... PREFACE ...

The Staff of THE 1930 WOLVERINE submits the twenty-eighth volume of that publication for your considerate approval.

In composing this yearbook, we have made radical changes from the style favored in previous editions. This volume has been enlarged as to page size and the book itself has been completely reorganized. Several sections have been added and a number of the usual sections have been modified or enlarged.

No doubt the innovations in this volume will attract comment both as to organization and method of treatment. The reader will kindly bear in mind that this book ushers in a new type of annual publication regarding Michigan State College.

Forest scenes, in which the famous Michigan Pine plays an important part and which are, to a large extent, typical of the state of Michigan, have been chosen as the major art theme of the book. An attempt has been made toward a decorative treatment of the subject without loss of the spirit of ruggedness and grandeur peculiar to Michigan's natural beauty.

Each one of the ten divisional pages are devoted to a specific course offered by the College, the panel illustration being a portrayal of some phase of activity representative of the several vocations featured.

Our aim has been to construct a WOLVERINE worthy of Michigan State College, and we hope that we are offering an annual which accurately and acceptably portrays the high spots on this Campus in 1929-30. If you consider this volume as fulfilling this purpose, we are satisfied.

Although one of the youngest, the Business Administration course has developed rapidly, attracting a large number of co-eds as well as men students. • • •

ADMINISTRATION

The WOLVERINE

Michigan State College has made very gratifying progress during the past year. It has returned to a normal financial status, undergone radical reorganization and readjustment processes to develop and strengthen its activities and has witnessed a material increase in enrollment.

The administrative officers of the State, as well as the citizen constituency, have been cordial, sympathetic, and helpful while the legislature has been both kindly and generous.

On the campus, peace and quiet and harmony have prevailed with a splendid attitude of mind on the part of both staff and students.

All of these conditions, I believe, indicate splendid future prospects.

THE SECRETARY

As Business Manager of the College and Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, I am responsible for the disposition of the College budget under the direction of the State Board of Agriculture. I also act as custodian of all College property and buildings.

The Office of the Comptroller is operated in conjunction with the Secretary's Office and its duties are to check on departmental accounts and execute the payment of College bills.

A Purchasing Department is also maintained, through which all purchases for the College are made as economically as possible.

THE TREASURER

Importance is attached to the office of the treasurer in that the collection of all student fees and all disbursements by the State Board are effected through this office. Class funds, student loans, and publication finances are also administered by the treasurer.

J. Schepus

THE REGISTRAR

The office of the Registrar of the College was established in 1908. On June first of that year it opened in one of the upper rooms of the present Entomology building with a staff of one. At that time the student body numbered about 700.

The growth of the College has twice necessitated enlarged quarters, and our present enrollment of over 3,000 requires a staff of six.

THE LIBRARIAN

When Michigan State College opened its doors to students in 1857, it possessed a small collection of books which had been presented by the Michigan Agricultural Society. From this modest beginning has developed a library of more than 70,000 volumes housed in a beautiful building of English Gothic architecture. We are all proud of our library.

LIBERAL ARTS

The obligations of a state educational institution today are large as compared with those of a generation ago. Not only more students are enrolled but a much more extensive curriculum is necessary to meet the needs of society. The latter consideration led to the addition of the Liberal Arts Division to the Michigan State College. Through this enlarged curriculum, combined with generous elective privileges, it has become possible for this college to furnish training for a large number of additional purposes.

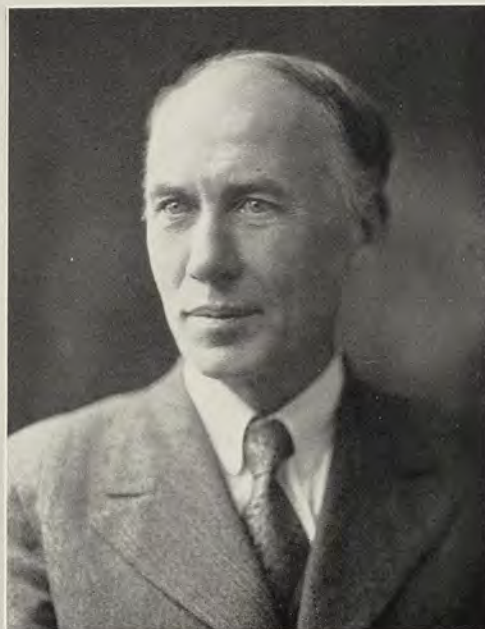

First of all such a curriculum takes care of the student who seeks a broad general training in preference to the technical lines. This type of education involves an effort on the part of the student to understand himself, his capacity and his limitations, as well as to appreciate the world in which he lives.

Furthermore, it is true that combinations of subject matter in this Division may be utilized as preparation for some vocational service. Nearly any subject, properly supplemented with allied subject matter, may furnish preparation for entrance into the teaching field. A Department of Education furnishes special instruction in the art of teaching and equips the qualified graduate with a life certificate. Economics and related subjects prepare one for the business career. The skillful student of art, including music in its many branches, as well as drawing and painting, finds such training serviceable for commercial purposes, if he likes. A special course in music leads to a life teacher's certificate; similarly, a course in drawing terminates in the same type of certificate.

This Division in cooperation with the Engineering and Home Economics Divisions, furnishes important subjects for the newly established Hotel Administration course, training men and women for this particular business. It is here that the student finds opportunity to study the great human interests which are becoming of constantly greater concern in society.

Finally, there are found in this Division two important courses in physical education, one designed especially for men; the other for women. Both lead to college degrees.

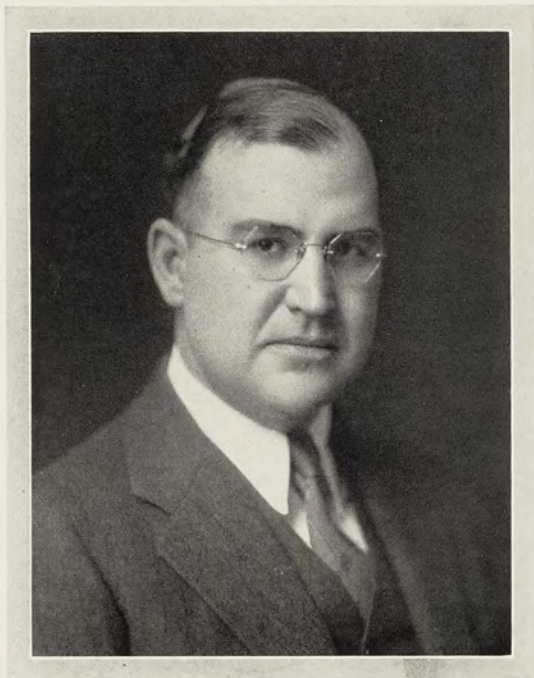

Obviously, the subject matter of this division affords generous opportunities for choice of subject matter in planning one's education. In these efforts on the part of the student to discover a suitable educational program for himself, the faculty of Liberal Arts is ever ready to render assistance in the way of advice and suggestion.

AGRICULTURE

Graduates in agriculture from Michigan State College are to be found throughout Michigan—successful dairymen, poultrymen, live stock breeders, fruit growers, florists, landscape architects, seed growers, foresters, agricultural teachers, county agents, millers, managers of co-operative elevators, railroad agriculturists and limestone and fertilizer salesmen. Many other states and the federal government have gained leaders in agricultural fields from this Institution. Building on this well established foundation, the Agricultural Division gives the necessary training and inspiration for men who eventually find splendid opportunities in the widely diversified field offered by agriculture and industries serving agriculture.

ENGINEERING

The demand of the profession of engineering today is two-fold. On the one hand is the demand that the engineering student shall be trained intensively in engineering science research. On the other hand there is the demand from industry that the engineering student shall be given a training in the art of engineering, and also such a broad training that he may enter the field of management and administration.

With the time available it is impossible to give the student intensive training that will best fit him to perform the duties of the professional engineer, and at the same time give him the broader training that will make him immediately more valuable to industry. The division of engineering has recognized this difficulty and differentiates between the technical and the administrative engineer, offering, as it does in each of the four branches, Chemical, Civil, Electrical and Mechanical Engineering, the option of following either the technical course or the Engineering Administration course.

The WOLVERINE

APPLIED SCIENCE

The Applied Science Division was established in the fall of 1921 as a result of the feeling among the faculty that an opportunity ought to be provided for training in the fundamental sciences without necessarily having to study the special applications of these sciences as given in Agriculture, Engineering, Home Economics and Veterinary courses, the only ones offered at this college up to that time. The first Dean of the Applied Science course was Dr. F. S. Kedzie, who had just resigned the presidency which he held for five years, and who had for many years before that been connected with the Department of Chemistry. In this course, a student is able to get a thorough training in some of the more important sciences, while at the same time having opportunity to devote considerable time to various other lines of study, not necessarily scientific but cultural. It is in this course that the students preparing themselves for dentistry and medical training find it most convenient to get their preliminary training.

HOME ECONOMICS

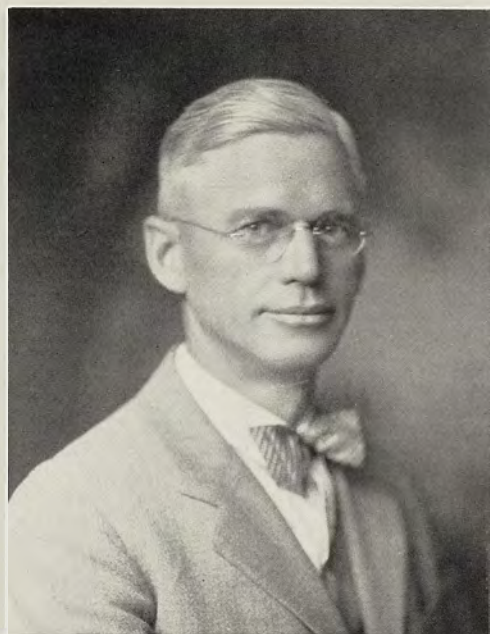

The scope of the field of Home Economics is increasingly far reaching and, therefore, professional opportunities for women with this training are becoming more varied. This necessitates thorough preparation in the fundamental sciences, English, economics and sociology as well as in the various departments of this division. However, the purpose of the division is not primarily to fit the students for professions, but rather to prepare them for living and to enable them to apply modern resources to the improvement of the home.

VETERINARY MEDICINE AND BIOLOGY

Medicine has always had its roots in science. It has not always been well nourished since science has had a marked development only recently.

Michigan State College was founded with a view to presenting the sciences as a foundation for agriculture. Naturally, veterinary medicine, which has to do with the relation of medicine to the lower animals, has always been given a prominent place in the curriculum and in the experimental work of the College.

Veterinary medicine makes the same demand on the sciences as does human medicine. Michigan State College does not offer a course in human medicine, but it does give premedical work to both prospective medical and dental students. In addition, there is offered a full four-year course in veterinary medicine. The graduates from this course are making a success in practice and are filling positions of responsibility all over the world. The opportunities in this field are not surpassed in any field for which college furnishes training.

Michigan State College also offers a full four-year course in medical biology or technology. Men and women are trained in this course in chemistry, bacteriology and pathology, so that they bring these sciences to the aid of the medical profession in its effort to prevent and cure diseases of man. This course is the only one of its kind offered in the United States. It is proving to be popular and meets an urgent need. We are especially well located with reference to the State Health laboratories and large hospitals in Lansing to give instruction in medical biology.

The WOLVERINE

INSTITUTE of MUSIC

A more than satisfactory increase in enrollment has been made in the music department of the college, many of the sub-departments showing a total at the close of the fall term greater than that of the entire preceding year.

Interest in public school music courses has doubled. Fortunately the service of Miss Josephine Kackley had been loaned to the department by the National Recreation and Playground Association of New York City, and a plan was immediately made to do extension work in rural districts, students to get their practice teaching under the direction of Miss Kackley.

Alexander Schuster, noted Russian cellist, came from Berlin to act as head of the cello department and Zinovy Kogan, Russian violinist and conductor who is acting as assistant to Michael Press and director of the college chorus was another important addition to the faculty.

In recent months Mr. Press, Mr. Schuster, Mr. Kogan and Izler Solomon, formed a string quartette which will carry the name of the college to the far corners of the music world.

Two pianos in the director's office and every other room of the old weather bureau building in constant use testify to the growing popularity of music study at the college. Hence the concern for the future is studio room in a building where the wail of the violin on the second floor does not mingle with trombone tones coming from the basement to the great distraction of piano and cello students on the floor between.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Michigan State College was one of the first institutions to grant faculty rating to the members of the Athletic staff, and the interests and support of the college authorities in the promotion of athletics and physical education have always been given with the fullest co-operation.

The Physical Education department may be subdivided into the following divisions:

Intercollegiate athletics, embracing varsity and freshman teams in all the minor and major sports.

Intramural athletics, embracing competition for the fraternities, classes, and faculty.

Required Physical Education, embracing physical education work required of all freshmen and sophomores in college.

Women's department of Physical Education, embracing the required physical education work for freshmen and sophomores, the intramural athletics, and the four-year course in Physical Education for women.

The four-year course in Physical Education for men aims to prepare the men to serve as Directors of Physical Education and Athletics in high schools, colleges, as coaches of the major and minor sports, and as conductors of classes in calisthenics, gymnastics, and games.

The athletic and physical education equipment of the college at present consists of the following: gymnasium, gymnasium annex, a sectional basketball floor in Demonstration hall, stadium with running tracks, freshmen football and baseball fields, intramural fields, physical education class fields, and tennis courts.

Ralph H. Young

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

From the standpoint of enrollment, the Liberal Arts Division may be regarded as the largest on the campus. Varied instruction is offered in the languages, history, economics, art, and the social sciences.

GRADUATE STUDENTS

GRADUATE SCHOOL

The sound development of Michigan State College as a center of scientific research and academic achievement is well exemplified in the steady growth of the graduate school. Each year an increased number of advanced degrees are awarded by Michigan State. A separate division for graduate study was recently created with Dr. E. A. Bessey, former dean of applied science, at its head and even greater strides are expected to be made. Dr. Bessey had been in charge of this work as chairman of the committee on advanced degrees, but now a graduate school has been definitely established.

Evidence of the prestige which the graduate students lend to the college is furnished by the fact that the one hundred and forty advanced students enrolled during the fall term represented fifty-six different educational institutions. Forty-six of these institutions are located outside of Michigan, which is proof that State is nationally recognized as an outstanding institution of higher learning. This is especially desirable because by far the vast majority of the undergraduate students reside within the state. The cosmopolitan influence of such a widely representative group of college graduates is obvious. Their contacts and associations with the undergraduate body are numerous, and these advanced students bring with them the consciousness and viewpoints of residents of thirty-five states.

Graduate work is offered to candidates for advanced degrees in the following departments: Animal husbandry, bacteriology and hygiene, botany, chemistry, dairy husbandry, drawing and design, economics, education, civil engineering, electrical engineering, mechanical engineering, entomology, English and modern languages, farm crops, farm mechanics, forestry, history and political science, home economics, horticulture, landscape architecture, mathematics, pathology, physics, physiology, poultry husbandry, sociology, soils, veterinary anatomy, zoology and geology.

The following are the institutions represented in our graduate school during the fall term, with the number of graduates from each college or university designated:

Albion College, (Mich.), 1; Allegheny College, (Pa.) 1; University of California, 1; Clemson A. & M. College, (S. C.), 2; Colorado College, 2; Colorado State Agriculture College, 1; Cornell University, (N. Y.), 2; College of the City of Detroit, (Mich.), 1; University of Delaware, 1; Denison University, (O.), 2; Detroit Teachers' College, (Mich.), 3; Drury College, (Mo.), 1; Emmanuel Missionary College, (Mich.), 2; University of Georgia, 1; James Millikin University (Ill.), 1; University of Idaho, 3; Iowa State College, 1; University of Kansas, 1; Lehigh University, (Pa.), 1; Lincoln College, (Ill.), 1; University of Maine, 1; University of Maryland, 2; University of Michigan, 5; Michigan State Normal College, 3; University of Minnesota, 2; Mississippi A. & M. College, 2; University of Missouri, 1; Montana State College, 1; University of Nebraska, 2; University of New Hampshire, 1; New Mexico College of A. & M. Arts, 1; North Carolina College for Women, 1; North Carolina State College, 1; North Central College, (Ill.), 1; Ohio State University, 4; Oklahoma A. & M. 1; Olivet College, (Mich.), 1; Oregon Agricultural College, 3; Pennsylvania College for Women, 1; Pennsylvania College, 1; University of Pittsburgh, 1; Purdue University, 1; Rochester Normal University, (Ind.), 1; University of South Dakota, 1; Syracuse University, (N. Y.), 1; University of Tennessee, 1; Texas A. & M. College, 2; Union College, (Neb.), 1; Utah Agricultural College, 1; Virginia Polytechnic Institute, 5; Washington State College, 1; Western State Teachers' College, (Mich.), 2; Michigan State College, 49; University of West Virginia, 2; Wheaton College, (Mass.), 1; University of Wisconsin, 5; and Ypsilanti State Normal College, (Mich.), 1.

Total students during fall term, 140. From schools in other states, 91, representing 57 institutions in 35 states.

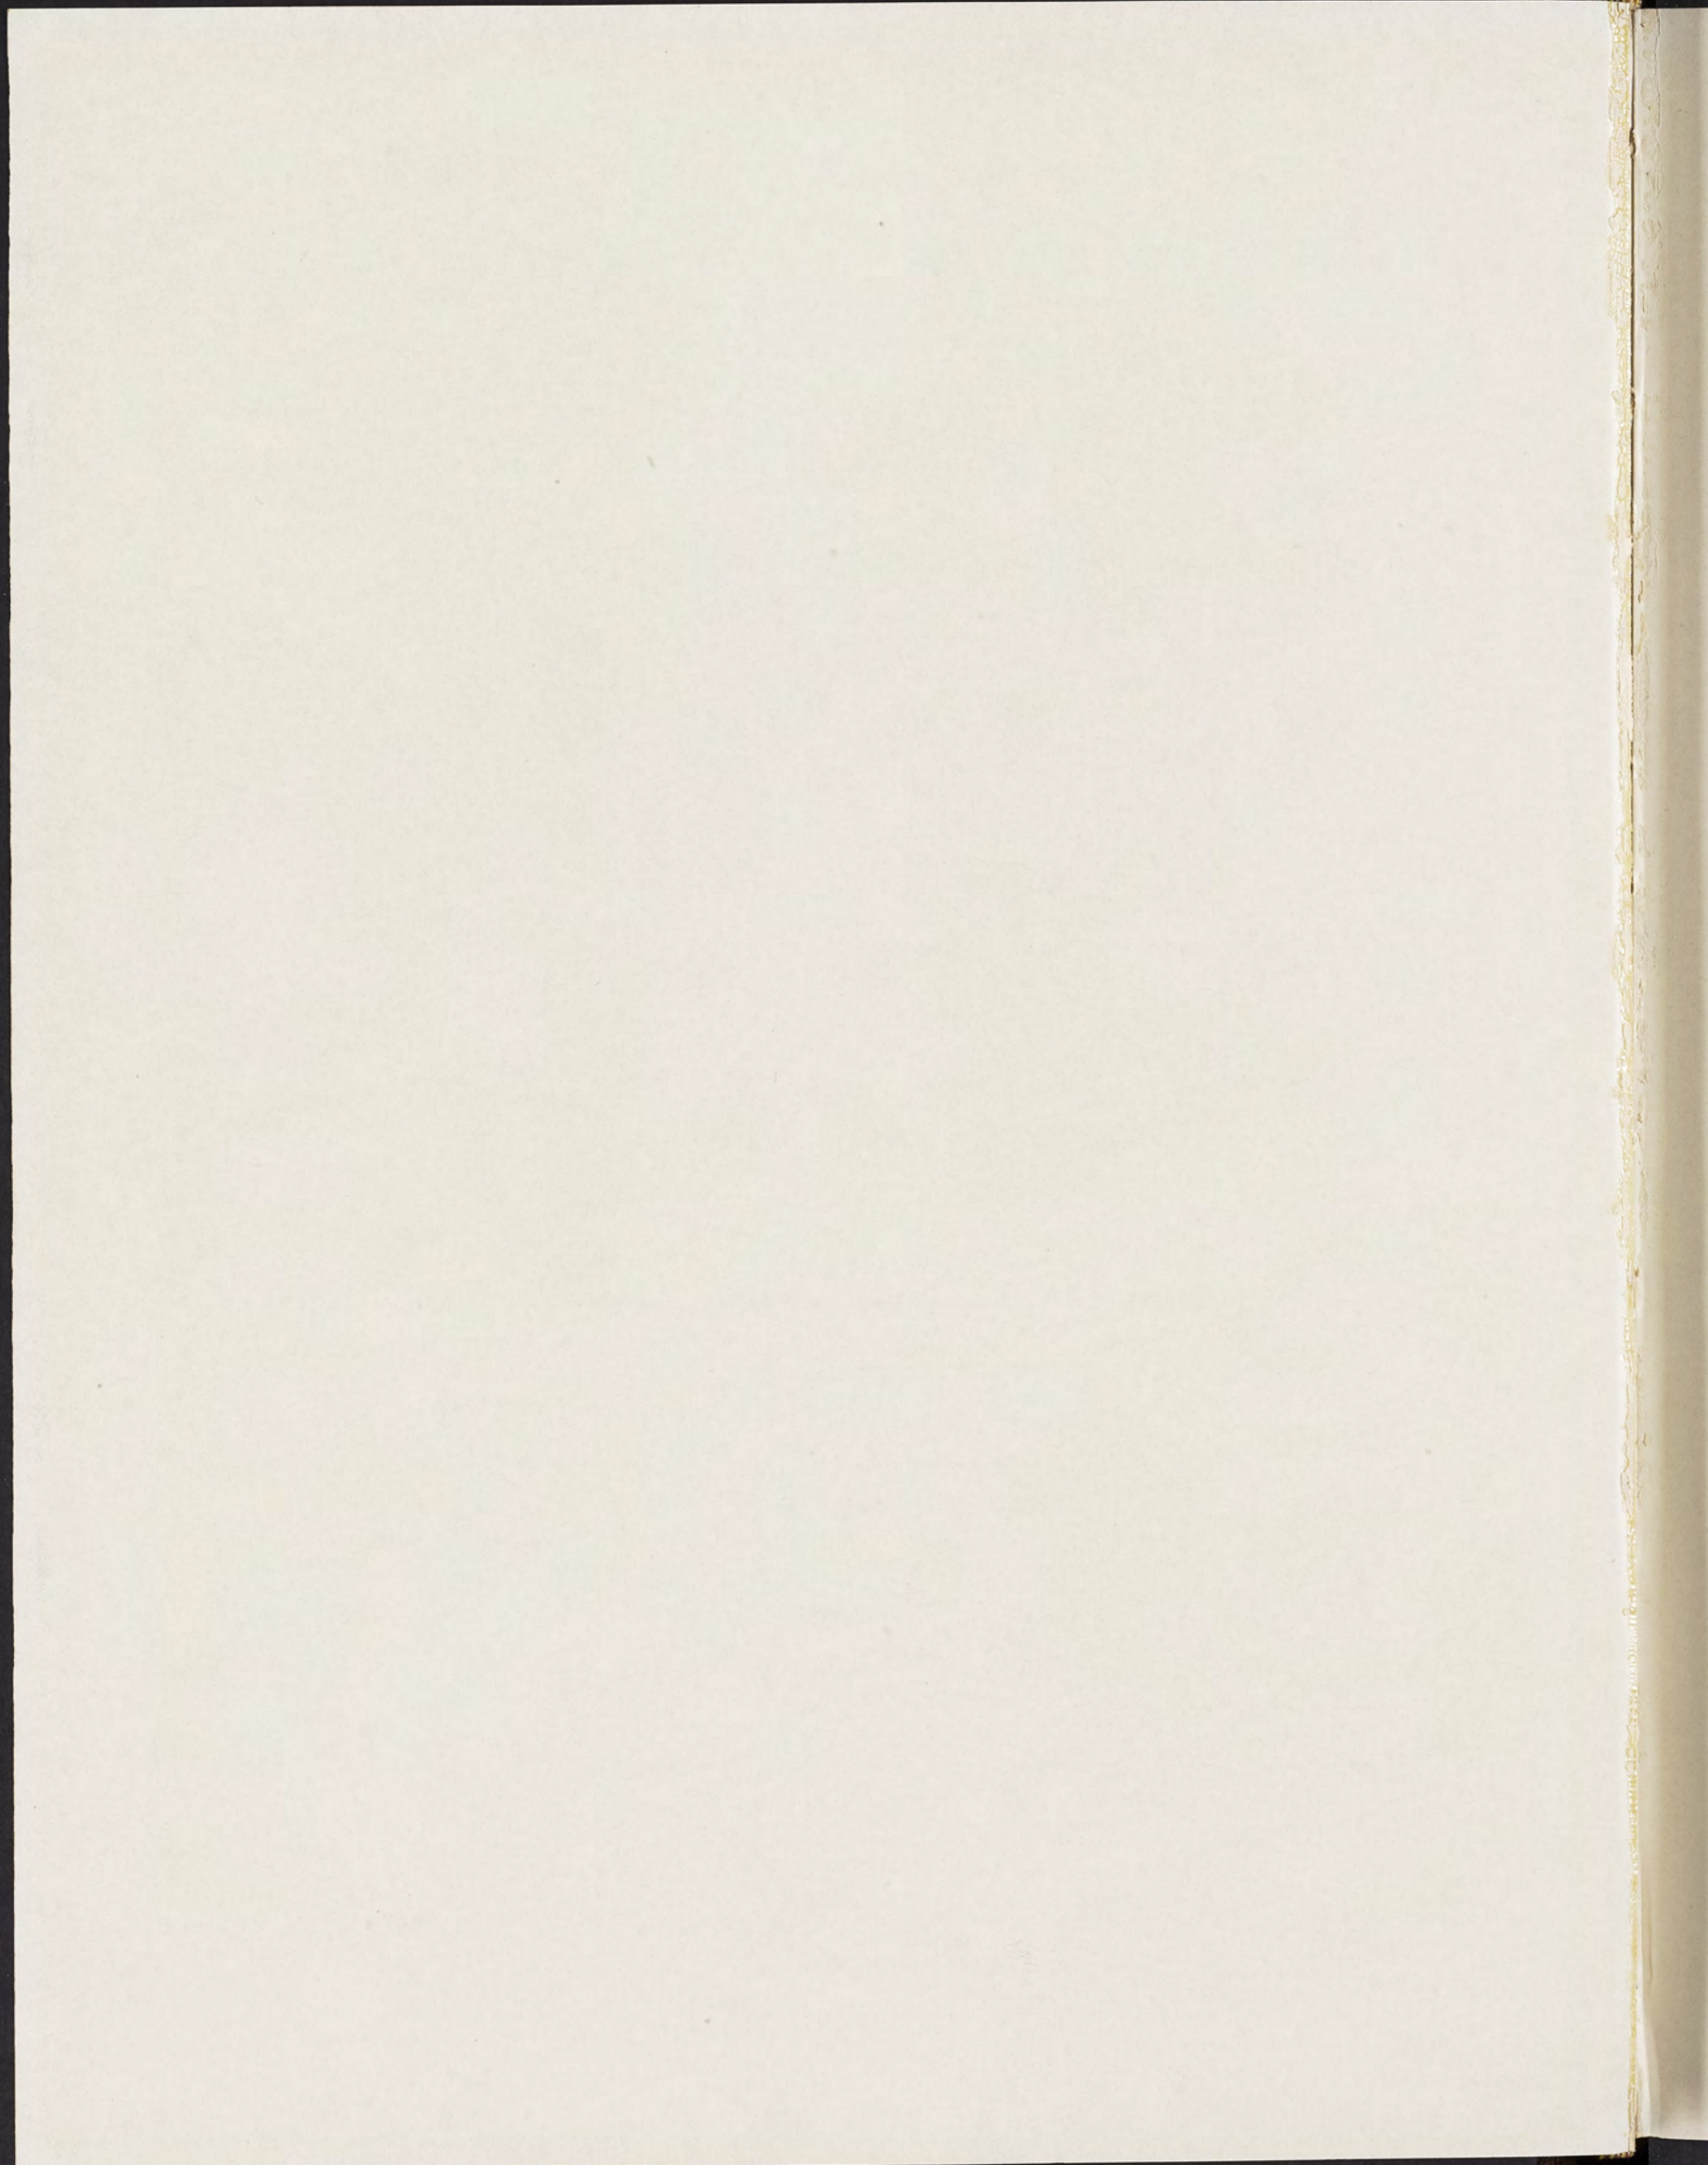

In addition to being the oldest college department, the Agricultural division has the distinction of being the first in the world to offer instruction in technical agricultural subjects.

Realizing that among an institution's most valuable assets are its alumni, we present in this section of the book some representative former Spartans. . . .

SPARTANS

The WOLVERINE

It is only fitting that the men and women who are bringing honor to our Alma Mater should be recognized by a college publication, and THE WOLVERINE offers Book III, of this volume devoted entirely to the achievements of a few of the more prominent alumni of Michigan State College.

We realize that myriad State alumni are attaining national prominence in many lines of work, but limitation of space has necessitated the consideration of only a small percentage of the graduates. Those selected for special recognition in these pages have been chosen without preference and are in every instance outstanding alumni.

We are deeply indebted to Dr. Frank S. Kedzie, College Historian, for the material used in this section; and we wish to gratefully acknowledge his kind co-operation.

Irene Chapin.

LIBERTY HYDE BAILEY, '82, A.

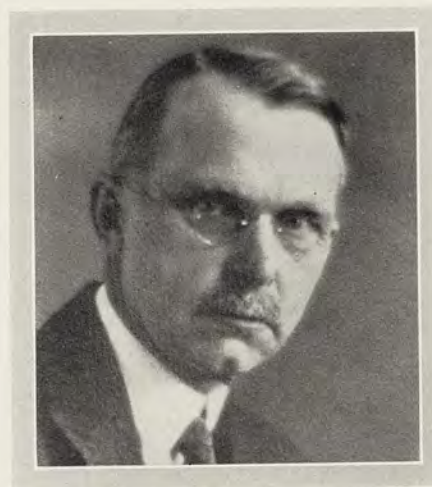

One of the greatest authorities on his subject, and Dean Emeritus of Horticulture at Cornell University, Mr. Bailey has been the recipient of numerous honors, not only in his own country, but in others. From the Royal Horticultural he received in 1898 the Veitchian medal, and in 1927, the George Robert White medal in his own country. He holds degrees of B. S., and M. S., from his own college, Ll. D. from the University of Wisconsin, and Alfred University, and Litt. D. from the University of Vermont. His national prominence increased when he was appointed by President Roosevelt in 1908 to the chairmanship of the commission on Country Life in the United States.

In the following organizations, he is: Fellow of A.A.A.S., member of American Philosophical Society and National Academy of Science; honorary member of the Royal Horticultural Society, London, Horticultural Society of Norway, Japanese Agricultural, Horticultural Society of Japan; and corresponding member of the Royal Academy of Agriculture, Turin, Italy. He is a member of Sigma Xi and Phi Delta Theta fraternities.

FRANK JOHNSON, '95, E.

The famous model "A" Ford, and the interest it aroused in the world can be attributed in part, at least, to Frank Johnson, '95 E, who played a conspicuous part in its design. Mr. Johnson has been in the automobile industry since 1900 when he allied himself with the Leland and Faulconer Company and their successors, the Cadillac Motor Car Company, as chief draughtsman and engineer. From 1917 to 1920, he was chief engineer for the Lincoln Motor Company. In 1926, he was appointed chief engineer of the Lincoln division of the Ford Motor Company, which position he now holds. In addition to being principally responsible for the design of the Cadillac, Lincoln and Ford cars, Mr. Johnson did much to perfect the famous Liberty motors of war times, and in addition to all these things, he has perfected many inventions relative to auto construction.

RAY STANNARD BAKER, '89, A.

Recognized as one of the most prominent authors of today, Mr. Baker has lead a dual literary life. As David Grayson, he wrote the popular Adventurers in Contentment, Adventures in Friendship, Hempfield, Great Possessions, and Adventures in Understanding. As Ray Stannard Baker, he is one of the recognized authorities on Woodrow Wilson, having written the authorized biography of the war-time president that recently appeared. In addition to this, he has written, What Wilson Did at Paris, Woodrow Wilson World Settlement, A History of the Peace Conference, published in 1922 in three volumes, and with Professor W. E. Dodd, edited the Public Papers of Woodrow Wilson, published in six volumes in 1926.

Mr. Baker received his B.S. degree from the college in 1889. The degree of Litt. D. was bestowed on him by his Alma Mater in 1917, and by Amherst College in 1925.

The WOLVERINE

EDGAR A. BURNETT, '87, A.

President, or as they call it "Chancellor," of the University of Nebraska, is the high position held by Edgar A. Burnett, of the class of '87. Mr. Burnett acted as farmer and instructor alternately after graduation until 1899, when he went to the University of Nebraska. In 1901, he was made Associate Dean and Director of the Experiment Station, and in 1909, full Dean of Agriculture, which position he held until 1928. March first, 1928, he was made chancellor for the period to June 1929. Much progress is being made under his administration and the University is occupying a prominent place in the circle of universities and colleges.

Dr. Burnett was made a Doctor of Science in 1917, and was a member of the Educational Corps of the American Expeditionary Forces in France in 1919. In 1926, he was honored by being chosen president of the Association of Land Grant Colleges.

DON FRANCISCO, '14, A.

The impressing of Sunkist Oranges and Lemons, Sun-Maid Raisins, Sunsweet Prunes, Diamond Walnuts, and allied products upon the national consciousness has been the achievement of Don Francisco, '14, A. All these accounts have been handled by the firm of Lord, Thomas and Logan, nationally known advertisers, with whom he has been associated since 1921. At present he is vice-president and general manager for the Pacific Coast. Previous to this, Mr. Francisco was advertising manager for the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, and had charge of all the advertising and trade promotion activities. He was made assistant advertising manager for this firm one year after his graduation from M. A. C.

JAMES H. KIMBALL, '95, A.

"Consulting Meteorologist for Lindbergh, Chamberlin, Byrd, et. al." is the title that might very well be posted on the office door of James H. Kimball, second in command at the New York Weather Bureau, and prominent meteorologist. As a specialist on North Atlantic weather, he is consulted by all those contemplating trans-atlantic flights, and his "O. K." anxiously awaited before the hop-off is dared. As meteorologist for the United States Weather Bureau, Dr. Kimball is an expert called in on admiralty cases in Federal Courts, and during the war was the confidential meteorological advisor in the dispatch of ships and troops. He is the author of Storm Log of the North Atlantic Ocean, prepared the first North Atlantic weather maps for trans-atlantic flying, and has published various works on marine weather.

Dr. Kimball received an M. A. degree from Richmond University in 1914, and a Ph.D. in 1916 from New York University.

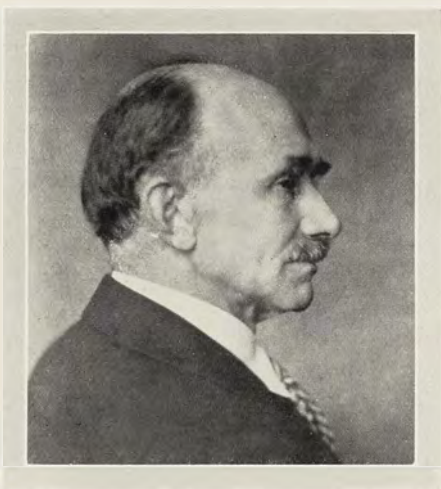

The WOLVERINE

MRS. LILLIAN PEPPARD, '10, H. E.

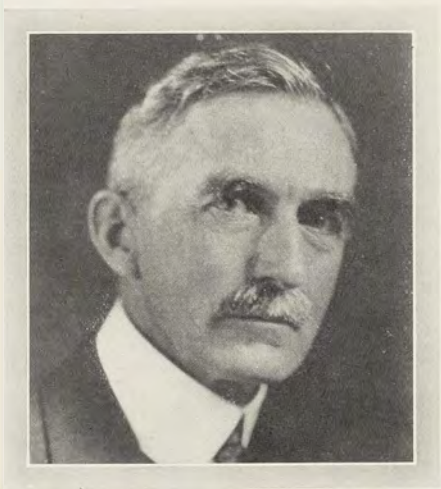

It is not always the great things that we do ourselves but the influence we exercise on others that is really important. Mrs. Lillian Peppard exercises exactly that kind of an influence in Rhode Island State College, where she has been Professor of Domestic Arts and in charge of Davis Hall, which accommodates forty girls, since 1918. Through village friendships, she has been able to take her classes into beautiful old homes there, filled with treasures of glass, pewter, china and furniture dating back to colonial days. The eastern college says regarding this alumna: "Her fashion shows and exhibitions of class work have always been popular. Mrs. Peppard is recognized as a hostess of great charm, and students and faculty alike remember with pleasure her hospitality."

CHARLES E. FERRIS, '90, E.

Dean of the School of Engineering at the University of Tennessee, Mr. Ferris furnishes concrete evidence as to the high places M. S. C. men occupy in educational fields. After a few years in the capacity of civil engineer, Mr. Ferris went to the University of Tennessee in 1892 as instructor in drawing. In 1900, he was made an assistant professor, and in 1904, he was raised to a professorship in mechanical engineering. He has been dean of the school of engineering since 1912.

Dean Ferris has published two books—Elements of Descriptive Geometry and Manual for Engineers.

F. B. MUMFORD, '91, A.

One of the famous trio of Mumfords who graduated from M. A. C., F. B. Mumford at present holds the position of Dean and Director of the College of Agriculture at the University of Missouri, Columbia, where he went in 1895 as professor of Agriculture. In 1903, he was made acting Dean and Director, and was confirmed in the position in 1909. One of his books, the Breeding of Animals, is widely consulted, and the many bulletins he has issued on animal husbandry subjects are regarded as authoritative.

Dean Mumford has attained national prominence through the fact that he drafted the Purnell Act passed by Congress in 1924. This act provided for increased appropriations to land grant colleges for research in rural economics, rural sociology and land economics. In recognition of this, the University of Nebraska conferred on him a degree held only by five other men—that of Doctor of Agriculture. Dean Mumford is a member of Sigma Xi and Alpha Zeta fraternities and was captain of the Aggie football team in 1889.

The WOLVERINE

PAULINA HAVEN MORSE, '05, H. E.

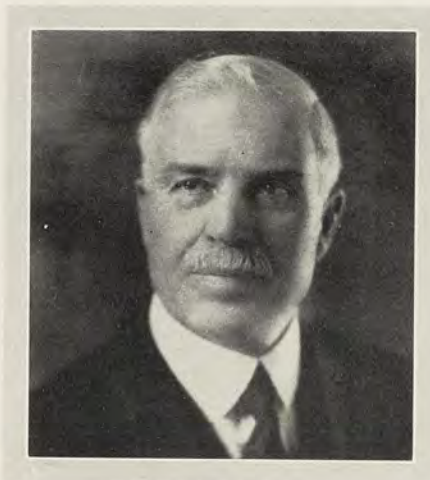

"Master Home Maker" is the degree granted to Paulina Raven Morse, '05, by her Alma Mater for her fine work in the allied branches of Home Economics, both before and since her marriage. After her graduation, she went to St. Elizabeth School at Walpole, S. D., as a specialist in institutional management, and from there to the Northern Normal and Industrial School at Aberdeen, South Dakota, where she was dean of women and instructor in household arts. She taught at the University of Montana and at State before she entered the Home Economics extension work here. She wrote a series of leaflets, as well as a text in sewing for the Boys' and Girls' Clubs. After her marriage in 1917, she more or less retired from active educational work, but not to so great an extent that she did not play an important part in the organization and conservation of foods work in Lenawee county where she now resides. When Omicron Nu was organized, Mrs. Morse was elected to membership in the organization. She was a member of Themian Society.

CHARLES MCKENNEY, '81, A.

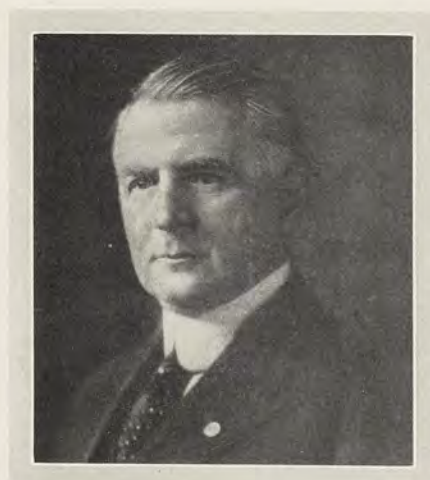

President of the Michigan State Normal College, this graduate of the school of agriculture with the class of '81 has lead an interesting career as an educator. After spending some years teaching in Charlotte, Vermontville and Olivet, Mr. McKenney accepted the presidency of the Central Michigan Normal School which he held until 1900. From there he went as president to the Milwaukee Normal, remaining there twelve years until the Michigan State Normal College called him back to serve as president, which position he has held up to the present time.

Besides administrating the Normal College, President McKenney is editor-in-chief of the American Schoolmaster, and has found time to write a book entitled The Personality of the Teacher, as well as many articles appearing in educational journals.

JOSEPH BELL COTTON, '86, A.

One of the most prominent corporation lawyers in the country, Joseph Bell Cotton, graduated from this school in 1886, taking his degree in agriculture. He settled later in Minnesota, becoming prominent as a corporation lawyer in that section, and later moved to New York City, where he now maintains offices on lower Broadway, although his duties take him all over the country. As an example of the regard in which he was held, it is interesting to note that he was honored by being asked to deliver the speech for the northwest section of the country, seconding Roosevelt's nomination at the 1904 Republican convention in Chicago. Mr. Cotton has been general solicitor for all the interests of the U. S. Steel Corporation for the states of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, F. A. Patrick and Company, Callahan Zinz Lead Company, Greene Cananea Copper Company, American Metal Company, Consolidated Coppermines Corporation, the Richmond Radiator Company and other organizations, as well as holding directorships in many prominent concerns.

The WOLVERINE

FRANK F. ROGERS, '83, A.

The recent retirement of Frank F. Rogers as State Highway Commissioner of Michigan was the occasion of many testimonials to the regard in which he was held, and the general appreciation as to the good he had done in fostering the development of good roads in Michigan. Since he was made Deputy State Highway Commissioner in 1906, and more particularly since he was given full power in 1913, Mr. Rogers has worked unfalteringly for the improvement and betterment of the roads. Not confining himself to Michigan alone, he has travelled widely to learn the latest methods, and to acquaint himself with what was being done in other states. The present splendid highway system of Michigan is a direct outgrowth of his efforts. At present, he is regarded by the highway department as a consulting engineer. Previous to his work for the state, Mr. Rogers was city engineer for Port Huron, and also did private work there.

ALICE CIMMER, '00, H. E.

The full extent and influence of the work done by others can never be adequately realized, or fully appreciated. For instance, Miss Cimmer, who graduated from the Home Economics division in the class of 1900, is responsible for the installation of the Home Economics work in the public school system of Battle Creek. As well as installing it, she organized all the courses, and their successful conduction is a tribute to her careful supervision. Miss Cimmer also had much to do with the fine new Vocational Building recently erected in Battle Creek.

CARP JULIAN, '14, A.

Carp Julian is one of the graduates of this institution who will always be remembered by alumni and students alike. Handicapped by ill health practically since graduation, his fight against illness, game as any he put up on the grid-iron, has won admiration and respect. A member of the famous 1913 team—the one that won seven straight games, beating Michigan, the conference champions, 12-7—captain of the 1914 team, All-American full back, member of Eckersall's All-American team in 1913, and captain of this All-Western team in 1914, he was a vital force in winning the victories that lighted M. A. C. in a blaze of football glory in those years.

Carp was the organizer and a charter member of the Varsity Club as well as a member of the Eclectic fraternity.

PHILIP S. ROSE, '99, E.

There is no telling to what extent one's college activities may or may not govern the events of later life. For instance, the famous national magazine, The Country Gentleman is run by a Tau Beta Pi who was a member of the class of '99, as well as the Columbian Literary Society (they're S. A. E.'s now, if your memory lags). We refer to Mr. Rose, B.S. For ten years after his graduation, Mr. Rose was in the Engineering department at North Dakota Agricultural College. In 1909, he resigned to become editor of the Gas Review and from there his path lead, via the American Thresherman to the associate editorship of the Country Gentleman, and then to the full editorship.

CLARENCE BEAMAN SMITH, '94.

Chief of the Agricultural Extension Work in the United States, with offices in Washington, D. C., is the position held by Mr. Smith, who entered the service after obtaining his M.S. degree in 1895. Aside from one year spent as a student at the Universities of Halle and Bonn in Germany in 1898-99, he has been steadily in his present work, being chief since 1921. With E. W. Wiel, he has published two encyclopedias—The Farmer's Cyclopedic of Agriculture, '07, and The Farmer's Cyclopedic of Livestock, '07. He has also published Clover Farming on Jack Pine Land.

FRED ALDERMAN, '27, M. E.

A member of the 1928 U. S. Olympic 1600 meter relay team which won the relay and established a new world's record of 3:14 1-5 seconds, Fred Alderman is an alumnus who will not be readily forgotten by the student body. He was not altogether unknown before leaving this institution, for he was the holder of many records and championships, among them being the following: Co-holder of world's indoor record at 300 yards, 31.2; National Collegiate champion at 100 yards, 9.9, and 220 yards, 21.1, in 1927; I. C. A. A. A. champion at 440 yards, 48.3, in 1927; member of Michigan States' All-American 400 and 880 yard relay teams for 1927; and picked as number one man by the National Collegiate Athletic Association for their college honor roll in 100 and 220 yard sprints.

EUGENE DAVENPORT, '78, A.

Dean of Agriculture at the University of Illinois since 1895, and vice-president of the University since 1920, Dean Davenport of Michigan State, class of '78, has retired to his estate at Woodland, Michigan. Immediately after his graduation, he acted as assistant to Dr. W. J. Beal until 1891, when he went to Brazil as president of the not yet established Collegio Agronomica at Sao Paulo. The declaration of war, however, made progress impossible, so he returned to the United States in 1899 going to the University of Illinois. Dean Davenport has published many technical books held as authoritative in their line, edited a series of agricultural texts for high schools, as well as many recollections and magazine articles.

Among the degrees he holds from his Alma Mater are B.S., M.S., Master of Agriculture, LL. D. The University of Kentucky made him an LL. D. in 1913, and Iowa State College a D.Sc. in 1920. Dean Davenport is a Fellow of the A.A.A.S. and a member of the London Authors Club.

FRANK E. ROBSON, '78, A.

Mr. Robson, after obtaining his B.S., from State, took his law work at the University of Michigan, previous to starting a practice in Lansing in 1882.

He moved to Detroit in 1890, and continued his practice in that city. In 1909, he affiliated himself with the Michigan Central Railroad as its general attorney. He continued in that capacity until 1917, when the Michigan Central made him its general counsel. He has held this position to the present time.

JOSEPH A. ROSEN, '10, A.

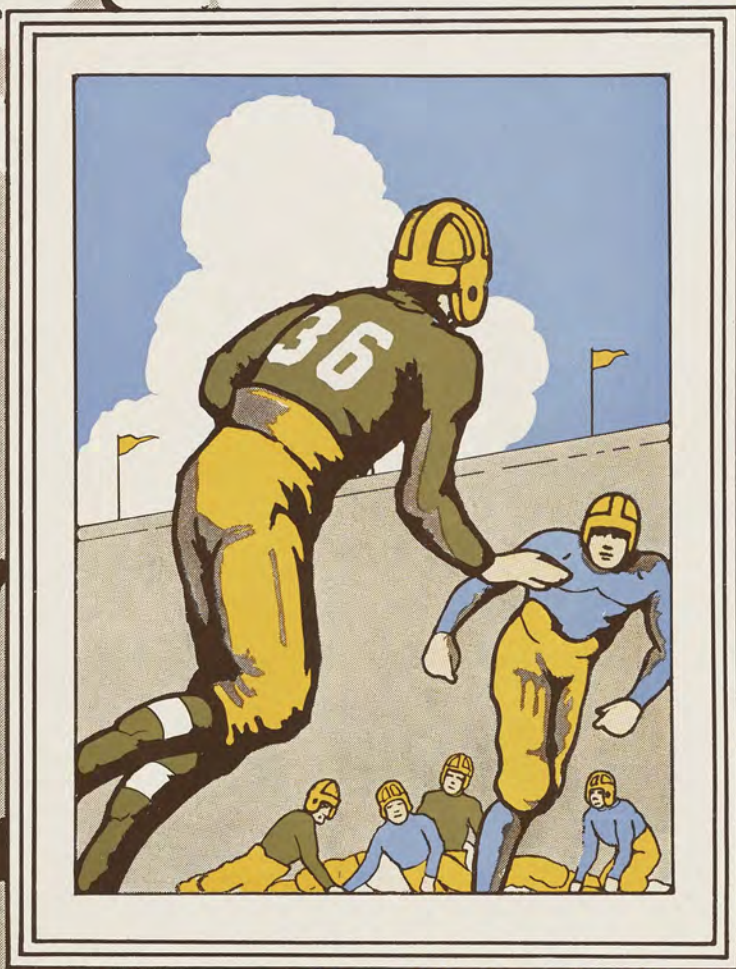

"Director of the Agricultural Work of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee" is the title held by Dr. Rosen who obtained the degree of Master of Agriculture here in 1910, five years after arriving in America with fifty cents in his pocket. He had just escaped from Siberia where he had been banished from his native Russia for participating in anti-Czaristic politics, and his work at this college was the outcome of his decision that agriculture was the logical solution to the Jewish problem in Russia. In 1910 he organized the American section of the All-Russia Agricultural Exposition in Russia, and in 1914 he was made head of the Baron de Hirsch School. He assisted Hoover in war relief work, got Russian sugar beet seed through the blockade to the United States and then returned to Russia to head the reconstruction work of the above committee. Through this, thousands of Jewish families are gaining a new livelihood on land granted them by the Soviet. He has introduced American maize and methods into the Volga region, and since, there have been no repetitions of the terrible famine of 1920-21. Dr. Rosen is also consulting agriculturist of the Union of All-Russian Co-operative Agricultural Societies.

Granting degrees for the first time in 1929, the Physical Education department is catering to an ever-increasing demand for physical education instructors and athletic coaches in high schools and colleges.

A new program built upon a new ideal--Not all for athletics, but athletics for all.

FOOTBALL COACHES

Michigan State was fortunate in having a very capable staff of football coaches last fall. All but one of these grid mentors will return next fall, including two men who assisted in guiding the destinies of the Spartan eleven for the first time in 1929.

James H. (Sleepy) Crowley heads the list of football coaches. He was one of Notre Dame University's immortal "Four Horsemen" and was a vital cog in the powerful championship grid machine, coached by Knute Rockne, which won the national championship. He graduated from the Irish institution in 1924 and then accepted a position as backfield coach at the University of Georgia. He came to East Lansing after holding this position for four years.

Needless to say, Crowley has been busy introducing the famous Notre Dame style of play at Michigan State, because he believes this is best adapted to medium weight teams. He was forced to send his team on the field last fall without directing spring drills, but succeeded in developing the strongest combination in recent years, despite the fact that his men were using new tactics. With the advantage of spring drills in 1930 he is expected to develop an even more powerful eleven which must face an unusually difficult schedule.

Glenn (Judge) Carberry made a brilliant record coaching the linemen and ends last year. He also received his football training at Notre Dame and played on the same team with Crowley for two years. He captained the Rambler eleven in his senior year and is still remembered as one of the cleverest and most feared linemen ever developed at Notre Dame. He had three years of previous coaching experience to his credit before coming to State. He has signed as chief assistant coach for 1930 and aided in directing the spring grid drills.

Miles W. (Mike) Casteel, who graduated from Kalamazoo College with a brilliant athletic record, especially in football, has been coaching Spartan teams for four years. He was active in tutoring the backfield men in 1929. He also coaches the track team, directing the hurdlers and pole vaulters.

Hugh (Gob) Wilson, a University of Michigan athlete who graduated in 1922, came to East Lansing as a temporary coach and shared the work of drilling the linemen. His record shows six years of coaching previous to his coming here.

The Spartans opened the football season at East Lansing with a smashing triumph over Alma's eleven. The driving force with which the Spartans crashed through their opponent's line showed that they had undergone vigorous grooming and gave evidence that the backfield was destined to cause much comment in football circles throughout the season. Coach Crowley introduced the old Notre Dame style when he put in his second and third string men after a large score had been run up. The flawless interference which the Green and White displayed throughout the game brought high hopes for a victory in the annual combat with Michigan the following week.

Although the Crowley-men were not able to score against the heavy Wolverine line, their backfield showed a baffling shift that proved to be a puzzle to Michigan flankmen. In the third and fourth quarters, the Michigan goal was threatened by a Spartan drive down the field led by Nordberg. The work in the backfield of Grove, Nordberg, Danziger and Dickeson stood out, while Smead and Hayden showed excellent work in the forward wall. Although defeat was hard to take, the Spartans showed a fighting spirit that would be hard to equal on any football field and were supported enthusiastically by their 6,500 followers.

State was successful in making 12 first downs, which equalled those made by the Easterners, and several times threatened the Maroon goal, once being within five yards of making a touchdown. Again the Spartans uncorked some brilliant passes and they were forced to punt only once. The outstanding features of the day were Nordberg's open-field running and "Duke" Schau's powerful plunging. FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

State's freshman football team, coached by John H. Kobs, performed very creditably during the fall, scoring two victories and losing one game. The Spartan yearling gridders had great strength in practically every department of play and many outstanding individual performers were included in the host of blue-jersied first-year men who strove to win their numerals. Coach James H. (Sleepy) Crowley is counting upon material from the frosh squad to plug the holes left in his varisty line-up by the graduation of several regulars.

The Michigan State Normal College freshmen from Ypsilanti administered the only defeat suffered by the Spartan yearlings. The Ypsi team scored in the last few minutes of play to upset the State first-year eleven, 18 to 15, in a closely contested game. The University of Detroit frosh were turned back, 25 to 0, which was identically the same score by which the Titans measured the State varisty eleven. Due to some brilliant line plunging by "Abie" Eliowitz, Coach Kobs' aggregation defeated Grand Rapids Junior College, 31 to 6.

Coach Ben F. Van Alstyne's Michigan State College basketball team turned in probably the most impressive record in recent years during the 1930 season. The Spartan quintet chalked up twelve triumphs in sixteen starts and defeated every team on the schedule with the exception of Syracuse University. Numbered among the Spartan's court victims were the University of Michigan, Notre Dame, Marquette, Ohio Wesleyan and University of Detroit fives.

The feature of the season was the installation of a splendid new portable floor in Demonstration Hall. This made it possible for the State quintet to entertain some of the strongest court aggregations in the country, as it provided a regulation playing floor with ample seating capacity. The largest crowd of the season witnessed the dedicatory game with Michigan and was estimated at 6,000, which is the record for indoor sports events here.

STATE 19

SYRACUSE 21

State's first encounter with Syracuse University January 1 was somewhat discouraging, but it must be remembered that Coach Van Alstyne was still engaged in shaping his basketball machine which soon swung into high gear and swept aside many formidable opponents. The Spartan five held the upper hand until the last few minutes and then the Orange eked out a 21 to 19 victory in a hotly contested game. Syracuse had the advantage of confidence gained through hanging up several victories, while it was the initial contest for State.

STATE 30

OHIO WESLEYAN 14

Undaunted, the Spartans showed a gratifying reversal of form in subduing Ohio Wesleyan handily January 4. The 30 to 14 victory was especially pleasing to State, because the two schools are ancient athletic rivals and the green and white clad cagers bowed stubbornly to the Bishops of last season. Both coaches were unusually anxious for their teams to triumph, as Van Alstyne formerly coached at Ohio Wesleyan and Coach George E. Gauthier at Wesleyan once held a job at Michigan State.

The WOLVERINE

STATE 26 U. OF DETROIT 20

The University of Detroit five fell before an over-confident State aggregation here January 9. The Spartans were clearly off-form against the Titans and were forced to the limit to turn in a 26 to 20 victory. The game opened with a burst of speed on the part of both teams, but then slowed up to provide an uninteresting exhibition of basketball later in the contest.

STATE 27 BETHANY 36

The Spartans packed their duffle bags for an eastern trip and tackled wee Bethany College in the hills of West Virginia, January 18. State struck a tartar in this smooth working Bethany quintet and was forced to accept a 36 to 27 defeat on a small floor.

STATE 35 CARNEGIE TECH 23

The other game on the road trip was more satisfactory, as State trimmed Carnegie Tech handily, 35 to 23, January 17. The Plaid of Pittsburgh were rated highly in eastern cage circles.

STATE 28 NOTRE DAME 21

Coach Van Alstyne had his charges keyed to a high pitch for the contest with Notre Dame here January 22 and 5,000 spectators saw the Spartans turn back the Ramblers, 28 to 21. The game was closely contested and exceptionally fast from start to finish. The Spartans' victory was justly earned and it was the second time in eleven years that State has conquered the Irish on the court.

STATE 21 U. OF DETROIT 18

The next game was a rough-and-tumble affair with the University of Detroit on the Titans' floor and more closely resembled football than basketball. The lighter, speedier Spartan cagers were pummeled mercilessly and the contest was featured by an unusually large number of personal fouls. State turned in its second victory of the season over U. of D., 21 to 18.

Reserves were used freely in the game with Hope College and despite this fact State scored her most impressive court victory of the season. The Wooden Shoes, who came to East Lansing, January 28 with a highly touted, rangy quintet, were snowed under, 55 to 16.

STATE 27

MARQUETTE 14

Probably the most thrilling game ever played on a local court was that with Marquette University January 31. The Hill-toppers from Milwaukee, Wis., had an enviable record when they took the floor against the Spartans and a victory for Marquette would not have been surprising. State was forced to play cautiously during most of the first period, but came back strong in the second half to cop the tilt. The lead changed hands frequently and the spectators were in a frenzy much of the time. Roger Grove was the high scorer, but much of the credit for the victory must be given to Fred DenHerder for his rare floor work and timely field goals.

KALAMAZOO 12

The Spartans spent an easy evening February 7 in taking Kalamazoo College into camp, 33 to 12, in a drab game. The Hornets were completely outclassed and offered only meager opposition for State's high-powered basketball machine.

STATE 36

BETHANY 32

State gained sweet revenge February 11 by beating Bethany, 36 to 32, in a return game played here. Sheer grit was responsible for the triumph chalked up by the Green and White. The West Virginians were rated among the strongest opponents of the season and an even break in the home-and-home series was gratifying.

STATE 24

OBERLIN 10

The reserves administered a 24 to 10 defeat to Oberlin College, February 14, while the regular basketekers watched the game from the sidelines. The Congregationalists were outclassed by the second string cagers and the game was generally devoid of thrills.

The WOLVERINE

STATE 27

MICHIGAN 26

Superiority over the University of Michigan in one major sport must be accorded State following the spectacular triumph of the Spartan basketball team. The Wolverines battled valiantly, but were nosed out, 27 to 26, February 15. The game was bitterly contested throughout and scrappiness and the determination of the Spartans was the deciding factor. Approximately 6,000 persons witnessed the hectic encounter.

STATE 17

NOTRE DAME 29

Playing their fourth game in seven days, the weary Spartan cagers were unable to check the speedy Notre Dame quintet in a return engagement at South Bend, Ind., February 18. Close officiating cut the Spartans' chances for a victory and the Irish scored 15 points on 23 free throws chance to beat State, 29 to 17. The green and white clad clearly displayed the disastrous effects of the hard schedule, while the Ramblers flashed a much improved attack.

STATE 34

HILLSDALE 28

Hillsdale College nearly provided an upset here February 21 and State was extended to squeeze out a 34 to 28 victory late in the game. Over-confidence weakened the Spartan court combination and the Baptists showed unexpected power.

MARQUETTE 21

A hard-fought final game was dropped to Marquette University at Milwaukee, Wis., February 25. The Spartans put up a great battle, but were forced to accept the short end of the 21 to 14 count. The Hilltoppers are rated as a difficult team to beat on their home court and were especially intent upon winning after dropping the previous game to State.

The Michigan State College baseball team, coached by John Kobs, ran true to form in the 1929 season and finished on the right side of the ledger. Last year's diamond aggregation played what was undoubtedly the most difficult schedule ever faced by a Spartan team and emerged with a record of twelve victories, one tie and eleven defeats.

Numbered among State's victims were the University of Michigan, Western Conference champions, the University of Cincinnati, Ohio state champions, Hillsdale, leaders in the M. I. A. A., and many other representative teams from varied sections of the country. Lack of hitting strength handicapped the Green and White nine during the early part of the season, but Coach Kobs soon remedied this situation and developed a team of which the college is justly proud.

Twenty men made the annual Spring training trip into the south to meet outstanding Dixie teams. State scored a victory and played a tie game against University of Tennessee due primarily to the hitting ability of "Ki" Knisel. The southern Presbyterians provided a stiff opposition, but the Spartan nine won, 5 to 2, and battled to a 4 to 4 tie. State was less successful against the strong Vanderbilt team and dropped two tilts, 7 to 2 and 12 to 1. Vanderbilt displayed the greatest ability of any team met during the season. at St. Xavier in Ohio and the Kobsmen were swamped, 14 to 2. The following day the Spartan bats clattered merrily while they took the measure of Cincinnati, 13 to 4. Splendid pitching by Jerry Byrne enabled State to upset the crack nine, while the hitting of Captain "Marv" Eggert, Knisel, Gibbs and Sachs also featured the game. Sachs, captain of the 1930 team, distinguished himself by driving out a home run and three base hit in successive times at bat.

Kalamazoo College was the first opponent of the home season and was smothered, 20 to 2, in a game in which Knisel and "Slat" Macier, elongated first baseman, supplied the principal thrills. Harris (Jumbo) Kahl performed well on the mound, letting the Hornets down with but four hits in his initial appearance on the home diamond. Adrian was the next in line and was forced to accept a 4 to 1 defeat in a contest featured by four double plays and the excellent hitting of Captain Eggert and Macier.

Coach Kobs' proteges faltered temporarily and dropped the next two games. Luther went on a rampage to administer a 17 to 3 trouncing to the Spartans and then Colgate blanked State, 4 to 0. Despite the latter defeat, "Jabber" Barnard contributed his best performance of the season when he collected three hits in four trips to the plate and played a faultless game behind the plate.

State came back strong against Hope College and turned in an 8 to 1 victory, but then lapsed again and dropped a 9 to 1 decision to Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. The Irish players showed good form and the Spartans erred frequently to contribute to their downfall.

The WOLVERINE

Another scalp was nailed to the wall when the Spartans swamped Albion College, 9 to 1. "Jumbo" Kahl performed well on the mound and Max Crall, making his debut at first base, loomed as a valuable "find." The latter fielded like a veteran and was individually responsible for halting several Methodist rallies. Soon afterward Notre Dame again out-slugged State and Spartan errors made matters worse, so that the Irish chalked up a 12 to 5 victory in a loosely-played game.

Four successive Spartan victories followed this period of in-and-out baseball. Crall, Jim Hayden and Eddy Gibbs led the scoring when Coe College of Iowa was turned back, 4 to 3. Gibbs saved the game in the final inning by making a spectacular catch in center field. The highly touted University of Michigan nine was defeated, 4 to 3, in the feature home game. Faithful Jerry Byrne held the Wolverines to five hits, while every member of the State nine hit safely. Again Knisel, Sachs and Eggert showed the way, but it must be recalled that "Mac" Maculey's drive to right field broke up the game in the tenth inning. Defiance College was made the victim of State's third successive 4 to 3 victory due to a first inning spurt which netted four runs. The tilt was rained off in the fifth frame. St. Mary's College offered fine opposition for three innings and then wilted when the Spartan "murderer's row," composed of Knisel, Eggert, Crall, Sachs and Gibbs, swung into action to permit State to turn in an 8 to 5 triumph.

State slipped a little and dropped the next two tilts. Oberlin College whipped the Spartans into submission, 5 to 1, and Ohio State stepped in to score a 5 to 2 triumph.

The WOLVERINE

Careless base running and three Ohio double plays were responsible for the Buckeye victory, although Barnard, Knisel and Sachs contributed more hits than the entire Ohio team.

Byrne, with his splendid hurling, and Barnard, with his hard hitting and good work behind the plate, were instrumental in the 3 to 2 victory which State scored over Hillsdale, M. I. A. A. champions. Every member of the team played errorless and brainy ball in this last regular home game of the season.

The good season was marred by an unfortunate, but explicable, finish. Michigan avenged the defeat earlier in the season by scoring two victories over the State nine, winning 6 to 2 and 15 to 6. Neither Kahl nor Byrne proved of much avail against the Wolverines. Byrne made a brave attempt to win his own game in the third encounter when he drove out a lusty three bagger in the ninth inning with three of his mates on the bags, but the next man at bat was retired to let the Maize and Blue triumph.

INDOOR TRACK SEASON

The seniors won the annual inter-class meet by amassing 42 points, while the juniors closed in with a hard-earned victory over the freshmen, $33\frac{1}{2}$ to 33, and the sophomores brought up the van with 23 points.

The Spartans returned from Marquette University swamped under a $72\frac{1}{2}$ to $36\frac{1}{2}$ defeat February 15. Russow took a first place in the 45-yard low hurdle race in 5.6 seconds, and Bob Olsen copped the pole vault.

The State thinclads scored slams in pole vault and shot put to gain a good running start by piling up 18 points and then battled on even terms with the Ohio Wesleyan team here February 22, to triumph 66 to 43. Bayliss broke the varsity high jump record, leaping 5 feet, $9\frac{1}{2}$ inches, to erase the old mark of 5 feet, $8\frac{3}{4}$ inches.

State lost in a triangular meet at Ann Arbor February 27 with the University of Michigan and Michigan State Normal College of Ypsilanti. The Wolverines piled up $63\frac{1}{2}$ points with the Ypsi team second with 39 points and State trailing with $16\frac{1}{2}$ tallies. The most disappointing feature of the meet for State was the defeat of Captain Lauren P. Brown, of All-American ranking in the two-mile run in 1929, by Arrett, of Michigan.

State garnered two firsts March 8 at the Central Inter-collegiate championships at South Bend, Indiana, to place sixth. Captain Brown and Olsen retained their superiority by taking the two-mile race and the pole vault, respectively.

Captain Brown and Olsen held their own March 15 in the Illinois relays at Champaign, Illinois, placing in the 1,500-meter run and the pole vault, respectively. Olsen gained a five-way tie for fourth place when the event was won by an unexpectedly good leap. He cleared 12 feet, 6 inches, in his specialty, which is considered a good college vault.

A hotly contested meet was held with the University of Chicago, at Chicago, March 22, and State fell just short of adding another victory to the thin-clads' roll. The Spartans led by a narrow margin, but dropped the final event and lost the meet $46\frac{1}{2}$ to $39\frac{1}{2}$. Captain Brown shattered the Chicago gymnasium record for the two-mile run.

The 1930 team did not have the strength that has been in evidence for past years, due to losses through graduation, and ineligibility of several capable performers. Two varisty records were lowered, however. Captain Brown covered the two-mile course in 9:39.2 to establish a new field house record at Notre Dame University, South Bend, Indiana. Paul Bayliss, a sophomore, leaped to a height of 5 feet, 9½ inches in the high jump to set a new mark.

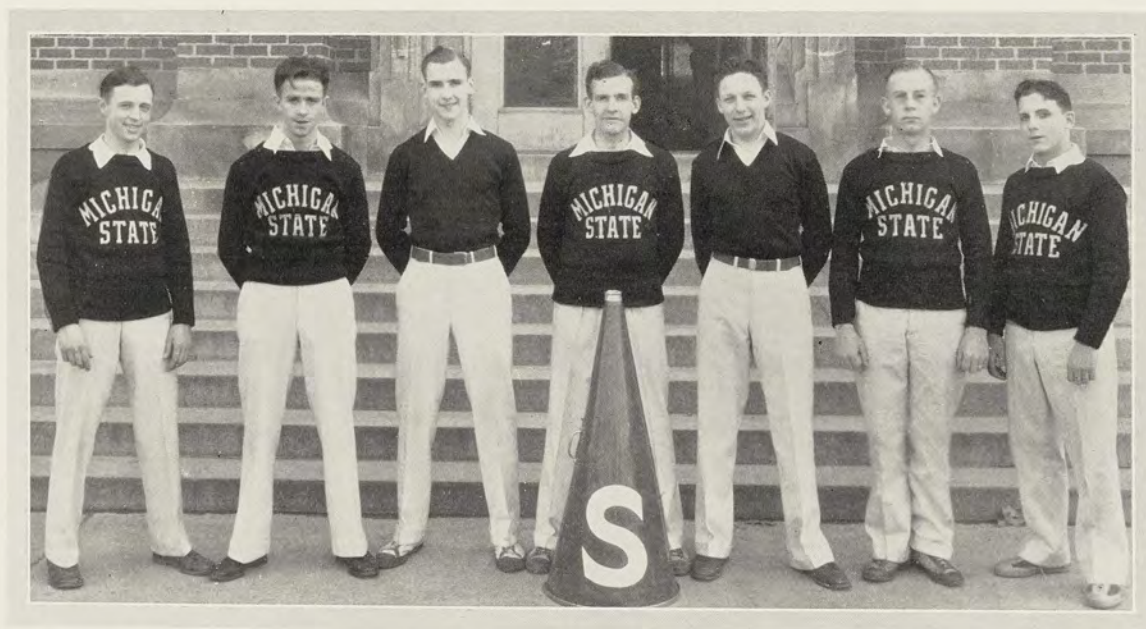

Yarger

With reference to the 1929 season, State won the Annual State Intercollegiate Track and Field meet for the third successive year. Competition was very close in every event, and the balance swung in favor of the Spartans because every man did what was expected of him and because State placed men in ten of the fifteen events listed.

CROSS COUNTRY

During the past season, Coach Morton F. Mason developed the best team ever to represent Michigan State. The harriers, who are ordinarily awarded minor letters, performed so credibly that they received major "S's" and small gold track shoes.

The 1930 team won all dual meets, the Central Intercollegiate championship and placed second in the Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association of America run held at Van Courtland Park, New York, N. Y. Captain Brown and Chamberlain placed third and fourth, respectively, in this national meet which attracted the best harrier talent in the country, to give the Spartan runners second place. The hilly eastern course handicapped the State team materially. The University of Maine runners, who were accustomed to the course, nosed out the Spartans for first place. It was the best performance ever turned in by a mid-western team in the national run.

The following athletes were awarded major letters and gold track shoes at the end of the most successful State cross-country campaign: Captain Lauren P. Brown, Bob O'Connor, John Reed, Clark Chamberlain and Ted Willmarth. Al Kidder was awarded a manager's letter.

The WOLVERINE

Captain Brown, brilliant, midget runner, led the team and turned in spectacular victories. He was defeated only once during the season.

The State team defeated the University of Michigan runners by a perfect score and won from Notre Dame and Butler University in other dual meets. Notre Dame was the only school to oppose the Spartans in the I. C. I. meet.

Morton F. Mason

The season's record follows, with the low scorer winning:

SWIMMING

A winning swimming team was returned by Coach Russell Daubert. The Spartan splashers won five meets and lost three. Michigan and Northwestern, for several years the giants of the middle western inter-collegiate swimming world, were the only college aggregations to trim Daubert's team. Grand Rapids Y. M. C. A., with the help of outside men, managed to win a meet at Grand Rapids, but State beat the Furniture Capital splashers in a meet held here.

Russell F. Daubert

Four swimmers were singled out for unusual honors. In view of their excellent performance Capt. Edward Cook, Claude G. Scheid, Ray Schaubel and Horace Craig were awarded major letters.

Four seniors were awarded major letters due to their excellent records. Capt. Marion Joslin, heavy-weight; Merrill G. Marshall, 155 pounds; Norman Stoner, 135 pounds; and Richard S. Tompkins, 145 pounds, were honored. They were winners in virtually every meet and showed the spirit that made Coach Fendley Collins recommend them for extraordinary awards in a minor sport.

HOCKEY

Coach John Kobs had his usual tussle with the weather and came out second best. The frequent thaws ruined his chances for regular practice and forced the cancellation of some games. The team did not have much success due to this condition. Five matches were played. Michigan won 7 to 0 and 7 to 1. Detroit won 2 to 0 and later was defeated 2 to 1. Ralph's Sport Shop of Battle Creek won, 2 to 1.

TENNIS

The tennis team, coached by C. D. Ball, completed the 1929 season with a record of three victories in six matches. Michigan State net-men defeated some of the outstanding college stars of the midwest during the intercollegiate season.

The most salient achievements of the season were the defeat of the strong Amour Technical Institute, of Chicago, Illinois, and the defeat of Moss, intercollegiate champion, by Kane in the Detroit City College match. The Spartan court team entered "Central Intercollegiate" competition held at Chicago for the first time last season.

Kane is the only varsity man who was eligible for competition during the 1930 season. Pinneo, Olson and Goodwin were promising freshman candidates.

MICHIGIAN AGRICULTURIST

The Michigan Agriculturist, official organ of the Agricultural student body, is a monthly publication. First issues of the magazine appeared in October, 1921, and since that time it has been published regularly nine times each school year. Founders of the magazine dedicated it to the task of "Conserving Michigan's forests and farms; encouraging better living conditions in the farm home; aiding Michigan farm boys and girls in club work; pointing out to students that agriculture does not need more farmers, but better farmers; bringing the whole 'ag' body closer together; keeping the 'ag' and 'home ec' alumni in touch with their Alma Mater and reminding them that they are always a part of the 'aggie' family."

In all respects the Agriculturist is strictly a student publication. Practically one hundred per cent of the articles are written by students. The editor and business manager, who choose their staffs, are elected by agricultural students at all-college elections each March.

Besides reaching every regularly enrolled agricultural student, the Agriculturist reaches the office of every county agent and the library of every Smith-Hughes high school in the state. A large proportion of agricultural, home economics, and forestry alumni are also on the subscription list.

The Agriculturist is a member of Agricultural College Magazines Association.

VARSITY DEBATING

The men's debate team engaged in twenty-eight contests, of which Michigan State won the majority of the decisions. Coach J. D. Menchhofer's speakers scored victories in ten debates, no decisions were given in eleven contests, and seven debates were lost. This record is the best ever established by Spartan speakers.

Members of the squad were: A. A. Arnold, H. Carroll, E. Green, M. A. Huberman, R. Hutchison, J. Kidder and W. Pratt.

The season was climaxed at the National Biennial Convention of Pi Kappa Delta held at Wichita, Kansas. The men's team, composed of Carroll, Pratt and Hutchison, gave a good account of itself in a tournament in which more than one hundred teams competed, but was eliminated late in the meet.

Forensic relations were established with many mid-western institutions during the past season. These will be continued and are expected to make the 1931 season even more successful than the past year. A trip to Florida is being contemplated for next winter.

Michigan State's team competed against Loyola University in a debate which was broadcast over a Chicago radio station.

The season's record follows:

Olivet College at Olivet—no decision; Olivet College at Vermontville—won; Michigan State Normal College at Dansville—won; Michigan State Normal College at Mason—no decision; Western State Teachers College at Galesburg—won; Western State Teachers College at Mendon—no decision; Albion College at Hudson—lost; Albion College at Leslie—won; Detroit College of Law at Byron—won; Detroit City College at East Lansing—won; Detroit College of Law at Detroit—no decision; Detroit City College at Detroit—no decision; Oberlin University at Eaton Rapids—no decision; Notre Dame University at Lansing—lost; Notre Dame University at South Bend—lost; Iowa State Teachers College at Hastings—no decision; Purdue University at East Lansing—won; Marquette University at Milwaukee, Wisconsin—lost; Western Reserve University at Owoeso—won; Loyola University Law School at Chicago, Illinois—no decision; University of Missouri at Kansas City, Missouri—no decision; University of Kansas at Lawrence, Kansas—no decision; Simmons University at Wichita, Kansas—lost; Missouri Central State Teachers at Wichita, Kansas—lost; West Virginia Wesleyan University at Wichita, Kansas—won; Emporia State Teachers at Wichita, Kansas—won; Texas Christian University at Wichita, Kansas—lost; Waynesburg College at East Lansing—no decision.

VARSITY DEBATING

Paul C. Kochan, a new member of the faculty, successfully guided the destinies of the co-ed debate team during the past year. The women speakers established an enviable record, winning seven and losing four debates, while no decision was rendered in three contests.

The season was climaxed at the National Biennial convention of Pi Kappa Delta, honorary forensic society, held at Wichita, Kansas. The State co-ed team placed second in national competition there. The women orators held several debates which were broadcast by radio.

Members of the co-ed squad were: Edna Helen Forman, Mildred Leinaar, Ethel Lyon, Erna Pasch, Mildred Patterson and Theresa Seeley.

The season's record: Wheaton College at Lansing—lost; University of West Virginia at East Lansing—no decision; University of Cincinnati at East Lansing—won; University of Cincinnati at Cincinnati, Ohio—no decision; Washington University at St. Louis, Missouri—no decision; Virginia State Teacher's College at Wichita, Kansas—lost; Macalester College at Wichita, Kansas—won; Augustana College (twice) at Wichita, Kansas—won; Drake University at Wichita, Kansas—won; Culver-Stockton College at Wichita, Kansas—won; Dakota Wesleyan College at Wichita, Kansas—won; Southwestern College (Kansas) at Wichita, Kansas—won; Southwestern College (Kansas) at Wichita, Kansas—lost; Western State Normal at East Lansing—lost.

Won, 7; lost, 4; no decision, 3.

The Mistress of the Inn

THETA ALPHA PHI PRODUCTIONS

Four plays, all comedies, were sponsored by the Michigan State College chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, national honorary dramatics society, during the year. These productions, which are directed by Prof. E. S. King of the English department, have proved to be very popular student entertainment features, and are presented in the State Theater.

"The Colonel's Maid", a riotous three-act comedy, was the initial production of the year presented by the student thespians. A capacity house greeted the performance. The acting of Bernard Crittenden drew more favorable comments than that of any other character. He played the part of a peppery old man, one of the most difficult characters to portray, and carried the role masterfully. Dorothy Troth filled the role of a widow in a very credible manner. Ruth Ranney, playing as the widow's daughter, also scored a distinct hit, as did Roy Brigham in the role of a Chinese servant. Other students who had parts were: Warren Shook, Beryl Abbey, Garfield Thatcher, Al O'Donnell and James Gass.

This play provided an amusing and breathless maze of heart interest centering around typical family troubles. The scheme of the play is taken from the ancient feud between two quick-tempered Southern colonels which prevented the marriage of their children.

A colorful, three-act comedy, Goldoni's "The Mistress of the Inn", proved a difficult play for the student actors, but was well presented. The setting was in Florence, the romantic Italian city, and the play was presented in native costume. Margaret Stephens, in the title role, was the outstanding actor. Other members of the cast were: William P. Mott, Jess J. Bird, William Kane, Lewis D. Snider and Albert W. Sachs.

The plot of the comedy centered around the mistress, who would be described as a vampire in modern vernacular. She was determined to have the affection of every man she met and her attempts to win them over provided much amusement. The battle for romance finally resolved itself into a triangular affair with each man striving vigorously for her hand. One of these active suitors was a confirmed woman-hater who finally "fell for" the mistress and her varied wiles, which made the situation more ludicrous.

The WOLVERINE

The society climaxed the winter term with "The Clean-Up", by Barry Conners, and the three-act comedy proved to be probably the most successful and best received student play ever presented at Michigan State. This political comedy was especially appropriate as it was presented just before the all-college elections. The highlight of the offering was the very capable characterization of a ward politician portrayed by Warren Shook, veteran student actor. The part of the young wife, who was running for the office of mayor despite the strenuous opposition of her husband, was well done by Helen Bennett, even though it was the heaviest role in the play. Elton Moore was cast as her husband, who left home rather than reduce his dominance in the family, and played his part well. Esther Chivers, as a college girl and ambitious newspaper woman who had dabbled freely in politics, contributed materially to the entertainment of the production. Humor was amply provided by Bernard Crittenden, who scored as the effeminate brother of the suffragist. Supporting the major characters was a capable group of student thespians, including Maxine Sturgeon, Edna Helen Forman, Ernestine Leinaar and Allen Wright.

"The Kidnapper", a three-act comedy by Robert Housum, was the first Theta Alpha Phi production of the spring term. Eight students were cast to take parts in this amusing comedy which dealt with the "kidnaping" of a young woman by a wealthy business man, with the consent and assistance of her father. A freelance reporter arrived on the scene in time to aid the crime and fell desperately in love with the unsuspecting victim and proved a dangerous rival for the originator of the plan. William Kane was cast as the newspaper man and Beryl Abbey played as the heroine. Ed Cook took the role of the conniving business man. Bernard Crittenden, Ward Kelley, Al Sachs, Ethel McCabe and Ellen Johnston composed the remainder of the cast.

DAIRY CLUB

The Michigan State Dairy Club is open to any student interested in dairying. While the club is carried out along dairying lines, it is the aim to make the organization a general get-together, and a diversion from contact in technical classes.

The club aids in financing the dairy judging teams which are sent out each fall to the National Dairy Judging Contests.

Jess Bird, Elbert Kelsey, Herbert Miller and Laurel Keyt were members of the 1929 Dairy Cattle Judging Team. Keyt served as alternate. The 1929 team represented Michigan State College at the Dairy Cattle Congress at Waterloo, Iowa, and the National Dairy Show held at St. Louis, Missouri. The team won three silver trophies at the two shows.

Twelve college teams were in competition at the college students judging contest at Waterloo. The Michigan team placed fifth as a team in the judging of all five breeds. In the various divisions Michigan won first in judging Holsteins and Brown Swiss and was awarded third place in the Jersey division.

At the National Dairy Show held at St. Louis, Missouri, the Michigan team placed tenth as a team in the judging of all breeds in competition with twenty-seven other college dairy cattle judging teams. Michigan placed first in the judging of Ayrshires as a team, while Herbert A. Miller was high ranking individual in judging Ayrshires in competition with 83 other contestants. The team also placed second in the judging of Guernseys at the same show.

The Thirteenth Student's National Contest in Judging Dairy Products was held October 15, 1929, at the Pevely Dairy Company, St. Louis, Missouri. These contests are between teams from Land-Grant Agricultural Colleges, and are held by the National Dairy Association, under the auspices of the American Dairy Science Association.

The team consists of three students. Four products, milk, butter, cheese and ice cream are judged. At this contest the Michigan State Team took eighth place in judging all products.

ANIMAL HUSBANDRY CLUB

This Club holds regular meetings scheduled the second Tuesday of each month. The purposes of which are, (1) to further the interest and study in problems confronting the animal husbandry industry, (2) to stimulate an interest and aid in the promotion of better judging teams in the animal husbandry department.

This interest is stimulated by, (1) the annual all-college judging contest, (2) the Little International held during Farmer's Week, (3) judging contests at various colleges during the season which are sponsored by the livestock clubs on the campus.

The Livestock Judging Team visited eighteen prominent livestock farms in three states for practice judging of beef cattle, hogs, horses and sheep. A practice contest was held at home with visiting teams from Ohio State and Purdue and a similar contest was attended at Purdue along with Ohio State and Illinois teams. The team took part in the Intercollegiate Contest among fifteen teams at the American Royal Livestock Show at Kansas City, and a similar contest among twenty-one teams at the International Livestock Exposition, Chicago, climaxed the season. In each of the contests a total of twelve classes of four animals each were placed and oral reasons for the placing constituted half the score for eight classes. In the latter contest, Miller tied for first place judging Percheron horses, score 99, and was tenth among 105 contestants in the entire contest. Kelsey tied for second place judging Hampshire sheep, score 99, took second place judging Berkshire hogs, score 95, and tied for second place judging all hogs, score 93.2.

FRATERNITIES

The WOLVERINE

MEN'S fraternities may render to any educational institution an important service by furnishing comfortable living conditions to a considerable number of students accepted to membership. They are in a position to materially aid the administration of an institution by rendering moral support in the recognition of general policies and traditions and in the establishment and maintenance of high ideals. In fact, fraternities have constantly before them the opportunity of taking an important place in the leadership of a student body.

Newest and perhaps most popular of all departments is the Institute of Music established in 1929, which offers a course in Public School Music. • • •

The Social Sororities, through loyalty to the school and themselves have become a valuable asset to the Michigan State campus. • •

SORORITIES

The WOLVERINE

HIS section introduces the sorority women of Michigan State College. Here you will find assembled some of our most brilliant minds, many of our beauties, a goodly number of our most charming and delightful girls, together with some of our friends to whose graduation day we are looking forward.

Because the sororities offer to the girls of their choice an opportunity for social polish and development, ideals based upon fine character, friendship and culture, Michigan State College looks upon these organizations with favor. She expects from them as groups and individuals, constant allegiance and service for the finer things which the College and its community hold in store.

Of unusual excellence and attracting more women students than any other department is the division of Home Economics. . . .

Becoming more powerful year after year, State's co-eds have taken over their own government and activities. . . .

WOMEN

The WOLVERINE

The office of the Dean of Women is organized and maintained to be of value to women students of M. S. C. The Dean of Women is interested in the personal and academic success of all undergraduate women, in the best possible living conditions for them, in surroundings where they may study effectively, be among congenial companions, and take advantage of the opportunities for cultural development which the college community offers.

Because the Dean of Women can not go out and find those students who are in need of financial, academic or personal assistance, they must learn to come to this office freely, informally and as soon as their problems arise.

Elizabeth Tourad

DEAN

The WOLVERINE

Winifred Kalchthaler

The purpose of the Associated Women Students' Council is to regulate matters pertaining to women students. Its programme includes not only governmental duties, but it aims, through constructive organization, to make the college life of each individual girl a more productive whole.

Freshman Week is sponsored by the A. W. S. assisted by other groups on the campus. During these few days preliminary to the regular class work, every effort is made to make less difficult the adjustment of the Freshman girl to her new surroundings.

All women's elections and mass meetings, the Co-ed Prom, the Co-ed Follies, and the point activity system are sponsored by the A. W. S. The point activity system has been very carefully worked out, its aim being to offer every girl an opportunity to find expression through some activity in which she is particularly interested.

Every woman student is a member of the A. W. S. and it is the function of the Council to regulate women's activities on the campus for the good of the entire group.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

The purpose of this organization, which consists of two members of each sorority on the campus, is to form an inter-fraternity compact binding on all member chapters, and to regulate matters of Fraternity interest to all groups.

At the annual Pan-Hellenic Banquet the scholarship cup was presented to the sorority having the highest scholarship during the past year. Alpha Chi Omega won this honor.

Two delegates, Frances Davis and Annie Laurie Becker attended the Annual Conference of Intercollegiate Pan-Hellenic Associations of Urban Universities at Columbus, Ohio.

They brought back many points of interest and discussed problems that are common on all campuses.

The Spring Pan-Hellenic Ball held April 25 at the Hotel Olds was skillfully managed by Betty Forshaw.

DORMITORIES

The Woman's Building, constructed in 1900 and Abbott Hall, built in 1888, are the largest women's dormitories. These are the real landmarks and the freshman girls are just as much in love with their rooms today as they were when the Woman's Building was built in 1900 and Abbott Hall was handed over for the use of the first girls in the Home Economics Division in 1896.

The third floor of the Woman's Building is the most important, especially at meal time. No mere man ventures into the Commons dining room except at the time of the formal dinner dance which the freshmen girls give once a year, and then guests are guaranteed the safety of numbers.

Off campus two small dormitories are inadequate for the over-flow from the campus buildings. The Eldon and farther away, Sunset Lodge, are the homes for the late registrants. These girls console themselves for their exclusion from the campus with the knowledge that a year from this fall there is to be a handsome new dormitory on the campus large enough for them all, fireproof in construction and with plenty of dining room and parlor space. The new building is a welcome addition to the Campus, and a much-needed improvement.

WOMIENS' ATHLETICS

The WOLVERINE

"Physical Education for all Women" is the slogan of the Women's department, and it is our endeavor to make it education in every sense of the word. The required Physical Education program comprises activities that develop motor co-ordination and skills for everyday life with particular emphasis on those activities that have carry-over qualities.

Every student has an opportunity to develop new skills or to participate in those activities that have the greatest appeal. This extra curricular program is entirely optional and includes Green Splash, the honorary swimming club, Orchesis, honorary dancing club, the Spartan Fencing Club, and the Women's Athletic Association. In addition to the Women's Athletic Association, which program includes competition in sixteen sports, there is an intra-mural program comprising ten sororities and three dormitories. Physical activity is a very necessary part of the life of the present-day college woman.

Women's Athletic Association

The Women's Athletic Association is a self-supporting organization made up of girls who take active part in sports sponsored by the organization. The Board which is made up of officers and managers, acts as executive body for the organization. An honor team is chosen in each sport at the end of the term. It is composed of players picked from class teams, whose technique and sportsmanship afford them the position.

HONOR ROLL

The requirement of the Honor Roll is 1500 athletic activity points which represents membership on fifteen first-class athletic teams. These teams are chosen from girls who show extraordinary interest and skill in the sport in which they participate during the term. The reward for 1000 points is an Old English S, for 500 points a small S, while members of class teams are awarded numerals.

The WOLVERINE

The Value of the R.O.T.C.

The R. O. T. C. holds a distinguished position among the activities of the young men of the United States because it is at one and the same time highly honorable, very valuable to the nation, and beneficial morally, intellectually and physically to the individual student. It is honorable because the student participant acquires a potential ability for the defense of the country to which he and his family owe everything. It is honorable because he thus also becomes one who is a really valuable defender of the most enlightened system of government that the world has yet put into practice, a system where every man has a chance to acquire and practice those decent attitudes toward other men and those physical comforts of life for which humanity must be destined if we grant that it has any destiny at all.

The R. O. T. C. is valuable to the nation for the above stated reasons because it provides a source of officers available for the necessities of organized defense. The destiny of a people may be ever so manifest as indicated by the enlightened character of its system of government and the good intentions of its people, but unless it is prepared for organized defense its apparent destiny is but a mirage and it will perish from the earth.

The moral benefits of the R. O. T. C. spring from the fact that the traditional teachings of the corps emphasize and insist upon the truth, fair play and an equal sharing of all burdens as the student progresses through his various studies and advances grade by grade in the ranks of the organization. It is upon the foregoing qualities that the very life of democratic institutions depends.

The teachings of the R. O. T. C. confer upon the student outstanding intellectual advantages because there can be no disorderly or slovenly habits of thinking in the military courses. Precision is the very essence and the first requisite of these studies. In a nation like ours where work is so intense, where production is so vast and varied, and where these activities inevitably require a constant adjustment of political measures to economic actualities, a general capacity for orderly thinking is the great goal toward which the nation must progress not only to maintain the great momentum of its productivity but also to keep that vast force from shaking to pieces the very machinery of government. The R. O. T. C. is one of the great outstanding schools of orderly and precise thinking.

The physical benefits of the R. O. T. C. are obvious. They are superior because they are positive and precise, cultivating the co-ordination of mind and body. The various commands at drill require for success instant understanding by the student, his instant converting of understanding into decision and resolution, followed by suitable physical reaction. Each drill is in itself an orderly, invigorating school of physical improvement. Moreover, as the various movements of each unit, however small, depend upon the full and fair contribution of his part by each individual, this method of physical training reflects the most perfect spirit of democracy.

COLONEL, CAVALRY

The WOLVERINE

Colonel Edward Davis
CAVALRY

The WOLVERINE

COLONEL EDWARD C. DAVIS, Cavalry, Commandant of the Michigan State College Reserve Officers Training Corps since September 1, 1930, has served with the United States Army for 32 years, during which time he advanced from the rank of second lieutenant to that which he now holds.

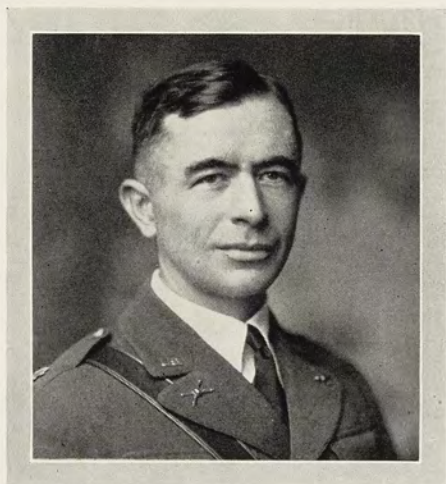

Colonel Davis participated in the siege of Santiago de Cuba during the Spanish-American war in 1898. He served in the campaigns in the Phillipines from 1899 to 1904, spent three years on the Mexican border and has three years of European service during the World War to his credit, having joined the British and French in 1916.

The colonel served on numerous fronts during the late war, namely: Macedonia, Egypt, Palestine, Mesopotamia, Arabia, France, Persia and India. At different times he was associated with the British, French, Russian, Serbian, Italian, Australian, New Zealand, Indian and Greek military forces. He took part in the Palestine campaign, serving with the Australian cavalry. He entered Jerusalem with General Lord Allenby of Great Britain as a member of the latter's staff. During the late stages of the World War he had charge of the American intelligence service operating in Holland.

Following the armistice, Colonel Davis was detailed to Berlin as United States military attache. While in Germany he became well acquainted with Marshal von Hindenburg, who later was chosen President of the German Republic. After six years of service in Europe, Africa and Asia, Colonel Davis took a post in the War Department at Washington, D. C. A short time afterward he was appointed military attache to Mexico. His last post before coming to East Lansing was military attache to Belgrade and Athens.

Colonel Davis has been awarded the American Distinguished Service Medal and wears the British Distinguished Service Order. He received his LL. B. degree from Cornell University in 1896.

HONORARY OFFICERS

Each year it is customary for the entire Michigan State Cadet Corps to elect an honorary cadet colonel as sponsor for the regiment, and honorary majors for the infantry and artillery battalions and the calvary squadron.

The honor of being one of these sponsors is the highest which can be conferred upon any co-ed by the R. O. T. C.

Candidates for these positions are selected by the Officers' Club and the Honorary Colonel is voted upon by the entire corps, while the Honorary Majors are selected by the various units.

CAVALRY SQUADRON

Upon the Cavalry rests the responsibility of all scouting and reconnaissance work. Although it is especially adapted to these missions, due to its extreme mobility, it is no less adapted to the other phases of modern warfare, for the equipment of Cavalry not only includes individual rifles, pistols and sabers, but machine guns, machine rifles and armored car troops as well.

The Cavalry course at State consists of a general training course during the first two years, while the elective course embraces advanced equitation, a machine gun course, map reading and sketching, military history and policy and Cavalry tactics.

Two night rides are held during the spring term, Junior and Senior, while a Cavalry demonstration is given, the latter consisting of jumping, both singly and in groups, and some bareback work. In addition to these activities, the Cavalry acts as mounted escort to all notables visiting the campus.

INFANTRY BATTALION

The infantry is the backbone of the army, often referred to as "Queen of Battles," and the success or failure of a maneuver depends upon the discipline, training and equipment of the troops.

The work in this course is both practical and theoretical, and while basic infantry training consists of rifle practice and drill, the advanced work offers courses in sanitation, infantry weapons, military tactics, leadership, map reading, military history and policy, and the advanced military sciences.

An infantry demonstration is given annually showing a platoon in attack, the taking up of the battle formation as in regular warfare, with the conditions simulated as near as possible through the use of pyrotechnics, smoke, rifles, machine guns, automatic rifles, 3-inch trench mortars, and the 37 mm. guns.

The WOLVERINE

M. S. C. BAND

The Michigan State College Military Band has had a most successful year. It not only has maintained, but has surpassed the high standard of previous bands both in musical and marching ability. During the football season the band received general praise for its fine work, especially at the U. of M. game at Ann Arbor, where it walked off with all the honors. The band's exhibition at this game was considered the best ever put on by any State band. Besides appearing at the football games and other events, the band was invited to participate in the Armistice Day ceremony at Grand Rapids where it proved to be the chief attraction of the parade.

During the winter term, the band played at the major basketball games and furnished a large part of the musical entertainment for Farmers' Week. The concerts presented during Farmers' Week were notable for the unusually high quality of the music.

The spring term brought the band a most ambiguous program. Besides lending its bit at the weekly military reviews, the band played for the major baseball games; the annual horse show and for the Commencement exercises. Distinct recognition was also given the organization when it was invited to play for the famous Blossom Festival at Benton Harbor, Michigan.

Of unusual interest to the student body and general public alike was the series of weekly concerts. These concerts were practically an innovation as they were offered for the first time in many years. It is the hope of Mr. Falcone to present this series of concerts again next year.

Mr. Leonard Falcone, Director of the Michigan State College Military Band, is indeed succeeding in his ambition to make the State College organization not only a first class marching band, in which field it already enjoys a national reputation, but also a band that is capable of performing concert music of the highest order.

Aside from his college duties, Mr. Falcone has been busy appearing as soloist and conductor with various musical organizations throughout the state, among which were the University of Michigan band and the National High School Orchestra and Band.

That Mr. Falcone's reputation extends beyond the confines of our own state is attested by the honor given him in being invited by the University of Iowa to act as an adjudicator for the Iowa State high school music contest held at the University of Iowa.

... That Every Owner Shall Be a Friend

The very nucleus of the Oldsmobile-Viking policy pledged to progress is fair and friendly dealing with the purchasers of Oldsmobile and Viking motor cars.

This policy becomes effective long before these cars are offered to the public—long before they are even built. And it continues to operate long after they are sold—in the form of service to Oldsmobile-Viking owners.

Briefly, the policy resolves itself into four parts—four responsibilities which Olds Motor Works recognizes toward every owner . . . to design progressively; to build faithfully; to sell honestly; to service sincerely.

Sound, progressive design is assured by the industry and intelligence of a capable engineering staff—backed by the vast resources of Olds Motor Works and the General Motors Research Laboratories and Proving Ground.

Faithful manufacture results from strict allegiance to the Oldsmobile-Viking pledge, "Anything short of my best is not acceptable."

Absolute honesty in advertising and in selling is born of perfect confidence in a good product which is priced fairly.

Finally, because good service goes hand in hand with a good product, Oldsmobile-Viking supports its dealers and joins with them in maintaining one of the broadest service policies in existence today.

Olds Motor Works values the good will of the public above all other considerations. And Olds Motor Works pledges itself to this policy of progress in order that public confidence may continue to exist, and to grow with the years . . . in order that every Oldsmobile-Viking owner shall be a friend.
