DIRECTOR OF EXTENSION WORK

So Youre a Spartan!

Then you should know

Because M. S. C. with eighty-seven years of existence has created a tradition everyone as much as the "oval" is a part of campus. And that friendliness ny in education as well as in architecture

With the addition of new buildings Michigan State is ready to serve an America that must be progressive if survival is important. Society can depend that returning to its ranks will be responsible young men and women. They are going to insist on a new and better way of life based on education and understanding. The latter might well be the key to success or failure of future civilization.

May the light never dim on education

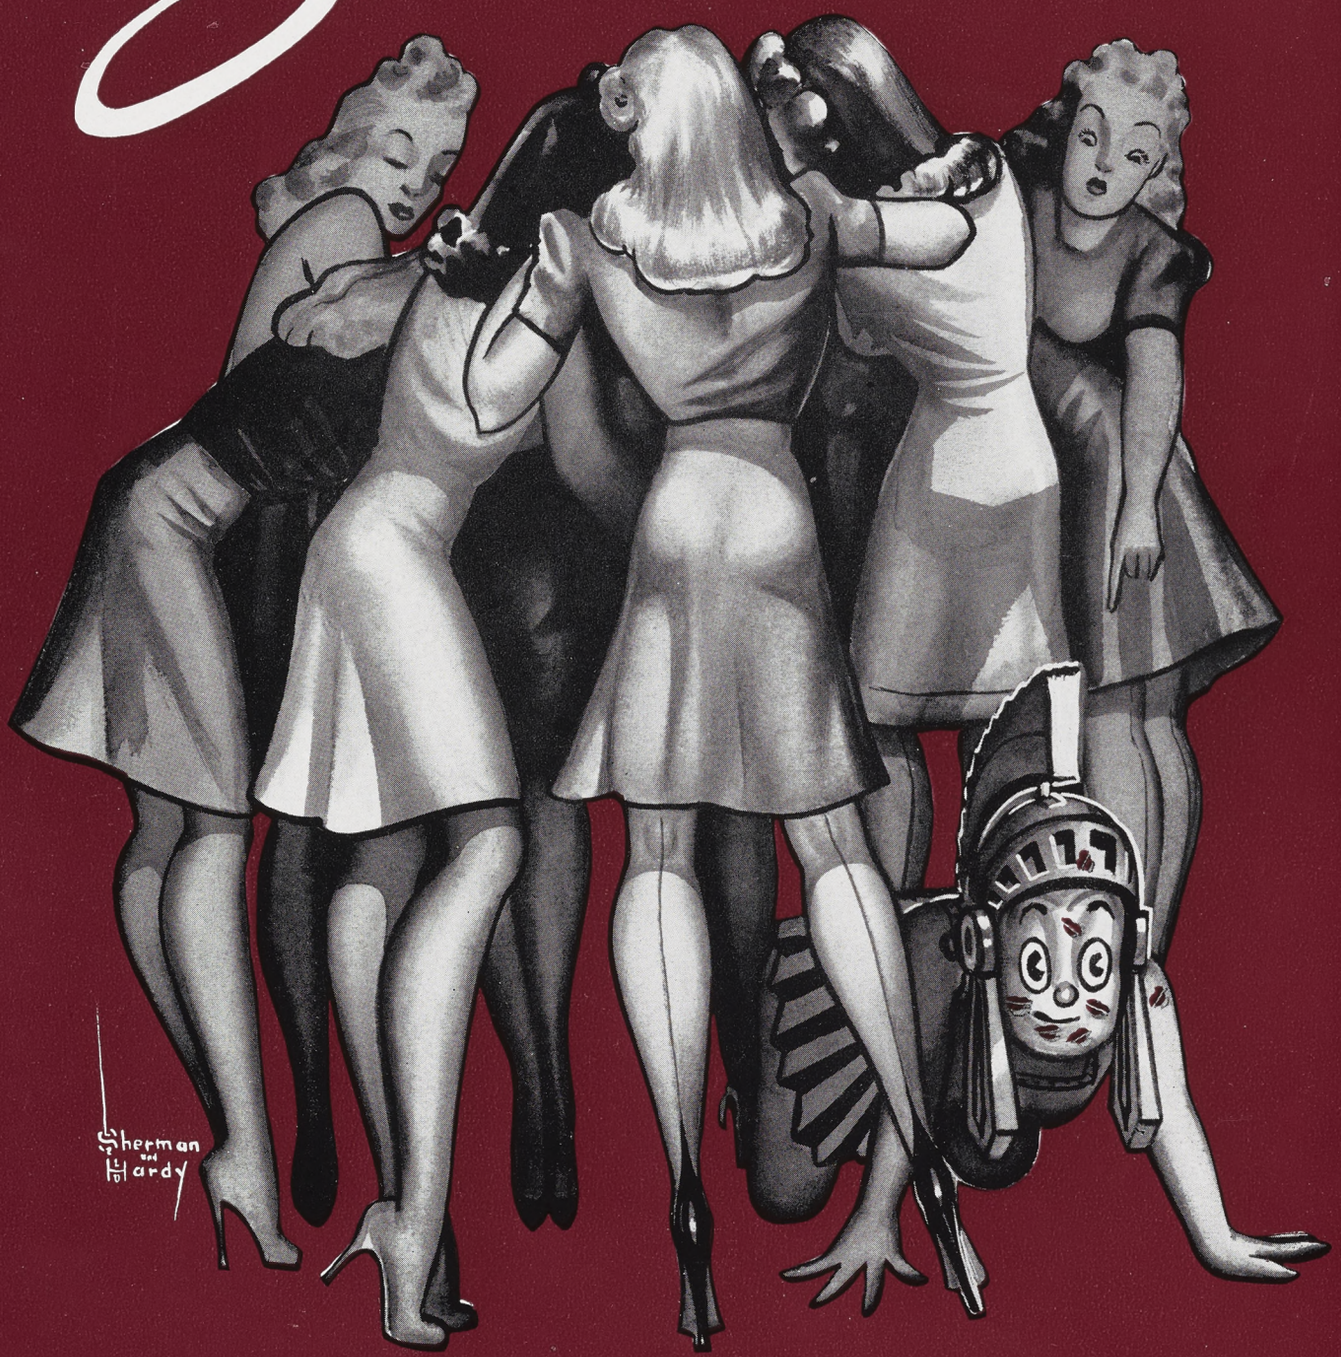

Agriculture, engineering, home economics, veterinary science, applied science, and liberal arts are bright lights on the horizon of learning. Michigan State has helped light the way for better living. Its widespread connections with the people of Michigan makes it unique with its extension service, research, and all college program.

"Sparty" . . . .

and the students who have made this book possible present your '42 yearbook. This bewildering, exciting year has been one of historical importance better understood by future generations than ours.

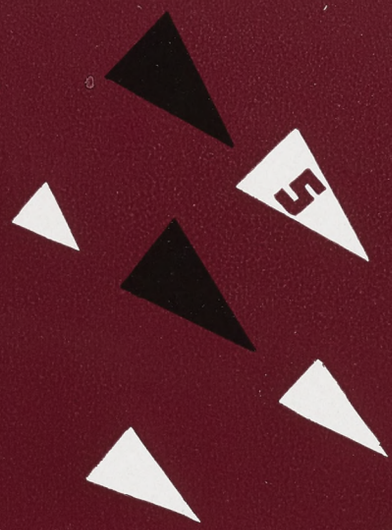

So regardless of the clarity of college in your mind, it will soon be forgotten as '42 slips hurriedly into Time's endless recordings. Therefore, we hope this book will make you recall what time will so quickly erase:

Michigan State - 1942.

Guys and gals by the thousands! All four classes; they're all here from B. M. O. C.'s to tender lads without draft numbers, from B. W. O. C.'s to slender lasses that are cute numbers. And the faculty, too. We welcome a new president, John A. Hannah. We welcome you, too; it's your class section for 1942.

Sparty, saucy sprout of the Spartan family tree, is pretty proud of his college godfathers and godmothers . . . faculty members and administrators at M.S.C. His pals, the students, come and go, but Sparty knows whom he can count on to stand by and keep up the family tradition.

SOME STUDENTS FULLY USE THE KNOWLEDGE THE FACULTY H.

After all, who teach students and look after their health and mark their blue books? Who plan defense courses and spend vacations at conferences to keep Sparty up to date?

Who turn out smiling for football games and swimming meets? Who train Spartan athletes in the first place?

Who collect money and make financial reports and help Sparty's pals when their pet group gets in a jam?

Who scramble into tux or formal so everything will be proper at M.S.C.'s big parties?

Who are the real backbone of the Spartan family, anyway? Sparty knows, and he's proud of them.

PROMOTING STATE'S INTERESTS IS HIS NO. 1 JOB

John A. Hannah

"Old enough in experience, yet young enough in ideas, — that's a boiled-down opinion of John A. Hannah's qualifications for the Presidency of Michigan State College. Stepping into the job in July of 1941, Hannah entered upon as tough a venture as any army generalship — that of keeping a college running in the face of a World War. For certain it is that the future path of Michigan State, and all colleges, will be a turbulent one for many years to come. And it is equally certain that Hannah will keep it on the smoothest road that there is. He's that kind of a man.

An ideal background for his present job is reflected by a glance at his past history. Starting out with three years of schooling towards becoming a lawyer, Hannah was drawn to full-time work on his former hobby of poultry work. In 1923 he began at M.S.C. as an extension poultryman, branching out from there after ten years to poultry work with the national government. Michigan State College again called him in when he took over the position of college and State Ag board secretary.

Today, as president of one of the fastest growing educational institutions in the country, Hannah's future looks brighter than ever before. Any college president who takes his job seriously enough to come to work at 7:30 in the morning every day of the week, as Hannah does, can't help but be tremendously successful. That's John A. Hannah, as students and faculty know him.

They call them the "State Board of Agriculture" — the men who control the destinies of Michigan State College — but the group is really the college board of directors. Under the capable chairmanship of William H. Berkey, Cassopolis newspaper publisher, the Board has the last word in all important matters pertaining to Michigan State College. Peculiar among boards set up by the State government, this one is defined as a "Constitutional corporation of independent authority," and is not subject to legislative authority.

Not many students know it, but the State Ag Board has the final say-so on all diplomas and degrees granted by Michigan State College. These are first recommended by the faculty. The board is made up of six elected members. Two vacancies are filled at general elections in the Spring of every other year. The term in office is six years. The president of the college and the State superintendent of public instruction are ex-officio members. The secretary of the college, and the college treasurer are elected by the board, serve under them, and are board members. The board meets once a month, except in August, and usually on the third Thursday of the month.

TO ELECT THE PRESIDENT, AND SUPERVISE THE COLLEGE

THESE PEOPLE'S DECISIONS DIRECT STUDENT DESTINIES

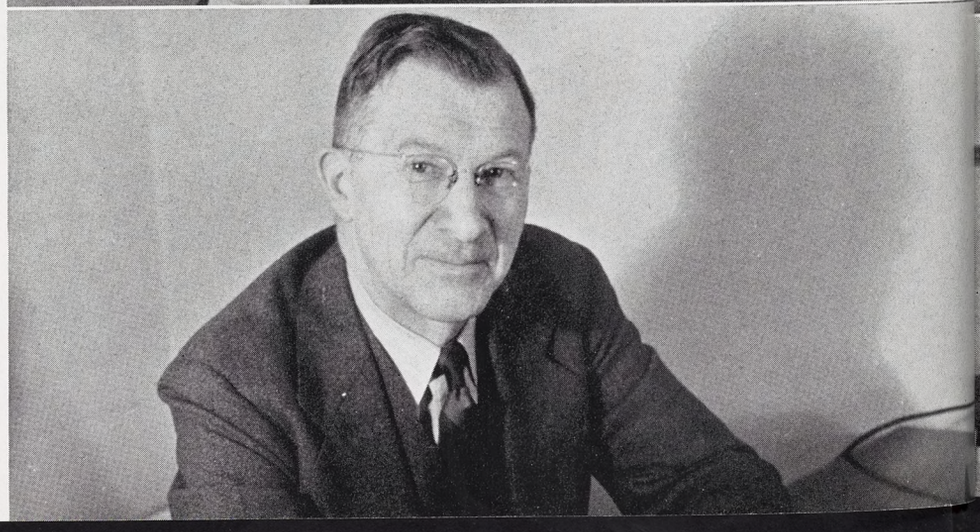

Karl H. McDonel, a graduate from State's 1916 class, and an assistant extension director of the college for 14 years, was appointed secretary of MSC in April, 1941.

C. O. Wilkins, treasurer and comptroller, has been in charge of all the funds and expenditures at the Administration Building for the past 17 years.

R. S. Linton, Registrar since 1938, has served at Michigan State as a supervising Agriculture instructor, full-time teacher, and assistant registrar. He is an alumnus of the class of '16.

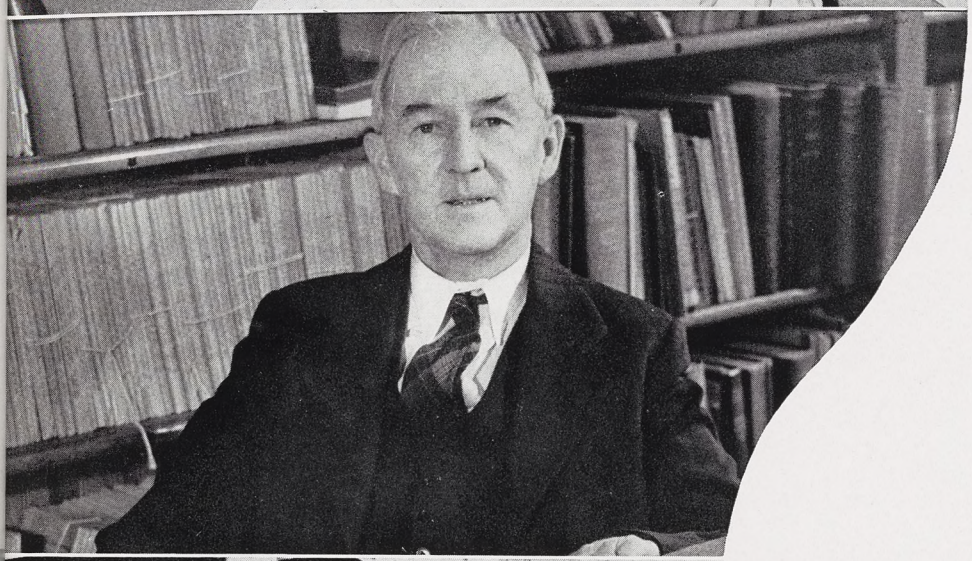

S. E. Crowe, who has been associated with the college since 1909, is head of the summer school, director of the new general curriculum beginning this summer, chairman of advisers, and also chairman of the lecture course.

Elizabeth W. Conrad, former French professor and adviser to women on scholarships at Iowa U., has been Dean of Women at State since 1928.

Mabel F. Petersen, graduate of State in 1932. While at State, organized Spartan Women's League, Co-organizer of Alpha Omicron Pi, has been Housing Supervisor for Women since 1934.

Ernest A. Bessey, Dean of the graduate school, came to State in 1910 as a Botany professor, after studying at the University of Nebraska and Halle, Germany.

Fred T. Mitchell, Professor of Education at State for the past eleven years, has been the Dean of Men since 1935.

Glen O. Stewart, Alumni secretary for the past 16 years, and graduate of State in 1917, was largely responsible for raising the pledges of the Union building.

DEAN E. L. ANTHONY

DEAN MARIE DYE

DEAN H. B. DIRKS

Raised on a ranch in western Nebraska, Dean E. L. Anthony majored in dairy husbandry at Missouri University and in Europe studied the history of cattle. In 1928 he came to Michigan State and was made Dean of Agriculture in 1932.

In the middle of graduate work at Chicago University, Dean Marie Dye decided to specialize in nutrition. She came to Michigan State in 1922, was Dean of Home Economics by 1929, instituted research and graduate work in nutrition at M.S.C.

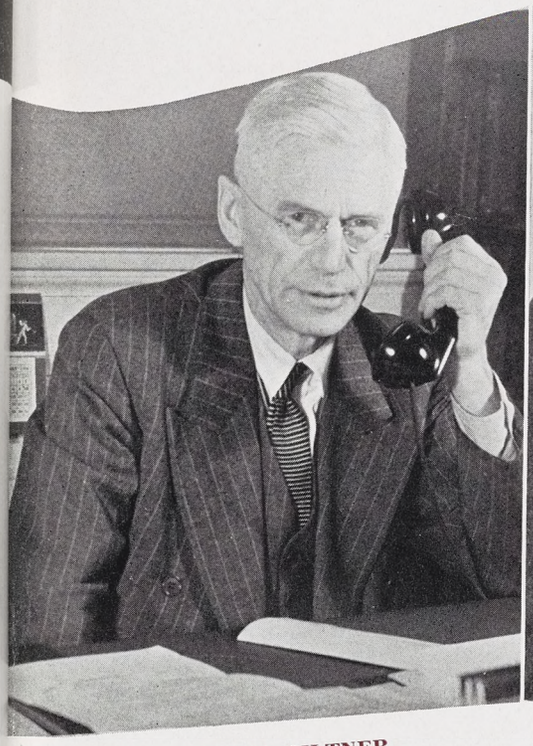

Because of a persuasive brother, Dean H. B. Dirks broke a family tradition and went to study mechanical engineering at the University of Illinois. He joined the M.S.C. faculty in 1919 as it was near his former home, Chicago, and became Dean of Engineering in 1929.

ACH STRIVING TO MAKE HIS THE BEST ONE OF THEM ALL

Ward Giltner, Dean of Veterinary Science, was knee deep in Cornell's veterinary course when he became interested in bacteriology. Giltner arrived at M.S.C. from Auburn, Alabama, became head of Bacteriology in 1912, Dean of Veterinary Science eleven years later.

In Parsons College, R. C. Huston, Dean of Applied Science, studied towards medicine, but changed to organic chemistry at the University of Iowa. In 1911 he heard about M.S.C. and joined its faculty that same year. He became Dean in 1925.

Dean L. C. Emmons, educated at Indiana University, has at M.S.C. supervised men's dormitories, been professor of institutional administration, professor of mathematics, and Dean of Liberal Arts, appointed in 1934. Emmons helped to have Michigan State accredited by the American Association of Universities.

The thirteen biggest BMOC's on campus — that's a good description of Excalibur, local senior men's honorary. Election to membership in the group means to the individual that he has reached the top in his special extra-curricular field and has been active in others also. Membership is restricted to thirteen men.

From the beginning of college when all freshmen are addressed by the Student Council president and other prominent activity heads, the aim of every man is to become a member of Excalibur. For Excalibur carries with it the distinction of wearing the dark blue robe, and the privilege of lunching once weekly with a select group, and exchanging ideas with them over the table.

Excalibur men are singled out from others on the campus by their distinctive sport coats, this year light tan, emblazoned with the darker brown letter "X." It denotes excellence of character, scholastic achievement, and leadership on the campus.

Junior classmen active in organizations are watched all year by these thirteen. At the Water Carnival, during Senior Week, ten men are tapped into Excalibur.

Mortar Board is a national organization formed to stimulate college loyalty and advance the spirit of fairness and fellowship among women. It strives to maintain high standards of scholarship among the student body.

Mortar Board sponsored the "Cinderella Spin," an all-college dance, at the beginning of Winter term. They also carried on the May Morning Sing jointly with the Tower Guard. One of their most noteworthy achievements was the sponsorship of the Spring term marriage course. During Homecoming the old alums became the eager purchasers of their song books.

Mortar Board has also been of great assistance this year with the faculty coffee hours, which aid the students in becoming acquainted individually with their professors. Lantern night, on which the graduates pass down their symbols of office to the succeeding class, is their last activity.

Of all the memories of college the things that happened and the things that you did are what count. That is what always comes up in bull-sessions; it furnishes the laughs, probably because it happened to YOU.

So in the ninety-nine informal pictures that you follow through the senior section we have tried to picture what happens to you. When you have fun, when you study, when you ought to have been studying, but were having more fun having fun, and those pleasantries that make college college.

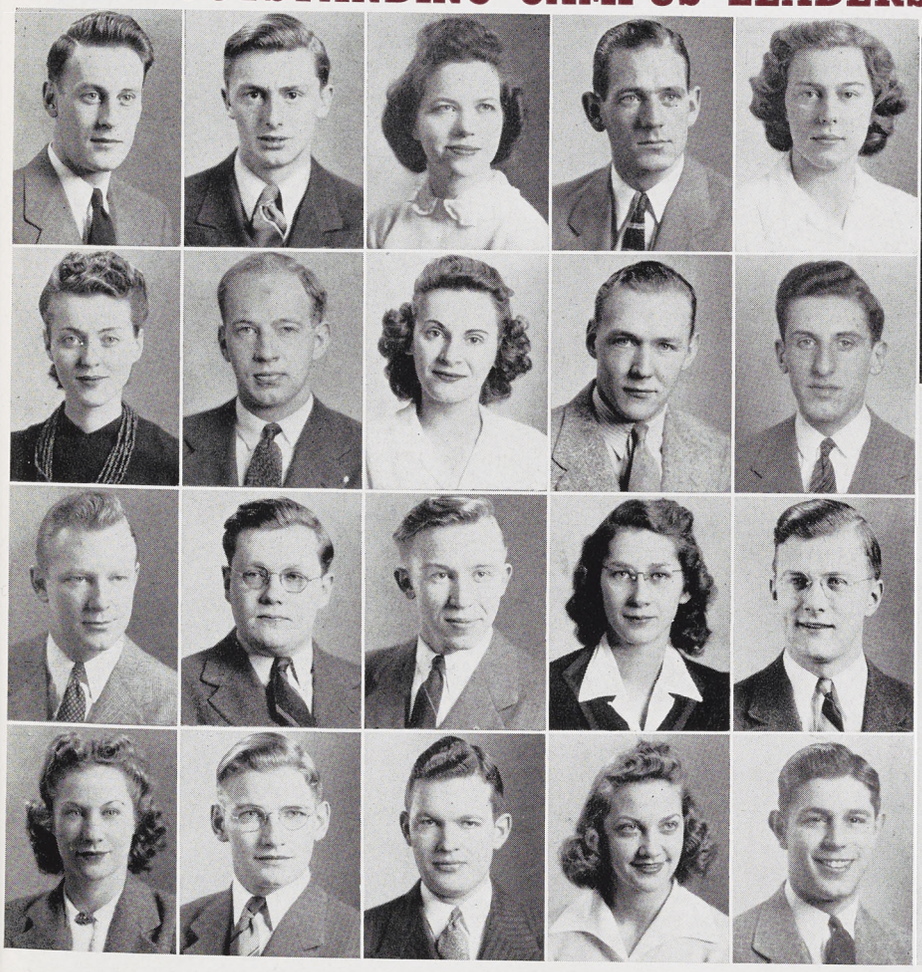

Pictures of the six college divisions are included, but we have tried to be subtle and cover up mundane pedagogy with something interesting, not that we couldn't stand even that.

Hope you find yourself; you've been in college long enough too!

THE JUNIORS — THEY'RE OLD ENOUGH TO GRADUATE AND TH

Junior has always been a headache for mother —

The Juniors are the class who waited until a week before the J-Hop to announce their bands.

They struggled through three years of college and decided passive resistance was their policy.

As Spartans they politely attended athletic activities — especially Winter term dances. Junior girls hoped to continue to have dates but found Uncle Sam stiff competition. Junior boys wondered whether they would become Seniors via Summer School, or, would they become Seniors?

As third-year students they were comparatively free of faculty supervision and upperclassman condescension; they worked on one person to make an impression that would take.

Toward the end of the year they were astounded to find the world regarded them as adults. Their dignity will doubtless wane through the Summer, be renewed for school opening, and forgotten by mid-terms.

Junior Class President Max Dillingham is a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity and is a Liberal Arts representative to the Student Council.

Junior Vice-president, Mary Jean Wood, lists among her activities: Treasurer of Alpha Phi, member of Pan-Hellenic and Student Councils, and Chairman of Ticket Committee of the J Hop.

ND THEY'RE OLD ENOUGH TO KNOW BETTER

Peggy Green, popular Kappa Alpha Theta and Secretary of the Junior Class, is a member of the P.E.M. Club, Y.W.C.A., W.A.A., and Green Splash.

Kappa Sigma Bill Gaynier, Junior Treasurer, officiated as the Chairman of the J Hop Finance Committee, and is a member of the Officers Club and of the Vocational Council.

BLUE KEY IS A COLLECTION OF AMIGOS WITH EGOES TH

Arthur Land . . . . President

Members of Blue Key, National service fraternity, are selected on the basis of character, scholarship, leadership, initiative and service. Juniors and seniors are eligible for tapping.

Among the many projects of the club this year were the all-college dance, and "Hello Week" held during registration week of Winter term, and annual "Sweetheart Ball" in Spring term of 1941 at which members selected Miss Phyllis Dean to reign as Blue Key sweetheart for the coming year.

Service projects of the club included publication by initiates of a revised list of patrons for college parties, the loan of billboards to any campus organization and the establishment of a loan fund which was managed by Blue Key members under the supervision of the Dean of Men and the group advisor, Ron Heath.

With the assistance of members of the Speech department, the club sponsored classes in parliamentary procedure which were open to nominees to office in any campus organization.

THE SOPHOMORES—THEY'RE NOT AS UNVARNISHED AS FRESHMEN, BUT

Sophomores take it out on the Frosh. Sometimes in weak moments they lend the "children" a helping kick in the pants.

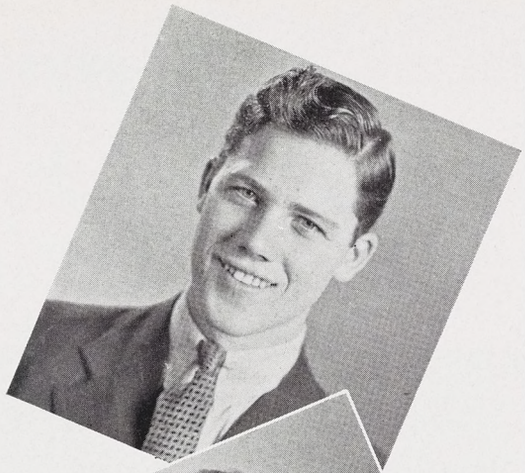

They have learned Dean Calls bark harder than they bite and that advisers are okay joes.

They fulfilled their extra curricular prerequisite and have enrolled in Course 202B in Modern Wolf-fare.

In the Spring the Sophomores proved themselves true Spartans by disregarding all traffic rights of ducks on the Red Cedar.

They showed rare wisdom in Prom-ing to the mellow music of Raymond Scott. After the Frosh-Soph Brawl they drew up a treaty compelling the Frosh to help Mother Nature keep the campus green.

The Sophomores looked back on two years of dorm life, rather reluctant to leave. Then they reconsidered — they didn't go through Hell Week merely to satisfy their curiosity as to what happens to a pledge.

Marvin Eppelheimer, popular Sophomore Prexy, is also a member of the Farmhouse Fraternity, Block and Bridle, Dairy Club, and Student Council.

Carol Edmondson, Sophomore Vice-president and Treasurer of the Delta Zeta sorority, also lends her talents to the Y.W.C.A. Cabinet, A.W.S. Board, and the Wolverine.

EN, BUT THEY COULD STAND A GOOD SHELLACKING

Alpha Chi Omega Dorothy Felker is outstanding on campus as Secretary of the Sophomore Class, a Tower Guard member, La Cofradia, and an able Wolverine salesman.

Sophomore Treasurer Richard Stander, Phi Delta Theta, has been tapped by Green Helmet, Sophomore Honorary, and has participated in the Spartan Variety Show.

Tower Guard honors those sophomore women who in their freshman year have been outstanding in scholarship and leadership. The three fundamental aims of Tower Guard are to uphold scholarship, to develop leadership, and to be of service to Michigan State College.

Tower Guard, whose meeting place is a small room half way up the winding stairs of Beaumont Tower, was founded in 1931.

Each girl chosen must have a 2.1 average, together with an active interest in campus activities, in which she has shown some indication of potential leadership.

Tower Guard traditionally awards a fifty dollar scholarship to the most deserving freshman who is earning his entire way through college. This organization with others has aided in carrying out the National Defense Program on campus, sponsored the Cinderella Spin, and published an All-College calendar. Reading to blind students on campus is another of the services performed by Tower Guard.

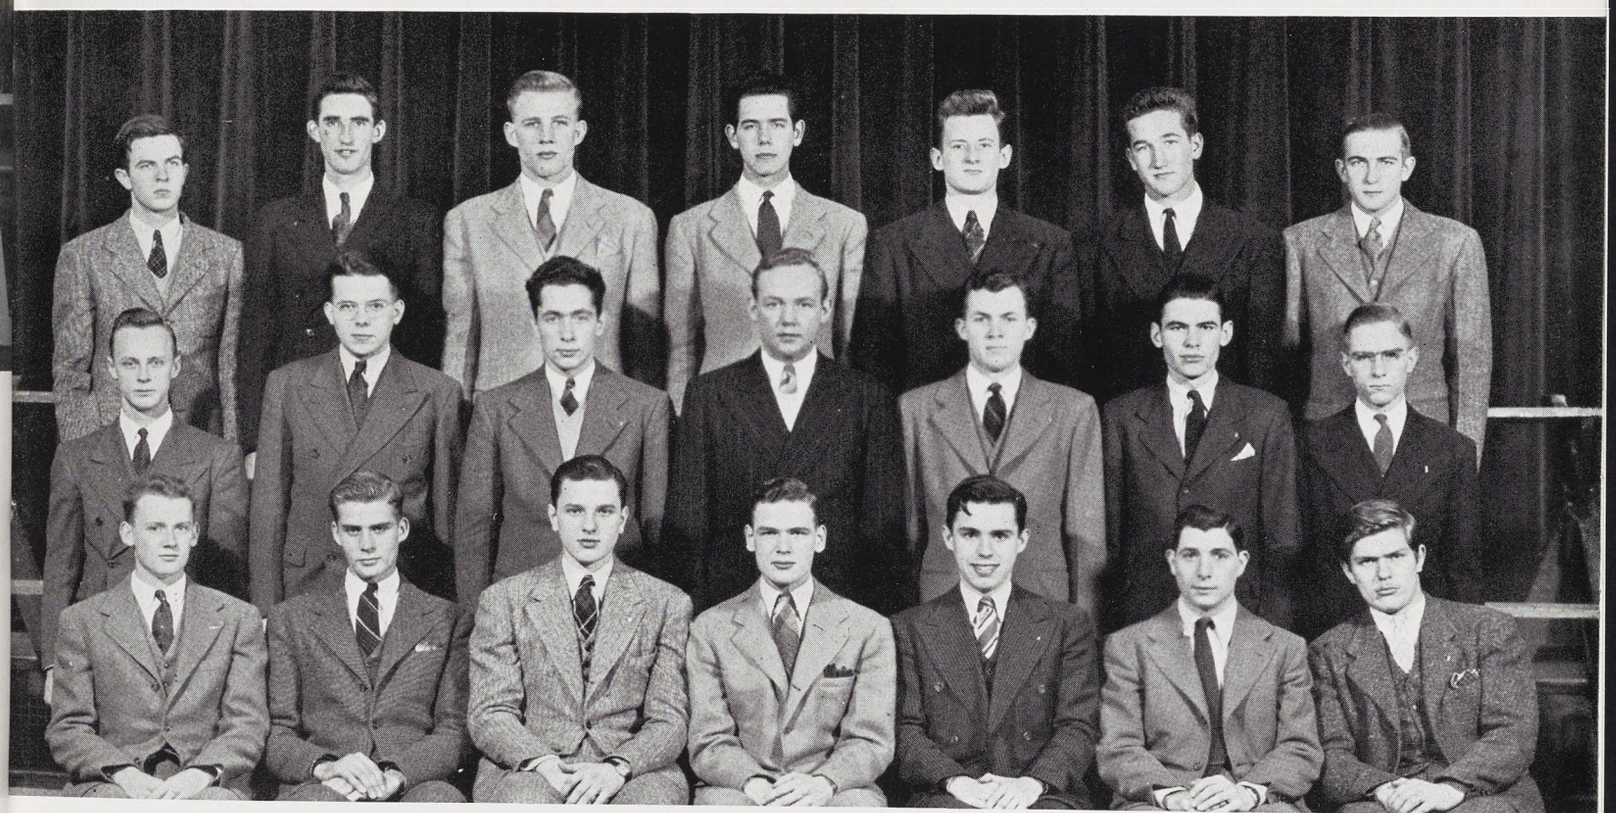

Green Helmet, sophomore men's honorary group, has been one of the most active organizations on campus since its founding in 1938. This year the successful Variety Show which they sponsored in cooperation with Spartan's Women's League was the biggest project for the group.

Work on the Vocational Conference, held during Spring term, also kept the boys busy. Green Helmet also made itself of service in many other ways during the year.

Having the most rigid membership requirements of any honorary on the campus, Green Helmet accepts only those sophomore men who can boast a 2.2 all-college average and activity in extracurricular groups. Members are tapped fall term of their sophomore year and are actives until the following fall term.

Besides their regular meeting they cooperated in nearly every important campus project this year.

GUESS WHO? SHRDLU LEAVES IT UP TO YOU

THE FRESHMEN — THEY'RE NOT AS BAD AS THEY'RE PICTURED

There are a few questions I'd like to ask you, Sparty, so let's start from the beginning . . . where can we buy the tickets to go on the elevator in Morrill Hall? . . . this year we'll win the Frosh-Soph brawl . . . I'd like to study this hour, do you think it would be alright if I cut this class just once? . . . what is Tony's? . . . say, my uniform doesn't fit . . . why does everybody go to the Grill? . . . what kind of flowers should I buy my girl for the Frosh Frolic? . . . now listen, officer, we were just sitting here in the car watching the ducks . . . politics? Do you mean that there are politics on campus! ! . . . two fraternity pins? . . . what would I ever want with two fraternity pins? . . . oh, look, a letter from the Dean — let's hurry and open it . . . but, Sparty, I want to be a B.M.O.C., too.

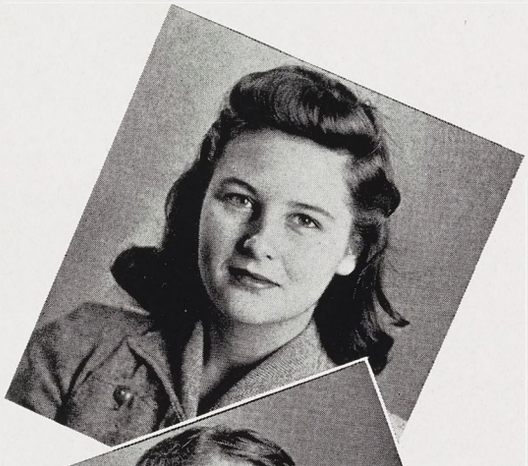

Adolph Bruni, President of the Class of '45, is a member of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity and also of the Newman Club.

Frosh Vice-president Gloria Fortier of Chi Omega, seems to be interested in Drama, as testified by her activity in Studio Theater, and the Farmer's Week Play.

UPPERCLASSMEN—WHICH IS WHY WE SHOULDN'T HAVE FRESHMEN

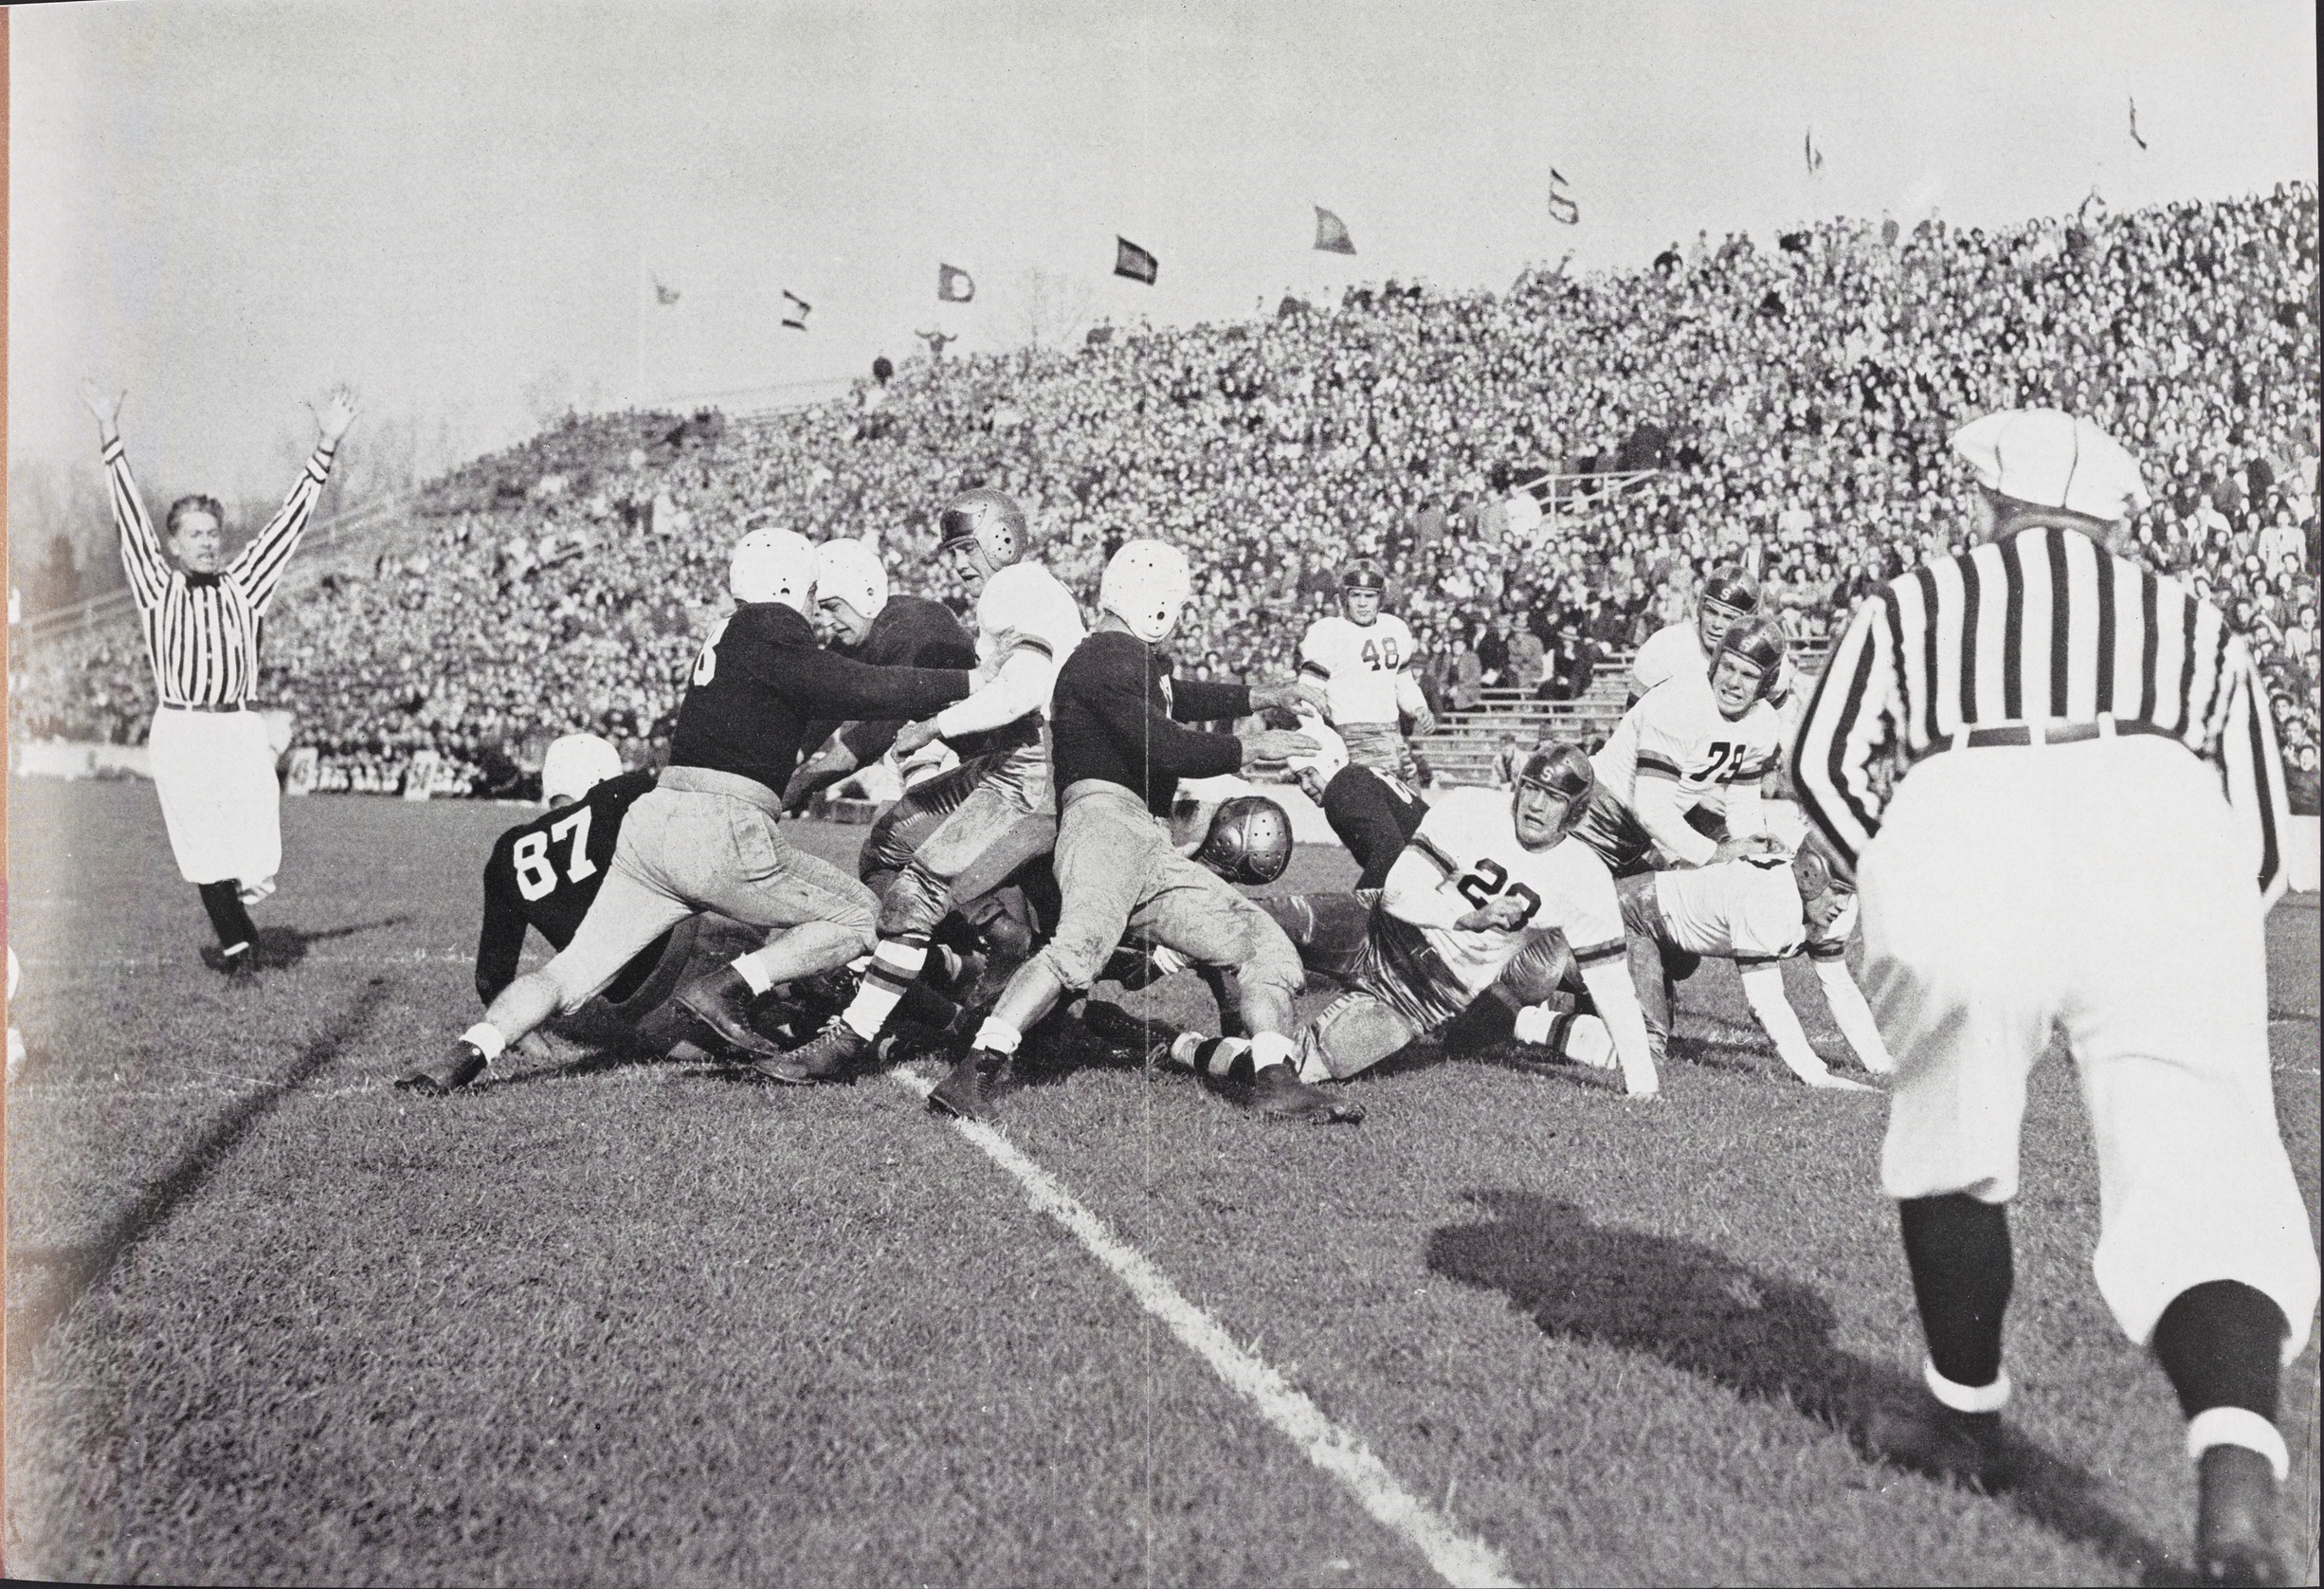

Workouts, scrimmage, kinky muscles, sweatboxes, pushups, dog-tired, and ten laps around Ralph Young before you go to the showers is what conditions the boys that furnish the thrills in sports. They're a pretty good bunch, these boys with sweaters. And this year, more than ever, it's fittin' for a fightin' man!

COACHES — THESE ARE THE MAC ARTHURS WHO DIRECT ACTION ON

Sparty is right proud of the way these men have handled his athletic squads this year. Charles McCaffree made his debut as State swimming coach and stamped himself an ambitious, promising worker. Soft-spoken, modest Fendley Collins surely warrants his reputation as a popular fellow, and an excellent wrestling coach, after 14 years of ever-increasing success. To Charles Schmitter go congratulations for the fine way in which he turned an experience-lacking fencing squad into an efficient, winning aggregation. One of State's greatest basketball machines was Ben Van Alstyne's productions, which contributed immensely to Sparty's welfare in this 1942 season. Ben has been turning out cagers for 17 years. A dual role is played in Sparty's campus by Charles D. Ball who is not only the coach of tennis but for 17 years has also been associate professor in chemistry. The guiding hand behind all State Athletes is Ralph H. Young, now enthusiastically into his 20th year of directing athletics.

Lyman L. Frimodig who, although not directly connected with varsity coaching, has contributed his share in building Sparty's athletic history, rounding out 23 years on the staff, his present capacity being that of assistant director of athletics and freshman basketball coach. More and more honors continue to be heaped upon Karl A. Schlademan, one of the newer, most popular staff members. He has pulled State's faltering track team out of the doldrums this year, his second on campus, offering further proof of championships to come under his direction. John H. Kobs, who has been affiliated with Sparty's athletics for 17 years, again proved his ability to work up a smart string of men into a baseball team which turned in a very good season.

Albert P. Kawal's first year has been a busy one, as assistant to Bachman as a line coach, and as the man responsible for the surprise in the realm of the gloves and ring, where his men turned in winnings on each of the first three matches. Veteran harrier coach Lauren P. Brown has rounded out his 11th year in service of his alma mater, and with plenty of laurels due him for the mighty fine job that he has done.

VARSITY CLUB—IN THIS KIWANIS OF SPARTAN ATHLETICS

Jenison Field House is one of the most modern athletic plants in the nation. It was completed in the Spring of 1940, and named after Frederick Cowles Jenison, a benefactor of the college. Jenison Field House has been praised by coaches and officials from all over the country for its excellent planning and superb equipment.

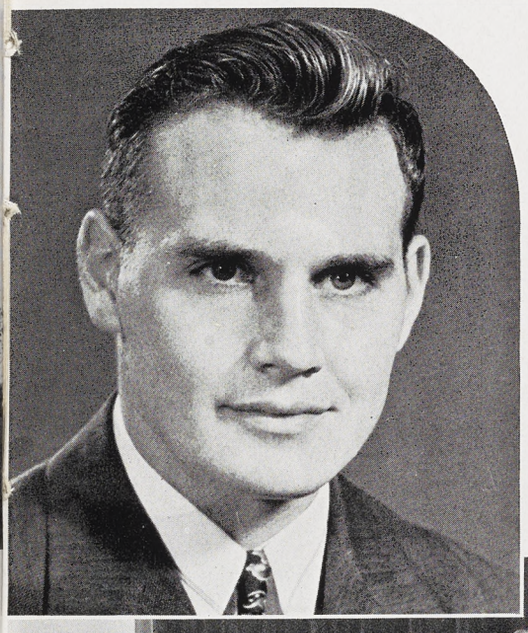

The Varsity Club is a local athletic honorary organized in 1914, and is composed of members elected from the major letter winners, which include managers of varsity teams, the varsity cheerleaders, and outstanding minor sport letter winners. At the beginning of Fall term, there were fifty-seven members. All members of the Varsity Club are juniors or seniors in school.

The organization maintains a spacious club room on the top floor of Jenison Gymnasium where it holds its meetings. This room was set aside especially for the group when the building was constructed. The two outstanding activities of the group are distributing "pots" to freshman students and staging the annual Varsity Ball, which is held in the Spring. This is the only ball allowed in the Field House.

This year, the Varsity Club donated fifty dollars to the Jim Hays Fund, a fund made possible by Hays' friends for the benefit of needy students. A scholarship is awarded each year to the club's senior member having the highest all-college average, and possessing letters in two major sports.

BECOME TEAMMATES, WRANGLE OVER STATE'S SPORTS PR

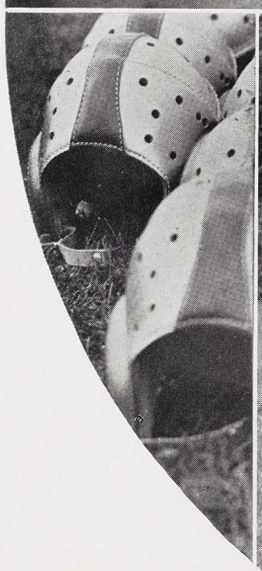

Varsity Club also maintains a list of twenty-nine honorary members who are taken into the organization for their keen interest in Michigan State sports. This group includes many of the coaches, a half-dozen college administrative officials, including President John A. Hannah, and several outsiders.

PROBLEMS, AND WIELD A SHARP INITIATION PADDLE

Every first-year man at State can speak for the aggressive nature in which these athletic BMOC's distribute those familiar green pots, which the freshman displays on his pate during Fall term. These articles of apparel supply the necessary distinction between the have-beens, and the newcomers.

COACH BACH OF THE FURROWED BROW AND FIGHTING SPIRIT

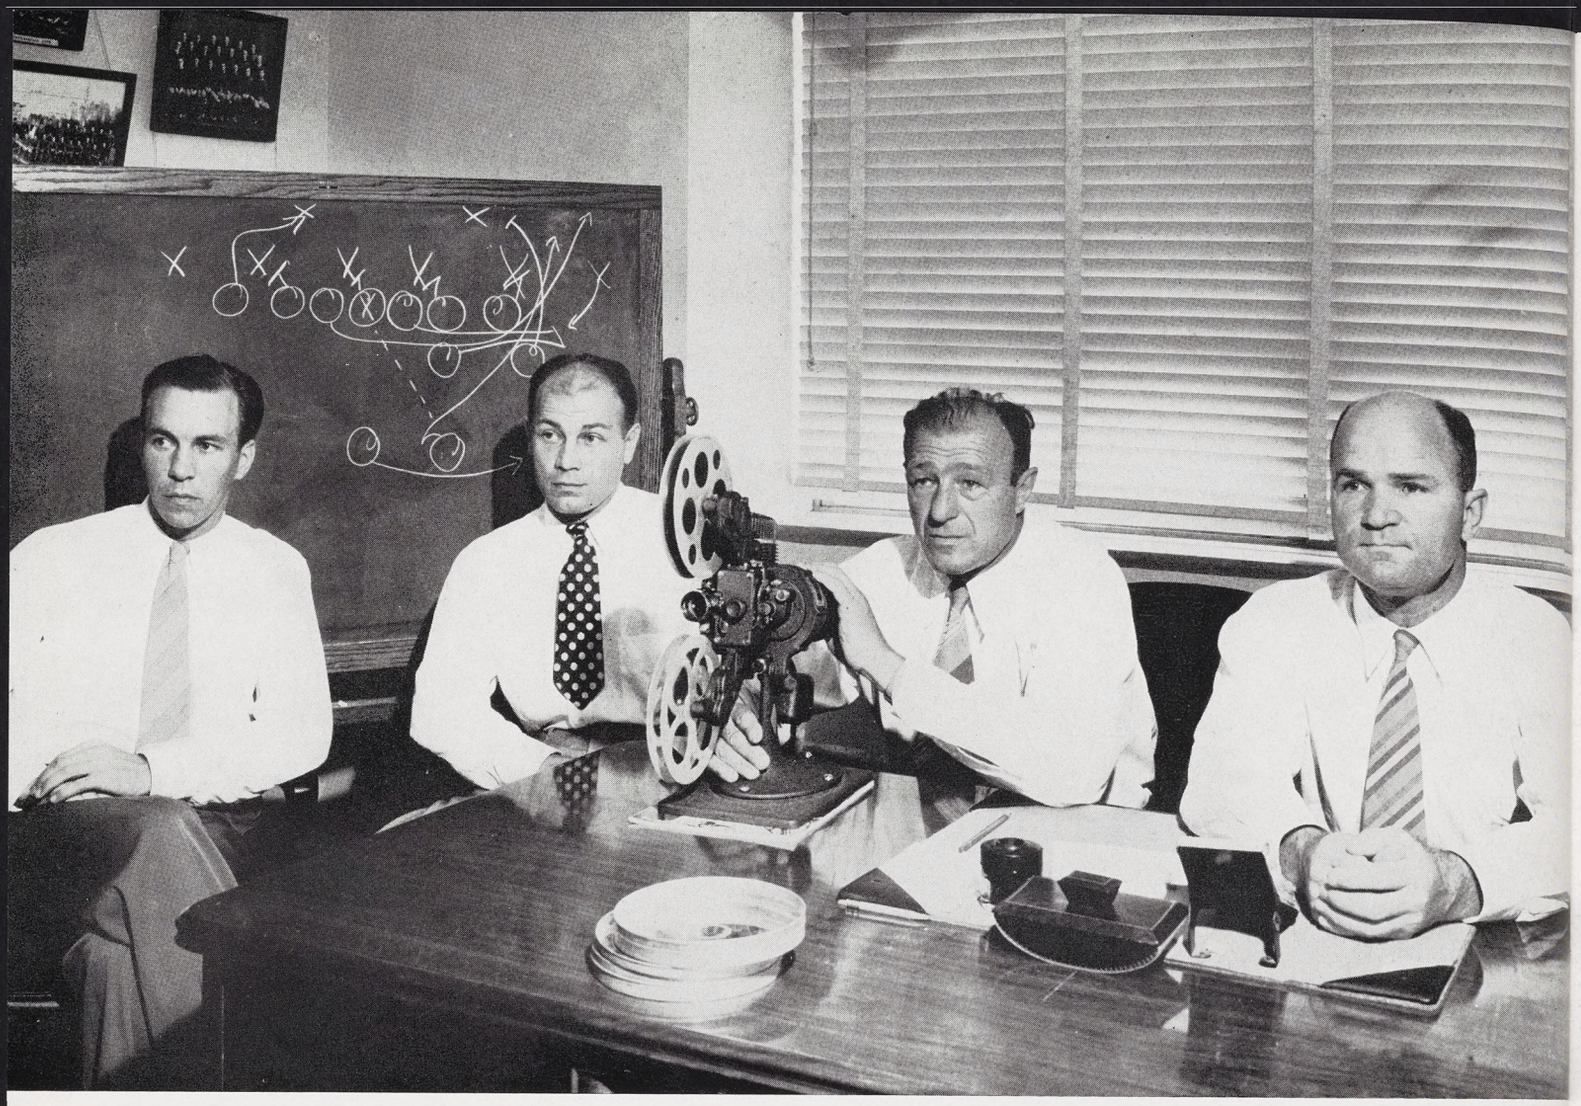

For the past nine Autumns the sound of the referee's whistle has signaled for another Bachman-coached Sparty Squad to take up the pigskin battle. Charlie's wide experience and expert judgment has been ample insurance that with each succeeding year the best team possible would be out on the field to give its all for Michigan State. Graduating from Notre Dame, Bachman spent a short time playing ball for the Navy. After serving Northwestern University, Kansas State College, and the University of Florida, Bachman came to Michigan State in 1933. Author of several books on football, he is also a designer of football playing equipment for a national manufacturer. He relies upon the Notre Dame style of football with several innovations which he has added through the years.

ASSISTANTS — THEY TEACH BLOCKS, TACKLES, PUNTS, AND FROSH

Sparty can count himself lucky to have such seven-in-a-row men as were caught in a moment of relaxation depicted below. These men can be likened to the mythical humpty-dumpty, in that whenever a "strong wind" in the form of too-stiff competition comes along, they are due for a fall. But here the similarity ceases, for instead of never being able to recover, these men have shown their super ability to direct come-backs time and again, to give the Michigan State fans some of the best coached athletes of all time. Each one is an expert in the art of playing the game well to win fairly and honestly. A composite of all the skill and ability of these coaches would present a most impressive picture. And so Sparty can heave a big sigh of satisfaction and relief when he views these seven-in-a-row, for each one of them determined to give his best in every situation for good old MSC.

Motion pictures play a large part in planning the football strategy of Michigan State gridiron teams. It's not an uncommon sight to find Coaches Dahlgren, Kawal, Bachman and Holsinger, as they are here, perched behind the camera as it flickers football action on an opposite wall.

Football motion pictures are used extensively both before and after games. Players are shown the pictures after a game to correct the actions in the contest next to come. And then too, game pictures with a team which has been met some previous year are handy to demonstrate formations and basic plays.

Football action packed into a reel of film leads coaches to some very conclusive thoughts about both teams and individuals. But to the individual performer who is inclined to loaf on the job, they're strictly a nightmare.

STRATEGY BOARD—MOVIES AND BLACKBOARDS ARE ITS TOOLS

VARSITY SQUAD — TOUCHDOWNS, TORN JERSIES MAKE VICTORIES

The 1941 football season for the Michigan State gridders was better than average. In its first year, the draft failed to touch the Spartan varsity, and the team was intact throughout the season except for a large number of injuries which kept several stars on the sidelines.

Sixteen seniors were lost through graduation and culmination of eligibility. They were the players lost through the regular channels, but now Coach Charley Bachman has other worries, too. Freshman football material was weaker than usual in the Fall of '41, and a strong group of sophomore contenders cannot be counted upon to replace the seniors.

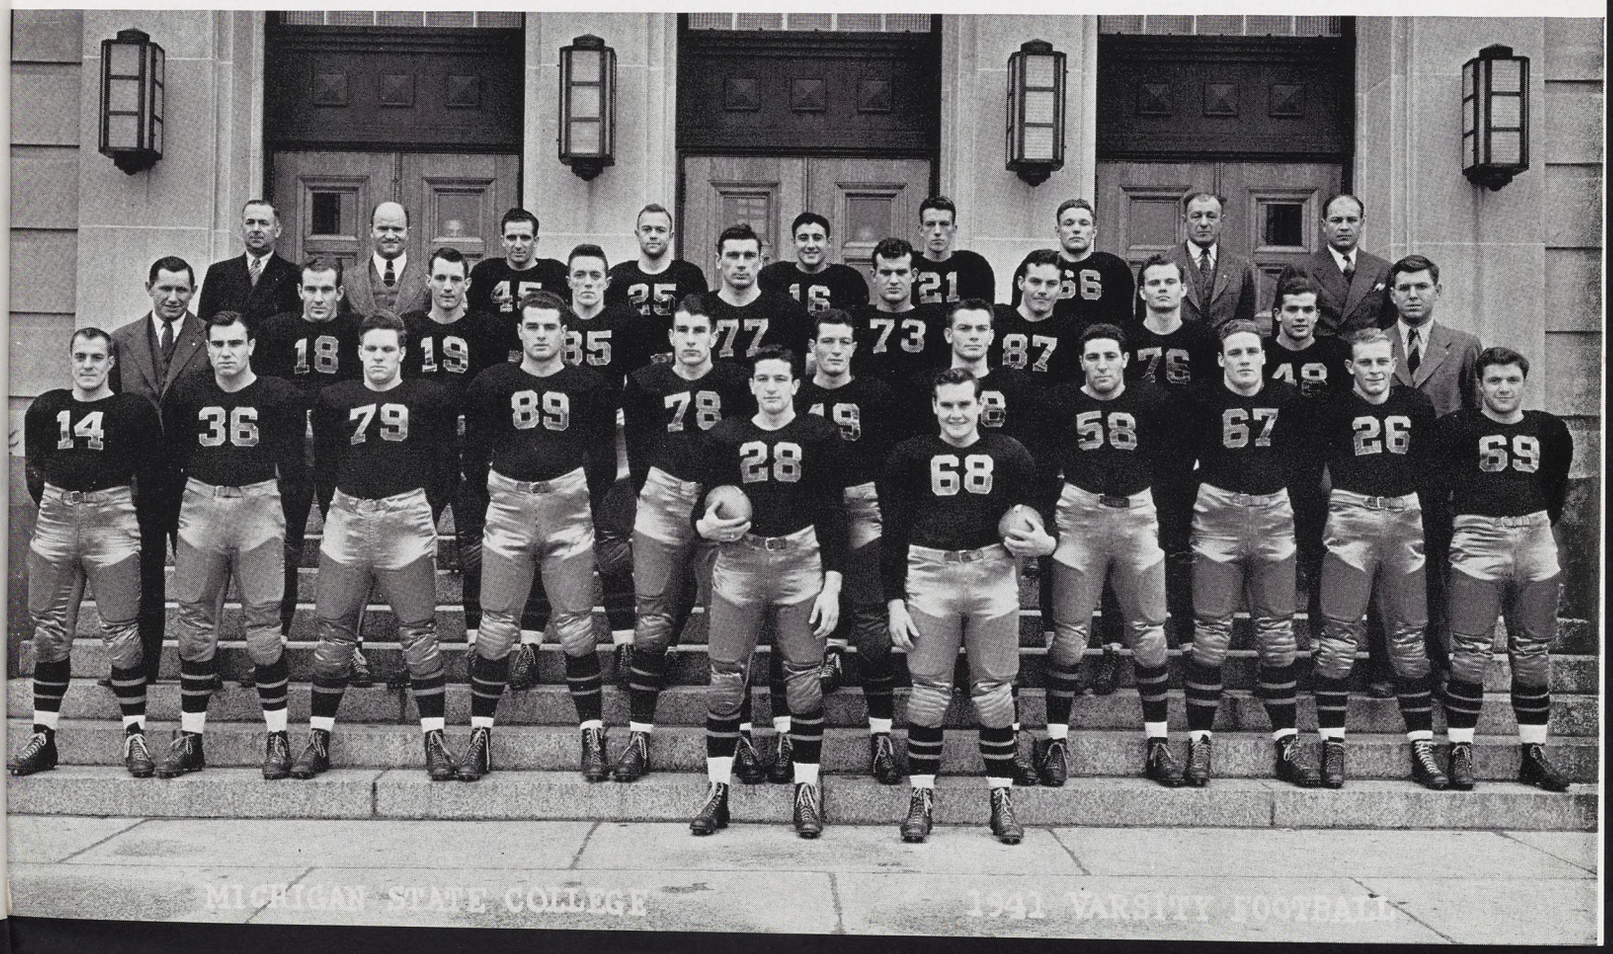

Coach Bachman will have at least one good eleven to work with next Fall — that is, if not hit by further drafts and enlistments. Approval of freshman eligibility in varsity sports may be necessary in all American colleges to keep the game up to its previous standards.

STATE'S GRIDDERS DON'T MAKE HISTORY BUT LEAVE THE

Michigan 19 Michigan State 7

For a brief moment Michigan State's untested football team basked in the light of victory in their traditional opening encounter with the Wolverines in 1941. Hardly four minutes had ticked away on the Michigan stadium clock when Jack Fenton, Spartan right halfback, broke off tackle and ran 74 yards for a touchdown which stunned the Wolverine eleven. But Michigan, which later proved to have one of the Nation's top teams, came roaring back and scored three touchdowns against the tired but determined Spartans.

Every expert picked the undefeated Hilltopper eleven from Milwaukee to whip State in the Spartans' second start of the campaign. But underneath a hot sun which shone down on Macklin field, the State eleven shook loose a new running star in Dick Kieppe and sunk Tom Stidham's Marquette team with two sudden touchdown blasts. The Hilltoppers came back in the late stages of the game, but State's tremendous defensive will held back the tide.

Santa Clara 7 Michigan State 0

Facing another undefeated team in Santa Clara's rugged Broncos, the Spartans cut loose with every offensive threat in their possession. Fate rode somewhere else than with the Spartans, however, and on four separate occasions State missed touchdowns by only a hair. Disappointed in defeat, State's gridders returned back across the continent, leaving behind a tremendous respect for the work of their line.

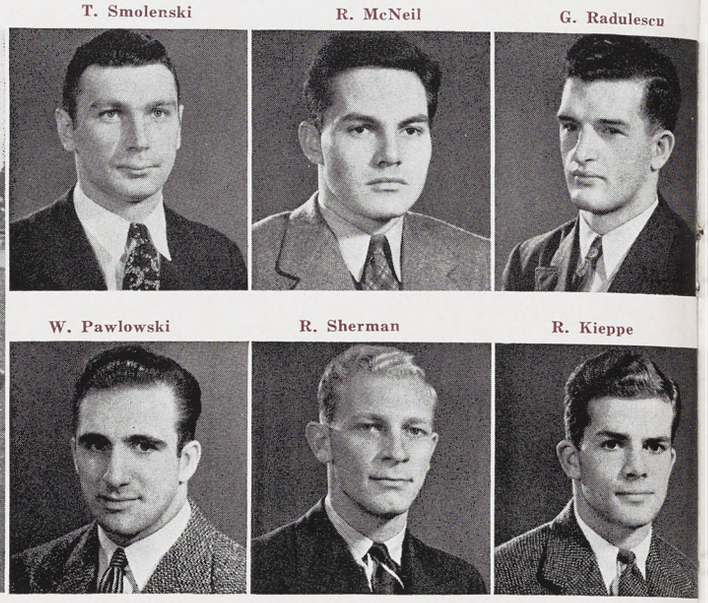

Michigan State 39 Wayne 6

With the Tartars of Wayne University, State had probably the easiest time of the 1941 season. Eager to bring their offensive guns into use after having been blanked on the west coast, the Spartans levelled on the little Wayne eleven and crossed the goal line six times during the course of the afternoon's activities. Chief result of the game was a touchdown scored by Wayne after the final gun that no one knew about.

Missouri 19 Michigan State 0

Homecoming day, 1941, saw Missouri's snarling Tigers bound into the Macklin arena for the now-famous T-party with the Spartans. Demonstrating the highest order of gridiron deception that State's fans had been treated to in years, the Sugar Bowl-bound Missouri eleven faked, spun, and lateral-passed the Spartans into a three-touchdown defeat. Through a cold gale that swept the field, State's battered ranks forged ahead again and again but were always stopped short of scoring by the bigger Tiger line.

It was Homecoming Day in Lafayette, Ind. and Michigan State and Purdue University football elevens staged one of the finest defensive exhibitions seen in the Midwest all year. Both teams came close, neither could score, and the brightest spots of the entire game were the excellent jobs turned in by Center Tony Arena and Guard Bluegrass Billy Rupp. Turned back for two consecutive weeks without a point, the Spartans came home mad.

Michigan State 46 Temple 0

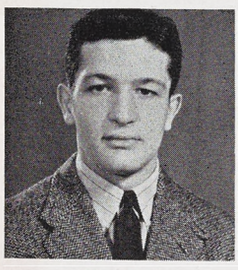

Just to prove that they hadn't forgotten how, State's gridders turned on the highly favored and top-ranking Temple University Owls and unleashed their most devastating attack of the season. After the shelling and bombarding was over, the result was the largest score ever compiled by a Charley Bachman-coached football team and the worst defeat in Temple grid history. Seven times State's forces rolled through the demoralized Owls, and it was easier each time. Mike Schelb at left halfback returned punts twice in succession for touchdowns.

The Battling Bishops were not expected to be too tough for the Spartans, and the prediction held true as State started slow, then warmed up, and cracked their foes' goal line on five occasions. This victory gave the Spartans a winning percentage for the first time in 1941 and jerked the welcome mat right out from under genial George Gauthier, the Bishop's coach, who once tutored State's gridders.

Michigan State 14 West Virginia 12

West Virginia, a team which had held powerful Army to a single lucky touchdown before encountering State, loomed as a pitfall for the Spartans. But State's seniors, playing their last game in Spartan uniforms, rose to the occasion and overcame the Mountaineers' early lead, then battered back West Virginia's last-minute threat. That, marking five victories, three defeats, and a tie, closed Michigan State's football book for 1941.

One hundred thirty-four freshmen football candidates presented themselves to Coach John Kobs the last week of September. Because of new freshman competition rules which went into effect the previous Fall, intra-squad contests and varsity scrimmages provided the daily program for the frosh gridders.

Coach Kobs awarded numerals to a squad of thirty-five yearlings, averaging smaller and lighter than last year's products. Already, the three armed forces and local factories have decimated the ranks of these varsity hopefuls of next September. But it is almost certain that these factors will not affect Spartan football.

STATE'S FOOTBALL "CROIX DE GUERRE" GOES TO A LINEMAN

Michigan State College has a lot of fine traditions and customs, not least of which is having the most valuable administrative officer of the State's government present the award to State's most valuable football player. It is a fine example of "one of those little things" which will stand out in everyone's college memories.

The "Most Valuable Player Award," presented annually to the Spartan gridder contributing most to State's football fortunes, went this year to Anthony "Tony" Arena, first-string center.

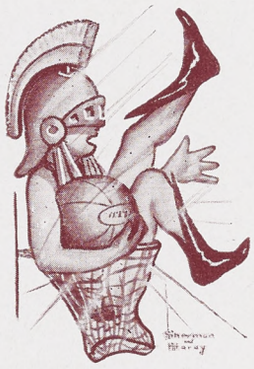

For three years Tony shoved the pigskin back to runners who made headlines. For three years he was "there" when opposing halfbacks tried for a hole in the line. "Tackled by Arena" became the most familiar phrase to come from the Macklin field public address system.

In its final huddle of the season, the varsity voted to give Tony the "Croix de Guerre," presented by Michigan's Governor Van Wagoner at the Grid Bust in December.

GENIAL VAN—CANAJOHARIE'S SON DOES ALL RIGHT AT STATE

The "Owl," as he is known to his squad, has coached State teams to victorious seasons consistently since arriving from his Alma Mater, Colgate, in 1926, but this year's Spartans will be hard to match, even for Van. Ben F. Van Alstyne's stress of controlled-ball offense, man-to-man defense (he calls the zone defense an outmoded system) and split-second passing, have brought him a reputation as one of the Nation's smartest coaches. Defeats given top-flight teams are no longer upsets to Van-coached Spartans, but rather, they are the expected result. Notre Dame, L.I.U., Butler, Michigan, Marquette and Syracuse are among those top midwestern and eastern foes conquered by his boys. His typical season begins rather slowly as he fits the new men to his system. Before many contests they hit a stride which carries them through all competition and provides the fans at home and on the road with the type of basketball they like to see. Van's greatest satisfaction this year was his upset of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station team and its all-star aggregate to surprise the sports world.

Probably the best team ever to wear the green and white of Michigan State in basketball competition was this year's star-studded squad. After starting slow with a heart-breaking defeat by Michigan, they snapped out of it and went on to a great and glorious year.

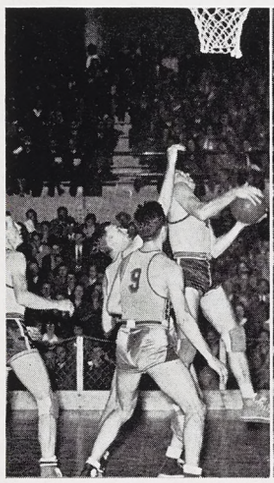

Joe Gerard, the "fightenist" man anyone could ask to see broke the all-time scoring record for a Spartan individual; Chet Aubuchon came back after a year of illness to prove he was still the "H—— of the hard-woods"; Bill Burk, the level-headed but fiery little guard came through again as the ideal answer to a coach's prayer and Mel Peterson wound up his career at State with plenty of points as a result of his dead-eye shot from the guard position. Underclassmen like Jones, who broke the single game scoring record; Roy Deihl who never misses a set shot; Big Fred Stone with his rebound ability and perfect foul shot record; and others like Petroski, White and May were good enough to stay in the fight all the way and added to a great season for another Spartan basketball squad.

"It should be a fair season," was Van's only statement back in October when the hopefuls turned out for their first practice session. With the season well under way many things developed to try the patience of Ben and his lads. A few hard breaks, some shady time-keeping by certain Orange officials, one point losses, and even Auby began to wonder whether or not his day had passed; Gerard too, had been held scoreless, but the will to win was still around for these lovers of the game. Even though the gang downed "the Navy," Van still worried — he always does. Successes soon came with greater regularity, and with the inspiration of a surprisingly large and enthusiastic home crowd, Butler, the top collegiate team met by the Spartans this season, was downed by one point. The triumph in the cigar-box encounter at Cincinnati was somewhat submerged by the close defeat in the gigantic Butler Fieldhouse. The "crew" was welcomed back home by the total student population which was rocking the bleachers with support as Jones broke the individual scoring record with 25 points in the engagement with the victory-hungry Wolverine squad; while Gerard's additional 15 and Aubuchon's circus tactics accounted for Michigan's most humiliating defeat ever suffered

THEIR WINNING REPUTATION PACKED THE GALLERIES

Winter term means dull, unexciting routine work-outs. Pitchers and catchers are the first to limber up, and before long the infield and outfield players toss a few around to shake out the kinks. C. O. Wilkins pilots the team South via bus to challenge the Dixie sluggers. Then "C.O." speeds them back to the still muddy Old College Field for midwestern clashes. Warm weather raises the ferver of the man fans of the diamond sport; including President Hannah who joins the enthusiastic and rigorous yelling of Spartan fans as someone calls a shady strike on one of Big John's boys. Plenty of speed and power is apparent as new balls go diving into the Red Cedar. Baseball is king of Spring on the campus. The year ends with a Memorial Day double-header and the "spikes" are laid aside with the shattered gloves and broken bats. The baseball is swatted for the last time. The "king" is dead, long live the "king."

COACH KOBS — ONLY THE WEATHERMAN COULD BEAT HIS TEAMS

Synonymous with baseball at Michigan State is Coach John Herman Kobs . . . Who for sixteen out of the past seventeen seasons has been molding winning teams on Old College Field . . . His all-time Spartans have a winning percentage of .595 per cent . . . A bit stern at times, a strict disciplinarian, but always thinking only in terms of sound baseball, the characteristic of all his teams . . . A thirteen letterman, he is one of the athletic greats at Hamline of St. Paul . . . Start tacking Sr. on the name, for son Jackie pitches for the frosh . . . "Jawin Jawn," he of the massive shoulders and jutting jaw, completely dominates the dugout or practice . . . his presence assures the best brand of the collegiate game.

THESE WERE THE YANKS OF MIDWESTERN COLLEGE BASEBALL

A hush will always fall with the mention of the 1941 season to any of the Smoke Shop gang, for it will only recall the tragic end of one of the most beloved and colorful Spartan athletic personalities — Casimir J. Klewicki. To all Spartans mighty Casey was the swashbuckling, rifle-armed third-sacker, one of the remnants of the "old guard," the carefree, hustling, fun-loving athletes of a bygone era.

Statistically the team cannot compare with the best of the Kobs-tutored nines, having won 14 out of 24 starts after a whirlwind start of five triumphs in Dixie. Rather, the year was highlighted with uncertainty . . . hitting, failing to synchronize with pitching . . . new names in the lineup . . . right handers strategically alternating with portsiders.

The scorebook is notched with prized victories, but none over the Wakefield-powered Wolverines. Instead, loyal Spartans point to iron-nerved Frank Mekules' shattering of a Western Michigan nineteen winning streak as the Spartans' claim for a spot in the State baseball sun.

AMERICA'S GRAND OLD GAME WITH DIXIE'S BELLES AND AG

A veteran team, studded liberally with sophomore talent invaded the Southland for the annual between-vacations Spring training.

In the initial start against South Carolina the Spartans took the field with the batting order of Frank Pellerin 2b, Capt. Norman Duncan ss, Jack Kamrath 1b, Bill Fitzsimmons cf, Casey Klewicki 3b, Steve Jakubowski rf, Wy Davis lf, Leo Wolkowicz c, and Paul "Bo" Derrickson p. Derrickson coasted to an easy 14-4 victory as the latent artillery pounded out a 16-hit attack featured by the home run clouting by Fitzsimmons and Klewicki.

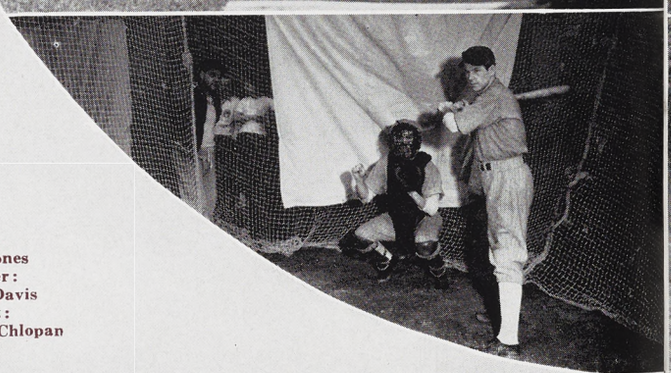

Al Jones made an auspicious start on the mound against Clemson. Fireman deluxe Don Fleishman choked a late rally and gained a 5-4 verdict on Capt. Duncan's booming home run in the eighth inning, and Klewicki's sensational fielding.

Frank Mekules bested Bob Smith, Jr. and the Georgia Bulldogs 5-4 in a 10-inning pitching duel in which "Square Howard" LaDue made his debut as a batting star. A flip of the coin gave LaDue the third string catching post on the trip but his batting prowess made him an outfield fixture.

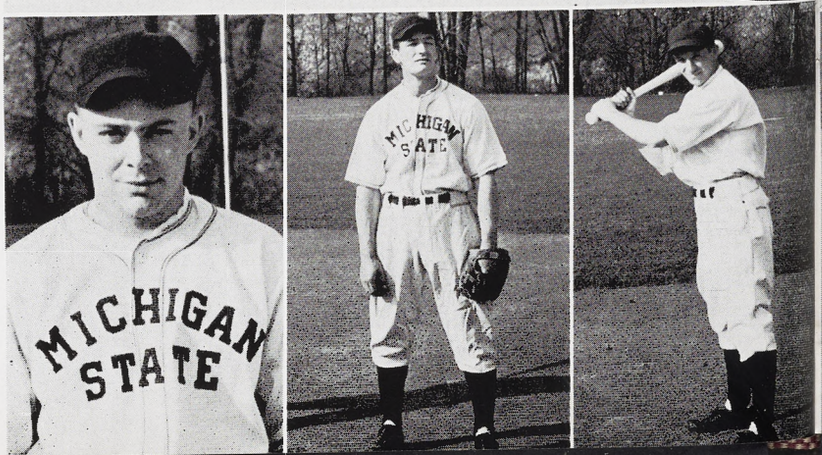

The doughboys of Fort Benning were a soft touch in a three-game series as the Spartans pounded out 12-9, 10-7, and 5-1 decisions.

Winning games was too humdrum so the Spartans obliged by kicking in the winning run in the ninth after punching across six runs in their half of the frame with Alabama Polytechnic.

Fumble-itis dogged the weary Spartans to Nashville, Tennessee, where they threw in five bobbles in the last two innings to drop a 11-10 slugfest to the Vanderbilt Commodores to nullify Wy Davis' four-run homer.

The regular schedule opened with a twin bill at Ohio State with the honors divided. Intrastate warfare started favorably with a 10-3 slugfest over Michigan Normal. Against the pesky Wolverines in Ann Arbor was another story as Frank Mekules was the victim of a ninth inning uprising and a 4-3 upset.

Excellent pitching featured the two-game series against Wisconsin with Al Jones chalking up a 2-1 victory, but the Badgers evened the count the next day by nudging Joe Skrocki for a 3-2 evener.

Notre Dame hitters had a field day in a 15-4 slaughter at South Bend, but on Old College Field silent Frank Mekules rose to his role of Irish tamer as he breezed his way to a 10-2 victory with the batting and fielding aid of Capt. Duncan and Howard LaDue.

Indiana fell 4-3 after 11 innings of airtight pitching by the ace of the Spartan mound corps, Al Jones. The Davis twins and Klewicki were the hitting stars. Joe Skrocki fashioned a three-hit 3-0 whitewash over Michigan Normal, and then came the feature game of the season as Mekules' mighty heart and arm triumphed over a great Western Michigan nine.

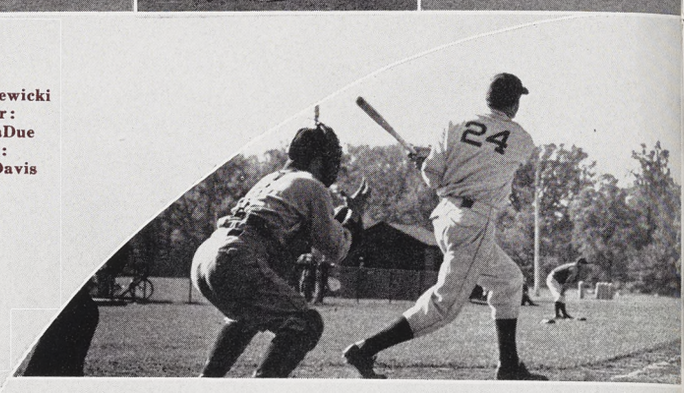

Michigan then broke tradition by winning the Memorial Day tilt and then Iowa followed with a sweep of two games. Powerful California ended the season by hammering out a 8-5 verdict, but not before Al Jones had administered a 3-0 shutout on the Golden Bears.

Jones took pitching honors by winning four games while losing one with an earned run average of 1.69. Mekules, who won three games against four loses, worked 68 innings for an earned run average of 3.24 and Skrocki won three and lost three with 2.08 earned runs. Relief man Don Fleishman tied Mekules with nine appearances.

Howard LaDue broke Capt. Duncan's two year hold on the hitting leadership as he led the team with a .415 average. Other leaders were: Innings played, Duncan 221; Hits, Duncan 31; Runs, Fitzsimmons 24; Runs batted in, Klewicki 12; Total bases, Fitzsimmons 48; Stolen bases, Duncan 11; Strikeouts, Fitzsimmons 13; Bases on balls, Duncan 15; Doubles, Fitzsimmons 8; Triples, Fitzsimmons 4; Home runs, Fitzsimmons, Klewicki, Wy Davis 2 each; Putouts, Kamrath 89; Assists, Klewicki 69; Errors, Duncan 13.

The team batted for .264 and fielded for a .942 average.

The finest in outdoor and indoor track facilities and a top-notch coach have paid out dividends already. In spite of Uncle Sam's depletion of the thin-clads on hand, the records show a remarkable improvement. Captain Drynan has led the fighting Spartans in some great races. Walt Mack starred in his half-mile specialty all Winter, but, come Spring, his duty is to the "colors." Bill Scott, Dale Kaulitz and others have done a mighty fine job of hanging up some good records before turning in their shirts. With some of the nation's leading stars visiting the home battle-ground of the MSC varsity, the boys had plenty of competition — always good to watch. Like the Spartans of old, the Staters fought out one of the toughest schedules to challenge any school. We predict championship teams at State with "Coach of Champions" Schlademan at the wheel — better have lots of record books next year.

COACH SCHLADEMAN — CHAMPIONS HIS AIM, SPEED HIS BYWORD

Coach Schlademan and Walt Arrington meditate a stratosphere "hop"

Giving up his study of law, Karl Schlademan launched his athletic career at Baker University in Kansas. Here he signed to coach the football and basketball teams and by request took over the duties of track tutor. His next position carried him fifty miles northward to the University of Kansas as assistant football, basketball and head track coach. While at Kansas he developed the world's fastest quarter-mile relay team and, with the help of a local sports enthusiast and newspapermen, instituted the now famous Kansas Relays. From Kansas, he journeyed westward to Washington State College where he completed fourteen years of service as head track mentor and assisted with the basketball and football squads before coming to Michigan State.

His ability to produce winning teams has already been proved. Within one year and a half he has given State its first victories on the cinder path since 1939. Sparty offers you a toast — Coach Schlademan.

VARSITY — IT TELLS TIME BY STOPWATCH, LIVES ON RECORDS

Winter and Spring 1941, was the first season under the new head Coach Karl A. Schlademan, and with only one victory all season the trackmen won the State intercollegiates. The team was hard hit by injuries and sickness, with six regulars in Olin Health Center at one time. The main handicap of the season for Walt Arrington was a bothersome weak ankle. The Spartans lost Dale Kaulitz from active service for most of the Spring season, because of pneumonia. Pole-vaulter Bob Harris was handicapped by ankle-trouble which he sustained through jumping at Marquette, which ultimately proved enough to force him out of three big meets. Coach Schlademan's "press releases" greeted the boys at each indoor practice session, in which there was bound to be plenty of pep-talks, jibes at the loafers, and good sound advice.

George Doran probably got more out of less practice than anybody else on the squad. He started the season as a dash-man and ended up as a powerful 440 man, who won the event against Penn State. Bruce Drynan, who is captain-elect for 1942, showed he had the stuff to make the grade as main point-getter. He worked on the shot-put, javelin, and discus, and although he was a quiet soul, he really had the old team spirit, and showed himself to be a hard worker. When he severely injured his left shoulder while pole-vaulting at Penn State there was considerable worry as to whether or not he would be able to get back in for much of the season, but recovery was rapid and complete. The money player of the squad, Al Mangan, along with Danny Rosenbaum completely dominated dame fortune at all the card games, which are the chief diversion for those long train and bus trips. The biggest personal set-back of the year was supposedly sustained by Mel Buschman who lost seven cents in five hours playing black-jack.

Ted Wonch, Bob Harris, Bernie Steinbacker, Fred Hauser, Bruce Drynan, and Starr Keesler composed the pole-vaulting corps during the Winter season, but with the budding of Spring, Keesler switched to broad-jumping and relays, and Drynan turned to field events.

IN ONE SEASON OVER FIELDHOUSE AND VARSITY TRACK OVALS

Walt Mack and Bill Scott, who are two Buffalo products, really put the home town on the map during Winter season 1942. Scott proved himself by winning every mile race that he ran, including the Michigan and Notre Dame clashes. Mack's best performance was in the 880, although he also ran in the mile and two-mile relays. He was the first member of the squad to go to the army after the Winter grind. Jim Milne developed into a top-notch high-jumper as the year progressed. With one shoe on and one shoe off he cracked the indoor high-jump mark with a 6 foot 6⅛ inch leap. He is purported to also hold the record for having the sport coat with the broadest shoulders. Dale Kaulitz stood out as the smoothest quarter-miler around State for many years, and captured the event in the 1942 Indoor Central Collegiates. Mike Schelb, who flipped the shot, javelin, and discus, scored 20 of State's 70 points in the State Intercollegiate meet. To put the perfect climax to a bright career, Walt Arrington was awarded the first annual M. M. Knappen plaque at the close of the season.

NO GLORY HERE BUT THEY MAKE STATE VICTORIES TOO CO

Two of the hardest behind-the-scenes workers in Sparty's athletic plant are Warren Burtt, veteran office assistant for 17 years, and Ruth Lampman, stenographer. If it's about changing tickets, departmental records or some minute bit of background in Sparty's athletic history, then they're the ones to see.

It is genial Albert (Bub) Amiss' job to keep Sparty's many playgrounds in perfectly useable condition. For 18 years Bub has been the athletic department's conscientious and expert groundskeeper. Being inordinately proud of his handicraft, he practically grooms each blade of grass individually in Macklin Stadium and Old College Field.

"Just like a sporting goods store" is what they say of the well-stocked equipment room in Jenison Fieldhouse. It's up to Jack Heppinstall, varsity trainer and equipment manager, and Walt Pease, his assistant, to supervise the issuance of this equipment to Sparty's athletes. Jack's been on the job for 28 years, Walt for 33.

COLLEGE SPIRIT IS STATE CHEERLEADERS' STOCK-IN-TRADE

The consolation prize for the "forgotten men" of the campus should undoubtedly be awarded the cheerleaders. Headed by Jack Dodds, this year's acrobatic squad all but breaks down and cries in its noble efforts to draw a few feeble noises from our reluctant throats.

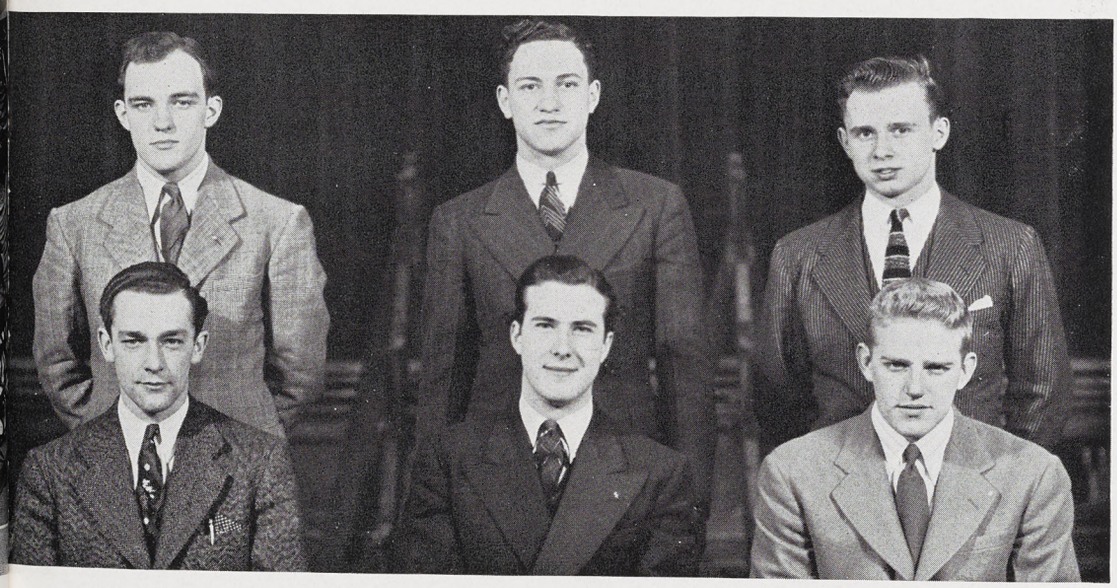

No college campus is complete without its varsity cheerleaders. Of the many aspirants who answered the head cheerleader's call for Fall term tryouts, eight hand-picked men were selected to make up the 1941-42 team.

Brimming over with energy (they tell us) these mighty yodelers greatly add to the scene during various Spartan contests. Most of the clever thoughts were originated by the members themselves. If the game gets dull, one has only to glance at one of our cavorting contortionists to experience a fascinating diversion.

So, even though our voices crack with the last vestiges of delirious excitement, we salute the cheerleaders, the sideline heroes!

Seven harriers with one senior, Walt Beardslee; three juniors, Capt. Ralph Monroe, Bill Scott, and Earl Cady; and three sophomores, Walt Mack, Bob Thompson, and Maurice Horski started Michigan State's 1941 cross-country grind and finished it. In three dual meets the same septet spilled Drake 23-34, Pittsburgh 21-34 and dropped a one-pointer to Indiana, 28-27. The sturdy seven then went on to capture State's ninth consecutive State Intercollegiate title and walked off with the National Junior AAU crown. The stiff schedule had its effects on Coach Lauren P. Brown's forces, and the seven meet-weary Spartans garnered but a poor seventh in the IC-4A meet in New York. Two weeks later, the seven closed the year with a fourth in the NCAA meet held on the home grounds.

Won the Central Conference meet with 80 points.

Spartan swimming fortunes are scheduled to rise for this year witnessed Charles McCaffree, taking over the reins at Jenison Pool. This tank mentor brought a national reputation to State, succeeding Russell Daubert. After graduating from Michigan in 1930, he coached swimming at Battle Creek, capturing six State tilts, followed by four Big Six Conference crowns in as many years at Iowa State before coming here.

For the second consecutive year, the Spartan grapplers were nosed out of the national title by the all-powerful Oklahoma Aggies, and once again the southwesterners gave Coach Fendley Collins and crew their only dual match defeat. Seven dual match victories in eight starts with wins over arch rival, Michigan, and Ohio State, Kent State, Case, Nebraska, Kansas State, and Wheaton is the record for 1942. The Oklahoman's squeezed by with a narrow 19-15 win for their closest call in many seasons. The Jennings twins, "Bo" and "Cut" retained their national titles at 121 and 128 pounds in the national tournament held here this year. Lanky, dark-skinned Bill Maxwell fought his way to top place among the nation's 136 pounders. Capt. Leland Merrill finished three highly victorious years as a Spartan man with only two blemishes on his record. Two national champions were the only opponents to defeat Merrill in dual competition. The Spartan captain placed third among the 155 pounders in the national tournament. Coach Collins' election to the presidency of the National Collegiate Wrestling Coaches Association was the suiting finish to Spartan wrestling for the year.

BOXERS—THEY "KEEP PUNCHING," STAY AWAY FROM THE CANVAS

With three wins at home to start out the season, Coach A. P. Kawal, former State football line coach and collegiate boxing star, and Captain Harvey Trombley seemed "up and comers" indeed. But a hard road trip with successive foes such as Penn State, Bucknell, and Wisconsin trimmed the average down to an even 500 percentage, to match last year's results. Ed. Gunderson was stopped early in the season with a broken nose and John Matthews substituted in the 120-pound class. Billy Zurakowski finished out the season with semi-finals effort in the National collegiates. Captain Harvey Trombley had his best year, scoring one of the best bouts he has ever fought when he was matched against West Virginia's 135 champ Johnny Joca. Beryl Salisbury and Ed Wood changed off in the 145-155 bracket, sharing the duties alike. Charles Calkins, 165 pounds, a newcomer this year, went to the finals in the National collegiates. William Warriner and George Radulescu in the 175 and heavyweight roles finished out the squad.

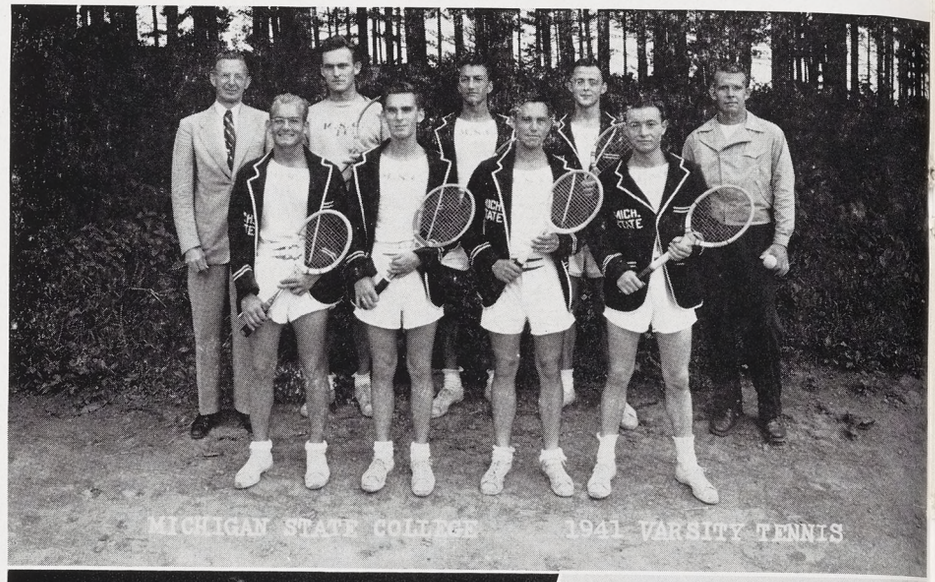

TENNIS — SPARTANS ARE FAST, THEIR RACKET ALL NET PROFIT

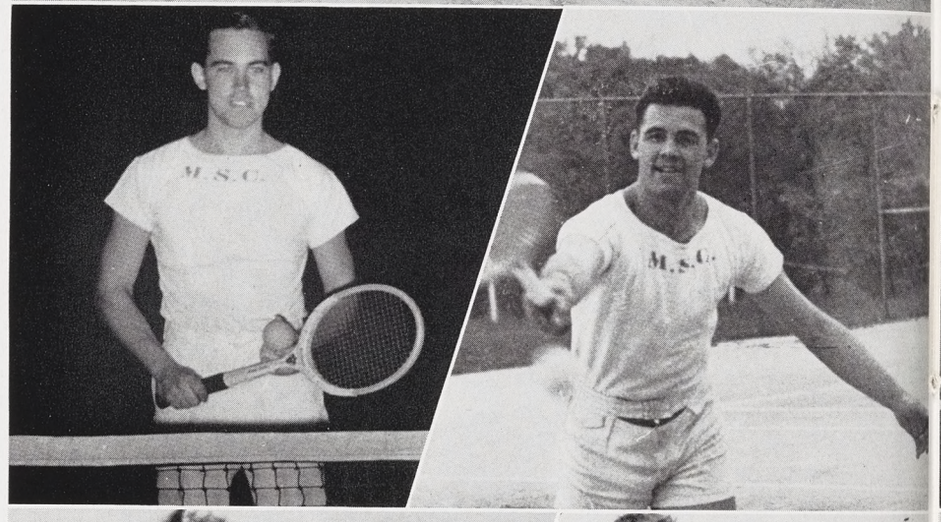

Spartan Coach Charles D. Ball's tennis team completed a highly successful season last year, winning seven matches and losing four, two by a 5-4 margin.

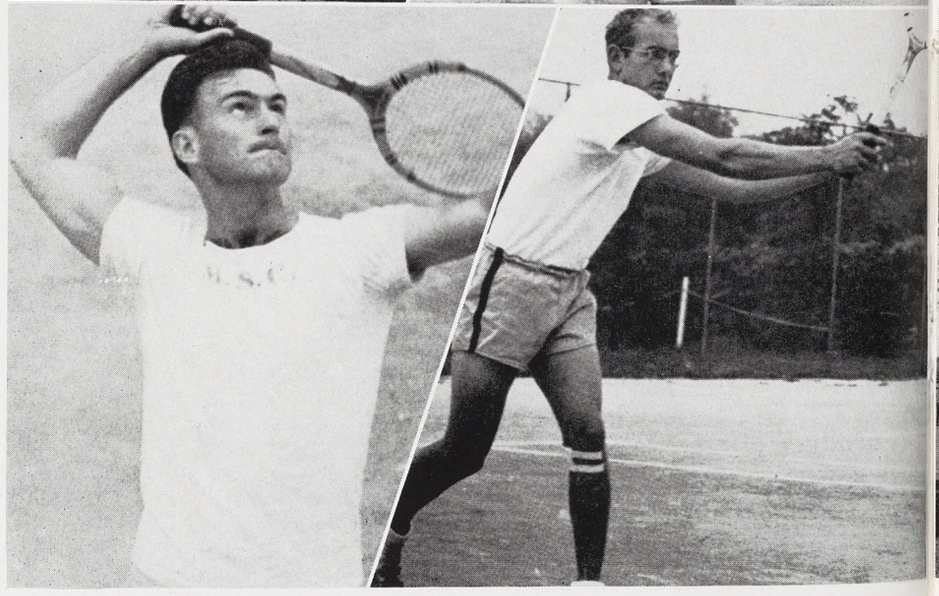

During the latter part of March, the netmen journeyed through the Southwest for pre-season practice. Coach Ball is also a chemistry professor and did not accompany the team.

Captain Frank Perkins and Morris Drilling both occupied the first position on the team during the season. The positions are determined before competition begins by a varsity round robin.

Frank Beeman in the number four spot won every match during the regular season's matches. He was elected captain of the 1942 team.

Michigan State's golf squad topped off its better-than-average season by winning the last meet, overwhelming the University of Michigan linksmen, the Big Ten champions, 19-8.

During the tough schedule, Ben Van Alstyne's golfers won five meets against three defeats, handicapped by the fact that only two were played on the home course, Walnut Hills Country Club.

Over thirty men reported to Van at the start of practice. A round robin series decided the starters for the varsity team. Led by Bill Zylstra and Stan Kowal, they won the last four meets of the season over Northwestern, Marquette, Detroit (for the second time), and the Wolverines.

For the second consecutive season, the Spartan malleteers wound up undefeated in indoor intercollegiate ball. The senior threesome justified the college subsidization of their sport by trimming all the major teams in the midwest. Although an extended schedule had been planned, the outbreak of war caused the cancellation of matches with West Point and other eastern polo clubs. Wins over Illinois, Culver, Ohio State, and several private trios elated Coach Major Gerald Peterson who lost his entire starting lineup by graduation. Jack Burton, Norm Spatz, and Fred Givson, the ironman three, all graduated into the army. Curt Weaver, reserve fall term, did not return to school, leaving only Len Rowe to build around next year.

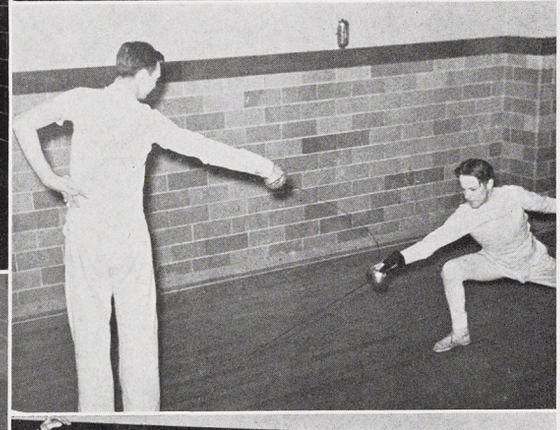

FENCING — SPARTAN BLADES ARE MUSKETEERS OF STATE'S SPORT

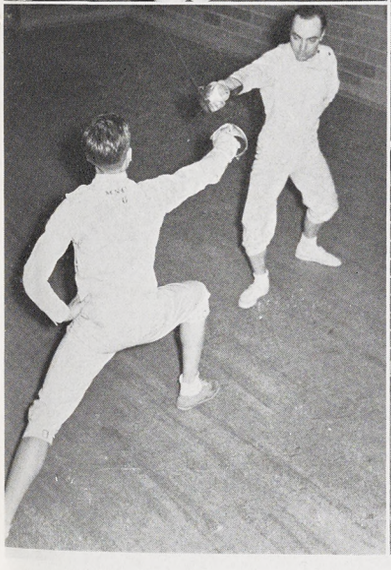

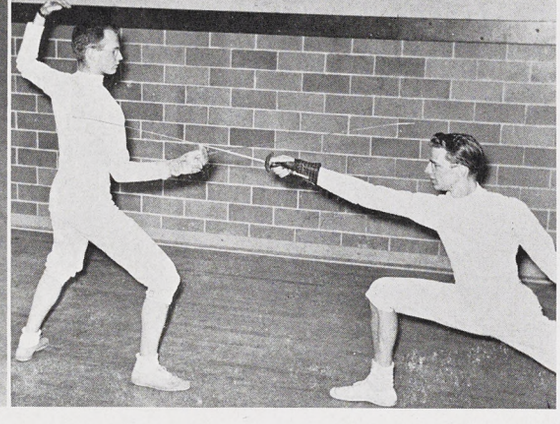

Michigan State's fencing team concluded its 1942 season by placing eighth in the National Collegiates, held at Washington University, March 28. The Spartan swordsmen had to compete without the services of two of their ace fencers, Bob Thalken and Ted Willis.

Coach Charles Schmitter's fencers won five meets out of an eight schedule season. Two of these losses, to Notre Dame and Illinois, were by a margin of one point, and the other, to Marquette, the Hilltoppers held a two-point advantage. Purdue, Oberlin, Wisconsin, Cincinnati, and Ohio State University were victims of the team. The State blades compiled a total of 93½ points to their opponents' 84½ which is an indication of fine coaching and diligent preparation by the team.

"LITTLE GUYS"—A BREAK FOR STATE'S INTRAMURAL ATHLETES FO

After winning the independent league crown the high powered DZV brotherhood took the all-college touch football championship. Paced by the excellent flank play of end Whity Leyher and Mike Mileusnick along with Walt Klewicki's passing, the DZV's went through an unbeaten season.

With All-frat Howard LaDue, Bob Baker, and Lee Merrill showing the way, the Alpha Tau Omega touch football team laid claim to the Fraternity championship. The ATO's were runner-ups in the all-college final, after defeating the dorm champions in the semi-finals.

Mason 5 was the big gun of the dorm loop last Fall, and rolled through the regular season and dorm playoffs undefeated, losing only in the post-season competition. The passing of Ed Lord was Coach Chuck Kuhlman's main threat and the defensive play of center Morris Shepard proved another asset. Both Shepard and Lord made the all-dorm honor team.

Things just getting under way for the newly organized Turkey Trot proved enough to draw over seventy contestants. Team places went to Sigma Alpha Epsilon, first, followed by Alpha Gamma Rho and Hesperian, while individual honors were wrestlers Bill Maxwell and Leland Merrill, who finished first and second.

TES FOOTBALL, BASKETBALL, SWIM MEETS, TURKEY TROT,

All-college cage champions, Alpha Tau Omega topped off an unbeaten season with a victory over the independent league winner to become No. 1 intramural basketball team on campus. All-frat five placed ace hoopman Les Van Eberstein on the first team and George Busch, star ATO playmaker, on the second five.

With an all-star lineup, this DZV hardwood crew compiled another highly successful season, finishing as runner-up in the all-college playoffs. As on the brotherhood's football team, Whitey Leyher was one of the leading players and the team's high scorer.

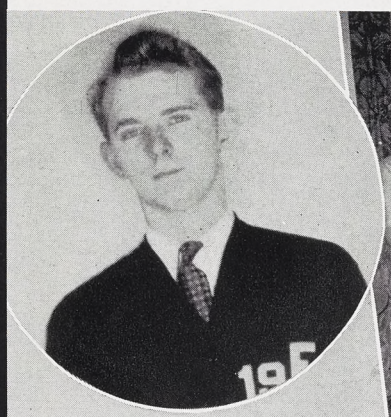

With senior coach Mose Cramer guiding four first year teammates Abbot 13 took top honors in the dorm basketball league. The Abbot quintet finished third in the all-campus tournament after unbeaten play in dorm competition. Consistant point-getter Dick Dewey proved the big offensive threat for this championship club.

With Bob Weir doing about everything, but taking tickets, the Hesperians won the Interfraternity swimming title without too much trouble. Weir's two firsts, and his membership on the first place medley relay team was too much for the other frats.

Glen Bergman was crowned all-college horse-shoe pitching champ last Fall. This was the first such tournament at State, and is expected to be a regular event every Fall from now on.

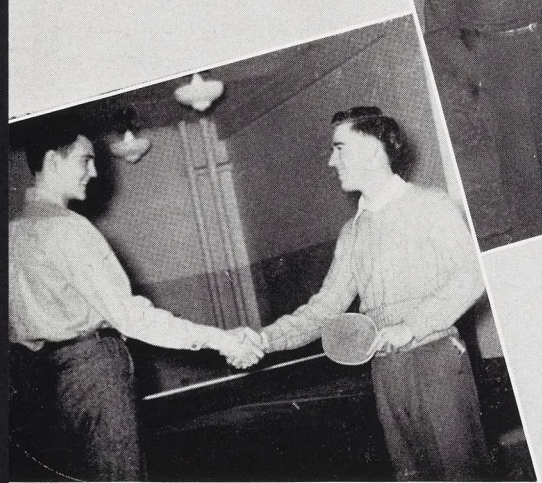

GOLF GIVE SPARTAN UNDERGRADUATES A CHANCE TO SHOW T

Another unblemished record was marked up by the DZV's when they took the all-college softball championship last Spring without losing a game all season. Bill Kennedy, Spartan football guard during the Fall, shared the pitching duties with varsity basketballer Chet Aubuchon, who between them won eight games, and were the club's stars.

The interfraternity indoor track championship again went to this Sigma Nu thinclad squad. Bud MacKichen and Jim Pingle, a pair of speedy lads, competed in most of the events and accounted for a majority of their team's points.

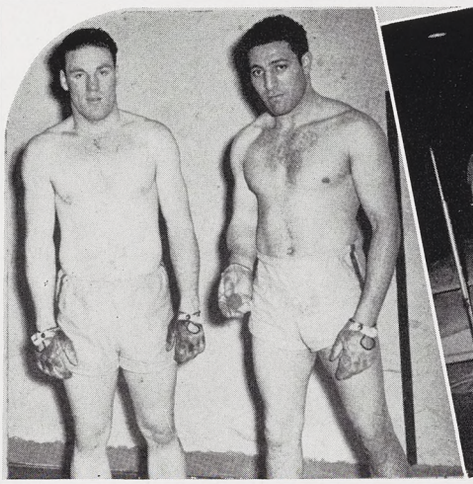

Three hundred contestants batted ping-pong balls back and forth for hours on end in the annual dorm tournament before the eliminations left only two skillful ball-cutters at the table. These two people were Douglas Clay and Tom Kearney. The intensity of the battle finally ended when Kearney broke through Clay's defense — stamping him Ace of Mason-Abbot ping-pong.

OW THEIR WARES — AND DZV WAS A NAME TO REMEMBER

The newly formed ski team set some sort of a record this year by winning over all opposition. This is clarified by the fact that the boys only had one competitive match, which was with the University of Michigan team. The new organization was pioneered by John Johnnot, who is a senior from New York state. The group is eagerly anticipating next year's blanket of snow, so they can keep the record they have set — against all comers.

Under the tutorage of varsity golfer Jim Funston, the Sigma Nu linksmen were able to lay claim to the Interfraternity links championship last Spring. The club was paced by Lloyd Ostermann and Don Otto, a couple of low-scoring veterans.

The Interfraternity bowling championship went to the Hesperian five, who outrolled the rest of the brotherhoods last Winter. Hespie kegers Bob Pokorney and Bill Morrison did the heavy work for their club, and both were outstanding men of the loop.

To create a wider interest in women's sports and perform useful services on campus are two of the main purposes of W.A.A.

The organization, which has more than one hundred members, is governed by an Executive Board consisting of president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, all sport managers, social chairman, concessions manager, intramural manager, and faculty advisor.

For membership a girl must have a "C" average, participate in one major sport. To maintain this membership she must earn an additional twenty-five points a term.

Within the organization an award system has been set up; one hundred points merits class numerals; five hundred points, a small "S"; one thousand points, large "S"; one thousand five hundred points merits a place on the Honor Roll.

During a school year the W.A.A. sponsors all intramural and inter-class sports, holds the Farmers' Week Concession, Annual High School Play Day, special hikes, and social meetings consisting of a luncheon fall term, banquet, winter term, and a picnic spring term.

With the recording of several new upsets, the recognition of the new athletic stars and championship teams and an increase in the participants in women's sports, 1941-1942 was a busy year for those women students who centered their attention down at the gymnasium.

New stars such as Ann Sestric, Thelma Junker, Margaret Smith, Billy Morely and Dorothy Jury came to the fore. Nevertheless such outstanding past season athletes as Beth Hack, Betty Vaughan, Nancy Kelly and Lois Newman continued to make new records and set new paces.

In the semi-finals of the volleyball tournament the Theta's upset the Kappa Kappa Gamma's. West Mary Mayo led by Pat Stone then promptly proceeded to knock off the Kappa Alpha Theta's and capture the coveted volleyball plaque. In the interclass volleyball tourney, first place was won by the senior class. Sixty-four women students received W.A.A. points for participating in volleyball, Ruth Hammond, volleyball manager, announced.

Hockey, although still one of the favorite Fall term sports, fell behind in 1941. However, that did not hinder eighteen women students from earning points toward their numerals and letters.

The increased athletic participation was most evident in Fall term fencing, when forty-two students received W.A.A. points. Members of Delta Kamma Mu took over the instruction. Another big upset occurred in the all-college tournament held during Winter term when Nancy Kelly defeated champion Rachel Friedlund.

With soccer being offered in 1941 for the second time, the sport began to catch the interest of the girls as ten earned points towards awards.

A youth hostel trip to Aurelius was arranged for those students interested in bicycling. Jean Bovill, hiking manager, found that supplying hikers with apples on the hike and ending it at one of the local restaurants with hot chocolate for the hikers was quite a successful way to run the women's hiking program.

The Senior Life Saving course taught by members of Green Splash, had its annual appeal to women interested in aquatics. In the

GOLF ARE A FEW OF THE WAYS STATE'S GIRLS KEEP FIT

Fall term of '41, thirty-two women received their Senior Life Saving recognition.

Two years in complete possession of the gym was most noticeable during Winter term as basketball, bowling and swimming all showed increased numbers of participants.

In a round robin tourney, Hacks' Happy Hicks led by Captain Beth Hack captured the intramural basketball championship. Playing as the Senior team this aggregation also copped the interclass championship. This same group of women students, Jo Baun, Beth Hack, Betty Vaughan, Carol Long and Madeline Whitmore have not lost a single tournament while playing together as a team these past four years.

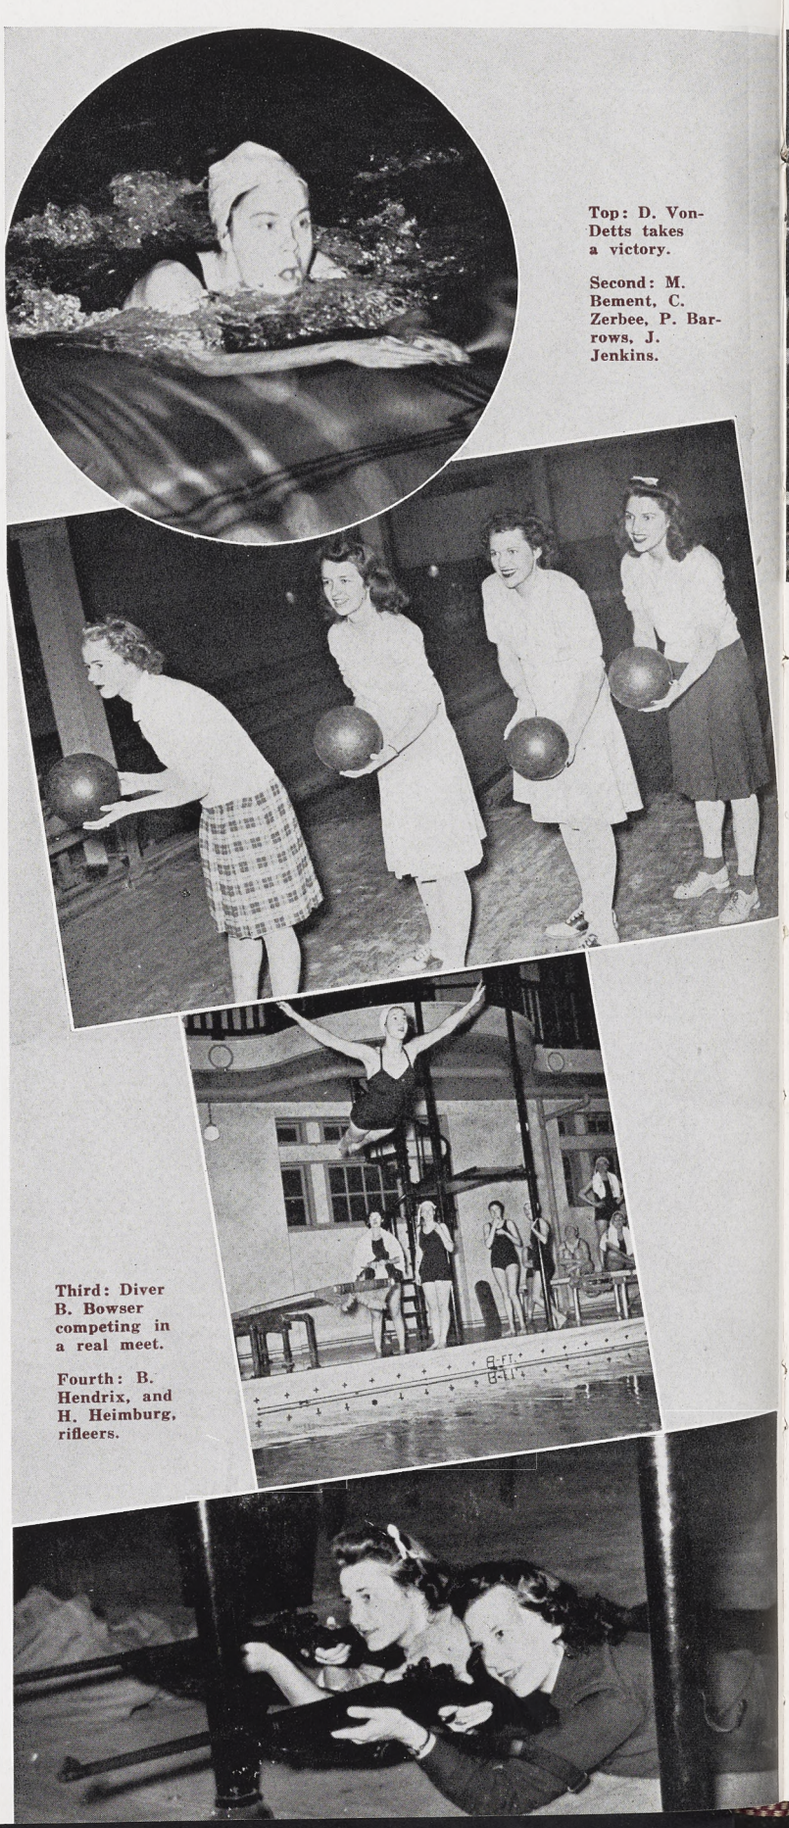

Swimming offered during Winter term had another large turnout, with fifty-three women students earning W.A.A. points. Once again Lois Newman, who holds the record for the breast stroke, was placed on the honor team along with Alice Penny, Jane Pearl, Jean Strausser and Kay Videk. The Independents captured the swimming honors in the annual three meets. The Theta's and West Mary Mayoites again proved their group all-around athletic ability by taking second and third place, respectively.

In the interclass bowling competition the Juniors were the victors led by Joan Cope, Vera Deaner, Ruth Hammond, Jean Jackson and Mary Liz Kerth. Sixteen girls received W.A.A. points in bowling.

The women went as far as to even offer skating in the Winter program. Here honors were shared by Mary Jane Fitzpatrick and Althea Kraker. Riflery and Badminton were among the other winter minor sports offered.

Spring term saw many women students participating in the ever popular sport, archery. With the highest National collegiate record set by Lena McCarthy of M.S.C. in 1941 still in mind and the purchase of a larger amount of new equipment, archery enthusiasts had an added incentive in 1942. However, women archers had to be pretty careful so as not to shoot arrows into President Hannah's back yard.

Tennis and Golf elimination tournaments, hikes and softball concluded an outstanding year at Michigan State for women interested in athletics.

Green Splash was organized in 1927 to further interest in swimming among women students at Michigan State College. To fulfill the requirements a coed must pass her senior life saving at the college pool and be a member of a class team competing in the Winter term meets. Prospective members must also have a "C" average and secure the unanimous vote of club members. New members are informally initiated at the women's pool and later formally accepted at the Spring term dinner.

Among annual activities Green Splash sponsors a water pageant and a Senior Life Saving course. The mixed splash parties through the year and the intramural meets are aided by Green Splash. This last year the organization honored the newly formed Porpoise Club at a splash party, and finished off the term activities with a picnic for the members.

STUDENT COUNCIL — WHOSE JOB IS TO SEE THAT THE POLITICAL W

The year 1941-42 has found Student Council with an added membership of ten and plenty of projects to keep the entire council of twenty-eight well busied.

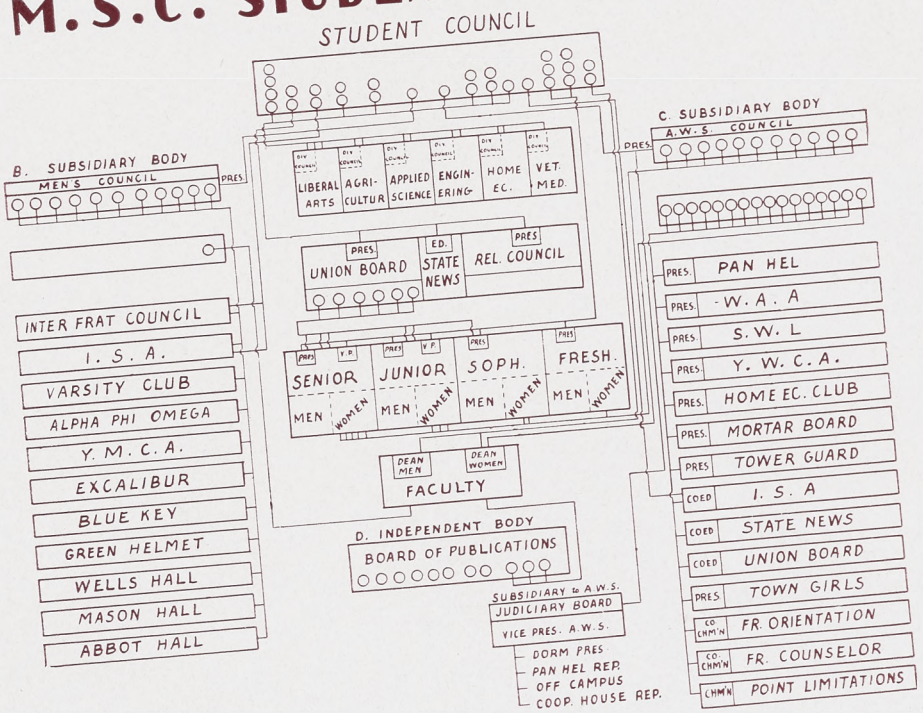

Its office already a year old with files and shelves bulging, the Student Council welcomes campus groups to make use of its facilities.

With national defense being keynoted the council this year has spent much time organizing and planning the campus defense program, the O. S. D. and C. D. C. More stress has been placed upon student-faculty relationships this year and the results have been favorable. Other projects have been organizing student personnel for

A Liberal Arts major from Cassapolis, will probably be best remembered at State because no one ever saw him lose his temper. He has enough records hung up in the Phi Tau teepee to make anyone a B.M.O.C. He took a beating in Excalibur meetings when the boys threatened to wear basic military uniforms (with sewed-on tails) to all the formal parties, but all in all he did a swell job weathering through State's political turmoils

WORKINGS OF STATE ARE KEPT SMOOTH BUT NOT QUIET!

Spring term high school visitations, investigation of the honor system and a handbook for students.

As in the past M. S. C. was represented during Christmas vacation at the National Student Federation of America convention. The N. S. F. A. is a federation of Student Councils throughout the country of which Michigan State is a member school. This year's conclave was held at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis, and good rumor has it that State's campus will be the host school of 1942's convention, which by the way will draw member schools from all directions in these United States.

A. W. S.—WHAT A GAB-FEST THIS MUST BE IF ALL THESE WOMEN GE

In its role of "Big Sister" to women students enrolled at M.S.C., Associated Women Students sponsors the Freshman Counselor and Freshman Orientation systems, helping freshman women to become adjusted to campus life. Each Fall A.W.S. introduces freshman women to campus activities by presenting the Co-Ed Carnival where all campus organizations open to women are represented. Each year A.W.S. publishes the A.W.S. handbook, outlining college rules for women.

Margaret Jensen, who now calls home Grosse Pointe but originally came from Sweden, is a Home Ec. major. She always has a smile and has won enough honors in college to have something to smile about. When you look over the list about the only thing she is not in is Advanced Military. But she has still been a good "soldier" in State's extra-curricular activities. Tower Guard, Mortar Board, Omicron Nu have seen her enter their ranks.

Upon registration in college, every woman student automatically becomes a member of A.W.S., whose chief purpose is to regulate conduct, both social and moral, at Michigan State College. Elected representatives from each class as well as presidents and chairmen of women's organizations form the governing body, and A.W.S. Council.

Dormitory presidents and representatives of cooperative, off-campus, and sorority houses make up the Judiciary Board whose purpose is both disciplinary and judicial. During the last year special effort has been made to include town girls from both Lansing and East Lansing in social and administrative activities, helping them to feel themselves a necessary part of college life.

MEN'S COUNCIL — UNSCRAMBLING A GALAXY OF FELLAS AFFAIRS

Founded only two years ago Men's Council has already proven itself indispensable. The chief purpose of the council has been to coordinate the activities of all men's organizations on campus and to sponsor and plan, with the Dean of Men, for an Orientation program for Freshmen. In addition, it is to promote worthy campus activities and aid student council in their work.

During the last year, Men's Council has developed an activity point system, rating activities according to their value by terms. Also, they have promoted the sale of Spartan Hitch Hiking Card. The defense stamp sale was organized by Men's Council this year to aid

In order to aid students subject to military service, the council set up an information bureau on the armed forces. This enabled students to secure the latest data on any branch of the service in which he might be interested.

YOU ARE REPRESENTED BY ONE OF THESE DIVISIONAL

With the coming of fall term 1940, Michigan State students found themselves under a new form of student government. The Student Council constitution provided for the creation of six divisional councils, each of which should have direct representation to the Student Council.

The Ag Council and Home Ec Board being well in operation already, new divisional councils were organized for the remaining divisions of Liberal Arts, Applied Science, Engineering and Veterinary Science.

The divisional councils are composed of class representatives as well as representatives from the various clubs and divisional groups.

This type of organization has proved itself ideal, affording an opportunity for each of the divisions to be represented upon the Student Council, from the winter term election.

Problems which arise within the divisions can easily be dealt with by each of the respective organizations. Several of the groups have concerned themselves particularly with the consideration of courses offered and the possibilities of new courses which might be taught. Student faculty relationships within the divisions are also greatly enhanced through cooperation and various student-faculty get-togethers. More emphasis will be placed upon the importance of each of the divisional councils in the future.

I. S. A. — THE HUB OF INDEPENDENT ACTIVITY S

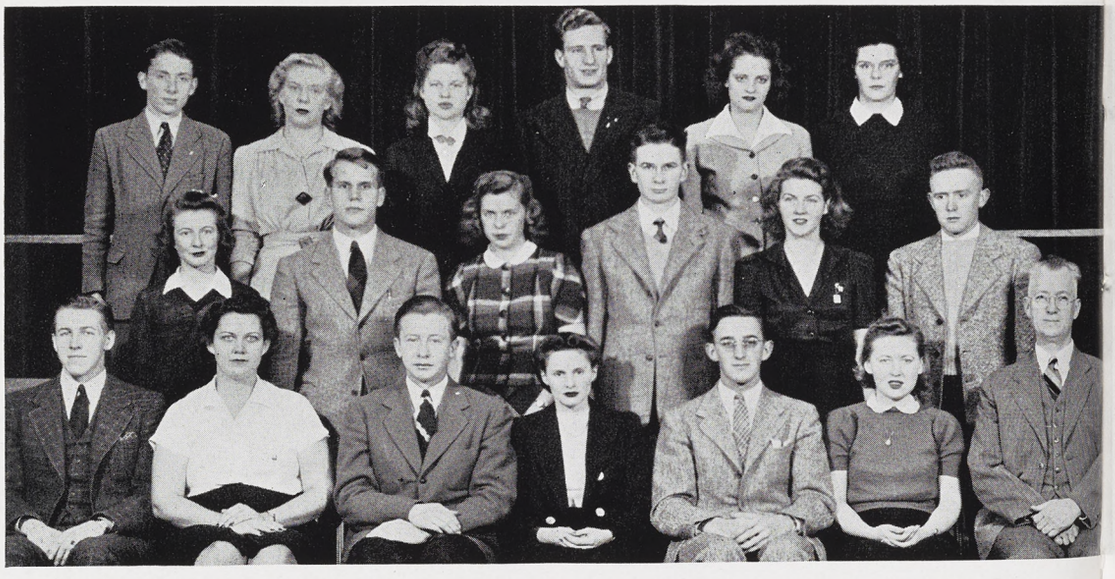

Formed by the merging of the Independent Men's League and the Athenian Women in the spring term of 1940, the Independent Students Association is composed of four subsidiary groups of dormitory men, dormitory women, off-campus men, and off-campus women.

A charter member of the National Independent Students Association, I.S.A. sponsors a program promoting scholarship, intra-mural sports, interest in campus affairs and problems, and social events for its members. This year's special project was an active part in the defense program in which the city of East Lansing was canvassed to collect books for men in the service.

The I.S.A. Council, at which Ruth Cornell presided in the absence of Kelvin Kiebler during fall term, meets weekly. This governing body is composed of representatives of the four subsidiary groups and formulates the program for the independent students.

SWELL IS THE WORD FOR S. W. L.!

The Spartan Women's League, open to any woman student, provides an opportunity for both sorority and non-sorority women to work together in accordance with the democratic ideals of the organization. Active in radio work, the group does their own script writing, directing, and acting for their programs over WKAR. In addition, the regular dramatic activity of S.W.L. includes the study of acting for personal enjoyment and the production of short plays and skits, some of which are devoted to demonstrating etiquette.

Each year the organization publishes and puts into the hands of the freshman women a book on college etiquette, making their adjustment to campus customs less difficult. By sponsoring teas for transfer women and new faculty members, cooperating with Tower Guard and Mortar Board both this year and last in planning the Cinderella Spin, and by sponsoring the Varsity Show this year in cooperation with Green Helmet, emphasis is placed on social service and individual development of each member.

AG COUNCIL—WITHOUT IT THERE WOULD BE NO HARVEST BALL

William Schirra . . . President
John Rheinech . . Vice-president
Andrew Watson . . . Secretary
Rodger Bartlett . . . Treasurer

Forerunner of the divisional council system of government under Student Council, the Agricultural Council was founded in 1927. A look at the many activities of this body shows that it is one of the busiest divisional councils of the seven in operation today.

Its biggest job is co-ordinating the functions of the many clubs within the Agriculture division. Each year the council sponsors the All-Ag Mixer, early in Fall term to get students in Agriculture acquainted with each other, and with what the college offers in studies and extra-curricular activities. The Harvest Ball is the scene of the annual crowning of the Ag Queen in Fall term. Ag queen for 1941-42 is Miss Betty Wright.

Outstanding Ag students are honored during Winter term at the All-Ag Achievement Banquet, where prizes are awarded to students, and to judging teams. Spring term traditional function of the Agricultural council is sponsorship of the All-Ag Carnival and field day.

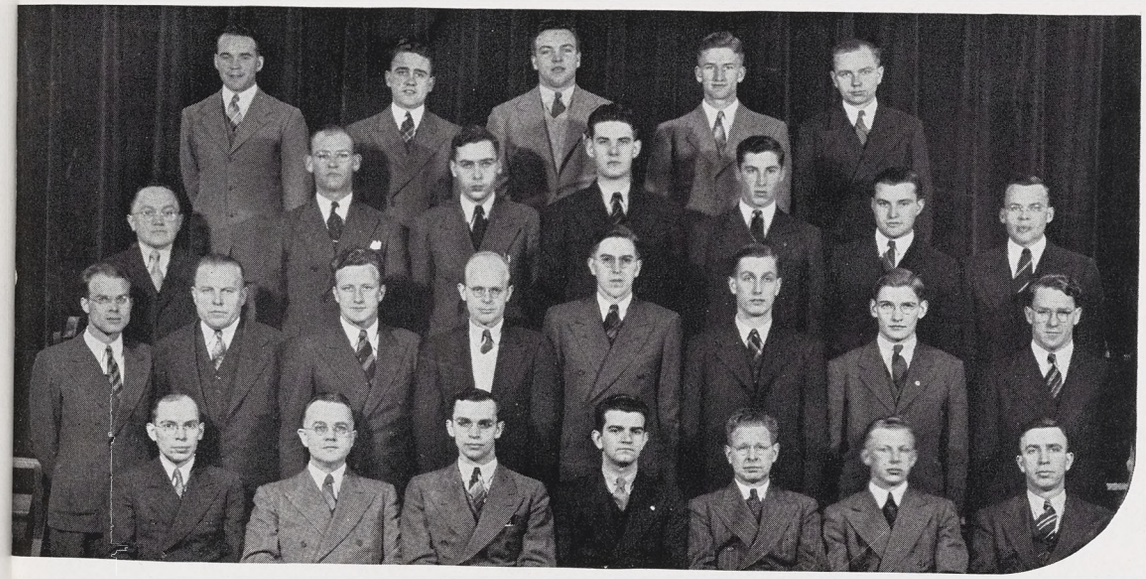

The Fall term of 1941 saw the addition of an important new club to State's campus. The newly organized Agriculture Education Club is composed of Agriculture majors who plan to teach. Its main purposes are to keep in contact with the teachers of agriculture, to attempt to solve some of the problems met with in teaching agriculture, and to foster the rural youth organization, Future Farmers of America.

The club is divided into committees, each charged with the responsibility of one objective of the club. Some of the objectives are fellowship, professional contacts, finance, cooperation with other groups, rural youth activities, and leadership.

The Agriculture Education Club endeavors through informal discussions of professional problems to give valuable information to their members, the future agriculture members of America. This club is working toward a closer unity between this organization and other educational and vocational groups on the campus.

UNION BOARD PLAYS FOOTBALL WITH MOVIES—NO INJURIES!

James Church . . . President
Jack Widick . . Vice-president
Doris Ward . . . . Secretary
Douglas Reeve . . . Treasurer

Formed for the sole purpose of giving the students a voice in managing the only building on campus that they pay to use, the Union Board has become an important group. Members are elected to cooperate with Emory Foster, Union head. Mr. Foster came here this year from Palmer House, where he was situated for five and a half years. Each winter term three members from the senior class, two from the junior, and one from the sophomore are elected. This year the board has continued the very popular tea dances as well as the other dances held in the Union ballroom.

It also attempted to bring the students together with the faculty by holding mixers. The establishment of a post office box at the west entrance of the Union Building has been a goal of many of the Union Boards in the past, and it has finally become a reality. This year's group has been an energetic organization.

To make the organization have enough professional interest for everyone in the division and to go all out for National Defense has been the purpose of the Home Economics Club this year.

In their efforts to carry out this ideal, the girls sponsored a Consumer Information Center which advised students how to get the most for their money during the National Emergency. Also they established a Red Cross unit which passed out wool for knitting and instructed the diligent knitters how to keep from dropping stitches.

While apparently submerged in defense, the group still had time to have Student-Faculty teas every other week, radio broadcasts, a big formal banquet, style shows, choose a cherry queen, and serve meals during Farmers' Week.

On January 12, Carmalita Maracci and her Dance Group presented a program of Spanish dances.

January 28, Vincent Sheean appeared here for a second time on our lecture series and gave a "War Commentary on Personal History."

"Significant New Books" was the subject that Edward Weeks, editor of the Atlantic Monthly, spoke on here November 6.

"Problems of the Peace" were discussed by Fulton Oursler in his lecture on January 21.

Pierre Van Paassen, noted journalist and foreign correspondent, lectured October 21 on "The Crisis in the Western Civilization."

The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo under the direction of Leonidi Massine appeared before an enthusiastic audience on November 26.

Thomas Hart Benton, a well-known contemporary painter, on February 23 spoke on "American Art."

Because of her work as Women's Athletic Director of the OCD, Alice Marble was unable to give her talk on "The Will to Win."

Poet and novelist Alfred Noyes lectured on "Poetry and Reality" on December 5, at the College Auditorium.

Margaret Bourke-White, famed woman photographer, replaced Alice Marble on March 12, speaking on "Lenses Behind the News."

On April 14, Dorothy Crawford, monologist and impersonator, presented her "Original Character Sketches."

Charles F. Kettering, who was to have talked on "A Scientist's Work on War Problems," was unable to appear here due to war work.

Within three magical doors in the basement of the Union Annex on which appears the names (alphabetically, to show no partiality) Spartan, State News, and Wolverine . . . I can't think of any possible way to make a complete sentence out of that lead. But to continue, three amazing achievements take form behind those doors, considering the environment they are created in. Let us never forget those tri-weekly reminders on the State News assignment sheet: gather in the TC's and where is that early copy? Or where is that copy?!

Nor can we rid ourselves of the haunting memories of the Spartan Sales Stand on the Upper Deck to which we could never crowd close enough to buy a copy. And above all shall we remember the lesson received when we stuck our (head, heads?) in the Wolverine office to offer a few moments work and had to keep coming the rest of the year to finish it.

Layouts, write-ups, sales, copy, and deadlines are only a few of the many worries that buzz around in the heads of the Wolverine staff. However, a shiny, new office has inspired the gang onto "bigger and better things." Larry Hardy, the big boss, and Betty Crum, the keeper of the cash, each have their own private hide-out.

Loss of personnel has been everyone's problem this year. The "draft" blew right through the office and carried with it several valuable members. Oh well, State's loss is the Army's gain! War or more war, Michigan State students will be owning a Wolverine this year that is headed for an All-American rating — we hope!

A PILLAR OF JOURNALISM BY BEING POSTED IN THE UNION

Doors bang — people laugh — someone mumbles "Gotta go to class," and everyone looks surprised — people laugh — the business manager tears his hair 'cause the ads aren't in — a writer dreams away peacefully — people laugh.

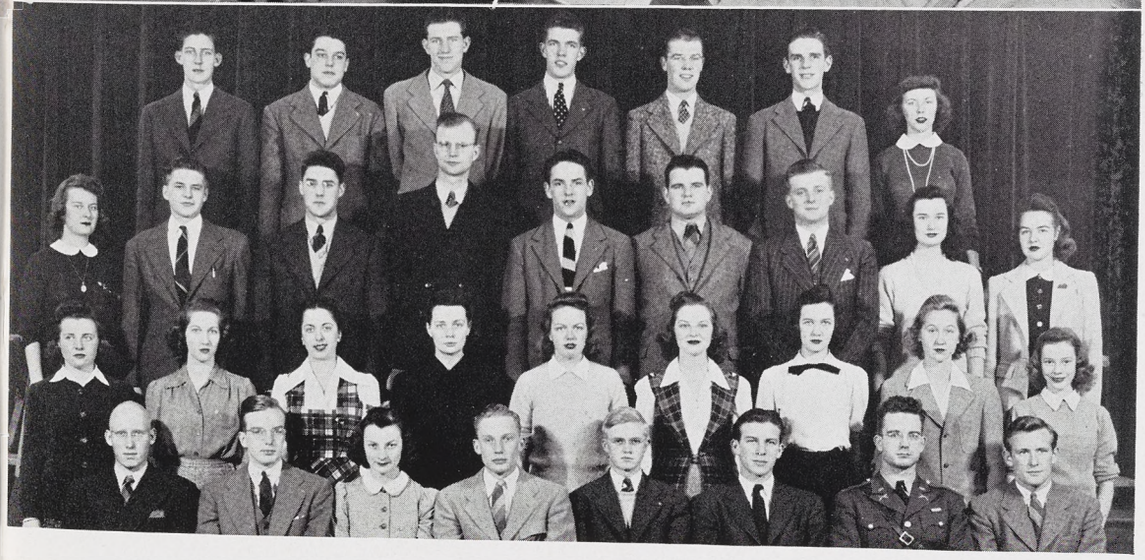

In short, the Spartan staff has fun. They're proud as anything of their brand-new office in the Union Annex. They've increased their sales, sold more ads than ever before, and they're fast making the Spartan a firmly established institution at Michigan State.

That's a pretty good record for five and a half years. Sparty celebrated his fifth birthday in December 1941, and though saddened by the death of its founder, Jimmy Hays, the Spartan feels sure he would be proud if he could see the magazine today.

M. S. C. VETERINARIAN — PUBLISHED TO INFORM THE "VETS"

The first issue of the M.S.C. Veterinarian came out in the Fall of 1940, founded and edited by Alvin Fahlund who graduated in 1941. It was conceived as a medium, under the direction of the Junior American Veterinary Medical Association, between students and alumni and is a quarterly publication financially independent and entirely under student management. Since the periodical's initiation, subscriptions, advertisements, and content have practically doubled so that now there are approximately eight hundred subscribers from all forty-eight States, Russia, Canada, and several South American countries, Puerto Rico and the Pacific Islands. At present M.S.C. Veterinarian contains thirty-six pages and the aim of the staff is to publish a fifty-page magazine with a subscription list topping one thousand.

READIN', WRITIN' AND NO 'RITHMETIC!—BOARD OF PUBLICATIONS

Lending a gentle but firm guiding hand to State's three student publications is the job of the Board of Publications. In no way a censoring body, the sole purpose of the Board is to offer helpful business and editorial suggestions to the Spartan, Wolverine, and State News in an endeavor to make those publications conform to current student tastes.

This year's Board of Publications, composed of the editor, business manager, and faculty advisor of each of three publications, along with the presidents of Student Council and A. W. S., the College Treasurer, Alumni Secretary, and head of the Publications Department, is operated under the chairmanship of Betty Crum, Wolverine business manager.

Members of this group meet monthly to carry out such business as may come before the Board, electing in Spring term the managing editors and business managers for the coming year. They also plan and conduct the annual Publications Banquet held each year in May.

With but one thought in mind, Matrix, junior and senior women's journalism honorary, went through the 1941-42 school year, promoting the cause of women in journalism.

That one thought was the raising of sufficient funds to allow the local chapter to affiliate with Theta Sigma Phi, National women's journalism society. And toward this end, of going National by next Fall, all Matrix's activities during this fourth year of their existence centered.

Along with the Michigan State College chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, National professional journalism fraternity, Matrix sponsored the successful Publications Open House and the Michigan Intercollegiate Press Convention of Winter term. And on their own initiative, Matrix undertook the printing of the AWS Handbook, and the sponsoring of a High School Press Conference.

Eligibility for membership in Matrix likewise has centered around the probability of becoming Theta Sigma Phi and therefore comply with its requirements. To be accepted into Matrix, the candidate must have at least a 1.5 all-college average, a B average in journalism subjects, and be doing outstanding work on one of the three campus publications.

MATRIX—PEN-POISED WOMEN WITH THE KNACK OF NEWS WRITING

SIGMA DELTA CHI — JOURNALISTS ON THE JUMP

Journalism's national professional fraternity, Sigma Delta Chi, completes its second year at M.S.C. this spring. In April 1940 this organization took the place of the local N.W.S., which had been named for the three student publications, State's News, Wolverine, and Spartan.

Sigma Delta Chi is composed of students, active members of one of the campus publications, and newspapermen doing or intending to do professional work in journalism.

Luncheon meetings, frequently with guest speakers, are held twice each month during the school year with a business meeting once a month. Contacts with professional men in the field are encouraged by an invitation to meetings and special functions.

A local Collegiate Press convention is sponsored annually by this chapter of Sigma Delta Chi. Larry Hardy, president of the local chapter, represented M.S.C. at the national convention held in New Orleans this year. He was appointed Chairman of National Committee on Chapter Publications during the convention. Yearly publication of the student-faculty directory is in charge of Sigma Delta Chi.

Sigma Delta Chi lost its faculty adviser, Ralph Norman, this year, who took up the responsibility of his father's farm due to the latter's illness.

Until this year the three publications on campus have had independent methods of obtaining "pics" for their individual use. However, the new photographic darkroom has tended to centralize all the previously diversified systems as well as to remove the pirating of photographers and general disorganization.

From the darkroom, which is a small cubicle contingent to the Spartan office on "publication row," emerge pictures for the News, Spartan, and the Wolverine, all three of which it was designed to serve. Equipment is complete and adequate; everything possible was included to make it a photographers' paradise.

The new "room" is headed up by student photographic editors, Mart Kies and Bob Greenhalgh, who are given full responsibility, and are responsible only to the committee on photography, which is made up of a representative of each publication and a faculty advisor.

As a result of this innovation in photographic service M. S. C. students are seeing more and better pictures.

"War is Hell!" said Sherman.

All the courage, bravery, endurance and discipline that the Spartans of Greece were noted for will be required to face the most gigantic of all wars: World War II.

WAR IS COSTLY, BUT THE GREATEST COST WOULD BE DEFEAT

The boys who trudge to Dem Hall look forward soberly.

To those who have traveled under the falacy that modern youth is made of poor timber, let them remember that the boys at M.S.C. could have been on Wake Island or at Pearl Harbor. The courage of the latter needs no elaboration.

The boys in R.O.T.C. are not fully trained, nor are they expected to be, but the foundation for officer material has been laid. When the war is over and the United States is on top, and she will be, remember the lads at M.S.C. helped put her there.

President, Officers' Club

A more and more important part is constantly being played by the four military units on our campus. The Infantry, Field and Coast Artilleries, and Cavalry will necessarily be enlarged to accommodate the present war situation. Here on M. S. C.'s campus there is much room for expansion and it is expected that our Military Department will keep pace with the war effort of the Nation. A new unit has already been added; that is the Quartermasters Corps. Classes for this division began in Spring 1942. This is the procurement division of the army and will play an important part in our Military Department. Seniors and Juniors will be eligible for this division.

The official ruling and unifying body of the divisions is the Officers' Club. It works along with the officers stationed here to co-ordinate the several branches of the Military Department. This club, which is open to all junior and senior military students presents awards to the outstanding militarists of the year, and holds election and installation ceremonies for honorary co-ed sponsors. The most colorful of the varied social events is the formal Military Ball which this year was preceded by a formal dinner.

The Field Artillery at State is completely motorized. The boys graduating in the ranks of the reserve officers on active duty have spent four years learning to handle mechanized equipment.

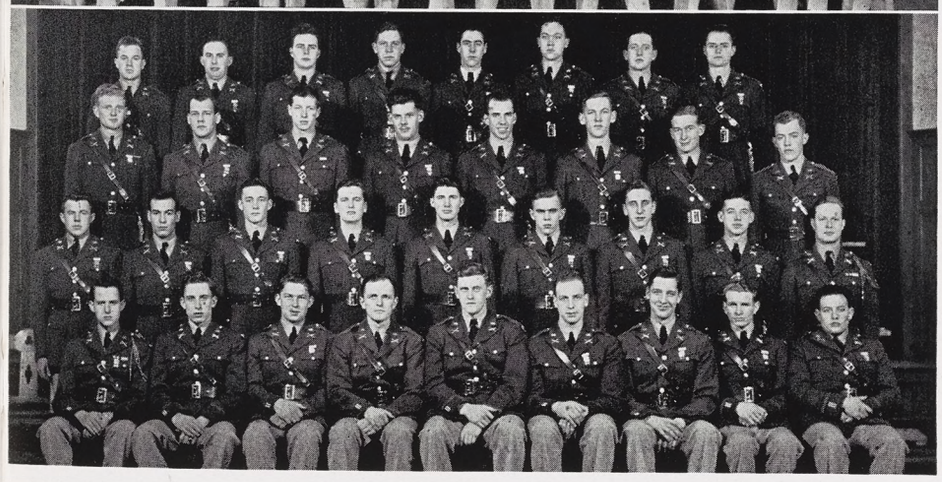

Freshmen spend the first year learning to handle the French "75's" from muzzle to trail. Sophomores have the chance to learn to drive the trucks, use the telephones, radios, and fire control instruments. Then comes the biggest worry. The embryo officers must be able to prove that they know the guns, trucks, communications, and instruments thoroughly. As juniors they go into the more difficult stages of gunnery, firing data and problems, and a review of all that's passed before. Comes Spring maneuvers and inspection and the juniors are in charge of gun crews, and then at last they are seniors. Military history, more gunnery, and more fire control work make up the last part of their training.

Finally, the men assemble to receive their commissions from the commander of the 6th corps area, and then new Field Artillery officers are off to get still more training before they go against the enemies of the United States.

THEM JUST ABOUT EVERYWHERE BESIDES ON THE WATER'S EDGE

Instruction in the Coast Artillery Corps are in two general fields, Anti-aircraft defense and Harbor and Coastal Defense. The most intensive instruction at State is in Anti-aircraft and advance training in the C.A. R.O.T.C. leads to a commission in the Coast Artillery Anti-aircraft Reserve.

The class of '42 went to Summer camp at Camp Leonard Wood, Fort Sheridan, Illinois. Their six weeks there was used in rifle and pistol practice, gun drill on three-inch A. A. guns, a little taste of chemical warfare and marching.

The Spartans along with the C.A. cadets from University of Illinois made up what should have been known as the wonderful "battery B" — there isn't a man in the outfit will ever forget the Sarg Duncan's 5 a.m. greeting "battery B on line."

Colonel Campbell, who has been head of the M.S.C. Coast Artillery Department, received transfer orders Fall term of this year and Colonel Stillman came direct from the Philippine Islands to take over his place.

Without any pun intended, the Infantry at M.S.C. really gets its training from the ground up. Ask any of the one hundred seventy-eight freshmen how he likes the fundamentals of drilling, the manual of arms, and the numerous tests.

Ask any of the one hundred and thirteen sophomores if elementary map reading is any harder than using a road map, if scouting and patrolling, and squad tactics are too complex when explained.

Ask any of the forty juniors how many parts there are in a machine gun, a mortar, a thirty-seven mm. gun, or how they like fitted uniforms. Ask any of the twenty-seven seniors if it's as easy to give orders as it is to take them, if four years are enough to learn to be a commissioned officer.

Ask any Infantry man if he realizes the seriousness of his job during the present emergency.

They do, and every one of them is studying in absolute earnestness every subject taught them by Lt. E. K. Bremer who joined the Infantry staff this last Fall.

MERRY-GO-ROUND FOR IN THE ARMY IT'S SERIOUS BUSINESS

In spite of blitzkrieg and panzer tactics, the cavalry is holding its own. Before they ever learn of combat units and infiltrating fire, the cavalry freshman is taught the proper defense of his unit against the slander of other units. He finds out that the horse troop is still prized for its mobility, fire power, and shock effect. He is instilled with the knowledge that Hitler used 300,000 horses in Poland and that Russian cossack riders rewon the Ukraine from the Nazis.

After this fundamental training in loyalty to his unit, the embryo cavalryman finds which end of the horse is back. After learning to ride, he spends a whole term in mounted combat formations. He practices dissembling machine guns and other weapons which give him firepower equal to that of the infantry. This year every cavalryman heard the Chief of the Field Artillery state that he needed more units of horse artillery. On completing the advanced course and Summer camp, the cavalryman gets his commission but finds himself assigned to active duty in a cavalry tank unit.

PERSHING RIFLES—EVERY WEDNESDAY NIGHT'S INTENSIVE

The National Honorary Society of Pershing Rifles provides the appropriate recognition to interested cadets of the basic course in R.O.T.C. who possess a high degree of military ability; and at the same time it furthers in the development of the high ideals of the military profession, and general citizenship. It is ably officered by Pershing Riflemen of the Advanced R.O.T.C.; and First Lieutenant E. F. Totton of the Military Department was this year's faculty advisor.

Pershing Rifles, which is in its ninth year on campus, has grown until its membership is the largest and most active in its history at M.S.C. This year's group drilled regularly during Fall and Winter terms, and an extra amount of drilling for a greater part of Spring term so as to be able to present a crack drill team at the annual First Regimental competition which was held at Ohio State University. A trip to Bowling Green, Kentucky for participation in the Third Regimental Drill Meet, which was also planned, had to be cancelled because of conflictions. An innovation this year was a series of lectures by officers of the various military units, which offered the Pershing Riflemen an improved conception of the inter-relationships and functions of the arms of the service.

The local unit, which is Company C First Regiment, sponsors parties and dances, and acts as a service unit for special occasions demanding services of a military nature, such as at the annual Military Ball, and parades. It also produces a specialty drill team, crack marksmen, and a drum and bugle corps. Each Spring Pershing Rifles makes an award to the freshman of each unit of R.O.T.C. who displays the highest degree of excellence in his class.

Mortar and Ball at Michigan State College is one of the three chapters of the national coast artillery honorary in the country. Other chapters are at Kansas State College and the University of Minnesota, where the organization was founded in 1920.

Establishment of the local chapter, Battery E, First Regiment, came in 1930. Membership is limited to advanced students in the Coast Artillery Corps who have proved themselves outstanding both in military science and in college activities.

The organization stresses the social side of R.O.T.C. work as well as the strictly military phases, with the aim of making the coast artillerymen better acquainted. Mortar and Ball receives its new members with a formal initiation held throughout an entire week.

A banquet, two formal parties, and business meetings are scheduled during the academic year.

MORTAR AND BALL—IT'S FOR THE "COAST" AND THAT'S ALL

ALL JUNIOR OFFICERS HOPE TO MAKE IT — SCABBARD AND BLADE

Company K, First Regiment, Attention!

At that command, the Michigan State College chapter of Scabbard and Blade, national military fraternity, snaps to the front. To be eligible for membership in this military fraternity the Junior officer must not only achieve distinction in military science, but also have a satisfactory record in scholarship. This organization is unique in that it bands together all branches of the R.O.T.C.

Scabbard and Blade was originated to more closely unite the military department of American colleges and universities, to develop efficient officers, and to spread intelligent information concerning the military requirements of our country. The true significance of this organization is fully recognized at this time when America is so vitally in need of intelligent and responsible officers.

In addition to the monthly luncheon at which the regular officers are guests, Scabbard and Blade sponsors an All-College Dance which is one of the highlights of each fall term. Pistol teams representing the chapters in various colleges and universities meet in scheduled matches.

The national society of Scabbard and Blade was founded in 1904 at the University of Wisconsin. This honorary military fraternity is now represented on eighty-six campuses throughout the country.

PISTOL TEAM—THE "SIX GUN" ARTISTS OF THE "RANGE"

The Pistol Team of Michigan State College was organized to develop marksmanship among the students and to provide inter-collegiate competition. Master Sergeant Paul Fischuk has been coach of the team since its foundation in 1936; 2nd Lieutenant N. D. Henderson, Field Artillery, is Officer in Charge.

Teams representing all sections of the country compete against M. S. C.'s Pistol Team. A few of these competitors are: United States Military Academy (West Point), A. & M. College of Texas, University of Yale, and Cornell University.

In the National Field Artillery Match the team placed third in 1941. Richard H. Reiley took third place in individual competition in the same match. The team record for 1941 is 20 matches won, one match lost, and one match tied.

Matches planned are the National Field Artillery Match, the Sixth Corps Area Match, and an invitation Match to be held at M. S. C.

Michigan State College's R.O.T.C. Rifle Team running into tough competition, as everyone was sharpening his eye for eventualities, still managed to come out on top winning thirty-four out of sixty-five matches. Their two top matches were the Sixth Corps Area Intercollegiate Match and the William Randolph Hearst Trophy Match.

In the former State's "powder-burners" came out in fifth place but the sun still shone as they defeated U. of M. by fifty points. Soaring to top form the riflemen walked off with top honors in the latter meet with 920 points out of a possible 1,000.

A Shoulder-to-shoulder Match also was held with a select team from the Detroit R.O.T.C. High School in Convention Hall under the auspices of the National Sportsman's Show. The State team won after a closely contested match.

Captain Russell Martin and Co-captain Wilfred Pankow for 1942 led the way not only in leadership but marksmanship, their season averages respectively were 381 and 377.2.

Again the high standard of production which has been set by the Department of Speech and Dramatics under the direction of Dr. W. Fawcett Thompson was maintained for 1941-42. The usual Spring term Shakespearian production took the form of Othello, with Albert Timerick, and Doris Veith in the leading roles of husband and wife, while Dick Ellison completed the eternal triangle. Fall term led off with the George Kaufman-Edna Ferber Broadway hit—Stage Door. Myra Buchholz, Alex Dillingham and Gerald Smith carried the major roles. Winter term brought Jack Bush as Henry Aldrich in What a Life, ably seconded by Robert Boniece as the harrassed principal, and Ann Hoyt as the heart interest.

The Delta Chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, national honorary dramatic fraternity, was organized in 1924 on Michigan State's campus as a means to recognize students in dramatics and to promote interest in and continually improve the quality of drama on campus.

Membership into Theta Alpha Phi is limited to those who have taken part in two or more important campus productions, and have a one point average. Working with stage crews gives points toward membership.

Nineteen thirty-nine marked the founding of Studio Theater which has grown rapidly under the sponsorship of Theta Alpha Phi and now has a host of enthusiastic members.

Theta Alpha Phi promoted this year's production of "Stage Door," "What a Life," and "The Imaginary Invalid."

Pi Kappa Delta, national speech honorary, has been established on Michigan State Campus since 1921. The purpose of the group is to promote excellence in forensic activity, and in fulfillment of this aim, students must participate in ten decision debates before being accepted as members. With Glen Wagner handling oratory, Grace Sidoti heading the Impromptu lists, and Al Thorburn as leader in parliamentary procedure, Pi Kappa Delta has made a name for itself.

The Intramural Debate tournament was sponsored by the organization this year in cooperation with the Speech department, and delegates attended the National convention at Minneapolis this Spring where the activity consisted mainly in forensic contests and student assemblies. In addition to furnishing judges for forensic activities throughout the State, members expect to continue cooperating in the student defense program on campus.

Orchesis, national dance honorary, was organized locally in 1928 for women students who show unusual interest in dance and who wish to further their experience. This organization endeavors to promote interest in an understanding of the dance among the students on the campus.

A new system this year divides the group into Senior and Junior Orchesis. A try-out group practices twice a week during the year attempting to earn membership in one of the two groups. Initiation for successful candidates is held in the Spring of the year.

Orchesis interests itself in all types of dance and in the related arts, but works chiefly in the contemporary modern field, using it as a medium of creative expression. Each year Orchesis presents its work in conjunction with some other campus art group to all M.S.C. students.

From "The Republic of Panama" given by Henry Simons, Jr., a native of Panama and a graduate of the National Institute of Panama to "The Rains Came — to Kentucky" presented by Mary Elizabeth Kerth who lives down by "ole man River" is the roster of speeches given by the Student Speakers Bureau. The speeches vary from a discussion on theatrical make-up to a report on Forestry. Walter Isley has traveled through Sweden and Finland and Fernando Randon through Venezuela.

Going into its fourth successful year, it has grown until now forty students speak before high schools, chambers of commerce, and social organizations throughout the State.

In the Spring tryouts, students test whether their presentations can be used and then during the year they spend many hours in preparation and presentation of speeches. These students really do an excellent job of selling Michigan State College. In order to be of service to the community in every way, debates, round table discussion, parliamentary drill, book reviews and one-act plays are offered.

PERFORMING AN IMPORTANT SERVICE — SPEAKER'S BUREAU

Ah, music hath the power. How well the Sparties of this department know! It hath the power of drawing them to class every day to learn that the hand goes left on the second beat, that for the best vocal tones one must practice yawning daily, and that everyone must stay strictly within the limits of Part Writing Rule B, Lesson 4, although exceptions can be made. It also drags them into recital Thursday afternoons, in addition to firmly pushing the performers onto the stage. Who could resist the compelling pull of orchestra backed by Mr. Schuster, on the beating rhythm at Spring band practice?

WHERE, BY HARD HOURS OF PREPARATION, RHYTHM, MELODY

But the power of music exerts its full strength in the Practice building, where Chopin, Wagner, Clementi, and Debussy, mingling in the medium of voice, violin, piano, and wind instruments make a strong effort to undermine even the most stable of Spartan Spirit.

There are one hundred reasons why Michigan State is proud of its band. These marching musicians with their easy, precise formations are long-time favorites with the fans at Macklin Field.

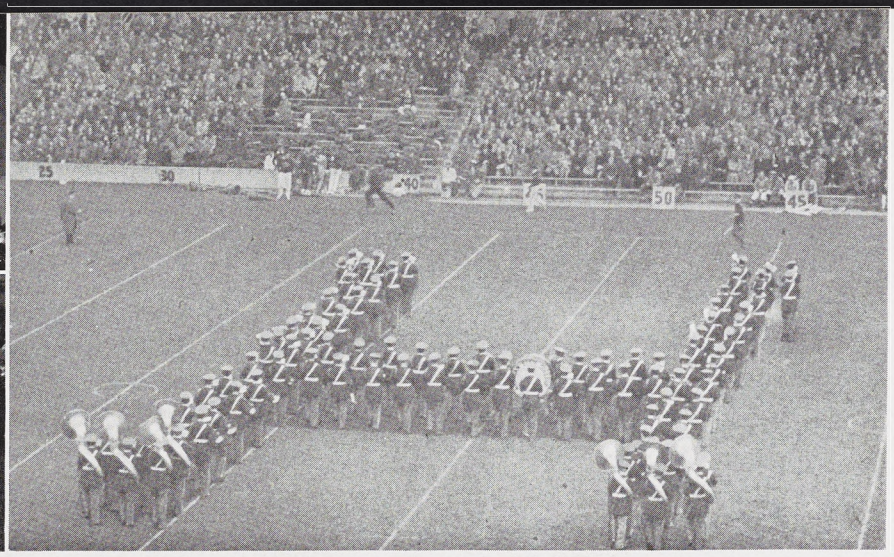

Their music inspires an enthusiasm into the basketball crowds. In the spring they draw large crowds to the band shell to listen to their frequent concerts.

Just to make this move more smoothly in the spring parades, the band plays for the weekly military review.

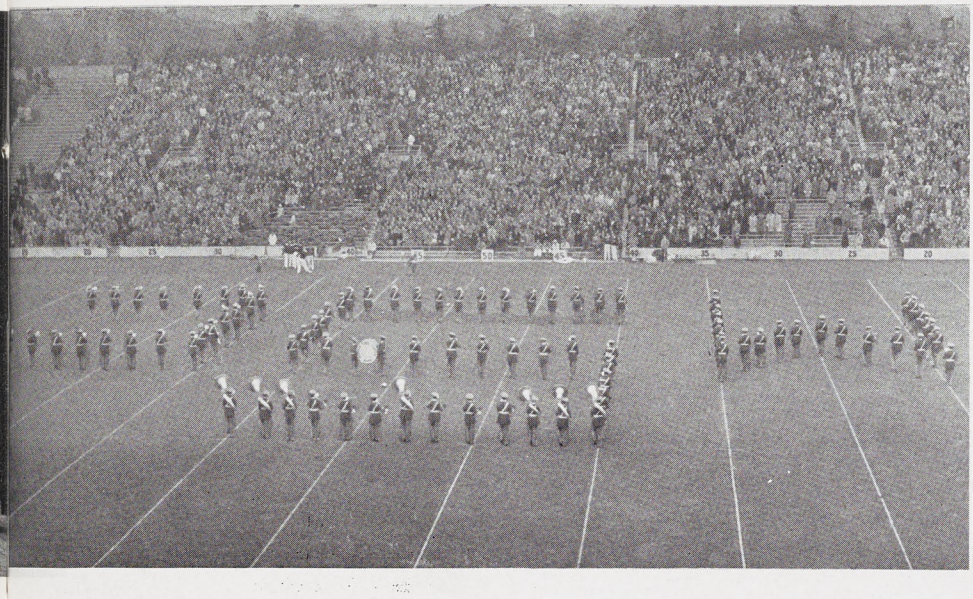

This year the band has been under the direction of D. C. Harris in the absence of Mr. Falcone.

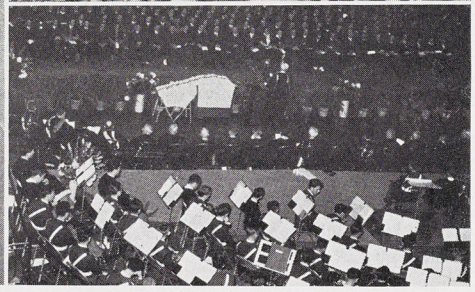

R IT AT FOOTBALL GAMES, PARADE FIELD AND CONCERT STAGE

All band positions are competitive and members spend about six hours in rehearsal each week.

One of the outstanding band formations seen on the gridiron last fall was the marching prophecy of the eventual victory for the United Nations. The outcome was annihilation of a Swastika, by an allied tank with the whole company breaking into a huge "V."

Such formations are carefully planned in advance on a table with pieces of wood.

The Michigan State College Symphony Orchestra presents some of the finest music heard by State students. Under the able hand of Professor Alexander Schuster, the orchestra presents at least one concert each term.

The orchestra appeared once fall term, when they accompanied the noted violinist, Zino Francescatti who played Brahms' Violin Concerto.

The orchestra appeared again for Farmers' week in winter term. Later in February they gave another concert, with Professor Schuster featured as solo celloist.

In spring the orchestra appears most. Besides its regular concert it appeared this year in the Choral Festival in April, and a combined program with the chorus in May. It was also featured in the vocal festival held recently.

Since it was organized in 1929, the membership has increased from the original 30 to its present size of 52 persons. Since its founding the orchestra has also grown in popularity and assisted throughout this college year by furnishing incidental music for various campus activities.

This marks the fourth year of existence for the Gamma Epsilon chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, which is the only men's music society on campus.

To advance the cause of music in America, foster mutual welfare and brotherhood of students in music, develop the truest fraternal spirit among members, and to encourage loyalty to the Alma Mater are the lofty objectives of the organization. Their plan of development is expressed in their slogan:

"The manly musician and the musicianly man."

The activities of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia include a program presented at each bi-weekly meeting, and an annual recital of American music open to the student body. The chapter initiated ten music majors this year.

PHI MU ALPHA SINFONIA—MEN WHO ARE FOR FINER MUSIC

Ag students, Home Ecs, Engineers, Liberal Arts, Applied Science and Vets; they are all in the chorus, the largest musical organization on campus. Membership is gained by audition and participation is entirely on a voluntary basis for which no credit is given.

This was an important year for the chorus — they welcomed a new director, Mr. Edwin Stein who made his first appearance at the Christmas carol concert. The chorus rose to a new level of maturity at their Winter term concert when they presented for the first time the Roy Harris Folk Song Symphony and Mozart's Requiem with the symphony orchestra.

A novel feature was the appearance with the band in the shell for the last Spring concert when in keeping with that sentimental season they presented songs from the gay romantic operetta "New Moon."

Wednesday night is the time for chorus practice when these disciples of Orpheus stand at attention before Mr. Stein and sing and sing.

The black-robed members of the A Capella Choir are proud of their reputation on and off campus for excellent singing in both secular and sacred music.

Their ambition is to achieve a greater degree of finesse in the art of unaccompanied singing. Three practices a week, sincere interest in serious music, and careful direction are their formula.

The choir is under the leadership of their new director, Mr. Edwin Stein. This year the choir added to its record of appearances a series of 15-minute broadcasts over the college radio station WKAR.

Competitive auditions are held by the director to determine the candidates ability to meet the high standards of the choir.

The choir, which is in constant demand, made appearances in Lansing and throughout the State during the year. The annual spring concert marked the climax of their season.

Marching into their concerts this year to the tune of Romberg's "Stout Hearted Men," Michigan State College Men's Glee Club under the direction of Dr. Edwin Stein has maintained its position as one of the campus's outstanding democratic organizations.

Basically a volunteer group the Men's Glee Club has greatly expanded its activities during the past year, securing more concert engagements, having more informal get-togethers, and serenading sororities and women's dormitories.

In truly democratic manner members are accepted from any division of the college. The only requirements a candidate must meet are good character, acceptance by the older members as a "good" fellow, and the ability to carry a tune. Those who fail at first to get into the club are placed on a waiting list for consideration as members when a vacancy occurs.

As rewards for conscientous service, men with two years service receive a key, and a "S" blanket is awarded to four-year members.

The Women's Glee Club of Michigan State College is open to all women attending college so that they might participate in extra curricular music activities to increase their music ability and interest. Miss Josephine Kackley, director, chooses members on the basis of their musical ability, voice quality and blending possibilities.

Fall term, the club held a Christmas tea for members of the music faculty and music students. They entertained with a carol concert. Also at Christmas time they sang on the Choral concert.

Highlight of the Women's Glee Club activities was the Spring Concert given in May. In the same month, members held the annual Spring Banquet at which awards for participation were given. Other awards were also presented at the formal dinner.

The club was founded at Michigan State in 1927. It meets every Wednesday night to sing and rehearse for their many programs. The club social program also includes picnics, buffet suppers and teas.

GIRLS MUSICALLY TALENTED MAY BELONG — WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB

A MUSICAL PROGRAM DESIGNED TO DEFINITELY PLEASE

One of the educational and delightfully interesting programs presented at the college every year is the music concert series. The program is worked out and scheduled by Dean Emmons, Secretary McDonel, and Mr. Underwood of the music department.

Mr. Eugene Goossens, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra who is a noted composer as well as conductor, well typifies the excellence of this musical series. Other distinguished persons on the '42 program were Vronsky and Babin, considered by critics as the finest two-piano team before the public; the Stradivarius Quartet, who take their name from the famous collection of stringed instruments used by its members; Zino Francescatti, internationally famous French violinist; Robert Weede, American baritone of the Metropolitan Opera; the American Ballad Singers who present American folk songs and ballads; and Hilda Burke, the successful leading soprano of the Metropolitan Opera.

Sigma Alpha Iota is a national professional fraternity for women musicians who are representative of the highest ideals of a musical education. It aims to raise the standards of productive musical work among women music students. Sigma Alpha Iota pledges its cooperation with the ideals and aims of the Alma Mater and adherence to highest standards of citizenship in the American democracy.

Members must maintain a 1.5 average as minimum and be active musicians either at the student or professional level.

Michigan State's Alpha Lambda chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota looks back on an active season during which they presented a Vesper service at the People's Church during Lent, offered a public performance once a month, and sponsored a guest artist at their annual formal musicale.

A DEDICATION TO MEN IN ALL BRANCHES OF MILITARY SERVICE

When most of the college organizations are written up for the yearbook, it is necessary to define the exact title and program of that group. But this is once that every able-bodied college student belongs (or soon will belong) to the same organization: The Armed Forces of the United States. Boys are leaving the campus every day to join various divisions and in a few weeks they will have themselves fitted into new jobs . . . jobs that will have fast changing addresses with long trips generally designed by Uncle Sam.

However, it is not fair to speak only of those boys who will join the ranks. Many former M. S. C. students are now serving their country. They are scattered to the four corners of the earth and so we respectfully dedicated this page to the boys of Michigan State College who are serving, or soon will be serving in the Armed Forces of the United States.

La Cofradia comes into the spotlight this year with the increase of interest in Pan-Americanism, causing the enlargement of membership. Founded on the campus for the purpose of spreading the study of the Spanish language and to better relationships with Pan-American countries. La Cofradia sponsors Spanish plays, dancing classes where La Conga, the rhumba, and the tango are taught, and a weekly radio program over WKAR as outstanding features of its yearly program.

Membership in this local honorary is limited to second, third, and fourth year Spanish students who have an average of "B" or better, and are interested in continuing with the language outside of class work.

Aiming to promote farm crops and soils programs, the Michigan State chapter of the American Junior Society of Agronomy is made up of students who are majoring in these two fields of the Agriculture division.

Each year, the club sponsors a judging team to compete in the National Intercollegiate Crops judging contest at Kansas City and the International Crops judging Contest at Chicago.

The club meets every two weeks bringing in experts in the field as speakers. Outstanding guest speaker of the year was Mr. Paul Henry of the education bureau of the Chicago Board of Trade.

A GOOD CROP OF JUDGES — FARM CROPS JUDGING TEAM

Richard Goodale . . . President
Charles Ode . . Vice-president
Richard Reiley . . . Secretary
Howard Butler . . . Treasurer

The team is made up of the four upperclassmen who rank highest in their class taking the work. Members of the Farm Crops Judging Team have a wide range of material to deal with. They must prepare themselves in three phases of the work. In judging, the quality of seed is emphasized; in market grading, samples prepared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture may represent one or more problems as found in commercial handling of crops, and requires a knowledge of factors which may raise or lower grades of crops; in crop identification, they must know the commercial and scientific names and the distribution of one hundred ninety-one crops, weeds, and diseases grown or found in the United States.

On their two weeks' trip last Fall they took in two contests. The first was at Kansas City sponsored by the Kansas City Board of Trade and the Chamber of Commerce. Then they stopped in Chicago for the contest sponsored by the Chicago Board of Trade and the International Livestock Exposition and Grain and Hay Show. This is the eighteenth contest at Chicago in which M. S. C. has entered a team. H. R. Pettigrove, the team's coach, is Chairman of Coaches for this contest.

Founded at Michigan State College in 1902, the Alpha Zeta is duplicated in forty-three other agricultural colleges in the United States. Selecting their members on the basis of scholarship, activity, and leadership, the organization strives to develop these qualities and to promote wholesome student and faculty relations.

This honorary fraternity has added one student member this year, bringing the total to twenty and boasts eighty-seven faculty members. Among the honorary members on campus are Dean Ward Giltner, Dean E. A. Bessey, Professor Howard C. Rather, and ex-President Robert S. Shaw.

The group has been busy improving the chapter room in Ag. Hall that other agricultural clubs may have the opportunity of using it to advantage. But more important it has tried to encourage students to apply good study habits.

The Michigan State chapter of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers was founded in 1937 to promote interest in agricultural engineering. The original local organization was called the Agricultural Engineers' Club, and in 1939 it became affiliated with the national A.S.A.E. It is open to any interested student majoring in engineering.

A banquet is sponsored by the chapter each year, at which the highest-ranking agricultural engineer, as picked by the organization and the agricultural department, is presented with the Ag Engineers' award.

An inspection trip sponsored by Farm Equipment Institute and the Machinery Seminar is attended by a faculty member, two student members, and a representative from farm management. This tour is to better acquaint them with farm implement industry.

BETA ALPHA SIGMA—THE ART MART IS THEIR BABY

Robert Robillard . . President

Helen Tate . . . . Secretary
Nestor Mihay . . . Treasurer

For the past eight years, Beta Alpha Sigma, local honorary landscape architecture and floriculture fraternity, has been on Michigan State's campus.

Its purposes are furthering the scholastic attainment and advancement in appreciation and knowledge in the fields it represents. Members of the fraternity are composed of juniors and seniors who are majors in landscape architecture and floriculture, and who have maintained a B average.

At meetings, held every other week, students exhibit art as well as their ideas and views on subjects. Here too, they cooperate with other organizations in decorating our campus. Every other meeting is designated as a social meeting at which guest speakers are presented.

The big annual project of the club is Art Mart, which is held spring term. These are exhibits of student art of all kinds; paintings, industrial art, floral arrangement and ceramics. Prizes are given in each class. Students pick the winners by vote.

Tyler Jahns . . . . Treasurer

The opportunity for students and the faculty of the forestry department to meet socially is enjoyed through their organization, the Forestry Club.

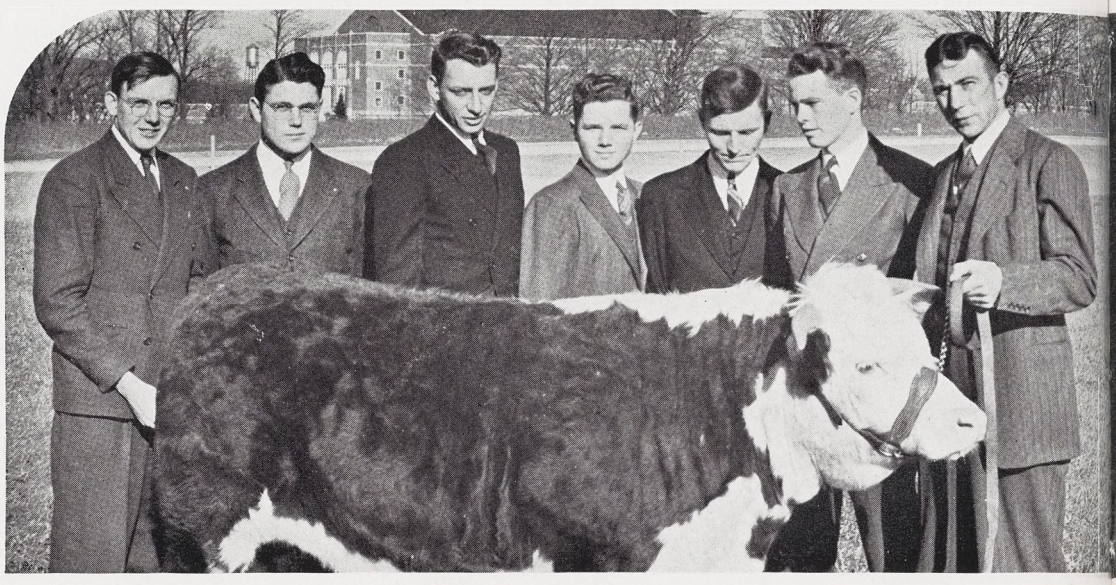

Having an active membership well over the century mark their bi-monthly meetings held in their forestry cabin are successful events in which off-campus speakers keep its members in contact with developments and the progress being made in the forestry field.

Their social activities are many and varied, being highlighted by the annual joint meeting with the Michigan University Foresters and the spring term open party well labeled the "Forestry Shindig."

Interest and imagination run high in the tall tale contest waged between Michigan and State Foresters for the possession of the much coveted "Little Blue Ox" back home with them from the Ann Arbor Stables.

Professor Herbert of the forestry department is their faculty advisor.

ANIMAL HUSBANDRY JUDGING TEAM—AND THAT'S NO BULL

In the Spring of 1941, for the first time in history, Michigan State College sent a Junior Livestock judging team to Fort Worth, Texas, to compete in an Inter-Collegiate Contest representing eighteen colleges and universities.

Fully recovered from the Spring trip, Coach George Propp and his squad of nine men started the Fall term with weekend trips to Ohio, Purdue, and Illinois to which Michigan State College later acted as hosts.

The squad consisted of all seniors and with the Texas trip traveled well over 6,500 miles. Kansas City gave them their first senior contest with beef cattle, horses, swine, and sheep. Two weeks later they competed with 28 other college teams at the international at Chicago International Livestock Exposition which is the bright spot of the year in contests.

The judging team promotes greater knowledge of the farm and function of livestock. The team has no officers and is supported by the animal husbandry department and the Block and Bridle Club.

LIVESTOCK JUDGING TEAMS SPONSORED BY BLOCK AND BRIDLE

Arthur Pope . . . . President
Donald Eppelheimer . Vice-pres.
Edward Warren . . . Secretary
Allyn Van Dyke . . . Treasurer

A keen and vital interest in Animal Husbandry knits the membership of Block and Bridle into an active club of the Agriculture division. Founded in 1930, the organization is a branch of the national fraternity Block and Bridle.

It is open to all Agriculture students carrying a majority of credits in Animal Husbandry. Prospective members must show professional intent before joining.

One of the most important activities of the club is sponsorship of the college Animal Husbandry Judging team, which annually competes in many inter-college judging contests throughout the nation. In this connection, the club also encourages all students to participate in all phases of livestock judging, both in teams and individually.

High also on the list of activities of the club is promotion of excellence in scholarship of all animal Husbandry students. By getting together often, members of the club co-operate better, and trade their views on phases of animal husbandry.

Founded at the University of Washington, Xi Sigma Pi became the first scholastic honorary for Forestry students in 1908. Michigan State had the distinction of being the first Beta chapter which was installed in 1916.

High standards of qualifications for membership are set by the organization. These include a high scholastic standing and a reputation for honesty, sincerity and friendliness. However, promise of professional success is the primary basis for selection.

Xi Sigma Pi not only promotes lectures of interest to the students, but also maintains an active interest in the Forestry Club, which was organized to promote stronger bonds of friendship among the student body and faculty; to provide a program of an educational and social value, and to cooperate in all college activities. Members of Forestry Club are the potential Xi Sigma Pi's.

Working together to further interest in horticulture and to acquaint students with each other, the faculty, and the commercial men in the field of horticulture is the purpose of the Hort Club. They meet once a month for the discussion and planning of various activities.

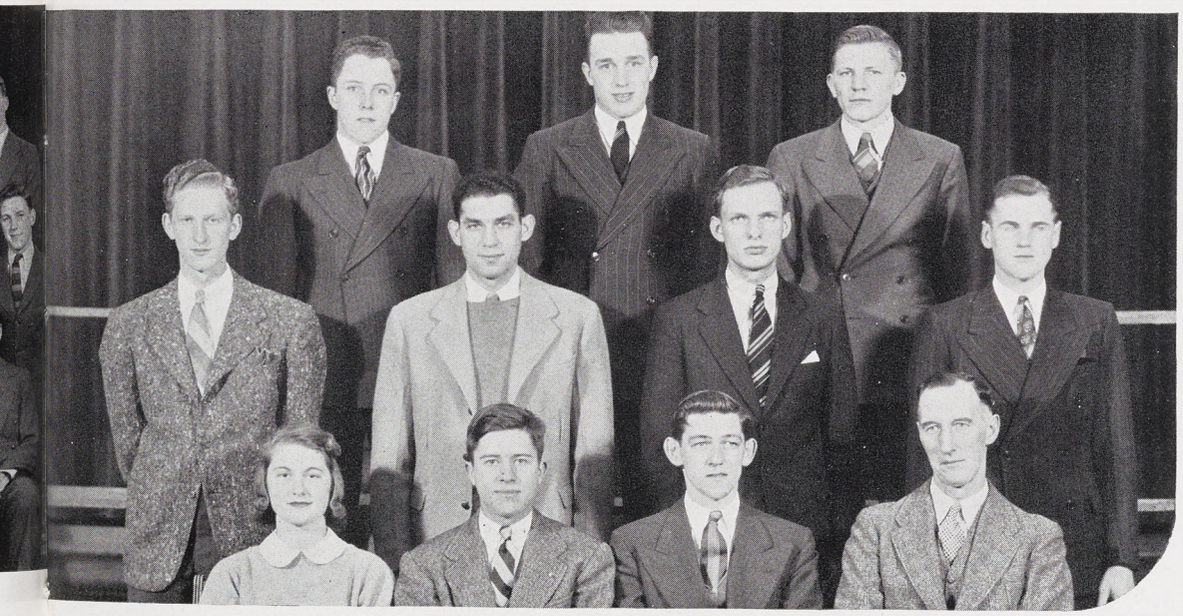

Fall Term they had a barbecue which served as a mixer. The big projects of the year was during winter term. It was their exhibit for Farmers' Week. National Defense was the theme, with better nutrition being emphasized. A picnic with all the trimmings, including mosquitos and ants, was the chief source of entertainment spring term.

There are often speakers at the meetings, who talk on landscape, olericulture, pomology, and floriculture.

Anyone interested in horticulture may attend the meetings.

DAIRY TEAMS — THESE FOUR CAN EXPERTLY JUDGE MILKY WAYS

Six boys comprise two teams for dairy products judging, one of which was sent to Springfield, Massachusetts for judging in the Eastern States Exposition and the other to Toronto, Canada for the Dairy Industries Supply Exposition. In the Massachusetts contest State's team placed fifth in the entire contest; at Toronto, undivided honors were taken in all products except butter. Third place was taken in the entire contest. As a result, the team was awarded a scholarship which was presented to Percy J. Smiltzer.

The two Dairy Cattle Judging Teams this year competed at the Collegiate Dairy Judging Contest at Waterloo, Iowa and at Memphis, Tennessee where they competed with eleven teams.

Prof. I. A. Gould and Prof. R. E. Horwood of the Dairy Husbandry Department respectively coach the four teams.

Dairy Club, one of the interest clubs sponsored by the agriculture division, primarily for students in the dairy department, devotes its time to promoting an interest in the dairy field. Speakers and educational entertainments are provided throughout the year on the subject of dairying.

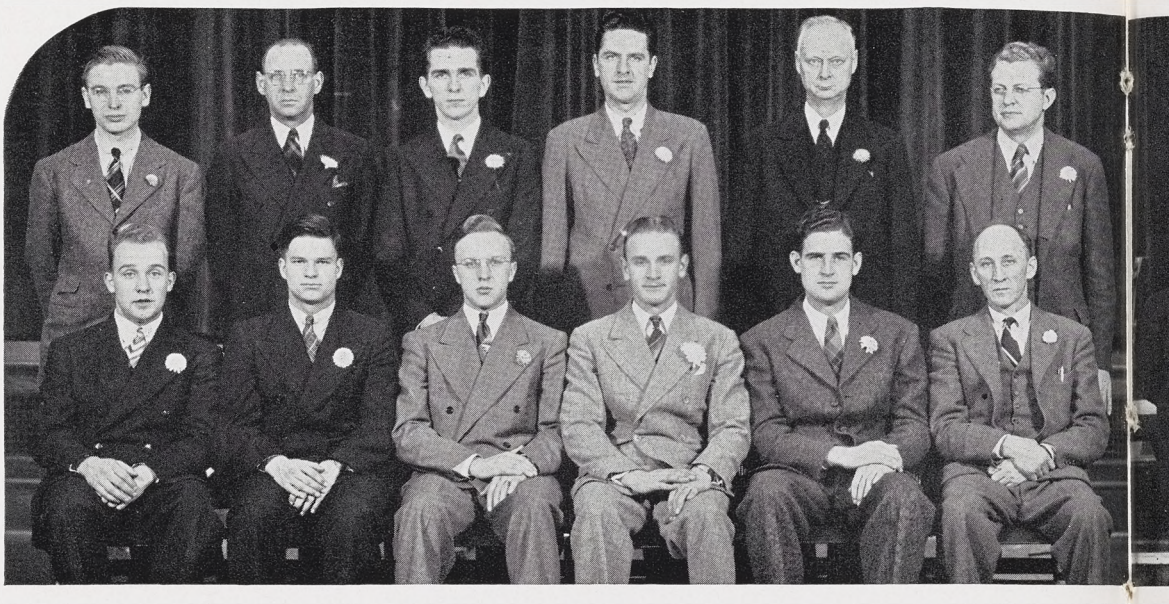

Its principal activity is the annual sending of four product-judging teams to different parts of the country to give its members practical experience in recognition and judging of dairy products. This year teams were sent to Nashville, Tennessee; Waterloo, Iowa; Springfield, Massachusetts; and Toronto, Canada. Cattle sales held throughout the year plus Farmers' Week activities have helped dairy club raise money for these trips, and to sponsor financially the Dairy Cattle Judging Team and Dairy Products Judging Team.

Membership is not limited to students in the dairy department but is open to all dairy majors and any persons interested in dairying.

Dr. Malcolm C. Trout, associate professor of dairy manufactures is advisor to the group.

The Delta Chapter of Pi Alpha Xi, national floriculture honorary, aims at the promotion of higher scholarship among members and the establishment of friendly relations among floriculture students, educators, and professional florists.

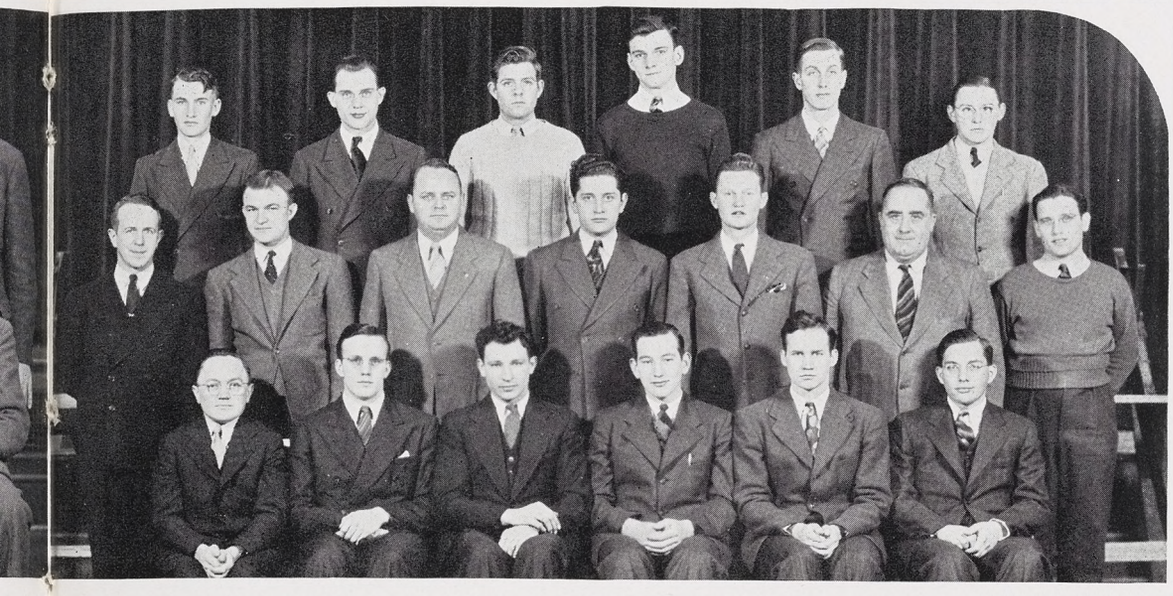

John Fuhr and Bob Marshall were in charge of the floriculture exhibit in the Hort Building during Farmers' Week, and Professor Wildon was in charge of the Auditorium floral display.

The organization sent delegates to the National Flower Show at Chicago and to the Central Michigan Florists' Association meeting held at St. Johns this year. This year's activities also included opening the "School for Defense Gardens" project with Paul Krone in charge, and Professor Wildon lecturing throughout the State on floriculture and crops in connection with the project. General floriculture meetings and demonstrations during the school year are held to discuss flower growing and other phases of floriculture. Mr. Gus Poesch has spoken at several meetings on experimental work.

Locally organized by students in 1939, the Poultry Science Club has engaged in a number of activities which are designed to further the interest of members in the field of poultry husbandry.

For the second year, the club has sponsored a judging team which represented Michigan State at the National Mid-Western Intercollegiate Poultry Judging Contest in Chicago. Stands displaying the varied aspects of poultry raising were set up during Farmer's Week and also during Junior Farmers' Week.

By stimulating greater enthusiasm in the subject through social activities and professional discussion, the Poultry Club hopes to inspire a practical knowledge of the profession as well as to encourage high scholarship. Membership is open to all students majoring in some phase of poultry science.

The aim of the club is to encourage cooperative interest between students and faculty of the department.

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity includes in its membership students of social, honorary, and professional campus organizations.

The Beta Beta chapter at Michigan State College each year sponsors a homecoming dance in the fall, along with their persistent "keep off the grass" campaign.

This year, in addition to their regular winter term activities, which includes maintaining an information booth during Farmers' Week, Alpha Phi Omega aided the Red Cross by boosting the campaign for blood donations for national defense.

The Interfraternity sing, held each spring, is another of Alpha Phi Omega's numerous projects. It is ready to answer calls of any organization for service of all kinds.

Among requirements for membership is the stipulation of previous Boy Scout activity and desire for service.

Purpose of the society is "to assemble college men in the fellowship of the Scout Oath and Law, to develop friendship and to promote service to humanity."

In the fall of 1940, the women's fencing honorary became the first chapter of a national organization known as Delta Gamma Mu. Formerly known as Scimitar and Scherma Scotta, this society has been organized for over five years. The primary purpose is to popularize fencing at M.S.C. by teaching the sport to new students and by cooperating with the men's fencing society Scimitar.

It entered forty-five fencers in the Women's Athletic Association's fall term tournament and sponsored a convention at M.S.C. for all schools interested in stressing fencing. So far, Delta Gamma Mu has been contacted by six colleges interested in expanding the society in their locality.

Delta Gamma Mu is under the leadership of Rachel Friedlund. There are now approximately ten members in the society. This past year they have taught fencing to eighty girls. The requirements for membership are a knowledge of the rules and regulations of fencing, and ability to pass a test on skills involved.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers, is an organization with the fundamental purpose of aiding the student to develop initiative and ability and to express ideas, all of which are requirements of a complete engineer. Further, the society attempts to better student-faculty relations and to keep the student abreast of recent theories and practices in the field of engineering.

Among outstanding accomplishments this year was the usual contribution to Farmer's Week, a float depicting aircraft production. In addition, the local branch has done much toward improving inter-

A national honorary in engineering, Tau Beta Pi awards membership to students of scholastic distinction and alumni of outstanding achievement.

During Winter term top ranking juniors are inducted while the second eighth of seniors and the two highest juniors are admitted during a Fall term initiation.

Tau Beta Pi is the second oldest honorary in the United States, and the Michigan State chapter, which was its second member, will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of its founding in 1892 next November. Highlight of the past year was the national convention in Philadelphia held on October 2, 3, and 4.

Prospective members are subject to a comprehensive examination in addition to an all-night engineering problem as part of their "informal" week initiation. The organization holds meetings bi-monthly and sponsors social and fraternity functions in addition to providing a scholastic goal for all engineering students.

ELECTRICAL PERSONALITIES UP ON WHAT'S SPARKING — A.I.E.E.

The Michigan State College Student Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers was established by Professor M. M. Cory in the Spring of 1918 and is designed to promote not only a closer relationship between the national professional organization and students in the field, but also between the students themselves in the local chapter. Headed by Professor Cory, who has attained the highest possible rank in the A.I.E.E., that of "Fellow," awarded for outstanding service in the field of Electrical Engineering, the organization places emphasis on growth of higher ideals of citizenship and on professional efficiency.

Outstanding speakers, successful men in the field, are presented at the semi-monthly meetings to acquaint members with the opportunities open to Electrical Engineers, and in addition to the tours of inspection sponsored by A.I.E.E. each year, the group attends several of the meetings of the Michigan State Section which are held in the larger cities of the State.

Highlighting the program of the American Institute of Civil Engineers was the annual "get acquainted" banquet for student and professional members held in May. Main project this year was the civil engineering exhibit for Farmers' Week.

The local chapter, founded in 1924, is a student chapter of the national professional civil engineer's society. Two Lansing professional civil engineers, Harry L. Conrad and James E. Payne, members of the national society, work with the students and keep them posted on current civil engineering problems.

The organization also sent five representatives to the national convention of the A.S.C.E. in October.

"To mark with distinction those who as undergraduates have demonstrated their administrative ability or have shown unusual initiative." Thus begins the preamble to the constitution of Phi Lambda Tau, local engineering service honorary.

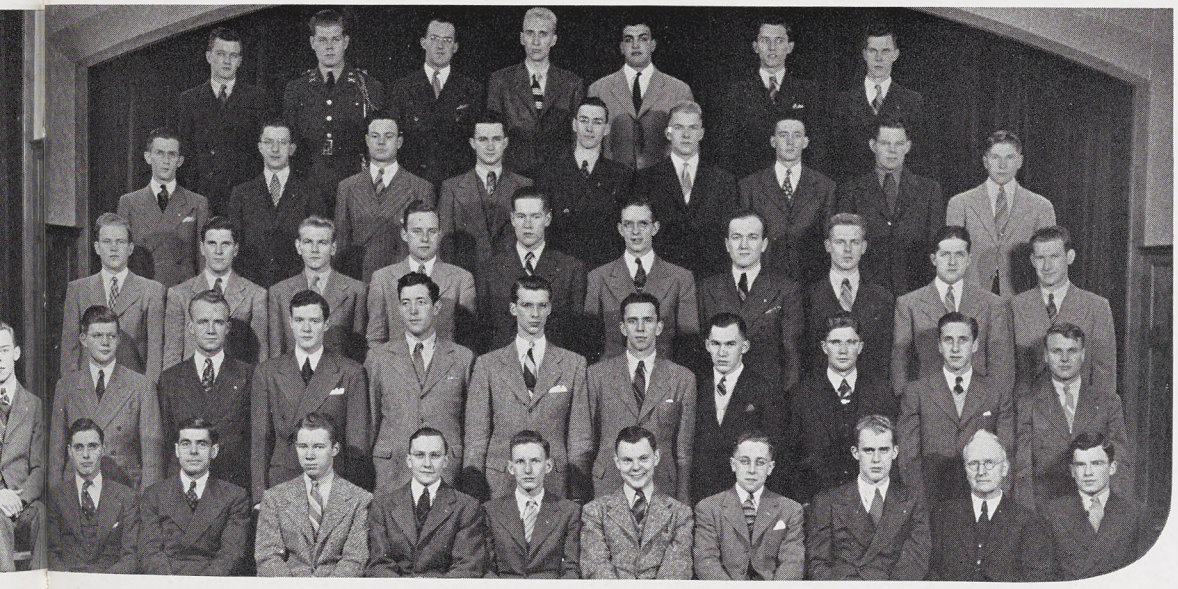

Since its installation in 1925, Phi Lambda Tau has been steadily growing, both in membership and in importance to the engineering students. This year, thirty-seven juniors and seniors were initiated into the fraternity; in addition, two faculty men were added to the roll. This brought the total membership to fifty-three.

To be eligible for election to Phi Lambda Tau, a student must be in the upper half of his class, scholastically, and must have a specified number of points, achieved by participation in extra-curricular activities.

Phi Lambda Tau this year suffered the loss of one of its most highly regarded members, Prof. L. N. Field.

Phi Kappa Phi, one of the more recent honor societies established at Michigan State, is a national organization made up of faculty, graduate, and undergraduate members chosen from all departments of high-grade American colleges and universities.

The objective of this society is to encourage scholarship and intellectual achievement. Open and closed meetings are held with the idea of promoting scholarship along with occasional informal meetings to foster good fellowship among members.

Each year the organization awards a plaque to the Class A, B, C, and D high school whose freshman student at M.S.C. attains the best scholastic record for graduates of high schools of that respective class.

Membership in Sigma Epsilon, a local honorary is limited to Michigan State College fellows who have shown scholastic achievements in the field of business administration and economics. It is a scholastic and not a service organization.

According to Professor C. S. Dunford, faculty advisor, Sigma Epsilon was probably organized on State's campus during the school year of 1928-1929.

This group sponsors the bringing of personnel men to State's campus for the purpose of student interviews. Outside speakers, prominent in the business world, address the members in their regular monthly meetings. Sigma Epsilon is hoping to secure several speakers for a meeting open to all economics students.

SIGMA GAMMA UPSILON MAKES NIGHT CLUB OF UNION—BELL HOP

Kenneth Lawson . . President

Albert Booth . . . . Sec.-treas.

Sponsorship of the "Bell Hop" and a smoker at the Mid-West hotel show in Chicago — these are the major activities of Sigma Gamma Upsilon, honorary society composed of members of the college Hotel Administration course. Including the men who are the leaders of the college Hotel Association, the honorary was organized to increase interest in the hotel field, to establish a contact with men in the hotel industry, and to recognize interest and ability in the Hotel Administration course.

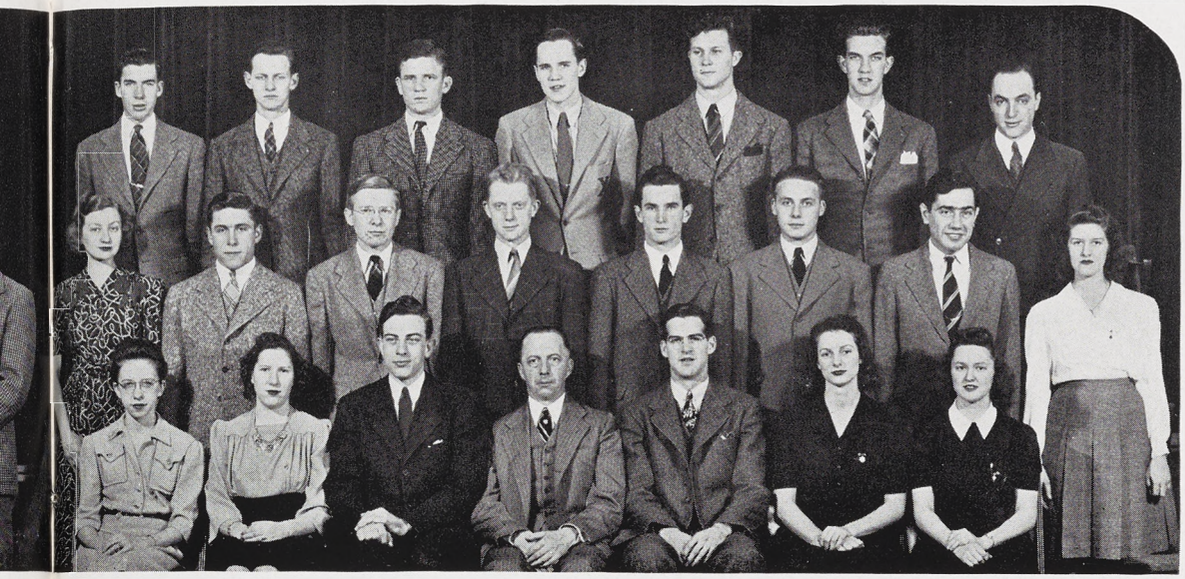

Primarily an honor society, Sigma Gamma Upsilon places special emphasis upon the student's personality and enthusiasm for the vocation. A good scholastic record is the result of the organization's high requirements.

The fraternity was organized in February, 1934, and remains a local society. Among its charter members are men already in positions of importance in the hotel industry, while several past members are now engaged in food work with the army.

P KNOWN AS "TAU SIG" BY THOSE SEEKING ITS HONOR—TAU SIGMA

Raymond Lonsbury . . President

Marcia Guilford . . . Secretary
Raymond Pinkham . . Treasurer

The honorary society of Tau Sigma, organized in 1923 for students in the arts and sciences, is, as its name signifies, a fraternity devoted entirely to the encouragement of high scholastic achievement. A plaque bearing the symbols of the organization, the lamp of learning and the open book of knowledge, is awarded by Tau Sigma to the one student in Applied Science and to the one in Liberal Arts who has achieved the highest scholastic standard in his respective division during the freshman year.

A complete revision of the constitution has been in progress during the past year with the committee in charge, consisting of Donald Come, Ted Hart, and Leland Merrill, assisted by faculty advisers Dean R. C. Huston of the Applied Science Division and Professor J. M. DeHaan head of the department of Philosophy and Psychology.

Members of Alpha chapter of Omicron Nu, national honorary Home Economics society, are chosen mainly for their scholarship, with leadership coming second.

Fall term, Omicron Nu holds a luncheon for members in honor of Ellen H. Richards, founder of Home Economics. It further commemorates the day with a tea for the entire department. Freshman week it aids freshman advisors, and sells aprons to Home Economics and Veterinary students. It also maintains a bulletin board featuring its activities, honor rolls and a Who's Who in Home Economics.

Spring term the sorority holds an annual "Honors Tea" for all Home Economics students with a B average or better. It also presents the Snyder scholarship cup to the sophomore who does outstanding work in Home Economics. This girl keeps the cup for her junior year.

Purpose of the club is to further student-faculty relations. Faculty members are included in this chapter.

Homines Legis (Men of The Law), is a fraternity for Police Administration students founded in 1933 to promote fellowship and to encourage a practical rather than a merely academic interest in the field. Last year the fraternity sponsored a banquet each term with speakers on insurance investigation, Plant-protection management, and State Police organization, and, during this past year the members have toured Jackson State Prison and the Michigan State College Police barracks at East Lansing, a program aimed at arousing interest in the practical aspects of law enforcement and allowing the group to observe aspects of the work which remain concealed from the ordinary layman.

A display of general equipment, guns, and fingerprinting apparatus was exhibited in the library by the organization to acquaint other students with its work. Besides the bi-monthly meetings, two informal dances are sponsored each year.

SIGMA PI SIGMA—IT'S PHYSICALLY LIMITED TO SCHOLARSHIP

Leonard Herscher . . President

The Michigan State Physics Honorary, Sigma Pi Sigma of thirty active members is affiliated with the American Physical Society. It is a scholastic organization for students getting a B average or better in Physics. The society was founded at Davidson College in 1921 and Michigan State's Chapter in 1935 was accepted on campus to promote interest in Physics.

During the year Sigma Pi Sigma initiates prepare papers concerning science which are given for the meetings. Upon certain occasions outside speakers are invited. One of the outstanding speakers was Dr. Forsyth whose particular interest is lamps.

The primary interest of this year was to set up an exhibit for high school students interested in Physics at which all nearby schools were invited.

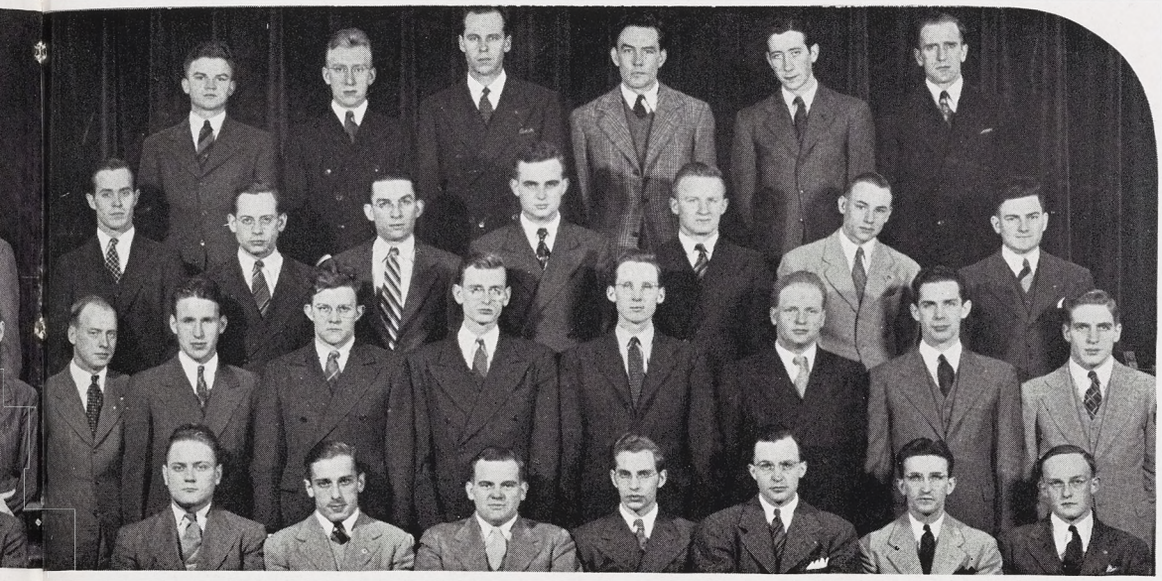

Sigma Pi Sigma in cooperation with American Physical Society strives to help its students by establishing a placement bureau where all can be placed in positions, and maintains a scholarship fund. They make it possible for a large number of lecturers to travel the country and are available for Sigma Pi Sigma. The official publication is Radiation.

ANIMALS TREATED ARE GETTING THE VET'S BEST — ALPHA PSI

State's chapter of Alpha Psi, national veterinary honorary, states that its principal aim is to promote scholarship and fellowship among members, as though fellowship needs to be developed among the vicious vets!

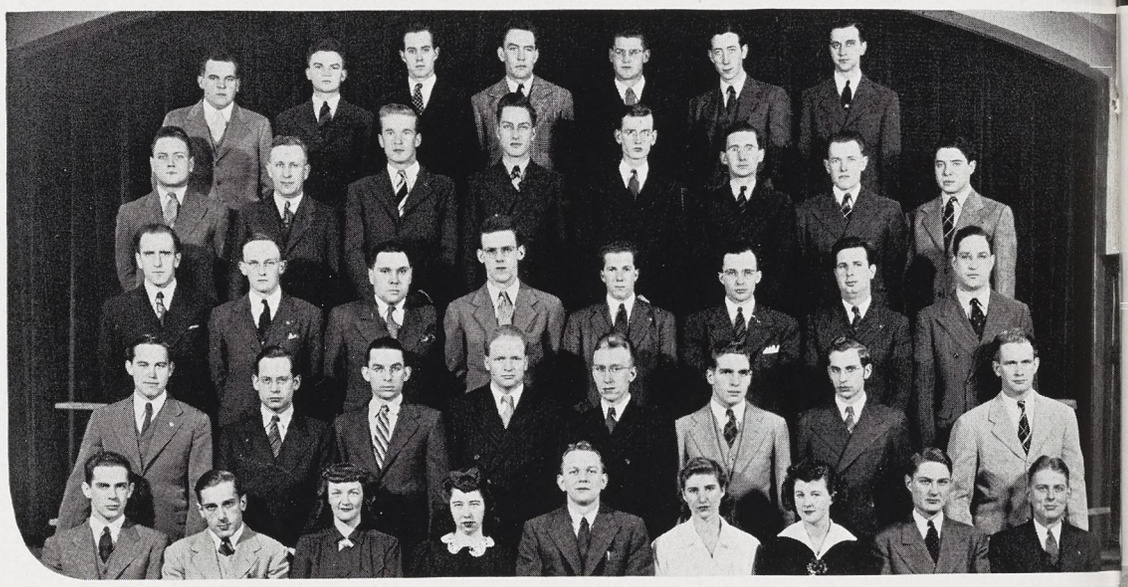

Each year a banquet is held at which every incoming member must present a short talk on some scientific phase of veterinary medicine — wolfing excluded, however. Many of these speeches produce hilarious results.

This year's activities have involved the usual formal initiation Fall and Spring terms, and an innovation in the practice course established for seniors. Standards for this honorary are as high as is possible for veterinary medicine students, and membership is limited to those who attain a certain level.

Members are taken in during their Junior year, and may be initiated either Fall or Spring term. Membership has nearly doubled during the past year.

The Junior American Veterinary Medical Association was organized on Michigan State's campus in 1927. It is affiliated with the A.V.M.A., headquarters at Chicago, Illinois. Membership is open to all veterinary students. One of the chief aims of this group is to create a better relationship among its members. Men, outstanding in all phases of work pertaining to the veterinary profession, are guest speakers at the organization's meetings.

WARD GILTNER

The publication, M.S.C. Veterinarian, a quarterly trade publication started last year, keeps undergraduates in contact with latest veterinary developments. Its subscribers consist of students and practitioners representing most of the forty-eight states.

One of the annual highlights of this school year was the A.V.M.A. banquet, started in 1940 and honoring the M.S.C. veterinarian. The affair was an outstanding success due to the presence of two prominent speakers, John R. Mohler, chief of the B.A.I., and Adolph Eichorn, director of Animal Disease Station, B.A.I. During Winter term, the chief social events was the Medicine Ball and during Spring term, the annual Vet. Picnic.

INTEREST CLUBS — WHERE THE SCOPE IS LIMITED

These Spartans have more fun than anybody but darned if we know how to classify their activities! Now where to put field trips to Chicago, ice cream pies during Farmers' week, and discussions in Sociology? Remember those cherry tarts for George Washington's birthday? This was done through the efforts of one of those unclassifiable interest clubs.

Cider and doughnuts acquaint them and a steak roast in the Spring sees them home. The meetings of these clubs provide weekly and bi-weekly excuses for their members to skip classes or not to have their lessons prepared for their next day's classes.

Seriously though they render invaluable services to the college by providing extra-curricular activity and leadership and besides they have fun.

Maintaining in close affiliation with 4-H groups in the community M. S. C. chapter of 4-H club strives to further the friendly atmosphere for which Michigan State is noted and to provide a social and professional unit to which local 4-H members may belong upon entrance to College. Its activities are concerned with perpetuating the ideals of the 4-H organization: Health, Heart, Hand, Head, and the development of leadership among students from rural communities.

In 1942 the Michigan Country Life Association meeting was held on campus with 4-H assisting with meetings. Four student representatives were also sent to the National Country Life Association held at Purdue University.

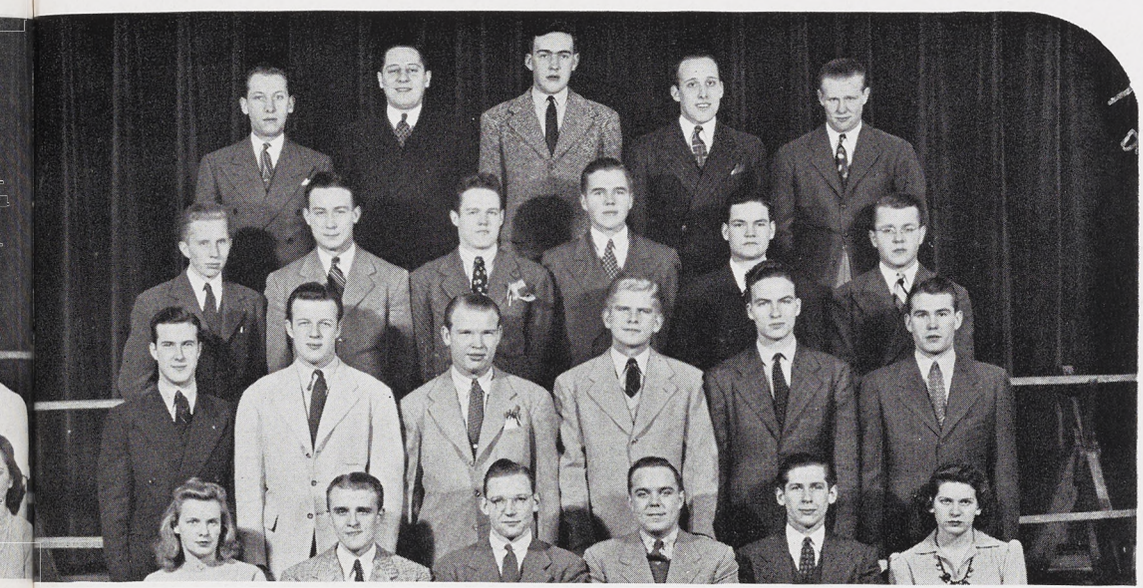

The club is especially active during annual farmers' week on the campus when they play host, along with other agriculture and home economics groups to the five thousand visitors.

D M.S.C. HOTEL ASSOCIATION KEEPS MYTHICAL SPARTAN HOTEL

Haldon Stimson . . . President

Van Stewart . . . . Treasurer

M.S.C. Hotel Association meets on alternate Tuesdays to discuss current hotel problems and to promote closer relationship between all hotel training students.

The highlight of the Association's season was Hotel Day, held annually in May. Sponsored by the executive council, the entire association took part in the program, which attracted hotel men from throughout the country.

At the close of Winter term, the seniors took their annual field trip to Chicago, where they were guests of the Midwest Hotel Association. An officers' night for the Michigan Hotel Association was held in December.

The alumni committee of the association entered its second year, and continued a policy of keeping a revolving map which lists the residences and activities of former members of the organization. Program plans of the year were designed to give graduates practical information about the hotel administration field, and at the same time to train underclassmen for executive positions in the organization.

"Understanding, followed by constructive activity" could well be the slogan for this year. Starting out with a sincere and lively interest in what goes on about them, why it does, and what they can do about it, they have built up their year's program with each meeting as a sign post along the way toward the fulfillment of their slogan.

After beginning the year with a cider and doughnuts gathering for getting acquainted, they continued with a comprehensive discussion of vocational possibilities, a study of rural conditions "sociologically speaking," a popular movie analyzed with their purpose in view, and similar activities climaxed by their farewell picnic in the Spring.

The Sociology Club's new name, Pi Alpha, was taken in 1940. According to the new constitution, undergraduates and graduates must have a recommendation from two members of the fraternity in order to become a member, but any who are interested in sociology are eligible for membership.

The Associated Medical Biology organization of Michigan State College is open to all Med. Bio. girls. The organization functions both in a professional and a social manner. Its main purpose is to promote social activities between freshman and upperclassmen.

Open forum is usually carried throughout the meetings, which are held twice a month. Dr. Shaw and Dr. Staffeth are advisors of the group. Laboratory technicians are speakers for the club and give interesting talks and show moving pictures.

Fall term finds the Medical Biology Students at Pinetum for their annual picnic. In Spring term, Med. Bio.'s take part in soft ball games between freshman and upperclassmen.

During one of Mr. Chamberlain's thought-provoking histology labs, a new pin was designed by Mary Clark and Muriel Campbell. It is decorated with a cadeusus which is a medical symbol, a microscope, and the letters A.M.B.S.

JR. FARM BUREAU — ITS INTEREST IS IN BETTER RURAL LIVING

Edgar Stokes . . . . President
Wilbur Saldeen . Vice-president
Harriett Beckman . . Sec.-treas.

The Junior Farm Bureau exercises responsibility in program-planning and policy-making bodies for agriculture. It aims to develop leadership ability among students through a spirit of cooperation and mutual helpfulness, and develop extension of its activities begun in the home.

The members of the Junior Farm Bureau were hosts to the State Junior Farm Bureau Convention last Fall. A State-wide paper drive was undertaken, the proceeds of which will be used in buying a new Red Cross ambulance.

Cooperating with Student Grange and the 4-H Club, they published a leaflet on the purposes and activities of each club. These groups also held a joint semi-formal, the Autumn Soiree.

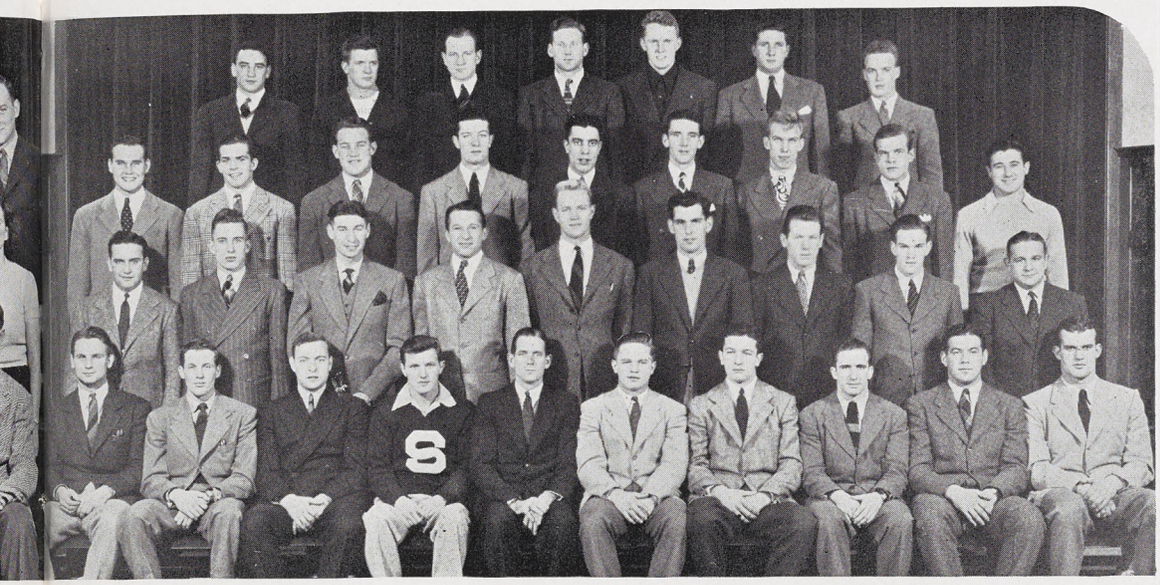

In conjunction with the Poultry Club, this group did a rushing business at its lunch stand in Jenison Field House during Farmers' Week. In keeping with the trend of the times, the Junior Farm Bureau is now placing particular emphasis on the study of Agriculture and the War.

The D.Z.V. Brotherhood, organized in January, 1938, is composed of selected varsity and non-letter winners. There are thirty-three actives and sixteen pledges at present.

Headed by basketball hero, Chet Aubuchon, this organization was formed as a service club. Aspirants for membership must be suggested to the group by an active member, and must be approved by the club.

The D.Z.V. Brotherhood started off the school year victoriously as champions of Intramural football. Last Spring they were also champions of Intramural softball.

Some of the big events of the year are the Fall and Spring term parties and the annual outing at Walled Lake. The club encourages its members to enter all athletic competition, either varsity or intramural. Every previous year the D.Z.V.'s have entered a float in the annual Water Carnival.

There are no dues to be paid, and if a member neglects the club intentionally, he is asked to withdraw.

Culminating two years of dreaming and planning, Sigma Chi Gamma was formally recognized at the beginning of Winter Term 1942. It was organized to bring women chemistry majors together to promote interest in chemistry as a profession and a study. Any girl, after completing eighteen credits in chemistry and having declared it as her major field, is eligible. Frequent open meetings with speakers are held for those interested in the subject.

Each girl upon initiation chooses some subject of interest in the organization and prepares a report on it to present at a closed meeting.

Women who have done outstanding work in the field, along with the Chemistry Alumna Member have cooperated with Sigma Chi Gamma in order that the active members may benefit from the experience of those already having entered the profession.

Tutoring was one of the experimental projects for this year, with the hope that within a few years it can be well organized.

COMPOSED OF WICKED WIELDERS OF THE EPEE — SCIMITAR

Charles Sherman . . Secretary

Scimitar was first organized at State in the Fall of 1938 by the varsity fencing team. Its development has been slow but steady and is now at its greatest point of organization. Scimitar's purpose is to provide a unified means of encouraging collegiate fencing, promote sportsmanship and scholarship.

Scimitar supports the activities of the varsity fencing team and helps promote interest in fencing by presenting its values to the public by encouraging attendance at intercollegiate fencing meets.

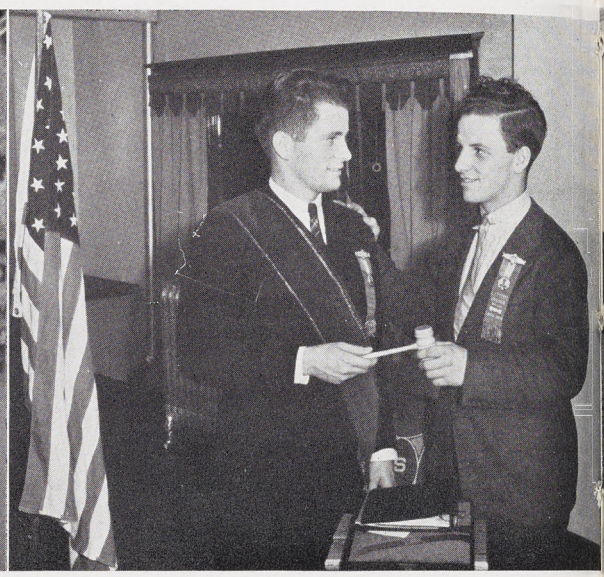

Membership in Scimitar does not require varsity competition, but limits its members to men having good scholarship, a sense of sportsmanship, and an active interest in fencing.

Honorary members include Lt. E. L. Totton, Mr. T. L. Canniff, who at one time were outstanding in fencing at Michigan State. Mr. Charles Schmetter is the faculty advisor.

Nationally, Grange stands for better government and economics, and for a better home and community life. M. S. C. Student Grange was founded in 1927 by the Honorable Dora H. Stockman, now of the Michigan Legislature, to further this work.

Through Student Grange, rural youth has the opportunity for leadership, cooperation, responsibility, and social contacts. The organization has fulfilled these opportunities up to the present and it feels proud to call itself a promoter of youth leadership.

Grange gives youth the opportunity to meet with adults and gain and share a perspective of the problems of the Nation, State, community, and the home.

One of the fine things about Student Grange is when you leave the campus, in most of the States you will find Grange Fraternity members to greet you. There are hosts of distinguished men and women who belong to this oldest and largest rural fraternity, from the everyday tiller of the soil to the President of the United States.

Religious Council is an organization made up of four separate groups. Its main purpose is to coordinate the efforts of the four groups, Y.W.C.A., Y.M.C.A., Student Christian Union, and Student Club. Membership is not limited, but is open to any student interested in giving expression to the Christian religion.

During the present year '41-'42, the activities of the four groups have been in cooperation with each other. The Y.W.C.A. set up work shops for social service work, gave a Christmas party for 120 children, planned the Freshman women's coffee, and worked with the

CANTERBURY HOUSE — IT HAS GROWN ON CAMPUS UNTIL N

Four years ago Reverend C. W. Brickman at St. Paul's Church, Lansing, met with Episcopal students, then a study group, in the Spartan Room in the Union to form an Association of Canterbury Club. In 1940 the Episcopal Church of Lansing bought a house, 445 Abbott Road, that is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mrs. Leo L. Wood is housemother, Harry Whitley is Student Manager.

Canterbury Club meets in the house to sponsor a series of study groups.

Brotherhood of St. Andrew is an Episcopal Fraternity with Burdette Stampley as director. Its main purpose is to encourage men's attendance.

Every Member Canvass is the financial group under the direction of Miss Virginia Hansen.

Charlotte Whitten is the editor of Christus Rex, the monthly newspaper.

The College Altar Guild is directed by Isobel Blyth and the Rector Committee meet monthly to manage the house.

The Michigan State College Hillel Extension was organized in 1939 to develop and increase religious and social activities for Jewish students. Developing out of the Brandeis Forum, which was organized in 1937, the Hillel group now carries on an extensive program of activities, putting its purpose into effect.

Numbering among its many activities are the bi-monthly meetings at which outside speakers are brought in to lead discussions on current events of interest to the group, and an annual dance. Most of the 70 members attended the regional conclave held at the University of Michigan this year. Delegations from University of Michigan, Michigan State Normal College, and Michigan State participated.

Hillel Extension is a member of the Inter-faith Council. The advisor for the group is Rabbi Morton A. Applebaum.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT — 7:00 — CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION

William Gordon . . . President
Patricia Taylor . . . Sec.-treas.

The Christian Science Organization was organized as a branch of the Mother Church, First Church of Christ Scientist, Boston, Massachusetts.

Since it was founded in 1935 the group has served Christian Scientists among faculty and students as well as making information on the religion available to those interested. Once each year the group sponsors the appearance before students and faculty of an authorized Christian Science lecturer. Weekly meetings are held in the music building Tuesday evenings.

Although most of its members are Christian Scientists membership is open to anyone interested in better knowledge of Christian Science. The organization is affiliated with the college Religious Council, inter-faith group which represents student religious organizations.

With the primary purpose of promoting Christian fellowship and the study of the Bible, the Spartan Christian Fellowship of Michigan State College was organized two years ago. The club holds weekly meetings on Monday evenings and is affiliated with chapters in Canada and England, where it was originated.

Any person of the Protestant faith is eligible for membership, Harris Wood, senior and president for this year, announced. Social get-togethers are also part of the group programs of activities, and guest speakers, banquets, and dances form the program of social events.

The group continually works toward its main objective — to present Christ to the campus. Each term a new leader is chosen to help carry on meetings and Bible studies.

The Newman Club is a campus organization for Catholic students in secular colleges and universities. Founded for the fostering of religious, educational, and social interests of all Catholic students, all Catholic students on campus automatically become members. The club is affiliated with the Newman Federation and was organized here in 1934.

Personal contact, other than through his religious classes, may be had with Father Winters, club chaplain, through open forums which he conducts each week at which students may discuss problems and views on religious topics.

A business meeting is held each month. The usual setting for Newman Club parties is the Forestry Cabin. These social activities afford excellent social opportunities.

LUTHERAN STUDENT CLUB — NAMED FOR THOSE IT SERVES

Carl Olson . . . . Treasurer

The Lutheran Student Club, organized in 1929 at M.S.C., is affiliated with the Lutheran Student Association of America. Every Lutheran student in college is welcome to participate in the activities of this organization. No one "joins."

Meetings are held each Sunday night at 7:00 in the Organization rooms of the Union Building. Special speakers, Bible study, and social features provide an edifying program. The members of the Club are also active in the newly organized Lutheran Student Congregation. This congregation is unique in that Lutheran students of all synods participate in the worship services and fill all the elective offices.

A Bible class meets at 10:00 and morning service is conducted at 10:30 each Sunday in the State Theater on Abbott Road. A Student Chapel and Parish Hall on the corner of Division and Ann streets is the goal for the near future.

ATTAIN DOUBLE-DUTY ABILITIES — HOME-EC. FIVE YEAR NURSES

To promote higher education for nurses, a five-year college and nursing course has been offered for the past fifteen years by the Sparrow Hospital School of Nursing in conjunction with Michigan State College. The students live at the Nurses' Residence, attend nine terms of college, and are graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree, receiving their Registered Nurses' Certificate upon completion of the Michigan State Board Examination.

The five-year students function as a group and together give dances. Last year they presented "The Hayseed Hop."

Myrle McCrea is the only member of the group graduating this year. Many graduates are engaged in administrative work throughout the State.

The course draws students from varied distances. At the present time two are from out of the State and two others from Durban, South Africa.

The five-year course has had the keen interest and help of Miss Helen A. Martin, Superintendent of Nurses, and also of Dr. Marie Dye, Dean of Home Economics.

Down the Red Cedar last Spring history drifted in a slightly hurried fashion in the form of "The Parade of the States."

Represented by individual floats, forty-three States and the District of Columbia passed under the glorifying spotlights. Each float was the undertaking of an organization on campus and the States were presented in the order of their entrance into the Union.

The entire project is student sponsored and student produced even to the announcer who outlines the notable features of each State, and the music providers who set the proper background.

Preceding the floats the old-time college water events were staged with birling, canoe tilting and racing competitions.

The original inspiration for this yearly May festival is attributed to Robert S. Shaw, former president of the college, who launched the first canoe on the Red Cedar and promoted student interest in canoeing events which twenty years later developed in the first Water Carnival.

MAY WE INTRODUCE YOU TO NINE INTERESTING PEOPLE?

In the past few years Michigan State has expanded in every respect — including new additions to its staff of faculty members. Sparty feels that in the interest of aiding in the preservation of the friendly spirit, which has become quite a tradition around his place, that some of these newly acquired staff members should be informally introduced to those they serve — including the six thousand students of Michigan State College.

For instance there is that new head of the department over in the physics building — Dr. Thomas Osgood. He joined the staff in September 1941, coming from a position as professor of Physics at the University of Toledo. His credentials are in excellent order. He received his B.S. and M.A. degrees from the University of Saint Andrews in Scotland, then his M.S. at the University of Chicago, and finally his Ph.D from the University of Cambridge, England. Although Dr. Osgood was born in England, he has gone through the necessary procedure so that he now is a fully naturalized citizen of the United States. Uncle Sam recently appointed him a member of the Federal Committee of National Defense Research.

That fine Music Building has some new personalities in keeping with the newness of the building itself. One of these is Dr. Edwin Stein, who in four short years has advanced from membership in the Men's Glee Club to its most able director. His Ph.D. and M.Mus. were both obtained from the University of Rochester Eastman School of Music, where he also held a teaching fellowship. Coming to State only last fall, Mr. Stein has done an outstanding piece of work in directing, not only the Glee Club, but also the M.S.C. Chorus and A Capella Choir.

Another interesting personality is that of Mr. Wendell Wescott who is likewise a new member of the music staff. He is the one who serenades the Co-eds and Eds every now and then from lofty Beaumont Tower. His carillon concerts have done a great deal in way of adding to the old Spartan spirit. He is a product of M.S.C., and is a member of the honorary Phi Kappa Phi.

Going on over to that imposing Jenison Field House, there's a new name on the door of room 228. It is that of Charles McCaffree, the new assistant Professor of Phys. Ed., who received his A.B. degree from, and has done graduate work at the University of Michigan. He has taught at nearby Battle Creek Public Schools, and at the State University of Iowa.

Across campus in the Home Economics Building, bordering on Grand River, there's a new faculty member, Miss Merle Ford, to be specific, who is the new head of the T.C. and R.A. department, (or didn't you know that means Textiles, Clothing, and Related Arts?). She was formerly affiliated with the University of Iowa before coming to Michigan State, and has her B.S. from Northwestern Missouri State Teachers' College. Miss Ford has also studied at Columbia University; and her experience includes being a member of the personnel at the swank Lord and Taylor's in New York.

Diagonally across from the Home Ec. building stands that ivy-covered red brick building in which, among others, is housed the English Department. One of its newest members is Dr. David Worcester. He is from England where he recently spent several months studying as a Dexter Fellow. His B.A. degree was obtained at Hobart, and His Master's and Ph.D. from Harvard. His publications include the excellent "Art of Satire," which was published by the Harvard Press.

Due East from Morrill Hall is the superb example of what a hospital can be. Its staff has had many additions, the latest being that of Dr. Atchinson who became a staff member in September, 1941. He obtained his M.D. degree from Ohio State University, and has served in Uncle Sam's Army for two years.

There's a very interesting new personality on the staff in that building which often reeks with the tantalizing odor of fresh apple cider and pretty posies. Just last fall, Hans Lucas became an assistant in the Horticulture department. Mr. Lucas is a refugee from Axis European domination. He studied at a college of agriculture in Vienna, and did graduate work at the University of Leipzig, Germany. He had been in charge of plant breeding stations in Czechoslavakia and Austria, before he came to the United States.

Those concerned with the staff in the building with Mr. Olds' name on the front have made a recent change in the staff. Here it is a case of replacing a deceased member, the well-known L. N. Field, former professor of Mechanical Engineering. Mr. Leonard Price was selected to take on the difficult assignment of filling this vacancy. Mr. Price came to State from the University of Arkansas with which he had been affiliated since 1926. He obtained both his M.S. and M.M.E. degrees from Cornell. His experience includes working for various corporations, one of which was the famous Pratt and Whitney Corporation, makers of airplane motors.

Now, there you are, painlessly and informally introduced to some very swell people. If you have an opportunity to personalize these introductions, take advantage of it. You'll find that it makes living just that much more interesting.

Greek life might be summed up generally as an existence surrounded by pledge pins, paddles, politics, parties, personality, phonographs, pulchritude, Pan-Hel, passwords, phases of phosgene, plenty of piasters, picturesque portals, potentates and piffle.

Coordinating sorority activities, regulating rushing, and bringing about a better relationship between the different sororities has been the aim of the Panhellenic Council this year.

First of the social activities this Fall was the awarding of the cup for the best homecoming decorations to Sigma Kappa. The annual Panhellenic Banquet had Mrs. Von Furstenau, Alpha Omicron Pi, as a speaker. The Delta Zetas were awarded the scholarship cup during the course of the evening.

Winter term all energies were spent on the I. F. C.-Panhellenic Ball. Woody Herman provided music, and Emily Rawdon, chairman, received hearty congratulations for managing so efficiently. Near the end of the term there was a tea for all girls interested in sororities.

A bridge tournament to raise money for a trip to Fort Custer, a book drive for the soldiers, and the annual sorority sing, and the installation of officers rounded out the year's activities.

The council is composed of a junior and senior representative from each sorority. Suggestions for new activities are offered at the meetings which are held once every two weeks. Serving as a middleman between the sororities and Dean Conrad, the council attempts to settle all difficulties which may arise.

A sorority is a place that girls look forward to . . . boys look forward, too . . . then over their shoulders. If you've never been in one it always looks like the opposite page at 12:30. If you have been in one you were like the opposite page so you didn't have time to look. If you were in one and were not like the opposite page you didn't get asked to the term party.

If you are visiting the house a continual stream of girls are running up and down. However, if you are made of true Spartan material, hang on until you are hung. "Hung" denotes a series of steps: you probably hung around the grill, and she hung around the grill, you hung around together, then you hung your pin on her. At this stage you are hung.

Y ON CAMPUS TO OWN ITS OWN HOUSE

The door of the Alpha Chi house swings invitingly open . . . Jean Campbell and Nedra Smith are feverishly hunting for the trio's music . . . here comes June Esslinger down the stairs decked out in her white cadet colonel uniform ready for parade inspection . . . Carol Denman, social chairman, is carying on a lengthy conversation with the florist . . .

Red-headed Kay Davarn is patiently waiting for a call from the Sigma Nu house . . . stretched out on the floor, Marj Torry is figuring out new pledge duties . . . Debby Berkey, trying valiantly to absorb some chem from Tweedy McMillan, just isn't in the mood, as usual . . . there's Helen Horn taking a breather from Mortar Board and Freshman Orientation activities . . .

Harriet Carpenter, house prexy, is worrying over a patron list . . . Anita Holland, Florida Chamber of Commerce representative, is trying to sell Ruth-Anne Gatesman on her fair state, but Ruth-Anne's vote goes to Howell . . . holding an advanced Econ book and also all the intellectual honors including Phi Kappa Phi, Leah Fox tries to study . . . reminding us that the library calls . . . or would you like a coke?

L. to R.: Ruth Ann Gatesman, June Esslinger, Doris Berkey, Theresa McMillen.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA THE FIRST SO

Fall term begins with a "rush," and we snatch Pat Kulling between meetings long enough for her to sketch an "O-So-Petty-Girl" for the Homecoming decorations. While we are hot on the trail for Philip Morris wrappers, Jean Hart comes putsin' in with news of her Kellogg scholarship. First to congratulate her is our small, dark-eyed president, Dotty Kincaid, wearing her new diamond from Jack Widick, Delta Sig.

Her roommate, Lois Schaifele — you'd never guess she's a cham major — holds the keys to our treasury . . . Dotelle VanRossum hands out a list of rushees for us to call, as she hurries over to radio rehearsal. There's Rosmary Frahm whipping out a little black notebook to take down "slips in grammar" . . . Her Monday night comment is, "Watch your cuts, girls" . . .

Ice Queen Ruth Mairy Stone also takes top honors in politics as well as in dress designing . . . Lorraine Voisinet tramps all summer for golf trophies only to be trampled on all winter at her S.W.L. dancing classes. She's wearing a diamond, but it wasn't Danny Moyer who told Adelaide Dubois, "Blondie, don't let anyone tell you that you can't cook ! !" . . .

AT THE TOP OF THE HILL, FRIENDSHIP REIGNS

Thirteen is our unlucky number this year for we are losing thirteen seniors. We have been getting accustomed to missing our evening bridge game with Jean "Grantie" Grant, since she has been at Merrill Palmer this Spring term, but we'll bet that we still miss her next year.

The house will seem quiet without Annabel Pink playing her original tunes and Dottie Pekelder singing her own words to almost any song. Heaven knows what we will do without makeup artist Jan Englehardt to put on our "faces" for a heavy date. And we are going to have to really work to beat the parties Ruth Gregory has planned.

With Shirley Sculpholm gone we wonder who will lend "culture" to the house by speaking French at dinner. Looks like we are going to lose Phyl Laubscher behind her microsope in a hospital lab and Doris Sharpe's apartment in Detroit will be the A.O.Pi annex.

Barb Grabill? She will be showing all the little kids where to find "Black Sambo" in her library. Dottie McClernan will be doing social service work and Frieda Waldmiller will be interning in hospital dietetics next year.

ALPHA PHI THE FIRST TO CALL AND O

'Twas on a dark and stormy night
Our seniors went away
With tearful eyes and faces gray.
There were just seventeen
And the swellest girls you've ever seen!

Norm Hastings shouted from her fiery steed,
"Sorry, but the old world needs
Crosby, Duby, and Dottie Lang
To make every venture go off with a bang!"

Speaking of people who always make good
There go the Helens, Hebblewhite and Blackwood!
Then Sally Flack, our smart French major,
And President Johnson, whose success we'll wager.

Mary Fleming raised her baton,
While Junie Prescott looked quietly on
At Carrie Braun and Pauline Moeller
Swelling the chorus shoulder to shoulder,
With Mudge Masterson, our Corps sponsor,
And Mary Jo Leutzinger, red-headed bomber.

Then Beverly Doane, stenog of her class,
Jitterbugged in and out like a flash!
Betty Wolf exclaimed, "Too long we've tarried.
We'd best be off to see Cristiane get married."

So off they went with a gala start,
Wings on their feet and stones in their heart
To enrich the world with fun and laughter,
Each to live happily ever after!

TO ALPHA XI, FIFTY YEARS OLD IN '43

Goodbye girls! Come back and see us often. We sho' nuff are agonna miss our blonde bomber, Patty Piatt, who hails from down Nawth Cahlina way and who, along with Beth Taylor, our prexy, holds the fort in S.W.L. And woe's us! What are we going to do without our Beth's diplomacy to smooth the rocky way of weekly meetings and her ever-present and infectious hilarity?

Em "Rowdy" Rawdon, who raises pledges to be model actives, and divides the rest of her time between men — and men . . . Shirley Palmer, who dreamily murmurs of "spectroscopy" and "rats in solution" — (don't be alarmed, it's just that government research job she's taking care of) . . . June Harper, our "Hedy La Marr," who has not only beauty, but — yes! brains — to which she thoroughly testifies by teaching both biology and English to oncet . . . Loie Richards, our shining light of the dramah, who tosses off an Amelia or a last-minute term paper with equally high marks . . . Janie Winkels, who holds down the classified ads editorship in the State News office and writes those quaint little letters to "Dear Folks" . . . and Rosalie Beltz, whose patience and extreme femininity are as much by-words as the "blue of her eyes and the gold of her hair" are the eternal reminders of our sorority colors . . . and these we admire for their merits and love for their faults, and wish we could keep 'em longer.

CHI OMEGA LARGEST NUMBER OF CHAPTERS IN NATIONAL

Remaining behind Chi Omega's fifteen graduates will be memories of study and tutoring sessions, political hashes, and early morning discussions, activities, honoraries, bridge tourneys, other fun . . .

Missed for an irrepressible giggle and amazing periods of dignity will be prexy Tish Young, senior who helped spur Mary Lee Cooper and Faith Taylor to victory in the intramural debate tournament. And those left behind won't soon forget Helen MacDonald, a corps sponsor, and Jane Blair, peppy Wolverine sales record-breaker.

They'll remember Alice Hilarides whose snapping black eyes never seemed to interfere with "creditable scholarship" . . . Shirley Gage, with her presto metamorphoses from school teacher to night life queen . . . Eloise Fox, whose activities included a job, a Phi Delt, and oh yes! a course of study.

Juanita Christenson, skipping from Sophomore class vice-president to Union Board Junior representative . . . Ann Hamilton, steadfastly maintaining it's a career for her while she plans houses with Craig . . . Jane Kennedy and Donna Williams, both flashing diamonds on their left hands . . .

Hollie Tupper, red-haired Mortar Board who writes letters to an officers' training camp . . . Rosemary Zeigler who was Soc major by day but whiz dancer by night . . . Charlotte Whitten, with a dozen likely reasons for being late to dinner but only the State News to justify 3 a.m. permission on Wednesdays.

A WILL NOT BE DIMMED BY BLACKOUTS

Something new has been added! Michigan State's Baby Sorority has grown up into the newest national on campus . . . Local Beta Rho metamorphasised into a chapter of National Delta Zeta in May, 1941. The year has been one packed with initial efforts: first rushing; first pledgings; first parties and first real try at running an organization alone.

While "learning the ropes," they've been working madly toward their goal, a house of their own, this of course being exceedingly complicated, involving competition with Uncle Sam and his priorities.

And after all even smart kids can't beat Uncle Sam — 'specially with the Blanket B's cutting Hoyt's down to a 2.94 and the point system limiting Wuerfel's activities, while Jini needs a social secretary all her own — oh, well — it's only the beginning and we're still all for Uncle Sam.

Theta seniors — girls who can tell you how quickly four years can go . . .

Betty Anthony, trying to look prexyfied . . . little Lillian Purdy, doing her house president's duties as though she were six feet tall . . . Jean Soehner, going crazy searching for a lost dime on the books . . . Marie Sheen, trying to look dignified and be an example for pledges.

Senior class vice-president Alice Penny, trying to sneak a swim in between all her meetings . . . house manager Marian Brown, pulling drapes at sundown . . . Dorothy Todd, giggling like a little girl when the mail is due . . . roommates Dory Brown and Ruth Mitchell writing invitations and letters.

And Clarice Carr, dreaming up a Spartan story . . . Alicia Lavers, off to a Home Ec. class . . . Betty Applegate, designing clothes and trying to look modest about them . . . Mary Margaret Nehil, acting as crazy as the rest of us . . . beautiful, blonde Barb Allen, climaxing the Theta album . . . Janet Nay, working hard at art.

Scholarship chairman Jean Downer, poring over medical biology books . . . Blue Key sweetheart Phyllis Dean, accomplishing as much as any two others . . . and Margaret Stimpson, friendly to everyone.

HELLENIC THE DAY IT APPLIED FOR MEMBERSHIP

To Kappa Delta alumnae groups in Michigan . . . Ohio . . . Iowa . . . we proudly recommend ten girls from the class of 1942:

Marion Bailey, because of her sunny personality . . . Hartie Barbour, for pulling through in spite of so many bad breaks . . . Ruth Hoogesteger, third girl in Michigan to be initiated into Sigma Gamma Upsilon, Hotel Administration honorary . . . Marquita Irland, whose E. Lansing cookie jars have been cheerful spots . . . Marjorie Lesher, Tau Sigma and Phi Kappa Phi, will stay at M.S.C. as graduate assistant in chemistry.

Little Laurie McCarthy, S.W.L. treasurer for her high percentage of personal post-10 p.m. telephone calls . . . Treasurer Rachel Mason, who always drew five eight o'clocks and made them, in spite of her two terms as Chairman of Judiciary Board . . . Jean Robinson, who always manages to look so charmingly put-together . . . Carolyn Tunstall, who often mixed up Mortar Board and Matrix meeting . . . and Mary Wingate, who led the Kappa Deltas to victory in the Pan-Hellenic Sing of June, 1941.

Alpha Alpha is losing some top-notchers, so be on the look-out, alums!

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA KAPPA IS THE

It's not so much the 605 above the Kappa door we're going to miss . . . but it's Bunny's Key in the candlelight . . . the note on the hall table signed "Moms" Bauman . . . it's Betty Bowser's "Now listen, you kids" . . . and Prexy Warner's dashing for the Ann Arbor bus on Friday afternoons . . . Gracie and her "Limby" gait . . . Queen of the Coast Artillery, Ruthmary Mangold waiting for Lenny. Our pride in Mary Lou Dodge, her horse show blue ribbons and her Mortar Board pin. Dorie Ward's educational methods with one eye on the mailbox, and a Great Lakes Ensign. Little Helen "Beeb," that breathless hair-do, her men with cars, especially George. Happy Remington and her "Yup" . . . Betty Jo Achard swinging into "Baby Me" and Fweddy . . . Judy Crozier in the back door and out the front — on her way to Mortar Board or a Home Ec. meeting.

Mary Lou Calkins keeping songs on pitch with her high soprano. And the amazing mathematical machinery in Krauty Krautheim's head.

The scraping of our chairs just before "Ach" starts "Kappa Kappa Gamma True" . . . Yes, it's the Kappa college spirit we'll miss.

MEMBERS OF THE PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

When fourteen Sigma Kappa sisters pack up their belongings and start job-hunting this June, they'll have many recommendations to show prospective employers.

Eleanor Sims will have W.A.A. minutes plus scars of sports events to recommend her vivacity. Betty Jo Driver will display her Mu Phi pin and sorority sing technique. Harriette Ysberg will have piles of State News clippings and "hi there!" from everyone on campus.

Fran Richards will have the recommendation of being a wonderful Sigma Kap prexy. Her A.W.S., Mortar Board, and S.W.L. activities will display Viv Kalmbach's capacity for work. Jean Bonathan's many friends will recommend her sweet disposition.

Rachel Friedlund's violin, her fencing sword, and psychology studies will not be overlooked. Joyce Mallman's "A" records and Phi Kappa Phi membership and Betty Pease's sorority work will be excellent recommendations, too. Among other things, Dotty Terry will be remembered for her dancing ability.

A successful career as Pan-Hel president will recommend Miriam "Phelpsie" Phelps. Betty Lou Storck's writing and Matrix work will be her contribution, and Margie Williams' will be her high grades and Merrill-Palmer studies. And lastly, but very significantly, Janey Renwick's wise-looking freshmen will show her counselling ability and many campus activities.

HISTORY IN THE MAKING, AND STATE'S PART IN IT

Activities related to defense, destined to directly involve Michigan State students, were being inaugurated as early as October, 1941. At that time the United States Office of Education was suggesting to the various colleges that some type of an organization for informing the public of defense measures should be instigated. President Hannah therefore selected a faculty committee on Civilian Morale, headed by Dr. Knappen, for the express purposes of creating such interest among State's proletariat, and to disseminate information to them. A series of lectures and discussions followed. Student response to such a program was passive, perhaps due to the fact that dissonance and anomaly was to be found even back to the Federal Office of Education, which was unable to carry through many of its plans due to the conflict with other governmental agencies.

Then came the Machiavellian offense upon Pearl Harbor. December 7, 1941 marked the culmination of a long evolution of turbulent events in international relations. With outright war came an instantaneous reaction toward greater unity on the part of the entire nation. State students reacted analagously, limited by omnipresent demands of curricular activities upon their time and efforts.

However, there was a considerable amount of concerted action toward defense participation. Leading the way in independent action were State's social sororities and fraternities who began active programs of purchasing defense bonds and stamps. Many organizations cut expensive parties from their schedule of events and put the money to more productive use through bonds and similar media.

The actual declaration of war, coming as it did, near the end of the fall term, allowed little or no time to obtain active student participation in any full fledged defense program because of the urgency of final examinations, and the impending holiday vacation. However, during the interim between terms, President Hannah recognized the need for a more active defense organization. He thereupon instituted the Civilian Defense Committee, appointing Secretary McDonel as chairman, Deans Dye, Conrad, and Mitchell, P.M.S. & T. McLeod, Dr. Holland, and Professor King as members. The former committee on Civilian Morale became a subdivision of this larger organization, which was to work with the students in setting up a program.

With the inception of winter term, a meeting of faculty and students was held to evolve an organized program of defense activities. Several weeks passed before it was apparent that there was considerable reticence on the part of the average student to take an active part in such a program. This was due, in part, to the fact that many of the students felt that it was a situation which was entirely in the hands of the interjacent faculty committee.

To bring order out of confusion appeared to be a mammoth task. However, another faculty-student meeting was called by Mr. Heath, in which the entire situation was completely analyzed, resulting in the defense program being completely handed over to the students. This was accomplished by the formation of a new Office of Student Defense to be administered by students with one faculty adviser.

The new student organization began to click. After setting up its organization with Dick George at its head, it evaluated the defense courses which had already been arranged, and added Contemporary History, Navigation, camouflage, Canteen courses, and an expanded Physical Education program. Many of these new courses were accepted for college credit beginning with spring term. Other additions were: First-Aid, Air-raid warden instruction, and the enlightening World Adventure series of movies sponsored by the Lecture Board. Such courses were added with an eye to better preparing the people of Michigan State College for any eventualities — in the armed services, or at home.

Impressive student enthusiasm toward defense activities has begun to form. The fraternities, sororities, dorms and other groups have set up their own committees, and are represented on the central Office of Defense committee, which is the sole organization of its kind on campus.

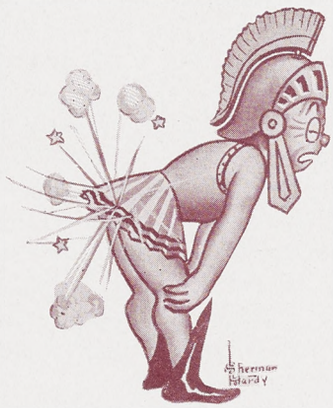

In individual capacities there are many indications of increased defense spirit. A large number of eligible men have enlisted in the Navy's V-7 classification, the Marine Corps, the Air Corps, or similar branches of the armed forces. There has also been increased activity in the regular R.O.T.C. unit on campus, which has recently been expanded to encompass training for officers in the Quartermaster Corps. Some young men have gone "all out" to enlist, while others have been called through selective service. The women of campus are not standing idly by, but are doing their part through their sororities, dormitories, and diverse organizations. Even feminine beauty has played an indirect role in the defense effort — proceeds from the selection of Doris Buzzard as Queen for the original Mardi Gras were given to some deserving war relief fund.

And so State goes ahead, rapidly gaining momentum in its program of active participation in the defense effort to aid the United States in the most gigantic endeavor in its history.

Fraternities are the funniest things. First, they take you to their houses and treat you swell . . . later you swell up from another treatment. See Sparty in the lower left-hand corner. But

Harry Yeiser . . . . President
Lloyd Osterman . . . Secretary
Alton Ambrose . . . Treasurer
Peter Van Valin . Social Chairman

Harry E. Yeiser, Junior, member of Lambda Chi Alpha from Syracuse, New York, is a member of the M. S. C. Hotel Association and listed in Who's Who in American Colleges. During his Sophomore year he was Spartan Office Manager. The next year he was appointed J-Hop Committee Chairman.

I.F.C. this year points with great pride to the national recognition given the fraternity system at State by the National Interfraternity Conference, when this group awarded the L. B. Balfour Trophy for the outstanding I.F.C. in the country.

The purpose of the Council is to coordinate the fraternities and their aims, and to provide closer and more harmonious relations between fraternities, faculty, and the administration.

The Council activated many various projects throughout the year. Fall term a smoker was held for all new men students; and in Spring term the Sixth Annual Greek

KS HAD A WORD FOR IT TOO; BUT IT IS A MIGHTY BIG STATUE

Week for this region drew fraternal notables from various sections of the country. Community undertakings include: assembly and distribution of baskets of food during the Christmas holiday season, Christmas parties for under-privileged children, and participation in the Red Cross and March of Dimes campaign. Trophies were given throughout the year to houses for excelling in the broad interfraternity sports program, scholarship, homecoming decorations competition, and the interfraternity sing.

CHI AND IT WAS ESTABLISHED IN 1934 AT MICHIGAN STATE

This year Chi loses five men who have served the fraternity long and well.

Topping the list for the second year in a row is Herman Blum, who graduated last June but came back for his Master's.

The others will go via the graduation route. Three of them are Veterinarian students. Allan Marks, present master, will leave the house short its go-getter. With Leonard Krinsky, who took unto himself a master this Spring vacation, and Bernard Goldsmith who has been married since Summer, go our crop of house stewards. The boys will set up practice in Michigan, Maryland, and the East respectively.

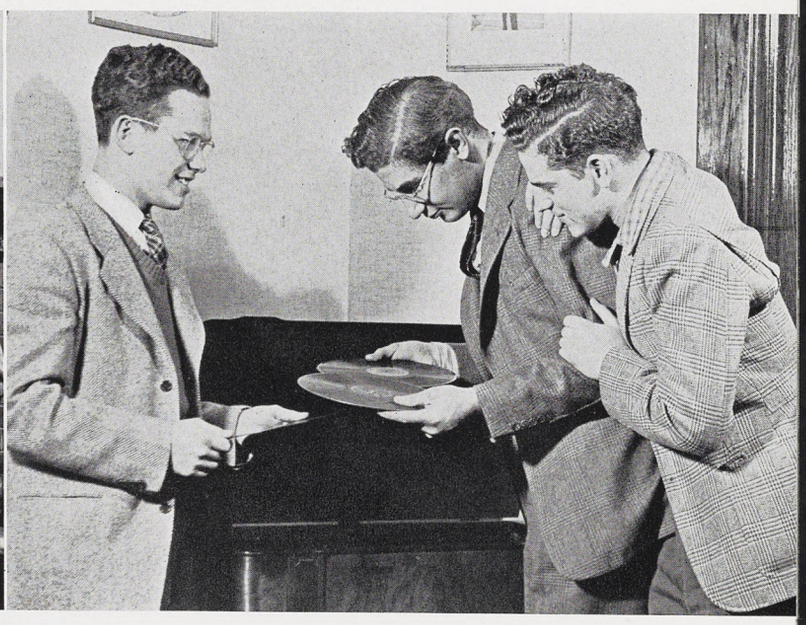

Violinist Arnold Taylor completes the list. He will teach music somewhere in Michigan.

All of these future positions are subject to change without notice — by order of Uncle Sam.

ALPHA GAMMA RHO AGRICULTURE—THE FIRST F

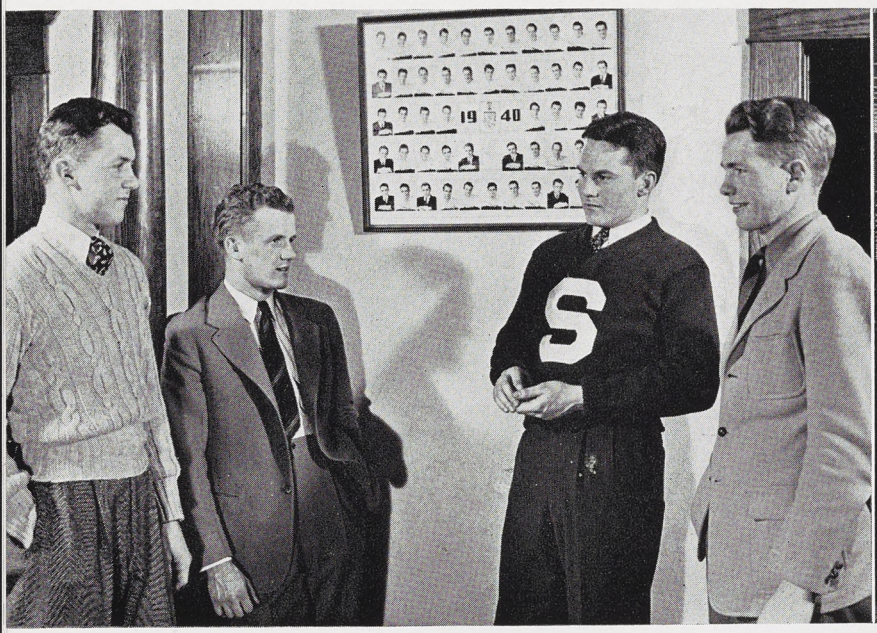

Never before have the ranks of Alpha Gamma Rho been so deeply cut by graduation, for this year seventeen of the brothers are leaving for destinations unknown.

Among them are such noted men as Willie Keinath, the "mighty major" along with his military aide Herb Reiley, Clint "Lindy" Stokes, Howard Fox, the Cassopolis jitterbug, the Beem brothers, Rich and Lou.

Also on the casualty list are Bobo McNeil, of gridiron fame; that man on campus, Bus Snyder; quiet, rserved and much respected, "Ace" Pope; that artful master of the mat, Le Merrill.

Then too, there were those "rat-races" started by Dick Ode and ended by Bill Case, the cheerful words of Rog Smith, the artful contributions of Nate Mikay, and the daring political moves of Bob Page.

With the inclusion of Louie Newlin and "Frosty" Fries, we have the long and short of it.

L. to R.: Pete Booth, George Stiver, Bob McNeil, Art Pope.

AT MICHIGAN STATE COLLEGE

The ATO's lost two brothers at the end of Winter term through graduation: Big Al Holcomb and Jack Hislop, now a member of the Naval Air Corps. Another loss was "Smiling Jack" Doyle who was forced to leave school to continue his flying.

Art Land, Blue Key prexy, and B.M.O.C., along with Bob Thompson is leaving us to become a 2nd Lieut. in the army. Our rushing chairman, Matt Wrocklage, is a member of the Naval Reserve and will be leaving shortly after graduation.

Greatly missed will be Carl "Punchy" Thompson, varsity boxer, and baseballers Bill Fitzsimmons and Bill Billings.

The best of luck to them all.

BETA KAPPA THE TOTAL COUNT IS T

We'll all miss — "T-Bone" Beard's treasury reports, which from force of habit usually had a couple of zeros added on the end to impress the fellows that they should pay their bills . . . Don "Blowmore" Brandow who bragged that he can recall the day when he and ex-Prexy Shaw started school together . . . Glen "The White Hope" Mentor left to join the Air Corps . . . likewise, "Long John" Bill Down's patriotism led him to join Uncle Sam and Co.

"Colonel" Bob Fogg is also going to have business with the old man with the goatee and striped britches . . . the shy little violet, Lenny "The Brain" Herscher never failing to hold up the house average . . . Ernie "Cuba Libra" Cross and his nocturnal jaunts into the big city . . . "Pretty Boy" Ted Strauch giving the boys a two-hour demonstration in the classic art of combing curly hair every morning between 7 and 9 o'clock . . .

The girls at North Hall will miss the amours of that charming and shy little fellow in the person of Winston "Windy" Lewis . . . also at North Hall, Olin Kelly keeping things warm for the girls — (tending furnace) . . . will someone be surprised when Hank Stafseth turns out to be one of the good pro-golfers after just missing the varsity first stringers for the last five years . . . Joe Montgomery's overhand pool shots — $14.50 for new felt, please!

C. THAN ANY OTHER NATIONAL FRATERNITY IN THE UNITED STATES

Fifteen seniors step forth, rubbing sleepy eyes and shaking knowledge-laden heads. "Gib" Ketchem whose stature would dwarf any Jap . . . Derald Hatcher, military genius, with a flair for puny puns . . . the "bashful beauty" Bob Hawks and "Butch" Grant who comprise the "Gruesome Twosome" of Hawks and Grant . . . John McCormick who will join the army may be reached anytime at the Kappa house. Bob Boniece can be found behind grease paint or Theta Alpha Phi meetings. Bob "Keep 'Em Flying" Rengo will go as instructor pilot training school. Soldiers such as Ken Hathaway should have dances weekly. Chuck Jarratt, senior class treasurer, and "ideal of the Union Grill," will be missed for his genial nature . . . "Smilin' George" Foster for his slow drawl and clothes by Esquire. Bill Melhorn, a three-point man, will be irreplaceable as scholarship chairman . . . known as activities king, Don Farmer, will be remembered as a B.M.O.C. . . . along with Bill McGraw the "philosophical" boy.

Joe "Skeeker" Brundage will be a constant incentive to all for slow action motion, and the boy found night or day in the State News office, Feature Editor Ken Kuhn . . . to all, Best of Luck.

DELTA SIGMA PHI HALF WAY BETWEEN B

Into the murky waters of the Red Cedar plunge fifteen unwilling and protesting seniors ending their collegiate fraternity careers.

The brothers will miss this gang — Prexy Jack Widick, who has a key on his watch-chain for every yard from the Delta Sig house to Beaumont Tower, "Pablo" Thorne who wasn't "never mad at nobody" . . . Jimmy Kirn, whose twin mottos were "I hates love" and "let's all buckle down and work" and Al Kinney, who tooted a mean clarinet and plied an efficient slide rule.

The boys of Alpha Pi chapter won't forget about Cap'n Dave Jones, the first man up when work was to be done and the last one to say . . . nor mighty mite Don Spalding, the blond wizard with an account book or a Spartan campaign . . . and serious Bob Lill who collected a 2.6 average as easily as he maneuvered on the dance floor. It'll be the last dip for Tommy "TNT" Tabler, who beats the rhythm for dancing Spartan feet . . . and Wilfred "Jake" Friedman, who hit the trail to Alaska and joined Quebec with the Delta Sig house . . . Bob Peterson who knew a vertebrate from a latissimus dorsi . . . Tommy Ryan, the "smilin' Irishman" with a handshake for everyone . . . Harold "Call me Soapy" Soper, who was always on top with the averages.

Water's cold, isn't it?

Y ON CAMPUS WITH A HOUSEMOTHER

"Uncle Sam Wants You" and Farmhouse is answering the call en masse. Twenty-two seniors will leave Farmhouse this year. Topping the list is Gordon "Flash" Albrecht who will take his Missouri drawl to the Spartan School of Aeronautics. "Joe" Dendel will tuck his briefcase under his arm and teach awhile. Ken Dunn is destined for the Air Corps and "P. J." Ehmann will lead the U. S. cavalry into Tokio. "Prexy" Eppelheimer, animal husbandry specialist, Johnny Foster, 4-H Extension Service, and "Silent" Bill Garvey will keep the home fires burning. Bob Gay will paint Berlin red and "Ayrshire" Geiger will milk for victory. Bob Henney will do Farm Management Extension work while Floyd Hicks and Gus Hultman practice rowing on the Red Cedar awaiting their call to the Naval Reserve. Art "3 Point" Isbit will no doubt end up in the Intelligence. Don Johnson will push a plow and Charlie Johnson will push a pen until Uncle Sam selects them. Bill "Von" Lutz, Dean Radtke, and Johnny Rheineck will play the part of "three men on a horse" with the U. S. cavalry. Herb Steinke will keep the caissons rolling in the Field Artillery and Milton "Leroy" Taylor will defend the U. S. and the Sigma Kappas from coastal attack. "Wild William" Westrate, last but not least, will answer the call to the colors.

HESPERIAN THE FIRST FRATERNITY ON THE CA

June, and the portals of Hesperus close once again behind twelve more graduating seniors. Gone now, but not forgotten: House Manager Jack Pailthorp, High Protector of house furnishings; Jim Church of Union (not C.I.O.) fame. We need no longer worry about the shower walls cracking from Bill Morrison's singing. We'll always remember Bob Weir out in front in swimming meets, and Tom Orn and Don Bos late to dinner from the airport. Perennial pledge Clint Clark finally took active, and Joe Watson and his par golf remind us that he finally parred up his scholastic average. Gordon "Doc" Adams still hasn't found a protege to carry on at the Alpha Phi house. Bill Loveland will miss his "Annie Oakleys" to the State Theater. Where'd you get 'em, Bill? Gone also will be "I'll-do-your-work-for-a-price" Bill Winston with the girl back home, and "Trapper Dan" Pete VanValin off to hunt Japs and Nazis.

WILLIAMS, A BLOCK FROM THE UNION AND CAMPBELL

At last a "Der Tag" has arrived. Eleven men have built a reserve of credits and honor points sufficient to blitz forth upon the world.

We at the Castle will miss being sent through the wall by Big Ted (Sandusky) Himmelein. George Warner will go forth to his "Uncle's" medical corps while John Coffman blows the bugle for the other employees . . . remember Paul, the beeg blond Swede Eliason and think kindly of him even if he didn't sell his last Bell-Hop ticket.

George Field will be on his way to become a specialist in the treatment of a horse. We expect Howdy (Fitch's Special) Pound and Dick (The Count) Reidenbach to go a long way in the army soon. Soon too, you will find John (I-should-suggest-the-Table d' Hote) Dodds working in one of the most frequented dining rooms in the country.

Action now commences for our three engineers (illiterate lads): Bill (Giggy, our mentor) Harrison, Jack (Pete) Muller, and our esteemed brother Paul (Pay-by-the-tenth-or-you-don't-get-your-grades) Schuster.

Well, lads, the battle commences, and Delta Psi is very proud of you.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA MEETS AT THE HOUSE ON

Another graduation day, and another volume of For Whom the Bell Tolls slides into place on the shelf in the house. The pages of volume '42 present faces which will long be remembered. Parting will be Harry Yeiser, I.F.C. Prexy, and Neil LeFevre, Varsity Football Manager, still locked in the Battle of New York vs. Michigan. "Zoom-Bang" Stimson will no longer patrol the Chi Omega dog house and Sergeant Bud Fontana will have no worries other than the financing of the brothers. Gamma-Omicron as well as State grid fans will long expound the exploits of Lew Smiley, Joe Kaman, Mike Schelb, and Bob Friedlund.

Bill Thurston will trade the grill-"field" for the drill-"field." Don (WKAR—Why Karry Activity Responsibilities?) Way, must find new listeners for his 4-bit vocabulary. And how about Arny Schultz, the thrush with a tux? "Test-Pilot" Bill Jesiek and "Accounting Art" Wood have left the Haslett Hamlet for their chosen professions. "Silent Al" Parshall, Chuck (You Look Just Like Margie) Stafford, and Bill Faust will no longer gaze fondly at the underpinnings at the library.

They've been four swell years, lads, but the "moving finger having writ, moves on."

Y MEANS — TRUE BROTHERHOOD

The Phi Chi's are surviving their 17th year of existence — and what a year! ! Five fully abled members leave our ranks this year. Cliff Huntoon, who has always wondered when he would get his sheepskin is at last on the graduating list, graduating possibly into a new existence called army life.

Marvin "Mar" Hansen, our highly praised steward, will go into the field of soils. Mar probably knows more about the preparation of foods than the average Home Ec. graduate. There you are, girls.

Bob Neilsen, our I.F.C. man and accounting major spent most of his time at the Alpha Gam house. Bob is considering moving his office there. Surely they can find room for him.

"Jack" Reynolds will graduate as a hotel ad. man; however, he is not as jovial a man as his fellow brothers. Why? Irene graduated. No longer do we call him "proke," but just "True-Blue" John."

Glen Lewis, who majored in women and minored in bus. ad., was our Main Cog in pledging dorm men. Many a heart will no longer flutter.

May our future graduates be as worthy of the Phi Chi honor as those leaving this year.

R YEARS OF FUN AND FROLIC

It was a great year for Michigan Beta, one of the biggest senior classes in our history filed down Cowley for the last time. "Big Ed" Karlson and Johnny Peterson left the Student Council in good shape and had a string of activities besides. "J. R." Dawson made a last crack in the SPARTAN, grabbed a diploma, and was on his way to the Theta house. "Oz" Osmer left the cribbage championship and a one-way ticket to Ann Arbor.

James Goodrich Renno decided that he had enough studying after all, and would take the sheepskin. Spense Thompson gave the Alpha Phi's a break all year, but was a broken man by Spring term. W. W. "Rabbi" Clark joined the Theta league after plenty of conditioning in the minors. The postman heaved a long sigh of relief when Don Johnson left — the mail bag will be pounds lighter in the future. "Doc" Johnson decided to leave the "Queens" alone for five minutes and graduate with the rest of us.

Chuck Peterson and Louis Loree made Tau Beta Pi, along with Renno, and may take those $50,000 jobs after all. Neil Van Haltern managed to keep his pin out for two years and thus win distinction. Jim Cunningham promised to see us in the army. Dick Crosse will be telling the general how to run the outfit after ten minutes in camp. Johnny Stevens can't make up his mind whether to be an engineer or match bowling champion.

The year was marred by one sad occasion. Our very good friend, brother, and one of Michigan State's outstanding graduates, James G. Hays passed away. It was a loss felt keenly by every member of the chapter.

PHI KAPPA TAU WHERE EVERY M

A host of "good ole" memories will echo and linger long at the Phi Tau house as seventeen of its veteran members pack their bags and bid farewells.

Memories like "Prexy" McGaw, the athlete, and his interfraternity football days and "Kirsten pipe philosophy" . . . Bud "La Conga Kid" Hicks, Men's Council prexy, B.M.O.C. and perpetual end man in the Theta Minstrel show . . . Tom "T" Connelly, Blue Key, Excalibur, Student Council President, Union Board, and B.M.O.C. in general . . . George McGregor, a wee bit o' Scotch, but an ace treasurer and a great Sunday night lover . . .

Al "Diminutive" Hansen and his great football career and his famous "blocking" in political contacts . . . Bob "Glen Cove" Zielazny, his Long Island jokes, and brilliant, but oh! so technical mind . . . Chuck "Uncle Bim" LeBaron — 8 o'clocks and Chuck just couldn't get together . . . Newt "Big Stoop" Eade, or Major Eade as he is known in the R.O.T.C. infantry . . . Jack "Hotlips" Missal and his rare soda-jerking abilities . . .

Ed Boehm, our photographer "par excellence" and exponent of the Baby Snooksian Theory . . . Bill "Gloomy" Dickey, his weekend trips to Detroit and his unfailing cynicism . . . Bob Redmond — wonder how long he'll keep his jeweled pin . . . Burt "Deerslayer" Barry, his Fall term venison and his pug nose . . . Jay "Time Moves On" Jennings, his noble vocal efforts and sound judgment . . . Jim "Doc" Roohan, a mighty active hotel man and our local bookmaker . . . Clarence "Tubby" Hartman, the neophites Father confessor. So long to all, and to all — happy landings!

H, LISTS M. S. C. CHAPTER AS ITS NORTHERNMOST OUTPOST

Nine good men bid the house farewell this Spring, leaving their books and women to their younger brothers. Prexy Bob Juth, who divided his time between military, engineering, and that nurse in Detroit . . . "Coach" Hank Bertagnoli, our Union Grill athlete who got his two point with the least possible effort . . . Romeo Ray Shedd, treasurer and chief operator in the sorority league . . . Ray Pinkham, whose watch chain holds more weight in scholarship keys than in watches . . .

Our contribution to Uncle Sam's armed forces include Art Coulter, who slept through one too many geology lectures . . . Ralph Follett, who engineered more dates than bridges, but can still wield a mean slide rule . . . Wolf Bob Day, who never quite succeeded in living up to all the intendant implications of that title . . . Colonel Sid Deming, the two-fingered maestro of the mighty console . . . if anyone wants his books straightened out, financial or otherwise, just call Loren Ferley . . .

And may we add a word of advice to the juniors: the icy waters of the Cedar can and will hold more than nine men at one time!

E ATHLETES THAN THE COLLEGE!

The fourteen seniors of the "five-armed star" have excelled in all phases of collegiate life while at State. Led by Fred Perry, house president and holder of many honorary keys, we present the Sigma Nu class of '42.

With Bob Telder at the helm, maintaining a 2.5 all-college, the seniors have established an enviable four-year record. John Becker leads the varsity sports as co-captain of the Spartan swimming team; Bill Morgan and Bud MacKichan, successful track men; and Fred Quigley, varsity football player.

Paced by Ned Renick, Interfraternity athletes include Doyle Lott and Gary Marshall, whose persistent efforts resulted in numerous trophies for the Sigma Nu mantel.

House vice-president and engineer perfecto Jim Blanchard, along with Alpha Phi pledge and economist Harry Cameron will be missed, as will the tall tales and dry humor of Red Bahle and dramatic efforts of Jim Lampham.

We will long remember the military minds of Gary Marshall and Bud MacKichan and our powerful political group, Bill Morgan and Fred Quigley. Bob Stevens, ardent follower of Theta activities, and Lloyd Osterman, Interfraternity Council secretary, leave big shoes to fill. Hamilton Dendel and Doyle Lott, who have already earned their wings, will help Uncle Sam to "Keep 'em Flying."

L. to R.: Don Hatch, Bill Morgan, Fred Quigley.

THETA CHI FROM THE ATLANTIC TO THE PACIFIC A

"Aloha," or, love to you, Theta Chi. It's a greeting and goodbye to those that remain behind from those who now digress from the scholastic to more material things; to war and long after Pearl Harbor is avenged and forgotten.

"Bud" Ambrose, BMOC and financier par excellence leaves us not in a hole, but at a loss to replace him and Bob Robillard — may he visit us each Homecoming, paint brush in hand, while to Stan Sutton, House Prexy, conciliator and house boy we wish "bon voyage" for every richness to come.

When bigger and better bridges are built, Don Fugere will probably burn them down — behind him. Ray Pleiness leaves us worriedly trying to do our Chem problems by ourselves. And we're sorry to say there's no "Boogie Woogie" in Tokio for Dick Redfern. Frank Peabody will carry Sousa to greener rice fields — if he doesn't forget his drum. Good luck and so long to all of you.

"ANY DOUBLE BONDS TODAY?"

When the seniors leave this Spring there won't be many left to mourn — or rejoice, as they number twenty-four. Six will be trading civies for the very fashionable olive drab — "Big Fred" Carter, "Pretty-Boy" Edson, "Lover" George Peters, "Lanky" George Willis, "Lone Ranger" Dave Browne and "Sleepy" Harry Gilliver.

James Aloysius Kelly and Rommie Swede Weidner will part company and House-manager Gilliver will have some peace. The house will miss John Young's athletic prowess along with that of Ivan (Junior) Rice who aspires to the Marines.

The loss of the Box-car Honk and Cowboy Felts will be a major catastrophe. "Hot-licks" Dunn will be found in law school if the selective service doesn't hook him, and in the U. of M. Medical School will be found "Whizzer" Don White. Prexy Carl Brandenburg will be a fixture of West Mary Mayo no longer.

Ross (Bowling Green) VanVolkenburg's smooth congenial manner will be very much missed but along with him will go the continual cribbing of "Grabby" Saunderson and "Always-right" Hynds. We will always wonder how a swell guy like Morrie Henshaw could put up with these two guys for a whole year.

L. to R.: Harry Gilliver, Ed Edson, George Saunderson, Duke.

Mason-Abbot Club is comprised of all the students living in Mason or Abbot Halls. It serves to coordinate the activities of the halls.

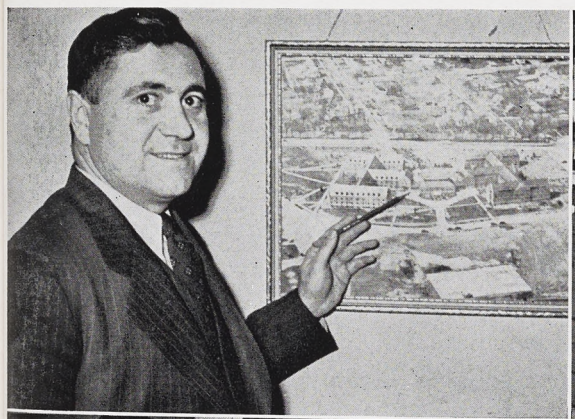

The government is of a representative type, consisting of the Judiciary Committee and the General Council. The Committee is made up of the eighteen counselors, one from each precinct, and the Resident Hall advisors, and it investigates all complaints or violations of the constitution, rules and regulations, and makes recommendations regarding them to the General Council. The Council acts as the legislative body of Mason-Abbot Club, and is composed of the counselors, who are appointed by the Dean of Men and two representatives from each precinct, who are elected by the members residing there.

The club functions under the direction of Mr. Curtis Beachum. Dr. and Mrs. L. J. Luker serve as resident advisor and social hostess in Mason, and Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Goodwin serve in the same capacities in Abbot. The officers are selected from the eighteen counselors and elected by the General Council for one term.

The Social Committee of the club consists of one social representative from each precinct and the Vice-President of the General Council, who acts as chairman, and the hostesses, who are the advisors.

The club is cosmopolitan in its most inclusive sense; attracting members from nearly all the States and several foreign countries.

June means good-bye to Mason Hall for the class of 1942 who participated in its dedication four years ago. It's also good-bye to many who heard Uncle Sam's call via the local draft board or defense industry.

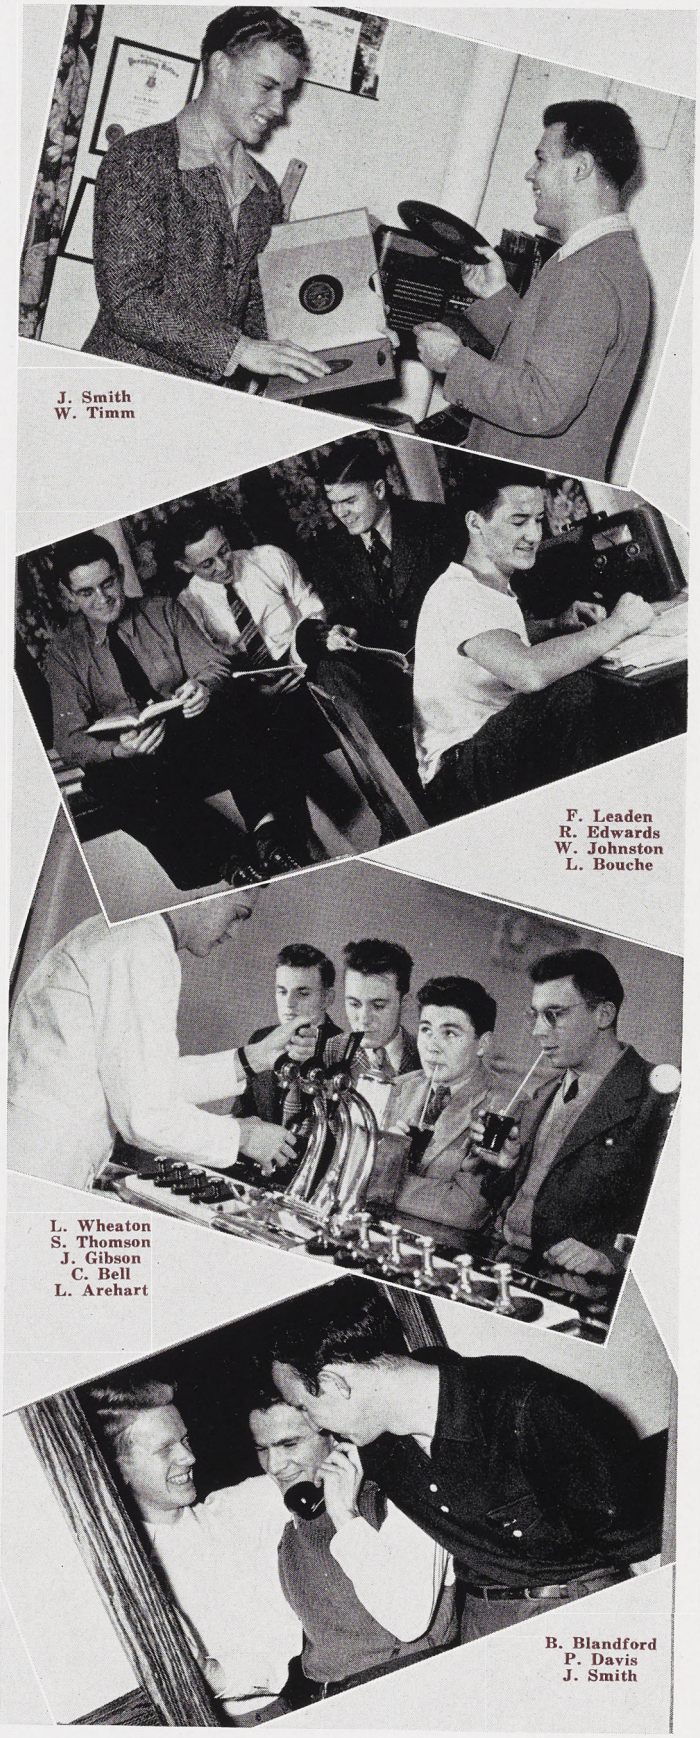

MASON HALL REMINDS YOU IT

However, those who leave will be replaced, as always, by a new crop of neatly dressed, wide-eyed freshmen; and those of us who survive finals and miss the draft will be back to give them the traditional hazing.

Seniors and underclassmen alike will never forget: mass blind dates — weekly radio parties — Fall,

U IT IS THE OLDER OF THE TWO

Winter, and Spring dances — intramural battles — the inevitable bull sessions — the quiet hours for twenty-four hours a day during exam week — waiting for the mail to arrive — looking for an open phone at 10:29 p.m. — the traditional congestion of the shower rooms before Thursday night exchange dinners — those senior "dramatic majors" who do all their studying at the Orpheum — and, of course, Dr. Luker's long and tactful arm of law enforcement and Mrs. Luker's invaluable aid in the managing of social events.

ABBOT HALL REMINDS YOU IT

The social prestige of Abbot Hall was enhanced considerably by the increased attendance and interest in the week-end radio parties. They were held as usual in the Lower Lounge, but enjoyed the added attraction of unique and colorful decorative schemes. A swank "semi-affair" at Christmas high-lighted the season . . . The practice of listening to the "Hermit" Sunday nights, became almost a ritual with the "Abbot-ites." Untimely interruptions, "a-la the electric shaver," were dampened by (censored) parties for the offenders . . . "Priority on Corn" was the modest title — not a prognostication — of this year's musical comedy presented by the Mason-Abbot Club. Supported by a host of funny jokes — their names escape us, and many original songs, it should be an aspiration for the seasons to come . . . Football, basketball, baseball and table tennis constituted the intramural sports program. Rabid interest was stimulated by the proverbial "nip and tuck" finish in the various leagues . . . The mail at Abbot continued to be as popular as the male at Williams, and brother, that's a lot of popularity . . . Thus we leave another pleasant year of college daze via the domitory style.

U IT IS THE NEWER OF THE TWO

Wells Hall, with a tradition of continuous service for thirty-seven years, is situated on the banks of the Red Cedar River and overlooks Beaumont Tower and the central area of the campus. Originally a residence for upperclassmen, in recent years it has become primarily a freshman hall, sixty per cent of its two hundred residents being freshmen. The dormitory is divided into six divisions and is governed by the Wells Hall council, composed of two representatives from each division and the six divisional counselors. The counselors include Bancroft Bisbee of Division A, Wallace VanStratt of Division B, Richard Trapp of Division C, Gilbert

WELLS HALL REMINDS YOU TI

Wise of Division D, Robert LaDu of Division E, and Bruce Klotz of Division F. Wendell Turner, Hotel Administration graduate of M. S. C. and former manager of the Town Club in the Blackhawk Hotel in Davenport, Iowa, is resident manager and acts as advisor and ex-officio member of the council.

A freshman year at Wells Hall remains vivid . . . joining the late risers in the last mad dash for breakfast long, earnest "bull sessions" in smoke-filled rooms asking an upperclassman about the finishing touch in dressing for that first big campus party. A radio turned low and books piled high at exam time, hours of football and baseball on the front lawn, trying to develop a "combination" that will overpower the bunch from the next division — hanging over the banister eagerly awaiting the mailman and a letter from the girl back home — the rush to the phone booth for a last-minute date with the campus girl-friend.

Although the ivy-covered exterior of Wells Hall has the dignity and beauty of appearance that only the passage of many years can give, the interior has been constantly improved, with the most recent innovations being the redecoration of the recreation and dining rooms, and the equipping of a reading room and cloak room.

The men are active socially, having three term parties a year and a newly instituted program of radio parties and exchange dinners. Each year many of the residents of the hall are initiated into various fraternal groups, both social and honorary. The dormitory is always well represented in intramural athletics by participation in table tennis, touch goofball, cross-country running, basketball, soft ball and hockey.

Thus stands Wells Hall, old in years but young in spirit, a place of memories and inspiration to all who have lived beneath her roof.

INTER CO-OP. COUNCIL — IT'S PLANNING IS FOR THE BI

One of the most active people in Alice Cowles' house is Jackie Anderson whose home is Benton Harbor, Michigan. She has majored in Medical Biology while at State, but has found time for activities ranging all the way from A.W.S. representative to Social Chairman of Alice Cowles' house. She also belongs to the Associated Medical Biology Society.

JACQUELINE ANDERSON
President

Representatives from the eleven cooperative houses compose the Inter-Cooperative Council. The Council was formed last year to give approximately 260 members an organization rating on campus, and to acquaint Michigan State faculty members and students with the Co-operative movement.

The social highlights of the year brought the Coop gang together once a term, a roller skating party Fall term, semi-formal dance Winter term, picnic Spring term.

Betty Baker and Dan Smith were co-chairmen of the semi-formal that transformed the Union ballroom into a Southern Cruise Ship entertained by Tommy Tabler's orchestra.

The houses in this organization represent Alice Cowles, Potter, Ewing, Sanford, Robinson, Taft, Benson, Rochdale, Concord, women's co-ops; and Elsworth and Hedrick, men's co-ops.

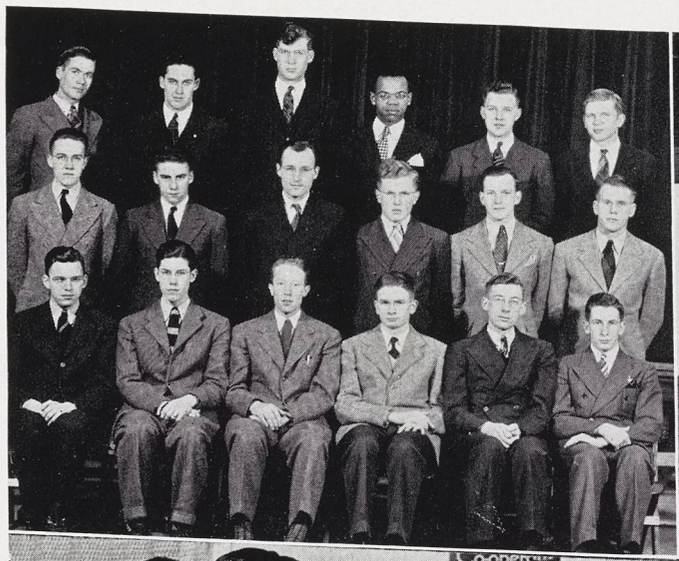

HEDRICK — ITS TWIN PINES HAVE BEEN DISPLAYED THE LONGEST

M.S.C. today can boast of two men's Co-ops, Hedrick and Elsworth Houses. To us, the members, they represent the achievement of many aims and much labor. Starting in the fall of 1939 to find a means of attending college at a minimum of expense, and yet satisfy their desires for fraternal companionship, a group of far-sighted students banded together for mutual benefit and cooperativism was brought to Michigan State.

Thus far the materialization of this ideal has been highly successful. Incorporated under Michigan law, these co-ops are entirely student governed. All work, planning, and financing of the house operation is done by its members. The application of democratic and cooperative principles is stressed in all activities.

Today the cry is unity! For whenever great deeds are done, men must work together. We, of the cooperatives, know the value of this fact. It is our maxim.

The Michigan State Cooperative Federation was formed in the Spring term of 1941, for the purpose of "promoting the student cooperative movement as a system of business, having improved living conditions at minimum cost as its motive." It is the official representative of the co-ops on campus operating under the Rochdale principles of cooperation, which were set up in England in 1844. Thus far, it includes in its membership Hedrick House and Elsworth House.

The student co-op movement is represented by nearly 250 students at M.S.C., and is fast becoming an important institution in the social and political life of the campus. By the utilization of efficient business methods, and by permitting students to work off a share of their board and room, campus co-ops are making it possible for many students of limited financial resources to remain in college.

LOUISE CAMPBELL — A MERE HOP

"Baby" Campbell is known throughout the campus as being one of the liveliest of dorms. Its large, spacious rooms are lined with pics and vics, both of which receive constant attention. None of us will forget the fire drills at ungodly hours of the morning, as we staggered into the lounge, makeup-less, bleary-eyed, and curlered. Some of us escaped from the daily rush for mail (also male) with only a few bruises; others were hospital cases. Still others merely sighed and dusted out their empty mail boxes.

Remember the night we had no water? . . . our mad dash to the Union with toothbrush and coke bottle clenched in our chubby little fists? . . . the agonizing groans from our roommates at 2:00 a.m. as the workmen labored long and loud

On the serious side, we remember the term dorm parties, the grace and finesse with which they were carried out, and our surprise at seeing everyone dressed to kill; the Sunday teas by soft candlelight; our beautiful new pictures of Louise Campbell presented at a dinner which her daughter, Miss Dorothy Campbell attended.

A buzzer buzzes, someone falls over a chair, a mad scramble follows, and some brave but battered soul finally reaches the phone, only to be cut off at a crucial point in the conversation. This is life at Williams — gay, but gory. We're still

MARY MAYO—EAST AND WEST, THOSE

Mary Mayo, the pioneer of the women's dorms, has steadfastly maintained her reputation for housing beautiful women. Nowhere else on campus, insist many MSC wolves, are gorgeous gals so plentiful — (jeers and catcalls from Campbell and Williams). However, circumstantial evidence was produced after Christmas vacation, when we were blinded almost continuously by dazzling sparklers.

Mayo is also noted for its speedy occupants! Nowhere else on campus do girls quiet down to such innocent silence as do Mayoites when a warning footstep is heard in the corridor.

The sound of knitting needles clacking furiously indicates the patriotic fervor of Mayo girls, as they busy themselves knitting one, purling two, dropping three, and picking up four — more or less.

THERE ACCLAIM IT BEST BY TEST

Defense stamp sales have been booming along regularly, as the girls do their part towards helping their favorite uncle with the long white whiskers.

All in all, Mayo girls are said to be a pretty smooth bunch, but as one discouraged Romeo observed, "?-())(-? —— CENSORED."

NORTH HALL—BEING OFF THE CAMPUS

Just around the corner from the Pig'n Whistle Shop is North Hall, State's one off campus dormitory. Its friendly atmosphere is more than enough compensation for those long walks to Ag Hall or the Auditorium for eight o'clocks. Even the most sophisticated of us are stirred by thoughts of home and mother — and North Hall is home to eighty-six girls who are justly proud of their housemother, Mrs. Milo B. Bunn.

Louie, Mrs. Bunn's protege, adopted last year as the dorm mascot, has become a full grown grey cat who stalks disdainfully through the lobby to look over the current crop of callers.

Meal planning and general supervision of the dorm is in the capable hands of Mr. Ray Lamphear who is better known as "Red."

Freshman Week with a few bored upperclassmen trying to renew acquaintances while sixty excited frosh milling around getting settled and asking questions at the rate of one every sixty seconds . . . dorm dances with everyone trying to sign in at the same time . . . planning to go to church and then sleeping until the crack of noon every Sunday . . . the early morning scramble for the funnies . . . concerts, lectures, plays.

Typical of the more humorous side of the Water Carnival is the canoe-tilting contest. The event is the opening curtain to the show that follows and it is usually packed with laughs, and a bunch of very wet guys.

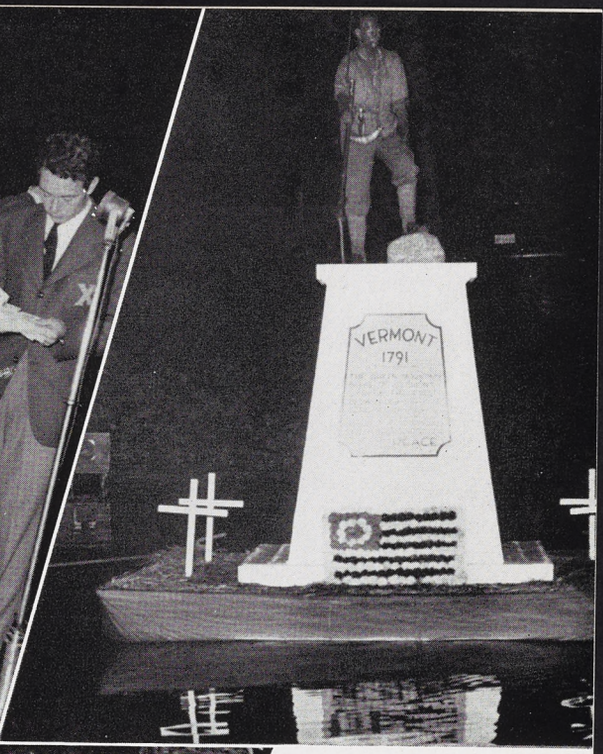

"What is so rare as a day in June" when M.S.C.'s own water carnival, looked forward to by everyone on campus and many visitors, passes before you. Hours and hours of labor go into making up the floats, setting up electrical equipment, and a secret committee is appointed solely to pray for clear weather. The last minute flurry to get your float ready is over, the voice breaks in over the public address system and the pageant on the Red Cedar is under way once more. Judges sit stolidly and spotlights glow. It's our own special event and we're proud of it.

The trouble with Winter term is the short time one has to put on a tux, get your girl, go to the party, and get enough studying done in order to do the same thing all over the next week-end. Mellow bands . . . sweet tunes . . . sweet and mellow gals that sing . . . and you see them after listening to the phonograph and radio recordings on other pleasant occasions. "We've got a war to win!" And with that attitude Michigan State College does its part in the National Defense effort. A statement recently made on campus by Mr. R. B. Stewart, Controller at Purdue University was, "That this is a war in which entire industries are drafted, not just individual companies or organizations. It is a time that group action will be necessary to win the war."

So whether it's the puffing, chugging steam shovel that turns "the heat on" in every building on campus, or the boys who learn how to ride Army style, it all adds up to contributions to the winning of the war. And so the college by the winding Cedar has converted its educational institutions into a wartime industry.

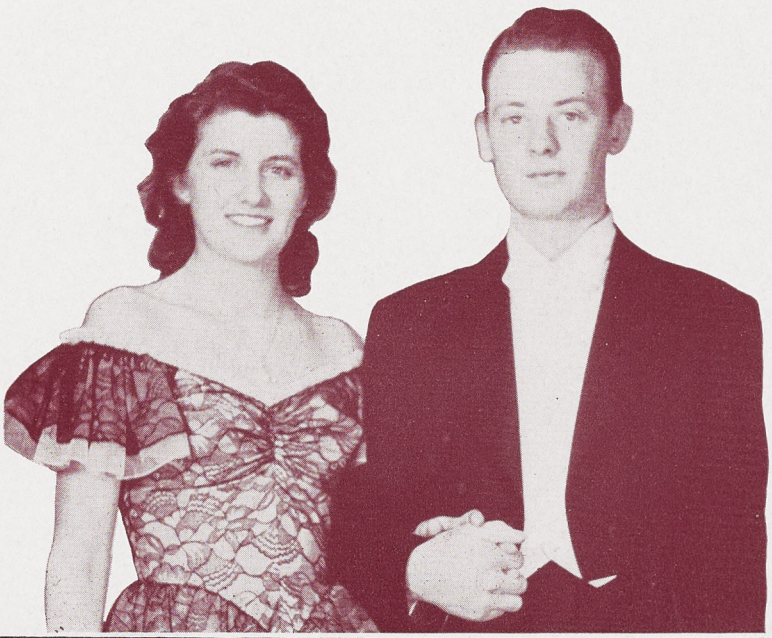

COSMOPOLITAN CRANES, CARILLONS, CONTINUOUS CROWDS,

CADETS, CAMERA CONTEMPLATORS, AND CORDIAL COGITATORS

Yet with all the war and dislocation of what used to be the normal life people at M.S.C. still did all the things that make college the s w e l l e s t existence in the world. Old grads showed up; got a glint in their eye when they saw an old friend. Beaumont still beat out the time even though it seemed to hurry a bit. Guys and gals still held hands, drank cokes (or apple juice!), went for canoe rides and played the juke boxes. Yes, even with the war it was still college!

FROLIC, FLOWING FORMALS AND TRIM TIES AND TAILS

The party that everyone waits for so they can stay out 'till 3:30. This year Jan Garber and Bob Strong took turns twisting tunes out of their respective bands. And some two thousand people danced to their music, little realizing how the committees, as usual, fought, tore their hair and generally were so tired that they almost forgot the night of the party, and discouraged to the point that two kids wanted to hire a mouth organist and a flute player from Wells Hall!

AND WE'VE GOT WHAT YOU WANT . . .

There's one thing everybody is becoming more aware of with each fleeting day — and that's the fact that "ya gotta keep what'cha got" for the duration — especially the old gas buggy. And that's where it'll pay you to keep PAUL'S AUTOMOTIVE PARTS phone number 41424 in mind. You'll find that they are Johnny on the spot when it comes to knowing what to do to put your modern mode of motivation back into what's left of the swim of things. They know how to do it, and their service and quality materials are yours at the lowest possible cost.

JEWETT'S

Now that you've got your car in running shape, the first trip of necessity may well be to let the woman of your life hie herself to a good "make-up studio" for major repairs. If such be the case 41476 is the number to call for an appointment, for that's the FREEMAN BEAUTY SHOP on M.A.C. in East Lansing which has a growing reputation as being one of the finest beauty salons in the city. Their skilled technicians and cosmotologists are fully equipped to ensure the best for their guests.

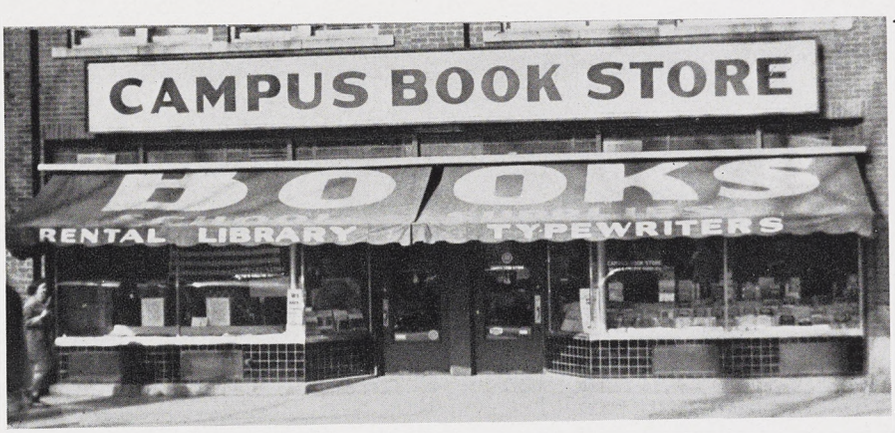

Have you noticed the increasing necessity of keeping all sorts of detailed records for most everything including tax reports, priorities certificates, blood donor's card, loan receipts, I O U's, dentists' bills, student book, Wolverine receipts and the number of the latest Tommy Dorsey? Rather than having all these "vital statistics" in a nondescript, jumbled heap, localized vaguely in your two-drawer desk, why not dial 20757 and find out just what GREGORY MAYER AND THOM have to suggest in the way of a practical filing and record system. Whenever you have any problems of equipment for your work — from a slick roller chair with rubber cushions to pencils and pins — remember that they have enviable record for being able to completely satisfy the demands of modern methods of business.

After your business day is over, what is your pleasure? Is it to go to an organization meeting where your two cents worth is pretty important? If it is, have you thought of getting some smart symbolic jewelry for members of the group? Or if you are one of those scarce, better bachelors you can count on swooning sweetness when you finally give in to the irrestible feminine pulchritude and pin "her" with that attractive fraternity pin or even your graduating "S" pin to insure keeping her for the duration. Whatever your interests may be, you'll be mighty glad you know about the L. G. BALFOUR COMPANY of Attleboro, Massachusetts, who make fine quality insignia of practically every description, crested rings, lockets, accessories, party favors, and other fine jewelry. They are the official jewelers for a seemingly endless number of organization, fraternities and sororities. You'll find them offering the newest, and the finest articles of this type on the market.

If you aren't affiliated with some organization, maybe your "After business hours" are occasionally spent working with a group in preparing for some big party event. That being the case, you are bound to run up against a printing problem of one description or another — maybe it's posters, or programs, or any of a host of other things demanding good printing. Here's where 22833 will save you aspirins on program committee headaches. GARDNER PRINTING COMPANY will help in dismissing any printing problems which may arise. They guarantee work of the highest caliber accompanied by reasonable rates.

Perhaps you may be one of those who can ask for nothing better than to slip into rumpus clothes, contort yourself comfortably into the best easy chair your room has and meander through How Green Was My Valley, laugh with Bob Hope, or maybe even virtuously plow through fifty pages of ancient history or the making of ice cream. It might be a good idea to suggest to your landlady that a binful of long-burning, economical coal from the LANSING ICE AND FUEL COMPANY takes the curse off a too-cool spring evening. On the other hand cool refreshments help on the too-warm evenings. A supply of pure ice in her ice box would provide you with some of refreshment to make study bearable at least. Have her call 21387 for prompt and courteous service.

A few good numbers, telephone, I mean, can make college comfortable and easy. They're all worth a try.

FROM OLDSMOBILE comes a new BATTLE CRY OF FREEDOM!

"KEEP 'EM FIRING!"

THE DRIVE IS ON!—AND EVERY MAN AND WOMAN CONNECTED WITH OLDSMOBILE IS RALLYING TO THE CAUSE OF VICTORY! IT'S AN ALL-OUT, NON-STOP CAMPAIGN TO SPEED THE OUTPUT OF FIRE-POWER AND HELP WIN THE WAR!

A NEW battle-cry has been sounded, a new spirit has been kindled, as a vast army of Oldsmobile men and women swings into action. Not with arms, with work! For their "front lines" are assembly lines, their "battle" is the Battle of Production.

Oldsmobile, oldest among the motor car manufacturers, was among the first to achieve mass production on Defense. Today, Defense has become War! And Oldsmobile is still among the first—with all its mighty resources mobilized for the gigantic task ahead.

What are the tangible results? We cannot disclose figures, particulars—but even the generalities are impressive.

High-power artillery shell and cannon are now being produced—now being delivered—now being used by the fighting forces! Preparations for the output of Fire-Power in still greater volume are in an advanced stage. All work is going forward on a non-stop schedule—24 hours a day, 7 days a week, with automobile workers, new "soldiers of production," being constantly trained and changed over to armament activities.

The men and women of Oldsmobile are proud of the job this war has given them—and they can well be proud of the way they are doing that job. They have already accomplished much, and they are grimly determined that future accomplishments will be even greater.

So long as America needs cannon and shell, these men and women will build cannon and shell. And they'll build them better and faster and in greater volume than anyone has ever built them before. Their way of working is the Oldsmobile way, the old and traditional American way. And every blow of every hammer, every turn of every machine seems to chorus with them, "Let's Go, Everybody—Keep 'Em Firing!"

We know you've enjoyed this book, and will treasure it. For this fine work give your Staff full credit.
In printing and binding the '42 Wolverine we've tried to make the Staff's handling of a thousand-and-one details as simple and efficient as possible.
This yearbook speaks for our workmanship.
We'll let the Staff speak for our service.

INDECO GUIDES TO BETTER ANNUALS

Since the turn of the century the Indianapolis Engraving Company, Inc., has maintained the highest standards of quality and intelligent cooperation, thus accounting for the continuous use of our service by many high schools, colleges and universities.

Indeco quality is the finest that modern equipment and skilled craftsmen can produce. Every engraving is unconditionally guaranteed to be a perfect printing plate and to give a faithful reproduction of your engraving copy.

Our service includes help in planning and designing, suggestions on how to get the best pictorial effects, assistance in preparation of engraving copy, and solving the many problems arising in making your book both an editorial and financial success.

The latest ideas in yearbook construction are offered to make the annual best meet the requirements of your particular school. Our "Service Manual" is a complete guide for the staff in their work.

Indeco planned yearbooks have long been recognized as being among the outstanding annuals of the country. You will be agreeably surprised, too, at the purchasing power of your budget. Write us asking for a complete explanation of the Indeco plan.

"Democracy will survive"

Yes, it will survive! You and I know it will because we have seen America through trying times before. We have survived because we did our job and did it right. So regardless of how dark things look we will come through. That's because America knows how to do the job.

That same thing is true of yearbook covers in that to do a satisfactory job you must know how. We take pride in knowing how. The little extra operations that could so easily be overlooked are what make your yearbook cover lasting for many years. Thus we believe that quality in the long run is the least expensive cost in any business.

And that applies to America also. It has the quality to make this business that is America survive. And the survival of America is the survival of democracy!

DAVID J. MOLLOY PLANT

You and Your Wolverine

About the first of June every year State's yearbook, The Wolverine, makes its appearance on campus. This year was even more eventful than usual with war, priorities and national defense. But even in the face of these events your Wolverine has reached a new goal, both in number of pages and in copies sold. It has become one of the largest yearbooks in the middle west. And it has reached this goal because you support it.

Your yearbook, just in case you didn't know, is an $18,000 non-profit business. It is operated by your friends, your roommates and the guys and gals that you meet in classes all over campus. Its home is in the Union Building and the kids who put it out "live" there for eight months or so scheduling pictures, writing copy, phoning and doing a million jobs all the way from holding hot flash bulbs to making sure no one smokes when group pictures are taken in the Little Theater. It's a lot of fun and a lot of work. And just how good the book is depends on YOU. The people who work can publish a book equal to the support you give it. The fine support this year has made this book a reality. It is your support that will make '43, '44, and all the years ahead a success. Give that support in the future and you will have a Wolverine that no other college can equal.
