75
Anniversary

Michigan State College
East Lansing, Michigan

Dedication

TO THOSE individuals who had the foresight to conceive and the indomitable courage to build,—out of rough-hewn, and in the midst of a veritable world of skeptics—

To those several peoples who, in the past seventy-five years, have brought the institution from a modest but sound beginning, through the many periods of trial and change, to a substantial place in the sphere of education, we dedicate this thirtieth edition of the Wolverine.

The future is vast,—yet this seventy-fifth anniversary of Michigan State College becomes a point of vantage from which we may view a past filled with the joys and pains of an organic growth,—a development unsurpassed.

SINCE March 15, 1861 the College has been under the control of the State Board of Agriculture. The members are appointed by the Governor by the consent of the Senate for a term of six years, two being appointed each second year. The Board was organized with the purpose of devoting more special attention to the college than was previously given by the Legislature.

ROBERT SIDEY SHAW

ON MAY 13th, 1857, the Michigan Agricultural College opened its doors to the public and entered the sphere of educational activity. In June, 1932 we are to celebrate the founding of the Institution as the Michigan State College of Agriculture and Applied Science, the name having been changed by the Michigan State Legislature of 1925.

Functions of research and extension soon followed the efforts in education until the three objectives have grown to enormous proportions in balanced and harmonious usefulness.

The original course in agriculture has been supplemented by fifteen others included in seven distinct divisions and all developed in a strong and symmetrical relationship. Scientific research, the basis of technical education and extension forms the basic foundation of the activities of the Institution while at the same time the liberal or cultural phases furnish a necessary supplement.

Though the college has grown and expanded, it is still functioning in accordance with the basic federal and state laws on which it was founded.

Robert S. Shaw

Administrative Officers

HERMAN H. HALLADAY

The Secretary

Herman H. Halladay acts as business manager of the college and secretary of the State Board of Agriculture. He also acts as custodian of all College property and buildings. The office of the Comptroller and the Purchasing Agent is in conjunction with the Secretary's Office.

JOSEPH P. COX

Dean of Agriculture

Graduates in the Agricultural Division of Michigan State College are to be found throughout the United States. This division gives the necessary training and inspiration for men who eventually find splendid opportunities in this widely diversified field.

Dean of Liberal Arts

The Liberal Arts Division is the most diversified department of the college. This type of education involves an effort on the part of the student to understand himself, his capacity and his limitations as well as to appreciate the world in which he lives.

HENRY B. DIRKS

Dean of Engineering

The Engineering Division offers four branches of study: Chemical, Civil, Electrical, and Mechanical Engineering. The Department has recognized the difficulty in differentiating between the technical and the administrative engineer, and has attempted to give their students a broad training and at the same time one that will be valuable to industry.

Administrative Officers

RALPH CHASE HUSTON

Dean of Applied Science

The Applied Science Division was established in the fall of 1921 as a result of the feeling among the faculty that an opportunity ought to be provided for training in the fundamental sciences. The course is primarily designed for preliminary training in medicine and dentistry.

WARD GILTNER

Dean of Veterinary and Medicine

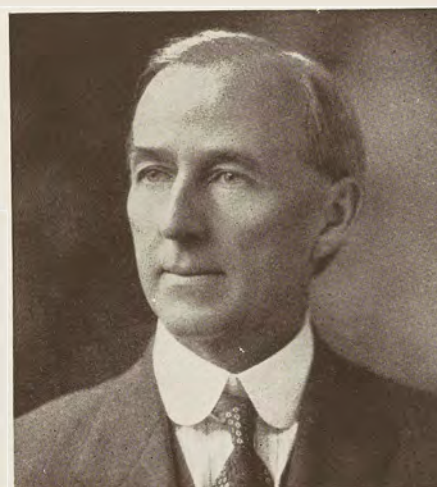

Michigan State College offers a full four-year course in medical biology or technology. Men and women are trained in this course in chemistry, bacteriology and pathology. This course is the only one of its kind offered in the United States.

MARIE DYE

Dean of Home Economics

The scope of the field of Home Economics is far reaching and professional opportunities for women with this training are becoming more varied. The main purpose of the division is, however, to prepare the students for life and enable them to apply modern resources to the improvement of the home.

ERNST A. BESSY

Dean of Graduate School

Each year more graduates of Michigan State College are taking their places in important positions throughout the United States, and the Graduate School is growing in size and importance. This division offers men and women who have finished the regular course of study the opportunity to study and prepare themselves for the more demanding positions.

College Hall

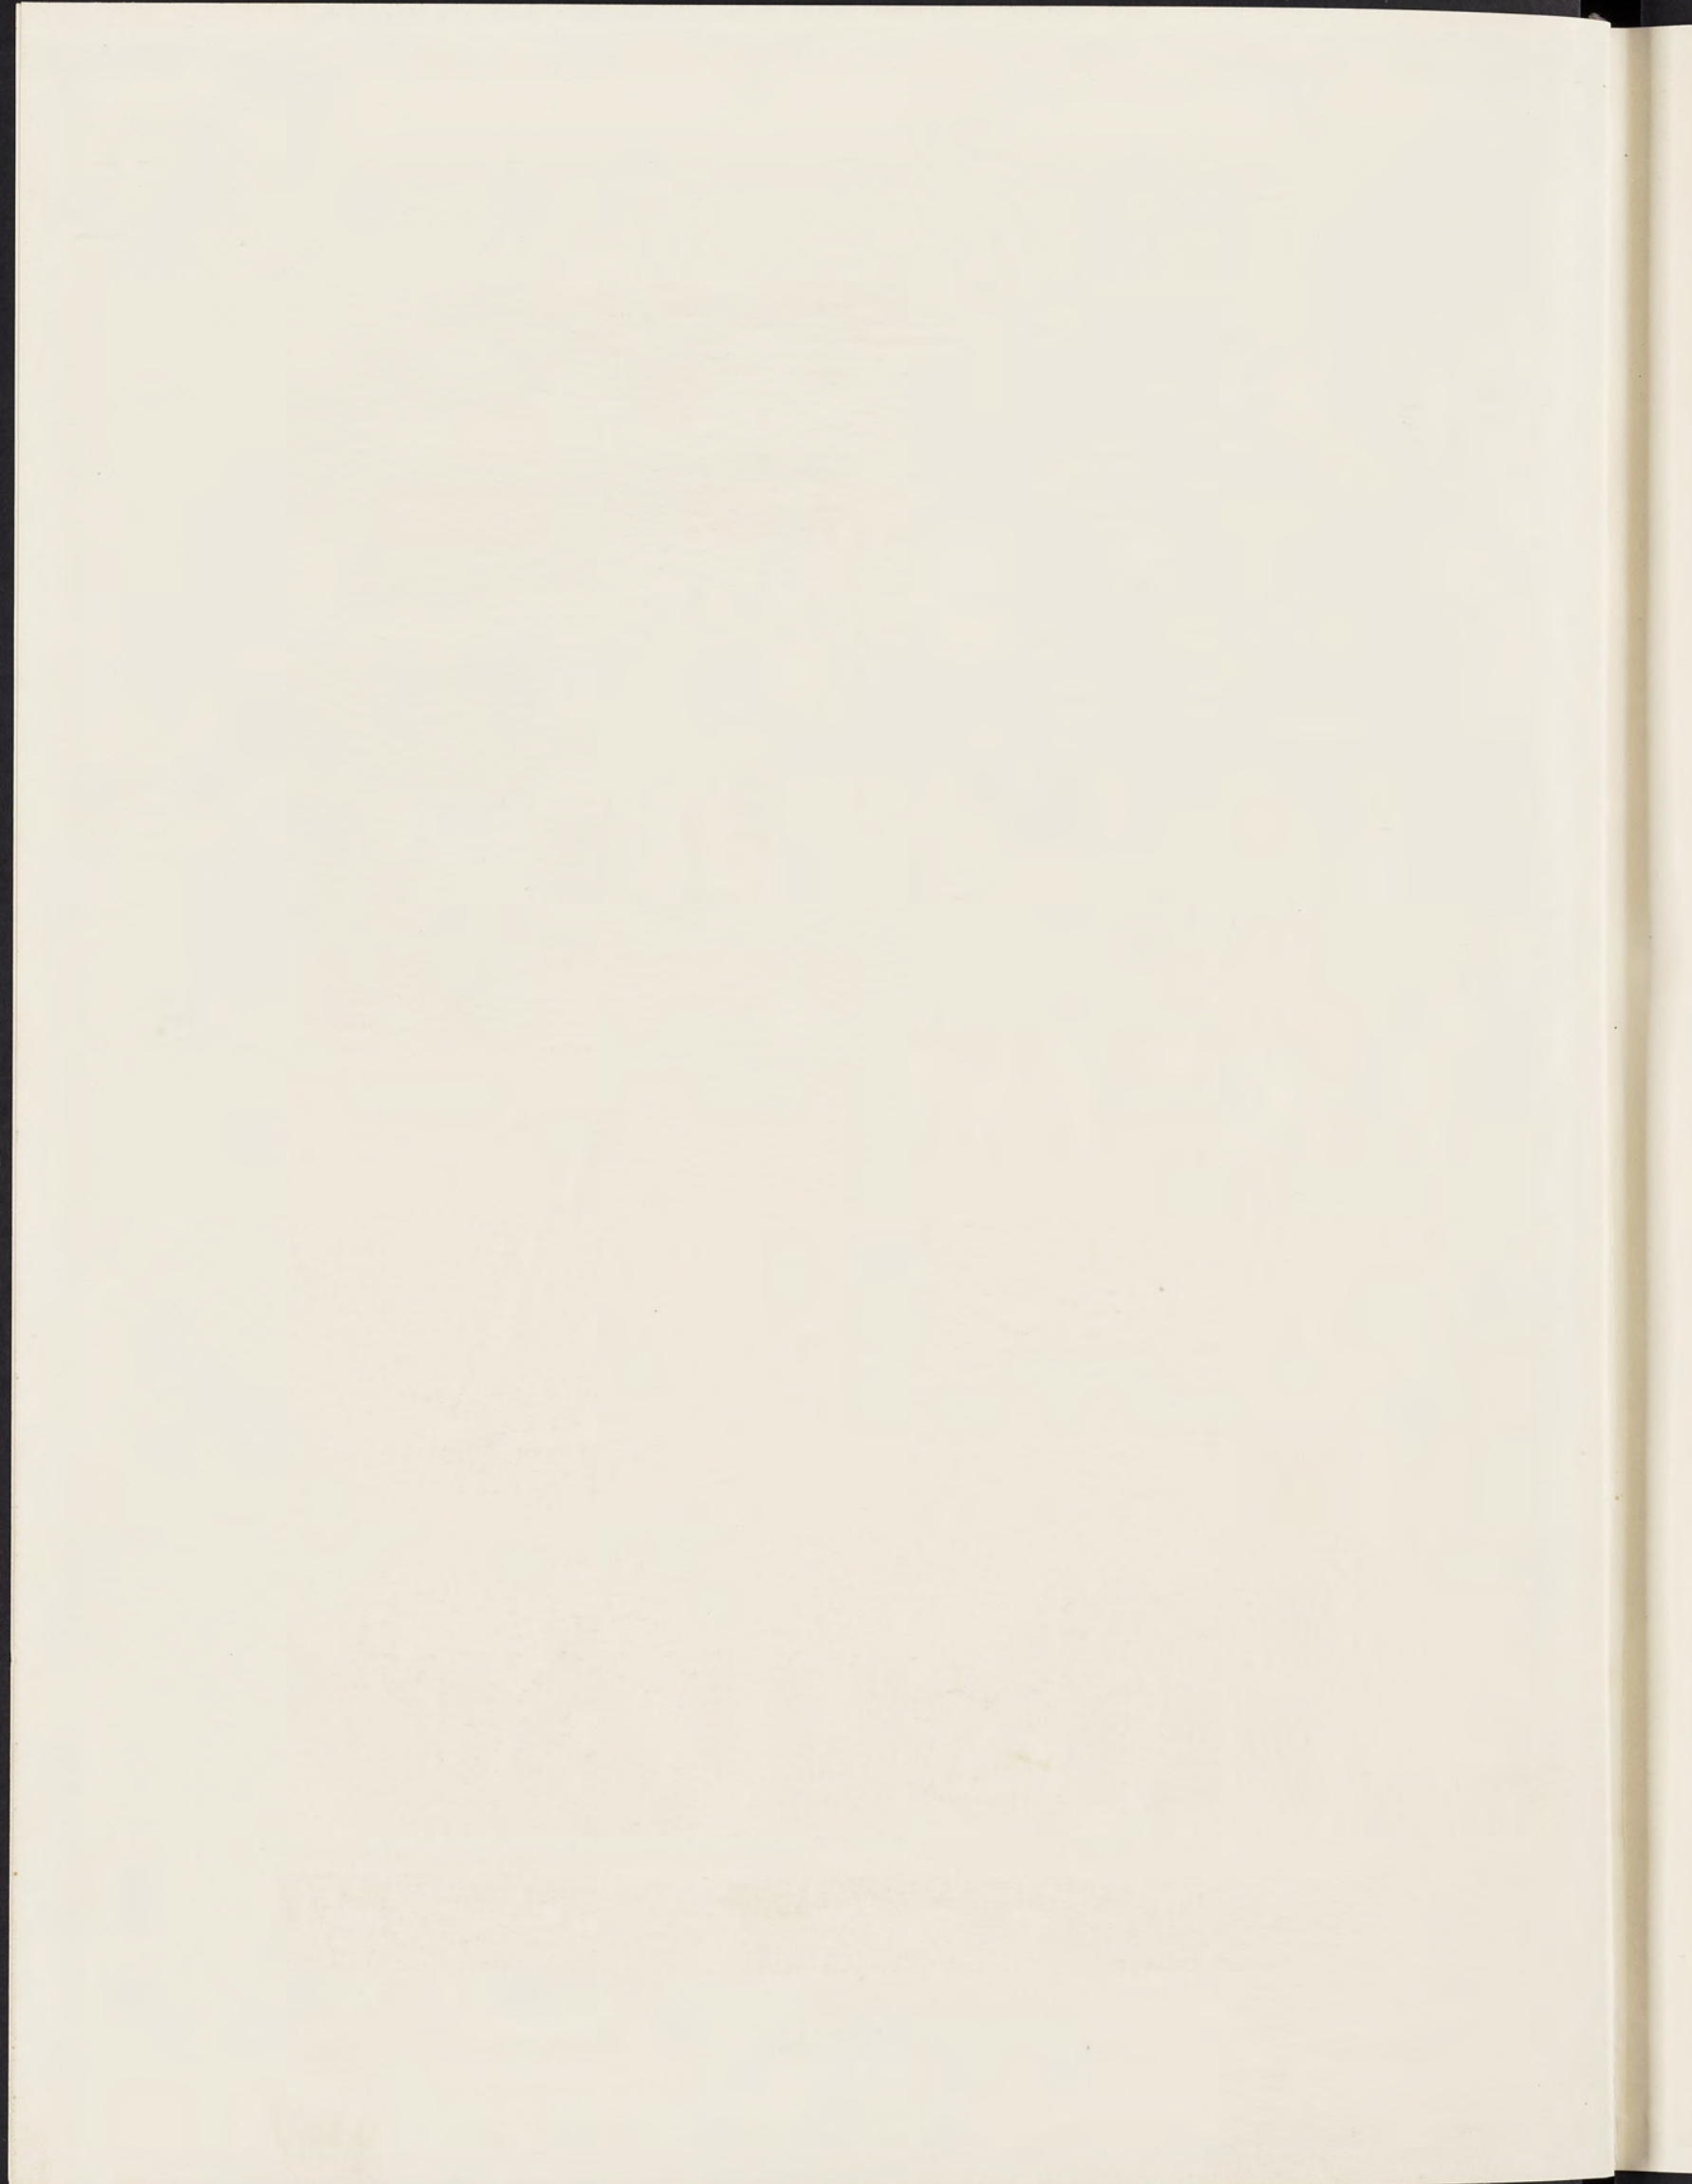

*C*OLLEGE HALL is the most memorable building in the annals of agricultural education in the United States because it was the first to be erected for that purpose.

For many years it was the center of all class-room work, housing at different times, the chemical laboratory, chapel, and various organization meetings. Later, when it passed its stage of usefulness, it was razed, and is now but a memory.

Beaumont Memorial Tower assumes an added significance, when it is realized that upon the same ground once stood this famous building.

Memor

EARLY in May, 1857, some 73 students were admitted to M.A.C. after passing entrance examinations. In order to matriculate, it was necessary to be at least fourteen years of age, and possess some primary training.

A circular issued in 1856 remarked about the "wide range of instruction", which consisted of English Literature, Mathematics, and the Natural Sciences. Attendance was exclusively for state residents, and a limit of 80 students was set. According to the State Board, it was a huge undertaking.

One day in the Spring of 1857, a farmer hitched up the team and brought five boys to the dedication of the college. The school was a source of amazement to the young boys because of the fact that there were so many buildings (Saints Rest, College Hall, and a brick barn which had been erected among the trees and huckleberry bushes).

The first class met in the open air, and the first assignment was to clean up the rubbish which had resulted from the construction of the college buildings. A few crops were planted, including the famous M.A.C. turnip patch. One of the boys set out to sow turnips where the Women's Building now stands. In spite of the time and labor demanded in acquiring this type of education, the students managed to squeeze in a little amusement. They found the Female Seminary, located in Lansing, quite convenient, and spent many evenings there husking corn.

It was very soon found necessary to lay down a set of laws governing the boys' activities, and the authorities made it known that they frowned upon the use of tobacco, any games of chance, and undue physical movings-about on Sunday.

One day two students were robbed of their only shirts by a clothes-line thief and were, consequently forced to withdraw from school. The authorities, however, refusing to allow the enrollment to be so materially decreased, purchased two shirts for the boys out of college funds.

By 1870, there were ten female students attending the college. There was no choice in curricula, however, and they devoted themselves to general Agriculture courses. One of the more useful of these was the exposing of humbug products. "Marie Fontaine's Moth and Freckle Cure—for external only"—was found to be a mixture of rain water and a corrosive sublimate.

Saint's Rest burned in 1876, and $25,000 for the erection of Wells Hall had to be raised. The building was a great undertaking and hand-in-hand with it went the necessity of maintaining order. In 1884 student government was instigated. In the same year, carp were planted in the botanical gardens. The carp later escaped, but student government proved to be in a different class and remained. I believe we still have it even now.

In 1885, the college was materially enhanced by the construction of several buildings, namely, an engineering building, the armory, and a veterinary laboratory. The school could now accommodate two hundred and fifty students.

In 1897, co-education was actually sanctioned and Abbot Hall was set aside for the exclusive use of women students. Another important change appeared in the designation of the Summer months for vacation instead of the Winter.

During the period from 1901 to 1910 many important events transpired. The more notable of these were the erection of the Women's Building, the College Hospital, the advent of music as a serious college activity, and the holding of the first annual barbecue. In 1910 a report of considerable interest was circulated; "the Jersey cow, College Queen, gave 17 pounds, 11 ounces of butter fat from 322 pounds 1.6 ounces of milk, at 5 years of age." Truly a remarkable achievement of the college,—pardon me, the cow.

Our present annual Water Carnival had its origin in a college "Circus". Some of the booths carried the imposing titles of "Salome dance hall", and "Rescue Mission for thirsty souls". In the bath house was a side show, exhibiting "Wadji", the fossil bedbug, sole survivor of "Saint's Rest", and Mme. Valeski Awfulitch, the Russian bearded lady.

With the opening of school last Fall term came the usual hustle-bustle excitement peculiar to the beginning of school after a Summer vacation. Friendships were renewed entailing hand-shakings that would have put a presidential reception to shame. The campus was unusually beautiful after its rest, and the thrill experienced upon viewing its fresh green splendor escapes description.

The influx of new students seemed to belie the fact that our dear old Republic was tottering on its economic legs. Freshmen descended on the campus in unprecedented numbers and by the end of the first week, enrollment figures had touched a new top. Organization soon proved its worth, however, and the second-year men came to the front with their new-found superiority. The bright, newly-painted, 35's began to fade under scratching bricks and dusting "pots".

At the first football game, the first-year men were given a chance to display the size of their class, and their snake dance served as a premature celebration of State's 47 to 0 victory over Cornell. The thoughts of the Army game in the offing kept football enthusiasm at the peak, and the day of send-off found the student-body anxious to demonstrate its spirit. A large pep meeting was held at the Gym, after which the students accompanied the team to the train.

With the football season well under way, the co-eds jumped into the limelight with the dedication of their new dormitory, Mary Mayo Hall.

After an elaborate celebration, in which Governor Brucker was the principal speaker, the new building was thrown open for inspection.

Black Friday, that memorable day of dark threats, flying fists, and abductions, and the ensuing Saturday of contest, turned out to be so strenuous that the Student Council declared them to be the last. Several students were confined to the hospital to nurse their bruises while the Freshmen were boasting of their emphatic victory in the class games. On the evening of November 6, the annual barbecue brought the first and second year men together on amicable terms, and the proverbial "hatchet" was buried, at least until warm weather.

The serene appearance of the campus during Winter term was interrupted for a week in February, when Farmers'

Week activities brought crowds of individuals interested in scientific agriculture.

The annual J-Hop drew a large attendance to eclipse all other social activities and substantiate its cognomen of "major party of the year."

With Spring term, the students settled back to contemplate baseball games, canoe trips, and moonlight. Spring term is self-explanatory, at least to those fortunates who have spent one or more at Michigan State. Aside from the natural beauty of our campus, and may I say, our co-eds, the outdoor activities crowd everything else from the social calendar. The Seniors claim most of the attention with their "doings", and the Water Carnival, striking a note of finality if not melancholy, ends the School Year of 1932.

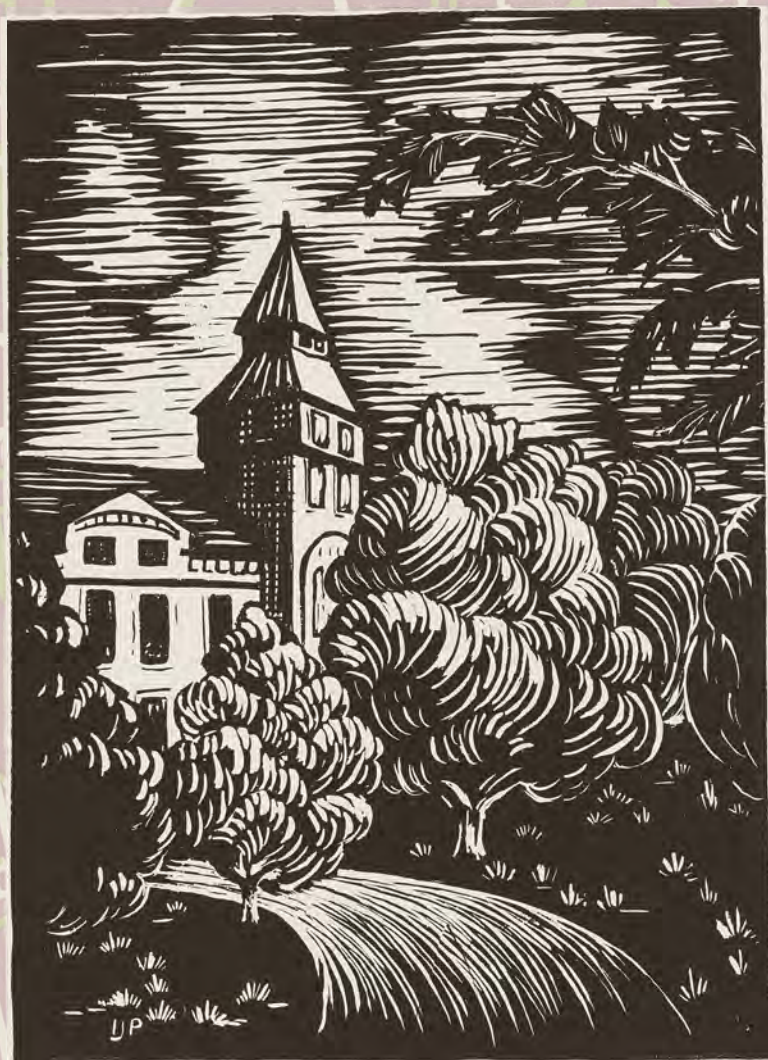

The Old Library

*T*HE Old Library, still present on the campus, aside from being used for a library for the students, housed the office for the President and Secretary of the college. It also served as the museum for the Agricultural, Veterinary, and Engineering divisions of the college.

In the early days of the college the summer term began the first Wednesday in April, terminating on the last Wednesday in October, while the winter term, starting the first Wednesday of December, ended in February.

Students entering the college were required to pass a good examination in Arithmetic, Grammar, Reading, Spelling, and Penmanship. Privileges of attending the college was limited to students of the state only. Eighty students could be accommodated, and were given ample instruction in the Natural Sciences, Chemistry, Mathematics, but Ancient and Modern Languages were not included in the courses offered.

IN THEIR final year at college, members of the senior class assumed the positions as executives for the undergraduate student body. Management of the various student publications and governing boards was delegated to fourth year men, while others filled important positions on athletic teams. The Water Carnival, depicting the history of the College, the appropriate theme chosen to celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of its founding, was arranged and handled entirely by seniors.

THE Junior class began their first year as upperclassmen with a spirit characteristic of every third year class. They were well represented in all athletics, especially in football where they bore the greater part of the burden for the season. Publications and board memberships also had their full quota of juniors.

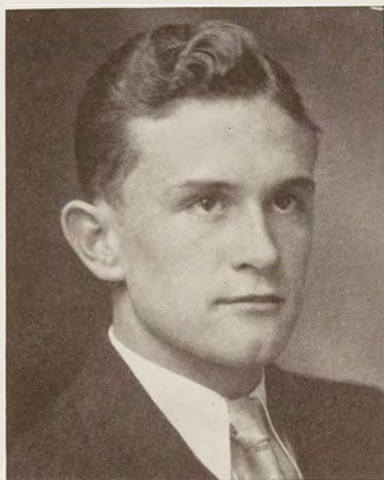

The climax of the social season, the annual J-Hop, was sponsored by the class. Featuring a prominent nationally known orchestra, McKinney's Cotton Pickers, the Hop was held at the Lansing Masonic Temple early in February. Over two hundred and fifty couples, including a galaxy of notable guests, attended the affair.

The decorations, based on a modernistic theme, were extremely elaborate. Purple and gold paneling covered the four walls, while a canopy of maroon and black formed a false ceiling over the entire floor. Original indirect lighting effects were secured by flood and spot lights.

Don Fisk, president of the class, and Jane Stockton, his partner, led the grand march. The favors for the party were highly artistic, being composition wall placques with picture of the Beaumont Memorial Tower in colors set in bold relief. Dance programs were also distinctive.

With special permission for all co-eds, the J-Hop gave five full hours for entertainment. From the time the party started, until 3:30 when the orchestra left the room amid a round of genuine applause, the floor was crowded.

LAST year's freshman class returned to college in the Fall term with renewed vigor and zest. Athletic teams were well represented by second-year men, particularly football and cross country.

Greatly outnumbered, the sophomores lost the Class Rush to the new class, but displayed a worthy spirit in their defeat. A month later, the class sponsored the annual Barbecue, acting as hosts to the other three classes. The traditional hatchet was buried with due ceremony, depicting the end of rivalry between the two lower classes. Tom Warner was general chairman of the event.

The class sponsored its first social affair for the year when it gave the Fall Term Party. Leonard Montgomery was chairman. The event proved a success, being well attended.

Sophomores continued their affiliations with many student activities during the winter term, acting in various capacities on student boards and publications. The basket ball team had several members who were sophomores.

The Soph Formal held during that term, was popular and was voted one of the best parties of the year. Jack Tichnor was general chairman.

FRANK EMERICK

JOSEPHINE CHAPMAN

The Spring term witnessed Sophomore participation in track and baseball, as well as the non-athletic activities. The Spring party was held May 6 in the Union. Nate Fry's Goldiggers played for a capacity crowd.

THE opening of Freshman Week saw a larger than usual incoming class gathered on the steps of the Gymnasium, ready to begin their college careers. Each newcomer soon acclimated himself to the new conditions and entered into the spirit of the College with the rest of the students in a whole-hearted manner. The Class of '35 became associated in the various extra-curricular activities and soon were identified in every group in which they were eligible to enter.

The annual Class Day was the first event of import to the freshmen. They entered into the competition with the best of spirit and, although rated the "underdogs", showed the world-at-large that they were strong enough to vanquish the Sophomores by a score of 90 to 35.

During Winter term, and also the other periods, the Freshmen class was well represented on many athletic teams. The indoor track group and football squad as well as the other teams succeeded in upholding the traditional records.

Although the class had been considerably reduced in number by Spring term, no lapse in spirit was manifested. The class sponsored its first social function, the Frosh Frolic. The party was held in the Union ballroom and was well attended. The decorations were composed of green and white balloons which formed a false ceiling. Small pagodas, erected along the wall, further enhanced the Spring theme. Ozz Kelley and his orchestra provided the music for dancing.

Transportation

*"When half the toilsome way was passed,
We rested by the stone
Within whose cleft a cherry pit had Taken root and grown—"*

MICHIGAN AGRICULTURE COLLEGE was located in the early days three miles east of the village of Lansing upon a seven hundred acre farm which, when purchased, cost fifteen dollars an acre.

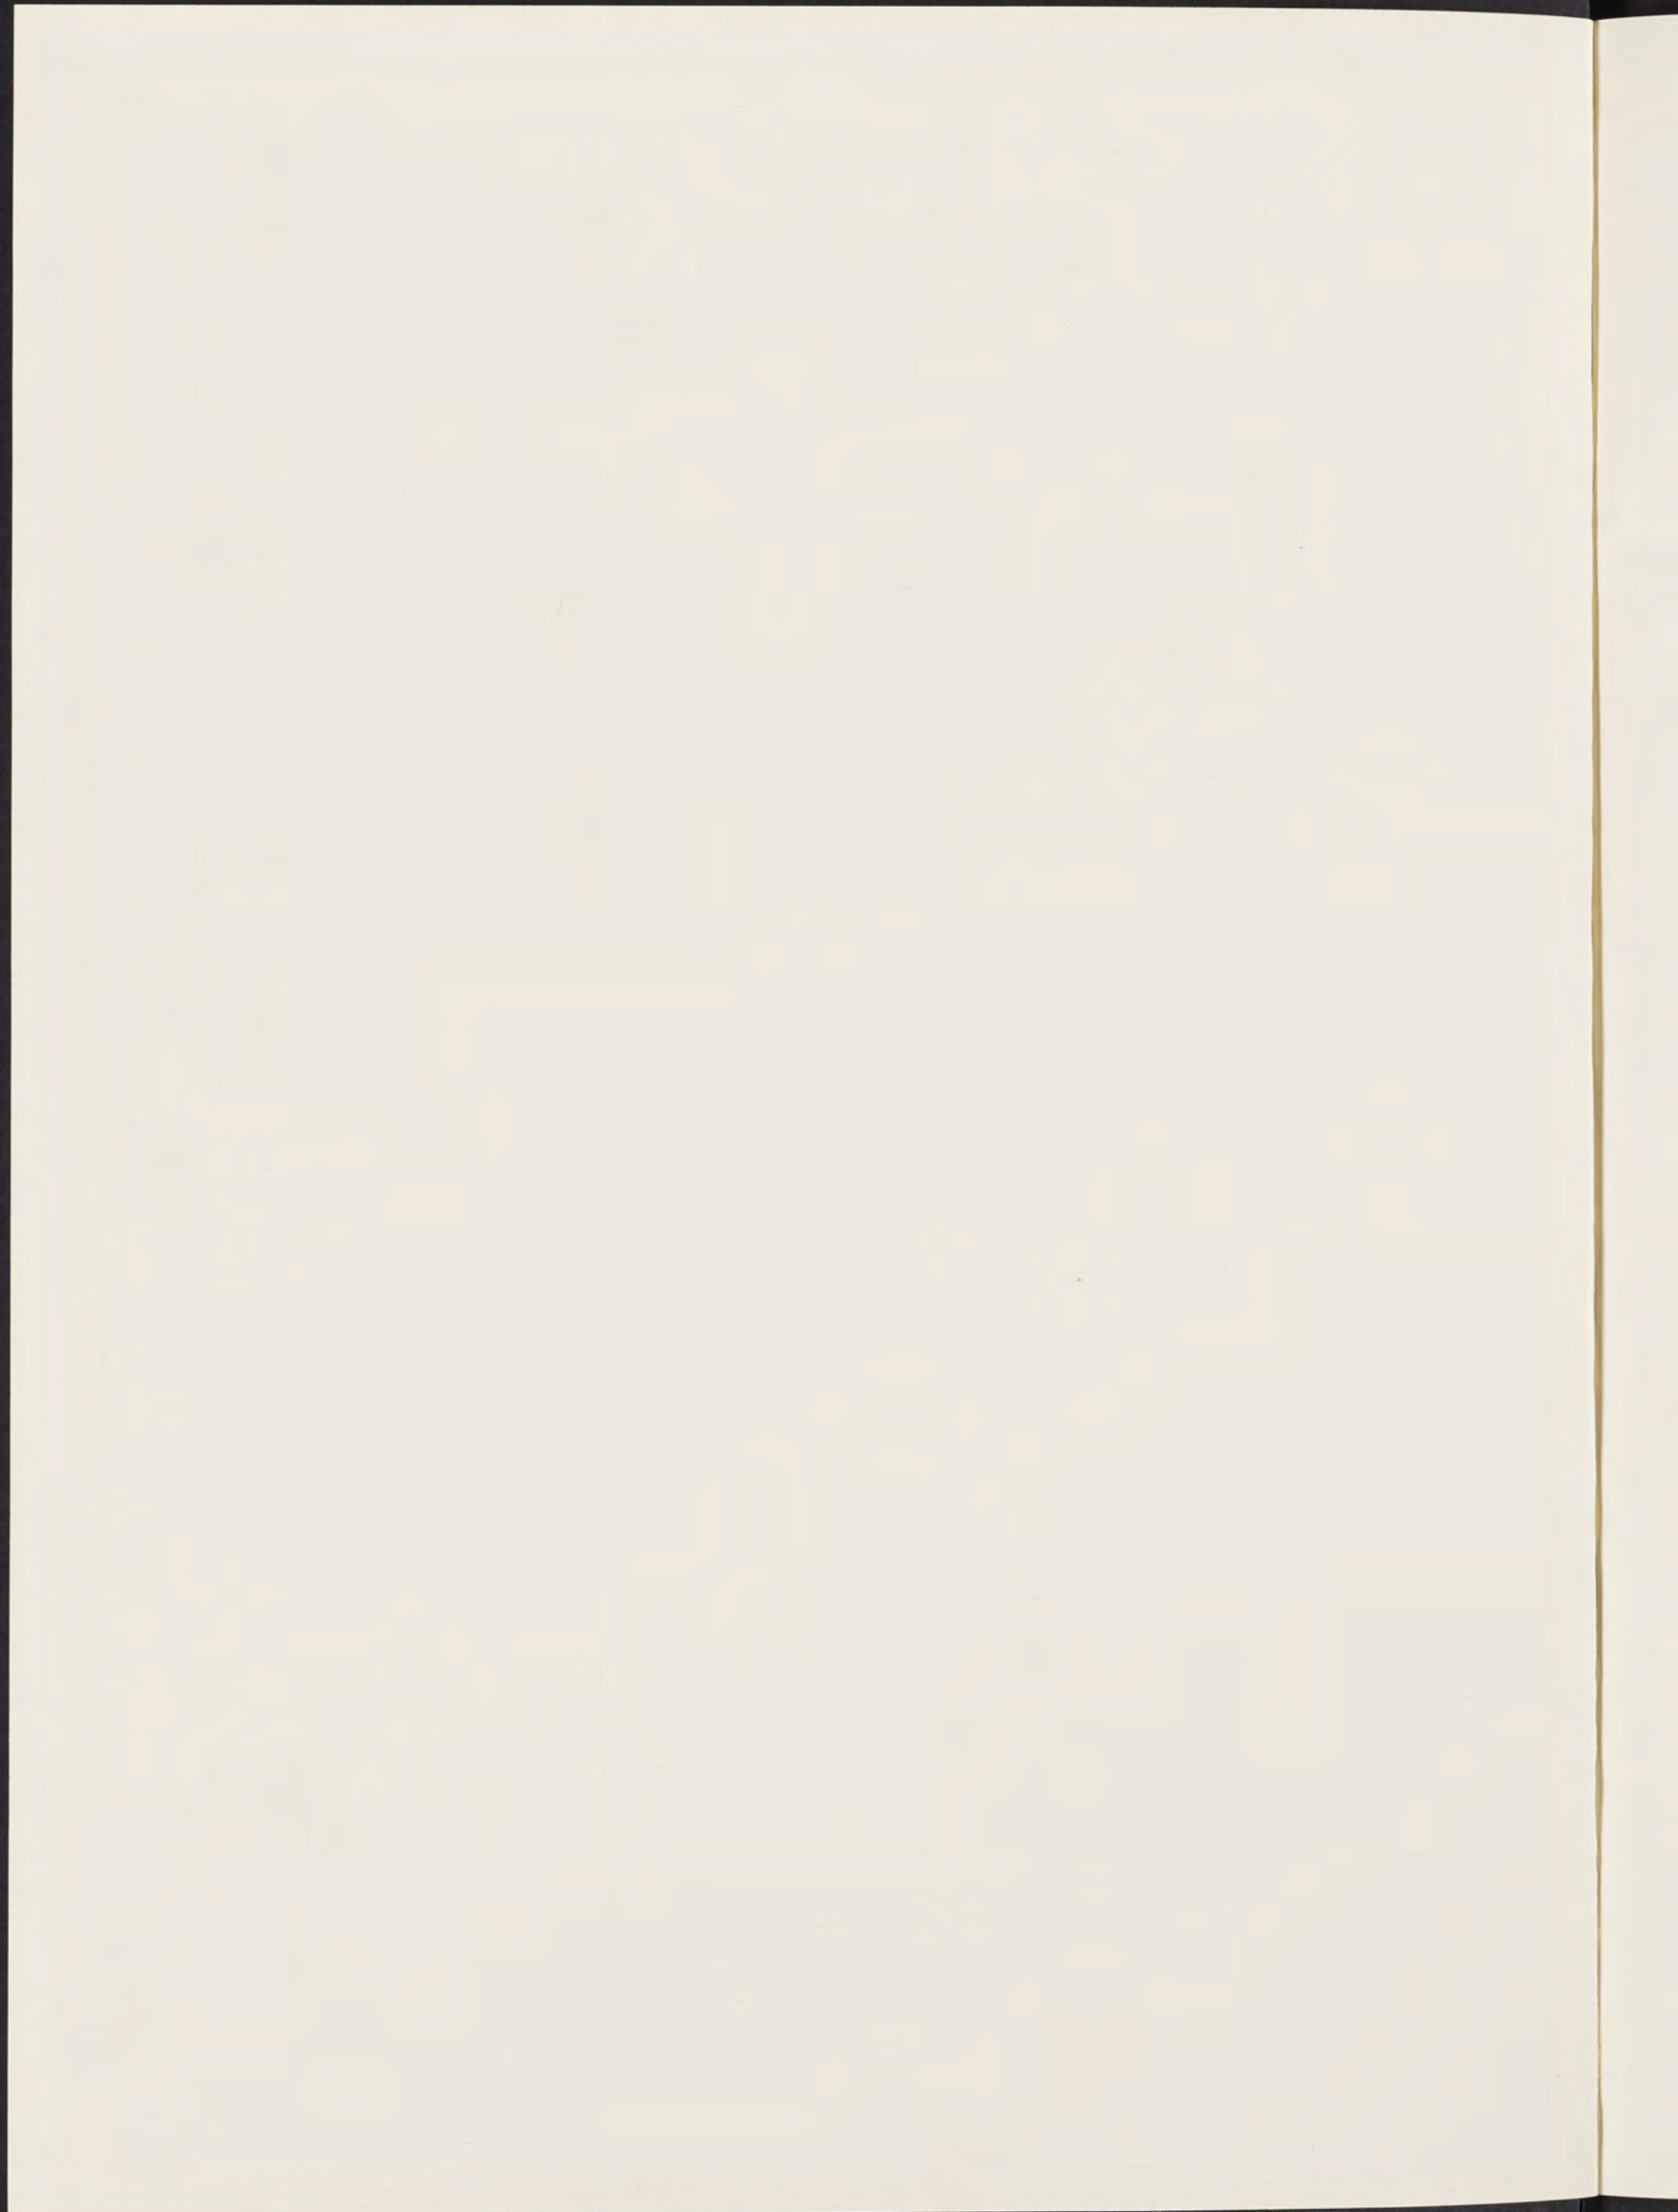

An embarrassing feature of the college was the lack of transportation. Started in the woods nearly thirty miles from a railroad, with terrible wagon roads intervening, there were no models to follow, and getting to classes was really difficult.

There were no means of transportation to the college and students in Lansing either walked the three miles or remained at home. The "half-way stone", the resting place, is now situated outside the Union.

With the installation of electricity, transportation facilities were greatly aided and finally a street car was run right on the campus.

NEVER in its history has Michigan State figured so prominently in football circles. Coach Crowley has raised the team to one of the leading contenders for national honors.

The spirit, cooperation, and teamwork were so great this year that no one man stood out above his teammates. Several people, however, were classed by critics as unusually well developed in their especial department. Monnett was designated and even chosen by some experts as All-American material. The speedy half-back was by far one of the most outstanding ball carriers in the mid-west and was second in the nation in scoring. Abe Eliowitz, crashing fullback, punter, signal caller, ball carrier, and general all-around man in the backfield, was voted the most valuable man on the team by his teammates. In the Michigan game he kicked on a par with Jack Heston, generally conceded as the greatest punter of all time. When Captain Milt Gross ran nearly sixty yards to capture an Army football man who seemed to be headed for a certain touchdown, he caused a furor among the sports writers.

Michigan State 74, Alma 0

Opening their third year under the James Crowley regime, the Spartans gave early show of promise by downing the Presbyterians of Alma in the season's opener with little difficulty. The game produced some ragged football on the part of both teams, but State's superiority was clearly displayed by their ability to score almost at will.

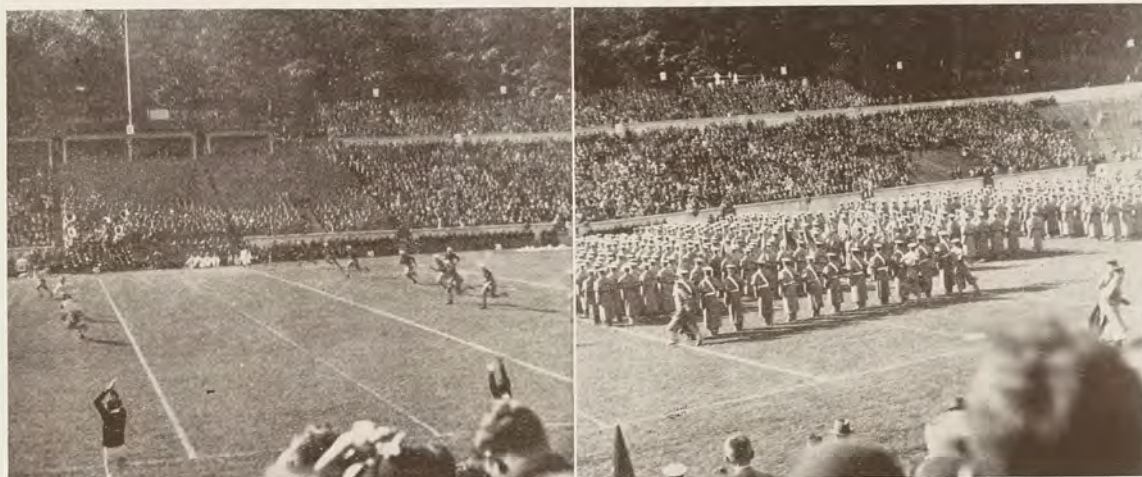

The lineup for the opening game was the one that Crowley used almost exclusively throughout the entire season. This team gained the reputation of being "iron men" because of the few times substitutions were made in the games.

Michigan State 47, Cornell College, Ia. 0

The Spartans were given a rest while the reserves took over the duty of trimming Cornell College after the first string had been in long enough to score about three fourths of the points. Cornell played a plucky game but was hopelessly outclassed by the heavier Michigan State team.

Bob Monnett made a 55 yard run for a touchdown, and an 85 yard run for another during this game. The latter was called back, however, because of off-side play. The elusive Eliowitz got off to a flying start by carrying the ball 103 yards for a touchdown. This was one of the longest runs made in modern football history.

Michigan State 7, Army 20

When the Spartans trotted out on Michie Field, Saturday, Oct. 3, they were bucking years of tradition. Never had the Army team suffered defeat on this field, and Army had a decided advantage in number of capable reserves. A plucky, and hopeful, as well as inspired State team fought with all odds against it, and went through the battle of the afternoon, holding the highly-touted Army team to three touchdowns and scoring one itself.

Only once could the Army team be said to have shown an advantage over Michigan State. During the closing minutes of the first half, an entire Army backfield and ends were substituted by fast reserves, who opened up a passing attack that was bewildering.

Robert Monnett showed that he could make long runs even against major opponents, when early in the third quarter with the Spartans trailing 13 to 0, he picked his way through the Army line and rushed 63 yards with perfect interference for a touchdown.

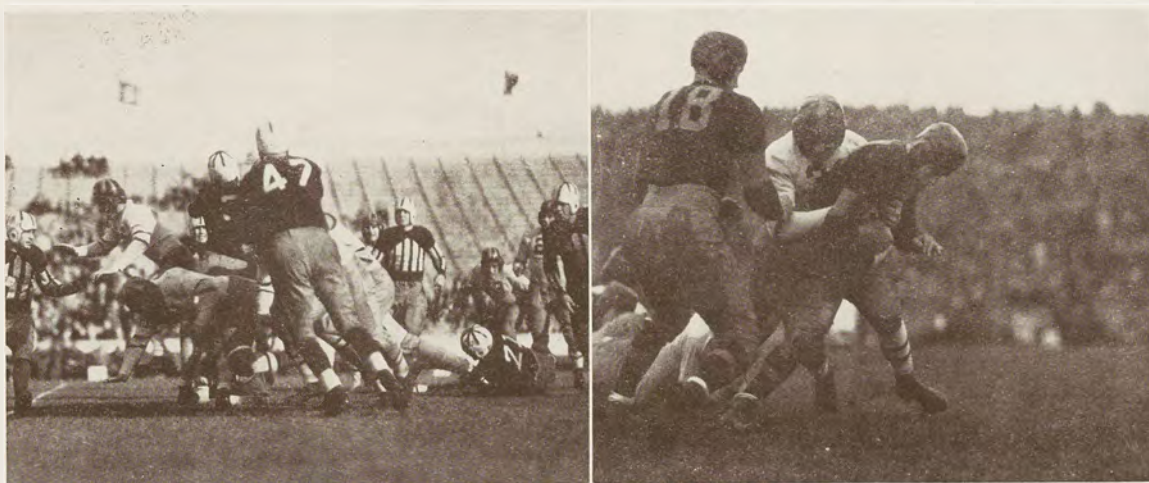

When State's eleven players held the Army with its frequent substitutions, "iron men" was the only name that could appropriately be applied to the team.

Though the cadets succeeded in scoring twenty points, they were outrushed from scrimmage by State, the Spartan ball carriers made 123 yards, while the Army made only 91.

Monnett, Kowatch, Meiers, Haun

Michigan State 34, Illinois Wesleyan 7

Tired and battered after the Army encounter, the Michigan State team depended upon its reserves to bear the brunt of the attack against Illinois Wesleyan, a small but powerful team.

Monnett, for the short while that he stayed in the game, led the scoring for the day. Bernard "Bruiser" McNutt, huge man-mountain full back, was the outstanding reserve.

Michigan State 6, Georgetown 0

Early in the first quarter Eliowitz scored a touchdown. This score was the only one of the game, though Michigan State threatened at several other times.

Rather a disappointment, the Georgetown game gave the fans nothing definite as to the abilities of the State team. The Spartans were given no opportunity to show just what they could do.

Again, Crowley's Iron Men did outstanding work. The game was a sweet revenge for the defeat suffered at the hands of the Georgetown team a year ago.

Michigan State 10, Syracuse 15

The homecoming game of the 1931 season was celebrated before a near-capacity crowd. Though the game did not end in a victory for State, it was one of the best games that Michigan State played.

Syracuse, producing about its best team in years, was on edge for the State game, and even though the Spartans took an early lead and threatened to hold it throughout the contest, the Orange did not fold up, but fought until the end, and were able to take the contest.

Leading 10 to 7 at the half, State looked like a sure winner when it came out on the field at the start of the second half, but Ellert, fleet Syracuse Captain and back, maneuvered his team through several brilliant runs into a victory. A safety late in the game raised the Syracuse total to 15.

Monnett again distinguished himself by scoring all of the points for the team.

Michigan State 100, Ripon 0

Clearly a breather in a tough schedule, the game with the small Ripon, Wisconsin, College team turned out to be a track meet for both the varsity and reserves.

When the reserves took over the game, it turned out to be a runaway. Scoring at will and making runs of all lengths, the entire Michigan State team enjoyed a field day.

Monnett and Eliowitz were able to boost their total scores for the season and Monnett became the leading scorer in the country.

Fase, Jones, Eliowitz, Buss

Michigan State 0, Michigan 0

For the second time in as many years the Michigan State football team appeared at Yost Field in Ann Arbor and held the men of Harry Kipke to a scoreless tie.

This year the weather was anything but conducive of good football, and fans who are determined to argue are still wondering and debating the outcome of the game if the weather had been favorable.

The rain hindered running as well as passing and early in the contest both teams resorted to punting.

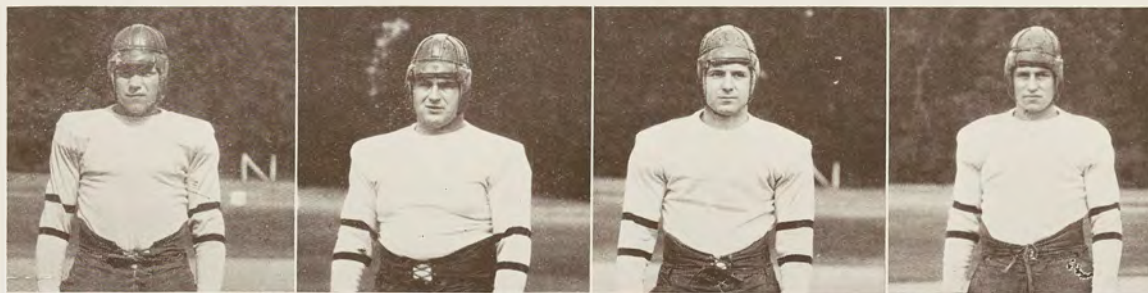

Trying bitterly for a score, both teams at times played loose football, resulting in numerous costly fumbles.

Michigan State came near to pushing over a score when on the third play of the game Hudson, Michigan's captain, fumbled and State recovered on the Wolverine 16-yard line. One play at the line failed and on the next play, Kowatch fumbled and Michigan recovered.

The trusty toe of Abe Eliowitz helped State. Eliowitz outpunted Jack Heston, star Wolverine sophomore, throughout the game.

The running game was entirely done away with during the afternoon. Monnett succeeded in bringing the ball from his own 19-yard line to the Wolverine 41-yard mark in two jaunts, but the half ended.

Crowley used very few substitutes. The starting eleven bore the brunt of the attack against the frequent changes made in the Michigan line-up. At no time during the game did the Spartan first team weaken to any perceptible degree.

Vandermeer, Brunette, Gross, Handy.

Michigan State 13, University of Detroit 21

Michigan State dropped its final contest of the year with the University of Detroit at Dinan field. Although they held the upper hand throughout the major portion of the contest, the Spartans were the victims of several bad breaks and the superb running of "Rocky" Parsaca, Detroit flash.

Michigan State drew the first blood when Eliowitz ran twenty-eight yards for a touchdown shortly after the game started. At the half the Detroit team was leading Michigan State 7 to 6.

Starting the second half, the Spartans wasted no time scoring a touchdown. Monnett kicked the goal and Michigan State was leading. Rocky Parsaca rushed for a touchdown and kicked the point.

The contest was sewed up finally when Parsaca again dashed for about sixty yards and made the final score of the day. He again kicked goal.

The weary Spartans made a determined comeback in the waning minutes of the game, but their drive was futile, the gun ending a determined attack and a successful season.

A TEAM comparing favorably to that of 1931 was developed by coach Ben F. Van Alstyne during the year 1932. Led by Pinneo and Boeskool, co-captains, the State squad overcame the handicap of the loss of three outstanding players of the year before and came through in a remarkable style.

State won twelve out of the fourteen first games, then tired by five games in a row, each of which went one or more overtime periods, she lost the next three for a total of twelve wins to five defeats.

DEE PINNEO

The first game of the season, with Alma college, was taken easily by the Spartan five. Almost every man on the squad saw service as coach Van Alstyne looked his material over. The final score of the game was State 39, Alma 12. The starting lineup was Pinneo forward, Boeskool center, McCaslin forward, Kircher guard and Vondette guard.

The second game of the season, however, was more unfortunate for State. Not yet thoroughly shaken down and as polished as later, the team lost to the University of Michigan, 27 to 5. Again Pinneo, Boeskool, McCaslin, Kircher and Vondette started the game, with practically the whole team getting a chance before the season was over.

Following Christmas vacation the team celebrated the new year by taking Ohio University into camp, 29-15. The game was close and exciting, and not until the last period was more than half way over did the Spartan quintet obtain a comfortable lead. Boeskool was the scoring leader of the game, scoring nine points, with Pinneo helping with seven.

The following night Cornell was humbled in another close and exciting game. Pinneo scored 11 points which with Boskool's 5 and Kircher's 5 and the able support of the other members put State out in front to the tune of 29 to 26. Right up until the final gun the game was in doubt, and it took Pinneo's long throw to decide the game.

Western Reserve was the next victim in another close game. The score was tied with only a few minutes to play when Kircher sunk a long one to win for State 17 to 15. Boeskool and Pinneo were tied for scoring honors for the game with four points apiece.

In one of the most thrilling games of the season Notre Dame defeated State 28 to 25. The game was close and exciting and it was not until the final seconds of the game that Notre Dame scored twice in succession to overcome a State lead and win the game. Vondette and Kircher were the scoring leaders of the game with ten and seven points respectively. It was their long toms which kept State in the running until the closing minutes.

After this defeat State struck her winning stride and started a series of eight victories by defeating Xavier, 22 to 20 in another close and exciting game. McCaslin, regular forward, was out of the game on account of injuries and his place was ably filled by Keast. The game was fierce and fast and was characterized by a little roughness at times. Boeskool's one-handed shot just before the gun put State in the lead.

The second victim of the winning streak was the University of Detroit who was defeated by the score 22 to 13. State had sweet revenge in this for her earlier defeat in football at Detroit. The game was fast and not until the second half of the game did State get into the lead. McCaslin was high scorer of the game with thirteen points, the season's record for points scored in one game.

The following week Colgate University was taken to the tune of 30 to 21. This game saw the return of oldtime form in the State camp and the team looked every bit as good as the team of 1931. McCaslin was the scoring leader of the game with eight points. Vondette also had seven points, and Boeskool five.

The following night Colgate, in the second game of the series staged a comeback and very nearly won. The game went into an overtime period with State finally coming out on top, 29 to 28. In the overtime period Vondette sank a long tom and Colgate made a foul to let State win by the slender margin of one point.

The next game, with Kalamazoo, was characterized by loose playing on both sides. State missed many easy dog shots and their passing of the ball was a bit off. McCaslin was high scorer of the game with eight points with Boeskool next with six. The score was 17 to 9.

In the next game State scored a revenge over the University of Michigan for the defeat earlier in the season by defeating them 14-13. The game was fast and furious and went to two overtime periods. The score was tied at eleven all when the regular period was over and Boeskool's basket was matched by the University. Then in the final period Kircher sank a foul to put State out in front by the margin of one point. Boeskool was high scorer with six points with Kircher next with three.

Marquette University gave State its second double overtime period game a week later. State was ahead until a few minutes before the end of the regular time and went into a stall but Marquette broke through and scored to tie the game up. In the first overtime period Kircher sank a long tom to match a basket by Marquette and the score was again tied. Then in the final period Boeskool sank a one-handed shot to win for State 25-23. Kircher was high scorer of the game with eight points. Boeskool had four and Pinneo six.

Tired by these long hard games, the team had to put up a terrific struggle to win from the University of Detroit, 35 to 34 in another overtime game a week later. The team was behind until the final few seconds of play when Boeskool sank a basket, followed by one by Duffield to tie the game up and send it into an overtime period, the seventh in five games. In this Vander-Roest made a basket, followed by a foul for Detroit and State won by one point. Boeskool sank five baskets for a total of ten points and high score with Pinneo next with nine.

Tired by this series of overtime games State was fated to lose the next three in a row. On Xavier's home floor she was defeated in an overtime period by the score 24 to 31. State showed up as good or better than Xavier in the early part of the game but in the last half and in the overtime period the effects of hard games and overtime periods wore them down to make it easy for Xavier. Vondette was high scorer for state with seven points with Boeskool and McCaslin tied for second place with five.

The next Monday night State was defeated by Notre Dame on their floor 28 to 20. Again State was good until the half, but, worn down by too many hard games, she succumbed in the second half and was defeated by eight points. Pinneo was high scorer with eight points.

In the last game of the year, at Marquette University at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, State was outfought by a hard fighting, fresher team. State was defeated to the tune of 18 to 43. Pinneo, Boeskool, and Vondette each had four points and Patchett made one basket. The game, although one sided, was no runaway, the team being just too exhausted to play at top speed.

Although Coach Scott did not have a winning season he developed some good material for next year. Practically every man on the squad got a chance to play.

*Game called at end of ninth inning, rain.

Griffin Bunts

THE 1931 baseball season for Michigan State was successful not only from the standpoint of wins and losses, but also from the view that nine of the letter winners on the team were playing their first year of college baseball and will have two more years on the Spartan diamond team. This fact promises a strong team for Michigan State for the next two years.

Though Michigan State won only thirteen games while dropping nine, the schedule was one of the toughest ever attempted by a Spartan baseball team. Not only that, but a majority of the games were played under strain of constant competition.

The infield was by far the weakest spot on the team. Many games were dropped because of poor fielding and at times, when pitchers had hurled nearly perfect ball, they would be forced to suffer defeat only because of lack of support.

Hitting was above average. The all-sophomore outfield displayed some punch at the bat that made its threat in every game played.

Three games were postponed because of rain. One of the games with Mississippi A. and M. was not played while the team was on its southern trip, while two games with Notre Dame were postponed during the regular playing season because of rain. This was the first time in several years that a Michigan State baseball team had not played with a team representing the Ramblers.

Sports enthusiasts on the campus were given a bit of baseball as played by Oriental exponents of the game when the Hosei University team of Japan came for a two game series. The Japs proved that the game as played in Japan is not much different than that played in the United States by taking the Kobs men down in both games.

Previous to their encounter with State, the Hosei team had lost some close games because of their not being acclimated to Michigan weather. When they reached East Lansing the weatherman prescribed some real Japanese weather, for the Hosei team played errorless, flawless ball, and hit the pellet to all parts of the field with ease.

Phenominal plays on the part of the Hosei fielders robbed Michigan State of several easy chances to score in both games, and the Jap pitchers seemed to take a delight in seeing Michigan State's sluggers wave futilely at the ball.

Outstanding during the season was the winning of the third series in as many years from the University of Michigan. For the past three years State has won two games from the University while dropping only one. Just as the Spartan football team has rather tough rowing against the Michigan gridders, so the Michigan Baseballers have a hard time to win a series from Michigan State. In the three game series Charles Griffin and Captain Bud Gibbs distinguished themselves. Griffin winning two contests on the mound, and Gibbs doing spectacular work at the plate.

Heavy hitting resulted in the signing of Captain Gibbs by the Detroit Tigers at the end of the Michigan State season, and the State captain played the remainder of the summer with Evansville and Wheeling, West Virginia. He displayed the same kind of baseball in professional play as he did in college and is considered by sports writers as future major league material. He was the second Michigan State college player to advance to the majors within the past few years.

Splitting their six game series with southern teams on their southern trip, the Spartans came home to start a winning streak of five games. This streak was terminated by the double defeat administered by the Hosei team. The Kobsmen took two games before starting on a trip to Chicago which ended in defeats at the hands of the University of Chicago and Northwestern. Indiana, the other Big Ten team beside Michigan to face State, won and lost a game in a two-game series.

Captain Gibbs led the team in hitting. His long distance clouts were features of nearly every game played by Michigan State. He drove in more runs than any other player with his long hits and proved exceedingly helpful in the pinches. His steady and reliable fielding was also a factor in his being signed by the Detroit ball team.

Abe Eliowitz exchanged his football togs for a baseball uniform and continued to star for the Spartans. He played at first base throughout the season and his powerful bat was a decided advantage to the team.

Charley Griffin and Berwyn Pemberton, two southpaws, the latter a sophomore were the mainstays of the pitching staff, though Harris "Jumbo" Kahl and Gerald McCaslin, also a sophomore, were in the thick of the pitching assignments. These two were right-handers and rounded out a dependable staff of steady hurlers.

Captain-elect John Madonna won the distinction of being the steadiest infielder on the team. He not only handled himself efficiently in the field, but also contributed a number of hits at opportune times. He had a steadying influence on the rest of the infield.

Most of the catching during the season was done by John "Jab" Barnard, who is considered by Coach Kobs as about the best receiver to work under him during his stay at Michigan State. Barnard, in addition to his steady work behind the bat, also had a potent bat that wreaked havoc in the pinches. In several games, the Spartans were able to pull a game out of the fire because of a timely hit by the colorful Barnard.

Gibbs Scores

The spirit of the team was of the finest, though at times the team was apparently in a heavy slump, it was able to come through in crucial moments and do the almost impossible. All of the games that Michigan State dropped after beginning the home season were of the closest kind. Only three of the regular season games were lost by more than one run. Of these the Hosei team took two, defeating the Spartans 5 to 3 and 4 to 1. Indiana won the other with a score of 6 to 3. The remainder of the games with the exception of the second game with the University of Mississippi which was lost 10 to 1, were dropped by one point margins.

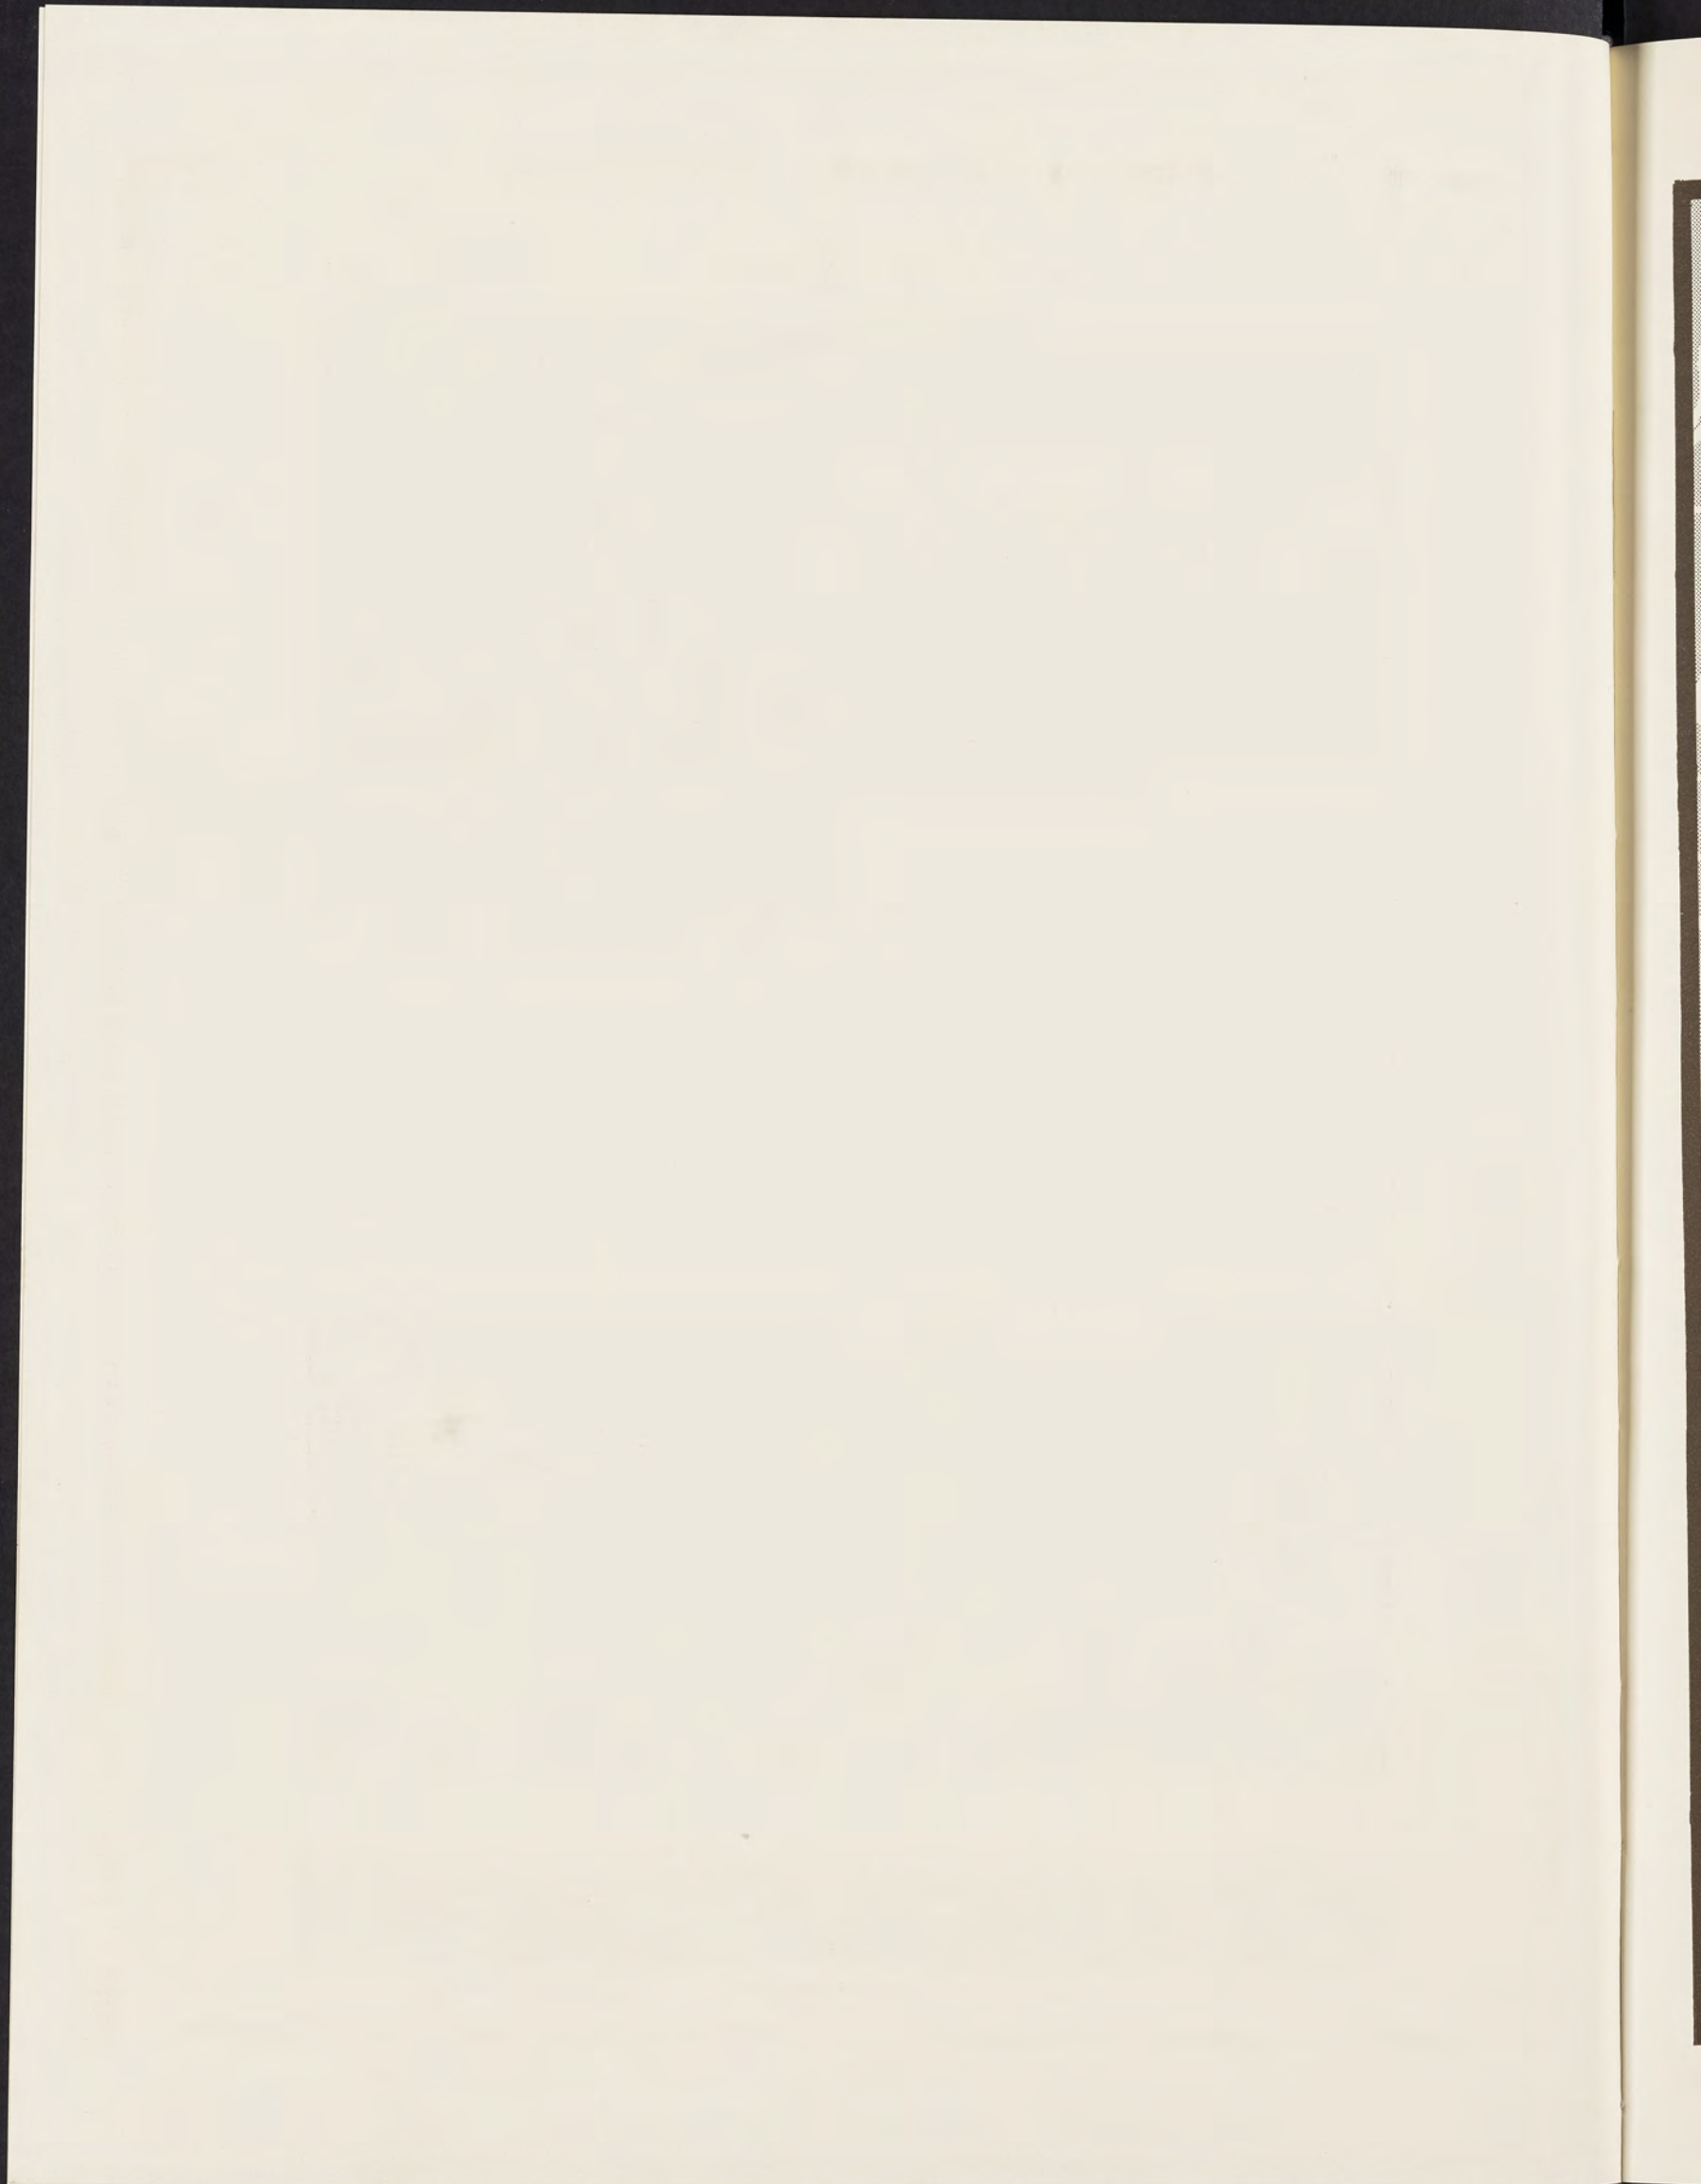

Of the men varsity letter winners only four men will be lost this year. They are Captain Eddie Gibbs, Harris Kahl, Keith Byrne and John Barnard. An entire veteran team will play for Coach Kobs during the 1932 season. A number of sophomores who will be up from the freshman team this year will also help Kobs considerably.

Varsity Track

THE Michigan State track team for 1931 was one of the most successful of the last few years. In the indoor season the team won three out of three dual meets and finished well to the top in the various intercollegiate meets in which contestants were entered.

In the outdoor season the team made an enviable record. The team showed up especially strong in the distance events and it is to the consistent performance in these events that the team owes its fine record.

CLARK S. CHAMBERLAIN

CLARK S. CHAMBERLAIN remains a constant source of surprise to those who knew him when he first entered college. He had absolutely no high school athletic experience of any kind; he appeared to be a decidedly poor prospect from every angle.

Nevertheless, in spite of his ludicrous form and extremely frail physique his progress the first year was slow and steady, and his initial appearances in inter-collegiate competition consisted of a series of sharp defeats.

He climaxed his 1930 cross-country season by winning the I. C. A. A. championship at Van Courtlandt Park, New York, running the rain-soaked six-mile course in 30:19. The 1931 cross-country season proved his championship caliber, for, after losing his I. C. A. A. title to Dean of Pennsylvania in a heartbreaking battle at the finish, he came back a week later to capture the National Senior A. A. U. six-mile cross-country championship in the remarkable time of 29:42.

In spite of his acquired speed, Chamberlain is a true long-distance runner. He runs nearly flat-footed and at full speed there is little change in his style. The most remarkable thing about his performance seems to be his amazing versatility, for in 70 competitive inter-collegiate meets he placed in all and won 44 races. Clark broke 29 records—over 45 miles in record breaking time! He ran the two-mile in 9:18.6 and the mile in 4:16.8.

INDOOR TRACK

In the first indoor meet of the season Michigan State defeated the University of Chicago 58-2/3 to 36-1/3. In this meet Chamberlain set a new Varsity and meet record for the mile, 4:26.8. The distance events were almost swept by State.

In the second meet Marquette University gave the team a hard struggle before being defeated 58½ to 50½. In the distance Chamberlain repeated his triumph of the week before, taking both the mile and two mile. Smith set a new Varsity record in the high jump.

The third meet was even closer, Michigan State 55, Ohio Wesleyan 54. Again State shone in the distances and in the weights and field events. Chamberlain set a new varsity record for the two mile run 9:44.1 and Mears of Ohio Wesleyan set a new gymnasium record for the forty yard low hurdles.

In the fifth annual track and field meet at Notre Dame on March 5-6 Michigan State came in second, being defeated only by Notre Dame. The following week at the University of Illinois indoor relay, several members of the team took several second places and two fourths. Chamberlain took second place in the two mile and Russell, Yarger and Bath each took fourth place in their respective heats in the 75 yard high hurdles.

OUTDOOR TRACK

In the first outdoor meet with Detroit City College, State repeated her triumphs indoors and defeated them, 78 to 53. As inside, the team was strong in the distance with Chamberlain especially excelling in the mile and two mile.

On May 9, The University of Detroit was defeated 80 to 51. The team repeated their triumph of the week before and carried their traditional rivals to overwhelming defeat.

May 22 the Sixth Annual Intercollegiate Meet was held at Milwaukee, Wisconsin. The team was third in a field of six with 32½ points.

At the Drake Relays, Chamberlain, the only entrant from M. S. C. set a new record to win the two miles. And on May 2 at the Ohio Relays, State was again

In the National Intercollegiate Meet at Chicago, Olson took fourth in the pole vault, Yarger fourth in the 120 low hurdles and Chamberlain won the two mile run.

In the Chicago Herald-Examiner A. A. U. Meet, the 27th of June, Yarger took first and Bath second in the 120 yard low hurdles, Liberty second in the 220 yd. low hurdles, Warren won the quarter mile and Olsen won the Pole Vault. A week later at the National A. A. U. Championships, Warren and Olsen failed to place in their events and Chamberlain came in fifth in the two-mile after spraining his ankle while in the lead.

Varsity Cross Country

MICHIGAN STATE in 1932 duplicated her feats in cross country of 1931. Led by Captain Clark Chamberlain the team won two out of three dual meets, defeating Butler University and the University of Michigan. To the University of Notre Dame, the team lost by the slender margin of one point.

In the national I. C. A. A. A. A. run at New York, Chamberlain was second to Dean of Pennsylvania but came back two weeks later to defeat him and capture the National Senior A. A. U. run at Ypsilanti.

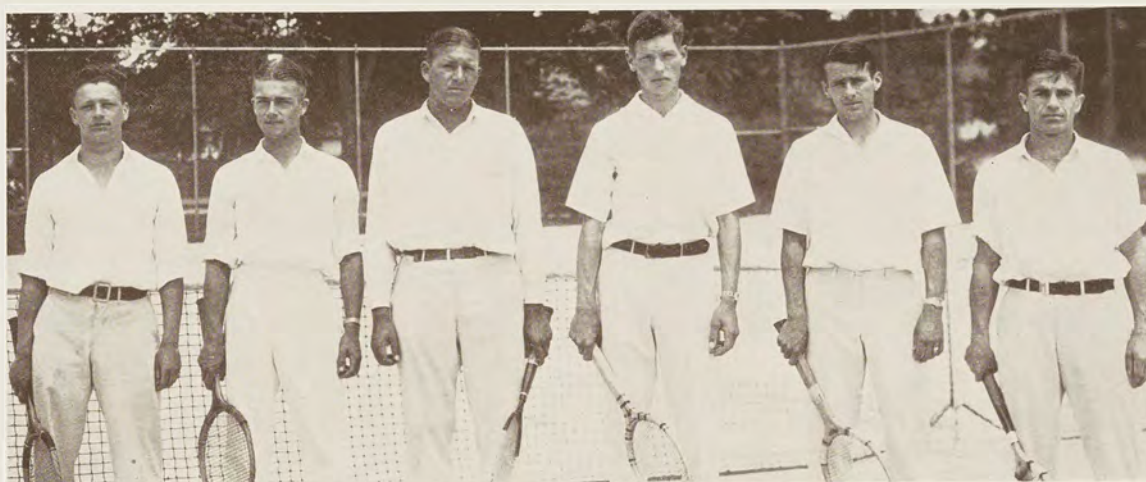

This was Chamberlain's last year of competition in cross country and one of the most successful that he has had. He has done much to insure a place for Michigan State in the roll of distance runners.

Student Labor

WHEN the Michigan Agricultural College was first founded, all the students spent part of their day doing manual labor. Certain hours each day were spent working in the fields as supplementary work to their studies. This practical work taught them how to apply the principles which they learned in class. About one hundred and forty acres of land were cultivated by the students and in this way they made trials of new implements, tested varieties of seeds, and at the same time raised a great deal of food for the institute. Other labor such as repairing roads, clearing and logging timber from the college land was also done by the students. This combination of study and work was a new and dangerous experiment, but its paramount object was to enable a student to support himself by his own labor while obtaining an education.

THE 1932 Wolverine wants to express its appreciation to the members in the senior class who during their four years at Michigan State College have done the most valuable work in extra curricular activities. For this purpose, the Wolverine staff selected sixteen students who, according to our information, were the most eligible for this honor. Early in February the student body elected these preceding eight people.

There are many other seniors who have served Michigan State College, but our space was limited, so we could only honor these few. We want, however, to give honorable mention to the following seniors:

Jack Green	Frank Conover
Curnel Hampton	John Madonna
Marion Lee	Sara Mae Shaw
George Merkel	Maxine Sturgeon
Snover Sargeant

Williams Hall

*W*ILLIAMS HALL, named after the first president, was the first building erected on the campus for the sole purpose of a boarding hall. At that time it was found necessary that the college furnish boarding places for the students. The building was large enough to accomodate eighty-eight students providing they lived about four in a room. The building had a parlor and a large dining room in the basement where all of the students and some of the faculty ate in common. The one fault of the building which was later realized was that it was not divided into wards as is the present Wells Hall.

Student Council

THE Student Council is the governing body of the Michigan State College student body. It is composed of elected representatives from each of the classes, the four class presidents, the editor of the Michigan State News, the president of the Varsity Club, and a representative of the Inter-Fraternity council. The organization acts as an intermediary in all student-faculty affairs, has charge of all college events, and executes the functions of student government.

In its administration of the past year the Student Council lists among its accomplishments: the abolition of the Freshman-Sophomore class rush, together with all forms of hazing, the setting up of a more practical and a better enforced student activity system, the establishment of orderly student elections with faculty supervision, and the adoption of a new constitution which enlarges the powers of the Council and brings student government more up to date.

THE Associated Women Student's Organization is composed of all the women students on the campus represented by a council of eleven, elected by the members. The purpose of this association is to regulate all matters pertaining to the student social life, to further the spirit of unity among the women, and to increase their sense of responsibility in making and keeping a high social standard.

A. W. S. puts forth an extra effort each year to make Freshman Week a success. They hold mass meetings, carry out judicial work and give teas, etc., aiding the Freshmen in getting acquainted. This year in their attempt to make easier for each new girl her adjustment to her new surroundings, they organized the movement of "Freshman Councillor" and carried it out.

This year A. W. S. has a new system of signing out slips and of special permission. As an experiment they tried one o'clock permission on Saturday nights for formal parties. Through a joint committee of A. W. S. and the Student Council the point system was revised. With the assistance of other groups on the campus, they sponsored the Co-ed Prom and Lantern Night. They were able to send two representatives, Dorothy Prideaux and Anthenia Andros, to the A. W. S. convention at Vermillion, South Dakota.

They are looking forward with especial pleasure to the coming year and they are enthusiastically planning to make it one well worth while. They are planning an interesting orientation week, and to work for better convocations and to give Freshman teas.

SUPERVISION of all official college publications, as regards their management, finances and staffs, is the duty of the Board of Publications. Composed of college officials, faculty members and student executives, this organization guides the destiny of the Michigan State News, the Wolverine and the Michigan Agriculturist.

Questions of policy and practice are freely discussed at the meetings of the group which are held periodically when needed.

Since the finances of all three publications are now handled through the College, the Comptroller, Mr. C. O. Wilkins, was added to the Board this year. His capacity is that of financial advisor to each of the publications.

It is the duty of this Board each year to nominate upon recommendation two candidates for each of the two positions on the three publications. These candidates are then placed on the all-college ballot for the Winter term elections and if successful, serve for the ensuing year.

THE name, Liberal Arts Board, isn't at all suggestive of the real object of this group, whose duty it is to provide a high grade course of lectures for the students of Michigan State College. Years ago when the lecture course was founded, it was called the Artists Course, but at the advent of the Music department, the name was changed to Liberal Arts to avoid confusion. Since the college has no auditorium, the lectures are given in the People's Church. Financial support comes from two sources. The first is a blanket tax of twenty-five cents paid to the lecture course fund by each student every term. This amount was voted by the Student body. The second means of support comes from the admissions paid by non-students.

The committee consists of three faculty advisors and four students.

A splendid course of lectures was secured by this committee and the student body responded with a large attendance. The speakers were:

J. E. Williamson	Will Durant
Louis K. Anspacher	Fritz Krunz

A program for next year has been contracted, and includes Raphael Sabatini, Senator Robert LaFollette, Robert Reynolds, Dr. R. L. Ditman, R. Hon. Lees-Smith besides bringing back Will Durant.

THE Union building is a club house for students, alumni and faculty of Michigan State College. It was built by the alumni and students through subscription and gifts, but is still incomplete.

The building was constructed in 1924 and has since been the home of the Wolverine, Michigan State News, Student Council and several other groups that meet regularly.

The Union is governed by a board of directors made up of students, alumni and faculty and has for its regular activities; a billiard tournament, annual dramatic production, matinee dances, Union parties, smokers, visiting team welcomes, art exhibits, etc.

The Club house is made up of lounge rooms, cafeteria, soda grill, main information desk, billiard room, hotel rooms, ballroom, barber shop, beauty shop, and dining rooms.

Every student is a member of the Union during the time he or she is in school; but must pay a life membership fee to continue after graduation. Faculty and alumni make up the life membership.

THE Agricultural Council of Michigan State College was organized in 1927, by a group of ag students who had as their object to support and work for any function or movement that will advance the interests of the Agricultural division. Along this line, therefore, the council sponsors an All-Ag Meeting in the fall; an All-Ag Banquet in the Winter; to present service awards to judging team members; to present an award to the high all-around agricultural student during his or her senior year; and other activities as may need arise.

The membership of the council consists of the Dean and Assistant Dean of Agriculture, ex officio, presidents of the departmental clubs, Master of the Student Grange, editor and business-manager of the Michigan Agriculturist, and a representative from each department not represented by any organization.

This year, besides carrying out the above activities, the council has been very active in sponsoring athletic contests in basketball and baseball between the various clubs in the division. This is another method by which the Ag Council builds up the spirit of better cooperation between the clubs. Without this cooperation from the different clubs, the council would be of no help. Since it has, however, it is doing much in furthering interest in all agricultural lines.

The Wolverine

IF A person happened by a little room on the fourth floor in the Union Building almost any time during the last school year, he would probably have noticed an exceedingly industrious group of men and women. Most noticeable, however, would be the penetrating atmosphere of congenial and purposeful industry.

The aim of this 1932 Wolverine Staff was to construct a year book which in some measure would show the great strides made in the Michigan State College during the last 75 years and give an acceptable portrayal of college events during 1931-32.

We have been able to do this only through the cooperation of the following companies, which we wish to thank for their commendable work: Jahn & Ollier Engraving Company, Chicago; S. K. Smith Cover Company, Chicago; LeClear's Studio, Lansing, and the Franklin DeKleine Printing Company, Lansing.

Michigan State News

FOUNDED in 1909 as the Holcad, a small paper of uncertain frequency, subsequent stormy years have seen the steady advancement of this publication to its present status of a semi-weekly, standard sized newspaper. The expansion of the News in recent years has been comensurate with the rapid growth of the College, and today it ranks among the leading publications of its kind in the country.

The Michigan State News is edited and directed entirely by a student staff headed by executives selected at the all-college winter term elections. There is no practice of faculty editorial censorship. The paper is student-handled from the actual gathering of news, through the routine of office and press room, until the sheet is in the reader's hands.

The News has as its aim a complete coverage of all events of interest to students, while the editorial policy is one which gives its readers concise, unbiased and just interpretations of current problems.

During the past year, the News adopted an editorial platform which clearly stated the goals toward which it strived. Other innovations included a standardization of size and make-up, and the publication of the first "extra", which heralded the acceptance of Michigan State in the American Association of Colleges and Universities.

With the adoption of a new attendance system by this institution, the News realized a truly great editorial "victory". In effect, by accomplishing this goal the staff had succeeded where many others had failed. It had performed a real service to the students of Michigan State College by giving them an answer to a constant demand for a more comprehensive and up-to-date system.

Agriculturist

THE Michigan Agriculturist is a periodical magazine published monthly during the college year by the Agricultural and Home Economic students of Michigan State College and is in all respects, strictly a student publication. The editor and business manager are elected by the agriculture and home economics students at the all-college elections each March. The magazine is circulated among the agriculture students and also reaches the desk of every county agent and the library of every Smith-Hughes high school in the state.

The Agriculturist this year saw its 10th season of success, being founded in 1921. The October issue was made a special anniversary number, commemorating the event. During these 10 years the magazine has risen from mediocrity to a magazine recognized nationally in its field, having placed high in the annual selection made by the Agricultural College Magazine Association.

EXCALIBUR was founded in 1921 by a small group of men who saw the need of an honorary organization which would recognize outstanding ability in extra-curricular activities. The first meeting was held in a room which then served as the alumni office and as a waiting room for street car passengers.

Excalibur membership has come to be recognized as one of the highest attainments for men in undergraduate life. Men who are chosen for Excalibur are those who are outstanding in ability as leaders and successful in accomplishment of service to Michigan State College.

Initiates are chosen twice a year, once during fall term at an all-college convocation and again during the Cap Night exercises in Spring term. The new men are "tapped" with a picturesque ceremony.

BLUE Key started at the University of Florida, October 1924, when the student leaders got together with the alumni and interested friends in planning how they were going to take care of homecoming day and Dad's day, at which they expected thousands of new visitors because of the unique entertainment they were offering and the recent completion of many good roads.

Meeting regularly with all sorts of college questions confronting them they decided to organize and took the name of Blue Key.

Blue Key is intended to foster a national student spirit thru an exchange of ideas and common understanding. It is pledged to cooperation with the faculty to study student problems, to stimulate progress and promote the interests of the college.

Michigan State College is the twenty-fourth chapter, and will become the province leader upon the acceptance of petitions filed from schools in Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin. The State chapter, formerly called the Green Key, was founded March 10, 1927.

LA COFRADIA is the honorary Spanish fraternity which was organized to promote an interest in Spanish. Meetings are held every two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shout. Faculty members are always present. Programs are very interesting and enjoyable. Initiation this year was held at the Shout's home where a Spanish dinner was served afterwards. Spanish songs were sung and Spanish games played. Consuelo de Aldag spoke to us on Mexico and had slides and pictures of Mexico.

THE purpose of Pi Delta Epsilon is to give recognition to student achievements in journalism, and advance standards of college journalism here.

The traditional project of Pi Delta Epsilon was to edit a razz-sheet, known as the Eczema, but the national headquarters in 1930 advised the local chapters to stop publication.

Usual projects of Pi Delta Epsilon, nationally, are the sponsorship of high school journalism contests, acting as advisory council for various phases of journalism on any campus, sponsorship of college press and "gridiron" banquets, and boosting journalism interests in a multitude of ways.

THE Porpoise National Honorary Swimming Fraternity was founded at Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa in 1922. At present four chapters have been founded. The Beta Chapter of Porpoise was established at Michigan State in 1930 by the untiring efforts of Coach Daubert. Due to its short period of life here, Porpoise has not accomplished great things, but expects to do much along the swimming lines in the future. However, it has participated in two water carnivals, and in conjunction with Green Splash, put on a very successful water pageant in the pool.

SCABBARD and Blade is an honorary military science fraternity for college men in institutions that grant Baccalaureate degrees. The society was founded in 1904 at the University of Wisconsin.

Since the founding, the society has grown steadily except during the war when all activities as a national society were suspended. Today there are seventy-eight active companies and fifteen alumni posts.

The purposes of the Scabbard and Blade are to unite, in closer relationship, the Military departments of American Universities and Colleges; to preserve and develop the essential qualities of good and efficient officers, and to spread intelligent information concerning the military requirements of the United States of America.

SIGMA EPSILON is a Local Honorary Society founded at M. S. C. in the spring of 1930 to promote a stronger fellowship between the men students of the Economics department, and to create a closer relationship between students and faculty.

To promote this organization meetings are held once a month at which prominent business men give intimate talks on business conditions and requirements of their organization for the personnel of their type of business. During the year trips were made by members of the club to Battle Creek and to the Ford plant.

TAU BETA PI was founded at Lehigh University in 1876 by Edward H. Williams Jr. An engineer of excellent scholastic standing, Williams felt, during his undergraduate years, the discrimination exercised by Phi Beta Kappa against students of that profession. Accordingly, as soon as he was able, Williams selected a group of student engineers and Tau Beta Pi was created.

THETA ALPHA PHI, honorary dramatic society was organized in 1924. It aims to recognize exceptional ability in the dramatic field among students. Each term it presents one major play for the college. Also it sponsors several one-act plays for amateur interest in Professor King's advanced dramatic courses. In addition, it aids the college in producing rural drama contests over the state. The finals of these are held on the campus during farmer's week with judges selected by the organization. From three to five members are chosen annually.

BETA CHAPTER of Xi Sigma Pi was organized here in 1916 soon after "Chief" Chittenden became the head of the School of Forestry.

The objects of this organization are to secure and maintain a high standard of scholarship in forest education, to work for the upbuilding of the profession of forestry, and to promote fraternal relations among earnest workers engaged in forest activities.

Business meetings are held every two weeks to transact the business of the fraternity. Social meetings are held about twice a term when outside speakers give talks on forestry topics of the day.

Candidates for membership must have by the close of summer camp, at least a "B" average during the preceding two and one-third years. They must also have demonstrated superior qualities of good character, leadership, and fellowship.

THE American Institute of Electrical Engineers is the national organization representative of the progress of Electrical Engineering and the Allied Arts and Sciences. Organized in 1884, it now consists of 148 sections and branches.

The local branch was organized April 2, 1918. The object of the branch is to bring to the student of Electrical Engineering a better knowledge of modern advancement in Engineering and the Allied Arts and Sciences.

Papers by students of the local branch have been accorded highest honors upon being presented before various intersectional meets of the institute. An excellent demonstration of modern science was staged at the annual Engineering Show. This past year has witnessed the second of a series of dual-branch meetings with the University of Michigan. These meetings have served to bring together two of the most outstanding schools of Engineering in the country for an informal get-together.

THE first Student Chapters of the A. S. C. E. were organized in 1920, and there are now 98 chapters in the various engineering colleges throughout the country. The local student chapter was founded in 1927.

The student chapter of the A. S. C. E. has as its objects: to cause a closer relationship between the practicing civil engineer and the embryo civil engineer; to instruct the student in the latest undertakings of the civil engineering field by the use of the "A. S. C. E. Transactions" and the "Civil Engineering Magazine".

THE first two student branches of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers were chartered December 4, 1908. The following year thirteen more branches were established, and from that time the movement grew rapidly to its present status of one hundred seven branches. Our local branch was formed in 1919.

The object of the student branch is to bring the student engineer in contact with the practical aspects of mechanical engineering. This is done by the use of three publications: "A. S. M. E. News", "Mechanical Engineering", and "Transactions", also by group and sectional meetings at which the student becomes acquainted with the practical engineer. Trips thru industrial plants serve to further the purpose of the student branch by presenting practical problems and their solutions.

THE Cosmopolitan Club was first organized in 1907. It is a chapter of the Corda Frates, National Association of Cosmopolitan Clubs, which is one of the greatest factors working for international peace. Its objects are: 1. To form the nucleus of brotherhood of the whole universe, leaving aside the idea of color, creed and nation; 2. To promote the spirit of brotherhood and human justice among students of all nationalities, races and creeds; 3. To foster mutual understanding and appreciation through discussion and exchange of ideas; 4. To function as a social medium for means of making the lives of foreign students happy and profitable, insuring that they come in contact with the best of American life and ideals.

*M*ISS Mildred Patterson was the veteran of the team. She has debated three years on the varsity squad. In her Sophomore year she was a member of the National Runner's-up team in the tournament of Pi Kappa Delta, the national forensic fraternity, held at Wichita, Kansas.

The squad is selected each year through a series of tryouts in which every member of the student body of the college is eligible whether or not they had any previous experience. Of the number trying out, as many are kept on the squad as the coach thinks capable of developing into good debate material.

During the past year Michigan State met teams from Olivet College, Michigan State Normal College of Ypsilanti, City College of Detroit, Albion College, Hillsdale College, Hope College, Adrian College, Central State Teachers' College, and Depauw University of Greencastle, Indiana.

On March 26th the team, accompanied by the coach, left for Tulsa, Oklahoma, where they competed again in the national tournament of Pi Kappa Delta. Each year, in addition to the regular schedule of college debates, as long as the standard of debate warrants it, the team takes a trip, meeting colleges and universities from neighboring states. Next year the provincial tournament of Pi Kappa Delta will be held at Grove City, Pennsylvania and it is planned that the team will compete there.

Each year awards are given to all members of the squad who are eligible to membership in Pi Kappa Delta in the form of gold gavels. All members of the squad who have competed in the required number of recognized contests are considered by the Pi Kappa Delta society for membership.

THE aim of the Varsity Debate is to make debating an educational activity rather than a matter of winning decisions, and to learn the principle of argumentation in order to present a subject being discussed before the general public.

Debates were held away with Albion, Alma, Hope, Battle Creek, Calvin, Olivet and Western State and with University of Michigan, University of California, University of Florida, and the University of Notre Dame at home. All debates were no-decision or decision by the audience except those at the Convention.

Robert Hurley and Paul Younger represented the debators at the Pi Kappa Delta Convention, debating six times before being eliminated.

THE Y. W. C. A. was organized in September, 1896. The first meetings were held at Abbott Hall and included a bible class.

The activities other than committee welfare work sponsored by the association include: hike and picnic for freshman girls; the waffle breakfast at Homecoming; a Christmas party for underprivileged children financed by Tag Day; the May Morning Breakfast for campus girls and their mothers; sale of American Legion poppies; participation in the Freshman Councilor movement; attendance of delegates at the Geneva Conference, Wisconsin; holiday vesper services; monthly general membership meetings; the Freshman Mixer; All Nations' Banquet; the Religious Council.

The Campus Girls' Assembly, which meets every Sunday at 12 o'clock in the Women's Student Parlors of the People's Church, provides speakers on phases of literature, art, and drama.

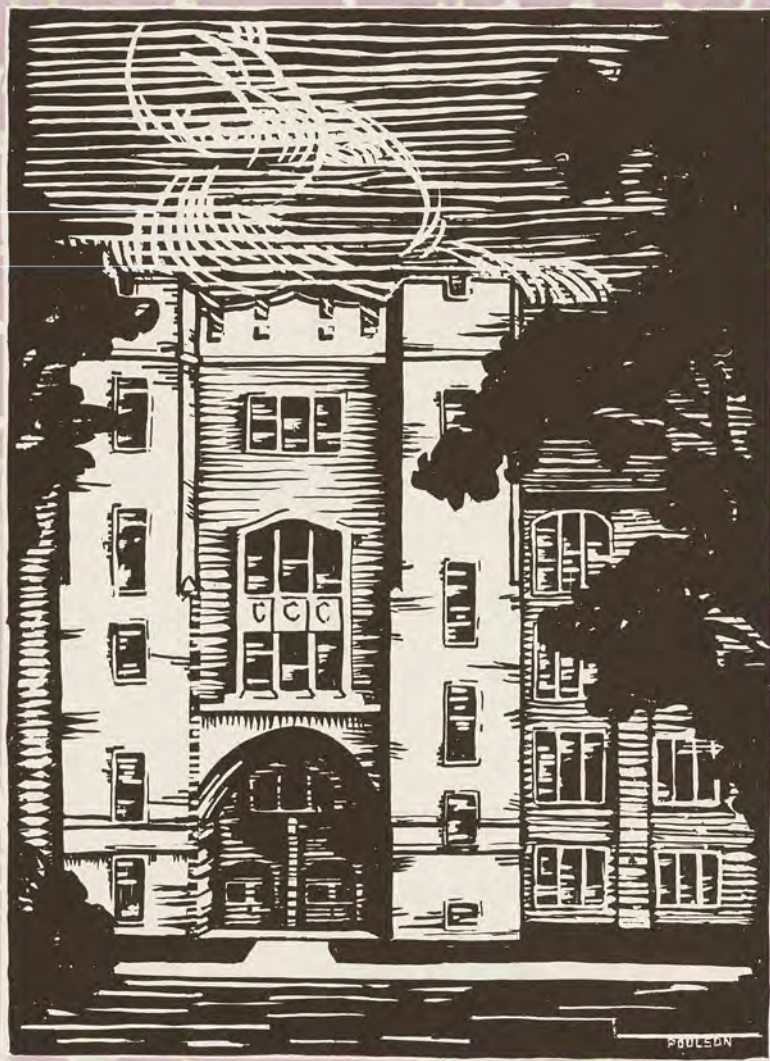

Home Economics

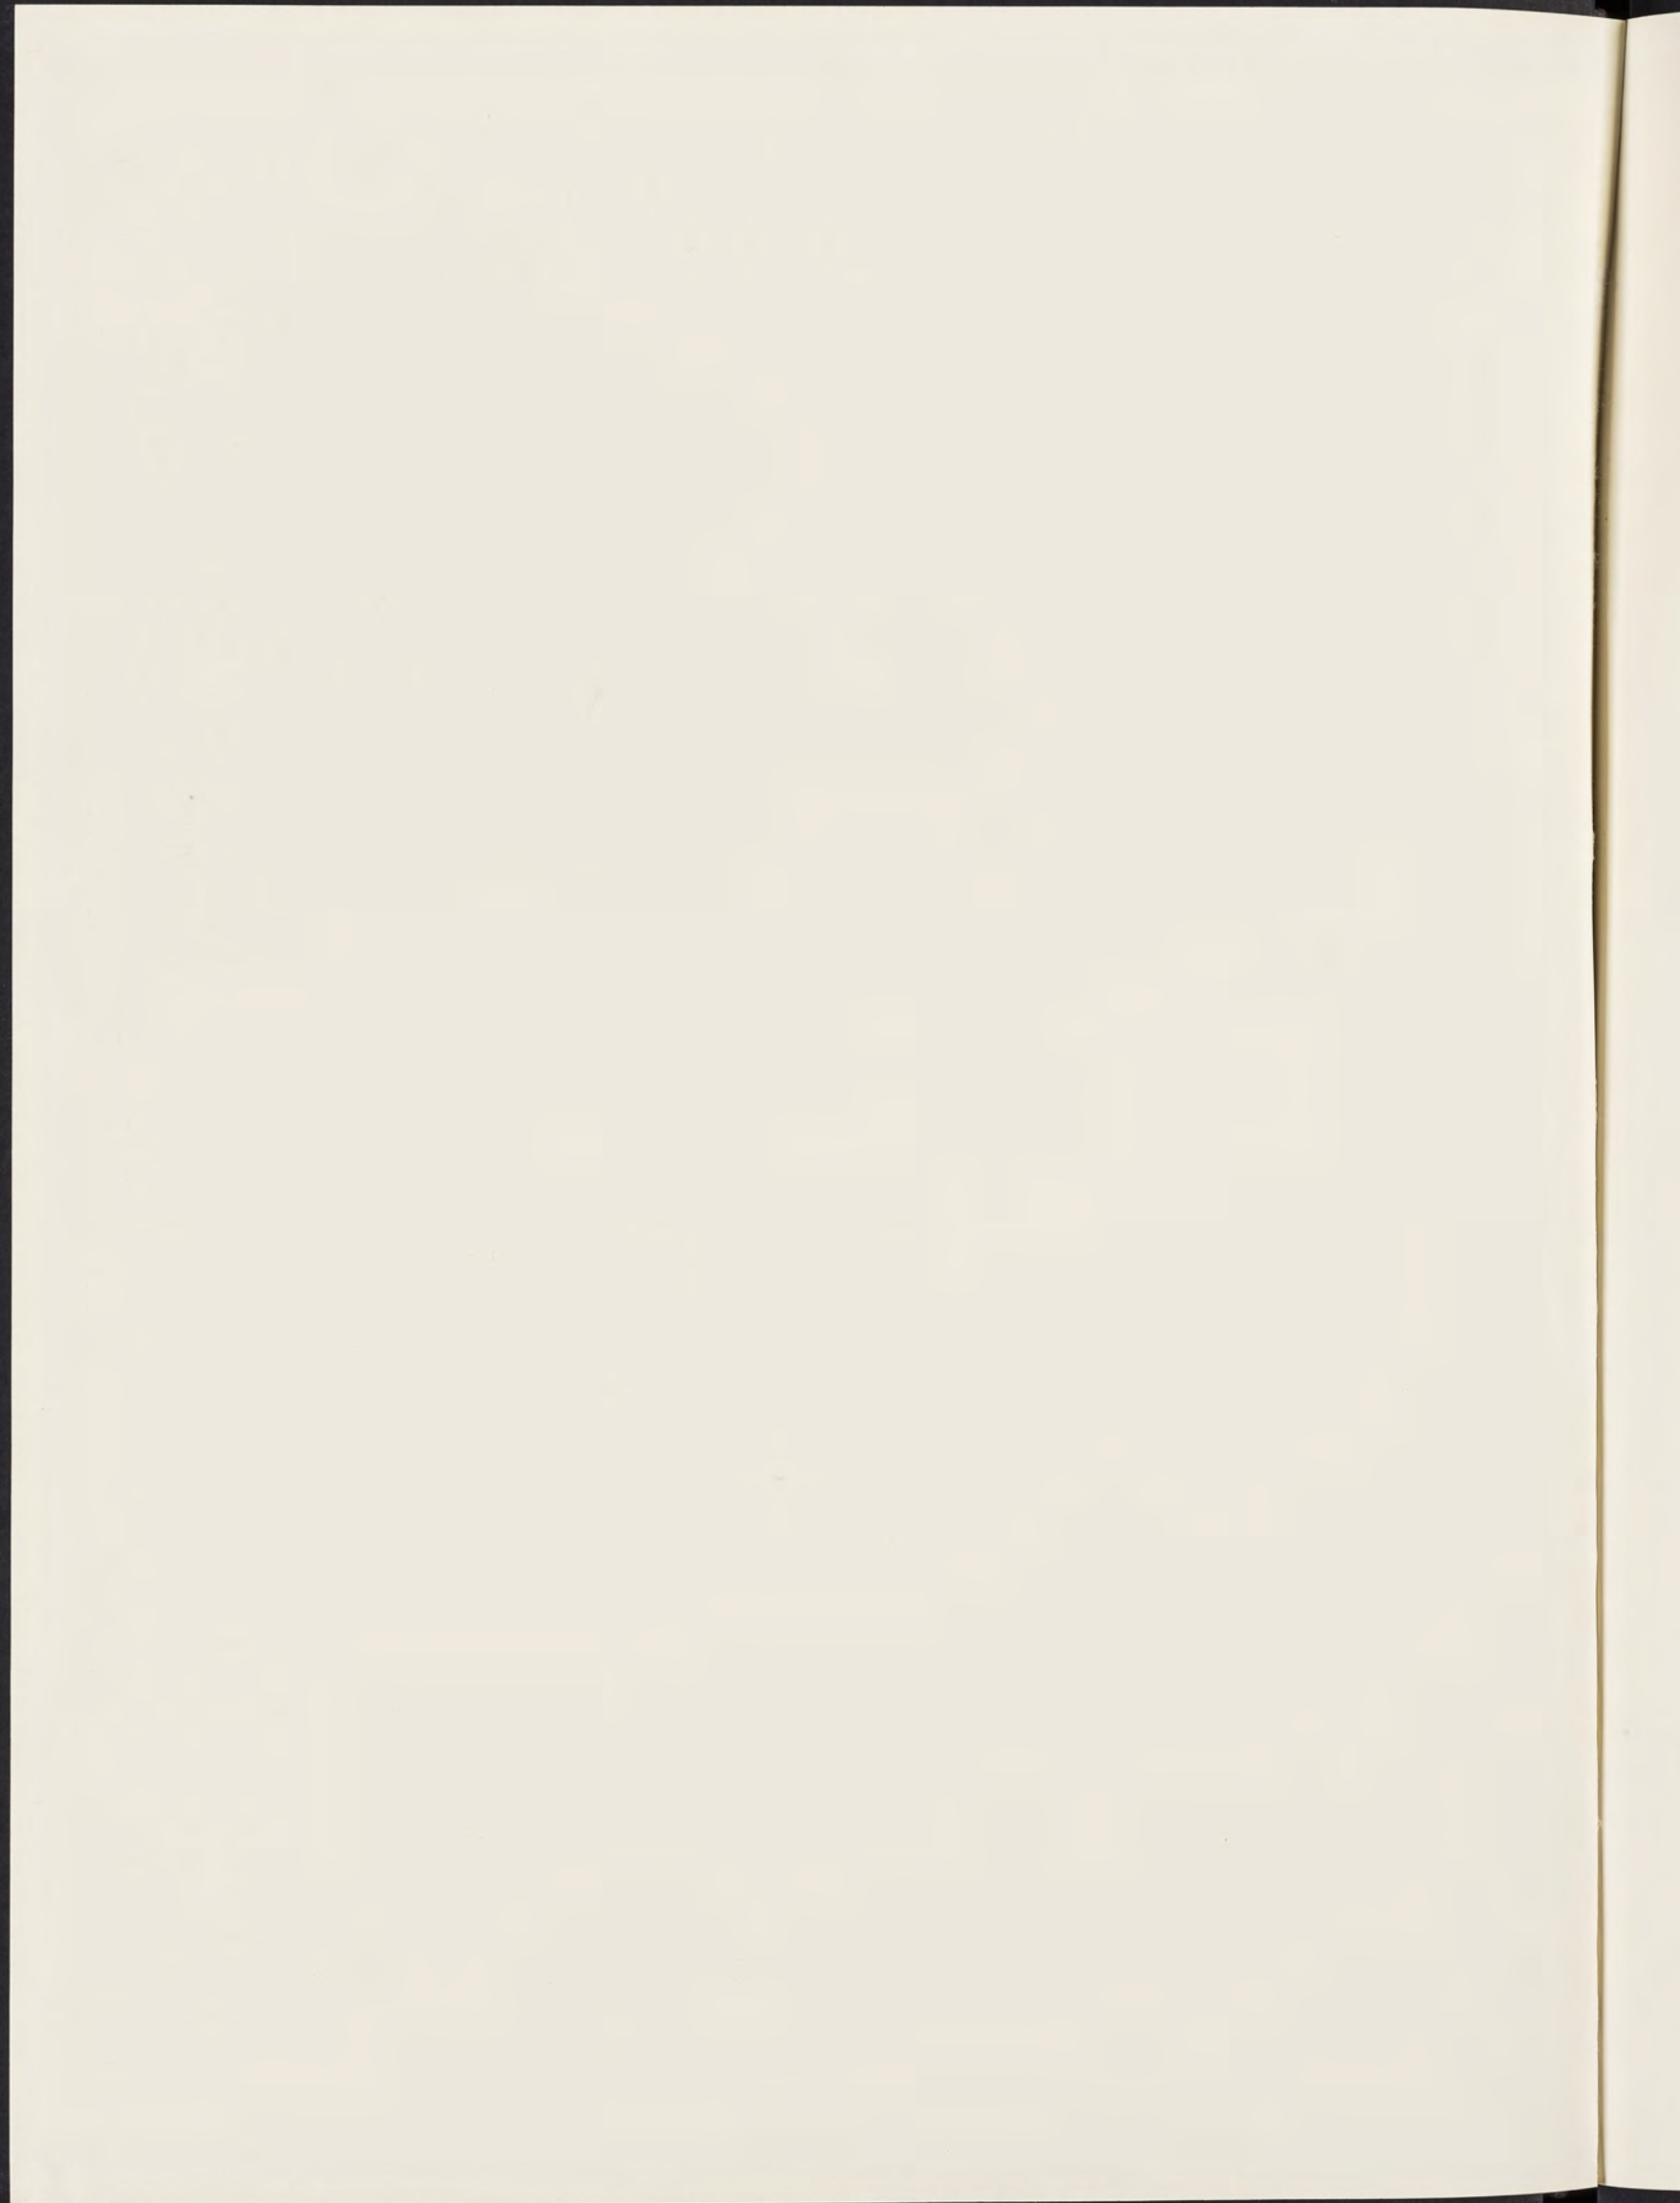

CONTRARY to the wishes of many, ten women were admitted to M.A.C. in 1870. Previous to this only men attended the college, as it was thought that many perplexing problems would arise from the presence of women on the campus.

The courses offered women had, as their objective, the making of good housewives and sensible, useful women. The "co-eds" studied chemistry, botany, horticulture, and other branches of education. Work was furnished them when it was available. They even prepared seed for ground, cut potatoes, transplanted tomatoes, flowered plants, and pruned shrubbery.

In 1895 a course in Home Economics was offered for the instruction of women. Abbott Hall was used as a dormitory and laboratory for cooking, sewing, and calisthenics.

Women

DEAN ELISABETH CONRAD

AT THE 75th anniversary we are all looking back at the history which has been made. Figures suddenly become interesting; 1110 women on the campus today, 111 women on the campus in 1900 when the Woman's Building was built. The first woman graduated in '79, and the first hall opened for women in 1896 when Abbott Hall was changed from a men's dormitory to a women's dormitory because a Department of Domestic Science was to be introduced.

It is not surprising that graduates of a few years ago cannot realize the extent to which women's activities have assumed importance at Michigan State College for in 1925 there were 543 women registered which means that in six years the number of women has more than doubled. Michigan State College has always been proud of the fine type of girl who enrolls here, of the spirit of cooperation and democracy maintained on the campus, and cherishes this standard of fine calibre rather than great numbers.

GREEN SPLASH, Women's Honorary Swimming Society, was first organized on the campus in 1927.

It is the purpose of the members not only to improve and develop their own technique but also to help others acquire a proficiency in swimming.

During the past year the organization has sponsored life-saving classes for freshmen girls, five of whom passed the Senior Life Saving Test.

During winter term the group sponsored the first "Green Splash Date Night". About two hundred and fifty students were present. Swimming in the pool, and dancing in the gym to Carlton Spencer's orchestra constituted the evening's entertainment.

Virginia Anderson, Elinor Baird, Barbara Bedford, Margaret Boettcher, and Margaret Christopher successfully passed their life-saving test.

THE "S" Club is an organization of the Women's Athletic Association. It consists of girls who have been awarded the large old English letter, "S" by the Association on having acquired one thousand honor points. These points are earned by participating in any of the 15 sports offered to the women of the college during their entire college course. Not an active organization, the club has no officers.

The Honor Roll

The highest achievement in Women's Athletic work is rewarded by membership on the Honor Roll. The award, merely one of honor, is having one's signature on the Honor Roll sheep-skin kept in the "Cabin".

The eligibility of an Honor Roll Member is based on sports, skill, sportsmanship, character, leadership, and personality. One must earn 1500 points within the association to become a member.

Within the past two years twelve girls have received the honor. Above is the list of girls who have placed their signatures on the sheep-skin.

Women's Fencing Squad

NEVER before on this campus has there been shown so much enthusiasm in fencing nor so much marked achievement. The classes are sponsored by W.A.A. It is customary to choose each year, by means of a round of tournaments within the W.A.A. classes, an honor team which becomes the official women's fencing squad, whose activities, however, are carried on as individual and not as a W.A.A. group.

The members of the 1932 squad were: Elsie Janda, Katherine McCutcheon, Ruth Moore, Dorothy McDonald and Virginia Kamp.

These five girls entered the state tournament of the Amateur Fencer's League of America and won all the places but two. McCutcheon won second in senior and first in junior; Janda, second in junior; Moore, third in junior and third in novice; McDonald first in novice.

Katherine McCutcheon and Dorothy McDonald went to New York as Michigan entries in the national tournament and Olympic Try-outs. Unfortunately the girls found themselves opposed in their first bouts by the best swordwomen in the country, and so failed to qualify for the final pool.

PREVIOUS to 1922, the year that the Foronian society became Alpha Phi, a national sorority, the Pan-Hellenic Association of this college was poorly organized and had little control over sorority activities. After some of the local sororities became national, the Pan-Hellenic Council gradually became more effective and better organized. In 1929, our council joined the National Urban Pan-Hellenic Council, but it dissolved its association with this council in 1932 and joined the National Pan-Hellenic Congress.

All but two of the sororities on this campus are national, the Ero Alphan and Delta Alpha societies. The Sesame society was the last one to go national; it became Zeta Tau Alpha in 1931.

Dorothy Wickstrom, president of the council this year, attended the National Pan-Hellenic Convention in St. Louis, Mo. October 19 to 21.

The purpose of the organization is to form an inter-fraternity compact binding on all member chapters, and to regulate matters of fraternity interest to all groups.

Alpha Chi Omega

National Fraternity

Founded at De Pauw in 1885

IN SEPTEMBER, 1926, a group of girls banded themselves together and formed the Alpha Chi Society. For two years these girls worked toward the goal of becoming Alpha Chi Omegas. On February, 11, 1928, their dreams were realized. They were initiated as Beta Epsilon Chapter of Alpha Chi Omega. In September, 1927, the girls occupied their new home at 548 M. A. C. Avenue.

This year Beta Epsilon Chapter of Alpha Chi Omega was the hostess Chapter for the Province Convention. Mrs. G. L. Van Auken, National President, attended. All the Ohio and Michigan Chapters were represented.

At a military parade, a rifle cup was presented to Alpha Chi Omega for receiving the highest score in riflery.

Katherine McCutcheon won third place in jumping in Mid-Western Horse Show, won first place in the Junior State Fencing tournament, and second place in the senior meet. This qualified her for entrance in the Olympic tryouts. Louise Uhlman won first place for fancy diving in the Inter-class swimming meet. Ruth Barns, Ruth Fritsche, Dorothy Patnales, and Barbara Hansz, won the privilege of attending Merrill-Palmer at Detroit for a term. Dorothy Troth is a member of Theta Alpha Phi, Orchesis, and is vice-president of Tau Sigma.

Alpha Gamma Delta

Founded at Syracuse University 1904

CHI
Established 1922

IT WAS in the spring of 1921 that a group of ten girls first heard of Alpha Gamma Delta. Before this time, national fraternities had been banned from this campus, but finally the administration became liberal and allowed them.

Emily Butterfield, an Alpha Gamma Delta, heard of these affairs at Michigan Agricultural College about national fraternities, and about this group of girls and wrote to the Dean of Women, to inquire about the possibilities of organizing these girls into a group so as to become national. Miss Butterfield came later to look them over and to give them some idea what Alpha Gamma Delta stood for. She helped them to organize into a group which called themselves Chi Lambda. Finally, they petitioned Alpha Gamma Delta and their petition was granted during the summer convention.

This sorority was the first national sorority on this campus, and, therefore, had the honor of organizing the Panhellenic League. The first president was Edith Brown, an Alpha Gamma Delta.

ALPHA PHI International Fraternity was founded in September, 1871 at Syracuse University, Syracuse, New York. At present there are thirty-five collegiate chapters.

The Feronian Literary Society, now the Beta Beta chapter of Alpha Phi, was founded in March, 1891. It was the first women's society to be founded at the Michigan Agricultural College. On February 17, 1922, the Feronian Society became the Beta Beta chapter of Alpha Phi.

This year the winter term formal was held on Friday, March 11 in the main dining room of the Hotel Kerns. The programs for the party were of white kid with the sorority seal engraved in red. Jac-Jac orchestra from Jackson furnished the music. The Spring term party was held on April 30, in the Little Theater.

Beatrice O'Brien was elected at an all college election as one of the eight outstanding seniors. Elsa Richards has been very prominent in art and dramatics. She directed the one act play that won the prize for the Union Production. Other members of the house have been active in numerous college activities.

Chi Omega

Founded at University of Arkansas 1895

XI GAMMA CHAPTER
Established 1926

CHI OMEGA was organized at the University of Arkansas April 5, 1895. It has 89 active chapters, 50 alumnae chapters and approximately 19,000 members. The open declaration of Chi Omega is Hellenic Culture and Christian Ideals. Included on its program is the Service Fund, the income of which is used to publish special research studies in education, social, scientific, and civic lines. Each active chapter awards annually a prize of $25 to the woman student in its college who excells in the work of the department of Economics, Sociology, and Political Science. This year the prize was awarded to Carra Hale of South Haven on Spartan Achievement Day.

This year at the National Biennial convention in White Sulpher Springs, West Virginia, a Nation Achievement Award will be given to the American women of notable accomplishment in the professions, public affairs, art, letters, business, finance or education. This award is to be made annually.

In 1924 the nucleus of the present Xi Gamma chapter of Chi Omega was formed. With the aid of Alice Hanner, an alumna of Kappa Alpha chapter, nine students of prominence on the campus organized a local group. The original purpose was to petition Chi Omega and this was done as soon as the organization was perfected.

Delta Alpha

Local Sorority

Founded 1929

DELTA ALPHA was granted a charter on March 21, 1929. The sorority was founded by nine girls.

The first meeting was held at the home of Mrs. James B. Hasselman.

During the spring of 1929 rushing parties were held in the Michigan State Union building as the society had no house.

In the fall of 1929 the members of Delta Alpha had rooms together at 217 Charles Street, East Lansing. Rushing was participated in just as in other organizations.

The first Delta Alpha formal dinner dance was held in the Wisteria room of the Olds Hotel Winter term 1930. Forty couples attended this party.

In the fall of 1930 the Delta Alphas moved into their new home at 319 Albert street. A house warming was held in October in honor of this event.

The Delta Alpha Fall term party was held in the Little Theater on December 4. The Winter term formal was held in the Kerns Hotel. Music was furnished by Tommy Towner's orchestra. The Spring term party was May 7 in the Masonic Temple.

Established in 1904

THE Ero Alphan Literary Society was founded in 1904 with fourteen charter members. The name signifies "Love of the Highest and Best". The first meetings were held in joint club rooms in the Woman's Building with the Themians. They first took a house in 1923 which was located on the corner of M. A. C. Mrs. George Caine of Lansing was house chaperon from 1923 until the fall of 1931 when Mrs. Guy Kiefer of Detroit took her place. The fall term party this year was held in the Little Theater in December. The programs of the formal dinner dance which was held in the Wisteria Room of the Hotel Olds on March 5, were of mother of pearl celluloid with a gold seal on pink satin showing through a diamond shaped space cut from the cover. Kappa Kappa Gamma

Founded at

Monmouth College 1870

DELTA GAMMA CHAPTER

Established 1930

ON THE eighth of January in eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, eleven determined and enthusiastic girls met in the Y. W. C. A. for the first meeting of their new literary society. The name Themian, from Themis, goddess of justice, was chosen to represent the second social organization of young women at the Michigan Agricultural College.

The early years of the society's development were filled with many trials and obstacles. They met for their literary meetings in the chapel, the Phi Delta Theta fraternity rooms, and the State Board rooms. However, in the year nineteen hundred, Morrill Hall, the new women's dormitory, was completed and a beautiful room was granted the society for its permanent home. For twenty-two years this room served as a home for the Themian Society, until the college finally granted sororities permission to have separate houses. Since that time, the group has occupied various homes, but in September, 1931 a large new Georgian house was completed for their use.

After petitioning Kappa Kappa Gamma for several years, the Themian Society was granted a charter by that organization at its national convention in the summer of 1930. The active members of the Themian Society were installed as charter members of Delta Gamma Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma on November 7, 1930.

Sigma Kappa

National Fraternity

Founded at Colby College in 1874

SIGMA KAPPA is one of the oldest national sororities. It was founded at Colby College, Waterville, Maine, in 1874.

Alpha Tau, the Michigan State chapter, was installed May 28, 1927 after working and striving towards this goal for five years as a local organization known as "Pythian Literary Society". Pythian was organized in the Spring of 1922 with the help of Professor Johnston of the English Department.

To celebrate the birthday of the chapter, each May everyone, including the alumni, get together and take a canoe trip up the Red Cedar to Pinetum for a delightful Sunday morning breakfast.

Although this chapter is relatively new they have been very well represented in campus activities.

Sigma Kappa has won the Panhellenic scholarship cup four years out of the six that it has been given. It was won by the sorority this year. The chapter is represented in seven of the college honoraries namely, Sphinx, Mu Phi Epsilon, Sigma Alpha Iota, Tau Sigma, Omicron Nu, Green Splash, and Pi Kappa Delta. Sigma Kappa also has members very active in W. A. A. and other clubs related to their college course.

Zeta Tau Alpha

National Sorority

Established at M. S. C. 1931

A GROUP of girls meeting each week during the years 1909-1910 and calling themselves "the Hermians" decided they would like official recognition and the wider opportunities accorded the regularly organized groups. A petition was presented to the faculty for recognition under the name Sigma. This petition was refused on the grounds that Greek letter organizations were barred from the campus. The name Sesame was then chosen and on February 11, 1911 the charter was granted.

The charter for Beta Phi of Zeta Tau Alpha was granted in May, 1931. Installation started October 5, 1931 with Bertha Cruse Gardner, Grand President, as installing officer assisted by Helen Kagay, Prophet.

The Fall term party was a formal party held at the Union during installation on October 18. The Winter term formal was held March 19, at the Hotel Olds and the Spring term party May 21, at the Masonic Temple.

Beatrice Brody was president of Mu Phi Epsilon and received the Louis Graveure scholarship.

Beulah Woodland Young was vice president of Mu Phi Epsilon and received Lewis Richards' scholarship in piano.

Doris Streeter was treasurer of W. A. A. and captain of the Varsity rifle team.

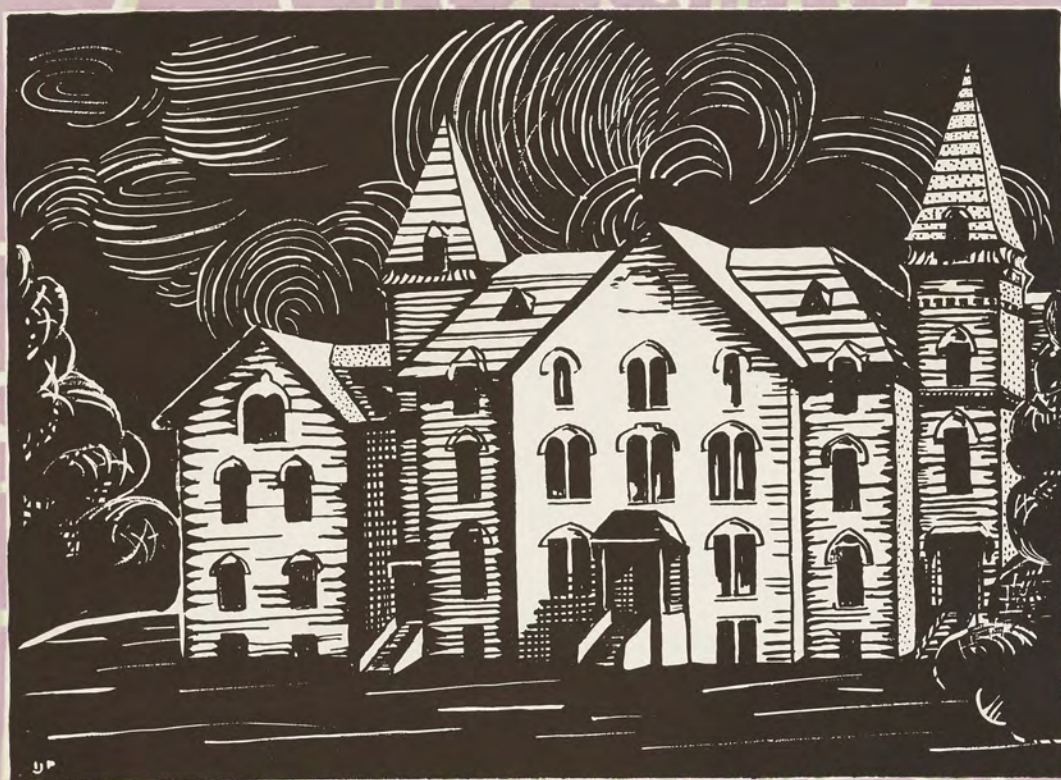

Wells Hall

THE old boarding hall known as "Saints Rest" was a three story brick structure accommodating a few students. The building was erected in 1856 and burned down in December, 1876. The next year by an act of the Legislature the present Wells Hall was constructed.

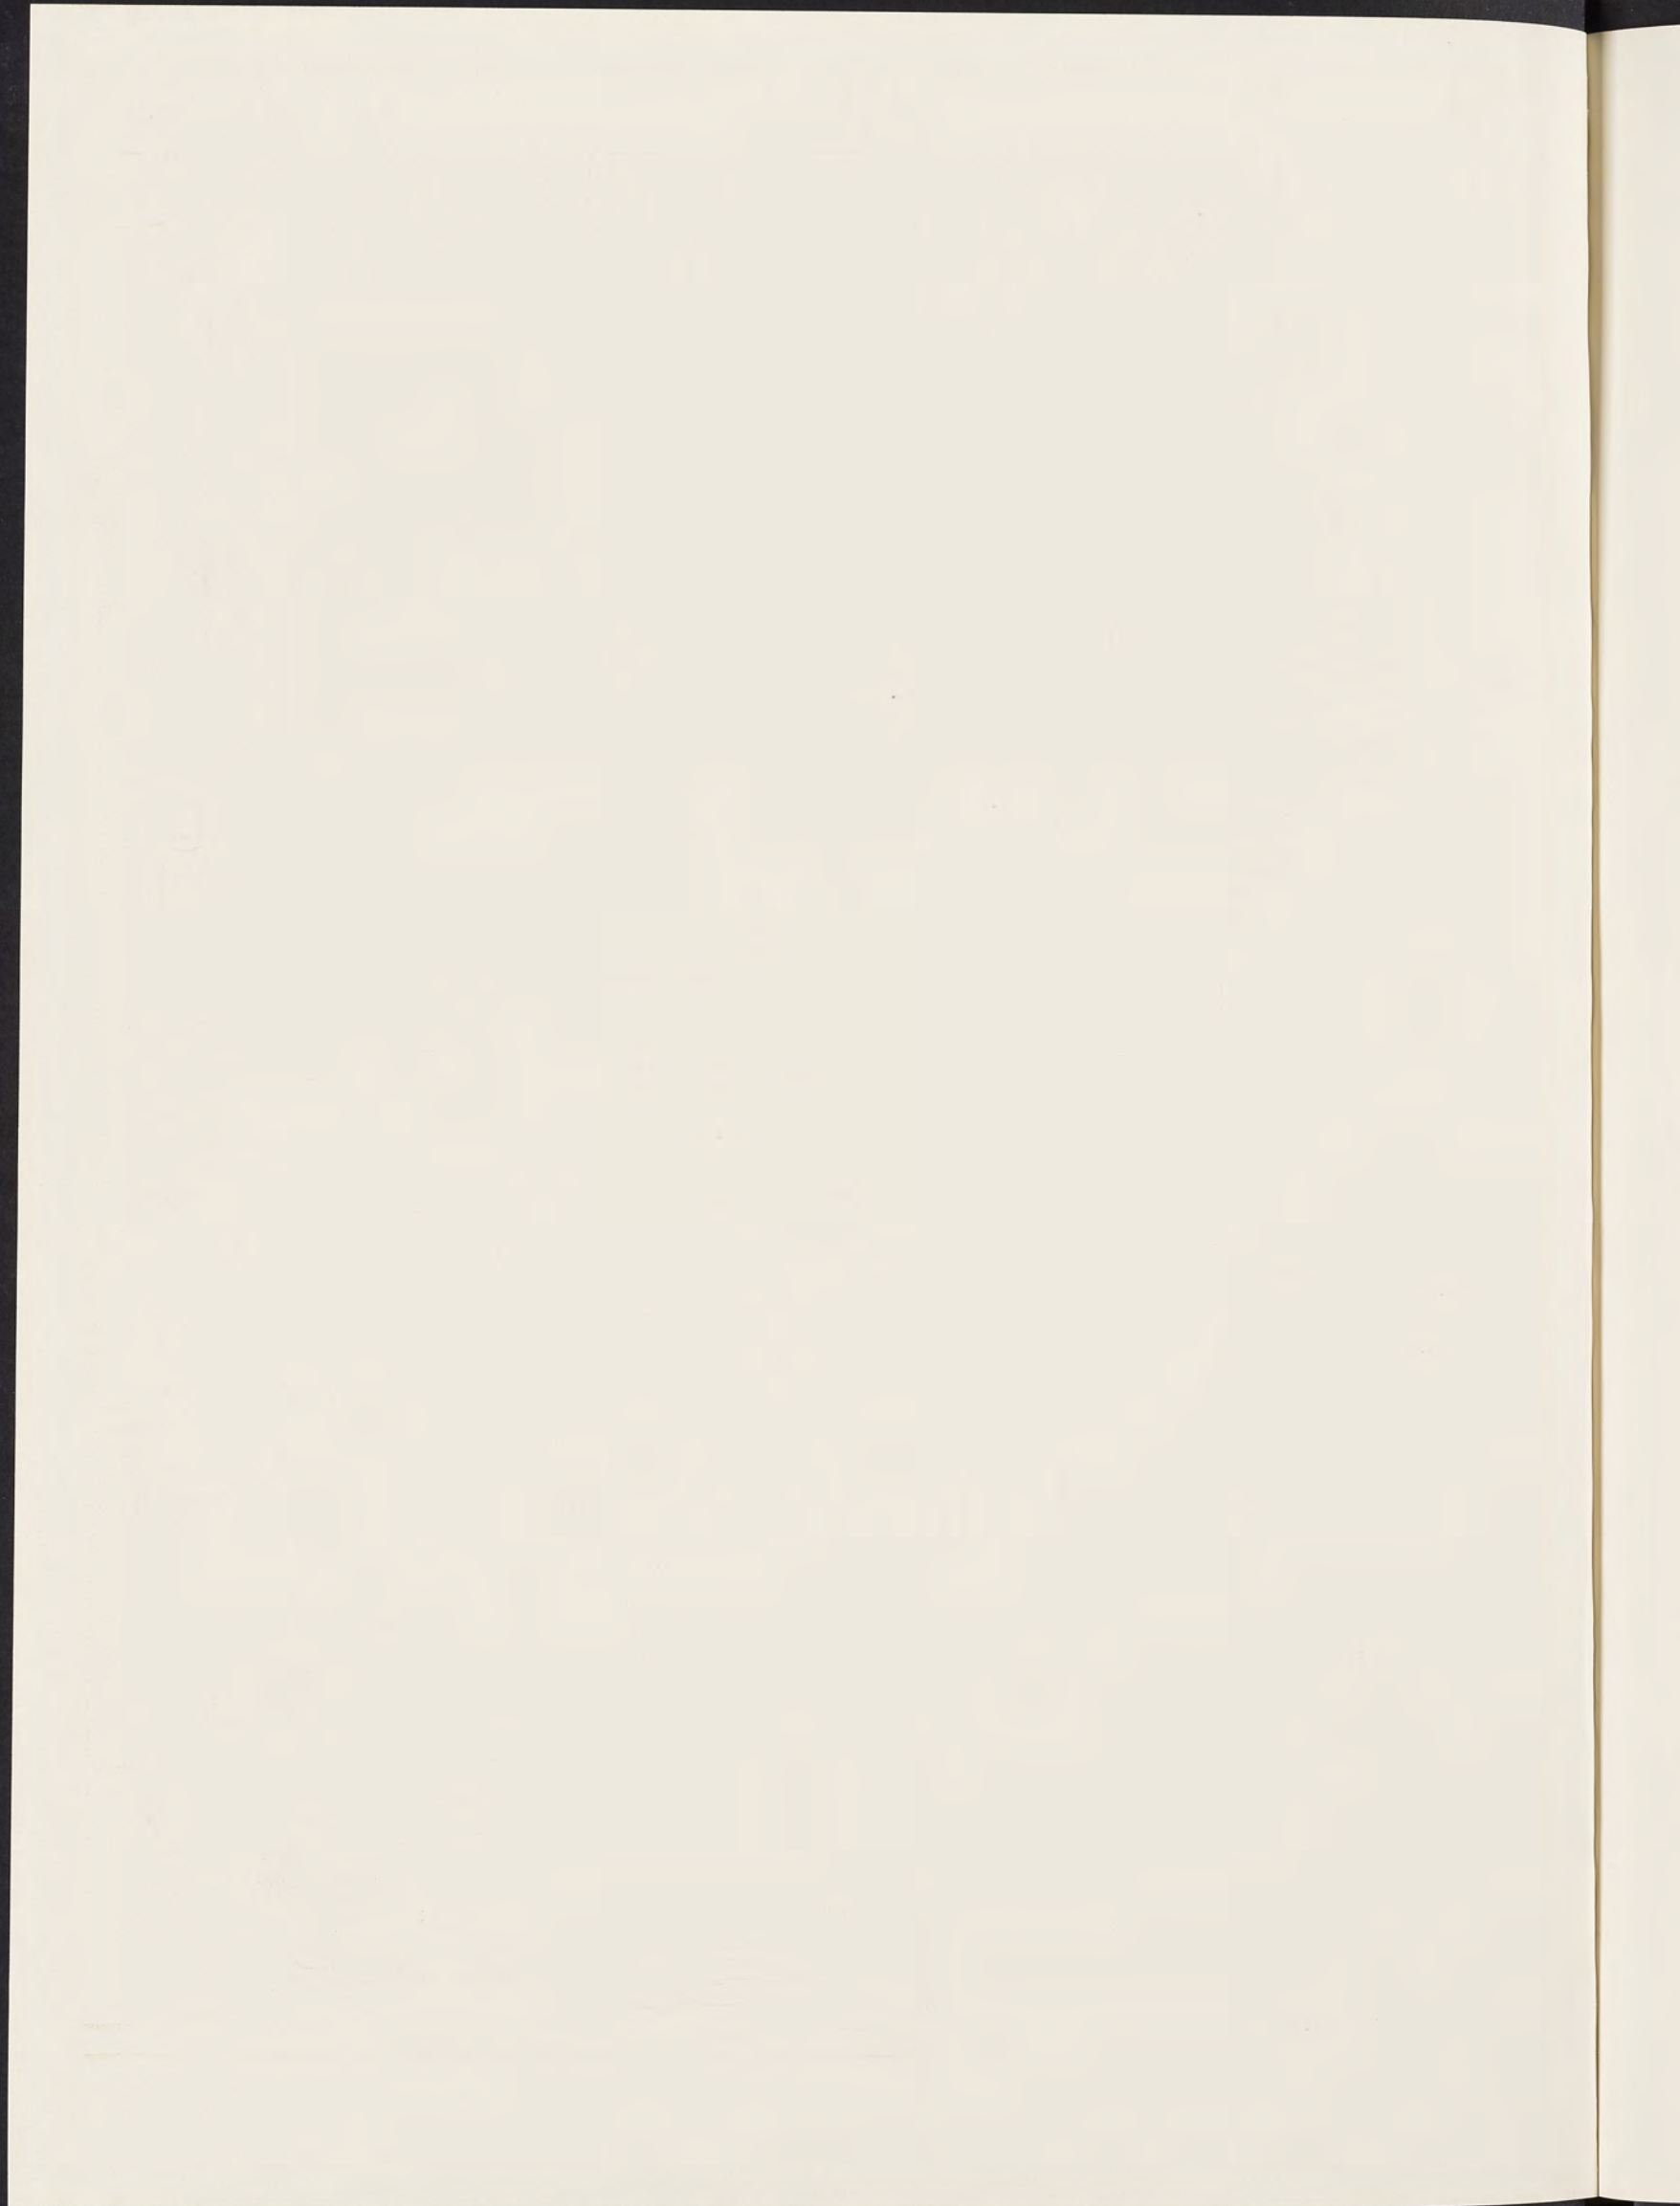

Large enough to care for one hundred and fifty-six students, it contained six large attic rooms which were converted into club rooms for the fraternities or literary societies which were being organized.

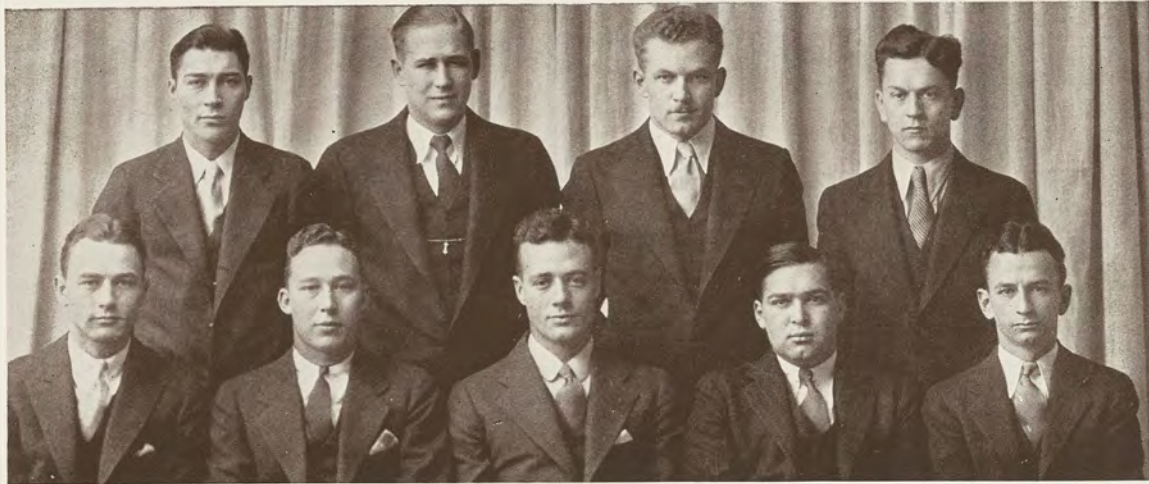

Many problems arose at this time in conjunction with the advisability of having fraternity houses off campus. The expense involved in living was thought to lead to a distinction between the ordinary young man and the more well to do men of the college.

Among the societies formed in the latter part of the 19th century in the college were the Olympic, Hesperian, Delphic, Phylean, Phi Delta, and Cosmopolitan Club. Though their club rooms were in Wells Hall, they were soon established in homes of their own in East Lansing.

Ae-Theon

Local Fraternity

Established 1915

IN THE Fall of 1915, a number of fellows residing in Wells Hall, finding their social needs inadequately served, met and formed the Ae-Theon Literary Society. The group met regularly in the dormitory until 1917, shortly after the United States entered the World War. At this time the society was forced to disband temporarily since all but two of the members entered the service. Every Ae-Theon who enlisted was engaged in active contest and all but one, Cosmir Le Veaux, returned after the war was over.

Upon returning to the campus the members of the society decided to secure more permanent quarters than Wells Hall offered and obtained a home on Evergreen Avenue, where they lived until the Fall of 1926. At this time a more satisfactory house was found at East Grand River and Haslett. The society resided here until the Fall of 1930 when it moved to temporary quarters on Woodmere, and then in January of 1931 occupied its new home at the corner of West Grand River and Woodmere.

The Ae-Theon Fraternity, originally organized as a Literary Society, has spread its interests to a variety of campus activities and has a share in both inter-college and intramural sports.

Alpha Chi Sigma

National Professional Chemical Fraternity

Founded at University of Wisconsin in 1902

ALPHA UPSILON CHAPTER

Established at M. S. C. in 1928

THE Alpha Chi Sigma fraternity was founded at the University of Wisconsin in 1902. The purpose in the minds of its founders was the furtherance of Chemistry both as a science and as a profession, and its subsequent growth as a national society is evidence of their sincerity.

In 1928 the Alpha Upsilon chapter of Alpha Chi Sigma was granted to Chi Rho, a local chemistry society which had been formed at Michigan State four years earlier. This national has chapters at all the better colleges and universities and its coming to State was a very worthy addition to the campus.

Although Alpha Chi Sigma is neither a social fraternity nor an honorary, but a professional society, the fact that many of its chapters maintain houses, and the high scholastic requirements for membership give it the qualities of both. Besides being open only to men majoring in chemistry, the society stipulates that the character of aspirants be carefully considered. The Michigan State chapter at present is composed entirely of upper classmen, members of the faculty and graduate students.

Its aims and purposes are to create a common bond between its members; to promote brotherhood and friendship; to promote scholarship; and to establish a society for new students on the campus.

Alpha Gamma Rho

National Fraternity

Founded at the University of Illinois and Ohio State in 1908

TAU CHAPTER

Established at M. S. C. in 1922

THE first meeting of the local organization which later became Tau Chapter was held on December 5, 1921, when Brother H. F. Wilson, with the help of Mr. E. B. Hill, assistant to the Dean of Agriculture at the Michigan Agricultural College, called several agricultural students together. The purpose of this gathering was to consider the organization of a local society with the view of it becoming a chapter of Alpha Gamma Rho.

On January 9, 1922, another meeting was held in one of the rooms in Agricultural Hall. A constitution was adopted and the name Beta Sigma Alpha chosen. On February 14, 1922, rooms in Wells Hall were secured as club rooms, and during the winter a petition to Alpha Gamma Rho was prepared. The petition was voted upon by the chapters of the fraternity early in the spring, accepted, and on April 14, 1922, Tau Chapter was formally installed by Brothers Bull, Wilson, and Harmer, Lambda.

It is interesting to note that Alpha Gamma Rho was the first national fraternity to establish a chapter at Michigan Agricultural College.

Delphic

Local Fraternity

Established in 1908

NEARLY twenty-five years ago a dozen men gathered in old College Hall and organized a society whose object was the mutual improvement of its members along social, literary, and educational lines. The group developed rapidly and in 1912, four years after the founding, forty men incorporated the organization under the name of the Delphic Literary Society. During the next few years the organization was one of the strongest literary societies on the campus. The World War came and sixty Delphics were in uniform. Following the war the organization renewed its activities and in 1920 purchased the house now occupied by the society.

During the next ten years, many important changes took place on the campus. In this period the Delphic organization gradually developed and became primarily a social fraternity. The house has been well represented in campus activities. The present membership includes men prominent in athletics, musical organizations, scholastic honoraries, and political activities. As part of the social program, six open houses and a fall term party were held in the house ballroom. The annual formal party was held in the Union ballroom on February 20th with Tommy Towner's orchestra furnishing the music.

Many of the men who have worn the Delphic torch in the past twenty-five years are prominent in state, political and business activities. We are especially proud of the fact that one of these men, Prof. L. C. Plant, has been actively connected with the society since its organization.

ALPHA PI CHAPTER

Established at M. S. C. in 1923

THE Aurean Literary Society was founded in Williams Hall, September 30, 1905. The society met in Wells and Williams Hall until 1914. In 1914 permanent residence was secured for the society. In 1919 the Aurean Society combined with the Athenium Society, retaining the name of the Aurean Literary Society.

In the winter of 1921 the State Board of Agriculture passed the much hoped for ruling that allowed National Fraternities to come in. In April, 1922 a petition was made to the Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity for membership. On January 13, 1923 the Aurean Literary Society changed to the Alpha Pi Chapter of the Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity.

Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity is an international fraternity, having 52 chapters throughout the United States and Canada.

In February, 1932 Alpha Pi Chapter of Delta Sigma Phi moved into its recently constructed home. This modern home is situated on East Grand River, east of the city limits of East Lansing.

Eclectic

Local Fraternity

Founded 1877

THE Eclectic society dates its origin from March 12, 1877. It is the second oldest fraternity of the college, the Union Literary Society having been organized one year previous. Its present name, however, was not adopted until March 16th, 1878.

Plans were started in 1902 for the construction of a chapter house. The house became a reality in 1908 and was the first society house situated "off campus" in the history of the college. Age and associations have done much to enhance the Tic house, which is still the residence of the society, situated on Evergreen Avenue.

With the coming of the late war, the Tic house was utilized by the government as a student barracks. In this way did the fraternity serve the nation's cause. Many of the active members also enlisted in the services of the country, three of which never returned. They are: George Smith Monroe, '18, Hubert Barnes, '19, and Samuel Robinson McNair, '20.

Through the years of its existence the Tic house has been the home of many men who were active in the college both athletically and scholastically. The society still is vitally dependent on the college for its background and perpetuation, and continues to be interested in the well-being and progress of Michigan State.

Eunomian

Local Fraternity
Established in 1903

THE Euno- mian Society was organized in the fall of 1903 at the Michigan Agricultural College. Its purpose was to promote the social and literary life of its members. During the spring of 1920 the Euno- mian alumni organized the Euno- mian Alumni Association and incorporated in the State of Michigan. With the organization came the publication of the Euno- mian—I-O, a pamphlet issued about six times a year. At the present time the alumni have a strong organization holding general meetings once a year and special meetings at intervals.

Many Euno- mians are represented in the activities of the college, holding the positions of President of the Junior Class, the Inter-Fraternity Council, and of the band. Euno- mians have members represented in the Student Council, Liberal Arts Board, Wolverine staff, Union Board, and State News.

Athletically, the society is represented in football, basket ball, track, baseball, swimming, fencing, tennis, and various minor sports. Euno- mians are also represented in honorary fraternities, including the following: Scabbard and Blade, Blue Key, Pi Delta Epsilon, Tau Beta Pi, Alpha Epsilon Mu, Sigma Delta Psi, Band Club, Varsity Club, Excalibur, Sigma Epsilon, and Alpha Chi Sigma.

Hermian

Local Fraternity

Established 1915

THE Hermian Literary Society was founded at Michigan State college as a social organization in the year 1915. Following the war period, during which such organizations were abandoned, the society was reorganized by a few old members returning to school, and a house was acquired at the present site. This house was completely rebuilt and enlarged to its present appearance in 1927.

Founded to promote a purely social and fraternal relationship between its members, the society has always been a cosmopolitan one on the campus, drawing its membership from all departments of the school.

This variety of interests among its members has made the Hermian house an active participant in all collegiate activities, and has served to carry out the aims of its founders in providing an atmosphere for well rounded development of all its members. This ideal is typified by the virtues of the Greek god, Hermes, from whom the society derives its name.

Representatives of the house on the campus this year include the business manager of the Michigan State News, two majors and two captains in the cadet corps, nine men participating in six sports, and thirty members distributed among twelve honorary societies.

Hesperian

Local Fraternity

Founded 1889

THE Hesperian Society was organized on the 16th of March, in 1889. A few students met to consider the advisability of organizing a new literary society. Several more conferences were held along with consultations with the faculty and the constitution was adopted on April 20th to form the Hesperian Society.

Eight students of the classes of '89 and '90 made up the list of charter members. The Society grew quite rapidly, having twenty-three members at the end of the first year.

The first rooms occupied by the fraternity were in the old College Hall, until 1890. They then took a suite of rooms in Old Wells Hall and held these until the latter part of 1905. In 1911 they purchased the site on Grand River Avenue, between Evergreen and Abbott road. Late in 1926 this property was disposed of and the present property, on the corner of West Grand River and Harrison road, was secured. The present home was completed in 1927.

Lambda Chi Alpha

National Fraternity

Founded at Boston University in 1909

GAMMA OMICRON ZETA

Established at M. S. C. in 1922

THE Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity was founded at Boston University, growing out of the Cosmopolitan Club of Law, which was organized in 1905. What is regarded as the first meeting of the fraternity was held November 2, 1909, and this date is regarded as the founding date. This meeting was called to consider reorganizing the club into a Greek letter society. This proposition met a great opposition and was rejected. Three members of the Club withdrew and started to build the foundation of a new fraternity.

While the fraternity was established with a view of National expansion, no attempt was made for new chapters until the spring of 1912. With the addition of the University of Pennsylvania, which brought in many influential men, the laws were perfected and the insignia and ritual were adopted.

The growth of the Lambda Chi Alpha has been both consistent and substantial, as is shown by the unbroken roll of eighty-four chapters.

Phi Chi Alpha

Local Fraternity

Established 1925

THE Phi Chi Alpha fraternity was formed in January, 1925, with a nucleus of thirteen men. The membership was soon expanded, and it was decided that in order to insure the solidarity of the group, and to stimulate group life, a home must be procured. Their first choice was a house located at 270 West Grand River and they moved in. This soon proved to be inadequate for the rapidly growing society and the actives cast about for a more suitable domicile. The "College Residence" at 218 Abbott seemed to be an answer to their needs and the society located there.

Phi Chi Alpha was founded to furnish a fraternal group to men whose aims and interests lay along certain lines. During its comparatively short life its members have been quite generally identified with campus activities and have done good work in forensics and Theta Alpha Phi productions, and the society aspires in the future to an even more prominent place in fraternal circles.

Phi Delta Theta

National Fraternity

Established 1873

Reestablished 1931

PHI DELTA THETA dates its beginning at Michigan State College in the month of November, 1873, when it was presented with its charter. In 1898, due to a new policy of Phi Delta Theta, a change was made. The charter was returned to the general council, and the reorganization into the Phi Delta Society was immediate. In September, 1931, this charter was renewed by the national organization. The fraternity has been in constant existence since 1876, and claims the distinction of being the oldest fraternal organization on the campus.

"Old Wells" was the meeting place of the group until 1905 when the destruction of that building forced it to seek other quarters. Upon completion of the "New Wells" the State Board granted the society rooms where it remained until the Fall of 1907. At this time the Phi Delts moved into a new home on North Abbott Road and lived there until the old Bird residence was purchased at 148 West Grand River. In November, 1931, another change in quarters was made. The society moved into its new home at Cowley and Grand River.

Phi Kappa Tau

National Fraternity

Founded at Miami University in 1906

ALPHA ALPHA CHAPTER

Established 1926

DURING the latter part of January, 1915, Professor Johnston of the English department of M. A. C. and several Seniors and Juniors of that year felt the need of a new society on the campus. The aim of these originators was to organize and build up a society of men of good character, high in qualities of leadership. The constitution and by-laws were adopted February 4, 1915, after several meetings in Professor Johnston's office, and the society was called the Dorian Literary Society. The first meetings, after the organization was effected, were held in College Hall. From March 15, 1915, until January 17, 1920, the society occupied rooms in Wells Hall. December 6, 1919, the Dorian Literary Society association was incorporated under the laws of Michigan, membership consisting of active and alumni members twenty-one years of age or over. January 1, 1920, the present home of the society was purchased. It affords study rooms and sleeping quarters for 24 members as well as the customary society rooms.

With the lifting of the ban on national fraternities by the State Board of Agriculture, the Dorians petitioned Phi Kappa Tau with the result that a charter was granted in May, 1923.

ALPHA THETA CHAPTER

Established at M. S. C. in 1925

PI KAPPA PHI was founded at the college of Charleston in South Carolina in 1904. It was an outgrowth of a friendship that had flourished between three men since the elementary school days in the environs of one of the South's oldest towns. The incorporation as a national fraternity took place in 1907 and since the inception, the growth of the organization has been steady and consistent. Although more pronounced in the south it has never been confined there by policy. The present fraternity roll includes forty-one active chapters and twenty-one alumni chapters.

Pi Kappa Phi, in its beginning on the campus, was known as the Orphic Literary Society. It was founded early in February, 1917. The society had barely formed its nucleus when the advent of the World War forced it to discontinue its activities along with the other societies on the campus. In September, 1919 the society was recognized and the membership has averaged between 30 and 35 to the present date. In December 1925 its petition for admission to Pi Kappa Phi was granted, making it the fifth National Fraternity admitted to this campus.

Phylean

Local Fraternity
Established in 1911

THE Phylean Literary Society was formed in 1910 by a group of men residing in College Hall. Only a few meetings were held here, however, the newly founded society soon moving its headquarters to Ward B of Wells Hall. In the Fall of 1913, plans were started to secure a home, and the fraternity was successful in obtaining the old Dixon residence which was located in what is now the business section of East Lansing. In 1917, the Phyleans feeling the need for a home of their own, secured and moved into their present abode on East Grand River.

Like many of the other societies, the Phylean group was rendered inactive during the Great War. The United States government found a unique use for the house turning it into a nurses' home; and the fraternity was also well represented in active service.

Since its founding, this society has been active in all branches of extra-curricular work on the campus. It has been constantly represented on publications in one capacity or another, and a number of Phyleans have made their marks on Varsity athletic teams.

The name, Phylean, was chosen to signify friendship, and this has been the aim of the society both in the group and in contact with other houses.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

National Fraternity

Founded at the University of Alabama in 1856

MICHIGAN GAMMA CHAPTER

Established at M. S. C. in 1927

THE Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity was founded on the ninth day of March, 1856, at the University of Alabama, in the old city of Tuscaloosa. Eight students who had become hard and fast friends were the founders of this brotherly society. The Michigan Gamma chapter was installed at Michigan State College on February 19, 1927.

The Columbian Literary Society, to whom the national chapter was granted, was formed in 1894, in old Williams Hall. The society resided here until the Winter of 1914, when it moved to its present quarters on Bogue Street. This fraternity is one of the older ones on our campus and has many interesting memories.

During the World War the then Columbian society was rendered inactive and the house was utilized as a temporary hospital. The service also took its toll from the membership of the fraternity, two Columbians giving their lives in the fray.

The national group boast many notables among its number, better known of whom were, President McKinley, Bobby Jones, Buddy Rogers, and Conrad Nagel. Fred Alderman is Michigan Gamma's contribution to this list.

MICHIGAN BETA CHAPTER

Established at M. S. C. 1930

THIS organization as first founded was known as the Ulyssian Literary Society. The work of organization was started on October 12, 1922, and on November 6, 1922, the formal announcement of the founding of the society was made. From a purely literary organization the society developed into a fraternal group. On May 24, 1930 the society was installed as Michigan Beta Chapter of Theta Kappa Nu Fraternity.

At present there are twenty-eight men living in the chapter house located at 334 W. Michigan Ave.

Theta Kappa Nu Fraternity was founded by the union of eleven well established local fraternities at a meeting held in Springfield, Missouri, June 9, 1924. The fraternity recognized at its inception that there was need for a new national fraternity which would be favorable in its expansion both to the large university and the small college. It therefore undertook a methodical program of expansion and grew steadily. At present there are fifty-three chapters with a total membership exceeding five thousand.

Trimoiria

Local Fraternity

Founded 1913

A PERUSAL into the files of the Trimoiria Literary Society reveals the date of its founding as February 10, 1913 in Room 7, College Hall. At the first meeting E. C. Douglas was elected president and at the second meeting of the organization on February 17, 1913, the name Trimoiria was adopted.

At the time of the start of the new organization only three main branches of engineering were taught at this institution, namely mechanical, electrical and civil. The insignia was constructed with cornerstones signifying these three branches of engineering.

In the original constitution freshmen could not be taken into the organization, but the constitution was soon amended so that they could be taken in during the winter and spring term of their freshman year.

From 1913 until 1923 the society rooms were located in Ward D, Wells Hall. During the year 1923 a house was bought on the corner of East Grand River and M. A. C. Avenues.

In 1928 this property was sold and the society moved into its present location on Burcham Drive.

Union Literary Society

Local Fraternity
Established in 1876

THE Union Literary Society was founded in the year 1876, April 1. The charter members were James Brassington, R. A. Clark, William Jakeway, and D. H. Kedzie. There were eighteen other men taken in in this same year. Its aim was the furtherance of literary achievements. The first meetings were held in Ward A of old William's Hall. After this structure had burned to the ground, the meetings were continued in the present Well's Hall. About the year of 1912 the society felt the need of a permanent home; as a result the present English building was constructed for this purpose.

The society has maintained eating clubs in Well's Hall, Abbot Hall, and a location on Grand River Avenue.

In 1925 our home on the campus was purchased by the college, and the society moved to Albert Avenue. Later we changed our quarters to our present site at 231 Valley Court.

Our alumni number approximately seven hundred and fifty; scattered throughout the world, engaged in various fields of activity. One of the older members held in the highest esteem is Mr. Thomas Gunson, who is known by a greater majority of Michigan State students, past and present. Another valuable asset to our fraternity is Mrs. Edith Allen, who has been with the boys for twenty-two years as our cook, and, in fact, a house-mother.

The Union Literary Society is now engaged in a building project, and plan to have a new home built on Abbott Road.

The Old Armory

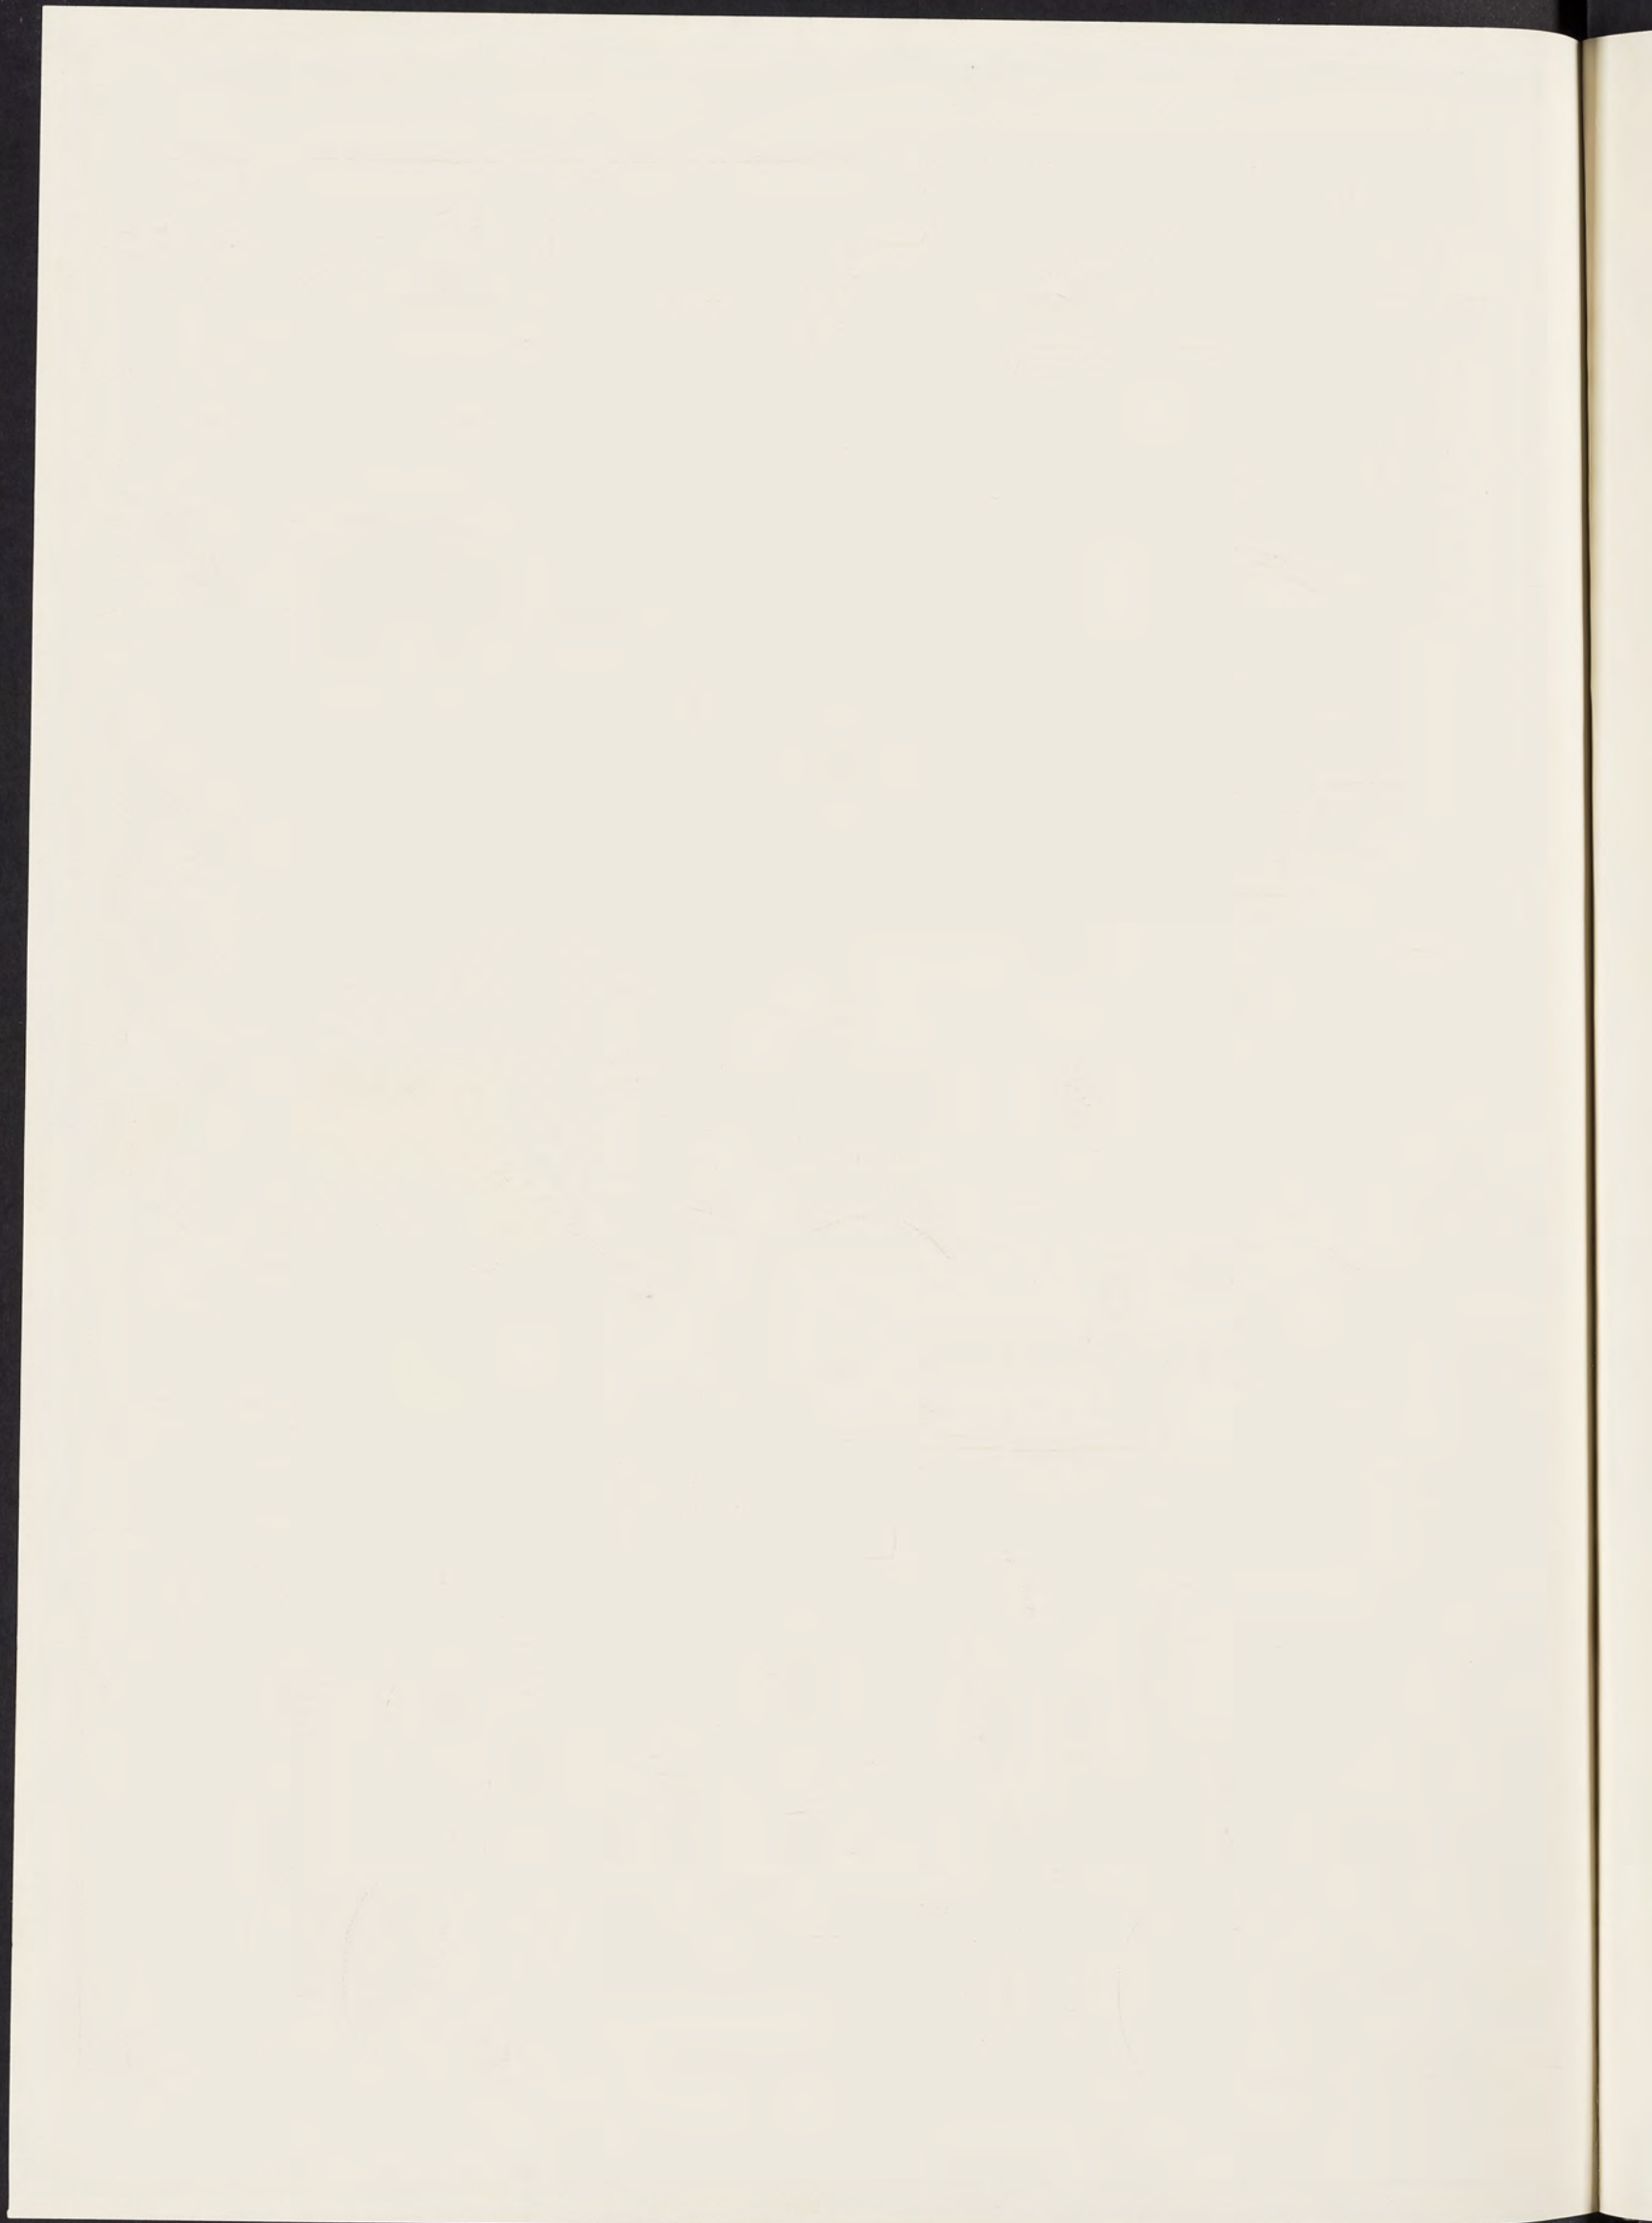

*I*N 1885 a low, broad building was built for military drill and to serve as a gymnasium and lecture hall. The Armory was ready for use in 1886 and was reported to be entirely satisfactory for all military purposes. Though the tar and gravel floor gave forth a disagreeable odor and spoiled many dresses it was endured until an excellent maple floor was laid, which proved to be a great improvement for all purposes.

Even when the number of students was small, there was at times a great lack of order in the dormitories proving very annoying to students, faculty members, and visitors.

The prime object of establishing self-government in M.A.C. was to maintain order in the dormitories and assure the general comfort of students. Though the plan put in effect was too complicated, it was soon modified and when well looked after, it was a partial success.

Military

Value of the R. O. T. C.

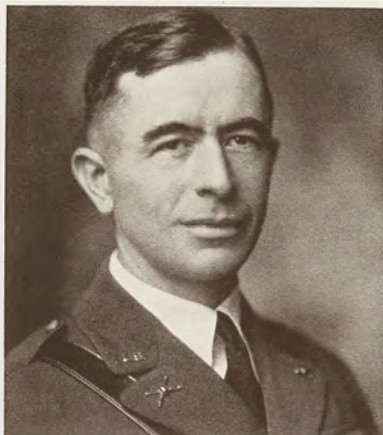

THE R. O. T. C. holds a distinguished place among the activities of the men of the United States because it is beneficial morally, intellectually, physically, and it is honorable. It is morally beneficial in that it springs from the fact that traditional teachings of the corps emphasize and insist upon the truth, fair play and an equal sharing of all burdens. The teachings of the R. O. T. C. confer upon the student outstanding intellectual advantages since there can be no disorderly or slovenly habits of thinking in the military courses. Precision is the very essence and the first requisite of these studies. The physical benefits of the R. O. T. C. are obvious. They are superior because they are positive and precise, cultivating the co-ordination of mind and body. The various commands at drill require for success instant understanding by the student, his instant converting of understanding into decision and resolution, followed by suitable physical reaction. It is honorable in that every man has a chance to acquire and practice those decent attitudes toward other men, and those physical comforts of life for which humanity must be destined if we grant that it has any destiny at all.

EACH year the Cadet Officers are becoming more important and are realizing a greater share of the R. O. T. C. Military procedures. They are assuming greater responsibilities and are in command of their own units.

The officers to fill the Commissioned-Officer ranks are selected from the senior class members, and the Non-Commissioned officers are chosen from the junior members of the advanced R. O. T. C. course. This selection is made on the basis of scholarship, leadership and appearance.

It is customary for the three units to alternate in furnishing a Cadet Colonel, with the Lieutenant Colonels coming from the other two units.

The morality of the Squadron and the Battalions never waiver from superiority, because every cadet is striving to uphold his unit and increase his rank as a Regimental Officer.

The result of the pride of every cadet in his unit is our very high rating in the 6th Corps Area.

THE Infantry is instructed in both the practical and the theoretical method of unit precision and the uses of the infantry's auxiliary weapons.

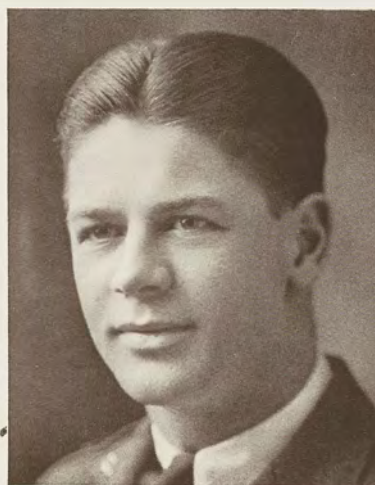

The rifle range in Demonstration Hall gives every possibility for training in marksmanship and the handling of the rifle. Large classrooms afford the study of platoon attack, battle formation, problems and the use of automatic rifles, machine guns, 37 m.m. guns, smoke and protechnics.

This unit prides itself by the almost mechanical precision with which it works.

LEONARD FALCONE
Director

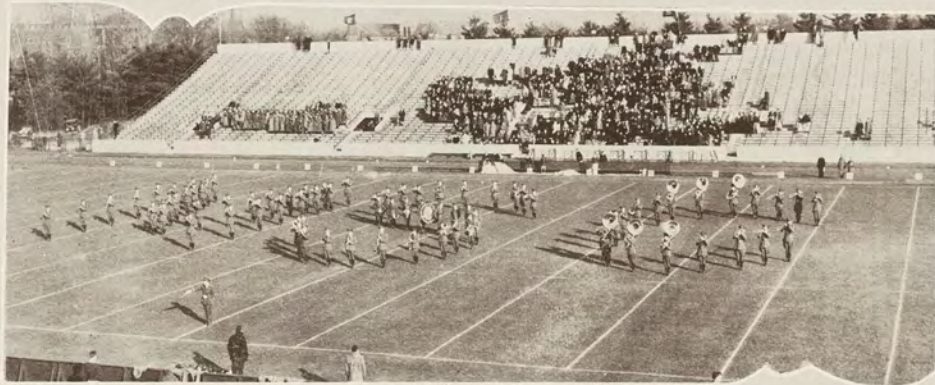

THE Michigan State College Military Band, one of the oldest organizations on the Michigan State College campus, has reached its present high standing through more than sixty years of development. The Band, since its humble beginning in 1870, has been constantly climbing until today it is recognized as one of the leading college bands in the Country.

The Director of the Band, Leonard Falcone, is a native of Italy where he received his early musical education under Maestro Donatelli, famous bandmaster of the last decade.

Mr. Falcone enjoys a national reputation as an artist and is in great demand as soloist by leading bands. Since 1927, the year that Mr. Falcone arrived, he has completely transgressed the band from the old, carefree happy go lucky outfit to a hard-working, painstaking organization—an organization which is praised for its high standards of musicianship and ensemble whether on military parade, where it has always passed inspection with honor; on the athletic field, where it is the pride of the campus; or in concert, where it has established itself as a serious and proficient musical organization.

Harriet Rix, Three Rivers, a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority, was elected as band sponsor.

Polo

*M*ANY attempts have been made to establish Polo at Michigan State, but this has been the first year that the team has been able to display real Spartan calibre.

The members of the squad were divided into three teams, and played a series of games with the 119th Field Artillery of Lansing. State won all three games with the following scores: $13\frac{1}{2}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$, $11\frac{1}{2}$ to $3\frac{1}{2}$ and 15 to 8.

During the Winter term Culver Military Academy defeated State's team, composed of Slisher, Ocker, Miller, Kleinheksel and Clyde. Later in the season State defeated Culver in the return game.

March 5th, State defeated the Flint Polo Club $11\frac{1}{2}$ to $5\frac{1}{2}$. Slisher played a spectacular game, making 8 of the $11\frac{1}{2}$ points.

March 26th, State defeated the Detroit Riding, Hunt and Polo Club $17\frac{1}{2}$ to $16\frac{1}{2}$, but were defeated the following day $20\frac{1}{2}$ to $11\frac{1}{2}$.

The Short Course

THE SHORT COURSE

RALPH WHITCOMB TENNY
Director of Short Courses

ON THIS seventy-fifth anniversary of the College, our interest naturally turns to some points of historical interest.

To begin our college year in the spring and finish in the fall would seem to be a rather peculiar arrangement. Yet the winter months provided the time for the regular college vacation in 1894 when the first short course was organized.

The creameries and cheese factories, like the College, closed during the winter months. Dairying was a seasonal occupation. The winter months, therefore, provided an ideal time to offer a short course in dairying.

The first short course at Michigan State College was offered in Home Dairying, under the leadership of C. D. Smith. The course began January 4, 1894 and continued for six weeks.

This short period practical training made available by the Michigan State College through the short courses has been greatly appreciated by the people of our state. A total enrollment of 11,751 has been recorded since 1894.

Men who have contributed toward the success of this service include the department heads and staff of the Agricultural Division from 1894 to 1932, particularly:

C. D. SMITH.	Professor of Agriculture - - - - -	1893-1908
	Dean of Short Courses, Extension Lecturer, and Superintendent of Institutes	1900-1908
R. S. SHAW.	Professor of Agriculture and Superintendent of Farm - - -	1902-1908
	Dean of Agriculture and Director of Experiment Station - - -	1908-1928
	President - - - - -	1928-
J. F. COX.	Dean of Agriculture - - - - -	1928-
J. W. WESTON.	Director of Short Courses - - - - -	1915-1916
ASHLEY M. BERRIDGE.	Director of Short Courses - - - - -	1916-1921
	Assistant Director of Short Courses - - - - -	1921-1924
E. B. HILL.	Director of Short Courses - - - - -	1921-1924

It's the smoothest
proposition
I ever saw!

When I say smooth, George, I mean smooth. Like silk. Just the same at six or sixty. Not a quiver at any speed. No "rough spots." No "vibration points." It's the smoothest proposition I ever saw. > > These new Oldsmobile engines are "balanced." They're designed right and built right. That's why they're so smooth. And that's why their smoothness lasts. > > Quiet, isn't it? Not a sound. But there's a lot of engine under the hood. Power. Getaway. Plenty of speed. Frankly, George, I've never driven a car like it. I'm more than satisfied. I'm downright pleased. Just the car for me. Come on. Get in. I'll take you for a spin around town and show you what a car this new Oldsmobile is!
