WOLVERINE

With New Meaning and Greater Purpose

Michigan State College, with a record-breaking summer session as a prelude, began its eighty-eighth year in September, 1942. There was a new tilt to our chins as we set about giving strength to the things that make America strong. Wide open conflict had broken — bringing disaster the ultimate consequences of which were, and are, beyond prediction, but . . .

For Our Tomorrow

We, the students of this college have here preserved, over the boundless barriers of space and time, this momentous school year. The very events which have caused this year to be such a nightmare make this book unprecedented in significance. Here is a picture of our college, its activities, and of the men and women who are entering a future with destinations unknown and returns undated. This we know: That through the toil, sweat, blood and tears will come new knowledge and understanding to make more glorious that peace which is to follow.

These Things We Loved and Learned

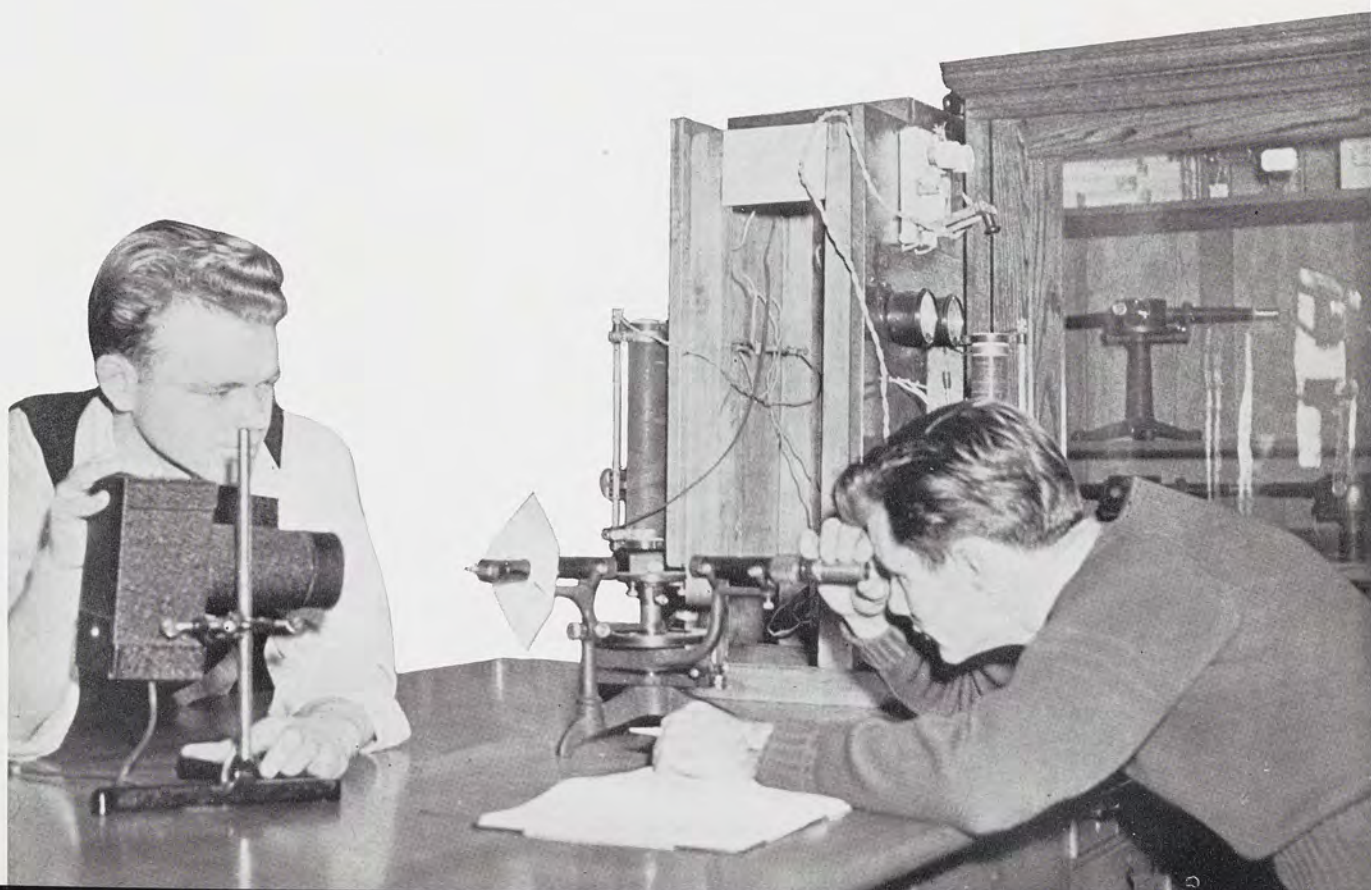

That this year was only the end of the beginning of changes which come under the lash of Mars. That what you get from your college experience is in direct ratio to what you put into it. On and off campus one event followed upon another with conglomerate rapidity . . . rationing . . . innumerable "lasts for the duration" . . . no traditional Christmas lights on the college evergreen . . . Roosevelt and Churchill met at Casablanca as Spartans defied the blustering cold of winter . . . the Russians amazed the world . . . the influx of khaki and the exit of familiar college atmosphere.

It Started at Pearl Harbor...

Michigan State in a World at War

The clash and clatter of war reverberated over the Land of the Red Cedar during the past year. And it was apparent that we were up against the hard, blunt facts of war and the grim necessity of winning it. With untold millions to be in the armed services by 1943, the odds were all in favor of many Spartans being a cipher in that sum. The frills of a peacetime campus were eliminated . . . war courses were added . . . physical education emphasized . . . reserve programs instigated . . . rumors became everyday breakfast talk, causing continual uncertainty and confusion . . . women began to assume the responsibilities formerly held by men . . . over $6,500 was invested in bonds and stamps at the upper deck bond booth in the Union . . . term formals were restricted . . . the Army took over Wells hall in September, Mason and Abbot halls and the fraternity houses the first of Spring term, as the E.R.C. left to help speed the knockout blow by striking at the nerve centers of aggression all over the world.

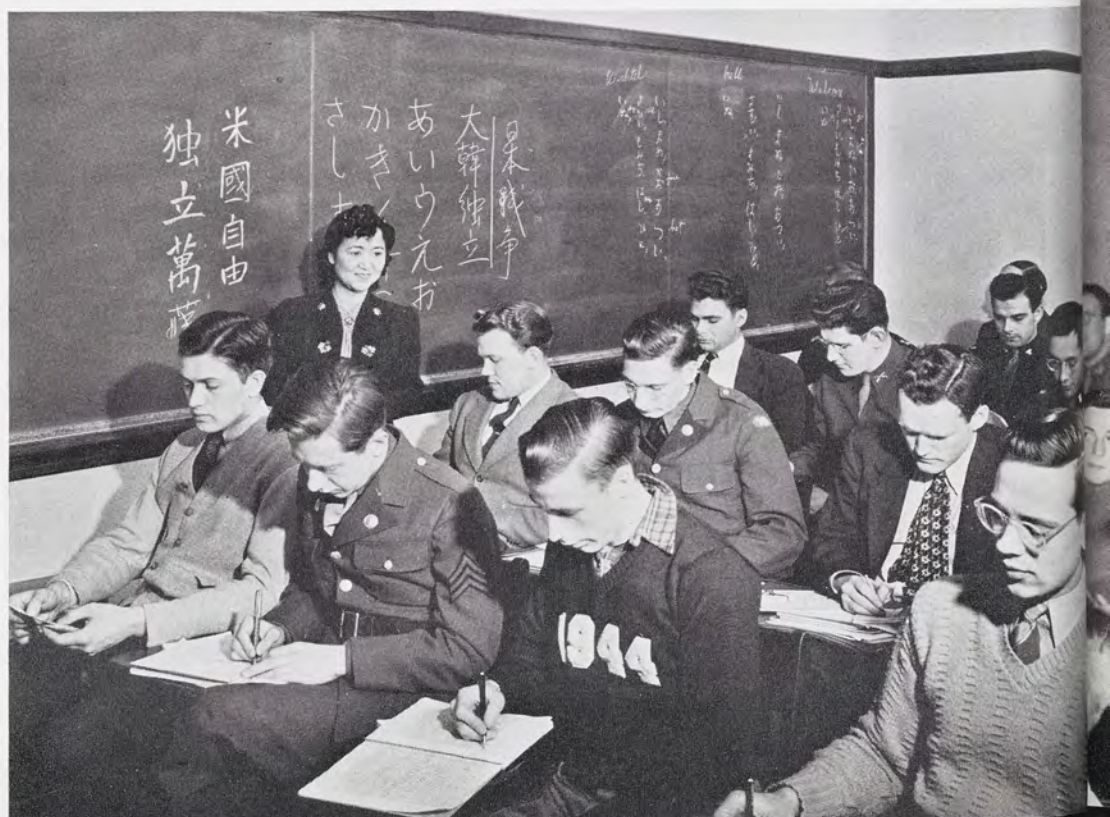

Faculty, Courses, and A

Faculty advisor to student war time activities is the professor and head of Police Administration, Tom H. King. To him goes much credit for the accomplishments of this year.

Japanese is a popular "war-course" which was ably presented by Dr. Grace Song Line. Many military students added this as a voluntary requirement to their course.

d Activities Transform the Campus into an Arsenal of Skills

State Director of Victory Speakers Bureau Paul D. Bagwell, Acting Head of Michigan State's Speech Department, coordinates the activities of 155 bureaus throughout the state of Michigan totalling over 6,000 speakers.

Left: State is one of three large colleges which offers a course in camouflage. Heavy enrollment forces Mr. Barr of the Horticultural Department to frequently utilize visual education in this interesting course.

Right: Scampering, sweating, and jumping, each come in for their share of emphasis in the novel Safety Skills course which builds men for maneuvers.

Military Training is Suddenly a Primary Activity

Commando tactics, complete with bayonets, were featured in some of the R.O.T.C. units. The two lads in the top picture at the left realize the importance of offensive warfare. Battles are not won by troop action alone, however. Transportation and mechanization are familiar terms to military students. Practical training with trucks received plenty of attention during the past year. One of the biggest activities the military office has had was handling the mass of enlisted reserves. The final act of the process was being sworn in which Col. McLeod, former P.M.S. and T. now in Washington, is shown doing below.

Pan-Hel and D.Z.V. sold Bonds and Stamps here.

Student Participation in Projects was Unlimited

All campus projects were under the supervision of the Projects Committee of the M.S.C. Coordinating Defense Council. There was nothing too big or too small for a C.D.C. project. For example there was the Victory Forum, silk and nylon Stocking Drives, SWACes, summer job placement service, and a Stamp Pledge Drive. Several non-credit courses were held in First Aid, Communications, Surgical dressings, as well as other related fields. Perhaps one of the most unusual things was voluntary beet-pulling. Groups of students went into the fields for half-day sessions of pulling and topping stacks of the crop. Thus a large part of the sugar beet supply was saved which otherwise never would have left the fields because of the critical shortage of labor.

ted as to Scope

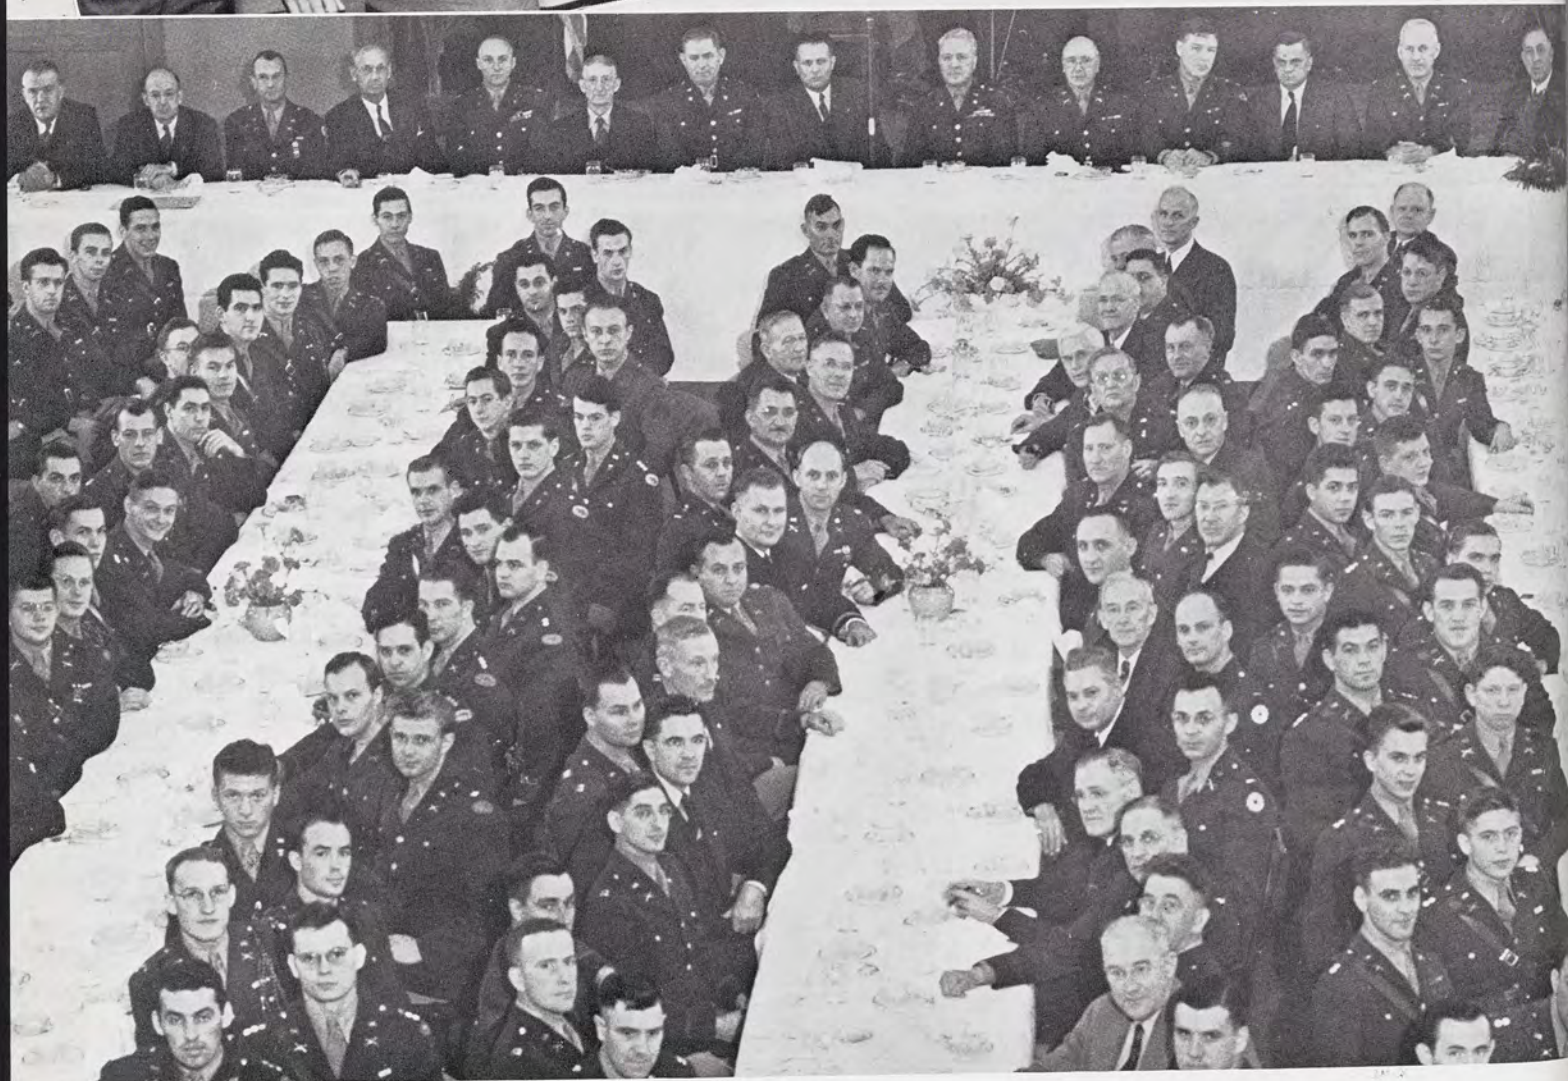

Practically every group and organization found some war-time activity to call their own. Blue Key backed a project to procure a memorial plaque for keeping a public record of Spartan casualties in service. At the right, Robert Speed is noting the names already on it. Donnet Glaeser became D.Z.V.'s Queen after a contest based on stamp and bond votes for several candidates. A Spartan Victory Loan Fund was begun; each recognized organization being asked to contribute to it. Alpha Phi Omega set up a reserve fund for a permanent war-plaque to be erected after "the duration." These are but a few of the worthy group projects which were undertaken during this year.

Nationally Prominent

October 16, President Hannah's desk pad had the following note: United Nations' Students. That day he personally escorted the four delegates from the International Student Assembly at Washington, on a tour of the campus.

December 7, 1942, one year "after," found President Hannah the host of the entire Senior R.O.T.C. class. The occasion was prompted by the presence of Major General J. A. Ulio, adjutant general of the United States Army. On the General's right: President Hannah; on his left: Col. McLeod. Speakers' Table dignitaries included Michigan's Governor Kelly, Auditor General Brown, and Supt. of Public Instruction Elliott.

The background of the top half of the page features a large, stylized illustration of the Statue of Liberty. To the left of the statue, a vertical column of seven military aircraft is shown in flight. To the right, three more aircraft are depicted in a staggered formation. The entire scene is set against a dramatic, cloudy sky.

ADMINISTRATION

Administrators, the catalog calls them. We know them as big people with big jobs. This year brought them the headache of converting State from a peacetime college to a war-time training school. Rest assured that when the smoke has cleared away they'll have done a commendable job. Sure they're dignified, but it's a friendly dignity; they're wise, but they've got a sense of humor too. They're important — they're Spartans!

Interesting Things About S

Anyone that has taken Chemistry knows business-like Prof. A. J. Clark, head of the Chemistry department who came to M.A.C. in 1906. As a University of Wisconsin student he had played in the band and orchestra. Also he and his roommate organized a dance orchestra, in which Clark played the cornet to earn living expenses. Arriving here in September, Mr. Clark, as well as teaching Chemistry, immediately took charge of the band and remained in charge until 1914 when the pressure of World War brought more duties than he could handle. After the war he took over the band at various times until Mr. Falcone was appointed. His hobbies are golf, bowling and music. He no longer has any connection with the band, but he enjoys listening to it.

Professor Dunford, genuine out-door man, has long been a golf enthusiast, having played in the first faculty golf match of Michigan State-University of Michigan. He is interested in baseball, hunting, fishing, and music.

Before coming to Michigan State he was connected with the Boys' Industrial Delinquency School, Lancaster, Ohio. While there he developed a theory of training the boys for jobs after being released from school. During the last war, he taught international code at MSC and Purdue. He became Professor of Business Administration in 1929. The publication of "National Forecast" was initiated by him in 1925. He is now in charge of the code instruction for Signal Corps and Quartermaster Corps.

From his office on the first floor of Olds Hall, Prof. Merton M. Cory has watched our campus grow. When he first came, in 1912, College Hall and Williams Hall (the old one) were still standing. When the first engineering building burned in 1916, Mr. Cory and Mr. R. S. Shaw, then Dean of Agriculture, succeeded in saving $10,000 worth of materials. During the last war he and Sergeant Robinson directed the military department. Now Professor Cory is the chief air raid warden for East Lansing and MSC with the responsibility of totally blacking out this area. He likes to work crossword puzzles, to read detective stories, and to collect stamps. He once had a collection of nearly 75,000 stamps, but they were stolen and never recovered.

Some of State's Staff

Home Management House No. 4 presents Dr. Irma H. Gross, Professor of H.M. and C.D., as the instructor who has been with the M.S.C. Home Economics division the longest. She has been here since September 1, 1921. Born in Nebraska, near the Missouri River, she is used to and loves tramping out-of-doors. While a young girl she spent a great deal of time in the Rocky Mountain area. She has been to Europe six times and had contacts with Home Economics schools in Belgium, Switzerland, and France. Aside from her work as head of her department, Dr. Gross was field supervisor on the Bureau of Home Economic Studies. Besides all this she has a "budding" hobby of collecting books on the beginnings of Home Economics.

Frank H. Mitchell, foreman of the electrical division of buildings and grounds, has been at Michigan State forty-three years. After attending M.A.C. for two years, he started working in May, 1899, in what was then the steam and water department. Then, as now, his unlimited interests in campus athletics and athletes made him a loyal Spartan fan. Since 1897 he has missed only two football games. The boys appreciated his interest and made him an honorary member of Varsity Club in 1941. Another pride of "Mitch's" is the Christmas tree of which he has always supervised the lighting. This year's freshmen never saw it, but the upperclassmen will always remember the brilliant lights of the outdoor Christmas tree.

Students are not the only ones on campus who have gone into active service. A substantial list of college staff members who are on leave to take up active military service will be found on Page 404. Several faculty men, including professors Beth, Gee, Newman, Longnecker, Hayworth, Worcester, Stork, J. C. Davis, Larzelere, Cline, Logsdon, McKibbin, Ruswinckel, and Patton are on leave serving the government in some phase of war activity.

The State Board of Agriculture, the Apex

The many regular duties of this ten-man group were frequently overshadowed this year by a continuous flow of leave-granting to staff members of the college. The board governs all college personnel from the men who pick up the papers around campus to the heads of departments. Well over a hundred such leaves have been granted in the nine meetings of the current school year. Still the board always found time to consider and pass on many other important matters. These included acceptance of many gifts and donations for the college.

Each board member's term is for six years. The terms of Miss Masselink and Mr. Jakway expire in December of 1943. Mr. Akers and Mr. McPherson are slated to continue until 1945. Chairman Berkey and Mr. Brody have reached the half-way point of their respective terms.

Regular meetings of the board, usually on the third Thursday of each month, have been augmented by several special meetings to meet the exigencies of rapidly changing conditions.

Office of the President

From the President's spacious office on the top floor of the administration building John A. Hannah has kept his finger on State's pulse for another three terms. His second year in this office has undoubtedly proven to be far more demanding than of any other in State's history.

It was he who set a precedent by calling several special student convocations during the year in a continuous effort to keep everyone informed of the latest trends and possible future developments. His attitude toward the service-bound students was expressed in the final winter term convocation when he said: "I regret to see you go, but more than that I envy your vigor and your youth, and I know that you are going to do your job well."

Dr. Hannah has the vital responsibility of maintaining the college and its facilities during a period in which "there is no longer any certainty." Michigan State College can be proud of the fine job which he is doing.

TOP: John Hannah enjoys his large farm just south of Pinetum. After his day on campus he often spends as much time as possible tending his extensive garden. Most of the produce goes to various campus kitchens, while Mr. Hannah gets the thrill of working the good earth with his hands.

Traditional friendliness is carried over even into the presidential residence at 7 faculty row. Mr. and Mrs. Hannah opened their home in a reception for all seniors last spring term, which was attended enthusiastically.

Dean Fred T. Mitchell and Dean Elizabeth W. Conrad find that their activities in guiding State's men and women bring them together frequently.

Lloyd C. Emmons soon will enter his tenth year as Dean of the Liberal Arts division.

Know your deans; that's sound advice which more students should heed. The years of experience which each has had in his respective field serves as a valuable feature in counseling with students.

Dr. Mitchell has been Dean of Men for eight years; and is ably assisted by Ron Heath who is housing director. Miss Conrad has looked after co-ed interests at State since 1928. Spartan women can thank Miss Mabel Petersen for providing the splendid housing accommodations which they enjoy on campus.

Heading the largest single division of the college, genial Dean Emmons has skillfully guided the liberal arts division through one of its most trying years. He still found time to work with such things as the initiation of the graduate record examination given to the seniors winter term.

grees. Dr. Giltner has watched the Veterinary science division develop into one of the important branches of the college since 1909.

Agriculture, the basic division of the college, is ably directed by Dean Anthony. His duties also include supervising the ever-expanding acreage and numerous farms of the college.

Dean Huston, from his office in Kedzie Chemical laboratory, efficiently guides the eight hundred applied science students. Pre-dental and pre-medical students find him a valuable person in their first step toward professional careers.

More women students find their way to Dean Dye's office than to any other. The Home Economics division is one of the largest in the country. Miss Dye is largely responsible for the high standing which the division enjoys.

Over in Olds Hall, Dean Dirks directs the educational program of the now vitally important engineering school. Would-be engineers find practically their entire curriculum outlined for them by his office.

State's Administrators Are Efficient and Human

Students and faculty are not enough to make an institution function. There also must be many behind-the-scene men who take care of a myriad of essential duties.

Mr. Crowe finds time to not only direct the summer session and general curriculum but also work out the lecture course program and keep an active interest in photography through the medium of his son.

Fine dogs are a far cry from annually supervising and registering thousands of students. Yet Bob Linton takes his vacation during the fall hunting season in order to take advantage of his favorite pastime.

If you ever wonder about practically anything on the campus — from what the half-way rock is for, to where the oldest alumni is — go see Glen Stewart for the answer. Besides tending to alumni duties, his is the job of acting as go-between for part-time employers and students.

Few people have a finer collection of cameras and accessories than does Secretary McDonel. The busy days of the past year have left him with only about time enough to shake off the dust from them. When he does find time, then it will only be a case of priorities and rationing.

It's a long way from a country home to the Administration Building on an "A" gas ration card. That's what Treasurer C. O. Wilkins has found out. Yet he wouldn't trade places with the "city folks" even if he had to walk back and forth.

In his book-filled office, Dr. Bessey carries on his work of looking after serious-minded "grad" students and keeping the botany department buzzing. He enjoys the comfort of his East Lansing residence which his wife keeps neat as a pin.

THE ACADEMICS . . .

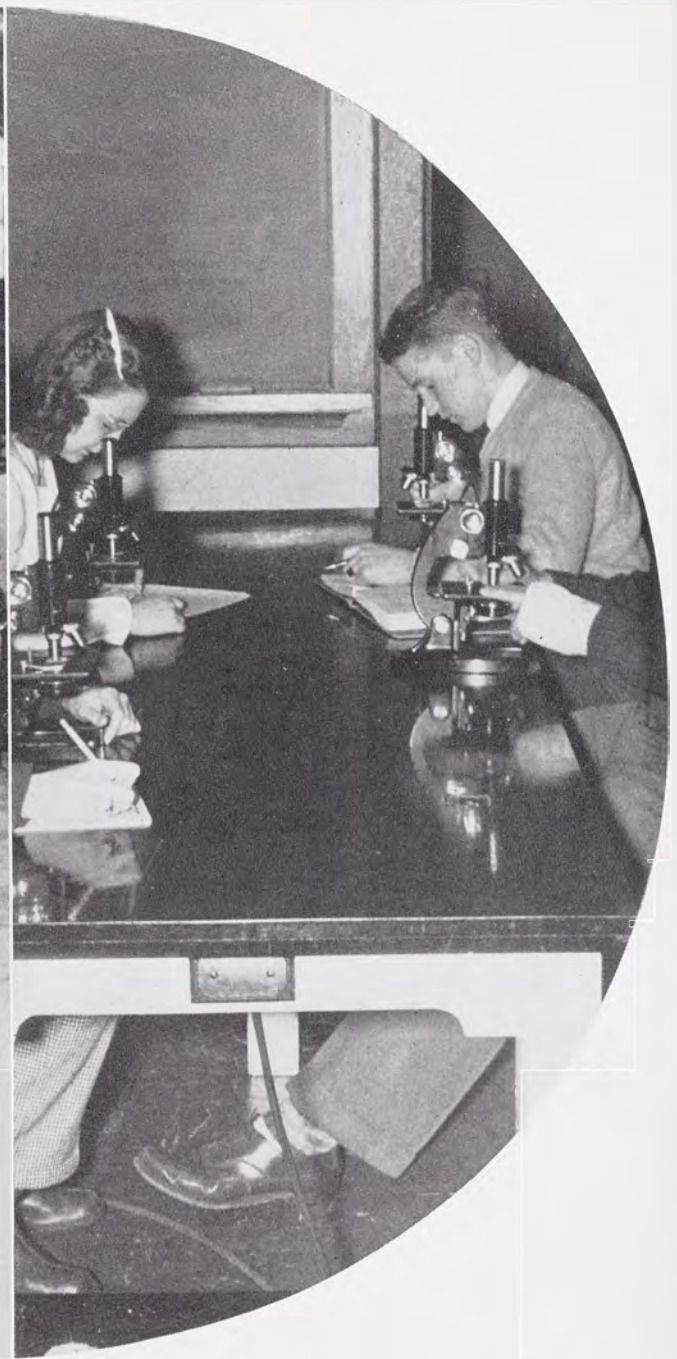

Regardless of all the glitter and glamour of college life, there will always be plenty of simple, unadulterated studying, classes, recitations, and labs — the stuff of which education is made. You find out how true that is the very first term at Michigan State College. Because classes do take the number one spot on the average student's daily itinerary, the following sections are presented. If it weren't for unsurmountable obstacles, it would be ideal to have a coverage of every class offered in the catalog. But even if such a thing were undertaken, there still would not be any course which could be alphabetically classified as a Y course. That's something which the academicians can do some research on. The list of courses offered to the Spartans is one of the finest and most complete offered anywhere. Of course Spring term found terrific slashes in the number of sections offered in a good many courses, but there still remained an adequate selection. The changes were necessitated by reductions in staffs and enrollment.

It's your academic achievement which the college is mainly interested in. That's why there's an entire room in the basement of the "Ad." building devoted exclusively to keeping an up-to-the-minute record of scholastic averages of every student.

Remember how you frantically searched through the college catalog to find out what the college courses were all about? Finally you got the blue book to make a fine-looking schedule. Then as you stepped up to register for it, you found that the blinking course was closed!

State Offers Everything from A to Z

ANIMAL HUSBANDRY. There are sheep and then again there are sheep. Members of the Study of Breeds class are seen here holding the various breeds. They have also studied the history, development, characteristics, adaptability, and economic importance of the leading breeds of horses, beef cattle, and swine.

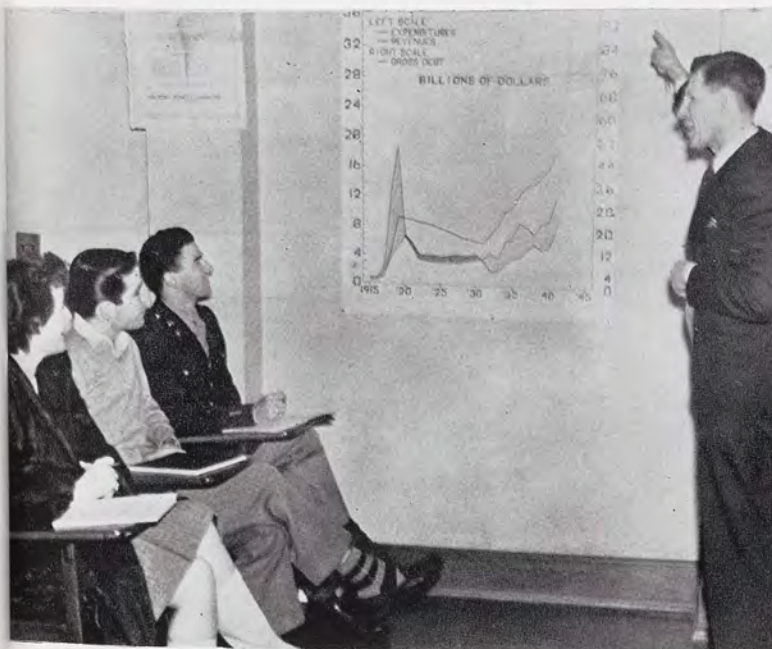

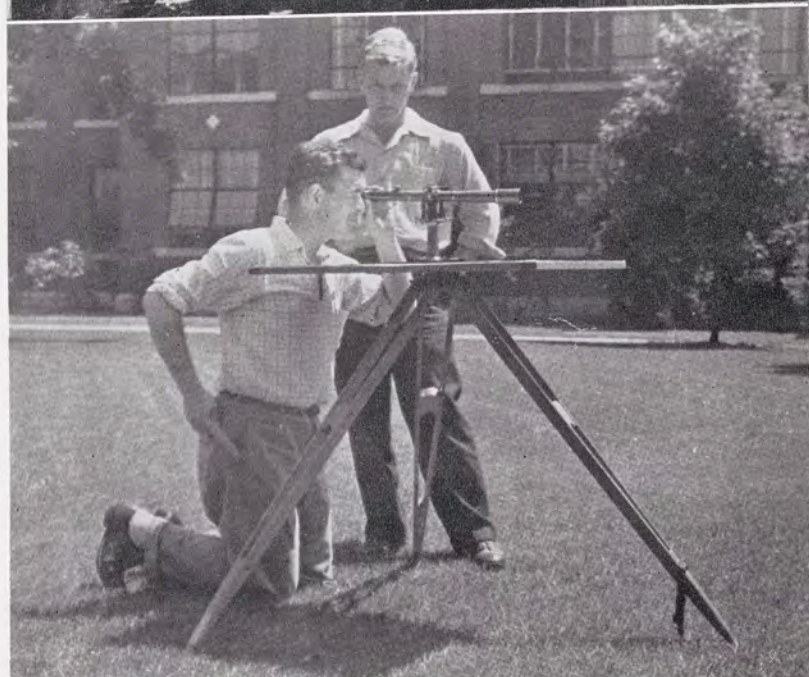

ZOOLOGY. Joyce Howlett and Edward Marantette are beginning a course in the biological nature of man. Here they are peering through microscopes to find what frog legs are made of. Later they will study the structure of the human body, heredity, and evolution.

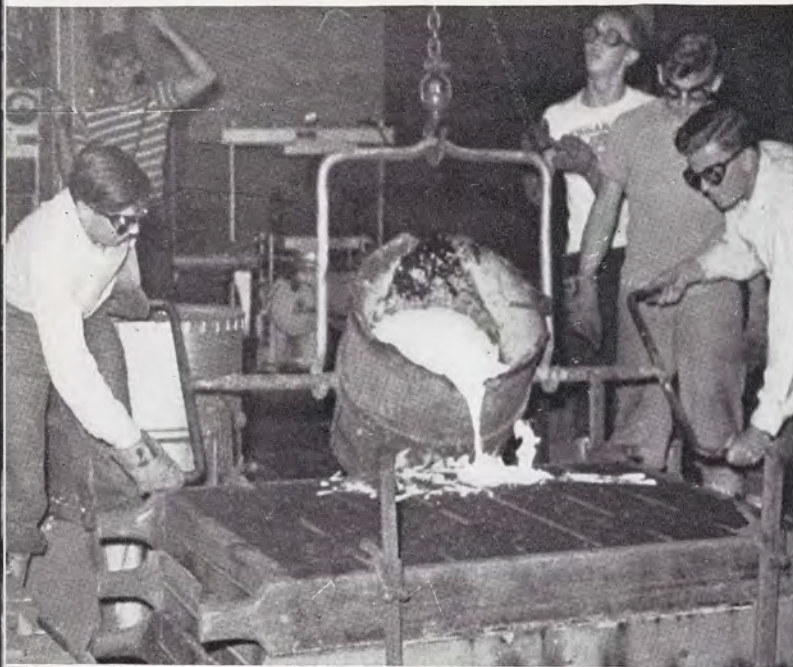

BOTANY. This botany class is studying all about diseases of trees. If you know the meaning of parasitic or non-parasitic, then you'll know the nature of the diseases they study — or maybe you had better speak to Dave Timmer, Eino Sainio, or Jack Hardy who are working with Prof. Strong.

CIVIL ENGINEERING. Here are a couple of those boys you have bumped into all over campus, peering through gadgets and stretching wires across the place where you want to walk. Dave Runnells (on his knees) and Clayton Reister seem to be doing a pretty good job of surveying the campus lawn here.

DRAWING AND DESIGN. Move over, boys. The girls want a chance to draw the plans for their homes for a while. You can't baffle the Home Economics girls with the drawings of floor plans or interior details. They are working with their blueprints and mechanical instruments under the direction of Mr. Pratt.

ECONOMICS. There is a budget to be balanced and a lot of economic phases to be understood today. Mr. Cline spends a great deal of time explaining these phases to his economics classes. He proves his point with the aid of a chart here for Thompson and Sonalia.

FOUNDRY. Great things are coming out of this foundry class — or it looks like it. Anyway, James Auchterlonie, Joseph Chobots, Duane Butterfield, Tom Monroe, and Bob Patterson seem to be doing a good job of putting some molten metal into a mold.

GEOLGY. There is that Geology lab. again. You just can't get away from it. Do the rock samples look familiar or are those the ones that you just can't seem to remember? Sue Meyer, Vilas Allen, and Pat Darr are working with hardness sets and streak plates to identify minerals.

HOTEL ADMINISTRATION. No, these fellows aren't making bride's biscuits. Amid the pots and pans Fern Hart, Van Stewart, Paul Hausenbauer, Ken Teysen, Ken Krakow, and Dick Stubbs are working up some rolls for the Campbell girls in Campbell kitchen as a part of their training in the Hotel Ad course under Mr. G. P. Chipman.

INSTITUTIONAL ADMINISTRATION. The city-wide-popular Union Cafeteria is no small place for these students to learn their stuff. Good experience besides good food is found behind this counter. Only institutional administration majors can take the course. Putting acquired knowledge into practice always helps it to sink in a little better.

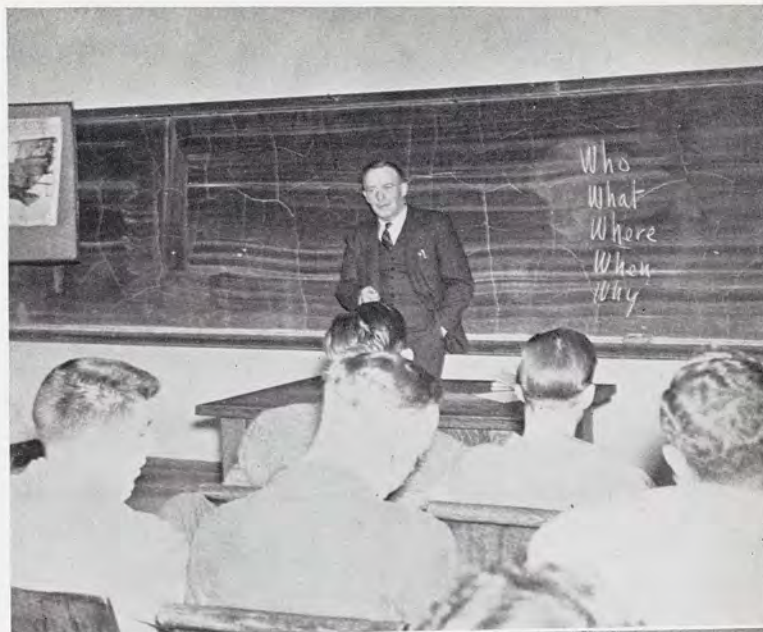

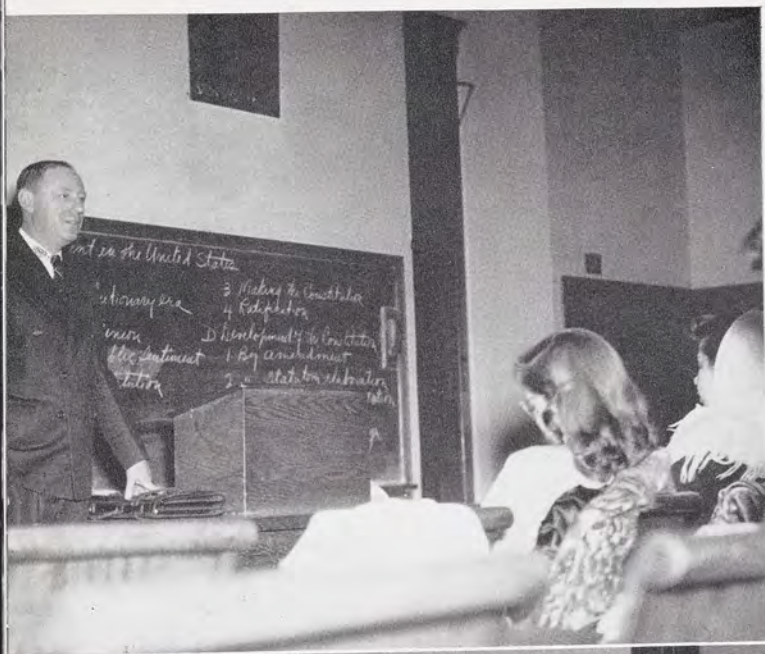

JOURNALISM. Mr. Applegate teaches old stuff on an old blackboard. Those seemingly insignificant words happen to be the names for what are journalistically called the basic elements of a news story. If you take the name of that machinery shown on the chart apart you will understand that it is used to make a line-o(f)-type.

KINEMATICS. Charles Kuhlmann and Bruce Latter are working pretty hard in this class for mechanical engineers under Mr. Gralak. They are supposed to be studying the problems of movements of machine parts such as link, gear, and cam. The class is only for technical mechanical engineers as you can readily see.

LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTURE. This landscape architecture class proves to be amusing and educational to the fellows working at their drawing boards. Mr. Barr is talking with Kenneth Dorr, C. E. Carlson, and Lowell Burton, the only members of the class.

MAP-MAKING. Either these boys are prophets or else they are just plain ambitious. Joe Lewis, Karl Larson, Coleman Gronseth, and Jack Everett are attempting to reproduce the maps they have been studying. Maybe they are just keeping in practice for future years when great changes will have been made and new maps will be in demand.

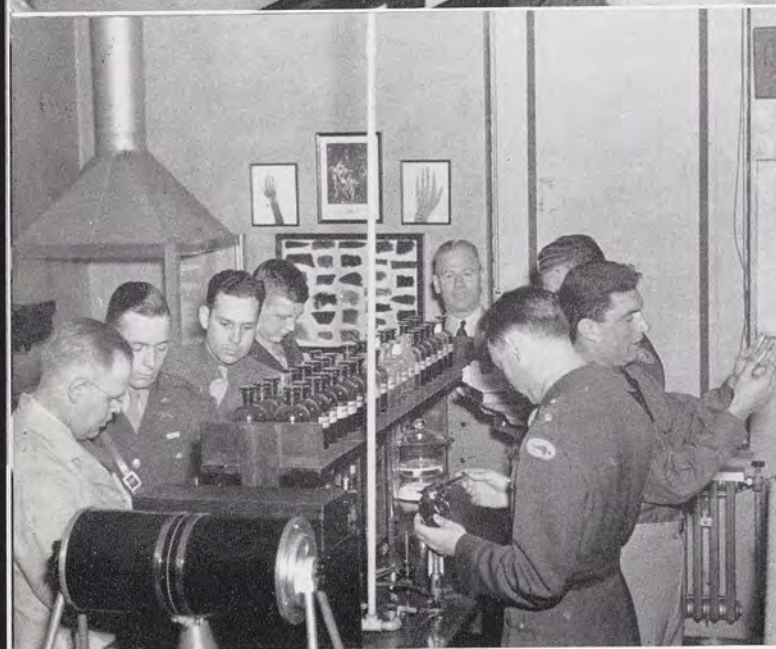

NATIONAL GOVERNMENT. It is important for students to know their government and its functions as they will be responsible for it and any changes made in future years. In this class Dr. Combs lectures on the constitution, the workings of the federal courts, and other phases of our government.

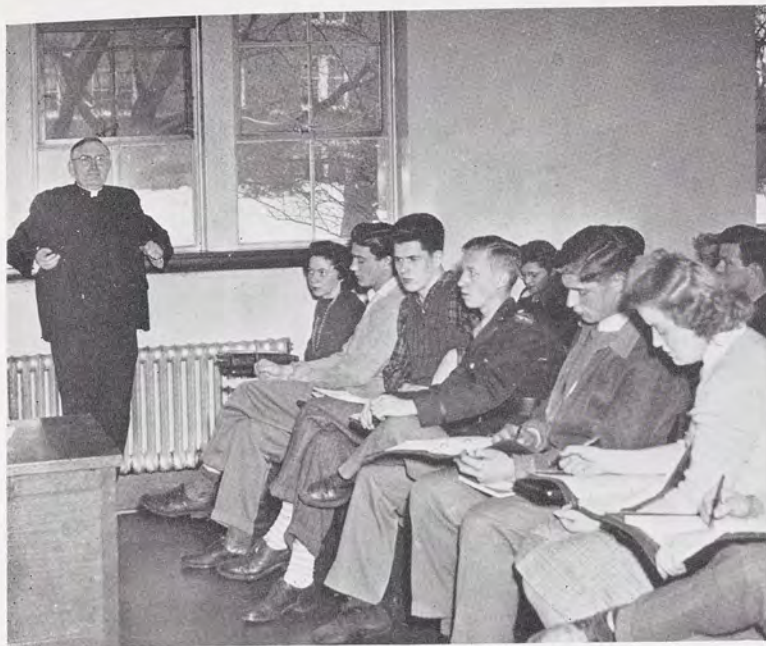

ORNITHOLOGY. Mr. Stack is giving this class the bird. He traps and bands the birds in order that the class might study the habits, life histories, and colors. Practical work in maintaining a banding station is taken up by Howard Jacques, Margaret Cole, Kenneth Twiss, and Harry Wilkinson in this class.

POLICE ADMINISTRATION. Beware future criminals. This lab full of men are planning out new scientific methods of catching up with that crime that never pays. The fellows in this course study, in the classroom, the different phases of criminal law that they will be apt to use as police officers or criminal investigators.

QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS. If you are smart enough and have a talent along the line of chemistry, you might take a crack at this course of quantitative analysis. This course is required for engineers and Home Ec T.C.& R.A. majors, who need it to successfully carry on their work.

RELIGION. Margaret Bailey, Robert Bowersox, Eugene Cahill, Jim Cain, Tom Carney, Lucille Carlson, Cut Jennings, Art Dehn, and Arthur Degenova study religion in general and the personality of Christ under Father Winters. They have lots of discussion about beliefs in this class, but no one seems to object.

SHORT COURSE. These boys are taking a gander at the machinery they will be using, or are using, on a farm. Not having time to take a full four-year course in Agriculture, these boys come to school in the winter to learn new ideas to try out the next summer. The Short Course department offers the only solution to many busy farm people.

TAP DANCING. Come on, Girls, let's swing it! One of the most popular classes of physical education, this class of girls, Lola Evans, Peg Hall, Maxine Trefry, Helen Muncie (1st row) and Harriet Bloom, Janet Walton, Florence Somes, Betty Parmenter, and Betty Thommann, is pictured as Miss Skidmore has the gals pick up the fundamentals of a certain step.

URBAN ECOLOGY. Interesting subjects make interesting classes and studying life in the city sounds all right to me. Mr. Watts lectures in this class on the history of cities and their social problems along with topics of culture and organization. He finds it helpful to use charts to explain the work more clearly.

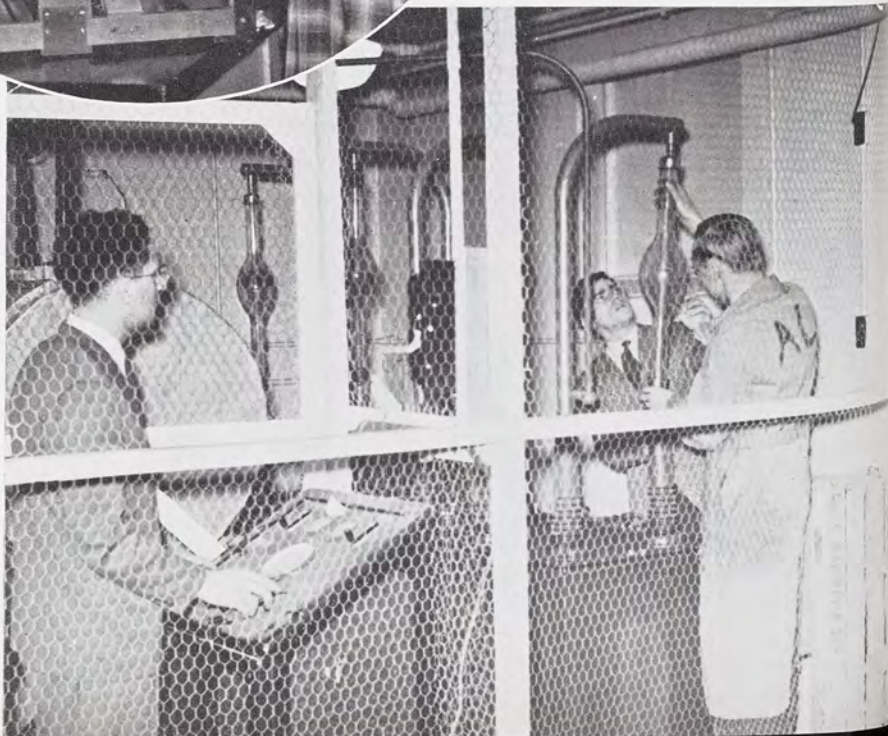

VETERINARY MEDICINE. No, this isn't a school of torture. These students are just cutting up a horse to find what makes it tick. It's a gory sight, I'll admit, but they say that someone has to do it.

WEAVING. Home Economics girls seem to have a knack of being able to do a little bit of everything. The actual processes of weaving may look easy, but just try to set up a loom sometime.

X-RAY. These people are cornered way down in the Physics Building in a cage, breaking rays, working with tubes, and what-not. This is Physics 320.

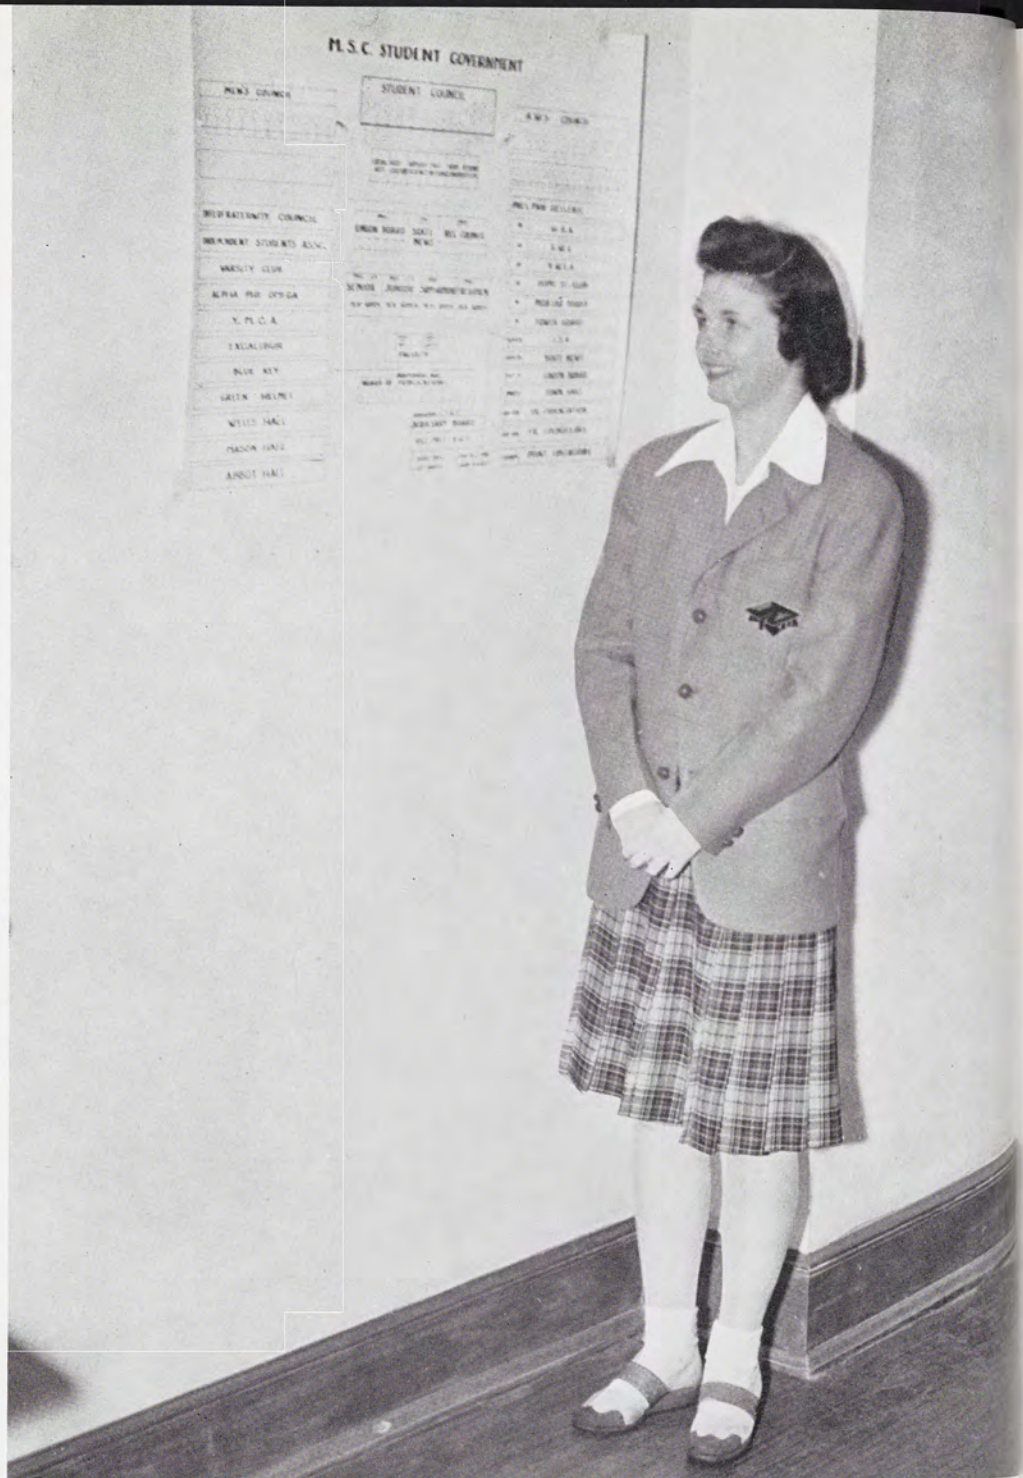

Graduation is Always an Impressive Ceremony.

COLLEGE

Probably no one word implies such a variety of different things to so many Spartans as does college. Besides hitting the books, there are the unpredictables of student-government activities, plus the time-consuming organizations and "key-clubs"; and wearing your fingers to the bone for publications, or maybe just wearing out the soles of your shoes going to lectures. While the prospects are slim of such things continuing unscathed by civilization's latest eruption, at least the memories of "before the duration" will survive.

Peggy Burhans, the first woman ever to be elected to the presidency of the Student Council at State, comes from Paw Paw, a little town in southern Michigan. She is affiliated with Chi Omega sorority and is in the liberal arts division. Peg and her many activities at Michigan State are listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Student Council — Masterminds Work on All Activities

Coordinating the various organizations on campus has been the prevailing objective of Student Council for the year 1942-1943.

With the effort to have students help other students on our campus now and after the war, the council established the Spartan Victory Loan Fund, raised from donations given by the various organizations. This was also to enable post war education for which there will be a definite demand.

Other projects have been organizing the high school visitations committee in order to help the faculty contact new students for Michigan State during war time. The council was host to the United Nations War heroes when they were guests on our campus. Official council action stated that all winter term parties must be restricted to East Lansing because of the immediate transportation situation, along with the enforcement of the corsage ban.

Plans are being made to reorganize the governing body into a smaller group to function during war time. This council will be concerned primarily with defense activities and providing a scheme of orientation for the new soldiers on campus. All functions will be minimized; the main job is to become flexible enough to meet any duration changes.

A. W. S.

A. W. S., which stands for Associated Women Students, is an ever-busy, ever-active organization, mainly because its function covers such a variety of duties and services. The purposes and objectives of the organization are to emphasize the necessity for, and to help promote the spirit of campus cooperation and friendship among women; to increase the individual sense of responsibility for maintaining this spirit; and to promote high standards. It has other functions which are to supervise all matters pertaining to the social conduct of women students and to act as an advisory board and coordinator for all women's organizations.

Likable Vera Deaner, president of A.W.S., comes from Sodus, Michigan. Besides her social sorority Chi Omega, Pi Mu Epsilon, Mathematics honorary, and Sigma Pi Sigma, physics honorary are associated with Vera. She is also a Mortar Board and is listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Treasurer	Carol Edmondson

This year, for the first time, A. W. S. instituted an Annual Women's Day which included an all-woman convocation, a luncheon for girls interested in activities and a tea at which organizations were represented for discussion of activities. A. W. S. also has charge of Freshman Orientation and the Counselor system.

One of the organization's main objectives at the present is for a greater distribution of responsibility among the women students.

They Govern Women's Politics at State

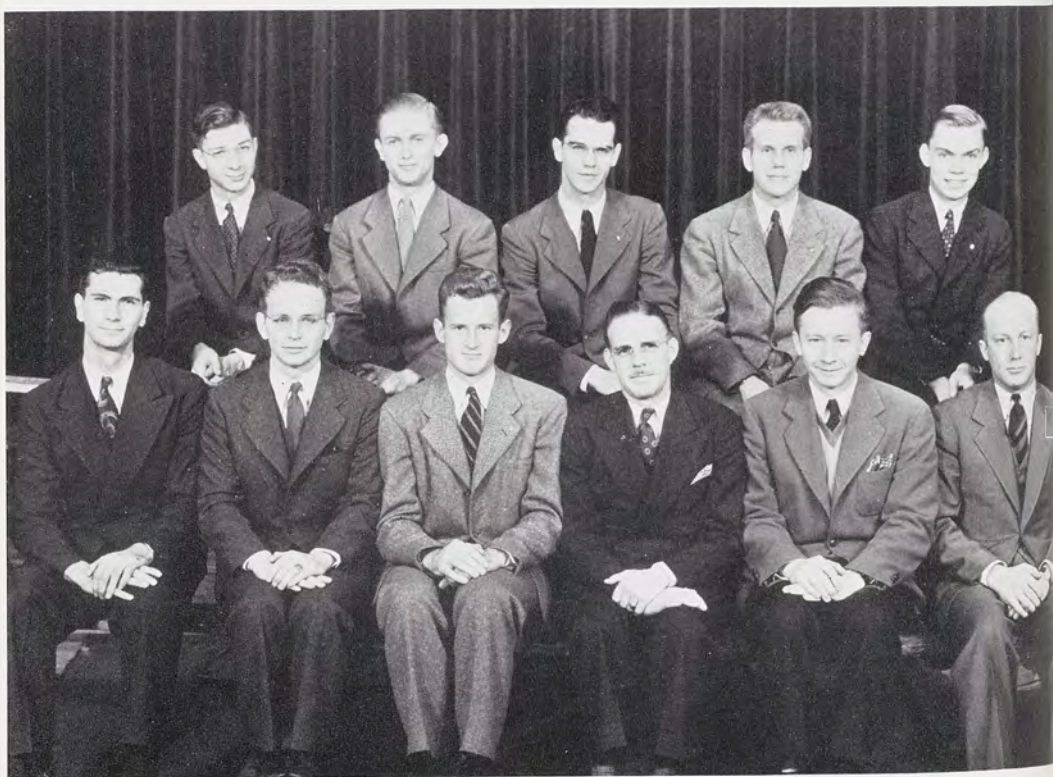

FIRST ROW: B. J. Youngman, L. Luecht, L. J. Ball, S. Freeman, V. Deaner, C. Edmondson, E. McCormick, S. Knowlton, H. Swanson. SECOND ROW: J. Dickie, I. Mehay, R. Cornell, L. Leland, D. J. Holser, I. E. Wade, D. Segal, A. Bedford, B. Wirth. TOP ROW: N. Ackerman, P. Reddy, P. Burhans, D. Harford, M. L. Kerth, B. Scarlett, P. Stone, M. S. Wilson, S. Sawyer.

The supreme governing body of all men's organizations is the pretentious title of the Men's Council. It is the connecting link, the tie that binds, the power that directs all men's activities toward the common goal — betterment of M.S.C.

Working with the Dean of Men, the Council appoints a chairman of the Freshman Orientation Program and supports and promotes worthy campus activities. This year it is cooperating with the C.D.C., and is particularly active in the stamp drive.

Here's the Patriarch of State's Male Population

FIRST ROW: L. Ostreich, A. Mitchell, A. Muschler, G. Heath, H. Crumley, G. Duhn. TOP ROW: E. Brandt, B. Klotz, H. Pitcher, C. Johnson, E. Hawley.

Hal Crumley, applied science junior from Detroit, can well be proud that he was elected to such a high office in his junior year at State. He has been very popular in activities during his three years already spent here. Headlining his achievement was his general chairmanship of the '44 Frosh Frolic.

Regular meetings are held every two weeks, though special meetings may be called if necessary. Any member of the student body may attend any regular meeting of the Men's Council as a visitor.

New organizations may be admitted to the council by petitioning and receiving a two-thirds vote of the members. At present eleven are represented. The Dean of Men and Housing Director of Men are ex-officio members without a vote.

Co-Ordinating Defense Council

FIRST ROW: P. Chapman, S. Sawyer, D. East, M. Lull, T. King, M. Mullen, V. Gardner, H. Willis, W. Dow, M. Greenfield. SECOND ROW: A. Chafets, J. Jackson, S. Bimba, T. Bowery, C. Gates, B. Kahrs, B. Sprague, K. Tew, B. Searl, I. Wood, B. Dyke, F. Filler, L. Quinn, B. Gardner, R. Chaddock, J. Robb, J. Stakenas.

The Coordinating Defense Council of Michigan State College was created by the Student Council "to instruct students in a useful project that can be used in civilian life." The Defense Planning Board which consists of Mr. Tom King, faculty advisor, Chairman of C. D. C. defense courses publicity, and representatives from all dormitories and other leading campus organizations discuss the suggestions and place them in the proper channels for action.

One of the outstanding functions of the year was to determine the place of sorority women in the war effort. The Project Committee of C. D. C. authorized Pan-Hellenic Council and the D. Z. V.'s to sponsor a Defense Booth in the Union Building.

Credit and non-credit courses were offered this year with an ever-increasing attendance. For example the agricultural course for women students is offered with the view of women taking over the nation's farms in the later years of the war. Other courses are First Aid, First Aid advanced, Communications, Bell Telephone communications, Airplane spotting, Home Nursing, Surgical Dressing, and Knitting.

S.W.L., whose purpose is service to Michigan State College, went all out for defense this year. Under CDC head, Dick George, Helen Swanson, S.W.L. president, and Vera Gardner, personality chairman of the league, the defense office was set up. The girls working in the office acted as clearing house and general secretary for all defense activity sponsored by the CDC and the student council.

As usual, the Spartan Women's League carried out its projects through the various interest groups — dramatics, radio, social, social service, membership, art, publicity, and personality. This year the girls sponsored the Cinderella Spin in cooperation with Mortar Board and Tower Guard, the Variety Show with Green Helmet, the transfer tea, and Saturday radio programs besides its main project, the defense office.

Miss Mabel Petersen, women's housing supervisor, is a charter member of the league, whose purpose it is to give an opportunity for leadership training and service to both sorority and non-sorority women.

Ag Council—The Brain Behind the Nation's Backbone

As first of M. S. C.'s divisional student government bodies, Ag. Council performs its duty of being the coordinating unit among the eleven agricultural clubs, honoraries, and classes, with creditable efficiency.

Starting in fall term with an all-ag mixer, the council rode through the year in power gear, each term having at least one definite high spot. After the mixer, they presented the term's first semi-formal party, the Harvest Ball and followed it in winter term with an all-ag achievement banquet, giving awards to top-flight students in scholarship, judging, extra-curricular activities, and the like. Interspersed among these scenes of fact and frivol are council-sponsored interclub athletic contests. And for the finishing touch to a year of note, the council presented the annual Ag Field Day, followed by the Coronation Ball, at which was crowned this year's Ag Queen, Lois Luecht, of St. Johns.

Union Board Scores with Casual Week-end Dances

The Union Board provided plenty of social activity when they brought Tony Pastor to State for the Turkey Trot this year. The big name band made the Thanksgiving stay at College pleasant. One didn't quite forget Mom's dressing and pie, but everyone had a hard time trying to think of anything but mellow music and a smooth partner.

The Board acts as a coordinating administrative body in the affairs of the students, locating itself in the Union Building. It sponsors bridge tournaments, the quarterback club, regular students dances, and drives for the care of Union facilities.

Last winter term they initiated a series of informal dances, in the mixed lounge on Friday and Saturday nights. The idea "sort of evolved within the group" to provide something for students to indulge in without "laying it on the line" or "dolling up." This was not a money-making project; its prime motive was easy entertainment a la jukebox.

Dinner meetings are held every Tuesday night. Unofficial business of the year — the president gave a diamond to the secretary.

Lecture Course Board—You Need Just an Activity Book

The 1942-'43 lecture series presented an unusually varied program of entertainment and information. State students were given the opportunity to hear such notables as Ilka Chase, Margret Webster, F. P. Adams, the Ballet Theater, the Don Cossack chorus, "Singapore Joe" Fisher, Ian Ross McFarlane, and Leland Stowe. The lavishly costumed ballet and the rousing Cossacks brought extended applause from the students and townspeople. And the lectures were each one informative and well received.

Program plans for the coming year are just underway, according to chairman S. E. Crowe, with the Ballet Theater, Edward Weeks, editor of the Atlantic Monthly, and Margret Bourke White, war photographer already booked.

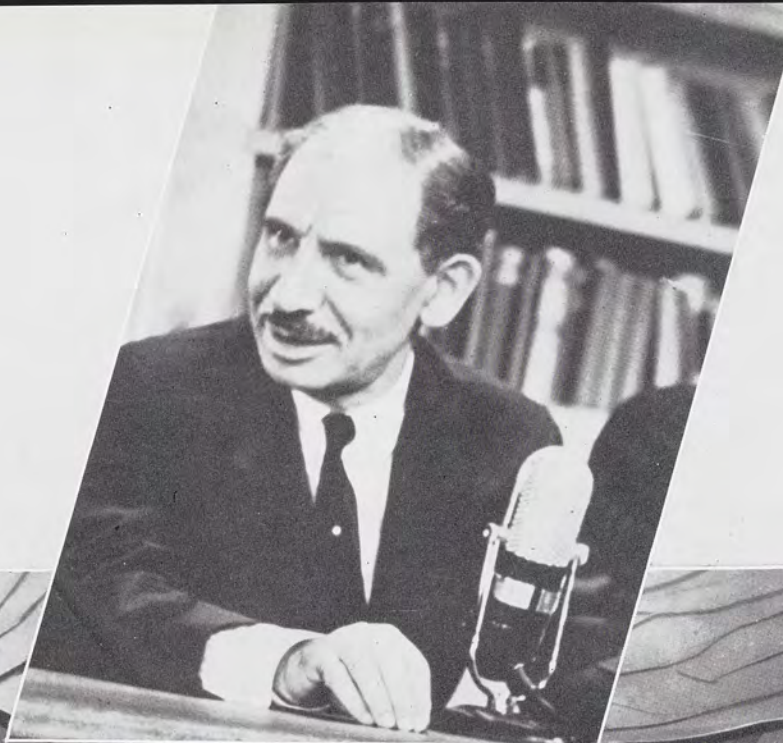

The Saturday World Adventure movies sponsored by the Lecture board brought outstanding commentators Ben East, "Alaska Adventure"; Aloha Baker, "Australia"; Earl Schenck, "Polynesian Island"; and Wendal Chapman, "Wild Animals at Night," plus three Hollywood movies. These were successful additions to the entertainment life of State students.

An after-lecture reception is a frequent occurrence. Here it's the reception line for Miss Margret Webster. L. to R.: Miss Conrad, Mr. Crowe, Dean and Mrs. Emmons, Mr. Callaway, and Miss Webster.

Mr. Adams, of Information Please fame, was the lecture series feature of January 12. One of the outstanding presentations of the year was S. Hurok's Ballet Theatre. The ballets Blue Beard, Swan Lake, and Pillar of Fire proved most popular. The company of 125 presented a two-day performance.

Board of Publications—Head Proofreaders and Managers

Bored of publications? Not this bunch. These people are vitally interested in the future of Publications Row, and meet monthly to settle any problems that may come before the board.

Suggestions concerning business and editorial policy may be given to any of the three publications, although the organization is not a body of censors, as is evidenced by the printed pages of the Spartan, State News, and Wolverine.

The Board of Publications is composed of the editor, business manager, and faculty advisor of the three publications, and the presidents of Student Council and A.W.S. as well as the college treasurer and the alumni secretary.

The annual publications banquet, usually held in May, was moved up to the end of winter term to insure the attendance of the men, many of whom would have been called to active duty by spring term. The new editors, however, were not announced until spring term as usual.

WOLVERINE

Pix — Copy — Deadlines — Headaches — That's the Wolverine in an ordinary year. But this year we're ready to put on our hats, turn the key in the office lock and take a nose-dive off Farm Lane Bridge! No flashbulbs — no film — no photographers — no ninety-pound stock — (We thought perhaps we'd run the book on newsprint!) — no rubber cement — no willing workers — no typists — everybody is either working in the defense plants or has gone to the army. We worried — we prayed — we twisted our friend's arm — (the one friend we had) — we put the screws down on all the poor unsuspecting freshmen in the office — we had copy writers typing — typists writing copy. Because we were determined to put out a book if it killed us. We did and it did!

STATE NEWS

The State News was the hardest hit of the three publications when the underclassmen left at the end of winter term. The paper lost not only its managing editor, Sheldon Moyer with the ERC; but the three Bills — Johnston, Maddox, and Barclay; sports editor Tom Riordan; and the greater portion of reporters.

The staff is to be commended for starting and maintaining a daily paper during this past changing year when even staying in the path of normality has been a hard job. At the publications banquet winter term, Len Barnes, editorial director of the State News, stated that he would continue putting out a daily as long as he could find a competent staff made up of women and any 4-F'ers that he could talk into writing for him.

SPARTAN MAGAZINE

Sparty marched off to war with a special "G.I. Issue" for the E.R.C. boys called at the end of winter term, and though he came back for pre-flight training with the Air Force he was unable to bring back Editor Sid Levy, Utility-man Gordon Darrah, art editor Dave Lucas, cartoonists G. VanDerBogart and Con Williams, and Aviation Cadet Park Moewe.

However, former editor Earl (Osrice) Brigham — who was both a graduate student and 4-f — filled in on the last three issues with Air Force Reservist Jack McGriff and a business staff of co-eds marshalled by A/S (June 1943) Homer Opland.

Also sorely missed were Circulation Manager Chuck Fratcher and staff, promoted to corporals with the senior R.O.T.C., and Etaoin Shrdlu, the gremlin-esque personality who marched off to the army with Editor Levy.

Well-liked Dottie Segal is the first woman to head a campus publication, and under her competent direction, the M.S.C. Veterinarian has become a vital part of the lives of practitioners, veterinary students and animal lovers. Within the past year its scope has warranted worthy of ranking with well-established national veterinary journals by the American Veterinary Medical Association. Michigan State has recognized the importance of the magazine by allowing representation on the College Board of Publications.

Circulation has been increased to 1,100 and an active campaign is now in progress which shows all indications of raising the number considerably within a short time. 275 copies of the M.S.C. Veterinarian are distributed every month free of charge to army camps. This is made possible by Dean Ward Giltner.

Matrix—Women Headline this Journalism Honorary

Matrix, the journalism honorary for women was started at Michigan State College five years ago. A high scholastic average plus a major in journalism is required of each member — besides working on one of the publications.

The activities of the honorary in the past have been many, but will be even more for the duration. With the absence of men students from the campus, Matrix will help carry on with the three publications.

Each year Matrix edits and publishes the A.W.S. handbook for college women students. Each fall with the cooperation of Sigma Delta Chi, a publications "open house" is held. In the spring, a high school press conference and banquet for the editors, staff, and teachers of various high schools is sponsored. Other meetings during the year are in dinner meeting style with outstanding guest speakers.

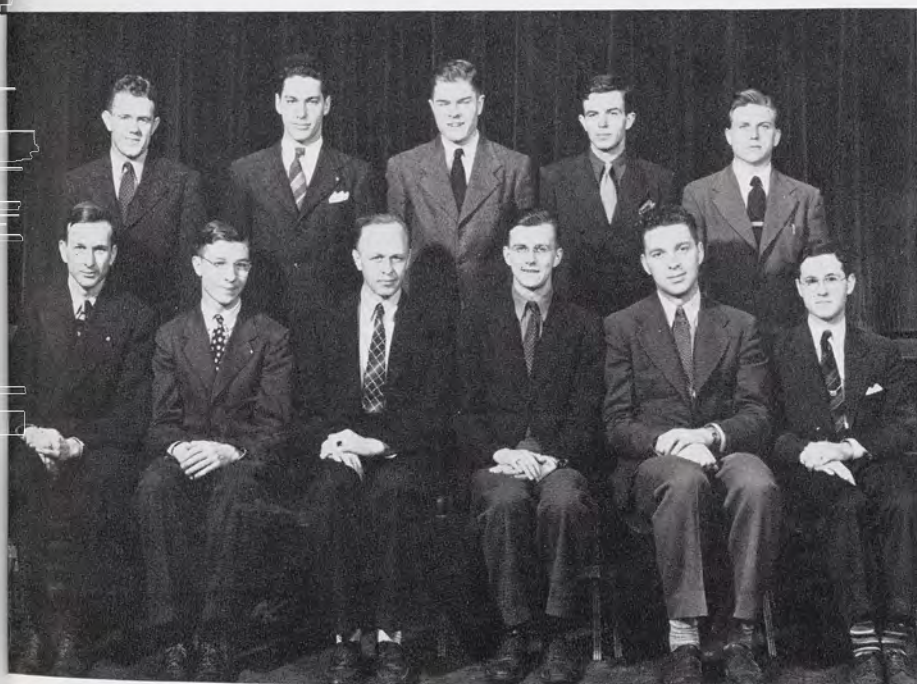

With so much to do in the future, Matrix will be doing her part in the war effort. In the meantime Matrix is on its way to becoming a member of the national journalism honorary.

Sigma Delta Chi Clicks in the Writers' Field

Although the biggest activity of the local chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity, was taken from it when the registrar's office published the Student Directory this year, the group has maintained an active schedule of events. With strong mutual interest and bi-weekly luncheon meetings, the chapter has had quorum-plus attendance at all its gatherings.

At each meeting the group procured a guest speaker, with some outstanding personalities included in the list. They were host to Franklin P. Adams at a dinner meeting preceding his scheduled lecture in the College auditorium, and also to two men from outside the field of journalism. They were Lt. Col. Joseph Jiskra of the Quartermaster Corps and Clarence C. Krohn, who was imprisoned by the Japanese after the fall of Hong Kong. He was repatriated in the exchange of prisoners last summer, and is now taking graduate work in agriculture at M.S.C.

At the present time, Sigma Delta Chi's plans for the coming year are as definite as the outline of an amoeba, but the spirit is there and if there remains an SDX on campus, the chapter will operate.

The Hustle and Bustle of Backstage on Opening Night.

Merry Lou Pinkham, Fred
Tyler, Mark Buchoz, Margo
Morrison, Thelma Jones.

Dramatics and Music

Two important phases of "the arts" are Dramatics and Music. On campus these two activities offer an opportunity for participation to a large number of Spartans.

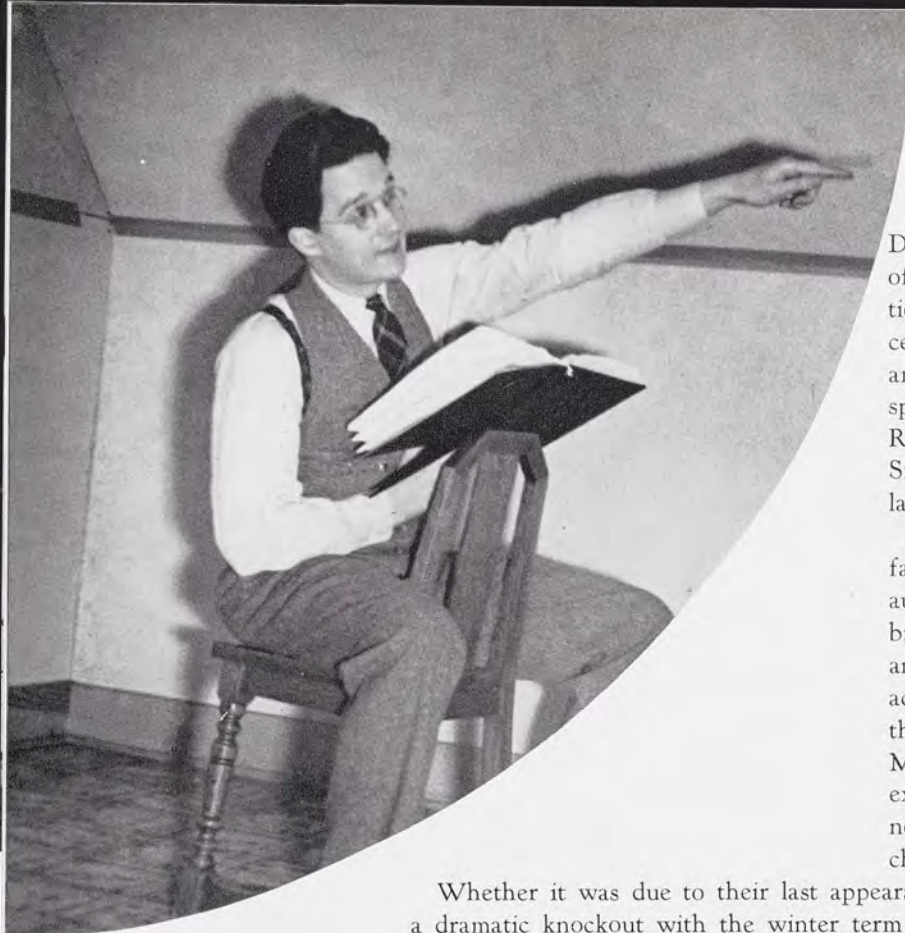

Over in the auditorium there's one of the most complete dramatic departments that will be found on any campus. Students of the theater have everything at their disposal from complete make-up rooms to the expansive two-theater stage. Of course, when Don Buell, or more commonly, "Brother B," assumed the reins of the dramatics row after the resignation of W. Fawcett (Doc) Thompson, little did he know that only three college plays, with the usually ample number of campus actors, remained for his direction. But regardless of quantity, the quality of these three all-college dramatic productions, according to general consensus, was far above average. Admittedly the future of college student dramatics didn't look bright — with the army calling up the several hundred reservists, but the department has indicated that there will be more plays as long as there are enough 4-F men and the usual number of coeds to take the parts.

Music came in for its share of attention during the past year. Besides the regular routine of fine concerts, there were several outstanding features. These included the "Pop concerts" given several times during the year in the auditorium. The popular concerts were well received by everyone who attended; and a feature of each one was the vocal participation by the audience. The music department was also a leading element in organizing the exceptional Christmas program which drew a "full house," and hearty acclaim. What the effects of the present conflict will be is indeterminant. There is a strong possibility that there will be deep inroads in many of the musical groups; but the outlook is still promising for the most part.

Many a student, non-music major as well as any other, has paused at this entrance to the attractive music building to read the inscriptions above the doors. There is plenty of food for thought in those few famous words.

DIRECTOR
DONALD BUELL

Dr. W. F. Thompson's last major production on the stage of Fairchild theater was last spring term. Under his direction, Moliere's "Imaginary Invalid" proved a powerful success. Playing his first major role, Fred Tyler displayed amazing talent in moods as Argan. De Nalda Lee did a splendid piece of acting as Toinette. Nancy Blue, Beverly Rinker, Alex Dillingham, Bruce MacArthur and Gerald Smith were others who won applause of the capacity crowd last June.

Noel Coward's sophisticated satire, "Hay Fever," the fall term play, proved to be a laugh-getter which student audiences agreed surpassed everything in their remembrance along the comedy lines. Remember the screwball antics of "Diplomat" Tad Ashby, and how he limped across stage on his British cane, dripping class and "I say there's" at every turn? And then, too, there was "mothaw" Mary Elaine Childs, the natural choice for her role as an ex-actress. In "Hay Fever," (incidentally, the title has nothing to do with the play, a typical Coward pun) Tyler characterized the author-father.

Whether it was due to their last appearance, or to superb direction, Brother Buell's boys scored a dramatic knockout with the winter term drama, "Thunder Rock." With a setting that featured a lighthouse on the shores of Lake Michigan, this play turned out to be a grand finale for a trio of Delta Sig's who had been the backbone of most campus all-college plays. When better college plays are produced, Mark Buchoz, Alex Dillingham, and Fred Tyler will be in them. With Dillingham as the deluded lighthousekeeper who regenerated a fictitious world within his imagination, Buchoz as the fighting little cockney, and Tyler as Cap'n Joshua, the captain of the old ship, "Thunder Rock," a tremendous impression was left on the audiences that witnessed the two-night performances.

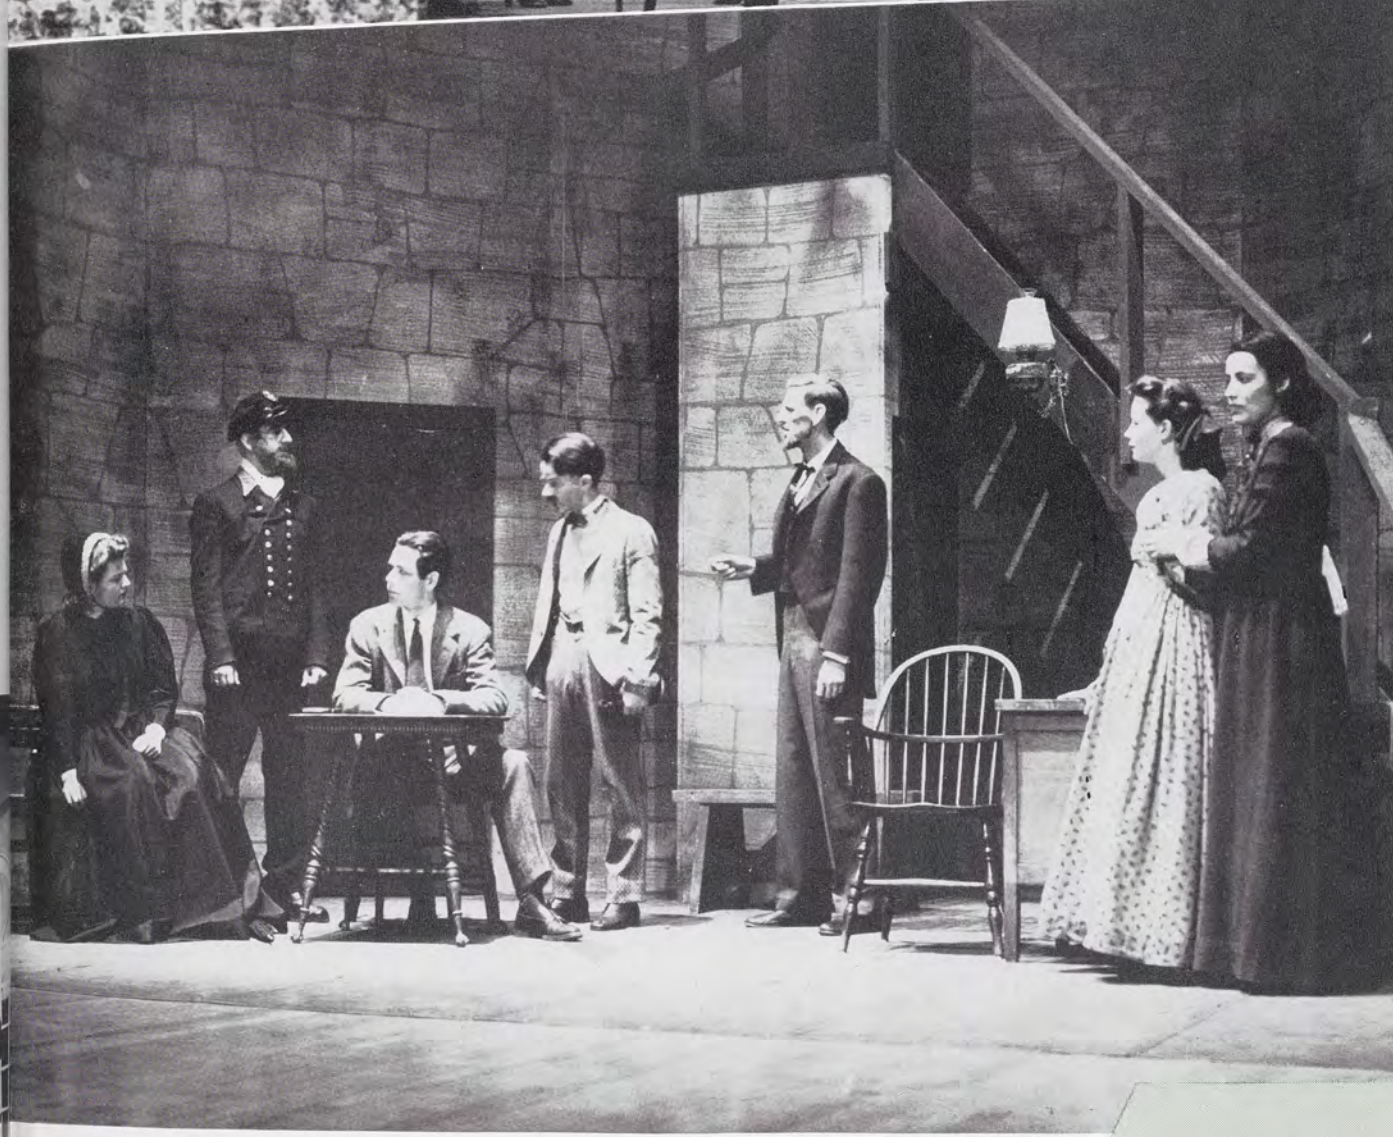

The third act, last scene, of Imaginary Invalid found these people on the stage. They are: Jack McGriff, Beverly Rinker, Art Cramer, Charles Johnson, Irv Kleinman, Carol Kolb, Bruce MacArthur, Fred Tyler, Alex Dillingham, DeNalda Lee, Nancy Blue, and Bob Morse.

Pi Kappa Delta is the largest national speech honorary and has been established on our campus at Michigan State since 1921. This group's purpose is to promote excellence in forensic activity. Qualifications for membership state that a student must have participated in ten decision debates before being accepted as a member.

This year's National Forensic Convention found State's Nancy Grayson taking top honors in the women's contests. The organization is noted for sending judges to high schools for their intramural and inter-scholastic competition. The group sponsored an intramural debate tournament and inter-fraternity debate tournament here during fall term.

Represent Student Achievement in Debate and Dramatics

Students of dramatics who have attained points equivalent to two or more major campus productions and have maintained a one-point average are eligible for Theta Alpha Phi, national honorary dramatic fraternity. The organization concerns itself with promoting the interest in drama on campus and trying to improve the quality of this drama.

Each year the group has sponsored three all-college plays; and although conditions pointed to an all-girl cast for the spring term play, "Hay Fever" and "Thunder Rock" were presented as usual.

Veteran State actors and male members of Theta Alpha Phi performed for the last time in "Thunder Rock," a truly professional production.

Membership points for the dramatics fraternity are portioned out for work in the term plays, one acts, and crew participation.

Since its installation on campus in 1924, the Delta chapter of Theta Alpha Phi has founded Studio Theater and built it into a rapidly growing and enthusiastic group of amateur dramatists.

Way back in 1938, Orchesis, national dance honorary, was organized at M. S. C. for women students showing unusual interest in the dance. The club's program consists of two groups — Senior and Junior Orchesis. For membership the groups practice twice weekly, passing tests, learning techniques, and finally, trying out for initiation which is conducted in the spring of the year. The girls are expected to compose an original dance and participate in the yearly recital given by the organization in conjunction with some other campus acting group.

There are fourteen active members who endeavor to promote interest in all types of dance and who often present their work for clubs, charities and concerts both on and off campus.

Speaker's Bureau Always Has the Last Word

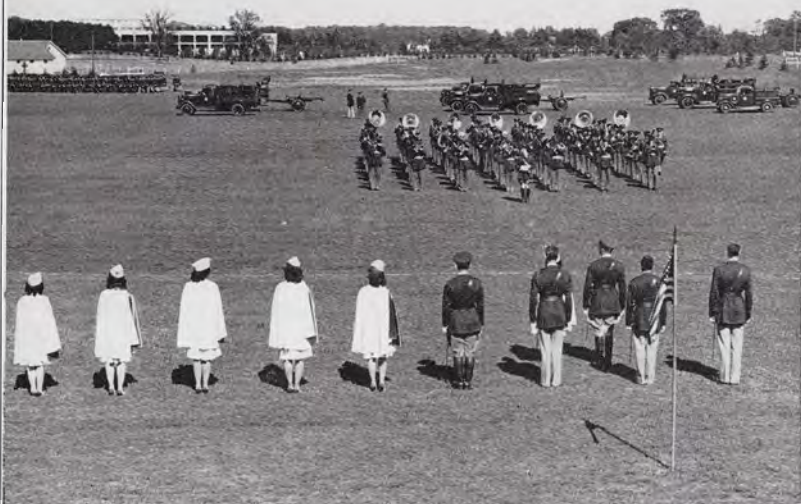

Farming and philosophy, microbes and make-ups, drama and defense. Just name your subject and the Speaker's Bureau will send you someone who can talk about it.

Formed in 1937 to provide programs, both educational and entertaining, for organizations throughout the state, and incidentally to give students practical speaking experience, the group has steadily grown. In the past year, speakers appeared before 400 audiences, ranging in size from five to 4,000 and totalling 60,000 persons in all.

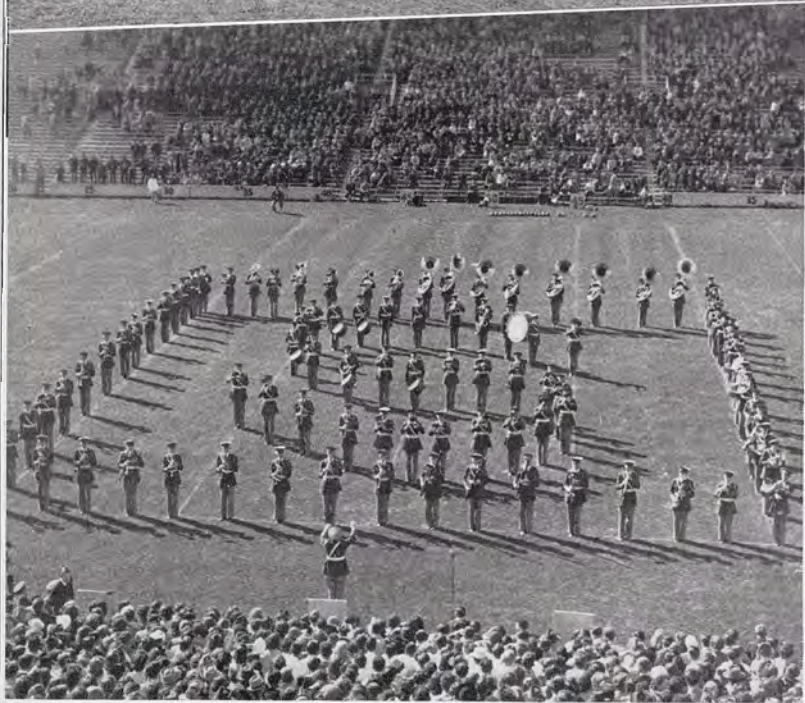

Transportation has proved to be a problem for the Bureau this year, and, like most of the other campus groups, it has lost a number of its former members to the army. However, although its activities may not be so geographically widespread as previously, and girls will have to take the places of men speakers, the Speaker's Bureau will be carrying on its work faithfully next year.

Although the main attraction of Tuesday's afternoon parades spring term is the military unit, it would be incomplete without martial rhythm. The R.O.T.C. military band furnishes that vital part of the ceremony. It is the first on the field, and the last one off.

When State's band takes over the football field at the half there is a real show in store for the spectators. Last fall under the skillful direction of Edward Cooley, the 100-piece band executed maneuver after maneuver to thrill the stands. Hours of planning and drill were evidenced by the splendid performance which was turned in every time. This year's chief baton twirler was William Sherman.

Band—High Stepping Men Plus Stirring Music

The Michigan State College Military Band plays at all important functions throughout the year. Their precise and intricate formations thrill thousands of spectators each year during the football season. Besides playing at all the basketball and football games, the band plays at numerous concerts both on and off campus. The climax of the year comes during the spring term when the band presents its annual concerts at the band shell. This year the band has inaugurated a series of fifteen-minute radio concerts to be broadcast over WKAR.

The band, a branch of the R.O.T.C., is composed approximately of 100 members, and membership is determined by tryouts.

Many tedious hours are spent in drilling to obtain the precision of a military band. M. S. C. is proud of the fact that this organization has been known for years as one of the nation's outstanding marching and concert bands. Their success is largely due to Mr. Leonard Falcone, who is now on a leave of absence to the Armed Forces. Mr. Edward Cooley, a former member of the band, is filling the vacancy as acting Marching Director and Mr. Roy Underwood will direct the band during the concert season.

The Michigan State College Symphony Orchestra, with its increase in size and musical prowess, is one of the really worthwhile organizations on campus. Under the baton of Professor Alexander Schuster, the instrumentalists study some of the greatest works in all musical literature. At every public performance this year State students were thrilled by the delicacy of interpretation and quality of tone, from the piercing piccolo right down to the big bass fiddle.

The highlight of fall term and a rather unusual appearance of the orchestra was in conjunction with the 200-voice choir of East Lansing grade school children. College students sang the solo parts of the sacred cantata for the Christmas pageant.

Later in the year there followed a winter term concert, and a spring concert, at which Egon Petri, famous pianist, appeared as soloist. Throughout the three terms, the orchestra presented short programs for such organizations and events as the Music Educators' Conference and Farmers' Week.

Varsity Band—Women Have a Fling at Martial Music

Originating on our campus in 1942, the Varsity Band has achieved outstanding success. Its purpose is to provide training and experience, as well as pleasure, for those boys who have too little time to play in State's R.O.T.C. Band. Its membership contains also girls, who are interested in music and would like to participate in some musical organization.

Under the leadership of Mr. Arthur Best, the band has built up a large repertoire of both classical and popular numbers. These selections have been played at numerous college functions: basketball games, baseball games, and at occasional concerts.

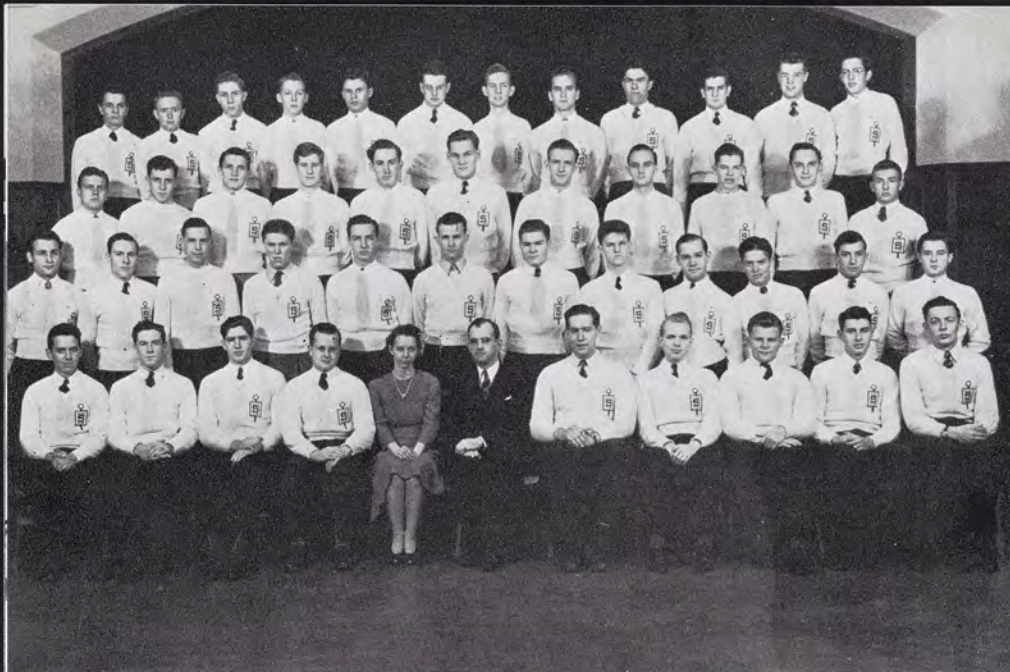

Since the spring of 1942, when the Varsity Band was first organized, its membership has grown to sixty-five musicians, which proves that it is already a popular organization on campus.

Practically every pep rally was attended by the Men's glee club. They are the lads who get the sing into the thing. But this is only one part of their varied activities on campus at which they wore these distinctive white sweaters.

Men's and Women's Glee

Hours of hard rehearsal are behind the finished product of the Women's glee club. Here is how it looks behind the scenes as the girls prepare for another presentation for popular consumption.

What would the women do without the Men's Glee Club? For it is the magnetic voices of these tenors, baritones, and bases, that have thrilled many a coed at dormitory and sorority serenades. This, however, is not the only important function of the club, as it also heads several concerts and smokers during the year.

The activities of the club were somewhat dampened this year by lack of transportation facilities, but the club carried on in true Spartan style and contented themselves with local activities.

The Men's Glee Club is open to any man, in any division, who can carry a tune and is accepted as a good fellow by the older members. The hard work of these men does not go unrewarded, as those with two year's membership are presented with a key and four year men are awarded the "S" blanket.

The club was organized to give the men on the campus a chance to get together and sing under competent leadership, and give the students a chance to hear them.

Men's Glee Clubs Give Opportunity for Talented Vocalists

The Women's Glee Club is one of the organizations on campus into which men are not admitted. (No reference to the war, either). Composed exclusively of women students, with musical interest, ability, and good voice qualities, the group has done some outstanding work in the colorful blending of female voices.

Under the direction of Miss Josephine Kackley, these modern Jenny Linds have appeared at various college and local functions. The Christmas Pageant during fall term, a guest appearance with the band in February, and spring concert were major engagements.

The spring concert, which is always open to collegians and to the general public, included some well-known semi-classical numbers, contrary to the usual custom of presenting an entire program of classics.

On the social side of the calendar were a Hallowe'en party; the annual Christmas Tea; the Carol Sing for friends, faculty, and students; and also the spring banquet. At the latter, awards were presented to deserving members for active participation and service in the club.

Chorus — Mass Musical Production by Boss Kimmel

The Michigan State College Chorus has the distinction of being not only the youngest choral organization on campus, but also the largest.

Organized in 1939, it consists of students in every division who want to sing, who can carry a tune, and who can read music fairly well. Every Wednesday evening from seven to nine, the walls of the Horticulture Building resound even more with the addition of voices of East Lansingites who are invited to augment the student ranks.

Due to the nature of such an organization and also to the temper of the times, the chorus has specialized in the spontaneous, wholesome type of singing that exists mainly for the pleasure of those creating it. The members have done much sight-reading, and even some extemporaneous "barber-shop" arrangements, under the cynical and amused eye of their director, Dr. William Kimmel.

The most important formal appearance of the chorus was in the Christmas Pageant.

A Capella Choir Stands for the Best in Group Work

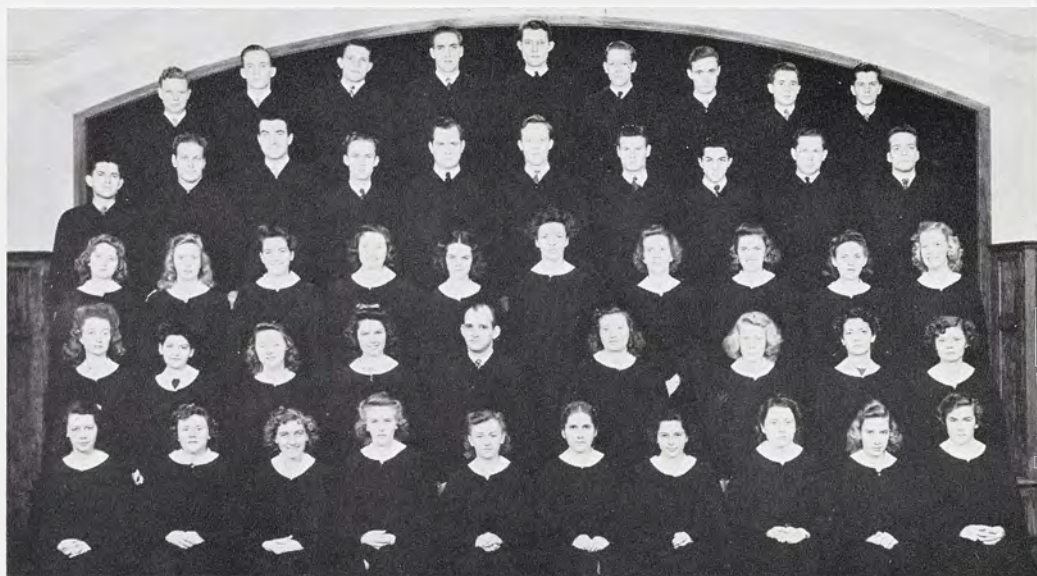

The A Capella Choir, with their black robes, and lighted candles, marched down the length of the auditorium — their superior singing constituting a very impressive prologue to the Christmas Concert. This picture is typical of the work of the organization — inspirational, untiring, and steadily advancing into the realm of better singing.

Composed of good singers who have satisfied full requirements by audition, the choir strives to attain more finesse, precision, and ensemble in the performance of music for unaccompanied voices. The members particularly study works of the fifteenth, sixteenth, and seventeenth centuries, which require a greater degree of tonal sustenance, control, and technique than the more modern selections in their repertoire.

Director William Kimmel was welcomed back to the podium this year, and gallantly tried to keep the male section of the choir intact long enough to appear in a concert, and drilled the singers for three hours every week for their concert winter term.

The choir has appeared at various local meetings here, and throughout lower Michigan.

With its primary purpose well in mind — advancing better music in America, — Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national men's honorary music fraternity, this spring presented its members in a concert of music by American composers.

Further aims of the society are to foster mutual welfare and brotherhood, and fraternal spirit among members. The men are chosen on the basis of their scholarship, character, and musical achievements. They must also live up to the motto of the club, "A manly musician and a musicianly man," and be at least second year students in the music department. Seven new members were initiated early this year.

Since many of its student members are serving in the armed forces, faculty men of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia became the active members this year and will keep the Michigan State college chapter alive for the duration.

I am the Music Building. Within my walls are the classes, organizations, and activities of the Music department. One of the newest and best equipped buildings on campus, I am the pride and joy of my family, the music students. Every Thursday afternoon finds my family gathered in the Music auditorium to hear three or four perform with their voices or upon their instruments. Once in a while at these recitals, Professor Roy "Poppa" Underwood delivers a short sermonette on the vices and virtues of the family. He is directing the Military Band in the absence of Mr. Falcone, and has initiated a series of "Pop" Concerts given during the Winter term.

But the band isn't the only activity of the department. There are also the Varsity Band, directed by Arthur Best; the Symphony Orchestra, with Professor Alexander Schuster conducting; the A Capella Choir, the Chorus, and the Men's Glee Club, all under the direction of Professor William Kimmel; and the Women's Glee Club under Miss Kackley. All of these organizations require at least two hours of rehearsal a week. Of course no musician can ever hope to improve without constant practice, so my good friend the Practice Building, next door, offers her rooms for this purpose.

In the heart of the music building is this auditorium, complete with carpeted inclined floor and comfortably cushioned seats. Howard Walbridge accompanies the violinist as she presents her audience a melodious selection.

On December 13th the music department in collaboration with the departments of art, speech, and the Orchesis group presented one of the most elaborate Christmas festivals ever held. It was an outstanding combination of pantomime, tableau and music.

HONORARIES

Noticeably, and happily, absent from most of the M.S.C. honoraries this year were the "joiners" — the Joe Colleges who fight to get into everything on campus except the classrooms. Gone were the B.M.O.C.'s, misshapen after four years of ostentatiously supporting an ever-increasing number of keys from a quiet gilt watch-chain. Gone were the "career-women" who could boast of participating in all the extra-curricular activities except dating. In part, a greater seriousness of purpose — general in educational circles since the war — was responsible, but even more responsible was the realization of the honoraries themselves that suspension for the duration was a distinct possibility and something stronger than two-dimensional traditions was needed to insure continuation "after it's over."

What proved to be the last ceremony of its kind took place June 5, 1942. This was the crowning of Blue Key Sweetheart Genevieve Pierson by Past President R. S. Shaw. Mr. Shaw is the first honorary member of the organization on this campus.

From the entire senior class, only thirteen men are chosen to become members of Excalibur, and these thirteen must be outstanding in at least one special extra-curricular field and active in more. Scholarship and character are also carefully considered when the active members survey the coming crop of ambitious juniors each year.

Weekly bull sessions are held over the luncheon table when plans for the year's projects are formulated. Last year Excalibur helped organize and present the marriage lecture course, and they intended to continue this service this year. What lies ahead for the organization is, of course, a mystery which only time will reveal.

On campus one can always recognize an Excalibur man by his slate grey jacket with the maroon X on the pocket. He is the B. M. O. C. socially, scholastically, and politically.

May morning beneath Beaumont as the seven o'clock chimes ring out through the crisp spring air, Mortar Board actives tap their new pledges. One more honor comes to nine junior women who have made a name for themselves in campus activities, but who also found time to maintain a high scholastic average and be of service to their fellow students.

Mortar Board is a national organization first established at Michigan State College in 1933. Its purposes are to stimulate college unity, promote the spirit of fairness and fellowship among women, encourage and maintain leadership, and recognize and further high standards of scholarship among the student body.

In keeping with its aims, Mortar Board has cooperated in the first Women's Day, sponsored Lantern Night, helped organize the May Morning Sing, and conducted marriage courses during spring term.

Mortar Boards are distinguished on campus by their slate grey jackets with the black and gold mortar board on the pocket.

Blue Key, national honorary fraternity, was founded at the University of Florida. The Michigan State chapter became affiliated with the national organization in 1927. The purpose of Blue Key is to carry on various services to benefit the student body, the administration, and the campus. Projects which brought fame to Blue Key this year were the all-college dance held during Freshman Week, the purchase of a seeing eye dog for Paul Olson, and the memorial plaque for Michigan State's war dead. This plaque is displayed in the Union. Each year Blue Key members select the girl who in their opinion, is their ideal. In the Spring of 1942 the annual Sweetheart Ball was held at which Miss Genevieve Pierson was reigning sweetheart.

Only juniors and seniors who are outstanding in both extracurricular activities and scholarship may become members. They are selected on the basis of character, scholarship, leadership, initiative, and service.

ship Attained by Scholarship and Varied Activities

Twice a year high ranking scholars from all divisions are elected to the scholastic honorary, Phi Kappa Phi. Usually only 8 per cent of Michigan State College's graduating class makes the grade. This year twenty-nine students were initiated.

There are forty-nine institutional chapters in the United States. The chapter at Michigan State was founded in 1897. It recognizes scholastic attainment in all branches of endeavor, including specialized technical courses and academic courses. It is purely an all-college honor society.

Every year Phi Kappa Phi awards a fifty dollar scholarship to the sophomore with the highest point average. This year the award was won by Warren Brandt, Applied Science, from Lansing. Also plaques are given to A, B, C, and D Michigan high schools from which the four freshmen with the highest point average were graduated.

Founded in 1939 by Jim Husted, Green Helmet, sophomore men's honorary, gives recognition to sophomore men who excel in scholarship, leadership, and personality. They are selected each fall term and must have a 2. all-college average.

Dick Groening, John Lifsey, and Jack Kingscott were the first officers of the organization. Many of Green Helmet's former members already hold high positions in the armed forces.

Green Helmet's major undertaking this year was the sponsoring of the Variety Show in cooperation with the Spartan's Women's League. Their work on the Vocational Guidance Conference was outstanding. They also cooperated in making the Job Application Clinic a success. The club aided with Freshman Week and Registration activities besides sponsoring the first party of the year.

Green Helmet is a local honorary and has no national affiliation. It was organized primarily to recognize the ability of men students in an honorary before they reach a junior or senior status.

Tower Guard honors the sophomore women who, in their freshman year, have been outstanding in scholarship and service and have given indication of potential leadership. The new members are tapped at the May Morning Sing at the foot of Beaumont Tower.

The purpose of the group is to further leadership on campus and to aid and support worthy campus activities. Tower Guard is the only organization allowed to meet in Beaumont Tower. This group of women serve in many ways. They take part in Freshman Week activities by helping to sponsor the Freshman Mixer, by serving in the information booths set up on campus, and by assisting with the Big Sister counselling system. They publish an all-college calendar, read to the blind students, and help sponsor the Cinderella Spin, the girl bid dance. The girls also tutor freshmen.

During winter term guest speakers discussed problems such as politics after the war and racial prejudices. Speeches were followed by informal discussions.

A new service initiated this year was a Request Program at the Ingham County Tuberculosis Sanitarium. Patients request records which members try to find and play over the loud speaker system at the institution.

Tau Beta Pi—Engineering Fraternity is Second O

Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary, celebrated its fiftieth anniversary during the '42-'43 school year. Besides this, little of importance has taken place because of the uncertainty of the last few months. For the same reason nothing definite is planned for the future.

This honorary is the second oldest in the United States and the Michigan State chapter is the second member. Students

Undergraduate engineers who have shown administrative ability or unusual initiative alone are eligible to be pledged to Phi Lambda Tau, local engineering service honorary. Each year this group sponsors the selection of the most outstanding senior by the entire senior class of engineers and the man thus chosen by his classmates has his name engraved on the Phi Lambda Tau plaque that hangs in Olds Hall.

This year the honorary has inaugurated an engineering news service. They forward the news of outstanding accomplishments and items of interest to the home town newspapers of any engineer concerned. This service is well liked by the folks at home who are thus informed of the activities of their State friends.

Besides the qualifications already mentioned for this organization, the student must be high in his class scholastically and must have been active in a number of extra-curricular activities.

Physically fit are the men of Sigma Pi Sigma, who must have earned at least a B average in physics for admission to this scholastic science honorary. This organization is affiliated with the American Physical Society. The chapter at Michigan State was accepted for membership in 1935, for the purpose of furthering interest in physics.

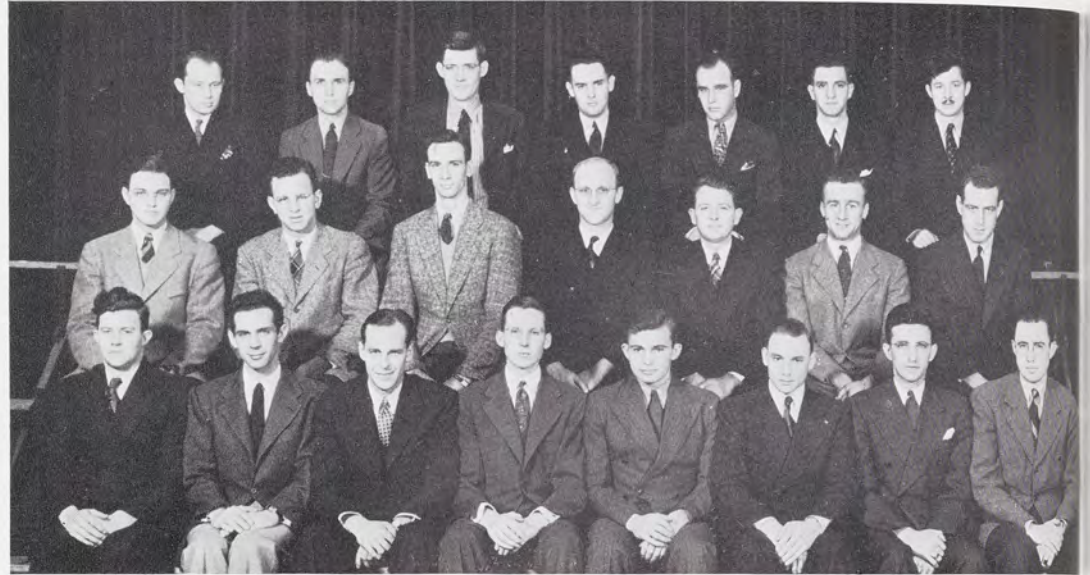

Meetings of Sigma Pi Sigma include the presentation of research papers and problems by members, discussions, and on certain occasions, outside speakers are invited to offer specialized information.

Sigma Pi Sigma works in conjunction with the American Physical Society concerning a placement bureau for students. Because of their value in the war effort, physics majors are greatly in demand, and the placement bureau ascertains where the student would be of most use.

A scholarship fund is also maintained. Through the medium of the society, lecturers are available, although this activity may be curtailed by the lack of transportation facilities.

The Iota Chapter of the National Veterinarian Fraternity, Alpha Psi, was founded as an honorary society at Michigan State in the year 1914. It consisted of nine charter members whose principal efforts were to promote scholarship and fellowship among students of Veterinary Medicine. Alpha Psi fraternity now has thirty-six student members and twenty-seven faculty members.

Twice during each year candidates are chosen to join the chapter who have attained a high scholastic average and who have an attitude of friendliness and helpfulness to their fellow students. A banquet is held in honor of the new members, at which time each must present a short talk on some designated phase of Veterinary Medicine.

The chapter attempts to aid students of Veterinary Medicine to the best of its ability. The main project of the year is the practice course established for seniors under the direct supervision of faculty members.

At the last National Convention of Alpha Psi, the Michigan State Chapter was chosen to conduct the next National Convention in 1944.

ce and Agricultural Fraternities Respectively

The fraternity Alpha Zeta was founded at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, on November 4, 1897. Since then it has spread to the campuses of forty-five different states.

Michigan chapter was the fifth of the chapters organized, established here on December 13, 1902. It is known as the "Kedzie Chapter," being named after State's noted chemist, the late Dr. Frank Kedzie.

At Michigan State, Alpha Zeta functions as a scholarship honorary for those in the agricultural division. It encourages and gives recognition for high scholarship, participation in campus activities, and outstanding qualities of leadership.

During winter term, the annual achievement banquet is held, honoring initiates of the past year. At this affair the various scholarship awards are made, and also the presentation of the scholarship cup to the freshman having the highest scholastic standing in agriculture.

With the distinction in the field of forestry of being that profession's oldest honorary fraternity, Xi Sigma Pi, through Michigan State Beta chapter, carries forward interest and accomplishments in forestry work. Constant activity goes on with members who are chosen for high scholarship and promise of achievement in the field.

The national organization, founded at University of Washington in 1909, strives to secure and maintain high scholastic standards in forest education, through working for the upbuilding of that profession and fraternal relations among earnest workers engaged in forest activities.

The East Lansing chapter, which was established in 1916, carries out these aims through careful selection of its members and regular meetings. Speakers from the college faculty and from outside sources of forestry work present news of developments and trends in the vocation. During the year 1941-42, the national office of Xi Sigma Pi was located on the campus of Michigan State.

The promotion of better understanding between the arts and sciences is the purpose of Tau Sigma, honorary society organized in 1923. Composed entirely of liberal arts and applied science students, the fraternity encourages high scholastic achievement. Each year one student in liberal arts and one in applied science who maintained the highest scholastic average during his freshman year is awarded a plaque bearing the symbols of the organization, the lamp of learning and the open book of knowledge.

Junior rating, three terms' credits taken at M.S.C. and a 2.2 scholastic average are the only eligibility requirements for Tau Sigma. Every attempt is being made to continue the functions of the organizations during the coming year, in spite of the war. Dean R. C. Huston of the applied science division, is faculty advisor for Tau Sigma.

Freshman week opens the activities of Omicron Nu, national Home Economics honorary, by members aiding as freshman advisors. Fall term, a luncheon for members is held in honor of Ella Richards, founder of Home Economics, and a tea for the entire department further commemorates the day.

The honorary holds an annual tea spring term for all Home Economics students having a B average or better, and presents the Snyder scholarship cup to the sophomore woman who does outstanding work in home economics during the year.

Other activities of the club include the sale of aprons to Home Economics and Veterinary women, and the maintenance of a Bulletin board featuring the club's activities, honor rolls, and a Who's Who in Economics.

Members of the Alpha Chapter of Omicron Nu are chosen on the basis of scholarship and leadership. At the present time, there are eighteen active members. Furthering of student faculty relations is the purpose of the club.

Sigma Epsilon, a local fraternity, was founded by a group of students majoring in business administration and economics. Starting in the fall of 1930, by January 1931, it too had added its name to the honorary organizations on our Campus.

The purpose of Sigma Epsilon is to stimulate and maintain friendly interest between students having a major interest in economics and business. This organization also gives its members the chance to discuss significant economic problems, policies, practices, and developments.

From time to time speakers from the business world and public life were invited to the meetings to speak on the economic problems confronting us during war time.

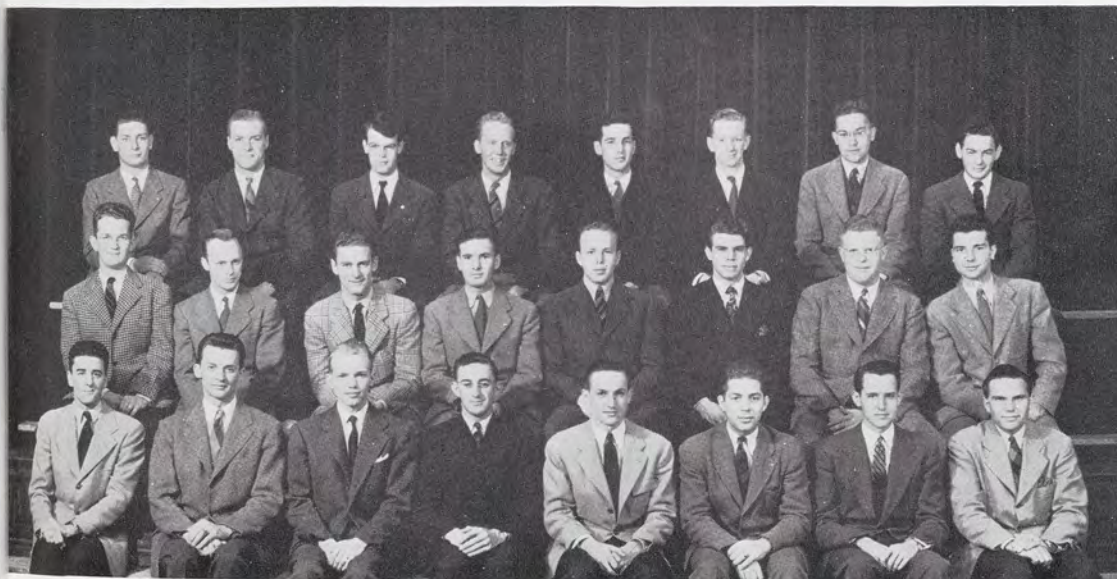

Membership is open to juniors and seniors having an all-college scholastic average of 1.5 and an average in economics courses of 1.75. Optional membership consists of instructors in the departments of business administration and economics, and graduate students.

Approaching its tenth anniversary this year, Beta Alpha Sigma, local art, landscape architecture, and floriculture honorary has consolidated its organization to form a nucleus group providing direction and leadership in activities among students of the allied arts. Its program was adapted to the present emergency by moving the date of its annual Art Mart up to winter term so that men being called to the service could participate. Also many of its members have served on the Civilian Defense Poster Committee.

Membership in Beta Alpha Sigma is confined to art, landscape architecture, and floriculture majors with selection being based on scholarship, leadership, and accomplishments in the arts. Tapping takes place in fall and spring terms.

Regular meetings are held every other week with sufficient time being devoted to social activities to keep twenty-six artists happy.

La Cofradia, local Spanish honorary, chooses its members from those second, third, and fourth year students who have maintained an average grade of B or better in Spanish. Also they must be interested enough in Spanish to carry on activities outside of the regular course of study.

This organization has many purposes and projects which they attempt to accomplish each year. This year, soon after its initiation banquet, the club, whose purpose it is to spread the study of the Spanish language and to promote better relations with the Pan-American countries, planned classes in conversational Spanish to aid all whose interest is in studying the language in this way.

With the indefiniteness of the present situation, their activities have been cut to some extent, but the women of La Cofradia intend to carry on.

D. Z. V. — Dollar Zeventy Vive? — Darn Zvell Vella's? — The real meaning for these initials is a secret, but the latter does fit. The D. Z. V. boys have kept their club secret for the past four years, since Chet Aubuchon, Ed Pogor, and Lyle Rockenbach started the organization.

These boys just wanted to get together and talk over athletics and Saturday games. So they began to meet every Sunday afternoon in the basement of the smoke shop and this meeting place has become a club tradition.

They decided that D. Z. V. was going to be made up of "regular guys" who are interested in sports, so they made this the only prerequisite for membership.

The D. Z. V.'s really have something to be proud of, for they have lost only one game in basketball, baseball, and football in their four years of intramural athletic competition. In addition to this record, they hold the all-college football championship, and are runners-up in the all-college basketball competition. The D. Z. V.'s also won first place in the division of the 1942 Water Carnival with their float the "Fighting Marine."

Nobody Knows the Full Name of the D.Z.V.'s

You can usually attribute any campaign for beneficial service to the students, to the college, or to campus to Alpha Phi Omega, the National Boy Scout fraternity. "Save Our Sod" and "Where there's smoke, there's fire" were slogans in two recent campaigns.

A.P.O. is the organization which started the Inter-Fraternity sing, now one of the chief competitive events in which the fraternities all participate. Alpha Phi Omega is affiliated with the national Boy Scout service fraternity. Its prerequisite is Boy Scout membership in good standing.

The fraternity has set aside $300 to buy a plaque for names of men in the Services to supplement the one now in the Union lobby. Another $300 has been spent for war bonds. A loan fund to be portioned out by Dean Fred T. Mitchell has been set up for former Boy Scouts. Recipients, however need not be members of A.P.O.

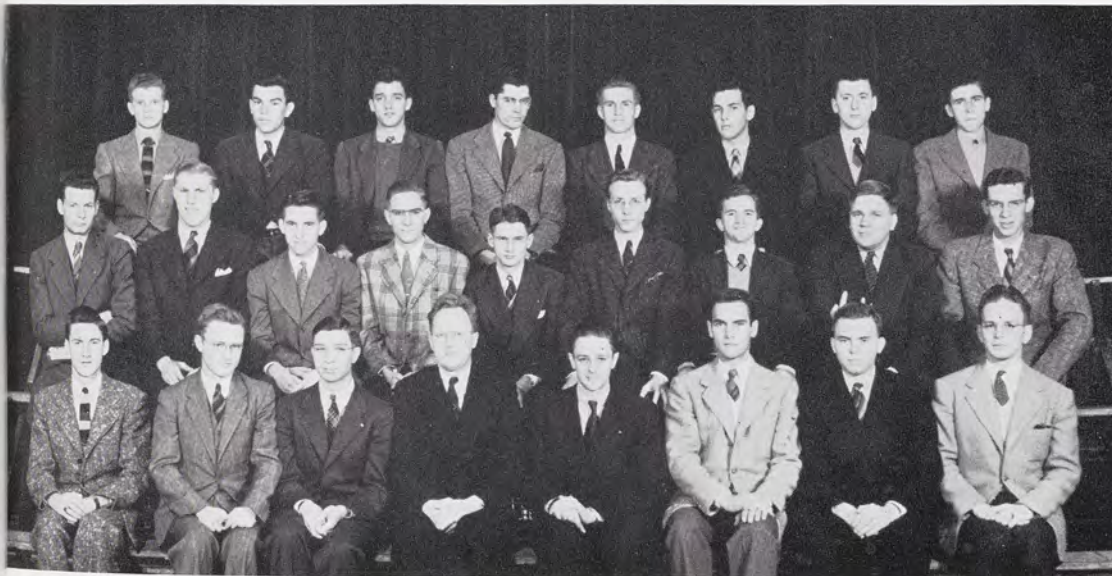

Opportunity for fellowship with the faculty is presented by camping trips. Other affairs on the social side of the organization are the date parties and dinners.

ORGANIZATIONS

Less restricted as to membership than the honoraries, the interest groups continued to provide, as in the past, opportunities for the other nine-tenths of the campus to indulge in extra-curricular activities. Although the requirements are equally selective — and frequently more selective — with those of the honoraries, it is rather the community of ideas, ideals, and aims that give these organizations their stimulus and form. More practically grounded, and, individually fulfilling a greater need, they seem to fall less into the class of college frills than into that of essentials — for they stimulate in their own ways the desires for completer particular education than the classroom can furnish. And common interests can survive where traditions die out.

Interests among the students of M.S.C. are unlimited. B. McKnight, S. Tallen, and C. Bostedor get together in Morrill Hall to practice up on the over-sized slide-rule. They'll find it's a "friend in need."

For the purpose of promoting intra-divisional acquaintance between students of chemical and metallurgical engineering, the American Institute of Chemical Engineers was founded. The organization has a membership of approximately one hundred and twenty-five students from classes in both fields on the campus. The remarkable achievement of holding together a group so large in size while at the same time carrying on a full schedule, is truly commendable.

It is the group's practice to hold monthly meetings to which distinguished speakers are invited. In this way members acquire valuable information concerning modern practices in particular phases of industry. This policy of presenting capable speakers at each meeting will be remembered as well as the club's social activities which include dances, picnics and bull sessions. The highlight of the year is the Winter term banquet which the organization holds, featuring an informative speaker.

A medium for promoting ever closer student-faculty relations and friendships in the engineering division is the Michigan State College chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers. The group acts to promote the advancement and dissemination of knowledge and information pertaining to the theory and practice of its members' field. Through meetings at regularly scheduled intervals, the organization carries out its aims and functions.

While many other campus groups have suffered to a greater or lesser extent at the hands of the armed forces, A.S.C.E. continued to operate, although their plans for the coming year are little more concrete than those of any other organization. This year the chapter's activities included an Engineers' Banquet and also a Michigan section banquet in the spring. Under the faithful leadership of their faculty advisor, C. L. Allen, head of the department of civil engineering, the group has maintained its avowed course.

The A. I. E. E., established on campus in 1918 under the leadership of Prof. M. M. Cory, is directly affiliated with the national organization for professional electrical engineers.

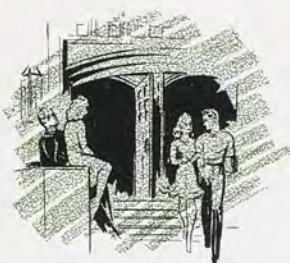

The purpose of the branch at M.S.C. is to promote a closer contact between its members and the students of electrical engineering, and also to promote better fellowship between the students of this division in their various classes.

During the past year exchange meetings have been held with the University of Michigan branch of the A. I. E. E. The fact that there is a close relationship between the two branches is exceedingly beneficial to each organization. Joint meetings are planned in spite of the many obstacles of transportation confronting them. A banquet is given by the M.S.C. branch to which the A. I. E. E. students at the U. of M. are invited. Besides the joint banquet the two branches planned to attend a few Michigan Section meetings of the A. I. E. E. together.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers is the organization on campus for those students majoring in mechanical engineering who wish to become better acquainted in this profession.

The object of the club is to permit students to attend meetings of other student branches, its own society meetings, and Section and Professional Division Meetings. In this way, the students are able to establish fraternal contact with fellow students in engineering, and to meet men of the business world who are actively engaged in the practice of mechanical engineering.

The society also helps in developing the students initiative and ability to speak in public, and to familiarize them with parliamentary procedure and the organization of learned societies. Finally, the society keeps the students in touch with engineering progress and helps them to become better acquainted with the practical side of mechanical engineering.

Sigma Chi Gamma was organized at Michigan State College last year. In the winter term of 1942 it also added its name to the list of honorary organizations on campus. This newly organized group is composed entirely of women chemistry majors.

The purpose of this organization is to promote interest in chemistry among women students, to band together women chemistry majors for mutual advancement in academic and professional life, and to foster a closer spirit of friendship and cooperation among these women.

Membership is open to all women majoring in chemistry having completed fifteen credits in this science. One month of pledgeship is required of each person before active participation is allowed. Each initiate is required to prepare a short review on some current phase of chemistry which she presents at one of its regular meetings.

During its short existence on campus, Sigma Chi Gamma has achieved much success. Many interesting speakers, who present informal discussions on various phases of chemistry and its future for women are brought before the group.

of Associated Medical Biology Students and Sigma Chi Gamma

The purpose of the Associated Medical Biology Society at Michigan State College is to promote professional and social interests among medical biological students.

The group has representatives on the Veterinary Council which is composed of all organizations in the division. Thus the members participate in activities including planning and presenting the Medicine Ball, winter term dance sponsored by the Council. The Vet Queen crowned at the dance had two runners-up from A.M.B.S. They were Mary Ellen Stuck and Frances McCleery.

Cleo Ellen Craun, '43, was awarded the Sayer Prize of $25.00. This prize is annually given to the student having the highest grades in bacteriology.

The field of laboratory technology is fast becoming one of vital importance both on the home and on the fighting fronts. It is into this work that most med bio majors enter.

Pi Mu Epsilon—They Sure Know All the Answers

The Alpha Chapter of the national mathematics honorary, Pi Mu Epsilon, is at Michigan State College. It is organized for the purpose of promoting mathematical scholarship among the students in institutions of university grade.

The chapter at M. S. C., which is the only one in Michigan, takes an active part in all mathematical societies in the state. At the spring 1942 convention of the mathematical societies of the state at Ann Arbor, several PME members presented papers. In the spring of 1943, Michigan State College was host to the Convention of Pi Mu Epsilon.

Students and faculty make up the membership of the organization. Topics of mathematical interest are presented by the members and guests at the meetings which are held twice a month. During the winter term, Pi Mu Epsilon has a banquet at which new members are initiated.

4H at Michigan State is Social—Professional

Former 4-H Club members and others on campus who are interested in rural community organizations can hold "old-home week" by attending the meetings of the M.S.C. branch of the International 4-H Club. Both educational and social activities are promoted. Material and speakers for some programs come from the State 4-H Club office. This year the meetings, held twice a month, consisted of lectures, moving pictures, and discussions of current topics related to rural life. The discussions are a highlight of the club.

Other activities of the group are radio programs over WKAR once each term, and services such as securing accommodations rendered other farmers' organizations meeting here on campus.

Short course students, as well as four-year matriculants, are accepted for membership. A fifth H has been added by the organization as another aim for development. It is the Home, the other four being Head, Heart, Hand, and Health. The Branch keeps close contact with the State 4-H office here in Agricultural Hall, and its activities.

Student Grange—The Oldest and Largest Rural Club

Student Grange is a part of a national rural organization claiming members throughout the country. The Grange has long been a vital instrument for farmers — politically, socially, and economically. It has always fostered better government, as well as improvements in home and community life. It encourages fraternal relations among its members.

Through the medium of Student Grange, students may develop individually their social relations, cooperation, responsibility, and leadership. They have the satisfaction of knowing that they are a part of nation-wide organization.

Among the activities of the Student Grange is a mixer held at the beginning of each fall term. During Farmers' Week, members of the grange operate a concession. Last term they broadcasted over WKAR. Each fall and spring term, a dance is sponsored.

Regular meetings consist of a business meeting, followed by an outside speaker, and by a social hour. Membership in Student Grange is open to anyone interested in the problems and activities of rural youth.

Pi Alpha Knows All There is About Sociology

Pi Alpha is a local organization for sociology majors and others who may be interested in probing into the baffling problems of society. It holds four meetings each term — one strictly social, one a panel discussion, one a talk by an outside speaker, and the fourth an analysis of a moving picture.

Organized for the purpose of furthering student interest in sociology, the club provides a medium for the expression of student opinion and sponsors activities to promote student-faculty relations.

Following are two examples of Pi Alpha's activities. During winter term, Dr. Hans Leonhardt, former attorney in the Free City of Danzig and a newcomer to Michigan State, spoke before the club. He considered social relations with regard to the German conquest of Danzig, and its influence upon the populace in coming years. At another meeting the moving picture "The Big House" was analyzed for sequences pertaining to sociological trends.

The Junior Farm Bureau has been all-out for the war effort through their efforts to buy war bonds and harvest sugar beets.

The organization provides an opportunity for students to remain active in Junior Farm Bureau work during the four years of college. Its aim is to exercise responsibility in program-planning and policy-making bodies of agriculture. It is affiliated with the state and national groups.

The Bureau was host to a statewide convention of Junior Farm Bureau members last fall. A wheat drive was undertaken, the proceeds of which were used to purchase a $10,000 war bond in the name of the state organization. State parties were given fall and spring terms.

Opportunities in Many Fields of Agricultural Pursuits

Block and Bridle is open to all agricultural students carrying a majority of animal husbandry credits. A professional intent must be shown by all prospective members before joining.

The most important duty of the club is to send an animal husbandry student judging team to many other campuses for inter-college judging. The club, founded in 1930, is a branch of the national Block and Bridle.

Another important activity of the organization is the promotion of excellence in scholarship of all animal husbandry students. The club, which meets at irregular intervals, aids the members to cooperate better and thus to trade their views on phases of animal husbandry.

Dairy Club—All Interested in the Vitamin Drink

The Dairy club, one of the many interest groups sponsored by the Agricultural division, lists three main functional purposes; first to stimulate interest in the dairy industry; second, to raise funds to help finance dairy cattle and products judging teams; and last, to provide dairy students with a mutual interest and a common meeting place. Speakers and entertainment are provided throughout the year at the organization meetings.

Their second purpose is accomplished by Farmers' Week activities, and sale of cattle during the year, making possible four annual judging trips to different parts of the country. These trips, however, have been temporarily discontinued because of lack of transportation facilities.

Membership in the club is open to all interested students, and not limited only to Dairy majors.

Michigan State Dairy Teams are Known Everywhere

This year's Dairy Cattle Judging Team members were selected by Coach Russell E. Horwood as the most outstanding students of a judging class and capable of competing in contests.

In September the team made a trip to the Dairy Cattle Congress in Waterloo, Iowa, where they competed with twelve other judging teams representing schools from the Midwest.

Other activities of the members of the team include assisting with the Short Course judging contest and organizing and presenting the "Little International" during a shortened Farmers' Week.

The team is honored at the "Bean Feed" given by the Agricultural department during fall term and receives merit awards at the annual Ag Achievement Banquet.

The chief purpose of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers is to promote the interest of the students in Agricultural Engineering so that they may become better acquainted in their field of work, and to encourage a higher scholastic standing among these students.

Last year, with the money received from operating a lunch stand during Farmers' Week, they sent four of their members to the national convention at Milwaukee, Wisconsin. As their contribution to the labor shortage last fall, they constructed three mechanical sugar beet loaders and sold them to local farmers.

Membership in this professional fraternity is open to any interested student who is taking his major work in Agricultural Engineering courses. Each year the club presents to the highest ranking student in this division the Agricultural Engineer's Award.

At meetings which are held twice a month throughout the school year, speakers discuss with the members those topics that are connected with the practical application of theories which they learn while in college.

By furnishing an opportunity for students and faculty of the forestry department to get together socially and to promote friendly relations between them, the Forestry Club accomplishes its purpose through bi-monthly meetings held in the Forestry Cabin. Speakers and movies with themes of interest to foresters feature these meetings, and at this time plans are made for the club's varied activities. The group sponsors the annual Foresters' Shindig, a banquet with the Michigan Foresters Association, and radio parties during fall and winter terms.

The membership of about 100 men stimulates other gatherings such as the banquet for the U. of M. and M. S. C. foresters. Here tall tales are spun in competition for the possession of a coveted trophy, "Blue Babe." State's disciples of Paul Bunyan proved their ability last year and are now in possession of the Babe.

Another feature of the club's work is the adoption of fur caps, frontier-style, with tails dangling from the back, marking the wearer as a forester. A distinguishing mark such as this is right in line with the club's policy of cementing friendships within the profession of forestry.

Agronomy Club Promotes Better Soils and Products

Tacitly endorsing legalized browning, or as it so states in its constitution, to provide crops and soils majors the opportunity of becoming better acquainted with their faculty, Agronomy Club follows this policy with regular biweekly meetings in Ag Hall, with the added feature of outside speakers as often as possible. Such good intentions as crop and soil experts to speak, and judging trips to Chicago and Kansas City are out for the duration as the government has requested curtailment of such travel. In spite of this, though, club members can see plenty of action, with activity on their own hook in contests held at the end of the short course term. At the end of last year the club held a student-faculty picnic, carried on this year with exhibition booths during Farmers' Week and 4-H Week, and plans for a local judging contest.

Activities such as these help to fulfill another of the club's policies, to insure the members general knowledge of their major field.

Spartan Hotel Association—Future Hotel Owners

The Spartan Hotel Association is an organization for hotel administration students. Its membership is open to any student majoring in hotel ad. Promoting fellowship among the students in this field is one of its main objectives. The group also supports the expansion and improvement of the hotel administration courses at Michigan State College.

Meetings are held every other week and men engaged in professional work frequently lecture to the members.

This organization has also done its share in the war effort. Recently an alumnae association of hotel ad graduates was started. In connection with this, the club has sent letters to all the alumnae of this division.

Each year, seniors attend the Midwest Hotel Show in Chicago. Each person assists in doing regular hotel work and also helps in putting on a show.

The Spartan Hotel Association is a local organization consisting of both men and women in the division.

Designed primarily to aid students of Christian Science, this organization meets weekly in the chapel of People's Church to discuss religious aspects and problems. Since its installation on campus eight years ago, it has served to unite Christian Science students and to correct many erroneous impressions concerning this religion held by many people. All of its meetings are open affairs, often set up as discussion groups.

The Christian Science organization is affiliated with Interfaith Council and also with the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

Each year the organization sponsors an authorized Christian Science lecture at the college, in order to stimulate campus interest.

t Club Give Students the Right to Worship as They Please

Believing that the church can supply a vital cog in the wheel of life, the Lutheran Student Club directs its activities toward this end. Stressing social as well as religious functions, the club meets every Sunday night in the Union for devotions and fellowship.

At 10 o'clock each Sunday morning in the State Theater, a Bible Class is conducted by Rev. William Young, advisor for the organization. Church service is held at 10:30.

Unlike most groups of its kind, Lutheran students of all synods may participate and are eligible for any of the elective offices of the organization. Any Lutheran student at State is welcome to attend the meetings.

Opportunities for the development of personality, leadership, and responsibility as well as the facilities to attend the church of one's own faith while away at school are recognized and offered by this group. Affiliated with the Lutheran Student Association of America, the M.S.C. Chapter was organized in 1929.

Canterbury Club, affiliated with the national organization bearing the same name, is the campus organization for Episcopal students.

Beginning as a study group, it has expanded into the large organization it is today. Regular meetings were first held in the Union under the leadership of Chaplain C. U. Brickman until Canterbury house was provided for Michigan State College students. This religious organization differs from all other organizations of its kind, in that it provides a pleasant home for its members and a meeting place for friends. Also, the student center has become a college home for fellowship, worship, and study.

The national organization of Hillel Extension is dedicated to religious, cultural and social programs for Jewish students, but fortunately, the rest of the students have benefitted by their activities too.

Their accomplishments have been many, and include the distinction of having collected the most books in the Victory Book Campaign. Along this same line, these staunch patriots have brought in defense movies, and also have had exhibits of maps in the Union Lounge in connection with college defense programs. The Extension entertained all of the Hillel chapters in Michigan at a conference last March, and they sponsored Chicago singers at the Music Auditorium last fall term. These are only a few of the things the group has undertaken and accomplished.

The organization publishes its own paper, the "Hillel Post," and is affiliated with B'nai-B'rith and Hillel Foundations.

Hillel Extension and Newman Club Link State's Students

The Newman Club is the organization on campus for Catholic students. All students of this religion automatically become members when they enter college.

Since its beginning in 1934, the club has increased its membership annually, and is now one of the most outstanding religious organizations on campus. The groups at Michigan State College are affiliated with the International Newman Club Federation.

The purpose of the organization is to promote religious, educational, and social welfare; thus creating a spirit of friendliness among students of the same religious beliefs.

The Newman Club has played a prominent role in the creation of the New St. Thomas Aquinas Church in East Lansing.

The club is under the leadership of Father Winters, club Chaplain, who conducts an open forum each week. At this time any member may express and discuss any religious topic of interest to him. Social meetings and one business meeting are also held every month.

Spartan Christian Fellowship—Social Religious Club

Three years ago a group of students banded together and founded the Spartan Christian Fellowship of Michigan State College. Since that time, the organization has affiliated with the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship which was first established at Cambridge University in 1877.

The purpose of the group is to deepen and strengthen the spiritual life of the student. With this purpose in mind, weekly meetings are held. Christian leaders from nearby communities speak and direct discussion groups. Bible studies and prayer meetings are also held. Any student who is interested is welcome to attend these meetings. The varied program of social events includes conferences, banquets, and parties.

Although many of the members have gone in the service, the group is intent in its purpose. In the future, the feminine members are expected to carry on. In precarious times such as these, the association feels that it is more essential than ever to present Christ to the student.

Bethel Manor is the newest men's cooperative house on the campus of Michigan State College. It is the only co-op to have a resident faculty advisor. He is Mr. P. D. DeKoning of the Mechanical Engineering Department. The Board of Directors is made up of three Lansing business men, two faculty members, and two student residents of Bethel Manor.

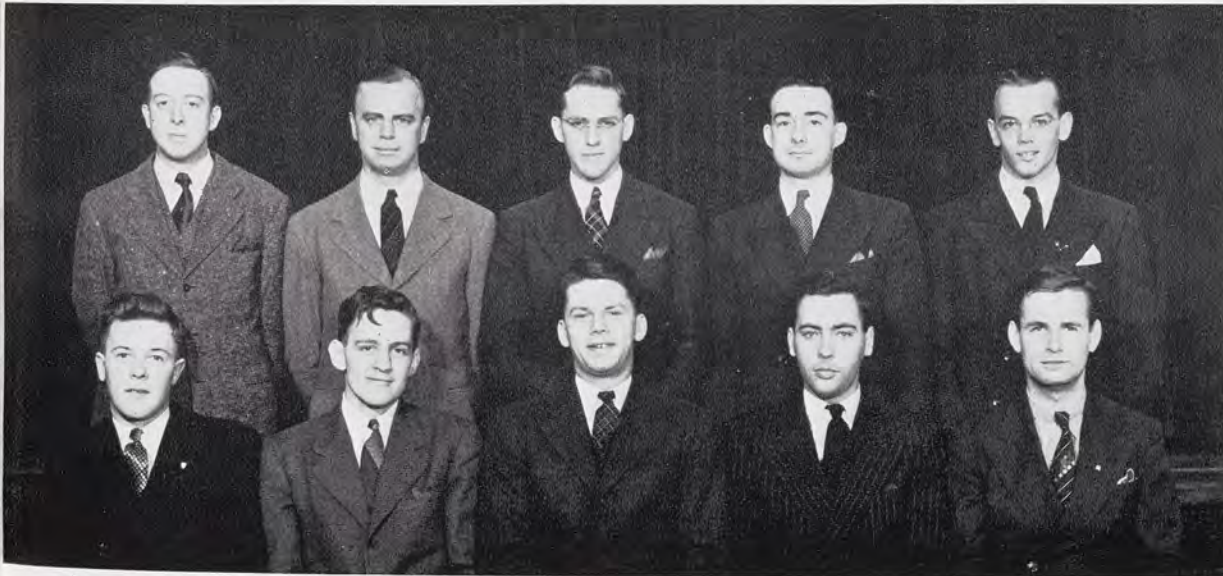

The main objectives held by the group are to provide through their mutual efforts an appropriate and fitting home while they are in school, and also to promote through this cooperative enterprise the development of Christian character and spiritual brotherhood.

The boys hold house Bible studies and prayer meetings. They provide three Bible school teachers for classes at the Boys' Vocational School in Lansing. They also participate in intramural football, exchange dinners, and parties.

Although a few of the boys expect to go in the service, they plan to have an active house spring term. However, they feel that no plans can be made for next fall.

Membership in the Home Economics Club provides an opportunity for social and professional contacts for all girls in the home economics division. All students in the division are associate members; only those girls who pay their dues are considered active members.

"Cookies for Rookies" was one of the Home Economics Club's activities this year centering around the war program. Other activities with emphasis on national defense included Red Cross, Farmers' Week luncheons, and the Snack Counter which sold milk and fruit. Low cost meals for war time, using meat and sugar substitutes were stressed in the luncheons served. The girls gave weekly radio talks and speeches to high school clubs on a war time home economics program.

The group gave a $50.00 Merrill-Palmer scholarship as well as money to the Foreign Fellowship Fund of the American Home Economics Associations, of which the M. S. C. organization is a member.

A new student-faculty relations committee was started this year to further good feelings and closer contacts. Members of this committee were representatives from the freshman and sophomore classes as well as from the various interest groups.

Women to Serve Both on the Home and the Battle Fronts

The five-year college and nursing course offered by the department of home economics and affiliated with Sparrow Hospital endeavors to provide nurses with a broad education.

The girls enrolled in the courses find it more than a course of study, and because of their close association in work and study, and of mutual interests and ambitions, they function as a social group. All of the graduating seniors, Maxine Gray, Doris Taylor, Mary Helen Keele, and Ruth McCrea, have enlisted in the Student Reserve Nursing Service of the American Red Cross and expect to be called to active duty this fall. Also in keeping with the war effort, the enrollment in the course has been doubled this past year.

The five-year course has had the interest of Dr. Marie Dye, and Dr. Jean Hawks at the college. Miss Faye Harden, a graduate of the five-year course at Ohio State University and Superintendent of Nurses at the Sparrow Hospital, acts as advisor to the group.

Scimitar — Men as Sharp as the Blade They Wield

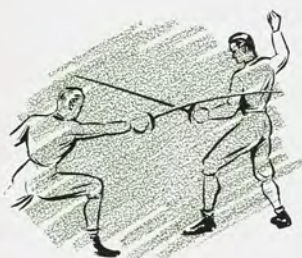

This select fraternity dates back to the Crusades when the outstanding fencers founded the society. Today as in the days of the Crusades, Scimitar represents the cream of fencing enthusiasts. The members are chosen for their skill, interest, and good fellowship.

The local chapter has the honor of being the national headquarters of the fraternity. The twenty members have led other Scimitar chapters by their great interest in the society. For the past several years, the society has kept an up-to-date scrapbook on fencing and fencing activities. The book will be a valuable asset to the fencers who will be future Scimitars after the war. As the war has progressed, fencing, like other sports, has felt the pinch and Scimitar probably will not be able to continue on the campus.

An interesting difference between Scimitar and other fraternities is the method of lettering used by the organization. Scimitar is the only fraternity that uses Arabic letters instead of the traditional Greek.

Scalp and Blade—The Empire State's Contribution

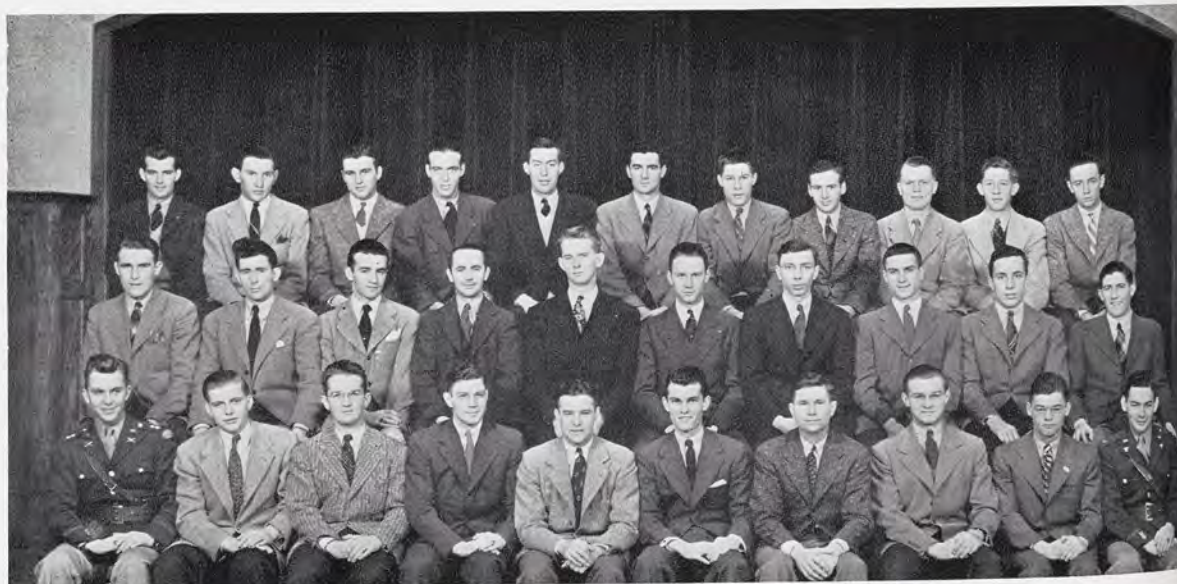

Scalp and Blade was organized on Michigan State's campus by men of Buffalo, New York, for social purposes and to aid in fraternizing among men of that city. Last year the membership was increased by bringing into the organization men from Niagara Falls, Rochester and those of nearby western New York.

The club is not only on MSC's campus, but is also organized in other schools, in the country where groups of Buffalo men are located. Syracuse, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania State, and the University of Michigan are other colleges having Scalp and Blade.

It is feared that the call into the armed services for so many Buffalo men will force the local club to break up until the end of the war. After the war, however, Scalp and Blade will resume its activities among western New Yorkers.

Sigma Gamma Upsilon Rings the Bell in Hotel Ad

The Sigma Gamma Upsilon honorary is composed of men and women in the hotel administration division. Members must be outstanding in scholarship, leadership, and personality. They must also show a great interest in their prospective vocation. At present it is an organization of enthusiastic members. The purpose is to increase interest in the hotel field, to establish contact with men in this work, and to recognize interest and ability in the hotel administration course.

Major activity for winter term was the sponsoring of the first large formal party on campus this year — the Annual Bell Hop. The dance was planned in cabaret style. Orchestra members wearing chef's hats added local color. Profits were used for a pre J-Hop dinner and a donation to its brother organization, the Spartan Hotel Association.

"Hotel Day" was a highlight and the members sponsored a booth at the Midwest Hotel Show in Chicago which was held during the spring term.

This honorary society was formed in 1934 by men now holding important positions in the hotel administration world. Although it remains a local organization, its influence has been wide-spread.

ATHLETICS

Michigan State sports were at war in 1942-43, too . . . the day of the giant football throngs in Macklin field . . . and the tremendous cheering crowds of Jenison fieldhouse and Old College diamond were over for the duration . . . Spartan fans, like all Americans, were saving precious gasoline and tire rubber . . . but State's varsities stayed in action on the intercollegiate front . . . a front that builds strong and durable men for the war that is to be won . . . across the east and midwest the Green and White jerseys still dueled with the same rugged foes . . . the Irish, the Buckeyes, Hilltoppers, Badgers, Wolverines . . . and new headliners joined the old ones, Uncle Sam's powerful service teams . . . sailors, soldiers, and marines . . . yes, sports were still a big part of America's responsibility in winning World War II . . . and the locker rooms of Michigan State didn't forget . . . "on the fields of friendly strife are sown the seeds of Victory."

Michigan State's Macklin Field was the scene of many a Spartan victory. This was the day that State upset Great Lakes at the Homecoming Game.

Many students, from men with letters to men in safety skills classes, have conditioned their bodies inside these doors.

Room for Laurels - Room to Train for Laurels

The Frederick Cowles Jenison combined gymnasium and fieldhouse ranks with the best fitted physical education plants in the nation. Aided by a full staff of coaches and instructors, the men of Spartanland fit themselves for varsity competition, intramural tournaments, or just work up a good sweat now and then for the fun of it. From the earliest classes in the morning until late each evening, students fill the courts, the pool, or the mats in classes and periods of relaxation.

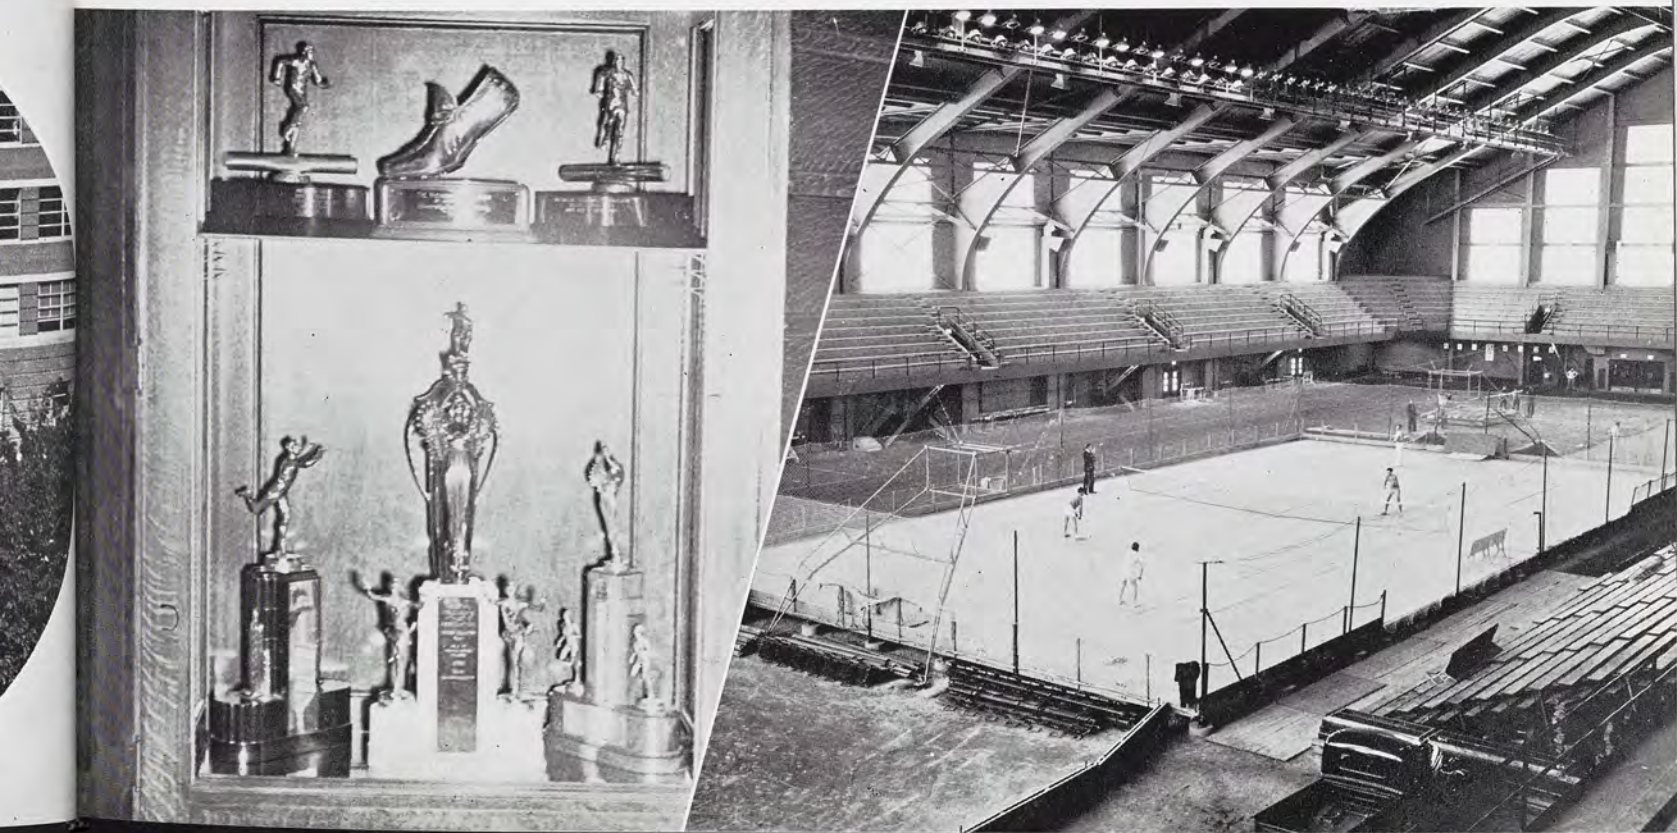

During the past year, many new physical courses have entered the program. The safety skill obstacle course toughens men students for coming military service. Boxing classes learn to hit with both hands and to take it on the chin. Muscle men show the ordinary fellow how to bounce hefty opponents around with ease in hand to hand combat classes. Basketballers pound the hardwood, the eight-lap mile track rolls out behind spiked running shoes. Every facility is in constant use by faculty and students. Whether it be tumbling, handball, swimming, weight lifting, fencing, or swinging around on the horizontal bars, the gymnasium has the equipment and the time for every man connected with the college.

Over one-half acre of basketball courts, an excellent indoor track, a six-lane 25-yard swimming pool with three Olympic diving boards, a fieldhouse floor covering more than a football field, complete office space for the physical education department and members of the athletic administration staff, seating capacity of 9,000 for basketball and 650 for swimming meets. All this is the fieldhouse and gymnasium that will be the center of physical activity for the coming soldiers, the house where mind and muscle function and develop together.

Ralph H. Young, Director of Athletics, and Lyman L. Frimodig, Ass't Head of Athletics.

Spartan owes a lot to these two fellows. They are the men who run the show in the big athletic plant on the far side of the Red Cedar. Coming to Michigan State back in 1923, Ralph H. "Pop" Young coached, organized, and built Spartan teams until 1939, when he retired from active coaching duties to take over the ringside direction of the physical education department and varsity athletics. "Frim" is the business-man in the organization. After making quite an athletic record for himself in three sports here back in the days before World War I, Frimodig came here in 1919 to take his place as assistant director of athletics. Since that time his big cigar and wide-brimmed felt hat has become as much a part of the varsity set-up here as Macklin field. He is the keeper of the records; the man who sees that everything goes off smoothly and on schedule whether it is an intramural tournament or the biggest football game of the year. And if you want to know what your Uncle Tom did on the Spartan track team back in '26 just ask "Frim." He'll know.

When "Pop" Young first came to Spartanland, the athletic set-up needed a lot of developing. In 20 years of service, he has proved himself just the man to do the developing. He started by coaching all sports. After gaining a competent coaching staff, he slowly moved out of the coaching field. But "Young coached" athletes gained their share of fame. Twenty-seven of his track men were rated All-American, four of them made Olympic teams, and two still hold world running marks. His great work here has been outside of coaching however. Look at the fieldhouse and gymnasium, the outdoor track, Macklin field, and the well-kept Old College field by the river. These are marks of the Spartan director's work at Michigan State. Marks that make us unsurpassed in athletic facilities.

These Worrying Wizards Formulate Spartan Victories

Over on the side of the river where Spartan athletes are made, these are the men who tell them how. The boys in Green and White have done all right for themselves this year. Some of the teams have had their ups and downs. But the admirable thing about Sparty's teams is their willingness to take on the best in the land and come out fighting. Spartan fans got their gridiron thrill of the year when Coach Bachman's boys walloped Great Lakes. The aftermath of Bachman's icy trip through the waters of the Red Cedar mark him as a game guy. Easy-going, smiling, Fendley Collins talks good wrestling into his grapplers' ears. Their record proves his ability to mould mat teams. Charles McCaffree met the nation's best splashers this year and impressed all foes that he would be the man to watch in a few more years to organize his teams here. Quiet Karl Schlademan helped with football coaching in the fall and went on to turn out the best track team State has seen in several years. Charles Schmitter developed some good parry and thrust boys in his fencing squad this year even though hampered without veteran material.

Ben Van Alstyne's basketballers took it on the chin plenty this year. Every game was close and neither he nor his teams ever conceded a win or a loss until the final gun. It was his 18th year as a capable and top-ranking cage coach. Al Kawal assisted Bachman in football, then turned his attention to boxing. His team was good, handing some surprising setbacks to potent fight squads among the eastern schools this year. Lauren P. Brown, the diminutive cross country coach placed his hill and dalers fourth in the nation this year, keeping his coaching star high again for another year. "Brownie" has probably turned out more topnotch cross country teams than any other coach in the business.

Charles D. Ball took time off from his chemistry classes to tell the lads around the tennis courts how. He is one of the long-time members of the coaching staff going into his 18th year here. John Kobs, another long-timer on the staff, worked up a leather-cracking baseball team, again playing them all to win. His record, as always, very good. Over in the Military Department Major Peterson has found time from training cavalry officers to mould three fine polo teams. Jovial Ralph Young keeps the whole department functioning smoothly in spite of all obstacles. If any physical breakdowns occur old reliable Jack Heppinstall patches them up.

Varsity Club—The Olive Wreath in Men's Sports

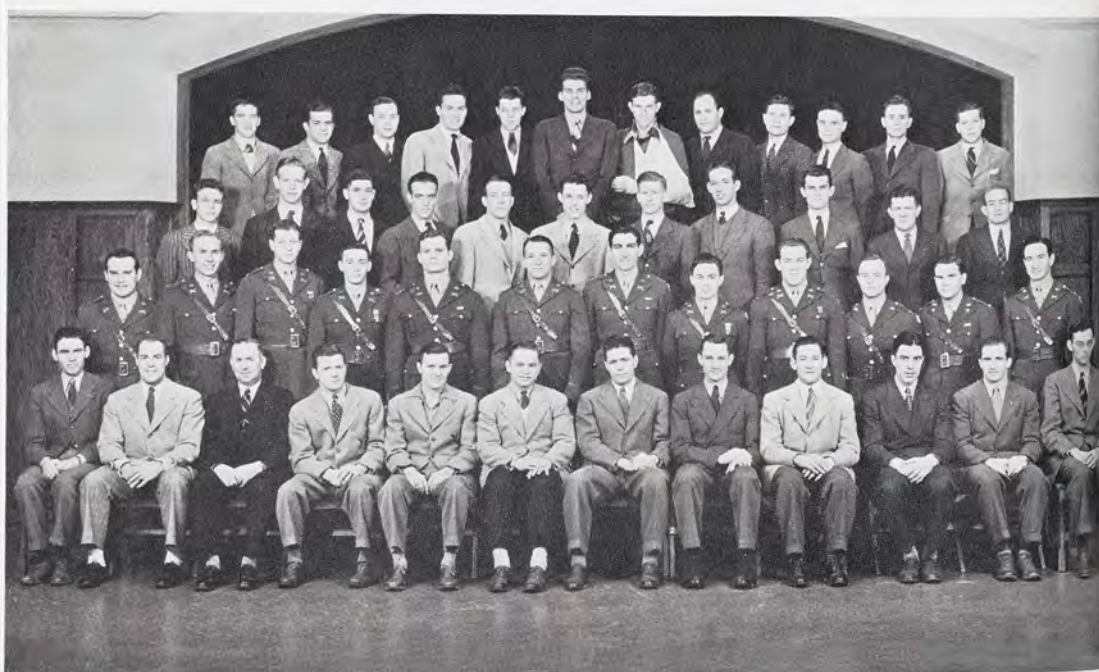

Following their policy which is to "Aid, back, and sponsor some good deed during the year," the Varsity Club donated a radio to the college health center, for the use of athletes hospitalized there.

Major lettermen added to the Varsity Club treasury again this year by selling the traditional green frosh pots for thirty-five cents each. This was done with a slight persuasive suggestion to the freshmen compelled to pass through the only exit from the finger-printing room, the final stage of classification last fall.

The organization held initiation fall term this year. This was a change from the usual time, but became necessary so that athletic men might have a year in the club before leaving for the armed forces.

Spartan Cheerleaders

State's cheerleaders, with their antics and exhortations, have come to be a very important part of Spartan sporting events. They serve both to control the unstemmed enthusiasm of the freshman at his first football game and to arouse the fighting spirit beneath the senior's reserve.

The terrific ten responsible for the shenanigans which brighten even those games which find State's score lagging are chosen after a series of tryouts held early in fall term. Led by Head Cheerleader Ernie Guy, the 1942 group practiced secretly three and four times a week, sometimes retreating to the otherwise unpopulated heating tunnels. There they conjured new tricks designed to devastate the morale of the foe and bolster Spartan spirits.

An example of their earnest preparation was the comedy act during halftime in the Great Lakes football game. It proved to be right in predicting a State victory. The crew of an improvised submarine, christened State-11, sent a torpedo crashing into the mighty SS Great Lakes and subsequently sunk it.

Muscles Need Lots of Attention

The Coach's best friend is condition, as any one of them will tell you.

The coach first starts his training period for a sport with conditioning exercises. They are much the same for each sport, but the favorite of many, especially Coach Lauren Brown and his Cross Country boys, is the medicine-ball. Taken externally in large doses it affects you rather unpleasantly the following morning, but it accomplishes its purpose.

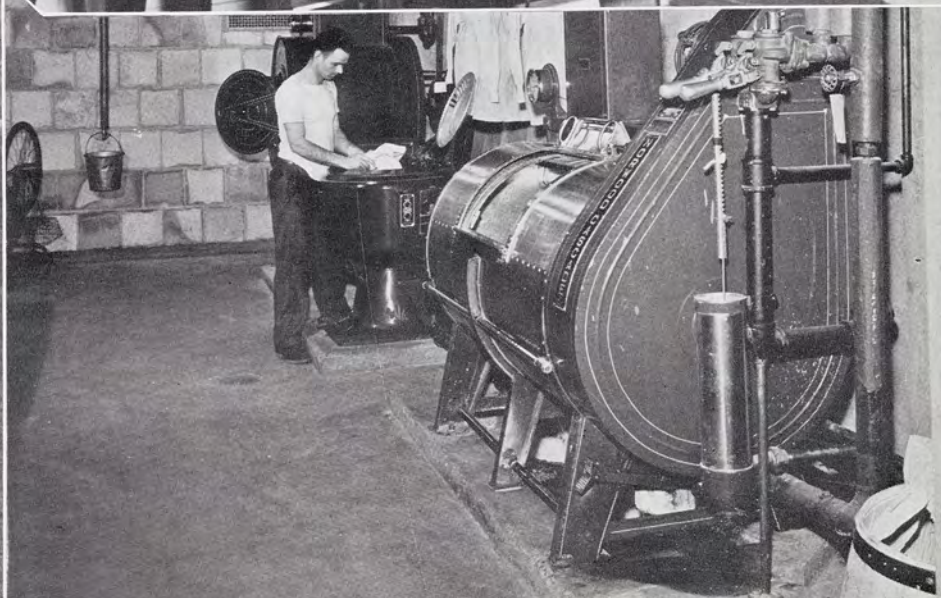

Effleurage, pleurage, and massage — no this isn't French 101. It is just the different treatments that Jack Heppinstall gives to tired, aching, and injured muscles. If an athlete injures a leg, the coach takes him in to Jack and expects him to build a new leg, before the big game. Jack proceeds to do just that. He gets his whirlpool bathes going, switches on the diathermy machine, turns on heat lamps, and pulls out an assortment of liniments. He can handle all sorts of injuries with his knowledge of this equipment, and the boy is put in shape for the big game.

Cleanliness is next to Godliness and Walt Pease does his part by keeping clean equipment supplied to roughly 500 athletes. The athletes really appreciate the work that Walt does for them.

All in all if the athlete doesn't make good, it can't be blamed on our training facilities.

Football Tacticians at Work

Coach Charlie Bachman sizing them up.

The 1942 football season faded away with its memories of thrills and disappointments, and Coach Charlie Bachman chalked up his tenth year at State with another winning team to his credit. An outstanding incident of the season was when Charlie, true to his word that he would ford the Red Cedar if his squad could upset Great Lakes, willingly made the icy trip.

With a stubby piece of chalk in his right hand and a chalk-dust permeated eraser within easy reach, Head Football Coach Charlie Bachman designs, diagnoses for and demonstrates to his chief assistants his "latest," and hopes that his critical audience may not find too many flaws in it. On "Bach's" right, Joe Holsinger looks for any hitches that might occur in the backfield as it moves into action through State's left end and tackle. On Charlie's near left, Al Kawal checks the blocking and checking assignments of each lineman and Karl Schlademan, head of Bachman's Football Intelligence Corps, searches his mental repertory of offensive plays picked up in foreign camps and counsels how this play might better be used against Michigan, Marquette or Temple.

Joe Holsinger, Al Kawal, and Karl Schlademan, assistant coaches, follow Head Coach Bachman's demonstration of a play.

These Scrapping Huskies Carry Out the Strategy

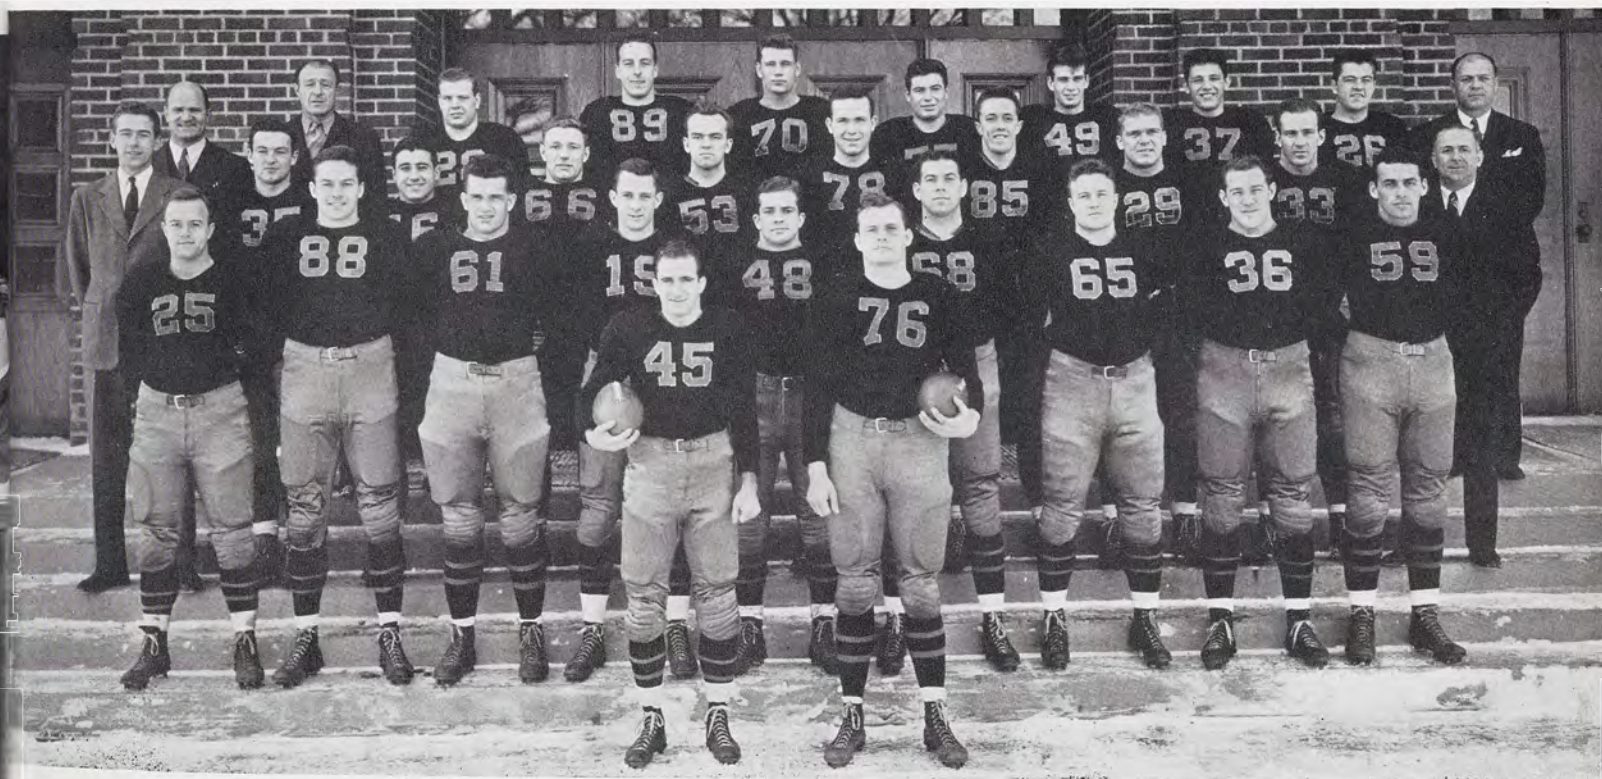

Starting the 1942 season with but two regulars back, few veterans and a flock of promising sophomores, Coach Charley Bachman and his No. 1 aids Joe Holsinger and Al Kawal worked out a combination that turned out to be one of the "fightingest" elevens that ever represented Michigan State on the gridiron. This was by Coach Bachman's own admission after the team had waded into a schedule that called for games with the nation's top teams.

Not the possessor of a long string of victories, the Spartans scored four wins and two ties as against three losses. Saturday after Saturday the State gridmen squared off with clubs that were among the leading teams of the country. In all Bachman set his men against teams as far west as Pullman, Washington and east to Philadelphia.

In their traditional opener with the University of Michigan, the Spartans found themselves paired with a club that proved to be one of the best seasons in Wolverine grid history. Although State absorbed a 20 to 0 spanking at the hands of the veteran, well-oiled "M" machine, the Spartans didn't leave the Michigan bowl without taking some knowledge with them. They had to learn it the hard way, but it was to pay dividends later in the season.

Being blocked and tackled by the powerful Wolverines, led by All-American Merve Pregulman, Julie Franks, and Al Wistert and run around by Backs Paul White, Bob Chappius, and Bob Weise, the State men learned what they were in for in the coming months. If it hadn't been for the superb defensive play by State's only two regulars from 1941 — Dick Kieppe and Walt Pawlowski — the score might have been even more devastating. This was the only bright spot for the Spartans in their first game.

State's Tackling and Scoring Might were Felt from Ter

In the East Lansing opener the State gridders found little trouble with Wayne University's undermanned team as they turned in a 46 to 6 home debut. Bachman got his first chance to see his sophomores under fire, and from the looks of things against the Tartars "Bach" had in his fold some men that really looked like future Spartan greats. Vince Mroz, a husky 6-foot flanker grabbed two touchdown passes that afternoon and Elbert Stark, another first year man did a lot of running and passing as Kieppe's understudy.

The Wayne game also marked the return of Fullback Ed Ripmaster to heavy duty after a year's absence because of a knee injury. "Rip" started a brilliant return to action in that game, although he saw some duty in the first game, after being idle for a year because of a bad knee. "Rip" crossed the goal line for one of the scores.

The real worth of the triple-threat Kieppe was not realized until the Marquette game rolled around and "Little Egypt" was unable to play because of a severe cold. It is doubtful though if the final count would have been any different than 28 to 7 had Kieppe been able to play as the Hill-toppers brought one of their greatest teams to Macklin Field last fall. Sophomore Johnny Strzykalski was the spearhead of the winner's attack, running, passing and kicking the Spartans dizzy. Twice the Milwaukee lad bucked his way across the "S" goal line and then pitched a pass for another score. The Polish halfback received mention on several all-American teams at the end of the season and also was unanimous choice on the State all-opponent eleven.

When the Great Lakes Bluejackets came to East Lansing, the second-guessers were giving the Spartan rooters 30 points and were willing to put up as much as the loyal State fan dared. On paper all the Sailors had to do was to name off the dozen or so former all-American men on their squad, go through the motions and return to Chicago with an overwhelming win. They forgot one thing.

Going somewhere, Great Lakes? Not according to McNeil, Mroz, Neubert.

Victory of the Year, Remember Great Lakes Upset?!

The Spartans believed in themselves, if few others did, and they were determined to win this game if no other. What followed no one who ever saw or heard of that game will ever forget. In the record book it reads: Michigan State 14, Great Lakes 0, but that's not the story behind the scenes.

Every Spartan that appeared on the field that afternoon fought his heart out. Kieppe and Pawlowski, the two old-timers showed the others the way. The Spartans struck soon after the kick-off. Before the spectators could realize what happened Dick had whipped two passes to the "Champ" that were good for 60 yards and a first period touchdown. Then turning on the defense the green and white line and its backer-ups — Ripmaster and Center Howie Beyer — outcharged, outfought, and outplayed their bigger, heavier and more experienced foes.

Finally in the waning moments of the game the Sailors decided to gamble. Halfback Bruce Smith chanced a dangerous flat pass that Quarterback Russ Gilpin intercepted, and ran back untouched for a score, putting the tilt on ice. The fighting Spartans had scored a stunning upset.

Hitting the road for a two-game tour, one game on in the east coast the other on in the west the Spartans didn't fare too well. Pushing a six-pointer over on a line buck by Kieppe and a successful conversion by Halfback Jack Fenton gave them a 7 to 7 tie with Temple. The muggy, near 75-degree weather greatly hampered State's play.

Grabbing a cross-country train for Washington State and the far west the following week State ran into all-American Bob Kennedy and his high-stepping Washington State teammates. Kennedy alone crossed the goal line three times to pace the Cougars to a 25 to 13 win. Bob Otting took a lateral pass from Kieppe after the latter had received a punt, and dashed 70 yards for the first score. Mroz took a Kieppe pass later in the game for the other Spartan six-pointer. Jack Fenton split the crossbars with two perfect extra point place kicks, but the Spartans' 14 points weren't enough to offset W.S.C.'s powerful offense.

Back at home the Spartans seemed to enjoy the return to East Lansing environment. Purdue University was no match for the State crew as the Spartans used their reserves freely all afternoon in punching over 19 points to the Boilermaker's lone score. Kieppe was especially hot that afternoon as he scampered for two of the scores and Flanker Bob McNeil grabbed a Stark toss for the third. This was the first game on the rugged Spartan card that the starting team didn't play almost the entire 60 minutes.

With the Green and White forward wall turning in one of its best games of the year the West Virginia Mountaineers were outclassed 7 to 0 the following Saturday. The score didn't indicate how badly the visitors were outplayed. Mountaineers did manage to hold off the Spartans several times when the latter were within the ten-yard line. Finally, however, Kieppe broke off tackle for the lone tally of the game.

In the season's final with Oregon State, 1942 winner of the Rose Bowl and one of the leading teams of the country, ten MSC senior gridgers bid farewell to the collegiate gridiron. The final score was 7 to 7. The men who competed in their last game for the Spartans gave great performances.

Many of These are Durable Sixty-Minute Ironmen

The lone State score came in the opening minutes, Pawlowski faked a place kick with Gingrass holding the ball. The State fullback grabbed the pass from center from a kneeling position and scooted around left end and 15 yards for the score. Pawlowski then put his kicking toe into action and this time it was no fake when Walter punched the pigskin through the uprights for the extra point.

The Orangemen later tied it up, but the final score detracted nothing from the Spartans' excellent play.

Those seniors who played their last game for State — Backs Kieppe, Pawlowski, Ripmaster, Fenton and Bill Milliken; Linemen Dick Mangrum, McNeil, Bill Monroe, Mike Miketinac, George Radulescu and Barney Neubert — as probably other squad members will be playing on a bigger gridiron next fall in the uniforms of Uncle Sam's army, navy and marines.

In normal times Coach Bachman would probably have a real powerhouse next year from the prospects that turned up last fall even though he lost most of his starting team. Particularly at the ends Bach had a raft of material; Sophomores

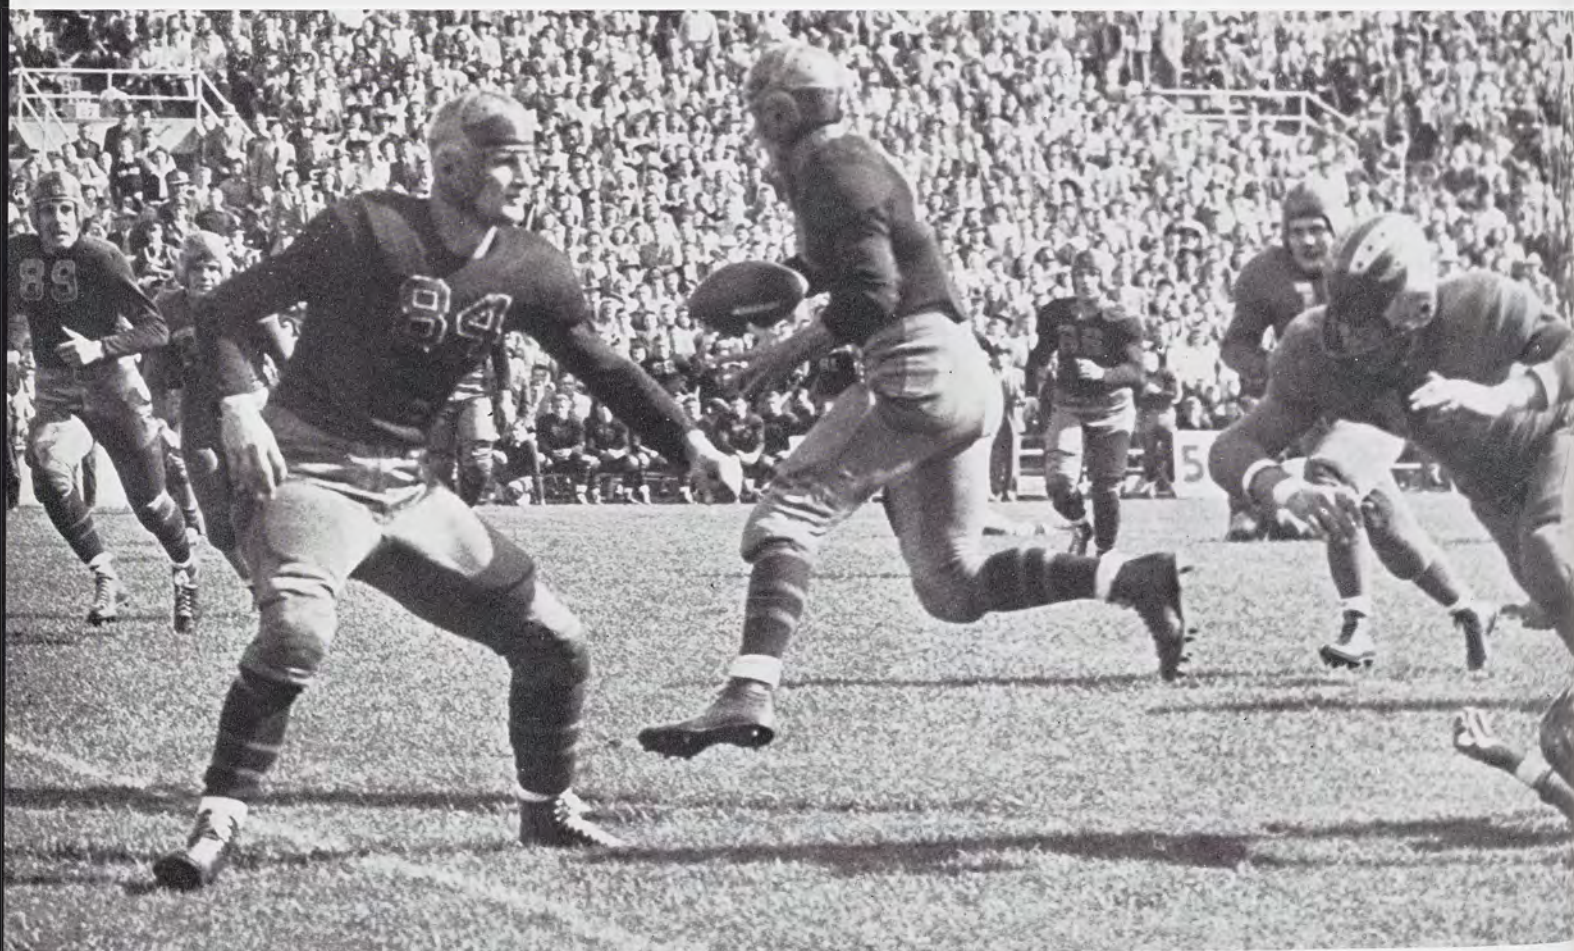

Mroz, Ken Balge and Bernie Roskopp along with Roy Fraleigh, who would normally be back certainly would keep the flanks well fortified.

At a tackle spot one of the best Spartan line prospects was turned up since Art Buss in the personage of Alger Conner. The rugged 210-pounder played an average of 51 minutes per game and was not once outcharged, or maneuvered.

Guard Don LeClair and Center Beyer are two boys that helped give State a powerful center trio and who would be back for one more year of competition. Both are sure, hard tacklers and hard chargers.

In the backfield Stark, Pete Fornari and Edo Mencotti at the halves could form a speedy running combination. Gingrass has another year and Sophomore Gilpin, a brilliant quarterback find would help round out a backfield that could probably match any around the nation.

At the annual banquet Pawlowski and Mangrum were elected honorary co-captains of the '42 squad and Kieppe was unanimous choice for Governor's award, given at the end of each season to the most valuable player.

KIEPPE RECEIVES TOP AWARD

Ben F. VanAlstyne — annually his basketball knowledge has moulded top flight teams to represent State. His teams are never outclassed; they're always in the game right through the final sixty seconds. The bleachers are always filled when one of Van's teams takes the floor; proof that the fickle public accepts the VanAlstyne mark as quality.

rm Finds Fans Watching Artists of the Hardwood

It has become a habit of Benjamin Francis Van-Alstyne to yearly pit his Spartan cagers against the best in the country, and the Vanmen always seem to give very good accounts of themselves. However, the 1942-43 season turned out to be that exception that proves the rule.

Van, who was usually blessed each winter with four or five experienced seniors, half a dozen juniors of almost equal past playing time, found himself last winter with a single two-year veteran and only three other lettermen. The rest of the squad was made up of men playing their first year of varsity ball.

When the Spartans' record was totaled, it was found to be one of the poorest in games won and lost in all the years that Cagey Ben had been handling State basketball teams. The green and white hoopmen had been able to overcome only two of their 16 opponents, but this record is far from telling the story. Seven of these loses were all by less than five points and the rest were by an eight to nine tally difference, so it can be easily seen that the inexperienced Spartan quintet was not once really outclassed.

Foes such as Great Lakes naval training station, Camp Grant, a couple of top service teams, Notre Dame, Minnesota, Marquette, Oregon State, DePaul, 'cream of the nation's collegiate class found the State five plenty tough to deal with even though three of the Spartan starters were sophomores.

In beating Romulus air base, 69 to 27, and Dearborn Naval Training Station, 55 to 24, for their wins, the Vanmen showed that they really had some scoring punch stored away, but it seemed when they lined up against all-American cagers and veteran performers they seemed to "tighten-up" and just couldn't score on the same shots they would make in practice time after time.

1943's windup affair with Notre Dame proved to be one of the best affairs played on Jenison fieldhouse hardwood in many years. The Irish managed to come out on top by three points, 45 to 42, only after the tilt had been deadlocked several times and the Spartans grabbed a momentary lead late in the final period. At the season's end the Notre Dame cagers named their game with State as the best they had participated in the current year, and Coach VanAlstyne swung into line with this selection, contending it was his men's most outstanding showing during the season.

VanAlstyne's best soph find among the newcomers was Jack Cawood, a local lad who made good in a big way. Cawood played prep school ball at Lansing Eastern and then entered State. He broke into the starting lineup early in the season and before many games had passed he had stamped himself as the most potent Spartan scorer on the '43 squad.

Cawood wound up the season with a 122-point total, 22 tallies better than Ollie White, who finished second in the individual scoring column. Stretching 6 feet 2, Cawood shined under the backboard with his ability to grab rebounds and his left-handed tip shot. He scored a great deal on this shot, and was also very efficient from the pivot lane with his one-handed tosses. Under normal conditions, Cawood would probably develop into a really great Spartan scorer and might by the end of three years of play threaten Joe Gerard's point-making records for three-season and for one year.

Another pair of Sophomores, Dan Pjesky and Pat Peppler also marked themselves as potential cage greats, but the war has stepped in and interrupted their careers by calls to military duty. VanAlstyne and Spartan fans hope that these two men will be back after the war to help State to some hardwood victories.

Pjesky turned out to be a "sparkplug" with his speedy, tireless tactics. The little Benton Harbor guard was labeled as a "feeder" before the year started, but by midseason he had developed into a very competent basket-getter. He finished third in the scoring race, close behind White, and with some more experience he will be pushing Cawood for scoring honors when collegiate basketball resumes.

Only man definitely lost to the Spartan hardwood crew when collegiate basketball is resumed will be Capt. Carl Petroski, 6-foot, blond center and forward. Petroski, who won three letters, really found himself in the past campaign after playing hot-and-cold ball for most of his sophomore and junior seasons. Petroski was slated for little work with Fred Stone set for the center spot before the season, but after several games Stone was forced out of action due to sickness and Petroski took over.

They Came Close to Fame in Game with Notre Dame

Carl worked harder than any man on the squad and it paid dividends when State ran into fast-breaking clubs that tried to run their opponents into the ground by their "race-horse" antics. But Petroski was always a match for them in condition and playing ability. Game after game he held his man, usually the opponent's high point man, to a couple of baskets while collecting eight or 10 points himself.

Missing nine games while resting in the hospital with a severe cold, Stone never was able to regain the form he displayed in the year's opening trio of contests and his excellent work in his first year as a varsity cager. The rangy center did come back fighting, however, getting back into shape after his illness and played almost half of the season's final against Notre Dame. In this Irish clash Stone was one of the outstanding men on the floor.

Toughest break of the year for Coach Van-Alstyne was a back injury suffered by Roy Deihl, tiny set-shot artist. Deihl was being heavily banked on by Ben and his cagers to make plenty of baskets, but several weeks before the opening contest with Michigan, Roy's back was hurt and he was forced to wear a heavy brace throughout the campaign. This was definitely a handicap to Midget Roy, whose long-shooting ability is his biggest scoring effort.

Just as his back was about to be declared o.k. by the team physician, Deihl pulled some muscles in his leg and this increased the chance of an opponent bottling him up. However, even with these handicaps he usually outplayed his foe.

The Diamond and Ball-Bat Rule Spring Sports

Coach John H. Kobs, one of State's old-timers, has been putting his men through the paces for seventeen years. He has developed a sharp eye for talent, and his teams show plenty of good coaching behind them. Men trained under Coach Kobs know what it means to have the finest.

In a resume of Michigan State's baseball team it may be said that the Spartan baseballers outclassed their state opponents, were a bit shaky when opposing interstate contestants, and weakened against service teams. Coach John Kobs' boys finished the season with 13 victories, 11 defeats, and one tie.

The Spartan baseball team won the mythical state collegiate crown with a percentage of .800. The Kobsmen defeated Detroit, Wayne, and Michigan Normal, twice, and boasted single victories over Michigan and Western Michigan. State, in turn, lost once to each of these two teams.

Against Georgia and Ohio State, the Michigan State nine was pitifully weak. Georgia was twice on the winning end of top-heavy scores over State while Ohio State slipped past the Spartans in close contests. The University of Iowa trounced State in the only contest played between the two schools. The Kobsmen outslugged Wisconsin twice for State's only winning percentage against interstate colleges.

Over midwestern service teams, boasting major and minor league players, Michigan State failed to triumph. Fort Custer easily topped State in the two contests played, and the Great Lakes' squad edged out the Spartans by a single score. In the season's opener, State lost to Pensacola Naval Station, and then turned to trounce the Sailors twice. The team tied Fort Benning in its homeward jaunt from the South.

The individual batting averages found only one man hitting better than .300, that being Pete Fornari with .303. However, with low counts the Spartans had a habit of getting blows when they were needed.

Concerning the annual trip through the Southland, there are two dark moments which Coach Kobs and his Spartan baseball players may find hard to forget. The Georgia Bulldogs whipped the surprised Northerners twice, 18-4 and 20-9, for a total of 38 runs and 38 hits. Coach Kobs called them the hardest hitting college team he had ever seen. Al Jones and Joe Skrocki, the two best pitchers who started the encounters, were easy victims for the Georgians.

There were some bright spots however. The hitting of Wy Davis was one. Nick Picciuto, making his first appearance in the Spartan lineup on the southern swing, banded two home runs. Howie Ladue, who worked both as a right fielder and catcher, hit two triples in consecutive appearances at the plate in the Fort Benning game and twice stole home. Bob Telder was the only pitcher to win two games on the southern trip. The Grand Rapids senior beat Pensacola, 4-1, in the final game there and then turned back Clemson, 11-5.

Wayne provided the first victory of the regular season as the Spartans defeated the Tartars, 2-1, in the Motor City. "Pinky" Getz pitched six-hit ball, being relieved in the eighth after the Tartars had pushed across their only tally. Fleischman completed the game on the mound. Wil Davis and Howie Ladue led the batting with two safeties apiece.

Coach John Kobs' club was not so lucky against Ohio State University, for it lost two to the Buckeyes, 5-3 and 3-2. A batting slump was very much in evidence as the Spartans totaled but seven hits in both contests. In the opener, Joe Skrocki was the victim of a three-run Buckeye rally in the first inning, which the Spartans never overcame. Pitcher Al Jones lacked support in the final game and the Spartans dropped the second straight.

Wil Davis paced the State baseballers over the Titans with a 400-foot home run out of three hits. A total of 11 safeties were chalked up in the State 5-3 victory over Detroit while the former hitting slump was short lived. After tallying single runs in the second and fourth frames, a three-run spree sewed up the victory in the seventh.

The Spartans continued their high-scoring ways against the Wisconsin baseball squad, out-slugging the Badgers in the first of a two-game series, while the Madison crew topped the Kobs-men, 7-6 in the finale. Ed Ciolek began a three-run rally in the second frame of the opener with another surge of triple scores in the third.

Twelve Spartans were stranded on the sacks in Ann Arbor in their next appearance, as the Michigan Staters bowed to the University of Michigan, 2-1. Joe Skrocki did a masterful job of pitching, allowing but five bingles, while the Wolve pitchers tightened up with men on bases.

But revenge is sweet and revenge is what the Spartans received at the next meeting of the MSC-U of M. Baseball teams. In one inning, the fifth, the Kobs-tutored club pushed seven runs across the home plate, and together with two runs in the sixth, and three more in the eighth, trounced the Wolverines soundly to the tune of 12 to 1. Again Skrocki started on the mound for the Spartans on their home field, and this time he limited the boys from Ann Arbor to four hits.

In that lucky fifth, Pellerin led off and tripled. Picciuto, Fornari, and Wy Davis hit safely. Chlopan and Wil Davis walked, and together with two Michigan errors and a squeeze play, the Spartans piled up a lead that Ray Fisher's nine found insurmountable. Fisher used four pitchers and an outfielder on the mound that evening.

Western Michigan is another school which always seems to give Coach Kobs trouble on the baseball diamond. The Broncos and Spartans split a two-game series with the Kalamazoo club, winning the first on Western's diamond, 3-1, with the score reversed in the final game on Old College field. Six miscues were responsible for the first Spartan loss as Skrocki limited the Broncos to but six hits. As in the second Michigan game, the Staters won the final game in the series and they scored three runs in the eighth as the entire lineup went to bat. Nick Picciuto featured this frame by stealing home with the winning tally.

Michigan Normal fell twice before the Spartans during the season. Al Jones pitched 4-hit ball and Pete Fornari aided the cause by a home run as the Kobsmen downed the Hurons, 4-2, in the earlier game. It was the last game of the season as the Spartans downed Normal in the second, 10-5. Capt. Bill Fitzsimmons and Wil Davis tripled in the ten-hit attack.

Although State outhit a star-studded Great Lakes baseball team, coached by Mickey Cochran, the Sailors managed to outscore the Green and White baseballers, 4-3, in the latter part of the season. Don Fleischman started on the mound for the Kobsmen but was replaced by Al Jones after the Sailors netted their four scores in the first three innings. Pellerin garnered three of State's seven hits.

Fort Custer also seemed to plague State as the soldiers defeated the Staters both times that the two teams met during the season. Minor league players predominated the soldier lineup as they defeated the Spartans, 4-2 and 8-2.

In the three remaining contests, the Spartans concluded their Wayne series with a 14-7 victory, downed Detroit for the second time, 8-7, and lost to Iowa in the tall corn state, 9-2.

Coach Karl Schlademan — The stop watch is to measure the results derived from the vast store of track knowledge that Karl has imparted to his squad. To judge from performances on the cinder paths, his methods pay dividends. State's track fortunes have definitely gone upward in the brief three years that Coach Schlademan has handled the squad.

Scantily Clad, These Men Pace the Cinder Bed

The end-product, promised by Coach Karl Schlademan in 1940, which was to come to State after three years, a well balanced, winning track team, was two-thirds completed when Jack Heppinstall and Walt Pease, the Spartan equipment handlers, tied together and stored away thirty pairs of spikes and sent the uniforms out for their final cleaning for 1942.

Yes, two-thirds of his job was done and for the coming third year, the veteran of twenty-two years coaching had laid a firm foundation in his first two years for the fulfillment of his promise. True, his team did not upset any dope-buckets, spill any champions, or establish any world records in the spring of 1942; but traces of that working combination of eighteen regular point-winners, vitally necessary for a successful cinder team, were much in evidence and the slow, steady, unnoticed molding of a strong Spartan thinclad unit was taking place.

On April 11, the Spartans overcame everything in the line of snow, rain, and roaring cross-winds that Old Man Weather had for sale and Purdue to open the spring grind with 67 2/3-54 1/3 victory. It was State's dominance in the field events that produced the winning total as the Boilermakers won all but two track events, the 100 and 220-yard dashes, which were taken by Bob McCarthy. Al Milne continued his winning ways in the high jump for his ninth consecutive first place. Capt. Bruce Drynan captured the discus, setting a new record with a toss of 137 feet 11 1/2 inches, and shot put and Bob Harris took the pole vault.

The Kansas and Drake Relays drew State away from its home grounds for the next two weekends. At the former, the quartet of Hugh Davis, Art Dehn, Dale Kaulitz and McCarthy finished third in the 440-yard relay and fourth in the 880-yard relay and with Davis, Kaulitz, McCarthy and Bill Scott teamed up the Spartans took a third in the sprint medley. In Des Moines, Iowa, site of the Drake Relays, the following week, State salvaged little glory. Only Kaulitz, in a special quarter-mile hurdle event, was able to garner a score, taking a second.

Schlademan's Chief Worry: To Find Four Fifty-Second

May 2 brought Penn State with its famed Negro sprinter, Barney Ewell to East Lansing for the fourth meeting between the two schools. Although Ewell didn't win the "100," (he didn't compete in the race), he breezed through the 220, the 440, and broad jump for three first and let his teammates pull through with the remainder of their 73 to 58 conquest.

State, however, stole the record-setting spotlight from the Nittany Lions. Hefty Sid Brecher nudged the shot out 45 feet 10½ inches for a new meet and varsity record and in the pole vault, Bob Harris stretched over 13 feet 5¼ inches also for a new meet record.

Tougher still was Notre Dame a week later. The Irish ran up an 83-point total, scoring in every event and winning all but four. On the field, State grabbed three blue ribbons; Milne checked off the high jump; Leonard Naab, the javelin; and Ted Wonch and Harris the pole vault. On the track, McCarthy took care of the 220 to aid the Spartans' 48 points.

For the State Intercollegiate Meet, May 16, Schlademan had his team at its peak. The Spartans were three and as high as six-deep in each event. This numerical superiority figured strongly in State's 103-point total, the highest total ever collected in the twenty-five-year history of the meet. Second place went for 45 markers. In the fifteen events, State took five firsts and had an average of better than two places per event. Mel Buschman, although not taking any first, was the high score man on the squad. The meet was run off under a steady torrent of rain which drove the high jumpers, discus men and pole vaulters into Jenison Fieldhouse. In spite of an inch of water that covered the entire track, Johnny Liggett clicked off a 2:00.8 half mile, the outstanding performance of the affair. Bill Scott regained his winter form and won the mile handily. Milne and Wonch came through in their specialties, and McCarthy took the century, but it was the host of seconds, thirds, and fourths that piled up the points.

With Hughie Davis setting the stage with a new meet and varsity record in the broad jump of 23 feet $8\frac{3}{8}$ inches, State went on to defeat Marquette for the second time in 1942, 69 to 62, on May 23 at Milwaukee. Liggett posted a 1:59.3 half-mile, Ralph Monroe came out of a scoring slump to cop the two-mile and Kaulitz outdistanced the 440-yard field in :50.9 for three much-needed first places. Milne in the high jump and Wonch and Harris in the pole-vault filled their usual blue ribbon quota. Capt. Brynan whipped out the javelin 166 feet for State's final victory.

Schlademan divided his forces on Memorial Day between the IC-4A in New York and the Michigan AAU at Kalamazoo. At the former, four Spartans tallied 11 points for tenth team position. Wonch tied for first in the pole-vault at 13 feet; Davis and Milne took thirds in the broad and high jump respectively and Scott placed fifth in the mile. In the latter, a squad composed mostly of freshmen earned 77 points and third place.

On the final meet of the year for the team as a whole, found State back again at Milwaukee for the Central Collegiate Conference meet, June 6, scoring $19\frac{2}{3}$ points for fifth place. Milne won the high jump for the second time in as many years. The quarter-mile relay came in second, McCarthy and Davis were three-four in the hundred and Scott took a fourth in the mile. Naab was good for another fourth in the javelin. Harris and Wonch tied for fifth in the pole-vault and the mile relay combination ended up the same in its event.

Long Grinds Their Specialty

Enjoying perhaps their last season for the duration the Michigan State Cross Country team met the toughest competition the country could offer and came through the chilly months of October and November with a good showing.

Coach Lauren P. Brown's rambling harrier octet was composed of: seniors, Capt. Ralph Monroe, Bill Scott, and Jerry Page; junior, Capt.-elect Maurice Horski; and sophomores, Marvin Frazer, Bill Hershisier, Roy Niemeyer, and Bill Fritz. These boys successfully defended their State Intercollegiate title for the tenth time when Bill Scott led the field in to set a new meet record. The Spartans placed sixth in a field of twenty at the IC4A meet in New York. Then they came back to their home course to take a fourth in the combination National Collegiates and Central Collegiates. The dual meet record shows a win over Drake by the decisive score of 15-40 and defeats of 20-37 and 24-32 at the hands of the co-winners of the National Intercollegiates, Indiana and Penn State respectively.

State's Human Navy Out-Maneuvers the Opposition

In his second season as swimming mentor, Coach Charlie McCaffree led his Spartan splashers through a tough six-meet schedule with four victories and two defeats. The State swimmers toppled Iowa State twice, 63-21, 57-27; University of Illinois, 48-36; and walked off with the first honors in the Central Collegiate Meet. The last was but a three-team affair, with State outscoring Bowling Green and Lawrence 100 to 44 to 4. The two setbacks came at the hands of Ohio State and the University of Michigan, the two top swim teams in the country. Returning from last year's team and forming the bulwark of State's scoring punch this year were Ralph Newton, Capt. Harold Heffernan, Warren McDonald, Jim Thomas, and Larry Luoto. In addition to these men, Freshman Bob Allwardt, eligible for competition under the new wartime ruling, was able to break into the varsity lineup in the final meet of the year. Allwardt's chief contribution was his record-smashing 220-yard, free-style time of 2:21.5, which broke the old standard set by former Captain Don Farmer in 1941. Newton, who turned in his best effort in the 50 and 100-yard sprints, established a new C.C.C. record in the century, covering the distance in :55.3. Others contributing to State's first winning season under McCaffree were breast-strokers Bob Knox and Harry Cooper, 440-yard men, Johnny Nichols and Marv Johnson, and springboarder Tom Barber.

Injury and constantly changing line-ups cost the Spartan wrestlers strength at times during the past season but the matmen came out of the whole fray with only two defeats marring their dual meet schedule this year.

Opening the season with a narrow 16 to 14 win over rival Michigan, Coach Fendley Collins took his men back in a return match two weeks later to lose by the same score in the first defeat at the hands of the Wolverines in three years.

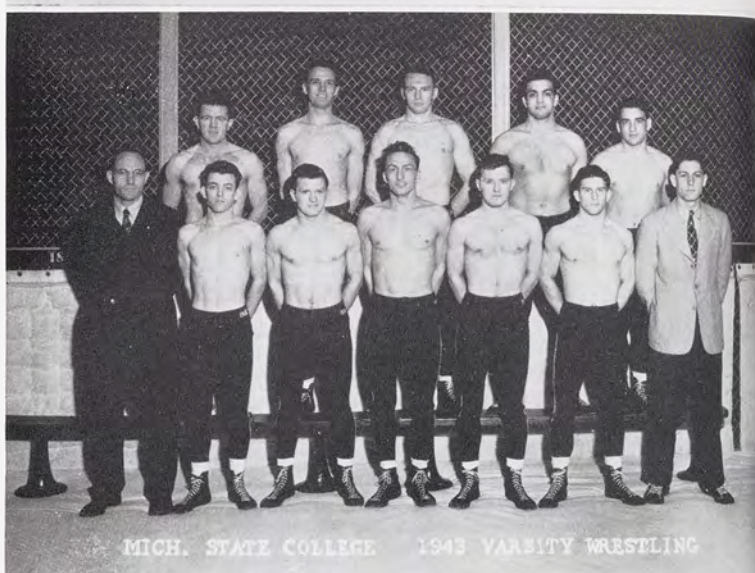

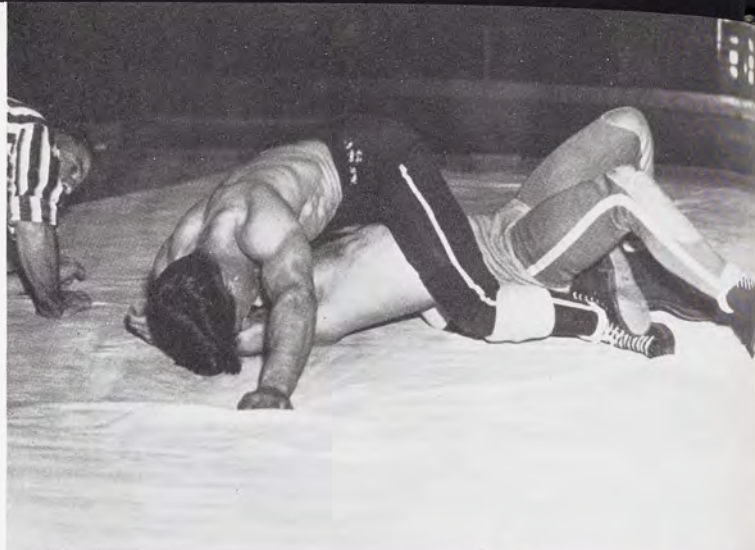

Co-captains "Bo" and "Cut" Jennings led the team in scoring a shut out against Case Tech of Cleveland 28 to 0 in the most lop-sided victory of the season. Big Ten Champions, Indiana, licked the Collinsmen late in the season for the only other defeat of the year. Purdue and Iowa State went down before the Green and White while Iowa State Teachers fought themselves into a tie with the Spartans.

The end of the 1943 season brings to an end the collegiate careers of the most colorful wrestling combination ever to hit the mats of this nation in the drawling, ever-smiling Jennings twins. In their sophomore year, these Oklahomans led the Spartans to second place in the nation's team standings by winning national championships in their individual weight divisions. Both repeated the following year.

In 1942, Bill Maxwell, lithe, smooth-moving, high school teammate of the twins came through to take the national title and again the Spartans finished runner-up in the nation's standings. Only Oklahoma A and M could successfully stem the Spartan tide either in dual or tournament competition.

Lack of manpower in other colleges of the wrestling world caused the national collegiate tournament to be cancelled for the duration. Thus the Jennings twins and Maxwell had no opportunity to defend their titles. Nor did the team as a whole have a chance to crack the Oklahoma Aggies once again in a try for the national team crown.

Plenty of credit for the quick up-swing of wrestling here at Michigan States goes to quiet, easy-going Fendley Collins. Himself an Oklahoman receiving his collegiate mat training under the immortal E. C. Gallagher at Oklahoma A and M, Collins has polished his teams into perfection. He loses many coming stars to the armed services for the duration but when the smoke of this war clears away, Michigan State can count on Coach Collins to climb to the top of national wrestling again in quick order.

State's 135 pounder, Ed Wood, trading punches with his opponent from Penn State.

Shouts, sweat, and plain hard-fisted fighting came out of the varsity boxing room to both nose and eye during the past winter term as Coach Al Kawal sent his squad through their daily paces.

Early in the season Kawal had a pessimistic outlook on his boxing prospects. For material he had to depend on many new men with only Captain Bill Zurakowski returning as a major letter winner.

But in the end hard work and confidence poured forth victory for Kawal and his boys. The top glory of the year came with two national champions in Zurakowski and Charles Davey, freshman 127 pounder.

Davey, only eligible since the freshman rule went into effect in March, came through with one dual meet victory over a Virginia opponent in his first intercollegiate performance. Then he marched through all rivals for the 127-pound crown, winning an easy decision with his flashing right hand in the final bout at Madison, Wis.

Captain Bill has been the backbone of the Spartan team for three years. When the other boys found the going too tough, Bill always got that wide-swinging right of his working, battering the best in the country over the ring. For two years, he was the only boxer with enough wins to warrant the varsity major award. As the nation's 120-pound titleholder, Bill has wound up an impressive collegiate career.

Throughout the year boxing has meant a little more to farsighted Al Kawal than just a sport for a varsity team. He organized and ran off the biggest intramural meet of its kind in college history. This gave many men students a chance for hand-to-hand combat that is the nearest thing to warfare that he can find in civilian life. Kawal believes in boxing — and boxing evidently believes in him — even this intramural tournament paid him well. It discovered Charles Davey — from all-college champ to champion of all colleges in the nation.

Two more varsity men hung up impressive records during the dual season. Ed Wood, 135-pounder, and Lightweight Edo Mencotti, went through undefeated in dual competition.

As a team, Kawal's outfit met the best the country had to offer. The results are this — only powerful Wisconsin could handle them by national tournament title. The Spartans are runners-up in the nation for 1943.

Pars and Birdies are Old Friends to these Linksmen

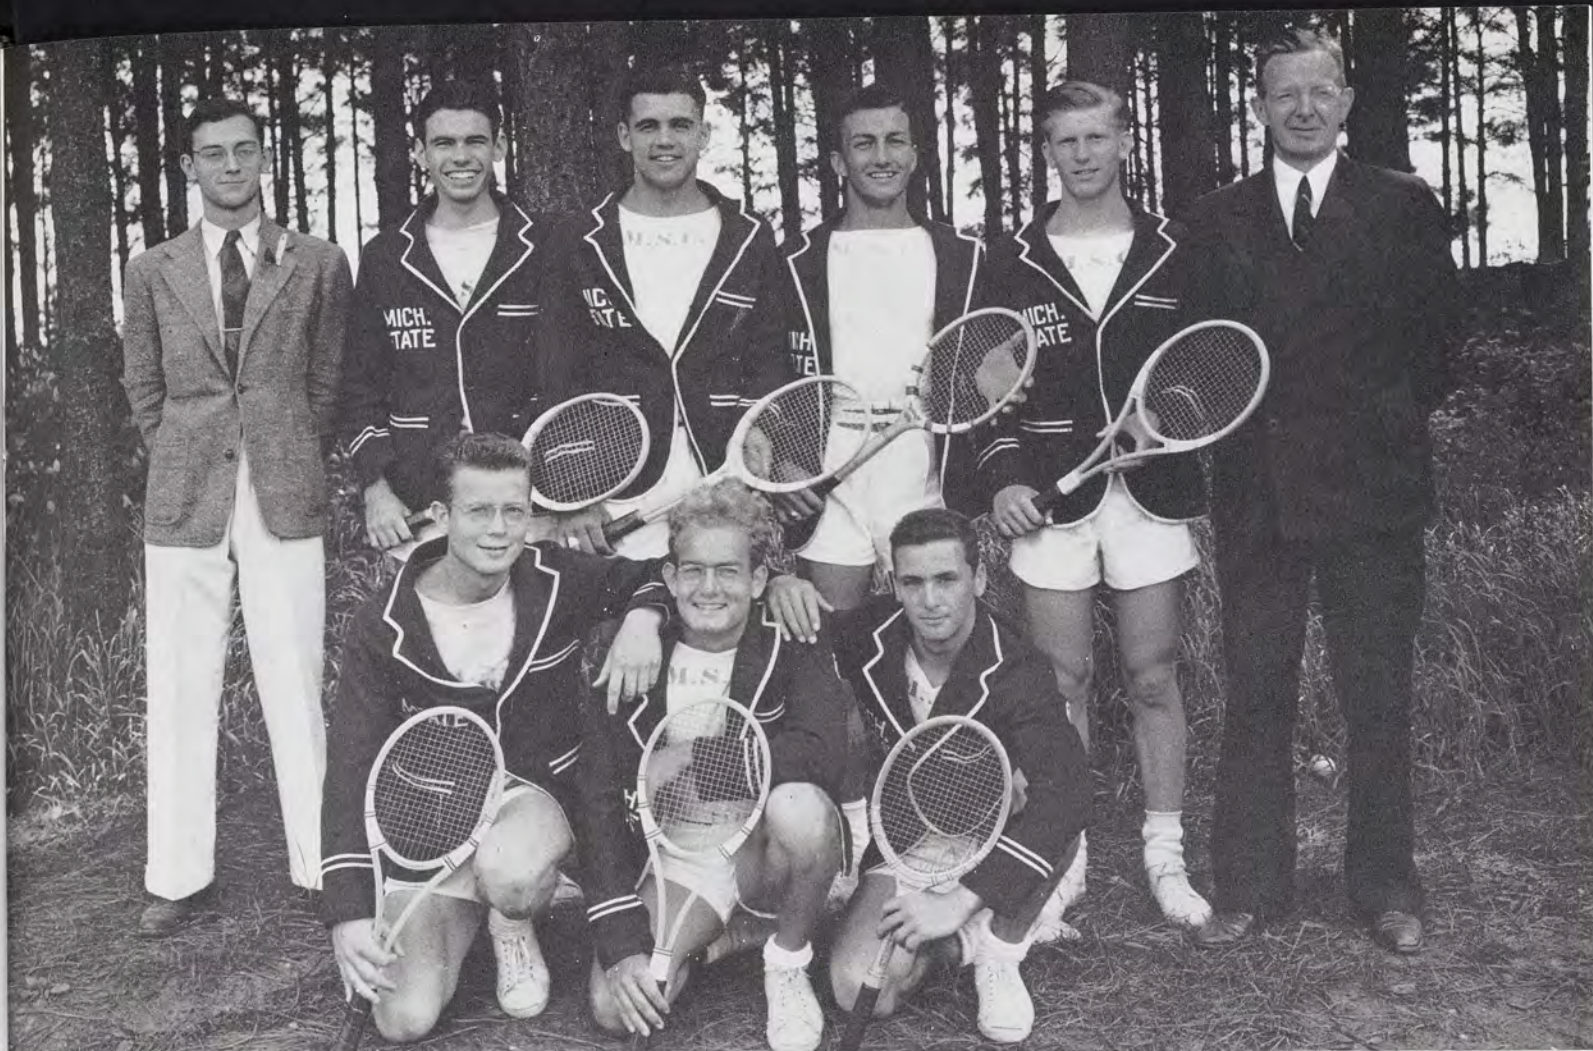

Fighting their way through a schedule of tough opponents, State's linksmen finished the season just under the 500 mark. The squad's steady improvement was apparent in their two meets with Michigan. In the first encounter, which opened the schedule, the Spartans absorbed a 17-7 defeat. Later in the season, State held the Ann Arbor team to a 7-7 tie. Besides to Michigan, other losses were to Ohio State, 13½-22½, Northwestern, 5½-15½, and Notre Dame, 12-15. Victories were over Detroit twice, 13-8 and 13½-7½, and Indiana once, 13-5.

Coach Ben VanAlstyne had two returning lettermen to build his team around. They were George Busch and Ralph Kortge, playing position two and three respectively. Joe Watson stepped into the number one position and was subsequently elected captain. Phil Goodrich held down the fourth position. Van coached these players into a topnotch squad which compared favorably with his usual high standard.

Spartan Netters Stroke Way to Successful Season

The Spartan tennis team, under the guiding hand of Coach Charles D. Ball, completed the 1942 season with seven consecutive victories. The entire schedule netted the squad ten victories to five defeats. The five losses were administered by only three schools, Oklahoma University, Michigan and Notre Dame.

Each March, during spring vacation, the netters have gone south to play their first matches there before the weather is suitable in East Lansing.

Captain Frank Beeman shared first position with Earl May and Bill Maxwell. Approximate positions are determined by a round robin among members of the varsity squad. As a result of last season's play, major letters were awarded to Frank Beeman, Earl May, Bill Maxwell, Roger Cessna, Herb Hoover, and Thorpe White, Manager. Minor awards went to Bill Hiel and Jim McGaw.

Although none of the racquet-wielders will be lost through graduation, it is expected that the enlisted reserve corps will make a noticeable change in Coach Ball's manpower.

By vote of the varsity squad members, Frank Beeman was again elected as captain in 1943.

En Garde — — Touche!

Capt. Lyle Burdy, Morris Sheppard, Ed Popper, and Don Krushak returned from last year's team to give Coach Charles Schmitter a base to build this year's squad around. He added some inexperienced boys and whipped them into a strong squad. These fencers battled their way through a tough schedule and came out with distinction. The won and lost column read four losses against two victories. However two of those losses were 14-13 thrillers to Wisconsin and Chicago, both well up in the Big Ten standings. In each the meet was not decided until the last match. Other losses were to Ohio State 10½-6½ and Case 15½-11½. Victories were over Notre Dame 14-13 and Oberlin 14½-13½.

Fencing fans only saw the team in action twice at home. Cancellations curtailed the schedule. The first home appearance was against Notre Dame. The other was when Coach Schmitter pulled his annual iron-man stunt of challenging the team. He chalked up an impressive victory of 21 matches won, 4 lost, and 2 tied.

Outstanding man on the team was Don Krushak. He earned a major letter by his fine showing throughout the year in which he won 23 matches and lost seven.

Ponies Run, Mallets Swing, and Chuckers Fade Away

The Spartan Polo team found itself a war transportation casualty this year. Cancellations by all schools but Culver and Ohio State and the disbanding of most of the teams in the Michigan Indoor Polo Association left them with only a three-match schedule.

Major Gerald Peterson, coach, found himself faced with an almost impossible task. He had to try to build a winning combination from an entirely new squad. The curtailed schedule gave the team little time to acquire experience. The mallet swingers also ran into tough opposition composed of veterans seeking to avenge their defeats from last year's Spartans. They practiced long and played hard, but went down in defeat by scores of Culver . . . 17, Michigan State . . . 6; Ohio State . . . 13, Michigan State . . . 5; and Culver . . . 19, Michigan State . . . 8. Riding at No. 2 position, David Loewith was the top scorer. John Ballanger at No. 1 and Harold Diegel No. 3 rounded out the regular team. Robert Burnham and Robert Nelson were the alternates.

IntraMurder Proceeds without Police Interference

Under the skillful guidance of Lyman L. Frimodig, director, and Russel B. Daubert, assistant director, the intramural athletic program flourished in another year of popularity that well may be the last big one for the duration. In spite of the decreasing enrollment this year, the number participating in the program has remained about the same.

In the 1942-43 season an approximate sum of 3,000 boys were listed as having taken part in a total of 35 different athletic tournaments. The sports listed range from major sports or their equivalents such as football, track, and wrestling to purely recreational pastimes such as bowling, ping-pong, and horseshoes. At the beginning of winter term a new branch, the hockey league, under the sponsorship of the State News, was introduced with much popularity into the sports program. When possible the members of the all-college championship teams were awarded sweaters with class numerals, while the members of the winning and runner-up teams in their respective divisions received medals.

With the war taking most of the men from college, the intramural program will likely hit a new low this spring unless the incoming soldiers make up for the loss in "manpower." However, plans are already under way for a bigger and better program after the war. This new plan is hoped to dwarf the old one in every respect. There will be an intramural athletic council set up and special student managers appointed to run this expanded program. It may be arranged that major or minor letters will be awarded for outstanding work in the running of the new set-up.

INTRAFRATERNITY GOLF WON BY PHI DELTS

The Phi Delta Theta golf foursome, consisting of Grant Turnbloom, Don Congdon, Dick Osmer, and Glenn Johnson, won the fraternity golf championship. They finished with a total score of 324, just 3 points ahead of the Sigma Nu squad, closely followed by the Hesperians with a total of 332.

L. to R.: Bill Clark, Huntley Johnson, Glenn Johnson, Don Congdon.

DZV COMES THROUGH AGAIN IN SOFTBALL

The DZV athletic brotherhood captured its third consecutive all-college softball championship last spring when they dropped the Mason 8 squad 12 to 6. Bill Kennedy hurled for the DZV's to win his second all-college championship game. The winners slammed out ten hits, two of them homers, while Mason 8 racked up eight.

INTRAFRATERNITY RELAYS WON BY THE S.A.E.'S

The SAE trackmen captured the interfraternity relays with total of 7 points. The SAE quintet, composed of Don Myers, Ed Rhodehamel, Fred Hipp, and Bob Roeder, won the 440-yard relay in the time of 48.3. The Sigma Nu's finished in second place.

FOOTBALL DORM CHAMPION WAS MASON 8

Mason 8 won the dormitory touch football championship when it dropped last year's dorm champs, Mason 5, 6-0 in a closely contested contest. The winner's only marker came as a result of a short pass from Bob Swett to Bob Valliere in the second quarter.

A.T.O. TOPPED ALL TEAMS IN INTRAFRATERNITY FOOTBALL

The Alpha Tau Omega touch football squad captured the all-college intramural championship when they upset the DZV's 12-0. In the all-college semifinals it defeated the Mason 8 seven three first downs to nothing. In taking the fraternity crown the ATO's won from the Sigma Nu's three first downs to two.

INDEPENDENT CHAMPION IN FOOTBALL WAS DZV

The athletic brotherhood, DZV, captured the independent touch football crown when it downed the Lansing All-Star seven three first downs to nothing. Walt Klewicki virtually kicked and passed the DZV's to their victory. He tossed two to Dale Kaulitz and one to Roy Chlopin for the three markers.

SIGMA NU WALKS AWAY WITH INTRAFRATERNITY BOWLING

The Sigma Nu keglers took top honors in the inter-fraternity bowling tournament held fall term. They ran up the comfortable margin of 150 points more than the nearest contender, Alpha Gamma Rho. Jack Gale was the winner's leading scorer, his high game being 227.

L. to R.: E. Walsh, W. Schotters, W. Loomis, R. Wasmuth, J. Gale.

SAE TRACK-MEN WIN THE ALL COLLEGE HEXATHLON

The SAE thinclads annexed the first place honors in the all-college hexathlon which consists of the hurdle events, 50-yard dash, high jump, shot-put, broad jump and climaxes with the turkey trot. This is the second successive win for the SAE's.

FRATERNITY SWIM MEET WON BY PHI DELTA THETA

Phi Delta Theta captured first in the fraternity swimming meet fall term with a team score of 23. The Phi Delt's piled up an early lead to tide them over in the later events. In runner-up position was the Sigma Nu team with 17 points.

The Women's Athletic Association is composed of athletically inclined girls wishing to promote a lasting interest in physical activities for women. Any girl with a C average who participates in a major sport is eligible to become a member. 25 points a term must be earned to maintain membership. Numerals are awarded for one hundred points, small S's for 500, large S's for 1,000, and a place on the Honor Roll for 1,500 points.

The organization sponsors all the women's intra-mural and inter-class sports. During Farmers' Week a concession is held and spring term the Annual High School Play Day is promoted. Other activities include a fall term luncheon, a winter term banquet, and a spring term picnic.

The Athletic Federation of College Women, with which the W.A.A. is affiliated, planned to hold its Middle Western Convention here in 1943, if conditions permitted.

Green Splash—They're Far From All Wet

Green Splash, women's swimming honorary, was organized in 1927 to promote interest in swimming among Michigan State College women. To become a member, a coed must pass the senior life saving course and must be a member of her class swimming team in the winter term competition. Prospective members must have at least a "C" average and the unanimous acceptance of the members. Informal initiation is held at the women's pool, and formal initiation is held at the spring term banquet. Members are distinguished from other swimmers by their green bathing suits.

Besides the Senior Life Saving course, Green Splash annually sponsors mixed splash parties and a water pageant. In this year's pageant, "Ice Aquadia," members of Porpoise, men's swimming honorary, were drafted by the girls to demonstrate military swimming tactics.

MILITARY

There were a few bitter tears shed in the privacy of the clothes-closet when Cadet-officer uniforms and insignia went into moth-balls, and the senior R.O.T.C. donned G.I. khaki and chevrons for Spring term; but for the most part the boys looked forward to collecting needed additional training on their way to O.S.C. centers. Furthermore, there was that agreeable sensation of being paid to go to college, no matter how rigid the discipline, with a diploma in reaching distance; for the Juniors and basics had already marched off to the camps in April with the E.R.C.

Lt. L. D. Esch, S.C., Lt. Col. E. A. Banning, F.A.

Now more than ever, Mr. Spartan, This is your Army

Fall term found things in the Military Department proceeding practically as in the past year. Colonel McLeod was still P.M.S.T. The unit directors were carrying on programs much akin to those of the past. Students were as numerous as ever.

Then things began to happen. Now it's Colonel Dorsey Rodney, P.M.S.&T. and commandant of the new group of four-letter — A.S.T.P. — Army Specialized Training Corps. He replaced Col. McLeod who was sent to Washington to join the Army staff in charge of the new college military training program, which put him second in command to General Beukema.

The entire R.O.T.C. department was rearranged into six divisions.

The unit directors found that besides their regular responsibilities they too had important new assignments under the A.S.T.P. Lt. Col. Stillman was made Executive; Lt. Col. Rouse, the Plans and Training Officer. Lt. Col. Jiskra was named Supply Officer; Lt. Col. Haydon, the battalion commander; Lt. Col. Banning was selected as Assistant Plans and Training Officer; and Lt. Esch was placed in charge of Personnel.

The remaining staff of thirteen officers were given various assignments in the three newly formed companies. There were considerably fewer R.O.T.C. students, with only the senior advanced and deferred remaining.

The Military Department had only one thing in mind by these changes. That was to furnish the armed forces with the best trained officer candidates in the country.

Colonel Dorsey R. Rodney, new commandant of the R.O.T.C., is really an old-timer on our campus. He was formerly the P.M.S. and T. at Michigan State from 1930 to 1935.

"Property, Sergeant Slayton speaking," is the familiar telephonic introduction to old-timer Barney. He's the chubby, genial, supply sarg over in Dem Hall. It was a big week when he issued the Juniors their new officers' uniforms. That calls for inspecting the fitting, which he is doing here.

The front office . . . As it was before spring term. It has been a popular place this year; practically every male student visited this office in regard to his military status. L. to R.: Miss Gilessee, Miss Osgood, Miss Eicher, Capt. Branch.

Field Artillery

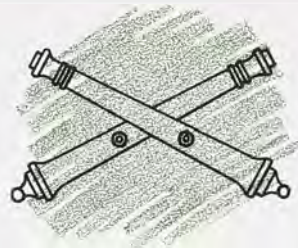

Michigan State's Field Artillery unit handled the first war assignment in its eight-year history on campus during the fall months of 1942. True, there were no guns fired or hand grenades thrown, but from all other standpoints an emergency was met and coped with in military fashion.

In response to a plea made by the farmers of Michigan for help in harvesting the sugar beet crop, Col. Stuart McLeod, PMS&T, issued the necessary orders to put M. S. C.'s 2,500 cadets to work. To the Field Artillery fell the task of transporting workers to the fields located in a thirty-mile radius of East Lansing. Out of the senior and junior F. A. classes came enough competent and trained drivers to move 250 truckloads of men to the beet fields. The composite mileage of 5,500 miles was covered without the slightest driving mishap.

On December 6, a sixteen-truck convoy including two 105 millimeter howitzer batteries (four guns to a battery) and Michigan State's 100-piece band, travelled to Flint to participate in an army demonstration parade in commemoration of Pearl Harbor. The "105's" used in the parade became field artillery property during November, keeping State's F. A. the most modernly equipped unit of the R.O.T.C.

In an attempt to supply training and knowledge missed by the cancellation of the annual summer camp, State's field artillerymen banded together under the name of "Plateau and Drum" and carried out a well-planned and instructive program during the fall and winter terms covering all phases of gunnery, leadership, instruction and military procedure. Bob Vroman headed the organization with the rank of major. Membership was extended to all F. A. classes.

Colonel E. A. Banning, unit commander for the third consecutive year, and Capt. E. F. Totton, junior instructor, were the only officers returning after the summer session.

Instruction in the Coast Artillery Corps consists of Anti-Aircraft defense and Harbor and Coastal defense. The most intensive instruction at Michigan State is in the Anti-Aircraft field. This year the corps at State acquired a new forty millimeter anti-aircraft unit, director, power supply, and gun.

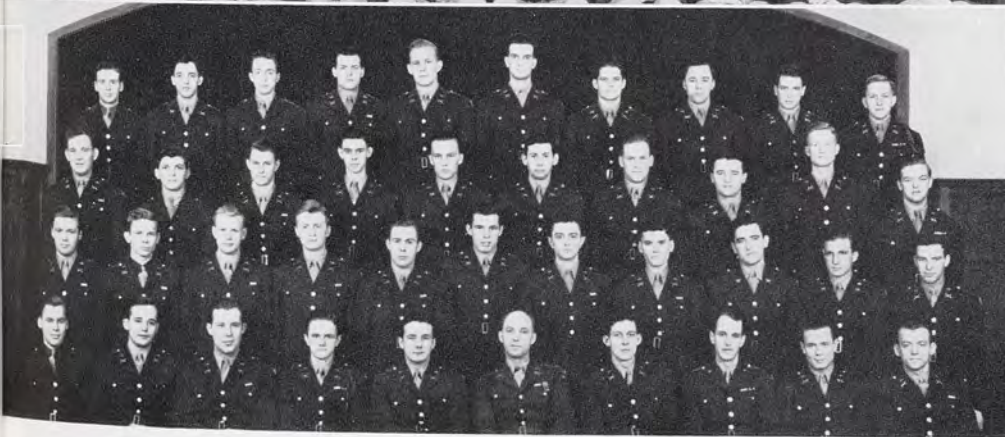

As in the other units of the R.O.T.C., the summer camp instruction was discontinued. Upon graduation in June, the seniors will go to Coast Artillery schools for three months' training before receiving their commissions in the Army Reserve Corps. The majority of M.S.C. men will go to Camp Davis. Others may receive training at Fort Sill or Fort Monroe. Coast Artillery junior cadet officers left State in April with the other junior men.

Coast Artillery

The past year brought changes in the faculty as well as in other phases of the division. Captain Cook came to State from Camp Davis where he took the refresher course. He is an automatic weapons man. When Colonel McLeod left the campus, the Coast's Colonel Stillman was appointed acting PMS&T. This is a blue star for the Coast Artillery.

Here in State's R.O.T.C. Infantry work, the men learn the manual of arms and foot movement through extensive drill. They learn the taking down and assembling of guns. They deal with the tactics of various Infantry units. The seniors have pistol drill, military history, administration, law, and tactics.

The Infantry is proud of the possession of their new Garand rifles that have proved so successful in Batan and New Guinea. The men are given regular drill in the use and care of this new weapon.

Lt. Colonel Roy Rouse came to State as the Infantry head late last spring replacing Lt. Colonel O. L. Davidson who was sent to field duty. Lt. Morgan was also added to State's staff of officers during the past year.

Senior Infantry men will go to Fort Benning, Georgia, for their officers' training when they graduate from Michigan State in June.

Upon graduation in June, the senior men of the Cavalry Unit of Michigan State's R.O.T.C. will enter officers' training school at Fort Riley, Kansas. After a three month period, these men will receive a second lieutenant's commission in the army reserve. As lieutenants they will go to battle fronts all over the world.

All training received here by the men is in the horse cavalry. Last fall term twenty-two pairs of men and horses participated in the night ride, a practical military problem, lasting from 8:00 until midnight. Certain routes were laid out in advance with four main objectives. The men rode in pairs, going from one point to another. The purpose of the ride was to maintain a rate of speed in going to the various objectives. Most of the groups came through very well. Al Van Dyke and Chet Mackson won the prize, awarded for achievement in all phases of the ride.

Cavalry

Cavalryman Colonel Dorsey Rodney returned to State this winter as PMS&T, replacing Colonel Stuart McLeod. Other additions to the Cavalry staff this year were Captain Montague and Captain Sullivan.

Although the training here is with the horse cavalry, the majority of men will enter mechanized units upon graduation from officers' training school.

Quartermaster Corps

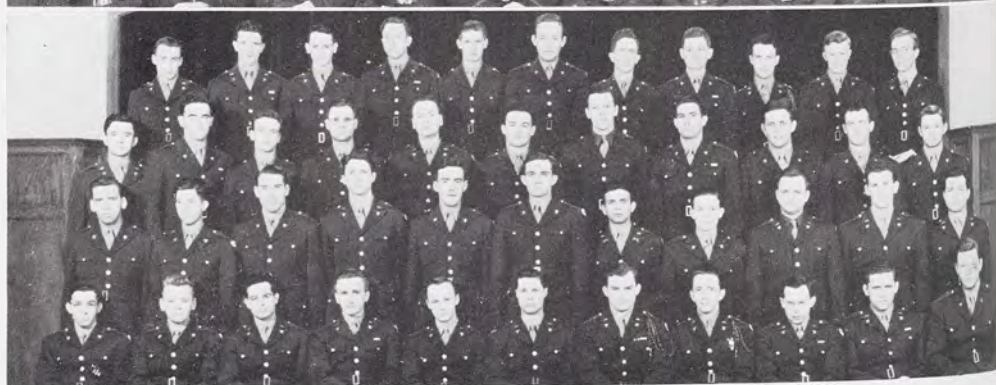

Rated by reviewing officers one of the finest Quartermaster units in the country, the fifty-eight senior Q.M. members of the R.O.T.C. finished the year comfortably ensconced in the roomy, handsome Delta Sig house, staying around till June to pick up their diplomas and the finishing touches to their education.

Designed to provide them with a rounded knowledge of the Quartermaster's functions in the army of 1943 and to act as a basis for training at officers' candidate school later, the Q.M. course took up everything from property accounting to chemical warfare, probably a wider variety of subjects than any other R.O.T.C. branch.

Under the direction of Lt. Col. J. B. Jiskra and Lt. G. M. Clarke, Jr., the group had classroom instruction four days a week and devoted the other day to leadership training, better known as just plain "drill."

The seniors of 1943 were the first Q.M. cadets to be graduated from M.S.C., the unit having been established at East Lansing with the beginning of spring term 1942. Since the men who formed it thus had only four full terms of advanced R.O.T.C. training instead of six, they were scheduled to be sent to Camp Lee, Va., to complete training for commissions following their graduation.

The junior Q.M. cadets, forty-six of them, were called into active service at the beginning of spring term, after the seniors had spent three terms setting a pattern for them to follow. By this quirk of circumstances most of the juniors were ranking salutes before their senior officers back at State had gotten to officers' candidate school.

BANASIK, BOURBONNAIS, LIMMER

Last fall the Michigan State Military Department welcomed a new unit — the Signal Corps. Lt. Esch was sent to organize the unit, State being one of the first four colleges chosen for installation of this unit since the beginning of the war. In July, Lt. Radke was sent from Fort Monmouth, New Jersey, as an assistant in the department. These two commissioned officers and three enlisted men keep the radio, code, telegraph equipment and students all functioning in a military manner.

The student training consists of learning field wire communications, field radio systems, basic transmitter and receiver, radio and telegraph principles and about thirty hours of International Morse Code. In the equipment here is included enough to instruct forty students in code work at the same time.

Signal Corps

The importance of the modern Signal Corps to our army is recognized by all. The precision timing of the invasion of North Africa was due largely to the close cooperation of the Army Signal Corps and the Navy Communications. Tank battles have been photographed by trained Signal Corps cameramen. Later these battles were reproduced in studios, and new tactics were devised — the same way a football coach studies the motion pictures taken of a grid game and revises his plan of attack.

The twenty-nine junior men left with the other divisions of the R.O.T.C. in April. The six seniors remained here until graduation. From here they went to officers' training school at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey.

Hep! . . . Hep! . . . the Michigan State College order of Pershing Rifles is on parade. Company C, the local unit of the national honorary and oldest collegiate organization in the United States was established at Michigan State in 1934. Its purpose is to assemble men who are interested in attaining perfection in military drill and ethics, and to offer these men unexcelled opportunities for a well-rounded military and social life.

Company C, the local unit, is expanding in membership and in keeping with the war effort, is placing much added empha-

The entire company attended a Regimental Drill Meet held at Columbus, Ohio, at Ohio State University and took third place in the finals.

Pershing Rifles makes an award each spring to the freshman of each unit of R.O.T.C. who displays the highest degree of excellence in his class. This organization also sponsors parties and dances, and acts as a service unit for the Military Ball and formal Spring Parades.

Mortar and Ball — Count on Coast Artillery to Roll

Battery E, First Regiment, Attention!

At that command, the Michigan State College Chapter of Mortar and Ball, national coast artillery honorary, snaps to the front. The local unit is the largest battery in the entire organization.

To be eligible for membership, advanced military students in the Coast Artillery Corps must have proved themselves outstanding both in military science and in college activities.

The Saber Drill team of the local unit, one of very few in the nation and the only one of its kind on the campus, journeyed to Sebawing and Unionville last Memorial Day for participation in a Saber Drill meet.

A winter term formal party was sponsored this year by Mortar and Ball.

Scabbard and Blade Links all ROTC Divisions Together

Scabbard and Blade is a national military fraternity, composed of junior officers in military science. In order to qualify for membership, the candidate must be outstanding in military science as well as having a high all-college average.

The purpose of the organization is to strengthen the common bond of friendship among the members of all advanced military science divisions. The members helped in the scrap metal drive and in the tin collection campaign, thus aiding the war effort of which these men are especially cognizant.

Scabbard and Blade now adds its name to the organization Roll of Honor at State, as its members leave, each to do his part in cleaning up the troubles of the world.

Sixteen crack shots compose the Michigan State pistol team directed by Captain Speckman of the Field Artillery. The only requirements for membership on the team are meeting the scholastic requirements, being passed by the athletic board, and possessing an ability to shoot.

The purpose of the team is to develop the marksmanship of the cadets and to compare the M.S.C. squad's shooting ability with other teams. The matches are not conducted by traveling, but by mailing the scores to the schools. Many men of the State team consistently score 280-286 out of 300 shots.

The shooting season opened February 12 this year and came to an end on March 13. Seventeen schools were engaged. Among them the United States Naval Academy, Harvard, M.I.T., Ohio State, West Point, Cornell, Texas A. & M., St. Bonaventure, Xavier, and Purdue.

Pistol and Rifle Teams—The Best Shots on Campus

They compete against teams as far north as the University of Alaska, and as far south as the University of Puerto Rico. Michigan State College's R.O.T.C. Rifle Team really covers territory in its rifle matches against other schools. However, they've solved the transportation problem by using the mails. In the course of a week they may have matches with as many as seven schools simply by mailing the same scores to all seven.

Shooting season is winter term, with over forty teams on the schedule. Most of the squads are from other R.O.T.C. schools, but there is also a Sixth Corps Area Intercollegiate Match and the William Randolph Hearst Trophy Match. In other years they have had several shoulder to shoulder matches, but these were discontinued this year.

The purpose of the team is to provide recreation and to improve marksmanship. The only qualifications are an interest in shooting and an ability to hit the target from four positions: prone, sitting, kneeling, and standing. The team has won about half of its matches.

Navy Club—Learn the Whys and Wherefores of Navy Life

The Navy Club, one of this year's additions to M.S.C.'s organizations, is the first of its type to be formed in the U.S.A. It was started last spring term by seven V-7 Naval Reserve men on campus. The membership now is about one hundred men, all of whom are in either V-1, V-5, or V-7 of the Reserve.

The purpose of the club is to acquaint these men with the functions of the Navy. They have set up their own training and study program, much of which is carried out by means of movies and lectures.

The Club has been given every type of cooperation from the Navy Department in Washington including Navy visits by the Navy Personnel, and it is now officially recognized by the Navy Department.

Since this Club began here at Michigan State, similar Clubs have been organized in many major colleges and University cities throughout the country.

HONORARY LT. COL., Pershing Rifles

The Honorary R.O.T.C. Corps Sponsors

It was an impressive sight last November 12, as 600 cadet officers installed their latest selection from among the campus' senior feminine beauty. After an entire week of extensive rehearsals, the klieg lights were thrown on at 7:30 and the flash of sabers and martial music marked the commencement of a traditionally fine ceremony.

The Officers' Club is made up of the advanced corps men. Besides handling the election of the "Queens," it also sponsors the big winter term Military Ball. This year's president was Henry Hipp. As with so many other things on campus this year, it was evidently the last Military Ball "for the duration." In the interests of conservation, miniature wooden rifles replaced the accepted steel sabers as favors.

The honorary cadet Colonel and her court of eight honorary cadet Lieutenant Colonels spend each Tuesday afternoon spring term "with the boys" — on the parade ground, where they regularly review the troops.

A popular pastime at every big dance is getting the band leader's signature on your program. The Military Ball is no exception. Here is Bandleader Dick Rogers as he chats with Edward Ripmaster and the crowd of attentive officers-to-be. At intermission the floor was cleared for a special cadence drill which was presented by a select group of cadets.

LIVING GROUPS

Living is an essential process of all college students, no matter what appearance some of them present in classroom, but the right way to go about it is always a matter of individual decision. The problems of how to eat, what to wear, when to sleep, and where to study are approached according as to whether you live in a dormitory, a co-op house, a private home, or a fraternity or sorority, although an increasing number of State students of both sexes found the Armed Forces held a blanket solution in 1943.

This year the sorority sisters were not to be outdone by I.F.C. So they staged a big banquet in the Union ballroom winter term.

This year Pan-Hellenic's president was friendly and attractive Patricia Reddy. She's a member of Alpha Chi Omega.

In conjunction with I.F.C., Pan-Hel sponsored the annual Greek Formal winter term. Popular Stan Kenton and his orchestra presented dancers with an evening of music against an attractive military backdrop.

PanHel—League of Nations in the Sorority World

The PanHellenic Council aims to integrate all inter-sorority activities and to work with the I.F.C. on such activities as concern both fraternities and sororities.

In keeping with all patriotic influences on campus this year, the council cut down the expenses of rushing. No refreshments, no professional entertainment, and no flowers were permitted. In spite of these restrictions, over five hundred girls went through formal rushing fall term.

Cooperating with the I.F.C., the organization gave the PanHel-I.F.C. Dance winter term. All of the proceeds were given to the Student Victory Loan Fund.

An inter-sorority conference was held; each sorority sent an active member as a delegate to the meetings held at the various houses. The discussions centered about current sorority problems such as rushing, duties of the house mother, and responsibilities of pledge captains.

Another cooperative affair was the Victory Booth in the Union. The members of the Council and the D.Z.V.'s sold war stamps and bonds. Spring term, the women maintained the booth after the men were called to the service.

Plans are underway for a program to determine the place of sororities on campus during war-time.

Alpha Xi Delta

We must say goodbye to seventeen of our finest sisters. We wish them the best of luck in their future lives and hope they'll always keep fond memories of their college days.

We have the greatest confidence in President Mary Vial, "setting the world on fire" with her ability to handle people and situations. She was one of the founders of Sigma Chi Gamma, Chemistry honorary for women on campus . . . We're prophesying that Lovella (little four by eleven) McClellan, Ruth Fields, and Marge Bailey are going to settle down into being old married women when the army and navy just say the word . . . Barb Gardner (she of the big black eyes) will make a perfect little budget keeper in a few months with all her experience as treasurer of the sorority and of S. W. L. . . . Pat Taylor, Vice-prexy, should be the ideal WAVE because of her background as pledge trainer . . . Kate Taffee, the two Dotties — Johnson and Goschke, and Chery Todd are all ready to launch forth into a career in Home Ec; while Fran McCleery

Todd will be working hard in a hospital as her senior year in Med. Bio. We bet the Vets will be missing our blonde, blue-eyed corresponding secretary . . . And speaking of secretaries, we'll miss recording secretary, Chris VanderZalm, another of Sigma Chi Gamma's charter members and an excellent horse woman . . . Another of our "sporting element," Helen (Gus) Geisbuhler and her ever-present breeches and boots will be gone from among our numbers and we'll be missing her diligence and energy in sorority work . . . Kate Cowin, charter member of the SSO, and member of numerous boards and organizations will probably find the "big, bad world" a breeze after such strenuous college activities . . . "Bets" Lehman, our busy social chairman won't plan any more Alpha Xi Parties . . . Allaine Wolfe, who combines athletics and femininity with the All-American Girl charm, and Clare Christenson of the sparkling humor, wind up our list of one of the grandest senior groups to whom we have had to say goodbye.

Chi Omega

We of Chi Omega have a Symphony . . . it is made up of words and deeds and people . . . and though we are losing fourteen of the precious notes of that symphony we'll remember them each one.

Prexy Rosemary Darlington for her cute grin and inexhaustible energy . . . Peg Burhans racing to preside over Student Council . . . tiny Roberta Hulliberger knitting in meeting . . . Vera Deaner leading A.W.S.

We won't forget Margaret Burnett's struggle with Chi Omega minutes . . . Betty Jean Chandler's slow, soft voice and her "guaranteed unbreakable" calm . . . or half-laughing, half-serious Mary Elizabeth Kerth dreaming about some A.G.R. . . . Laura Mae Leland planning a teaching career and enjoying it . . . Shirley Sawyer in a maelstrom of Orchesis and sprots . . . Virginia Moore deep in a Sigma Nu dream . . . Shirley Freeman and Betty Gibson, corps sponsors deluxe . . . artist-elect Edith Taggart, without whom our Water Carnival will never be the same . . . or Betty Wirth, teaching us that Y is the peak of the alphabet though it's near the end. We'll miss you, sisters, but good luck!

Delta Zeta

Brighten the Corner where you are — From the corner of Abbott and Oakhill, Delta Zeta sends its first flame out into the world. Kay Foster holds the unchallenged title of Beta Rho's first graduating senior. How she managed to get a year ahead of us we can't figure out, but it seems that she's got good reasons to be in such a hurry. The Air Corps has the situation well in hand, but the rest of us are staying behind to wait for the army to take over.

The new house presents ample opportunity for imaginative happenings via Graham and Zeerip. Book I — the case of the shifted beds, or Book II — the case of the missing hairpins. Clever children those two! We'll be all right though as long as we have house manager Roselle to keep her eye on things and divert us toward more constructive fun. Fireside . . . popcorn and song . . . life is gay, though not so long.

Kappa Alpha Theta

Hey, Sadie . . . remember way back in '43 and all the fun we used to have at the Theta house? Remember President Muriel Whiting making plans for her Phi Delt bungalow in between official duties . . . Stewardess Betty Tower counting calories like mad and keeping us healthy despite all the rationing . . . Pledge Trainer Phyll Tennyson making somebody else's little girl toe the mark . . . And that sweet Sherry Wales dutifully reading the Good Book while her roomie, Jane Foley, Social Chairman, was too busy planning parties to care . . . and Spartan Fashion Editor Betty Wolcott writing up all the smooth outfits on campus . . . Peggy

Green, rush chairman, dividing time between potential Thetas and the Phi Delt . . . And popular Betty Lou Herb — that was before she had to operate her own switchboard to get all her calls . . . The Theta's contribution to the war effort, Honorary Cadet Colonel Majel Wheeler, polishing her silver medals and waiting for the Sigma Nu whistle . . . Jean Critchfield, holding up the house average and still finding time for trips to Ann Arbor . . . Betty McKay, cracking corny jokes and being the model practice teacher . . . Barb Mabie, tuning up for Carnegie Hall . . .

Remember back in the good old days . . . ?

Epsilon Chi

FIRST ROW: H. Bloom, I. Rosensweig, F. Wilkins, E. Pick, R. Taylor, R. Friedman. TOP ROW: E. Sobel, E. Resnick, A. Winkelman, S. Newman, S. Blumenau.

Epsilon Chi bids adieu to three swell members this June. But even though it's goodbye in a way, prexy Flossie Wilkins's well seasoned wit, treasurer Rose Taylor's scholastic prowess and social chairman Irene Rosensweig's knack for making things just a bit nicer won't be forgotten.

These girls along with the rest of the members of Epsilon Chi played an important part in gaining the widespread recognition for a "going" sorority, scholastically, socially, and athletically.

Fall term saw Epsilon Chi rank the highest scholastically with an average of 1.820. It was the third consecutive term that we have led the rest of the sororities in obtaining high marks. At the Pan Hellenic banquet Epsilon Chi received honorable mention for taking second place scholastically for the whole year with a 1.7 all-sorority average, 1/10 of a point behind the trophy winners Kappa Delta.

Several novel rushing parties, pledging two new members, and a combined term party with Mu Gamma fraternity at the

President	Florence Wilkins

W. A. A. cabin, highlighted the fall term social season.

Winter saw the girls of Epsilon Chi go athletic minded, participating in bowling, swimming and badminton. Four new pledges were added to the Epsilon Chi roster. A date roller-skating party and a Chinese dinner party given by the pledges for the actives played an important part in winter social season. Spring term saw the initiation of five pledges at Hunts.

Epsilon Chi girls are still shooting for three things: to be tops in scholastic honors, to obtain a house, and to go national.

Fraternities Give "All Out" Support to the Army

MICHIGAN STATE COLLEGE
OF AGRICULTURE AND APPLIED SCIENCE
OFFICE OF THE DEAN OF MEN
EAST LANSING, MICHIGAN

March 27, 1943

To All Fraternity Chapter Presidents:

As you know, Michigan State College has leased fraternity houses for the duration. It is the plan to quarter in fraternity houses uniformed groups which are here now or which may later come here. The Senior Division of the R.O.T.C. will be quartered, effective March 29, 1943, in the following houses:-

Delta Chi, Delta Sigma Phi, Phi Delta Theta, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon

In event we do not have information on the coming of other uniformed groups by March 29, 1943, which is opening day of Spring Term, the College now plans to house civilian students in fraternity houses. No meal service in any fraternity house is planned for Spring Term 1943.

Please have all men living in your house now, pack their personal belongings and store them all in some one room in the house before they leave the campus for spring vacation.

All trophies, cups, pictures, records, chapter regalia, etc., should be stored in your house office and securely locked before you leave for the spring vacation.

All silver, dishes, linens, cooking utensils, etc., should be stored in cabinets in the kitchen and locked up securely before you leave for the spring vacation.

All general furnishings in the house will be used by those quartered there. If you have valuable pieces such as grand pianos, victrola-radios, antiques, etc., these should be removed from the property and stored by you. Do this before you leave for spring vacation.

You may have members of your group who would like to live in a fraternity house in the Spring Term 1943, which will be operated by Michigan State College. Such men should not be under contract with a private householder in East Lansing for Spring Term 1943. By the time such men return for opening of Spring Term, we should know if these houses can be used for civilian housing. In event these fraternity houses cannot be used for civilian housing, adequate housing facilities to meet civilian needs are available in the city of East Lansing.

Have your caretakers remain on the job during spring vacation to look after the property during your absence. Have caretakers clean up the entire house and have it in readiness for use by Saturday, March 27, 1943.

Please give me a list of men who will be interested in living in a fraternity house in Spring 1943.

If you have any questions feel free to call on me.

Very truly yours,

Fred T. Mitchell

An annual custom is the homecoming decorations by each fraternity. The winners of this year's contest were: Delta Sigma Phi, for the men, and for the women, Sigma Kappa. This year's homecoming game was with Great Lakes.

The third annual regional Interfraternity Conference was held at M.S.C. October 23rd. The various activities of the day were climaxed by a banquet with Dr. W. H. McLean as the guest speaker.

What was supposed to be only temporary possession seems to have become permanent in the case of the I.F.C. Trophy. Ron Heath and I.F.C. prexy Doug Reeve confer here on what disposition should be made of the heavy award. M.S.C. was the first recipient of this trophy for outstanding work.

IFC Regulates Everything Except Men's Pinning

The Michigan State Inter-Fraternity Council will carry on! In spite of the blight on the number of fraternity men caused by the war, the IFC will continue its projects. The Balfour Trophy, symbolic of fraternity service, which the council won last year, was not awarded this year. However, the council prepared a scrap-book that portrayed the activities and functions of the IFC. The book was highly praised by the national council which called it the most outstanding booklet of its kind on fraternity life.

With an eye to the future, the IFC has inaugurated a loan fund for fraternity men who return to college after the war. The council continued its distribution of Christmas baskets to needy families. The tin contribution by the fraternity men swelled the stock for the local scrap drive.

What happens next year? Who knows?

Alpha Epsilon Pi

The last few months have brought a great many changes to M.S.C.'s fraternities, as well as to the world. No exceptions to this statement is Chi of Alpha Epsilon Pi, for not only have many of its brothers been called to the service; but the few remaining men have found it necessary to close the chapter house temporarily.

Without an exception the seven A. E. Pi men who compose the graduating class of 1943 will enter the armed forces. Seymour Flamenbaum, Victor Levin, Emanuel Mullen, Irving Davidoff, and Eugene Kornfield will all be wearing the army khaki. While to the Navy, we are sending Danny Mabel and Sy Baskin whose athletic participation and success we shall long remember.

The brothers remaining on campus have pledged themselves to maintain an active chapter as long as conditions permit. But regardless of where the brothers are sent or what they are doing, they shall always remember the cooking of their unofficial pledge, Henry Griffin, who for the last seven years has pleased the brothers with his culinary arts.

Tau chapter of Alpha Gamma Rho came into existence as such in April of 1922, being the first national fraternity at Michigan State following the lifting of the ban on fraternities.

Primarily an agricultural fraternity, Alpha Gamma Rho assumes the role of a social professional fraternity, and has as its objectives: "To make better men and through them a broader and better agriculture by surrounding our members with influences tending to encourage individual endeavor, resourcefulness and aggressive effort along lines making for the development of better mental, social, moral and physical qualities; to promote a wider acquaintance and a broader outlook on the part of agricultural men through fellowship in a national organization that stands for the best social, mental and moral development."

With the close of the present school year, there are far too many men leaving the ranks of A.G.R. for the ranks of larger organizations ahead, to enable us to eulogize each one. So we will merely wish them all the best of luck, and bide the time, until after the war when once more, we will meet and resume our bull sessions.

Alpha Tau Omega

This was a banner year for the wearers of the Maltese Cross. It marked the departure of most of the loyal sons of the azure and the gold to the armed forces, and left them with many unforgettable memories of college and fraternal life.

The winning of the Interfraternity touch football championship in a bitter battle with the Sigma Nu's, and the later winning of the All-College Intramural Championship were the year's athletic highlights.

Alpha Tau Omega was well represented politically by Jr. Class President Hal Neuman, and Sr. Class Treasurer Joe Borkowski who were duly elected after a rigorous campaign by their fraternity brothers and themselves.

Three of our athletes attained high recognition in the field of sports. Howard Ladue, varsity outfielder, was elected president of the Varsity Club and after tearing much hair, proudly fathered one of the finest Varsity Balls in several years. Meanwhile, miler Bill Scott was elected captain of the Varsity track team and proceeded to turn in some of the best performances of the year. Hurdler Mel Buschman was a mainstay of the track team.

B. M. O. C. Chuck Fratcher crashed into the select "400" set when he was chosen as one of Michigan State's representatives for "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

John "Bald Eagle" Peasley, patriarch of the old "Tic" clan, finally wound up his long and honorable collegiate career. After a never-to-be-forgotten farewell party the "Eagle" joined the ranks of brothers in the service.

L. to R.: Bill King, Burt Schimpke, Barney Schultz, Shadrack (dog)

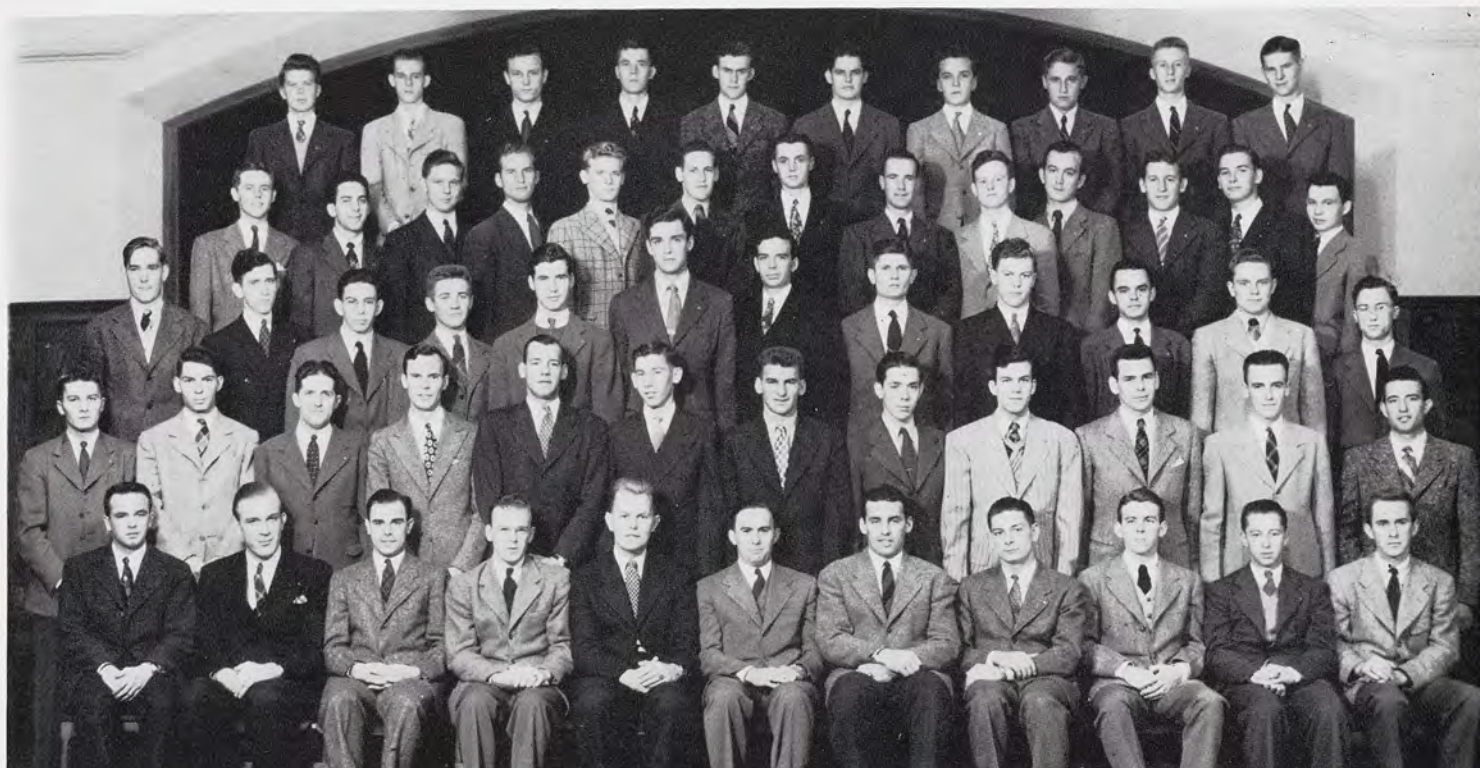

It seems more appropriate to make mention of the underclassmen, since they will be leaving us before the seniors. But let us continue the tradition of passing the graduating class in review.

Among the missing, "come spring term" is Hank Baker, who has changed courses like an Atlantic convoy . . . Don Goulais, "is there a draft card in the house?" . . . Bill King and Harry Wilkinson, who can probably be found at the Sigma Kappa house . . . Walt Maner, a Lansing boy and silent operator . . . George McCullough, the singing engineer . . . Bill "Moon" Monroe, who gave up a front tooth trying to prove football was a mild sport . . . Bill Myers, he's been around here long enough to be on the Board of Ag. . . . Doug Reeve, politician and IFC prexy . . . Barney Schultz, of the famous Schultz Crouch . . . Clinton Texter, the clothing gent or group games kid . . . Dick VanAllsburg, nightly they throw him out of his own room . . . Ted Wisen . . . He is twenty-three, but has to show a draft card to prove it . . . Leo Bourdon, the Union guide . . . Jim Lyman, the Okemos special to East Lansing, postage due . . . John Nowicki, taking Police Ad so he'll know how to avoid the police . . . Ken Teyson, taking Hotel Ad so that when he cooks his own goose he'll have it well done . . . Hugo Wichtel, he instructs the instructor . . . and Bob Vigstedt, who engineered the house to a grand prize in the Water Carnival.

To these boys we say thanks for their contributions to Delta Chi, and wish them lots of luck with the problems of the world and the Japs.

Delta Sigma Phi

With all of Michigan State's Campus geared to the second year of World War II, the men of the Delta Sigma Phi were ready to give the "house beside the river" to the army when Uncle Sam's forces needed it this year, and many Delta Sigs have gone to war.

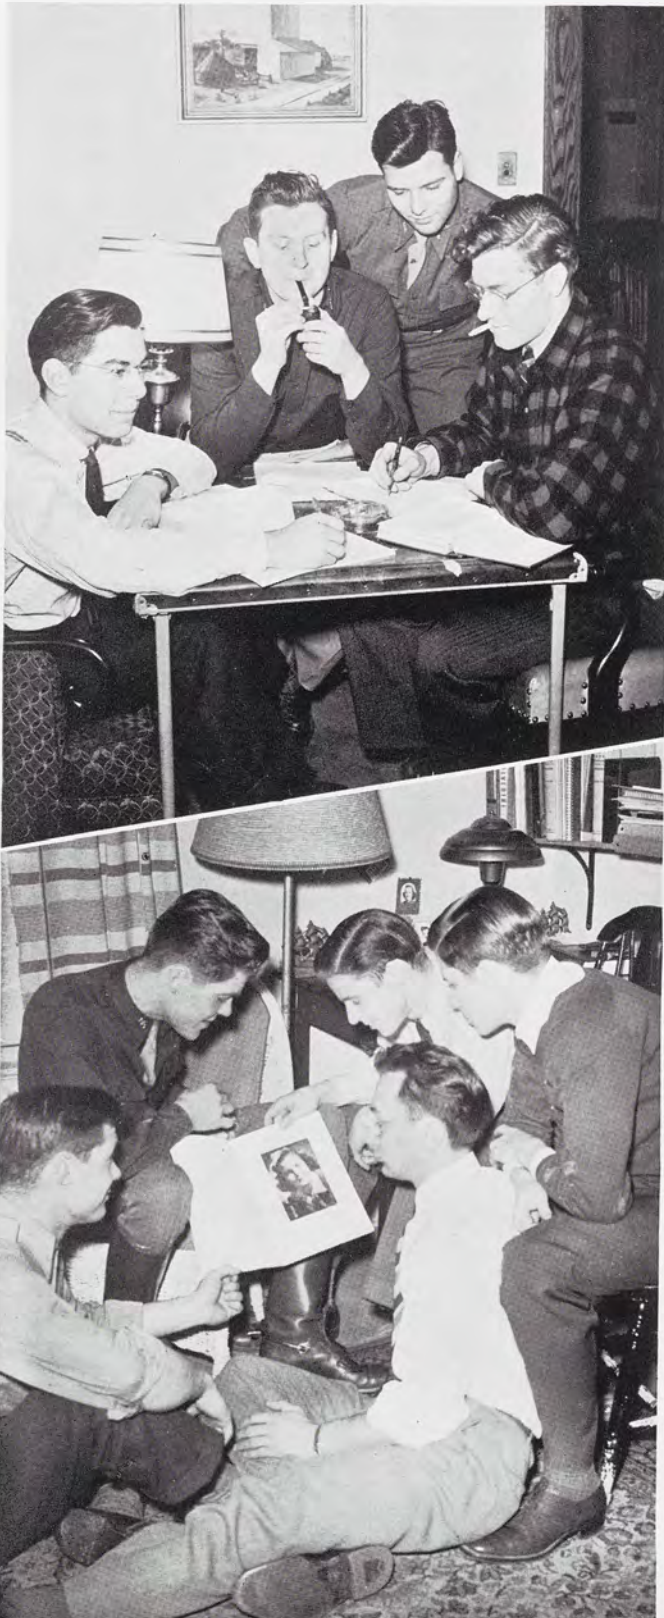

Twenty-three graduating brothers will leave the memories of "front lawn football" and Augie's behind. This year's color scheme at the Delta Sig house was predominantly o.d. and blue. Into the Naval reserve training program are scheduled to go "J.R.," the Delta Sigs' booming house president, Bob Conley and engineer Murrey "The Owl" Longstreth . . . four more of the boys are packing their bags for field artillery training. Swim captain Harold Heffernan, Varsity basketballer Carl Petroski, old "Chief" Lou Petoskey, and Ed Kitchen . . . Headed for cavalry school are Jim "The Killer" Cain, Len "Prof" Rowe, and Freddie Wilson . . . Into the coast artillery will go Jack "Dynamite" Dennis of Blue Key and IFC . . . Just a flag waver is the career of J. Paul "Pablo" Thorne, the contribution to the signal corps . . . and set to serve up the bacon and beans with the quartermaster corps is Paul Wileden, dean of the Wolverine . . . Also to go to QMC School are Al Kage, Big George Ranney and his slow smile, and Chase "Crane" Cooper and his big deals. There will be a big vacant place at the house, too, in the place of Harry Gardner's serenades . . . the automotive genius of Art "Little A" Marshall . . . the dinners of Tom "Murphy" Mayhew . . . Trav Pollock's baritone . . . and the reliable old pipe of the Vets' Duane Kosht . . . Wally "the Head" Gilmore and his good fraternity advice . . . Bill Newman — he had more calls from more girls than any man in the house . . . and El Smith who was the only engineer ever caught with a tie on. They're all leaving, but they're planning to come back — some alumni day.

We always begin the year with zest and vigor, but hate to give in to the fate of the last year at State. The men who are the seniors may deem themselves lucky, in a way, for they remained here on campus a little longer than some of the other boys.

Prexy Emery Smith was married on his birthday, December 25th . . . Treasurer Don Chamberland seems to still insist that we know where he lives if we have any extra cash . . . Brothers Jack Daniels, Dick Goodale and Walt Weber put out their Pearls and Rubies to the flame of their lives during the first term . . . Cold winter, eh? . . . Housemanager Andy Watson has still to make a mistake on those fines. He's the "Always-gets-his-man" type . . . Bob Renz got his sheepskin after fall term and made off to Naval Officers' School . . . Al Van Dyke insists that there are colder places than Michigan but he doesn't want to see them . . . Ted Ross has certainly kept 'politickin' around as I.F.C. rep and has yet to control that New Joisey accent . . . Bob Brayden is the old faithful alarm clock and doesn't fail to do a good job scrambling us out in the morning when the bunks are so comfortable. Hank Kennedy had a great time doing his practice teaching and never seemed to get tired of making a path from Olivet to East Lansing.

Let us not forget the boys that will have reason to look into the future to a time when they can return to the Alma Mater for their last years here.

And that was the biggest piece of news that came to the Hespies during this turbulent year. Yes, at last the boys went national and it was our good fortune to receive the news just as the transition came for the college to go on a military basis. As our house went national, so did the boys go national for Uncle Sam. P. C. Althen and Freddy Rowe are going to row boats for the Navy . . . Guy Dygert will be around looking for a quarter-horse motor that he swears was stolen . . . Littul Eddie Glacy decided to give the ERC and the government a break . . . Don Graham has been losing weight for the Navy while Larry Hardy was made a corporal in the Army to do service in The Battle of the Campus . . . C. Jack Jehle will quit playing bridge and be a vet — maybe! . . . Bob Ryskamp, Bob Nelson, Bruce Mac Arthur, and Ed Jolly go to Kansas with the Cavalry and Bill Patch is off for Infantry school. Tom McGurrin will be in the QM and that is why all of the boys will starve to death . . . Mac is so slow . . . "Black" Murphy took off for the army with intentions of beating all the advanced ROTC boys to OTS . . . Bob Pokorny was called by the Air Corps and now Uncle Sam can relax . . . And that brings us to a close except for one character — namely Arthur J. Underwood, Jr., who, after years and years on the State News business staff, is an even bet to make money.

Well, our show has lasted four years . . . which is longer than lots of Broadway shows. Now we're billed for Tokyo or Berlin. What a show that'll be.

Graduation got twenty of our men and the armed forces got the rest. This is the story of the Kappa Sigmas for 1943 told in one simple little line. Gathering up the seniors in the house this year, the Castle will lose twenty brothers. The army will handle the graduation aftermath plans for four of the men. Judgy, Prexy, Chuck Hannert takes his police administration knowledge to the artillery batteries for the duration . . . Jack "Snuffy" Smith, top-ranking man in the cavalry unit, Bill Gaynier of Union desk fame, and Ernie Guy, varsity cheerleader, will all go into service with the horse soldiers . . . Harold Folks takes a commission with the quartermaster corps . . . Seven of the Star and Crescent men will turn their attention from Spartanland to the duties of the sailor world soon. Ed Sewell switches his talent from the campus politics to deck officer training in the Navy . . . House treasurer, Walt Ekberg has similar plans along with Baseballer "Pinky" Getz, George Weber, Dale Ryan, Bill Vissing, and Elmer Hollenbeck. "The Mole" Beardslee will don his wings with the Army air corps . . . Herve Hunt and Howard Walbridge let cupid get his choke-hold on them early this year and now rank as the married men of the house (more properly out of the house). Their future is up to official jurisdiction which amounts to a constant sway between draft board and wife's orders . . . Engineers Bill "Atlas" Gotshall, Jim (I-don't-know-ask-Proc-tor) Hough, and Ed "Rushee" Plomer, will go into technical warfare wherever they can do the mostest of the bestest . . . Of the seniors this leaves Footballer Jack Fenton, Grappler Bill Maxwell, and Lee Lillie, the businessman, who at the present are 4-F'ers. What they do and when, hovers around "re-classification."

Lambda Chi Alpha

To be sure, losses via the draft and reserves are of much more concern this year than those of graduation. However, 'tis a deep wound that the sheepskin brigade leaves in the ranks of Lambda Chi's. Fourteen proud sons leave the Haslett Hamlet to do their part in shortening the huge task which lies ahead.

For instance, Fred Mitchell's homeward excursions across the alley must come to an abrupt end. Johnny Schluter leaves countless friends hereabouts. A scholar, a athlete, and gentleman through and through — that's "Uncle John." No longer will Joe LaValley's advice "don't wait up for me" greet us when we rush down from the dorm at 3:00 a.m. to answer a supposedly important telephone call. Then too, no longer will Jack Knight's fascinating stories of "The Aristocracy of the North" echo through the hall during the mythical quiet hours.

Lambda Chi's four-year monopoly on the senior football managership comes to an end as Bob Shedd accepts his sheepskin. Bob Van Antwerp drives his scarlet Cord from the parking lot for the last time and leaves room for at least two "normal cars." Official photographer Wes Showalter has snapped his last picture. Butch Englehardt leaves a long line of admiring coeds. Chem major Bill Fulmer leaves.

A triumvirate of chem majors, Jim Carman, "Professor" John Brooks, and quiet Bob McCowen, have dropped their last test tubes. Two more engineers, George Moon and Claud Marshall, start pushing sliderules for pay.

Gamma Omicron thus bids farewell to a grand bunch of fellows.

The men of Michigan Beta of Phi Delta Theta entered this first school year of World War II with one outstanding aim in mind — to prepare themselves to the best of their ability for their part in the present conflict, and so to carry on the tradition of the sword and shield.

Seventeen upperclassmen were enrolled in the R. O. T. C. Advanced Course, and are looking forward to receiving their commissions in the not-too-distant future. Many of the younger members have left school to enlist in various services.

Social activities were "streamlined" to war time. Nevertheless, the winter term formal party, held at the chapter house, was enjoyed fully as much as any in the past. The efforts of an ensemble composed of the more talented brothers relieved the orchestra for a few dances. This, coupled with impromptu entertainment by numerous "born M. C.'s" made the party probably the last for the duration, one to be long remembered.

High point of winter term at the Phi Delta Theta house was a flag presentation ceremony at which Secretary Karl McDonel, Lt. Col. Edmund C. Stillman, Major Gerald Peterson, Dean Fred T. Mitchell, and their wives were special guests of the fraternity. The Mother's Club made and presented a large service flag, bearing sixty-one stars for members now in the service. An American flag was presented at the same time by Major Peterson, an alumnus of Michigan Beta, in behalf of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hays, who gave it in memory of their son, James G. Hays III.

Phi Kappa Tau

1943, and another year has slipped by at the Phi Kappa Tau Inn. And another batch of battered seniors walk through the Phi Kappa Tau portals for the last time as students of Michigan State college. Gone will be Bill "Chober" Chapel, prexy by demand, who replaced Ted Halbert when Ted dropped out of school last year . . . Fred Ferguson, known to all as "Fergie," our state board exam worrying senior vet . . . Pete Trezise, the dormitory conversationalist and rat-race ringleader who held the thankless treasurer's job . . . Frank "Pop" Nemetz, "come up to the rathskell," and his "propegenda liflits from the Gestapo booreau" . . . George Hackman, former all-college footballer and basketballer, who took care of the Delta Zetas . . . Chuck Hubbard, genial engineer who "pined" away because of a girl back home . . . Frank "Saratoga" Izzo, student council elections chairman and Phi Kappa Tau story teller, who thinks New Yawk is the only state in the union . . . Jerry "Lover" Linton, "Gee, what a date!" and "Well, I guess I'll pass my pin this weekend" . . . Bill "Basso" Barr, the stalwart of the barber-shop harmony gang, and sun-tanned lad from Grand Haven . . . Bob "Noisey" Coates, our Tau Bet genius who helped keep up the house average . . . and Ellis "Rip" Brandt, State News associate editor and Blue Key man, the guy who would rather sleep than eat. Where they go, nobody knows. In times like these however, its not hard to guess.

Comes the merry, merry month of June and the "nine old men" of the Pi Kap house will be on their way. Where and when will be more or less up to their "Uncle Sam," but those who remain will remember with smiles the antics of Archon "Pearly" Gates, Band Prexy, and the biggest wolf that a certain pretty "vet" ever tamed . . . Kelly Carter, pessimist deluxe, who could manage 23 credits and a full time romance both simultaneously and successfully . . . "Haba Haba" Lawler, I. F. C. secretary and house politico, a man with his eye on the ball . . . Museleman Russ Monroe, a 'vet,' but all right for all that . . . Dick George, B. M. O. C., campus bigwig and engineer extraordinary, truly a good man . . . Johnny Potts, dean of the "nine old men"; who'll we borrow our cigarettes from now? . . . Erv Raven, a dairyman afflicted with a chronic mustache . . . and "Pick" Pickleman, a two-point engineer who never engineered a date.

Alpha Theta doors will always be open to these graduating seniors. And to Pi Kaps entering service, though they're not all seniors, we'll say, "Till we meet again." To Bob Robbins and Lee Ross, to senior "Jute" Hartsema and Wesson Ritchie, Al Bennett, Bob Blett, Jack Ricker, Max Bottomly, Jack Lovett, and "Little Dick" Overton. To all Pi Kaps who are leaving this year, Alpha Theta wishes you the best of luck.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

The twenty-two graduating seniors of the Sig Alph club will fit into many branches of our Armed Forces. Duane Faulman, a cavalry man, leaves for West Point in July . . . Jack Bush, senior prexy, will continue his work in the coast artillery . . . James Anderson is hoping for a place on the coast as is Ralph McGaw, commonly known around the house as R2 . . . Bob Arendshorst will continue training his voice until Uncle Sam points his finger in Bob's direction . . . Bill Mann, Gene Freeman, and Jack Slater are keeping their fingers crossed in hopes of carrying on their police work while under the direction of the government . . . Max Dillingham is anticipating the quartermaster corps . . . Dick Griswold, Dick Grover, Hank Hipp, Bob Freeman, and William Peterson, will be either building the bridges for our troops to cross or blowing them up so enemy troops won't be attacking us . . . Bob Seibert will continue mixing chemicals which will down many Japs . . . Using that pleasant voice, Phil Molloy will carry on by giving his men orders in the infantry division . . . To see that the soldiers get paid each month, Bill Johnson and Don Meyers are majoring in business administration . . . Hank Willis, a public ad. major, left with the rest of the ERC . . . We have Chuck Sutton majoring in pre-med . . . Ed "Ripper" Ripmaster is planning to use his knowledge obtained in the phys ed department for training his men in the field artillery . . . and Bill "Rebel" Rupp, ag major, will furnish the hungry mouths with food.

So long! We hear Uncle Sam calling — come back and see us after the war!

Sigs all — Arthur Cooper, always promotin'. This likeable Vet writes chapter love stories as well as he handles a scalpel . . . Raymond Darling is another brother headed for Fort Sill. His favorite rostrum is the AOPi house where his pin reposes . . . Larry Farnsworth, that slide trombone from Lakeview playing out of this world. Larry's noted for his confidential I.F.C. reports . . . Robert Geyer, the first consul of our chapter. Bob, with rotund figure and butch cut led his brothers to Sigma Chi . . . Jack R. Gibson, East Lansing branch, Buffalo Chamber of Commerce. Ricketts spent his college days discoursing on life, love and literature . . . Bruce Greenman, shy, athletic, witty, and strictly Betty's. His yellowed clippings attest to his high school track conquests . . . Ralph Miller, his major is love (Lansing and campus style); his minor is Zoology. Ralph and shipmate Gibson are all set for a P-T boat . . . Rutledge Parker, baggy pants; long distance calls to Connecticut; never wore socks till his junior year; that's Fritz . . . Dave Sullivan, the "Black Mick." First president of Royal Society of Ye Bloody Axe. P.S. Dave's a Vet . . . Jess Ramaker, the shabby cabby. First winner of the jeweled White Cross. He'll soon be trying for a distinguished Flying Cross . . . Roy W. Van De Bogart, an engineer from Niagara Falls who's a powerhouse in the grill as well as in the civil lab . . . Albert Ware, the farmer who came to college to get educated — we'll miss Al when we want blind dates . . . Roy Westcott, when not balancing the Sig Books, he's on his way to Fowlerville and the fair (Betty) . . . George Zimmerman, wavy-haired "Zip" is a slide rule fondler supreme. He's an embryo second "looiie" from Rochester, N. Y. . . . Lister Simons Quiroz, the Latin American menace to campus womanhood — our unofficial rushing chairman who's pledged half of Mason Hall's best to the Sig House . . . Sigma Nu

Another excellent year for Sigma Nu, scholastically, socially, and athletically, is drawing to a close. Six of the graduating seniors will don the army khaki, while five men of the Class of '43 will wear the blue and gold of the navy.

The Army lays claim to Jack Rasmussen, Blue Key and Excalibur "big-shot" on campus . . . Jim "Socrates" Pingel, arguer of note and brother of State's immortal Johnny Pingel . . . Vin Gaines, iron handed and rosy palmed marshal who is headed for the Signal Corps . . . Bob "Hot Lips" Vroman plans to take a week off in June to rob bandleader Phil Spitalny of one of his cutest attractions. Then he proceeds to the nearest field artillery camp . . . Scooter Blue, the poor man's Charles Atlas will leave for the army with his weight lifting record still unchallenged . . . And the last of the army men, our capable Eminent Commander, Bill Beardsley. He's known in Beaverton as "Little God." Bill will pass the candy bars as a member of the quartermaster corps.

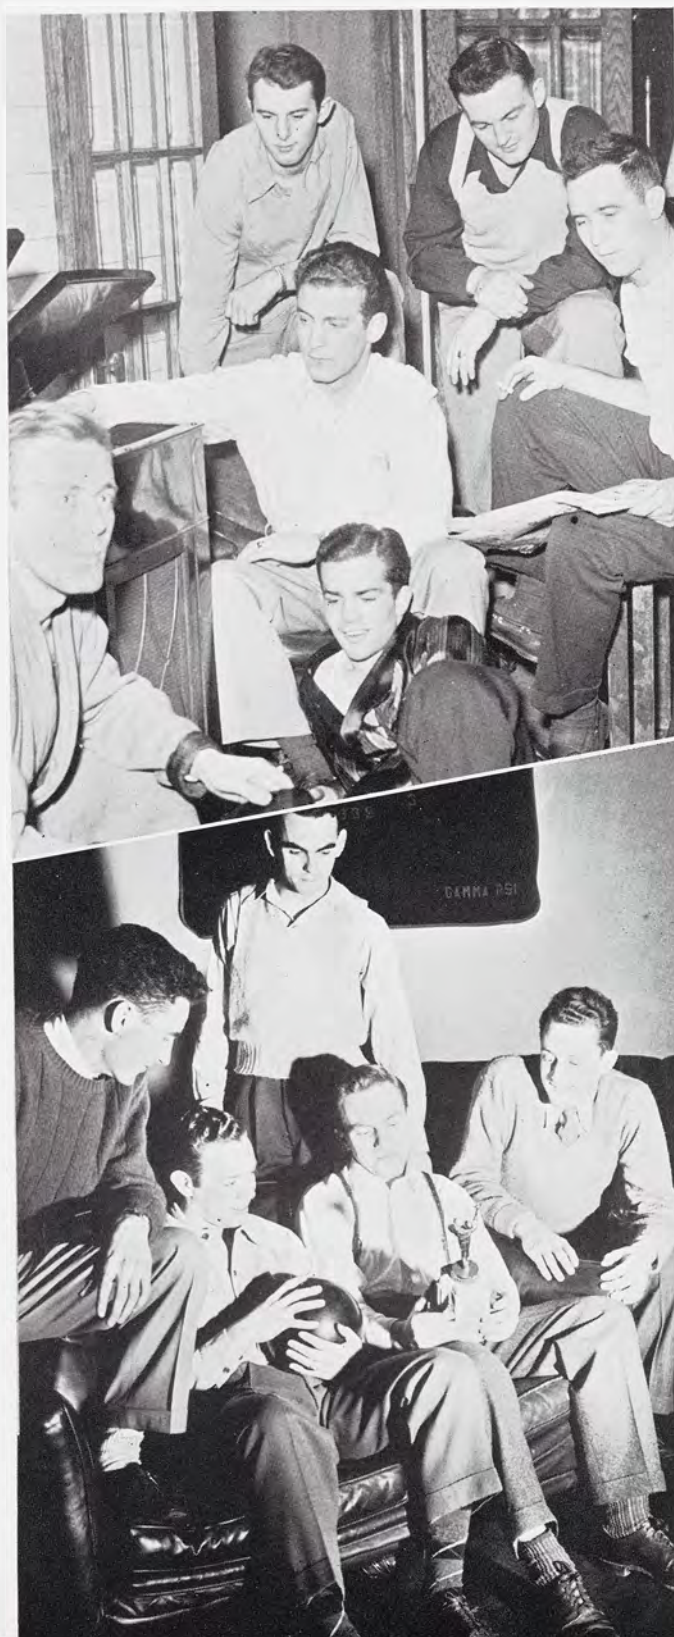

As for the navy, its personnel will include Bill Menzel, eminent engineer and Chi O swain of repute . . . Ed Cavanaugh who should appreciate a few thrills on the sea after spending the winter teaching in Williamston . . . Don Otto, well known for his Abbott Road ventures as well as his IFC doings . . . Frank Northway, cribbage champion, organizer and leader of excursions to Muskegon . . . and Dick Kieppe, winner of the Governor's award and recipient of many professional football offers.

It is to these men that we say, "Good Luck," and may we all meet again soon.

Theta Chi

TOP: Homecoming Decoration efforts garnered second place. BOT-TOM: Bill Konde and Fred June talk things over with the boys.

Graduation again, and with it go our seniors who have — in spite of the draft — managed to finish their courses.

We'll miss them all . . . Harlan Pitcher, our Prexy, and a fine man . . . Bob Paris, why he never passed his pin we can't figure out . . . Doc Holtz, equally adept at bandaging horses or humans . . . and handsome Dick Buth, our pool shark and Grand Rapids commuter.

Also, we'll miss Fred June, the heaviest sleeper we have ever met. He could shut off his alarm clock while he was still asleep. And if married life helped Bill Mahoney get a 2.5 average, we're all for getting married during Freshman Week. We are wondering who will keep the boys informed about the war now that our military strategist, Loren Tukey, is gone. When victory comes, we hope Bob Carlson will be able to take time out from designing cities to make plans for our new house.

To all of you we bid "bon voyage" and a fond farewell.

Alpha Chi Sigma

From Alpha Chi Sigma, twenty-five seniors will receive their sheepskins.

Prexy Dick Wooley will finally vacate that front couch which he has constantly occupied all year. Then there is Stan Arthurs who leaves a huge gap in the personnel of the Chem building as he takes his wife along, too. Don Pedginse will be remembered for his work on the intra-mural fields as well as his "work" at Monty's (just over the hill, to Detroit). Gus Engstrom leaves an excellent record of "steadies" behind.

Fred Bayer and his Tau Beta Pi key leave school, which he disliked so much, despite a 2.4 average . . . "Big Mike" Dendrinis, the mat king, takes his good nature along with him (as well as his charming wife, darn it) . . . House Manager Ed Daszewski is finally relieved of his "duties" at the Potter House . . . Henry Pfeuffer, John Guenther, and Neil Graf will be remembered for their sessions of the finer music appreciation . . . Doug "Einstein" Eisenlohr takes his many theories along, while "Bridge Champ" Baker can now devote more time to homework . . . Bud Jarvis' old Ford will be missed rattling in the back yard.

Bud Rapp leaves the Delta Zeta house (finally), while his inseparable roomie, Larry Bayer will miss his nightly peanut butter and jelly sandwich . . . Pyron Johnson and Rodger "Whiskey" Saur finally get away from that front penthouse . . . It's too bad that Long Tom Kennedy has won his spurs only to be transferred to Chem Warfare.

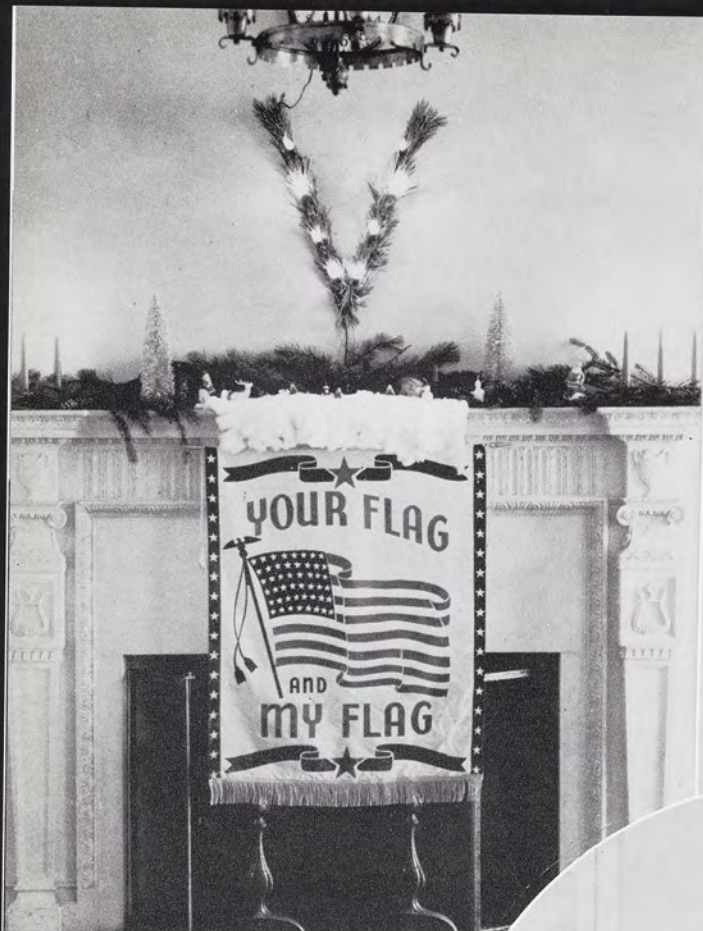

This year, the undergraduates also depart and interrupt their education to clean up a minor matter overseas, but we hope that most of them will return to receive their own senior send-off, so 'nuff said for them.

This mantle Christmas decoration in the lounge of Abbot Hall proved to be prophetically symbolic. For spring term found men in khaki replacing the zoot-suited students, as the dorms housed army students.

The main cog behind the Men's Residence Halls was Mr. Beachum. He, with the aid of his secretary Miss Cady, had the responsibility of keeping things tip-top for the 800 college students.

Being a friend and house mother to the fellows who were in Abbot Hall was the full-size job of Mrs. Goodwin. She's shown talking with Mrs. Geisenhof (right) who fulfilled the same duties for the men of Mason Hall. Those were the days before spring term, too!

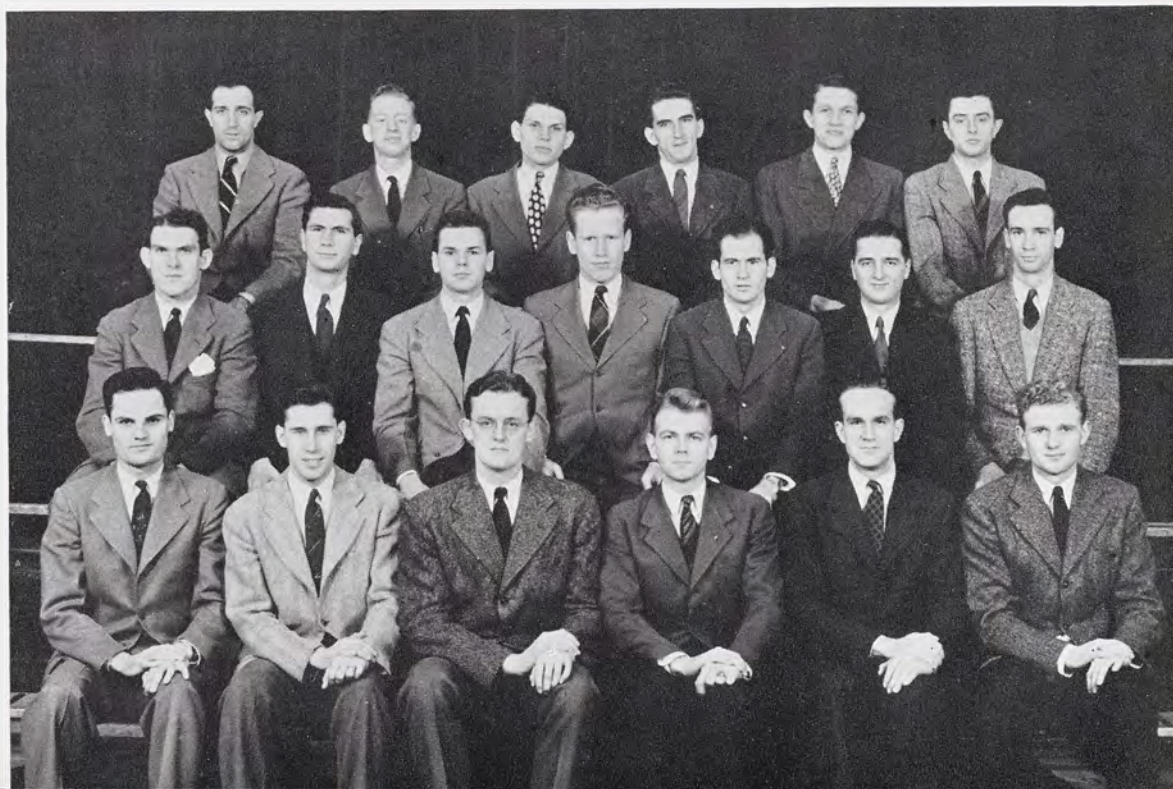

Mason-Abbot Club

The Mason-Abbot Club, headed by Dick George, is organized for the sole purpose of providing for the social needs of all men residing in Mason-Abbot dormitory.

Upon payment of one dollar a year, each member becomes eligible to participate in the various radio parties, term parties and exchange dinners. Besides these social activities, the club buys newspapers and magazines for leisure time reading.

Branching out this year onto a war time basis, the Mason-Abbot Club sponsored a bond and stamp drive, organized a tin can salvage program, and started a sugar beet pulling contest between precincts during the labor shortage last fall.

Mason Hall

Like a great many of the men who have lived inside its walls, Mason Hall is now serving Uncle Sam. Winter term was the last one seeing normal dorm life. But those leaving Mason will remember it for a long time — the midnight bull sessions . . . frantic cramming the night before final exams . . . last minute rushes to the grill for a hot sandwich before closing time . . . leaping from bed just in time to make that Saturday 8 o'clock . . . jamming the shower rooms just before a dance . . . waiting for the mail . . . a fast game of ping-pong or billiards in the game room . . .

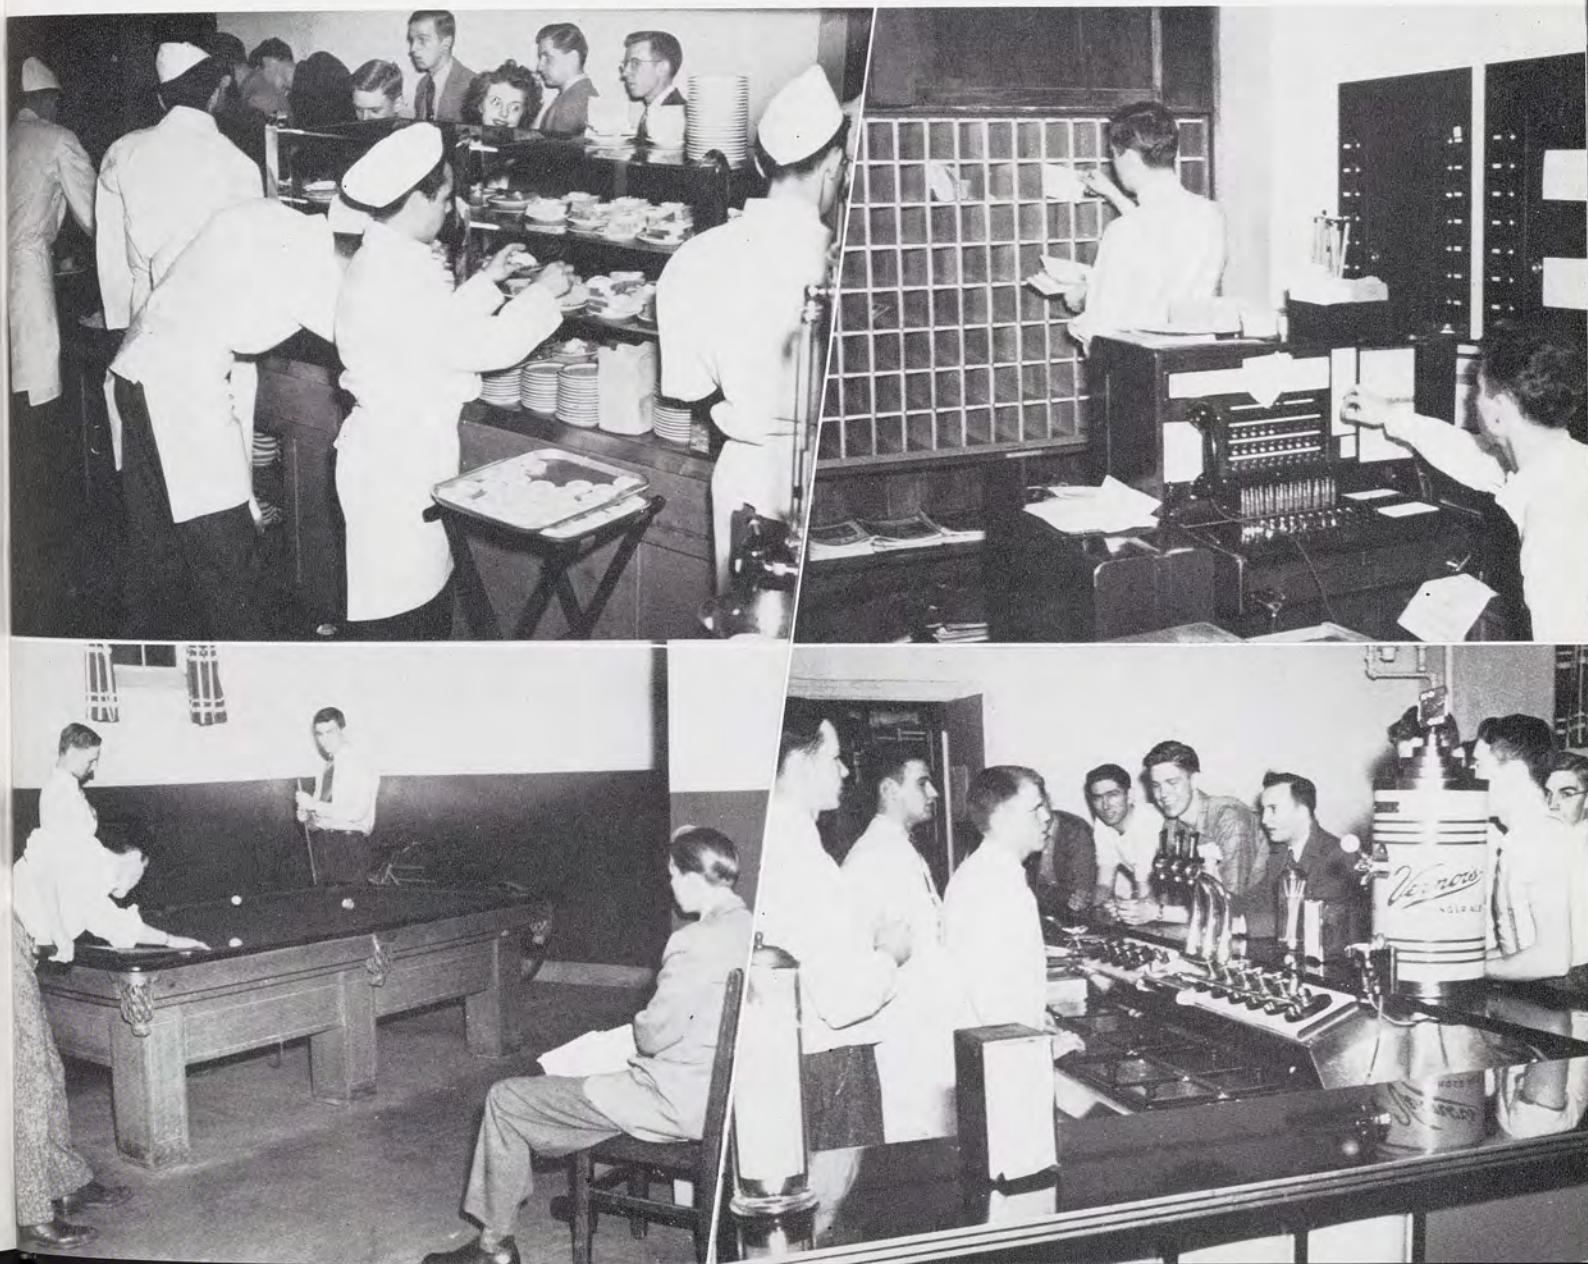

Under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Geisenhof, this year Mason Hall had one of its best years. Mass blind dates, exchange dinners, and radio parties all made up a pleasant and varied social schedule. This year will also be remembered for the high standard of achievement in the competitive football and basketball leagues.

This year on campus has been marked by the loss of both faculty members and fellows to the armed forces, and Abbot Hall has been more than generous in that respect. Mr. Goodwin, who had been the popular resident advisor for the past three years, left in January to become a junior officer in the Navy. He has been a great help to the men both as an advisor and as a friend, and his leaving was definitely a case of our loss being the Navy's gain. Mrs. Goodwin, whose official title is Social Hostess, has been perpetually busy arranging blind dates for her "Cherubs" and generally supervising the social life and happiness of four hundred and fifty men. With this good supervision behind them, Abbot Hall has had a full year, mentally, socially, and physically.

The fellows in the dormitory made an honest attempt to study this year. The regular class studying was varied with Marine Corps correspondence lessons, CDC courses and some extra studying on Military Science.

The social season, as always, was highlighted with the term parties, semi-formal, formal and informal. Those nights are the nights when all the fellows borrow each others tuxes, tails, shirts, ties, studs, shoes, and socks. There is a wild rush on the telephone system for dates, and any means are legal to get them.

Abbot had the regular full program of intra-mural athletics to build up good, bad, and indifferent physical specimens, and to build up, incidentally, some good old-fashioned rivalry between the nine precincts. The touch football season attracted the most attention in spite of the broken jaws, legs, etc., which result from that gentle game. Basketball doesn't lack popularity, but with all the snow this year, everybody was wishing that the Field House had been built at the east end of the campus. Soft-ball, the third major sport, was in play during spring term. Besides the major sports, there was always competition in ping-pong, hand ball, pool, and the "turkey trot."

These things, along with the always too empty mail boxes, the sings around the piano, and the bull sessions in the rooms, exchange dinners, radio parties, and sleigh rides are the incidents remembered about Abbot Hall.

No longer are the "Co-ops" in the experimental stage. These fledglings of the campus houses have made a place for themselves, from the time they first tried their wings in the spring of 1941. The Michigan State Cooperative Federation, whose membership has passed the 250 mark, was an answer to an economic, political, and social need. By student operation and upkeep of the various houses, it has been possible for many students of limited financial resources to remain in college.

Elsworth and Hedrick houses were born as a sample of what can be done when democracy rolls up its sleeves, spits on its hands, and goes to work. It is one of those "impossible jobs," but the men worked, struggled, sweated, and won — won through to find their visions take a concrete shape.

Big brother Hedrick, who is five years old, gave a helping hand when Elsworth got its start. Today Elsworth is just a three-year-old institution, but the service flag over the fireplace has thirty stars, and there will be twenty more in June.

Hedrick and Elsworth Cooperatives

The men who leave the houses this year go out into the great cooperative adventure of mankind. Today the cry is unity; unity of effort and unity in the sincerity of purpose. For whenever great deeds are done, men must work together. The men of the fraternal cooperatives know the value of this fact. It is their axiom.

Louise Campbell

No sooner did A.W.S. lift the ban on dating before 4 p.m. on steps and terrace than the boys came around at 3:55 to say "So long for a while." Oh, well, at least the forty girls were moved out of the two recreation rooms by then so we could knit for the Red Cross while we were dummy at bridge. Those hen parties we had down there spring term were much fun, once we understood that dates really weren't as plentiful as in the long ago.

We really worked for the war effort this year. Most of Campbell pledged a weekly sum in war stamps, and the offices did a whopping business. We did some wool-gathering, too, only it was leftover yarn to be used for Red Cross afghans.

The dorm dance winter term, in cooperation with Williams, Mayo and North Hall, netted $150.00 profit which we put in the Spartan Victory Loan Fund. We thought it was a good job, and so were the other dances, recognition parties, and birthday dinners, even though only the persons at the birthday table got cake. If we knew someone up there we usually got a piece anyway. Campbell is a swell place to live in these changing times.

Sarah Williams

By the buzzin' around and the borrowing of Sadie's silver slippers, and Daisy's false eyelashes, we know that the gals over in Sarah Langdon Williams dorm are some of the most dated on campus. Michigan Bell Telephone runs a close second on the amount of telephone calls. A pajama-clad girl dashing madly down a dimly lit corridor to answer her buzzer is a familiar sight. Of course, the fact the phone booth is usually occupied by a blushing Juliet listening to her romantic Romeo, doesn't bother a Williams girl who runs to another floor collecting late minutes on the way for a noisy flight.

The gals from Williams aren't only tops in the dating field, but pulled honors in the sports world, namely golf.

But, Profs don't care about dates, trophies, and life in the smoker.

"How about the books?" they query. A moment's pause, then a sweet, enlightened look appears.

"Oh, sir, we all strive for a three-point."

"Young lady," a stern voice asks, "What is the purpose of Williams dormitory?"

"Outside of housing and feeding the girls, we are here to study."

"Good," is the only answer.

Mary Mayo

Brains and beauty do go together and for illustration, we offer Mary Mayo dormitory. Long having had the reputation of being a bunch of grand gals on campus, the Mayoites have now added the distinction of high scholarship. They came out on top of all the other houses fall term.

Mayo is the oldest of the women's dorms and is tenanted for the most part by underclassmen. Not wishing to dash any hopeful males on the rocks of distraction — but most of the sweet young things have already been grabbed off the market.

A recent addition to the Mayo family is housemother, Mrs. James A. Vary who brought not only new methods and friendships, but a mania for puzzles with her.

The Mayo aim is to learn to live together harmoniously, and judging from the number of contented women, it looks as if the girls have hit their goal.

North Hall

Even though Louis Street and North Hall are a long way from the chem building and the auditorium, the girls who call it home would never leave and take up residence somewhere else. The name North Hall always brings up the word friendliness here at Michigan State.

Mrs. Milo B. Bunn, now well established at the dorm is gracious, helpful, and always extends an invitation for girls and guests to visit her. North Hall residents list Mrs. Bunn at the very top of their lists of friends at State.

Memories of North Hall will always run rampant through the minds of the girls — the sunny dining room — those long walks to classes — the adopted cat Louie — traditional tubbings and all the other things that go to make up happy living. The ninety girls really live together and (you'll be surprised!) get along with each other beautifully.

They may be prejudiced, but just ask any North Hall woman where is the best place to live, and she'll always say, "Why North Hall, of course!"

CLASSES

The second year of war made itself felt at M.S.C. by balancing the largest senior class in the college's history with one of the smallest junior classes. Furthermore, it was obvious that the irregular color-pattern of college life of green-potted Freshmen, black-hearted Sophomores, white-faced Juniors, and grey-bearded Seniors was being leveled into the dominant colors of blue and tan. And by spring term there was the prospect of five college classes for the duration: Freshmen, Sophomore, Junior, Senior, and Deferred.

SENIOR OFFICERS

BORKOWSKI, JACKSON, GIBSON, BUSH

Jack Bush, S.A.E., from Rockford, Illinois, is the genial head of the class. He had the dubious honor of being forced to be absent from the Senior Ball because of military affairs. He's ably assisted by Chi O's Betty Gibson, Crystal Falls' gift to the music majors, who is also a corps sponsor. Jean Jackson is the efficient secretary for the class, and an Alpha Gam. To make it two and two, Joe Borkowski, A.T. O., fills the money bag and makes all the financial calculations.

Meet Queen Patricia Wise, Sigma Kappa, and King Peter Buth, Alpha Gamma Rho. They were winners of the positions for the second Mardi Gras held on campus last fall term.

JUNIOR OFFICERS

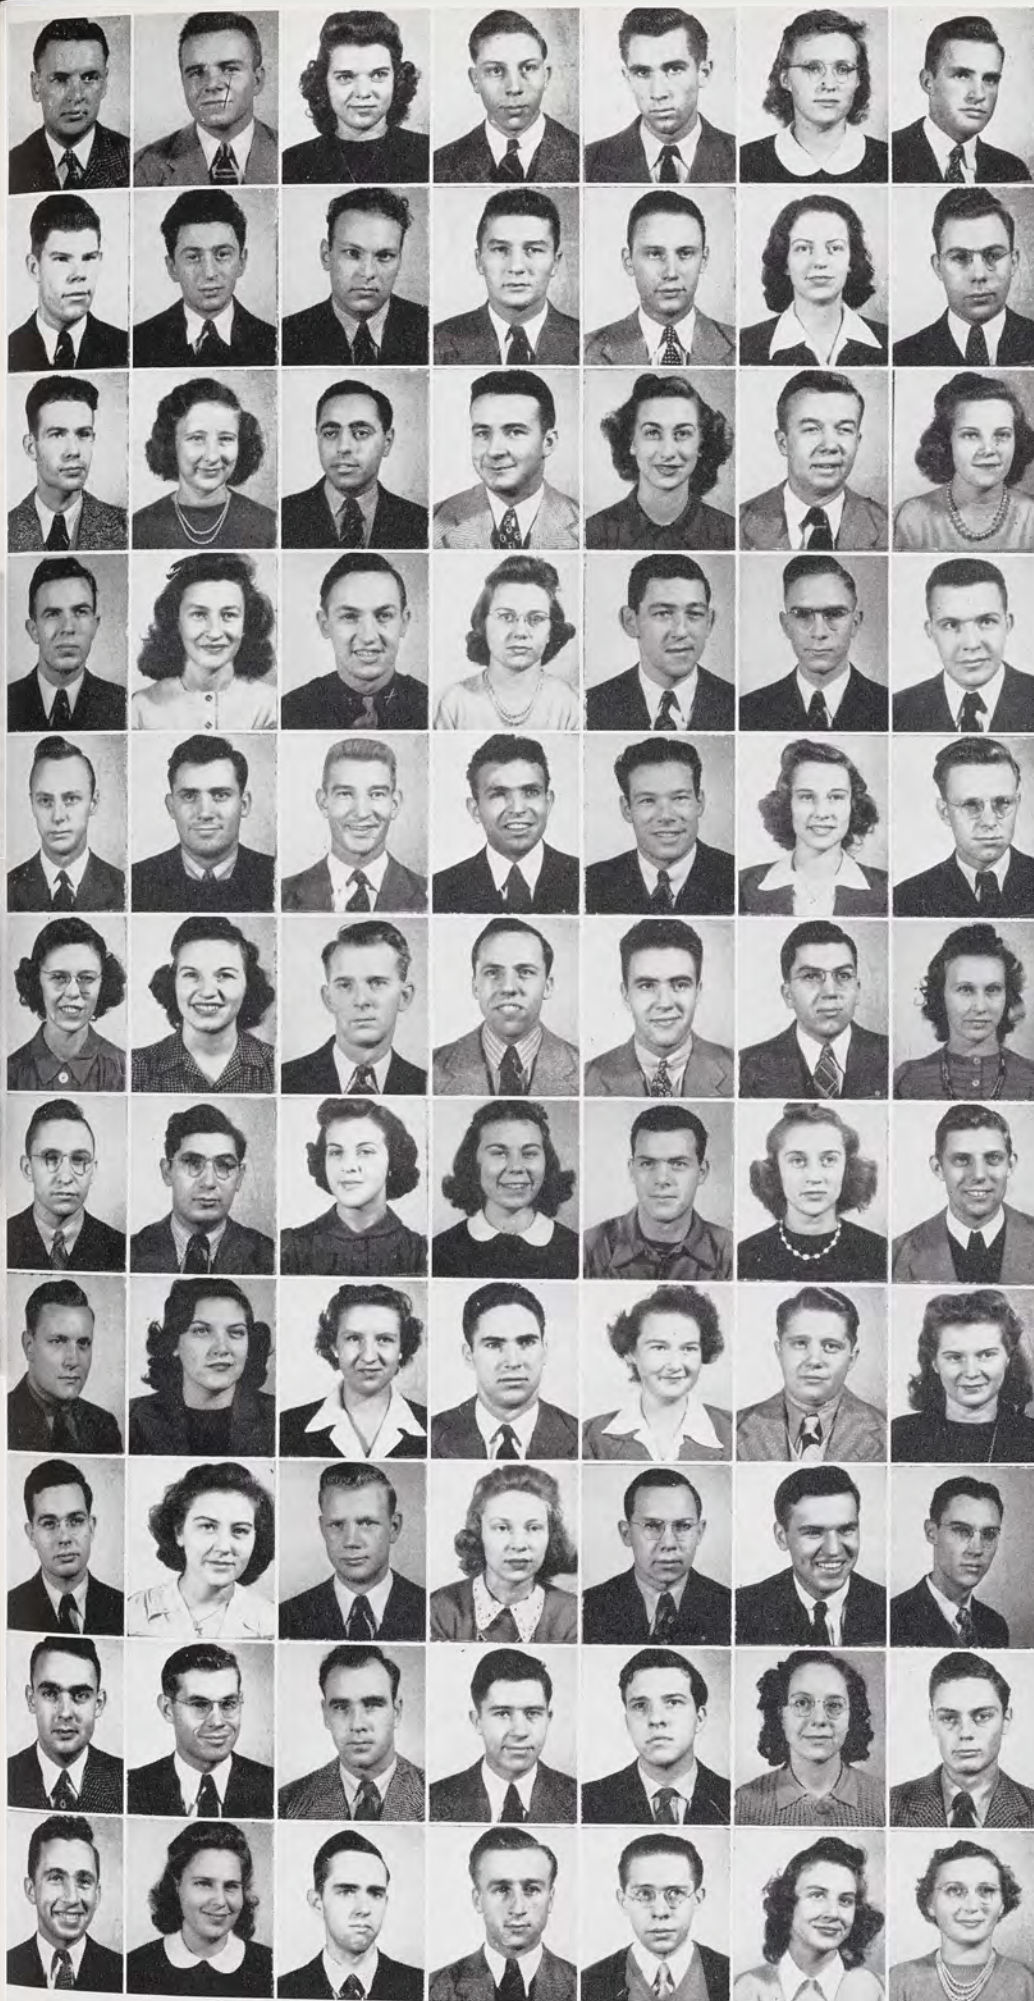

WEBER, LUDWIG, KLEAVER, NEUMANN

When Hal Neumann left for the Navy in February he left behind the presidency of the Junior class, and of the A.T. O. house. Hence the former task is being handled by Alpha Gam Linda Weber from Buffalo. Secretary of the class is Mary Jane Kleaver, Alpha Phi from Grand Rapids, who has made it her business to work on all the class dances. Al Ludwig from the Delta Sig house, and Detroit, took charge of the money received from the J-Hop and similar activities.

INDECO GUIDES TO BETTER ANNUALS

STABILITY

Since the turn of the century the Indianapolis Engraving Company, Inc., has maintained the highest standards of quality and intelligent cooperation, thus accounting for the continuous use of our service by many high schools, colleges and universities.

QUALITY

Indeco quality is the finest that modern equipment and skilled craftsmen can produce. Every engraving is unconditionally guaranteed to be a perfect printing plate and to give a faithful reproduction of your engraving copy.

SPECIALIZATION

Our service includes help in planning and designing, suggestions on how to get the best pictorial effects, assistance in preparation of engraving copy, and solving the many problems arising in making your book both an editorial and financial success.

IDEAS

The latest ideas in yearbook construction are offered to make the annual best meet the requirements of your particular school. Our "Service Manual" is a complete guide for the staff in their work.

RESULTS

Indeco planned yearbooks have long been recognized as being among the outstanding annuals of the country. You will be agreeably surprised, too, at the purchasing power of your budget. Write us asking for a complete explanation of the Indeco plan.

 INDIANAPOLIS * * * INDIANA

Within these pages may be found the likenesses of many heroes. Some will go forth to win acclaim and the valour of others, equally courageous, will be forever unsung. It has been our privilege to contribute in a small way to their permanent record at this, one of America's great schools. And when Old Glory waves again above a Campus filled with students who walk the happy ways of peace and freedom, let us not forget that those rippling Stars and Stripes are an eternal monument to those, living and dead, who are now going forth unflinchingly to assure the coming and continuance of that happy day. Hats off to the boys, yes, and to the girls of M.S.C.

LUFKIN "RANGER" CHROME CLAD ENGINEER'S TAPE

Engineers who like a durable, compact, easily read steel tape take special note of the Lufkin "Ranger." Its sturdy, flexible steel line is $\frac{1}{4}$ " wide with jet back markings that stand out prominently against the smooth, satin chrome surface. Graduations in feet, tenths and hundredths—or feet, inches and eighths. See it at your dealer's and write for free Catalog 12.

First Impressions are Important

Yes, we all know the value of a first impression. It may be a step toward success — or failure — depending on what we make it. Even the newest recruit in our nation's fighting forces knows this, as he strives to make a good first impression which will prove he has what it takes to win victory for democracy.

This principle applies to yearbook covers — they are also first impressions. That is the reason why we are particular never to overlook the smallest detail of design, color, or finish, which will add to the beauty of your yearbook cover. Thus it will be one which you will remember with pride throughout the years.

"Pass the Ammunition!"

OLDSMOBILE WORKERS HAVE BEEN DOING IT FOR NEARLY TWO YEARS... BACKING UP OUR FIGHTING MEN WITH VOLUME PRODUCTION OF FIRE-POWER

AMERICA is "passing the ammunition" today to almost every corner of the globe. From the skilled hands of her millions of workmen... to the eager hands of her millions of fighting men... the planes and ships and tanks and cannon and shell are passing in a never-ending stream.

From Oldsmobile, for example, come automatic cannon for planes—long-range cannon for tanks—shot and shell for tanks and artillery. Oldsmobile is carrying out these assignments in co-operation with more than 130 subcontractors, working with them as a "Keep 'Em Firing" team. They're part of the free industry of a free country, working to keep it that way. "Let's pass the ammunition," American industry is saying, "and we'll all stay free!"
