The dimensions of a year are not easily determined, but every year, nevertheless, has its own magnitude in time and events, people and points of view. The year of 1957-58 at Michigan State university was no exception. It was one of fascinating profile and perhaps a hint of distinctive character.

And

The Crowds Came

by Bob Slade

While the world of 1957-58 sent aloft its sputniks and explorers and debated the question of man and outer space, another controversy received at least equal attention at MSU—that of student and parking space.

Since their emancipation in 1954, when President Hannah's edict freed them to drive and park on campus, the number of student auto owners had increased until some drastic action seemed unavoidable.

This fall, the intrepid undergrad motorist returned, horsepower in hand, to vie for his place in the North Campus sun. Instead, he found the promised land closed to all but his shoe leather and bicycle, while his auto was relegated to the periphery of South Campus. The inevitable had happened, a revised driving and parking ordinance was in effect.

Objections, explanations, questions and answers filled the air for months, but only one thing seemed certain. Limited driving privileges for students were here to stay.

JOINING IN the MSU growth, a new steam power plant rises on South Campus.

Right and below—THE NEW Education and Art buildings speed to 1959 completion.

If the students fortunate, or unfortunate enough to own automobiles felt prone to rebellion, their dissatisfaction was soon lost in the far happier response over the opening of the new Student Services building.

Between fall and winter terms, a mass migration of students started from crowded offices in the Union to this new center of student activity. Within a few short weeks, groups ranging from the State News to the Student Traffic Appeal Court had shifted operations completely.

Even the married student, an individual generally concerned with the more universal activities of home and family, found direct benefit from the university's program of growth. By fall term, over 500 new brick Spartan Village units were completed, with 800 still under construction. This was steady progress toward the goal of 2,500 by 1959.

Meanwhile, the largest unorganized group on campus, the sidewalk superintendents, found full employment despite a recession year for the rest of the nation. Construction began on new buildings ranging from art to education to intramurals.

SOUTH CAMPUS ground breaking was the order of the year as the crowds of MSU students increased.

SUMMER TERM saw the modern apartments of Van Hoosen hall, new women's co-op, nearly ready for their fall opening.

At the beginning of the school year, the university's growth was made graphically apparent. An impressive statistic came to life in the form of nearly 20,000 students at Registration. From the guileless freshman to the battle-scarred senior, the war of the class cards swept over its victims and victors, leaving frazzled nerves on both sides of each cluttered and busy table.

Certainly recent years have seen nearly as many students pass through the crowded Aud in the hectic days of Registration, but this year seemed somehow different. Perhaps it was simply the change in the route of the gauntlet of rubber stamps and eagle-eyed checkers, or perhaps the increased tuition.

The change may have come from any number of reasons, but the most likely seemed to lie in the tempo of the year, one of growth becoming stabilized. For though the numbers were greater, if such a thing can be, Registration was ordered congestion.

THE ETERNAL argument continued over every three by seven class schedule card.

THOUGH INFLATION finally hit tuition, this year's increase in the cost of education did very little to shorten the lines.

THE MACHINERY of Registration met an army reinforced every 15 minutes.

IGOR, THE friendly iguana, rests with Ray Pawley, MSU herpetology major, after his unescorted tour of East Lansing.

AS A PRELUDE to Explorer and Vanguard, Sputnik dominated the October news and turned the eyes of MSU students skyward.

If the story of a school year begins with the university's spirit and breadth and unfolds through its major activities, it is surely punctuated by the many small but distinctive events that occur out of the main stream.

Igor Roams Summer Campus

An exclamation point in this year's story began with an East Lansing housewife's scream and was climaxed by the capture of one of the most elusive fugitives ever to confound the local gendarmerie.

The culprit's name was Igor, an honestly lovable fraternity mascot, but unfortunately, an extremely large and ugly lizard with a natural aptitude for frightening women. Happily, Igor was at large for only a short time, kept pretty much to himself and was returned to his master with no damage done.

CAMPUS APPLE addicts found an ample supply available from this new machine.

THE FIRST Mr. MSU, Bob Harvey, was coronated at the Spinsters' Spin this year.

A LONG, dry fall came in the wake of the great fire of '57, as the old Coral Gables was completely destroyed by raging flames.

The escapades of Igor, the iguana, were by no means our only claim to off-beat fame this year.

While apple enthusiasts the campus over fed coins into the new apple vending machine sponsored by the Horticulture department, the fortunate students participating in Dr. E. H. Lucas' "apple-a-day" health experiment found themselves featured in Life magazine.

Bob Harvey Crowned Mr. MSU

Nor were we without our heroes, as locally, Bob Harvey reigned supreme as the first Mr. MSU and nationally, All-Americans Walt Kowalczyk and Dan Currie appeared on the Ed Sullivan Show.

But for all our on-campus "cabbages and kings," few can hope to attain the even now legendary stature of the old Coral Gables, lost in the great fire of the summer of '57.

THIS YEAR for the first time, students of radio and TV wrote and produced several full length dramatic television plays.

WITH EXPANDED seating for fall crowds, Macklin Field became Spartan Stadium.

HOMECOMING QUEEN, Dottie Schweinsberg, leaves the pre-game ceremonies.

AN ANONYMOUS, thoroughly greased porker caused chaos as he slipped from the grasp of Frosh-Soph Daze competitors.

Just as the events of a day contribute to a year's character, so must its eventful days.

One such day began fall term with the antics of two chief executives perched 10 feet off the ground for MSU's zaniest marathon, a tree-sitting contest.

Sophomores Win In The Frosh-Soph Daze

The two venerables were Freshman Class President, Bob Gale and sophomore President, Joe Wallace. The event their stunt initiated was the traditional rivalry of the Frosh-Soph Daze.

This year tradition went by the board as, alas, the "little brown jug" awarded for countless years to the winning class, turned up green.

The year's other big days, though somewhat more conventional, were equally memorable to their participants, from the alums here for Homecoming to Mother and Dad visiting over Parents' Weekend.

J-DAY FESTIVITIES were accompanied by the music of an informal outdoor band.

THE UNION lounge became an art gallery for the Parents' Weekend show.

THE SACK race was high on the list of zany Frosh-Soph competitions for the "little green jug" awarded to the winning class.

JUNIOR DAY served its eggs sunny side sideways to players unlucky enough to miscalculate in this risky game of catch.

INTERNATIONAL WEEK set up a little "world's fair" of displays within the Aud.

As days become weeks, so must certain of our weeks become as memorable as the days.

Each of the world's 10 great religions contains, basic to its doctrine, the Golden Rule. This year saw all 10 expressions inscribed together, as a symbol of humanity's universal nature, on a single scroll.

Foreign Students Present Festival

The scroll was displayed throughout one of MSU's most interesting and constructive week-long events, the International Festival.

This year, amid proposals and plans for a new and much larger International Center, along with increased university-wide emphasis on international understanding, the festival was indeed a major event.

FAIRCHILD THEATER filled with music of the International Festival show.

THE HIGH point of Greek Week came with the festivities of the Greek Feast.

Perhaps less far reaching than our international activities, but certainly no less outstanding was another big Michigan State week. This one, by, for and named after the campus Greeks from Alpha to Omega.

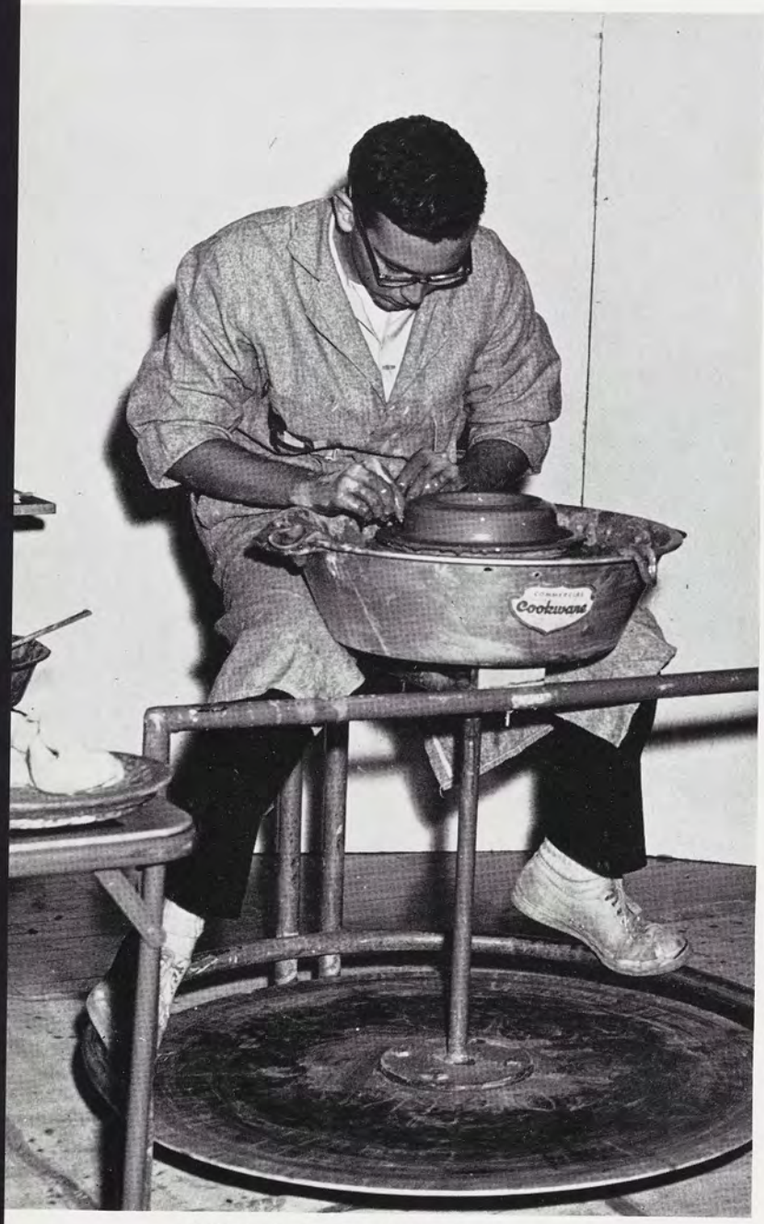

Junior 500 Enters 10th Year

Held late in spring term, Greek Week reached new heights as the 10th annual Junior 500 pushcart race featured some of the fastest one manpower vehicles this side of Hong Kong.

In spite of the mass move of many organizations to the new Student Services building, the Union was by no means left completely to the Grill hounds. Fall term, the building hosted another top week's event, the Creative Arts Festival.

THE STREAMLINED, one manpower Junior 500 vehicles race past the crowd for a thrilling sprint during Lambda Chi Alpha's traditional campus classic.

LONG PREPARATION went into Delta Phi Delta's Creative Arts Festival show.

PHI MU ALPHA programmed a brilliant demonstration of modern jazz.

THE THIRD evening of the festival featured the modern dances of Orchesis.

Sponsored by Union Board and the Fine Arts department, the Creative Arts Festival was a rich week for campus art enthusiasts as Delta Phi Delta, the national art honorary, took over the Union ballroom for a display of fine silk screening and ceramics.

Creative Arts Featured
At UB Festival

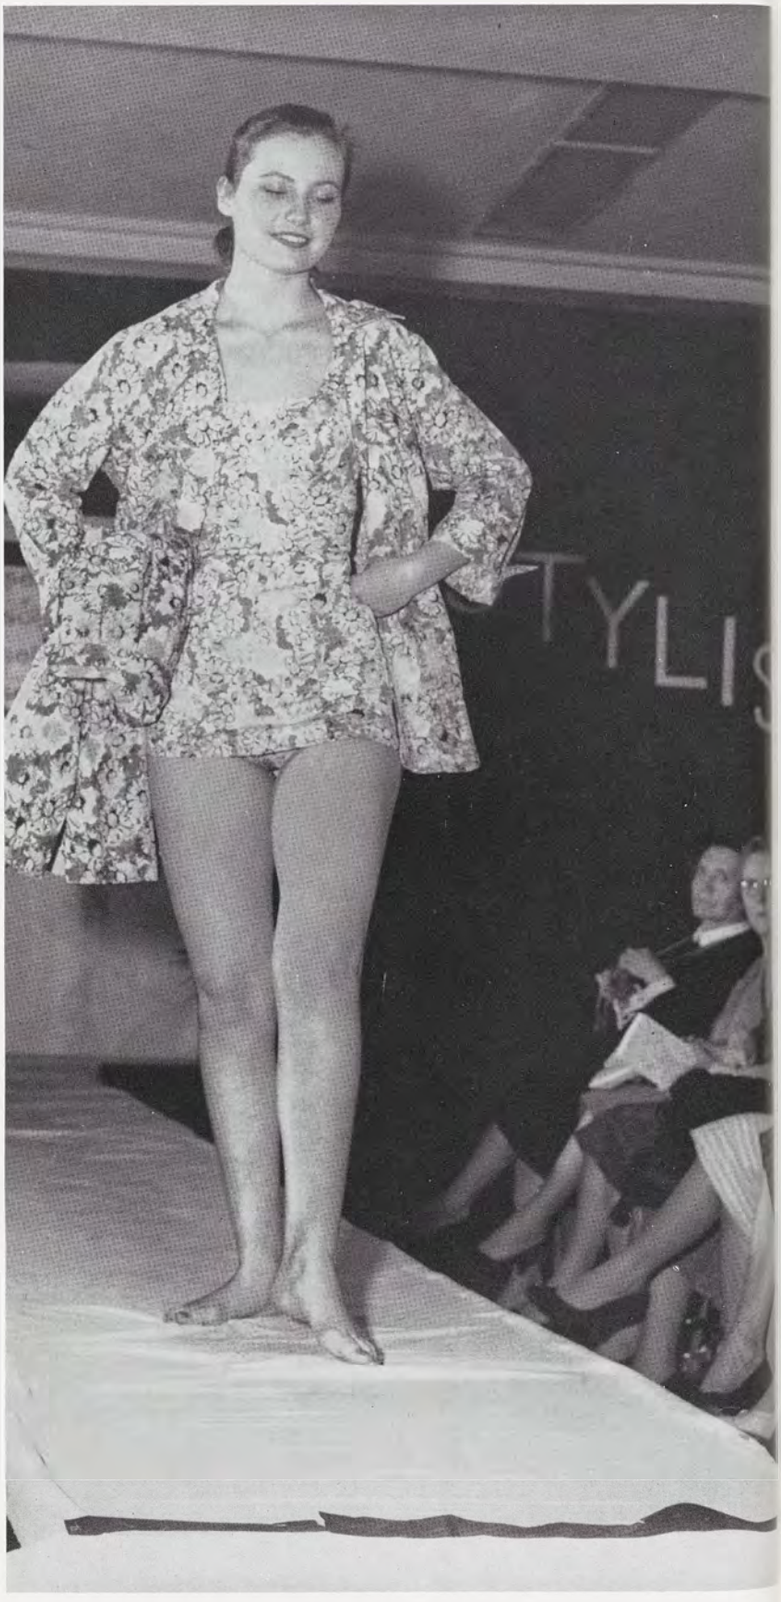

The first day of the festival was livened by a demonstration of modern jazz development by the music honorary, Phi Mu Alpha.

The third evening was given over to Orchesis and featured such unusual individual dances as the "Fantastic Feline Capers."

Rounding out the festival, the dramatics honorary, Theta Alpha Phi, produced two one act plays for a highly successful final evening in a brilliant week.

JIM VOORHEIS and his orchestra backed the UB Week production, "Sorta Satiric."

DENISE DONMOYER, this year's Miss MSU, modeled for the "Sorta Stylish" show.

IT DIDN'T hurt a bit as the year 'round polio vaccination program continued under Student Government management.

THE WEEK ended at the Continental Club for the "Sorta Smooth" dance.

Though the Spartan magazine's winter term lampoon of Union Board, "Sorta Stupid," was funny, it couldn't have been further from the truth. This was graphically demonstrated only a few weeks after the story appeared, when Union Board Week with its theme of "Sorta" turned out to be more than "sorta great."

Highlighted by features ranging from the week-long art show, "Sorta Sketchy," to the outstanding variety show, "Sorta Satiric," the widely varied and skillfully managed program became the biggest week of winter term.

AUSG Sponsors Asian Flu Shots

Many measures of a year are not easily marked in days and weeks or isolated instances. Such a measure was the year's program of service and representation directed by the All University Student Government.

With their broad plan for polio inoculation already in effect and operating smoothly, AUSG began the year with an eventually successful campaign to bring Asian flu vaccine within the reach of every student on campus.

Weeks before his polio and flu shots, the new student on campus found his mental health ably protected from the rigors of Registration by the extensive orientation program offered each term as a Student Government service.

Spartan Spirit
Plans Successful Rallies

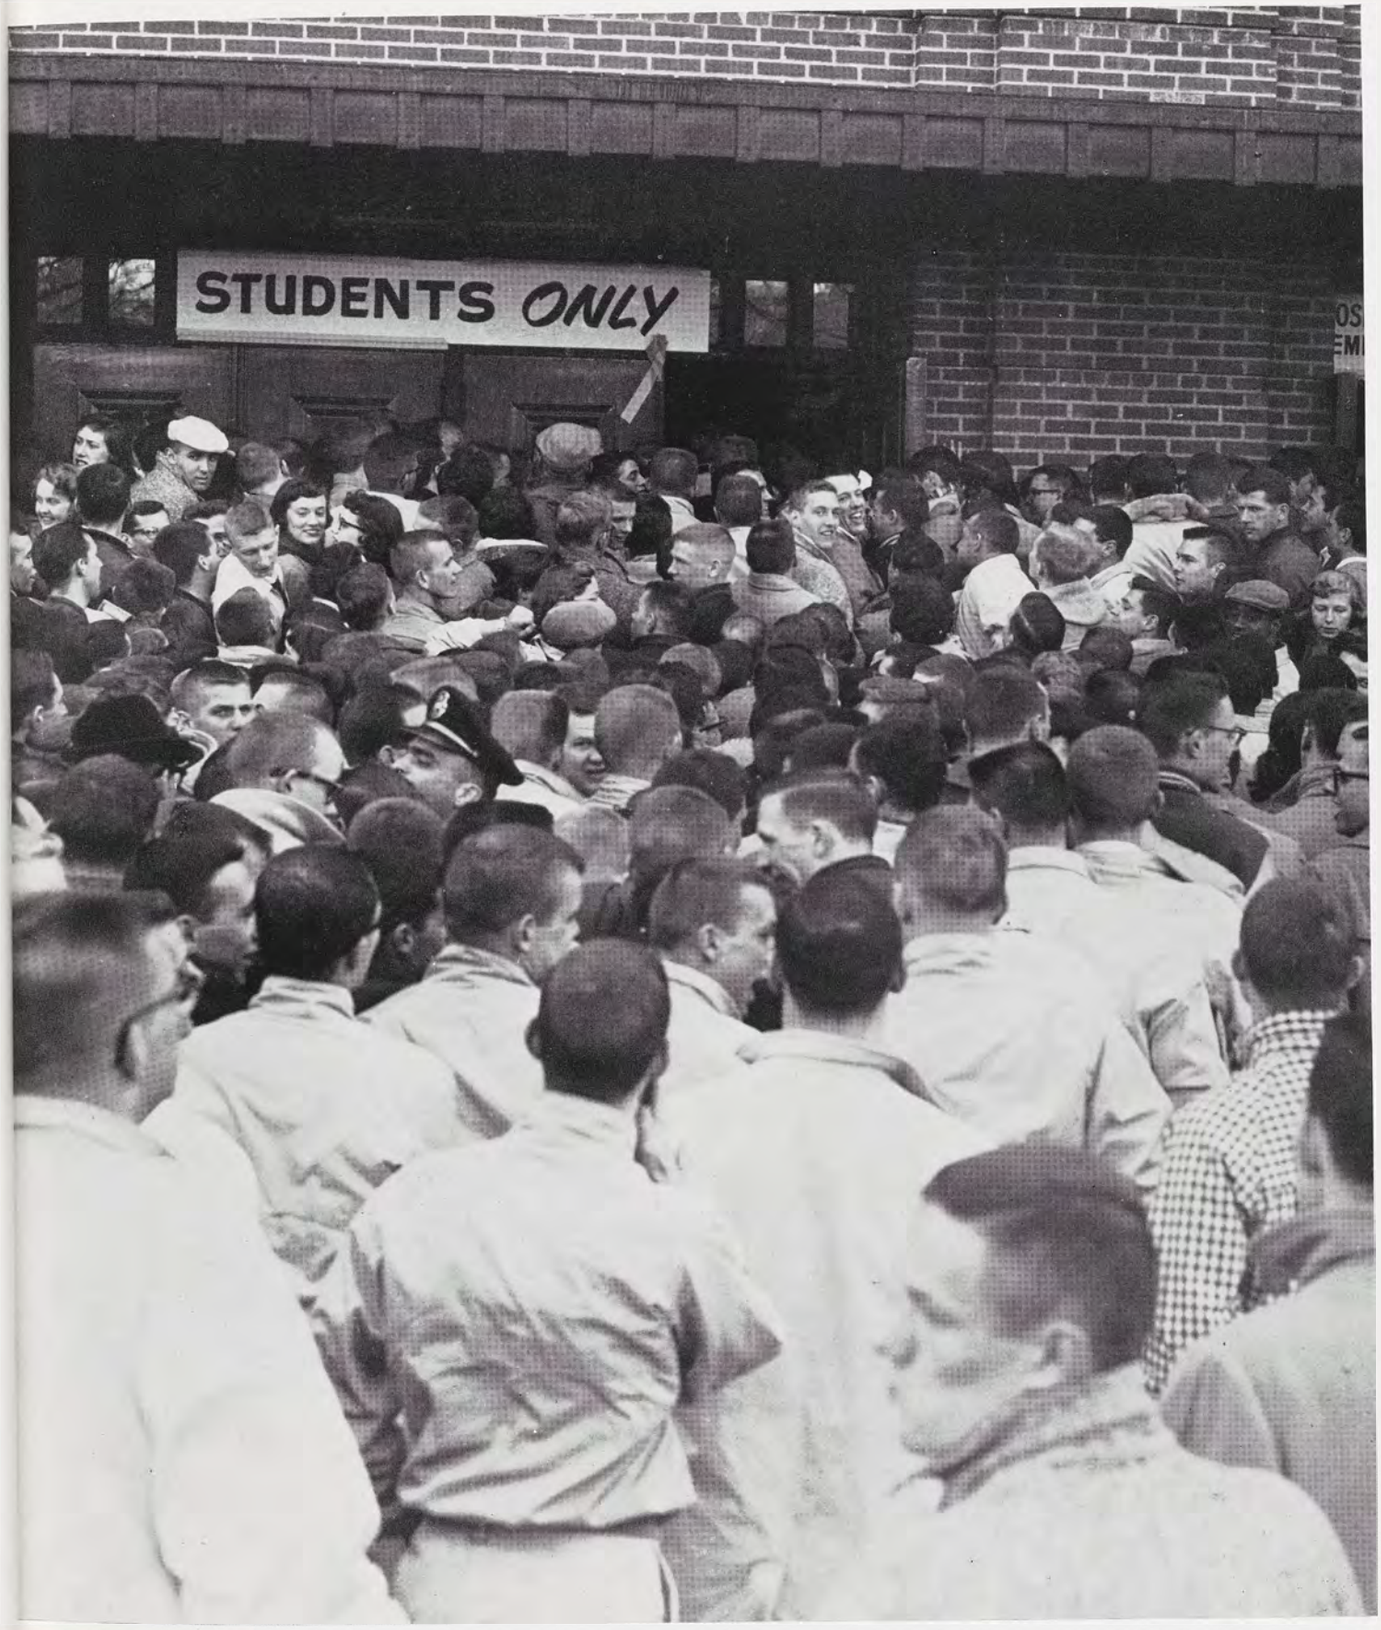

Along with student health and peace of mind, AUSG made great progress in the area of student spirit as the Spartan Spirit committee encouraged an average attendance of over 9,000 at fall term pep rallies.

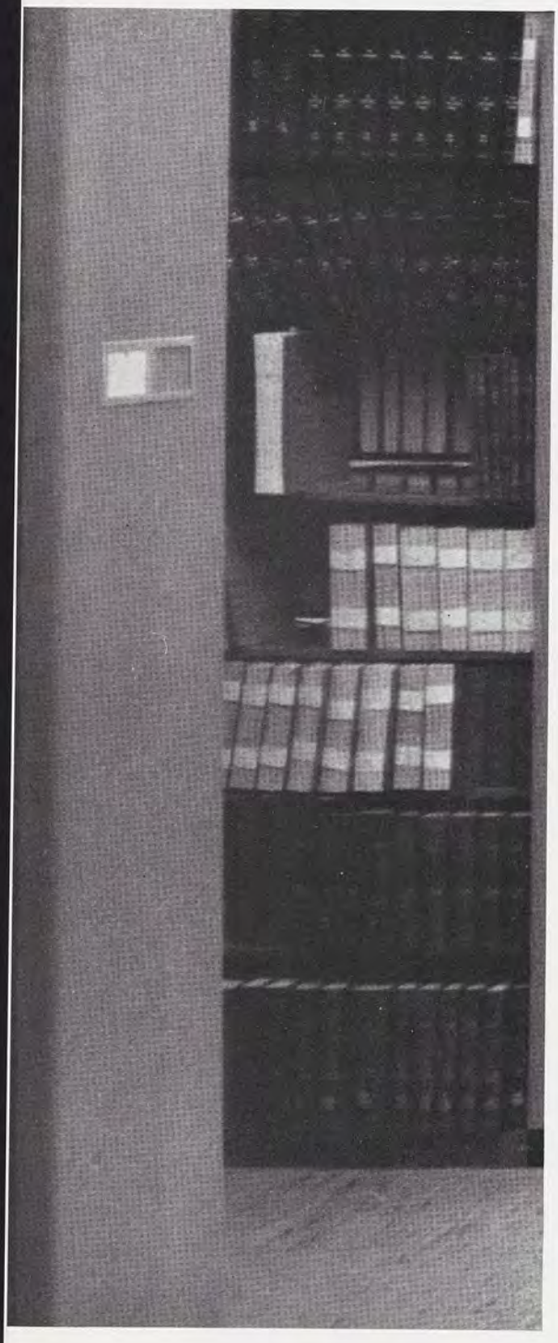

The reasons for such record crowds were many, not the least of them being campus-wide promotion and the appearance of top name entertainers such as Joni James and the Gaylords, as well as a good deal of careful planning and preparation for the night's success.

JONI JAMES helped encourage record attendance at a fall term football pep rally.

SPARTAN SPIRIT reached a high point with the winter term basketball turnouts.

STUDENTS ONLY

Behind all of its days and weeks, events and activities, the fundamental sense of progress in a school year is generated only by continued growth. This year, such growth was evident in breadth at Michigan State by the still increasing number of students and the buildings being constructed to serve them.

But 1957-58 found, more apparent than ever before, MSU's far greater growth in depth.

When the Library opened the doors of its new Assigned Reading room, it was to a far larger crowd than anyone had anticipated. Although it occupied the entire north section of the Library's ground floor, night after night the reading room was filled to capacity with students who in other less rigorous years would not have required its facilities.

Perhaps the cause of this year's difference lay in a changed student attitude or perhaps in the substantially more demanding academic standards. But whatever the cause, the effect was unmistakable: more students were becoming regular studiers.

Though social events and extracurricular activities stayed prominent in the student schedule, more dates became study dates as time became more valuable. Not only did top students find greater challenge through their admission to the new Honors College, but even the average students' books were open further into the night. Few doubted that "mickey mouse" had become almost extinct on the Michigan State campus.

IN ANSWER to the university's greater academic challenge, night after night and through the weekends the Library's new Assigned Reading room was filled to capacity.

THE PIONEER LAND GRANT COLLEGE

UNIVERSITY

Colleges & Research

by Maryln Guenoff

Each of the 11 colleges of Michigan State university is noted for its faculty, curriculum or research.

This fact may not be recognized by the Basic College freshman or sophomore more worried about the gene theory or his Humanities. Juniors are also likely to be concerned with electives, deficiencies and graduation requirements.

It is often not until the student reaches senior status that he becomes interested in the research and literature of his major field. Having had a background in a "problems" or "honors" course, many decide to apply for graduate study.

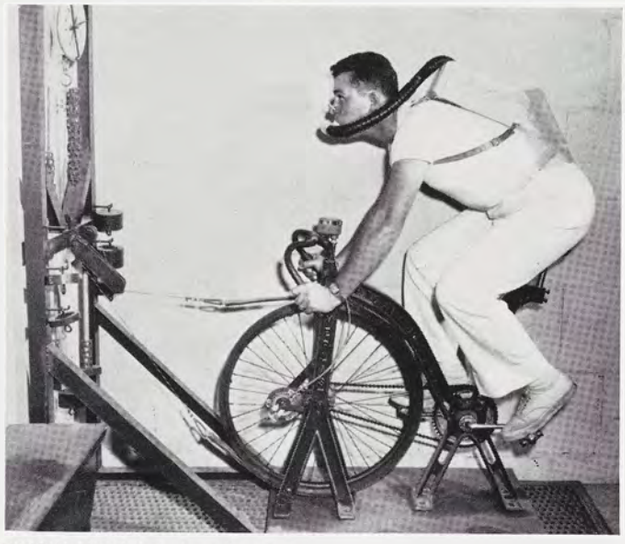

DR. F. J. McArdle of Horticulture prepares peaches for electron beam sterilization.

MISTIC, MSU'S integral computer, solves complex mathematical problems in seconds.

THE DIRECTOR of the computer laboratory, Dr. L. W. Vontersch, assembles a part of Mistic.

THE LENGTH of endurance is an object of study in the Physical Education department's research.

The first problem in graduate school is the selection of a subject for research. This involves reading all available material in the area and then, in certain fields, the performing of an experiment.

The graduate student is now a co-worker with his former professors and utilizes the research grants, measuring devices and mechanical equipment made available for such work.

Mistic, the electronic "brain," occupies a place of honor in the Electrical Engineering building. This computer puts the slide rule to shame as it adds two numbers 10,000 times a second.

Horticulturists in the College of Agriculture use an electron beam machine to sterilize fruit. Cathode rays accomplish this without heat.

Home economists are carrying out extensive studies in nutrition. One project concerns the effects of radiated wheat on the diet. Along with this, the nutrient value of grains grown in different types of soil is being tested. Rats are used to determine the effects.

Sharing the same equipment set up in the quonsets, researchers in Physical Education and Home Economics are conducting human energy experiments. The first is concerned with the problem of physical endurance, the other, with the energy consumption of normal activities.

As these and other projects move to South Campus, art students will abandon the temporary classrooms on that side of the river for the new three-story Kresge Art Center on the north bank of the Red Cedar.

Long term projects in the College of Science and Arts have resulted in some 23 books and 297 papers which have been published in professional journals. The Music department contributed seven original compositions.

The Division of Language and Literature has ordered laboratory equipment to be used to improve the teaching of languages.

The cryostat is a new device being used by physicists in their studies of molecular behavior. This is a super freezer, capable of producing a temperature of nearly 459 Fahrenheit degrees below zero. The machine compresses helium gas to affect liquefaction and resulting low temperatures.

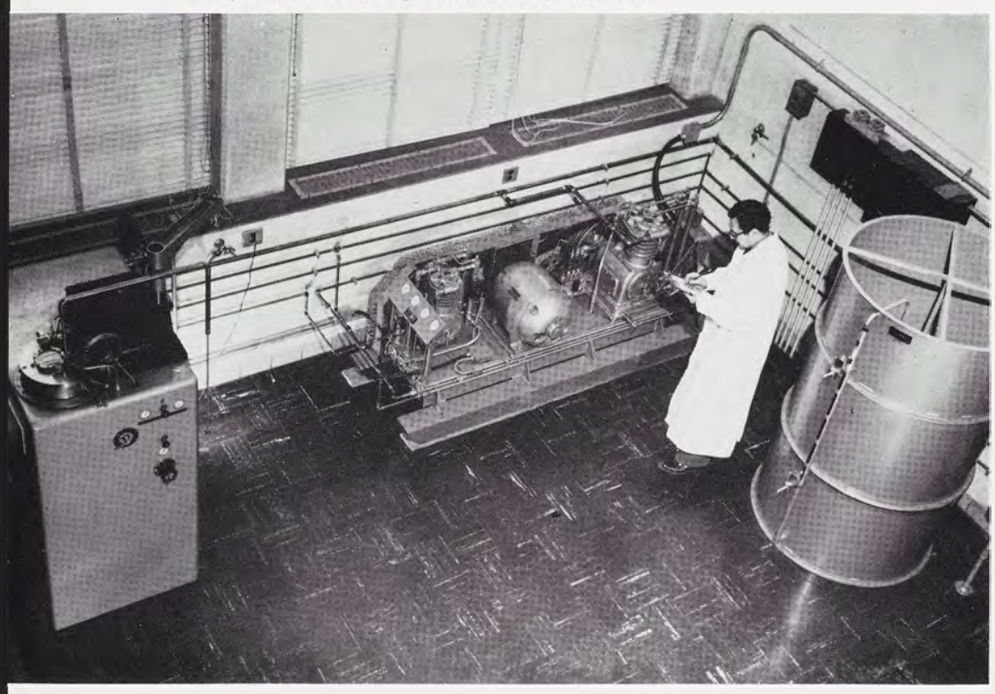

To keep up with the advancements in the space field, chemists at Michigan State are at work perfecting Diborane, a fuel which may fire tomorrow's rockets. Grants from the Atomic Energy Commission support the experiments being conducted on interhalogen and platinum compounds.

Other researchers are also busy in this field. Some are working in conjunction with Argonne National Laboratories in Chicago.

Research with radioactive isotopes began in the Horticulture department in 1950. Since 1953, all of the personnel of the department have visited Argonne labs to learn new techniques and receive counseling.

While this goes on, the College of Business and Public Service has been concerned with economic and governmental research. A study is being conducted to determine the effect the St. Lawrence Seaway will have on Michigan lakeports.

DR. HAROLD FORSTAT, Physics department, checks the compression unit of the cryostat, used in superconductivity research.

LIVE MODELS pose for students in the Art department's life drawing classes.

In the study of attitudes held within a culture, men in the College of Communication Arts make use of special measuring devices to determine judgments made toward various groups. Their findings are expressed by means of a model, the Semantic Differential.

The Honors College, established last year, is the first program of its kind in the country. Its purpose is to give students of superior ability a large amount of freedom in the selection of their courses.

These special students have only to obtain the minimum number of credits required for graduation to obtain their degrees. Prerequisites are waved and a free choice of courses and electives is allowed. Seminars and colloquia provide a common experience for all enrollees.

MSU'S FAMOUS restaurant management curriculum is a part of the College of Business and Public Service.

DRS. C. F. HUFFMAN and L. D. McGilliard, dairy nutritionists, examine the plastic tubing which has replaced part of "Dr. Gus' " stomach.

Plans are under way for a Plant Science building. This structure, to be built near the greenhouses on Farm Lane, will house laboratories for genetics and mycology research.

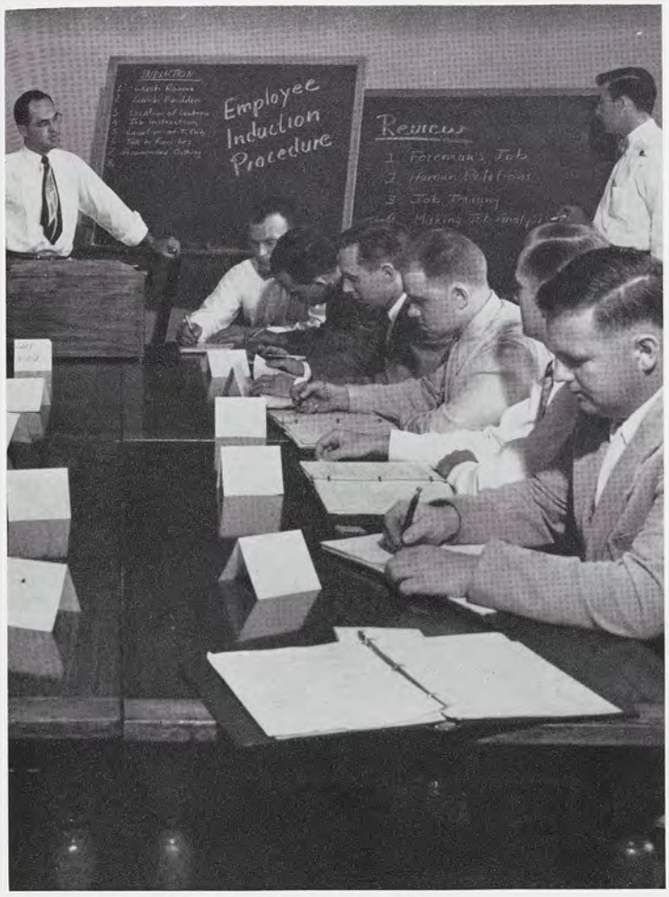

In line with their study of body processes, physiologists have constructed "windows" in cows' stomachs. Plastic tubing, which has replaced sections of the digestive system, permits analysis of food as it passes through the various regions.

Research is not always performed in a laboratory. A unique project of the College of Education uses closed TV kinescopes to record the actions of practice teachers for later study.

PROFESSOR Sylvan Wittwer, Horticulture Departpartment, shows the effect of gibberellic acid upon plant growth.

CONTINUING EDUCATION extends the work of the university throughout Michigan. More than 400 conferences are conducted each year.

EDUCATION MAJORS spend one term practice teaching in outlying state areas.

STUDENTS IN nursing education complete their training in hospitals throughout the state.

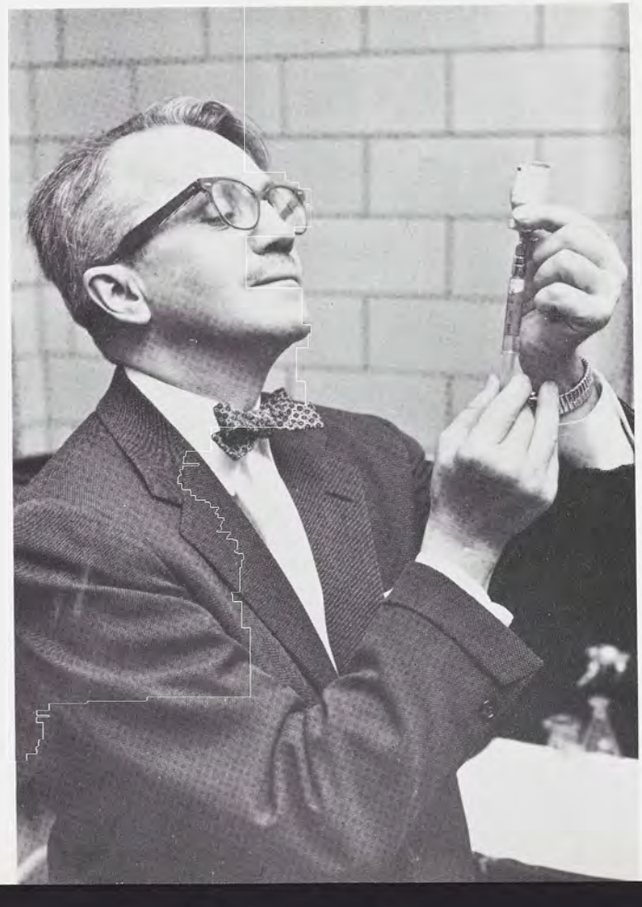

The College of Education will move to its new building on South Campus this summer. The main feature of this structure is the circular lecture room or "kiva." This is glass-enclosed on three sides with a lecture stage on the fourth. There is another stage, encircled by three levels of movable furniture, in the middle of the room.

Because of the interest and effort of one of its students, the College of Veterinary Medicine was able to combine forces with Lederle Laboratories to test a new rabies vaccine. The faculty and students of the college served as human guinea pigs for the mass inoculation.

Research and expansion at Michigan State are active processes, going on continuously in each of the colleges. Faculty, grad assistants and undergraduates all contribute to the accomplishments.

DR. J. M. Ruegsegger of Lederle Laboratories injects Physiology Professor C. F. Cairy with rabies vaccine.

THE PROGRAM to test the vaccine was carried out in cooperation with Olin Memorial Health Center.

✳ The administrational organization of Michigan State university reflects in its construction the aims of the university as a whole.

It seeks to provide the student with an education which will fit him for the times, to advance knowledge in instruction and research areas and to bring the university's services to people of the state, the nation and the world.

The scope of the duties of the administration extend far beyond the limit of the academic realm. Among the services which the university offers to its students and the community as a whole are the Lecture-Concert series, the university Museum, the International Center, Continuing Education programs and cooperation with foreign countries.

TRADITIONALLY, THE senior president and secretary lead their class to its final gathering at Commencement.

Commencement

Commencement seems a long way off to the first term freshmen. They are met with mountains of required courses, tests and adjustments to a new way of living. It seems impossible that all this can be fitted into the next four years.

Twelve terms later, as seniors, they fill out their diploma cards and find it even harder to believe that it all has ended so quickly.

The multitude of courses has been completed. The once-strange faces are now old familiar friends.

Senior Swingout

Commencement is a big day for everyone, faculty and family, as well as the graduates. To each it has a different meaning.

The faculty know it as an annual routine event which means that the cap and gown must be aired out.

Another group of students have completed the requirements set down by their colleges: at least 192 credits and 384 honor points in most cases.

For the faculty, this is another ritual to attend. The only difference is the main speaker. Last spring, it was Vice President Richard Nixon. He advised the graduates to be active participants in political affairs.

Other than that, the faculty has probably forgotten the excitement graduation creates back home.

Mothers and fathers all over the country have eagerly planned to attend the exercises. Few distances are too far to travel to MSU. Kellogg Center is filled to capacity.

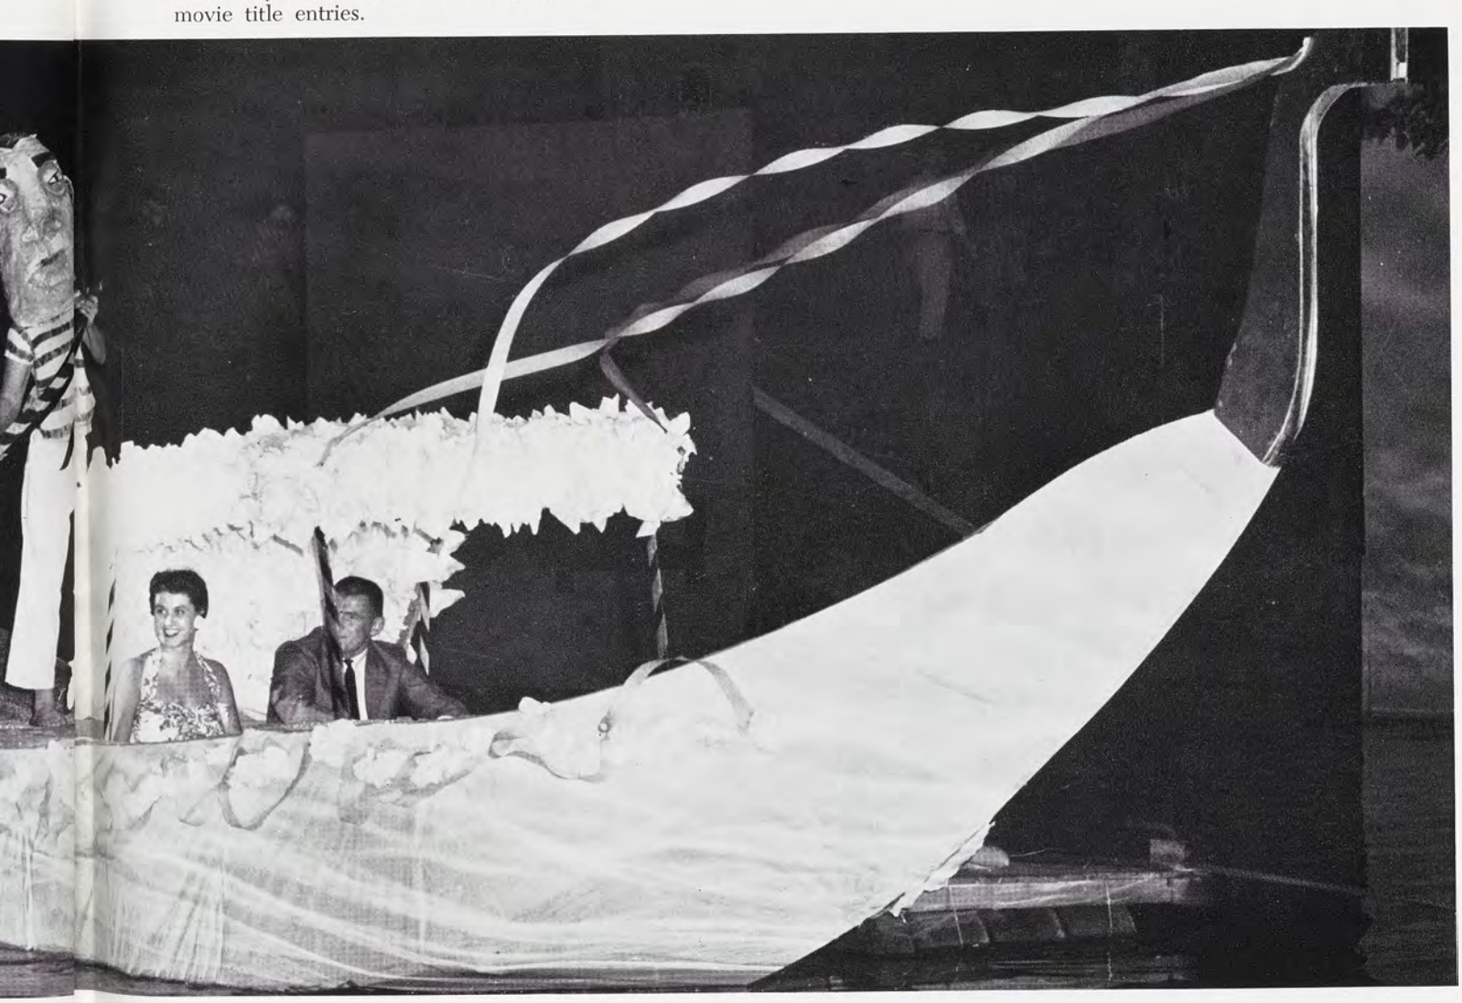

Parents see their son or daughter, now a poised young adult, step forward in the Commencement processional. It is not hard to imagine their pride at this time.

THE COLOR of their mortar board tassels distinguishes each college's seniors as they sit together in Spartan Stadium.

SATURDAY BEFORE Commencement, ROTC cadets receive their commissions as second lieutenants.

The culmination of events has the most meaning for the graduates themselves.

Their senior year began with picture appointments. The excitement grew as they carved their initials in the table top in Old College Hall. "Senior of the Week" and the President's Reception were no longer things they heard about — they were for them.

Placement Bureau announcements were eagerly watched and many hours were spent in the "cubicles" interviewing.

Fall and winter terms, they attended their last football games and big dances as undergraduates. It was also during this time that the groundwork was laid for the important events of spring term: Water Carnival, Senior Swingout and Lantern Night.

Spring was the time to remember! With the promise of no final exams, seniors took part in extra activities. There were still some small details to consider, such as the ordering of graduation announcements and caps and gowns.

Fifty outstanding women graduates were honored at Lantern Night as the "light of responsibility" was passed to the underclassmen.

Senior Swingout was the next big event. Seniors met in front of their respective colleges and joined the march to Fairchild theater to hear the names of the "Seniors of the Year" announced. Water Carnival highlighted graduation weekend. The audience was filled with parents and alumni, as well as students.

All this took place in one year. All led to the most important event of all, Commencement.

RICHARD M. NIXON received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree at Commencement exercises.

MORTAR BOARD presented bachelor's buttons to new members of Excalibur at Water Carnival.

Education of future military leaders through the Reserve Officers Training Corps program has been a part of MSU's mission almost from its beginning in 1855.

The program for producing officers from college students was incorporated in the original Morrill Act, which set up the land grant college system.

Graduation of the first class of officers, scheduled for 1861, had to be abandoned when the men were called to serve the Federal cause in the Civil War. Since that time, Michigan State has contributed thousands to the service of our country.

In 1949, Army and Air Force ROTC became separate units at colleges and universities. Members of Michigan State's class of 1951 were the first to receive their commissions in the Air Force.

This is the Army's 97th and the Air Force's ninth year on campus.

RAY McKINLEY and the Glenn Miller Orchestra provided music for the Coronation Ball.

ARMY CORPS, and Air Force group sponsors are honored at the Coronation Ball.

The Coronation Ball, sponsored each year by the combined Air Force and Army units, is the big social event for the ROTC cadets.

This is traditionally the time for cadet officers to display their military manners before the entire university. Uniforms are proper attire at the dance.

There is no inter-service rivalry at MSU, as the Army and Air Force also combine their efforts to put on the spring term blood drive. Cadets from both services march together in the Spartan Guard of Pershing Rifles, an honorary drill organization.

All freshmen and sophomore men at MSU without past military service are required to join either of the basic ROTC programs.

CADETS AWAIT the order to pass in review for a Tuesday afternoon spring parade.

AFTER FOUR years in ROTC, cadet officers receive commissions as second lieutenants.

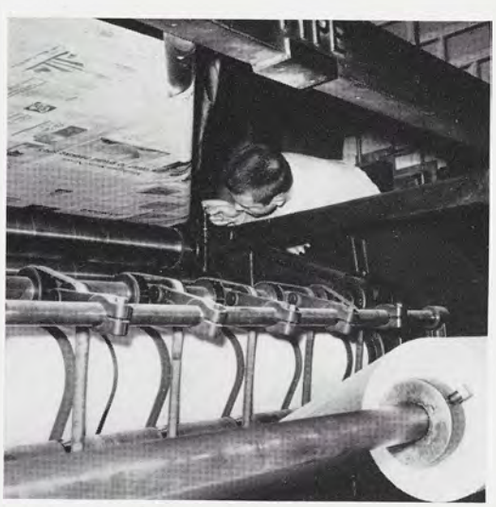

MSU's ROTC cadets receive training from Army and Air Force career officers, who are selected especially for their educational backgrounds and military experience.

Since 1957, advanced cadets in both services have been able to take pilot training. Three Piper Tri-Pacers at the Capitol City airport are in use for this instruction.

By the end of 1958, 104 Air Force and 11 Army cadets will have soloed. More than half of these will receive their pilot's licenses from the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

Upon graduation from the ROTC advanced program, cadets receive commissions as second lieutenants in either the Army or Air Force reserves.

As an Army second lieutenant, a graduate may enter a training program in any one of the Army's many branches. Air Force ROTC graduates take further training and become pilots or observers.

STUDENT VOICE

by Toni Robb

The Student Voice is the all-important voice of the university which explains, interprets, represents and channels the views of the campus as a whole. Sometimes this enigmatic voice is approving, sometimes complaining and very often, persuading.

The voice speaks to the students and for the students in many ways — through their elected representatives in the All University Student Government, through editorials and columns in the university newspaper, the State News, and through campus leaders threshing out problems with the administration at meetings such as the Spartan Roundtable.

The various independent sections of the Student Voice overlap at many points as they function, and in the final viewpoint are seen to mesh together into a loosely knit, yet interdependent, unit.

Because of the great need for communication on a large campus, the relationship between organizations and publications serves as an illustration of this fact.

At a university such as Michigan State, where enrollment is always skyrocketing, there is the difficult problem of keeping the students informed on current campus events and activities.

Meetings of Student Government and other governing bodies, as well as the roundtable, are frequently covered by State News reporters who interpret and clarify the opinions, decisions and rules before they present them to the students.

These same views and actions will be summarized as to overall effect in the Wolverine, the yearly publication, or satirized in the Spartan magazine. The entire process is one of refining student opinion to give it the most meaning and impact.

It is for this reason that publications play such an important part in drawing the campus together. Besides informing the students of scheduled events and changes in university rules, they also supply such personal details as pinnings and engagements.

Spartan Roundtable, a meeting of campus leaders with the administration, attempts to air the views of the campus and iron out any problems brought about by misunderstanding.

The roundtable takes the form of a dinner meeting held at President Hannah's home and the Union on alternating months.

The presidents of campus living units, governing bodies, major honoraries and student editors all attend.

WINTER TERM, student organizations moved to their new hub, the Student Services building, now the nucleus of activity.

STUDENT LEADERS and administrators meet at Spartan Roundtable for dinner and to exchange views on any campus problems.

A SUPPLEMENT edition is stuffed by State News staffers. Education was the featured topic this winter term.

Following the roundtable dinner, an open question and answer session is conducted by President Hannah. The student representatives bring up discussion topics suggested by their groups.

The driving and parking problem was one that received thorough roundtable consideration during the year, with many clarifying points coming from "talking the problem out" in this way.

The branches of Student Government are other integral parts of the Student Voice. One of the most publicized, the Student Traffic Appeal Court, investigates all campus traffic ticket complaints. This year, they succeeded in eliminating many loopholes from the disputed car registration regulations.

There is SECO, the Student Executive Committee on Orientations, which plans and coordinates the programs of campus groups to avoid duplication of activities.

Besides planning the Student Guide program of campus, Library and Union building tours, SECO is responsible for the Welcome Week booklets. This committee also acts as an adviser to Spartan Women's League, AWS and the YM-YWCA for their transfer student programs, "Big Sister" and foreign student orientation activities.

Spartan Spirit encouraged student support of MSU teams during the football and basketball seasons and was often rewarded with enthusiastic attendance at pep rallies, featuring big names like the Gaylords.

Besides publishing the Student Organizations Directory and Sparta-Guide, a list of rules and regulations for organizations, the Organizations Bureau also charters all groups on campus and provides a mimeographing and silk screening service.

With the move of the major parts of the Student Voice to the third floor of the new Student Services building, the informing and interpreting jobs of the voice have been facilitated by a greater familiarity among the students who make it work.

The Student Voice is a voluble organ, speaking to and representative of, the entire campus. Whether heard in an editorial crusading for an important freedom or in the action resulting from an individual protest of a parking violation, the Student Voice is an unmuffled one.

The voice speaks to effect mutual cooperation and understanding among students, faculty and the administration. At Michigan State, it fulfills an essential and necessary campus role.

GOVERNOR G. Mennen Williams addresses All University Student Government members at the state capitol.

Student Government

The All University Student Government, patterned after the federal government, is divided into executive, legislative and judicial branches.

The executive branch of AUSG is headed by the president, who is elected by the student body each spring term. He is directly responsible for the enforcement of all laws passed by the Student Congress. In order to carry out this function, nine executive branch departments have been created by the president.

Matters concerning student organizations and activities are delegated to the specific department, such as Spartan Spirit, Academic Benefits or the Orientation Commission, designated to handle them.

The legislative branch is contained within Student Congress. Representatives are elected from each dormitory, collectively from the fraternities and sororities, married housing and off-campus students. They are chosen each spring or whenever a vacancy occurs.

Student Congress is the major law making body and takes charge of appropriations to the other branches.

The Student Traffic Appeal Court and Student Judiciary comprise the judicial branch. The traffic court hears the appeals of students who have received campus traffic tickets.

The Student Judiciary decides whether enactments made by Student Congress are in accordance with the AUSG constitution. Six students, a graduate student and a representative from the administration act as justices.

In accord with the preamble of its constitution, AUSG provides for full student representation and assists in integrating and coordinating the activities of all student organizations.

PUBLICATIONS

by Bill Keough

Tucked away on the third floor of the Student Services building is a not-so-obscure corridor known as Pub Row.

Day and night, its serenity is punctuated by such frantic cries as: "Where's a copy pencil?," "Advertising on phone two," and "Sell! Sell! Sell!"

Pub Row is the home of MSU's student publications. There, amid a mixed air of cooperation and friendly rivalry, the State News, Spartan and Wolverine, along with the Spartan Engineer and MSU Veterinarian are written, edited and sent to the printers.

When not working, Pub Row's denizens can be found singing songs in the State News office, drinking coffee at the Wolverine or reading humor magazines from other colleges in the Spartan office.

PUB ROW, where the ink flows, is the home of MSU's five student publications.

The Board of Publications appoints the five Pub Row editors.

The top brass of Pub Row, the editors of the State News, Spartan and Wolverine, meet with members of the administration to determine publication policies.

This group, the Board of Publications, meets once a month and makes all major Pub Row appointments.

Each spring, Pub Row personnel join together in a less serious vein for the annual Publications Banquet. All Pub Row workers are invited to attend with their guests.

Service awards are presented to paid staffers and the high point of the evening is a skit competition among the publications.

BOARD OF PUBLICATIONS–Left to Right–Reiter, Dean, Andrews, Denison, May, King, McIlrath, Siebert, Slade.

A DIFFERENT theme is used each spring for the Publications Banquet, held in the Union ballroom for all Pub Row workers.

WILLIAM F. McILRATH, Pub Row's "Mac," has been director of student publications for eight years.

All local news photos used by the State News, as well as feature and special interest pictures for the Spartan and Wolverine, come from the student Darkroom.

The State News editorial staff is made up of five individual night staffs, which are supervised by the paper's top managerial position holders. Stories are assigned by means of the managing editor's "beat sheet," which is posted each day.

Five night editors handle the make-up and editing of the separate papers. Sports, society and edit page staffs handle special sections.

The State News office is also the headquarters for Lushwell AC, a social-athletic organization, open to all workers on the row.

STATE NEWS EDITORIAL STAFF—Clockwise—Barrell, Franz, Walters, Huff, Pierce, Maegar, Rogers, Cardwell, Gustin, Scanlon, Callahan, Robb, Ardfarb, Sachs, Flenner, Christ, Robb, Ramsey, McCarthy, Campbell, Bearss, Steffes, Krause.

THE ANNUAL Lushwell AC spring picnic is one of Pub Row's gayest events.

Over $200,000 is grossed annually by student publications.

JEAN SANDERS, Wolverine business manager, checks an engraving with Dick Simpson, ad manager.

THE SILK screening room is shared by Spartan and Wolverine promotion staffs.

BUSINESS MANAGERS of the State News and Spartan, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sutton, often bring daughter Lisa to the row.

STATE NEWS ADVERTISING STAFF—Standing—Rowe, Johnson, Wietzner, Rohrbach, Near, Hafner, Schumaker (director), Hare; Seated—Floyd, Richardson, Wall, Gross, Shipero.

The Pub Row business staffs direct advertising, payroll, promotion and general expenses.

Their sales staffs compete with each other for advertisers, but it's all in the Pub Row family. The Spartan and Wolverine, along with the Spartan Engineer have special promotion staffs to organize sale of their publications.

The State News, which prints 17,000 copies each class day, is delivered free to the students, thus avoiding this problem. Others which are faced in common by Pub Row business managers are national advertising, inventories, requisitions and monthly bills.

Major decisions are made by the top editorial positioners.

Deadlines differ from editorial staff to editorial staff on Pub Row, but all of them must be met. The Spartan has monthly commitments for both its writers and artists, while the State News has daily assignments which must be turned in by its reporters and feature writers.

The Wolverine has production deadlines scheduled throughout the year, which means pictures must be sent to the engravers and copy turned in to the printer at these pre-set times.

THE EDITORS display their publications—Mel Reiter, the State News, and Tom Andrews, the 1958 Wolverine.

The Pub Row staffs that meet the deadlines are made up of such specialized persons as artists, reporters, copy writers, wire editors, re-write people and headline writers.

Once a piece of copy has been turned in, it must be checked for errors and compliance with style. If a headline is required, it will then be written to a specified count.

Regardless of the publication it is intended for, all copy must be counted to make sure it will fit into the provided layout space.

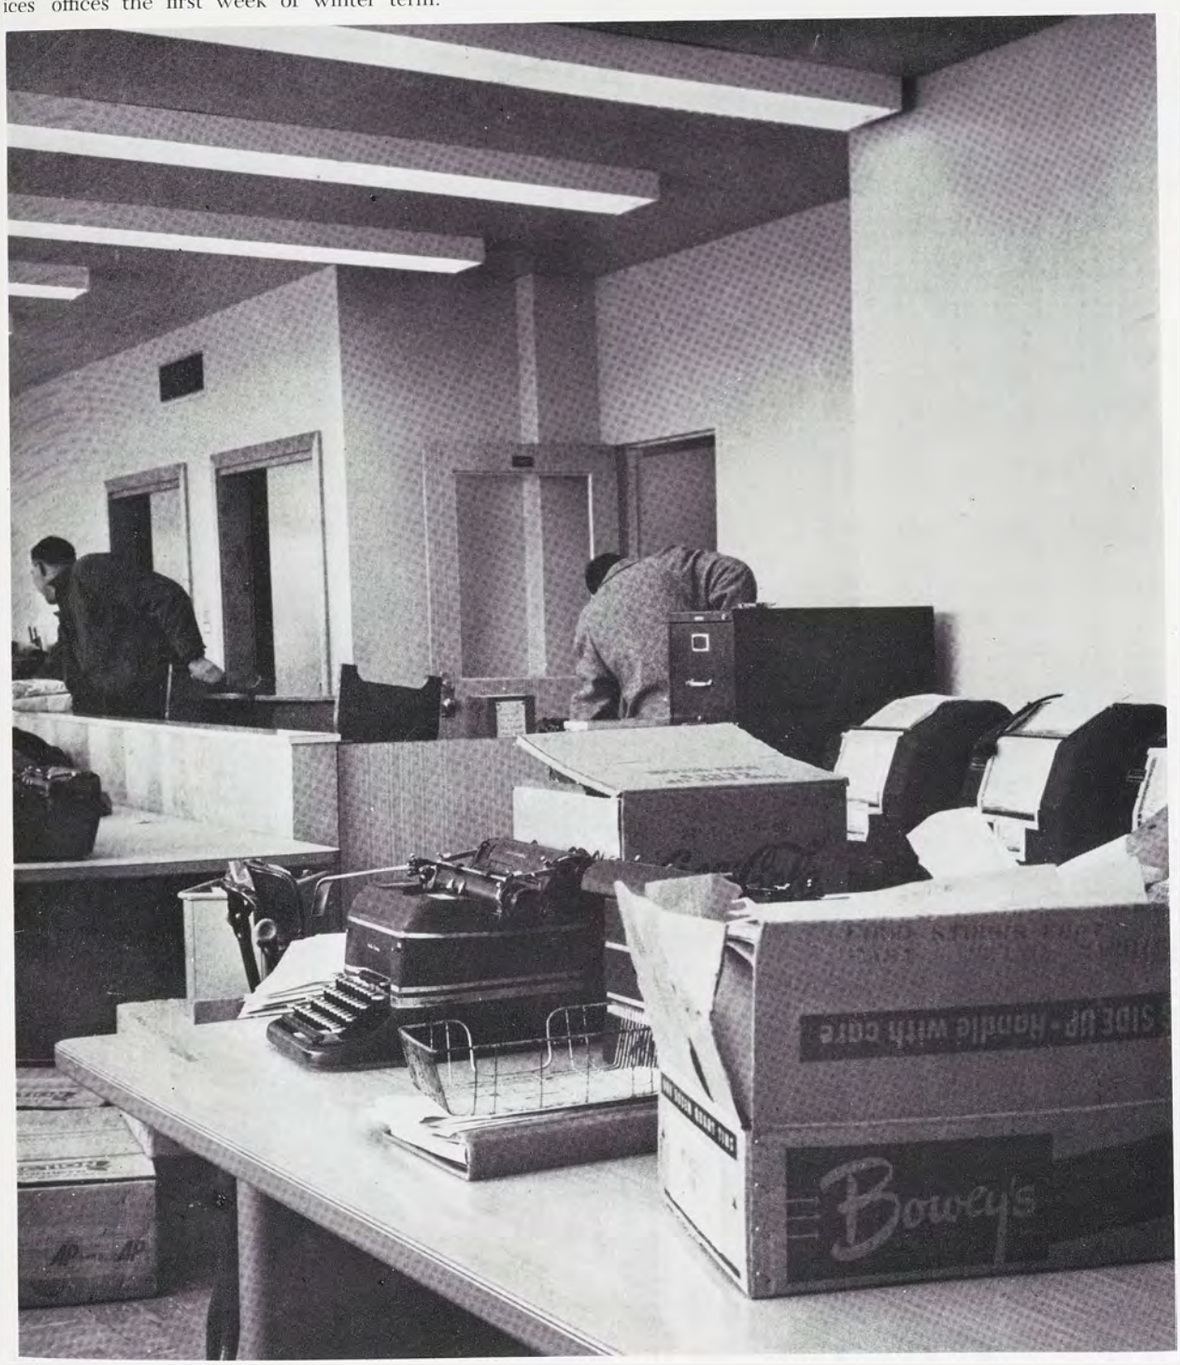

Putting out a publication is a big, often hectic job and one that takes many trained and ambitious people to accomplish.

A SECOND place typography award from the Inland Daily Press was received by the State News this year.

The move to Student Services gave the row a new atmosphere.

PUB ROW moved lock, stock and copy paper from the Union to new Student Services' offices the first week of winter term.

THE LARGE, modern darkroom is a treat for Pub Row photographers.

The Spartan Engineer and MSU Veterinarian have the distinction of being the only two publications on Pub Row to aim at specialized audiences.

Their production problems are much the same as the others, but each writes and prints its magazine for a particular interest field. The Engineer limits its stories and features generally to subjects of a scientific nature, while the Veterinarian is solely for vet med students.

With the addition of the Veterinarian, which joined the row when it moved to Student Services, the family of student publications is complete. Pub Row, always busy, diversified and spontaneous, continues to publish first class newspapers, magazines and yearbooks.

MSU has special publications for engineers and vet students.

GRADUATION WEEKEND'S warm June nights draw crowds of students, parents and visitors to the banks of the Red Cedar for Water Carnival.

A year of planning and hard work go into the production of this, the campus' biggest carnival, sponsored by the senior class.

The band and announcers rehearse for weeks ahead of time, while living units mold chicken wire and paper mache into intricate creations. More than 30 floats result to vie for the trophies.

DANCES

Autumn to spring, Michigan State's population dances! The affairs range from private term parties to the largest balls in the Aud.

All-university dances involve much planning, committee work and labor over decorations, programs and favors. All are carefully coordinated to carry out a central theme.

Some of the country's best bands are signed to provide the music. Sponsors are classes, councils, living units, clubs or honoraries.

Many dances are annual events; some are regular affairs, such as those sponsored weekly by Union Board; others, like the Senior Ball, are new creations.

THE SEMI-FORMAL Sno-Ball is sponsored annually by the Men's and Women's Inter-Residence Hall councils.

THE COLOR guard at the ROTC's Coronation Ball adds to the military atmosphere. Coed honorary officers are presented.

SPINSTERS' SPIN is turnabout night, this year to the adapted Broadway theme, "My Fair Lad," and Woody Herman's music.

Homecoming

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA'S display, "We're pulling for you – may the win' be with us," took top prize among the fraternities.

Nearly 20,000 Michigan State alums "came home" this fall to see old friends and watch a Spartan football victory over Indiana.

They saw Dottie Schweinsberg crowned Homecoming Queen and viewed an array of displays put up by the various living units.

Sitting in on the pep rally, they heard songs by the Gaylords and saw IFC-PanHel "Marathon" runners arrive from the capitol.

Besides the 19-14 victory at Spartan Stadium on Saturday, early-rising alums saw wins by the soccer and cross country teams.

A big event was the Homecoming Dance on Saturday night. Top display prizes were awarded and two new Excalibur members tapped.

The senior class and Kappa Alpha Mu, photojournalism honorary, cosponsored the weekend's activities.

HALFBACK Blanche Martin picks up valuable yardage against Notre Dame, before a record 75,391 spectators.

by Larry Wroblewski

MINNESOTA TACKLERS converge on Art Johnson as teammate Bob Bercich throws a block.

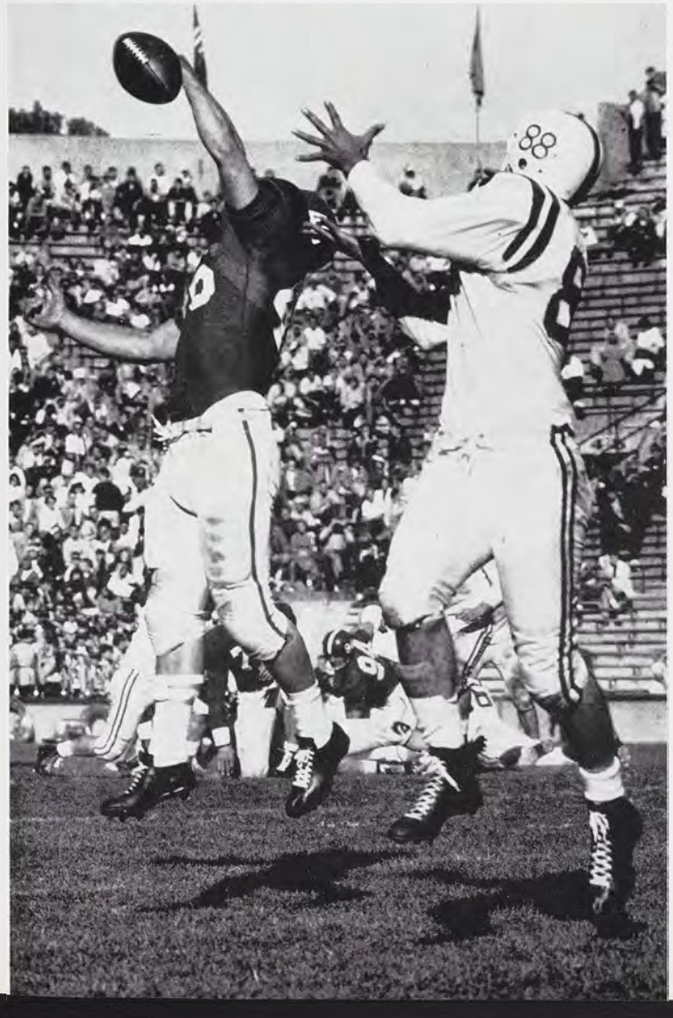

A defeat to Purdue and mediocre showing against Kansas State destroyed Michigan State's football hopes for a conference title, Rose Bowl bid and the mythical national championship this year.

In the opening game, State overwhelmed Indiana, 54-0. In the process, 69 Spartans saw action, a team record. Officials marched off 165 yards in penalties against State, top number in the Big 10.

Jim Ninowski engineered the Green and White to a 19-0 win over California. The senior quarterback tossed two touchdown passes.

The Spartan attack, paced by All-American Walt Kowalczyk, humbled arch-rival Michigan, 35-6, in the 50th meeting between the two schools. By defeating the Wolverines, State took the top spot in the national polls.

DON GILBERT breaks up an Indiana pass play. The Spartan defense gave up only 75 points in its nine contests.

The top team honor was to last but a week when Purdue wrecked State's title and bowl aspirations with a 20-13 upset. Fumbles stalled touchdown drives and State slipped to eighth place in the nation. The Boilermakers were winless before tripping the heavily-favored Spartans.

Trailing by one point in the final period, the Spartans rallied to overcome a spirited Illinois team, 19-14. A Homecoming crowd of 64,353 fans filled Spartan Stadium for the contest.

Kowalczyk powered the final 36 yards for the winning counter. Halfback Blanche Martin thrilled the crowd with an 86-yard jaunt, the longest run in the Big 10 for the season.

END DAVE KAISER snares a Ninowski pass in the midst of three Illinois defenders.

FULLBACK DON GILBERT gets excellent blocking as he moves against Notre Dame.

NINOWSKI LOSES possession of the pigskin in the Purdue game. The upset by the Boilermakers ruined State's title hopes.

Utilizing a stubborn defense, the Spartans downed Wisconsin, 21-7. All-American center, Dan Currie and ends Sam Williams and Dave Kaiser throttled the Badger backs.

A record home crowd of 75,391 fans witnessed the Spartans at their best as they literally crushed traditional rival Notre Dame, 34-6.

Junior halfback Art Johnson exploded for a pair of touchdowns, one on a 50-yard run. The passing combination of Ninowski to Williams made the Irish defense vulnerable for the Spartan backs.

Coach Duffy Daugherty retained his shillelagh for the win and Pat Burke received the game ball.

In the last conference test, the Spartans trounced Minnesota, 42-13. Kaiser set the scoring pattern when he intercepted a handoff and raced 77 yards for the initial tally. State regained supremacy in the national polls but Rose Bowl hopes dissolved as Ohio State won the Big 10 crown.

It took a break to insure State's final triumph of the year against upset-minded Kansas State. In the process of achieving their 27-9 victory, the Spartans fumbled away their top team ranking.

The team finished the season with an 8-1 record and took second place in the Big 10 standings with a 5-1 mark. Currie and Kowalczyk were elected to numerous All-American teams. They also made the first team all-conference honors along with Ninowski and Burke.

SOPHOMORE DEAN LOOK avoids an Indiana defender in his college debut.

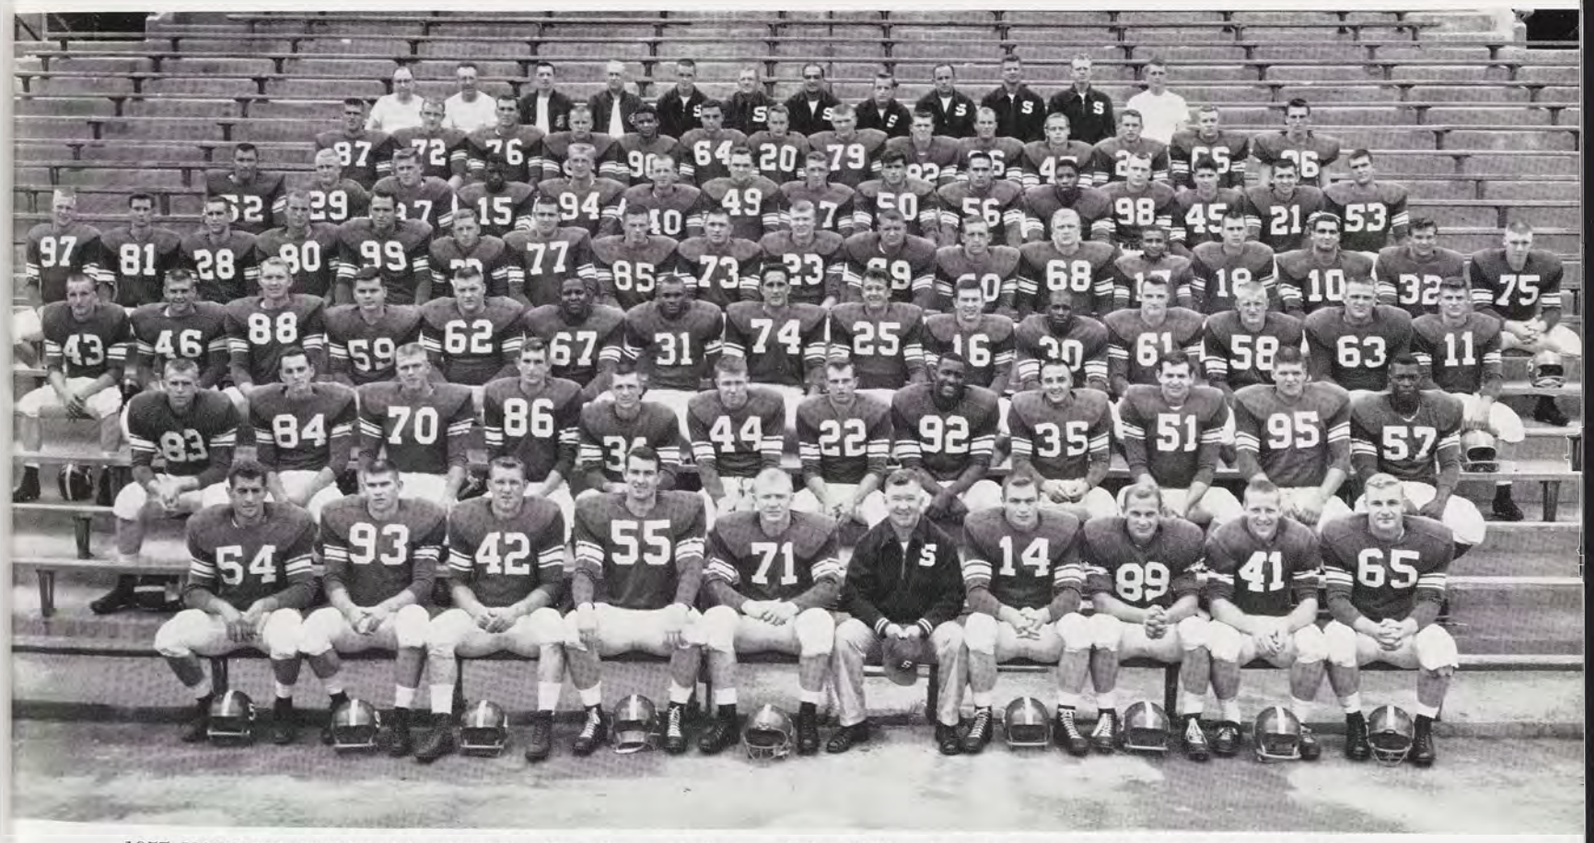

THROUGH THE air, on the ground and with All-American Walt Kowalczyk pacing the attack, the Spartans displayed their superiority against Michigan.

HIGH-JUMPING John Green, All-American center, topped the Spartans in both scoring and rebounds.

A REBOUND eludes both Spartan and Northwestern players who find the going rough under the backboard.

Coach Forddy Anderson had a nucleus of three starters from last season, Larry Hedden, John Green and Captain Jack Quiggle, to build a championship contender team around this year.

Michigan State's basketball squad, rated sixth nationally in pre-season polls, missed winning its first undisputed Big 10 title by three points.

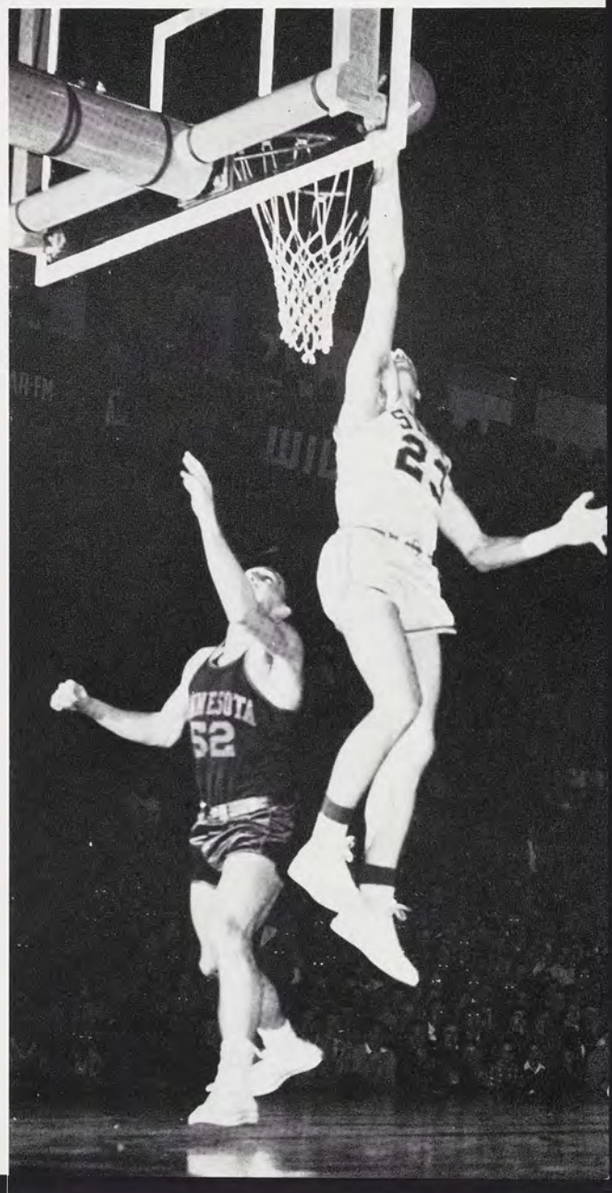

The Spartans dropped a 75-72 decision to Indiana in the season's final battle. With the loss, State relinquished its hope of representing the Western Conference in a repeat NCAA tournament appearance at Lexington, Kentucky.

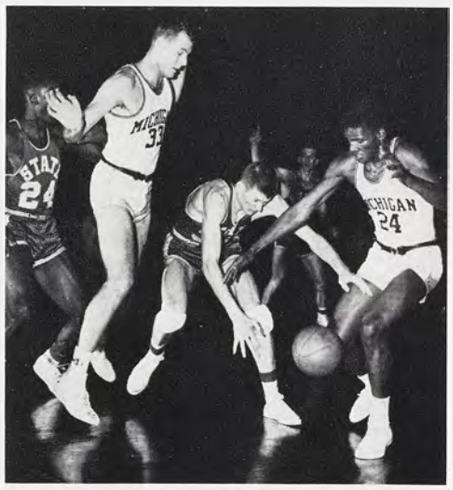

CHUCK BENCIE, capable substitute for Green, defenses against Minnesota.

LARRY HEDDEN was the team's second highest scorer with 16.1 points per game.

BOB ANDEREGG records two of his 23 points against Minnesota with an easy layup.

AGGRESSIVE PLAY was dominant in State's win over Michigan.

ANDEREGG WAS Michigan's biggest problem as he tallied a total of 25 points.

Above — STATE WAS out-rebounded in only two games.

Bottom — JOHN GREEN outstretches two Michigan opponents under the basket.

The Spartans whipped seven straight non-conference opponents before losing to Washington university, 71-69, in the final contest of a four-game western tour. Green and Hedden paced the cagers in these early season triumphs.

Suffering a setback to Ohio State in its first league tilt, 70-56, State returned home to pound Purdue, 84-75, before 12,383 fans.

Taking to the road, State split a pair, beating Northwestern and losing to Wisconsin.

Anderson's cagers climbed to first place in the Big 10 by slamming Minnesota, 88-64. Forward Bob Anderegg, who developed into an all-around performer, took scoring honors with 23 points.

Indiana overcame Hedden's 26-point effort to hand State its third league defeat, 82-79, in a bitterly fought game at Bloomington.

Then followed successive wins over Iowa, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. In the first of the final three games, State was edged by Purdue, but came back to trounce Iowa and thus, set up the showdown clash with Indiana.

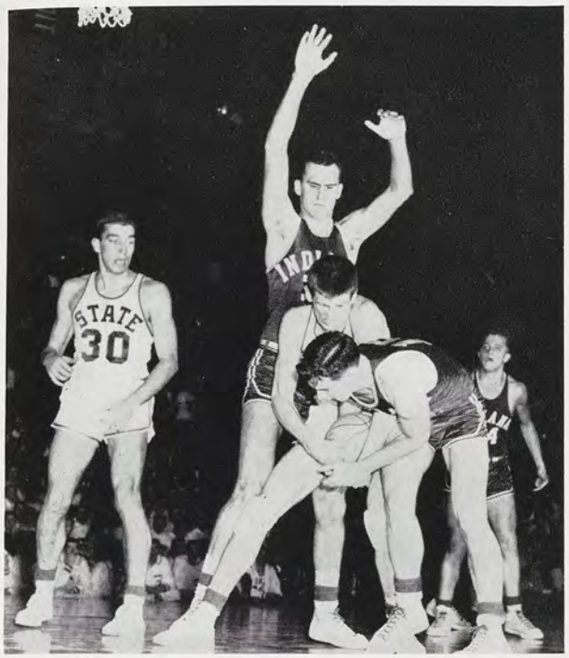

Playing before 12,350 spectators in Jenison fieldhouse and countless TV viewers, the Spartans were never able to lead as the Hoosiers took the game and title, 75-72.

The Spartans concluded the season with a 16-6 overall record and a 9-5 conference mark, which tied Purdue for second place.

Green was named to various All-American teams and the first Big 10 quintet. He also set two loop marks. His .537 field goal shooting average erased the .512 established by Indiana's Dick Neal last year. He topped the rebounders with 234.

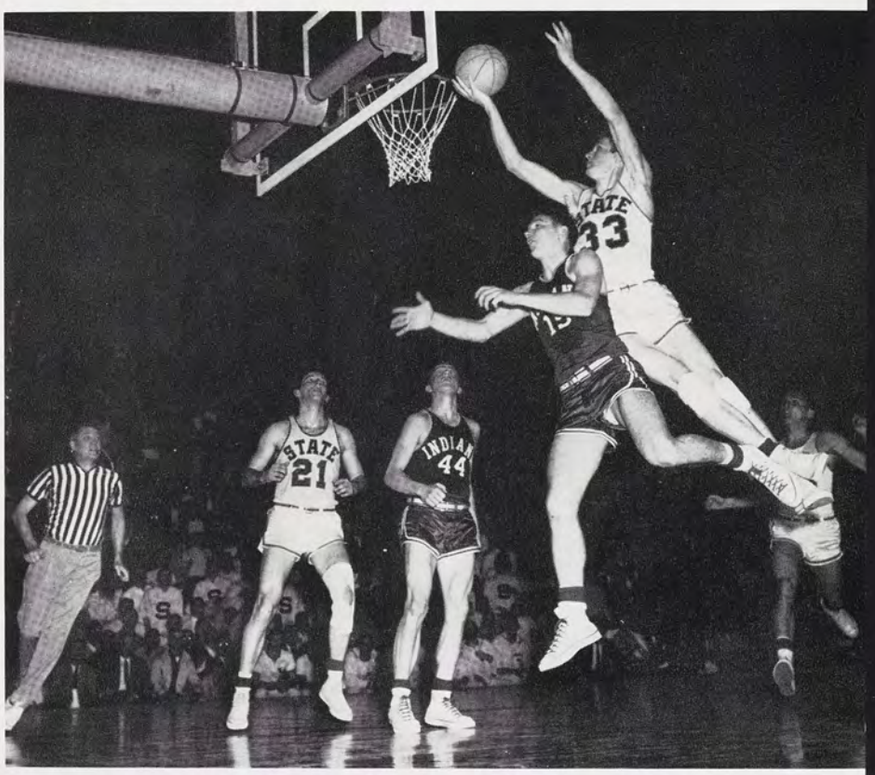

Quiggle and Hedden made the second and third conference teams, respectively. Anderegg received an honorable mention.

A new Spartan home attendance figure of 101,932 eclipsed the previous record of 88,750 set during the 1947-48 season.

DICK RADATZ watches his wild pitch as a Western Michigan player slides in safely.

The 1957 baseball season saw the rebuilding of a team weakened by the loss of valuable veterans through graduation and to the major leagues.

Though Coach John Kobs' squad turned in an overall winning percentage with an 18 win, 13 loss, one tie ledger, the team's lack of experience seemed dominant in crucial conference games.

The Spartans were forced to settle for seventh place in Big 10 standings, with a 5-6 record. Four league contests were canceled by rain.

The mound staff was one of the team's strong points. Veteran Ron Perranoski topped the club with his 8-2 record. Bill Mansfield and Bill Mills also turned in creditable performances.

Six Spartans hit over the coveted .300 mark. Leading the pack, with .358, was second baseman Frank Palmara, who will captain the 1958 team.

Dennis Mendyk did as well with a baseball as he had with a football, hitting .339.

Others in the select bracket were centerfielder Dick McKenzie, .320, rightfielder Ted Kearly, .311, catcher Al Luce, .305, and pitcher Norm Creamer with .300.

Luce set a new Spartan home run record with nine round-trippers for the season. Both he and Mendyk were signed by the Detroit Tigers at the end of the year.

Mendyk hit with the Pony League's Erie Club until he joined the New York Giants football team.

Mills topped all hurlers with an excellent .93 earned run average.

First baseman Roscoe Davis was named to the first team of the NCAA District Four all-star team and Luce was selected as the second team catcher. Both were named to the Big 10 all-star squad.

Dick Radatz, Bob Rabias, Dick Griffin and Creamer, all first year letter winners as sophomores, will return to bolster the 1958 outfit.

SPARTAN HOME games are played at Old College Field.

Michigan State's cross country team took both the Big 10 and Inter-collegiate American Amateur Athletic Association crowns and finished second in the NCAA race this year.

Although State was unsuccessful in defending the NCAA title and thus repeating last year's "grand slam," Coach Karl Schlademan's team captured the second Michigan State IC4A trophy.

Schlademan, who will retire from coaching in July, watched his team add the "final leg" to win possession of the trophy. Forddy Kennedy covered the five-mile Van Cortlandt course in 24:14.8 to oust Olympic 1,500-meter champ, Ron Delany.

Illness to key Spartan personnel lost the Michigan AAU title to Western Michigan, but Forddy Kennedy took individual honors. The lanky Scots-Canadian also led the harriers to three straight dual meet wins over Penn State, Notre Dame and Wisconsin.

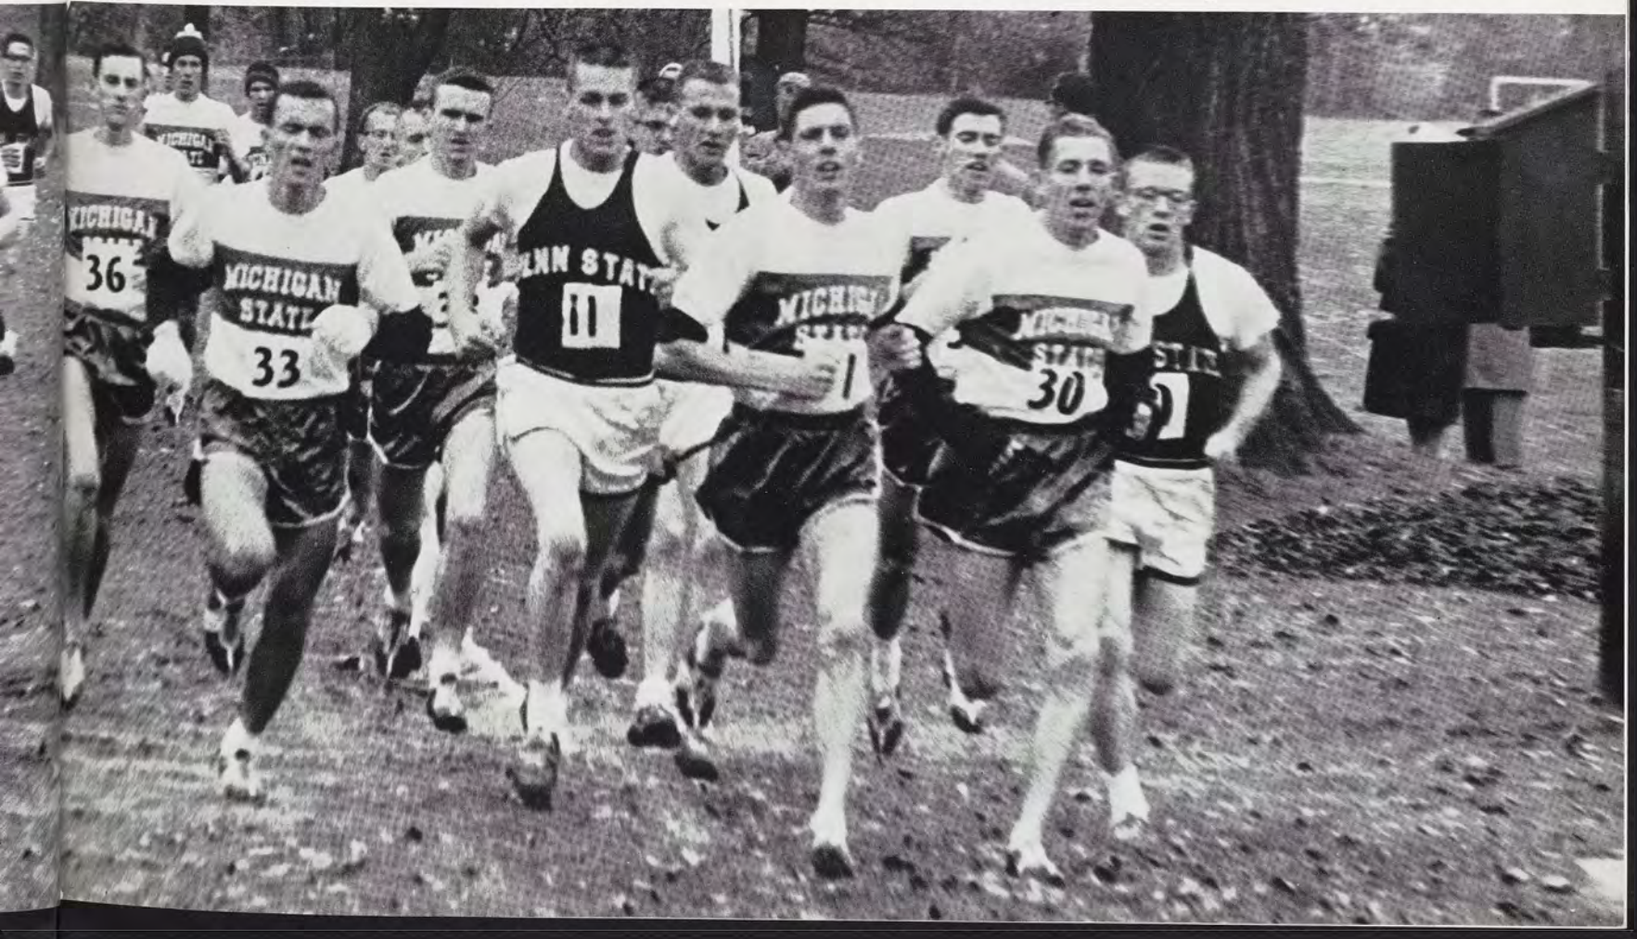

State maintained Western Conference mastery by winning its third straight Big 10 team crown.

In the coveted NCAA meet, State placed five points behind Notre Dame. Forddy Kennedy's clocking of 19:55.5 was good for fifth place in a field of 186 contestants.

Willie Atterberry's 600-yard world record run at the Ohio State Relays highlighted the outdoor track season this year. The freshman speedster, an alternate on the 1956 Olympic team, raced to a 1:08.5 clocking to break the old world mark of 1:09.2, set by Stanford's Ben Eastman in 1933.

The thinclads defeated the Chicago Track Club, took second place in a triangular meet with Ohio State and Penn State and lost to Notre Dame. The sidelining of Henry Kennedy, due to illness, hurt State's distance running corps.

The Spartans failed to win an event in the indoor Michigan State Relays. After losing a dual meet to Kansas, 68-36, State defeated Western Michigan and Iowa with Olympic silver medalist, Dave Lean, gaining valuable points.

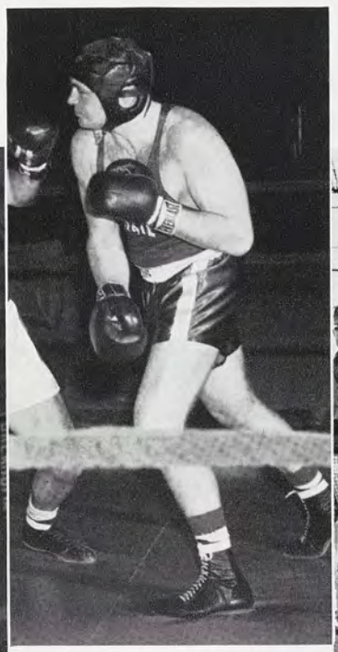

Lean was the only individual winner in the 880-yard event at the Big 10 outdoor championships. He also set a new 600-yard indoor conference mark with a fast 1:10.2. State placed fifth in both meets.

MINOR SPORTS

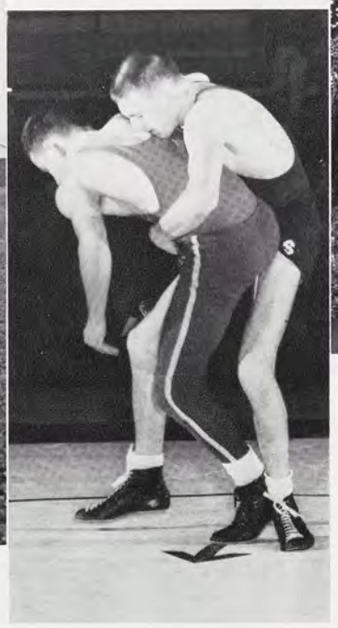

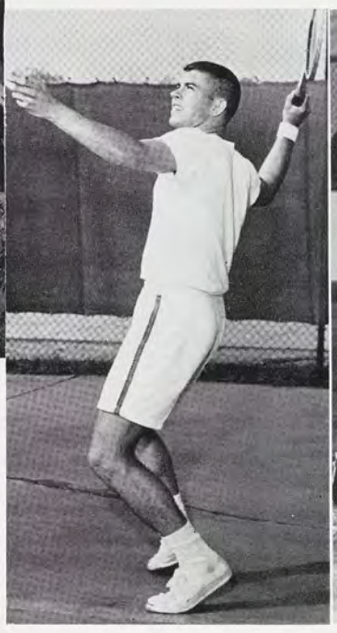

by Pete Walters

This year saw the end of one Michigan State varsity sport, while providing others with some of the most prosperous seasons in Spartan history. Boxing is now gone from the scene, but the overall athletic picture looks brighter than ever.

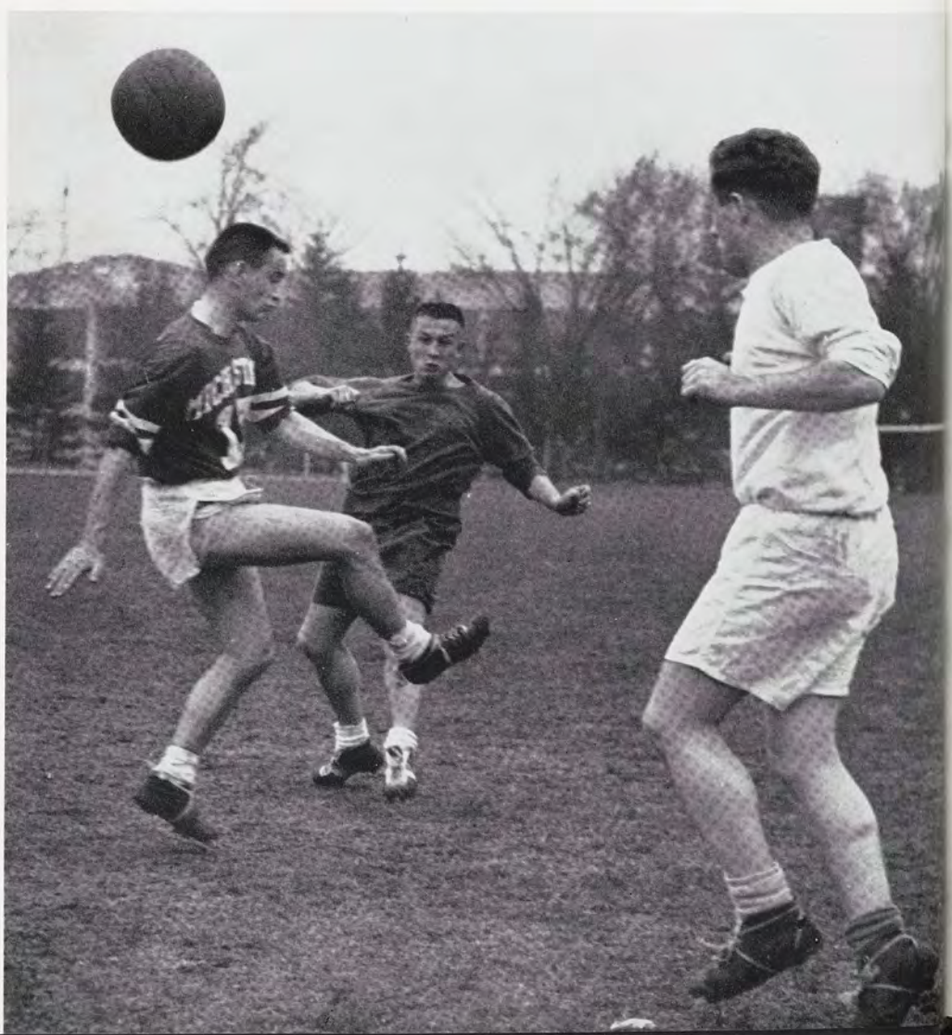

The soccer team extended its unbeaten streak to two straight seasons. The hockey squad burst out of its perennial also-ran category to win the mythical Big 10 championship and melt arch-rival Michigan in three out of four games.

Other sports flourished with the "discovery" of numerous individual stars, many in their first year of inter-collegiate competition.

Finishing its second season as a varsity club with a 6-0-2 record, the Spartan soccer team continued to grow in stature and popularity.

Sparking the booters' attack were Art Southan and Al Sarria, who together scored 20 of the team's 25 goals. Sarria and halfback Angelos Pilitsis were named to the All-American team.

THE BOOTERS allowed an average .875 goals per game, the Midwest's best defense.

State's swimmers boasted some of the nation's fastest times and certainly one of the most talented squads ever to represent the school this season.

INTRAMURALS

by Larry Wroblewski

The rise in MSU enrollment this year brought with it a record number of participants competing in intramural athletics. To provide additional facilities, construction was begun on the new Intramural building for exclusive student use.

In spring term IM action, the Hounds ousted Sigma Alpha Epsilon to cop the all-university softball title. Sigma Chi took the volleyball crown while Alpha Tau Omega and Emmons were kings in outdoor track.

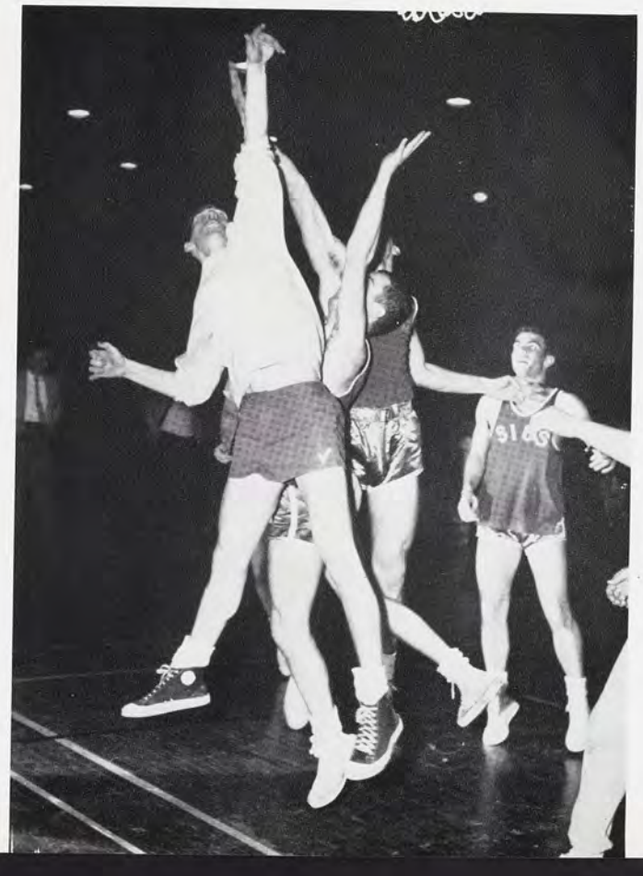

On the gridiron this fall, West Shaw 2 bested Bryan 6, 26-13, for top honors. The Dishwashers, independent cage titlists, trounced Sigma Chi, 47-20, for the basketball title.

West Shaw maintained its mastery in the annual Turkey Trot, finishing ahead of Bailey and Emmons. West Shaw's Bob Block was the individual winner with a 6:03.3 time for the mile run.

Tom DeGroff was the only triple medalist in the fall gymnastic meet. He captured the high bar, flying rings and side-horse events.

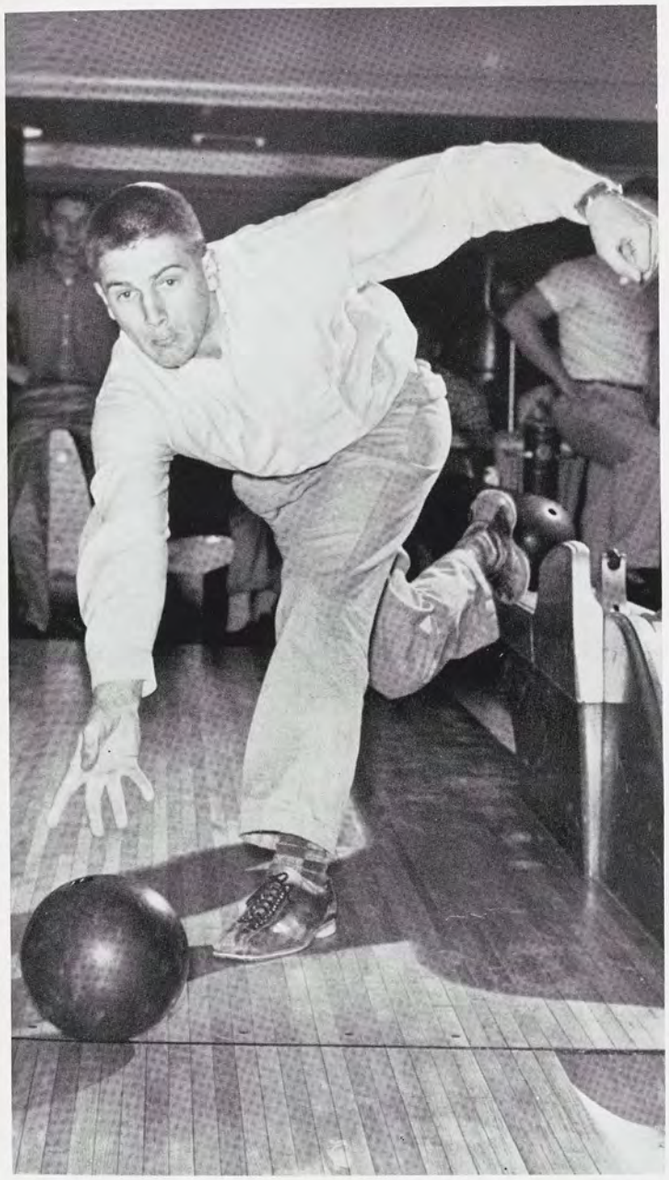

Delta Sigma Pi totaled 2,518 pins in winning the fraternity bowling playoffs. Bailey was the dormitory table tennis champion.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

by Mary Huff

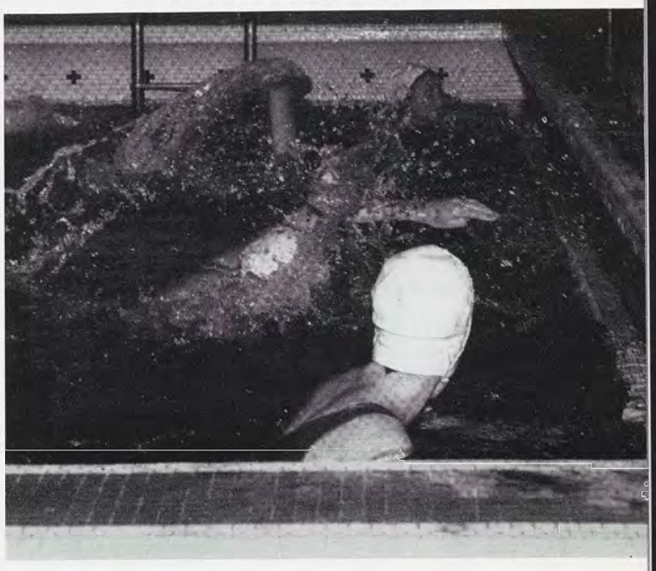

SCHEDULED FOR completion in September, the Women's Intramural building will feature a new swimming pool, gymnasium and activity rooms for women students.

ERNESTINE RUSSELL, Canada's top woman amateur athlete for three years, is now a physical education major active in Spartan acrobatic and gymnastic events.

VARSITY SWIMMERS defeated Bowling Green, 62-46, in one of the top contests.

MSU's women's athletic program offers coeds a chance to take part in a variety of sports, on both the varsity and intramural levels.

Three coed varsity teams compiled impressive records in inter-collegiate play this year. The field hockey squad went undefeated in four games. Miss Dailey's tennis team trounced all six of their contenders.

Captained by Elaine Keryluk, the varsity swimmers ended their season with a .500 percentage, defeating four of eight opponents.

IM activities feature competition among living units, independent teams and individuals.

Five spring sports were open to coeds. Living unit championships went to Gilchrist for softball, North Williams for tennis, Snyder for golf and synchronized swimming to Kappa Kappa Gamma. Nancy Marsh won the individual archery crown.

1957 fall tourneys saw East Yakely victorious in volleyball and the Tri-Delts in swimming.

ORGANIZATIONS

Below – A COPPER braille map of campus is introduced to a blind student as Tower Guard service work.

Honoraries play an important role in the lives of MSU students. Campus leaders and outstanding individuals in all phases of university life find opportunity to utilize their talents as members.

Requirements of the groups vary. Above average scholarship is a standard for entrance into most honoraries. Some are reserved for men, some for coeds, others are organized along class lines.

Backgrounds of the honoraries also vary. Some, such as Tower Guard, are local organizations. Some service specific interest fields, others represent the professions. Many groups promote service projects by which they aid the community, as well as the university.

Chapters of Michigan State's honoraries are prominent nationally, too. Omicron Nu is an example of an organization founded on this campus with chapters throughout the country.

Many are hosts to conventions of their groups. Beta Beta Beta's regional meeting was held here in the fall and Mortar Board will stage their national get-together at Kellogg Center this summer.

Requirements and goals may vary, but all honoraries seek to honor outstanding students at MSU and are a vital part of university life.

College work — non-credit. These are the hours not accounted for in the class schedule at Registration, the long hours of willing service and enjoyment thousands of students gain from membership in campus clubs.

MSU's clubs help to give expression to the varied facets of campus life. The range is wide: from religion to science, from journalism to jazz and from there to any organization which allows the student to demonstrate interests and abilities.

Room 13 of the Student Services building became a "community" office for nearly 35 of these groups this year. Larger organizations received more private quarters.

The Union was still the gathering place for many clubs and scores of impromptu meetings.

CLUBS

by Lynn Cardwell

SEVERAL GROUPS further academic interests begun in the MSU colleges.

HOBBY-TYPE activity finds an outlet in the individual interest clubs.

Films, guest lecturers in varied fields, discussion groups, field trips and social get-togethers make up the activities of MSU's many clubs.

These programs are designed to expand the student's knowledge of his chosen field beyond that gained through classroom work. At the same time, the club member is forming friendships with other individuals who share his interests and hobbies.

Representing Michigan State in collegiate song, sports, dance and other competitive activities is a responsibility which MSU club members accept willingly and skillfully. It is not unusual for these groups to bring laurels and blue ribbons to their alma mater.

Diversity of interest permits activities in all degrees of Michigan weather. Whether it's an afternoon in autumn or a rainy evening in April, there's sure to be a meeting scheduled.

These hours of college work—non-credit are well spent. For many, they are the experimental grounds for the future.

MANY CLUBS represent MSU in the fields of entertainment and the arts.

WORKING WITH the public presents a challenge for the club member's ability.

The Canterbury Club was initiated in 1953 when All Saints Episcopal Church of East Lansing became an established parish.

FOUR DAYS of practice preceded the appearance on Dinah Shore's Chevy show.

MSU SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The MSU Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Louis Potter, Jr., presents a concert in Fairchild theater each term.

The winter term concert is traditionally an honors program which features solos and original compositions by distinguished music students at Michigan State.

Membership in the orchestra is gained through audition, but is not limited to music majors.

A sincere interest in furthering logical discussion and debate among college students is required for membership in the Forensics Union.

Members appear weekly on "Controversy," a WKAR-TV program.

They participated this year in the Ohio State and Alabama Discussion Conference, the Big 10 Student Congress, the Iowa State Inter-collegiate Conference and the McGill tournament.

The Vets lent a strong arm to the International Festival this year by constructing all the booths used in the show.

The club awards a quarterly scholarship to one of its members, on the basis of financial need.

"A Streetcar Named Desire" was the title of the Vets' entry in Water Carnival. The club worked with Abbott coeds on the construction.

Participating in intramural sports, they took first place in the independent division of both the Turkey Trot and the free throw contest.

The MSU governing bodies organize the activities and handle the judicial problems of the students.

Included under the broad heading are the class councils, the boards that encourage activities, coordinating bodies and service groups.

This winter the governing bodies made the new Student Services building their home. Only Union Board now remains in the former headquarters of all.

Members helped keep the football flash section functioning by stamping Block "S" instruction cards. Another fall project was the blood drive, co-sponsored with Alpha Phi Omega.

The Spinsters' Spin, "My Fair Lad," was jointly sponsored by SWL, Tower Guard and Mortar Board. The Spin, a semi-formal, girl-ask-boy affair held winter term, featured Woody Herman and his Third Herd.

Spartan Women's League sponsored Etiquette Week during winter term and again published their booklet, This We Do At MSU, a guide to proper conduct and manners.

A May Morning breakfast was given by SWL for newly selected members of Tower Guard and their parents.

"PERSONALITY" CORSAGES are made for the male chaperones of the Spinsters' Spin by SWL members.

SWL IS open to all interested coeds. Six hours of work are required for membership.

Each spring, AWS Judiciary and Activities boards meet together and review the AWS Handbook. This book of coed regulations is given to all women students in the fall. Revisions are made, according to the changing needs of the students.

Judiciary Board is made up of representatives of all women's living units. At weekly meetings, the Board reviews disciplinary cases involving violations of the AWS rules. Petitions to revoke late minutes as well as other problems the coeds may have are discussed at this time.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS – Standing – Langhor, Gates, Ledinsky, Smith, Gilman, Stegmeyer, McElroy, Alms; Seated – Fox, Douma, Ebeling, Wills, Rowe.

The committees conduct the many and varied UB activities for the school year. The fine arts committee sponsors the Creative Arts Festival and is in charge of the Browsing room. The social committee is responsible for the weekly Saturday night dances and the Continental Club held every term.

The yearly trip to the Holland Tulip Festival is the work of the special events committee, which also helps organize trips to special plays and programs. This year they arranged a student trip to Detroit for the performance of "The Diary of Anne Frank."

Dance classes and bridge instructions are other services offered by Union Board. A highlight of the year is the annual Bridge Tournament. Players from all campus living units participate.

Greeks

by Ann Liston

For the student interested in Greek life, rushing is made as uncomplicated as possible through convocations and question sessions. A counseling service set up by the PanHellenic Council provides each group of 35 rushees with a sorority member who is available as their guide and adviser.

Long hours of work and worry go into the planning and execution of parties and rush smokers. After the series is completed, pledging is held. This is the term of "getting acquainted" through meetings, work sessions, wake-up and phone duty.

Initiation comes the following term if the pledge has made his grades. Scholastic standards have been set at a 2.0 for pledging by PanHel and a 2.2 for initiation by the Inter-Fraternity Council.

THE DELTS perform at IFC Sing. Alpha Sigma Phi was the winner of this Greek Week event.

A FRATERNITY serenade, with the coed's sisters in attendance at the window, honors the newly pinned couple.

DELTA SIGMA PHI served a picnic lunch to 3,500 Greeks and independents at Greek Feast.

The high point of the year for the fraternity or sorority member is Greek Week, co-sponsored by the Inter-Fraternity and PanHellenic councils.

The week begins with Sorority Sing on Sunday. Exchange dinners mix members from all fraternity and sorority houses.

The Leadership Conferences, with special speakers and separate officer workshops are an important part of the week. Fraternity Sing is held the following evening.

Coed athletic ability is displayed at Athena's Holiday, a replica of the Olympic Games. "Chariot" races, hurdles and a discus throw bring the 20 sororities together for a morning of sport and fun.

Greek Feast adds the festive note on which Greek Week ends. A buffet-style picnic lunch, followed by entertainment and dancing, provides relaxation and fun for Greeks and independents alike.

SORORITY ATHLETIC ability is displayed at the Alpha Xi and DG-sponsored Athena's Holiday.

DELTA GAMMA defeated Gamma Phi Beta, 26-0, in this year's Powder Puff Bowl.

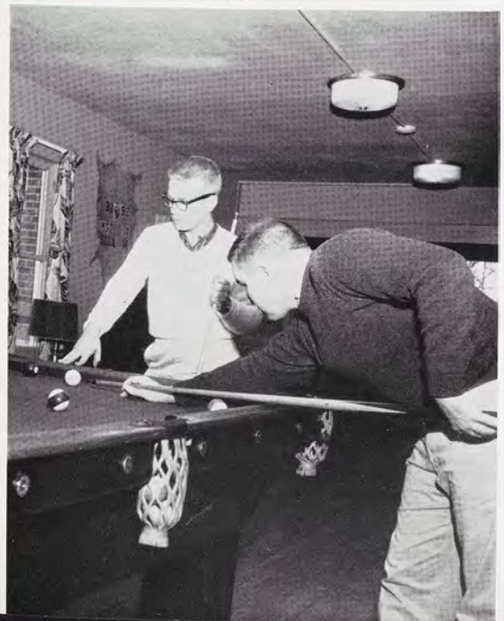

A CANDLE passed around the circle of her sisters is blown out by the newly pinned or engaged girl to announce her secret.

Greek units work together and individually on most campus activities. Homecoming finds each house decorated with a huge display and "welcome alums" sign. Water Carnival brings out the float building talents of paired fraternities and sororities.

Social events include dinner and dessert exchanges. The Christmas season is the time for caroling, children's parties and decorating the house tree. Spring term picnics and the most important formal dinner dance follow.

A fraternity or sorority is a sharing of interests and ideals to its members. It is the setting of an example and the pledging of those who will continue to uphold the ideal.

AFTER CLASS, fraternity men hurry back to the house for a "friendly" billiards game.

PanHel awards two scholarship trophies each term to the houses with the highest average and most improvement. This year, the council prepared a motion picture showing a coed going through rush.

PanHel has expanded to include four standing committees: social, publicity, public relations with the university and with the community.

The Junior PanHellenic Council is composed of a representative from each pledge class. Under the direction of PanHel advisers, they sponsored a dessert for pledges with a 3.2 or better average.

A large wooden spoon, the "Spoon of Knowledge," was presented to the class with the highest average.

Members worked with children at the Michigan School for the Blind. They also arranged pledge parties and a candy selling fund drive.

The Inter-Fraternity Council is the coordinating body for Michigan State's fraternity system. Consisting of two representatives from each house, IFC governs the activities of the 29 fraternities and three colonies on campus.

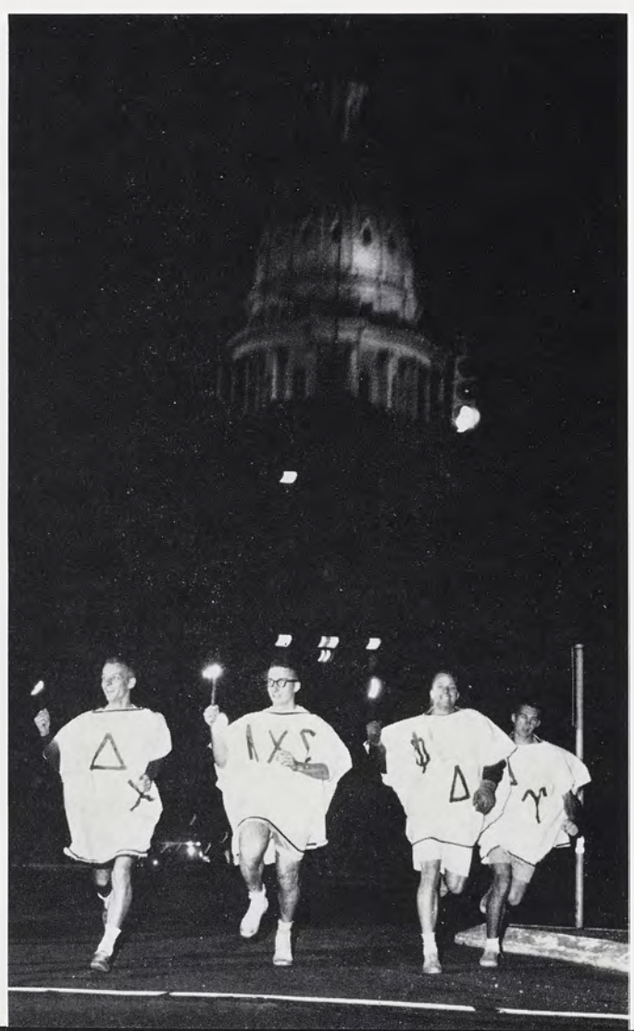

These groups benefit from the large scale social events, public relations work and a streamlined rush program, all planned by IFC.

This year IFC raised $5,000 for the National Nephrosis Foundation. All fraternities participated in the house-to-house fund drive.

A change in scholastic requirements this fall now stipulates a 2.2 average for the previous term plus a 2.0 all college for initiation. The house is also requested to maintain this average.

The council continued its planning, begun last year, for Fraternity Row — Greek housing to be located on Harrison Road. Several houses are scheduling construction for this spring term.

With the PanHellenic Council, IFC sponsors the IFC-PanHel Ball during fall term and the annual Greek Week events in the spring.

TO BEGIN the Homecoming pep rally, fraternity men ran from the capitol to the MSU Bandshell in the IFC-PanHel "Marathon."

Colonies

by Chuck Werle

As enrollment increases at MSU, the number of men interested in fraternity membership also goes up. To meet this demand, several groups are now going through a "colonization process" toward becoming full-fledged chapters of national fraternities.

Establishing a new fraternity on campus is not a simple matter. In order to protect the fraternity system, the Inter-Fraternity Council and the Dean of Students' Office have set up a systematic procedure for any group beginning a local chapter.

Colonies are started by interested undergrads, transfer students who are members or representatives of the national organization.

Groups interested in colonizing must maintain favorable status with the Fraternity Expansion Committee, including good scholastic standing, for six months. If the group is then accepted by IFC, it must remain a colony for a minimum of six months.

The colony is then eligible for a charter if they meet fraternity standards, have at least 20 members with satisfactory scholarship and a chapter house that meets university requirements.

The process — though complicated and lengthy — is necessary to continue the high standards and quality of Michigan State's fraternity system.

KAPPA PHI members, like those of other colonies, use the Union building facilities for their rush smokers.

AFTER RUSH the pledging period begins. Because of small colony size the importance of each man is great – both scholastically and activity-wise.

THE COLONY member must be able to pass along his enthusiasm to those considering membership. Alumni are usually available in an advisory capacity.

THE WHOLE family takes part in the preparation of this Sunday dinner in a University Village apartment.

MARRIED LIFE

The once seldom seen married student now represents nearly one in four of the Michigan State population. To accommodate these increasing numbers, MSU maintains the largest married housing program in the nation; units which bear such appropriate names as Spartan or University Village.

Mr. and Mrs. Married Student may live in either the barrack apartments or the modern "bricks," which consist of 1,140 furnished units. The construction of these more permanent quarters has been continuous over the past few years and will be carried on into the future.

Although each apartment follows the same basic floor plan, with wall-to-wall carpeting, completely equipped kitchen and plenty of closet space, here the similarity ends. Each soon takes on the individuality of its occupants.

The barracks are of an earlier vintage but here also Mrs. Married Student has a chance to perform small miracles with paint, polish and imagination. These "temporary" buildings are unfurnished but do provide a stove and refrigerator.

Students qualified for housing must either be veterans or of junior status. They may apply three months prior to their wedding date but should expect at least a six month wait.

One of the highlights for couples in the small villages on the south side of campus is the social life. There may be a general get-together with all the couples in the apartment unit, a meeting of one of the organized groups or just a cup of coffee with the next door neighbor.

As a married student, the individual finds life in married housing provides the experience of small scale community living while he is getting his college education.

THIS MAY be the GI check he's been waiting for. Mail-boxes are located inside the glass enclosure of the apart-ment unit.

ONE OF the nicest parts of having your own apartment – there's always a refrigerator handy to raid.

Eight Hundred "Bricks" Scheduled for Completion During Summer of 1958

DORMS

THE WEEKEND rolls around and those who didn't have the courage to make a date earlier, try their luck.

by Pat Meloy

A residence hall is more than a home away from home; it offers a unique adventure in living.

The new resident finds himself working with others, accomplishing everything from the simple task of weekly room cleaning to the complicated building of a winning float for Water Carnival.

The dorm dweller soon learns that "patience is a virtue" as he waits for a washer on Saturday or chats with his neighbors in the food lines.

Through his hall a student becomes interested in campus and community service: blood drives, the Campus Chest effort and annual Christmas projects.

Much of dorm life centers on promoting better social relations within and among the various halls. Dorm parties and exchange dinners are examples.

The lessons taught by this adventure are many and varied. The dorm resident meets new companions from all religious and national backgrounds. Perhaps the most important aspect is that these students learn to live together and to enjoy it.

MOST DAYS begin in a routine way, they include the usual round of study and discussion, but there is also often the moment of surprise.

THE DORM grill is the ideal spot to recount the day's happenings.

THE COEDS, on the other end of the line, look dubious, but their sympathetic nature will probably win out.

DORMS

THOUGH THE housemother may not catch these two, it's a sure bet the razzing of the roommates will.

AN EVENING begins in a rush of showering, dressing and pleasant expectations.

AN EVENING ends with post-dance chatter, happy memories and swollen feet.

The Women's Inter-Residence Hall Council strives to stimulate both extra-curricular activities within the residence halls and communication and cooperation among the students.

Each dorm elects one representative to the council, which meets for dinner each week in turn at each of the various women's dorms.

WIC is a member of the Big 10 Inter-Residence Hall Association, which coordinates the activities of all Big 10 women's residence halls. This year, Michigan State was host to the association's fall conference held at Brody Hall.

The council cooperated with all-university committees in promoting the International Week program and the Homecoming display and Snow Sculpture contests. WIC also encouraged Christmas philanthropic projects within the halls.

During fall term the council sponsored the orientation program for all freshmen women. It also organized a leadership training workshop for dormitory officers.

With Men's Inter-Residence Hall Council, WIC sponsored the Inter-Dorm Dance and the Sno-Ball, which this year followed the "Peanuts" theme.

Gilchrist

FOUR AUTOMATIC washing machines and dryers are kept in continual use by the 240 Gilchrist coeds.

Half opened eyes at breakfast, gay shouts over that awaited letter at mail-time, the rustling of pages and notebooks in an endeavor to study or a boy-meets-girl at date-time are all likely to confront you as you enter Gilchrist.

Spring term the coeds attained two honors: they were winners of the Inter-Dorm Sing and had the highest scholarship among women's dorms.

EACH ROOM takes on a personality from its inhabitants. Some house the truly creative student and her "masterpieces."

QUIET HOUR regulations allow such "goings-on" only during the hours around meal-time – but, it helps if the dorm president is in on the fun.

North Campbell

North Campbell stands at the entrance to MSU and typifies dorm life on our campus.

Studying, socializing and participating in dorm activities all fill the days of the coeds.

This fall, many hours were spent constructing the winning Homecoming display, "Cyanide the Illini." It consisted of a gigantic witch, brewing the poison that killed the team from Illinois.

"Senior Splash" comes to life each spring term when senior women are thrown into the dorm pool by the underclasswomen, as part of farewell festivities. They also have a senior dinner.

East Landon

Homecoming started this year's activities for East Landon. Coffee hours and an open house gave alumni, parents and friends an opportunity to see the living quarters of a college coed.

To climax the year for East Landon, a senior dinner is held during spring term. At this time, two girls outstanding in scholarship and dormitory participation are each awarded a miniature trophy.

The dorm also possesses a bridge tournament trophy and a women's dorm scholarship cup.

East Mayo

East Mayo, built and dedicated in 1930, was named after a pioneer Michigan woman who was instrumental in obtaining the first women's dormitory.

"Midnight Magic" was the theme of the spring term party, held with West Mayo. The "magic" produced Mayo's most successful party for the year.

The coeds fondly remember their 15 minute ukulele concerts during spring term finals.

West Mayo

West Mayo, the smallest dormitory on campus, is known for its friendliness and spirit.

The coeds show appreciation for their busboys by honoring them at their annual tree trimming.

Ever busy phones, the crowded lounge at closing hours, hurried room cleanings before inspection, tubbings and serenades for recently pinned or engaged coeds are all part of West Mayo life.

North Williams

The fall term party, "Winter Fantasy," started the North Williams coeds on a merry social whirl.

Christmas was an especially gay and busy time. Tree Trimming Night began the festivities. Each girl donated an ornament, labeled with her name and year, for the tree.

Joining with South Williams, the girls gave a Christmas tea to which members of the administration were invited.

Active participants in intramural sports, the coeds are proud possessors of the All-Sports Trophy.

MOST DORMS have special entrances for coeds only. The evergreen shade and location near the dorm fountain make North Williams' a favorite.

South Williams

The first major event of the year for South Williams coeds was Homecoming. Besides working on their display, the girls held an open house and tea after the football game. This was a chance for parents and friends visiting the dorm to get a closer look at the coed's home.

Besides social events, the coeds showed their enthusiasm by actively participating in the intramural program.

MOST COEDS soon learn the fundamentals of bridge and from then on, some free time is spent each day in doubling, finessing and bidding game.

East Yakeley

The dining room of East Yakeley became an enchanted ballroom for an evening last spring when it was transformed for their annual term party, "Moonglow."

East Yakeleyites were busy all year. Evidence of this was seen in their prize-winning Homecoming display, "Whale of a Tale," and in their women's intramural volleyball title.

West Yakeley

Outstanding scholarship is characteristic of West Yakeley. Since 1950 the dorm has received the scholarship trophy six times. They also possess a permanent trophy for maintaining the highest average among women's dorms for consecutive terms.

Activities kept the coeds at West Yakeley busy as they planned for Christmas celebrations and winning entries for university contests.

Abbott

Traditions play a large part in the life of an Abbott coed. The "Abbott Girl of the Week" award honors a coed superior in scholarship and dorm contributions.

The seniors present an award to the outstanding freshman woman on "Senior Skit Night."

To keep informed on activities and local color the residents publish a dorm paper twice a term.

MAIL-TIME IS particularly busy for both the desk clerk and the MSU coed. Abbott alone receives 350 letters each day.

ABBOTT'S LOWER lounge facilities include a piano, TV set, card tables and seating capacity for 100 persons.

THE DORM ballot box, located near the dining room, is used often since everything from officers to queen contestants is selected representatively.

Snyder

This Christmas, the women of Snyder bought a walker for a crippled child as their special project. Individual rooms filled Christmas stockings and food baskets for needy families.

Trophy winning Snyder coeds boast of their synchronized swimmers and golf champions in the athletic field, along with special recognition received for participation in the blood drive.

Top Row — Quinn, Andea, Alexander, McQueen, Floyd, MacGregor, Murphy, Pickerell; First Row — Labelle, Bush, McAuliffe, Morsan, Holzbach, Dugan, Seymour.

A DORMITORY room is a coed's haven at MSU. Its uses are many — studying, sleeping, gatherings — even birthday parties.

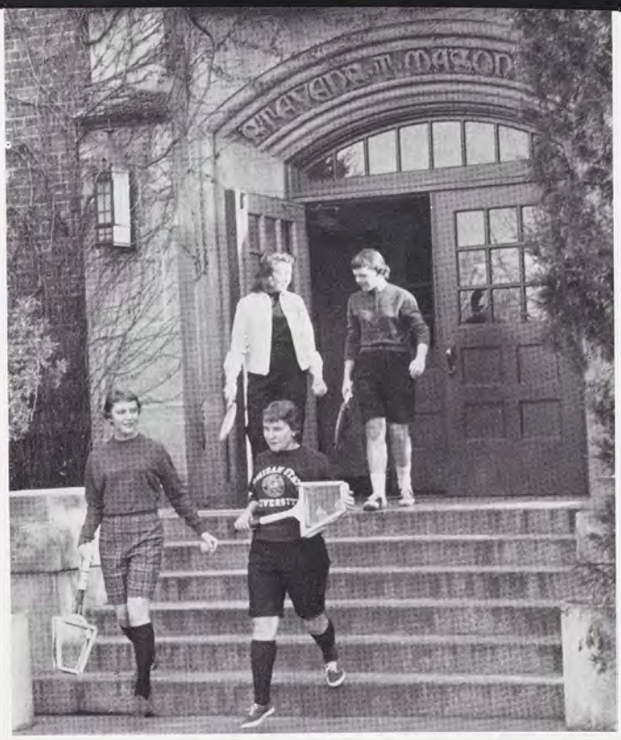

Mason

Mason coeds are proud to receive guests and dates in their modernized lounge. Recent additions in furniture have added newness to the dorm.

Laughter filled the halls this fall as coeds selected costumes for their Hallowe'en party. At Christmas, Santa presented gifts for all in a party for the underprivileged children of Lansing.

The ever-popular scholarship and faculty dinners highlighted the year.

MASON HALL, built in 1938, has the authentic "halls of ivy" appearance.

The football season reached its peak with Homecoming. "Paleface Injuns, it's not the flu — It's just that team from MSU," was the Mason theme.

After the game, parents and friends of the coeds gathered in the lounge for a Homecoming tea.

Junior 500 runners received a steak dinner after they won a third place trophy for the coeds.

The seniors of Mason are honored during spring term by a dorm serenade. Each senior woman receives a symbolic rose.

To honor girls obtaining 3.0 averages, Phillips sponsors a scholarship dinner each term. A rose is given to each girl with high grades.

COEDS MAY entertain their dates in the lower lounge or "rec" room of their dorm on Friday and Saturday evenings between seven o'clock and 12:45.

Each winter term the Men's Inter-Residence Hall Council co-sponsors an all-university formal with the Women's Inter-Residence Hall Council. The dance is held in the ballroom at Brody hall.

This fall, the council hosted 26 delegates from other universities for the Big 10 Residence Hall Presidents' Conference. The weekend featured a talk by Dr. E. O. Melby, visiting distinguished professor of education.

Funds to support the activities of the council come from a special tax placed upon each dorm on the basis of the number of residents.

MIRHC PRESIDENT Henry Grubel (right) conducts a meeting with delegates from other Big 10 residence hall councils.

"CHARLIE BROWN Plays and Snoopy Dances" was the theme of the all-dorm winter formal.

During spring term, each precinct in the dorm elects social, athletic and public relations chairmen who organize the activities of the men.

Support of MSU intramurals brought Bryan second place in football among dorms this fall.

Fall term, the men also co-sponsored a dance with Snyder for residents of both dorms. Snyder coeds served as hostesses for the event.

Fall term, Butterfield men, along with the residents of the other five Brody dorms entertained their dates at "Brodynik." A satellite and outer space mobiles provided the atmosphere for the dance held in the ballroom at Brody.

NEWEST ADDITION to the Emmons trophy case is their Junior 500 third place award.

THE "DOUBLE line" starts its rush to the dining room for the evening meal at 5:15.

WEST SHAW men clean their own rooms – the janitors only do the vacuuming.

Intramural athletic contests are a challenge West Shaw men are more than willing to meet. This fall, they won the all-university football championship and took first place in the Turkey Trot.

During fall term, record dances were sponsored each week for West Shaw men and their dates.

The fall term party, "Holiday in Hades," was held in the lower lounge of the dorm. Decorations were in red and a "devil" hovered over the band to complete the effect.

Spring term, the West Shaw Glee Club placed first in the Men's Inter-Dorm Sing.

EAST SHAW

Spring term, over 300 East Shaw men actively participated in a "convention" held in connection with the dorm's General Council elections. It was conducted in the manner of a national convention.

In preparation for "Holiday in Hades," co-sponsored with West Shaw, the resident advisers offered dance instructions once a week during fall term.

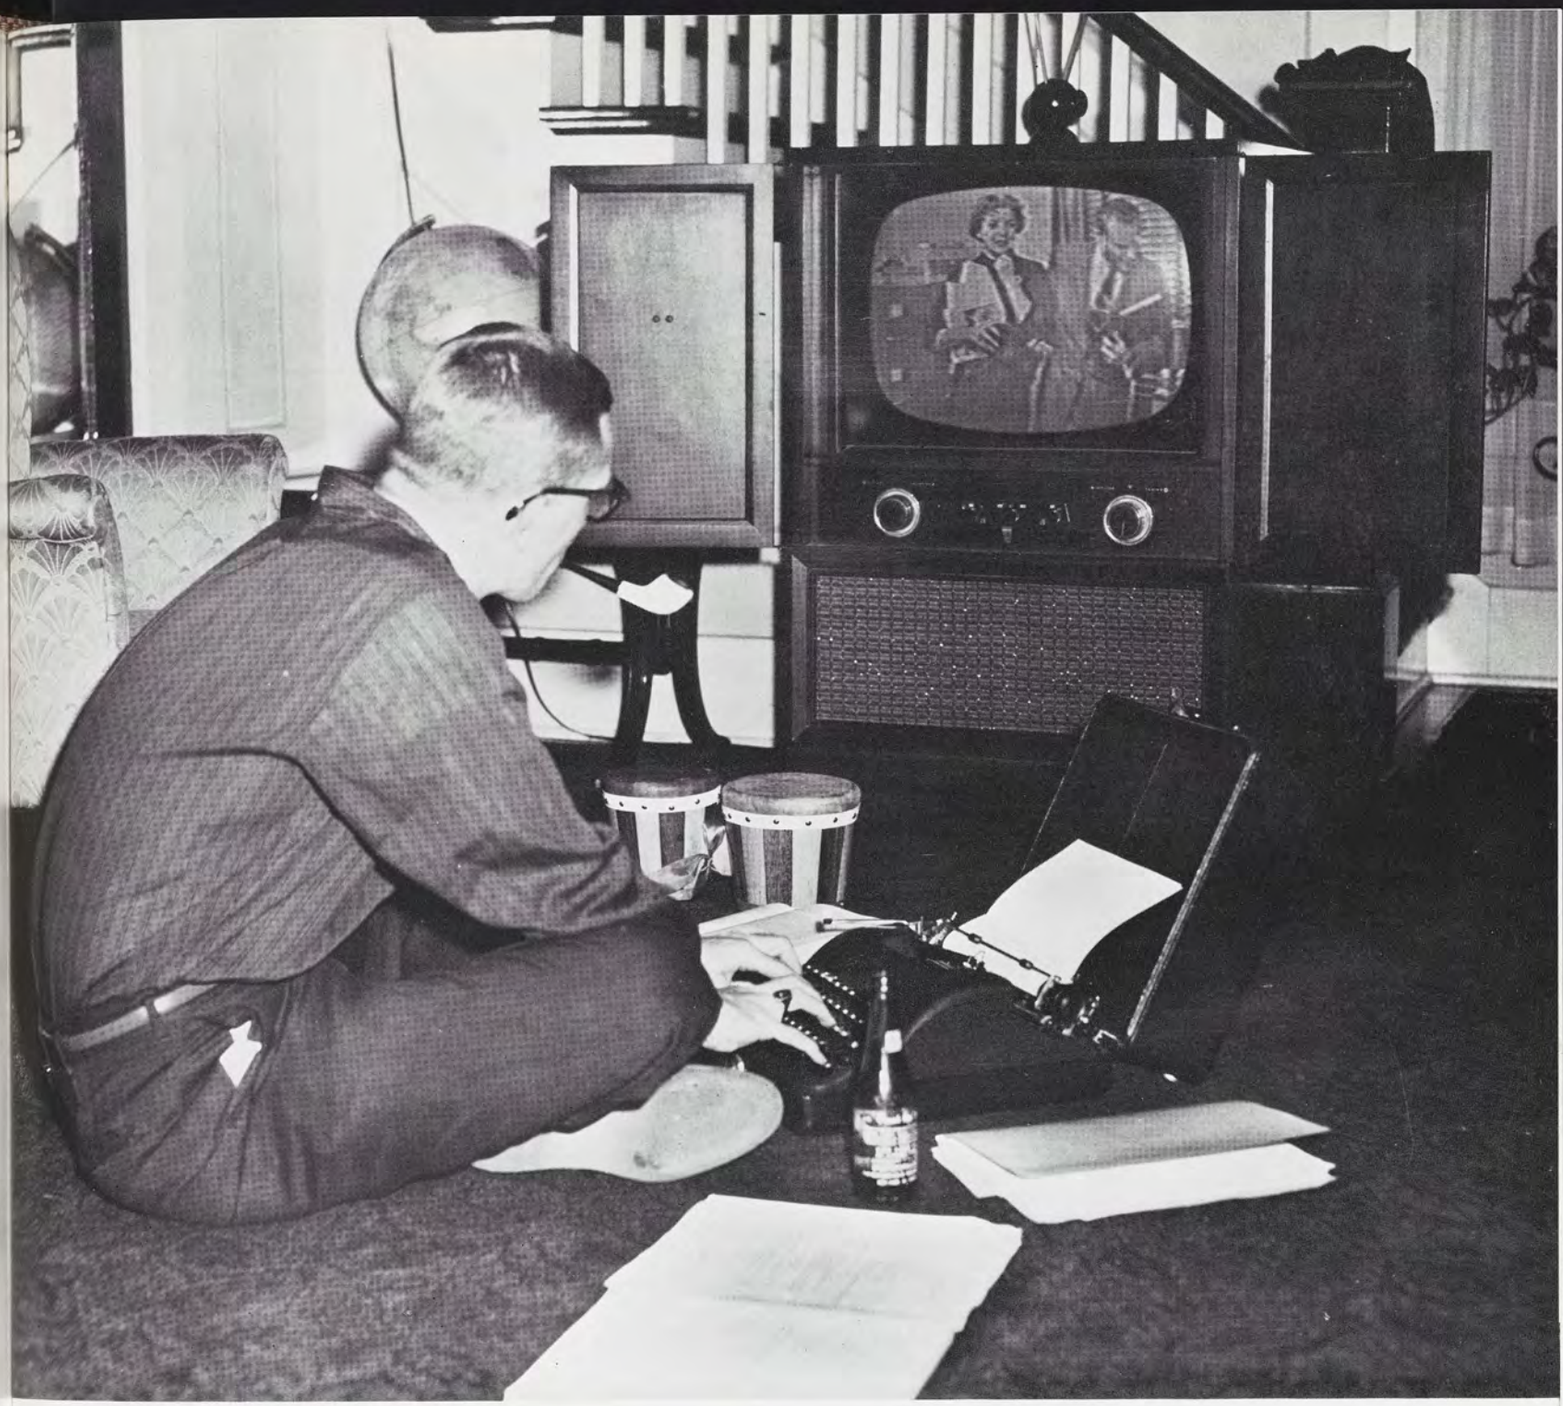

East Shaw placed second in the fall and winter blood drives and won the IM swimming championship trophy.

BOTH SIDES of Shaw have "rec" rooms. East Shaw men enjoy both ping pong and billiards.

A BASKETBALL trophy is evidence of one precinct's victory in intradorm play.

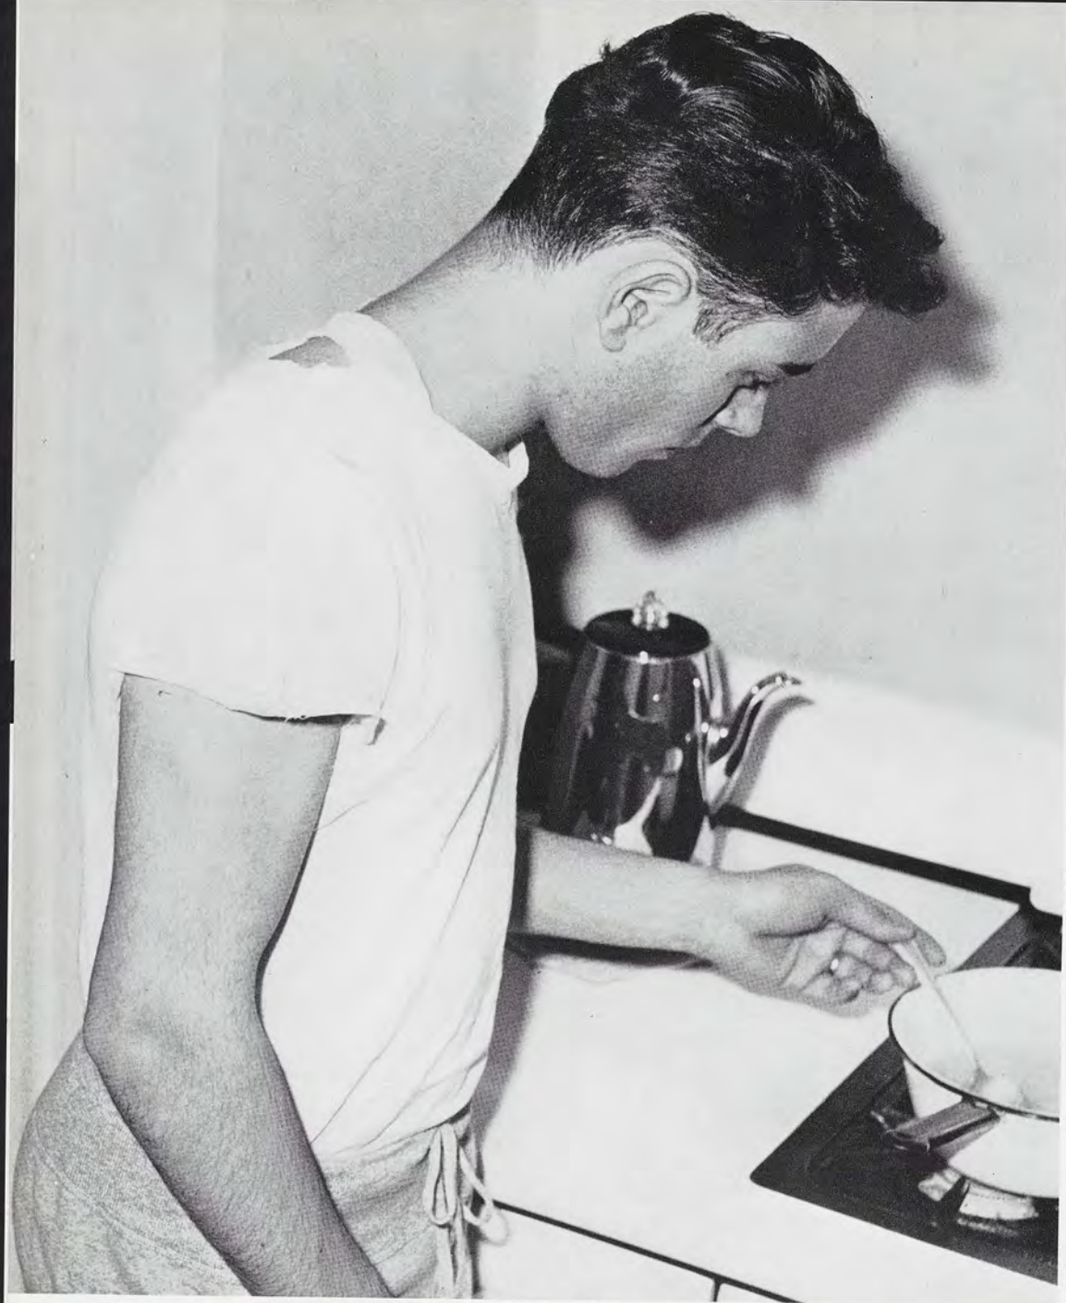

OFF - CAMPUS

Each year thousands of students meet the challenge of off-campus living. As individuals or in two's and three's, they rent rooms, apartments or houses, which serve as their homes during the college year.

Transportation to the campus is the first thing to consider. Some drive, others hitch-hike or ride buses if they are beyond walking distance.

by Bill Keough

OFF-CAMPUS

Above – STUDENTS OF sophomore status are eligible to live in off-campus approved housing. Men over 21 may live in unapproved units.

Right – THE UNION offers services ranging from a dollar-ten cent evening meal and a barber shop to a meeting place and ping pong tables.

Once a room has been secured and the landlord appeased with a rent payment, the students face the food problem. Long lines of students eat their daily meals in the form of Union "student specials."

Some get jobs that provide them with meals plus enough money for the rent. Others experiment with the delicacies that can be prepared on a hot plate. That a partial "kitchen" can be kept in a dresser drawer is discovered by more than one student going to school on a tight budget.

Several men may chip in to rent a more lavish dwelling and do their buying and cooking on a community basis. This can become somewhat involved when bills roll in at the end of the month or when differences in taste arise, such as: "Why don't we buy cabbage for a change? We have canned corn three times a week."

Some wonder if living off-campus is worth the trouble it takes. For the thousands who do, and enjoy it, there isn't any doubt — it's really the life!

Above – A TOTAL of 7,447 students live off-campus. Some commute from homes as far away as Grand Ledge, Eaton Rapids and St. Johns.

Right – FORTY PERCENT of all off-campus students belong to campus organizations. Meetings will bring them back to MSU in the evenings.

The eight male cooperatives, scattered through East Lansing, house nearly 200 MSU students.

For these men, co-op living emphasizes the teamwork and responsibility gained from the practical experience of students owning their own houses.

The Men's Inter-Co-op Council, the coordinating body, is made up of representatives from all eight units. They have set minimum requirements for co-op membership at a 2.2 scholastic average and a two-thirds vote of the active members.

Open smokers are held to acquaint interested men with the workings of the co-op system. The main attraction is naturally their low expense, possible because each member puts in from four to six hours of work each week at the house.

The co-op offers more than inexpensive housing, however. Fun enters in the form of term parties, guest and exchange dinners and intramural sports.

BEAL

In 1947, Beal and Bower cooperative houses were added to the men's co-op living units.

To be eligible for membership, male students must have a willingness to work and share responsibility, plus sound character and high standards. Members of both houses encourage group fellowship by taking an active part in intramural sports events and social activities.

Hedrick is noted for being both the first male student co-op at MSU and the first to own its house. The original building burned in 1956, but was replaced with a modernly designed house last year.

Male students who have caddied at a Western Golf Association club for two years and graduated in the upper fourth of their high school classes are eligible for membership in Evan's Scholars.

Scholarships provide financial aid for the 39 worthy ex-caddies in the MSU chapter. The group came on campus in 1955 and moved into a newly purchased house this fall term.

THEIR INTEREST in golf encourages members to keep in practice in the off-seasons.

THE HONOR trophy is given each year to the outstanding freshman.

Howland, organized in 1947, boasts the largest membership of the male cooperative units.

First known as Ajax Men's Co-op, it was renamed in honor of a leader in the development of co-operative organizations in Michigan.

The house is associated with Cooperatives in Action, a national magazine which keeps members informed on current co-op happenings.

THE HOUSE supplies all linen and two men are responsible for laundering it.

HALF THE men take the cooking detail, while the remainder divide house duties, custodian work and upkeep of the grounds.

Ulrey, named in honor of Dr. Orion Ulrey, an initiator of the co-op movement on campus, dates from 1946. Members have permanent possession of an All-Independent Sports Trophy.

ULREY

Top Row – Walkowiak, Helgren, Richards, Lavanchy, Wilks, Reidnauer, Valerio, Schankland; First Row – Herrington, DeMarte, Marzolf, Hyppa, Sommers, Spetz, Xerri, Hewitt.

VAN HOOSEN

by Judy Begick

Van Hoosen hall, named in honor of Sarah Van Hoosen Jones, a former member of the State Board of Agriculture, was formally introduced to MSU at an open house and tea on December 7, 1957.

Designed to replace the quasi-cooperative houses for women, Van Hoosen is the first living unit of its kind in the nation. Coeds, selected last spring, moved into the hall fall term.

Van Hoosen is considered a dormitory and is represented on the Women's Inter-Residence Hall Council.

One coed from the hall sits with the University Committee on Apartment Residence Halls, the body which originally devised the plans for Van Hoosen. The same group now acts in a direct supervisory capacity toward the hall.

VAN HOOSEN

Thirty-two apartments, each designed to accommodate a maximum of six women, plus a large social wing comprise the new living unit.

Under this plan, each girl has a "family" of companions rather than a single roommate.

Apartments are rented at $600 a term, which is equally divided among the occupants. Food costs depend upon the planning and bargain-hunting ability of the coeds.

Each apartment has a carpeted living room, furnished with desks, occasional chairs, a small sofa and floor lamp. The bedrooms feature 18-foot walk-in closets.

In the kitchen-dining area are a combination refrigerator-freezer, gas range and oven, built-in cabinets and a dining table that will accommodate the six coeds.

Kitchens are also equipped with basic cooking utensils, glassware, silver and china.

The occupants furnish their own linen, but there are laundry rooms in each wing which are equipped with washers, extractors and dryers.

THE GIRLS in each apartment unit make up their own menus and take turns on the cooking and dish washing chores.

HOUSING FOR 192 coeds is available in the newest women's living unit, located on the Red Cedar directly east of Shaw hall.

VAN HOOSEN'S resident adviser, Mrs. Juanita Lloyd, and two graduate assistants oversee the activities of the coeds.

Top Row — Wise, Knapp, Sweet, Britton, Wallace, Dietz, Romine, Fetting, Carlisle; Fourth Row — Pearce, Luther, Covington, Heynig, Hunt, Filley, Clancy, Eber; Third Row — Bordt, Brink, Single, Wagonjack, Kaiser, Heustis, Toppin, Findlay; Second Row — Orthman, Hokens, Line, Fell, Ostrander, Dobias, Crane, Nieschulz; First Row — DeYoung, McGuffin, Raisanen, Barnes, Lloyd, Hoffman, Larkins, Deutsch, O'Meara.

The women of Van Hoosen entered university competition for the first time this fall and won a first place with their Homecoming display. They also topped other coed dorms with the highest percentage of donations in the fall and winter term blood drives.

The coeds entertained with a box social and a Hallowe'en party and helped organize the East Shaw-Van Hoosen Weekend, also held in the fall.

Women with sophomore status, a 2.2 all-college and a good citizenship record are eligible to live in Van Hoosen. Two letters of recommendation must accompany all applications.

Van Hoosen hall is Michigan State's answer to the need for a self-managed, inexpensive, yet adequate living arrangement for women students. Other universities are watching with interest as this latest innovation in coed housing unfolds.

COURTNEY, Robert F.

During the Centennial year,
Beaumont Tower became "registered site number one" of the Michigan Historical Commission.
The tower is located on the northeast corner of the grounds of Old College Hall, the first building in the country to be dedicated to the scientific teaching of agriculture. After the collapse of Old College Hall in 1918, the area became an artillery field.
J. W. Beaumont contributed money for the tower, to be constructed in memory of the building which gave him the "happiest moments" of his life.

Beal Botanical Garden is not only a campus beauty spot in the spring, but also a scientific arrangement of thousands of species of plants. It was begun in 1873, when Dr. W. J. Beal, pioneer forestry professor, set out 140 plats of grasses and clovers.
The tool shed, a rather picturesque but often unnoticed structure, was built near the turn of the century as a replica of Dr. Beal's parents' home.
Though the garden has been enlarged throughout the years, the shed still houses the spades, rakes and other tools used in maintenance of the 4,500 species of plants which now grow in the garden.

Saint's Rest, the first dormitory, was home to State's original 63 students.
The wooden structure was commonly known as the "boarding house."
Many firsts are associated with Saint's Rest. Rushed to completion for college opening in the spring of 1857,
it was one of the first three buildings.
Stumps of trees, cut down to clear the area, were left in the yard for the students to sit on.
In 1876, Saint's Rest burned to the ground, the first of such disasters to occur at MAC.
Today, the only evidence of the former structure is a plaque set into the sidewalk between the Administration building and the Museum.

Engagement Rock is recognized by most engaged couples. A gift from the class of 1873, it now serves as a reserved seat in the shadow of Beaumont Tower. The large rock was moved from a glacial deposit at the delta of Grand River and Michigan avenues to its permanent site. It was then known as "Class Rock." For a time, there was a picturesque summer house nearby. These two provided a favorite background for group photographers. To add to its glamour, the rock has a corrected misspelling of the word, "class." Today, its pictorial qualities are superseded by more sentimental ones, as here, many MSU couples plan their future together.

The horse-watering trough is a reminder of class rivalry and the beginning of the Wolverine.
In 1900, there was a race between the seniors and juniors to publish the first Wolverine.
The Class of 1901 won and jealous seniors stole 200 copies of the yearbook.
Ill feelings and desire for revenge came to a head when the Class of 1900 prepared to dedicate its gift to the college. The monument was first burned and then shattered
by the harassed juniors.
In due time, the class raised more money and presented the watering trough to the college.
Today, students recognize it as a planter which holds flowers in the spring.

"Split Rock" originally marked the point half way between Lansing and the college.
It was an ideal meeting place for students of the 1870's.
A cherry pit sprouted in a cleft
in the rock and by 1880,
there was a tree to provide shade
for the passing students.
By 1900, the roots had broken
the rock in two and with new roads,
"Split Rock" was forgotten.
Later, loyal alumni moved one half to the lawn of the Union,
where it stands today.

WOLVERINE...

THIS magnificent yearbook for 1958 is a worthy exemplification of the high standards achieved by the student body and the faculty of Michigan State University in all its endeavors.

IN addition to carrying on their daily scholastic duties, time has been found to create this outstanding visual record of the year's work in a manner that equals the professional best.

WE are proud to have been selected to portray in picture and type this very excellent editorial content. It is an honor to serve so great an Institution. It is a rare privilege to serve so fine an Editorial Staff.

Hotel Administration Graduates . . .

Congratulations!

and good luck on your new career.

There's plenty of room for good men in your chosen field . . . and your training at Michigan State has been a long step in the direction of success.

For thirty years we've been the leading manufacturers of distinctive paper table appointments, exclusively, for hotels, clubs and restaurants.
During these years of personal contact and service, we've developed an alert understanding of the problems encountered in food and beverage service, which enables us to provide sound counsel
. . . without obligation, of course.

We're happy to extend this service to you.

Good Food Attractively Served
Tastes Better . . . is Worth More
