. C. was given a charter in 1857 as the first college for instruction in Agriculture, no one ever dreamed that music would be given a place in the catalogue. Today the art of music is fast taking its proper place in the curriculum. Under the very capable direction of Professor J. S. Taylor the department of Music has become an important part of the Campus life. Instruction is offered to students in voice and instrument, while a great many of the student entertainments about the College are prepared with the help of this department.

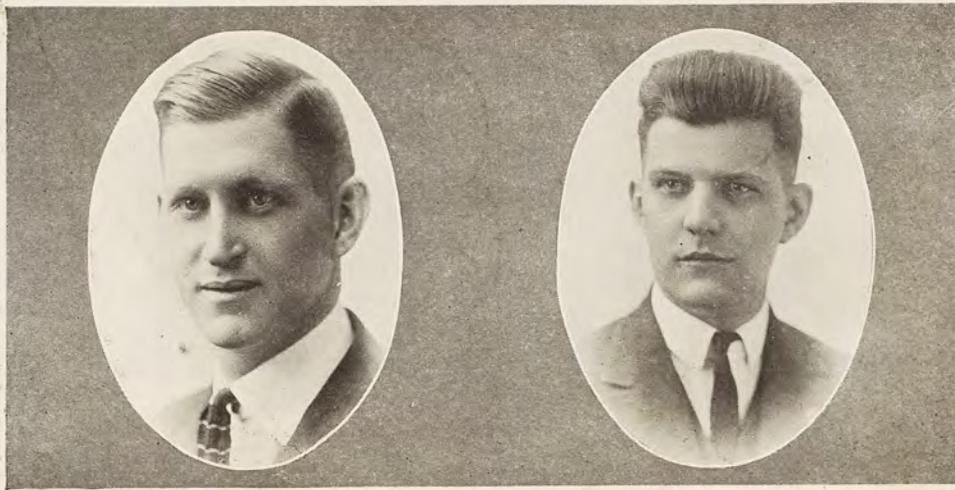

The 50 piece Military Band is a product of the music division, being under the direction of Professor Taylor. The Band is known throughout the Middle West as the best of its kind. It makes trips with the football teams each year and participates in practically all of the College functions. The Men's Glee Club of about 25 voices is an example of the creditable work of the Music Department in vocal training. Although it did not make the usual Spring vacation tour this year, the organization still holds a high place among college musical circles, and will most surely be a great advertising medium for M. A. C. in the future.

Such rapid advancement has the department realized in its few short years of existence that an addition to the teaching staff was necessary last year. Greater things are planned for the future to carry on the valuable work.

All College Homecoming

The Annual M. A. C. Fall Homecoming of 1921 has been deemed the biggest and best that was ever staged. Like others, it gave as many of the M. A. C. Family as could return an opportunity to renew old acquaintances and join again in the College activities for a short time.

Through the efforts of C. W. McKibbin and Homecoming Chairman, "Gippie" Gustafson, the 1921 affair was made a two day celebration. Starting with the Annual Barbecue by the Class of '24 on the eve of November 4, the old Grads were entertained by the Grand Campus Stunt Parade, Alumni Luncheon, Michigan Intercollegiate Cross Country Run, Varsity victory over South Dakota in football, dinners at the various Society Houses, and Union party, on Saturday; and general entertainment by the Societies on Sunday.

Varsity Homecoming

Norm Weil as director of the second annual Varsity Homecoming March 11, succeeded in "calling in" over 50 old Varsity men for a one day fete and a chance to talk over present Aggie Athletic conditions. The program consisted of a Basketball game between the All-Fresh and Grand Rapids Union, Swimming Exhibition, Varsity Club business meeting, Banquet at which motion pictures of M. A. C were shown, the annual Alumni-Varsity Basketball game, followed by a dance. While the Alumni teams were not very successful at scoring over the Varsity, the game proved a wonderful gloom chaser.

May the Homecomings in the future be even bigger and better, that the "old" and the "young" may, together, build for that "Greater M. A. C."

Welcome, Prexy!

Not many men can win the hearts of a college student body as did President David Friday in his first appearance before this 100 per cent. attendance of expectant, loyal Aggies. There was not an M. A. C. man or woman that left the Gym with anything but the strongest faith in the success of the coming administration.

"Glad to meet you." This has become an annual affair for the first week of the fall term. It was held in the new church auditorium and is one of the new movements to assist the Freshmen to become acquainted at M. A. C.

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

Michigan Aggie Athletics, 1921-22

Four major and five minor sports are now recognized and carried on at M. A. C. The majors—football, track, basketball, and baseball—have been maintained on a high plane for years, but three of the minor sports—wrestling, swimming, and hockey are recent additions to the list of varsity athletics at East Lansing. Tennis and Cross-country have been recognized for several years.

In each sport a head coach is in charge and in the case of football, assistants are provided. Coach Bert Barron, head coach of football and track, was aided in 1921 by freshman coach John Killoran, Line coach Frimodig, and Del Vandervoort, former Aggie captain and star guard. A new line coach came to the Aggie camp in the spring of 1922 when Dick Rauch took charge of the spring training.

The basketball squad is coached by Frimodig while John Morrissey is in charge of the baseball squad. During the past year the following men have coached minor sports: cross-country, Floyd A. Rowe; swimming, S. F. Flynn; wrestling, James Devers; hockey, John Thomas; tennis, H. C. Young.

The entire organization is in charge of C. L. Brewer, director of athletics. Management of the squads, arranging schedules, and representing the institution in conferences of athletic directors are among the things in which he is personally engaged, and the prestige which he carries among directors of athletics in the biggest and best colleges and universities in the country is invaluable.

The coaching staff of the college is a well-balanced and an adequate one. The organization and control is similar to that used most successfully in the middle west, and the equipment with which the squads work—with the possible exception of the athletic field—is of the best. The value of such a staff and such equipment to the institution at large is expected to make itself evident in the near future.

JACK HEPPINSTALL—TRAINER

For eight years Jack Heppinstall has trained Michigan Aggie athletic teams, cared for the injured, watched over equipment, and served the college loyally. He typifies the spirit which has in the past and will in the future produce winners of the first rank.

ALBERT BARRON, COACH

Head coach Bert Barron came to M. A. C. under a three-year contract at a time when conditions were, in all probability, the least encouraging that they had been in years. And he started to build. When his first season was over, he started to form his plans for the coming year. Everything he has done has been founded on the idea of returning the Michigan Aggie football prowess by normal processes to the position it once enjoyed—greatest in the west. The student body and the athletes have faith in his ability to accomplish his purpose.

Football 1921

T. W. SKUCE, STUDENT MANAGER

As a football manager, "Tommy" Skuce has no superiors. A harder-working man could not be found to see to the needs of the football men. Always on the job, always knowing just what had to be done and how to do it, Tommy set a standard that will keep all future managers at full speed to equal.

JOHN BOS, CAPTAIN

Captain John Bos has been recognized as a great leader, as well as an athlete of unusual ability. The fact that, as a member of a winning team he might have gained high individual honors never swerved him from his aim to lead the 1921 Michigan Aggie team to the best of his ability and play the game as hard as he knew how to play it. Consistent in his training and tireless in his work, he set an example in these things, worthy of being followed.

1921 Football Review

Losing five games, only two of which were earned victories for their opponents, the Michigan Aggie season of 1921 could not be called successful. Of the games won, none were won as decisively as they should have been.

Following defeat at the hands of a team which the Aggies had felt confident of defeating by a safe margin, the team played its "big" game of the season. The game was great; for during the first half, a bigger, more experienced, and apparently better, team was outplayed in every department of the sport. It is the one game of the season to which the Aggies can point with pride.

Two of the defeats came on fields, the condition of which might well be the cause for any defeat, but both games should have been won by the Aggies. Western State Normal and South Dakota were defeated thus taking some of the sting out of repeated defeats. The final game of the season was lost to Notre Dame, 48 to 0.

WILLIAM C. JOHNSON, CAPTAIN-ELECT

When Bill Johnson was chosen to captain the 1922 squad, a man was selected who will lead through action, not words. Two years on the varsity have gained recognition for him as a backfield man with unusual talent. His term as captain should be a most successful one.

HARRY GRAVES

Graves' greatest feats during the 1921 season were his performances in secondary defense. Playing close behind the line, he solved almost every play attempted by an opposing team soon after it was started, and it was more often true than otherwise that when the runner was brought down, Graves was in the midst of the movement to stop him.

Michigan Aggies, 28; Alma, 0. On October 1, four days before the opening of the college for the year, the varsity played its first game. Students were already beginning to arrive in East Lansing, and as a result the crowd for the initial engagement of the team was fairly large. Alma proved an easy opponent and Coach Barron made numerous shifts in the team, this probably accounting for the fact that the score was no larger. The game was without noteworthy features, although it did leave the impression that the Aggies were at least as strong as they had been the previous year.

The Aggie line piles 'em up in the Albion game.

EDWARD I. MATSON

The close of the 1921 season brought Matson his third monogram and closed his three-year career as a guard on the Michigan Aggie eleven. During that time he developed into a consistent, hard-working lineman, and became one of the mainstays of the squad.

HUGO T. SWANSON

Swanson's second year on the varsity was an active one for scarcely a game passed in which he was not used from beginning to end. Playing at guard, he held up his position in the line so successfully that a substitution was seldom made.

Michigan Aggies, 7; Albion, 24. In the second game, however, a surprise awaited everybody connected with or interested in the team. Confident that they were entering another game which would prove little harder than their first one, the members of the squad received a shock shortly after the start of the game. Albion was neither to be swept over in a scoring orgy, nor easily stopped in its attacks on the Aggie goal.

Loose playing on the part of Barron's men was largely responsible for the size of the score. On one occasion when they had taken a brace and had marched to within five yards of the Albion goal line, a fumble occurred. The ball was scooped up by the Albion end, who ran the length of the field for a touchdown. Still later in the game, an attempt on the part of the Aggies to score in a short period of time with open football resulted in another Albion touchdown and gave the score its final proportions.

Johnson is brought to earth after a wide run around end in the Albion game.

UBOLD J. NOBLET

It would be hard to find an athlete anywhere who threw himself more seriously into the business of training and playing the game than did "Nobey." Because of his willingness to stand any grind and take any sort of punishment, the place he has held on the squad during the past three years will be a hard one to fill.

CHARLES A. WECKLER

Because of the fact that he wore the lines of a bantamweight, Weckler was a member of the Aggie squad for more than two full seasons before he received his chance to prove his worth. His performance in the Michigan game will be remembered on the campus longer than the game itself.

Michigan Aggies, 0; Michigan, 30. Followers of Michigan, followers of the Aggies, and the sport world in general in this part of the country received a jolt the following Saturday, when at Ann Arbor, the Aggies came back with a stiffened defense and a rebuilt attack which threatened for a time to completely check the Yostmen. During the first half, the Wolverines scored only once—the touchdown coming after a fumble—and thruout the remainder of the half they were outfought and outplayed in the opinion of sport critics who reported the game.

Michigan was better able to afford the loss of men thru injuries which occurred to both teams during the first half than the Aggies were. As a result, the second half brought about a mounting score which was finally closed when a total of thirty points had been reached. In spite of the second half the game served to restore confidence in the team, and to give it a name as a strong defensive machine.

Merely one of the numerous successful Aggie line punches against Alma.

WAYNE A. GINGRICH

When "Red" was playing an end position it was anything but a healthy place at which to direct a play. His faculty for diagnosing attacks on the Aggie wing was a big factor in the well-known defensive strength of the team.

RUSSELL A. MORRISON

"Bus" completed very creditably his second year of varsity football. Originally a guard, he was forced to put in much extra work to accomplish a shift to center, but application to the job won him the position for the entire season.

Michigan Aggies, 17; Western State Normal, 14. The stand taken in the Michigan game did not bring back a spirit of over-confidence, however, and when Barron's men faced Western State Normal the following week, they were more determined to win than assured that they could do it easily. The previous year, the Teachers had slipped a victory across, and they were not to be taken lightly.

The newly acquired mental attitude seemed to do its work, for Western State Normal, a team which had defeated Albion, left East Lansing on the small end of the score even though the difference in counts was small. For many of the students it was the first victory witnessed during the year.

Illustrating the business of taking the pigskin up the sidelines against Western State Normal.

GASTAV A. THORPE

Used part of the time in one tackle berth and part of the time in the other, Gus put in nearly as much actual time on the field as any other man on the squad. Work in large quantities never phased him and he faced the most experienced opponent with just as great willingness as he entered the minor games.

WARREN PARKS

Although "Pug" was often hindered by the effects of an old injury, when he was able to play there was no more aggressive lineman on the team, and on several occasions he continued his battering at opposing lines even when the impeding member was causing him enough trouble to make it necessary that he use every bit of courage he could summon or leave the field.

Michigan Aggies, 0; Marquette, 7. At Milwaukee the next Saturday, the Aggies played Marquette on a field that was literally covered with a six-inch facing of mud. The game was not a test of the ability of either team, and it was claimed afterwards that the plays in which the ball was fumbled by one team or the other actually out numbered those in which the mud-covered leather was handled properly.

Through the greater part of the game neither team received any particular advantage from the errors but shortly before the close, the Aggies misplayed close to their own goal and the result was a touchdown and a kicked goal for Marquette.

Kalamazoo Teachers fail to puncture the Aggie line.

JACOB O. BRADY

Alternating between quarter and half, "Jake" did even more to prove his ability as an athlete than he had done previously. Endowed with considerably more than ordinary speed, he gained frequently around end, and possessed also of better than average football experience, he piloted the team wisely when he was used as quarter.

HAROLD K. ARCHEOLD

"Arch" was the one sophomore who was able to win a regular berth on the 1921 squad. He was injured early in the training season, and was handicapped in this way to some extent throughout the season, but he managed to retain his position nevertheless. He is expected to prove even more valuable during his remaining two years of eligibility.

Michigan Aggies, 14; South Dakota, 0. On the occasion of the Homecoming game the Aggie field was filled to capacity. In spite of the discouraging reports which were necessarily circulated concerning the team, alumni returned in greater numbers than ever before, and the attendance at the game approximated seven thousand.

South Dakota proved no match for the Aggies, who, had they played consistently should have been winners by twenty-eight points or more. However, after the misfortunes of that part of the season which was past, any sort of decisive victory was very acceptable. The fact that a higher score might have been made did not, in any way, dampen the Homecoming celebration.

It takes a low tackle to drop "Harry," but this South Dakota man got him after a gain around end.

Michigan Aggies, 2; Butler 3. The Aggies received their second experience of cavorting in the mud at Indianapolis the following week. The field on which they played Butler College was in the same condition as the field in Milwaukee had been, and there was little difference in the game.

Gaining two points on a safety, the Aggies scored first in the opening half, but after Pat Page's athletes had taken a one-point lead by means of a place kick, the Aggies were unable to get back into the long end of the scoring, and the game closed with the very diminutive and unsatisfactory score of 3 to 2.

Michigan Aggies, 0; Notre Dame 48. It has been said that Notre Dame on the occasion of her game with the Michigan Aggies was at her best for the entire season. Thirteen of her best men were playing their last game, and everything they had went into the process. The higher the score mounted, the harder they played.

Accompanied by the Varsity band and a couple of hundred students, the team went out to play the Irishmen on Thanksgiving Day. That they were up against the greatest team in the country, the Aggies were forced to admit, but from the manner in which they took up the fight after each successive touchdown, it would never have been suspected that they admitted anything. The final score was the largest piled up against the Aggies in more years than most people remember.

Prospects For The 1922 Season

Michigan Aggies look to the coming football season as the one in which their return to a high place among the gridiron powers of the country will commence. They believe that the results of next season will show that the worst of the "depression" has been passed and that football here is "looking up."

Head Coach Bert Barron and Line Coach Dick Rauch, both schooled in the Bezdek system, will work together in greater harmony than has been found on the staff in previous years. Uniformity in coaching methods and familiarity with the men will mean much to the success of the squad.

Most important, however, is the material which will be available. From the freshmen squad of 1921 comes the most likely looking lot of candidates that the varsity has had to draw from in a number of years.

It is believed, with good cause, that the come-back is well started, and that the time is not far distant when a few disastrous seasons will be forgotten in the celebration of really successful ones.

LYMAN L. FRIMODIG, Coach

A graduate of M. A. C. and a star basketball player, "Frim" carried over into his coaching work the fighting Aggie spirit that wins even though losing. His ability as a player enabled him to show his men many of the fine points of the game.

Basketball 1922

L. E. HEASLEY, Captain

A faster player and one more easy to watch than "Doc" will not easily be found. When his caging eye was with him he scored with frequency that was disastrous to any five opposing the Aggies. As 1922 Captain he played his last year of Varsity basketball.

1922 Basketball Review

Worse seasons than the past have been suffered by Michigan Aggie basketball squads, but on the other hand better ones have passed within the last few years. Because of the number of varsity men with which the season was opened greater success was expected than was encountered in some of the games.

The Aggies won every game they played before they met Michigan for the first time, and they lost to the Wolverines by a single point in an overtime game. That much of the season and the next part up to and including the Kalamazoo college game, which was the second lost, were creditably passed through.

Shortly afterward, however, the squad went on the road, losing six games to teams that would have fallen before the Aggies playing in form. These defeats were attributed largely to the number of games played within a short period of time and it is probable that the blame was rightly placed.

In their first game at home, the Aggies defeated Notre Dame decisively, only to lose to Marquette, a weaker team a few days later. Taking a brace they met Michigan for the second time, and a battle which was lost by only two points resulted.

During the remainder of the season two games were won and two lost; and the summary showed eleven victories and twelve defeats. A slump which had struck the team was still showing its effects in the last game which was won from a weak opponent by a margin of only four points.

It was generally believed by those responsible for the team that too many games had been played. A number of good teams were played, but the schedule was loaded with games in which mediocre opponents were met and some of these were lost simply because the squad had been playing too continuously.

C. W. FESSENDEN. Captain-elect

Like most members of the basketball squad, "Fessy" is a two sport man. However, in his case, basketball comes first. Fessenden will captain the squad in 1922-'23.

Michigan Aggies, 38; Carnegie Tech, 18. Carnegie Tech. journeyed west during the holiday vacation to accept one of its worst defeats at the hands of Coach Frimodig's veteran quintet. With the exception of Swanson, every man who started this game was one of the preceding season's first-string court athletes, and it was not hard for them to administer a decisive beating.

Michigan Aggies, 33; Albion, 13. The first game after the reopening of school brought Albion to East Lansing. The Methodists suffered an even worse defeat than that handed Carnegie Tech. In this game a number of substitutions were made but the scoring and defensive power of the Aggies never slumped visibly.

Michigan Aggies, 56; Detroit Law, 3. The maximum maximorum in the way of scores was hit in the game with Detroit College of Law. The opposition in this game proved sadly unequal to the task of holding the Aggies in check or penetrating the defense of Frimodig's men in order to score. The trio of the losers' points was gathered on successful free throws.

Michigan Aggies, 43; Alma, 17. To make it four straight, the Aggies triumphed easily over Alma in the next game. Like their predecessors on the East Lansing court, the Presbyterians were unable to make themselves dangerous to Frimodig's men at any time, and the game was, of course, a tame one.

W. J. FOSTER

"Jack's" last season of three on the varsity might easily be called his greatest. He served as the keystone for all Aggie attacks and proved himself a defensive power in every game.

Michigan Aggies, 26; Michigan, 27. One of the hardest games of the season for the team occurred at Ann Arbor where Michigan was met for the first time. Here the score was tied at the close of the second half, tied again at the close of the first period, and when the second five-minute period ended the Wolverines led by only one point. It was the first defeat of the season and one that was anything but discrediting.

Michigan Aggies, 28; Ypsilanti Normal, 22. Ypsi promised to be one of the best teams on the books for the Aggies, and lived up to that promise. It was no small task for the Aggies to win by six points, and it was accomplished only because every man of the five was travelling at his best.

Michigan Aggies, 30; Valparaiso, 21. The Valparaiso five came to East Lansing with a great record. A victory was by no means assured at the opening of the game, but by settling down to the business of rushing their Hoosier opponents off their feet the Aggies were able to come through on the long end of the score in good style.

Michigan Aggies, 28; Kalamazoo, 39. Kalamazoo administered the first decisive defeat of the season and was not unjustified in doing it. The Kalamazoo quintet was one to be respected, probably the fastest seen at East Lansing during the winter and there are no apologies needed for the result of the game.

E. A. GILKEY

For three seasons, "Eddie" was high score man and the most dependable forward on the squad. Team slumps seldom affected him, and he rarely suffered a letdown in speed from the beginning of a season to its end.

Michigan Aggies, 28; Mt. Pleasant, 21. Evidently heartened by Kalamazoo's victory over the Aggies, Mt. Pleasant came to East Lansing prepared to be the next victor. The ambition was nipped, however, with no unusual effort on the part of Frimodig's men, and the Normal school team and its supporters were forced to make the return trip unbolstered by the memories of a victory.

Michigan Aggies, 22; Ohio Wesleyan, 25. The team took to the road at this stage, and did it—luckily—without being able to foresee the results. The first game was played against Ohio Wesleyan, the institution sponsored in athletics by George Gauthier, former Aggie basketball star and coach. Here a defeat by a small margin was accepted from a team which should have been beaten by the Aggies had they been at their usual standard.

Michigan Aggies, 25; Oberlin, 26. Another close game was dropped to Oberlin the following night, and this one too might have been won by the team when it was in proper form. However, it seemed outside the possibilities of the squad to keep the big end of the score in a game not played on its own floor.

Michigan Aggies, 22; Notre Dame, 30. The first game played by Notre Dame after Rockne's w. k. "house cleaning" brought the Irishmen into an encounter with the Aggies. Strange as it may seem, the declaration of ineligibility of some members of the squad and the consequent replacement strengthened rather than weakened the team, and Notre Dame won with a nine point lead.

E. L. MATSON

For "Matty" basketball was a sport secondary to football, but he worked just as hard on the court as he had on the barred field. He played the running guard position for two years.

Michigan Aggies, 30; Creighton, 41. From Notre Dame the Aggies went to Omaha, there to meet Creighton, the team with which they had played more games in the past seasons than with any other. The Aggies were thought to hold a slight advantage over the Nebraskans, but the results of the first game did not confirm this belief.

Michigan Aggies, 21; Creighton, 25. Again on the following night the Aggies attempted conquest of Creighton and again they suffered a setback. This time, however, the advantage was not so clearly with the Omaha team, and the game was more evenly matched throughout.

Michigan Aggies, 14; Lombard 26. The last game of the long trip was lost to Lombard with a rather wide difference in scores. This game was not a fair test of the Aggie ability, coming as it did at the close of a twelve day tour in which games were thick, and the loss was nothing to bring discouragement.

Michigan Aggies, 30; Notre Dame, 24. An opportunity to even the count with Notre Dame came with the first game at home after the trip, and all due advantage was taken of it. The Irishmen were decisively put down and the usual business of losing to them at Notre Dame and winning from them at East Lansing was thus accomplished.

H. T. SWANSON

"Hugo" made his first basketball monogram this year, and while he lacked some of the experience of other members of the squad, he made up for it with tireless work and the aggressiveness with which he entered every game he played.

A. L. BROWN

"Al" was used in three positions during the season, before being shifted from forward to center or guard. His ability to work in any of the positions made him a valuable man to the squad.

Michigan Aggies, 19; Marquette, 26. To Marquette, a less worthy opponent than Notre Dame, however, the team lost in the next game. The holding game played by the Milwaukee five drew the Aggies out to their own disaster and slowed the game to such an extent that from the standpoint of the spectators it was the most miserable exhibition of the season.

Michigan Aggies, 17; Michigan, 19. Michigan was met for the second time in the next game, and once more the Aggies lost by a very narrow margin. This time extra periods were not required but the outcome was in doubt at all times and the Wolverines had to be in their best winning form to get the decision.

Michigan Aggies, 17; Ohio Wesleyan, 29. A second game was lost to Ohio Wesleyan when the Buckeye Methodists came to East Lansing. Undoubtedly the team was a good one, but it was in this game and the Marquette tilt that the Aggies were hardest hit by their slump while at home. It is possible that Wesleyan would have been victor under any conditions, but it seems hardly probable.

S. L. PACYNSKI

While "Stan" played just enough to come within monogram limits, it was only because the season was started with a full team of veterans that he was not used more often. It is evident that he will make a great fight for first-string recognition next season.

F. E. WILCOX

"Freddie" was hampered at the beginning of the season by an injury received in football, but when he was ready to play his speed served to get him into the game frequently.

Michigan Aggies, 28; Creighton, 34. For the first time since Creighton has been playing the Aggies, the Omaha five won a game at East Lansing. It was the third of the season for Creighton over Frimodig's men, and it was also, the last defeat suffered by the Aggies during the year.

Michigan Aggies, 29; Hope 28. The Aggies were themselves again when they played Hope. The Hollanders formed a team which for speed was second only to the Kalamazoo quintet among the teams that came to East Lansing, but it was distinctly an Aggie evening, and while the score was anything but decisive, it was hard to feel any doubt as to which team was going to win.

Michigan Aggies, 25; Chicago "Y" College, 21. The last game of the season was played in the afternoon, and it was interesting only because it was won. The change in lighting had an effect on the team which seemed to slow it down and the opposition, that should have been trounced as soundly as were the teams with which the season was opened, was barely defeated. Nine men were used in the game, however, and the fact that the season was closed with a victory was worth a lot after the ups and downs that the year had brought.

Prospects for 1923

Prospects for 1923 are not, at present, as encouraging as they were for the 1922 basketball season. The number and calibre of monogram men available at the beginning of the season will be considerably less imposing, and the development of individual athletes will hinge upon the number of men brought up from the last freshman team.

However, the policy which is being adopted for basketball, leads to the belief that in spite of the handicap in seasoned material a more successful year can be reasonably expected. That the schedule which is to be arranged is to be considerably more favorable to a winning team cannot be doubted.

While in the past season, twenty-three intercollegiate games were scheduled and played, the number for 1923 is to be cut to fourteen or fifteen. There will be no weeks in which the squad is required to play four or five games, and none but the best teams available will be included on the schedule.

The policy of the squad, summed up, will be to play fewer and better games, and to put everything into the winning of each game as it comes. That this will result in a more successful year on the court is probable. Captain-elect Fessenden, Pacynski, and Swanson will be the monogram men available for the squad.

Baseball 1921

"POTSY" CLARK, COACH

With experience in coaching college baseball and a personality which made him respected by his men as well as popular with them, George ("Potsy") Clark proved an ideal coach. That the season was not more successful in no way reflects upon his ability to teach the game and direct the team.

J. TYSON, STUDENT MANAGER.

Being a man who could make speed and obtain results at the same time, Jim Tyson, as student manager of the 1921 baseball squad, was a distinct success. The example which he set for his assistants paved the way to securing able managers for seasons to come.

W. K. WILLMAN, CAPTAIN

A dependable hitter, an unflinching fielder, and above all a great leader was Willman, captain of the 1921 squad. As an outfielder, it is doubtful if Willie had a peer in college baseball; and as a pilot he left nothing to be desired.

1921 Baseball Review

Starting the season with a series of victories, the Aggie baseball squad of 1921 forfeited its chance for an exceptionally brilliant season through errors in the field. Ably-coached, reasonably strong in hitting, and bolstered by a very capable pitching staff, the Aggies accepted few defeats not caused by their own loose fielding.

And still the season was not altogether a disastrous one. Several individual games, including the extra-inning battle with Michigan, the game with Iowa, and the over-time victory over Western State Normal, bear witness to the statement that the team was strong and that it could, on occasions, be compared with the best college and university teams in the Middle West.

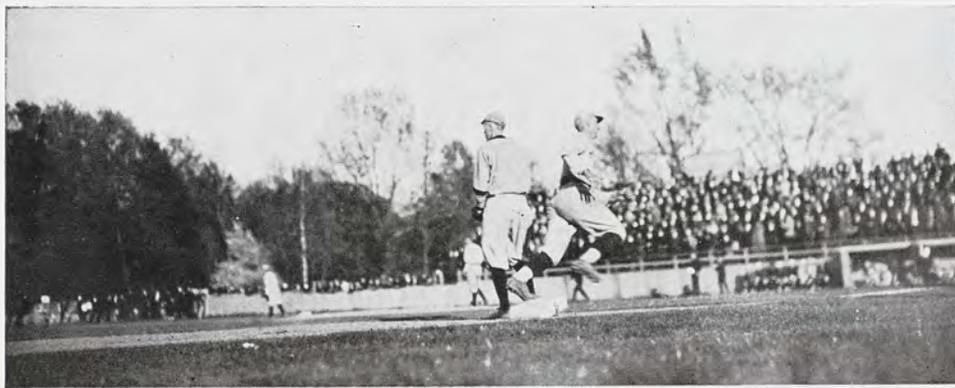

Captain-elect A. L. BROWN

Cool, experienced, capable,—that describes Al Brown, captain elect of the 1922 squad. Brown started his collegiate diamond career as a pitcher, but when a lack of first-basemen outweighed the need of numerous twirlers, he gave proof of his versatility by shifting to the initial sack and covering it almost faultlessly.

Michigan Aggies, 14; Albion, 4. The 1922 season was opened auspiciously with a very decisive victory over Albion. Hope was scheduled to precede Albion on the schedule but the usual early season rain prevented the playing of this game. Coach "Potsy" Clark took advantage of the opportunity to try out his entire pitching staff under fire. Herb Hartwig, the only veteran on the staff, started the game, and during the two innings that he pitched, struck out four men. Ross, Kuhn, and Johnson made their bows as varsity twirlers in turn. In the two innings that Kuhn pitched the six men who faced him fanned. Captain Willman carried off hitting and base stealing honors.

Michigan Aggies, 12; W. S. N., 6. A second victory was won at the expense of Western State Normal after the game with Kalamazoo College had been cancelled because of rain. Kuhn again featured by striking out nine men during the four innings in which he occupied the mound. Brown added greatly to his stolen base record, and he, McMillan, and Pacynski each secured two clean hits.

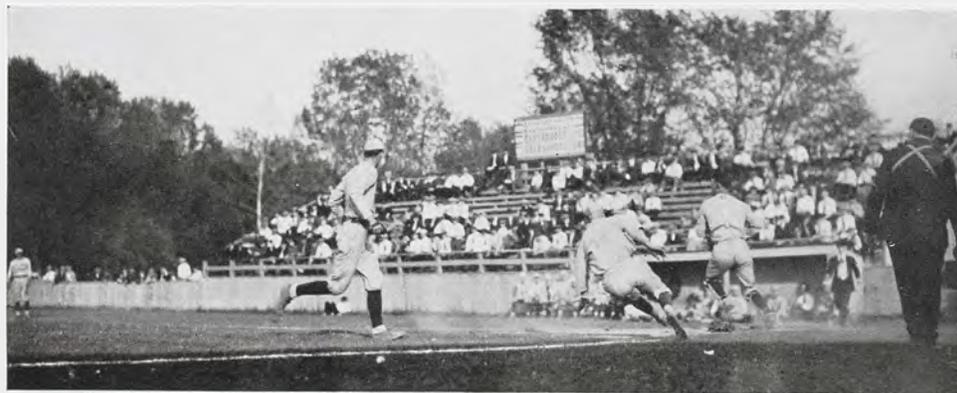

No question as to whether or not Brown touched all the corners. This departure from third was characteristic of his work during the 1921 season.

REYNOLD G. OAS

The pitcher who had Oas for a battery-mate needed to feel no anxiety concerning the manner in which his offerings would be handled. "Swede's" departure into the ranks of Aggie alumni left a distinct void in the baseball squad.

Michigan Aggies, 12; St. Mary's, 9. The first game on the road gave the Aggies an addition to their list of games won. St. Mary's is known for capable baseball squads but on this occasion the Clark-coached organization was too much for the seminarians. McMillan featured the hitting with a triple-base blow. Willman twisted his ankle during the game, giving Kuhn an opportunity to display his versatility when he was drafted for outer garden duty.

Michigan Aggies, 9; Oberlin, 6. In their second game away from home, that against Oberlin, the Aggies defeated their opponents with a score of 9 to 6. Bill Johnson, the always-reliable hurler, pitched unbeatable baseball for seven innings, and when he let down slightly in the eighth, Kuhn was sent in to put the game on ice. Johnson, McMillan, and Pacynski, with three safeties each, lead the Aggies in hitting. Errors in the first and last innings accounted for Oberlin's scoring in these frames.

Just one of the ten runs made in one inning of the first Oberlin game. Credit Johnson with this one.

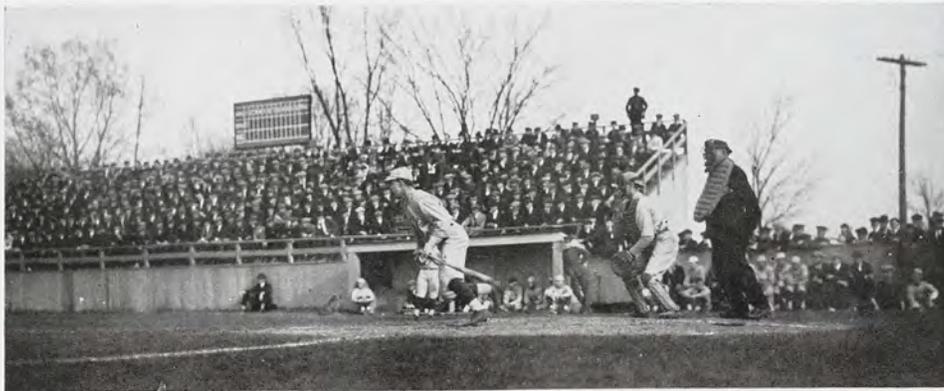

N. R. CARR

Injuries prevented Nels Carr, veteran shortstop, from playing the entire 1921 season with the Aggies. When he filled the berth, a blow into his territory invariably meant death to the hitter; when he was forced to sit on the bench, the team felt his absence.

Michigan Aggies, 6; DePauw, 0. DePauw suffered the first shut-out of the season here in a game which Fullen featured with a home run. In the third inning, Fullen drove the sphere into the river on a line just inside the right field foul line. Johnson pitched the first six innings, allowing only two hits, while Kuhn in the last three allowed a like number of bingles. DePauw threatened to score only once. In the sixth inning a Hoosier runner reached third, but he was unable to complete the circuit.

Valparaiso, 6; Michigan Aggies, 5. Outhitting their opponents two to one but at the same time making more costly errors, the Aggies lost to Valparaiso, 6 to 5. Loose fielding on both sides was evident throughout the game. Ross, who started the game for the Aggies, allowed four runs in the first inning before he was replaced by Kuhn. Although the Aggies rallied later in the fracas, single tallies registered by Valparaiso in the fourth and ninth innings prevented them from going into the lead.

Presenting McMillan in the role of lead-off man. Even in the first game of the season the hitting habit had gripped him.

W. C. JOHNSON

When football does not keep him busy, Johnson spends his spare time in baseball spikes, and does it so successfully that he ranks with Kuhn and Ross, as a leading pitcher. Like the others, too, Johnson played his first season of varsity baseball in 1921 and has other years in which to continue his good work.

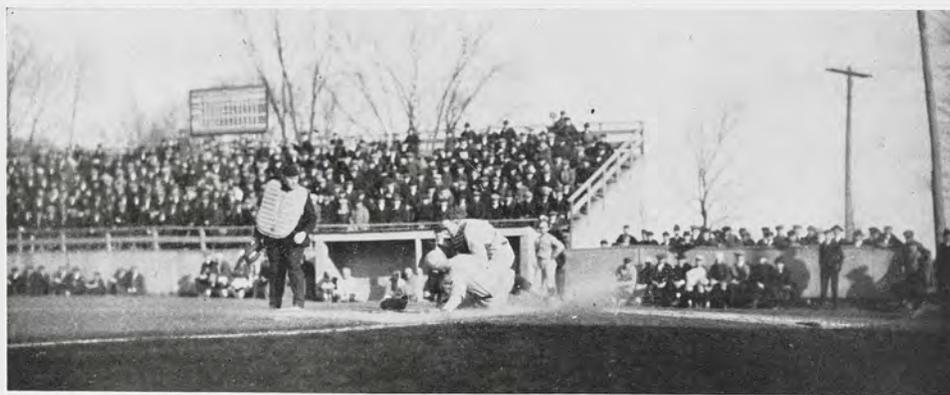

L. S. Ross

Pitching against Freeman, who later went to the Philadelphia Americans, Ross won from Western State Normal in thirteen innings. Although nothing more was needed to give him a place as one of the leading twirlers on the squad, several other creditable mound performances marked his first year on the varsity.

Michigan, 7; Michigan Aggies, 6. With a desperate rally in the ninth inning, the Aggies tied Michigan and made the first of two games an overtime battle. The Wolverines received the benefit in a close decision at the plate after two were out in the tenth and the game was lost to the Aggies. While they outhit their opponents more than two to one, the Aggies also featured the error column. However this did not prevent the game from taking rank as the greatest battle on College field in several seasons, the ninth inning rally undeniably placing it in that position.

Iowa, 5; Michigan Aggies, 3. Meeting their second Western Conference opponent within a week, the Aggies again lost on errors to Iowa. This time their total of hits nearly trebled that of their opponents, and Johnson, the pitcher of the occasion, deserved to win. Faulty fielding behind him was responsible for his defeat. Daley, the promising shortstop who suffered a broken ankle in pre-season practice, was given his first chance and acquitted himself very creditably during the time he played.

Umps Green had to look sharp or miss this one. It was one of three runs scored against Iowa.

B. KUHN

Greater speed than that possessed by Bub was not displayed by a single pitcher who opposed the Aggies in 1921; but in addition to speed he had control, a hitting eye, and excellent judgment in the field. Kuhn is slated to give his valuable services to the teams of 1922 and 1923.

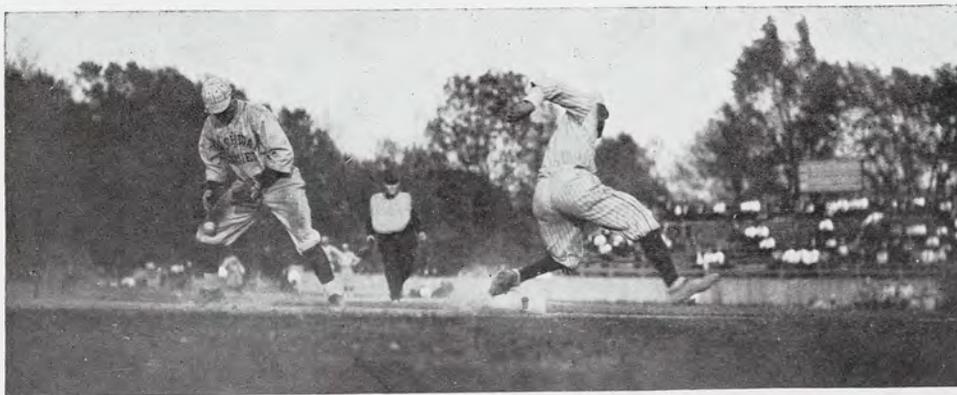

R. A. McMILLAN

It is not every man who is intrusted with the lead-off position in the batting order his first year on the varsity. Mac was given this honor at the beginning of the 1921 season, and the manner in which he filled the trust is vouched for by the fact that the top of the hitting list was never changed. His fielding kept pace with his hitting, and more than that could not be asked.

Notre Dame, 7; Michigan Aggies, 4. To Notre Dame goes credit for the first earned victory over the 1921 Aggie squad. The Irishmen came to East Lansing with a team of exceptional hitters, and while the fielding of the Aggies was not brilliant, it was by virtue of their capabilities for punishing the horsehide that the visitors won. An unusual proportion of the Notre Dame runs were made after two men had been retired.

Michigan Aggies, 10; Oberlin, 2. One inning in which the Aggies romped around the bases almost at will brought down a very decisive defeat upon Oberlin, 10 to 2. Air-tight baseball on the part of both teams marked the first three and a half innings, but when the Aggies opened up with a concentrated attack in the fourth inning, they were not to be denied success. Al Brown changed his character on this occasion, and became once more the crafty pitcher that he was in his first season on the varsity. Higbie was used in his place at first base.

When he couldn't make an out, Mac seldom failed to hold a runner on third by some means or another.

N. V. FULLEN

Fullen's forte was his ability to crash the leather-covered sphere into the river. In his second year of varsity baseball he distinguished himself as one of the longest clubbers on the squad. In the field he covered second base.

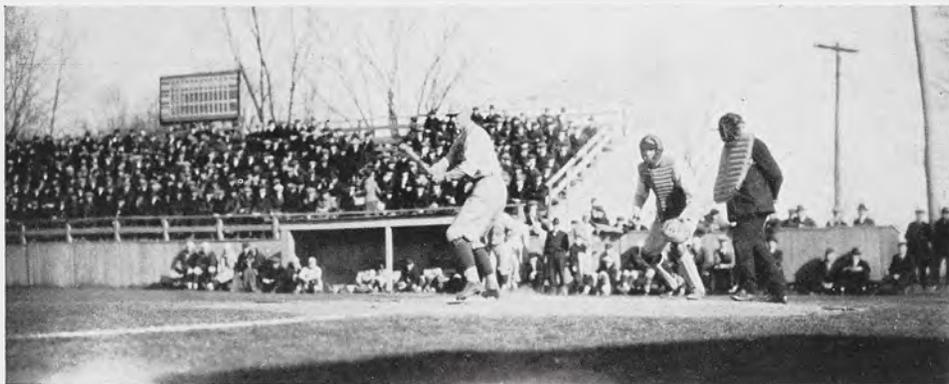

S. L. PACYNSKI

Stan celebrated his first year on the varsity in every game he played. He proved a dependable fielder and a good hitter, and after one season he was counted upon to fill the left garden for two years more.

Oberlin, 3; Michigan Aggies, 1. In the second game of a two-day series, Oberlin retaliated to some extent and defeated the Aggies, 3 to 1. The game was in reality a pitchers' battle between Ross and Andrews. During the first three innings only nine men faced Ross, while during the same period only ten Aggies were given chances at bat.

Michigan Aggies, 3; W. S. N., 2. Next to the Michigan game at East Lansing, the thirteen-inning struggle between the Aggies and Western State Normal at Kalamazoo stands out as the greatest battle of the season. At this time Ross opposed Buck Freeman, later with the Philadelphia Americans. The Kalamazoo team scored twice in the second inning, and then stopped. Two runs by the Aggies made in the fourth set up a tie which was not broken until the thirteenth frame. Kuhn relieved Ross in the ninth inning and finished the game faultlessly.

Willman finds one in the Michigan Game, when the Aggies threatened to win despite all the breaks in favor of the opponents.

Notre Dame, 8; Michigan Aggies, 4. Brown's second start on the mound proved less fortunate than his first. In that game the Aggies lost a second time to Notre Dame, 8 to 4. In the seventh inning the Green hitters came within one run of tying the score and made it necessary for Notre Dame to recall her pitcher to halt the rally. In this game, as in the first of the season with Notre Dame, the Aggies were out-hit decisively.

Valparaiso, 6; Michigan Aggies, 3. One bad inning cost the Aggies their second game with Valparaiso. Johnson was easily master of the situation until the sixth inning when he let down and allowed four runs to slip in before he was removed from the hill. The entire game, with the exception of the one inning, demonstrated superior playing on the part of the Aggies.

Michigan, 8; Michigan Aggies, 5. A second game with Michigan and a second defeat at the hands of the Wolverines closed the season for the Aggies. Rallying in the seventh inning, Captain Willman and his followers attempted to overcome the eight run lead set up by Michigan during the first six innings, but while they were able to force the Michigan twirler from the mound, they never quite succeeded in overtaking the leaders. For Willman, Oas, Carr, and Hartwig, this game was a curtain on collegiate baseball.

Prospects For The 1922 Season

With three star twirlers, a veteran first baseman, a good second baseman, and a steady outfielder, as a nucleus, John Morrissey, Aggie coach in 1916 and 1917, started in March to build the Aggie machine of 1922. Brown, Fullen, Johnson, Kuhn, Ross, and Pacynski are the letter men back. Kaiser, Daley, Farley, and Schwartz are the outstanding men from the 1921 reserves. Lacking a catcher, shortstop, third baseman, and two outfielders, Coach Morrissey will endeavor to repeat his successes of his former years as Aggie coach. The biggest problem is to fill Swede Oas's shoes behind the bat. But with the ability to develop players, and the men to develop, there is no question but that our new coach will turn out a winning team.

The schedule includes games with Michigan, Indiana, Notre Dame, and Maryland. It is a hard schedule, but one that will only serve to bring forth the real ability of Aggie teams. When the last "out" is called at the end of the season, the majority of the games will be found on the right side of the ledger.

Coach

Art Smith was the man that lifted track out of the slump into which it had fallen. Taking charge of a squad which consisted of a very few really good track men and a somewhat larger lot of ambitious, but inexperienced candidates, he built up a real team. The present healthy and developing condition of the track squad is due largely to his work with the individuals who make it up. The end of Smith's regime, found the Aggie track men stepping into fast company and coming out very creditably.

Track 1921

T. C. WILLOUGHBY
Student Manager

The job of looking after the needs of varsity trackmen fell to "Ted" Willoughby, when Howard Chapel, the chosen manager for '21, graduated at the end of the winter term. That he filled his job in an acceptable fashion is proved by the fact that he was appointed manager for the 1922 season.

DEGAY, ERNST, Captain

A remarkable stride and natural cinder track instincts are qualities which make Captain DeGay Ernst one of the leading quarter-milers in the middle west. His versatility has made him the Michigan Aggies' greatest point winner.

1921 Track Review

During the 1921 season, the Michigan Aggie track squad competed in three dual meets and two intercollegiates. Of the dual meets, two were won and one was lost, the first two taken from Western State Normal and DePauw University and the third dropped to Notre Dame. The Michigan State Intercollegiate was won without difficulty, and the season was closed when Captain Ernst and Fessenden were sent to the Western Conference meet to represent the Aggies in the big western meet of the season.

LLOYD M. THURSTON

"Thursty" has been one of the mainstays of the Aggie squad for three seasons. In the two-mile run he has met few men who could defeat him, and his appearance on the starting line has usually been followed by an addition of five points to the Aggie total.

On May 7, the team was taken to Kalamazoo to compete against Western State Normal in a dual meet. In this meet Ernst first tried the hurdles in actual competition and came out with a first place in the journey over the high barriers. The Aggies were winners in this meet, $81\frac{1}{2}$ to $47\frac{1}{2}$.

Notre Dame came to East Lansing the following Saturday, bringing her representatives on the last Olympic team, and Desch, who had set a new world's record in the hurdles two weeks before. Ernst again starred for the Aggies when he won the quarter mile in $49\frac{3}{5}$ seconds and took a third place in the 100-yard dash which was won by Hayes, Olympic star, in 10 seconds.

Fessenden again proved his superiority over the Notre Dame discus men by defeating Shaw in this event. As a freshman the year before he had defeated Notre Dame varsity men at Notre Dame. Fessenden took second in the shot put to round out the afternoon.

In this meet Houston took his first first-place in the mile while Adolph followed him closely for second place in the event. Brady grabbed five points in the broad jump and Brooker was winner in the pole vault. The final score was: Notre Dame, 80; Michigan Aggies 47.

Thurston runs into first place without any difficulty.

FRED P. ADOLPH

A distance-eating stride and an unusual supply of stamina have made Adolph a track power at M. A. C. On several occasions, his unlimited determination carried him past his opponents to victory in an event which had seemed to be lost.

ROBERT E. HOUSTON

Perseverance developed "Bub" from a track candidate of little evident promise to a record-smasher, in three years with the varsity. He first ran his way to prominence in his Junior year, and from that time on his performances improved steadily.

On May 21, the Aggies travelled to Greencastle to meet DePauw track men. Here again Ernst featured the afternoon by taking three first places, the 220-yard dash, the quarter-mile, and the 220-yard low hurdles being the events he won. Fessenden grabbed firsts in both the shot put and the discus, while Adolph, Thurston, Perry, Brooker, Brady, and Atkins all added other first places to the Aggie total. The score was: Michigan Aggies, 73; DePauw, 53.

Wynne taking first place for Notre Dame in the high hurdles. Temple of Michigan Aggies finished third in the event.

CLARENCE W. FESSENDEN

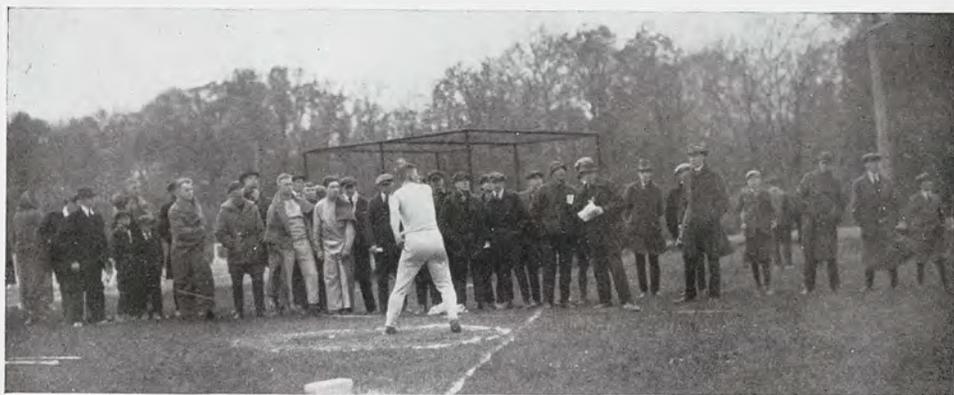

"Fessy" made himself known as a capable tosser of shot and discus during his season with the freshman track squad. Since that time he has not disappointed those who predicted most for him as a varsity man.

JOHN J. SCHWEI

Being able to compete in three weight events made Jack Schwei a valuable man to the track squad. During his term of eligibility for the varsity he figured in practically every meet, with the shot, the discus, and the javelin.

One week later Ernst and Fessenden went to the Western Conference meet. "Fessy" was eliminated in the trials, but Ernst ran to first place in his trial heat. At the finish, the man running just behind him stumbled and fell, taking Ernst to the cinders with him. In spite of this misfortune, the Aggie captain ran to third place in the finals the following day, and in this way closed the season for the Green and White.

Schwei hurls the discus for the usual points.

ANTHONY J. BRENDEL

Consistency and dependability were "Tony's" chief characteristics as a track man. He trained rigidly at all times and piled up an enviable total of points during his connection with the squad.

J. CARLTON PERRY

"Jake" was a discovery of the 1921 season, and since he graduated at the close of the season, his varsity activities were rather limited. Lack of experience proved no stumbling block for him, however, as he seldom competed without figuring in the scoring.

Last of the meets for the entire squad was the Michigan State Intercollegiate which the Green and White team won with a total of 59 points as compared to 33 held by Kalamazoo College, second place winner. In the same three events, Ernst won his usual first places, Fessenden took the discus, Schwei the javelin, Atkins and Preston tied for the high jump, Adolph won the mile, and Brendel grabbed the half-mile.

Brendel wins first place for Michigan Aggies in the 880-yard run of the Annual Intercollegiate.

HAZEN S. ATKINS

Either taking first place or securing a tie for the position in three meets and making third place in a fourth meet was Atkin's record for the 1921 season. For consistency he had few equals on the Aggie squad.

JACOB O. BRADY

Among the all-around athletes at M. A. C. "Jake" is one of the most prominent. With the track squad, he does the broad jump and the dashes. In 1921, he made one first, one second, and one third in the broad jump, and one third in the 100-yard dash.

The Season's Score

May 7—Michigan Aggies 81½	May 28—Michigan State Intercollegiate:—

In the 100-yard dash Hays and Desch, Notre Dame's stars on the Olympic team, nosed Ernst into third place.

1922 Indoor Track

Two dual meets were listed on the schedule of the indoor track squad for 1922. Both of these meets, the first with Western State Normal and the second with DePauw University, were won with little effort by the Michigan Aggie athletes. They were won in spite of the fact that Coach Bert Barron refused to allow individuals to extend themselves.

In the more important of the two, that with DePauw, eight out of eleven first places were won by the Aggie squad. Captain Ernst was responsible for three of these while Houston added two to the list. Schwei and Adolph each took one, while the relay team composed of Herdel, Pollock, Shannon, and Temple, won the last.

Other point winners for the Aggies were: Warner, Fessenden, Brendel, Baguley, Carver, and Hartsuch. The squad as a whole seemed to have developed a balance which it had not been able to attain in several seasons previous.

The 1922 Relay Carnival

The first anniversary of the Michigan Aggie Indoor Relay Carnival, found that event being repeated with greater success than had accompanied its origin in 1921. Approximately one hundred track athletes, representative of the University of Michigan, M. A. C., Kalamazoo College, Western State Normal, Ypsilanti Normal, Albion, and Detroit Junior, competed.

The Carnival was featured with match relays, of which the two-mile run between Michigan and the Aggie team was by far the most spectacular. The event was won by the Michigan team with a scant five yards to spare, after the successive runners on the two teams had journeyed practically neck and neck through the entire distance.

Captain DeGay Ernst, of the Aggies, was individual high point winner of the meet with a tie for first in the low hurdles, a second in the high hurdles, and a second in the invitation 40-yard dash. The latter event was won by Walker, of Western State Normal, with Harvey, of Michigan, third.

A new gym record in the pole vault was set by Landowski, the Michigan star, at 12 feet. The former mark had been held by Westbrook, of Michigan, and Brooker, of the Michigan Aggie Fresh.

The unqualified success which marked the second Relay Carnival was assurance that the meet will be continued annually. The second meet was looked upon as a test of its popularity, and with this amply vouched for there will be no hesitation in announcing the Carnival each year in the future. It is the one big indoor meet of the State, and it has a very definite place in the program for continually increasing the interest centering in track athletics in Michigan.

Prospect for the 1922 Season

The most successful season on the track in ten years seems to be in prospect for the Michigan Aggie squad of 1922. Stronger in every department than it has been in years and with a much better schedule than has been arranged for it in any previous season, the track team promises to win many laurels before the spring has passed.

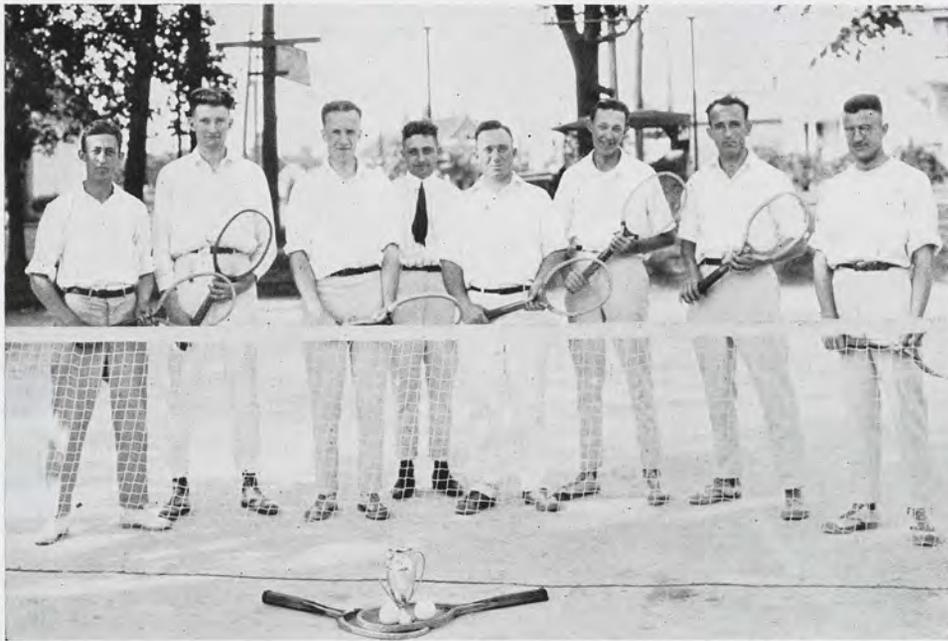

Its first feat of strength was to win two first places, with its two entries in the Drake Relays at Des Moines, Iowa, April 29. There Captain DeGay Ernst led a fast field to the tape in the 440-yard low hurdles, while the two-mile relay team, composed of Houston, Baguley, Hartsuch, and Brendel, ran away from all opposition.

In its first dual meet, the team defeated DePaul University, 96 to 21. On this occasion the Aggies made five "slams," taking all places in five events.

Other engagements for the squad which remain to be accounted for as the WOLVERINE goes to press are dual meets with Ohio State and Oberlin, and the Michigan State Intercollegiate, all at East Lansing, the DePaul Intercollegiate at Chicago, and the Western Conference meet at Iowa City, Iowa.

Varsity Tennis, 1921

Tennis began to receive the attention due it as a varsity sport in the spring of 1921. In that season a regular schedule was arranged for the racket men, and with H. C. Young in charge of the squad, rapid strides were taken towards strengthening the net standing of the institution.

For the first time in the history of the Michigan State Intercollegiate, held annually at East Lansing in connection with the Intercollegiate track meet, M. A. C. was winner. Captain W. V. Palm, H. A. Goss, H. A. Freeman, and J. T. Croll were responsible for the victory.

At the close of the season, minor sports monograms were awarded to the four who played in the tournament and to C. R. Coe, and O. R. Beal, who had been point winners in dual meets.

A still heavier schedule was framed for 1922 season and a victory over Oberlin, 3 to 1, a victory over Kalamazoo, 6 to 0, and first place in the state tourney held at Kalamazoo marked the early part of it. Matches were scheduled with Michigan, Indiana, Oberlin, and a number of institutions for the latter part of the spring and the most successful racket season in the history of the College was assured for the team captained by Coe.

1921 Cross-Country

Another season almost as successful as that of 1920 was the lot of the Michigan Aggie cross-country team for 1921. The squad was coached by Floyd A. Rowe, former Michigan track captain and one of the best two-milers in the Conference in his day.

Following the Novice and All-College runs which brought out a large number of freshmen harriers, came the Michigan State Run on November 5. The run resolved itself into the usual duel between Michigan and the Aggies, and on this occasion the Wolverines were winners by a narrow margin.

On the following Saturday, in the Western Conference Run at Urbana, the team finished 7th in competition with the best teams in the West. The first seven teams to finish, in their order, were Illinois, Iowa State, Wisconsin, Ohio State, Michigan, Purdue, and Michigan Aggies.

The last run occurred on Thanksgiving Day, when the Aggies met and defeated Notre Dame by a score that lacked one point of being perfect. Four Aggies had completed the trip before the first Notre Dame runner finished, and the last Aggie ran a close race for this position.

Monograms were awarded to four men, all seniors:

Regular cross-country awards were made to: K. L. BAGULEY, G. W. NESMAN, W. W. SANDS, D. E. CLARK, P. J. HARTSUCH, M. E. YOUNG, L. S. KLAASE, J. P. VANARMAN, and J. L. KILLORAN.

Varsity Swimming, 1922

Varsity swimming received its first recognition at M. A. C. during the winter of 1922. In the fall inter-class and inter-fraternity meets were held as a means of securing material for a varsity squad and at the beginning of the winter term, work was started under the direction of S. F. Flynn, former University of California swimmer.

Five meets were held and each of these was lost. However, as the season progressed the work of the Aggie Natators began to show the effects of systematic and well-directed training. In the last meets the team was undoubtedly at its best. Probably the fact that these were staged in tanks with which the Aggie swimmers were unfamiliar accounts for the fact that the scores in them were not closer.

S. F. FLYNN, COACH

The 1922 team was captained by M. W. Jacklin. other members of the squad were Bos, Johnson, Niederstadt, Van Noppen, Brown, Copperton, Gilbert, Taylor and Bailey. The 1923 team will be headed by Van Noppen and will be formed around a nucleus composed of the captain and Brown, Taylor, Gilbert and Copperton.

Varsity Hockey, 1922

A most welcome addition to the list of varsity minor sports was made when hockey was added during the winter of 1922. The formation of the squad resulted from a movement on the part of a number of interested students to play the game. Organization under the college name was sanctioned by the department of athletics and games were scheduled in the usual manner.

For a time, the squad practiced without the advantage of a coach. Later, however, Coach Thomas took charge of the work and placed it on a more methodical footing. Two games were played with Michigan and two with Notre Dame. Wisconsin was scheduled to play here, but weather conditions made it necessary to cancel this game.

Members of the squad who worked in one or more of the regularly scheduled games were Hauptli, MacDonald, Doherty, Burris, Bowen, Crosby, DeLisle, Kotila, Boyle, Moore, and Murner. Practically all of these men will be available for a second season.

J. DEVERS, COACH

Meeting the very best to be found in the way of competition, the Michigan Aggie wrestling squad for 1922 passed the season very creditably. It was the first year in which wrestling was recognized as a varsity sport and the first in which a varsity squad was maintained, but in spite of this the matmen coached by Jimmy Devers proved a well-trained lot.

Indiana and Iowa State, the first two teams against which the Aggies competed, had teams that had won the Conference and Western championships respectively the year before. Michigan had taken up the sport at the same time as the Aggies had gone into it, and the Wolverines were defeated once and held to a narrow margin in a second meet with Dever's proteges.

Men who competed for the Aggies in one or more of the meets were Galpin and Bristol, 115 pounds; Hanson, 125 pounds; Foster and F. Neller, 135 pounds; Koopman, 145 pounds; E. Neller and Cargo, 158 pounds; Holden, 175 pounds; Schwei and Vear, heavy-weight.

Mich. Aggie Fresh.... 42	Assumption 0
Mich. Aggie Fresh.... 10	Notre Dame Fresh..... 6
Mich. Aggie Fresh.... 21	Lansing High 0

An almost limitless number of superlatives was used in describing the Michigan Aggie freshman football squad of 1921. Composed of the pick of Michigan High Schools coached by Jimmie Killoran, who had previously been an important cog in turning out winning teams at Lansing High, the squad really did raise the standards for yearling teams at East Lansing.

The team opened its season against Central High at Flint. The prep eleven was literally played off its feet, and in spite of the fact that it was the first game for the yearlings, 35 points were totalled. Several other touchdowns were ruled out of the scoring through technicalities.

Assumption College was the first opponent of the yearlings at East Lansing. In this game the freshmen piled up a total of 42 points, the largest score ever made against an Assumption team. Numerous substitutions failed to decrease the ability of the 1925 team.

The big game of the season was played against Notre Dame freshmen at East Lansing. In this game the Aggies took the lead in the first half by scoring a goal from placement. Just before the end of the period they advanced the ball to within two yards of the Irish youngster's goal line but the whistle prevented a touchdown.

In the third quarter, Notre Dame scored a long run by Miller, but the goal was not kicked. Then, when less than five minutes remained to be played, Goode scooped up the leather after a fumble on the part of an opposing end and ran fifteen yards for a touchdown which reversed the lead and won the game.

The last game was played on Thanksgiving Day with Lansing High as an opponent. The game was a benefit for Carp Julian, and in spite of the fact that a trainload of students had followed the varsity to Notre Dame, the turnout was large. Lansing was defeated 21 to 0, and six former Lansing athletes played on the freshman team in that game.

Undoubtedly the "greatest freshman squad" will make a valuable addition to the Varsity for 1922. It was an organization to be proud of when it first appeared and as it passes on to the varsity ranks it will probably add to its own laurels regularly.

In their game with the Notre Dame yearlings, Aggie Fresh spent most of their time in Irish territory.

All-Fresh Basketball, 1922

While the freshman basketball squad is not to be compared with the football squad, it was anything but a weak organization. Probably the greatest feature of the team is the number of men it prepared for the first stages of varsity competition.

The team this year was coached by Larry Kurtz, former Aggie captain and guard. It played through a long schedule, met some exceptionally good competition and for the most part proved a winning organization. Nine men were awarded monograms at the close of the season.

1921 All-Fresh Track

The purpose of a Freshman team is to bring out and develop material for the Varsity squads of the future. The All-Fresh Track squad of 1921 accomplished this duty in fine shape.

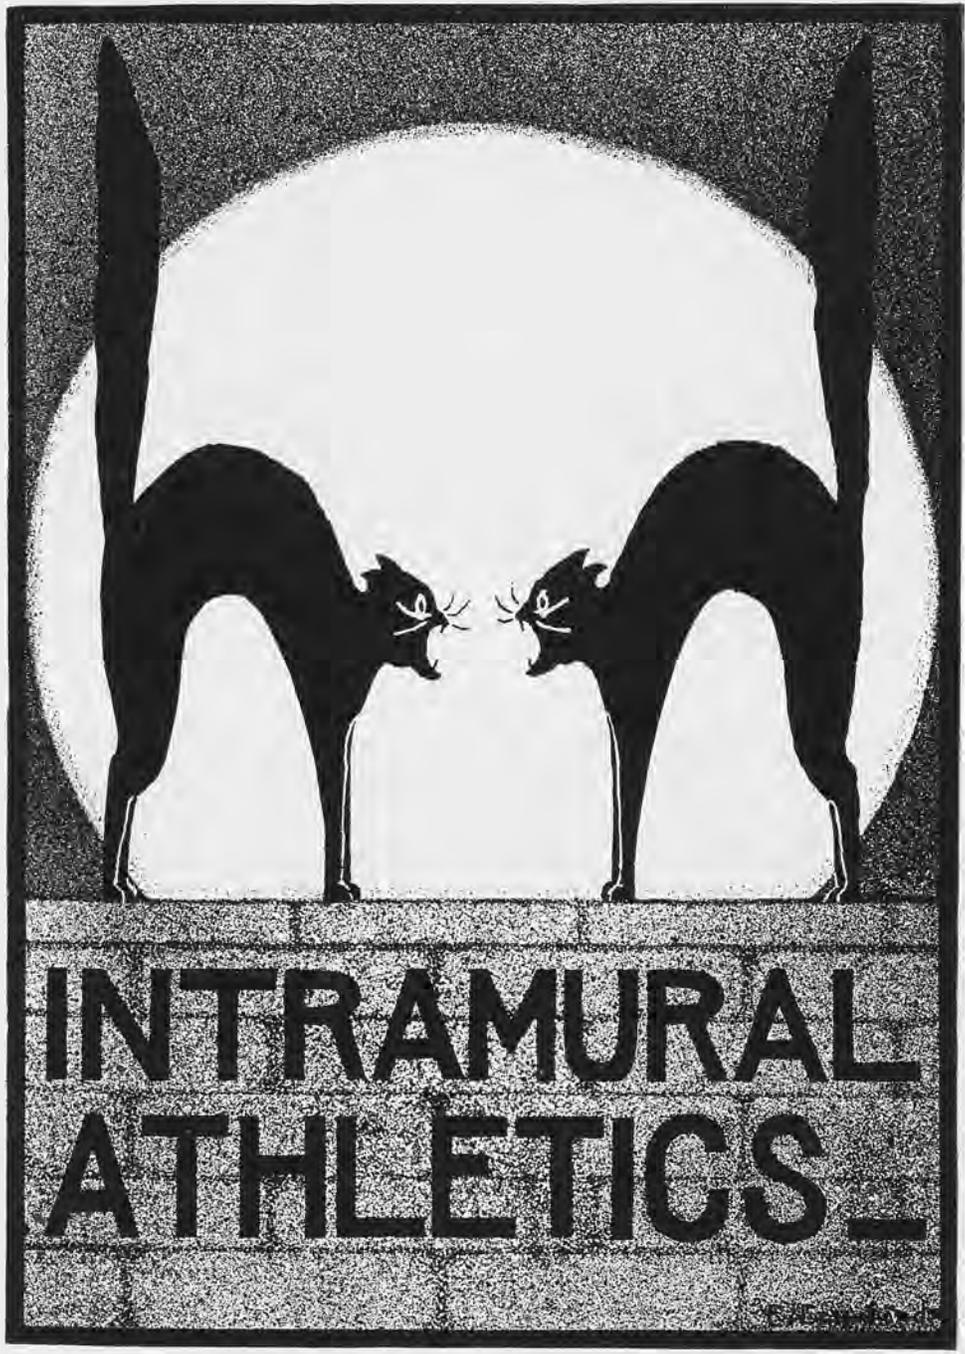

The men were drilled under Coach Smith who knew the proper methods to pursue to develop his men into Varsity material. The team took part in some of the meets run by the Varsity, and while its points counted naught in the final scores, the competition offered by them was worthy of note.

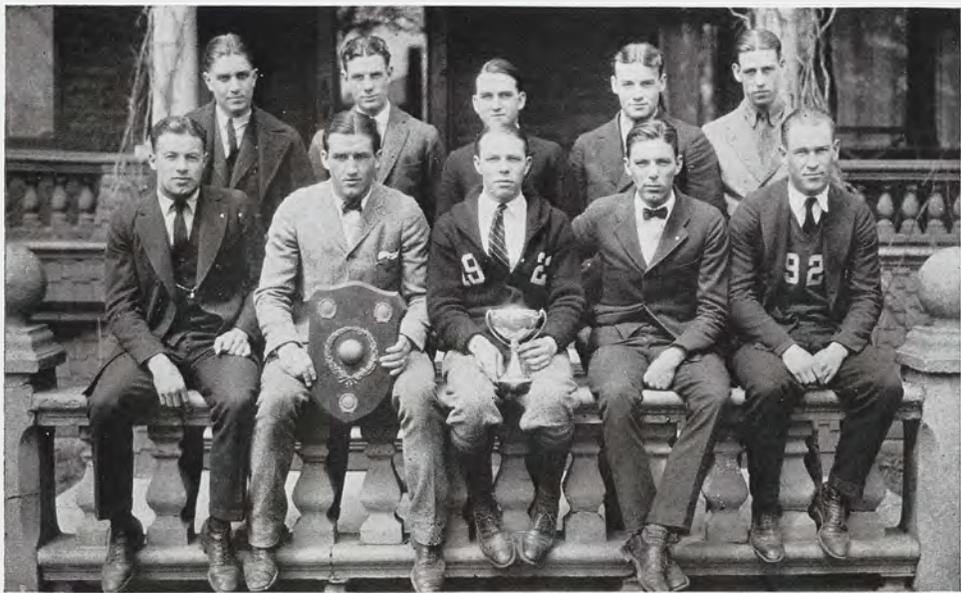

The one meet in which the Fresh were officially entered was the Michigan State Intercollegiate. The team took fifth place in this event, with 11 points.

The Women's Athletic Department

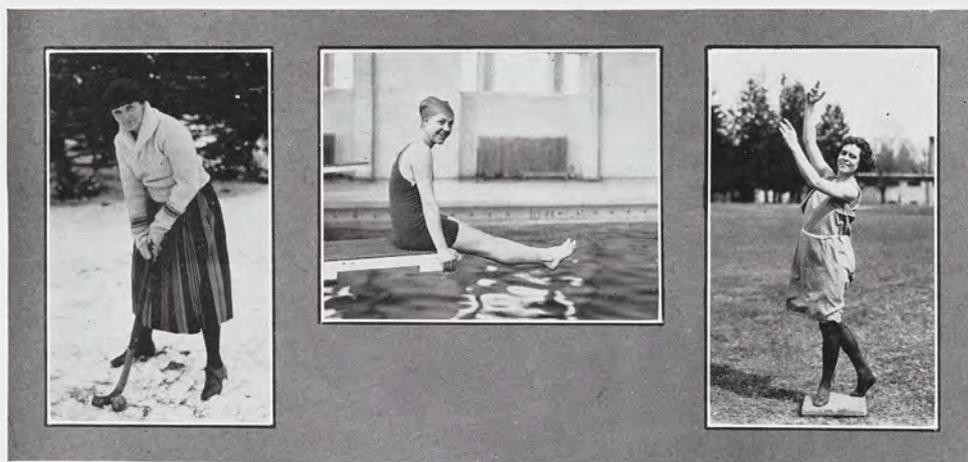

Ever since women entered M. A. C., they have been given some form of athletic work. At first their physical training consisted of Indian club drills and a little basketball, being principally an endeavor to see that the girls were kept in good condition. In 1907, under Grace Chapman, field hockey was introduced. Folk dancing and play-ground work were started in the spring of 1911 under Florence Chapman.

When the Woman's Building was completed, a gymnasium was equipped with shower baths, lockers, and some gymnastic apparatus. Edith Casho was in charge of the department at that time and introduced much new work in athletics.

The department has been steadily growing. When the new gym was finished, the girls were given the use of it during the morning hours. This made swimming a new activity for M. A. C. women. Rifle classes, under the direction of the military department, were started in 1919, and in the spring of that year the first M. A. C. pageant was given, the Women's athletic department having charge of all the dancing. Interclass hockey was the new sport for 1920 and soccer for 1921. Several girls earned their Life Saving monograms during this year.

The present year finds still more changes. Intersociety tennis has been added; dancing as a regular subject is given; while archery, golf, and quoits claim their share of devotees. The department has been broadened and is now giving lecture work and conducting advanced classes in physical education. Varsity sweaters are already given for Rifle and Tennis. Class sweaters are awarded for basketball, swimming, and tennis. Next year intersociety golf, swimming and tennis are scheduled, the society winning in each sport to be presented with a loving cup.

The plans for the future of the department are to establish a course that will develop women capable of teaching Physical Training in addition to their Home Economics. Much credit for the development of the department to its present high standards is due to the efforts of Miss Grimes, her capable staff, and the hearty cooperation of the girls.

DOROTHY LEPPER

Winner, Interclass Singles

The Co-ed Tennis season for 1921 was not the most victorious M. A. C. has experienced. The number of games were few; the Varsity team making only one trip from home. The five girls who were awarded varsity sweaters were Marion Seeley, Olive Clinton, Louise Kling, Mary Ranney, and Ruth Van Winkle. As Marion Seeley is the only senior on the team, the prospects for the 1922 season look bright.

Interest was not alone focused on the Varsity, for interclass tennis claimed its share. Much excitement and class spirit was shown at these matches, the final outcome of which was a victory in singles for the class of '22, while Helen Speyer and Ruth Christopher copped the honors in doubles for the class of '24. These girls were awarded sweaters with class numerals.

A rifle team was added this year to the list of Co-ed Varsity sports. Five matches were scheduled, but Ripon and Drexel forfeited their matches because standard targets were not used. The co-ed marksmen are to be complimented on their fine shooting. Their triumph over Michigan is a thing of which we all are proud. Much interest has been shown on the part of the girls, which promises to make sharp-shooting one of the most popular winter sports.

Isabel Taylor, with a score of 311, has the title of being the champion co-ed marksman. Faye Foster was a close second with a score of 306. Both girls are members of the class of '23.

Swimming

Since the opening of the new pool at M. A. C., swimming for girls has been incorporated into the regular physical education courses. It is required of all underclassmen, Freshmen having to pass off the first grade to get their credit for first year gym work. There are four grades A, B, C, D—each with its difficult requirements. In this way it is the aim of the department to have every girl at M. A. C. not only know how to swim, but to be proficient in the sport.

This systematizing of swimming by teaching it in an efficient and business-like manner has caused much interest in the sport and made it one of the most popular at school. A class swimming meet is held annually, each class being represented by a trained team. The one of 1921 was expected to be an easy victory for the Sophomore team but the Freshmen won by six points. The events included swimming for form, racing, diving, and stunts.

Mary Emily Ranney made the highest individual score in points.

MARY EMILY RANNEY
High Point Winner

In addition to the swimming meet several exhibitions were given by the women during 1921-1922. These included an exhibition Farmer's week, one before the Rotary Club of Lansing, and one Commencement week. Miss Grimes' personality is nowhere felt more keenly than in the snappy way in which she conducts these exhibitions, and the girls show no hesitancy in attempting anything on the spur of the moment for which she asks.

M. A. C. has the honor of being the first college in Michigan and among the first six in the United States to organize a Life Saving Corps. The charter members number fourteen students and three faculty members, two of whom are examiners. Several girls are now ready to pass their tests and be initiated. This will bring the membership up to thirty-two.

The corps is popular and its value is recognized as is shown by the fact that faculty children who have had access to the pool have been given training in life saving methods and are now members of a Junior Life Saving Corps.

1922 Basketball Champs, Class' 25

1922 Pin Ball Champs, Class' 24

1921 Baseball Champs, Class '24

The team of the class of '24 batted its way to victory by a score of 25 to 12 in the final game with the Juniors in the co-ed baseball series last spring. Captain Patterson has a right to be proud of her team which played the game as though composed of seasoned veterans of the diamond. The class of '24 is flaunting its colors and expects to win the 1922 series to add to its honors. But there are other classes to be considered. In fact, these are determined to wrest the title from '24, so that the 1922 baseball season promises to furnish much excitement among the co-eds.

The Health Service

In the fall of 1920 the present Health Service became a reality. Organized as it was to serve the entire student body of the college, it has indeed fulfilled this purpose, and placed the health of the Aggie family under the care of competent hands.

The Department is in charge of Dr. Clyde Reynolds. He is assisted in his work by Miss Rhoda Hand, Mrs. Marie LaPrelle, and Miss Marguerite Barker. Mrs. LaPrelle is the matron at the hospital and Miss Barker is the nurse.

Every student, from the fellow with a head-ache to the Fresh who is getting the bruises of the night before patched up, come to see the "Doc." The department is pretty busy most of the time as evidenced by the following report for 1921-22:

Number of student calls at the dispensary	5070
Number of students seeking doctor's care	1175
Number of hospital cases	165
Summer School calls	176

Major P. G. Wrightson

COMMANDANT

Although he began his career with a degree from the University of Chicago, Major Wrightson has a wide army experience behind him. He was commissioned Second Lieutenant in the regular army in 1902, serving first with the 20th Infantry at Fort Sheridan. In 1903, he was stationed in the Philippines, remaining there during the Morro campaigns, and then served successively in California, Hawaii, the Philippines, and Utah. He commanded the cadet corps of the University of Wisconsin the four years previous to 1916, then served in Mexico and Georgia. The command of the M. A. C. Corps was assigned him in the fall of 1917. Except for three months spent in command of the S. A. T. C. at Wesleyan University, Connecticut, Major Wrightson has devoted the last five years to placing the M. A. C. Corps on its present high plane of organization and efficiency.

The Infantry Unit

The doughboy remains the standby of the R. O. T. C. at M. A. C. despite the enlargement of the military department's activities in recent years. The infantry unit was organized in October, 1917, and under the direction of Major Wrightson has grown steadily, having a present enrollment of 189 students. The equipment consists of 800 army rifles, six machine guns, six automatic rifles, a trench mortar, and a one-pounder. Two commissioned and two non-commissioned officers, together with Major Wrightson, serve as instructors of the infantry unit.

Major P. G. Wrightson

COMMANDER

Captain Gaillard Pinckney

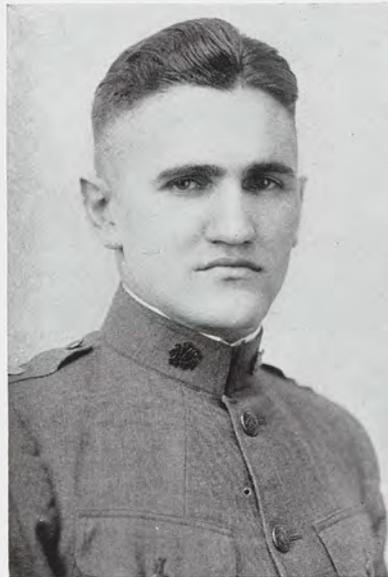

INSTRUCTOR IN CHARGE

A course in the Porter Military Academy, from which he graduated with the class of '12, was the background of Captain Pinckney's army life. He served in several eastern states and on the Mexican border previous to 1918. In that year he took command of a unit of the 54th Infantry of the 64th Division in France. Then followed two months with the Army of Occupation in Germany, after which he returned to be stationed at Camp Grant, Illinois. He was assigned to M. A. C. in the fall of 1921 as assistant to Major Wrightson in instructing the Infantry Unit.

The Cavalry Unit

The lure of the cavalry, which has drawn many a youth to service on the Mexican border, is felt at M. A. C., and the mounted unit, organized in October, 1919, is now the most popular of the three. One hundred forty are listed on the roll of the unit for the year 1921-22. Forty-three cavalry horses which form the major equipment of the unit make possible thorough instruction in cavalry tactics. Major Garr is assisted in instructing by one commissioned and two non-commissioned officers.

Major Mack Garr

COMMANDER

Major Garr can tell tales of campaigns in such countries as the Philippines, China, and the Hawaiian Islands, besides many interesting experiences in France and Germany during the war. The Major enlisted as a Private in 1911. He served with General Pershing in Mexico in 1916, and was a member of the General Staff of the A. E. F. in France. After serving as Chief of Embarkation at Tours, the Major was assigned to Camp Grant, Illinois. He took command of the Cavalry Unit of the M. A. C. Corps in the spring of 1921.

In the R. O. T. C. and N. R. A. rifle teams, M. A. C. boasts a group of sharpshooters which would be a credit to any regular army unit. Two separate sets of intercollegiate rifle matches were fired during the winter. The R. O. T. C. team, of cadets only, contested with teams representing all college units in the 6th corps area, and the National Rifle Association team, open to students and faculty members, competed with the college teams of the Association.

Keen competition for places on the teams developed a high degree of marksmanship. E. Besemer, F. Hill, E. Perrine, L. Perrine, D. Rieman, and C. Miller, the six leading in total scores, were awarded sweaters.

The Coast Artillery Unit

Training in the use of heavy artillery is provided for engineers by the coast artillery unit, which was organized in October, 1919. An 8 inch howitzer, a 155 mm. rifle, a five ton tractor, a three ton truck, and an artillery repair truck offer facilities for extensive artillery training. This equipment is supplemented by the armament at Fortress Monroe, Virginia, where a summer course is given to upperclassmen who elect advanced artillery training. The 180 students in the unit are taught by Major Teter and three non-commissioned officers.

Major Joseph J. Teter

COMMANDER

Extensive war service in France and the command of coast defense forts have fitted Major Teter for his position at the head of the Coast Artillery Unit. A graduate of West Point with the class of '15, he served first at Fort Monroe, Virginia. He was with the 44th Artillery in France during the World War. After the war, he commanded several coast defense forts in Maine until October, 1919, when he was given command of the M. A. C. Coast Artillery Unit.

H. W. McCoy

CO-ORDINATOR

Mr. McCoy came to M. A. C. in the fall of 1921 as a direct representative of the United States Veterans' Bureau to act as a counsellor and mediator for the men in the Vocational Guidance School. Being a veteran of the World War, he is in a position to understand the problems of the Federal men.

C. G. CARD

DIRECTOR

Mr. Card might well be called the dean of the Federal School. He assumed his duties at the beginning of fall term as supervisor of the instruction of Federal men, making up the curriculum and hiring the necessary instructors. That he is qualified to fill his position is evident when it is known that he was formerly a superintendent of schools and a county school commissioner, having eight years experience in educational work.

Short Courses of 1921-22

E. B. Hill

DIRECTOR

E. B. Hill's success in his first season as Director of Short Courses augurs well for the future of the department. Mr. Hill is a graduate of M. A. C. with the class of '16. He returned to M. A. C. in 1920 as assistant to the Dean of Agriculture. His activities following graduation, as county agent, teacher of agriculture, and field agent for a sugar company, have fitted him well for the position he now holds. Mr. Hill received the office of Director of Short Courses in the fall of 1921.

A. M. Berridge

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR

"The idol of the short course men" is Mr. Berridge, who as Associate Director of Short Courses, is advisor and friend to every student. Mr. Berridge occupied the position of Director of Short Courses the five years following 1916, but owing to the pressure of other work, was relieved of the responsibility of the directorate in the fall of 1921. Being a graduate of M. A. C., he appreciates the viewpoint of the students. He understands their problems, and is ever willing to help them.

K. A. STILES
PRESIDENT, 1921-22

M. A. C. Short Courses

For those unable to spend four years at college, the Short Courses were established. The Short Course graduate carries with him something more than the technical training received in the class room. The men have their own basketball team, orchestra, choral club, and other activities to round out a complete campus life. The popularity of the courses was shown by an enrollment of 449 for the year 1921-22, nearly one-fourth as many as the number of regular four-year students.

Horticulture

Fruit growing is the subject of the eight weeks course in Horticulture. The popularity of this course was reflected in the 1922 enrollment of 35.

General Agriculture

The two-year course in General Agriculture is given in two terms of eight weeks each, one term each year. The studies are of interest to the general farmer; livestock judging and care, farm crops, shop work, soils, dairying, and such subjects are taken up.

Dairy Manufacturing

Dairy Manufacturing is a popular eight weeks course for men desiring practical instruction in the manufacture of dairy products. Thirty-two were enrolled in the course in 1922.

Dairy Production

A boon to the specialized dairy farmer is the short course in Dairy Production. Forty-two class hours per week for eight weeks permit a mastery of all phases of the milk producing business. Thirty-two students completed the course in 1922.

Ability to judge stock, that accomplishment so essential to a successful farmer, is an almost universal attribute of the graduating short course men. The annual judging contest marks the climax of interest. A team of three men is chosen to represent each course, and competition for first place is keen. The individual high point winner each year is awarded a silver cup by R. S. Shaw, Dean of Agriculture. Wesley F. McCalla received the honor this year.

A six weeks term of intensified class work is the M. A. C. Summer Session, during which time several of the regular courses are repeated. This term is a boom to students who are behind in some subjects, or wish to complete their college course in less than four years. It also offers special work for rural teachers to enhance their training during the vacation period. The degree of popularity which Summer School has attained under the able direction of Professor Ryder is reflected in an enrollment in 1921 of nearly three hundred.

The most beautiful college campus in America

AGGIE PEP

As Varsity Cheerleader, Marc Small has no equal. He is a natural leader in all lively activities about the Campus. At periods of rest in all athletic games, he entertains the crowds with his famous Mormon Song. Box car Pullmans were always available for Marc and the gang of rooters for many of the football games away from home. His absence next year will be deeply felt.

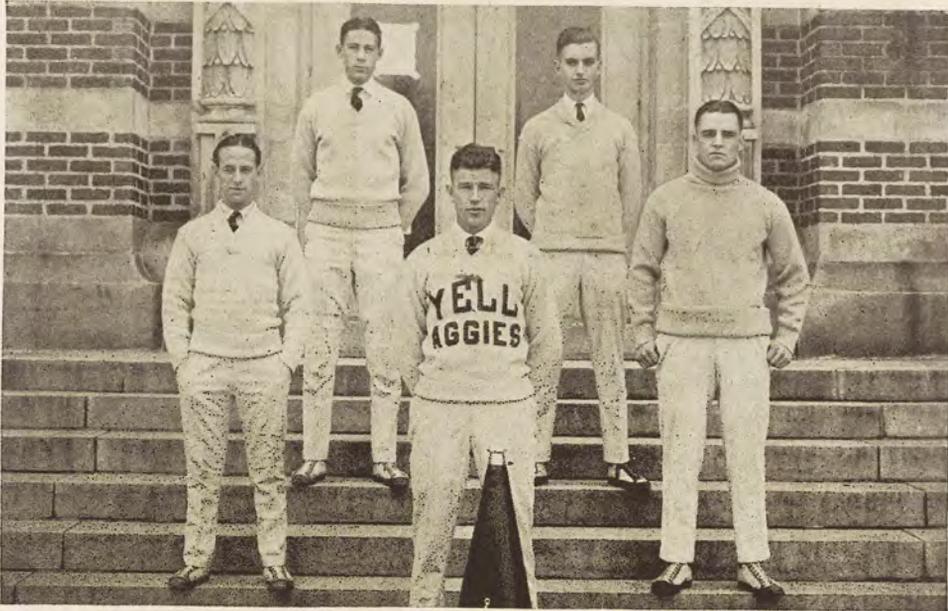

"C'MON GANG, WHATDYSAY"

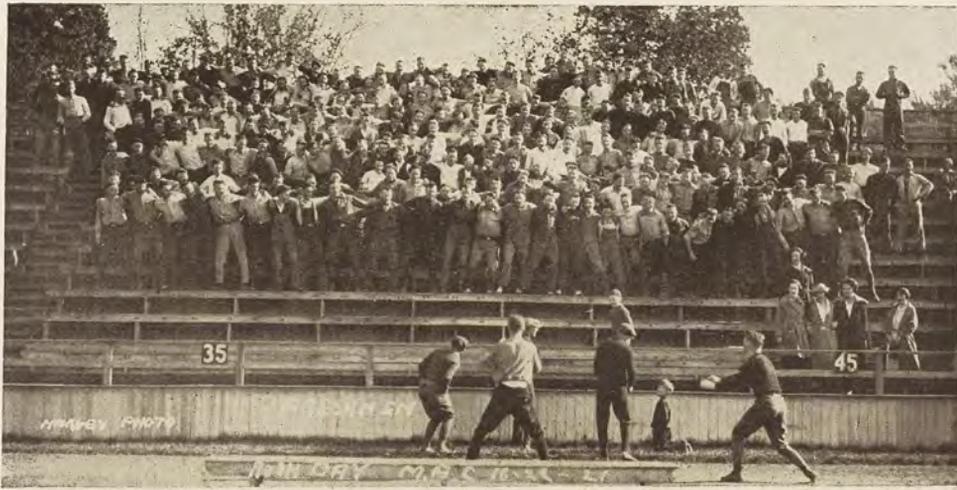

At the close of the snake dance by the Fresh between the halves of the football games, Marc gathers them together for a few yells.

NORMAN O. WEIL
AGGIE FIELD AGENT

TO M. A. C. MEN AND WOMEN:—

"Asked as to my opinion concerning the M. A. C. of the future, what else can be said than that it will be just as bright and glorious as the M. A. C. of the past? Look where you may, you will find no college of like nature possessing such heritage, so many worth-while alumni, such a firm foundation. And the future—that is in the hands of recent graduates and you students. Have faith; have confidence; have loyalty. You are M. A. C. Your College will be as you are!"

(Signed) NORMAN O. WEIL.

Just before the annual battle with Michigan. At this meeting every loyal Aggie receives an inoculation of that same grim determination that each member of the team possesses on the field of battle.

AS THE YEARS PASS BY

Old College Hall

The first building in the world devoted to the scientific study of Agriculture crumbled to earth when being repaired in 1917.

Presidents of M. A. C.

JOSEPH R. WILLIAMS, A. M.
1857-1859

THEOPHILUS C. ABBOT, A. M. LL. D.
1862-1884

EDWIN WILLITS, A. M.

OSCAR CLUTE, M. S.
1889-1893

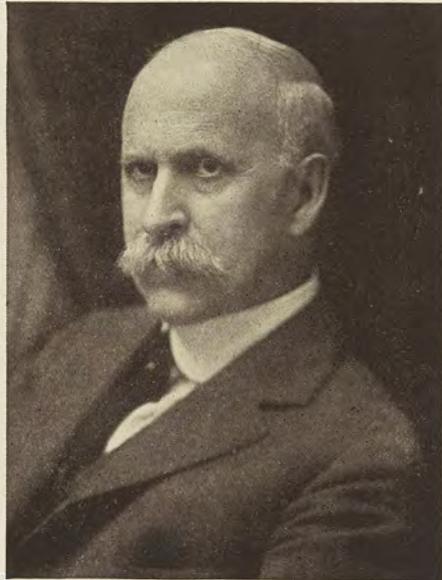

Presidents of M. A. C.

LEWIS G. GORTON, M. S. 1893-1895

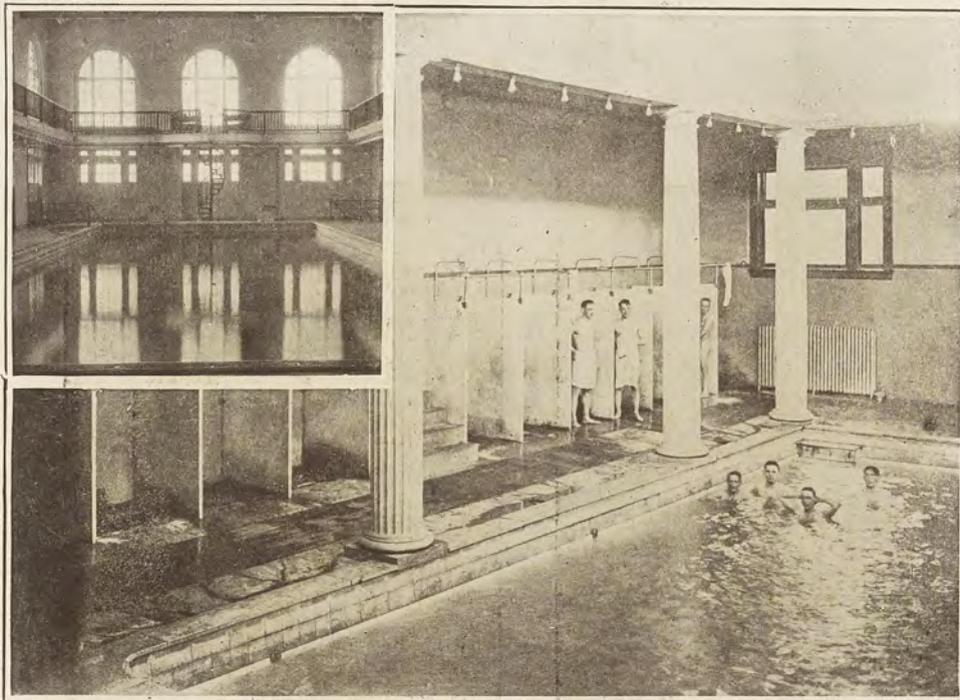

JONATHAN L. SNYDER, PH. D., LL. D.
1896-1915

FRANK S. KEDZIE, D. SC.
1916-1921

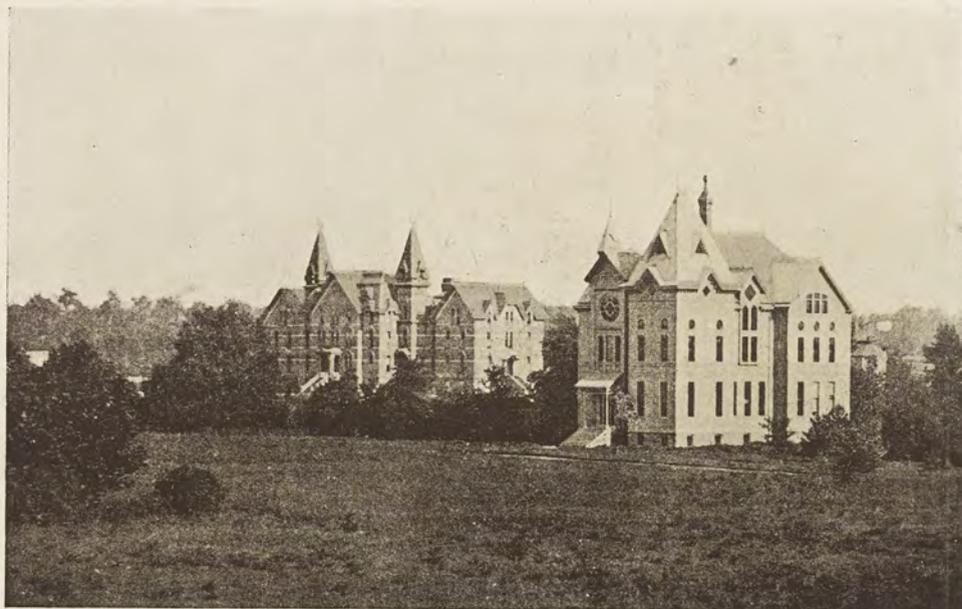

William's Hall (Bill's) constructed in 1870, was destroyed by fire January 1, 1919.

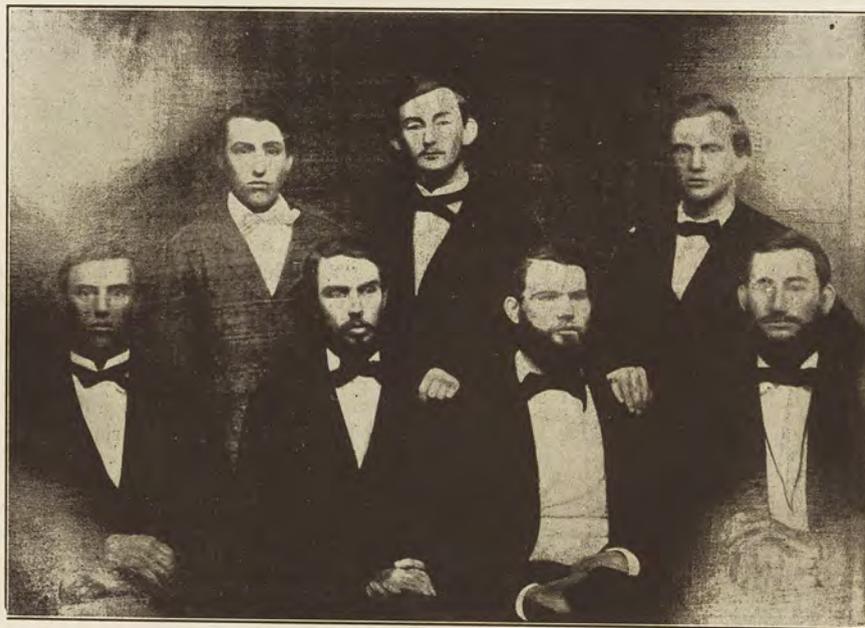

The old "Well's Hall bath room" and College swimming pool in the Armory was replaced in 1917 by the mammoth pool in the new Gym.

G. L. C. H. S. P. I. A. S. A. S. O.

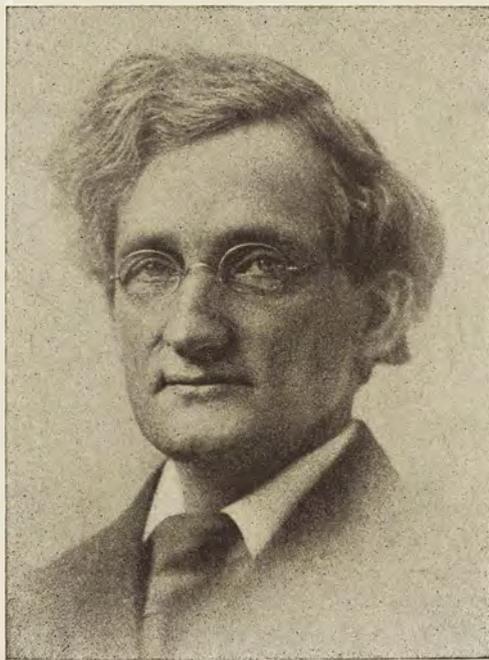

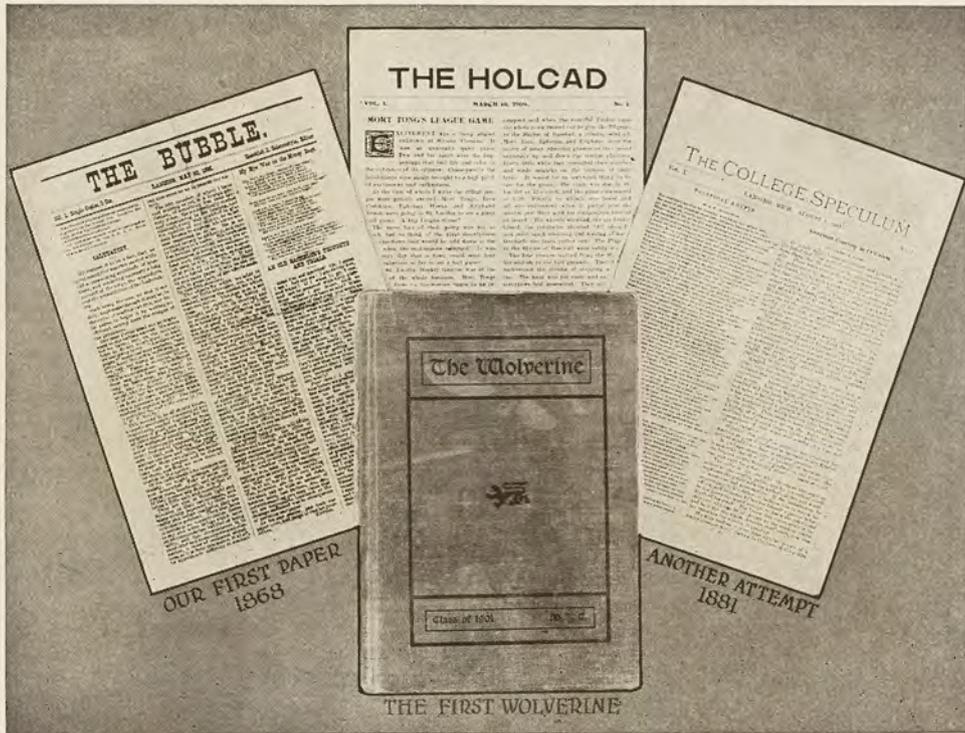

The first Well's Hall built in 1876 and the Botanical Laboratory built in 1892.

An old cut of the first class to graduate from M. A. C.—1861.

BAYLEY DICKEY BEEBE
BENHAM PRENTICE ALLEN HOLLISTER

'Tis indeed interesting to dig from the archives of the library these, our first publications. In 1868 Frank S. Burton edited our first college "newspaper," "The Bubble." After a period of inactivity the paper appeared again as "The College Speculum," edited by Liberty Hyde Bailey. The present "Holcad" had its beginning on March 10, 1908, with C. C. Taylor as editor. Volume No. 1 of "The Wolverine" appeared in 1901.

His editorial training has stood by him, and today L. H. Bailey is Dean of Agriculture at Cornell University, the foremost authority on Horticulture in the world, and editor of the Bailey Textbook Series.

The spectacular fire that completely destroyed the engineering building and shops on March 5, 1916. They were immediately replaced by the present buildings and splendid equipment.

The Aggie Home-coming-Reunion of 1891. In this group are such notable men as: P. G. Holden, Charles McKenny, Oscar Clute, W. J. Beal, C. F. Wheeler, H. W. Mumford, Eugene Davenport, W. L. Carpenter, N. S. Mayo, A. B. Cordley, and A. J. Cook.

Aggies who gave their lives in the World War—though gone from us they will never be forgotten.

The first Aggie team to defeat Michigan in football. The previous Saturday Wisconsin was beaten by the same score, 12 to 7.

FAMOUS AGGIE ATHLETES

W. K. Prudden, '78a Back in the days of unorganized athletics, when the only sports were baseball and field day events, Prudden showed remarkable ability that would rate him with the best of today. He pitched four years on the baseball team, captained one, and managed nearly all of the athletic events and college activities while here.

Leander Burnett, '92a The present M. I. A. A., formed in 1883, used to be the greatest athletic organization in the West. In its Field Day of 1890, Burnett took part in 12 out 14 events, scoring high in each one. During his four years in college he pitched on the baseball team and carried off most of the honors in track, boxing, and wrestling.

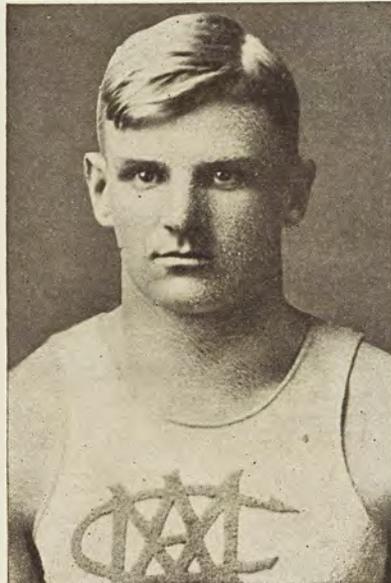

A. C. MacKinnon, '96. His ability as a first baseman gave MacKinnon a berth on the Aggie Varsity for four years. His name was known throughout the middle west, where he played on many professional teams during his college career and later. He practically managed the teams each year and was a strong promoter of all athletics of the time. He was probably the first to suggest an athletic field across the river.

E. W. Ranney, '00a, was the first football hero of whom M. A. C. can boast. His athletic aggressiveness was very marked, playing four successful years as quarter-back in football and the same time at second on the baseball team. He captained both in his last year. He was an earnest promoter of football at that period and still holds that recognition. As a member of the Athletic Association, he keeps in close touch with our present athletics.

Harry E. Moon, '06e, probably gave M. A. C. more nation wide publicity by his track work than any other man who has donned the athletic togs of the Green and White. He was among the first five men in the country to run the 100 yard dash in 10 seconds, and still holds the Aggie record for this event and the 220. He could fill any berth on the track squad equally well, and was captain in '04. In that year he took second place in the 100 and 200 meter races at the Olympic games.

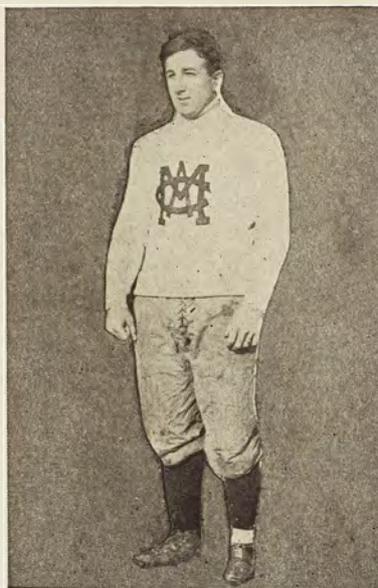

E. B. McKenna, '06e. was a four sport man of unusual ability. As halfback in football, forward in basketball, outfielder in baseball, and hurdler in track, he played a star role. Especially was he recognized throughout the West as a sensational running halfback at the opening of the present type of football. He was captain of the eleven in '05.

P. G. McKenna, '10e. If one should look back to 1909, he would find the papers throughout the country mentioning McKenna for halfback on the All Western elevens (there was no official team picked at that period). He was a member of the football, basketball, and track teams while here. At half he was the mainstay of four Aggie teams that lost only three games on exceptionally hard schedules. In 1908 he helped to hold Michigan to a scoreless tie on her first trip to East Lansing.

L. C. Exelby, '12a. Playing in only two losing games with Aggie teams that had but three touchdowns scored against them in four years; helping to defeat Notre Dame, 17 to 0 in 1910; winning a berth on Eckersal's All Western first team in 1910, with mention for All American by many; are the distinguishing marks in Exelby's four years as Varsity fullback. He is probably the most consistent offensive and defensive player M. A. C. has ever had. We should never forget him for his services during our most brilliant football history.

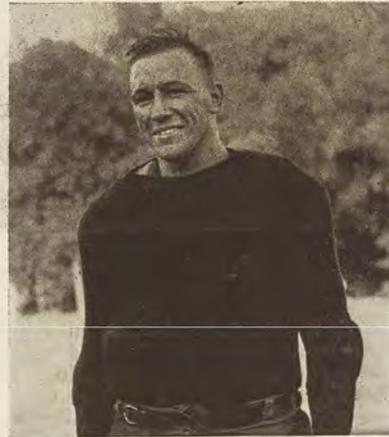

George E. (Carp) Julian, '15a. Carp took up the work where Exelby left off, playing at fullback in '11, '12, '13, and '14. He was the big reason for the defeat of Wisconsin and Michigan on successive Saturdays in 1913. As captain in 1914 he led the Aggies to a victory over the Penn. State team of which our present Coach Barron was a member. Several writers gave him a place on their All Western elevens, and some mentioned him for All American.

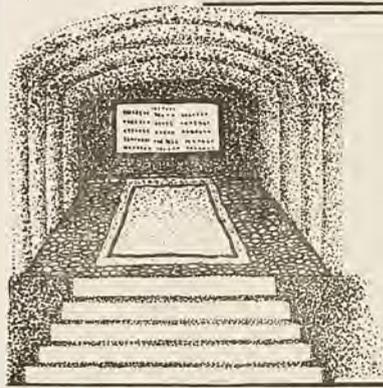

Blake Miller, '16a, was an exceptionally brilliant and sensational open field runner on the football teams of four seasons, '12 to '15, besides starring in baseball. He helped to defeat Michigan at football in '13 and '15, and pitched in winning games over her in baseball. His last year he was captain of the eleven and was mentioned by Eckersal for All Western honors. He is probably as brainy and fast-thinking an athlete as M. A. C. has known.

L. L. Frimodig, '17a. Frim won ten Aggie monograms; in football, basketball, and baseball, and was captain of basketball in '16. Not for his spectacular playing is he recognized, but for honest whole-hearted, consistent work on all teams he was a member of. Always reliable, he was the greatest team player that ever represented the Green and White.

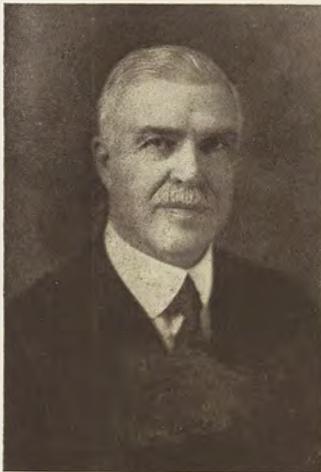

John Hammes, '21a, our latest contribution to the realm of famous athletes, won the coveted monograms in football, basketball, and baseball. As fullback he ranked with Exelby in defensive strength; at guard on the basketball floor he was invaluable; while as first sacker, the baseball teams had nothing to fear from weakness in that quarter. He was given a berth on Eckersal's All Western second team, and on the first by many writers.

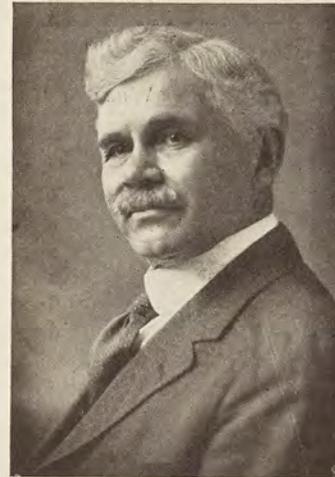

AGGIES IN THE HALL OF FAME

E. THURMAN.

EDNA B. McNAUGHTON, '11
State Supervisor in Vocational Education and in charge of Home Economics teaching, Maryland State College

"M. A. C. is indeed our Alma Mater and in the larger background stands as a home from which emanate the ideals and standards by which we measure college life. The friendships made in college mean perhaps the most. These are not effaced by time; old friendships are renewed, and new friends are made through the bond of M. A. C."

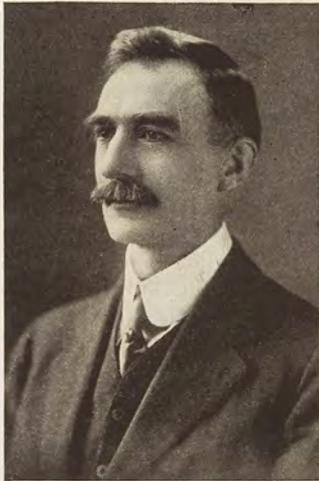

ALBERT B. CORDLEY, '88
Dean of Agriculture and Director of Experiment Station, Oregon Agricultural College.

"Not athletic victories, not the facts of class room and laboratory, not even the loved associations in society and fraternity, have meant most to me since my graduation, but rather it is a realization of what M. A. C. stands for, the real M. A. C. spirit, the spirit of the service of science to every day affairs as exemplified by her great teachers. Any small measure of success which I have achieved is due, I am sure, to this spirit of M. A. C."

CHARLES McKENNY, '81
President Michigan State Normal College.

"M. A. C. has lived with me through all the years as a delightful memory and inspiration. Its beautiful campus, its college fellowships, the insight into the world of nature and human nature which it gave me, and the mental awakening and direction which came from invigorating personalities in the class rooms, have been with me as precious recollections and stimulating forces throughout all my life."

FRED B. MUMFORD, '91

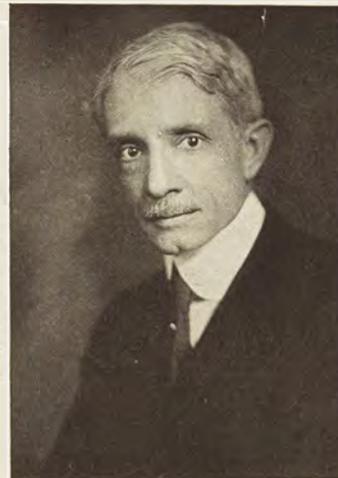

Dean of Agriculture and Director of Experiment Station,
University of Missouri.

"I am profoundly grateful to the Michigan Agricultural College and its founders for the opportunities provided for the association with great minds of large vision and for advanced study in the arts and sciences relating to agriculture. I am sure that I must also accord to my Alma Mater the chief credit for having given to me a proper appreciation of the dignity of labor, the joy and happiness resulting from real work, and withal a vision of service for the common good which I earnestly hope may continue to be a guiding principle and an abiding satisfaction."

WILLIAM C. BAGLEY, '90

Professor of Education, Teachers' College,
Columbia University.

"My training at the Michigan Agricultural College has been of large value to me in my work as a teacher. Through her professors shone the unique spirit of our college—the ideal of science enlisted in the service of common man. In our college two great movements met and fused: the vigorous democracy of the West and the unselfish search for truth, the spirit of Lincoln and the spirit of Darwin. It was a rare union and a most significant contribution to education."

H. S. HUNT, '05

Administrative Engineer for Michigan during the World War.

Vice-President, Fargo Engineering Company,
Jackson, Michigan.

"To me M. A. C. stands for Opportunity, and I feel that I was fortunate in being privileged to pursue my engineering studies there, enabling me to be of some assistance in the development of the water powers of Michigan. The intimate dormitory life with its many elements of sociability, comedy, and sometimes near tragedy is worth cherishing in one's remembrance. But greater than these are the intangible rewards which arise from a deeper understanding and appreciation of the atmosphere of companionship, earnest study, loyalty, true sportsmanship, and all the qualities which make up true college spirit."

CHARLES E. FERRIS, '90

Dean of Engineering, University of Tennessee.

"M. A. C. was when I knew her, and I hope always will be, a place where the student was measured by true standards of value. The poor man, if he had any ability, was given the same recognition by students and faculty that was given the rich. It stood then, and still stands, for service. The state looks by right to its institutions of higher learning for great leaders; and looking back over the years, I am proud that my Alma Mater has not failed in her duty."

FRED L. WOODWORTH, '98

Former State Food and Drug Commissioner.
Collector, Internal Revenue 1st District of Michigan.

"The M. A. C. will always be to me one of the greatest influences for good in my life. My associates there from 1894 to 1898 were clean, hard working, wholesome fellows. Their standards to a great extent became mine and from them I learned that a man must never do less than his best for his friends, his work, or his play."

J. R. McCOLL, '90

Member State Board of Agriculture.

Head of the Mechanical Engineering Department, University of Tennessee, 1892-1902. Head of Steam Engineering Department, Purdue University, 1902-1905. Chief Engineer, American Blower Company, Detroit, Michigan, 1905-1910. Consulting Engineer, Detroit, Michigan. Since 1910 doing engineering work for Detroit and Flint Boards of Education, also engineering work for many state institutions. Dean of Engineering, University of Detroit, since 1911. Vice-president of the Detroit Engineering Society. President of American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers. Editorial Staff of the Michigan Architect and Engineer.

HORACE T. THOMAS, '01

Vice-President and Chief Engineer of Reo Motor Car Company

"M. A. C. gave me the opportunity of acquiring a practical and high grade engineering education when such was impossible for me in the Eastern colleges and universities due to the high entrance requirements and costs. M. A. C. brought me in contact with, and gave me the advice of, such men as Snyder, Kedzie, Weil, Vedder, Edwards, and the other high grade men and women of the faculty, all of which have been of inestimable value to me. I sincerely hope that M. A. C. will continue to make it possible for any earnest man or woman to secure an education such as this institution is capable of giving them."

HAROLD A. FURLONG, WITH '18

Congressional Medal Winner, World War.

CITATION—"Harold A. Furlong, 1st Lieutenant, 353rd Infantry, 89th Division. For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action with the enemy near Bantheville, France, November 1, 1918. Immediately after the opening of the attack, when his company was held up by severe machine gun fire which killed his company commander and several soldiers, Lieut. Furlong moved out in advance of the line with great courage and coolness, crossing an open space several hundred yards wide and taking up a position behind the line of machine guns, he closed in on them, killed a number of the enemy with his rifle, put four machine gun nests out of action, and drove twenty German prisoners into our lines."

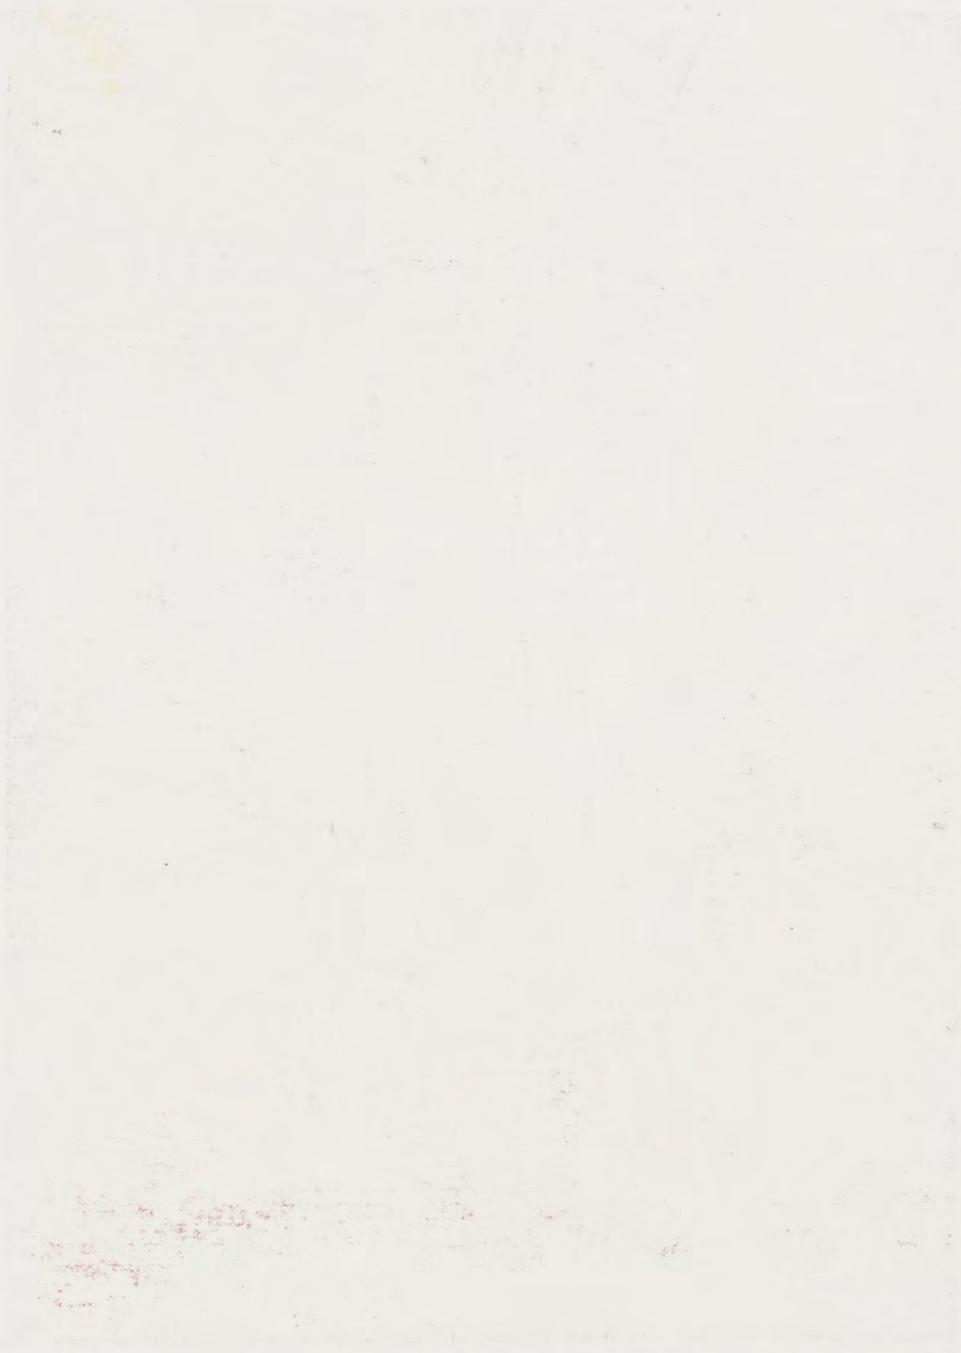

ALBERT H. JEWELL, '15

Chief Engineer and Director of Laboratories Kansas State Board of Health.

"To me M. A. C. is not just a college of science. It is more than an institution with buildings and class rooms. It is a spirit, and 'M. A. C.' spirit, of good fellowship, fair play, and loyalty to the best things of life, that permeates everything whether it be class rooms, social affairs or athletics. The intimate friendship of those who had this spirit will continue to enrich my life. This spirit coupled with the broad sound technical training given at M. A. C. should equip one for large usefulness to his community."

The Board of Publications, 1922

The Board of Publications is a governing and advisory body, the members of which are all ex-officio, brought into being by a general demand for some center of authority over the major college publications. The membership is composed of HOLCAD Editor, Chairman, Business Manager and Co-ed Editor, WOLVERINE Editor and Business Manager, AGRICULTURIST Editor and Business Manager, Presidents of Student Council and Women's League, head of English department, assistant to Dean of Agriculture, assistant to Secretary of College, and College Publicity Manager (secretary). This board takes an active interest in all college publicity work and one of its main objects is to see that the right men are in charge of the larger organs. Nominations or recommendations are made by it to the various classes and to the college as a whole and policies are discussed at the meetings.

From a small handbook in 1887 to an all college memory book of 500 pages of pictures in 1922 is the growth of the Aggie yearbook. P. G. Holden, father of E. B. Holden, '23, was the editor of the 1887 Harrow. Since then the book has passed through a series of changes in name and periodicity and now appears annually as the WOLVERINE, published by each Junior Class. The Staff for the Class of '23 has made every effort to have the 1922 WOLVERINE fully fill its predestined purpose.

"Get the news about M. A. C. and give it to the students in as readable form as possible." is the motto that keeps a score of men and women busy in their spare time. Every line of student activity, every incident of campus life, is game for the "varsity news hound." The Holcad is the medium by which an exchange of ideas among the various branches of the Aggie family is made possible, and keeps a never-tiring shoulder to the wheel of growth and progress toward that goal "Straight ahead."

THE M. A. C. FORESTER is an annual such as only Aggie Foresters could devise. Everything in the varied life of a verdant woodsman, from the Pine-knot Recipe for Camp Pudding to the life-like sketch of the professor from "Cincinnati," is to be found in the 1922 FORESTER. This edition does great credit to the staff. As a gloom-chaser and general reference to incidents of class and camp, this book has had no equal.

The Michigan Agriculturist is a promising publication. Born in 1921, it has already attained a circulation of over one thousand, and has become a fixture in many of the farm homes of Michigan. It is a farm magazine rather than a newspaper and applies itself to the solving of the many problems confronting the Michigan farmer. While edited and managed by students, it has achieved a quality that places it among the leading papers of its class. With as energetic and capable men on its staff as have worked there the past year it cannot but have a great future.

The M. A. C. Record

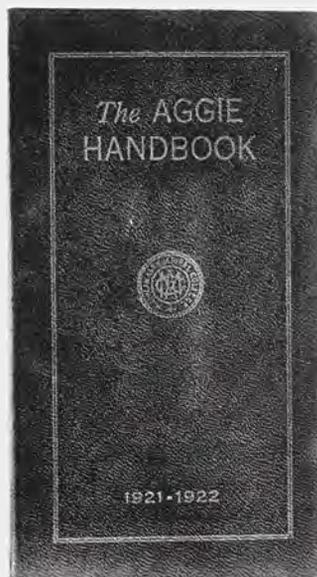

The M. A. C. Record, official organ of the M. A. C. Association, is published in the interest of Alumni of the College and circulates almost entirely among this group. The Record is issued once a week during the college year, being edited by the secretary of the M. A. C. Association. (Since January 1, 1922, J. B. Haselman, Supervisor of Publications, has been in charge as temporary editor).

Serving primarily as a medium to keep alumni in touch with activities at the college and among the different alumni groups, the Record carries a considerable amount of current news, in addition to special articles and accounts. Its circulation during the present year has been a little over 1700 copies a week.

The Aggie Year Book

The historic "frosh bible" is as much a part of the tradition of M. A. C. as the brown pot that hovers insecurely on the highest peak of every freshman's head. This little handbook is prepared by the Y. M. C. A., and a copy is handed to every "is" or "would-be" Aggie as he or she alights from the train on Monday and Tuesday of the first week of fall term. Everything of interest to a freshman from the college calendar to a map of East Lansing is found between the black covers, but the most used pages are those containing the Aggie songs and yells and "General Regulations." The book changes from year to year in the matter of scope and appearance and the general opinion of the Campus puts the 1921-22 Aggie Handbook at the head of the list.

The 1921-22 Student Council

The Student Council handles all the students troubles from the sophomore with a hare-lip that wants to wear a mustache to the small army of indignant freshmen that gather to wipe the sophomore from the face of the earth. Men of judgment and decision they must be, for a faint heart would not long endure the pressure of a thousand men on one side and the faculty on the other. Their job is to get a square deal for both sides and they usually succeed.

BELLE FARLEY '22, HELEN PARKER '22, MARION LESSITER '23, HARRIET HOOPER '22
IRENE HARTMAN '22. FLORENCE DOYLE '23. CELIA YEATTER '24. ESTELLE RAYMOND '25

The 1921-22 Women's League

The girls of the Women's League are elected because of established character and high qualities of leadership. The "clinging vine" has no place in this group for each one must act as proctor, mediator, and arbitrator for the whole gay, carefree freshman class. General regulations and canoeing rules come within their authority as do also breaches of these rules. They aim to bring the Co-ed part of the Aggie college to a happy state of oblivion to all seeming injustices, and to a firm resolve that the Greater M. A. C. is the goal to work for.

PROF. W. O. HEDRICK, PROF. R. C. HUSTON, CATHERINE WATKINS, '22, F. T. CARVER, '22, (PRES.), W. U. VINTON, '22, DOROTHY STUART, '23, E. H. GREENWOOD, '23, R. K. ROSA, '24.

The 1921-22 Union Board

Every well regulated organization must have a social committee, and the Union Board fills this position in the Aggie student body. Union parties are the main worry of this hard-working group but the special tasks at present is the invention of a Union pin that will stay on the student when he changes his clothes. Promotion of the famous Aggie spirit of democracy is the general end in view and the Board seen above has surely done its share.

Liberal Arts Board

No better entertainment and lecture course is enjoyed anywhere than is secured every year for M. A. C. by the Liberal Arts Board. Concerts, lectures, readings, and plays go to make up the program. The students gather in the gym with the knowledge that they are going to hear something worth while every time the Liberal Arts posters come out. From Eddie Guest with his free-flowing, effervescent spirit of good-fellowship to Arthur Kraft with his beautiful songs of the past and present there has been no disappointment in any event.

1922 Varsity Debate

The "Aggie Arguffiers" worked hard and long, fought hard and fast, and came out victorious in the majority of their "brain storm" clashes with other colleges of the United States, this year.

The question for debate was: "Resolved, that the principle of the Closed Shop should be adopted in American industry."

A large share of the credit for this successful season is due to the efficient coaching of "Hot-shot Jimmie" Milne. He literally pounded his men into shape, showed them how to handle facts and logic in a telling manner, and taught the art of strategy. Above all, as a debate coach and a friend, he practiced fair play at all times and made the debaters glad to work for him.

The business affairs of the debating squad at home were very ably cared for by L. D. Abbey, '24.

The caliber of debating at M. A. C. is shown by the fact that the publisher of the Intercollegiate Debater's Handbook has asked permission to publish both debates of the M. A. C.—Colorado dual, along with such schools as Cornell, Harvard, and Chicago U.

This year the Michigan Aggie negative debating team toured the Golden West to settle for once and all the question of the Closed Shop.

At Kalamazoo Normal they met their first enemy, convinced an expert judge and a hostile audience that the Closed Shop was no solution for the labor problem and started for Monmouth, Illinois.

Here they clashed in a non-decision debate with Monmouth College. For an hour and a half afterwards in an open-forum they answered the questions of an interested audience and explained the economic, social, and political aspects of the Closed Shop to the local President of the Railway Brotherhood, Carpenter's Union, and United Mine Workers.

The next stop was Ames, Iowa, where they proved to Iowa State that the Closed Shop was impracticable.

At Fort Collins, the Colorado Aggies proved a very friendly enemy. The Michigan Aggies were so well entertained that they felt rather ungrateful when they "swiped the bacon."

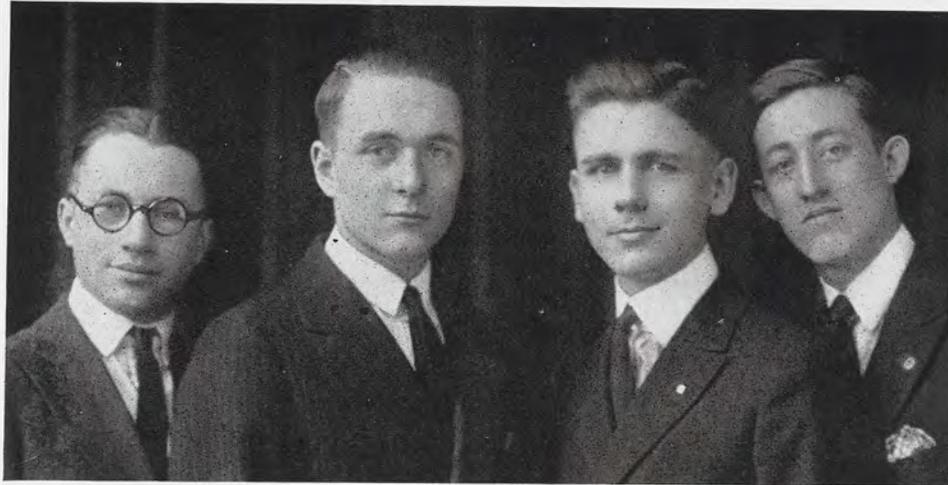

At Helena, Montana, they met their strongest opponents when they faced Montana Wesleyan. Inch by inch they fought while the debate swayed first this way and that. The last speaker for Montana delivered the final deciding punch but they were forced to divide the spoils with M. A. C. in a two to one decision in favor of Montana.

The next step was a little 1700 mile jaunt to Brookings, South Dakota, where they met South Dakota State in a non-decision followed by an open forum.

The next clash was with Gustavus Adolphus at St. Peter, Minnesota. The Aggies won the vote of the only judge who had ever debated. They did not mind losing the vote of the second judge nor of the editor of the Mankato Bugler, particularly when he was unable to give a single reason for voting as he did.

The battle with the North Dakota Aggies at Fargo, North Dakota, waxed hot and heavy but the judge declared the Michigan Aggies had convinced him.

The last debate of the season had been fought, and the Michigan Aggies had won the vote of every judge who had ever actually taken part in intercollegiate debating, and the vote of every expert one-man judge who had to tell why he gave the decision as he did. Almost immediately after this debate, a tired bunch of Aggies started homeward and thirty hours later a speaking tour more extensive than most of our Presidents take, came to an end.

The Affirmative team started the season by clashing with "Colorado's Best," on our home floor. It was a long, close, hard fight. Every man on both teams used the best verbal ammunition he could muster, the debate being so close that it made the one-judge sweat to decide who were the winners. M. A. C. did not feel bad about losing this decision as it was Colorado's eleventh debate and our first.

The next verbal battle was with Purdue University in the annual Tri-State. The consistent firing of our affirmative finally forced the Purdue men out into the open where they were forced to take a definite stand and propose a counter-solution. It was then easy for our "argufiers" to prove that the negative was wrong and carry off the decision. This in a measure evened our score with Purdue for their decision against us last year.

The final debate on the Affirmative's schedule was with Olivet College with whom our men expected a stiff battle. Owing to the superior analysis of the question and to the ability of our men to force the Olivet men to fight on the defensive, they were able to secure a 3 to 0 victory over the preachers.

The Affirmative gained strength and power continually throughout the season and was prepared to whip anything and anybody that came along when the season ended.

DRAMMATICS

The Fair Co-ed

Delightfully pleasing was "The Fair Co-ed," the second annual Union Opera. Under the direction of W. L. Gregory, a well-known director of Chicago and New York, the opera played one night in both Owosso and Jackson and finished a successful run of two nights in Lansing, March 2 and 3. The show was an adaptation of George Ade's plays, and possessed a pleasing plot deftly woven into the scenes.

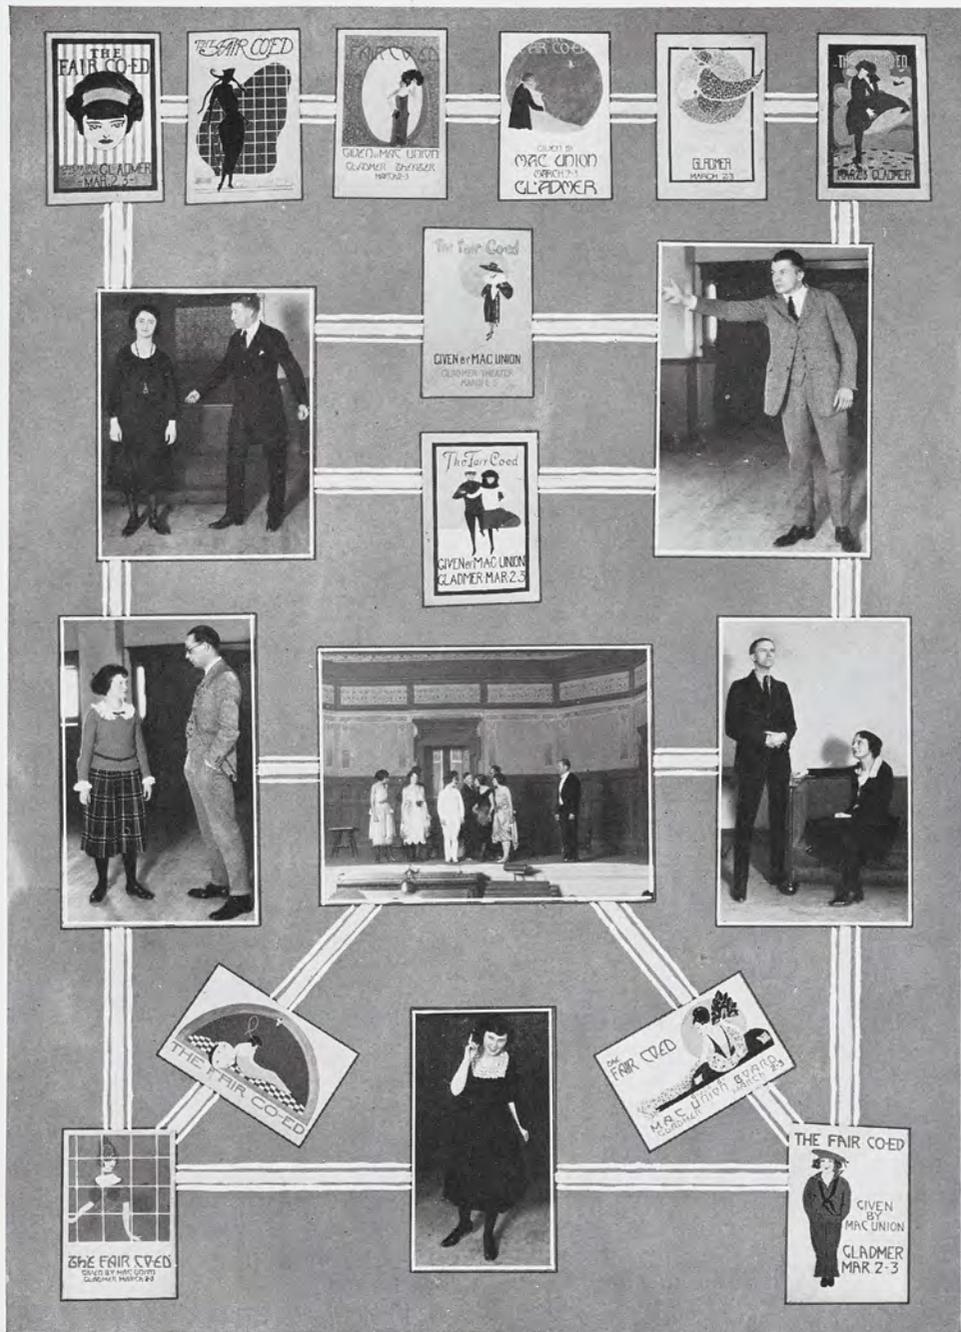

Mary L. Reynolds, as Cynthia Wells the fair Co-ed, captivated her audiences by her fine voice and clever interpretation of her part. Lawrence Skellinger, almost a Senior, who played opposite Miss Reynolds, won a warm place in the hearts of all with his revelation of the trials of an upper classman. L. K. Cordes and Al Vear carried heavy roles with the ease and polish of professionals. H. K. Bingham, as the freshman (alias Mrs. Trotwood), was the hit of the show in his interpretation of the Chaperone.

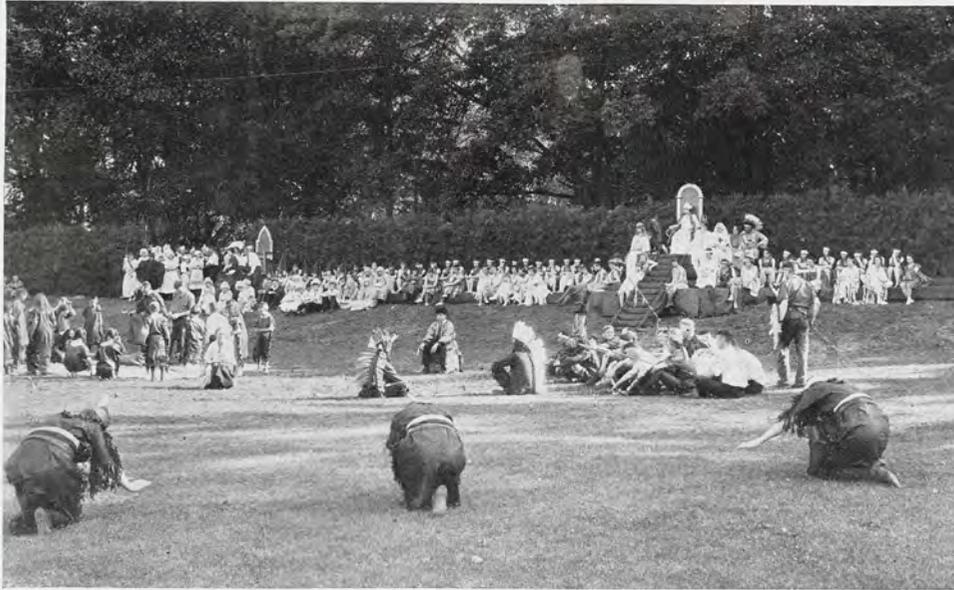

Among the song hits of the show must be mentioned, "The College Serenade" by Cordes and men's chorus, and the ballroom chorus and finale by the entire cast.

As in the 1921 opera, the Style Review was one of the sparkling features of the show. Hearty cooperation was given by the Style Shop and other Lansing Houses in helping to make the array of spring creations out-rank that of "Campus Days."

The choruses, though not as large as those of the previous year, more than made up in quality what they lacked in volume. Not only were they well trained in their musical roles, but the dances of the entire cast showed the result of long and careful training. The ensemble parts were of especially high calibre.

A Pageant of Michigan

Under Supervision of Class of '21

The Indians kowtowing to the Great Spirit was only one of the many historical scenes appearing in the Pageant of Michigan. From the triumph of Order over Chaos to the downfall of John Barleycorn under the Law, events were reproduced which showed strikingly the development of the Wolverine State since the time of the red man.

A special election was held to decide on the leading characters. The choice fell on Sylvia Wixon for the part of Michigan and on Jack Foster for Uncle Sam. Nearly five hundred students found places in the various roles, many of whose costumes showed remarkable originality and skill. The horses looked askance at the Civil War uniforms, but the old Guernsey bull drew his prairie schooner steadily along with not even a sidewise glance at the fairies dancing near.

Mrs. Roseboom, who planned the Pageant, was taken ill and F. Kitson Kowley, a man of experience in many universities and in such theatres as the Hippodrome, was placed in charge. The lessons of the drill and the pleasure of the practice in large groups in the sunny bowl of Sleepy Hollow brought a relief from study and care that was much appreciated at examination time.

INGOMAR

PARTHENIA

Spring Term Play of Dramatic Club, 1921

To the Dramatic Club, spurred on by the untiring efforts of Professor E. S. King, belongs the credit of producing the most successful play ever witnessed in the Forest of Arden. A beautiful evening, a large and sympathetic audience, and a plot, simple and yet so full of true human feeling and emotion that no one noted the passing of time, made a wonderful whole that will linger long in the memory of those present.

Mary Emily Ranney, as Parthenia, portrayed a character so sweet and lovable that even the wild barbarian Ingomar (known familiarly as Doug Steere) was tamed and fascinated, much to the disgust of his barbarous companions and to the distaste of Parthenia's weak and vainglorious father. His reputation saved the town from plunder by the Northern hordes and the recognition of the Duke of the province "made all his dreams come true" in a way that forecasted a lasting safety from ravage of at least one frontier town.

This year was the first that M. A. C. has been represented by an orchestra, as such. The Band has taken this place in the past whenever any music of that kind was wanted. Seeing the need of an orchestra here, the Music department sent out a call for these musicians. As a result, 23 men and women responded, and have been practicing faithfully all year. It is expected that they will furnish the music for many of the College affairs of the future.

The People's Church Choir

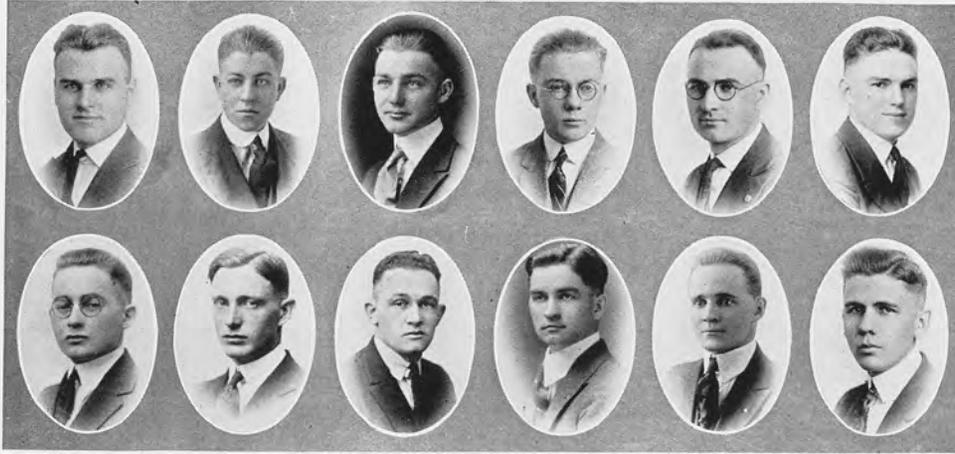

was organized by Music Director Taylor as the demand became insistent that East Lansing have a real choir that could always be depended upon. Volunteers were called for and, with the help of Arthur Tobey '21, special numbers and strong leadership by the choir soon became a regular feature of the morning service. It has become so firmly established during its year of organization that there is a firm sentiment in the minds of the congregation that the People's Church could never do without it again.

The Students Citizenship League

has been for fourteen years the gathering place of the M. A. C. men who desire a Sunday morning class. During most of those years Mother Wood has been an ever-present friend and councillor.

The League holds social meetings with the League of the Silver Cross on Saturday evenings, the two classes alternating in providing entertainment. The Fall Term Banquet is always held on the evening of Thanksgiving Day and the Winter Indoor Picnic and May Party are happy occasions.

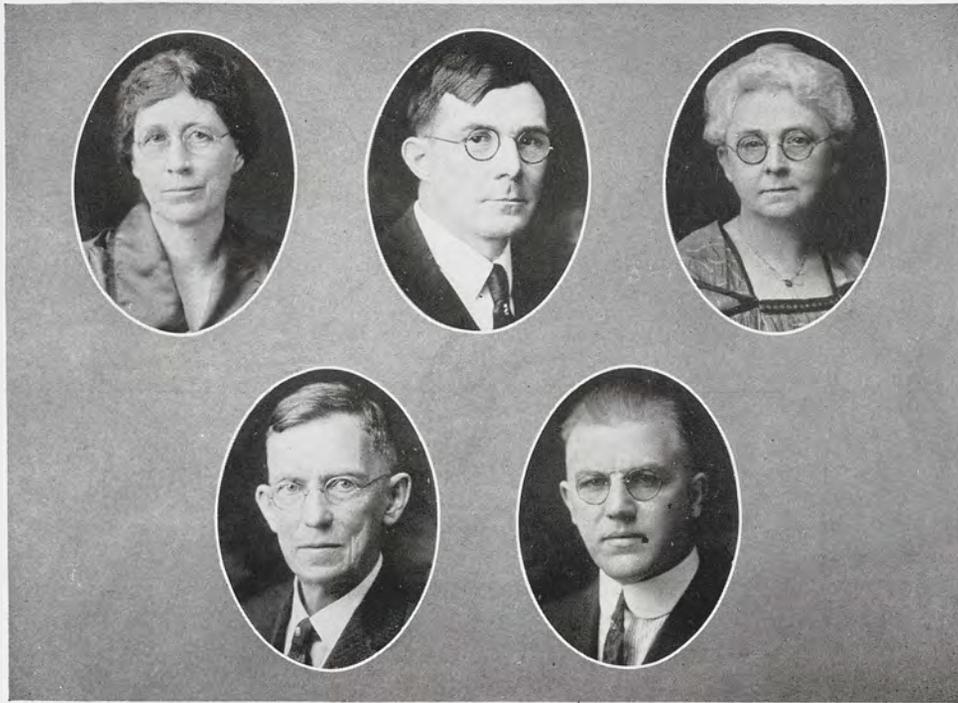

The Bible in its relation to modern life, and particularly that of the student, is studied in the Sunday class to which every student is invited. Leaders are chosen by the officers from among the members, and the class joins in discussion which is closed by a bit of inspiration from Mrs. Wood. At the present time the membership totals about one hundred fifty.

L. S. C.

The League of the Silver Cross

is an organization which has as its final goal a pure, Christian womanhood. Leadership in religious work is gained through participation in the Sunday morning class discussions under the leadership of Mr. Wood, while the social side is developed at the Union parties held every Saturday evening with the S. C. L. Programs of the term's work are worked out ahead and handed in printed form to each member of the League on the first Sunday of the term. One girl is designated as leader for each meeting and on her is the task of awakening interest in the lesson for the day which is handled later by Mr. Wood. There is no other girls' organization of this kind so the League combines the scope of the Sunday School class with that of the Young People's Society and strives to develop the Christian interest together with the social sisterhood.

MR. WOOD, (TEACHER); MR. BEHRENS (STUDENT PASTOR)

The People's Church

The religious atmosphere of M. A. C. centers around the People's Church with the above quintet as leaders, advisers, teachers, and helpers. With one roof sheltering all sects and denominations of Christians, greater comradeship and a higher degree of service is assured.

Sunday classes for men, women, boys, and girls of East Lansing, for married students, for men and women students, and for short-course men, in season, provide ample opportunity for discussion of all social and religious problems.

The 1923 J-Hop

There is one event in the life of the Aggie student that will never be forgotten. The splendor of milady's gown, the eager undoing of the much-boasted favor, the beauty of the vaulted ceiling and the myriad lights, and the soft, radiant glory of the fern-banked pool will linger in memory long after the quick sprint across the campus to reach the dorm by 8:30 has been forgotten.

There never was a HOP like that of '23; at least so said everyone present. The music, which was produced at intervals by the Henry Thies Ritz orchestra of Detroit, thrilled one to the spirit and combined harmoniously with the fragrance of roses, orchids, violets and other flowers which pervaded every nook and corner. It was with a reluctant, lingering step that the merry throng sought their rooms at three o'clock, there to talk it all through again and fall asleep as the first glimmer of dawn touched the sky.—The '23 J-Hop was over.

The Co-Ed Prom of 1922

The third annual Co-ed Prom was given by the Woman's League on January the Twenty-third, in the gymnasium. Once more the Co-eds put on a strictly feminine party, but fun and mirth were indeed rampant all evening and the spirit of jest was the ruler of the time. The party was a most picturesque and colorful affair. The "couples," attired in costumes of every hue and possible creation, presented a picture that impressed every mind. The "gym" was cleverly decorated, each of the classes transforming a corner into a cozy rest. The Junior corner, full of cherry blossoms, birds and butterflies and supplied with lounges and cushions, was declared by all to be the most attractive. This event once again proved the great success of the Prom as an all college Co-ed affair.

Introduction

Now that the beauties of our College and Campus have been displayed, you know what M. A. C. is and what she does. From now on, beware, as you are about to enter the secret confines of our innermost shrine and receive an "Eye Opener." In the following pages the darkest secrets of our campus life, yea even our sororities and fraternities, have been stripped of all camouflage and false covering. And if, perchance, your name appears on these pages, weep not, but join us in reciting:

"Life is a joke and all things show it;
I thought so once, but now I know it."

UPON MISS EUDORA SAVAGE, DEAN OF WOMEN, who during her administration of co-ed affairs at M. A. C. has achieved greater distinction as the foremost campus humorist than even Marc Small, and has been the source of many hearty laughs within recent months, do we take great pleasure in conferring the degree of Mistress of Humor for 1922.

Beauty That is More Than Skin Deep

When admiring the new closed Reos—the four passenger Coupe and the new Sedan—which you will find outstandingly beautiful by comparison with other high class equippages, please remember that the beauty you see is more than skin deep.

Concealed excellence—beauty in unseen as well as visible places—is a Reo attribute.

If you will look not only at the surface, but beneath—and if you will insist upon knowing the materials that go into the making of the various closed cars shown you, you will find that few cars at anywhere near Reo prices, have all-aluminum bodies.

And from the fullness of our long experience, we assure you no lesser material is adequate to the service and the satisfaction you expect when you select your car.

No other material will receive and maintain the finish—will resist rust—will be so free from “drumming” sounds—as aluminum.

And no body can be as good as a Reo body unless the construction be, as Reo bodies are, full aluminum.

If you will study this body question—insist first on the best materials and construction, and then compare prices, you will be more than ever surprised to learn that you may have a car that is the last word in quality and fine coach work, and yet at a price that is so much less than you had expected to pay.

New Aggie Dance Rules

1. At all parties the dancing should start before the musicians arrive.
2. Toddling must be confined to dark corners.
3. Co-eds shall not dance with more than one man at the same time.
4. During "Dreamy Waltzes" both contestants must keep their eyes open.
5. Positively no shoving or pushing.
6. It is always proper to dance with the chaperons.
7. Leave the center of the floor for our jazz hounds.
8. Gentlemen should dance on the floor as ladies' slippers are expensive.
9. At "lights out" all dancing must stop.
10. At least 6 inches between couples.
11. Engineers wear rubber soled shoes to prevent permanent injuries to girls' feet.
12. Bump into as many people as possible. It is a case of survival of the fittest.
13. Gentlemen should not eat ladies' hair. Refreshments are served in the Eat Shop.
14. Stamping and whistling should be encouraged as it creates a home atmosphere.

The meeting was called to order by President Wescott. Plans for the coming J-Hop were discussed. Brother Dalton moved that all the brothers attending the Hop wear belts instead of suspenders (due to the shortage of buttons on his trousers). The motion was lost for the want of a second. Several of the brothers suggested that brother Dalton purchase a package of safety pins. Door tender Moorish moved that the additional silverware for the house be secured in the usual way. Brother Brady was nominated, he being the fastest runner. A discussion followed in which several brothers suggested that all bald headed members be required to wear wigs so that the house wouldn't look like an old people's home. After the discussion Brother Black was requested to use "Bare to Hair." Meeting adjourned.

"Red" Dalton (displaying steed to fair co-ed) "This horse is very intelligent. He knows almost as much as I do."

The meeting was called to order by Sister Schneider. The latest gossip from the Terrace was reviewed. A motion was made that engaged members wear their galoshes buckled so as to be distinguished from the still unattached. This would leave more opportunities for the latter to secure dates. Motion carried. The question, "Is a Blond or a Brunette most successful in capturing a man," was discussed. Sister Brown was consulted, as she has been both, but she refused to answer and suggested that the sisters experiment for themselves. The Custodian warned the members that if they wear their hair a la campus style, to be careful in passing under trees so as not to get it caught in the branches. There was a beautiful full moon so the meeting was adjourned.

The meeting was called to order by President Crum. The members dusted the hay seeds from their heads and clothes while the secretary called the roll. Brother Wright was absent and the secretary asked that he be called up from the barn and let the milking go until after meeting. The members presented the President with the Helium medal for his brave encounter with a wild chicken. All that could be heard was the rattling of the cobwebs until Brother Morrison arose and moved that the roof be raised to enable the members to stand upright. Several of the men were already becoming round shouldered. Motion lost. The entry of the fatted calf into the lodge room broke up the meeting.

Giltner: "This is the third time you have been late to class. Don't you know you can't stay the flight of time."

The meeting was called to order by Sister Hedrick. The roll call was taken by Sister Doyle and great surprise was manifested on learning that all members were present. The important business of providing sufficient means of sustenance for certain members of the chapter was discussed. Peanuts being Virginia Decker's chief source of brain food, not withstanding the fact that she is quite fond of Ham, the chapter decided to provide a store for this food. The meeting was temporarily discontinued while Sister Chinnick answered an important 'phone call from the Columbian house. Business was resumed after her date for a canoe trip had been arranged. The call of the WILD (WOOD) was heard and the meeting adjourned.

The meeting was called to order by the singing of the house song. Brothers Smith and Prentice caused such a discord that the idea of singing was temporarily abandoned. Many of the brothers were absent and the Custodian of Archives was instructed to call up the "Coop" and summon the rest of the members so that a quorum would be present. Brother Keely furnished great amusement for the members by displaying his great ability as a slip stick artist. His several months of intensive training enabled him to carry on the strenuous exhibition. After it was over the brothers wondered what it was all about. The meeting was going along in fine style until a game of bridge was suggested, then the meeting broke up in confusion.

She: "I'll marry you on one condition."

Prentice: "That's all right. I entered college on four."

Meeting called to order by President Weber. The President detailed a squad of freshmen to secure the regular supply of apples from the college orchard. The squad was instructed by the older men of the house as to best procedure in order to avoid being detected. The job must be done carefully, because, if caught, would put the house in bad with the College. An extensive plan of attack was prepared and after full instructions were given, the squad started out on their mission. Under the head of new business, Brother Deady reported that the extending of the car tracks to their Country Club has been very favorably considered by the car company. The meeting was adjourned so that several of the brothers who had dates with the other sex would not be late.

Campus Cop: "See here young fellow what are you doing in that tree."

Smith: "One of your apples fell down and I am trying to put it back."

The meeting was called to order by President Blanchard. The report of the treasurer was read. It showed a deficit of two dollars. The treasurer moved that another man be admitted or the dues increased. Brother Bailey objected to increasing since he would have to decrease his course in FUSSOLOGY. (What is one mere man, more or less?) A motion was made and seconded that brother Kaiser keep the house supplied with toilet articles and razor blades, because in his present position he can obtain them at the least cost. The motion was opposed by one vote, that being Brother Kaiser's. Motion carried. Sounds of spiritous hilarity outside caused a general adjournment by common consent.

Prof. Plant: "What right have you to swear before me in class?"

Kaiser: "How did I know you wanted to swear?"

President Johnson called the meeting to order. The report of the house committee disclosed that some of the brothers had neglected to make their deposits when taking candy from the house store. A lead nickel was found among the contributions, and there was a deficit of twenty-two cents. Brother Wellman requested that the various members refrain from wearing pins in the toe of their shoes. It makes studying rather difficult and painful. Brother Honke gave an extended, talk on the benefits of Tau Beta Pi. Due to the fact that he has a key, he does not have to work any more and offered to help the rest of the brothers. So great was the rush that he was snowed under and the meeting had to be adjourned to find Jack at the bottom of the pile.

Meeting was called to order by President Rice. Brother Coulter suggested that a system of bells be installed so that all the brothers would be able to get up in time for breakfast. Brother Pocklington objected because he didn't see why the brothers should be compelled to get up for breakfast. It is much more satisfying to stay in bed. Brother Pock was supported almost unanimously and the motion was defeated. The question of late evening concerts was brought up. People on the hill so thoroughly enjoy the concerts that they can't go to sleep. The question was laid on the table. Some one suggested going canoeing and the meeting suddenly disbanded.

Branch (Waking up Pockington): "It's ten to eight."

Pock (Sleepily): "Wait till the odds are better then place it all."

The meeting was opened by singing the Morman song. A very interesting and instructive article entitled "Rouge, Powder and Lip-stick, Their Effect on Beauty," was read by Sister Walker. An extended demonstration of the use of these articles was given and the results were remarkable. The business of the meeting was abandoned and a beauty parlor set up. Under the expert guidance of Sister Walker the members became quite proficient in the art of exterior decorating and painting. The transformation was unbelievable. Someone suggested that the members wander forth and Vamp some men of the college, as this would more clearly demonstrate the results of the work. Meeting adjourned.

Beatrice: "Oh, John you're so tender tonight."

He: "I ought to be; I've been in hot water all week in college."

A Gateway to Progress

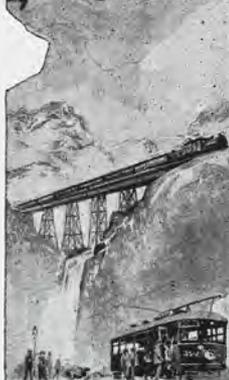

There it stands—a simple forty-foot gateway but unlike any other in the entire world. Through it have come many of the engineering ideas that have made this an electrical America.

The story of electrical development begins in the Research Laboratories. Here the ruling spirit is one of knowledge—truth—rather than immediate practical results. In this manner are established new theories—tools for future use—which sooner or later find ready application.

The great industries that cluster around Niagara Falls, the electrically driven battleships, the trolley cars and electrified railways that carry millions, the lamps that glow in homes and streets, the household conveniences that have relieved women of drudgery, the labor-saving electrical tools of factories, all owe their existence, partly at least, to the co-ordinated efforts of the thousands who daily stream through this gateway.

The meeting was called to order by President Shubert. The question of several of the brothers going to tea parties was discussed. Due to the lack of evidence, the question was laid on the table. Brother Ralston moved that the treasurer be authorized to purchase some ash trays. He said that he didn't object to the fellows smoking in his room but he does object to their using his shoes for ash trays. The report showed that there was only twenty cents in the treasury, which made it impossible to comply with Brother Ralston's motion. The motion died a natural death. Brother Brown read a list of the sororities who have not yet given formals and suggests that the brothers bear that in mind when securing dates. The meeting broke up when the treasurer suggested collecting back dues.

Hugo: "Both my father and grandfather married the girl they took to the J-Hop."

Mr. Farmer

You are one of the producers of the nation's wealth, because the farm is a foundation of wealth. The portion of this wealth to which you are entitled depends on how you manage your farm; what assistance you give nature by using good seed, by providing a proper seed bed, by distributing the seed in the correct proportion by use of accurate seeding machinery, and by carefully cultivating and harvesting.

Good judgment combined with good tools will get good results.

We have made a careful, scientific study of agriculture in all its branches. We offer you the product of these years of study and experience in the John Deere Full Line of agricultural Implements.

The meeting was called to order by President Erickson. Brother Lewis moved that Brother Olsen and Huntly live at their permanent quarters in Lansing so as to make more room in the house. They spend most of their time there anyway. Brother Miller enlightened the members as to the advantage of sending a rubber stamp to a girl for her birthday. Unfortunately his discussion was too deep and went over the heads of those present. Brother Schweizer moved that a petition be sent to the Student Council, requesting that the upper-classmen be allowed to haze the Fresh, because he was not having any fun this year. The large number of Fresh present killed the motion. The meeting adjourned so that the Chapter might attend prayer meeting at the Church.

L. N. Field: "Mr. Lewis is this problem the result of your own efforts?"

Werner: "Absolutely, I spent two weeks finding someone who had it worked out."

The meeting was called to order by President Farr. Brother Patenge moved that the cellar windows be sealed in order that the Dorians and Phi Delts would not be able to learn any secret stuff. The President appointed a committee of freshman to secure the necessary material from the wood shop. The social committee requested that all members wear Tuxedos to the J-Hop. Brother Morningstar objected as there were none in the Lewis Shop that would fit him. The house committee reported that several members had been seen at the stage entrance of the Empress and asked that they not do this. It interferes with Jack Hyde's dates. The rattling of poker chips was heard and the meeting disbanded.

Holcad Editor: "We can't accept this poem. It isn't verse at all; merely an escape of gas."

The meeting was called to order by President Walker. The dance committee reported a shortage of seventy-five cents. Brother Johnston moved that ten per cent of the winnings of the poker games go to the house. Brother Jacklin seconded, as he always loses. Motion lost. Brother Bunnell moved that the members of the house refrain from taking fresh air baths on the back sleeping porch as it interferes with the neighbors doing their house work. Motion met with almost unanimous disapproval. A compromise was made and the treasurer was authorized to purchase heavy curtains to be placed on the sleeping porch. Brother Edmonds was highly congratulated upon becoming a member of Tau Beta Pi, and he gave a short speech in which he thanked the brothers. Some copy was due for the Free Press so the meeting was adjourned.

Edmonds: "I just had a quizz."

Bunnell: "Yeah."

Edmonds: "I never saw such dumbells in my life. No one around me knew anything."

Meeting called to order by Sister Scully. The question of the substitution of various society pins was discussed. A motion was made by Sister Schmidt and seconded by Sister Zorman that the practice of changing pins be prohibited for a period of six months. Sisters could receive pins but must not part with theirs. It was recommended that special attention be paid to guarding Sister McNeil. A suggestion was made by Sister Church that the chapter members spend more time on their books and less on CAMPUSTRY in order to bring up the scholastic standing of the chapter. The members enjoyed two hours of concentrated study at the end of which the meeting was adjourned.

The meeting opened with a crash as Brother Ketcham slid down the stairs and landed in the middle of the room. Brother Stiff moved that non-skids be secured for the light footed brothers. As several who were affected by the motion had failed to pay their dues, the motion was lost. Brother Hinie Platz requested that his pipe be put on display at the Engineering exhibit as it was the strongest piece of briar in the world. All the members heartily agreed as to the strength of said article and the request was granted. A motion was made that skates be furnished so that classes could be reached on time. The treasurer showed that in order to do so the dues would have to be increased. Motion lost by mutual consent. Sounds of laughter and music coming from the Phylean house caused a general adjournment.

Prof. Ryder (Speaking on woman Suffrage in France): "In comparison to other countries, the woman movement in France has been slow."

"Bill" Ketcham: "Not where I was Prof."

ACHIEVEMENT

The goal of every ambitious man and firm is typified in the rapid growth of the Jahn & Ollier Engraving Company—the universal esteem in which their art and plates are held by the large national advertisers—and the enviable reputation for prompt deliveries which they enjoy.

Delivering this same high quality and careful personal supervision to schools has built up for us the largest college and high school annual engraving business in America—400 books yearly.

Thirty thousand square feet of floor space (4 floors) and over two hundred and fifty skilled employees are required to meet the constant demand for "J&O" commercial photographs, art, color process plates and photo engraving (one complete floor is devoted to color process work).

Intelligent supervision of all work by many skillful office service men eliminates your troubles. Sales service men sent everywhere.

The meeting was called to order by President Hough. Brother Reams moved that the lodge rooms be located on the first floor. Brother Morrison objected because it would cut off the view of the Waterbury house. The President appointed a committee to purchase a new frame for "Duke" Dunford's latest picture entitled "Why is Economics." A motion was made and seconded that the $1.50 balance from the formal party be applied on the house mortgage. Carried. The proposed roof garden on the Bank building was discussed and met with hearty approval. Brother Anderson moved that a bond issue be floated to raise the necessary money. Prof. Dunford stated that this would be impossible, due to the fact that the chapter could not liquidate their assets because they were already in the liquid form. Song and laughter from the Waterbury caused adjournment.

Chaperon: "Young man, the lights of this house go out at ten o'clock."

The meeting was called to order by President Geisler. Brother Ernst made a motion that the meeting night be changed to Tuesday, in order not to interfere with dates of the Themians. Due to the fact that this affected many of the brothers the motion was passed. Brother Alger moved that the chapter house be abandoned and that the fraternity rooms be taken in the Woman's Building so that brother Pollock may do his studying at home. President Geisler requested all brothers who were going to step out any evening to report to brother Hamilton. Brother Hamilton is one of the world's renowned authorities on correct dress, and his inspection will enable the members to be properly attired on all occasions. The question of the building of a new high school on Grand River Avenue was of great interest to some of the brothers. Meeting adjourned.

The meeting was called to order by Sister Holstead. A motion was made and seconded that Sister Sally Hartman find a new place of abode during the night because of her melodious snores disturbing her light sleeping room-mates. A committee was appointed to consult William of the COOP on the matter of constructing an extended window ledge or some sort of addition so that the above named might be allowed to continue in this vocal development. Sister Mussleman suggested that the girls, living at the Waterbury house be careful to keep their shades lowered so that the study hours at the Phi Delta house might be more rigidly observed. As there was no new business the meeting was adjourned.

The meeting was summoned to order by Sister Hanigan. The troublesome question of the correct style for bobbed hair was discussed. Several of the Sisters maintained that only a square curly bob was correct while others insisted that a shaggy bob was quite proper. After the argument subsided slightly, Sister Ketcham proclaimed that there was only one BOB in the world for her. Several of the sisters asked to be excused. (There was no Phi Delta meeting that night.) The request was granted, but the Sisters were instructed to use their influence in securing dates for the others to attend the Phi Delta formal. On account of so many leaving, a quorum was not present and the meeting adjourned.

TAILORS TO GENTLEMEN SINCE 1878

Themian

The meeting was called to order by Sister Bentley. A suggestion was made that the business of the meeting be temporarily abandoned and a question box be carried on so as to learn the doings of several members. On opening the box many real live questions were found. A few of the sisters objected to such a cross examination and in order to keep peace the idea was discarded. Hair brushes were collected to reprimand the pledges. However, before the brushes could be collected the victims made a hasty retreat to the upper regions and succeeded in evading the painful, yet essential, part of an initiate's life. The inmates could not be persuaded to come out of hiding, so the meeting was adjourned until next time.

"Army" Marling: "Are late hours good for one?"

K. Langley: "No, but they are fine for two."

The meeting was called to order by President Ackerman. The secretary held the whale oil lamp high above his head and went through the motions of triple integration which constitute the pass word of the chapter. The manner of making out "Ponies" was discussed in great length and detail and many elaborate and unique ideas were brought to light. Pres. Ackerman said that with such valuable information on hand all members should be ble to ride through the thick of the coming exams. Brother "Buck" moved that the house be cleaned for Farmer's week and that all the house songs and pictures be carefully hidden. Carried. The house committee reported that the bulletin board had been stolen and requested that it be returned and tables will be furnished for card playing. With the singing of the favorite house song "It is easier to crib than study" the meeting was adjourned.

Fond Father: "My boy what do you expect to be when you get out of college?"
"Red" Fitch: "An old man, Father."

The College Book Store

Was conceived upon one of the cardinal principles of Michigan Agricultural College Campus—The Spirit of Cooperation.

As a cooperative organization we serve students and former students with the books and supplies they need, at cost plus a small handling charge. Buying at wholesale and only in amounts needed for each class, every student shares in our low cost and quick turnover.

During the twenty-six years of our service to M. A. C. men and women we have saved thousands of dollars for them and the folks back home who were "putting them through."

We are continuing our endeavors in this direction.

The meeting was called to order by President Stitt. A motion was made and seconded that the chapter purchase a private bakery in order to keep Brother Cook supplied with that essential part of his diet. Motion carried by an overwhelming vote. Brother Greenwood, the Jackson elevated, moved that when members visit the sororities at Ypsi normal they remember that a piano is not a harp and act accordingly. The following house rules were read. "No windows shall be washed the Spring term. Beds must be made before 2 a. m. Never move anything if you can climb over it. Never sweep out your room it raises a dust. Play the 'Vic' all evening it is an aid to study." These rules were made so as to make the men feel comfortable, and to furnish an atmosphere of home. The members thanked the committee for such kind thoughtfulness. The meeting was adjourned because there was a good show at the Empress.

Abbey: "You want to keep your eyes open around here."

Ranney: "What for?"

Abbey: "Because people would think you a darn fool if you go around with them shut."

PROGRESS

FROM humble beginnings, gaining and ever gaining in proportion—inspiring and holding public trust and confidence—achieving a high position of respect among civic institutions—being looked to as a leader; we are justly entitled to lay claim to such distinction.

Judgment can be made only upon outward appearances. But the dignified facade of our new building, the appealing luxury of the beautifully artistic appointments, and the wealth of practical and beautiful merchandise, speak their message of Progress in differing ways.

To the public an enviable attainment, but to us it is but a harmonious combination of myriad problems well solved, of numerous ideals attained, of many services accepted.

In every instance, the ultimate achievement has been outside the realm of our powers.

We could only prepare, present and sustain—to round out the effective accomplishment; belief, acceptance and encouragement from our patrons were essential. That we have aroused these sentiments is evident. That we may continue to do so through the presentation of merchandise exceptional in Quality and in Value, and in the rendering of even more efficient services in every way, is our earnest endeavor for the future.
