At last the long summer of waiting was over . . . A college freshman . . . Four years of fun and learning ahead of us . . . unpacked our trunks . . . filled up our closets and drawers . . . We couldn't wait for things to begin . . .

All set for that long climb up to third with those heavy suitcases?

We were whisked to the auditorium for a convocation . . . it was there we thought we found out about our future college careers . . . little did we know. "There are seven courses in Basic College from which you must choose five to fulfill this school's requirements before going into your major field. One of the five, and required of every student, is Written and Spoken English. Then you have a choice between Social Science and Physical Science, Biological Science and History of Civilization, Literature and Fine Arts and Effective Living. After you have taken the specified courses, you will take comprehensive exams to determine your standing."

With puzzled expressions on our faces we were on our way again . . . this time to see our advisors. They helped us make our schedule of classes. "Freshmen are required to take a Saturday class". We made out our schedules . . . no classes on Monday morning . . . Thursday afternoon off . . . this is wonderful . . . I can get in that game of golf.

After hurrying untraditionally across the grass, we were back at the Aud . . . this time to register. "This line, please", said a girl bending a thumb over her left shoulder . . . and you thought those lines were long in the Army . . . Basic III, nine o'clock section closed! . . . the 12 o'clock section was open . . . but when will we eat lunch . . . rearranging, juggling, and with the assistance of Tower Guard members . . . we finally were registered in college . . . six classes at eight . . . four Saturday classes . . . a broken schedule.

BASIC COLLEGE

Completing its second year at Michigan State is the Basic College system. This new institution was inaugurated so that students might obtain a broad and practical education in their first two years in college before specializing. Intellectual and intelligent living is the purpose of this arrangement.

Seven areas of subject matter are offered. A student must satisfactorily study at least five of these. Comprehensive examinations are an inspiration to independent study in that one may take the exam after one, two, or three terms or without having carried the subject. Passing an exam gives the student nine credits.

Written and Spoken English is required of everyone in Basic College. Communication depends not only on knowledge of the English language, but logical organization of ideas and consideration of interest, clarity, and brevity.

Man is part of a biological world. The purpose of Biological Science is to motivate the student in developing an interest in his position in this world.

Physical Science deals with astronomy, chemistry, geology, mathematics, and physics. Facts and principles significant in human experience are stressed.

The origin, character and possible solutions to problems facing man today are presented in Social Science.

The Effective Living course was established that students might recognize their abilities, develop personalities, participate in family life more successfully, and live intelligently as active citizens of their communities.

The History of Civilizations describes the ideas and institutions of cultures from primitive men down to our own times.

Evaluation and appreciation of the arts of literature, music, and painting is the goal set by Literature and Fine Arts.

AGRICULTURE

The Division of Agriculture is the oldest of the seven Schools of Michigan State College. In the early days of our college only Agriculture was offered by what then was the Michigan Agricultural College.

The three main functions are: resident instruction in Agriculture and Forestry, Experiment Station and Research, and Extension Service. The aim of the resident instruction is to prepare students for successful farming and preparation for the various technical positions in the research and education field of agriculture. The Experiment Station conducts research in the problems that relate to agriculture, such as livestock, soils, poultry, farm management and other fields. County agricultural agents of the Extension Service carry the teachings of the college into every corner of the state, bringing to the farmers the latest and best information available to help guide them in their operations.

Agriculture presents a constantly broadening field. It needs specialists with a scientific background such as this school produces, men trained for actual farm operations, to serve in vocational high schools and industries related to agriculture. Graduates of Michigan State College in agriculture and forestry may be found in the following major lines of work: General Farming, Producers of Certified Seed Grain, Breeders of Purebred Livestock, Packing House Superintendents, Lumber Merchandising, Research Workers in State, Federal Experiment Stations, Specialists in Plant and Animal Breeding, Teachers in Agriculture.

The division of Agriculture, through its many departments, is well provided with modern equipment for student use and instruction. The college possesses an excellent physical plant and equipment; it operates a farm of 2500 acres adjacent to the campus, and in addition, seven sub-stations and demonstration farms totaling over 5000 acres in various parts of the state.

The School of Business and Public Service was established during 1944-45. Previously departments in this school had been administered by other divisions. A Bachelor of Arts degree is offered except in departments of Physical education and Police Administration in which a Bachelor of Science degree is granted.

The Department of Business Administration offers a diversified curricula to prepare men and women for business careers in finance, production, retailing, accountancy, transportation, insurance, real estate, and other fields.

Hotel Administration was organized to meet the demand for trained personnel in hotels. Training is divided into business administration in the hotel, supervision of mechanical services, household economy, and accountancy.

The training of men and women for work on newspapers and in advertising is the purpose of the Department of Journalism. Courses for teaching, public relations work, and editing house or business magazines are also offered.

The Departments of Physical Education, Health, and Recreation for Men and Women offer training for directors, teachers, and athletic coaches.

Because of public demand for trained peace officers, executives, and persons trained in investigating, the Department of Police Administration was formed. The proximity of the Michigan State Police Headquarters to the campus provides excellent opportunities for studying modern police method.

The Public Administration curricula is designed to prepare students for service in federal, state, or local government.

The Department of Social Service, in an attempt to help meet the ever growing demand for social workers trains students for public welfare service.

ENGINEERING

Due to the establishment of Basic College, the curriculum of the School of Engineering has changed. The credits for graduation from this course have been raised from 203 to 216. There are still two types of courses in engineering, however. One is a two year program for which no degree is given, but which helps a student prepare for positions as an engineering aid or as a technician. The other is the four year course which leads to a Bachelor of Science degree.

The Mechanical Engineering Department, in addition to continuing its research with one of the regulator instrument companies studying the flow of air through registers and grills, has placed an added emphasis on the use of air conditioning for refrigeration and food technology.

In connection with the School of Home Economics and the Department of Forestry, the Engineering Drawing Department has presented courses in housing architecture. Recently a course in airplane drafting has been offered.

Students taking Electrical Engineering can specialize in power generation, communication or electronics. This department expects to do cooperative research on induction heating with the Forestry Department.

With increased importance placed upon soil mechanics and foundations, Civil Engineering is emphasising the graphical determination in stresses in structures.

The Chemical and Metallurgical Science Department has continued research projects as part of the war effort under the auspices of the Engineering Experimental Station.

During the year courses were offered in Michigan cities under the Engineering, Science, Management, War Training program of the college in conjunction with the U. S. Office of Education.

HOME ECONOMICS

The Division of Home Economics was established in 1896 with a class of thirty young women and one professor. Today its enrollment ranks second in size among the colleges of the United States.

There are many types of positions in which Home Economics training may be of inestimable value, such as retailing, home furnishing, sales and promotion, journalism, and designing. There are numerous opportunities for young women trained in the science of nutrition to serve as consultants, advisers, and teachers in the field, and with the increasing interest in human welfare, a larger field is opening for the woman who has learned the relation of food to health, the field for the therapeutic dietician. The course in Institution Administration covers industrial food service, dormitory management, school cafeteria management, and commercial Food Service.

The division offers degrees in the department of Child Development, Foods and Nutrition, Institution Administration, Clothing and Textiles and Related Arts, Vocational Home Economics, and Nursing.

VETERINARY MEDICINE

Michigan State's School of Veterinary Medicine is one of the ten officially recognized schools of its kind in the United States. The Department of Anatomy has well-equipped laboratories for teaching gross anatomy of man and the lower animals, histology, and embryology. The Division of Animal Pathology maintains laboratories for instruction and investigation. The staff carries on a program in research and extension education in animal disease control. The Medical Biology curriculum trains women to work as technicians in hospitals, physicians' offices, and public health laboratories. One year internship in a hospital is required for a Bachelor of Science degree. The Department of Physiology and Pharmacology contributes to the student of Veterinary Medicine. Pharmacy and Pharmacology give the student a knowledge of drugs useful in the treatment of diseases of animals. Veterinary Medicine, Surgery, and Clinic is a department requiring one year of pre-veterinary work and four years of technical training. There is a great demand for trained veterinarians in private practice, governmental service, teaching, and research.

Under the division of Language and Literature are the following departments: English, Foreign Language, and Speech and Dramatics. The English department offers courses in composition, language, and literature. Numerous foreign languages are classed in two groups, grammar and translation, and conversational. Major sequences extended by the speech department are: speech, speech correction, radio, and dramatics.

Social Sciences are studies dealing with man's problems from both the actual and ideal viewpoint. Departments in this division include Economics, History and Political Science, Philosophy and Psychology, Religious Education, and Sociology and Anthropology.

In the Physical Science Division are the major fields dealing with material phenomena. Studies in chemistry, geology and geography, mathematics, and physics and astronomy.

The Division of Biological Sciences offers courses which pertain to the origin, structure, and function of vegetable and animal organisms. Included in this division are bacteriology and public health, botany and plant pathology, entomology, physiology and pharmacology, and zoology.

Elementary and Secondary Education are the two departments which constitute the Division of Education. More than 250 men and women compose the faculty of the School of Science and Arts.

SCIENCE AND ARTS

State is growing. Evidence of this is to be seen all over the campus. Where green lawns and trees formerly greeted the eye, huge cranes and excavators are burrowing deep holes from which new brick structures soon will rise. Heavy dump trucks piled high with clay and sand rumble along campus roads to discharge their contents in some secluded area scheduled for a face-lifting treatment. Contractor's sheds, piles of lumber, brick and stone line roads and walks.

Fifteen buildings, plus 52 Quonset huts, were in miscellaneous stages of construction during the Spring term. State Board of Agriculture authorization to start work also has been granted on an addition to the power house, and several other buildings are in the planning stage.

Major attention is being given to providing adequate housing for both men and women students. Work on three women's and two men's residence halls, and six apartment buildings for married students was much in evidence.

The three women's dormitories, to be named Linda Landon, Elida Yakeley and Maude Gilchrist halls, will be just south of the present women's residence halls. The men's dormitories, to be duplicates of Mason and Abbot Halls, and located just south of those buildings, will be known as Jonathan Snyder and T. Glenn Phillips halls. Each will house 480 men.

Six apartment buildings, comprising 104 apartments are to be located southeast of state police headquarters at Shaw Lane and Harrison roads. They are to be named after six former M.S.C. students who lost their lives in World War II — Arthur John Howland, John Allshouse Pelton, William Thomas Rafferty, Robert Lionel French, Robert Parker, and Arthur Kenneth Ungren.

Largest academic structure on the campus will be the new science building, being constructed just east of the dairy building. Containing classrooms, laboratories and offices for the departments of botany, entomology, zoology, geology and geography, the four-story structure will cost at least $2,000,000.

Along Grand River north of the Horticulture building will be the new classroom building, containing 50 classrooms, and the home management laboratory, designed to replace

is growing

home economics practice houses torn down to make way for the new women's residence halls.

An addition to the administration building to be finished by Fall will house offices and provide additional room for records and files.

The 52 Quonset huts will occupy a site just off Harrison road and across from state police headquarters. Each hut will provide sleeping quarters and study facilities for 14 ex-service men. Across the road from the huts a trailer community containing 400 trailers for married students and families is being established.

Total cost of buildings under construction in Spring, 1946, is expected to reach nearly $10,000,000. Other buildings being planned include Agricultural Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Poultry, Physics, Union addition conference — Hotel, and foods storage.

Of special interest to all students is the new Union addition which will double the size of the present one. The enlarged Union will contain cafeterias, a bowling alley, bachelor apartments for men and women instructors, an enlarged ballroom, more spacious lounges, offices, grill and private dining rooms.

e remains friendly

Since his graduation from Michigan State College in 1923, John A. Hannah has been associated almost continuously with the administration. As an extension specialist; as secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, and since 1941 as president of the college, Dr. Hannah has worked to guide his alma mater into the educational spotlight. Under his direction, the new Basic College program has won wide acclaim from the nation's educators.

PRESIDENT HANNAH

ADMINISTRATION

As secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, Karl McDonel occupies a very important administrative position at Michigan State College.

He is chairman of the retirement committee, keeper of the records of the State Board of Agriculture, and custodian of all college property. It is under his direction that the extensive building program is being carried out on campus.

His foremost interest is his family and in his few spare moments enjoys his hobbies of golf and photography.

As comptroller and treasurer of Michigan State College, Charles O. Wilkins' duties are two-fold. As treasurer he is responsible for all money received from State appropriations and the disbursement of these funds, and as comptroller he supervises the budget and the allocation of funds for use of departments.

With a varied and interesting background in music he makes necessary contacts to furnish bands for all-college parties. He is also a great sportsman and especially interested in baseball, both professional and collegiate.

ADMINISTRATION

A friend to all college men and women is Stanley E. Crowe, Dean of Students. In this capacity he has jurisdiction over the activities of students other than academic spheres. He is also director of the Lecture-Concert Series and Summer School Curriculum.

In addition to this position as Dean of Students, he is active in civic affairs and member of the Board of Directors of the East Lansing Building and Loan Association.

As Registrar, secretary to the faculty, and secretary for the administrative group, Robert S. Linton's work is very diverse. He is held responsible for the work in the Registrar's office, for running the registration bureau, making the schedule books, gathering information for the student directory and the catalog for the following year. In addition, he takes care of applications, correspondence, information about the college, and interviews students, parents and teachers.

ADMINISTRATION

Gracious and friendly is Mrs. Isabelle Gonon, Michigan State's counselor for women. Before coming to State, Mrs. Gonon was an industrial personnel director. She came to M.S.C. in the fall of 1944 and after a year as assistant counselor she became Michigan State's counselor for women.

Mrs. Gonon received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Mt. Holyoke College; she attended the Sorbonne at Paris, and received her Masters degree from Smith College.

State women enjoy seeing Mrs. Gonon in the grill occasionally.

Counselor for Men is only one of the four positions which Tom H. King supervises. He is also Director of Placement, Professor and Head of the Department of Police Administration, and Director of the Office of Veteran Affairs. A member of the staff since 1933, Mr. King was first connected with the Department of Physical Education for Men. He is an enthusiastic sportsman, and golf, horse-back riding, and fishing are "tops" on his sports parade.

ADMINISTRATION

Any problems with your room-mates? Stop in the Dean of Women's office and see Miss Elizabeth Corbishley. Or stop in for a chat if you don't have any problems. A graduate of State herself, Miss Corbishley is very friendly and understanding. In her official capacity she serves as Housing Director for women students, a difficult job with so many girls and not enough rooms for them. Town girls are all well acquainted with Miss Corbishley who finds time to be adviser to their organization.

Friendly Alumni Secretary Glen O. Stewart has a smile and time to talk with anyone who stops in his office. Keeping alumni records up to date, editing the "Record," an alum magazine and organizing and speaking to alumni groups all over the State are only a part of Mr. Stewart's many duties. Much of his time is spent at various high schools in Michigan interviewing possible applicants for alumni scholarships. During his spare time Mr. Stewart has made a collection of war money from all parts of the world.

THE DEANS

Dean Marie Dye has helped make Michigan State's Home Economics Department one of the most outstanding in the country. A graduate of the University of Chicago, Miss Dye has been at State since 1922 and dean of the school for 17 years.

Dean Henry B. Dirks is head of the School of Engineering. Formerly one of the twenty-one regional advisers of war engineering in the United States, he is now working under its auspices in the office of Engineering Extension.

Dean of the School of Agriculture is E. L. Anthony. Originally from Nebraska Dean Anthony studied at Missouri University and Europe. Affiliated with State since 1928, he has been the head of the school since 1932.

Dean Ward Giltner is Professor of Bacteriology and Public Health, Director of Biological Science in Science and Arts, Bacteriologist for the Experimental Station, and Dean of Veterinary Medicine. It is his job to co-ordinate the departments in the School of Veterinary Science.

THE DEANS

Lloyd C. Emmons, dean of the School of Science and Arts, has the job co-ordinating the six divisions. He received his education at Indiana University and Harvard and was a research professor of Institutional Administration and Mathematics before becoming dean.

Howard C. Rather as Dean of Basic College supervises all the divisions of the School in the new and practical approach of education. In addition he is a member of four standing committees of the college.

Col. Dorsey R. Rodney, acting dean of the School of Business and Public Service was commandant here at one time. From his office in Morrill Hall, Col. Rodney efficiently supervises the eight departments in this school.

Formerly dean of the School of Applied Science, Ralph C. Huston is finishing his second year as head of the Graduate School. Majoring in Organic Chemistry at the University of Iowa, Dean Huston has been with State's faculty for 35 years.

Student Council, the highest representative governing body on campus, is an organization to carry out the wishes of the student body. Supervised only by the college administration, its duties range from arbitrating important issues to sponsoring social activities.

Council to Lay Down Spartan Law

Officers of the council are elected by the students, and representatives from every major organization on campus compose the rest of the members.

Election of class officers are held through this organization. This year the council has reinstated the election of Freshman and Sophomore officers, a practice discontinued during the war. It is the foster parents of these class officials and guides them in their duties.

As a part of its postwar plans, the council is helping various organizations, dormant for several years, to get on their feet again. It is also investigating the charters of all campus activities as to their worthiness and purpose.

The pep rallies with their snake dance and bon-fires last fall were planned by Student Council. The annual Mardi Gras and the crowning of a queen are sponsored to raise money for the Spartan Victory Loan Fund. The water carnival again finds its place in campus activities due to Student Council.

Helen Fisher has proved efficient as president of the council, assisted by Ora Smith as vice president, and Anne Cowan served as secretary-treasurer.

The Union Building is home to all students at M.S.C. and the center of most campus activity. It is the Campus "hang-out", where students meet and talk over affairs of the day. "Meet me on the upper deck" or "See you in the Grill" are frequent pass words to every Spartan.

Union Board was organized to promote greater use of the many facilities of the Union Memorial Building for the benefit of students. Stimulation of social, cultural and civic development is the purpose of this organization. The future expansion of the Union will afford even greater facilities to the students.

Growth of the student population at State has made informal mixers or stag-or-drag dances very popular. The mixers, where Spartans meet Spartans, are planned by Union Board. These include the Friday Frolic with dancing, cards and refreshments, and the Saturday afternoon Pary-Party, which consists of dancing with a half hour Spartan Variety show broadcast over WKAR. Each week a sorority is honored at this affair and the "song of the week" is played during the dance. Weekly Union Board dances, special tea dances, and Bridge Tournaments have all been part of State's social program this past year.

With its capable officers, Union Board has done much to bring students and faculty into closer understanding. Advisers of this group are: Mr. Foster, Mr. Lamphere, Mrs. Button, and Miss White, all well-known faces around the Union.

This past year Union Board was awarded a certificate of Honor from The World Student Service Fund for its outstanding work done during the campaign.

A.W.S. Pass Rules and Regulations Affecting All Coeds

When Beaumont strikes ten, many a fair lass at Michigan State has sighed and said, "Why must I turn in now?" The answer may be found with a group who call themselves "The Association of Women Students." This is one of the most important, as well as busiest organizations on campus. These women are the governing body of, and make the rules for the coed on campus.

Each Tuesday night in the Union one can hear the ringing tones of Sue Averill saying "Meeting will please come to order." Then comes a hum of busy voices as the business of the evening proceeds. Representatives of the dormitories, sororities, and off-campus houses are on this council.

To insure against mis-information or ignorance of the law, a handbook is printed each year by the Association of Women Students stating clearly the rules and regulations governing women students at Michigan State. A copy is given to each woman enrolled in the college.

The goal toward which this organization constantly strives is to aid in the maintenance of high standards of conduct and scholarship, and to govern all matters associated with social conduct. Complementing the council is the Judiciary Board which interprets and enforces the laws made by A. W. S.

On Lantern Night, Sue Averill, this year's president, presents a trophy to the class showing the greatest amount of class spirit throughout the year in various activities.

Big Sister Council--Friends to Newcomers

Big Sister Council is made up of members representing dorms, sororities, off campus houses, and town girls. Their job is first to sign up upperclassmen women who are willing to be big sisters. Then several lectures are given to these girls, counselling them as to just what constitutes a good big sister. The council works most of the summer assigning girls of similar interests to be sisters. This is usually done early enough so that the new sisters have time to correspond before coming to school in the fall.

Freshman Orientation, as the name implies, is organized to help first year women students acquaint themselves with the rules, tradition and activities of the campus. To do this sixty upperclassmen women volunteer their time and experience. They are under the leadership of co-chairmen. First, several lectures of general interest to all are arranged. The rest of the meeting of smaller informal groups are held as discussions of proper dress for various activities, the rules in the A.W.S. handbook, traditions, etiquette, and personality.

The purpose of the Spartan Women's League is to create a stronger bond of friendship among college women, and to develop campus leadership. It is open to any woman student and provides an opportunity for both sorority and independent women to work together in accordance with the democratic ideals of the organization.

S.W.L. is composed of five different interest groups which include Art, Personality, Radio, Service, and Social, each of which has a leader who represents her group at the board meetings. The Art group takes care of all publicity for the organization; the Personality group discusses ways to develop and bring out the individuality of each girl; the Radio group studies radio techniques and writes scripts; the Social group discusses social behavior, and the Service group is organized to be of assistance to the campus.

During the past year S.W.L. sponsored dancing classes for the men students on campus. Its members combined their efforts for the student-faculty Carrousel, which is sponsored by the league. It also worked on the Co-ed Carnival and the Spinster Spin in cooperation with Mortar Board and Tower Guard.

The job of the Board of Student Publications is to lend a gentle but firmly guiding hand to State's three publications, the Michigan State News, the Wolverine, and the M.S.C. Veterinarian. It has general and final oversight of the editorial policies of all the publications.

The board is comprised of the Manager, Editor, and the Advertising Manager of the State News; the Editor and the Business Manager of the Wolverine; the Editor and the Business Manager of the M.S.C. Veterinarian and also the advisers of these publications. Meetings are held the first Wednesday of every month.

In the fall the Board sponsors the Publications Open House at which time all the publications open their doors to the students and faculty of the college. They also plan the annual publications banquet held in May.

This year the M.S.C. Veterinarian is celebrating its fifth anniversary as a publication on campus. The Veterinarian is published quarterly, and is sent to every veterinarian in Michigan, colleges and universities all over the world to inform them of the latest veterinary methods. Included also on the present list of the publication are all army posts at which veterinarians are stationed.

Students in the field of veterinary science are elected to the positions of editor and business manager, with all instructors from the department acting as advisors.

Printed in the M.S.C. Veterinarian are case reviews and discoveries of interest in scientific research. Those who have contributions to the field are encouraged to send them to the veterinary department for approval and publication. Alumni news, of Michigan State college veterinarians, is included in each issue of the publication.

With nine-bell flashes from the Associated Press teletypes only a war-time memory and men back on the staff, the State News passed through its period of rehabilitation during the past year.

Gone are the front page war stories, their space taken by big campus yarns, and once more the staff has its full quota of male help. Tom Riordan was back at the sports desk with a staff of ten fellows to make the News office appear as it did in pre-war days.

Moving on were Marion Heckel and Jan Hopps, the editorial guiding lights, who pulled the paper out of the red and increased its size to several eight-page issues a week.

Advertising manager, Leone Seastrom, the gal with the dimples, and her staff kept up with the increasing size by digging up plenty of advertising. Leone's running-mate, Jane Walker, circulation manager did a swell job in seeing that the paper was in the hands of the students with their morning coffee. Both of these young ladies will be missed.

Night editors Dee Dearing, with her popular column "Out of Nowhere" and Jeanette Nixon, with her beau, Bob Storms, who did sketches for sports, made-up their last paper for the News and are ready to enter the world of journalism.

Wolverine Office! Home of the annual where scissors, rubber cement, snapshots, copy, senior pictures, and lists all have their place—but find them!

For one whole school year the last office in Publications Row is seething with activity meeting the various deadlines for engravings, copy, pictures, and advertising.

The Englehardt twins were always found in their respective offices from morning 'til night, with a few hours off for classes, giving orders as to what must be in by tomorrow. Bernice Horn spent her evenings seeing that organization pictures were taken, and then left urgent messages—theseidents need to be typed up.

Some one was always rushing in and telling a long tale of woe to the twin at the desk, only to be told, during a slight pause for breath,—“You want to speak with Dorothy, she’s down in the dark room.”

We all wondered if the day would ever come when we’d see our efforts organized and actually printed in the 1946 Wolverine — and here it is!

Gals Who Pack a Wallop in Sports

The triumphant yells of enthusiastic Spartinas ring through the Women's Gym and over surrounding areas from the tennis courts to the Soccer field.

Any woman on campus may enter into W. A. A. activities, and points are awarded for each term's participation. One hundred points entitles one to membership in W. A. A. and a small green "S". For five hundred points and one thousand points letters "M" and "C" are awarded respectively. Fifteen hundred points is the ultimate goal of all members, as one's name is then placed upon the scroll of honor.

Fun and laughter are by no means lacking in this organization. Cross country hikes are held Fall and Spring terms. Rain clouds permitting, an overnight canoe trip is taken up the Red Cedar. Wind burns, sunburns and dunkings only add to the merriment.

The organization has established a girls cheer leading team to lead our Varsity teams to victory. Participation of campus women is high with twenty-eight hundred members last year. It is affiliated with Athletic Federation of College Women and is represented at their annual conference.

Not All Muscles Are These Fair Coeds

The purpose of the Women's Physical Education Majors Club at Michigan State is to promote a professional spirit among the physical education majors and to provide opportunities for social get-togethers. These girls from the muscle factory have really whooped it up at their parties this year and the friends they've made and the fun they've had will always be remembered. Blue jeans and plaid shirts were the uniforms of the day when they entertained the physical education majors from Central State College at the W.A.A. cabin. Many a shindig would have fallen flat if it hadn't been for the spice and spirit added by the instructors from the athletic department.

Plans are being made to affiliate "Pem" Club with Delta Psi Kappa, the national professional women's physical education fraternity. This will mean that upon graduation each Delta Psi Kappa will automatically become a member of the American Association of Health Education, Physical Education, and Recreation.

The Junior American Veterinary Medical Association was organized on the Michigan State campus in 1927, and is affiliated with A.V.M.A. headquarters at Chicago, Illinois. Membership is open to all veterinary students. The club stimulates interest in the field of veterinary science and promotes a friendly relationship among its members. One of the chief aims of the group is to create a better relationship among its members. The purpose and function of the Junior A.V.M.A. is to become familiar with problems of the practitioner and to keep up to date with the latest development in the field of Veterinary medicine.

Michigan State College now boasts a philosophy club, organized just last fall, called the Aleatheans. The organization seeks to foster a greater appreciation for the philosophical approach to life.

Its programs include the consideration of such problems as philosophy's relation to science and religion, free will versus determinism, realism, and idealism.

Professor Raymond Gonso, adviser for the organization, felt the need for a philosophy club at State, and gathered together some of his students from the philosophy and psychology department to form the organization.

With due respect to the sage philosophers of the past, the Aleatheans in no manner attempt to arrive at any conclusions to problems that man has puzzled over through the ages without too much success.

The club strives to proceed on a basis of thought, reflection, and reason.

The Speech Major's Club has just been reorganized and became active once again this past year. All upperclass students who are majoring in speech are eligible for membership in this organization. The main objective of this club is to co-ordinate activities in the departments of speech and dramatics as well as to create a stronger bond of friendship among those students interested in the activities of the departments.

Several business meetings are held each term and these in turn are supplemented by social gatherings. The group meets socially to get better acquainted and to meet new students who are eligible for membership. Faculty are invited to a general get-together which fosters better student-teacher relations.

The Speech Major's Club is host at the annual Speech banquet given each Spring term. At this time outstanding students in speech, regardless of whether they are speech majors or not, are honored for their accomplishments.

The fall term "On Stage" call of Studio Theater found two hundred and fifty would-be actresses and actors trying-out for membership. From this wealth of talent eighty-five potential Bergmans and Van Johnsons were invited to participate in this dramatic activity.

Studio Theater is purely a laboratory stage. It provides the initial training for future actors and actresses, technical crews, and directors. This week's actor will probably be next week's prop man. When a college organization or a community club desires entertainment, Studio Theater is called upon to provide one-act plays. Twenty-one of these were produced during the year. As an experiment two full length plays were produced during the winter term. These were under the direction of students, each act of the plays having a different director and a different cast.

Felice Brezsny, Jack Russell, Kathleen Kragt

The training received in Studio Theater prepares freshmen and sophomores for work in the major productions.

Stand By -- "On the Air"

The Michigan State College Radio Experimental Workshop is open to all students who wish to join. The organization offers an opportunity to students to practice and experiment with radio techniques that they will use on the air. They work with the best equipment possible, as the radio equipment at Michigan State is superior to that of any other college in the country.

The members acquire practical experience by broadcasting a variety of shows over the P. A. system in the classroom studio ordinarily used for radio courses offered by the college. By participating in the shows, a student gains valuable and practical experience that will help in obtaining further distinction. Among all of the members of the experimental workshop there exists a cooperative and congenial atmosphere.

Students belonging to Radio Workshop go out in groups and put on entertainment for organizations desiring a program. They have presented several such programs for church organizations this past year.

Society and Its Problems -- Pi Alpha

Pi Alpha is the Sociology-Social Service organization on campus. Its purpose is to further student interest in the field of Social Service. To achieve this purpose meetings are held to encourage student discussions and activities are sponsored to foster better student and faculty relations.

Membership is open to all faculty and graduate students in the department. All undergraduate majors who have completed nine credits in Sociology are eligible. Members must be accepted by a vote of the club before being taken in.

Pi Alpha holds three meetings each term. At each of these they have a guest speaker. Typical of some of the speeches this year were — the situation in Nazi Germany and the race riots in Detroit. Representatives from social service agencies have discussed the need, qualifications and different fields into which social workers may go. Other meetings are spent in discussing social problems and social work programs, and the advisability of graduate work in the field.

The Future Teachers of America is organized primarily to promote the acquaintance of teachers with the history and ethics, as well as the program of the organized teaching profession. The club functions to permit the development of future teachers in an organization which shall be an integral part of state and national organizations in the education field.

A variety of meetings and open forums were held this past year in which the ideas and the problems of these prospective teachers were discussed and their difficulties were ironed out. These meetings permitted the students to expand their ideas at length by means of their informal discussions. The group is looking forward to a more closely knit association in which a project may be undertaken to consist of campus-wide interests.

"3 R's" Well Taught

The function of the Elementary Education Club at Michigan State College, is to bring together the faculty members and students of the elementary education division for educational, social and business purposes.

This well known campus group is affiliated with the F. T. A. (Future Teachers of America) with whom they combine once a month for meetings. At this time general discussions are held concerning the problems the students will encounter as future teachers.

This past year, the group originated a file of illustrative material to be used by student teachers. They also held their third annual Senior Day for high school seniors, and sponsored panel discussions on various problems in teaching.

Ever Ready to Serve--Alpha Phi Omega

Service is the by-word of Alpha Phi Omega; service to the student body and faculty, to youth and the community, to members of the fraternity, and to the nation.

Remember "This is not tobacco road", "The campus beautiful, no butts about it", and the "Keep off the grass" signs? They were part of the Alpha Phi Omega campaign to keep college traditions alive.

The pep rallies last fall and the homecoming dance are both projects of this service fraternity. Members are also working on the fund for the memorial chapel, which will be built in the new Union.

Town Girls' Club is the organization which brings girls from Lansing and East Lansing together. They meet every other week for a luncheon which is followed by a short business meeting.

Town Girls' activities for the year began with an opening tea for freshmen and transfer students during Orientation week. The membership of this organization has grown greatly this year due to the increase of women living in off campus houses. Spring term the girls gave a luncheon for their mothers.

The girls are divided into various activity groups: bridge, knitting, swimming, and bowling. Spinster Spin is sponsored by this club along with several other organizations. Town Girls' also have several bridge parties and general get-togethers during the year.

Town Girls pins were designed and worn for the first time this year. A lounge is being planned for them in the new Union where they can study or relax.

The Junto is a new club, organized last spring by English majors on campus. The name was taken from a group formed in 1780 by Benjamin Franklin, in which the members discussed politics, philosophy, and literature.

Twice a month, the Junto meets for informal talks by professors on many phases of literature and discussion of literary topics and lectures appropriate to literature. Through these discussions and talks, the members become better acquainted with professors in the English department, and learn many interesting facts.

4-H Club--Mind and Body

Head, heart, hand, health—this is the motto of the 4-H Club. A part of the national organization which sponsors high school groups, its purpose is to promote educational and social activities for students interested in agriculture and its allied fields. The club strives to further the friendly atmosphere for which Michigan State is noted and to provide a social and professional group to which local 4-H members may belong upon entrance to the college. Developing leadership among the students in rural youth problems and projects is another aim of this organization.

In addition to its regular meetings, the 4-H Club produces a program each week of agricultural affairs. At this time they present problems that are of interest to the agricultural students on campus. The members also participate in the International Festival, playing host along with other agriculture and home economics groups to the visitors on campus during Farmer's Week.

Short course students are especially welcomed to M.S.C. by 4-H, which provides social functions in order to introduce these students to other students on campus.

The aim of the Young Women's Christian Association is to promote the development of the individual. This is accomplished by fostering growth within the person herself, within the college, and within the community in which she lives. It is carried out through the cooperative working of the girls, by service to the community, and by building high living standards.

It welcomes all girls on campus into its membership. The past year the Y.W. sponsored a social service project at the Lincoln Community Center in Lansing and also held a Christmas party for the children there. In addition, they held a Valentine's Day Party for the children from the Lansing Children's Home.

Michigan State College members of Spartan Christian Fellowship look forward to Fall 1946 as the beginning of their seventh year of activity on campus. This organization aims to enrich the spiritual life of the student through fellowship, Bible discussion and Prayer meetings. It is affiliated with Inter-Varsity Fellowship, and international association of Christian Students in colleges throughout the world.

The big event of the year is their annual Spring banquet for the installation of new officers. Throughout the semester, however, they do not ignore the recreational possibi-ties of a group. Picnics, hayrides, sleighrides, Halloween and Yuletide parties and Open Houses provide a good share of social activity.

This past summer Michigan State's chapter was represented at Campus in the Woods', a Christian summer school in Canada, sponsored by Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

Bethel Manor is the home of Spartan Christian Fellowship and there is always a welcome for any student who wishes to drop in. Sunday afternoons and Thursday and Saturday evenings members gather for Bible study—inspiration and good fellowship respectively.

Canterbury House Directs Study Groups

One of the well known religious groups functioning on campus is the Canterbury Club, the purpose of which is to develop and promote the work of the Protestant Episcopal Church among students and faculty members at Michigan State College. Six years ago Reverend C. W. Brickman at St. Paul's Church in Lansing, met with Episcopal students, then a study group, in the Spartan Room in the Union to form an Association of Canterbury Club. The group has been active on campus since that time.

A social meeting and program is held every Sunday evening by the group at which time the problems of the members are discussed. Each Sunday church services are conducted for the members in the Chapel of Christ the King. At 8:00 a. m. both students and faculty members take part in Holy Communion which is followed by Morning Prayer at 10 o'clock. Holy Communion is observed each week on Wednesday morning by the members, and this is followed by a breakfast.

The Canterbury Club at Michigan State College is affiliated with the National Association of Canterbury Clubs.

Gamma Delta -- Fun, Friendship, Faith

Gamma Delta is an international association of Lutheran college and university students, founded in 1934, and governed by Lutheran students of the Synodical Conference. Michigan State's Alpha Omicron chapter is one of forty-nine.

Purposes of Gamma Delta include fostering Bible study, disseminating the Scriptural philosophy of life, training Lutheran students for Christian service, encouraging Christian fellowship, and establishing fraternal relations with Lutheran students of other colleges and universities.

In accord with these purposes, the local meets semi-monthly for religious discussions and social activities, and attends services at Christ Lutheran church in Lansing, where the Reverend E. L. Woldt, adviser to the organization, is pastor.

The annual banquet and installation of officers took place during winter term, and the convention of the five Michigan chapters was held at Michigan State this spring.

Under the direction of Rev. William Young the Lutheran Student Club has completed another successful year. Unable to start the erection of their new church home because of the shortage of building materials, worship services were still held in the State Theater.

Each Sunday morning at 10 Bible Class was held for those students interested. At 10:30 church services took place, and all young people were welcome. Sunday evenings were set aside for meetings of the Lutheran Student Club. These gatherings were devotional as well as social and provided the opportunity for the Lutheran Students here at M.S.C. to become better acquainted.

A lively party was held fall term in the Forestry Cabin. The greatest satisfaction of the year was the welcoming back of many service men who have returned to strengthen the club's ranks.

Newman Club Offers Spartans an Even

Many of the Catholic students on campus will be interested to know that there is a group through which they are able to foster better relationships with their fellow believers. This organization is the Newman Club, which is the local branch of the International Newman Federation and was organized here in 1934.

The aim of the Newman Club is to further the educational, religious, and social aspects of all Catholic students at M.S.C. At their meetings they discuss the problems of this nature that concern the youth of today.

The group provides a well balanced program for all Catholic students on campus. Hikes, dances, mixers, and picnics are only a few of the many activities sponsored by the club. A banquet honoring seniors is also given each year by the organization.

This year the programs were centered on commemorating the Centennary of Cardinal Newman's admission to the Catholic church.

Among other things, Newman Club hopes to establish a student center, to increase membership in the organization, and to create a closer union with all Michigan colleges. All Catholic students on campus are welcome!

The purpose of the Women's Glee Club at Michigan State is to increase the appreciation of choral music among the women students on campus. The organization has limited its membership to ninety women this year in order to secure a more select group of singers.

During the past year the club sang on six radio programs. The members presented performances for the Faculty Men's Club, the Michigan Secondary School Association, the Michigan School Vocal Associations and several other conventions held on campus. They combined with the choir for the "College Sing" as well as presenting an annual Spring Concert.

The musical proficiency of the Michigan State College Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Professor Alexander Schuster, is well known to State college students as well as to communities throughout the state. In addition to presenting one concert here each term, the orchestra was invited to make appearances in several towns throughout Michigan.

The fall term concert featured Bach's "Praeludieom and Fugue" as orchestrated by Gomer Jones of the music department.

Mozart's "Jupiter Symphony" was featured in the winter term concert.

Spring term the orchestra was joined by Professor Roy Underwood, head of the music department, at the piano and the Michigan State College chorus under the direction of Doctor William B. Kimmel in Beethoven's "Fantasie" for piano, chorus, and orchestra.

The purpose of the A Capella Choir is to study and perform the significant literature of unaccompanied choral music. The Choir has given accompanied performances in the past, but now is concentrating on unaccompanied compositions. The Choir is composed of 30 voices which have been trained for singing classical music.

The Choir was organized ten years ago and has been directed ever since by its original director, Dr. W. B. Kimmel. It has to its credit the presentation of the "B Minor Mass" by Bach, "Elijah" by Mendelssohn, Schubert's "Mass in A Flat," and has appeared in two Memorial Services in honor of President Roosevelt and in a Memorial Day Concert for the war dead.

Now that World War II has ended things are beginning to look up for the College Band. The lack of manpower during the war made it necessary to discontinue the marching band, thus placing the emphasis on concert playing.

As in its marching, the State Band's concert work is characterized by precise, sensitive, and authoritative interpretations. It is a recognized fact that only a few other college bands offer their musicians the excellent training which the members of the State Band receive. In spite of its size and inadequate instrumentation, the Band made a fine record last year. It offered three formal concerts, two concerts for Farmers' Week, two radio broadcasts, furnished the music for Commencement, and played for the major football and basketball games.

Michigan State's teams have established themselves in the annals of collegiate sports. Successful in many contests against well-known opponents, this college has upheld its rich tradition of sportsmanship and clean play, has improved its sports program in variety and caliber. Spartan teams with many returned veterans in their fold, are again on their way to a place in the sports-light of the nation.

R. H. Young -- 24 Years in State Sports

Ralph H. Young, director of athletics, graduated from Washington and Jefferson University in 1915. He played football for two years at Chicago University, as a tackle under the "grand old man of football", Amos Alonzo Stagg, and then one more year at Washington and Jefferson. Later, while training for the first World War at the University of Michigan, Young played under another well-known coach, Fielding H. Yost, thus distinguishing himself as one of the few men ever to play under both Stagg and Yost.

He served as head football coach at State from 1923 to 1927. The enormous athletic expansion program during the late 1930's came about mainly through his efforts.

Bachman Set For Postwar Grid Boom

Head football coach, Charles W. Bachman has been guiding Spartan gridders for over thirteen years, during which time the Spartans have been classed as one of the most colorful and successful teams in the nation.

Winning teams are not just a happen-so with "Bach" but rather a specialty. He learned his football first hand while playing at Notre Dame. In 1914 and 1916 he was named all-western guard. However, his ability wasn't confined to football for he won three letters in track, captaining the 1916 and 1917 teams. In addition he held the world's record for the discus throw.

Following graduation in 1917, with a degree in law, he served as assistant coach at DePauw University, after which he enlisted in the Navy and played with the national championship Great Lakes team.

Before coming to State Bachman coached at Kansas State and at Florida.

Spartans and Spartinas again found their way as the cheer-leaders. Led by Rollie Young and Bob Turner they paved the way with 'locomotives' and 'fights' in plugging the "only colors", green and white, and the men who fought in them.

Highlights of the cheering included tumbling acts and various little skits by the leaders. Friday nights before games saw the good old bonfire days and the long snake dances revived once more.

Dick Beal, the latest addition to the leaders, proved to be an asset. He picked up the routine quickly and gave Spartan-land more than its share of laughs.

Heppinstall Mends Spartan Warriors

John G. "Jack" Heppinstall, trainer of Spartan Athletes, entered the Physical Education department in 1914 under head football coach and athletic director John Macklin.

Jack, at that time, held just about every occupational title heard of. He was the trainer, grounds-keeper, janitor, electrician, equipment and supplies manager, repair-man, water-boy, and bat-boy.

His first training room was an old 8 by 10 foot wooden shanty on the south bank of the Red Cedar at College Field. There was one massage table and Jack's two hands completed the equipment.

The little Irishman "operated" in this shack for four years and then moved to the Women's Gym where he stayed from 1918 to 1940. He then moved his headquarters to the ultra-modern training rooms in the new Jenison Fieldhouse.

Jack went to the University of Michigan during his first few idle summers and studied first-aid and anatomy. Today he is an instructor in the Physical Education department.

Jack Heppinstall preparing another bandage for one of his "wounded" athletes. Jack has been healing Spartans for over 25 years.

The 1945 football campaign marked the Spartan's successful return to major gridiron competition. In the preceding season they were forced by the manpower shortage to book weaker opponents.

The local talent came "in" with 5 wins, 3 losses, and one tie which was regarded as an impressive record considering their performance in the opening game against Michigan's Wolverines.

Coach Bachman led his Spartans into Ann Arbor to face the Wolverines in the opening battle of the season. The "Wolves" really took the Spartans into camp for a 40-0 victory. The only bright spot of the entire game was Jack Breslin's line smashes which gave him 53 of State's 37 net yards gained by rushing.

Fritz Crisler, Michigan Coach, with a team packed with power and deception to burn, used his fleet of halfbacks rather freely. Bob Nussbaumer led the Michigan attack, scoring two of the Wolves' six touchdowns. Walt Teninga and Pete Elliott skirted around unmolested for a while, Joe Ponsetto passed and kicked superbly and fullback Weisenburger rammed the line for the team which, at the end of the season, was chosen number eight in the nation.

There was no getting around it — the Wolves were too mighty and too experienced for the gang from East Lansing.

In their East Lansing debut, the Spartans played host to a University of Kentucky outfit that was keyed up to avenge their 2-0 loss of the preceding season. They took a 6-0 lead when halfback Tunstall raced 57 yards to a touchdown. The conversion for the extra point hit the uprights and bounded back nullifying the attempt. Those six points looked big especially when Jack Breslin was removed from the game because of a head injury.

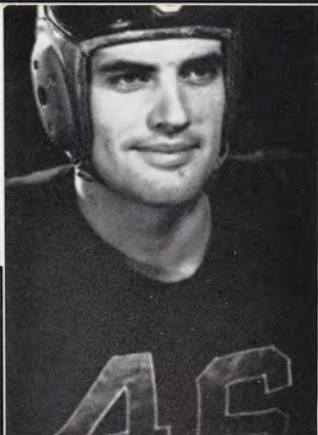

In the closing minutes of the first half, guard "Rip" Godfrey recovered a fumble to thwart another Wildcat march. Russ Reader, an unknown sophomore who came into the game for Breslin, took over at this point. Reader's passing moved the ball to the Kentucky 13-yard line and he circled right end from there for the first Spartan touchdown of the year. Bob Malaga's kick for the extra point was good in spite of a partial block.

Kentucky threatened again in the closing minutes of the game working the ball down to the Spartan's 3-yard line with first down to go. An offside penalty followed by one for unnecessary roughness put them back out of pay dirt.

Statistically State took a beating, gaining only 59 yards to Kentucky's 228. The bright spot in State's offense was the completion of nine passes in eleven attempts. Reader's arm was responsible for this.

In their third game the Spartans were again rated underdogs against the Pittsburgh Panthers. The wise money spotted State two touchdowns. However, before the afternoon was over, Pitt fans saw the nation's prize upset of the week as Bachman's boys, operating from his "flying Z" formation, battled and bled their way to a 12-7 victory.

Reader's passing to freshman halfback Steve Contos set up both touchdowns. Contos took one pass in the first quarter to Pitt's nine-yard line and then ran off tackle on the next play drawing blood.

Reader and Contos paired up again in the second quarter. This time Contos was stopped on the three. Breslin, who had been hitting the center all day, upset the Pitt strategy when he circled end for the second T.D.

The fifth game of the season saw the Marquette "Hilltoppers" invade Macklin field seeking to add another loss to State's record of three victories and one defeat. An ideal football day, sunny and crisp, added zest to an already spirited rivalry which, including this contest, was in its fourteenth year.

The first half saw both teams fighting their way into scoring position only to be stopped short of the goal line.

Marquette reached paydirt first. Their score was set up on a fumble by the Spartan fullback, Breslin, which was recovered by Palisse of the Hilltoppers." Hickey drove to the six yard stripe and four plays later flipped a pass to Kaminski for the score. The kick was wide and as the third quarter ended the score read State 0, Visitors 6.

Another fumble, this time by Marquette, and Vezmar's recovery gave State its scoring opportunity. Teamwork took the ball to the three from where Reader scored off-tackle. Malaga's kick was good and State led 7-6.

Marquette forged into the lead again by completing a 55-yard pass and run. The attempted conversion was successful and once again the Milwaukee team was in the lead 13-7.

End Tino Barbas scored for State by recovering a Marquette punt blocked by Don Hendricks. This time Malaga's attempt for the point after touchdown was blocked and the game ended a tie 13-13.

The Spartans gave their fans many enjoyable Saturday afternoons. Their record, although not the best, was impressive, especially in the upsets of Pitt and Penn State. Both of these upsets proved to be tops in the nation for their respective week-ends. The 1945 season also saw the blossoming of many new stars, Reader, Contos, Vezmar, Huey, Pagel, and others.

Jack Breslin was selected as the All-East fullback to play in the East-West Shrine game at San Francisco. Steve Contos, halfback was given the most valuable player award for the team, and Russ Reader wound up as the nation's number two passer.

M. S. C. 14 Missouri 7

Homecoming Day! State alumni from all parts of the battle-scarred world turned out by the hundreds to see their beloved Spartans skin the "cats" from the University of Missouri.

In 1944 State lost a bowl bid because of a 13-7 beating at the hands of these Missouri Tigers.

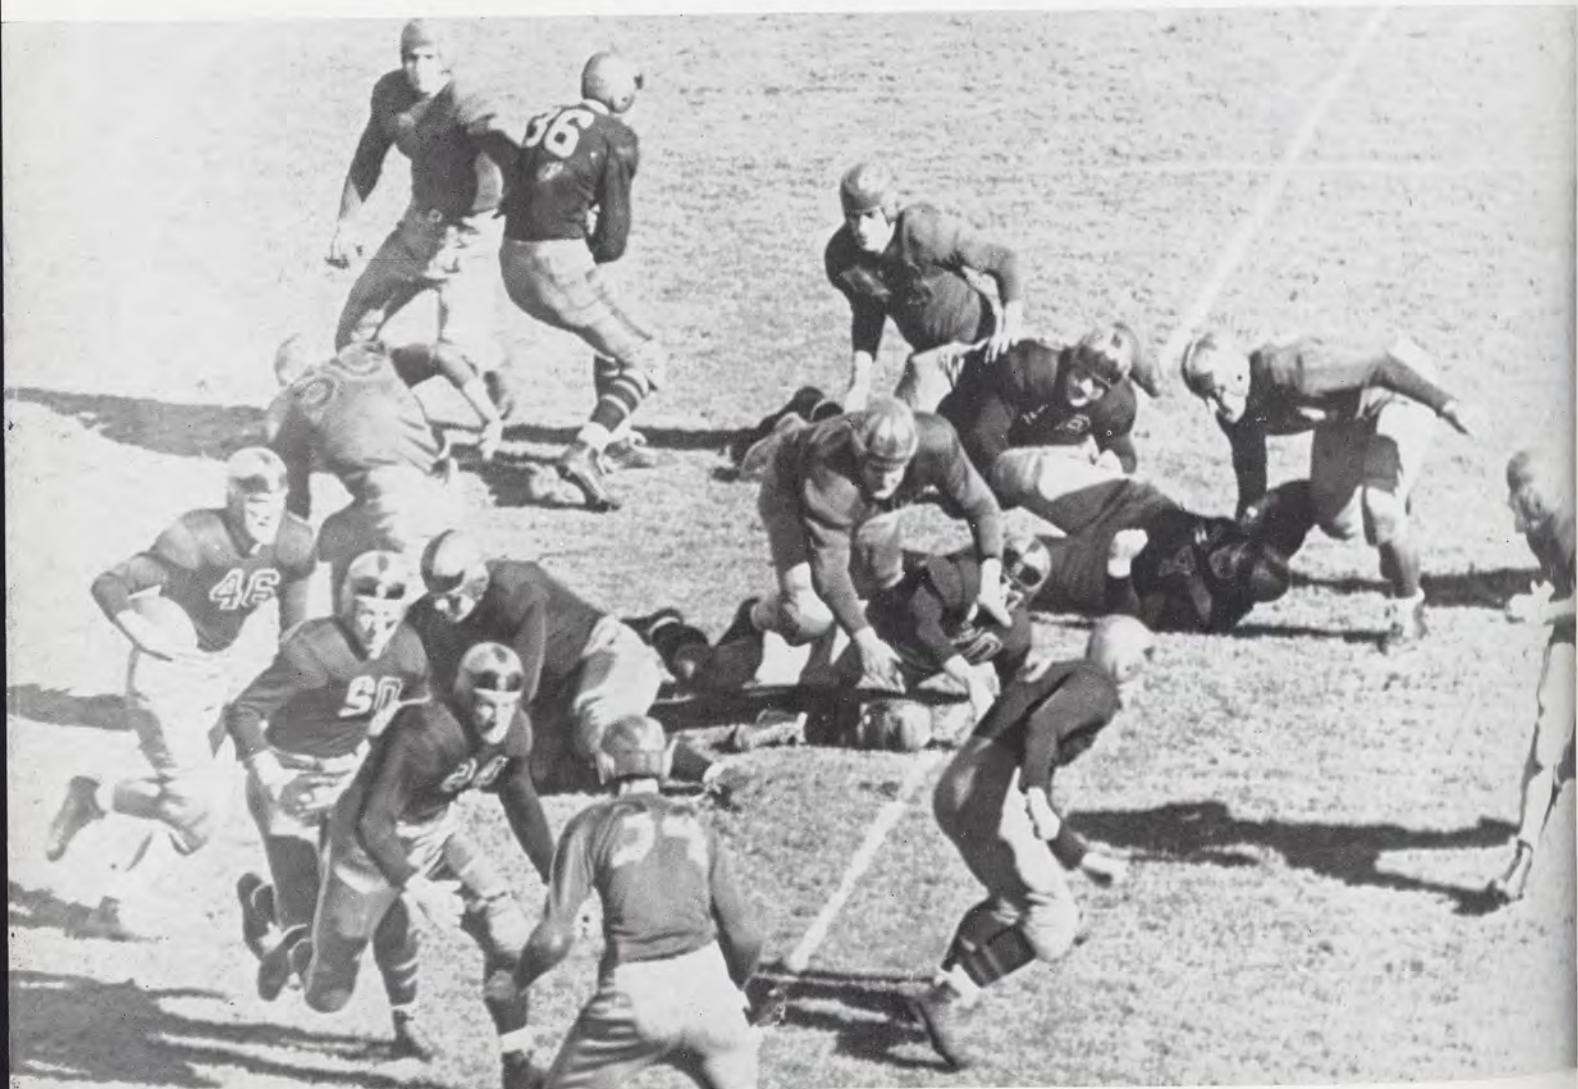

The entire first half saw no scoring, but in the third quarter the hard-charging Spartan line, Lamssies, Vezmar, Pagel and the rest of the team went to work on the Missouri line, the heaviest in college football, and didn't stop until fullback Don Hendricks piled over from the two yard line.

The Tigers bounced right back and mercilessly pounded the State line to even the score at 7-7. Breslin's plunging and Reader's passing led to the final score. As Reader was rushed on a pass play he broke loose along the sidelines and ran 26 yards to the last touchdown.

State completely outplayed the Tigers. They made 14 first downs to the Tiger's seven, completed 10 passes in 18 attempts to one completion in 10 attempts for their rivals. Breslin's 38-yard punting average gave his team a 10-yard advantage in that department. Missouri's lone consolation came in the penalties where they lost only 35 yards to State's 45. Three of Reader's passes were intercepted by the Tigers but the Spartans wouldn't give them a chance to take advantage of them.

M.S.C. 7 Great Lakes 27

Perhaps Great Lakes remembered the big upset they suffered at the hands of the '43 Spartans or maybe the Spartans were expecting a soft touch in the sailor outfit, but whatever it was, the final score read 27-7 with State on the short end.

Sailor fullback Motley tore gaping holes in the State line almost at will, and halfback Aschenbrenner skirted the ends in what proved to be a most embarrassing afternoon for the Spartans. Aschenbrenner's runs of 90 and 65 yards accounted for two of the Blue-Jackets' four touchdowns. The other two were scored on sheer power.

The Spartans never threatened, although they had several opportunities. Great Lakes made eleven fumbles and lost the ball eight times. The only laurels the Spartans could claim in the long and dreary afternoon, were in the passing department where they outgained Great Lakes 56 to 50 yards.

Muskegon High's championship band forming "M.S.C." between halves.

M.S.C. 33 Penn State 0

State's 33-0 victory over the highly touted Penn State Lions in the final home tilt of the season added another feather to the already befeathered hat of Coach Charley Bachman. His much debated "flying Z" zoomed into high gear as the Sparton lion tamers turned the Nittany cats into Nittany kittens. Michigan State's superiority is best evidenced by the statistics of the game.

On the ground State outgained their foe by 37 yards while via the air they completely overwhelmed their adversary by netting 370 yards to 39 for Penn State. The accurate pitching of Russ Reader resulted in 16 completions in 30 attempts. Jack Breslin averaged 42 yards per kick as against 34 for the opposition.

Mention must be made of the fine play of John Kob's linemen. Such stalwarts as Walt Vezmar, Bob Lamssies, and Ken Esbaugh could play on any team, while the end-play of Tino Barbas and Warren Huey in this game was nothing short of sensational. This game was truly a team victory.

Michigan's Wolverines hit stonewall in State's line.

Invading Miami University in the final game of the year, the Spartans ran into a fighting Hurricane eleven which scored 21 points in the first half. During the third quarter State managed to score only one touchdown while dominating the entire half of play.

State managed to drive as far as the Hurricane's two-yard line in the fourth quarter, but when the chips were down they faltered and lost the ball on downs.

The Spartans were out-gained by 10 yards in rushing but in the passing department it was all State, who gained 160 yards on 10 completed passes out of 16 attempts. Miami gained only 20 yards through the air.

Against rivals from the "Big Ten," Van's gang fared very well. The walked all over the University of Michigan 49-36 after losing to them earlier in the year 46-39. The boys split with Ohio State, the "Big Ten" champs, losing the first game 62-42 and returning in the second to romp all over them by a 64-41 score.

Sam Fortino, forward, established a new fieldhouse scoring record making 26 points as State routed Syracuse 76-48. Fortino also set a new Spartan record for total points. He broke Joe Gerard's three year total of 429 as he piled 436 points in only two years.

Before a crowd of over 19,000 fans the Spartans turned in one of the most brilliant passing performances ever witnessed in the vast Chicago Stadium, but to no avail. They were tied at 52-52 with less than a minute left to play when De Paul sank three quick baskets to clinch the game 58-52. Coach John Kobs had one of his most successful seasons in the twenty-one years he has been coaching State baseball teams. The talent was scarce, as usual during war years, but with a handful of returning war veterans and a few freshmen he mustered together one of the best all-civilian personnel college teams in the middlewest.

The season started with a two game series in Bloomington against Indiana University. The Spartans, playing their first outdoor baseball of the season, lost both games by scores of 15-3 and 7-5. Although completely outplayed in the first game, the Spartans bounced back and had the second in the bag until the home ninth when a State error and a home run by "Hoosier" Ted Kluziewski turned the tables. Indiana made four unearned runs off Bill Page.

Against their other "Big Ten" opponents Ohio State the Spartans played a remarkably improved brand of ball. The first game, a pitching duel between Spartan Bill Page and Ohio State's Don Grate, was indeed a heart-breaker for Page. The Buckeyes, pulling a Hoosier encore, got a man on base on an error and drove him in with a tying run all after two men were out in the ninth. Again in the twelfth inning with two men out another error let in the winning run. Don Grate gave up only two singles in the entire game and struck out nineteen Spartans.

masterpiece as he gave the "Bucks" only three hits and shut them out 3-0. The Spartans played errorless ball. Nick Gregory starred at the plate hitting three singles and a triple in four trips to the plate. Marty Hansen, shortstop, played brilliant defensive baseball, handling eleven chances flawlessly.

For their home debut, the Spartans, because of the spring flood, were forced to meet Ohio University in Lansing's Sycamore Park in a double header. The Ohio boys romped home to an 11-4 win in the first, but Keith Steffee turned them back 8-7 in the second. This was a costly series for the Spartans. Nick Gregory, second baseman, broke his hand and Dick Mineweaser, third baseman, suffered a fractured finger.

After this series the Spartans rolled through the remaining games, four with the University of Detroit, and one each with Wayne University, Michigan Normal, and Percy Jones Hospital. Detroit threw a scare into the Spartans by forcing them to eleven innings for a 6-5 victory.

The season's record read 13 wins and 4 losses. Keith Steffee, an ex-serviceman, won six games without a defeat. Ben Hudenko, Nick Gregory, and Marty Hansen hit .370, .363, and .340 respectively supplying the bulk of the batting punch. Jack Breslin led the team in homers hitting three.

Marty Hansen was rated as one of the outstanding young infield prospects in the middle-west by professional baseball scouts.

Coach Carl Schlademan saw an improvement in his thinclads during the season, and discovered a good number of young prospects but, on a whole, the season was a losing one for the Spartans. A handful of returning war veterans helped Schlademan a great deal, but these few stalwarts could not carry the brunt of an attack against some of the bigger schools.

Heading the list of returned veterans was Ted Wonch, pole vault specialist followed by Jim (Marv) Fraser, quarter miler, Bob Carrier, hurdler, and Walter Mack, distance runner. Among the newcomers for the Spartans were Russ Reader, who put aside his football uniform to gain new laurels as a hurdler, Hughie Hughes, a thin seventeen year-old, who developed into a top-notch two-miler and George Osborne, another freshman who starred as a high jumper.

The Spartans hit their peak in their dual meet with Ohio State University in the Jenison Field House. They upset the favored Buckeyes 68-50. In this meet Ted Wonch broke numerous records. He pole vaulted thirteen feet, eight inches for a new meet and field-house record, and bettered his own record by three inches.

State took seven first places in the meet to Ohio States' six and captured eight seconds to the opponents three. Bob Carrier won first place in the 75-yard high hurdles and second in the same distance for the low hurdles. Hugh Hughes romped home thirty yards ahead of the field yard margin shortly after he took a second in the 300.

Ohio State's Carl Baynard, negro sprinter, established a new meet mark while beating Fraser in the 300 yard race. His time of 32.7 seconds being two seconds better than the old Jenison record.

In a triangular meet with the Notre Dame powerhouse and Marquette University, State beat out the latter for second place but could not even come close to Notre Dame in the final scoring.

T R A C K

George Osborne proved to be pleasant surprise to the Spartans in winning the high jump with a leap of 6' 1". No records fell in this meet.

Russ Reader stepped out of his role as a hurdler in this meet and won the broad jump with a 21 foot leap. Ted Wonch, bothered by a bad ankle, could vault only 12 feet to tie for second with his teammate, Bob Vosberg.

Against weaker competition State's runners looked like champions as was witnessed in the dual meet with Wayne University. The final score read State 86½, Wayne 17½. Of the thirteen events the Spartans brought home the bacon twelve times losing only the 75-yard dash. Elmer Coleman set a new mark in winning Wayne's only first place. He was timed at 7.9 seconds.

Eleven new meet records were established among which the most prominent occurred in the 300 yard run. Tino Barbas another football player, ran the distance in 33 seconds. Russ Reader, set a new record as he broke the tape in nine seconds flat for the 75-yard low-hurdles. Bruce Drynan, captain of the 1942 Spartan track squad, displayed some of his pre-war form when he heaved the shot-put 44 feet 5 inches for still another mark.

Ted Wonch scored State's only complete victory by taking the pole vault with a jump of 12 feet 6 inches. Lanky George Osborne tied for first with a leap of 6 feet and $\frac{3}{4}$ inches in the high jump. Harold Mayhew was the only Spartan to place in two events. He got a second in the 65-yard high hurdles and a fourth in the 75-yard low hurdles.

The best event in the evening was the 440 yard race. Hugh Short, pre-race favorite from Michigan, and Spartan Jim Fraser fought down to the bitter end with Short breaking the tape a split second ahead of Fraser.

Charles McCaffree enlightens one of his returning war vets on the swimming set-up.

Demond, Siebold, Patterson, Quigley

A strong Spartan swimming squad under coach Charles McCaffree won five out of the eight dual meets scheduled. State's swimming team ranked among the top five in the nation.

Beaten by Michigan, Great Lakes, and Ohio State, the Spartans were very impressive even in defeat. They never lost a meet which couldn't have been won by one more first place.

McCaffree's "mermen" defeated some prominent opponents during the season. Illinois, Northwestern, Purdue, and Wisconsin were among the Spartan conquest. It was the first time a Spartan swim team ever took a Wildcat squad into camp.

Howard Patterson, a freshman, established himself as one of the outstanding collegiate backstrokers in the nation by his winning methods and the times he clocked.

Even in defeat the Spartan team continually managed to win the medley relay. Paul Siebold and Bob Allward swam with Patterson on the crack relay squad. This relay team set a new Jenison pool record almost every time they dove into the water. All three men are freshmen giving McCaffree quite a bright outlook for the future.

S W I M M I N G

Another bright spot in Spartan swimming circles is the discovery of Abel Gilbert, a freshman from Ecuador, who has broken several Spartan records in the free style. Abel holds three national records in Ecuador.

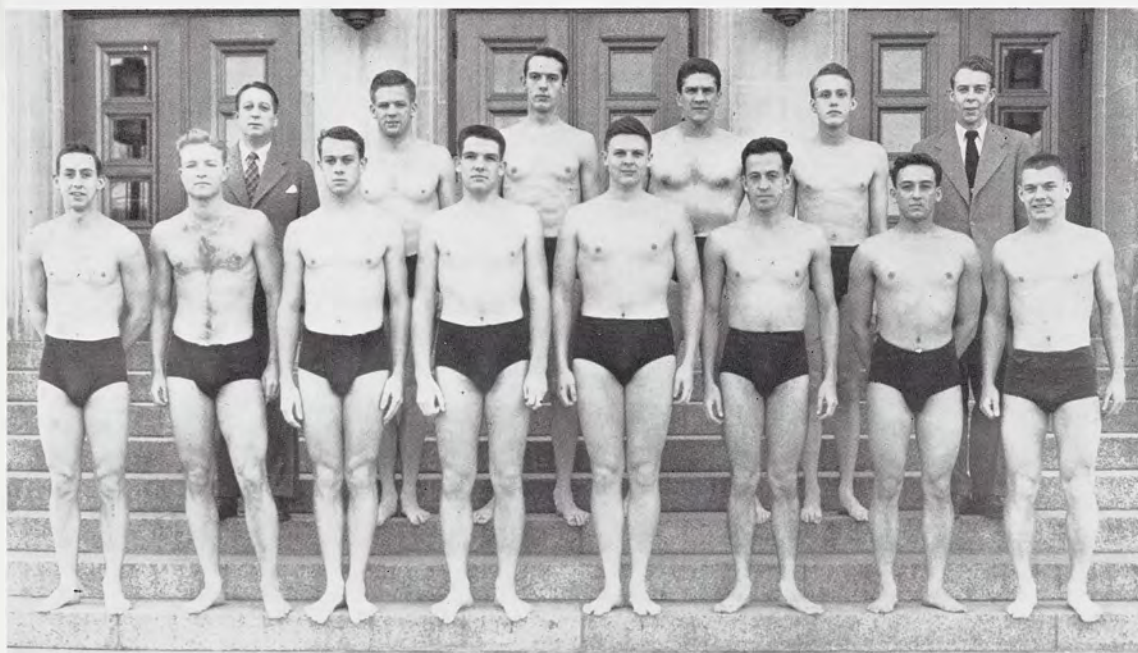

At the AAU meet held in Yale university's pool at the completion of the winter season, the Spartan 400-yard free style relay team of Jim Quigley, John DeMond, Zig Indyke, and Allward won the national crown.

During the summer preceding the inter-collegiate swimming season Coach McCaffree sent a team to the National A.A.U. outdoor meet at Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, where the team won first place became national champions. Patterson, Dave Siebold and James Quigley made up the championship relay team in the meet.

Dave Siebold won first place in the 200 meter breast stroke and the 300 yard individual medley. Patterson won second place in the 100 meter back-stroke and John DeMond third in the 100 meter free style.

State racked up 26 points against Great Lakes 23 to take first place. Ohio State came in third with 18 points.

"We tried," was the motto of the 1945 Spartan golf team. Lack of veteran players and inclement weather which made practice impossible at times and matches a misery were responsible for the team's poor showing. Not a match was garnered out of five starts. The Ohio State match at Columbus was the only one played in good golf weather, but the Buckeyes were too good for the Spartans and walked off with a whitewash.

A 270-yard shot off Stu Helliwell's driver in Detroit proved to be the highlight of the season. This ball hit another State golfer, John Osmer and knocked him out. John got up and finished the match but he wasn't playing his usual game. Bob Bachus consistently turned in the best scores but the rest of the players could not put together their best scores at the same time.

Coach Fendley Collins' wrestlers, led by 155 pound National A.A.U. champ Gale Mikles, grappled their way to six victories, one tie, and two losses for one of the most successful seasons in State wrestling history. All through the season the Spartans fought against big time competition and although rated underdogs on several occasions they emerged victorious. Ohio State, Northwestern, Minnesota, and Illinois felt the sting of defeat at the hands of Collins' men. Michigan and Purdue, a little more fortunate, each defeated State.

The highlights in State's wrestling season were: the capturing of the Michigan A.A.U. title by winning six first places out of a possible nine and winning second in the other three; the winning of a third place by Mikles and a fourth by each Iggy Konrad and Cliff Fletcher in the National Inter-collegiate meet held at Oklahoma A & M.

Coach Lauren Brown's "harriers" had a pretty tough season on their long trots through the roughest of terrains. The boys, although winning only one of four dual meets actually were capable of a better standing than the records indicate.

They lost to Ohio State, Indiana, and Drake and defeated Wayne. Ohio State and Drake were expected to win but according to previous time trials, our Spartans should have eked out a victory against the Indiana Hoosiers. The Indiana meet was "just one of those things." The boys met defeat.

In the National Collegiate meet, held along the banks of the Red Cedar and surrounding campus wildernesses, Walter Mack led the team as it finished in sixth place competing with 18 other schools.

Besides Mack, a war veteran, the team consisted of Howard Phillips, junior, Walt Kalmbach, sophomore, Don Thaden, Paul Steadman, and Larry Johns, freshmen.

After an absence of three years, boxing returned to State. The prospect of having a team looked dark at the start of the season but lady luck smiled for the few pugilistic hopefuls. Lou Zarza, former star end for Spartan football teams received his discharge from the Navy and resigned his post as assistant football coach at Arizona University to accept a position as boxing and assistant football coach at State.

Lou, in the little time he had, made up a small schedule of four matches, two with Ottumwa (Iowa) Naval Air Station, one with Syracuse, and one with the University of Wisconsin. Although Zarza's punchers did not win any of the contests they improved steadily and finally tied the Ottumwa sailors after losing an earlier engagement 7-1.

Doug Hooth at 127 pounds and John Buda, 165 pounder, proved to be two of the best prospects on the squad, both compiling a record of three wins and only one loss.

It took more than a war to side-line the inter-fraternity athletic program. The houses organized as in pre-war years and went on to a very successful season.

The softball tournament was a long struggle, but it boiled down to a bitter battle between the Sigma Nus and the Alpha Tau Omegas with the Sigma Nu outfit winning the cup, 8-0.

Jim Pruett's pitching did the trick. Jim allowed only four hits in the championship game while his team-mates gathered ten for him off the pitching of Sam Fortino, star basketball player.

The lights went on again on the practice football field and the fraternities immediately went to work with the formation of their powerful touch-football teams. Something new was added this year. The rules of the Army Air Forces were adopted to help speed up the game and lessen the injuries. Those of us who saw the games under the lights can verify the first part of the excuse for the change. Broken noses, fingers, ankles, and slight brain concussions do not take care of the rest of it.

As in the softball tournaments it was again the Alpha Tau Omegas vs. the Sigma Nus for the championship. Razzle-dazzle play by play the A.T.O.'s and their T-formation proved too much for the Sigma Nus.

Keith Steffee, ace baseball hurler, gave quite a demonstration on how to pass and run as he tossed the pigskin for two touchdowns and ran for three touchdowns.

Probably the closest race in IFC bowling history occurred the past season. The S.A.E.'s took the lead during the first half of the tournament but then lost it to the Delta Sigma Phi's who in turn lost it to the Theta Chi's. It seemed that a different house had the lead after every match was played.

The Delta Sig's finally nosed out the strong finishing S.A.E.'s and the Sigma Chi's to win their first bowling crown. The A.T.O.'s, defending champions, could finish no better than fourth this year but they had the team high game of the series and one of their men, Keith Steffee, was the high game man of the entire tournament with a 235 score.

The independents were not very active this year. Joe Caporali and Stu Russell formed a league including the various precincts of Abbot Hall but this was the lone athletic attempt towards organizing the independents. However, with the D.Z.V.'s reactivated after a three year lapse, the independents are beginning to see new life in athletics.

We, of AEPi, are grateful that once more we can be called an active fraternity on campus, but we are saddened by the loss of four men from our chapter in the war. Brothers Arthur Aron, Leonard Rand, George Shube, and Myron Seeder account for the gold stars in our service flag, and it is in their memory that we valiantly strive to live up to the tradition AEPi has maintained on this campus.

With this point in mind we're laying plans for a larger house, an enlarged organization, and increased activity in fraternal, scholastic, and civic projects. We are welcoming home many of our brothers who have seen action, and with their aid we will endeavor to do our utmost to return AEPi to a leading position on campus.

So in looking forward to a larger and more active chapter we begin our work with renewed vigor and ambition, all the while hoping that our efforts will be truly successful.

ALPHA GAMMA RHO

After completion of the first post-war year, filled with the round of activities that are the tradition of college life at Michigan State, and highlighted by the heartening return of many old alumni on Homecoming Day, the men of Alpha Gamma Rho once more look forward to the bright years ahead.

At the close of winter term, three of the old standbys, Max Decker, who was married on December 14th, Joe Lowe, and Lyle Dibble, all D.V.M.'s, with the shingle now hanging on the front porch, were lost to the chapter through graduation. To these fellows we owe our many thanks for the success of Tau Chapter throughout the years of the war.

Thus, with the return of many veterans, a most successful year has passed for Alpha Gamma Rho.

"Come up and see us" might be the words of the A T O's now that they are back in the Tic House on Evergreen. After two years in the Kappa Delta house many of us were glad to be back in the house that held so many happy memories of pre-war days.

Last spring seven A T O's were on the varsity baseball team, three on the varsity football squad and two on the varsity basketball team. Not to be forgotten are the first three places which were awarded to three of our boys last year in the bowling tournament.

Returning this fall after playing third base with the Philadelphia Phillies is Nick Picciuto . . . still shooting under par is Stewart Helliwell and member of State's golf team . . . back from the Army Air Corps is Keith Steffee, who pitched the Spartans to six victories against no losses last spring . . . and our basketball player, Sam Fortino, who was named by the Detroit Free Press as the most outstanding player in Michigan for 1944-1945 . . . and last but not least . . . Jack Breslin, B. M. O. C. and President of Union Board, winner of the Governors award and fullback in the East vs. West Football game last New Years.

With seventy-five percent of our members veterans of World War II, Alpha Tau Omega looks forward when all the Brothers have been welcomed back.

Delta Chi has plugged the long road from inactive to active since the last party on Woodmere signified the end of the last big group in response to the army bugle. Despite the constant turnover of men, the fraternity spirit has been kept alive. Today we are a large group living in a borrowed house, but plans are well under way for the big push back to our own house.

Living in a house together finds new voices and comments breaking the already spasmodic study periods. "Lonesome Willie" still wants to know who put that add in the paper John Hewitt anybody got a clean shirt? Moose Holda off to Jackson again? John Potts still the best smoocher on campus Al Wallbank always carrying that Trig book around Al Paulger still finding roofing paper in his tobacco Don Hassinger and those four a. m. phone calls Hal Miller still puts pennies in the fuse box Bob Hogle "who swiped my blankets?"

DELTA SIGMA PHI

"Glad to see you back", are the familiar words of Delta Sig Brothers as they welcome back Jerry Smith, Harold Diegel, Charles Monahan and Robert Burns—some of the boys who have returned to M. S. C. and its inevitable classes . . . labs . . . and bluebooks. After three years of military life they are eager to join with us and bring fraternity life into the foreground again.

No more fraternity meetings in the Union . . . no more living in private homes . . . we are together, and all of us are anxiously waiting for the Fall of '46 when we will again take up residence in our own home along the Red Cedar.

With Prexy, Hal Sessions in the lead, the Delta Sigs have managed to keep their social as well as fraternity life in the lime-light. We held our winter term party with the Kappa Sigs and radio parties were held every term. With the prospect of new brothers, Laurence Nelson, Jack Keller, Hamilton Hurst, Tom Lillie, Bob Ludwig and Robert Ramsey the list of M.S.C. Delta Sigs becomes longer.

September twenty-first was a joyous day for all Farmhouse-men when we returned to our home at 526 Sunset Lane. After two years absence from the house, the noise of fraternity men echoes up and down the halls once more.

The purpose of our organization is to establish a home for worthy agricultural students or those in Related Science and to effect bonds of brotherhood among its members. During the past year we were accepted in the National Inter-fraternity council.

The chapter this year has had an increase in members because many of those that had taken a leave of absence, received points enough to graduate from the armed forces and return once again to continue their college education.

With the closing of each school year the chapter loses some of its members. Graduating this year in Agriculture are Dale Brown, Bill Dickison, Don Satchell, and Cecil Kerr. The Veterinary medics are Harry Blair, John Bardens and Gerard Heyt.

PI KAPPA PHI

Alpha Theta of Pi Kappa Phi like most of the fraternities on campus welcomed back some of their brothers from the armed services this year. With the prospect of having only one active member on campus fall term, the returned men were even more welcome.

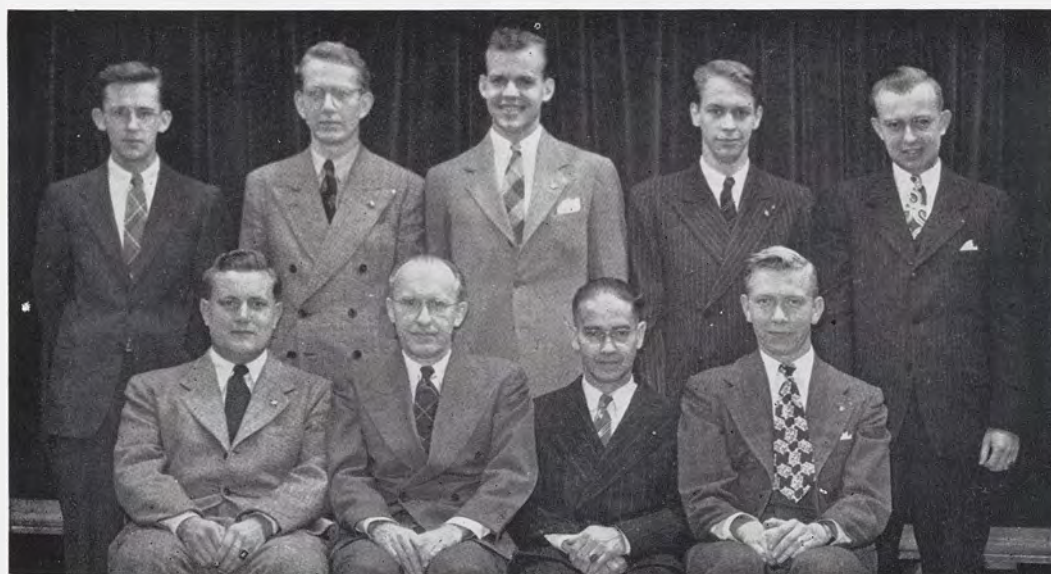

The members found plenty to keep them busy—that is besides the usual studying—rushing and pledging was our first big job. We had sold the chapter house in 1944 so we really started from scratch. Bickering with real estate dealers and looking over various lots at times seemed futile, but it wasn't. With the availability of materials in the near future, we hope, Pi Kappa Phi will start building out on East Grand River along the banks of the Red Cedar . . . a new modern chapter house where we'll all be together again is our goal. The future of Pi Kappa Phi looks bright.

At last the armed forces have seen fit due to the cessation of hostilities to release to the Kappa Sigma Fraternity young stalwarts to carry on the traditional curricular and extra-curricular activities as of yore.

Editor-in-chief Prof. Smith has been relieved of his duties of writing, editing, and mailing Caduceus, Jr., the newsletter which brought many a Kappa Sig back to M. S. C. while in the service and it followed us to every corner of the globe.

Prexy Gale Cooley hammering away at the poor frightened Kappa Sig aspirants and making excellent use of his military experience . . . Senior Jack Hallegan, getting his pre-graduating physical at the end of the winter term from Doc Arms . . . Doc's verdict diagnosed Hallegan as a perfect specimen of a work horse . . . a transfer from Western Reserve. With the help of Charles Ball, Lambda Chi faculty adviser, and the splendid support of the alumni, a sufficient number of men were pledged to make possible the opening of our temporary headquarters at 535 West Grand River.

Social activities were not forgotten. Fall term a hayride was given in addition to radio parties planned to take place throughout the year. An exchange dinner with the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority gave us a chance to meet the girls living in the Lambda Chi house on Haslett street. The winter term party took place in the Union.

As in previous years the Lambda Chi's were "right in there" when it came to intramural sports, taking part in the many and varied sports offered on campus.

Since we have no graduating seniors with us now, next year will be the big one for us. With the return of our many brothers from the service, and moving back into our own "Haslett Hamlet" next fall, success is clearly written in the old crystal ball.

Again it's the time of the year that the brothers of Michigan Beta come to realize that some of their roommates are writing their last blue book, and packing their bags with all the assorted junk a fellow can collect in four years of college.

Now that Prexy Glenn is leaving us, the house manager finds he can put two others in the space occupied by the Johnson Gymnasium. The chapter will long remember Bill Baumgart, the Bloomington, Illinois log roller and his 10:29 phone calls to a certain dorm; Jack Moran's broad Irish smile, nearly smothered in a cloud of London Dock Tobacco smoke; and casual "Swede" Haggerstrom, always willing to help raise the scholastic average of his roommates.

Walt Campbell has finally succeeded in convincing the brothers that his native Kansas City is really in the State of Missouri, while Louis Nims is ready to agree with him on the good times that can be had there. When John Kobs starts his law course at the U. of M., we hope that he can succeed in getting Jack Walker out of bed at least in time for his three p. m. class.

The men's lounge of the Union will be missing Ed Pearce, the poor man's Eli Culbertson; but the pledges probably won't miss the work detail of Housemanager Jim Nye. The party boys in the house will have to get a new social chairman when Chuck "Bugs" Lentz will be busy next year working on his Masters. We haven't forgotten Dick Straight, who believes his future is in radio, or the man who made Grindstone City famous, John McCann. So long, and good luck Fellows.

As the strains of a toast to Phi Kappa Tau ring clear, we propose another toast to our brothers, past, present, and future.

Our two remaining vet students and our dog, Duffy, left spring term. Ed "I'm sorry, fellows, I've got to get over to the Kappa house" Morrison spent the year pounding the gavel. Interest outside the house was limited to that of good-will envoy to the "605" club. Bud Smith, our other vet, confined himself to no less than fourteen extra-curricular activities. Hardly an affair went by without the able hand of "Smeeth" pushing it along. With a wreath of hemostats round their heads, we bade them fond farewell and "good cutting."

As for athletics, Rip Godfrey provided a few thrills with the football squad until benched by leg injuries. Walt Kalmbach ran his way to another letter with the track team. Warren Pearce, of the jet-propelled scrub-brush, was seen wearing numerals . . . rumor has it that he had something to do with the basketball team. Repeated questioning disclosed that Jim Shimer's minor letter was awarded for his efforts with the boxing team a few years back. Bud "the wheel" Cline, one of our "Who's Who" representatives, treasurer, embryo campus politician, and golfer has been wearing either his numerals or minor letter sweater every other day all year.

Still trying to figure out who made what motion is our secretary, Jack Locker. Howie "See what I mean" Neale, our social chairman, kept our social life full and our pockets empty. Vice-president Merrill "Do you go with girls" Walker, kept us singing and rushing. Paul Olenik, pledge master, had the pledges in line while Bob Argyle as house manager kept them busy.

Dear Brothers:

Sorry not to have written since last year but have been attending classes.

You will be glad to hear that among the men who have returned to school are Dick Smith, Carrol Chapman, Dick Kvitek, Bill Lalley, and Dick Curtis.

We had a terrific time after the last MSC-U of M football game. Practically the entire chapter headed for one of Elliott's famous Toledo parties from Ann Arbor.

Under the heading of good news comes the fact that the house will reopen this coming Fall. Might develop into a party.

The Seniors who will graduate this year are Joe Beye and Lee Grant. We wish them well as they begin their long trek out into a peace-torn world. Tough two to lose.

Well, it finally happened. Jim Graves took the fatal step . . . marriage . . . and elected to remain in school.

The chapter was extremely sorry to see Brother Bob Elliott return to Kenyon College at the end of fall term. The "Deacon" will long be missed, and remembered perhaps most of all for his death-less statement, "People!"

The third anniversary of the chapter was celebrated last April with the return of many alumni. Needless to say a good time was enjoyed by all. Whether you are working or being supported by your rich Uncle we are looking forward to seeing you and in the meantime the best of luck to you all.

Yours in the Bonds, again. Eight of the Army's "big push" members of '43 returned to civies again and came back with us winter term. We're looking forward to seeing all the old boys again soon.

With March came the end of undergraduate days for eight of Minervas' sons. Bob Azelton, who's been mixing marriage with vet medicine, and Doug Hird, ex-sales manager of the Wolverine, whose presence will be missed at 548 M.A.C. both hung out their shingles. Ray Howard, Bob Jewell, and Doug McCluskie, all having passed their pins on for safe-keeping, also answered the call of Veterinary Medicine. in the Interfraternity Council and Student Council when he leaves. Shorty Crawl will leave behind the reputation of a genuine B.M.O.C.—they don't grow 'em much bigger, and Shorty's large shoes will be hard to fill on the varsity basketball team. Gordy Goodband and Vic LaBranch, the dog and cat men, famous for their telephone conversations, will be remembered by all. "Victa" is retiring president of the Junior A.V.M.A. and "Gawdie" has also held many offices in the Vet. department. House-manager, Meridith Yarling, varsity baseball player, Indiana's traveling publicity agent, and president of the house bedtime club, will also be packing his bags.

We will miss Glen Moore, and his car. Big Bolt is house treasurer and has been Bachman's right hand man as football manager for the past two years . . . also Ray Pryser, house vice prexy and varsity baseball manager who was famous for activities on and off the campus . . . You've all done a great job, men, the best of luck to you.

The school year 1945-46 started an entirely new chapter in the fraternity lives of the boys of Beta Zeta. The fifteen actives and eight pledges present fall term had never had the privilege of living in the home-like chapter house on Abbott Road. Winter term found all of us, for the first time in three years, under the same roof.

We made it back just in time so that our four graduating seniors could have a taste of real fraternity life. Don Herberholz and his talented paint brush will always be remembered, as will Florian Lukowski and his practical jokes, also John McCaughna and his response of "So-long, fellows, I've got to be on my way to keep an important engagement." Dr. Bruce Ott, our social chairman, will no longer be around to patch us up after the Bowery Ball. Dean Eckert returned to school last fall with an added responsibility . . . a wife. Good luck, fellows.

With its increased membership Theta Chi has once again regained its stride in campus affairs. We are hoping that soon many of our returning servicemen will be with us to carry on our traditions. Beta Zeta of Theta Chi has taken on a resemblance of the days gone by, but not forgotten.

Interfraternity council is the governing body for all fraternities. Register your radio parties . . . shall all frats have house mothers . . . are the winter term parties strictly formal . . . rushing . . . pledging . . . hellweek . . . paddles . . . initiation . . . exchange dinners . . . all these and many more are the problems I.F.C. must deal with. With men returning to campus I.F.C. has spent a busy year keeping the sixteen active fraternities within bounds. Each fraternity is represented by two members which make up the council governing body.

Organization and supervision of interfraternal sports are carried on by I.F.C. These include basketball, bowling, soft ball and other sports discontinued during the war.

This council also sponsors one of the big all-college dances each year. Jan Savitt was the name of the band which I.F.C. had at State for its semi-formal fall term. Spring term the I.F.C.-Pan Hel dance was held again. In pre-war days this was an annual affair.

Fall term a smoker is sponsored for all new men on campus that they may become acquainted with fraternities, frat men, and their part of campus life. Last year representatives from campuses throughout the country met for a three day National Interfraternity Council conference, during which they discussed different aspects of post-war planning for fraternities.

With the male population at State growing and fraternities moving back into their own houses again I.F.C. has an active future to look forward to.

The Panhellenic Council consists of two representatives from each sorority, whose aim it is to integrate all inter-sorority activities and to work with I. F. C. on activities which concern both fraternities and sororities.

The new Deferred Rushing System was installed this year for the first time, and Panhel approved the colonization of Delta Gamma bringing the number of national sororities to fifteen.

Fall term the annual convocation was held at which the scholarship trophy was awarded. During winter term an inter-sorority conference took place to which each sorority sent an active member as a delegate to meetings held at the various houses. The discussions centered about current sorority problems.

Many of the war-time restrictions on rushing were lifted this year, and plans are underway to restore many of the affairs of prewar years.

Panhel sponsored the annual "Sorority Sing" and held its Installation Banquet in the spring.

"You mean I'm gonna be 'grilled'?"

"It's painless, pledge, just a pause in the grill for senior identification."

President? Dottie Lamont! That's right; she's over there getting the inside info in who's whose for the State News. Brown eyes and lashes like no one else's.

Secretary? Marty . . . the tall gal with the rare sense of humor . . . good news on the paper, too, and good marks from the profs.

And what's Bernice? She's our treasurer and an eager Wolveriner . . . a nice combination of quick smiles and ever-ready laughter.

And speaking of energy; wonder what we'll do without Carol, sparkling as her diamond, to keep our sports on the ball. Or Mary Ann's immortal practical jokes. We love 'em.

Hul-lo Jacquie . . . been riding? Have a coke. Ginger and Nan are over there with their Vets. Cathy and Helen just came in. How's your knittin' coming, Betty? Not to mention Home Management House. There's another

See you later, Suzy. Love your hair that way. Theta Alpha Phi, Mortar Board, and presiding over A.W. S. keep you sorta busy.

Hear that serenade last night? S.A.E.s for Esther, Tommy's pin is Sigma Nu; Swanny's diamond from her Jack. She's our vice-president and a grand pledge-trainer.

Is that French and/or Spanish that Jean and Blanche are speaking now? Sure hope Susie is finding practice teaching easier than she'd feared. Did you know that all three are in Sigma Delta Pi? Kitch, trying to accumulate a complete list of Presidents for the Wolverine.

'Bye now, pledge; campus life is all too short; I guess I'll reminisce and have just one more coke.

"We'll always welcome you there, in that cozy armchair, in that Alpha Gamma Delta house that's home," . . . soon eighteen seniors from the Alpha Gam house will add their names to our list of Alums, and each one will leave behind her a houseful of memories.

Every morning we would hear Dot and Doris Englehardt discussing what they would wear for that day . . . and then off they'd hurry to the Wolverine office to take up their positions as chief executives of the staff. Lunchtime would bring Dorine Terry home from her morning of practice teaching, never failing to relate the latest antics of "the infants." At one o'clock every afternoon the piano was in use by Barbby Hoard, practicing her music lesson, or we would hear Marion Farmer playing her famous Polonaises. We'll never forget Dorothy "house president" Bull who divided her time between the Chem building, Harvard, and her house duties . . . and Joyce Howlett, who after spending a day in the speech department, would tell us we should lower our voices . . .

Patty Sheppard always missing meals because of a radio rehearsal . . . the jitterbug demonstrations of Marcie Gast, our cheerleader . . . and Barb Sibley burning a hole in her skirt.

There was always the talk of wedding plans among treasurer, Jean Morrill, Biddy Baltz, our talented pianist, and Jean Nesman, who made housekeeping easier by majoring in Home Ec. Marty Mosher, recording secretary, active in Theta Alpha Phi, dramatics honorary, and Ann Kaplan never failing to amuse us with her realistic facial expressions in telling a story.

Donna Austin and Janey Malicki had their problems . . . Donna worrying about the possibilities of Bob going into movies, and Jane wondering how she would manage to see Barney when he was in Florida training with the Tigers. Every night when the rest of us were in bed, we could hear Markine Traynor, Alpha Gam president, finally finished with her studying, make her way up to bed, softly humming the strains of "Candlelight Time."

The seventeen seniors who helped to initiate the new house at 505 M.A.C. are leaving the underclassmen a set of high standards to follow and some memories never to be forgotten.

"Vicki" Knauss, our vivacious president, who has led us through a most successful year will be remembered for her inspiring phrase "Come on Kids." Will we ever forget Norma MacRae, known as "Mac" with her red hair and her calorie counting . . . Baguley, the Chem major, who is always a good mixer at work and play, or "Zookie", co-chairman of Big Sister Council, and always last one up for an eight o'clock?

Two gals with additional reasons for leaving school are Doris Rinehart and Pat Larkin, brides-to-be come graduation. Pat, our Speech major, will be making her speeches to Hal Beck, and Doris with her Phys. Ed. training will be able to handle husband Bill.

We also say farewell to Music major "Marg" Miles, the quiet type until turned loose with the English horn or asked to give a soprano rendition of "Sweetheart of AOPi." Our "Sweetie" Helen of the sunny disposition won't find it hard to charm her small students. We'll miss Pat Rasmussen who was forever ruining the figures of sister AOPi's with the delicious fried chicken brought from home. Jean Smith, the bridge fiend who has the warmest watchinest brown eyes Olga Sivanov, the energetic history major Betty Landis, the Institutional major with the melodious voice, and Jeanne Gamble who will set about bettering the world with her social service work.

Millie Pickett who takes time out from her treasurer's duties to read "The Little Prince" to her fourth graders. Ginny Klap is also waiting for graduation with the one ambition of becoming related to the arts. Into the capable hands of W.A.A. Secretary Fran Ernsberger was placed the job of keeping AOPi's "in their positions" in all sports activities. It is from Carol DesJardins that we borrow the phrase which ends this brief history. Alpha Xi seniors are looking back over their last four years at M. S. C. with many and varied memories. We'll never forget when Joyce Johnson, voice major, found a stray Scottie on campus and brought him home to become our mascot . . . we called him "Alpha". There was seldom a quiet moment between his barking

Her roommate, Ginny Boehler, constantly studying . . . she also seemed to find time to carry on two presidencies, that of our own chapter and of Delta Gamma Mu, national fencing honorary. Across the hall was Elaine Nordhaus, our esteemed Psych major. We will be forever grateful to Elaine for reporting that we were all normal, even though she said it with an apologetic tone in her voice. Then there was air-minded Mary Marshall, who met her Don out at the airport. Maybe we should all take up flying! And we mustn't forget social chairman Gwen Gorsline, always ready to accompany some of us on the piano. She was the girl with the maroon convertible and the one who had two men arrive home at the same time. Anyone who can handle that situation deserves credit.

We'll miss everyone of you at 148 West Grand River . . . your friendly faces and the excellent work you've done for Alpha Xi. Good luck, alums.

tar Board Barbara Quayle trying not to mix rushing recommendations with A.W.S. correspondence; and Pat Darr another Mortar Board and chapter vice-prexy spending her spare time counting up Navy discharge points Anne Kendrick and Lois Heldstab must have chosen El Ed with one practical eye on the future, because Ann's wit and Lois' amiability netted them each a sparkling ring from the right man. Helen Freemire planned in that direction too, along with her all out studying.

Not to be forgotten is Mike Major's ready smile and her inspiration for the pledges . . . S.W.L. vice-president, Betty Lou Harris taking minutes at meetings and social case working . . . Minnie Meserva taking her Psych major seriously by being the center of nearly all bull sessions . . . vivacious Jean MacDougall getting that Tau Sigma meeting planned on so short notice . . . the enthusiasm of Motsie Meyers and Lois Wilson, Med Bios leaving for their internship.

So goodbye, seniors, we'll be missing you.

Starting fall term with the formal initiation of Delta Gamma on campus, we now find ourselves bidding goodbye to our first graduating seniors. Pioneers, they called us, the first group of DGs at State. On terms of easy familiarity with the ever-present painters, plumbers, and electricians we ended the year with the unique distinction of having had our house built around us while we were living in it. And the advantage was that we planned it all ourselves.

Next year our youngest alumnae, who laughed through it with us will be Mortar Board Barb Mye whose daily habit of eating two dinners, one in her Fancy Cooking Class, and one at the Delta Gamma House taxed the ingenuity of our otherwise serene cook Betty Reidel, golf champion, whose ringing "fore" could be heard from first to third

Sue Hamilton, Barbara Tuttle, Donna Morton, Nina Holmes, Sue Petertyl

Donna Morton, whose unruffled calmness defied plumbers, paperhangers and winter term weather . . . Jeanette Nixon who managed her State News job by night and Eastern High's senior class by day, both with equal grace, besides presiding over Theta Sigma Phi meetings . . . Betty Bolander, sprinter extraordinary, constantly in motion except for rare moments of relaxation at the piano . . . and Marian Vandall who crowded the rest of us out of the mailbox with her daily letters from Terry. Good luck to you, seniors, and we're looking forward to the home coming of you who helped build the house of Beta Xi.

Saying good-bye to one person is bad enough, but when you have to bid farewell to eleven at the same time, well it's just that much worse. And that's how we feel about those eleven graduating seniors who are leaving the house on Cowley this year.

Who among us will ever forget . . . Peggy Troup who has done such a grand job as prexy and now turns to the world of business, merchandising being the chosen field . . . Dottie Little tearing her hair and pinching purses to get the bills out and paid on time. No one will ever forget her face when it was found out that a couple of new pledges accidentally burned the ledger . . . Shirley Morris, always calm, cool, and collected and doing a fine job as recording secretary.

Always to be remembered is Junie Palmer, with her letters from Joe in New York, her jivy records and her parasites . . . Adoree Evans dashing off to preside over S.W.L. and always Another summer is here, and Theta seniors are looking back on their last year. First comes Helen Fisher, president of Theta, who with her blonde roommate Shirley Trapp, as Chem Majors are on the trail of the 93rd element. House average booster is Shirley Hamelink, vice-president of A.W.S. and member of Mortar Board. Second only to Sara Bernhardt is the role of Billie Green, and a culinary artist, Jo Grayson, is still knitting on the never ending navy blue sweater.

For one like Nonnie Seastrom, it's hard to choose between West Point and the State News. In the same class is Barb Jones, a spark plug on the paper, doing her bit, too, in the term play. Treasurer Jean Ann Hall has her worries but finds time to keep Doc posted on all the latest. With Mary Vallet, everything's OK now that Ace is home, while Jo Gruel still is "waiting for her train to come in."

The next train to California will find Toni

Jean Ross, torn between Hudson's, practice house, and George, and Barb Gilroy, ready for a career with microscope and test tubes . . . Diplomas providing wings, fifteen KD's take their initial flight in June of 1946 to soar to new heights in a new world. They leave a path of ideals for future KD's to follow and innumerable memories for all who knew them.

Leading the formation is president Peg Rogers, who has nobly wielded the gavel for the past year. Along with her go Lucy Albert and Jean Phillips leaving other Art Majors the task of painting posters for the Upper Deck. We'll miss the midnight sessions in the upper hall where we repeatedly encouraged M. Burley to fall in a manner befitting the president of Orchesis, while "Willie" Willman held the conversation at a peak with alternate references to Roy and "those darn physics problems." Dottie Bloomhuff must still be sitting there, those furry slippers were far to big for her small feet to carry elsewhere. Oh, yes, Polly Polewach was there, too, telling, with her special brand of subtle humor about the summer at Wisconsin University; Dottie Goers was too amused to distribute any late minutes for disrupting quiet hours.

Who can forget Shirley Erickson, complete with umpteen honorary pins, dashing between College switchboard and Chem lab; Helen Veerer's red hair as she bends over menus for her morning F and N class; or Gloria Bronzo's cheerful waiting for Jack? We'll all remember that dreamy look in Jeannie Leavitt's eyes as she gave suggestions for the new house in which Ann Spruit regrets she won't have a chance to live.

As the formation leaves us we hope that Bernie Siefert will find time to include us in her heavy correspondence. She can tell us all about the hospital. We know that Harriet Wilcox will keep on with her wholehearted enthusiasm for the rest of her Hotel Ad life. Mary Lee Clark will obligingly lend a needed psychological understanding to others in the future.

Who's that bringing up the rear? Jodie Carey . . . she's all worn out by those fascinating rush parties she worked out.

Happy Landing, KD.

Completing their second year on campus Pi Phi's sadly say farewell to their graduating seniors. Some of them are tramping for the last time down the long stretch that leads from the Union to 101 Woodmere. Their memories of that trek four times daily in rain, snow, wind or sunshine won't soon fade and neither will our memories of them. conversations that came in two sizes, culinary arts, and that certain fellow, maybe one accounts for the other . . . that El Ed pair Carolyn Powell, beauty queen and Marty Keys with their tales of the antics of little darlings. They also say that Marty sings . . . and June Wilkinson being escorted home at three a. m. by the campus police, working late at the State News office again . . . Helen Hoxie back again and this time with a husband.

They, in turn, take much with them on their separate ways, gay Pi Phi nights, cooky shines, gab fests, missing eight o'clocks 'cause the hitch-hiking was poor, even fire drills and scrambling down the chute. Each takes with them their diplomas and always to be cherished memories.

Hey you seniors, you can't leave us! But seniors will graduate and at 518 M.A.C. it means the loss of twenty-three sisters.

Without Jeanne Sorge and Marge Johnson, how are we going to know "how they used to do it?" Betty Trompics' boogie piano and Joyce Armstrong's rendition of "The Man I Love" will never be forgotten. "If youse kids is good I'll leave ya my recording of 'Hong Kong Blues!'" could be none other than Dee Dearing. We could always count on "Carry-May" Babcock's dancing and Jean Geyer's lectures on her inner world to liven up the party. What are we going to do without Ginna Fellows' breath-taking wardrobe and her contagious laughter? Ginna's cronie in the Spanish language is Connie Helmer who also walked off with the Poinisiana Prom queenship. When Connie had a spare moment she was accompanying our favorite soprano, Ruth Kindleberger, the gal with those oh-so-flirty eyes. And then there's Virginia Quiroz in the background, yearning to be a singer. Sure, Key, you'll learn to carry a tune some day. Who's going to take Barb Christiancy's place as official cheerer-upper?

Our only out-state seniors this year were treasurer Marion Thorp, currently writing a book, "The Trials and Tribulations of Practice Teaching" and prexy Roxie Butler. Roxie's sweet "OK, you kids" was able to get any job done. There's Hat Stephen, Mary Vining, and Jean Carol McNicoll, all looking satisfied. Hat's Stew is finally on his way home, Mary's sister is a new Sigma Kappa; and Jean Carol owns a new diamond. Did we hear a giggle from Marge Howald, our sophisticate? Maybe the fact that her ensign fiancé is returning to school here has something to do with it.

Our town girls, Betty Marshall and Kay Barrett, have done much for the sorority, Betty in sports and Kay always furnishing us with delicious home baked cookies. Jeane Cunningham and Lois Mellon are the gals who never cease to amaze us, Jean's beauty and her ability in sports and Watermelon's attempts to juggle her Home Ec career and social life.

So go the seniors of Sigma Kappa.

Nine Zetas are leaving us but their memory will always remain and we know they take a store of remembrances with them.

Mal Smith, our lovely president, always with a smile for each one of us, and for a certain merchant marine, too, we might add. Zella Roden, our expert dietician with her white uniform and daily meal plans, was never happier than when astride a lively horse on a brisk cool day. Connie Conklin held the quill for ZTA this past year and was queen of the Mardi Gras in '45. Dottie Barrett, our vice-prexy, counting the days until her husband would return, and we can't say we blame her.

Glo Mann, Ruth Kotz, Nan Steiger, Helen Gribler, Jane Keene

Eleanor Munn, the Kellogg scholarship girl, always sending for pamphlets to use in her future years of teaching someone's little darlings. And we'll never forget how petrified Helen North would be whenever she saw lightning, or how hard it was to get her up in the morning for eight o'clocks. Glo Mann, our poet, and lovely poetry it was, too. She was also a member of Orchesis. Del Peterman was the gal that handed out the late minutes, but sparingly. She loved to amaze us by staying up all night to study. Corky Vincent was another three a. m. bookworm . . . hopes to do her elementary teaching near here if possible. Guess she just loves the place.

So long, gals, we miss you already.

Michigan State College features term plays of all kinds, comedies, tragedies and mysteries . . . formal and informal dances highlighting name bands and local bands, and . . . concerts and lectures from which students and members of the community enjoy varied entertainment.

FEATURES

D A N C E S

Soft lights and sweet music . . . just you, your date and thirteen hundred other couples . . . Yes, that's an M.S.C. all-college dance! . . . fun, festivity, and frolic.

This year's first name band featured the orchestra of Jan Savitt and the mellow voice of Helen Warren. A variety of different types of dance music highlighted the affair, and the students really swung out to the tunes of this nationally known band leader.

D A N C E S

A fairy-book was the theme for the Cinderella Spin. This was the only co-ed bid affair of the year and each cinderella escorted her "man of the hour". Rosemary Howland provided the music for this affair.

D A N C E S

Lionel Hampton, the versatile negro band leader was the dominating figure for the J-Hop. This dance was a big occasion and for it the girls received four o'clock permission.

The seniors at their Ball, not to be out done by the juniors, danced to the music of Clyde McCoy and his muted trumpet which featured the voice of Billie Jane Bennett.

Bob Carrier. Wanda Carrier, Jane Meier, John Kobs

Besides the big name bands, term parties, radio parties, Union Board dances, and the ever faithful Saturday afternoon Party-Party were held during the year.

With World War II behind us, Michigan State College once again resumes the vigorous social calendar of former years.

OLIN

The present college hospital, Olin Memorial Health Center, was opened in September 1939. Dr. R. M. Olin realized in 1925, when he was appointed director of the old hospital, that the facilities of the college at that time were inadequate for the number of students. Plans were started then, but no means of financing the structure was available. In 1939 the costs were provided by a PWA grant of $112,000 and a loan of $137,000 to be retired in ten years from student health fees which are included in tuition. The state board appropriated $15,000 for equipment.

Olin Memorial Center accommodates sixty bed patients and an overflow of up to seventy. It is completely equipped to care for clinic patients, all types of illnesses, as well as surgery cases. The hospital maintains a staff of three full-time physicians headed by Dr. C. F. Holland, director. Dr. E. H. Atkinson and Dr. Erma A. Smith complete the staff of physicians. In addition, the hospital employs twenty graduate registered nurses, three of whom are part-time, a registered laboratory technician, and a registered X-Ray technician.

The clinic is open daily from 8:30 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 4:30 p.m. Sprained fingers, broken legs, colds, pneumonia, appendicitis . . . the college hospital has adequate facilities for treating every illness and keeping its students in good health.

DORMS

John JordanPresident
Robert WestcottVice-President

On January 1st, 1946, about 350 co-eds, the last of the invaders, evacuated Abbot Hall to make room for its rightful inhabitants, the men students of M. S. C.

For the first time since March 1943, Abbot Hall corridors are thronged with male civilians, all taking advantage of the G. I. Bill of Rights to complete their education. Fragments of Military Service remain in the occasional appearance of an O. D. shirt or sweater worn on the campus, but the regimentation is gone. Because of the acute housing shortage, three men live in a room, increasing Abbot Hall population to 650. This results in "bulging at the seams" and "chow lines" that are somewhat reminiscent of the past four years.

The inhabitants seem very stable in their quest for knowledge and there is a noted absence of the pre-war pranks that were so prevalent before. This is due perhaps to the varied and colorful experience achieved while in the Armed Forces. Precinct rivalry is evident, and several ping pong and bowling leagues are in competitive swing. The cultured social exposures tend to put the returning student in a more receptive mood for learning. The exchange dinners and radio parties with the co-eds have helped to increase the popularity of Abbots Hall students. Many friendships will be life long.

All precincts are working together under the Constitution of the Abbot Club and the able guidance of Mr. and Mrs. Dickerson, faculty residents.

But social and governmental problems are solved to the mutual benefit of all, thus achieving the well remembered Abbot Hall atmosphere.

The gals are still here! Yes, the Mason-Duration League and its student counselor system is in its second successful year of operation at Stevens T. Mason Hall. It has grown to include 577 women students instead of the original 430 and it's become definitely feminine.

Mason belles are proud of their system of co-operation which makes so large an abode run smoothly. Long shirts and jeans continue to be leisure time favorites, and even though lack of housing facilities necessitates the three-girls-to-a-room standard, bulletin boards and plants have been inched in to afford that "jeune fille" look.

The girls also boast of the "Mason-Mixin' Line", a weekly paper crammed with dorm news to keep the gals informed. And every Tuesday evening songsters gather in the upper lounge for part-singing in the Mason Hall chorus.

Elsworth House is a sample of what can be done when democracy rolls up its sleeves, spits on its hands and goes to work. Elsworth House was founded so that the members could help each other through the benefits of mutual enterprise: so that they could attend Michigan State inexpensively and yet obtain the fraternal and social benefits of an organized house.

Membership in Elsworth House is limited to those students who the members believe possess the qualities of a good cooperator. Every member passes through a period of pledgeship during which he becomes acquainted with the workings of a fraternal cooperative and the men with whom he will be living.

Every man shares equally in the responsibility of contributing to the running of the house through labor. All work is allotted the members from purchasing and cooking to building special decorations for a term party.

Throughout the year there are certain traditional activities which have become as much a part of living at Elsworth House as working and studying. Elsworth Freshmen are properly baptized into college life with a dunking in the waters of the Red Cedar. Likewise, seniors have the stains of the collegiate world removed early in the spring. Other highlights that will be remembered most are informal initiation, the oath of membership, carolling, house party skits, and those mass whims of action which are often known to crop up in fraternal houses.

Halt: one, two - forward - march - column right - march - to the rear - march. It's the army, son!

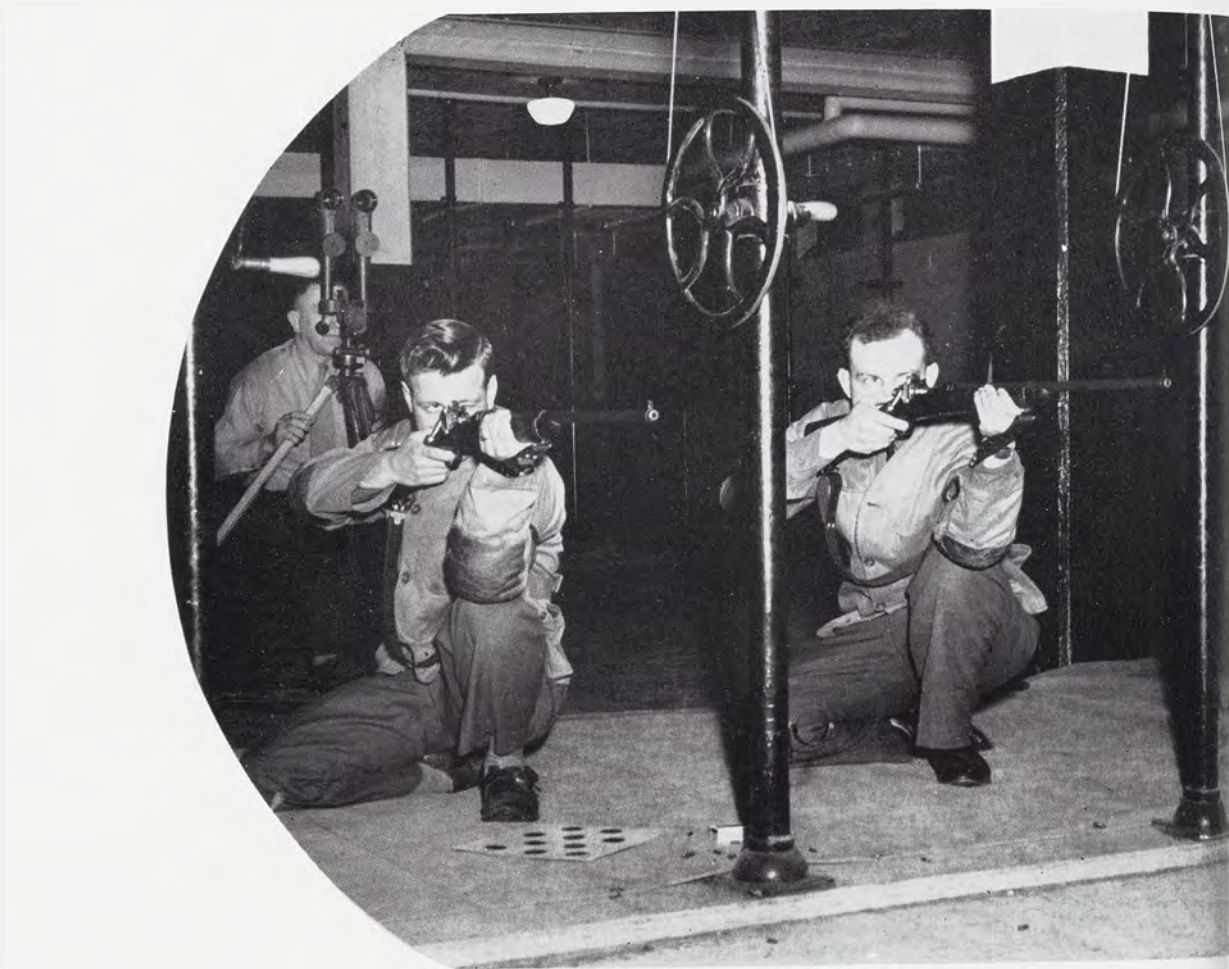

Every land grant college in the United States gives a basic course in military science. Unless excused or exempted, all physically fit male students are required by the college to complete two years of military training before graduation.

For Basic R.O.T.C., students may elect work in the band, but this earns no prerequisite credits for elective military science courses.

Freshmen and sophomores wear the regulation R.O.T.C. uniform furnished by the War Department, consisting of a garrison cap, blouse, flannel shirt, and trousers. During their first year they are instructed in military discipline, courtesies and customs of service, sanitation, first aid, map reading, military organization, and kindred subjects. A continuation of this is given in the second year, with further instruction in rifle marksmanship and the combat principles of small units.

MILITARY SCIENCE

Of interest to many is the elective course given in Cavalry, which embraces care of animals and stable management; cavalry weapons; and pistol marksmanship.

After Basic, the men may go into advanced military training if they wish. In this course they are given, as incentive, regular army officer uniforms and nineteen dollars and eighty cents a month, in addition to which they become commissioned officers in the reserve army upon graduation. This plan is one of the many ways which the army has of replacing military material.

MILITARY SCIENCE

Prior to the war, Coast Artillery and Field Artillery were offered, and they will soon be started again, as well as Scabbard and Blade, the national military fraternity which unites all divisions of R.O.T.C. into a single body.

B. W. O. C. is what the little black and gold pin in the shape of a Mortar Board signifies. Members are seniors who know it all and do it all—chosen to belong to this National Women's Honorary because of services rendered, high scholarship, and leadership throughout college years.

M.S.C.'s chapter of Mortar Board was founded in 1933. It aims to stimulate college unity, promote the spirit of fairness and fellowship among women, encourage leadership, and further high standards of scholarship among the Student Body.

New members take the oath each year at the annual May Day Tapping at Beaumont Tower and are recognized at Lantern Night in June. Mortar Board sponsored the Coed Carnival in the Fall and the Marriage Lectures during spring term.

The Tower Guard honors Sophomore women who, during their Freshman year, showed outstanding qualities of character, scholarship, leadership, and service. According to tradition the new members are tapped at the May Morning Sing. Tower Guard members are the only students allowed to meet in Beaumont Tower.

Members of Tower Guard form the official welcoming committee for incoming freshmen fall term. They assist them as guides around the campus, in information booths and at registration. In service to the students on campus each member is scheduled to read at certain times to the blind students. Tutoring is another project of this organization.

Tower Guard helps sponsor the Spinster Spin. An annual Benefit Bridge is held every spring to help raise funds for the scholarship honoring an outstanding freshman student.

For Distinguished Services Rendered

Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honorary at Michigan State, is a national organization consisting of faculty, graduate, and undergraduate members chosen from all departments of high grade American colleges and universities. Twice a year seniors who have maintained a high scholastic rating during their four years in college, with a two point average or better, are elected to the organization. Both men and women from any division in the school are eligible, but usually only eight per cent of the graduating class make the grade.

The objective of this society is to encourage scholarship and intellectual achievement.

Open and closed meetings are held with the purpose of promoting scholarship, while informal meetings serve to foster good fellowship among the members in the organization.

Since the founding of the chapter at Michigan State in 1897, Phi Kappa Phi has annually awarded a fifty dollar scholarship to the sophomore with the highest all college point average. Each year a plaque is awarded to the class A, B, C, and D high school whose freshman student at M.S.C. attains the best scholastic record for graduates of high schools of that respective class.

The scholastic goal of all Liberal Arts and Applied Science students is Tau Sigma! This honorary society was organized in 1923 for students in the School of Arts and Sciences, and is, as its' name signifies, maintained for the purpose of encouraging high scholastic achievement and to promote a better understanding between the arts and sciences.

A plaque bearing the symbols of the organization, the lamp of learning and the open book of knowledge, is awarded by Tau Sigma to one student in the School of Arts and one student in the School of Science who has achieved the highest scholastic standard in his respective division during the freshman year. The students who maintain the highest scholastic average in each of these divisions during each year are chosen for membership in the honorary fraternity during their junior year.

Accomplishments during the past year have included a plan to resume publication of the booklet entitled "How to Study," to be presented to incoming freshmen.

Alpha Delta Theta -- Future Med. Techs

Marge Yerkey, Shirley Robillard, Phyllis Parker, Muriel Young, Georgiann Dodt

Delta chapter of Alpha Delta Theta, National Technology honorary, was installed on campus last June by Mrs. John Leicht, national president. To promote social and intellectual cooperation and fellowship among Med. Tech. students at Michigan State is the purpose of this organization.

Regular business meetings are held each month and outstanding speakers lecture on Medical Technology and related subjects. The first student-faculty picnic was held in the spring. It is hoped that this will become an annual affair of the organization. You will find representatives of Alpha Delta Theta hard at work on the Vet council as well as doing their part to make the annual Vet Ball a success.

Margie Yerkey, local president, now serves as national recording secretary of Alpha Delta Theta. She was elected at the annual convention held in Milwaukee last September.

This group is affiliated with the National Professional organization of Alpha Delta Theta.

Iota chapter of Alpha Psi, national veterinary honor society was founded on Michigan State's campus in 1914. Its main purpose is the promotion of scholarship and fellowship among veterinary students.

This year's activities have included numerous field trips to points of interest to veterinary students. Several of these trips were visits to drug manufacturing houses and laboratories.

Standards for this honorary are high. Only students with a 1.5 all college average, sophomores and juniors in the upper one-third of their classes, and seniors in the upper one-fourth of their class are eligible for membership. One faculty member who has done outstanding work in the field of veterinary medicine is taken into membership each year. Members are selected during the first and third terms of each year. They may be initiated either fall or spring term.

One of the oldest national honoraries on campus is Omicron Nu for Home Economics majors. Michigan State is proud to have the Alpha chapter. Since its founding here, thirty-four colleges and institutions have added chapters of this organization.

The purpose of the club is to promote leadership, scholarship, and research in the field of home economics. It also furthers student-faculty relations. Girls of high scholastic averages with an active interest in their major make up the membership. They encourage others by presenting the Snyder award to the sophomore with the highest scholastic average in her freshman year, and giving an Honors Tea during term for all Home Economics girls with a B average.

Uniform and holder sales, and maintaining a bulletin board featuring activities, honor roll, and Who's Who in Home Economics are some of their activities. Besides these, there are many other social affairs which keep these energetic gals busy. Omicron Nu holds pledging and initiation twice a year.

Chemistry Just for Coeds

Sigma Chi Gamma was originated in 1942 at Michigan State College to serve the acute need for a women's honorary organization in chemistry. The purpose of this organization is to promote interest in chemistry among women, to follow happenings in this field, to band together woman chemistry majors for mutual advancement in academic and professional life, and to foster a closer spirit of friendship and cooperation among these women.

Prerequisites for membership are 15 credits in chemistry. Each initiate is required to prepare a short review on some current phase of chemistry, which is presented at one of the regular sessions of the club.

Last year Sigma Chi Gamma sponsored an exhibit and movie on the subject of plastics.

This year the scope of its activities includes tutoring in chemistry and sponsoring speakers on chemistry and related subjects at meetings. One of the main projects is a series of broadcasts dealing with topics of general interest in the field of chemistry.

High Business Goals -- Sigma Epsilon

Sigma Epsilon was founded at Michigan State College by a group of students majoring in Business Administration and Economics. In the fall of 1930 it added its name to the honorary organizations on our campus.

It is the purpose of Sigma Epsilon to encourage better scholarship among students in Business Administration and Economics, and to stimulate and maintain friendly interest between them. It rewards those of outstanding scholarship with recognition by placing their names on a silver plaque.

Membership in this organization is open to Juniors and Seniors having an all-college scholastic average of 1.5 and an average in Economics of 1.75. Optional membership consists of instructors in the departments of Business Administration and Economics, and graduate students.

Sigma Epsilon sponsors the annual freshmen mixer at which freshmen in Business Administration get to know upperclassmen and professors of the department, and it also gives free income tax service every February and March to those desiring it.

Women Journalists -- Theta Sigma Phi

Theta Sigma Phi is the national journalism honorary that was organized on April 8, 1909 by seven women students attending the University of Washington in Seattle. Since its activation the sorority has maintained its purpose which is to unite all women interested in journalism and to honor those achieving greatest success.

Before a student is considered for membership in Theta Sigma Phi, she is required to show her ability in journalism by working on one of the college publications. She must also have a B in all journalism courses and be in the department with professional intent. Many members of the Alpha Psi, local chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, are acclaimed for their writing, especially in the journalism contest held annually.

Part of last year's social activities was a tea given by Theta Sigma Phi in honor of Jan Struther, author of "Mrs. Miniver", who is also a member of the sorority. During the current year, Theta Sig invited students to "Publication Row" open house to see the three publications on campus at work. Theta Sigma Phi plans to have a series of programs presenting notable journalists of our day.

The purpose and function of Theta Alpha Phi is to increase interest, stimulate creativeness and foster artistic achievement in all of the arts and crafts of the theater. In pursuing this purpose, the fraternity sponsors term plays, including those given during summer term. Theta Alpha Phi sponsored "Ladies in Retirement" last summer quarter; fall term "Blythe Spirit" was given; and the winter term production was "The Little Foxes".

Since the founding of Studio Theater in 1939, it has been one of the chief interests of Theta Alpha Phi. The majority of the members of this fraternity have been graduates of Studio Theater. Membership is open to those who have acquired twelve points by participation in two or more important campus productions and have a one point all college average. Points may also be gained by serving on one of the Studio Theater's committees, such as programming, staging, or make-up.

Its purpose is to further the scholastic attainment and to advance the appreciation and knowledge in the fields represented. The organization provides direction and leadership among students of allied arts in addition to furthering art appreciation.

The members are now working on a Fine Arts Magazine of student work. They also offer their services as ushers at the art lectures, and maintain a poster service for the college. Other activities are exhibit teas and student art shows. Local exhibits are presented in the campus art gallery.

A prized honor is the Sheely Award which is presented each year to the senior who has done the most outstanding work in this field.

Membership is limited to majors in these fields and is based on scholarship, leadership, and accomplishment in the arts.

Have you wondered at the strange noises emitting from Hunt's dining room on Tuesday? You may be relieved to know that it is the members of Sigma Delta Pi, practicing their Spanish lingo.

Sigma Delta Pi, the National Spanish honorary, was formally installed at Michigan State College in 1945. Students who have a two point in Spanish as well as a 1.8 all college average are eligible for membership.

The main purpose of this group is to increase the knowledge and understanding of students in the United States for Hispanic contributions to modern civilization, to promote a congenial relationship between the Spanish speaking nations and our own, and to reward students who show special interests and attainments.

Accomplishments, you say? This organization has a finger in every pie where anything Spanish is concerned! A Spanish play, Spanish movies, a party of the International Club, dinners at Hunts, and a radio program are among the many features sponsored by Sigma Delta Pi.

Student members of the local chapter increase their proficiency in public speaking by practice sessions and informal discussions concerning practical problems and their solutions.

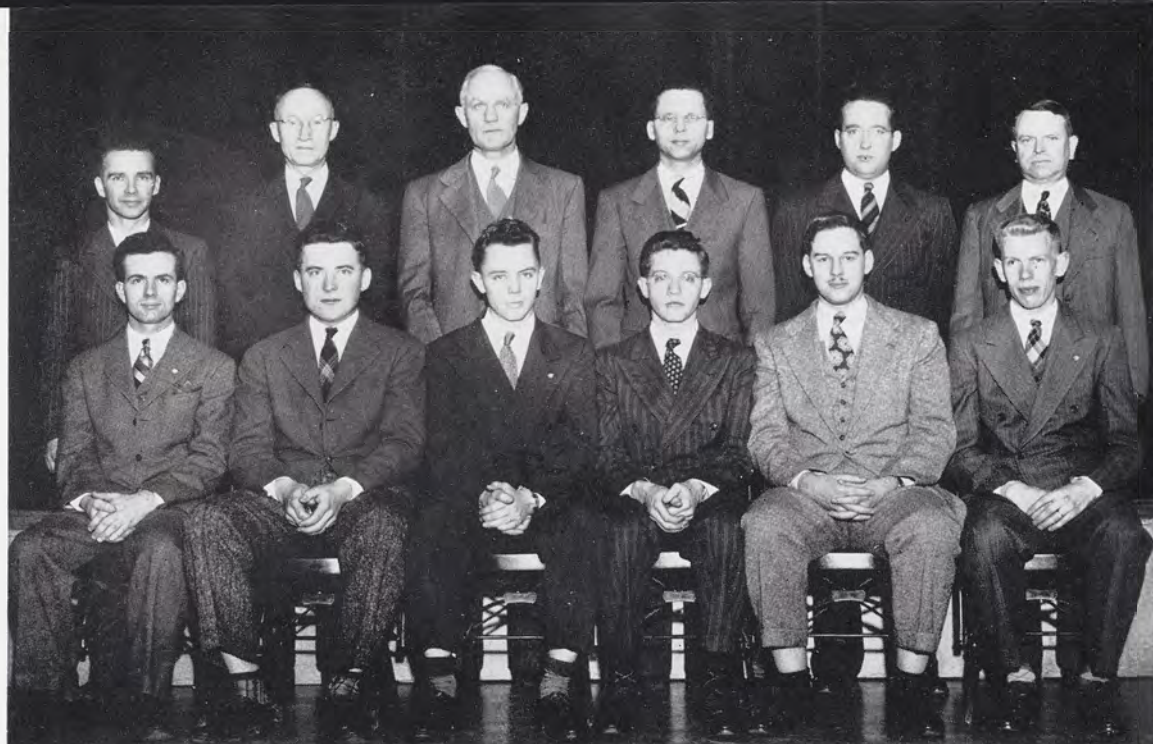

The Forensic conclave held at the beginning of each fall term is sponsored by Delta chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, oldest national honorary speech fraternity at M.S.C. At this time department instructors are introduced, and freshmen are acquainted with the work of the speech department. Pi Kappa Delta also sponsors the Debate tournament held each year on campus, in which several colleges of the state participate. During winter term the chapter sponsored debate, and in the spring it held the Michigan high school international speech activity contest. Pi Kappa Delta's purpose is to encourage participation in forensics and provide opportunity for students to show their ability. Members are chosen on merits in oratory, debate and extemporaneous speaking.

The Michigan State chapter of Tau Beta Pi is the second oldest chapter of the fraternity and was installed at the college in 1892. This national engineering fraternity was organized at Lehigh University in the year 1885.

Members are selected from students in the Senior Engineering class who have attained a scholastic rating in the upper one-fourth of the class, and initiations are held Fall and Winter terms of each year. In addition to high scholarship, however, candidates for membership must have proven character and high ideals. This fraternity aims at promoting high scholarship in engineering.

The returning active members from service are increasing the membership roll. The organization holds bi-monthly meetings and sponsors social and fraternity functions, in addition to providing a scholastic goal for all engineering students.

Orchesis -- Dancers With Nymphlike Grace

The dance! Today how different it is from grandmother's day.

Orchesis, the national dance organization on campus, was founded at Michigan State College in 1928. The purpose of Orchesis is to further interest in the modern dance composition of today among the women students at Michigan State. There is a year's pledgeship for limbering up, during which prospective members must show outstanding work in their modern dance class in the physical education department. The members of the dance honorary do folk, modern, ballet, and romantic dancing, particularly stressing modern dancing.

Last year Orchesis presented their largest program in several seasons. They collaborated with the Music and Drama departments to produce one of Edgar Allan Poe's creepy stories — "The Masque of the Red Death." Dr. Reed wrote the music and the dance composition was done by Orchesis members themselves.

The "Masque" was such a tremendous success that by public demand, Orchesis put on a Fantasy for children this past Spring.

Green Splashers Churn the Waters

Green Splash, the women's swimming honorary, was organized in 1927, to promote interest in swimming among Michigan State College women. To become a member, a coed must pass the senior life saving course and must be a member of her class swimming team in the winter term competition. Prospective members must have at least a "C" average and the unanimous acceptance of the members.

Green Splash is organized primarily to promote an interest in all water activities among women students on campus. Last year, M.S.C.'s mermaids caused a great sensation with their water ballet "Alice in Wonderland." It ran for two nights on campus and then was given for hundreds of soldiers at Percy Jones Hospital. Plans have been formulated for another water ballet this spring.

In promoting an interest in water activities, many hours are spent improving strokes and practicing for life saving. Thus far, 90 girls have received life saving certificates.

For entertainment, Green Splash sponsors mixed swimming parties and regular life saving classes. Glug, Glug, Glug — Is there a Green Splash life saver in the house?

The chapter at M.S.C., which is the only one in Michigan, takes an active part in all mathematical societies in the state. This past year two picnics were enjoyed by the organization, as well as the annual winter term banquet when the L. C. Plant awards were presented.

Both students and faculty make up the membership. Problems of mathematical interest are presented by the members and guests at the meetings which are held twice a month.

TAKE time to turn an admiring eye on this spirited and sporty beauty. It's new as a news flash and charged with excitement.

It's a car to share your thrills at a game—or the gay days at the country club. And one equally eager at chores about town.

It's able at handling crowds—including the luggage. And with its straight-eight, valve-in-head Fireball engine it's smooth as a glider.

Take this wheel in your hand at your Buick dealer's. Put the Estate Wagon through its paces—you'll find it trim as it is talented—and a true Buick through and through.

The Financial

CAPITAL of Central Michigan

Even as Lansing was chosen as the State Capital in the early days of Michigan's establishment as a commonwealth because the city was centrally located in the lower Peninsula, so Lansing has become also the financial focal point for the entire Central Michigan territory surrounding the State Capital.

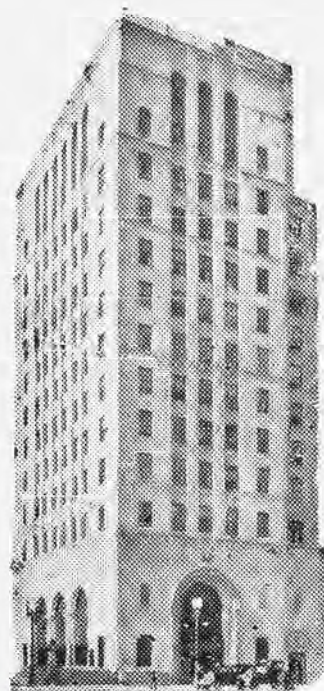

In Lansing — where per capita wealth is among the highest in the State — the Bank of Lansing has won and merited a growing clientele among State institutions, industrial and commercial firms and the farmers throughout the rich agricultural region of Central Michigan.

ONLY BY HIGHWAY you meet the real America!

- There's just one way to know and enjoy the magnificent Country in which you live. That's to see it close up, face to face — within handclasp range of its friendly and interesting people — in the very shadow of its trees and mountains. That way is the Highway.

- Greyhound alone serves nearly all the famous-name National Highways of the United States and Canada, and Greyhound has many advantages over private car travel along those magic motorways. Its cost-per-mile is less . . . there are no traffic problems or parking bothers . . . there is cushioned chair comfort that makes it easy to relax and enjoy the passing scene.

- Along routes that reveal the distinctive local color of each state and region, Greyhound takes you out to meet the real America . . . and experience you'll find Only by Highway.
