WOLVERINE

The deep freeze of winter '58 left as much as six inches of solid ice on some campus walks days after the record snowfalls.

MSU Profile, 1959

For Michigan State University, 1959 can be characterized, but not isolated. The scene can be recorded, but the story must be as various as the people who will remember and tell it.

It is a time of scientific and technological explosion with no foreseeable end. Space satellites have skirted the shore of infinity for over a year, and seven American service men are in training to follow.

It is a time of crisis from Lhasa to Little Rock. John Foster Dulles, unfailing before the power of nearly half of the world, has fallen to cancer, while Berlin and Iraq await the verdict of history.

It is a time of change and re-evaluation, as the nation moves from recession to possible inflation.

Alaska and Hawaii become new states, while several of the older and more populous flounder with antiquated tax structures. Michigan is one of these.

The state supported universities are among the first to feel the pinch. Only skillful piloting by MSU's administrators keeps the huge university running smoothly. Relief is inevitable, but seems painfully slow in coming.

Winter of the big snow. A record freeze leaves inches of ice on every sidewalk. Snow in four foot drifts defies plow and shovel, while autos flounder and temperatures drop to 17 below. Skiers and skaters revel in the weather, but few students dawdle on the icy paths between classes.

Some pessimists expected opposition to the new parking gates this year, but there was very little as this fair, though sometimes inconvenient arrangement went into effect.

The permanence of the Cherry Lane "bricks" was accentuated by the wreckage of the old barracks apartments torn down during the summer.

Eleanor Roosevelt's visit on campus fall term was highlighted by her talk at Kellogg Center during which she stressed the importance of the U.N.

The spring term controversy over compulsory ROTC was partially resolved by President Hannah's cautioning objectivity in the matter.

INCIDENTS AND CHANGE

One small dividend to come from the harsh winter was a few weeks of free parking. The new parking gates installed during the summer could account for cars, but not snowdrifts. As a result, lots which should have been automatically closed for lack of space, remained open, and many hapless commuters drove innocently in, only to pay a dime for nothing more than the drive. As dimes and tempers ran short, the Department of Public Safety considered its own safety and opened the lots to free parking until the snow could be cleared.

The only other problem encountered by the mechanical sentinels was that of the wily sports car. Until winter term, when guard bars were installed on each gate, the small, imported auto could pass under while its driver thumbed his nose at the greedy coin boxes.

Otherwise the gates functioned smoothly, and if not overwhelmingly popular, were at least received without much complaint. Certainly there was none when the registration fee for cars on campus was reduced from 15 to 2 dollars because of them.

Other changes and some lack of change, however, were not so quietly received. The increased academic demands of the university which became so apparent last year were reemphasized by the announcement that graduating seniors would take spring term finals for the first time. The Senior Council challenged the decision, but could not change it, in spite of the compromise suggestion that only students with a B average for the term be exempt.

Far noisier, and perhaps less considered, was the question over compulsory ROTC raised for the first time in over 20 years. Proponents and opponents beat their respective drums, but reason prevailed, and President Hannah's suggested "long, hard look" was begun.

Some students on campus this year were so hungry for knowledge, or so it seemed, that they stole for it. By winter term the library reported nearly 5,000 books missing, a loss amounting to over $40,000. Several hundred of these were recovered when IFC with their book drive separated the "borrowers" from the thieves, but the main problem, that of operating with open stacks and only limited checking, remained.

In contrast to the delinquent bibliophiles, the members of the Veterans Association, Blue Key and several other student groups gave instead of took, and hundreds of less fortunate Lansing families had a little happier Christmas. During fall term "Sparta Claus" gathered campus-wide contributions for the project. The money was then spent on food baskets which were distributed by the vets to the families over the holidays.

Another successful project completed, but one much longer in the process, concerned married housing. With over 1,900 brick apartments on campus occupied by married students fall term, the number of temporary barracks units had dwindled to less than 500. During the summer hundreds of others had been torn down, or were sold and hauled away, until the once cluttered views from Harrison Road and Shaw Lane were completely leveled. The 500 survivors were spared only to accommodate student families leaving this year.

The demise of the barracks completes a plan that has been nearly 14 years in the process. Beginning with only the crowded and scarcely adequate trailer village of "Fertile Valley" in 1946, MSU has developed the finest married housing program of any university in the nation.

THE BIG NAMES

Michigan State alumni, students and staff attained national notice in many ways this year.

Heading the list of distinguished alumni was Frederick Mueller, class of '14, who in November was sworn in as Undersecretary of Commerce, second in command only to the secretary, Sinclair Weeks. As such, he now supervises such federal offices as the Weather Bureau, the Bureau of Census and the Patent Office.

More recent alumni to participate in matters of national and international interest include W. Dennis Barton, class of '38, and B. F. "Sandy" Coggan, class of '39.

Barton, a pioneer in the field of structural plastics, designed and supervised construction of the unique and beautiful translucent plastic roof of the U.S. pavilion at the Brussels World's Fair, while Coggan, a vice-president of the Convair division of General Dynamics, played a major role in the Air Force Atlas ICBM program.

Paul D. Bagwell, former head of the department of communication skills and currently director of scholarships remained leader of Michigan's Republican Party after his vigorous and unexpectedly powerful gubernatorial campaign against the state's popular incumbent, G. Mennen Williams, while President Hannah continued in his role of national service as chairman of President Eisenhower's Civil Rights Commission.

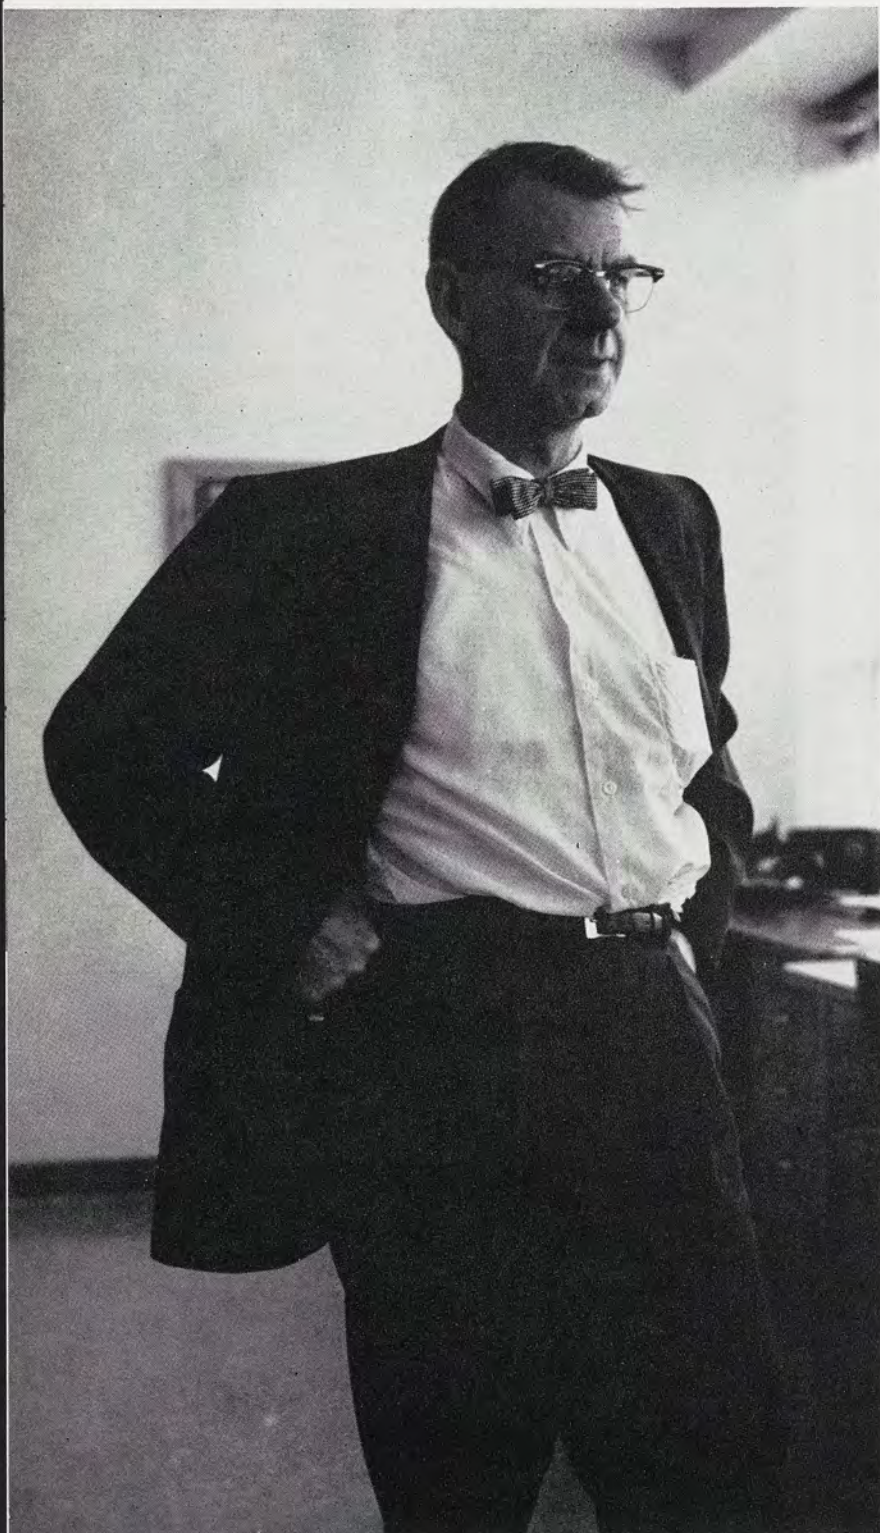

In spite of a discouraging season for the football team, Sam Williams, team captain and end, became State's 25th All-American, while John Green, co-captain of the university's brilliant basketball team, took the honors for his championship play.

Prominent visitors to campus during the year reflected the university's interest and involvement in the times. From Adlai Stevenson, who spoke at the 1958 commencement, to Linus Pauling, who brought his controversial crusade against radioactive fallout to campus spring term, each visitor found an interested and comprehending audience.

It was not the first visit for many. Eleanor Roosevelt, popular at Michigan State since her first appearance over 20 years ago, returned fall term for an informal talk on world affairs and the United Nations.

These, then, are a few of the events and names that highlighted the year at MSU. Many more are touched upon in the following pages. But at best, we can only set the scene. The story must be your own.

POLITICS AND OPINION

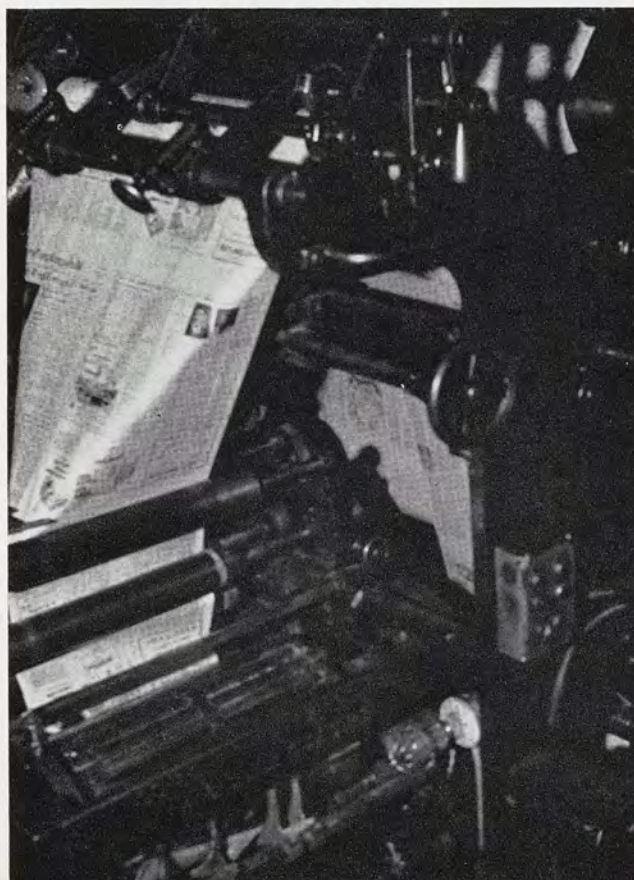

William F. "Mac" McIlrath, Director of Student Publications, counseled his traditional cool view to hot-headed student editors.

Student Congress made the Thursday morning headlines more than once during the year as their debates covered everything from housing to canoes.

The new high-speed rotary press at Campus Press, in spite of a low-speed start, was turning out the campus daily in little over an hour by winter term, allowing more up-to-the-minute news.

After a year of renewed national interest in the business of politics and public opinion, an election year complete with campaigns and TV coverage, a revived spirit seemed to stir on campus. Old Man Apathy loosened his hold more than once and by spring term seemed almost on his way out.

Student elections, in direct contradiction to the prophets of indifference, drew over 5,000 voters to the polls in April, while such topics as ROTC, men's dorm dress regulations and student housing regulations were discussed and debated with renewed vigor.

Spring had indeed sprung.

But this atmosphere did not appear without priming. Student Government, the State News and student groups from IFC to MHA did much to bring home student interest during fall and winter term.

THURSDAY'S CHILD

The 1958-59 Student Government, one of the best organized and, canoe acts notwithstanding, one of the most effective of recent years, began with a legacy of confusion which left them a long way to go fall term.

When viewed in retrospect, the elections for class officers, Student Congress and the AUSG president in spring of '58 seem almost ludicrous. The confusion demonstrated by Student Government over its own elections regulations was epic. Tensions rose and tempers flared hotly over minor technical points, until it was a wonder that there was any election at all.

The big mix-up began three days before the primary, when Elections Commissioner Herb Harman resigned under pressure from Student Government President Marne Gleason after Dean Pappas violated the rules in his campaign for senior class president. Gleason claimed Harman was too liberal in his interpretation of the regulations, and Harman refused to continue without complete control over election procedures. Gleason then appointed Barrie Alley to replace Harman.

Two days later, on the eve of the primary, two candidates for Student Government president disqualified themselves by campaigning over Brody radio without leaving comparable time for the third candidate. Then candidate three decided to use the radio too, but since this left the first two without time comparable to his, he too was disqualified. Result, no candidates . . . a cut and dried affair. But the plot thickened.

The Elections Review Board decided the whole business had been mishandled and ruled all three candidates still eligible. This might have ended it, but the next day Gleason stopped the primary when he discovered that one candidate's name had been left off the ballot, and held things up until the oversight could be corrected.

Somehow, the final election was held without any notable complications the following week. When the dust finally settled, Chuck Walther was president, Gleason and Alley graduated, and, sure enough, Harman reappeared, this time as executive vice-president.

By fall term, however, things had settled down, and the politicians stuck pretty much to business for the rest of the year.

SPARTAN SPIRIT RE-VISITED

Fall was relatively free of major controversy on campus, for football was upon us and everyone worked off steam in the stadium. Even such aroused public clamor as that of the Brody residents the previous spring over "the big stink" from the Red Cedar sewage disposal plant faded in the cool fall air.

But football brought its own problems in terms of unsuccessful Big 10 competition, Spartan Spirit (or lack of it) and the philosophy of pep rallies.

Pep rallies came under fire from several directions. If they were plain, old-fashioned shout sessions, they didn't attract enough student participation, but if they had professional entertainment, they were not pep rallies, but simply shows. All of this, coupled with a hard luck season for the team, seemed to create a feeling that State's football reputation was collapsing beyond repair.

But the feeling was temporary. Kansas State was mauled in the last game 26 to 7, Sam Williams made All-American, Biggie and Duffy stayed friends and football pep rallies were forgotten for another year. Borrowing from Mark Twain, Sparty could claim without much argument that rumors of his death were grossly exaggerated.

NEWS AND REVIEWS

It will be a long time before the State News can match its classic confusion of vets (medical) with vets (military), when two years ago they reported a tuition increase to 130-odd dollars for the vets instead of the vets. In fact, as a mirror and sounding board of student opinion as well as a reporter of facts, the S'News does an unusually accurate and competent job. There are, however, occasional slips.

With the coming of the snows, campus controversies took on a more serious atmosphere, and the State News joined in. Dr. Stanley Idzerda, Director of the Honors College and more than an interested spectator, challenged conformity among students in general and the Greeks in particular at the IFC-Pan Hel convocation. The State News lent added drama to this already explosive attack by one small error. In their hurry to make their press deadline they omitted the word "intellectual" from Dr. Idzerda's description of fraternities as an intellectual skid row.

In contrast to this was the paper's coverage of the compulsory ROTC question. Without identifying themselves with any person's or group's opinion on the matter, they printed nearly all such opinions which they felt were submitted in good faith, canvassed the Board of Trustees on the question and over a period of several weeks, had covered the problem in its broadest possible sense.

Politics and opinion from canoes to the National Student Association, dormitory dress regulations to ROTC, amused, provoked and sometimes enlightened us throughout the year. The details will doubtless fade in time, but the spirit will be remembered as long as the year is.

After the long, cold winter, these coeds found the spring term sun more than welcome.

The foresters' beards, shaved off at their winter term shindig, reappeared campus-wide in the spring as the spirit of the Lansing centennial moved into East Lansing.

Compared to the national frenzy, the hula hoop craze scarcely touched MSU, but where it appeared, the action was vigorous.

THE GOOD LIFE

*"Tan shoes and pink shoelaces,
A polka dot vest and, man, oh man . . ."*

Oh, man! . . . And Elvis still in the army.

But the good life, the life we will recall ten or twenty years from now, struggles on. We had hula hoops, a few of them, and frisbies, quite a few. We had the new Aga Khan at Harvard, "Stagger Lee," Huckleberry Hound, Charlie Brown, Harry Truman, Paladin, and all such things to make life worth living.

It was not a wild year.

Alas, no panty raids, and alack, a pretty provincial attitude toward the "togetherness" of phone booth stuffing, although AUSG came out for it (togetherness, not phone booths). And speaking of student government, this year's Congress was about the most abused group on campus since 1946, when the veterans chucked their beanies and ran the seniors down the mountain. In an effort to maintain the traditional canoe on the Red Cedar, Congress came out against sin, but the jaded State News shouted "Gestapo!" and sat back to chortle as the Associated Press picked up the somewhat altered story, and the squawks rolled in. . . . But no panty raids.

It may even have been a dull year.

Wedge between the cold war and such unreasonable academic demands as learning to write complete sentences in term papers, MSU students took more of a "no nonsense" approach to life. In fact, some of them got downright stuffy, got married, and even voted in municipal elections.

Still, much of the trivia from which legends grow was seeded in fertile soil, and the alums of twenty years hence will have their tales to tell.

THE IMPROVEMENT WITH AGE

True, there were no model T's around to be torn down and reassembled in a fourth floor dorm room, but we know of one fraternity man's Volkswagen that was buried in a man-made snow drift winter term, and almost had its owner walking until the spring thaw. No initiates appeared on Grand River in their underwear frantically seeking the nearest barrel, but one group of Greek actives charged off over twenty miles to rescue their abducted house mother, who was really calling from a phone booth a block away, while the pledges stifled their laughter in the background.

The year was rich in such grist for reunion mills.

Even Spartan Roundtable, which as a rule concerns itself with pretty serious business, made a few contributions to the lore. A case in point concerns President

Hannah's assistant, Mr. James H. Denison, and the Cowles House cuckoo clock at the second fall term meeting. Twice during the evening, once at seven and once at seven thirty, Mr. Denison was called upon to speak, and twice his words were punctuated by the song of the cuckoo. He somehow missed the eight o'clock call, and shortly afterwards the meeting was adjourned. But by 1980 we'll wager that eight o'clock has joined the rest, that the meeting has lasted until ten cuckoos, and that Mr. Denison has sent his secretary to all subsequent Cowles House meetings. Thus do the years embroider our stories and improve the good life.

HAIL THE CONQUERING COHODES

There is a fat file in the State News. It contains howls in the wilderness liberally seasoned with Mencken, Shakespeare and Chesterton. It contains amazing metaphors, artful cacophonies and probably most of Webster's unabridged dictionary. It is the file of Jerry Cohodes' letters.

Consider his profundities:

To believe that Jefferson and his cohorts would have anything to do with Nasser's goals is, to my mind, so much mush. It is as absurd as to believe that Ted Williams will play in the class D Kiddy League, next spring. (Cohodes disdains Nasser.)

I have also been accused of not controlling my statements by facts. To this charge, I retort that I'll not soil deathless prose with another's lifeless facts. (Cohodes disdains facts.)

Governments spawned out of violent revolutions are like a virago of a woman. One never knows who they are going to wreak their wrath on next. (Cohodes disdains "whom.")

Through his monumental missives, Cohodes has assured himself of a place in reunion recollections. His letters have created a campus character without competition.

We may forget the class presidents, the editors and the chairman, but Cohodes, the character, has insinuated himself into our good life. Actually only a few of his letters have been printed, but already the number seems greater, and time can only multiply it more.

Such is the amplified buzz of our self-ordained gadfly. May his tribe endure; it is not likely to increase.

Add, now, the beards and the Florida tans, some false I.D. and a few late minutes, and the planting is complete. We may have a few new realisms to attend to, but this will not disturb the good life, which we have enjoyed this year, and will enjoy the more for its aging.

Physicist William H. Kelly reads the meters which record radioactive emissions from a substance contained in the ingenious "sewertron" in the background.

RESEARCH

The mind of MSU is a curious mind, adventurous and creative. There might have been no beet sugar industry today if it were not, and because it is, there may someday be no tooth decay, and perhaps no cancer.

Though MSU has seen much new on her campus in recent years, the attitude of continuing inquiry is as old as the university herself.

We are by charter and purpose a university of applied science, but the meaning of "applied" exists here only in its broadest possible sense. While State's Engineering Experiment Station expands existing industry and even opens entirely new commercial areas, such as it has through the development of water repellent dyes, MSU physicists explore the age of the universe and MSU communications experts chart the impact of major news.

The entire dimension of science at Michigan State is beyond brief description. Each of the varied areas of inquiry contains many stories. A few of them are here:

MUSHROOMS AND DR. LUCAS

The "apple a day" experiments conducted by the late and honored Dr. E. H. Lucas, Professor of Horticulture, who succumbed to a heart attack in late January, received national publicity as he observed the effects of a daily apple ration on the health of several hundred MSU students. The test was indeed an interesting sidelight to Dr. Lucas' work, but a sidelight it was, and only a small part of his unique but fundamental approach to the problem of cancer. Tracing them through folklore, he investigated many varieties of plants with reputed medicinal powers on the supposition that the increased cancer rates of recent years could be caused by our more highly cultivated but less potent modern plant foods.

Dr. Lucas' death cut short his work before he could find conclusive evidence to support his theory, but in one case he actually discovered tumor inhibiting chemicals in several varieties of the lowly mushroom.

Investigation of Dr. Lucas' theories will be continued, but this is by no mean MSU's only attack on cancer. Dr. Joseph Meites of the department of physiology and pharmacology, Dr. John C. Speck of the chemistry department and Dr. Allen S. Fox are among the many MSU scientists seeking cancer causes and possible cures.

Dr. Meites, part of whose work is supported by the U.S. Public Health Service, is investigating the effect of hormones on the as yet unknown mechanism which alters the basic protein structure of healthy cells, turning them into malignant destroyers. He has so far demonstrated the unusual fact that certain hormones, notably thyroxine and hydrocortisone, can either increase or decrease the incidence of skin tumors in mice exposed to a cancer causing irritant, depending entirely on whether the hormone is administered before or after the irritant.

Dr. Speck is exploring an approach which amounts to an outwitting of cancer. By the use of chemical compounds called anti-metabolites, the very appetite of cancer which destroys healthy tissue is used as a means to destroy the cancerous cells themselves. Like sleeping pills, anti-metabolites merely inhibit the activity of the body's law-abiding and temperate citizen-cells, but the criminal cancer is greedy. It is believed that in their wild frenzy to grow, malignant cells will overdose and destroy themselves.

Dr. Fox is searching for answers to the cause of cancer by investigating the affect of heredity on proteins, the building blocks of the living cell. By examining the vessels of heredity, the genes and chromosomes which exist in every cell, Dr. Fox hopes to find a genetic process which causes the development of the kind of proteins found in cancerous tissue.

These projects are only a few of the many such on campus. In fact, 13 such programs of research are being supported by the American Cancer Society alone, while a number of others are being carried on either independently or with partial support from some other agency.

600 YEARS OF ACHING TEETH

An MSU laboratory contains in residence several hundred unusually pampered white rats. These aristocrats of the rodent set can trace their ancestry back 30 generations, a feat which would involve over 600 years of family history for a human. In return for their good life all that they are expected to do is to either have or not have tooth decay, whichever nature dictates. As it happens, however, Mother Nature has been given a highly controlled assist in her choice by three MSU scientists.

Like "rock 'n' roll," dental decay appears to be an affliction of our times, to be borne with the temporary relief that only partially adequate measures can provide. Since 1930, however, when a student seeking a research project consulted Dr. Carl A. Hoppert, professor of chemistry, and found himself investigating the effect of diet on tooth decay, the problem of the aching molar has been under continuous attack at Michigan State.

It was not long after the 1930 beginning that Dr. Hoppert was joined by Dr. Harrison R. Hunt, a geneticist now professor emeritus and former head of zoology. A third scientist, Dr. Samuel Rosen, a microbiologist, completed the team in 1952.

Though modern dental surgery has improved immensely in the last several decades and the device of putting fluoride in drinking water has reduced tooth decay in many areas, the basic problem, that of cause, has not been solved. It is this that the trio of chemist, geneticist and microbiologist has been studying.

In the case of the illustrious white rats, long genetic research has shown successfully that there is an hereditary factor involved in both resistance and susceptance to dental decay. Other areas of investigation have involved diet, amount and content of saliva, and micro-organisms suspected of contributing to decay.

Early in the experimentation it was found that a certain diet was more decay-producing than others. This ration, called the Hoppert-Webber-Canniff diet, received widespread attention.

More recent studies of micro-organisms have indicated that no one type should be considered the chief villain. The main thing, in fact, that has become clear from the research is that there is no one cause of any kind, but rather, several, some of which have been determined, some only suspected and others still unknown.

The three MSU scientists assert that the elimination of dental decay is an eventual certainty. Whether this occurs in the near or far future, there is little doubt that the work at Michigan State will have contributed greatly to the success.

THE MIGHTY MESSAGE

How do you like your news? From television? Radio? The State News? Or in these "troubled times" would you rather simply ignore it entirely? If your choice is the last of these, you probably haven't had much luck.

Surrounded as we are by countless magazines and newspapers, radio and TV, the impact of mass communication media has become almost unavoidable in modern living.

Michigan State is among the first universities to appreciate fully the magnitude of these media in our daily lives, and to undertake large scale scientific investigation of their influence.

The Communications Research Center of the College of Communication Arts is the eye of these investigations. The Center, under the direction of Dr. Paul Deutschmann, seeks the answers to three basic questions:

1. What are the effects of communication?
2. What are the important variables in the communication process?
3. How do these variables interact?

Much of what we may assume intuitively to be true regarding messages, from major news items to political speeches, has already been shown to be only partially true or even false in the Center's studies. For instance, in spite of the growth of television and the continued prominence of radio, newspapers remain the chief authority on news information for most people. A case in point is the story of President Eisenhower's light stroke several years ago. Research by the Center revealed that 80 percent of persons polled used newspapers as a source of information, either direct or supplementary.

The effect of the political address is still under study, but it has been found that only a small number of readers or listeners appear to change their political position during a campaign. These few, however, might make the difference in a tight election, thus making important the continued study of such influences.

Another area of productive and successful work for the Center has been in face-to-face communications. One of the biggest problems in this area exists for foreign technicians trained in this country and returning to their homelands. Communicating their new knowledge to their fellow countrymen is often as difficult as mastering the special knowledge itself.

Under a contract with the International Cooperation Administration, the College of Communication Arts has conducted 14 workshops providing training for over 850 foreign participants. This program, conducted in Cavapon, Virginia, has already achieved a notable degree of success.

According to Dr. Deutschmann, the long range purpose of the center is to gain a better understanding of the communication process, not only to aid those whose business it is to persuade, but to enable everyone who watches or listens to be more selective.

OUR COY MOTHER EARTH

By celestial standards, Mother Earth is by no means ready to retire, but it may be that she has been fooling us in recent years about her true age. The latest and presumably most accurate way of getting around the old girl's coyness has been through the study of radioactive decay.

Any radioactive substance loses its intensity of radiation, or decays, in a predictable fashion. The time measurement usually associated with such a substance is its half-life, which is the time required for half of it to decay into another element. In the case of radium this half-life is 1620 years. In other words, if we were to set aside one gram of pure radium today, we would have one half gram in 1620 years, and one quarter gram in 3240 years. With such knowledge physicists are able to determine how long certain elements have been present in the earth, and hence, the earth's age.

Dr. William H. Kelly and Dr. George B. Beard of the physics and astronomy department have reason to believe, however, that the lives of some radioactive elements have not been measured accurately.

One of the problems in such measurements is the presense of background radiation caused, it is believed, by cosmic ray bombardment from outer space and by the natural radioactivity of some minerals in the earth's crust. Although this radiation is slight, there is enough present to cause trouble.

To minimize this difficulty the two physicists, using more ingenuity than money, have constructed a container which shields any radioactive sample undergoing study from background radiation. This device, consisting of thousands of pounds of metal and called the "sewertron," gets its name from its center cavity, an old sewer pipe picked up at a local junk yard. But if the sewertron's name is a jest, its performance is not. According to Dr. Beard, studies which might normally have taken weeks have been managed in a matter of days since its completion.

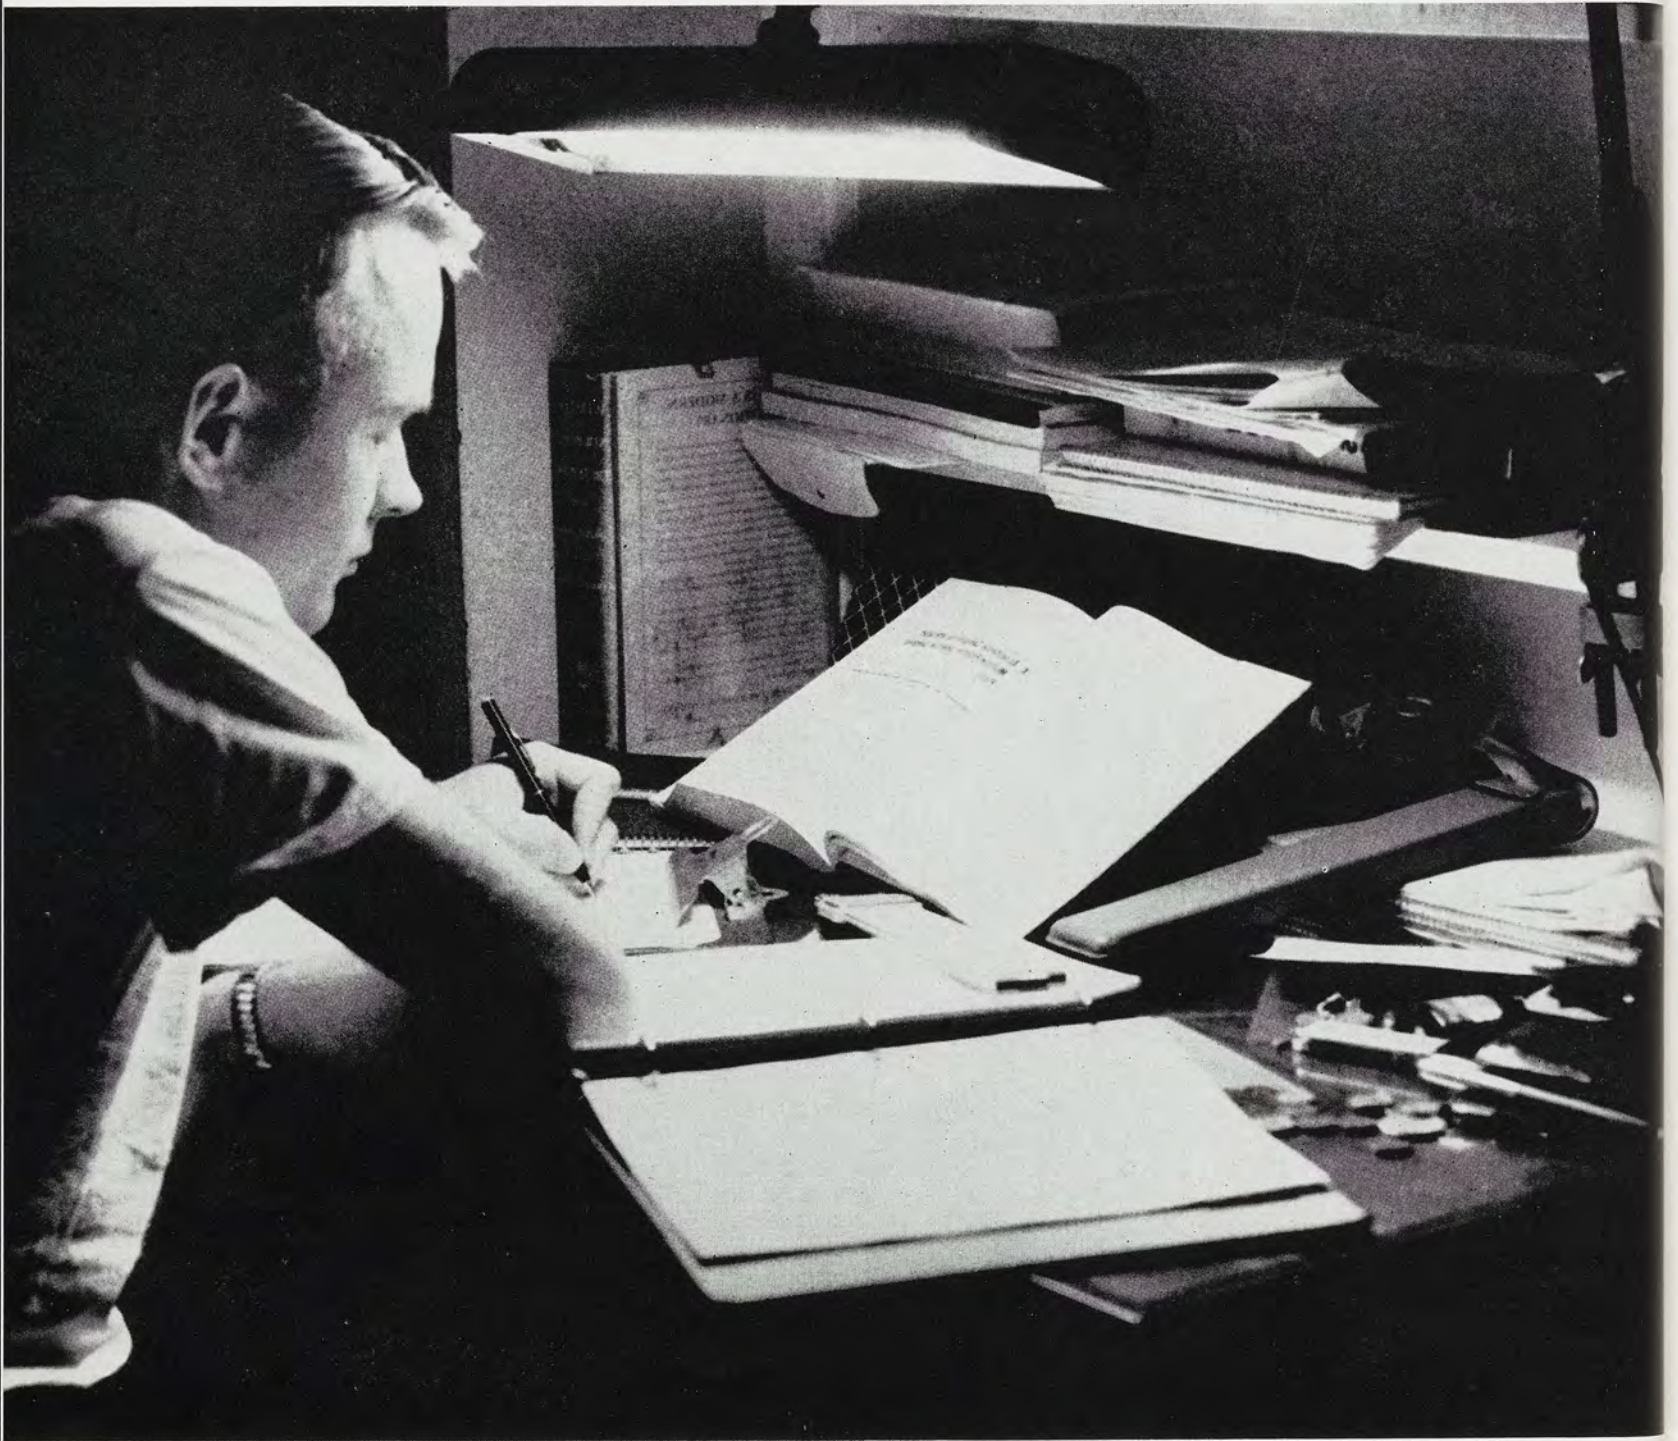

Preliminary findings have been encouraging, and if future studies substantiate these, then entire theories may have to be readjusted concerning the age of the earth and the universe.

THE STORIES UNTOLD

These, then, form a small sample of the breadth of MSU scientific inquiry. That they merely hint at the magnitude of this breadth is apparent in light of the hundreds of stories not told here. Another equally representative group might contain the story of perception studies in the department of psychology, or more details on the radioisotope cemetery pictured on the opposite page. It could tell of packaging developments, studies in sociology or anthropology, or the new undergraduate research program beginning this year in the College of Engineering. The list is endless, and each story told must leave much in itself unsaid, perhaps unsayable.

But however poor in detail this must be compared to that which has gone untold, one fundamental fact is obvious. None of it would be possible without the ingenuity and dedication of the scholars, student and faculty alike, who constitute the mind of MSU.

EDUCATION

Much of the measure of any educational institution's success lies with its students and the results of their labor.

Since the beginning of the cold war and our academic competition with the Soviets, the "ivied halls" traditionalists of American Education have erupted in the acute pains of a dislocated complacency. The resulting reevaluation has been both vigorous and painful, not only because of the need for immediate change which has come to light, but because of the prospect of no end to change in the future.

It is notable that such a philosophy of continued reevaluation is not merely 10 years old at Michigan State, but has been present throughout the over 100 years of the University's history. We have ivy at MSU, a good deal of it, but on masonry, not minds.

Michigan State was, in fact, founded to serve a growing society at large, rather than only an educated elite. In the last century the Michigan Legislature recognized the need of such a service. They saw that a progressive people, competent in their work, meant a prosperous state. And even more far-seeing was their realization that a free man, to remain free, must be educated in more than his vocation. The constant change and growth that such a concept implies has been happening in fact at Michigan State since its founding.

At the beginning of the school year, Thomas H. Hamilton, Vice-President for Academic Affairs, put it this way:

"The problems which confront large public universities at this point in history are grave in nature. Basically these stem from the fact that our society in the middle of the Twentieth Century, cannot afford less than quantity education on a quality basis.

"The state university rather largely, although not exclusively, through its academic program must help the modern citizen become free in a triple sense. The citizen in our society cannot become free unless he can realize all of his creative potentialities in his vocation. He cannot become free unless he has the intellectual equipment and acuteness to be able to participate in social, economic and political decisions at the highest level. He cannot become free unless and until he is capable of developing his humanity for the uses of contemplation and leisure. It is the duty of the public university to see that these three aspects of freedom are not shut off because of lack of opportunity.

"This is the responsibility of the University and indicates the dimensions of its function. As this task becomes ever more difficult, so must the University increase both its resolve and capacities to deal successfully with it."

THE EFFORT OFF CAMPUS

The benefits of Michigan State University are by no means restricted to the 20,000 students on campus. Every college in the university participates in the growing Continuing Education Program under the direction of Dr. H. R. Neville. Every year, through this service, instructors travel thousands of miles, reaching cities in every part of Michigan to present subjects ranging from art to retail advertising.

Since 1951-52, when the Continuing Education service was first offered outside of Kellogg Center, the program's enrollment has increased over 700 percent. Nearly 10,000 people in 190 Michigan cities were enrolled in this year's classes.

In addition to formal class work offered off campus, adult conferences numbering over 400 were held at Kellogg Center this year. At the same time countless other educational services were offered through the Labor and Industrial Relations Center, the Traffic Safety Center, the Office of Community College Cooperation and the Institute for Community Development.

The Cooperative Extension service alone has 275 field employees and 125 on-campus subject-matter specialists working through its 83 county offices. This program offers information and services throughout the State in Agriculture, agriculture marketing, home economics and 4-H activities.

In the crucial area of science education on the high-school level, the Junior Engineering Technical Society with national headquarters on campus, has had national influence. In recent years JETS has done much to stimulate interest in science and technology for secondary school students, giving many of them the early start so useful in science education.

The most recent service to be added, and another MSU first, is WMSB, Michigan State's educational TV station now operating on channel 10 with the commercial station, WILX. Broadcasting on a standard frequency, WMSB can be received by any set within its range, thus reaching the entire central Michigan audience.

Few educators are unaware of MSU's recognized leadership in the increasingly important area of international education. Through its overseas efforts, the University has brought American skills and ideals to the very border of the red dominated world. The largest overseas program of any university in South Viet Nam is conducted by MSU, while the University of the Ryukyus on Okinawa is MSU sponsored.

In addition to these projects, the University has been active in Colombia, Brazil and Pakistan, and is considering a program for East Nigeria.

THE CONTINUING CHALLENGE

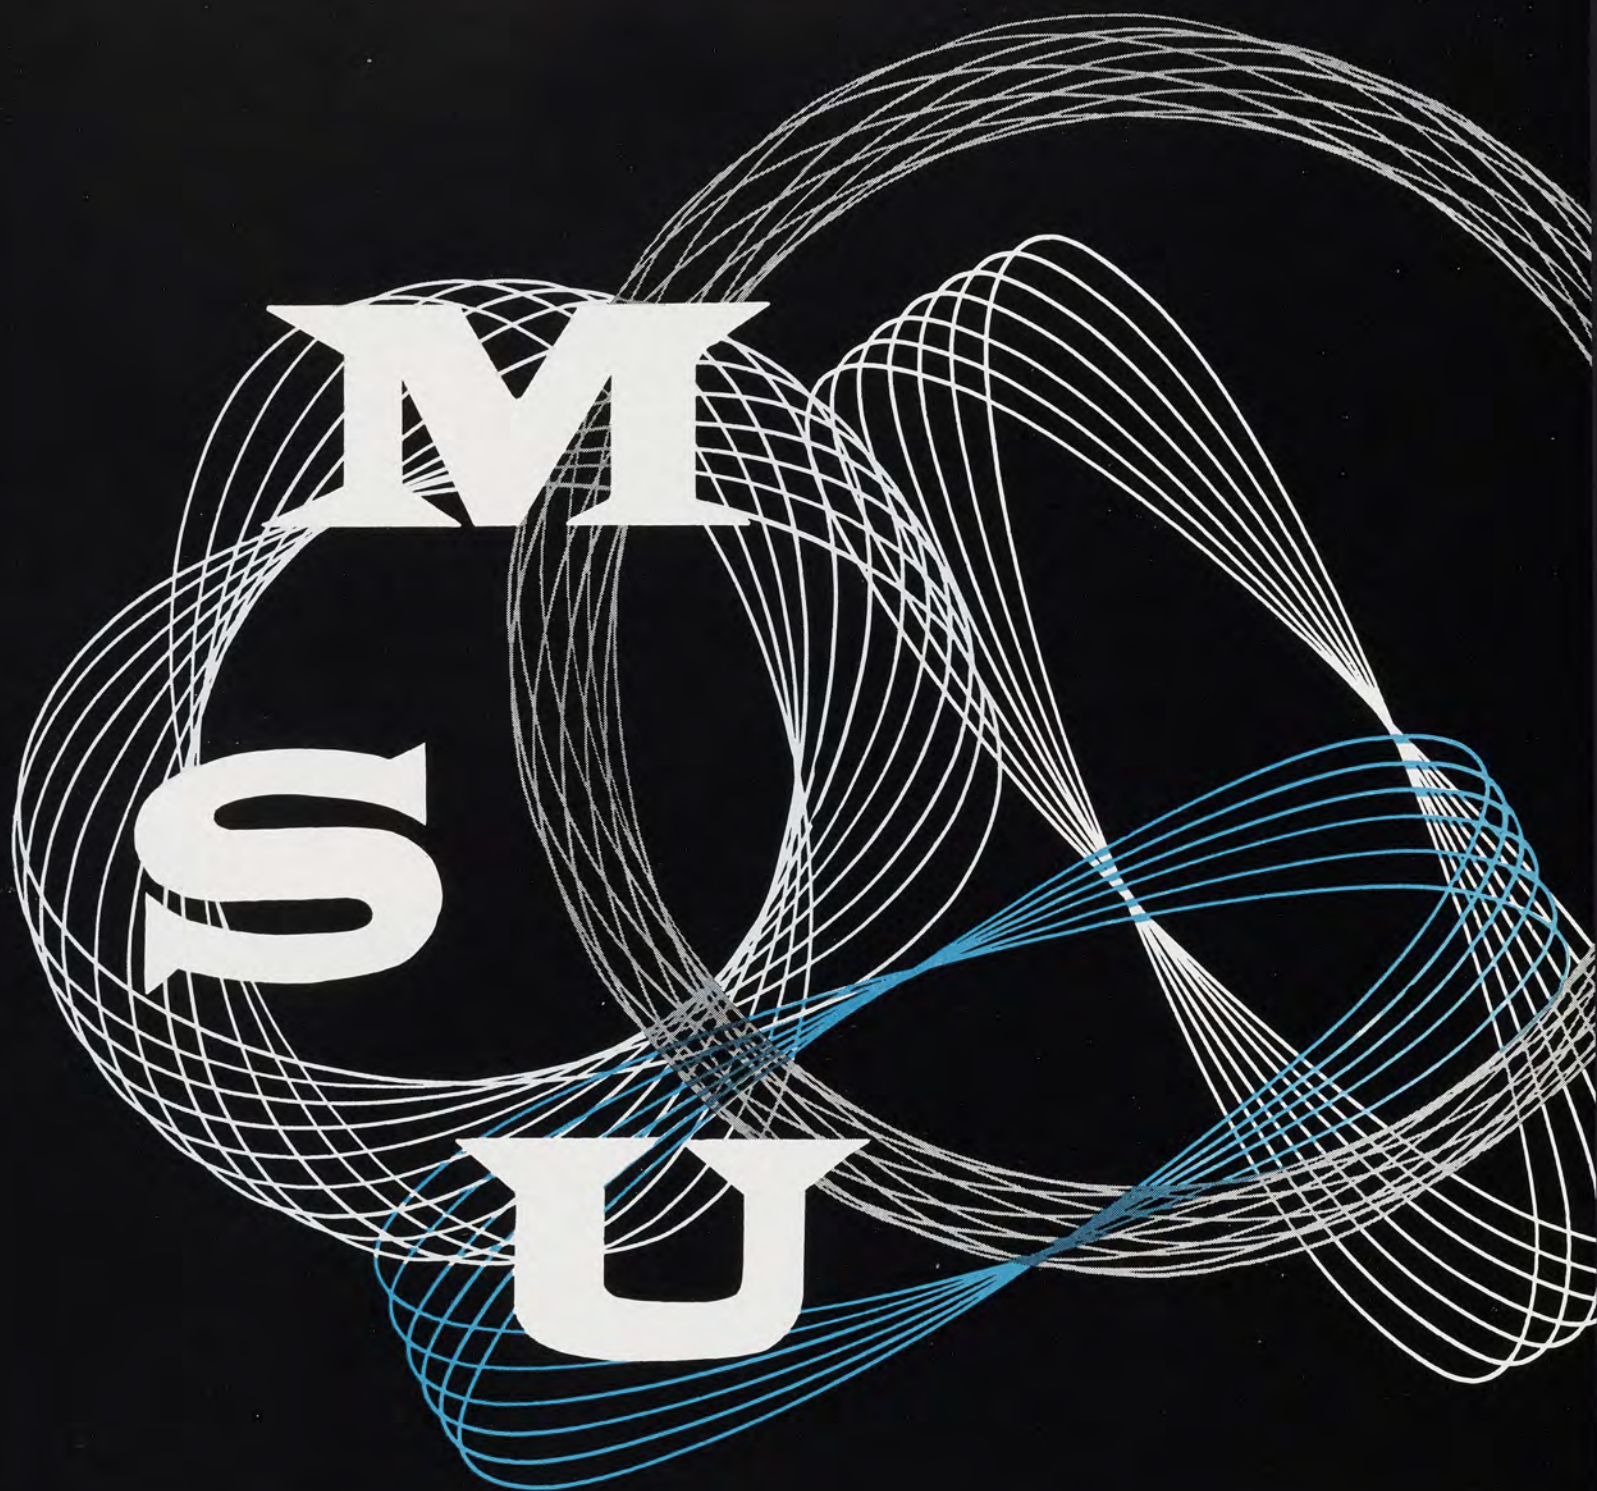

The new program at Oakland, to begin this fall when MSU-O welcomes its first students, has been designed for the future. Throughout the year, distinguished educators and national figures have been gathering at MSU-O for seminars on the planned curricula, contributing invaluable from their thought and experience.

The effectiveness of Michigan State's working philosophy, on campus, throughout the State and the Nation, and overseas, suffers no lack of indorsement. The ideal of "quantity education on a quality basis" has been expressed by MSU in the language of hard effort, and will be perpetuated in a continuing policy of far-sighted planning.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

Without organized channels of communication public opinion becomes little more than babble. This is no less and perhaps even more true of student opinion. An individual thought, be it complaint or merely comment, may appear but soon be forgotten in a dozen isolated conversations on campus, but thoughtfully articulated in a letter to the State News, a presentation at Spartan Round Table, or a resolution before Student Congress, the same thought may find campus-wide support leading to positive action. Even more, these same avenues inform us, perhaps entertain us and frequently crystallize our ideas, thus provoking thought to begin with. In this way, Student Voice is heard at MSU.

STUDENT VOICE

Campus problems and affairs are aired by student leaders and administrators at Spartan Roundtable.

There was a time less than 50 years ago at MSU when the Wolverine contained a picture of nearly every undergraduate student here. Those were the days when a soapbox and a loud voice were all a student needed to be heard by just about everyone on campus. This made one part of the job of State's President, that of finding the students' concerns as they themselves saw them, much easier. Even as recently as 20 years ago a convocation of the student body was a relatively simple thing to arrange.

Today, needless to say, no place on campus smaller than Spartan Stadium could contain all of us, and nothing less than an individual public address system could allow any one of us to be heard. Even so, were such an arrangement possible, it would not surprise us to see President Hannah try it.

Instead, he has instituted the Spartan Round Table.

Twice each term the members of the Round Table are invited by President Hannah to dinner at either the Union or at his home, Cowles House. Attending these meetings are State's top administrators and, by far in the majority, student leaders ranging from dorm presidents to the Editor of the State News. After dinner President Hannah conducts an informal forum at which any questions may be asked, complaints heard and misunderstandings ironed out.

Student Congress meets weekly to confer on campus issues and policies.

Through his group leaders on Spartan Round Table any student on campus can get direct information and answers from the administration, while, at the same time, President Hannah and other university executives can sound out student thought on any university policy or program. For all its value, however, the Round Table is still an informal gathering and not a policy making body. To be successful it must be informal. In many cases direct administrative action is possible from Round Table discussion, but often as not, formal study of a problem is needed before it can be either acted upon or dismissed. Here Student Government steps in.

The concern of the All-University Student Government for the needs not only of the student body, but of the university as a whole, is expressed in two ways: by direct action through the legislation and administration of services such as polio shots and student insurance, or by congressional resolution to encourage action on the part of others.

Communication and thereby support of the activities of Spartan Round Table and Student Government would be severely limited without the third basic element of Student Voice, the student press, which in addition to direct reporting, performs many adjunct services. These range from the State News editorial to the Spartan interview, and serve not only to inform, but to provoke thought on a broad variety of subjects.

Publications also serve as a medium for other segments of Student Voice, which, though perhaps non-civic, are at least as important. Without this book itself, for instance, and the other Wolverines published over the past 50-odd years, there might be no such detailed record of each distinct year at MSU, and without student magazines, much of the writing done both by and for MSU people might not be published.

The organized avenues of Student Voice at MSU are invaluable to the university, not only for what they allow to be said, but for the discipline they exact in the saying. As such, they are instruments of learning comparable to the classroom itself.

Coffee, planning, cigarettes and controversy and a new Spartan is born.

Even with a reduced budget Spartan Spirit Director Wayne Reganall was still able to obtain professional entertainment for pep rallies. The annual Spartan Revue featured the Four Freshmen and was attended by an estimated crowd of 10,000 students.

Intellectual opportunity was given a shot in the arm by Academic Benefits, under the direction of Burtram Green. "Politics 1958" brought both state and national political figures to the campus spring and fall terms. An effort to bring Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov to the campus was blocked by State Department restrictions on Russian Visitors. This action resulted in Student Congress passing a resolution requesting the State Department to lift its ban on the university, on the grounds that the ban acted as a barrier to educational understanding of international issues.

Another executive branch bureau affected by federal government restriction was Campus Chest. The sale of balloons at home football games was cancelled due to government restriction on helium. This restriction not only eliminated a source of revenue, but kept funds invested in 5,000 balloons from being used for other purposes.

The proceeds from Spartacade go to Campus Chest, the only university organization that exists for money raising purposes. This group corresponds to the civic oriented Community Chest.

For those students who were unaware that Michigan State had a student government, fall term should have erased all doubts.

Thanks to the Michigan State News, All-University Student Government gained nation-wide publicity. Headlines such as "Love Rocks the Boat" and cries of "gestapo tactics" appeared in newspapers across the country, as Student Congress tried, through Resolution 12, to find a solution to the canoe rental problem.

In further action, Congress, as an experiment, voted to join the United States National Student Association. It was hoped that many benefits would result from belonging to such a national association. An evaluation of this association was to be made prior to the April deadline of the trial period, when Congress was to vote whether or not to continue membership.

It was unfortunate that Resolution 12, designed to save the canoe rental service, so overshadowed other programs and services of Student Government. Of these programs and services, the student insurance program offered students the greatest direct benefits. At the close of winter term registration 6,100 students had purchased policies and many had collected claims.

The sororities participated in an AUSG sponsored pep rally prior to the Michigan game.

One of the most successful AUSG projects fall term was the Salk polio vaccination program, conducted with the cooperation of Olin Health Center. A total of 3,214 shots were administered, and there might have been many more had the program not been forced to close down due to the time element involved.

Incoming freshmen first saw AUSG in action during the orientation portion of Welcome Week fall term. Closely following this was the election of freshmen class officers and Frosh-Soph Council representatives. Elections on a larger scale occurred spring term when sophomore, junior and senior class officers, the president of AUSG and Student Congress representatives were elected. All of these elections were conducted under student government regulations and supervised by AUSG personnel.

The constitutional legality of these and all other AUSG activities is determined by the All-University Judiciary, which also judges many cases involving student discipline. The work load of this body has been unusually large since its institution in 1956. Relief, however, finally came this year in the form of a constitutional amendment approved by referendum at winter term registration. At that time the student body voted to increase the number of justices, change the requirements for a quorum and establish a set procedure for setting up summer court.

Two additional groups supplement the All-University Judiciary; these are the Student Traffic Appeals Court and the Late Registration Court. Through these tribunals any MSU student has the unusual choice of appealing fine imposed by the university which he feels to be unjust, be it a $2 parking ticket or a $25 late registration fee.

The school year 1958-59 will be remembered by many members of AUSG as the year that the married students took the reigns of student government. Until 1957-58 married housing's participation in Student Government had been practically non-existent, in spite of the fact that the married student population on campus had grown to include over one quarter of the student body. But that year each of the six married housing seats in Congress was filled by an active representative.

By the beginning of spring term 1958 the influence of the six was such that two of them, Lowell Brigham and Lyle Sumerix, were elected Vice-President and Speaker Pro-Tem respectively, with virtually no opposition. That same term in the all-university elections Chuck Walthers, then Vice-President of the Veterans Association, was elected AUSG President, after which he appointed Herb Harman, Congressman and former Elections Commissioner, as his Administrative Vice-President. As a result of these events, the four top offices of the executive and legislative branches were filled by married men.

AUSG Treasurer, Lana Dart, shown here with Spartan Spirit Director, Wayne Reganall, is responsible for the allocation of all student government funds.

In spite of rising production costs and a drop in advertising revenues which did not pick up until post-recession winter term, student publications operated under full steam this year, publishing on a self-sustaining basis over 2,300 pages of newspaper, magazine and yearbook. The countless words, photographs, illustrations and advertisements that made up this $200,000 volume of printed matter were the work of publications' over 200 undergraduate staff members.

All student publications operated as usual under the general supervision of the Board of Publications, the student-faculty committee which selects major editors and business managers for all publications. These board appointees are then responsible for the organization of their staffs and the interpretation and administration of all editorial and business policy.

Operating on a budget of over $130,000 a year, the Michigan State News is the giant of "pub-row," printing over 50 daily papers each term. The Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor and Business Manager are appointed on a term to term basis and select their staffs at the same time. As with all student publications, a two-point average, both all-university and for the previous term, is necessary for any appointment.

The Student Daily celebrated its Golden Anniversary on March 10 this year with a 16 page tabloid supplement heralding 50 years of continuous publication.

STATE NEWS

Dale Franz, State News editor fall term, checks his competitor.

March 10 was blue Tuesday for the State News, literally because of the color on the front and back pages of the anniversary supplement, and figuratively because of the delay in printing which caused the paper to be delivered late and then only to main campus gathering places. Both praise and blame for the job went to the high-speed rotary press newly installed at Campus Press where the State News is printed.

Like the little girl in the nursery rhyme, the new rotary, it seemed, was either very very good or horrid, at least until most of the bugs were ironed out by late winter term. But in spite of a bad beginning, the rotary soon redeemed itself in terms of increased production speed and, for the first time, color in the campus daily.

The ability of the State News staff as a whole was demonstrated as never before, when at the end of fall term the Editor-in-Chief, Business Manager, Editorial Page Editor and newly appointed Managing Editor failed to make the required two-point average and lost their jobs. Within the first few days of winter term capable staffers under the direction of acting editors Bill Callahan and Hardy Christ, in spite of an abrupt reorganization, were turning out the paper as if nothing had happened.

WOLVERINE

Wolverine editor, Bob Slade, and associate editor, Jennings Bird, work on copy and layout.

While the State News receives its entire circulation income of up to $40,000 directly from the university, and can therefore be distributed free on campus, all other student publications must rely on direct sales.

The 500 page Wolverine has sold on campus for $6 since anyone can remember, but each year has called for more and more business skill for the yearbook to stay within its $41,000 budget.

Like the 1958 Wolverine and unlike most years before that, the 1959 Wolverine has no "theme" as such. Instead it has relied on what its editors feel is its only natural continuity thread, Michigan State University itself.

Wolverine editors map out their ideas over a year before their publication is distributed. By fall term, the general layout of the book is complete, staff appointments are made and copy assignments are out.

Pasting every senior's photograph neatly in place on giant boards, indexing all student names, regulating posed group pictures, hunting up unidentified persons in photographs and meeting section deadlines all year long are a few of the headaches for which Wolverine staffers seem often prone, seldom praised.

More than 800 pictures appear in this year's Wolverine, including 47 senior panels each composed of 54 individual senior photos.

Scheduling, shooting and identifying the nearly 300 group photos of living units, honoraries, clubs and governing bodies took the Organizations Editor and her staff an estimated 8 hours a day working over 5 weeks during fall term.

STUDENT MAGAZINES

Aside from the State News once-a-day and the Wolverine once-a-year chronicles of MSU people, places and things, student publications write, edit and distribute three magazines. Largest of these in terms of frequency of publication and sales is the Spartan feature-humor magazine.

The Spartan, an Associated Collegiate Press member for the first time last year, came within 15 points of the 1,400 needed for an All-American rating by the ACP in 1958.

This year the Spartan editors brought out a polished publication offering a streamlined layout and content with a touch of culture along with the usual features and humor. The magazine circulated 2,000 copies 6 times during the year, operating on a $16,000 budget.

A less general magazine than the Spartan, and geared to a science-minded audience is the Spartan Engineer. Most of the Engineer's content, prepared almost exclusively by science or engineering students and faculty, is semi-technical. This year, however, the inclusion of some cheesecake and jokes was inspired by a slight dip in sales for the quarterly last year.

The third publication in the trio of student magazines, the MSU Veterinarian, is in fact a professional journal. Its standing in the field of veterinary medicine is evident in that while it sells only about 400 copies on campus, its off-campus circulation is over 1,600. The 80 page magazine, staffed entirely by veterinarian students and published 3 times a year, draws its contents from all over the United States.

On top of its impressive professional standing, the staff of the Veterinarian has shown unsuspected talent in an area once the exclusive domain of the Spartan. Each year at the publications banquet various publications present in competition a comedy skit. For the last two years the Veterinarian has won.

Each of the three magazines is self-supporting, drawing its income from national and local advertisements and from both on and off-campus sales.

ACTIVITIES AND DANCES SHOWS

If this is the silent generation, then the sound of hammer and saw on float and set, the bark-er's shout and the actor's speech must have been recorded in some noisier era and played back into the alleged silence. Instead, these sounds are with us now, complete with energetic sources and enthusiastic audiences. Organized and disorganized, they dominate the year-round campus scene in a kaleidoscope of happenings, thriving on overflow energies that books and bull sessions, lecture halls and love affairs cannot dissipate. From T. S. Eliot to "Tambika," Standard Oil to Sabrina, the range of interest and activity is such that only a vegetable could remain completely indifferent or totally uninvolved. These are the Special Events at MSU.

SPECIAL EVENTS

Sigma Kappa and Phi Kappa Tau chose "Love Is a Gamble" for their Spartacade booth.

The numerous dances, expositions, carnivals and other festivities that took place on campus throughout the year were attended by thousands. At the same time hundreds of students participated directly in such spectacles as Water Carnival, Activities Carnival and Spartacade.

Activities and Dances

After a one year absence from the campus schedule of special events, when it was replaced by Show Boat, Spartacade was revived this year. A total of 63 displays was presented by groups including fraternities, sororities, dormitories and organizations, all based on the Spartacade theme, "In the Book," and illustrating the printed word from TV show titles to famous quotations.

Presented in late February for two nights, Spartacade charged a general admission of 25 cents, with an additional 10 cents charged at each booth. Proceeds from the event were distributed through Campus Chest to organizations ranging from the American Cancer Society to the Spartan Nursery.

In addition to carnivals and expositions, dances held their own on the campus social calendar. In spite of a shift in student interest toward smaller and more personal gatherings, major dances such as the J-Hop and Coronation Ball were well attended.

ENGINEERING EXPOSITION

A micro-midget auto race is a feature of the Exposition. The competing cars are built by the engineering organizations.

Many student displays and 5 industrial exhibits were featured at the annual Engineering Exposition held in May, 1958.

The electrical engineering department won the Dean's Trophy for the best departmental exhibit, while the American Society of Civil Engineers and the American Society for Agricultural Engineers took the honors for the best group displays.

Awards also went to Albury Dascher and Ted Seble, both from Lansing, for individual exhibits. Ron Hamelink, Holland agricultural engineering student was selected as the outstanding engineering senior. Hamelink later made the papers as the first student to graduate from Michigan State with a perfect 4-point all-university average.

For the third consecutive year the electrical engineering department won the Exposition's midget auto race which climaxed the second day's activities.

INTERNATIONAL FESTIVAL

Spirited national dances highlighted the Festival's three stage shows.

The ethnic costumes and handicrafts of the Ukrainians were well represented in their display.

The beauty of the East was characterized by the performance of these graceful oriental girls.

Jamaicans transplanted the spirit of their island to the Aud.

Scores of brightly decorated booths lined the walls of the Auditorium basement and lobby on May 10, 1958 for the 14th annual International Festival.

The same day, three stage shows filled the Auditorium itself with a multitude of folk-dancers, singers and other presentations ranging from colorful, swirling Ukrainian dancers to the pulsing drums and exotic harem dances of the Arabian Knights.

The booths displayed various items of handicraft and culture from 66 foreign countries represented on campus by exchange students, as well as exhibits by several American organizations.

In keeping with the theme, "The Brotherhood of Man Transcends the Sovereignty of Nations," the gala event offered an opportunity for increased understanding between the many student groups and the general public.

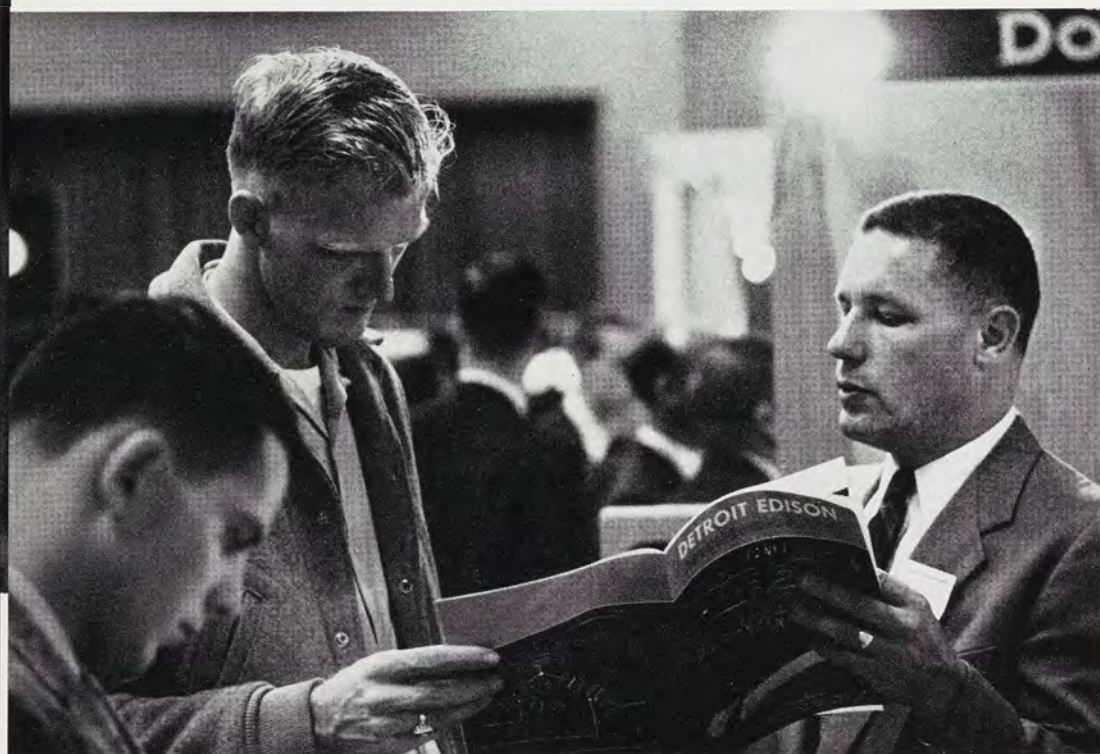

Gov. G. Mennen Williams was on hand to officially open the festival, which is sponsored by the International Club in cooperation with AUSG and the Dean of Students office.

CAREER CARNIVAL

"A World of Opportunity" was the theme and the spirit of the 1958 fall term Career Carnival as those interested in a variety of career possibilities found advice, literature and elaborate displays on the Union's second floor. Ordered confusion opened the carny as students from freshman through senior visited the 70 booths representing leading business, industrial, governmental and educational organizations.

The outstanding event of its kind in the nation, the Carnival was sponsored by the university placement bureau and administered by students under the general chairmanship of senior, Dick Schlaff. The success of the two day presentation can be measured by the nearly 18,000 people who came to view the exhibits and meet the various organization representatives. This attendance was 5,000 greater than that of the 1957 Carnival.

A banquet held in the Centennial Room at Kellogg Center for company representatives, guests and student chairmen climaxed the event. Mr. Durward B. Varner, then Vice-President of Off-Campus Education and later appointed Chancellor of MSU-O, was the major speaker.

By way of a dividend for graduating seniors, contacts made at the Carnival lent additional value to subsequent interviews conducted during the school year at placement.

The Nebbish character of studio card fame was the central theme for the Activities Carnival held the first of fall term. Spartan Stadium concourse housed 71 booths for the annual event in a giant circle of ceaseless activity from 7 until 10 p.m. With enticements ranging from free shows to free Spartan magazines (last year's copies, of course) new students found an almost overwhelming variety of activities and organizations in which to spend their extracurricular time, and many of the old hands on campus found new interests.

Two of the most active presentations at the Carnival were those of the Acrobat Club, who demonstrated their skill on the trampoline, and the MSU promenaders, who invited audience participation in their continuous round of square dances.

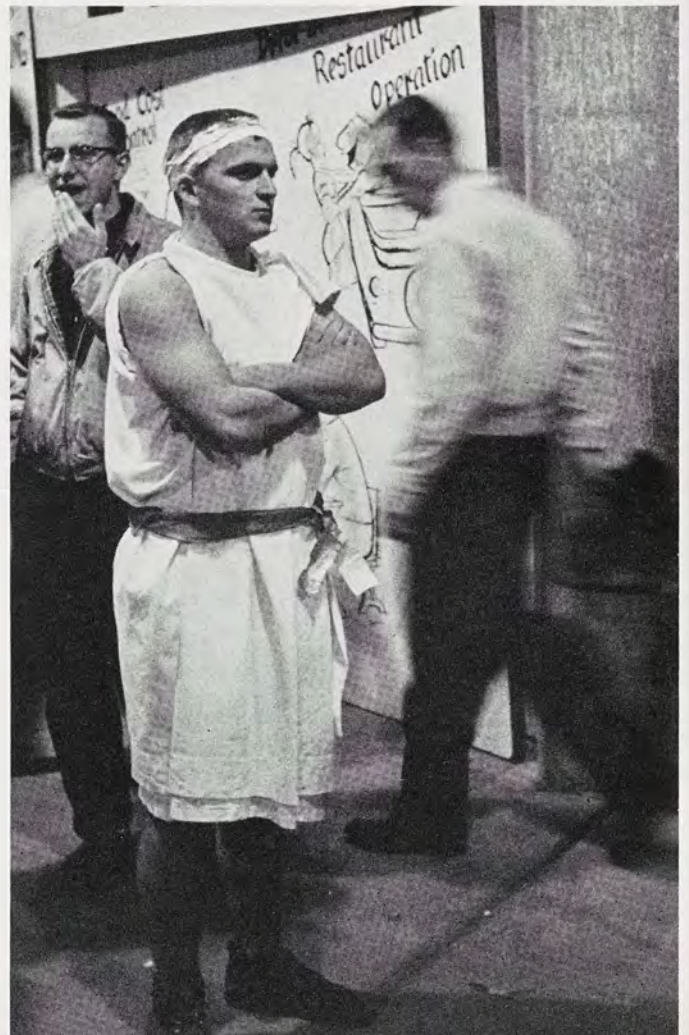

The Carnival, sponsored by the AWS Activities Board and the Men's Council, drew a crowd of nearly 3,000 this year.

WATER CARNIVAL

Sports fans take part in water sports and other sidelights during intermission.

Sabrina the Vamp highlighted the publicity for the annual production and became a famous figure in the weeks preceding Water Carnival.

Alpha Delta Pi and Phi Kappa Sigma placed first in Water Carnival with a serious "Three Coins in a Fountain" float.

The 1958 Water Carnival under the general chairmanship of Peter Zenghi more than met the tradition of this 35 year old MSU spectacular. With the Carnival's theme and title of "Port Au Call" the Red Cedar took on an international atmosphere.

Although weeks were spent in formulating continuity and designing the more than 30 floats, participating campus living units were allowed only 41 hours for actual float construction. This time limit was imposed in order to give every group an even start in the heated competition for the first place trophy.

As was woefully expected, rain dampened the floats, but not the energies of the workers as last minute touch-ups readied the entries for the 3 night extravaganza. Fortunately, in spite of occasional cloudy skies, the show was presented in full all 3 nights including the parade of floats and the intermission water sports competition.

DANCES

Corps sponsors led by honorary Colonel Marge Rohs, escorted by Rhinehardt Schumann, reign over the Coronation Ball.

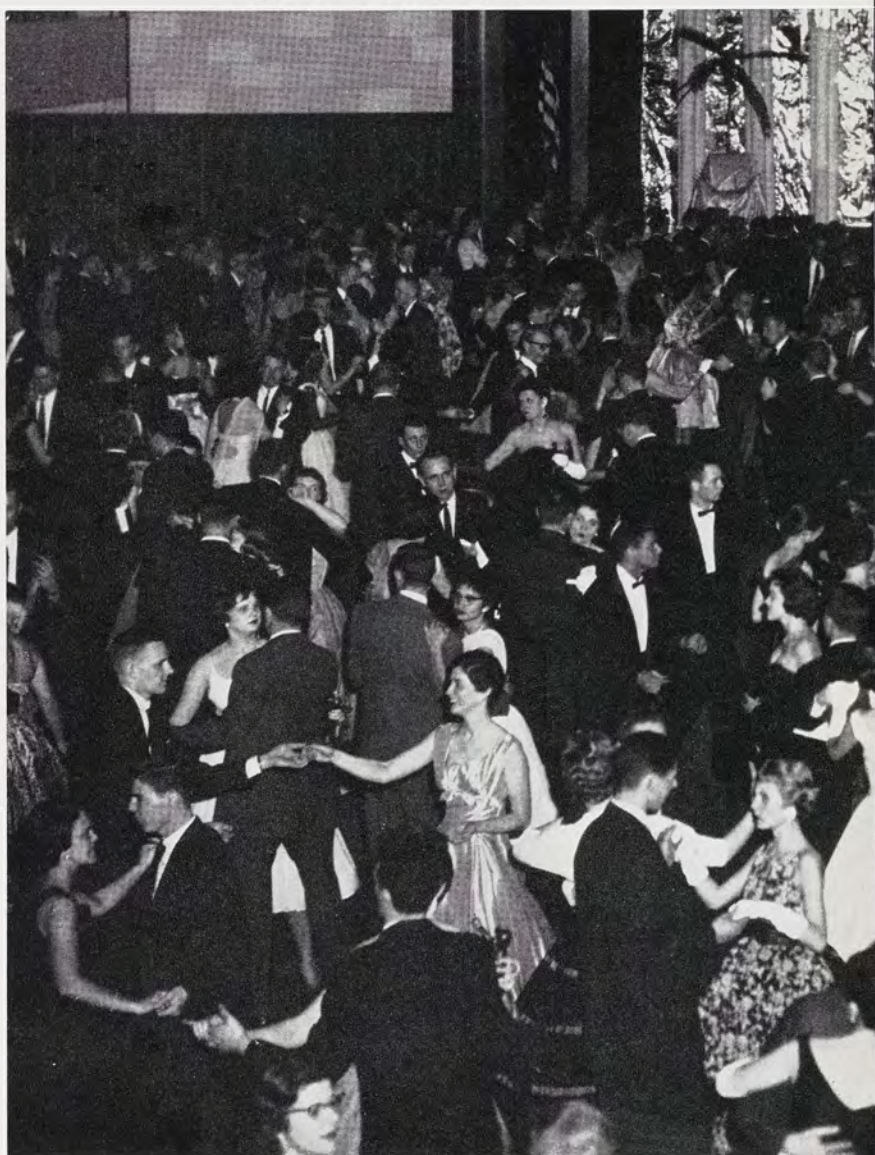

If ephemeral problems such as money and breaking-even assailed some of the campus' bigger dances this year, each was none the less a social success complete with name bands, queens and enthusiastic attendance. At the same time the smaller, but equally popular dorm and Union Board dances thrived.

"Tambika", theme of the 1959 J-Hop, brought the bands of Tommy Dorsey and Sauter-Finnegan to campus for the two-night semi-formal affair. Ella Fitzgerald entertained on both evenings, and Dianne Tillotson, selected Miss MSU by the members of Blue Key, was crowned by last year's queen, Denny Donmoyer.

Retiring Queen Denny Donmoyer crowns the new Miss MSU, Diane Tillotson, at the J-Hop.

The perennial crowded dance floor never seems to deter J-Hop couples.

Ralph Marterie's orchestra and the naming of Army and Air Force honorary sponsors were dual highlights at the fall term Coronation Ball. The usually long intermission of the affair was shortened this year by restricting activities to the presentation of the coed sponsors and a performance of the Spartan Guard Drill Team.

The Foresters' Shindig complete with Western attire, beards and a shaving contest, and a bar serving "kickapoo joy juice" (strongly reminiscent of good old apple cider), was the top informal affair of winter term, while filling in the spare weekends were the many Greek and club term parties.

President Hannah does the honors for Queen Pat Proffitt at the Cosmopolitan Ball.

IFC and Pan Hel members decorate for their "Heaven in Hades" dance.

Though many clubs and organizations on campus hold small parties and dances for the members and their guests, it is not often that an individual group attempts to present an all-university affair. Two notable exceptions to this are the MSU Hotel Association and the MSU Veterans Association, both of which put on highly successful campus-wide dances.

The first of these was the Hotel Association's New York Hotel Holiday dinner dance held fall term at Kellogg. The second was the Vets' Winterland Whirl held winter term, also at Kellogg.

The Greeks had their big night in November when the IFC-Pan Hel dance was launched to the music of Bob Eberhardt at the Dells. The Spinsters, however, had to wait until April for their annual Spin, this year titled "Me and My Shadow."

Other notable dances included the Senior Ball, the Harvest Ball and the Cosmopolitan Ball, held spring, fall, and winter terms respectively.

Hotel Association members did as the New Yorkers do at "Hotel Holiday", their fall term dinner-dance.

Homecoming celebrations were launched this year with a rousing cheer as the IFC torch runners ran from the Capitol in Lansing to Jenison Field House to burn the Wisconsin Badgers in effigy. The rally at Jenison featured the DeJohn sisters (in love with Biggie), Duffy and the team, the Men's Glee Club and the Band, and Homecoming Queen Pat Borgman with her court.

On the day of the game homecoming displays seemed to occupy every plot of level ground in East Lansing, each one more ingenious and amusing than the last. In the day's judging the winners included Bailey and Butterfield, Gilchrist, Mason and Phillips among the dorms and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Alpha Gamma Rho and Delta Sigma Phi, Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Phi and Kappa Alpha Theta among the Greeks. Sigma Nu claimed the extra-legal SAECA award for the most humorous display.

After the game in which MSU was downed by the Badgers 9-7 in one of the hardest fights of the season, returning alumni poured onto the field to meet their fellow classmates.

The activities of this biggest of fall term weekends were climaxed by the Homecoming Dance held Saturday night at the aud.

Determination and a great deal of hard work go into construction of homecoming displays.

A pause—a check—then "Murder in the Cathedral".

From Mr. Roberts to Mr. Magoo, one subject seldom far from the State News front page this year was the entertainment offered on campus. Every day, it seemed, brought news of some new production in competition (usually successful) for student time, but rarely student money.

Shows

Movies and Television notwithstanding, the indefinable magic of live performances regularly drew countless students, faculty and campus visitors to MSU stages. All sorts and sizes of productions from one act plays and operas to full length dramas and musicals were presented by student casts, while faculty members advised, directed and even, like the faculty string quartet, performed themselves.

For the Lecture-Concert series professional talent from world-wide sources once again dominated the auditorium stage. Frequently the Union concourse resembled Jenison Field House before the big game, so crowded were the ticket lines for L-C shows.

As Michigan State's WMSB joined with WILX-TV on channel 10 in the nation's first educational and commercial TV partnership, the vastest medium of them all joined the rest on campus. This, along with the others, from ice show to foreign film, made the scope of MSU show business in 1959 truly all-inclusive.

Dr. Chenoweth (right), Joyce Oakes and Don Myers catch an unusual fog-shrouded view of the Eiffel Tower.

Probably the longest run in MSU theatrical history began last October with a two-hop flight from Lansing to Frankfurt, Germany. The production was "The Tender Trap," and the principals were 14 Michigan State students under Dr. Stuart Chenoweth, associate professor of speech.

With only a weekend delay in Frankfurt the group began a series of 43 performances, 35 in Germany and 8 in France, before a total audience of over 10,000 servicemen.

The reason for the nine weeks' tour goes back to 1952 when such overseas visits by university theatre groups were established to promote international good will and to help build morale on U.S. defense bases. This year MSU was one of only 8 universities selected to participate.

According to Dr. Chenoweth the tour, sponsored jointly by the U.S.O., the Defense Department, the American Educational Theatre Association and MSU's Continuing Education Services, Cap and Gown series, was an unqualified success.

The players on the tour, all speech majors, were: Allan C. Aiken, Margaret A. Barton, Linda L. Kohlhof, Lawrence W. Lindberg, Thomasia Manikas, Lynda H. Myles, Joyce M. Oakes, Charles W. Raison, Amy L. Salisbury, Ronald L. Weaver and Michael R. Welch.

Also on the tour were: Paul Earl, last year's Wolverine photo editor, as photographer; Don Myers, publicity staff assistant; and Jim Voorheis, pianist.

Critics rated "Death of a Salesman" as one of the best productions ever presented on the MSU stage.

The return of the sailors from shore leave in "Mister Roberts" drew peals of laughter from the receptive audiences.

Rehearsals and more rehearsals are the only key to a successful performance.

The cast of "Pajama Game" released a sensational musical production to a packed house each night.

The State News review of the MSU players' fall term production, Mr. Roberts, might to a casual reader appear to be a singularly rare tribute, so total was its praise. On campus, however, such superlatives over student productions are not uncommon, or undeserved.

The dramatic skill of the players becomes even more evident in view of the variety of productions undertaken, ranging from Pajama Game to Murder in the Cathedral, and including such demanding rolls as those in Death of a Salesman.

Nor are theatrical activities limited on campus to standard length plays and musicals. The one act productions of studio theatre, including plays by student authors, remained popular throughout the year, while two one act operas were brought to the Music Auditorium by the Opera Workshop fall term. In addition, children's theatre and dramatic readings lent to an atmosphere of nothing too big or too small to be tried.

And as always, the largest number of participants worked behind the scenes, investing their efforts of direction and set design, scene changing and make-up, for the returns of a successful production. They were seldom disappointed.

The make-up room is a den of activity before the big production.

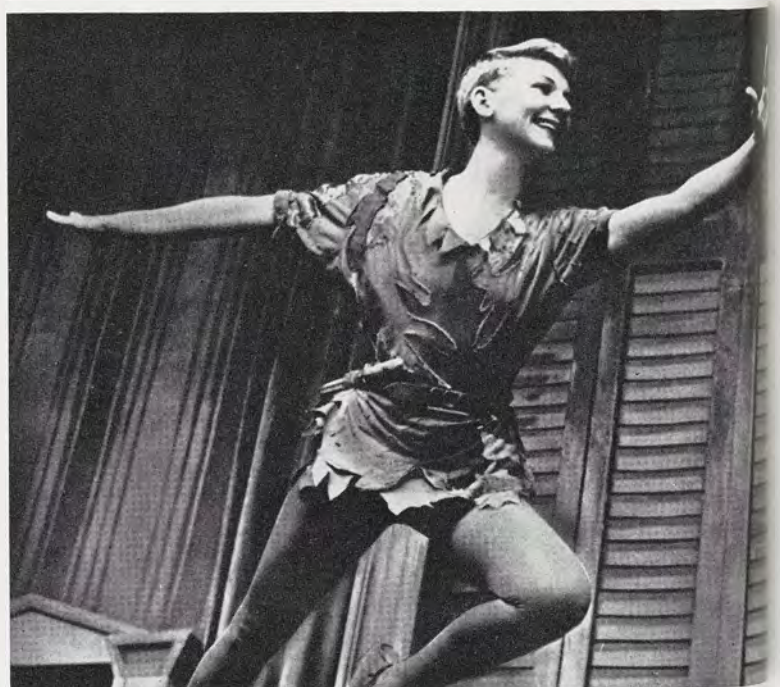

The New York City Ballet performs a scene from "The Cage". This is but one of the many fine programs of the Lecture-Concert series.

One of the advantages often cited for living near a large metropolitan area is the availability of good theatre. MSU's Lecture-Concert series provides just this service, but without cab fares or parking problems, and for students, almost entirely without charge. In fact, this year such outstanding presentations as the New York City Opera, the Canadian Stratford Players and the Robert Shaw Chorale cost students no more than a ticket from their activity books, while such "specials" as Mary Martin's show were offered at a discount, costing less than half of Broadway prices. As in the past, this was made possible by the large non-student, paying segment of the audience drawn to the campus from all over central Michigan by the reputations of the performers.

In addition to the larger productions, the foreign film and World Travel series enjoyed another successful season before enthusiastic student, faculty and visitor audiences.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION VARSITY COMPETITION INTRAMURALS

In recent years there has been nation-wide concern over the physical condition of America's young people. This has resulted in the increased encouragement of physical activities at institutions from the grammar school to the university. MSU has, needless to say, been a leader in encouraging such programs, with our own athletic organization becoming more and more of a model in this area. Michigan State's varsity program is among the world's best. There is little question of this. But the test of an athletic plan in an institution the size of MSU lies not in its varsity, which can accommodate only a few, but in its intramural and physical education machinery, which services the many. The over 3000 undergraduate male students here who participate each year in both IM football and basketball competition, not to mention the thousands more, both men and women, who utilize the many other athletic facilities available, testify to the effective part played by Athletics at MSU.

ATHLETICS

Clarence "Biggie" Munn, director of athletics.

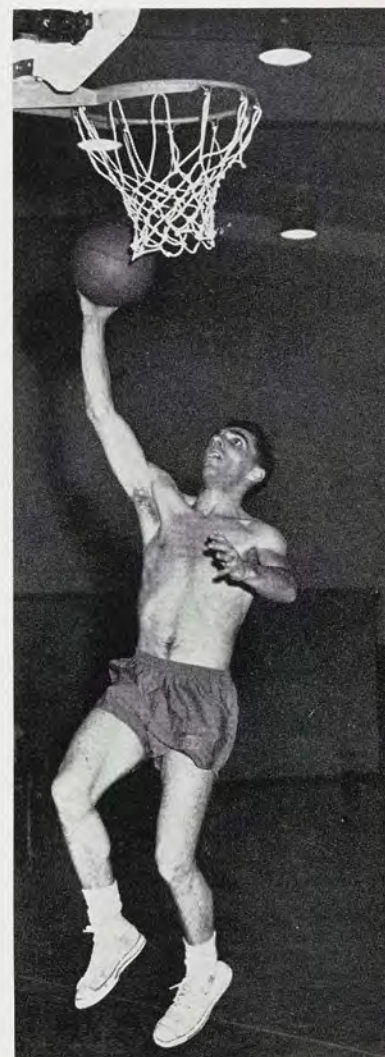

With a budget of over one million dollars, athletics from IM to varsity and including MSU's vast physical education plant, were strictly big business during the school year. As such, the program increased its inventory of health and physical conditioning under Director Biggie Munn, showing an incalculable profit in these terms.

The Athletic Program

Some surprising performances were turned in by Michigan State's varsity teams during the year. Perhaps the biggest surprise of all was the fall of Spartan gridders to the basement of the Big 10 for the first time in history. On the other hand, the varsity hockey team reversed its mediocre records of the past by winning Big 10 and invitational championships and advancing to the finals of the NCAA championships, where it lost in overtime.

Other varsity sports continued excellent performances, even out-doing 1958 records. The soccer team, never beaten in three years of varsity competition, for the first time won all of its games. In the two previous seasons, the booters had been tied at least once. The team was ranked second in the nation behind Drexel (Pa.). The basketball team broke all MSU scoring records with its second Big 10 championship in three years. The cross country team won the "triple crown," Big 10, IC4A and NCAA championships, and Forddy Kennedy was the first Spartan harrier ever to win the individual NCAA championship. Michigan State swimmers finished second in the NCAA meet. In the spring of 1958, the varsity baseball team came within an eyelash of winning the Big 10 title, but had to settle for second place.

Thus, Michigan State won three official Big 10 titles and an unofficial one in soccer. Spartans took one NCAA team championship and three second-place rankings in the nation.

Tetherball is played in a group games physical education class.

Varsity boxing was dropped in 1958, but Michigan State sent two contestants to the NCAA meet at the end of winter term, 1959. Bob Epperson was defeated in the semi-finals, but John Horne, one of the classiest 178-pounders ever to fight at MSU, successfully defended the championship he won at that weight in 1958. The Spartans finished seventh in the meet, despite the fact that they had not competed during the regular season.

Perhaps the most striking athletic events of the 1958-59 year was the opening of two new buildings, the Men's Intramural Building and the Women's Intramural Building.

They are among the most modern athletic buildings in the nation. There are two indoor pools in the Women's Building, one of the most modern indoor pools ever built in the Men's Building, and a beautiful outdoor swimming pool with high-diving boards adjacent to the Men's IM Building. Including the pool in Jenison Gymnasium, there are now five pools on the MSU campus.

The Men's Intramural Building is an impressive and useful addition to an already gigantic athletic plant. Courts for handball, squash, basketball, badminton, tennis and volleyball are available, as well as individual rooms for archery, weightlifting and a special fitness room. Spacious and modern locker rooms are centrally-located. The varsity baseball and golf teams practice during the winter months in the building's big dirt-floored arena, varsity fencing and wrestling meets take place in one of the many gymnasiums, and the varsity swimming team uses the new indoor pool, which was the scene of the Big 10 championships in 1959. Some 15 different activities can occur simultaneously, involving about 600 students per hour.

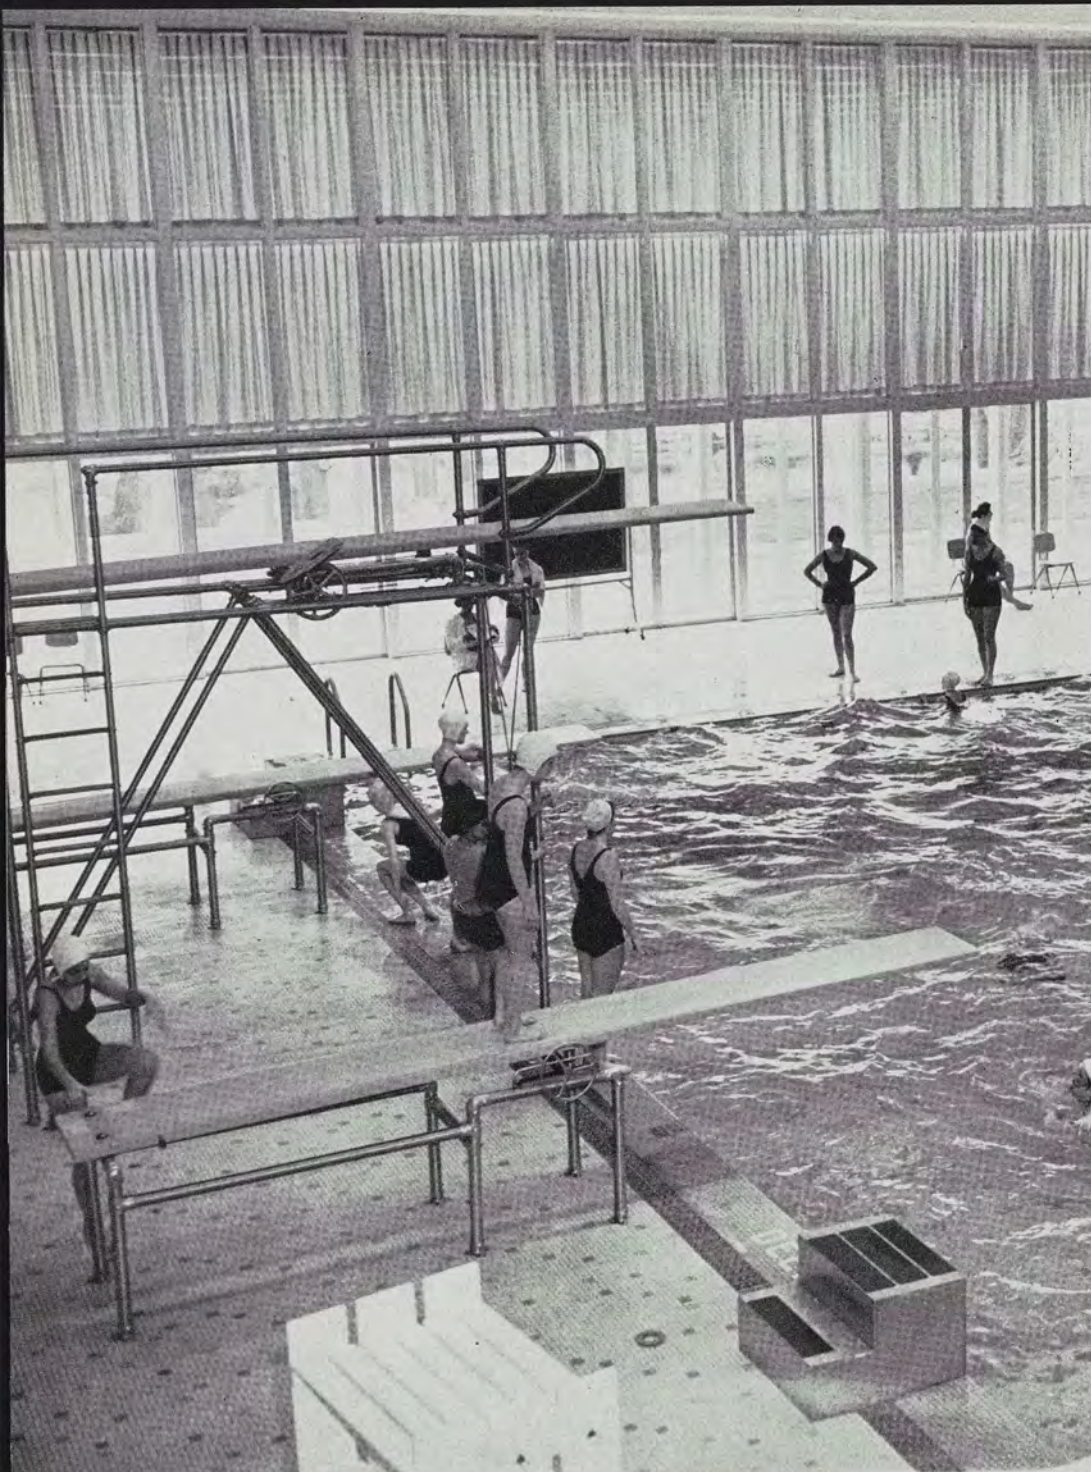

In the new Women's Intramural Building, three gymnasiums contain room for basketball, badminton, volleyball and tennis. An activity room for gymnastics and dancing is also available. Fifteen different activities can be conducted simultaneously, involving 500 students.

Thus, an even larger IM program is available to students at MSU, which already had one of the largest, and most varied, intramural programs in the nation.

The sports available each year include such team activities as touch football, basketball, softball, ice hockey, bowling, tennis, golf, fencing and swimming for men, and basketball, softball, field hockey, swimming and tennis for women. Individual IM sports include boxing, swimming, fencing, gymnastics, wrestling and other sports. The Turkey Trot, an intramural sport similar to cross country, has live turkeys as prizes for the winners and a goose egg for the man who finishes last. Don Weigandt of Alpha Tau Omega won the 1958 Turkey Trot.

For the student interested in individual recreation, the Michigan State campus offers a wide variety of activities for both men and women each term.

The range extends from canoeing up the winding Red Cedar River in the spring and fall to bowling or playing billiards in the Union, which is open the year-around.

An indoor pool in the new Women's Intramural Building is used for classes, women's swimming meets and swimming shows.

Indoor skating on the university's ice rink is popular during fall and winter term. Rifle and pistol shooting is offered all three terms and in the spring and fall archery ranges are provided.

Golfing on MSU's new Forest Akers 18-hole course and tennis on more than 40 courts draws large participation spring term.

Physical education courses are required of every student during his first two years, and the extensive program includes adapted sports classes for physically handicapped students.

Behind the actual varsity and intramural participation, there is a great network of activity. Athletic Director Biggie Munn heads the athletic department, which includes the coaching staff. The Athletic Council handles athletic scholarships and determines policy at the annual Big 10 meeting, among other things. The Council's chairman, Dr. Harold Tukey, is faculty representative to the Big 10. Lyndon Frimodig handles tickets and the business department and Fred Stabley handles publicity and press facilities.

Students gather early outside Jenison Fieldhouse to assure good seats for the home football games. A few students even spend the night on the steps waiting.

BAND

Fall and football games would not be complete without the half-time performances of the MSU Marching Band.

The 135-piece band had an active season in 1958, performing at all home football contests and making two out-of-state trips.

The band's weekly show, taking but a brief 10-12 minutes of the half-time intermission, is the result of detailed planning and about seven hours per week of practice by the whole band.

1958 saw several innovations in band productions. Novel dance routines drew applause from Saturday afternoon crowds. The band even joined the hula hoop craze for one show. An explosion, smoke and sound effects added realism when the band simulated "Sputnik" for home fans.

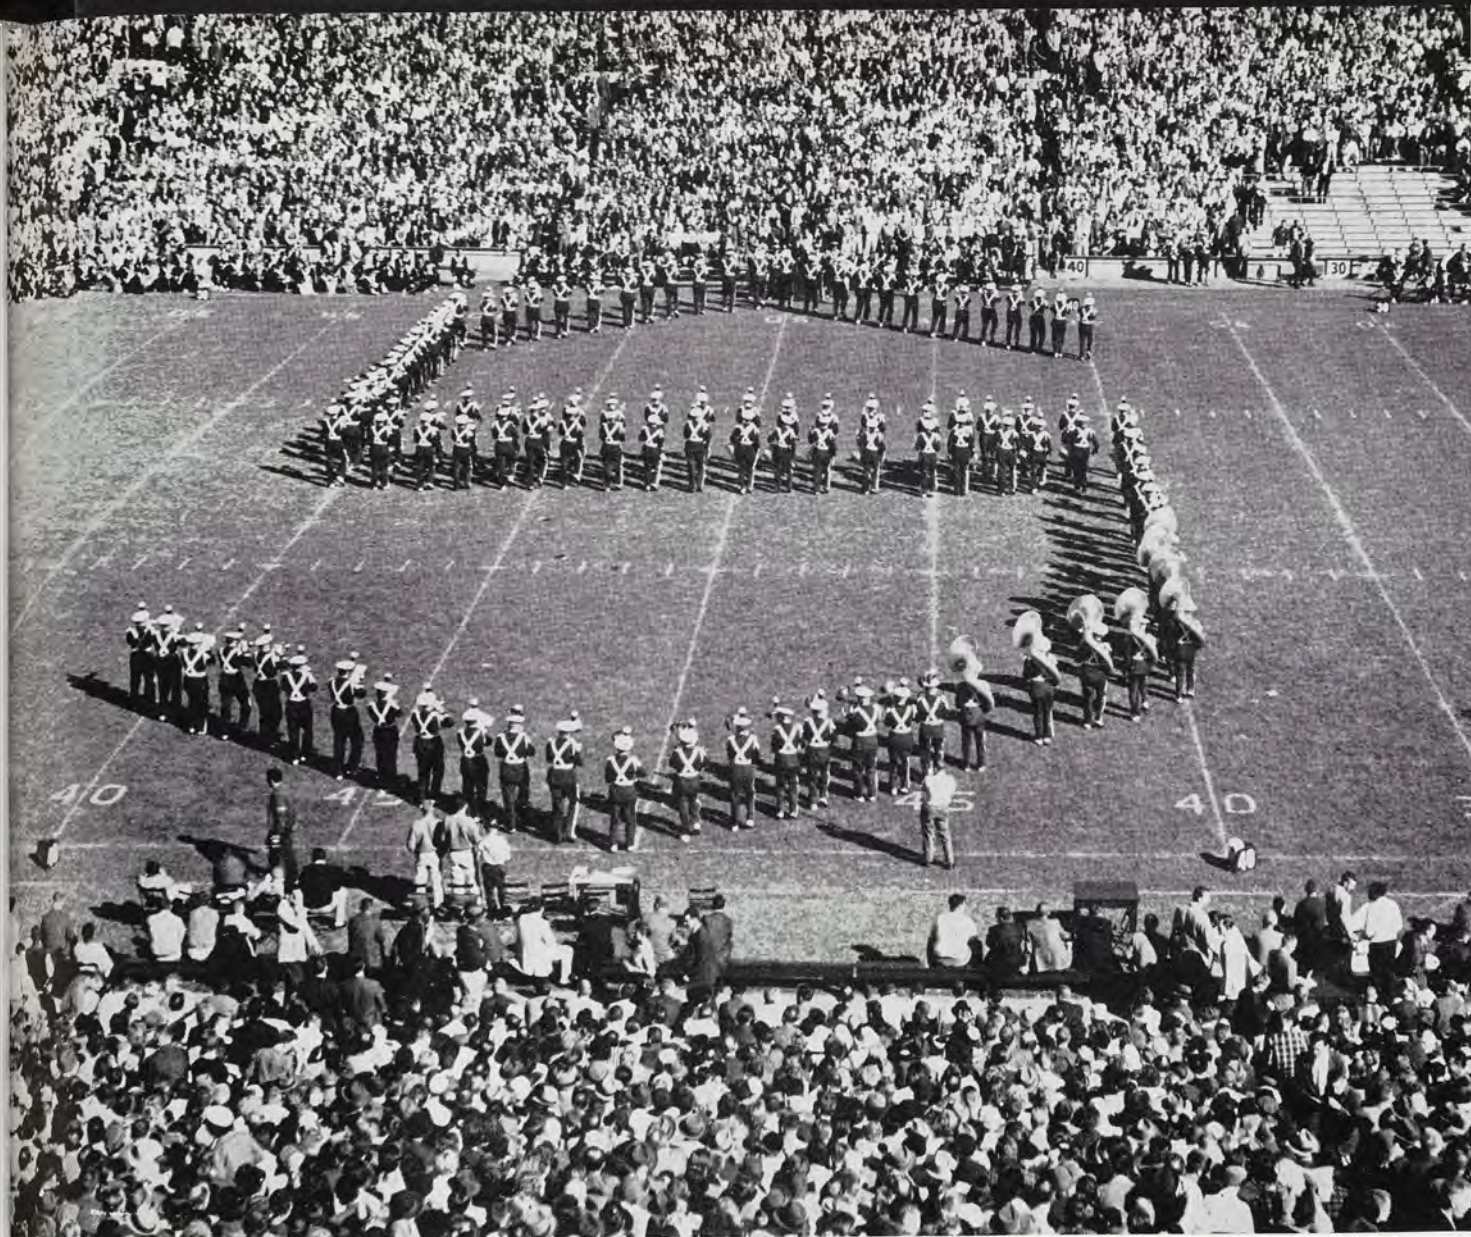

The all-male group was trimmed to 95 members for the winter and spring concert band season. Touring Michigan during spring vacation, the band gave eight concerts. One winter and two spring concerts were presented.

Baton twirler Bill Stutler leads the band in half-time demonstrations.

Performing for military parades, senior swingout and commencement rounded out the year's band activities.

The Activities Band, a separate, mixed group, played for pep rallies and some athletic and other events. After student agitation and action by AUSG, the band was allowed to play the "Star Spangled Banner" at home basketball games for the first time since shortly after World War II. The strength of the bleachers for a standing crowd had been doubted. After it was pointed out that fans stood en masse for the MSU Fight Song, the athletic department and the department of public safety okayed the anthem's playing.

The traditional "S" is just one of many formations performed at all home games and most road games.

Michigan band performers take a breather as the Spartans strut their stuff during half-time of the annual classic this year at East Lansing.

FOOTBALL

Speedy halfback Art Johnson (30) threads his way through Pittsburgh defenders during one of State's three victories. Johnson, a star his junior year, was hampered by injuries in 1958.

"What happened to your football team this year?"

That was the common question asked of Michigan State students when they returned home for the holidays.

It was a logical question. The Spartan had 8-1, 7-2, and 8-1 season records in the three years prior to 1958. They had won a Rose Bowl game and been ranked among the nation's powers.

But in 1958 they won just three games, lost every Big 10 contest and finished in the conference cellar for the first time. All this after they had been picked in pre-season forecasts to finish among the top five in the country.

Insiders knew 1958 would be a year of rebuilding. But injuries to key men kept a potentially good team from ever getting off the ground in the Big 10 race.

Coach Duffy Daugherty was hanged in effigy twice in one night, thus joining the "I Got My Neck Stretched Club" which included Michigan's retiring Bennie Oosterbann and Ohio State's Woody Hayes. But in Duffy's case it was later learned that students had not participated in the pranks. Lansing "fans," who had never attended MSU, carried out the lynchings.

While the varsity gridders were experiencing their worst season since 1917, the Intramural Department's vast touch football program reached new heights in popularity. A total of 154 teams—and more than 2,000 students—took part in the three IM leagues: dormitory, fraternity and independent.

The brightest spot for the varsity gridders was the excellent performance of end Sammy Williams, a defensive standout in every game. Williams, local sports writers feared, would never make All-American because he played for a losing team and because 1958 was a year of great flankers. Yet he made three prominent teams, enough to win All-American honors on the consensus of all polls.

It is indicative of the Big 10's power that the Spartans won every non-conference game. Among their victims were California, good enough to represent the Pacific Coast Conference in the Rose Bowl against Iowa, and Pittsburgh, which later tied Army for the only mar against the Cadets' No. 2-ranked powerhouse.

State was still without a defeat after its first three games. But the pre-season loss of Blanche Martin, disabled in the spring Old-Timers' game, combined with injuries to speedy Art Johnson and a host of linemen, were too much for the team to withstand through the rigorous conference schedule.

Al Luplow, promising sophomore halfback, scored the first touchdown of the season in his first varsity play. It gave State a 6-0 lead over the California Golden Bears in the season opener at Spartan Stadium.

Johnson added another on an eight-yard sweep in the second quarter. Then the former Flint Northern great added a historic conversion. This was the first season that the two-point conversion rule was in effect, and Johnson thus scored the first two-point PAT in MSU history. It gave the Spartans a 14-0 lead.

In the second quarter Greg Montgomery passed to Fred

Arbanas for 37 yards and another TD. Halfback Dean Look, versatile junior halfback who hopes to make a career of major league baseball, combined with Montgomery for a spectacular third-quarter touchdown. Look, on a fake punt, passed to Montgomery on a 57-yard scoring play. In the fourth quarter, Look added the final touchdown on an eight-yard run.

The second game of the season was the long-awaited clash with arch-rival Michigan. A record crowd of 76,434 packed the recently-enlarged Spartan Stadium as the U of M entered Spartan territory for only the ninth time in the 51-game series.

Gamma Phi Beta won the annual Powder Puff Bowl over Delta Gamma, 13-6. The game is an annual event for the two sororities. Here, the Gamma Phi's (in white) circle right end.

What followed was one of the most exciting games of the year. The first period was scoreless, but the Wolverines broke the ice with a stunning turn of events early in the second period.

Quarterback Mike Panitch attempted to lateral the ball as he was being tackled on his own 45-yard line. Wolverine end Gary Prahst broke through the line, intercepted the lateral, and raced untouched for a TD.

The Spartans marched back to their own 46, but the Wolverines recovered a fumble and were on their way again. Brad Myers cracked over from the one after a 12-play drive.

Michigan led at halftime, 12-0.

The Spartans broke their long losing streak with a victory over Kansas State in the season finale at Spartan Stadium.

An aerial view of the recently-improved Spartan Stadium, which now holds 76,000 spectators. In this picture, taken during the Michigan game, the stadium is completely filled.

Look's electrifying 92-yard punt return in the third quarter put the Spartans back in the game. Look took the ball on the eight, ran down the right sidelines and scooted back to the center of the field on his scoring race. John Matsos and Panitch threw key blocks.

Panitch brilliantly engineered a sustained 97-yard, 17-play scoring drive in the last quarter to deadlock the game. Look and Johnson alternated as ball-carriers as State powered its way downfield. Fullback Bob Bercich scored from the one.

Neither team was able to connect for the important conversion. The game ended deadlocked, 12-12, and Daugherty gave the game ball to Michigan coach Bennie Oosterbaan.

The next foe, Pittsburgh, was a highly-regarded Eastern power. But MSU gridders struck fast. Williams recovered a Panther fumble on the first play from scrimmage, and six plays later Panitch sneaked over for the touchdown. Panitch passed to Johnson for two points.

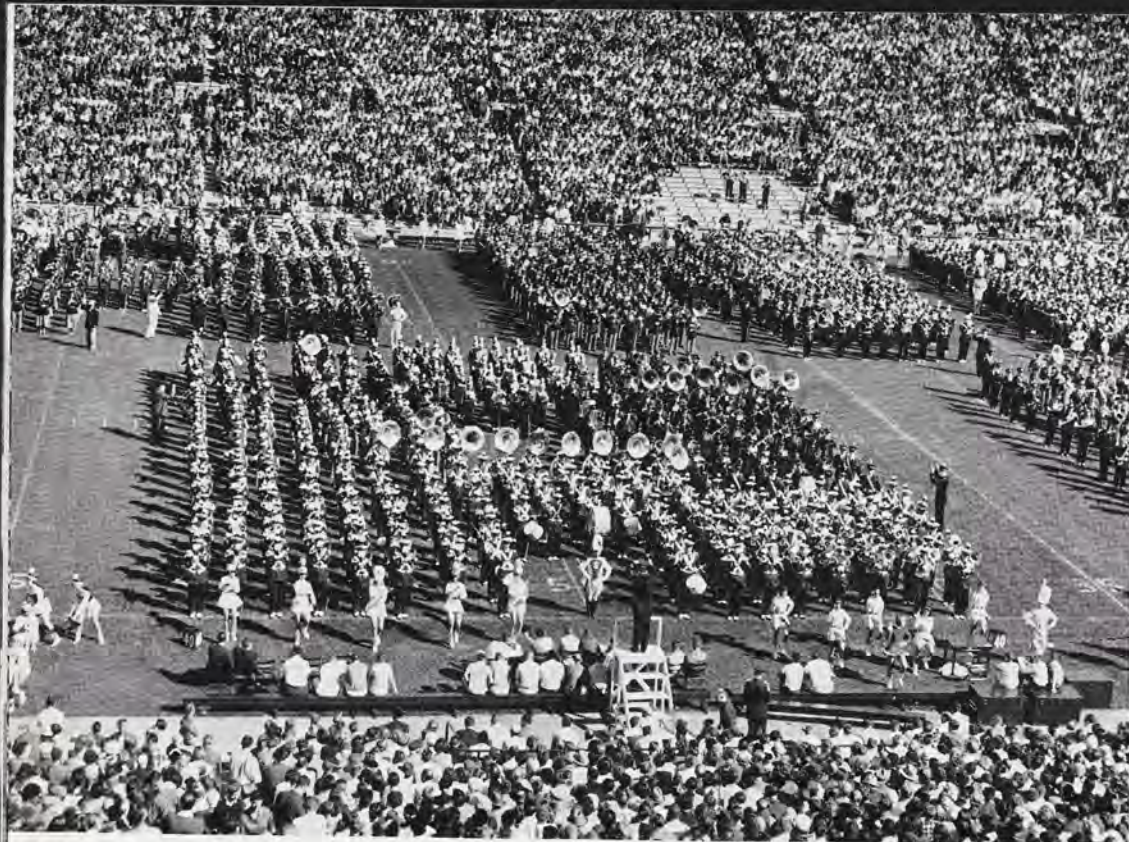

Look tallied on a plunge on the first play of the second period and Johnson ran for two more points. Pitt came back to score eight points early in the fourth quarter, after a scoreless third period. But reserve quarterback Larry Bielat put the Spartans out of reach when he passed for five yards to Dick Barker in the end zone. MSU won, 22-6.

The Spartan Stadium pressbox is filled to capacity during each of the home games.

High school bands from throughout the state participate in Band Day at Spartan Stadium. The MSU Marching Band is centered in this mass formation.

Then Michigan State's football fortunes blackened. A five-game losing streak dropped the Spartans deep in the Big 10 cellar and a series of surprising events shook the campus.

First Duffy was hanged in effigy, which made good copy for the nation's newspapers. Then MSU president John A. Hannah said he thought it was good for every student to experience a losing season. "It puts football into its proper perspective," Dr. Hannah said.

This seemingly innocent statement was ridiculed by a Detroit newspaper columnist. Then another Detroit paper headlined a lead front page article "Rebellion by MSU Gridders Revealed." The article was a highly inaccurate account of a meeting between Daugherty and the players called by Capt. Sam Williams to discuss the team's failings.

A rift between Daugherty and Athletic Director Biggie Munn was disclosed. But criticism united the student body behind their coach. Letters praising Duffy filled the editorial page of the State News for weeks.

Biggie and Duffy patched up their differences and became closer than they had been in several years. The critics performed the positive step of uniting students and athletic officials closer than perhaps they had ever been.

The losing streak began against Purdue at Lafayette. Thus the Boilermakers maintained their famous jinx which snapped a 28-game winning streak in 1953 and cost State an undefeated season in 1957.

Arch Matsos (63), MSU guard, nearly intercepts a pass during Pitt game.

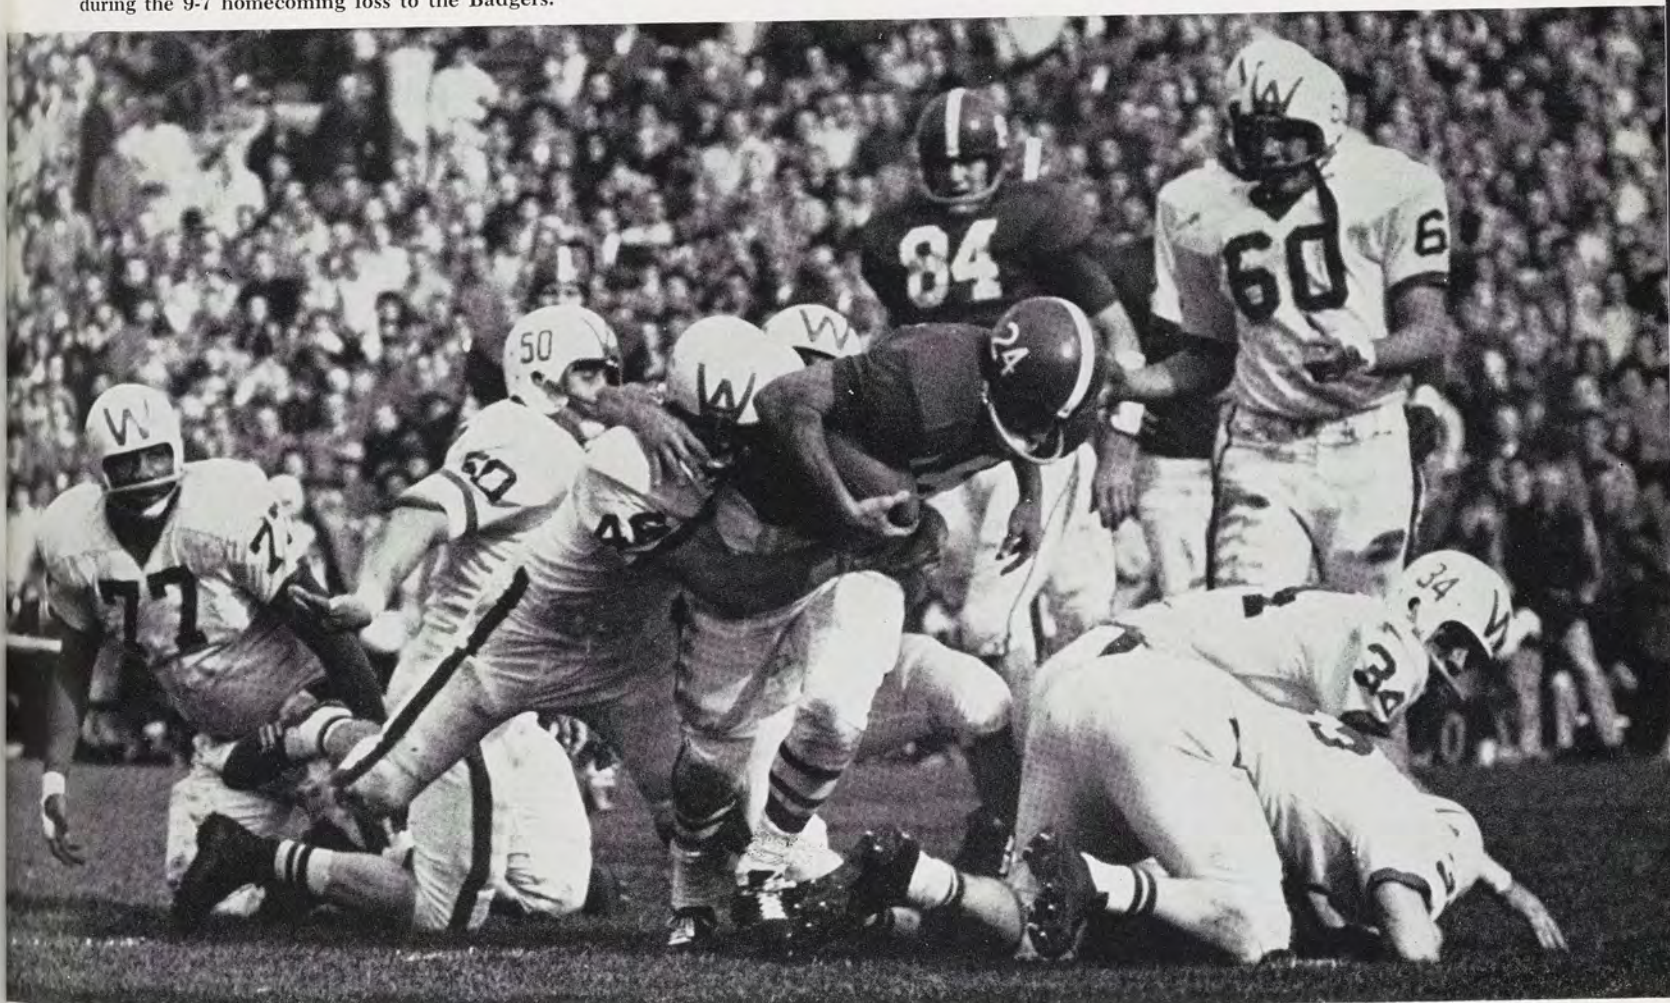

Usually affable Duffy Daugherty had few chances to be the "smiling Irishman" during a disastrous and heart-breaking grid season.

Larry Bielat passed to Dick Barker for the only Spartan touchdown in a 14-6 loss to Purdue.

But the football team met a worse reception in Champaign, Ill., the following week. The Illini dominated the game and won, 16-0.

Mighty Wisconsin was the opponent as the Spartans returned for Homecoming. More than 70,000 fans watched State lose by a close 9-7 score. Still, there was glory in this defeat. Look returned a punt 80 yards for a touchdown, only to have it nullified by a clipping penalty at midfield.

And Mike Panitch threw a seven-yard pass to Williams, who made a spectacular catch for MSU's first touchdown in 10 quarters of play. A field goal provided the Badgers' margin of victory.

Lowly Indiana held State scoreless the next week at Bloomington, and converted a blocked punt into the only score of the game to win, 6-0.

Neither Minnesota nor Michigan State had won a conference game when the two met at Minneapolis in a match to determine the cellar-dweller. In fact the Gophers hadn't even won a non-conference tilt.

But after a 12-12 first half deadlock, Minnesota routed the Spartans, 32-12.

The team ended the season on a happier note. Kansas State became the victim of a 26-7 Spartan outburst before 39,032 chilled fans at Spartan Stadium. Panitch, playing his last collegiate game, threw two touchdown passes. One was to Barker on a 22-yard play, and the other was to Look for 37 yards. Star tackle Fran O'Brien made a spectacular block on the latter play. Herb Adderley ran 25 yards for a touchdown and Bielat completed the scoring with a one-yard plunge.

BASKETBALL

The Spartans score against Michigan before a capacity crowd in Jenison Fieldhouse.

Michigan State's "greatest basketball team in history" made its second NCAA appearance in the last three years, finishing runners-up to Mid-East regional champion Louisville.

The Spartans found Marquette a stubborn opponent in the tournament opener, but finally bested the Warriors, 74-69. Bob Anderegg, co-captain and State's leading scorer during the regular season, accounted for 23 points for game scoring honors. Horace Walker, a high-jumping forward, tossed in 20 points.

Although State held a 43-40 halftime margin over Louisville, the Colonels roared back to win, 88-81, and take the regional championship. The Spartans ended the season with an outstanding 19-4 mark, an all-time high.

With basketball attendance reaching a new height—State played before 103,504 fans, which eclipsed the mark set in 1957-58—the IM program featured a record representation of more than 200 teams and 2,500 male participants. The coed program also flourished.

Coach Fordy Anderson approached his fifth season at the Spartan helm with cautious optimism. Weak points in the MSU armor were lack of experienced guards, height and bench strength.

Horace Walker and Lance Olson made their initial starting roles memorable ones as the Spartans opened the season by out-classing a hapless University of Detroit quintet, 88-51. Walker scored 17 points and hauled in 22 rebounds. Olson collected 10 points. Anderegg's 20 points were game high.

The Spartans easily disposed of Butler, 72-46, as four members of the squad reached double figures.

After a nine-day layoff for fall examinations, State resumed court action by whipping Notre Dame, 74-56, on the Irish home court. Dave Fahs, a 5-9 sparkplug, made his collegiate debut in that game.

Next, State buried Nebraska, 80-55, with Anderegg and Walker scoring 20 and 16 points respectively.

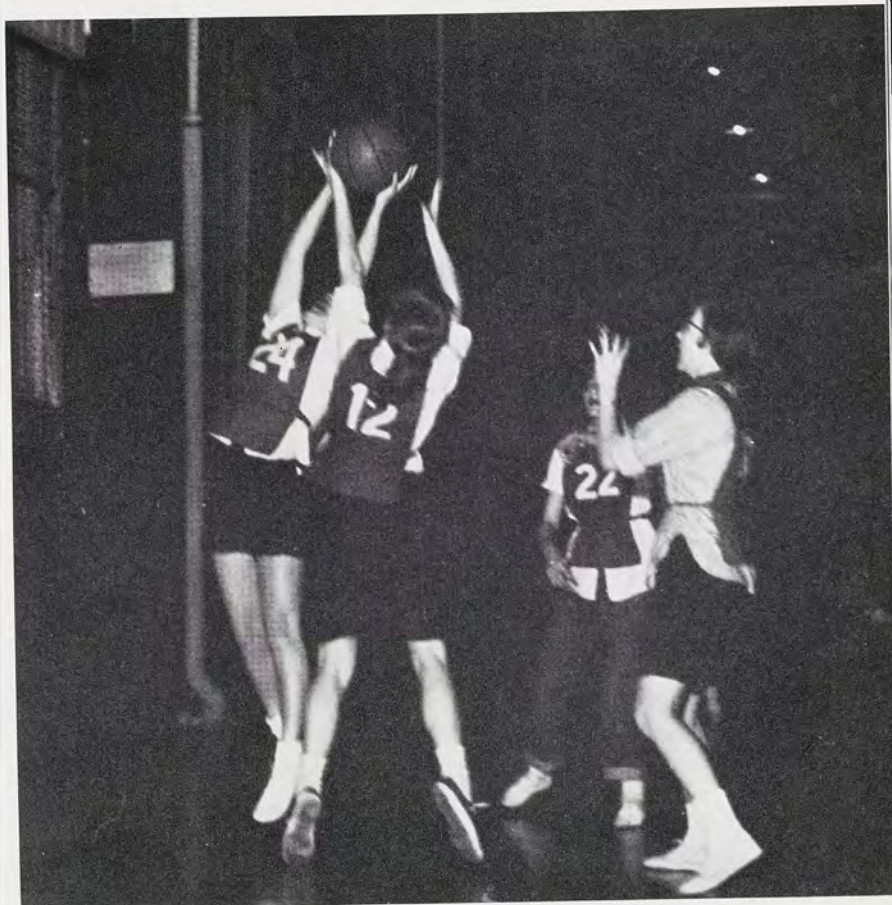

The Spartans engaged in the three-day Dixie Classic tournament at Raleigh, N.C., a tourney which attracted some of the nation's top basketball teams. After State stopped cold-shooting Duke, 82-57, the Spartans drubbed North Carolina, 75-58. Two years before, the Tar Heels had beaten State, 74-70, in the NCAA semi-finals, but three overtime sessions were needed to decide the eventual winner.

In the tournament showdown game against North Carolina State, the Spartans failed to overcome a Wolfpack 43-32 halftime lead and lost, 70-61.

Continuing at a phenomenal clip, playing five games in eight days, Anderson's Big 10 title contenders edged sophomore-studded Indiana, 79-77, in the Big 10's opening game, on regional television. Walker's 15-foot jump shot in the last eight seconds was the margin of victory.

Then State ran into Iowa's tight zone defense and lost by the widest losing gap of the season, 80-68.

All-American center John Green, State's and the NCAA Mid-East most valuable player, scored 33 points, the highest individual game total of his fabulous three-year career, to pace State to a 97-96 win over Illinois. Green's last second tip-in of a missed free throw proved the clincher.

The Spartans went into a four-way tie for first place in the Big 10 as they riddled the Ohio State zone defense by feeding Green at the pivot, 92-77. Green scored 26 points. Anderegg and Walker added 16 points apiece. Jim Stouffer, a brilliant performer, scored 12 points.

In a showdown battle against Minnesota, State was sparked by some exceptional shooting by guards Tom Rand and Lance Olson, who combined for 31 points. The Spartans moved into undisputed possession of first place by dumping the Gophers, 82-76.

Despite Northwestern star Joe Ruklick's 29 points, State overcame this one-man scoring effort by having four men in double figures to post an 81-72 win over the Wildcats.

Playing against cellar-dwelling Wisconsin, State built up a comfortable 49-24 halftime lead and coasted to an 88-57 triumph. State had five men in double figures as compared to Wisconsin's best individual effort of eight points.

Emmons 7 became the first IM team to win a basketball game in the new multi-million-dollar Men's Intramural Building by defeating Emmons 5, 50-38.

State had its five-game winning streak snapped by the "Spoilers" of Purdue, 85-81. The two teams were tied at 67-all when Green fouled out with nine minutes to play. Green's 25 points and 18 rebounds were game highs.

Within a two-week period new scoring records were established for the IM building and Jenison Fieldhouse.

The Spartans unloaded their biggest scoring barrage in history against arch-rival Michigan, 103-91, before the season's largest crowd of 12,500. The new point record topped the 102 points scored against Alma in 1902, and the total aggregate score of 194 points bettered the mark of 193 set earlier in the season when State edged Illinois, 97-96.

The Wildcats, paced by Gerald Hoffer's 58 points, thumped the YMCA, 117-28. Both marks set building records.

Co-captain Anderegg put on a spectacular display of his defensive and offensive talents. The 6-3 forward held Michigan's M. C. Burton, then the loop's leading scorer, to 11 points, while scoring 26 points himself. Green, also co-captain, scored 24 points. Walker and Olson contributed 19 and 15 points respectively.

Coach Forddy Anderson is a great believer in pre-season conditioning. Running the varsity squad during fall term kept the team in condition prior to the successful season.

Coach Anderson had plenty of chances to cheer during the 1958-59 season, as the cagers moved to the top of the Big 10 heap for the second time in three years.

Fahs sparked a second half rally as State maintained its mastery over Northwestern, 71-69. It marked State's seventh straight victory in the NU series. Northwestern hasn't beaten State since 1955, when it won, 56-54. State led, 35-31, at the half. The Wildcats' Willie Jones caught fire in the second half and finished with 30 points, but Walker's rebounding and sub guard Fahs' 11 clutch points spelled the difference.

The offensive phase was still setting the theme of IM action as Coral Gables and the Second Stringers posted lopsided wins. Coral Gables, led by Ed Perpich's 18 points, romped past the Vistas, 61-16. Bill Weseman's 28 points powered the Second Stringers to a 76-29 win over the Run Dums.

The Spartans avenged an early defeat by Purdue, and clinched a conference championship tie by knocking off the Boilermakers, 94-87. Rand's 16 points via his jump-shooting gave State a 60-59 lead which it never relinquished. Green hit his rebounding high of 25 and Anderegg topped the scorers with 29 points.

Horace Walker, in the Ohio State game, shows that Green is not the only rebounder on the Michigan State team.

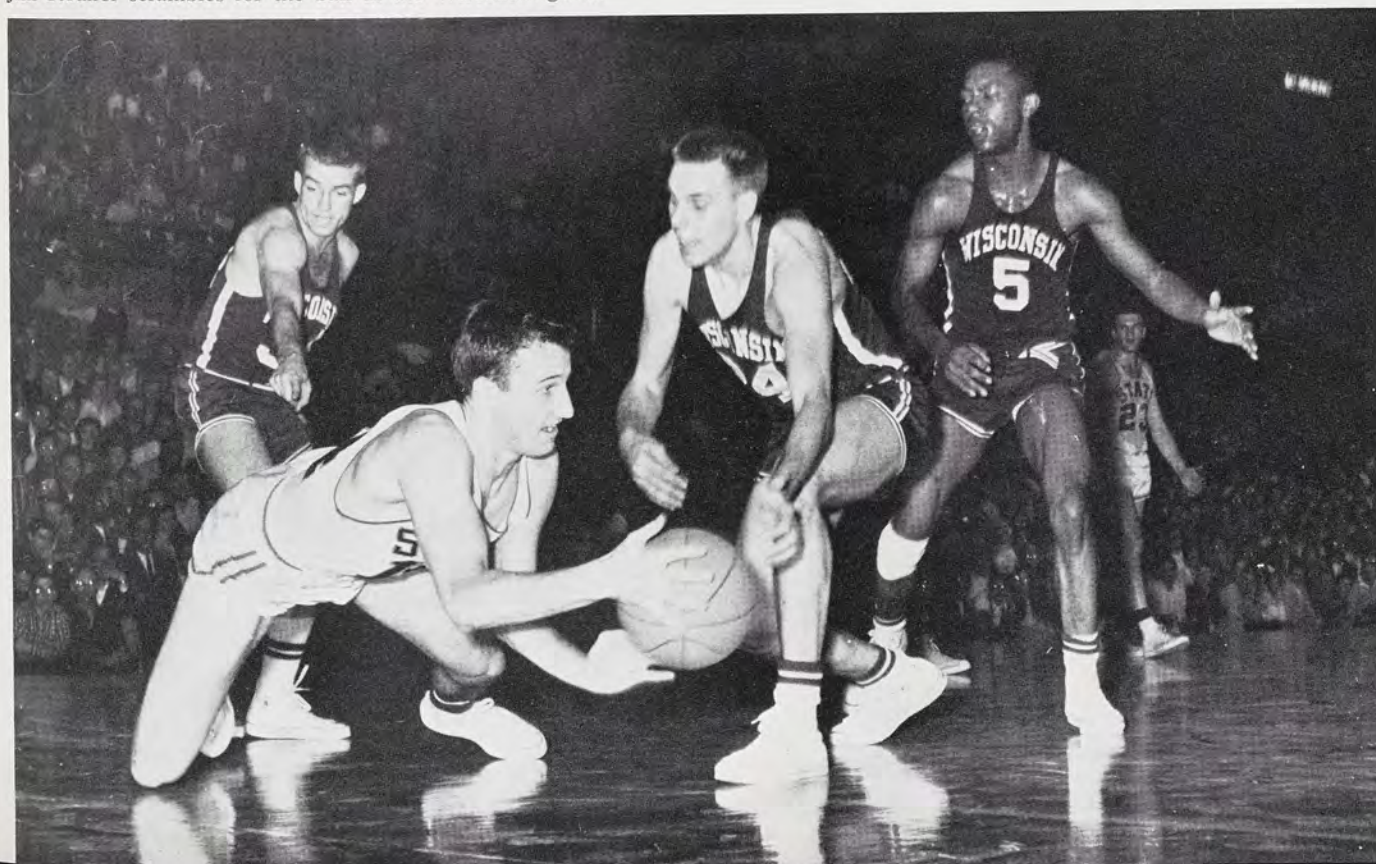

Despite being out-rebounded by Indiana, 51-45, for the first time this year, the Spartans won their first undisputed Big 10 cage crown by nudging the Hurrying Hoosiers, 86-82. The Spartans took the contest by hitting on 14 of 26 free throw attempts. Walker notched 10 of 12 free tosses. The Spartans' strategy during the second half was to let the Hoosiers shoot and try to avoid fouls. State committed only one foul during 16 minutes.

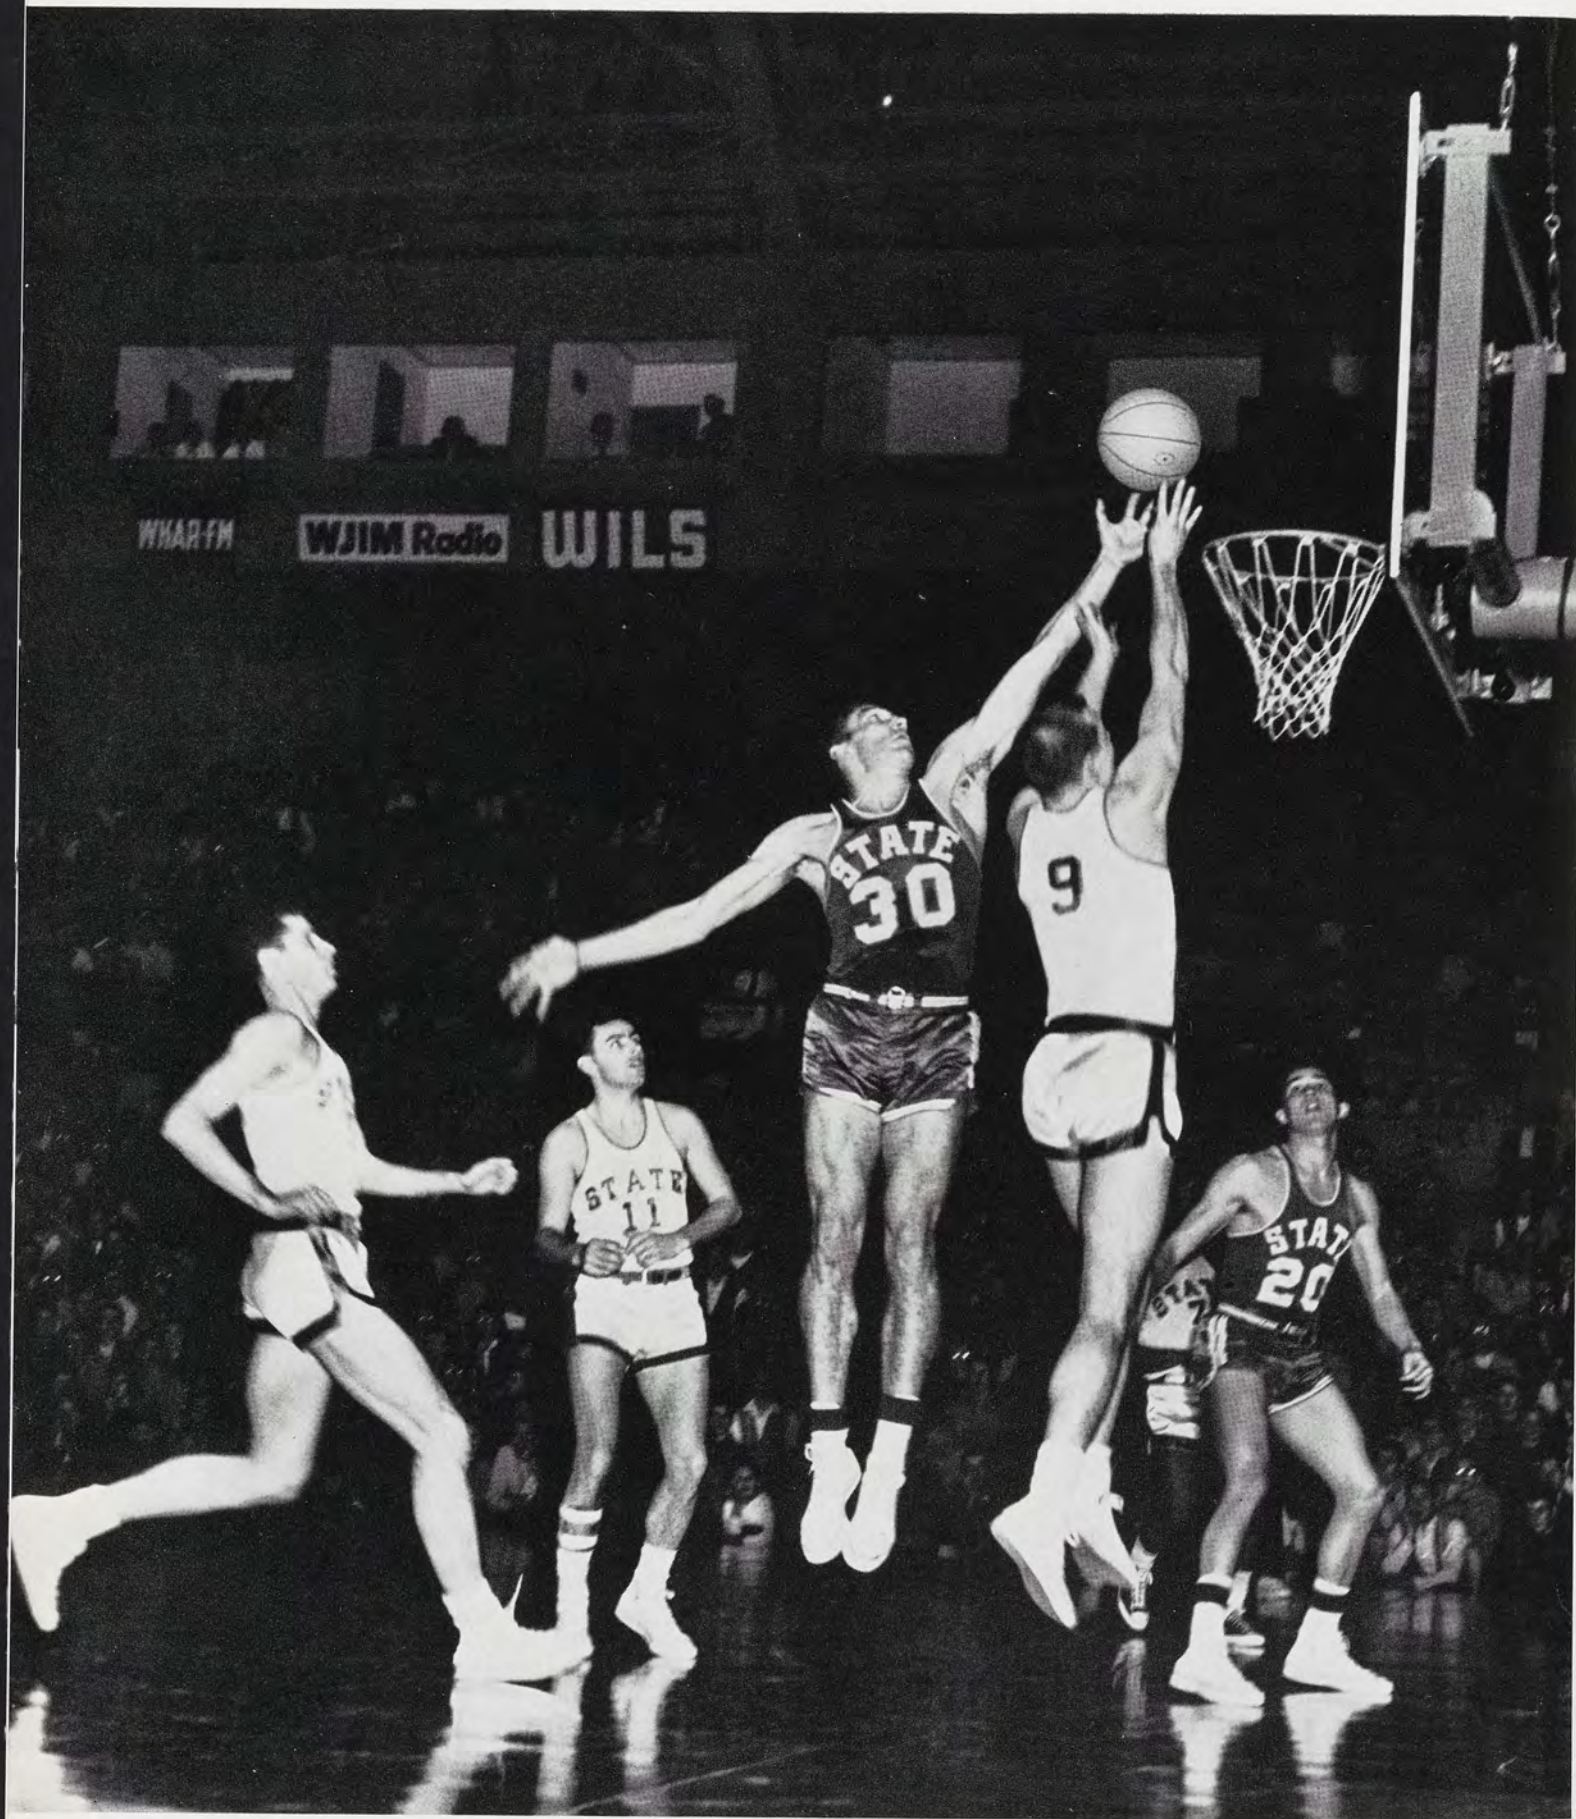

With the title clinched, State padded its league lead to four games by submerging lowly Wisconsin, 93-78. Stouffer showed his uncanny scoring prowess as he threw in 19 points on nine baskets and one free throw. Green hit for 28 points.

In the season's finale and the last home appearance for Anderegg, Green, Rand and Stouffer, the Spartans proved they were the best team in the conference by beating each opponent once in slapping Iowa, 84-74.

Anderegg closed out his three-year collegiate career with the best individual performance of his career by hitting for 32 points. The pesky Hawkeyes were never counted out of the game, but Anderegg was the difference.

The Spartans received national acclaim by the two wire services. State was ranked third in the UPI poll and seventh by the AP.

The 18-3 regular season mark compiled by State this year is the best on record. Three other MSU teams previously won 16 games, including the squads of the last two seasons.

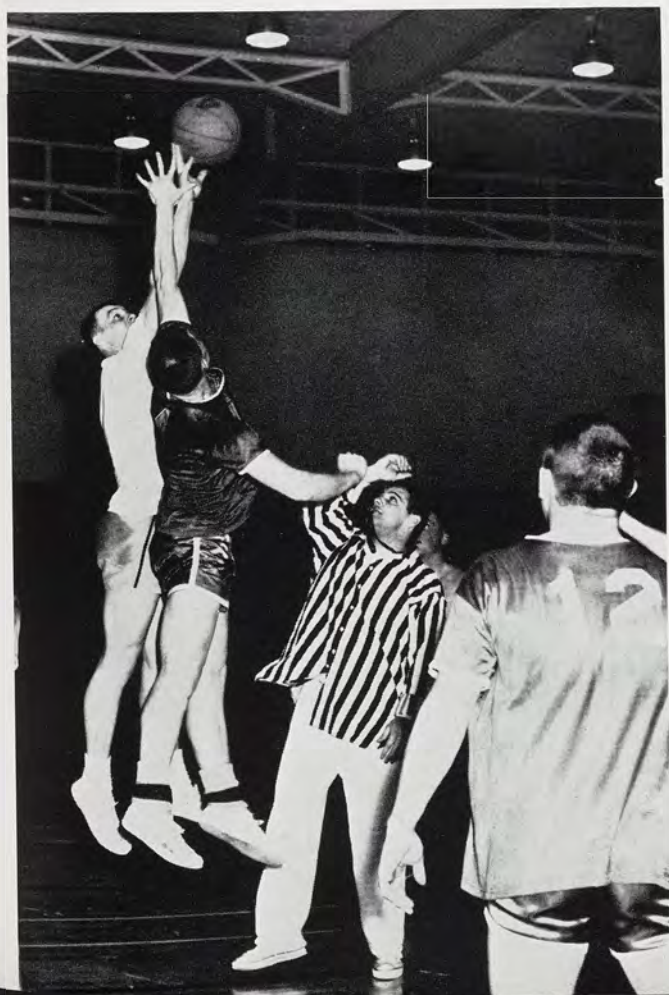

The 82.4 point-per-game average compiled by the Spartans is the best on record for a State team. The 1955 squad averaged 79 points per game for the previous high.

Forddy Anderson's five-year coaching mark at MSU is 77 wins against 38 losses.

Green, whom Anderson says "is worth at least 50 points per game," was named to the AP and UPI All-America second teams. He was a unanimous choice on All-Big 10 first teams picked by the two wire services. He has been an all-conference choice three consecutive seasons. Green also made the All-American team selected by Look magazine and the United States Basketball Writers Assn.

In three years of varsity play, Green scored 1,063 points and grabbed more than 1,000 rebounds. Last year, he set a conference field goal shooting percentage mark when he hit on 53 percent of his attempts.

Anderegg was top marksman for the team, having hit for 450 points in 23 games. His three-year career scoring total was 992 points.

BASEBALL

In Purdue game, Ron Perranoski pitches and Don Gilbert catches.

With the loss of 11 players from last season's baseball team, Coach John Kobs was faced with a rebuilding job this year.

A profitable 1958 campaign almost netted the Spartans a Big 10 championship, but two losses in the final weekend of play resulted in a second-place finish.

State led the conference throughout most of the season, but in the final two games it dropped a doubleheader to the University of Minnesota, which moved into first place and copped the title.

After having its most successful season since 1954, when the Spartans won their lone Big 10 baseball championship, the team lost many regulars through graduation.

Kobs, now in his 35th year as head baseball coach, and Assistant Coach Frank Pellerin began the rebuilding task early, putting the team through workouts during both fall and winter terms.

The Spartans practiced from September 24 until mid-October on the outdoor diamond during fall term, and resumed workouts in the fieldhouse of the new Men's Intramural Building in mid-January.

Gone from the 1958 edition was the Big 10's most valuable pitcher, Ron Perranoski. Another hurler who was missing was Larry Foster, sophomore fastball sensation in 1958.

After using his collegiate eligibility at the end of the 1958 spring term, Perranoski signed a bonus contract with the Chicago Cubs, and Foster signed for a bonus with the Detroit Tigers.

Frank Palamara, team captain and regular second baseman for three years, was also missing from the 1959 squad. Palamara was among the leading hitters in 1958 with a .358 mark.

Others who were missing included catchers Don Gilbert and Hal King, first baseman Gerry Stifler, third baseman Dick Schiesel and Gary Warner, and outfielders Dick McKenzie, Dean Moore and Ted Kearly.

Gilbert, regular back-stop in 1958, produced a .366 Big 10 batting average, and Schiesel's was .375. Kearly was the most potent batter of the 1958 grads, hitting .389 in conference play.

The 1958 team, which as a unit hit for a phenomenal .310 batting average, won 10 and dropped five games in the Big 10. Its over-all record was 22 wins and 12 losses.

The Spartans were fortunate as four sophomores moved into regular positions and sparked the team to a near-title.

Dick Golden moved into the shortstop position and, in his first season, posted the finest defensive mark for shortstops in the Big 10.

John Fleser and Dean Look moved into first string outfield berths. Fleser ended the season hitting well over .300, and it might have been an ankle injury which kept him out of the Minnesota series that cost the Spartans the championship. Look was the third leading batter in the conference with a .412 mark.

Larry Foster was the third member of State's Big-Three pitching staff, and accounted for two wins in the conference.

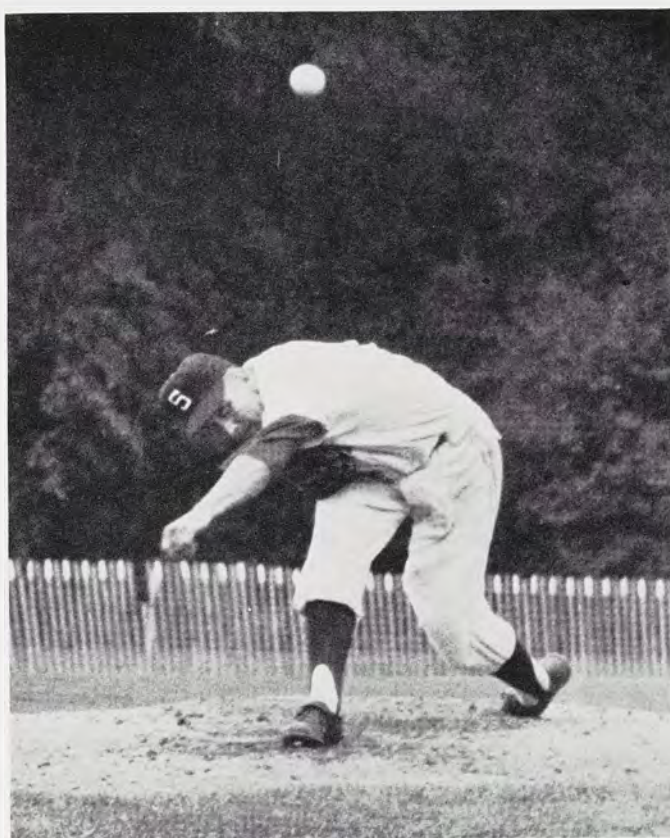

Dick Radatz, captain-elect for 1959, led the pitching corps. Radatz posted a 6-2 record in 1958 with a 1.32 earned-run average in the Big 10 and a 2.02 over-all ERA.

Other returning hurlers included senior Bob Rabias, and juniors Don Picmann, Don Sackett and Craig VanSciever. Rabias won two and lost three last spring, Picmann was 1-0 and both Sackett and VanSciever had 1-1 records.

Pitchers who made the jump from freshman to varsity this year included Don Kurtz, Brook Tilley, Pat Jackman, Bob Ross and Tom VanSlooten.

Junior Dick Golden and senior Jerry Korwek were the only lettermen returning to infield positions. Both were shortstops in 1958, but Korwek was shifted to second base. Golden last season was the leading defensive shortstop in the Big 10 with a .980 average.

Newcomers to the infield included first basemen Bill Schudlich and Mickey Sinks, second basemen Ron Tutsky and Gerry Lumianski, shortstop Ray Perry and third basemen Pat Sartorius and Warren Scheibner.

A completely-revamped catching corps was also a problem for Kobs after last season. With the number one and two men, Gilbert and King, graduated, the backstopping duties were shared by senior Jim Conlin and junior John Hendee. From the freshman team, Jim Kemmerling and Wade Cartwright were added to the receiving position.

Dean Look slides into home plate to score for the Spartans. The score followed a wild pitch by the Ohio State hurler.

department. He was the third leading hitter in Big 10 play with a .412 average, and batted .347 for the entire year. He topped the Spartans in total runs scored, runs batted in, total bases, stolen bases, two-base hits, three-base hits and home runs.

One hundred and thirty-seven teams, including nearly 2,000 players, took part in the spring term Intramural softball program. This total included 27 fraternity, 65 dormitory, and 41 independent teams.

The independent league entry Ancients won the All-University championship, beating the dormitory champion Armstrong 6, 8-0, in the finals. The finalist in fraternity competition was Lamda Chi Alpha.

Runners-up in the program included West Shaw, Armstrong, and Rather in the dormitory group, Sigma Nu in the fraternities and Coral Gables in the independent block.

The 1958 outdoor track team wrote a fitting final chapter to the success story of Head Coach Karl Schlademan, who retired last July after 18 years at the helm of the Spartans with the record of never finishing out of the first division since Michigan State's entry into the Western Conference.

MSU's two-mile relay team was the culmination of Coach Schlademan's coaching experience which dates as far as 1918, when he was in charge of all sports at Baker University, and even earlier. The record-breaking team, composed of Dave Lean, Bob Lake, Brian Castle and Willie Atterberry, won the two-mile event at the Quantico Marine Relays (7:37.4); the Kansas Relays (7:24.8) and the Penn Relays (7:30.1).

Not content with this performance, the flashy foursome broke the existing world's record in the Los Angeles Coliseum Relays, covering the distance in 7:21.4 only to finish three yards behind the winning University of California team, which turned in a 7:20.9 clocking.

In dual meet competition, the Spartans upset Notre Dame, 75-66 and then were soundly beaten by Nebraska, 72-55, and Ohio State, 80 $\frac{2}{3}$ - 51 $\frac{1}{3}$, to post a 1-2 record outdoors. Led by Lean, who successfully defended his 880-yard run title by turning in a 1:50.1 time, State copped fourth in the Big 10 meet at Lafayette, Ind. with 23 $\frac{1}{2}$ points.

In the IC4A Meet at Philadelphia, State took the one-mile relay with a 3:10.8 time while Fordy Kennedy won the two-mile run in 9:13.5. State finished 29th in the NCAA Meet at Berkeley, Calif.

Goalie Noel Drago shut out Indiana Tech (6-0), Pittsburg (1-0), Purdue (4-0), Wheaton (5-0) and Slippery Rock (4-0). Other victories were over Illinois (10-5), Ohio State (8-1) and Indiana (11-3).

Coach Gene Kenney's team thus won the first Big 10 championship in soccer history and was voted No. 1 in the Midwest for the third straight year. It was ranked second in the nation behind Drexel (Pa.).

Streder and Art Southan each scored 11 goals for the scoring co-championship, and Sarria's 31 goals were high for the three years. Spartans dominated the All-Midwest team.

HOCKEY

Three university records fell in the path of the varsity hockey team's road to success during the 1958-59 season, as the icers came within one goal of winning the NCAA championship.

By winning the Big 10 and Michigan Press trophies, the team was invited to the NCAA playoffs, the first time any MSU hockey team had entered the championships. After defeating Boston College, 4-3, the icers were beaten by North Dakota, 4-3, during sudden-death overtime in the finals.

A total of 16 regular-season wins against just five losses and one tie surpassed the total-games-won record set the previous season. Four of the five losses came in overtime.

The icers also set a team scoring record, netting 108 goals in 22 games for a 4.9 average. Goalie Joe Selinger, named All-American at the end of the season, set a personal record, allowing only 56 goals for an average of 2.59 per game. Seven shutouts were also recorded by Selinger.

Selinger and forward Bill MacKenzie were selected to the NCAA All-Star first team.

Capt. Joe "Bepi" Polano and Dickie Hamilton paced the team in individual scoring, each with 39 points. Center Terry Moroney was third with 37 points.

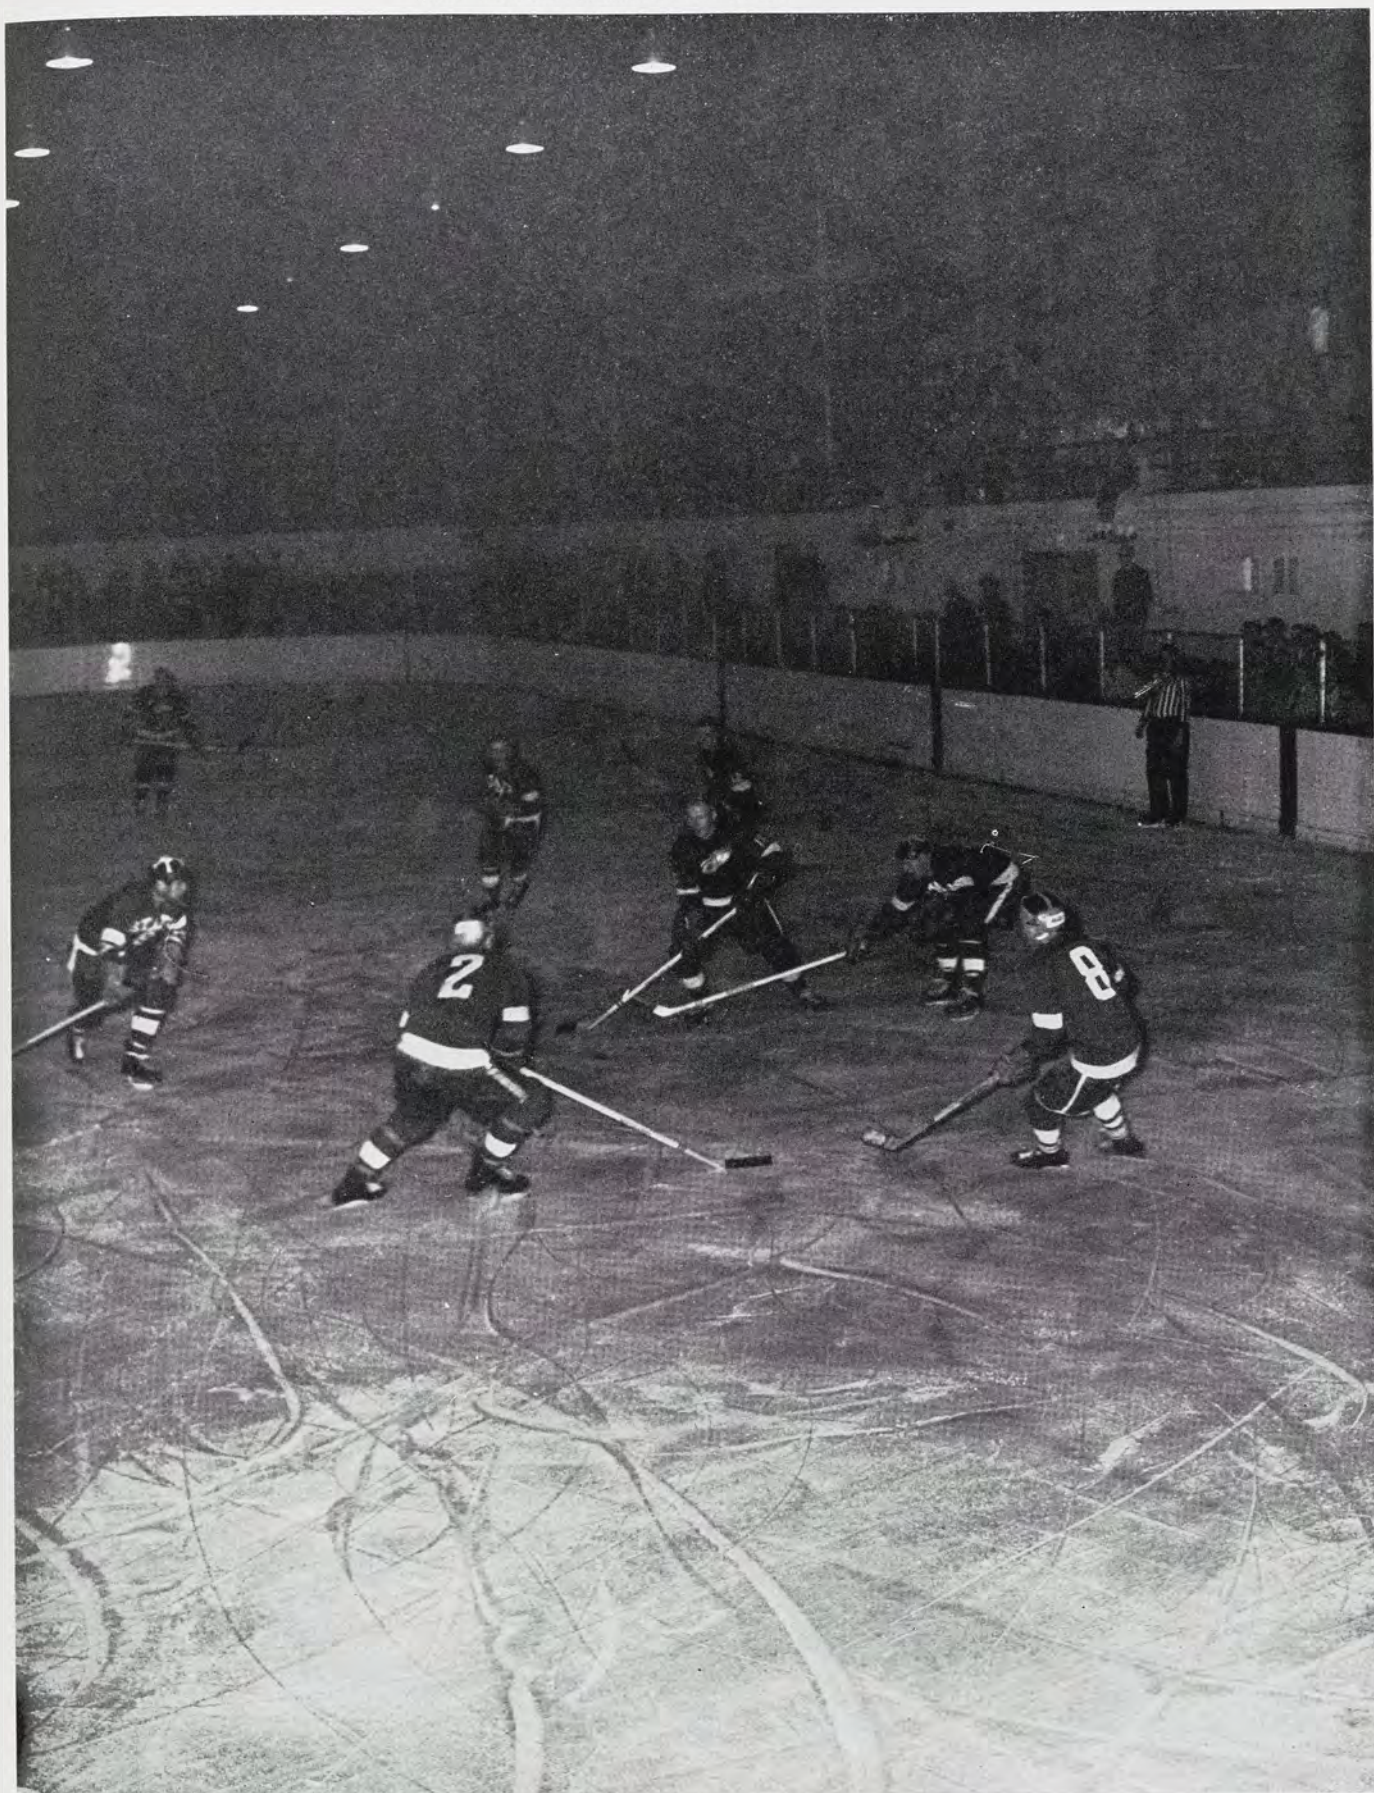

During the Christmas holidays, the icers won both the Boston Invitational and RPI tournaments, with a total of six victories and no defeats.

In Intramural hockey, Delta Sigma Pi was the class of the league, defeating all comers, including Evans Scholars in the finals, 5-2.

CROSS COUNTRY

Forddy Kennedy leads the pack, including brother Henry, in Notre Dame cross country meet.

A new coach and a new success story were the conspicuous features of the 1958 Spartan cross country squad. Under the tutelage of Fran Dittrich, who took over as coach when Karl Schlademan retired after 18 years in the job, the harriers won the "triple crown" of cross country. This included wins in the Big 10, IC4A and NCAA championships, with Capt. Crawford "Forddy" Kennedy taking individual honors in the latter two meets. Kennedy's NCAA win was the first for an MSU harrier.

Running all home meets, including the national competition, on Michigan State's new Forrest Akers golf course for the first year, the Spartans dropped a close dual meet to Western Michigan early in the season while plagued by injuries, but was undefeated otherwise. They topped the runner-up Broncos in the nationals, 79-104.

FENCING

Despite a mediocre 3-8 season won-lost record, the MSU fencing team, coached by Chuck Schmitter, came up with a surprise third place finish in the Big 10 and impressed its mentor while coming in 12th in National Collegiate competition.

The Spartans had medal-winners in each of the three divisions contested at the Columbus, Ohio, conference meet. Terry Glimn and Chuck Schmitter, Jr., son of the coach, were third in foil and epee, respectively, and Steve Arnest was fourth in the saber class.

Glimn is the team's only graduating senior. He was 10th in foil and Arnest was 15th in saber at the national meet, raising Schmitter Sr.'s hopes for next year's squad. "Arnest got stronger as the meet progressed," the coach said.

Winter intramural fencing action saw 24 men compete for top honors.

Fencers compete in three divisions: foil, epee and saber.

After tying for the National Collegiate team title in 1958, this year's Spartan gymnasts enjoyed an impressive season capped by Stan Tarshis' horizontal bar victories in the Big 10 and NCAA meets.

Operating without the services of scholastically ineligible Ted Muzyczko and Dick Becker, who sparked State to a share of the national crown with Illinois in 1958, the 1959 squad piled up a 7-2 regular season record before finishing third in the Big 10 meet and fourth in the collegiates.

The Illini won the conference title and were second to Penn State in the nation, but their top-rated horizontal bar combo of Abie Grossfeld and Don Tonry were unable to outscore Tarshis, who will still be around for the 1960 season.

His winning point total at the Berkeley, Calif., NCAA meet was high for the contest, and his Big 10 victory was his second straight.

Two pleasant surprises for Spartan coach George Szygula were sophomores John Daniels and Chuck Thompson. With Daniels working free exercise, tumbling and trampoline and Thompson in the latter two, the squad could boast its first strong lineup in the events in more than two years.

Ernestine Russell, Michigan State's famous and pert gymnast, was twice named Canada's woman athlete of the year.

A trampoline artist turns and twists high in the air during a home meet.

GYMNASTICS

In the Big 10 meet, competing against an especially talented (if national finishes are any indication) regional representation in their events, Daniels placed second in tumbling and third in free exercise and Thompson was fourth on trampoline and fifth in tumbling.

Capt. Cal Girard, despite low finishes in the championship meets, was State's mainstay in the all-around division, as he was the year before. The little Canadian, at his best on side horse and horizontal and parallel bars, is the only graduating senior this year.

The return of Tarshis, Thompson and Daniels, plus veteran all-arounder Angie Festa and apparatus man Mike Coco next season are expected to give the team a solid nucleus.

Freshman trampolinist Steve Johnson and all-around man Gani Browsh are rated the top newcomers. Johnson was third in the National AAU in his event and Browsh has placed high in several non-intercollegiate meets, competing unattached.

The winter term IM gymnastics meet drew 41 participants.

WRESTLING

Three Michigan State wrestlers won Big 10 crowns and another, senior Tim Woodin, was second in the NCAA meet this year.

Woodin, a heavyweight who took his second conference crown at the Iowa City meet, and Jim Ferguson, a 167-pound senior, kept season win streaks intact at the Big 10 meet and 130-pound sophomore Norm Young also brought home a trophy. Coach Fendley Collins' men were third in the meet and ninth in the nationals.

More than 30 men grappled in six classes in the intramural tourney winter term.

TENNIS

For the first time since its entry into the Big 10, the Spartan tennis squad in 1958 played every school in the conference.

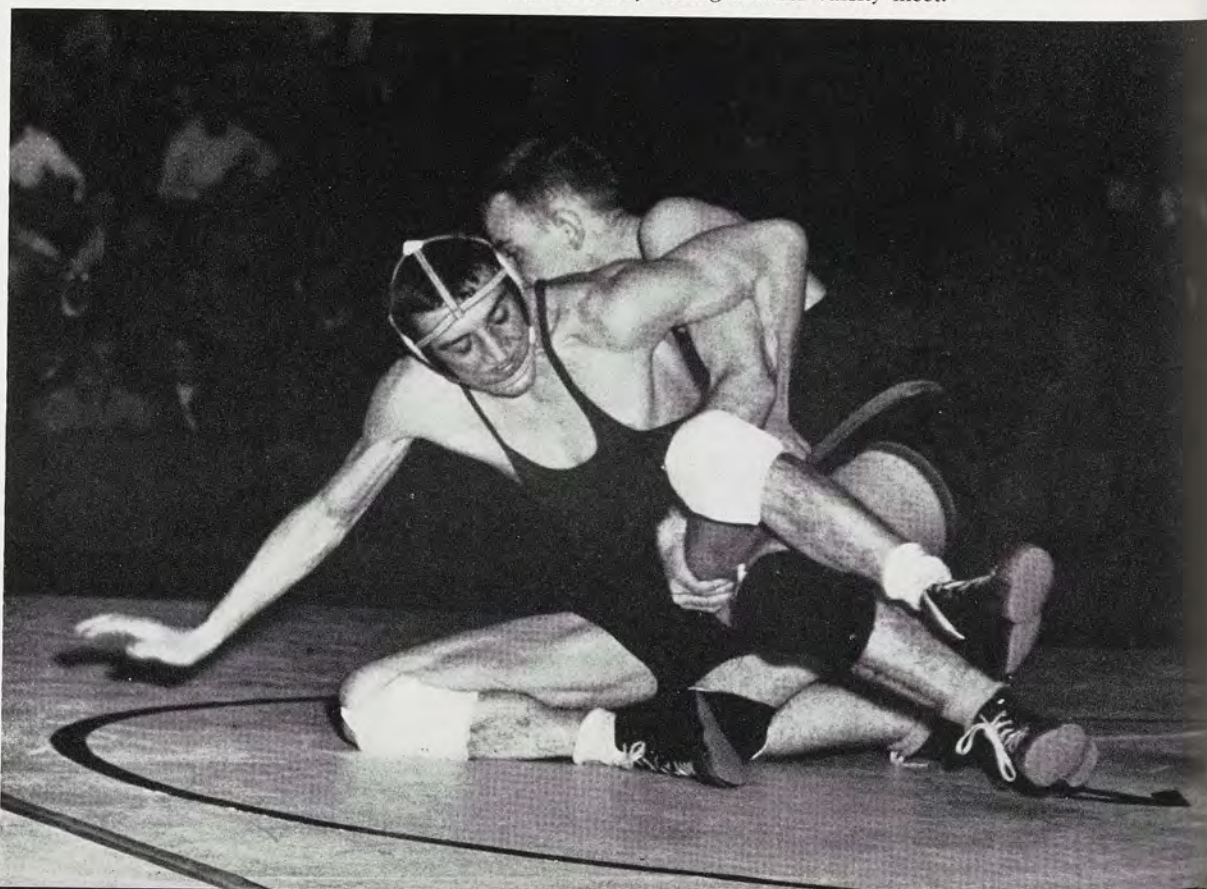

The netters also played under a new head coach for the first time in nine seasons when Stan Drobac succeeded Frank Beeman.

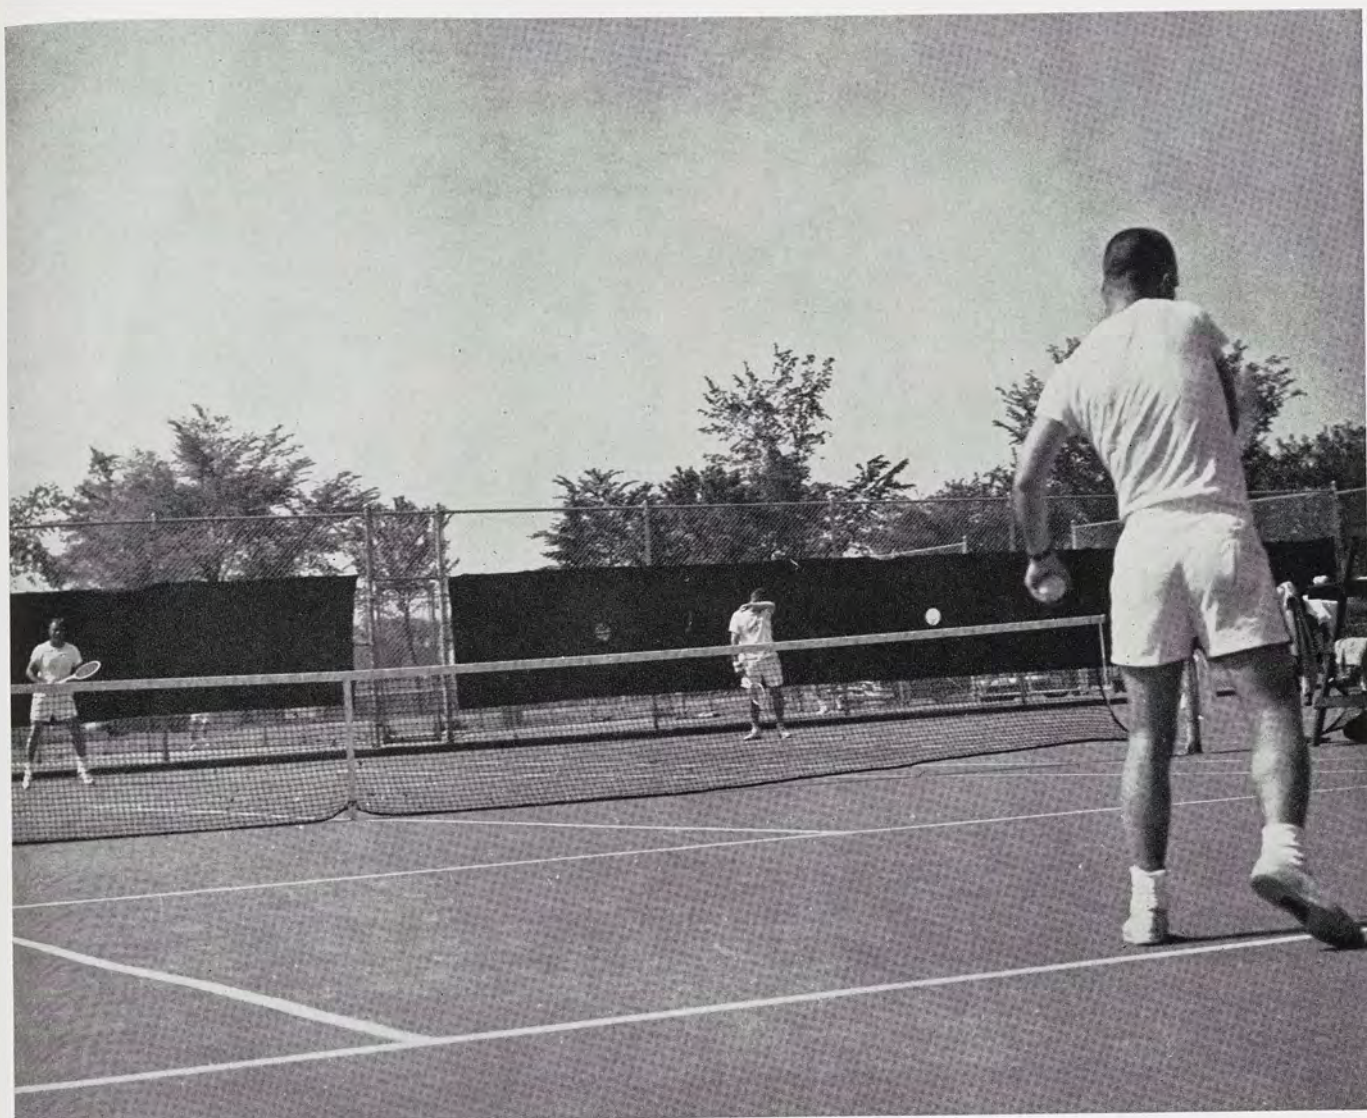

State finished the regular season with a 5-8-1 won-lost-tied record and a 6th place finish in the Big 10 championships.

Against conference foes during the regular season, they won two, lost six and tied one.

In the Big 10 finals, State's only graduating senior, Capt. Bill Bisard, won his consolation round in the No. 1 singles.

SWIMMING

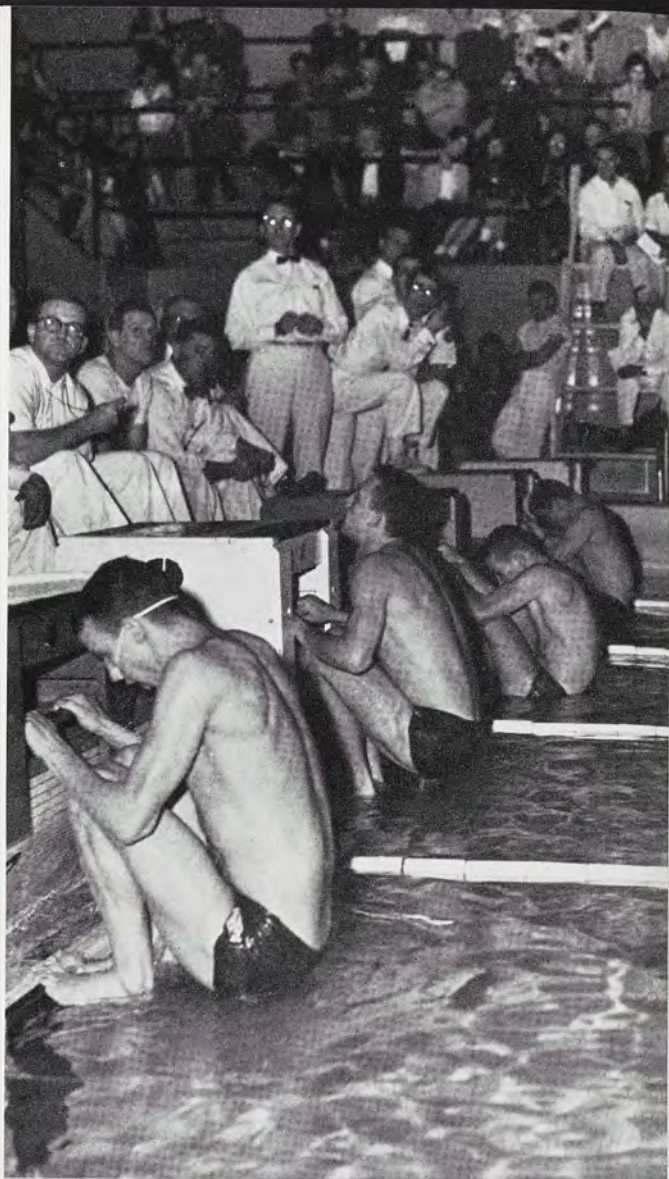

The Spartan swimming team had a successful 1959 season, winning five out of eight dual meets. Coach Charles McCaffree and Assistant Bob Mowerson's squad lost dual meets to Michigan, Indiana and Ohio State and won over Iowa State, Minnesota, Purdue, Iowa and Wisconsin.

The swimmers stroked to a second-place NCAA finish, losing only to powerful Michigan, which amassed a record-breaking $114\frac{1}{2}$ points, the largest score in the history of the 36-year-old meet. State led the nation's other top swim teams with 33 points, Indiana had 31, Ohio State 29, Yale $27\frac{1}{2}$ and Stanford 23.

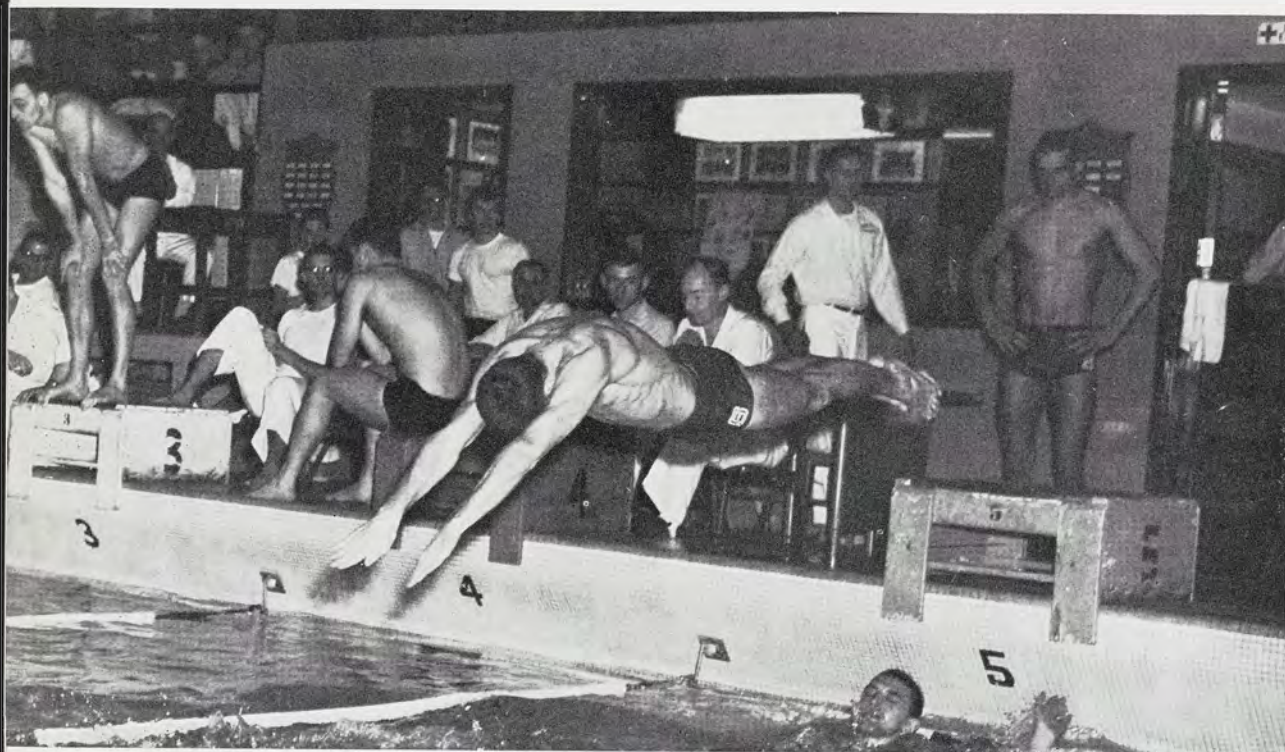

Billy Steuart, Spartan junior from Johannesburg, South Africa, captured two individual NCAA titles in winning the 1,500 meter and 440-yard freestyle races. He was also a double winner in 1958 along with breast-stroker Frank Modine who won in the 100 and 200-yard events. This year Modine lost both titles he won as a sophomore, finishing third in the 100 and fifth in the 200-yard race.

Don Patterson, the 1958 NCAA champion in the 100-yard freestyle, also lost out in his specialty, getting a third place finish.

Steuart was beaten in his bid for a third NCAA title in a close race in the 220-yard freestyle.

State's individual stars provided enough points in the NCAA to defeat both Indiana and Ohio State, both of whom had beaten the Spartans in dual meets during the regular season and in the Big 10 meet. The NCAA meet was held at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York.

The Spartans opened a new pool in the Men's Intramural Building on March 5, 6, and 7 by playing host to the 1959 Big 10 swimming championships.

State finished fourth in the Big 10 behind champion Michigan, Indiana and Ohio State.

Billy Steuart was a Big 10 triple winner, taking the 220, 440 and 1,500 meter freestyle races. Modine won the 100-yard breast-stroke and finished third in the 200.

Patterson also took home a third place in the 100-yard freestyle. State's team of Al Coxon, Modine, Art Manwell and Patterson took a third place finish in the 400-yard medley relay.

Another fine intramural swimming season was held by both the men's and women's intramural divisions.

Seven teams, comprising 50 men, participated in the fraternity intramural swim meet winter term. The meet winner was Beta Theta Pi with 46 points. Second was Delta Tau Delta with 29 and third was Sigma Alpha Epsilon with 24.

East Shaw won the men's dormitory swimming meet with a total of 44 points. Second was Bryan Hall with 42 and third was Emmons Hall with 38. Fifty men and six teams competed in the dormitory meet.

Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority won the women's intramural swim meet. Twenty-four teams and 200 women participated. Delta Delta Delta sorority was second, Snyder dormitory third and Alpha Xi Delta sorority fourth in the women's competition. Ten teams participated in the women's synchronized swimming activity.

The Spartan golf team opened the 1958 season on the new 18-hole Forrest Akers course.

Led by sophomore Tim Baldwin, Coach Ben Van Alstyne's crew finished the season with a 6-2-1 won-lost-tied record—its best winning percentage since 1948—and sixth place in the Big 10 championships.

Baldwin's 7-1 won-lost season match record topped all Spartans, but the best averages were turned in by the squad's three seniors, George Wakulsky, Otto Schubel and Arlin Dell.

The trio also were State's only returning lettermen, all three being two-year letterwinners.

In the Big 10 finals at Ohio State, the Spartans finished 50 strokes behind Purdue, which won with a 1,522 total.

MSU's best effort was turned in by Dell, who took 15th place with a 308 for the 72-hole grind. Schubel's 310 placed him 19th and Baldwin, with 312, finished 26th.

The Spartans never lost a home meet in 1958. In the season's opener, they downed Northwestern and the following week whipped Notre Dame and Detroit in a triangular meet.

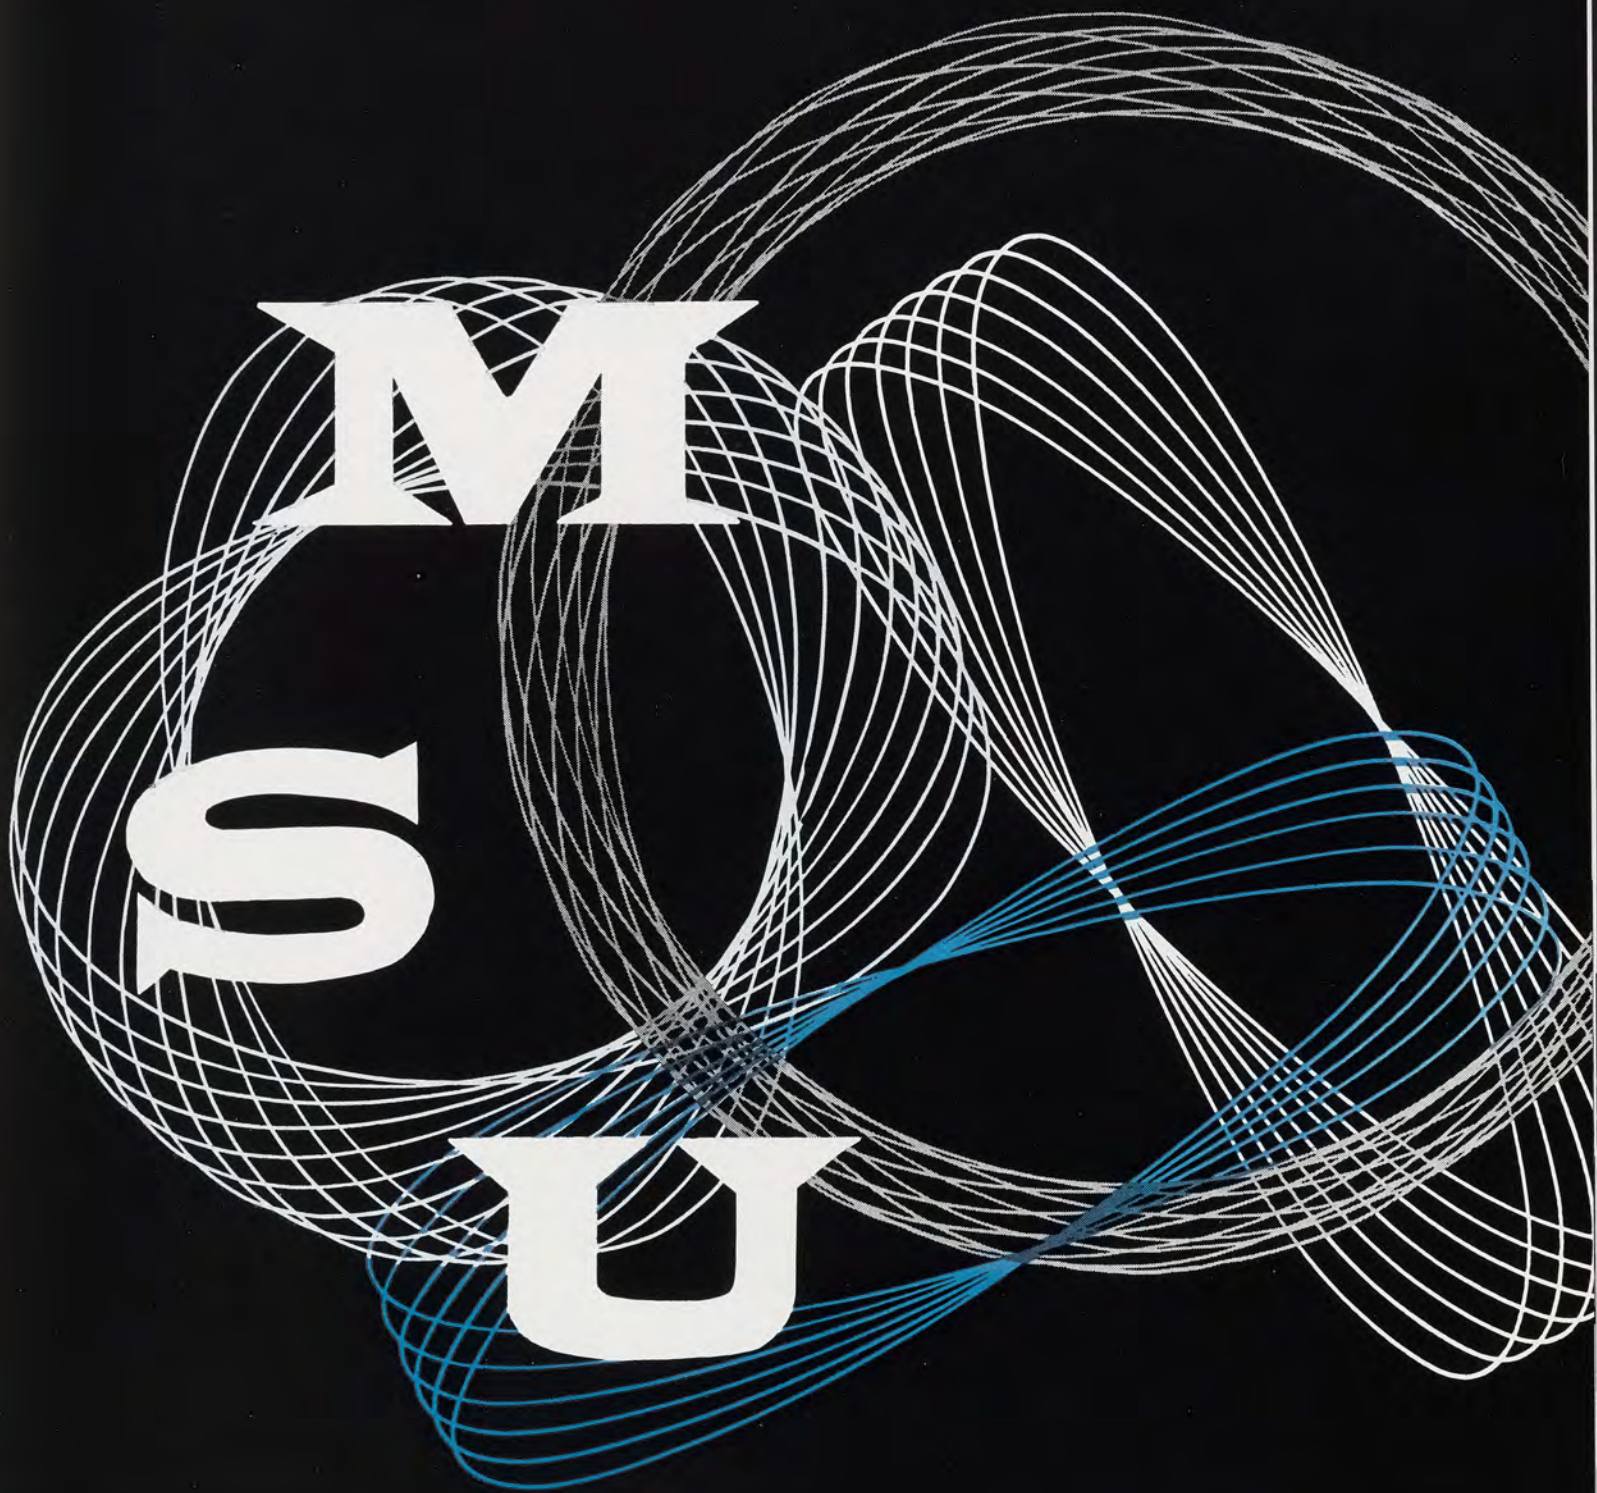

In away games, the Spartans defeated Northwestern, Michigan and Detroit, tied Illinois and lost to Wisconsin and Indiana.

THE ADMINISTRATION
THE COLLEGES
GRADUATE STUDIES
COMMENCEMENT

The introduction of this book speaks at length of the accomplishments and purposes of education and research at MSU. Some of the subjects only touched upon in the introduction, are explored in greater detail here, as indeed they should be, for regardless of parties and plays, sports and spectacles, they constitute the only real and meaningful identity of the university. But Michigan State, after scholars and libraries, professors and lectures, must remain a business operation administered by capable persons and properly serviced, or must decline. That the former is more than true here is made continually apparent, not only by the efficient operation of the campus community, but by the farsighted policy evident in the university's continued growth.

ACADEMICS AND SERVICES

State Board of Agriculture, renamed the Board of Trustees of Michigan State University effective May 6; Clockwise—Philip J. May, Lynn M. Bartlett, C. Allen Harlan, Clark L. Brody, John A. Hannah, Connor D. Smith, Arthur K. Rouse, Don Stevens, Jan B. Vanderploeg, Karl H. McDonel.

Administration and Services

President John A. Hannah and his administrative assistants faced a severe test this year in devising ways and means of weathering the storm of Michigan's financial problems. They demonstrated their administrative ability and resourcefulness by bringing the university through hard times not only unscathed, but actually larger and better than before.

The establishment of Michigan State's Oakland branch, scheduled to begin operations in September, coupled with new developments on the home campus, represents the university's constant progress and leadership in the field of higher education.

Clark Brody will officially retire from the Board of Trustees on January 1, 1960. He has seen over 56,000 students graduate from MSU.

Left—John A. Hannah, President Michigan State University.

James H. Denison, Assistant to the President and Director of University Relations.

Philip J. May, Vice President of Business and Finance and Treasurer.

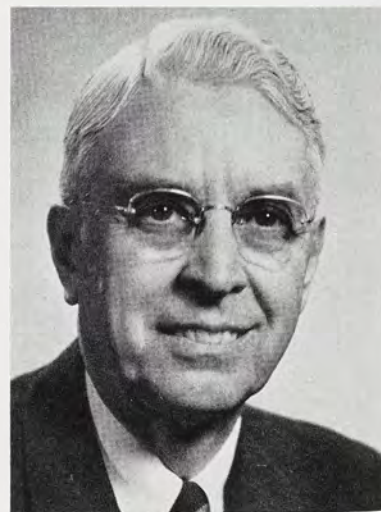

Paul A. Miller, Vice President of Off Campus Education.

Milton E. Muelder, Vice President for Research Development.

Karl H. McDonel, Secretary of Michigan State University.

Durward B. Varner, Vice President, and Chancellor of Michigan State University—Oakland.

The State Board of Agriculture is designed by the state constitution as the university's governing body. In the spring elections, voters approved the proposal to change the board's name to the Michigan State University Board of Trustees. This change became effective May 6.

The board's six elected members meet monthly with ex-officio members President John A. Hannah, Philip J. May, university treasurer, Karl McDonel, university secretary, and Dr. Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction. Dr. Hannah serves as presiding member of the board.

The other board members are Clark L. Brody, Arthur K. Rouse, Connor D. Smith, C. Allen Harlan, Don Stevens, and Jan B. Vanderploeg.

Brody and Rouse will be replaced in January by two newly elected members, Earl Bjornseth and Warren Huff. Brody announced his retirement after serving on the board for 38 years, and Rouse was defeated in the spring elections.

Members of the Board of Trustees are elected for six-year terms, two being elected each odd year. The president of the university is appointed by the board, as are the secretary and treasurer.

Assisting the board in the administration of university affairs are Durward B. Varner, who was appointed Chancellor of MSU-Oakland this year, and Thomas Hamilton, vice-president for academic affairs.

Paul Miller, formerly director of the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service, was named to fill Varner's former position as vice-president for off-campus education.

Thomas H. Hamilton, Vice President for Academic Affairs.

Throughout the year, many schools visit the grounds and buildings of MSU. The museum offers information for students of all ages from grammar school to graduate school.

The University Museum and the Audio-Visual Center are only two of the information processing channels under the supervision of William H. Combs, dean of University Services.

With headquarters located in the old library, the Museum exhibits three floors of educational displays. Whether interested in white-tailed deer, old-time cars, or toy soldiers, 150,000 visitors to the Museum each year have an opportunity to see a material history of Michigan in the showcases and displays. Dr. Frank N. Elliott is the Museum historian in addition to being an assistant professor of history.

The Audio-Visual Center serves classes on campus and provides film rentals for schools and clubs throughout the state. The Center also operates recording equipment and slides. A relatively new project, the Center has produced about 24 of their own films. At present they have 5,300 prints of films for use with approximately 250 being obtained this year.

Audio-Visual Aids provides material for university and state-wide use. Some of the film selections are produced by MSU.

An engineer checks the food stores refrigeration plant which helps keep food available for the campus.

WMSB-TV televises sports events throughout the season as well as educational and feature programs.

Other Michigan State University services that are a necessity to campus life, but that usually go unrecognized, are the works of the food stores and refrigeration plant, WKAR, and the many switchboards located in various living units.

The food stores purchase, store and distribute food for the entire campus. In addition to this function, hungry sports fans are served by its Concessions Division.

WKAR offers a daily format of news, music, and educational features to central Michigan residents. Other University departments and outside agencies supply material and personnel for educational and feature programs on WKAR-TV, Channel 10, each week.

Dorm switchboards are another means for students to earn extra money in addition to being a University service.

As part of the campus telephone network, switchboard operators like these in Mason Hall do their best to prevent communications problems.

IBM machines eliminate hours of card sorting. All registration and class cards are processed by this method.

Every student must register his car and obtain a permit issued by campus police to drive and park on campus.

Parking lots are only part of the worries of the Maintenance Department.

The sorting of IBM cards and auto registration during enrollment week provides jobs for many campus students. Student workers spend many nights and days sorting thousands of cards while others aid Campus police in distributing auto permits to about 9,000 students during the school year.

Another University service is under the Campus Planning and Grounds Maintenance division whose year around efforts make MSU one of the nation's most beautiful campuses.

A service familiar to almost all students sometime in their college career, but not so welcome, is Olin Memorial Hospital.

The Hospital offers general clinical service for a common cold or flu to X-rays, surgery, and mental hygiene care. For just the cost of medicine or special treatment, students check in at the desk to see a doctor or spend a short while resting from a broken ankle as the result of a freak skiing accident or football injury in addition to treatment for many other ills.

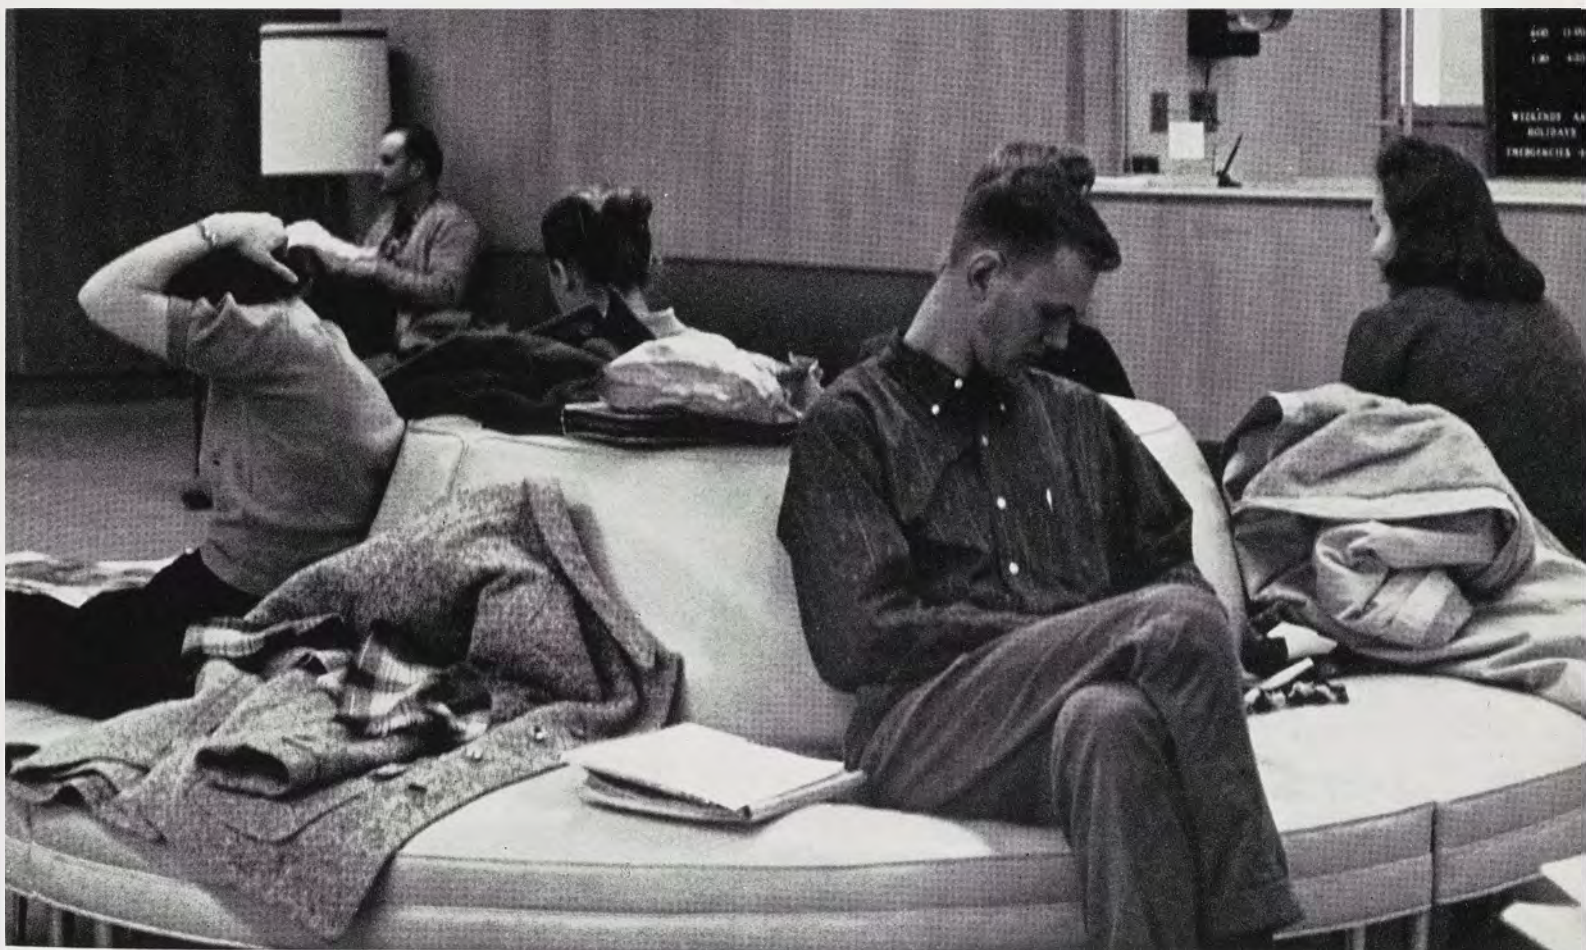

A staff of doctors, headed by Dr. James Feurig, man the center on week days and are on call at night and on weekends.

The X-ray equipment is given a work out during registration week when all incoming freshmen are given free chest X-rays. Another of the Hospital's many services are the flu shots given upon request during enrollment period. The familiar, "Say ahhhh," can be heard at almost anytime as 200 students see the doctors every day.

The year-round efforts of the Grounds department keep MSU's campus one of the nation's most beautiful. Here painstaking care is given to tulip beds outside Student Services building.

Olin Memorial Health Center is open to students at all times for treatment. The only charge is for medicine and other supplies used.

Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, the foremost building of its type, accommodates 100,000 guests a year for conventions of all types.

Kitchen facilities at Kellogg Center prepare luncheons and banquets for more than 500 conferences a year.

Among the many services the university offers to students, their parents, university officials and persons connected with continuing education is Kellogg Center, also the country's outstanding training ground for Hotel Administration students.

The pound of a hammer and the buzz of a saw have been familiar sounds around Kellogg the past year as an addition is being added to the original structure built in 1951, the first of its kind in the nation.

The new wing, to the south of the present structure, will include ten conference rooms, 30 additional offices and an enlargement of the present auditorium to make it similar to the setup of Fairchild and the Aud. A revolving library will be established to fit the needs of the groups scheduled for conferences. A patio will be located between the original Kellogg, still keeping the original number of sleeping rooms for 300 adults, and the new wing.

The original residence on the Wilson estate will be a museum on the MSU-O campus.

The first academic building at MSU-O will be in use by fall of 1959.

This fall term MSU's new branch in Oakland County will open its doors to a freshman class of at least 500 students, according to conservative estimates.

This "sister" to MSU, which has come to be known as MSU-O, was made possible by a grant from Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Wilson amounting to $8,000,000. Construction of the first building, which will be primarily academic, is progressing according to schedule. A building which will combine the facilities of student services, social activities, and food service is next on the construction agenda. The first curriculum will offer degree programs in four areas: business administration, engineering, liberal arts, and teacher education.

MSU-O will be an entirely separate school, not a duplicate of MSU, according to President John Hannah. Since there will be no dorm facilities this fall, MSU-O will be a "commuter college" for a while.

Fee windows in the Administration building are primary stops for many students during the registration process.

PRE-ENROLLMENT AND REGISTRATION

There is no getting around it, Michigan State University is a big school with a mushrooming enrollment.

Though the new student soon finds that this "bigness" is no detriment to the friendly atmosphere of the campus, he also learns that entering a large university involves a lot of preliminary red tape and preparation.

Communication with the Registrar begins his contact with the school. After applications and transcripts are accepted, he receives a notice which he uses to apply for housing.

Tom King, Dean of Students.

One of the most enjoyable preliminaries to collegiate life, according to the freshmen, is the summer Counseling Clinic.

These three day orientation periods held during the summer months are designed to give the new student an indication of what to expect in the university atmosphere. All the excitement of a new environment is experienced by these fledgling collegians as they descend on the dormitories to meet sight unseen roommates.

Counseling services assist students in curriculum selection and personal problems.

The information desk at the Administration building solves many student problems.

Foreign students receive counseling and guidance during their stay at MSU.

Orientation tests for freshmen take place during orientation week in the fall and the summer counseling clinics.

Registration gives confused students many a headache. A student may spend from 45 minutes to three or four hours here before he obtains his schedule.

Living in the dormitories introduces coeds to all the rules and regulations of a campus living unit . . . with the "signing in and out" process and the bugaboo of "late minutes."

Then they are faced with a seemingly never-ending avalanche of tests . . . aptitude tests, math tests, English usage tests . . . they go on and on. But as the incoming student roams the campus looking for various classrooms, he begins to undergo that gradual process of integration into the collegiate community.

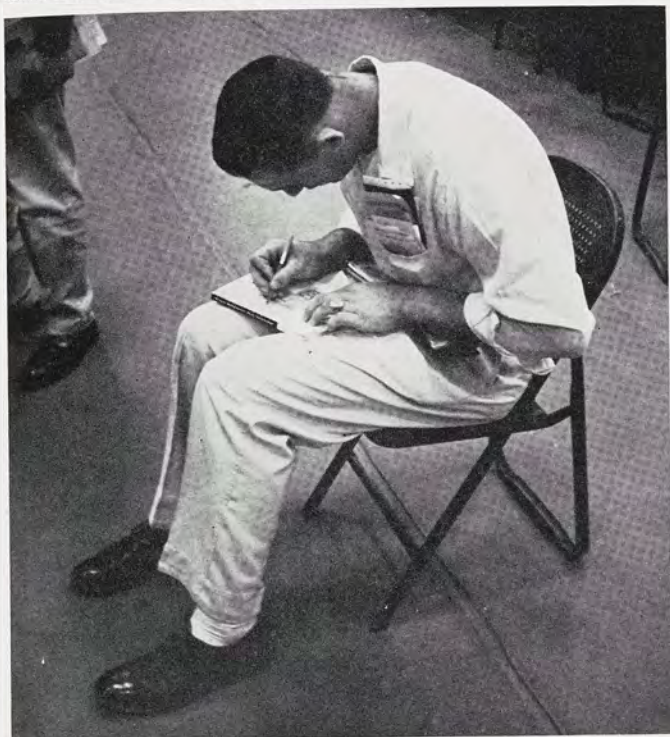

There is the unmistakable shift into the campus jargon. Overnight, the Auditorium, the Natural Science Building and the Social Science classrooms become "the Aud, the Nat Sci Building and the Soc" classrooms.

The metamorphosis really seems complete when conversations begin to include references to "Jake's," the College Drug and "grilling."

Getting acquainted with MSU traditions is another important aspect of the Counseling Clinic program. To the incoming freshman, there is a certain aura around the "becoming a coed at Beaumont Tower" legend and other "rah, rah" elements of university life.

There are song sessions where he is primed for football games and pep rallies with the "Spartan Fight Song" and "MSU Shadows."

Reworking of schedules around open sections is a familiar task to registering students.

To complete the orientation period, there are campus tours, social affairs and talks from university administrators.

If the freshman-to-be has participated in the Clinic, he is over the first hump of adjustment to a new environment when he enters MSU in the fall.

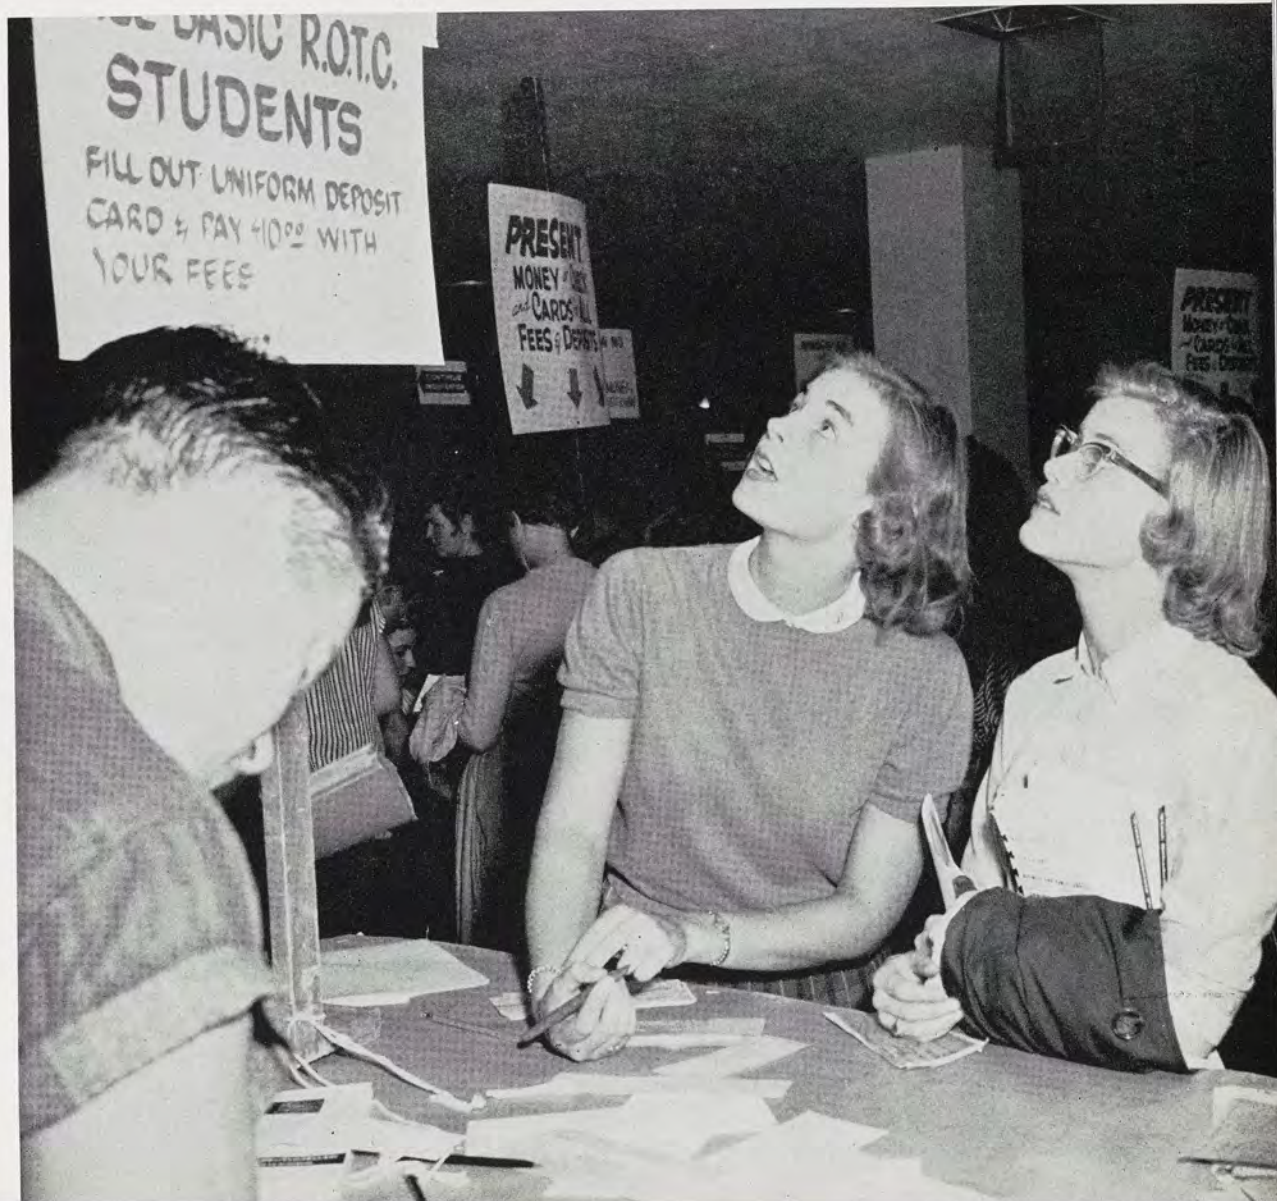

But unfortunately, he still has to face that necessary period of organized chaos known to him only as registration. As he looks over the balcony of the Aud for the first time at the maneuverings of his colleagues swarming below, the full impact of this procedure finally hits home. True, enrollment officers and upperclassmen have warned him of this ominous day and paradoxically assured him that "it won't be so bad." But nothing has quite prepared him for what looks like the personification of confusion.

However, as the freshman joins the others already resigned to the endless lines, files past the eagle-eyed checkers and futilely tries to get into a closed section, he soon learns that at registration it's best to put the lid on your id to avoid unnecessary frustration.

And as he finally leaves the Aud, a free man, he feels that at last, he has really arrived at MSU.

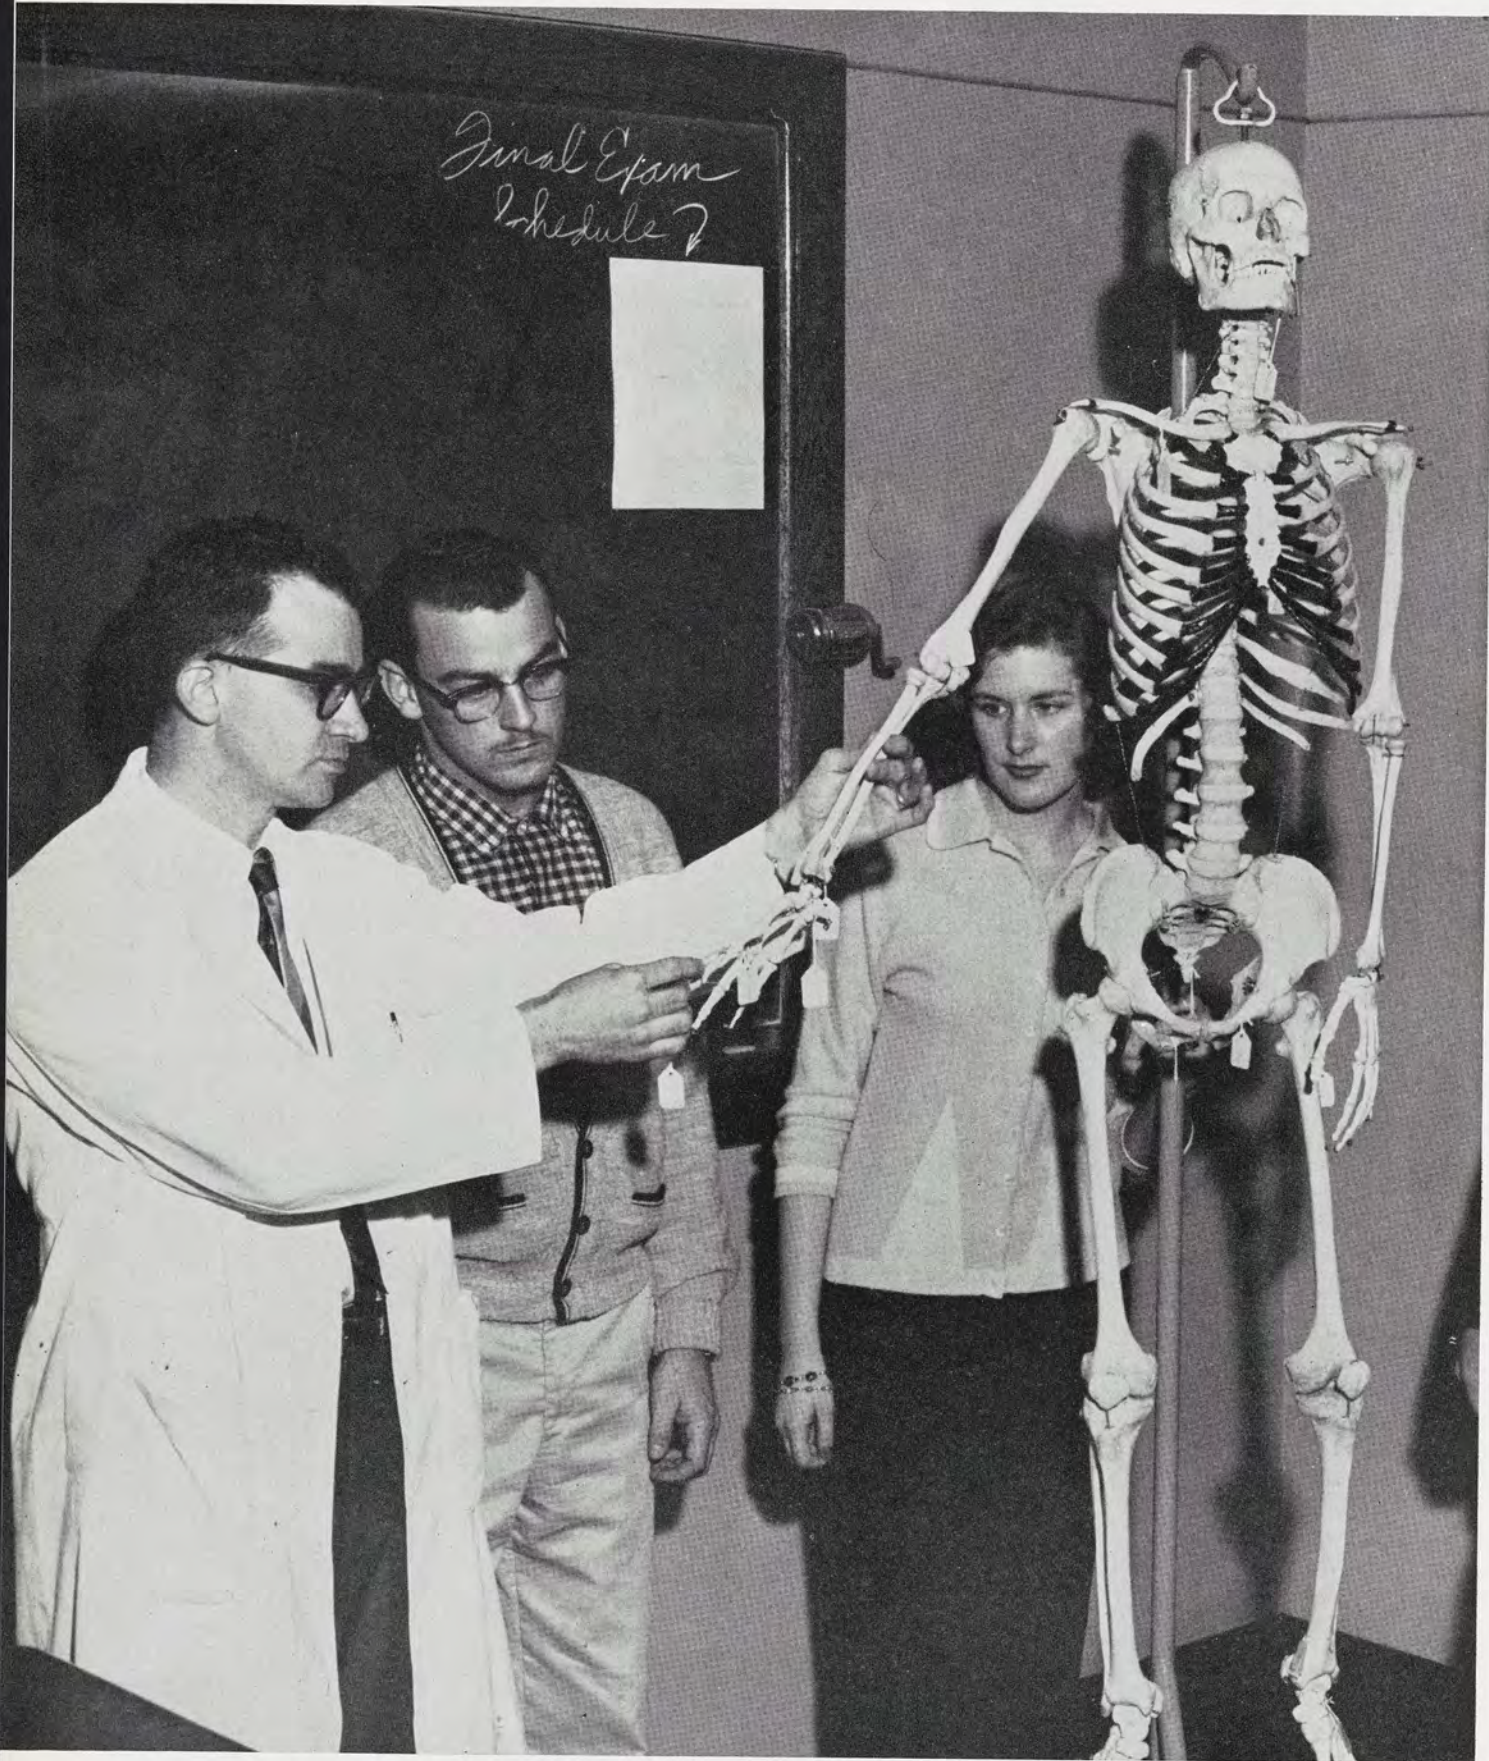

So enters, a new MSU future graduate!

Students often lose their way while picking up class cards. While these girls may seem confused, they are nonetheless on the right track.

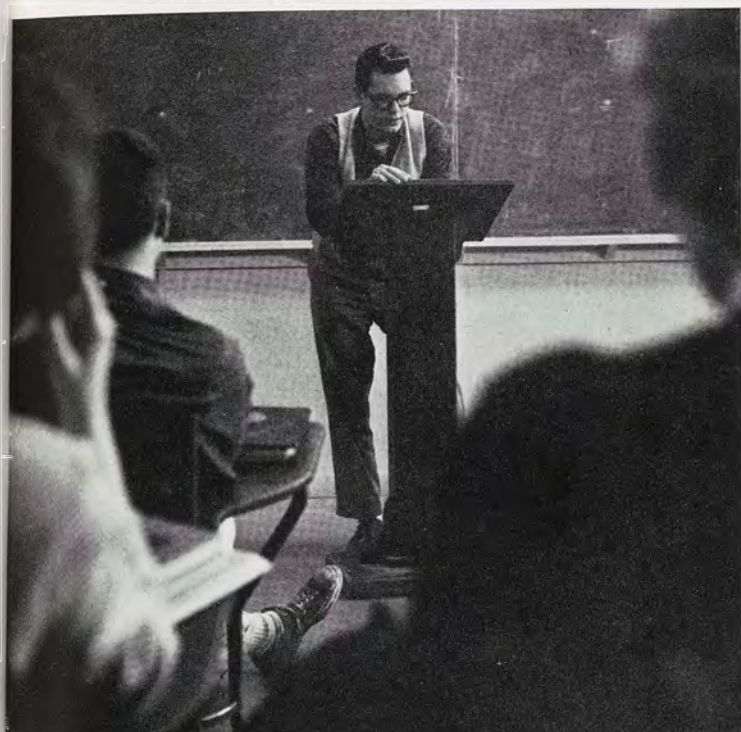

BASIC COLLEGE

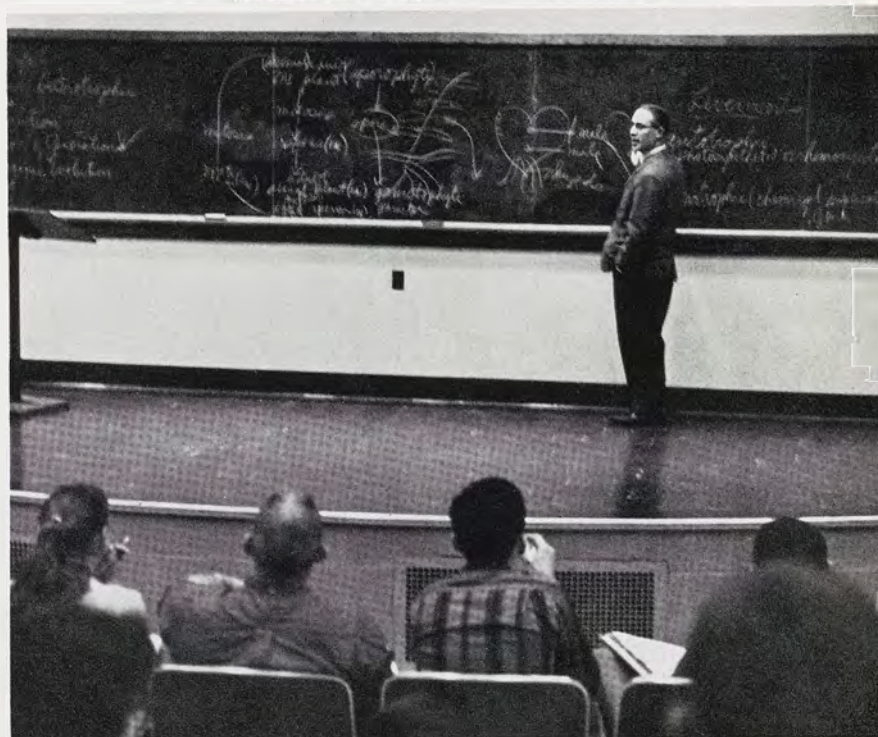

Freshmen study the structure of the human body in Natural Science lab periods.

Public speaking experience is an important component of the Basic College's Communication Skills program.

Natural Science lectures give the student practical knowledge of the world around us.

Having the largest college enrollment, over 6,500 freshmen and sophomore students, the Basic College, under the supervision of Dean Edward A. Carlin, serves a multipurpose function. Its aim is to provide all freshmen and sophomores with minimum requirements of a liberal education in the sciences and arts via courses in Communication Skills, Natural Science, Social Science and Humanities.

Although Michigan State pioneered this field, almost all institutions of higher learning now have a similar program. The Basic College boasts a highly trained faculty with approximately 80 percent of the instructors having Doctor's degrees. These educated men and women are constantly striving not to train specialists in a particular field, but to supply every student with a curriculum designed to broaden their intellectual and scientific background for better living.

All freshmen and sophomores are enrolled in this novel approach to education regardless of their major or aspirations. They are required, either willingly or unwillingly, to take the four core subjects in their first two years. These courses are separate but integrated in a manner to demonstrate to students the necessity and value of a basic education.

Communication Skills introduces freshmen to the necessity of accurate speaking, writing, and listening. Lab periods consist of small groups when students analyze public speaking procedures and practice skills in written communication. The first college term paper is the highlight of the course.

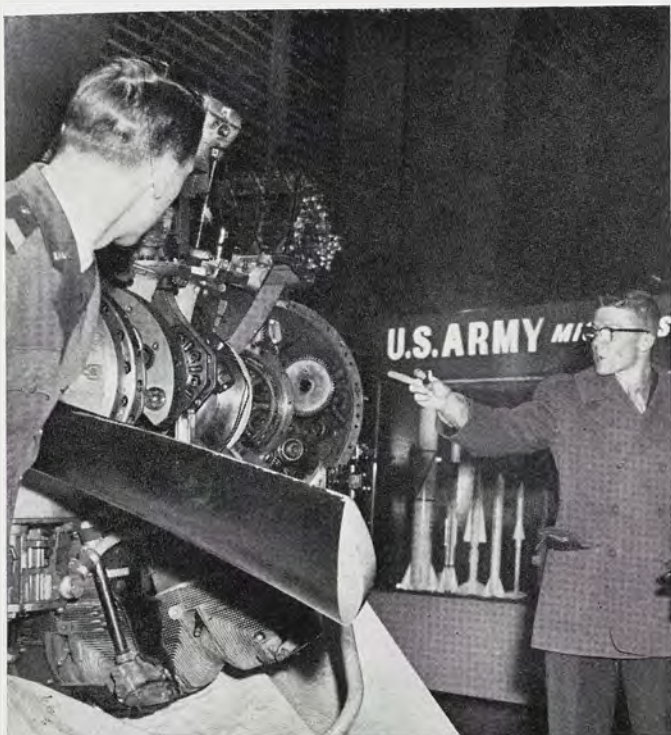

Peering through microscopes at small objects and pricking one's finger for a blood type sample may strain a few nerves, but instructors require it for Natural Science in addition to other interesting biological, physical, and geological experiments.

Politics, economics, government, and anthropology constitute the Social Science program, while Socrates, Shakespeare, Dante, philosophy, art, and culture occupy the minds of students studying the Humanities.

ARMY AND AIR ROTC

Young and old turn out for the Army and Air Force ROTC parades, which take place either on Old College Field or on Grand River avenue.

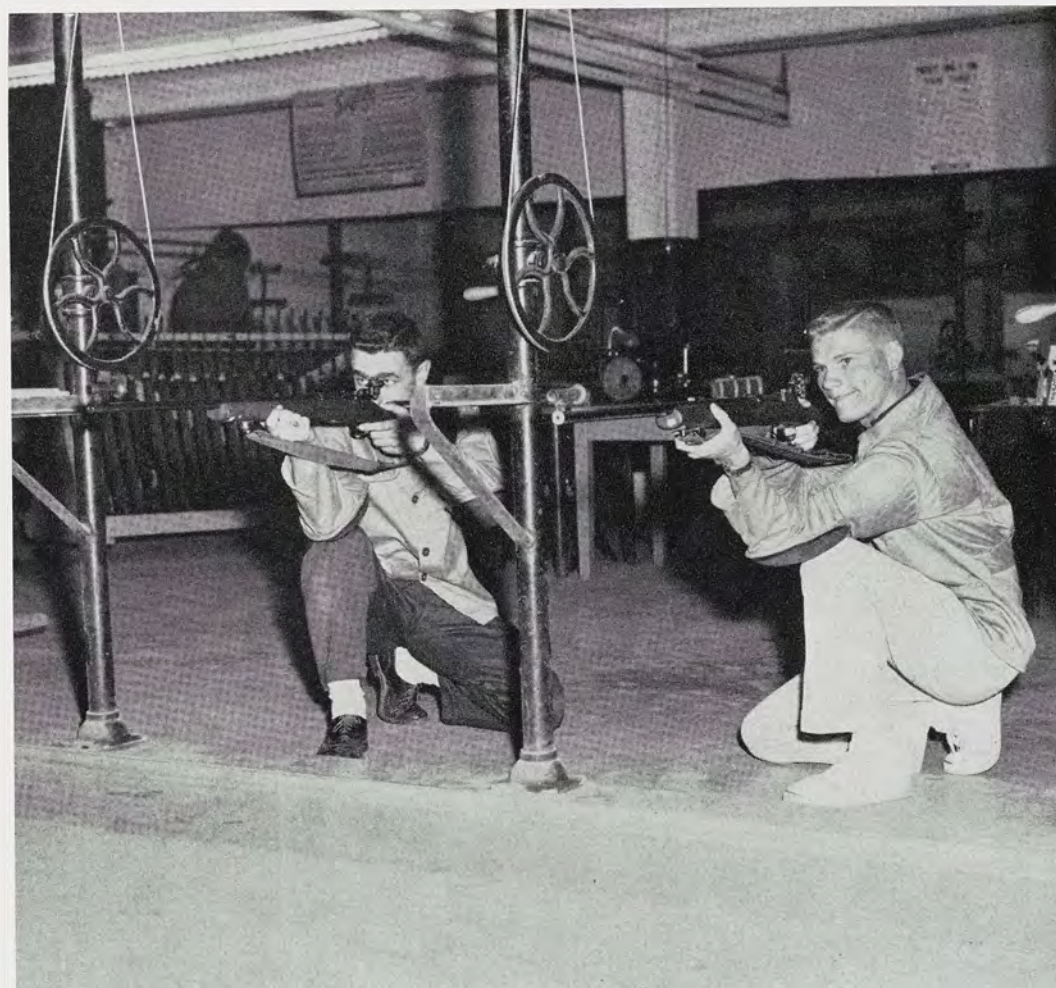

Army ROTC cadets check over the Air Force display in Dem Hall. Both ROTC units prepared exhibits for Farmers' Week.

ROTC, a four-year course optional in the junior and seniors years, renders to those who qualify a reserve officer's commission upon completion of the program and graduation.

Both Army and Air Force ROTC programs are offered to the freshman student entering the university. Selecting one of these, he remains in it until his training is completed.

As a sophomore approaching the halfway mark in his college career, the student is given an important choice concerning the fulfillment of his military obligation. If he is able to meet the high standards for acceptance into the advanced ROTC program, he may choose a tour of duty as an Army or Air Force officer.

Advanced cadets attend a summer camp session which lasts six weeks for Army cadets and four weeks for Air Force students. The cadets learn first hand at their respective camps the responsibilities of a military officer: leadership, physical fitness, military customs, and the handling of weapons.

Drawing a bead on their targets, two opponents shoot it out in the dual Army and Air Force rifle match.

Army ROTC cadets at summer camp at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, fire M-1 rifles under the direction of cadet squad leaders.

Air ROTC cadets deplane at Lansing City Airport, returning from an orientation trip to Robbins Air Force Base, Macon, Georgia.

From summer camp, held between the junior and senior year, the distinguished cadets are named and cadet staff positions are appointed.

Senior year finds the advance ROTC cadet in positions of leadership on the drill field and in the classroom. Those who qualify to become flying officers put in hours of flying time out of Capital City Airport.

Membership in the Arnold Air Society and Scabbard and Blade are just two of the honors the advance cadet strives for. These active military honoraries provide an opportunity to socialize with fellow cadets, soon to be fellow officers.

With the coming of spring, ROTC prepares for the culmination of the ROTC program—the commissioning ceremony. Many of the newly commissioned officers go directly on active duty, while others delay it to start graduate school.

Army ROTC seniors choose either two years or six months of active duty training. Air Force flying cadets serve for five years, nonflying cadets for three, and others for six months. Distinguished graduates of both programs may choose regular army commissions.

All in all, since its establishment, Michigan State University has aided in preparing the future officer and will continue to train university men as long as the need persists.

Captain Billy W. Baker, assistant professor of air science, administered the oath to new Air Force Second Lieutenants in the Student Services lounge fall term.

Physical fitness was stressed by the Army ROTC this year, as each advanced cadet was tested on the standard Army physical training course.

HONORS COLLEGE

Honors College students chat with Dr. Stanley J. Idzerda, Director of the Honors College, in the Honors College lounge. This lounge is but one of the many special benefits and privileges of this group.

"Our aim is to provide the challenge, stimulation, flexibility and freedom intellectually and academically for those students who are high achievers." This is the foundation for the Honors College, according to Dr. Stanley J. Idzerda, assistant to the vice-president for Honors College.

Actually the purpose of this college is defined by the end result. Only after its students have been out in the world for about 25 years, can the college evaluate its success.

The high standards of the Honors College require 42 to 92 credits with a 3.5 all-university average. A 3.2 is necessary to continue membership.

This relatively new venture in higher education had its beginning two years ago. Its present total enrollment is 420 students, only a small number of who will not be able to keep up the pace. An amazing factor is that an average of 4.5 per cent of the freshmen qualify for membership. Honors College members are just beginning to graduate with approximately 8 receiving degrees fall term and 20 winter term. A large number will be graduated this June.

Honors College students receive many privileges some of which are only given to graduate students and faculty members. As they say, "We get out of a lot of red tape." Students in the College do not need to take prerequisites, but may go right into advanced courses. They may register at any time and no sections are closed to them, a dream that becomes a reality only to these students. Numerous special seminars, colloquia and guest lecturers are available to Honors College members. Many of these courses are taken for no credit. Other courses provide special Honors College sections.

These advanced students often gather in the library where they have a special lounge in the stacks on the third floor. In this area there are study tables and blackboards for students to work mathematical problems, along with lounging and smoking privileges. Modern paintings often cover the walls. Other library privileges include the opportunity to check out all magazines and bound volumes for three days.

There are two special features of MSU's Honors College. This is the only school in the country to have a full time staff member assigned to it. Also we are the only university having honors work in all disciplines. The University of Michigan, University of Minnesota and others provide this type of work only in special fields.

Dr. Idzerda, one of the most popular faculty members and widely recognized for his own academic superiority, has been director of the College since it was formed. He holds four degrees including a Ph.D. in Art History. His first degree was a B.S. in Mechanical Engineering. Prior to heading the Honors College, Dr. Idzerda was associate professor of Humanities and dean for research and development in Basic College.

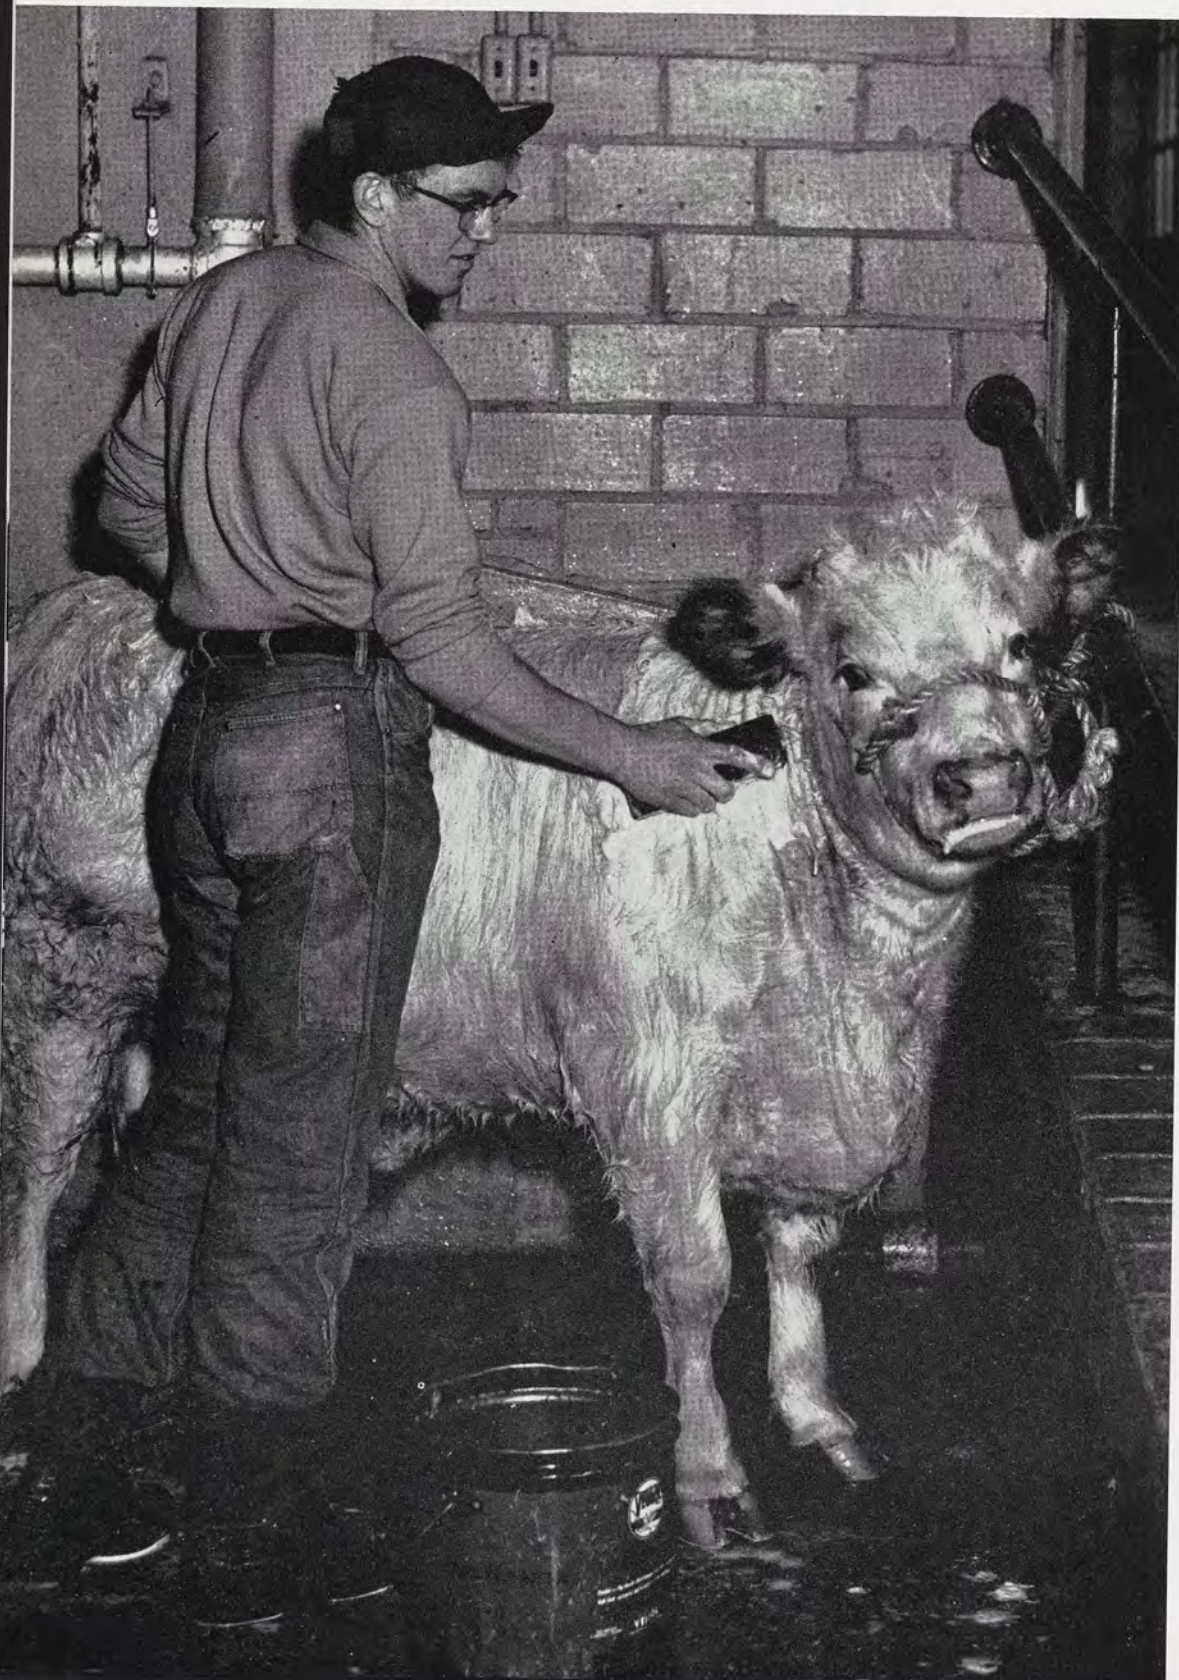

Two Honors College coeds utilize the closed stack privileges of Honors College students in working on term papers.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Proudly possessing a heritage of over 100 years, the Michigan State College of Agriculture is the oldest of its kind in the world. From it came the idea of the land-grant universities which have developed throughout the United States.

Ranging from flower arranging to poultry science, the curriculum is planned to establish contact with technical agriculture during the first two years and provide for specialization in the last two.

Showmen spend hours grooming their prize animals preparing for contests during Farmers' Week.

Indicative of the tremendous amount of research being conducted in animal husbandry, this cowboy helps tend more than 300 head of beef cattle on MSU's experimental farm.

Thomas K. Cowden is the dean of the giant program which trains young men and women to run scientifically the agriculture and farm industry of the nation.

Over 35 training areas, including poultry, husbandry, floral design and agricultural economics, constitute the various curricula in addition to the fine research facilities which are available to the 1,630 students.

The College of Agriculture provides much of the food consumed on campus every day, including all of the milk.

One of the newest programs is in packaging technology.

Interest in animals, including care, feeding, breeding and raising, is promoted in animal husbandry while dairy majors, doing more than milking cows, learn the science of correct diet. Planting and pruning procedures are emphasized in pomology, floriculture, and ornamental horticulture in addition to proper care to protect plant life from parasitic diseases. Food technology majors specialize in sterilizing fruit with an electron beam machine.

Floriculture majors spend hours studying and caring for the greenhouse flowers.

Soil scientist A. Earl Erickson demonstrates the "soil sniffer", a soil analyzer developed by him.

The intricate parts of farm machinery are carefully inspected in Ag Engineering classes.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS AND PUBLIC SERVICE

Students learn the manipulation of stenographic machines in the business education labs.

Whether it be the sound of the drumming typewriter or the clang and rattle of dishes, it is only students in the College of Business and Public Service in a lab class.

In the College a total of 4,196 students under the guiding hand of Dean Alfred L. Seelye are being trained in the fields of economics, police administration, secretarial work, restaurant and hotel administration, and marketing.

Business and Public Service majors call home a variety of places on campus. Hotel and restaurant administration majors work in the modern Kellogg Center much of the time while police administration majors call the police quonsets on South Campus their second home.

The purpose of the College is to equip students with the necessary knowledge for a career in the complex business world of today whether it be a secretarial job in a small, quiet office or a stock broker on Wall Street.

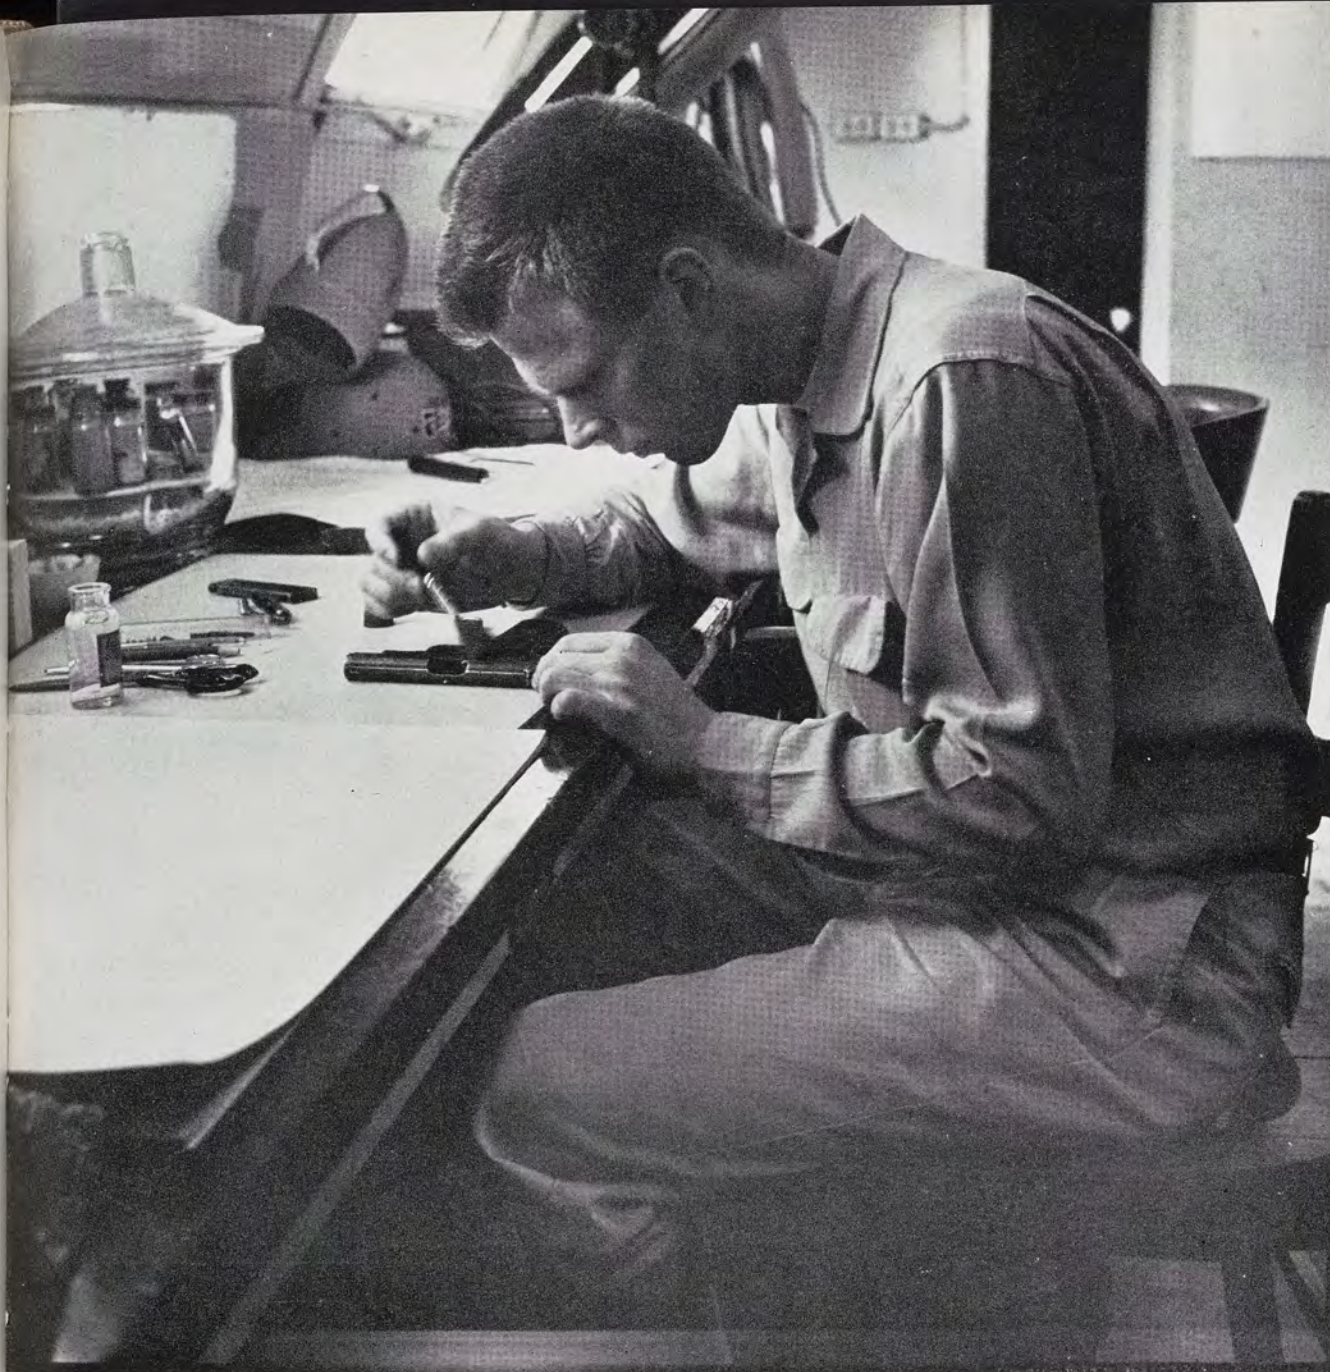

Business administration majors often struggle over ledger sheets in accounting or are busy trying to balance profit and loss statements. Kellogg Center is a huge laboratory for training in food preparation, management, and personnel policies while social workers specialize in on-the-job experience in field training courses. These are only a few of the varied courses and training programs in the College.

A model of MSU-O is being constructed in a Landscape Architecture and Urban Planning class.

Traffic jams are prevented with the help of Police Administration students, who direct campus traffic during rush hours.

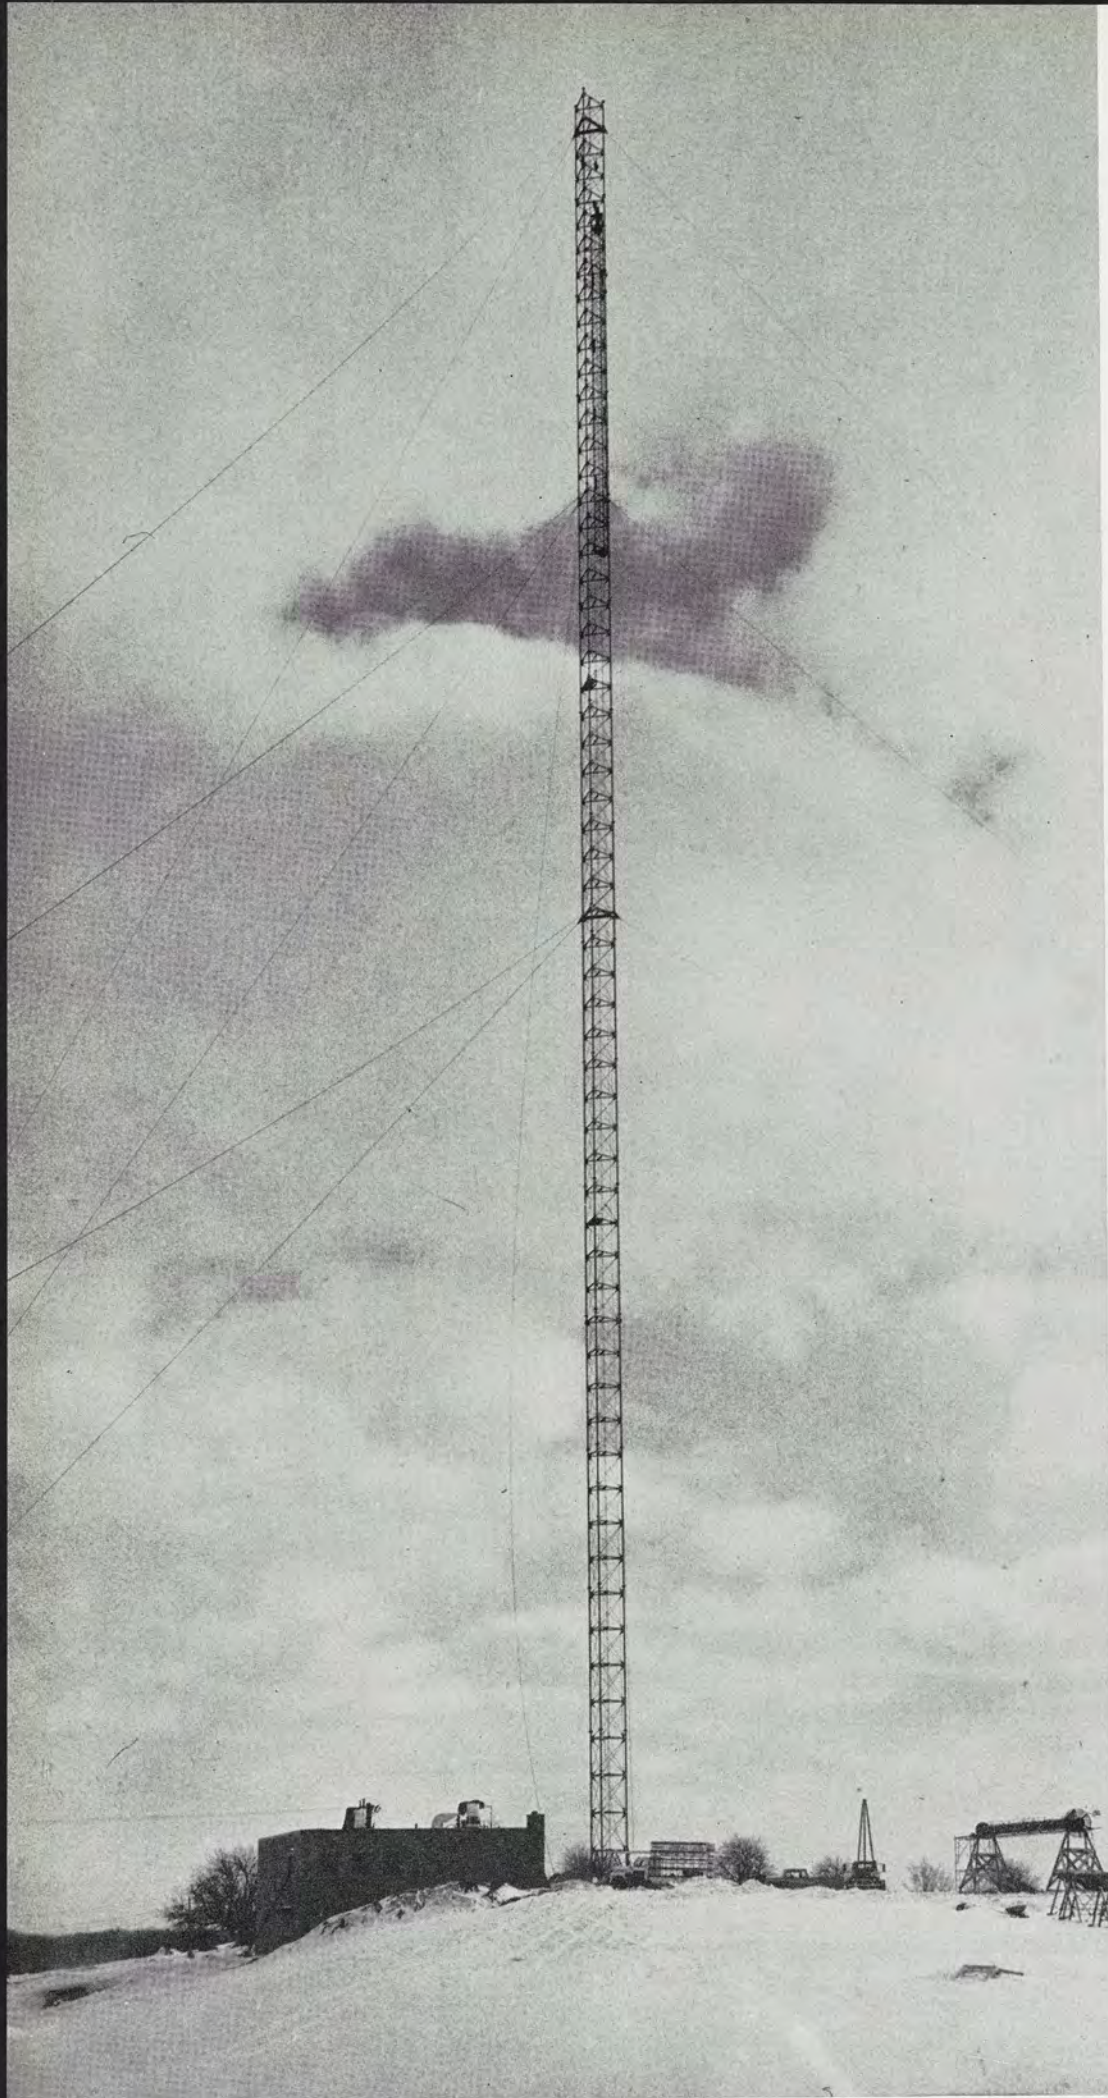

A police ad major investigates the intricacies of a pistol.

The Restaurant Management courses provide experience in food preparation as well as the business aspect of restaurants.

Completing its fourth year in operation, the College of Communication Arts trains its small enrollment of only 770 students in various areas of the mass media.

Under the capable leadership of Dean Gordon A. Sabine, the College has undergone several curriculum changes and revisions. The latest idea is a general communication arts program which attempts to integrate students from all branches of the Communication Arts College.

A liberal arts education sets the foundation for all students in this College including required courses in economics, literature, history, and upper divisional social sciences.

Students in radio and TV obtain first-hand experience in working with better equipment than the majority of commercial radio and TV studios at the University's educational station, WKAR-TV. Also many of the instructors have had successful careers in broadcasting before coming to MSU.

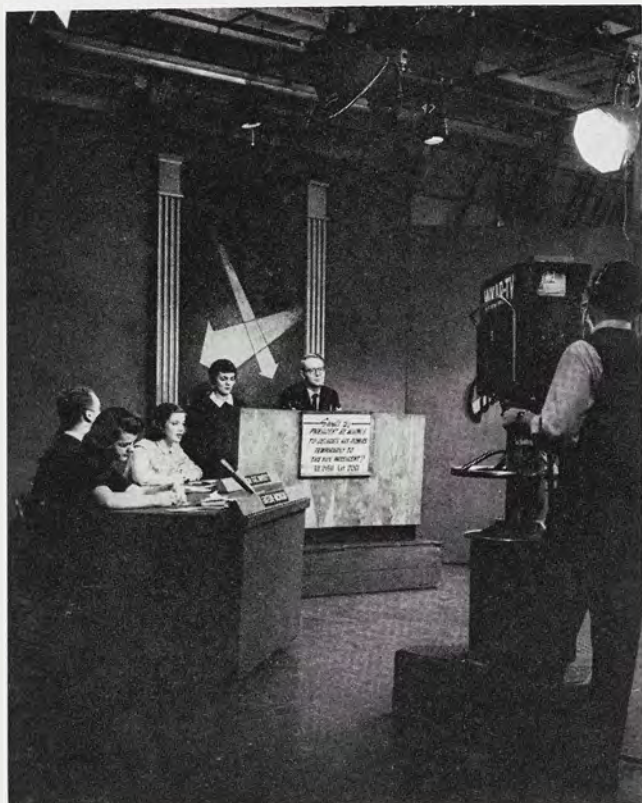

Speech majors spend many hours at the Clinic doing case work in speech correction with young children. This type of study gives them an opportunity to see their actual accomplishments they have made in correcting speech defects.

The new MSU directed station, WMSB-TV, at Onondaga serves the central part of Michigan.

COLLEGE OF COMMUNICATION ARTS

A student debate is telecast by WKAR-TV, now WMSB-TV. Students in the radio and TV curriculum gain experience by producing and telecasting the shows.

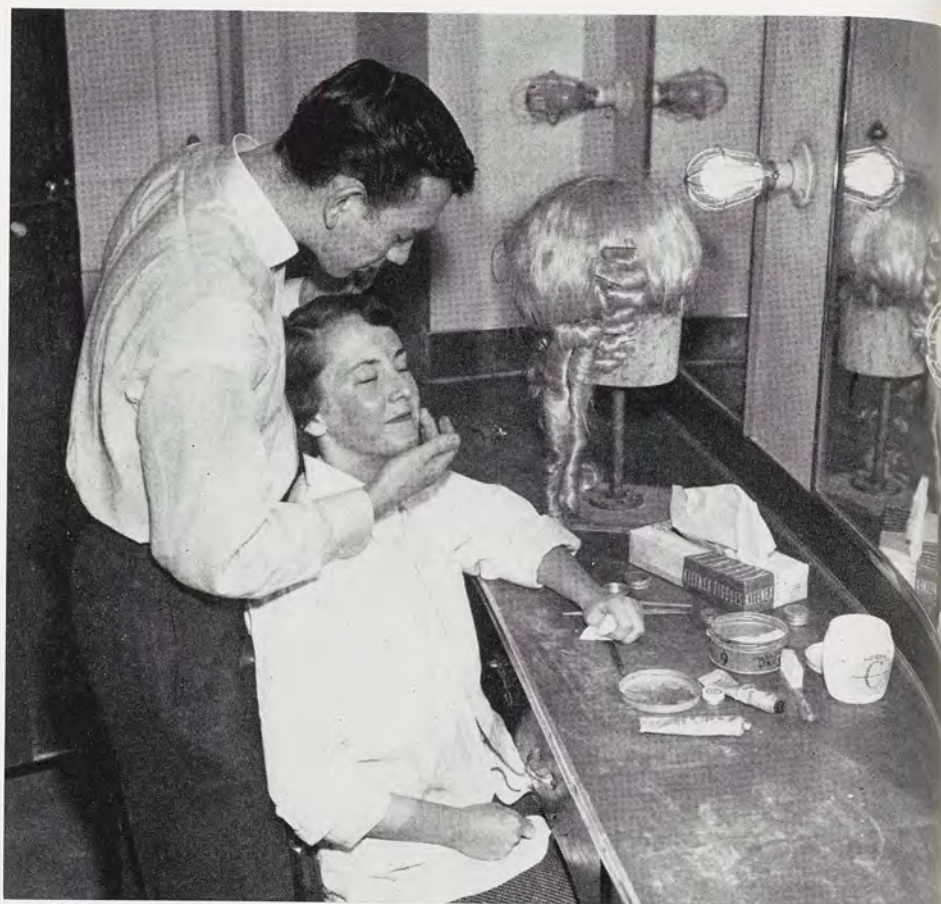

Complex electronic devices are used in the scientific study of communication.

TV camera experience is gained by shooting set-ups like this one.

Journalism and advertising majors take many of the same courses with stress on business for future Madison Avenue boys and history, economics, psychology, political science, and philosophy for prospective foreign correspondents. Journalism and advertising majors receive valuable experience with an opportunity to make quick decisions on the various campus publications, mainly the "State News." A specialty in the journalism department is a photography lab where students can learn the techniques of printing, developing and the Speed Graphic.

The Communications Research Center, under Dr. Paul Deutschmann, is also a feature of the College of Communication Arts.

Communication Arts majors do their own make-up for all campus productions.

The instructor of a press photography class discusses with the students one of many cameras used in photojournalism.

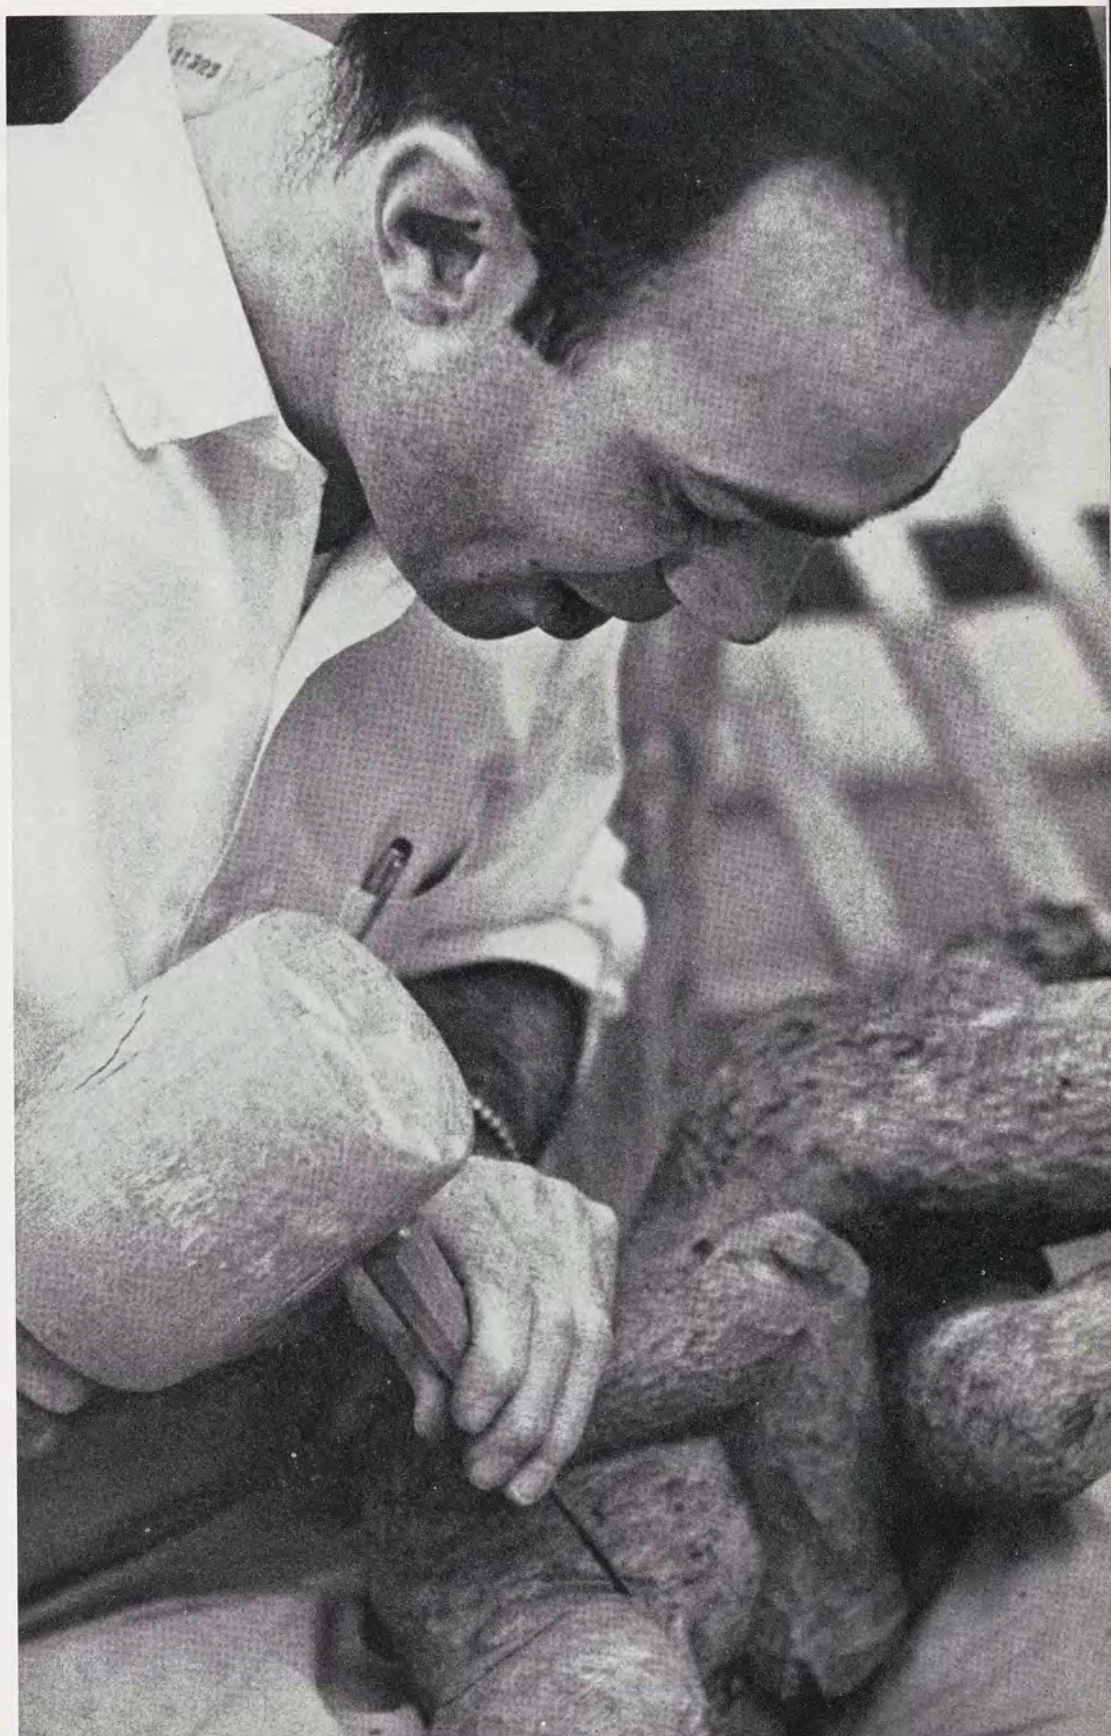

COLLEGE OF SCIENCE AND ARTS

The College of Science and Arts, equipped with the largest staff on the campus, and over 4,081 students, is a symbol of the ever-increasing diversity, complexity, and renown of Michigan State University. Founded in 1921, under the leadership of Dean Milton E. Muelder, until April 1, this year, and presently under Dean Lloyd C. Ferguson, it has grown to include five complete divisions: biological sciences, fine arts, language and literature, mathematical and physical sciences, and social sciences. These divisions offer courses leading toward a liberal education.

The college has the second largest enrollment of any college in the University and the largest enrollment in graduate students. The College of Science and Arts is playing a great part in the development of education for adults. A "Liberal Arts for Adults" program is a unique part of the program. As a future project, the college is looking forward to putting a Phi Beta Kappa chapter on this campus and making many more advancements to broaden and liberalize the education of all students.

In the field of Fine Arts, students are extremely proud of their new addition, the Kresge Art Center, located on the banks of the Red Cedar. The new and modern building provides modern equipment and facilities for art students, in addition to housing numerous famous art collections.

As an art major, sculptor Bob Litt carefully molds and develops his creation.

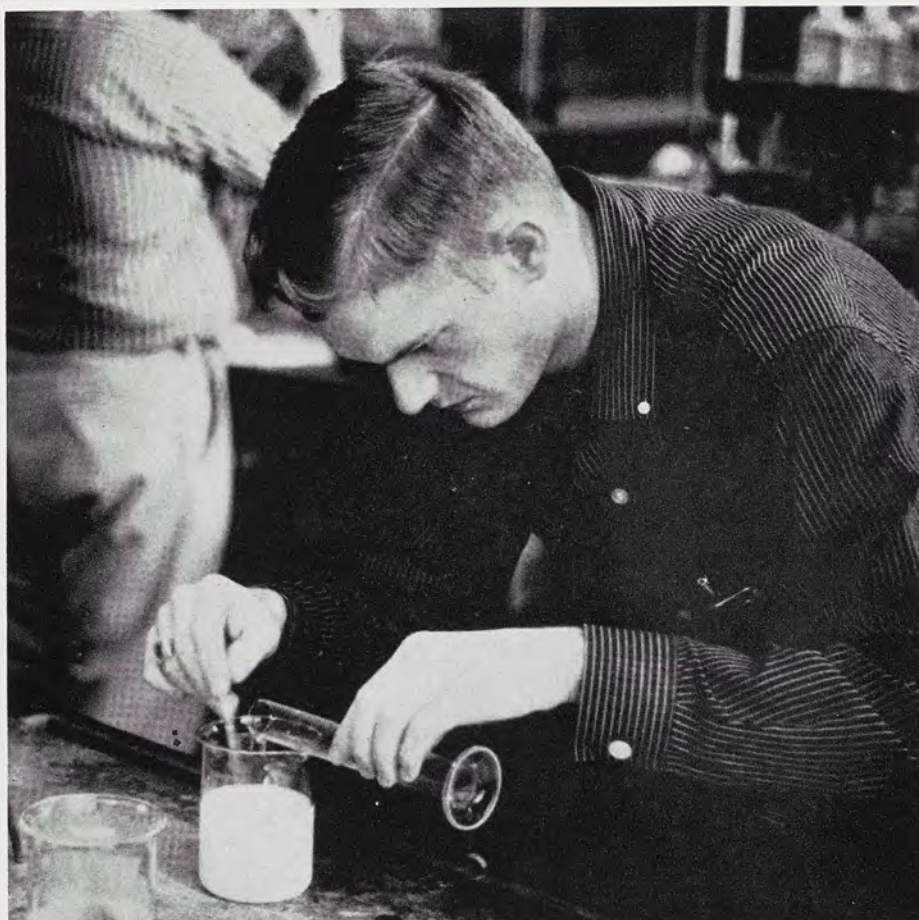

The beautiful new Kresge Art Center houses all the art classes and related subjects. Its displays are open daily to the public.

The physics lab is the place for personal observation of textbook material.

Student musicians devote plenty of time to practice in order to present their masterful orchestra concerts.

Excellent facilities are provided for students in all five divisions. The Physics-Math program provides work in research with high precision equipment such as an electron microscope. The Music Department has made great strides to add to the cultural atmosphere on the campus by its presentation of a musical and an opera workshop. The Language and Literature division was pleasantly surprised this year with the enrollment of 70 students in beginning Russian compared to 12 at the close of the previous year. With foreign languages once again gaining in prominence in a college education, an increase of 300 students was noted in all language courses. The Language Laboratory, located in Morrill Hall, is a new and unique feature of the Science and Arts program.

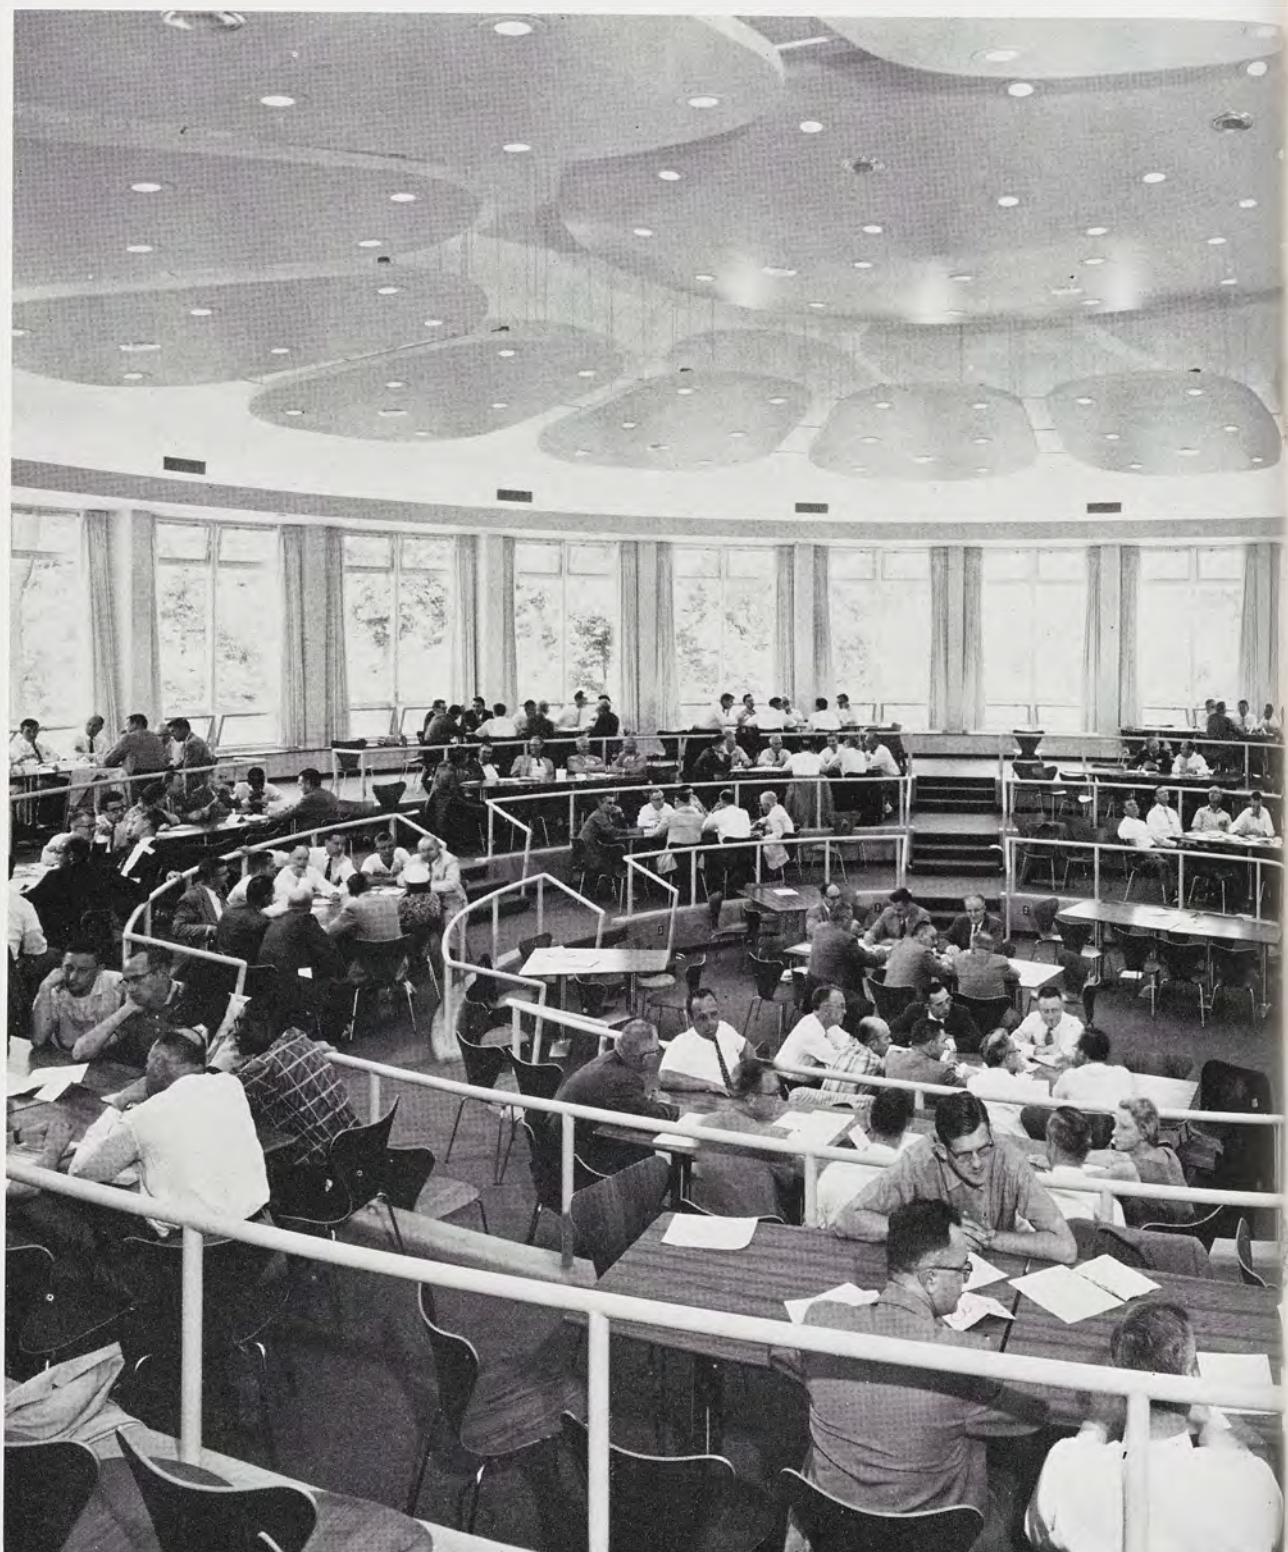

Chemistry students soon learn that it's not the results but how the results were obtained that is important.

Professor Leonard Jungwirth extends his knowledge to students by lectures as well as demonstrations.

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

This striking view of the Kiva of the impressive new Education Building is representative of MSU's mammoth expansion program.

The big move has taken place and the College of Education, under the leadership of Dean Clifford E. Erickson has completed its first full year in its new and modern building located on South Campus. The main feature of the structure is the circular lecture room called the "kiva." The "kiva" has been praised by many leading educators and has won fame in well-known magazines for its architectural design. The room is glass enclosed on three sides with a lecture stage on the fourth. There is another stage in the middle of the room which is surrounded by movable furniture.

Michigan State also has an answer to the teacher shortage in the College of Education with an enrollment of 2,991.

A term of student teaching, required of all education majors, is the highlight of the program. Students leave campus to live in a school community, take part in the neighborhood functions and most important get first-hand experience in teaching. This program provides the future teachers with a basic orientation before they are on their own.

Departments in the College of Education include Guidance and Counseling Training, Higher Education, Secondary Education, Elementary Education, Physical Education and Administrative Education. These departments all provide specialized training for their students.

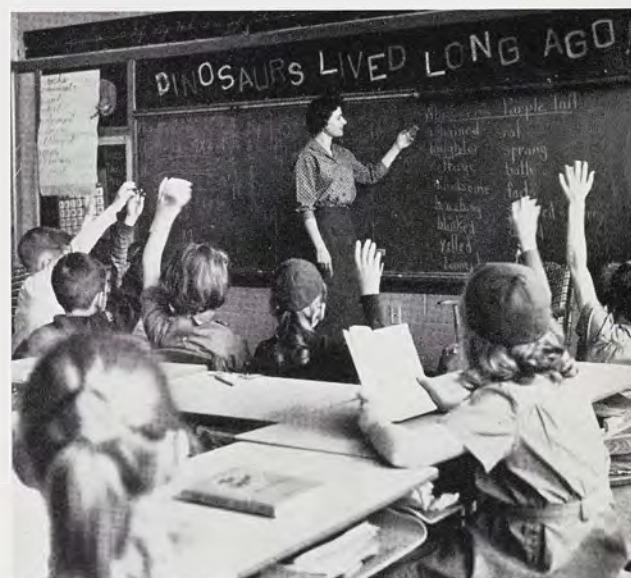

"Winnie the Pooh" is a popular book for all Elementary Education majors taking "Kiddie Lit," while Secondary Education majors may be found in political science, economics, or history courses.

Another feature in the College of Education is the schedule of informal coffee hours when students have an opportunity to meet their instructors.

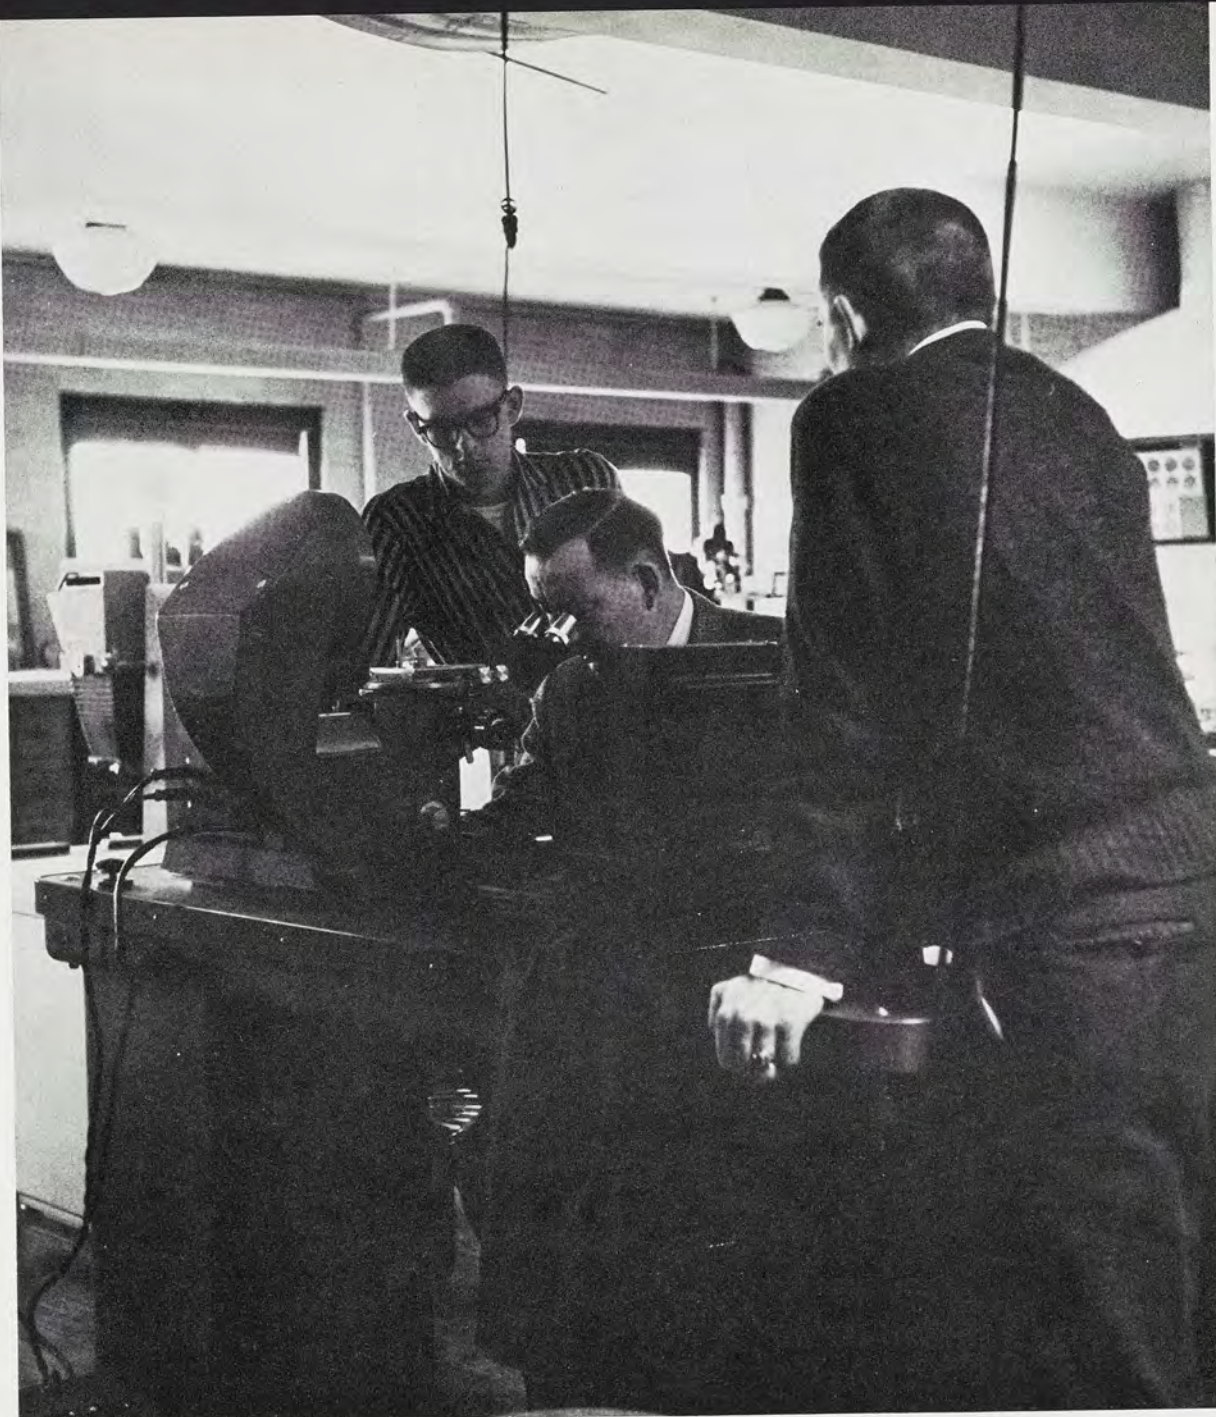

A student teacher's experiences are diversified, as evidenced here by a young pupil's art problems.

Displays are always prominent at the many education conferences and workshops.

The student teaching program offers education seniors a chance to learn the ways of a classroom while still under the supervision of an experienced instructor.

The instructor helps these engineering students examine metal under an electron microscope.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

Complex machinery, multi-colored graphs and slide rules are foremost on the minds of majors in the College of Engineering. The College, boasting over 1,956 students, is under the supervision of Dean John D. Ryder.

After undergoing a revision in 1957, the College now equips students with the scientific fundamentals in the six related fields of engineering.

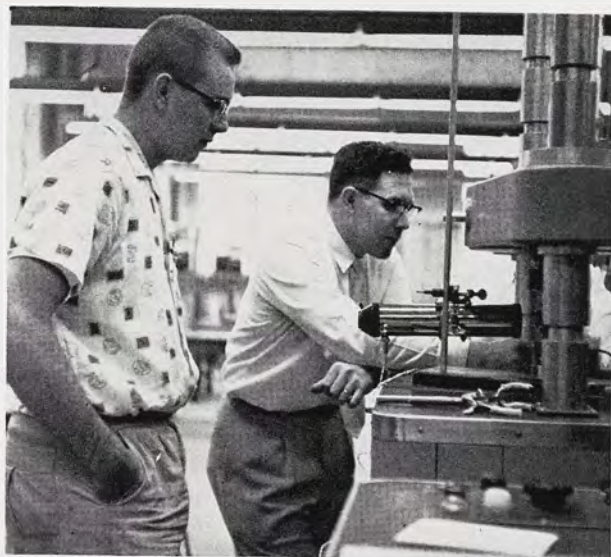

Before they begin their actual technical training, the future engineers receive a Basic College education. However, little or no time is left to take electives. As a freshman, an engineering major gets his first taste of college chemistry, physics, drawing, and lab courses. If the student manages to survive the first two years, he is admitted into the College of Engineering providing he has a 2.0 all-university and a 2.0 average in mathematics and science. All engineering majors are required to complete 212 credits prior to graduation except the civil engineers who must have 225 credits including 13 credits of summer field work. Engineering is usually a five year course if the student elects to take Advanced ROTC.

Modern devices for the use of students in electrical, civil, chemical and mechanical engineering are up-to-date measuring devices, a giant drill press, Mistic, the electronic "brain," and automotive equipment.

Modern equipment, like this X-ray machine, is necessary for adequate instruction in a well developed engineering curriculum.

Professor Tatro instructs students in the use of the complex apparatus of the Applied Mechanics lab.

Mechanical engineers of the future examine steam turbines in operation.

In addition to the demanding lab periods, engineering students must face a seemingly endless study schedule.

COLLEGE OF HOME ECONOMICS

Research in textile quality and composition is only a small part of the complete Home Economics program.

Testing the coagulation strength of the milk and eggs in a food is the job of this custard tester.

Preparing young women for their roles as homemakers, citizens and professional workers in today's societies is the purpose of the College of Home Economics, headed by Dean Thelma E. Porter.

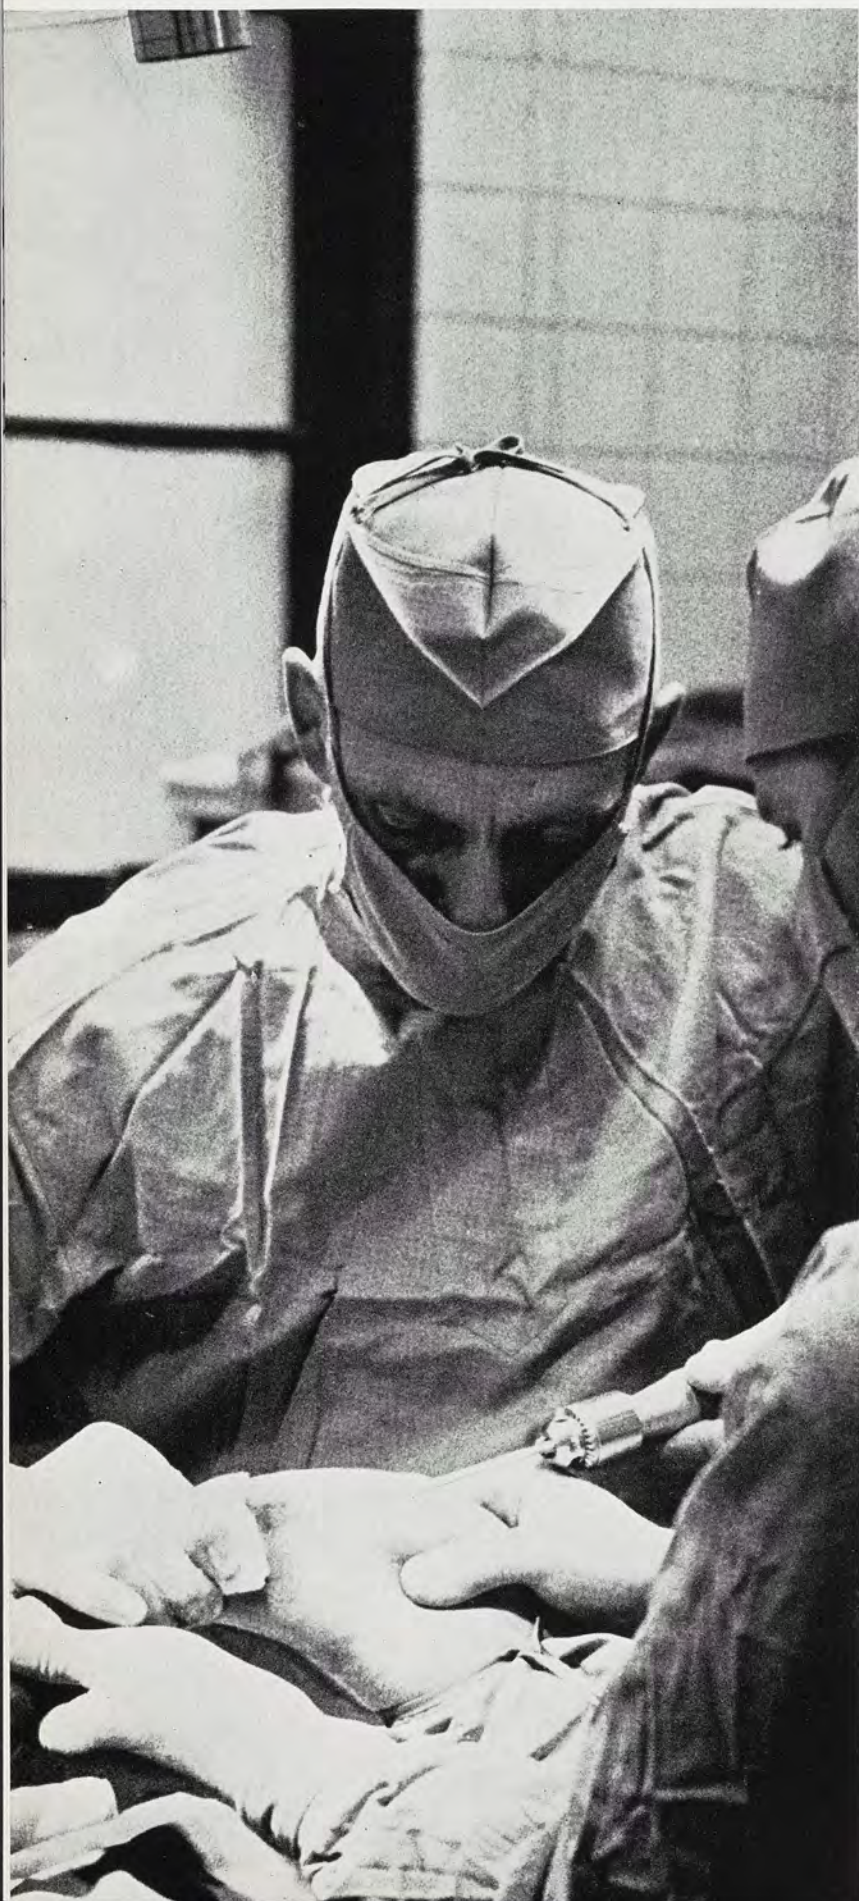

The curriculum is planned to provide the student with knowledge and understanding of the sciences, social sciences, humanities and application of the home economics subject matter in family and child development, home management and family economics, food and nutrition, housing and household equipment, and clothing, textiles and related arts.

Over 800 coeds, and a few scattered males, are given an opportunity to enrich their learning by observing the college nursery school, residence living in one of the home management houses, study of management practices in the University cafeteria or one of the residence halls, field experience in retailing and interior design, and experimental work in laboratories in foods, nutrition, and textiles.

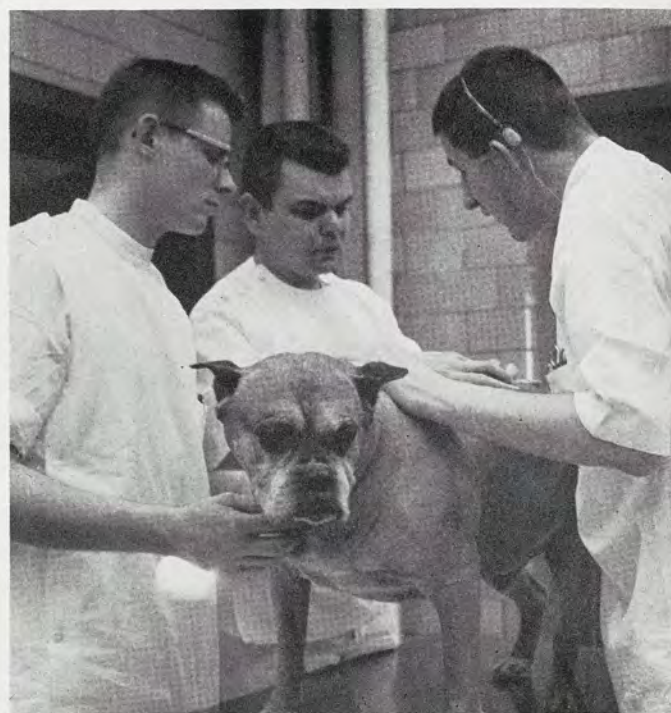

Child Development majors spend as much as twenty hours a week at the nursery school.

COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE

Operations such as this are performed daily in Giltner Hall. Vet Med students learn by assisting the staff members in these operations.

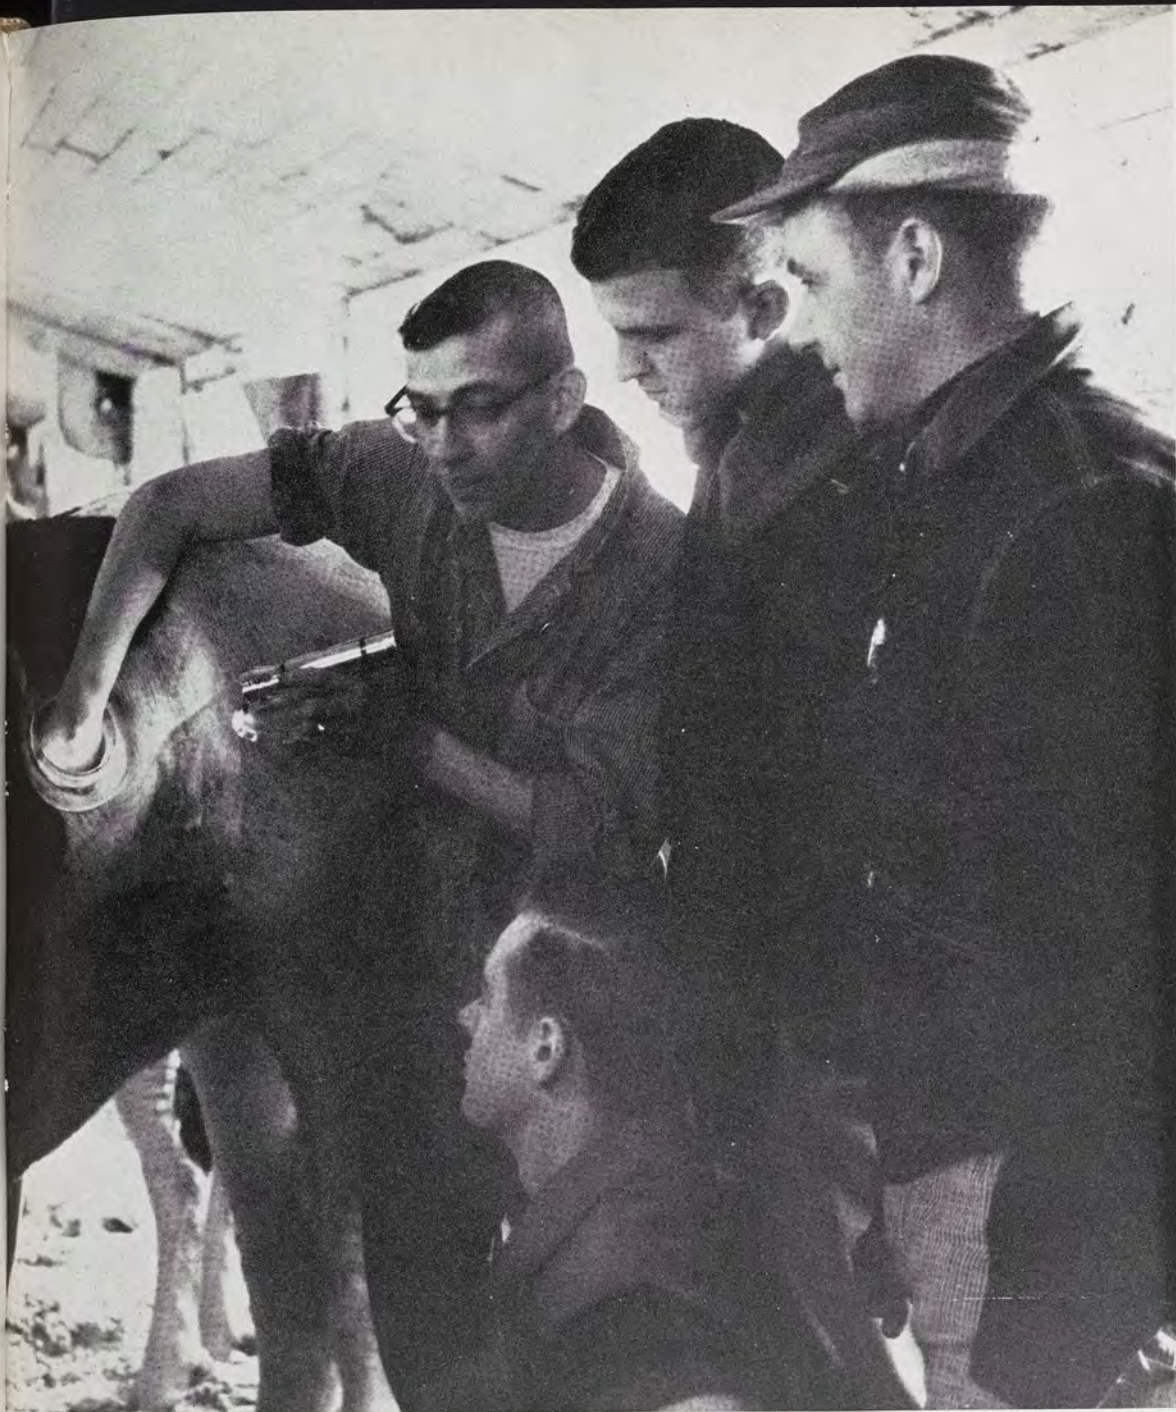

Upon entering the small animal clinic, this bewildered dog is carefully examined by Vet Med students. This program also provides Lansing area pet owners the best in small animal care.

Women veterinarians may not have come in with women's suffrage, but they are obviously playing a growing part in the College of Veterinary Medicine with about 7 coeds enrolled in addition to men.

Headquarters for the college, under the direction of Dean Willis W. Armistead is in the rambling Giltner Hall and the Small Animal Clinic.

The Vet School offers a comprehensive six year curriculum which eventually leads to a degree of Doctor of Veterinary Medicine (DVM). As in all medical schools, candidates are screened and interviewed extensively with a limited enrollment of approximately 64 being accepted each year into the professional school.

Learning the digestive system of a cow is made easier by this fistula tube and window in the animal's side.

As with all other Michigan State students, future veterinarians spend their first two years enrolled in the Basic College in addition to introductory and advanced work in chemistry, physics, and anatomy.

Students must maintain a high average and display exceptional ability in order to be admitted to the Vet School after their sophomore year.

Use of X-rays, dissection, pre-clinical work, lab problems, and pharmacology are the bulk of the first two years in the school. Both lecture and lab courses prevail.

In the last two years of Vet School, students arrive at a long awaited moment . . . an opportunity to practice on clinical cases.

Included in the Vet School program are classes for wives of the students. They work with sick animals in preparation for helping their husbands in later life.

Stubborn baby cows, peppy and frisky puppies, in addition to complicated surgical programs, are only a few of the obstacles to students in the College of Veterinary Medicine.

GRADUATE SCHOOL AND PLACEMENT

Graduate students, like this one in chemistry, may conduct years of research to obtain data for advanced degrees.

After completing four years studying for a Bachelor's degree, there is a transition period. Some students find themselves in the Placement Bureau while others enter the College of Advanced Graduate Studies.

Through the Placement Bureau, located in the Student Services Building, graduating seniors find the all-important help needed in finding a job. The Michigan State Placement service is one of the most extensive in the country.

Life in the Graduate School, along with other students under Dean Thomas H. Osgood, consists of many hours of reading in the library, scholarly study, and challenging thesis work. This school, established with a completely separate faculty, has continued to grow every year. It now has 3,638 students.

New Placement Bureau facilities in the Student Services Building allow business representatives to conduct 300-400 job interviews a day.

Mrs. Nancy Pattee is the efficient secretary who makes reservations, processes appointments, and arranges interviews in the Placement Bureau. As seen here, the waiting room is seldom empty.

The part time employment desk, under the direction of Mrs. Sue Willis, handles a constantly changing list of available jobs.

COMMENCEMENT

Graduation Day! A wonderful climax to senior pictures, cap and gown ordering, Senior Swingout, the President's reception, Water Carnival with Sabrina, the duck, but most of all a climax to four eventful years of college life . . . years that began in 1954 for the 1958 graduates and years that never will be forgotten.

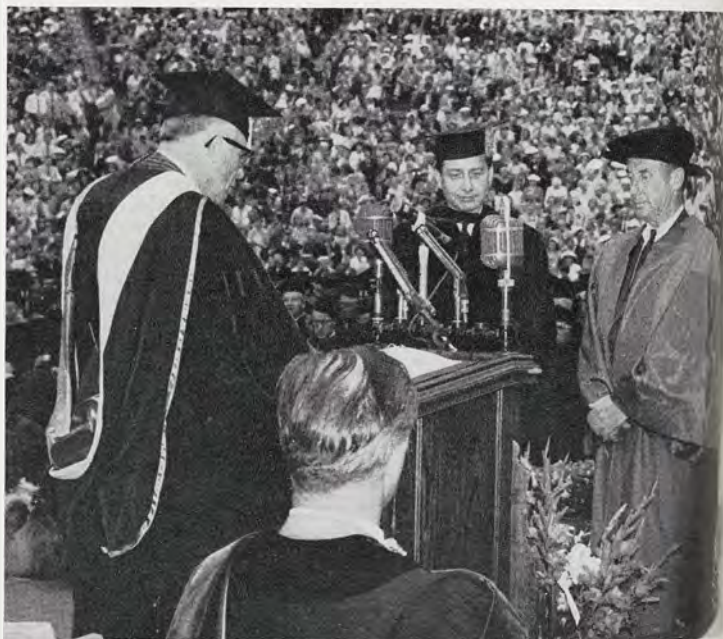

Commencement, 1958 with Adlai Stevenson as the guest speaker, was a big day for faculty, students and parents. About 2,000 men and women had successfully completed the requirements for the Bachelor's degree and were on their way to many walks of life, marriage, a new job, the service, or graduate school.

Parents journeyed from far and near for commencement and Kellogg Center was filled to capacity.

But graduation has the most meaning for the graduates themselves. Their senior year begins with Wolverine picture appointments and diploma applications, and is emphasized throughout the year by "Senior of the week" selections, placement interviews, and frequently, wedding plans.

Fall term, seniors see their last nostalgic football game and winter term they attend their last J-Hop and basketball game. Lantern Night, honoring 50 outstanding senior women, is another highlight of spring term.

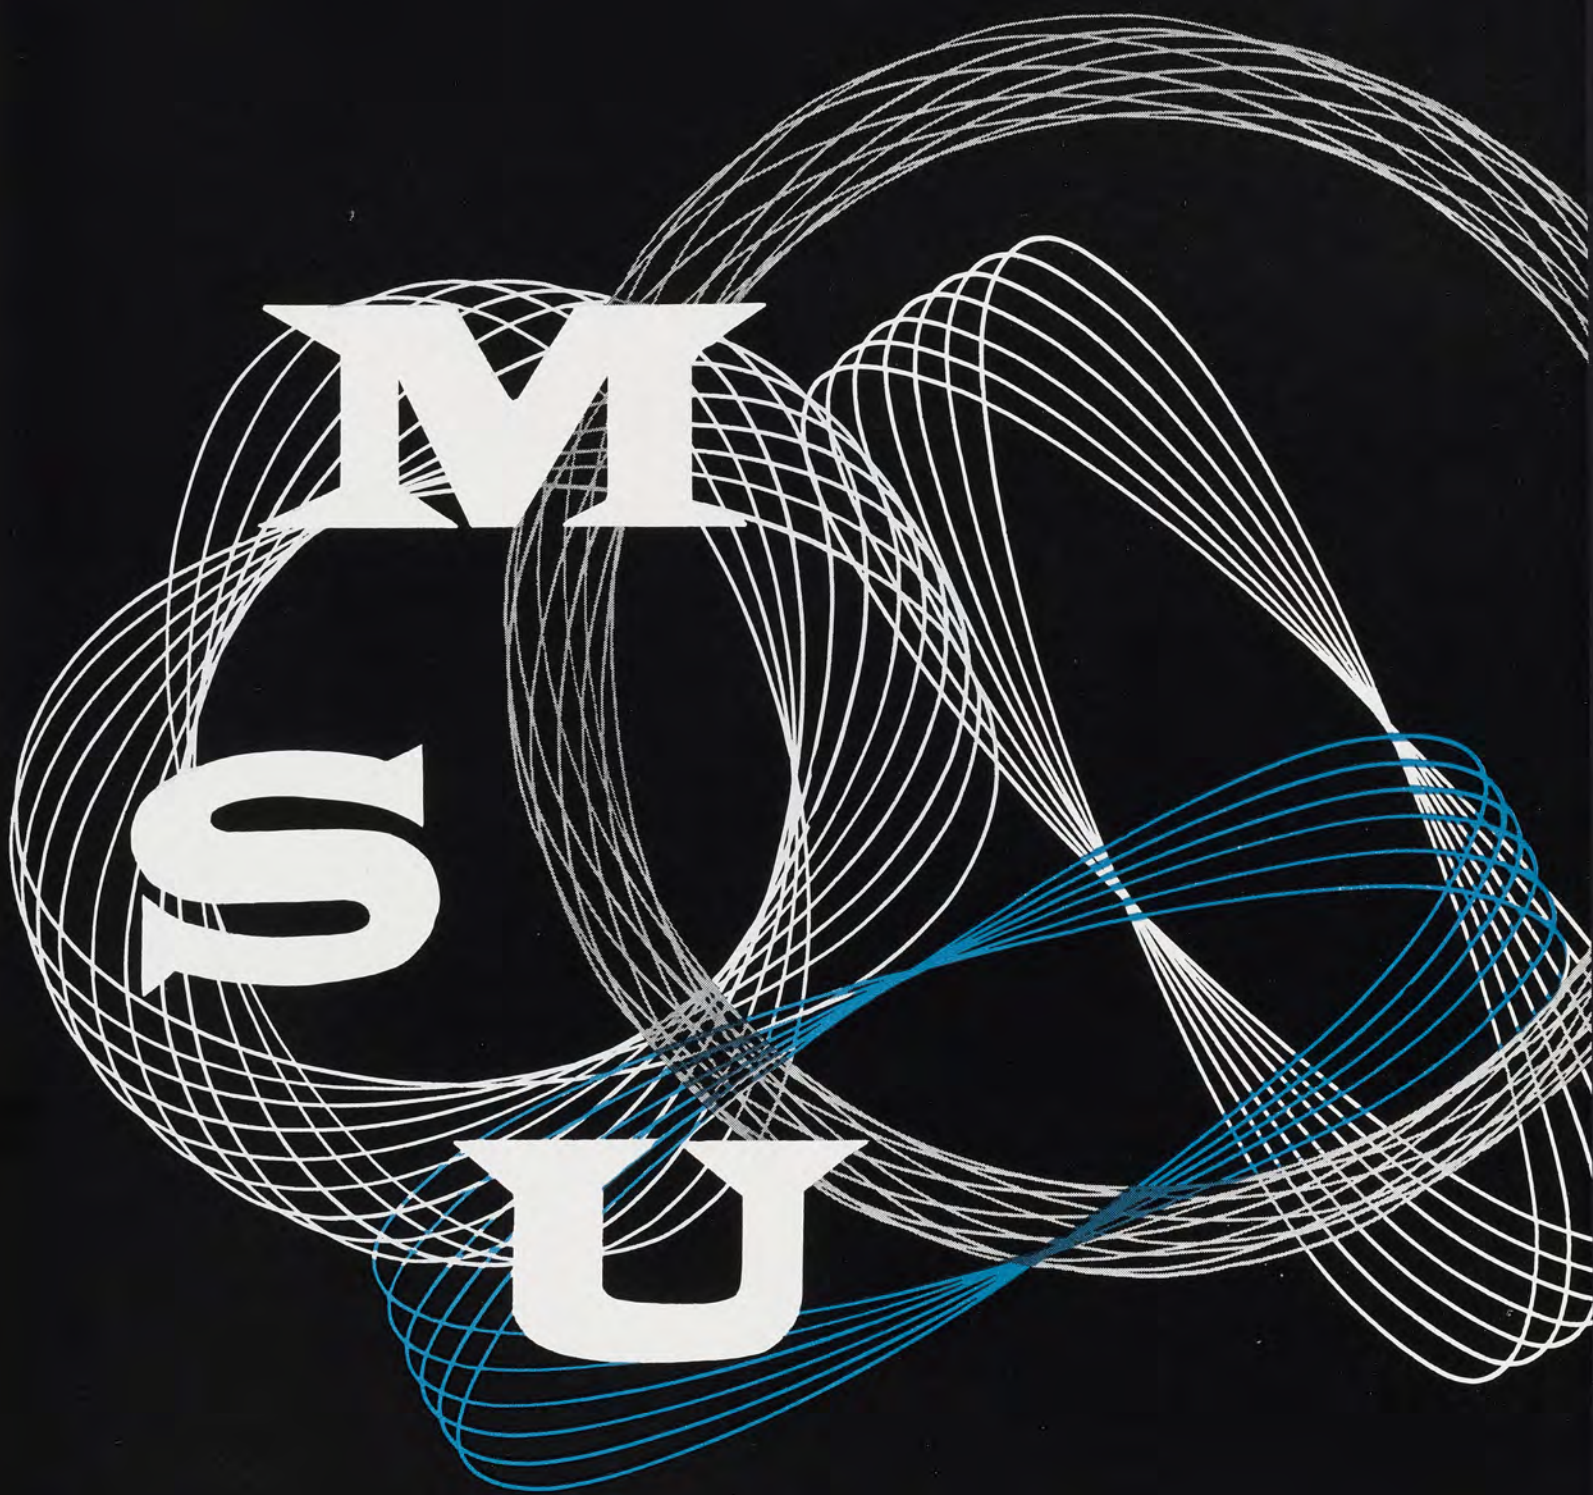

As before, the final senior show this year is the Water Carnival, staged commencement weekend under the direction of Don Langeloh, general chairman, and Dave Ball, senior class president.

Thousands of students, faculty, parents and friends either participated in, or witnessed the 1958 commencement ceremonies held in Spartan Stadium in spite of the threat of rain.

CLUBS AND SOCIETIES
HONORARIES
GOVERNING BODIES
VARSIITY TEAMS

If Old College Hall posted the "Reserved" sign with irritating frequency and the coffee consumed per campus capita climbed steadily throughout the school year, the reason is apparent in these pages. The number of student clubs and societies, honoraries, teams and councils on campus has grown in recent years until it seems impossible that such a broad variety of activities and interests could exist in one place. But exist they do, and thrive with memberships from 5 to 500. A notable fact, and perhaps the reason for so many groups, is that only a minority of them are truly all-university. As a result, in spite of its bigness, MSU cannot be called impersonal; the many and varied Student Groups have seen to that.

STUDENT GROUPS

The pizza party was prominent on organization social calendars this year.

Frequent correspondence to scattered members is a necessary ingredient in any active club.

Activities Carnival gave many campus groups the opportunity to display their interests to new students.

Meetings, meetings and more meetings, and not a drop of credit!

But to the thousands who belong to the variety of clubs at MSU, it's worth it.

Clubs and Societies

"Variety" is the key to campus clubs. You name it, we've got it. There are opportunities to develop interests and abilities in every field imaginable—from floriculture to forestry to food.

But meetings aren't the only activity of these organizations. There are field-trips, social events, discussion groups and guest speakers in varied fields. Many times, films are the highlight of the evening.

While enjoying friendships with others who share his interests, the club member also represents MSU in sports, song, dance and other competitive activities, and their alma mater is often honored with a blue ribbon.

Asher Student Foundation for Women

Asher Student Foundation for Women was organized in 1954 to establish a home for Christian Science women students that would be conducive to their further growth in their religion. The group, only religious living unit for women on campus, moved into their newly decorated home in 1956.

Membership in the Church of Christ Scientist, a branch church or some other Christian Science organization, plus an all-university 2.0 grade average is required.

The coeds continued to support a young German girl through a foster parents plan, a program they have fulfilled for several years. Presents for the girl and her family were mailed by the Foundation at Christmastime.

Each fall and winter term the coeds cooperate with the Asher Men to give a picnic for all Christian Science students on campus.

Decorations are nothing new at Asher Foundation for Women, and the Christmas season finds the coeds enjoying their decorating.

Asher Student Foundation for Men was founded in 1946 by a group of Christian Scientist World War II veterans. The founding members felt the purpose of Asher House was to provide housing for male Christian Scientist students which would further their scholastic, social and religious lives.

A scholarship program is provided to encourage the academic progress of Asher students. Members take part in university activities including the intramural sports program, Water Carnival and Junior 500.

Each term, the Asher men sponsor an educational talk by outstanding officials in business, education and public service.

Spring term the members held their dinner dance. Alumni were invited and awards were presented to students who had maintained high standards in academic and extra-curricular activities.

Putting the final touches on the Christmas tree, the men of Asher Foundation contribute to that home-away-from-home feeling.

Bethel Manor

Bethel Manor is an interdenominational living unit for Christian men. It was begun in 1942 to provide a student center for Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship and to develop leadership ability and maintain a spirit of Christian fellowship.

The Men of Bethel Manor hold term parties and are active in all intramural sports throughout the year. The Manor is available for Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship parties and meetings.

B'nai B'rith

B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation is a religious, cultural and social organization for Jewish students at MSU.

Besides observing religious services and holidays, the group held discussions of contemporary problems and study groups in Hebrew each week.

B'nai B'rith exists as part of a national organization devoted to activities among Jewish university students throughout the country.

Canterbury Club

Canterbury Club is a religious group open to college students interested in the Protestant Episcopal Church. The club is affiliated with the National Canterbury Association of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

The Sunday Evening programs of the group featured worship services, speakers, discussions and cost suppers.

Each term Canterbury Club holds a retreat providing a weekend of study and worship. The group also has an annual Shrove Tuesday Pancake supper preceding the Lenten season.

Christian Student Foundation

The Christian Student Foundation, whose chief goal is to further growth in Christianity, is a member of the World Christian Students Federation, which has representatives in over 50 countries.

The Christian Student Foundation is the official interdenominational organization for students of the Methodist, Presbyterian, Congregational, Baptist, Evangelical and Reformed churches and People's Church. Its program and activities are open to all students.

Catholic Student Organization

The Catholic Student Organization provides spiritual, educational and social activities for all Roman Catholic students and anyone interested in their faith.

Formerly known as the Newman Club, CSO is a member of the National Newman Club Federation. The CSO has been in existence on the MSU campus since 1934.

All members of the National Newman Club Federation are governed by the National Convention, consisting of delegates from all the clubs throughout the nation. Spring term four representatives from MSU attend the convention.

The Catholic Student Center serves as headquarters for all CSO activities. Members of the club have complete use of the building, which includes the chapel, a library, a lunch room and a social hall.

The Philosophy Club was one of the most popular programs offered by the CSO this year. The Sunday evening meetings featured panel discussions and speakers.

Offering a widely diversified program, CSO held many student retreats, novenas, dances and other social and religious activities throughout the year.

The annual Fall Mixer offers an opportunity for new students to become acquainted with each other and the organization members.

Each May, CSO presents May Crowning, honoring the Virgin Mary as Queen of Heaven. Also held during spring term is the Cardinal Ball, a semi-formal dance held by the group for all MSU students.

Coffee hours were held daily throughout the school year. Open House highlighted each week's activities of CSO.

Informal discussions concerning university life keeps CSO's daily coffee hours lively. In addition, dances are held in the Catholic Student Center every weekend.

Christian Science Organization

One of the main purposes of the Christian Science Organization is to bring Christian Science students on campus closer together. It also provides an opportunity for others to gain a better understanding of the Christian Science religion.

Weekly meetings are held every Tuesday in People's Church, where selections are read from the Bible and the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health with Keys to the Scriptures.

Anyone interested in learning more about the theories and beliefs of Christian Science is welcome to attend the meetings. Business meetings are held once each term.

Spartan Christian Fellowship

"To Know Christ and to make Him Known." Such is the motto of Spartan Christian Fellowship.

The second chapter of the national Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship to be established in the United States, SCF came to campus in 1940. The Fellowship was founded at Cambridge University in 1877.

Their purpose is to provide fellowship in Christian living through prayer, Bible study and social activities. The group conducts Bible studies and daily prayer meetings at various places on campus. In addition, Bible study retreats are held during spring and fall terms. Each week lectures are presented at the Union, followed by a fellowship hour.

Teas, banquets and informal gatherings are included in SCF's calendar. Most of the activities of the interdenominational group center around Bethel Manor.

Gamma Delta

Gamma Delta is a member of the International Association of Lutheran Students, which has 120 chapters throughout North America.

Gamma Delta meets at Martin Luther Chapel and aims to promote Christian knowledge, service and student fellowship. The group strives to help students retain and amplify their religion during college.

Activities of Gamma Delta range from panel discussions, talks and films to various social events. Their programs stress topics of current interest and importance on campus and to the Christian world.

Pan-Orthodox Student Assn.

The Pan-Orthodox Student Association is open to all MSU students who are members of the Eastern Orthodox Church. It was organized in 1951 under the direction of Father Francis Donahue.

The purpose of Pan-Orthodox is to strengthen ties among students of the faith and to foster cooperation and understanding with other Christian organizations on campus.

Members served as hosts to the Serbian Choir and dance group of Detroit when it appeared at the Lansing Civic Center. The group also hosted the Detroit Russian Choir at the Memorial Chapel.

Trinity Collegiate Fellowship

Trinity Collegiate Fellowship aims to help university students find a church home, to give them Christian fellowship and to make Christ known on campus.

The group meets for services Sunday evenings. After services social functions including informal get-togethers, sings and mixers are held.

Fellowship hour programs include films, panel discussions, talent nights, and other special events.

Wesley Foundation

The Wesley Foundation is affiliated with the Methodist Student Movement and the Methodist Church. Its purpose is to deepen the religious life of the individual. Membership is open to any student interested in the foundation's purposes.

During the school year, Wesley Foundation sponsors numerous religious, social and educational activities. Each week worship and fellowship activities are held.

YWCA - YMCA

Each fall term the YMCA - YWCA group sponsors a Freshman Orientation Camp, which is climaxed by a Welcome Week dance designed to serve as a mixer for the new freshmen.

Active in campus affairs for over 75 years, the University YMCA joined forces with the community YMCA this year. Now known as the University-Community YMCA, the organization helps students develop a mature life through discussion, work and service together.

One of the benefits of the new merger is that members will now gain experience in community "Y" leadership.

Engineering Council

Engineering Council was formed to coordinate activities of the 20 engineering clubs and honor societies, and to give direction and help in the problems of these groups. The council consists of two members elected from each club or honor society.

Each year the Engineering Council sponsors the activities of the Engineering Weekend held in May. These include the micro-midget auto race, student exhibits, the engineering dance and election of the engineering queen.

Amer. Inst. of Chem. Engineers

All students enrolled in the chemical engineering curriculum are eligible to join the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. The student chapter of the professional organization was founded in 1938.

AICHE was established to further professional development of future chemical engineers. The group holds several technical meetings and makes field trips to industries related to its profession.

For social activity, AICHE also sponsors an annual picnic.

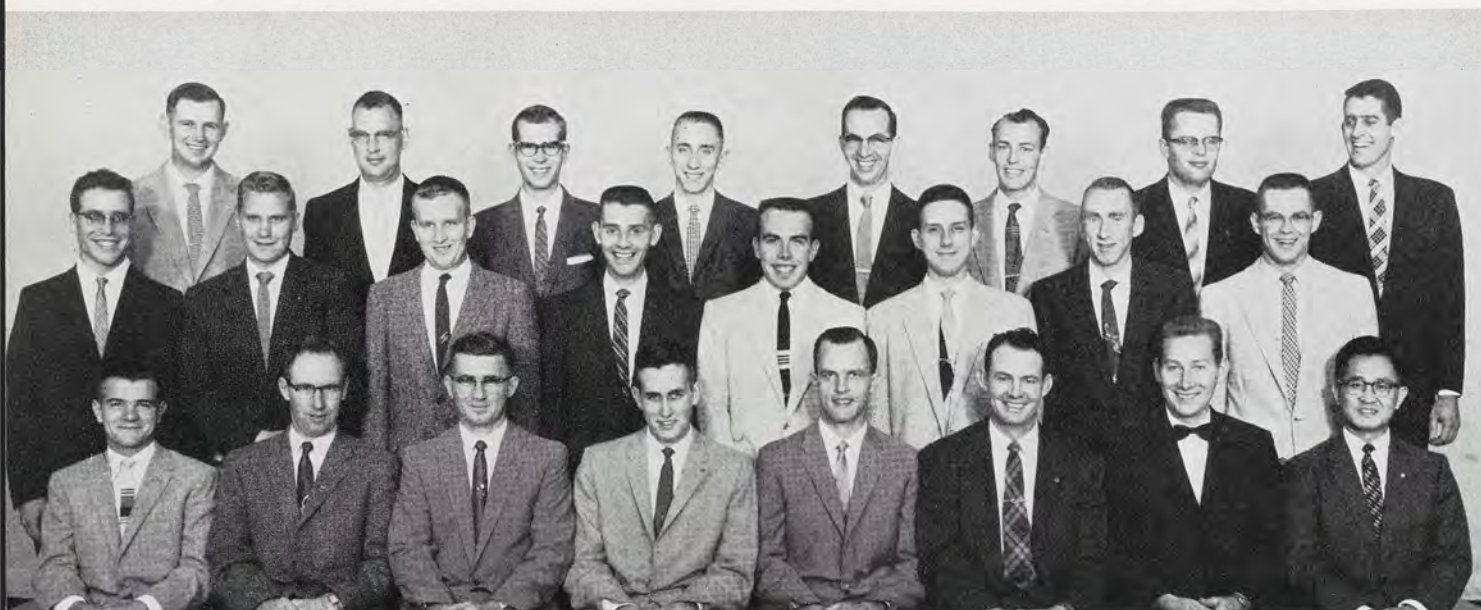

AIEE-IRE

The American Institute of Electrical Engineering and Institute of Radio Engineering is open to all students in electrical engineering. Its purpose is to promote interest in electrical engineering and professional engineering.

AIEE-IRE meets three times a term. An outstanding speaker in the engineering field speaks at each meeting. Highlight of winter term is a field trip to Detroit electronic companies. Once a term the group meets with the Lansing professional AIEE-IRE.

ASAE

Everything from a midget auto race to a student faculty picnic is included in the activities of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers. Roy Green, dean of engineering at the University of Nebraska, spoke to the group on "Engineering and Ethics" and was one of the many guest speakers brought in by the student branch of the ASAE to acquaint its members with agricultural engineering and the related fields. In addition to presenting guest speakers, the ASAE also sponsored club tours through local and outstate industrial plants.

ASME

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers is composed of students enrolled in the mechanical engineering curriculum and concentrates on activities within its own sphere of interest.

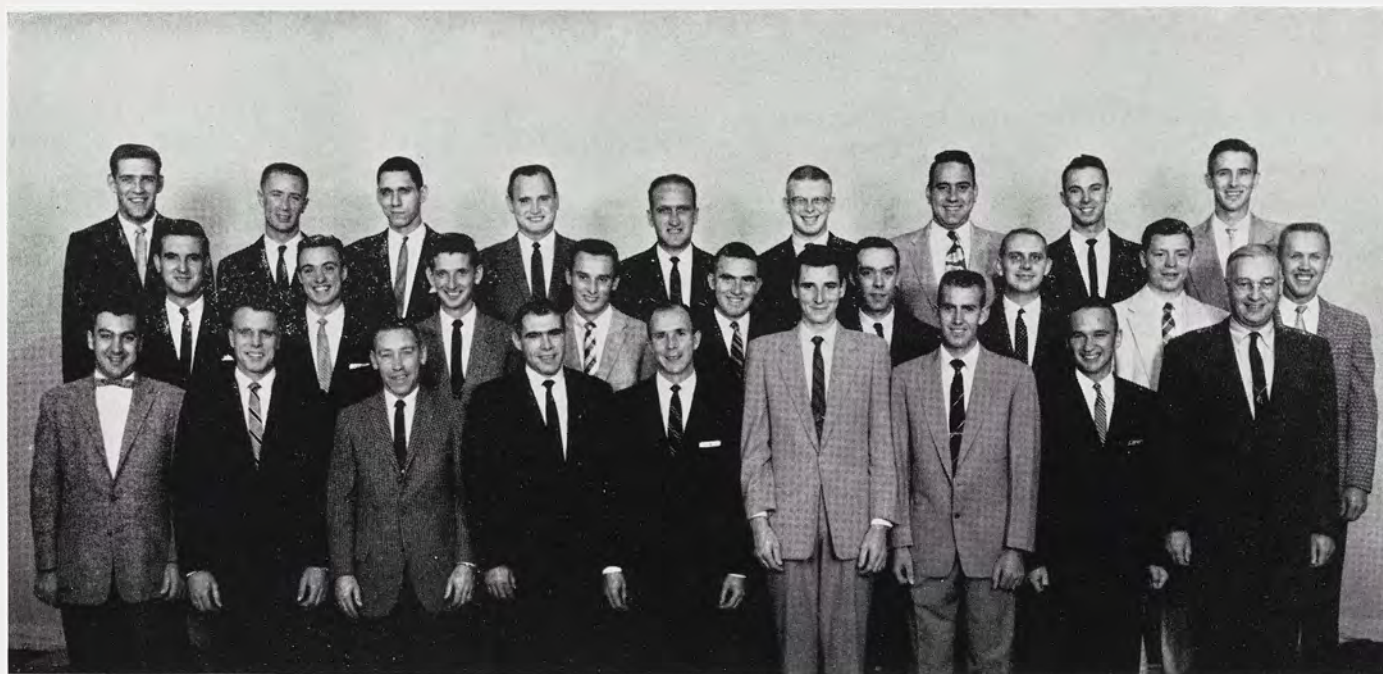

Purpose of the group is to promote the art, science and standards of mechanical engineering through social, educational and professional contacts among members. To accomplish its aims the Society acquaints members with opportunities in the field of mechanical engineering.

All civil engineering students who have completed their freshman year are eligible to join the American Society of Civil Engineers. The student group is organized under the auspices of the professional ASCE and works closely with it.

ASCE sponsors the annual Engineering Exposition, which is highlighted by the midget auto race. The group meets bi-weekly for prepared programs. Field trips to civil engineering divisions are taken throughout the year.

The main purpose of the group is to help the student prepare himself for entry into the profession and the senior society of ASCE. Through the society the regular class instruction is supplemented by hearing speakers who are active in the field of Civil Engineering.

American Foundrymen's Society

The American Foundrymen's Society was organized to promote interest, research and technical developments in the foundry industry. The organization, which is affiliated with the National American Foundrymen's Society, also serves as a placement bureau for students seeking jobs in the field.

Field trips to modern foundries and speakers are included in the organization's schedule of activities. One of the highlights of the year for AFC members is the Student-Industry Banquet, an annual event presented for members of the foundry industry.

American Society of Metals

The American Society of Metals is composed of future metallurgical engineers. The main purpose of the group is to promote the science of the treatment of metals, their manufacture and fabrication.

ASM members highlight their activities with tours through local plants, movies, prominent speakers and their annual spring picnic.

Early in the fall Mr. Ralph McNitt, production engineer for an automobile manufacturer, addressed the group on automation in the industry.

Industrial Design

Members of the Industrial Design club have the distinction of belonging to the only student chapter in the Midwest. They are affiliated with the Industrial Designers Institute.

The group increases their knowledge of manufactured products by sponsoring special speakers and conducting a special competition between club members.

One of the main projects of the club is "High School Night", presented each spring in cooperation with the Art Department, to interest high school students in the field of industrial design.

Agricultural Economics Club

The Agricultural Economics club, open to all expressing an interest in the field, is one of thirty-two members of the American Farm Economics Association.

The club holds meetings featuring prominent speakers in agricultural economics, movies and field trips. Field trips include visits to Sealtest Dairies, agricultural equipment manufacturers, warehouses, produce markets and outstanding agricultural businesses in other states.

Agricultural Education Club

Members of the Agricultural Education Club spend a weekend at a leadership training camp during spring term, and throughout the year are kept busy by providing leadership at various events sponsored by the Future Farmers of America.

Panel discussions pertaining to resource policies, the future of agricultural education and related subjects are scheduled throughout the year. The club is composed of undergraduate and graduate students interested in teaching vocational agriculture.

Agronomy Club

The Agronomy Club is open to all students interested in farm crops, soil science and allied fields. The club is a chapter of the student section of the American Society of Agronomy.

Members make several field trips to fertilizer plants, seed laboratories and the Kellogg Bird Sanctuary. As a service the club provides free popcorn for all 4-H Club events.

Social activities of the Agronomy Club included fall hayrides and "Funhouse", picnics, several softball games and a Christmas party.

MSU Dairy Club

The Dairy Club helps promote greater unity between dairy students and other students and faculty members. The club is a member of the American Dairy Science Association.

Each Christmas the club has a cheese sale on campus. They also sponsor a booth at the State Fair where they sell cheese, ice cream and milk.

A spring field trip to outstanding dairy industries is an annual event. During fall term the Dairy Club held a square dance.

Floriculture Forum

The MSU Floriculture Forum, "In Step with the whole Bloomin' World", presented "Joy to the World", their twelfth annual flower show in the Union ball room fall term. Many MSU football fans have undoubtedly purchased an 'S' mum from floriculture forum members who sell them at all home games.

In addition to their other activities, the members plan a four day trip each spring term to visit flower shops and greenhouses in other states.

American Veterinary Medical Association

The MSU chapter of the American Veterinary Medical Association was chartered in 1929 as one of two original student chapters of the American Veterinary Medical Association. At that time, the group had 12 members. Today, ninety-eight percent of the students in the College of Veterinary Medicine are members of the student AVMA.

The AVMA attempts to acquaint members with the various areas in their fields by sponsoring speakers who are authorities on federal and state veterinary projects, small and large animal medicine, and related fields. Group discussions also encourage study in veterinary medicine.

An honor code, written by a committee of the MSU chapter of AVMA, has been adopted by the students and faculty of the College of Veterinary Medicine. Purpose of the code is to better prepare students for their professional responsibilities after graduation.

The MSU chapter of AVMA also sends a representative each year to the national AVMA convention.

Top Row—Ewasek, Randall, Tucker, McCallum, Butterfield, Hayes, Lloyd, Harris, Etienne, Tribby; Fifth Row—Nestle, Dykema, Conant, Sheltraw, Blesch, Ramsey, Gatzemeyer, Warner, Williams; Fourth Row—Greene, Newman, Weymouth, Scollon, Patrick, Weber, Parhiala, Harrington, Velrio; Third Row—Gunderson, Higgins, Fowler, Hoin, Orr, Benner, Greelish, Colby, Fox; Second Row—Maloy, Burrowes, Webster, Miyat, Peterson, Schroeder, Blue, Tulacz, Perkins; Bottom Row—Holmes, Bosworth, Smith, Buchanan, Scholtens, Westmoreland, Clements, Green, Sasso, Dalley.

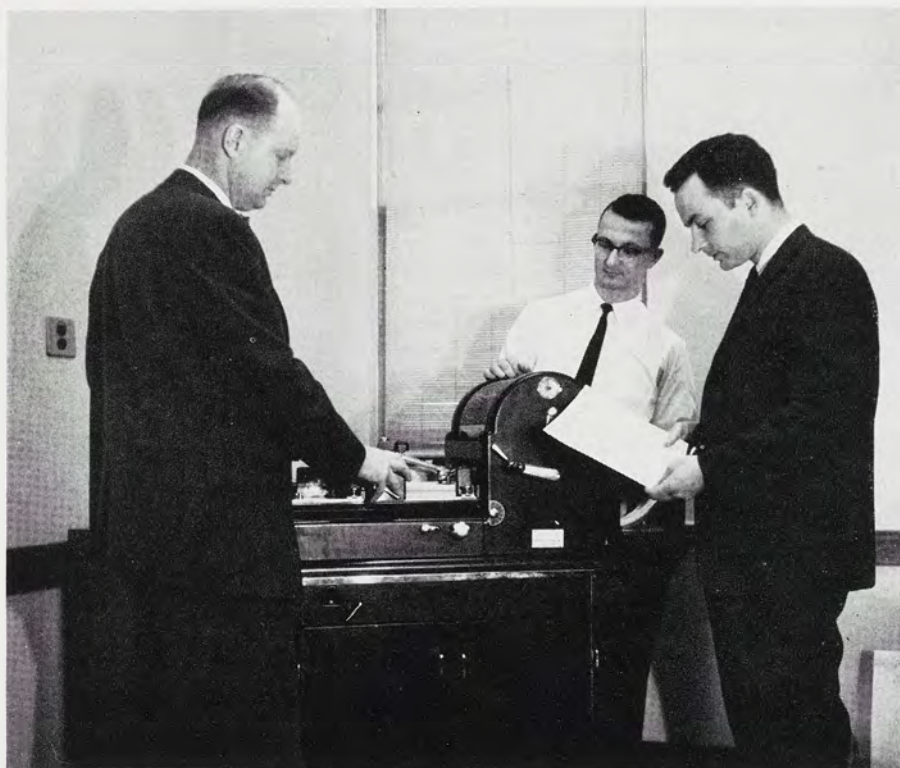

The AVMA members are active socially as well as professionally on campus. The group sponsors the "Medicine Ball" each winter term in cooperation with Alpha Delta Theta. The spring picnic is held each year just before the close of the school year, along with the senior tea, which is sponsored by the women's auxiliary.

The group also assists in the publication of the MSU Veterinarian and MSU Veterinary News and Views, which are issued to all vet medicine students on campus.

The representative body of the College of Veterinary Medicine, the AVMA competes in such university activities as Activities Carnival, Spartacade, and intramural sports.

A newsletter prepared by Association members is distributed and read throughout the College of Veterinary Medicine.

Chances are that before you got through the process of registration during any term this year you were contacted by a member of the Association of Off Campus Students. This was only one of the many ways by which this active group recruited more members this year.

The Association of Off Campus Students, which was formed in 1955, attempts to bring together the many thousands of Spartans who live off campus, and provide them with the needed representation in campus activities.

All off campus students are eligible for membership in this social and service group.

Another of the major goals of AOCS is to help new students become acquainted with the campus. Members offer their assistance during summer freshmen clinics. They also participate in such events as intramurals.

Members of AOCS show their usual enthusiasm in preparing the promotion program for their annual spring term car wash.

Army Cadet Officers Club

Each fall term members of the Army Cadet Officers Club have the pleasant duty of selecting the honorary corps sponsors for the Army ROTC to be presented at the annual Coronation Ball. The club co-sponsors the all-university dance, which has become a fall term tradition on campus.

The main purpose of the club is to promote a better understanding of army life and cordial relations between officers and cadets, and to acquaint members and their families with Army life on foreign posts.

To accomplish this purpose, the club invites officers and their wives to a seminar in which the various aspects of military life are discussed.

All advanced Army ROTC cadets are eligible for membership in the Army Cadet Officers Club.

Each spring, the Commissioning Dinner-Dance is held, honoring graduating seniors and newly-commissioned officers.

Honorary corps sponsors are selected by members of the Officers Club. Here president Dave Shannon and vice-president Reinhardt Schumann chat with sponsor Marge Rohs.

Block and Bridle

The Block and Bridle Club is an honorary for students in the animal husbandry curriculum and all persons interested in horses and their care.

To increase their knowledge, members visit pure bred livestock farms in Michigan each year. The club, which is affiliated with the National Block and Bridle Club, sponsors the junior livestock judging team which travels to Fort Worth, Texas.

Members also participate in such events as the Little International Fitting and Showing Contest which gives them experience in judging, and an annual horse show.

Two scholarships are presented by Block and Bridle each year; one to the outstanding junior in animal husbandry, and the other to one of the top five 4-H judges.

Circle K

Circle K is the college affiliation of Kiwanis International, a service organization for business and professional men. The MSU organization works closely with the local Kiwanis Club, thereby gaining valuable experience through their many activities.

The motto of Circle K, "Through conscious service, we build," is carried out in their work with the university, student body and community.

They have sponsored programs such as "Toys for Tots" in cooperation with the Marine Reserves, and also took part in Spartacade.

Elementary Education Club

The Elementary Education Club is open to all students who are elementary education majors or are seeking a teaching certificate in the field.

The purpose of the group is to further the professional standards and keep members up to date on information about education.

The informal meetings of the club feature guest speakers who explain new trends in education and teaching methods.

Forensic Union

Competing against 46 college teams from the nation, members of the Forensic Union placed highest in a tournament this year, winning five out of six debates.

The Forensic Union was organized in 1956 by a group of MSU students who desired to improve their ability at public speaking, discussion and debate. The Union now serves as a pledge group from which superior members are selected for membership in Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary forensic society.

Packaging Society

Many of the leaders of the packaging industry of tomorrow are members of the Packaging Society today. The primary objective of the society is to present ideas of members to industry leaders and students and faculty at MSU. Conversely, they also try to gain insight into the packaging field from sources outside the curriculum.

To realize their objective, prominent men in the packaging field are invited to their meetings to speak about recent packaging developments.

Forestry Club

When campus conversation turns to tales of Babe, the Blue Ox, and many men assume the appearance of Paul Bunyan, you can be certain that the "Forestry Shindig" is not far off. The annual winter term dance is sponsored by the men of the Forestry Club, who award a prize for the biggest beard.

Once each year the rivalry between MSU and the University of Michigan is forgotten when the Forestry Clubs from the two universities sponsor the Foresters Banquet.

Other annual events for the club members include the Big Ten Foresters Conclave, held at a different Big Ten university each year, and the Foresters Field Day.

The top liar in competition between MSU and U of M at the annual Foresters Banquet is awarded an appropriate trophy.

Hawaii Club

The Hawaii Club is open to all students who are residents of Hawaii or have an interest in the islands.

Founded by a group of Hawaiian students who migrated to MSU, the purpose of the club is to maintain closer relationships for all Hawaiian students. It also seeks to promote Hawaiian statehood and cultural activities.

The club sponsors an annual May Day program. At the end of spring term the club holds a picnic honoring graduating seniors and transfer students.

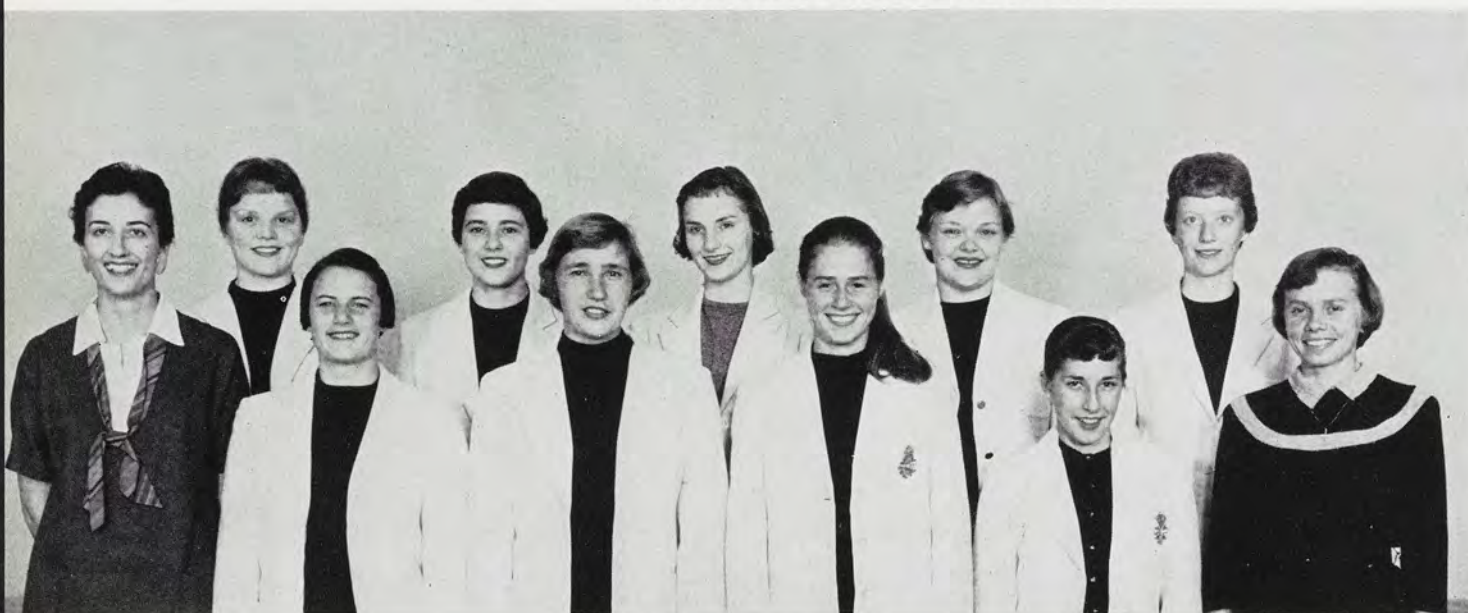

Health, Physical Education and Recreation Club

All coeds who are enrolled as majors in the physical education curriculum are members of the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Club.

One of the newest clubs on campus, the coeds show an active interest in all phases of sports.

MSU Hotel Association

Closer cooperation between the faculty and students in hotel administration is one of the goals of the Hotel Association. Membership is open to all hotel ad students.

The organization makes use of the Kellogg Center facilities for meetings and training programs. Movies on new trends in hote management are shown to the group and the organization takes field trips throughout the year to hotels in the midwest.

Indian Student Association

Have you ever seen a group of students doing unique native dances and wearing the costumes of their homeland? If you have, you have probably been watching the Indian Dance Night held in August and spring term.

In addition to this semi-annual event, the Indian Student Association is heading the list for prizes won at the International Festival Exhibition by winning first place this year.

The club helps to promote cultural activities for Indian students and all those interested in India.

International Club

A home away from home—that's the International Club to foreign students at MSU. And home for them isn't just Detroit or Kalamazoo—it can be Bagdad or Saigon or New Delhi.

At the International Center, which is open to all students on campus, foreign students from every country in the world meet to socialize or, sometimes, simply to prepare a little home cooking.

This year the club staged the "International Talent Tour" and the all-university Cosmopolitan Ball.

Marketing Club

The American Market Association Convention in Chicago was an exciting tour for the members of the Marketing Club this year.

The Marketing Club meets each month and a prominent speaker in the marketing world addresses the group on various topics about the field.

To bring the marketing function closer to the student and to prepare him for work after graduation is the primary aim of the club.

Les Gourmets

The charms of ancient Italy came to MSU with Les Gourmets' buffet dinner dance, "A Night in Imperial Rome." An ice carved lion emitting punch greeted the guests in the reception room.

Another accomplishment for the members of Les Gourmets was their affiliation with the National Restaurant Association. Their booth pertained to a particular problem they had encountered in the industry and how they had attempted to solve it.

Another first for Les Gourmets happened when they won their block championship in intramural football.

The members of Les Gourmets are striving to develop a greater degree of professional pride among the students interested in the restaurant management curriculum.

Men's Glee Club

A shuffle off to Buffalo was the first big activity for the Men's Glee Club this year. This initial tour also included engagements in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

On the night of the Michigan game all rivalries were forgotten (the game ended in a tie, anyway) as the U of M Glee Club joined the MSU aggregation to sing a dual formal concert. The program included "Lil Liza Jane", "Cantata Domine" and "Serenade" from "The Student Prince" and ended with the two groups rendering an impressive version of "A Mighty Fortress."

Winter term brought another formal concert—this time a stirring patriotic production of Thomas Jefferson's "The Testament of Freedom" set to music. The concert marked the first time the work was performed in this area.

Student conductor Jon Schuster directs the Glee Club in an evening session in preparation for one of their many interstate tours.

Pomoler Club

Did you ever sit in the press box of Spartan Stadium at a home football game and receive an apple? If you did, you can thank the Pomoler Club.

Pomoler now sponsors the unusual and popular apple vending machine in the Horticulture building. An important social activity of the organization is their annual spring picnic in addition to their apple projects.

Pomoler is an organization to help acquaint the public with the latest advances made in the field of horticulture. It helps promote relations between students and faculty.

Pre-Medical Society

The Pre-Med Society acquaints members with the principles of medicine and fosters closer ties among those who share the goal of becoming doctors. The club is open to all pre-med and pre-dent students.

The club received honorable mention at the 1958 Activities Carnival and participated in the Michigan State Health Lab during the fall term. An exchange meeting with pre-med students at Notre Dame University was a highlight of the year.

The club provides volunteer services in the community as well as on campus.

Promenaders

Taking their cue from Arthur Murray, the Promenaders say "for a little fun in your life, try dancing." This group does not confine their dancing just to the hoedown variety but also specializes in cha chas, polkas, sambas and even the Charleston!

Besides traveling around the state on good-will tours and benefits, the Promenaders were also in evidence at halftime intermission at home basketball games.

Rifle Club

"Fun Shoot," as the name implies is just plain fun . . . no awards, no prizes, but a lot of contestants. The annual spring term event, sponsored by the Rifle Club, features "luck shooting" and unusual targets.

The Rifle Club meets every Wednesday evening for inter-club shoots at the rifle range in Dem Hall. The aim of the group is to teach members to shoot and handle weapons skillfully and correctly.

Social Work Club

The unfortunate and neglected people of this area need help and understanding of their problems. The Social Work Club realizes this and is busy at work satisfying these needs.

Meeting three times a term, members try to find ways of helping victims of social neglect. During the year various administrative officers of homes, corrective institutions and schools address the club.

Guest speakers providing an informative program included members of the State Parole Board and director of the Florence Crittenton Home.

Sailing Club

"Sailing, Sailing, over the Bounding Main," is the motto of the MSU Sailing Club. In addition to this summer activity, much to the surprise of new members, the club lists winter ice boating as vogue.

A member of the National Yacht Racing Association of North America, the Sailing Club participates in various competitions. This year a highlight was the Detroit Yacht Club Invitational.

The club, organized in 1947, requires all members to maintain a 2.0 average.

Ski Club

Have you ever wondered how to get down those high, slippery ski slopes without getting a broken arm or sprained ankle? Then the Ski Club is the group for you to join.

Ski weekends at Boyne Mountain, with only occasional casualties, are a featured activity. The club has inter-club races the last ski weekend of the season, with events for all classes of skiers. Trophies are awarded at a banquet at the end of February.

Beginners needn't be shy. Free instruction is offered club members by students who are well qualified skiers.

Club membership is open to anyone interested in the sport. As a new endeavor, the organization is anxious to begin a water skiing program during May and June.

Sno Caps

Did you give blood during any of the blood drives on campus this year? If you did, chances are that you were helped by one of the Sno Caps. Always willing to be of service, the Sno Caps displayed their interest in nursing by helping at the blood drives held each term.

Sno Caps is a club open to all who are interested in the nursing profession. The group was formally organized in 1951 with 15 charter members.

Sno Caps aids its members in becoming better acquainted with nursing and helps to create a better understanding between nurses and persons outside the profession.

By featuring professional speakers and sponsoring coffee hours, the club helped orientate new members to the nursing field.

Spartan Pistol Club

"All right now, just squeeze that trigger. Ready, aim, fire!"

Those are familiar words to members of the Spartan Pistol Club. The group was organized in 1955 to give instruction on safety in the use of pistols.

Spartan Pistol Club is a member of the National Rifle Association. A team of outstanding members is chosen to represent MSU at matches with other colleges and universities.

Spanish Club

Not the famous American greeting of hello, but Hola . . . Como esta usted, is the familiar welcome of the Spanish Club.

The club is open for membership to anyone who is interested in Spanish or Latin-American affairs. It was organized to increase inter-American understanding by fostering a cultural exchange of language, ideas and customs.

Spartan Wives

It goes without saying, that where there are wives there are clubs, and MSU is no exception. Wives of MSU students are automatically members of Spartan Wives.

The organization meets monthly and among its activities are beginning and advanced bridge lessons, bowling, swimming and Swedish gymnastics.

The X-Ray Clinic held for married students on campus each spring term is a service sponsored by the Spartan Wives.

MSU Symphony Orchestra

The MSU Symphony Orchestra has been a regular campus musical organization for approximately twenty-five years. Membership is gained only through an audition with Louis Potter, Jr., conductor. The symphony presents one full orchestra concert each term.

Twice a year the orchestra accompanies the university chorus in choral and orchestral works. Besides their campus performances, the orchestra travels throughout Michigan and performs in other cities, such as Detroit and Ann Arbor.

2x4 Club

Have you ever wondered what the 2x4 club is? No, it is not a society for fat men, but a group whose membership is open to all students majoring in residential building or lumber and building materials merchandising.

Organized in 1951, the club prepares displays at the National Retail Lumber Dealers Convention of Michigan, Illinois and Indiana. It also participates in several home builders conventions and shows.

Vista

Another tricky name in the long list of student clubs is Vista, an organization for landscape architecture and urban planning majors.

The group helps promote fellowship among the students and further the interest in the two fields by uniting those having a common interest.

Vista programs include informative talks, colorful slides and movies and exhibits on subjects related to urban planning and landscape architecture.

Varsity Club

The distinguished white or green "S" is the sign of the MSU Varsity Club. All members have earned a varsity letter and have performed a service for the betterment of athletics at MSU.

Each spring term Varsity Club gives a chicken fry for pledges, wives, honorary and active members.

The club promotes cooperation among varsity athletics, the athletic department and university administration, and the student body. It aims for a high standard of athletic achievement and creates a fellowship among noted athletes.

Winged Spartans

If you are among the many people who harbor a hidden desire to fly, you can realize that ambition by joining the Winged Spartans.

Winged Spartans was founded in 1945 by women, and the club currently counts four coeds on their membership roster. The MSU Streamers, consisting of six Winged Spartans, participate in sky diving.

Each year Winged Spartans from MSU compete with Purdue and the University of Illinois at an air meet. The Winged Spartans emerged the victors from this year's meet.

Women's Athletic Association

They swim, play basketball, baseball and hockey. No, this is not the Varsity Club, but only a few of the activities of the Women's Athletic Association.

The group had the honor of acting as host this year for their College Sportsday. The University of Michigan, Western Michigan University, and Wayne State University were among those schools that traveled to MSU to participate in the athletic events and discuss their own WAA.

Each spring the WAA sponsors a dessert at which the intramural tournament awards are presented to the campus living units.

Women's Glee Club

Famous for their frequent public appearances, the Women's Glee Club has only two requirements for membership. The coeds must audition for membership and attend rehearsals regularly to be considered as active members.

The Women's Glee Club presented their annual Christmas concert in the Alumni Memorial Chapel this year, and their spring concert in the Music Auditorium.

Young Republicans

A national election year, 1958 was a busy one for the members of the Young Republicans Club.

Many of the members worked hard supporting the campaigns of the local and state Republican candidates in the November election.

MSU Veterans Association

The Rat Race, sponsored by the veterans and Alpha Gamma Delta at Spartacade won the trophy for the best audience participation booth.

Recognizing that the transition from military to campus life can be difficult, the Veterans Association offers all veterans both social and educational benefits.

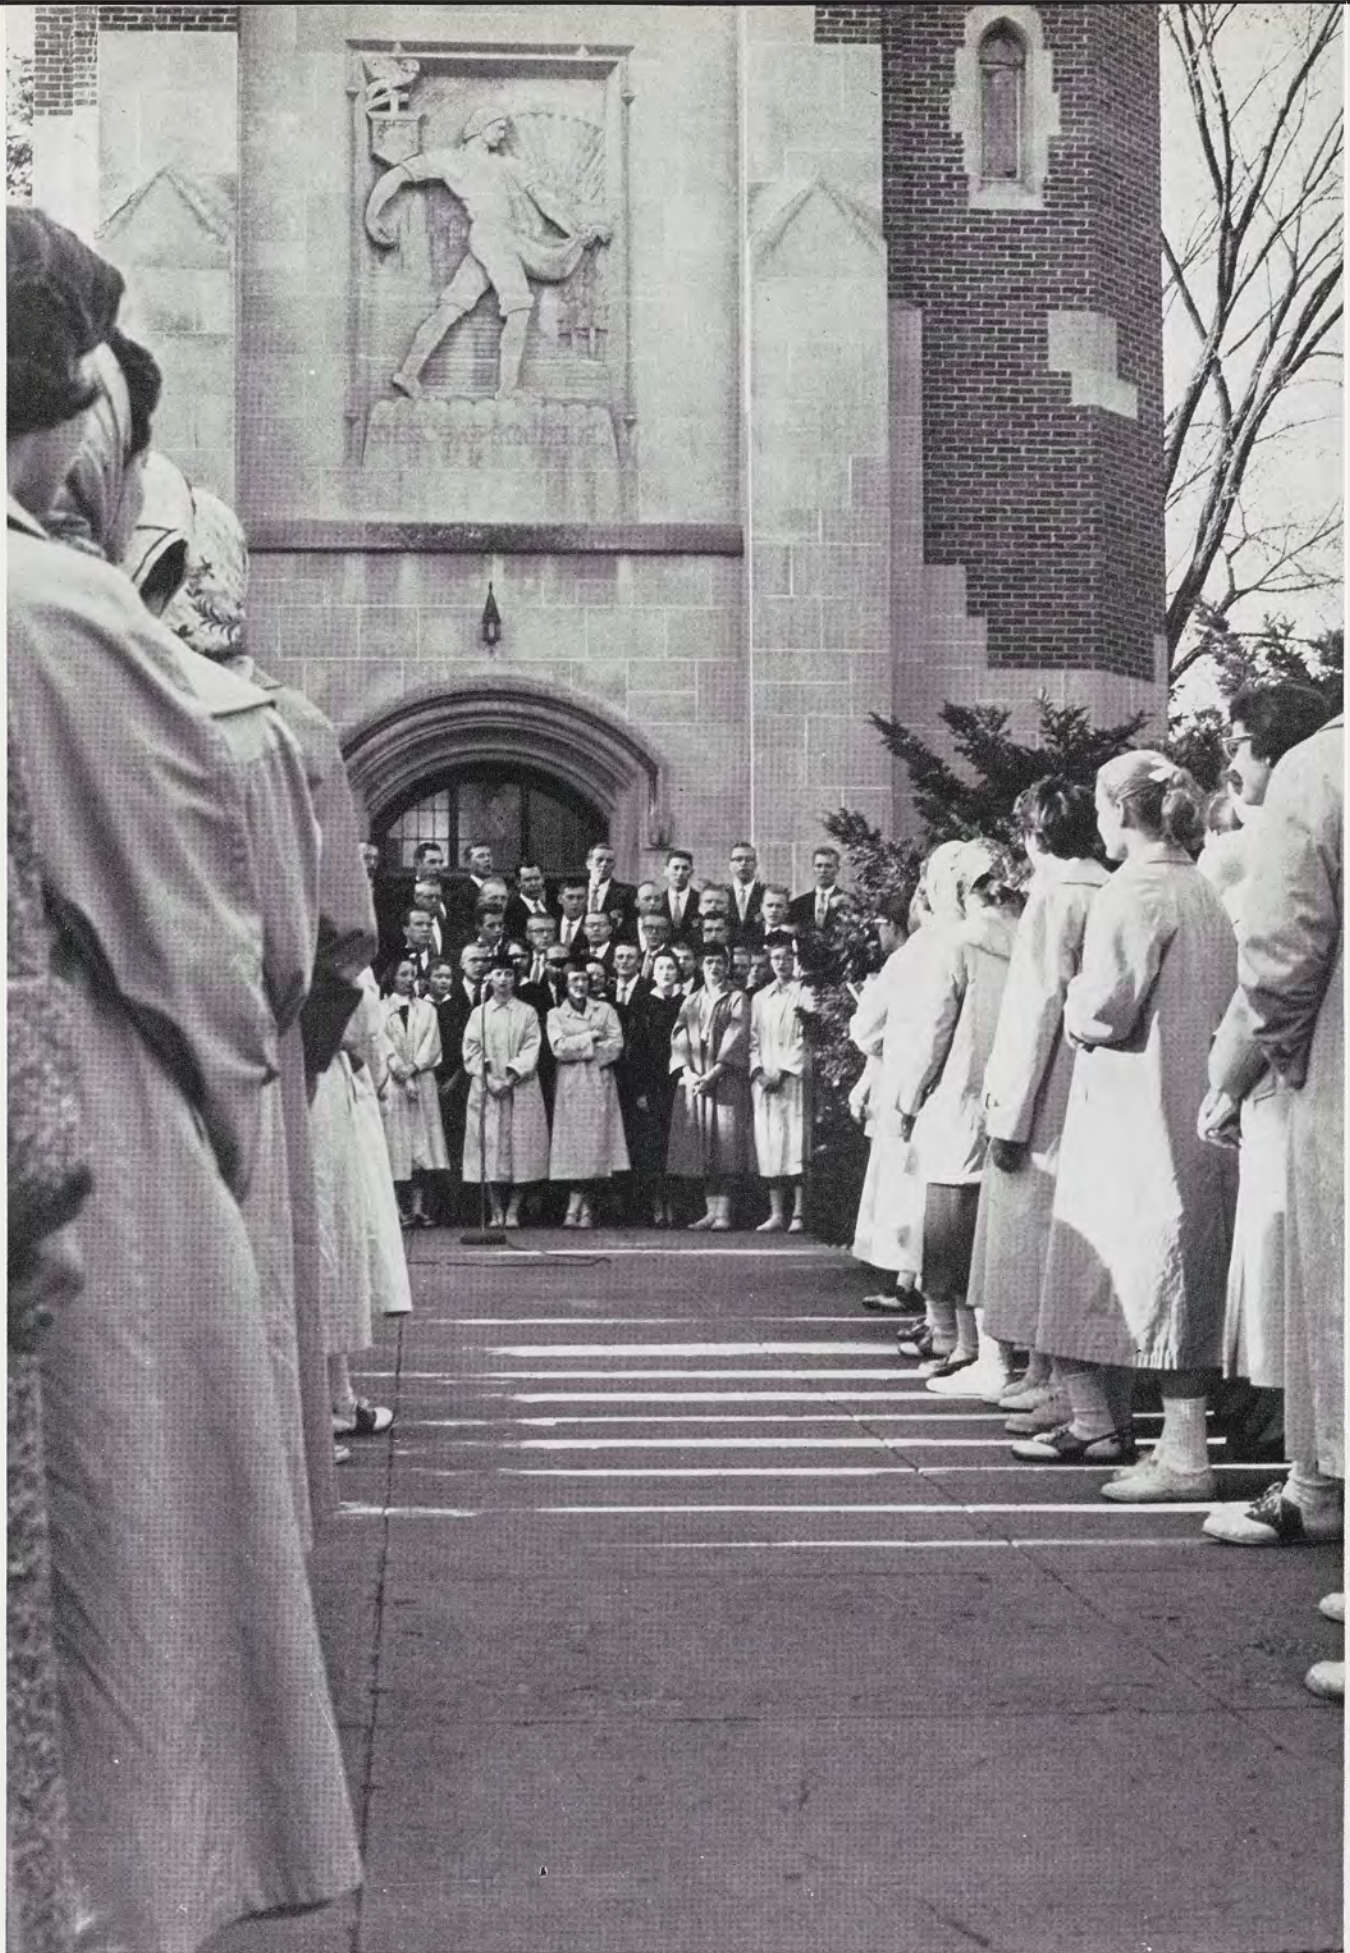

Students must have two years military service with an honorable discharge to qualify for membership in the club, which counted 640 members this year. Members enjoy special discounts on such items as gas, auto repairs and laundry.

The biggest social event sponsored by the club is the "Winterland Whirl", a semi-formal dance traditionally held during winter term.

The Vets joined forces with the Phi Mu's during Water Carnival, sponsoring a float based on a San Francisco theme. They also participated in the Activities and Water Carnivals.

Active in intramural sports, it was not unusual for the Vets to field as many as five teams for one sport.

Originators of Sparta Claus, the club joined many other organizations in supporting this program of aid to needy families at Christmas. They also gave an all-university "2.0 Dinner" winter term.

The impressive May Morning Sing, at which new Mortar Board and Tower Guard members are tapped, is representative of the initiation ceremonies of the numerous campus honoraries.

Honoraries

President Hannah received honorary membership in Excalibur from Bill Taylor, class of '23, and Dick Schlaff at the Excalibur homecoming banquet.

They're not all BMOC's or BWOC's. But the members of campus honoraries are all outstanding in some respect, whether it be for service, scholarship, or general "Big Man On Campus" leadership.

Requirements for membership vary, but most of the groups cited require above average scholarship as their number one prerequisite.

Included in their diversified programs are service projects designed to aid the community or university. These activities range from reading to blind students to engineering door-to-door surveys.

Members of Delta Phi Delta art honorary frequently exhibit their work in the many art shows held on campus throughout the year.

Excalibur

Excalibur gives recognition to those senior men who have been a credit to the university through outstanding character and leadership in activities and athletics. Membership is limited to thirteen. Tapping ceremonies are held at Water Carnival during spring term for ten of the new members. The remainder are selected the following fall term at the Homecoming dance. The honorary holds weekly luncheon meetings, at which time campus policies are discussed.

May Morning Sing is the traditional occasion when new members are tapped for Mortar Board, national senior women's honorary. Outstanding scholarship, service and campus leadership are the primary requirements for membership in this long established honorary. Fifty outstanding senior women are honored by Mortar Board during the Lantern Night ceremony, at which time the new Mortar Board officers are announced. Mortar Board cosponsors the Spinsters' Spin with Tower Guard and SWL.

Climaxing weeks of anticipation and three years of study and campus life participation, the new Mortar Board members are tapped at the traditional May Morning Sing.

Blue Key

Second Row—Hampton, Kolesiak, Shank, Douglass, Slade, Shannon, Schlaff, Oldham; Bottom Row—Gallacher, McCally, Smith, Coghill, McCaffree, Walther, Becker, King.

Blue key serves a double purpose at Michigan State University, combining the distinction of an honorary with the efforts of a service organization.

Founded at the University of Florida in 1924, the MSU chapter was established in 1927, and is one of the largest chapters in the country.

Members are chosen on the basis of outstanding leadership, extra curricular activities, service to the campus, and scholarship. Members must maintain a grade-point average equal to that of the all university average for men before they can be initiated into this junior-senior men's honorary.

Blue Key helps edit the Helot, a guide book for freshmen which they originated, and have the pleasure of selecting Miss MSU. The members sponsor a Get Out the Vote campaign spring term and actively assisted on Sparta Claus. They also assist the Department of High School Cooperation in carrying out its program, and discuss campaign problems at their bi-weekly meetings.

To select Miss MSU, Blue Key members interview over fifty coeds winter term.

Green Helmet

Chances are that the young men you see each term helping new students complete the rigors of registration are members of Green Helmet, sophomore honorary. These men volunteer their time during registration week to aid others, concentrating on new students.

One of the major services that the members of this honorary perform is tutoring students in subjects in which the members are proficient. They also help at graduation and assist freshmen in whatever way they can.

Green Helmet recognizes the outstanding sophomore men who have maintained a 3.2 all-university average and who have shown superior participation in campus activities during their freshman year.

At the end of spring term, between 25-36 men are tapped for membership by the old members of the honorary. During the week after tapping, you can spot new members by the green and white plaques which they must wear through their period of initiation.

The Green Helmet executive council reviews the proposed plans for their fall term orientation project. The information tent and registration assistance, both in cooperation with Tower Guard, are the main points of this program.

Tower Guard

Tower Guard, sophomore women's honorary, has rendered 58 services in the greater Lansing area since it was founded 25 years ago. Members are chosen from the top 100 women in the freshman class and candidates must have shown leadership and outstanding character qualifications.

Tower Guard members read to blind students, record the basic courses for them and give free tutoring to anyone wishing it. The group works with Mortar Board and SWL in sponsoring the Spinsters' Spin.

Tower Guard members work out the details of their project of reading to blind students. The girls devote many hours weekly to this beneficial and inspiring project.

Phi Eta Sigma

Phi Eta Sigma, honor society for sophomore men, was organized to honor sophomores who attained a 3.5 all-university average in their freshman year, and to encourage the same high caliber of work for the future. The members distributed 3,000 copies of the booklet, Hints on How to Study, published by their national office, to entering freshmen students fall term.

In addition they assist in freshman orientation by sponsoring a "Big Brother" program to acquaint new students with MSU.

Scholastic excellence is the constant goal of Phi Eta Sigma members, not only for themselves, but for the entire university.

Alpha Lambda Delta

Alpha Lambda Delta, national women's honorary, is primarily interested in recognizing freshmen women scholars and furthering high scholastic achievement. As an organization by itself, they try to limit the number of their activities so their members will be free to be of service to others. A master log of past, present, and future projects or activities planned by campus organizations was compiled by the members of Alpha Lambda Delta this year. With this master log, any organization can see at a glance if a proposed activity has already been sponsored by another club, thus avoiding repetition.

Alpha Delta Theta

Giltner Hall would be without a decorated Christmas tree if it wasn't for the women of Alpha Delta Theta. Also included in their activities is an annual trip to the Upjohn Laboratories and a student-faculty tea for majors and instructors. This year MSU's Delta chapter acted as host for their national convention held at Kellogg Center in December. All sophomore women majoring in medical technology with a 2.0 all-college average are eligible for membership in Alpha Delta Theta.

Alpha Epsilon Rho

The members of Alpha Epsilon Rho, national radio and television honorary, are selected on the basis of scholarship and participation in radio and television activities. "Peace in the Valley", their winter term television production, was staged entirely by students. The Radio Workshop, developed by Alpha Epsilon Rho, was organized to give underclassmen experience in radio work. Club members make an annual trip to New York City, where they tour the major television networks and advertising agencies.

Alpha Phi Sigma

Informal, but informative discussions at Alpha Phi Sigma meetings are an important adjunct to the members' education.

Top Row—Payne, C., Talbot, Gunnerfeldt, Cunningham, Campbell, Ossorio, Cusick, Bellas; Third Row—Kleinknecht, Donovan, Strader, Duffy, Costa, Payne, F., Longnecker, Schulien;

Alpha Phi Sigma, national police honorary, has one of the most varied schedules of activities. Along the social line, they annually present the "Flat Foot Fling" and an annual picnic is planned each spring term.

Their programs for the year included a speaker from the State Police Racket Narcotics, a discussion on the Jackson Prison riot, and a pistol demonstration. An honorary member of Alpha Phi Sigma is Jack Webb, television actor.

Alpha Zeta

Alpha Zeta, national honorary fraternity, was established at MSU in 1902. Members are chosen from the Colleges of Agriculture and Veterinary Medicine. These members are selected not only on the basis of their high scholastic achievement, but also for character and leadership in their college. The Alpha Zeta scholarship trophy award is presented annually to the outstanding sophomore in the field of agriculture.

Arnold Air Society

The Arnold Air Society offers advanced Air Force military students an opportunity to learn more about officer leadership training in the Air Force. The Arnold Air Society is best known on campus for its co-sponsorship of the Coronation Ball. Other activities include election of the AFROTC corps sponsors and the blood drive. The society holds its annual graduation dinner dance spring term to honor the graduating seniors and the newly commissioned officers.

Beta Alpha Psi

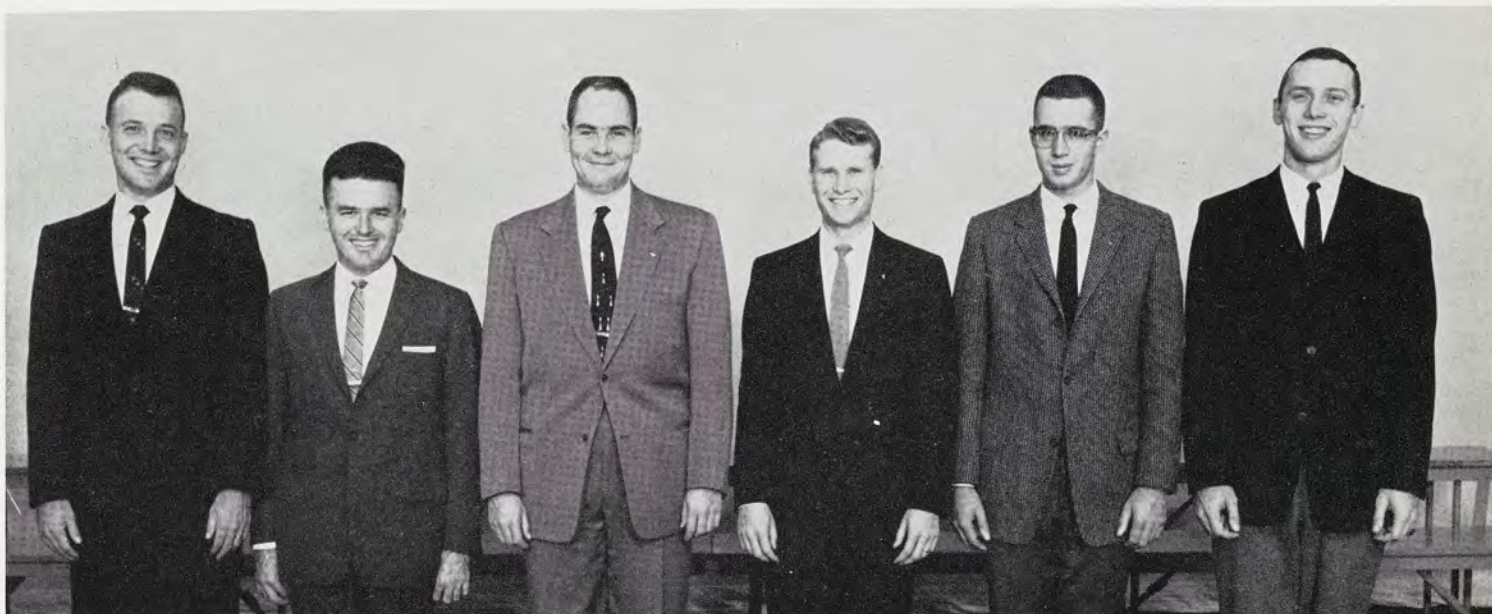

Beta Alpha Psi is an organization which honors outstanding accounting students. Throughout the year the honorary sponsors speakers who are prominent in the field of accounting. To be eligible for membership, students must have a minimum all-university grade point average of 3.0. Initiation takes place both fall and spring terms. One of the highlights of the year for the honorary is the banquet for faculty and active collegiate members which is held spring term. The honorary was established at MSU in 1954.

Beta Beta Beta

Beta Beta Beta, national honor society, is the only society primarily for undergraduates that covers all of the biological sciences. Students majoring in a biological science, having a 2.6 all-college average, and being of junior status are eligible for membership. Collegiate members of Beta Beta Beta work with their alumni in counseling younger students concerning vocational opportunities in the field of biology. Beta Beta Beta also helps outstanding undergraduates find employment as research assistants.

Beta Gamma Sigma

Members of Beta Gamma Sigma, national commerce society honorary, are selected from the upper ten percent of their graduating class. To keep continuity in the chapter, juniors in the upper four percent of their class may be chosen for membership. Graduate students and faculty members in the field of commerce are also eligible for membership. Election to the honorary is the highest scholastic honor which a business student can obtain.

Chi Epsilon

Chi Epsilon, national civil engineering honorary, is an active participant in the Engineering Exposition. All exhibits at the exposition are produced entirely by engineering students. Eligibility for membership requires a student to attain upper quarter status in his engineering class. Chi Epsilon recognizes the characteristics fundamental to a successful engineering career and endeavors to aid the establishment of these qualities in the undergraduate engineer.

Delta Omicron

Delta Omicron, international professional music fraternity for women, was organized to promote fellowship and improve musicianship. Their activities include giving a party for all new music women students, caroling with the men of Phi Mu Alpha at the homes of the music faculty, and presenting a founders' day radio program. Highlight of spring term is their spring recital. Prospective members, rushed during winter term, must be music majors or minors with a 3.0 in music courses and a 2.8 all-university average.

Delta Phi Delta

Delta Phi Delta is an art honorary which strives to further the outstanding art student's reputation and to circulate its members' work. All art students of junior status with a 3.0 in their art courses and a 2.5 all-college average are eligible for membership. Throughout the year, the group holds many workshops and visits the different art galleries and museums in the area. Delta Phi Delta annually presents an outdoor art exhibit, participates in the Fine Arts Festival, and offers a silk screening service for the campus.

Delta Phi Epsilon

Delta Phi Epsilon, national professional foreign service fraternity, strives to promote interest in international relations and in the foreign service. To meet their objectives, Delta Phi Epsilon arranges special programs and holds discussions of foreign policy.

The fraternity is cooperating with the International Club in promoting a new International Center. Delta Phi Epsilon also sponsors the International Festival, and is attempting to combine this program with Foreign Students Day to acquaint foreign students in Michigan with MSU.

Delta Psi Kappa

Members of Delta Psi Kappa, national women's physical education honorary, are the outstanding students majoring or minoring in physical education, health, and recreation. These women, of the sophomore class or above, must have a 2.3 all-college average to be eligible for membership.

The selling of programs at the home basketball games is one of the activities in which the group actively participates. They also compile a handbook for the students in the physical education curriculum and serve as ushers for department functions.

Eta Kappa Nu

Progress in electrical engineering is the main theme at the Eta Kappa Nu booth during the annual Engineering Exposition. The main objective of the national electrical engineering honorary is to become acquainted with fellow electrical engineers and increase their knowledge in the field.

A high point in the group's activities this year was the winter term initiation banquet where the guest speaker was Dr. Stanley Idzerda of the Honors College.

Evans Scholars

One of the more unique organizations on campus is the Evans Scholars. Established on campus in 1955 by the Western Golf Association, all members of Evans Scholars are golf enthusiasts and former caddies. As a scholastic requirement, all members must have graduated in the upper fourth of their high school class.

The Western Golf Association provides scholarships for all members of the MSU chapter.

Top Row—Linden, Smith, Early, Covitz, Paluck, Clancy, Johnson; Fourth Row—Papenfus, Solowin, Topolsky, Bree, Julien, Ferguson, Dugdale, C.; Third Row—Hull, Roy, Hargrave, Keller, Fikejs, Speck, Dixon, Huter; Second Row—Voitik, Barrett, Hobbs, Miller, Reynolds, Polzin, Shuster, Pucher; Bottom Row—Vrabel, McIntyre, Bankeroff, Dugdale, W., Marino, Welsh, Block, Van Eynde.

Gamma Alpha Chi

Although Gamma Alpha Chi has been on campus only for one year, they have won national recognition in that short time. At the national convention of Gamma Alpha Chi, national professional advertising fraternity for women, the MSU chapter won third place in the Johnson Achievement Cup contest. This contest recognizes undergraduate chapters for their outstanding activities and programs.

"Ideas Unlimited" is only one of the programs the club has to promote higher ideals and better standards of work in advertising. The plan provides promotion ideas for all campus groups desiring the service.

Kappa Alpha Mu

Members of Kappa Alpha Mu, photojournalism honorary, lead a busy life here at MSU. To be eligible for membership, it is necessary for prospective members to have worked on some form of publications and to be of sophomore status.

In addition, Kappa Alpha Mu members photograph all homecoming queen candidates and do the photographic work for the Spinsters' Spin. They also sponsor a display in the Union Board Creative Arts Festival. Membership in Kappa Alpha Mu leads to automatic membership in the National Press Photographers Association.

Green Splash

Green Splash, women's swimming honorary, originally started as a life saving group and has now developed into a synchronized collegiate swimming group. Membership requirements are a 2.0 all-college, senior life saving certificate, intramural participation, and specific water skills.

Early fall term, members of Green Splash begin weekly practices for their annual water show. "New York" was the theme chosen for this year's show presented spring term. Each year representatives from Green Splash enter national competition, including the Women's National Aquatic Forum in Florida.

Kappa Delta Pi

During the course of the year, Kappa Delta Pi, national education honorary, honors different guests speakers in education and other related fields. One of their speakers this year was Dr. Herbert Rudman, assistant professor of administration and educational services, who spoke to the group on his recent visit to Russia and the Russian school system.

Kappa Delta Pi recognizes upper class education students with a 3.0 all university average. Purpose of the honorary is to encourage high professional, intellectual and personal standards.

Knights of St. Patrick

The weekend of the engineering exposition is a big weekend for the Knights of St. Patrick. Not only do they act as guides on the exposition tours for the visiting high school students, but they are also responsible for the selection of the five finalists for the engineering queen title. The queen is crowned at the Engineers' Dance held in early May.

The Knights of St. Patrick were established at MSU to honor the most outstanding engineering students from the junior and senior class. Membership selection is based on extra-curricular activities, both in engineering and in all-university activities.

Omicron Nu

The annual honors banquet, for all home economic honor students, highlights spring term or Omicron Nu. This honorary is for juniors and seniors majoring in home economics who have maintained superior scholarship.

Other than recognizing high scholarship, Omicron Nu also aims to promote leadership and research in the field of home economics. To help meet their objectives, they sponsor a panel discussion on graduate research each winter term with graduate students serving as panel members.

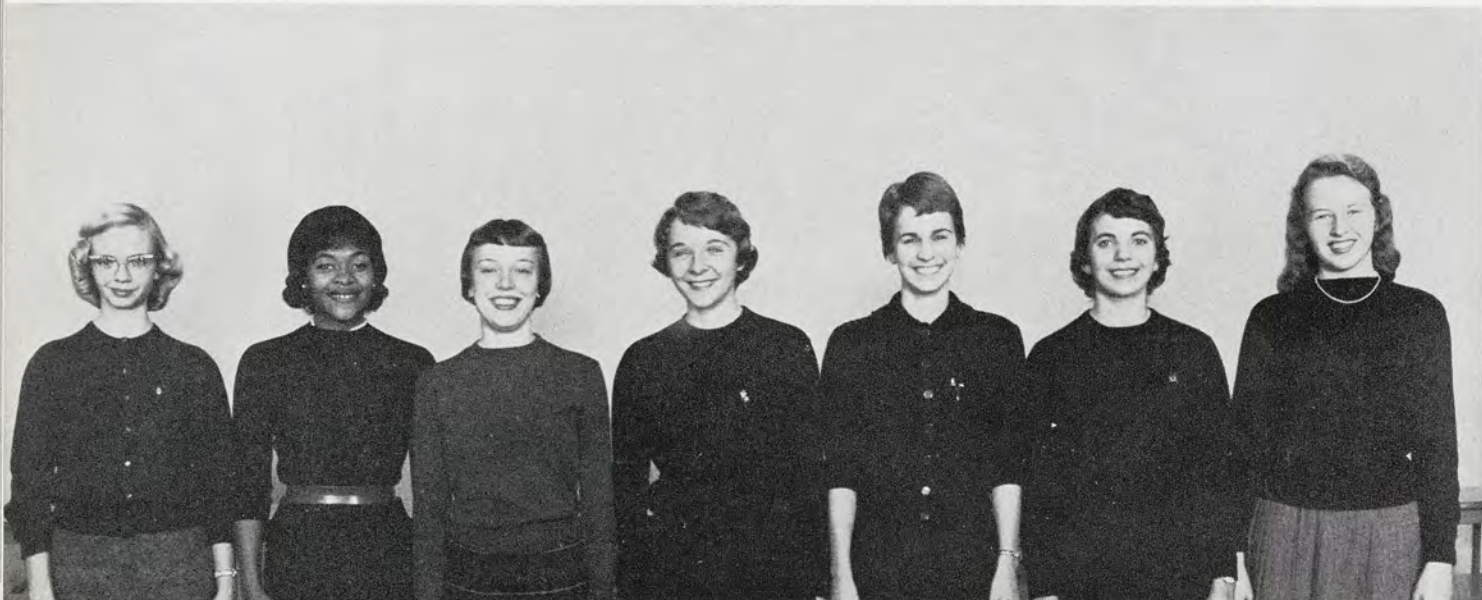

Orchesis

Orchesis made its first appearance on campus in 1928 for students with a sincere interest in contemporary dance.

Members learn new skills and routines at their meetings in preparation for their modern dance exhibition spring term. The show is designed to display their talents and promote an interest in the art of modern dance.

Requirements for membership are previous dance experience and high scholarship.

Pershing Rifles

Members of the Spartan Guard chapter of Pershing Rifles can tell you that all military duty isn't hard to take. The Pershing Rifles have the pleasant duty of acting as an honor guard at the presentation of the corps sponsors at the Coronation Ball.

Pershing Rifles also serve as the honor guard during spring parades and at Commencement exercises.

Phi Gamma Nu

Hostesses for various functions of the Department of Business and Public Service are members of Phi Gamma Nu, national professional sorority for majors in the College of Business and Public Service. At the senior banquet each spring term, the senior woman with the highest point average in the major is given a scholarship trophy.

The honorary also sponsors professional meetings with guest speakers throughout the year.

Phi Kappa Phi

Phi Kappa Phi is an all-university honorary recognizing outstanding academic achievement regardless of major.

Established on campus in 1927, invitations are extended annually to juniors in the top two percent and seniors from the top seven percent of their classes. A very limited number of outstanding grad students and faculty are also admitted. Those selected are honored at a banquet spring term, when a few selected top sophomores are also recognized.

Phi Kappa Phi was founded at the University of Maine in 1897. Their motto is "The love of learning rules the world."

Phi Lambda Tau

Deviating from the engineering side of life, Phi Lambda Tau asked Dr. Carl Hall, professor of agricultural engineering, to speak at their fall initiation banquet on his summer tour of the Soviet Union.

Engineering students from the junior and senior class who have demonstrated outstanding leadership and high scholastic ability at MSU are eligible for membership in Phi Lambda Tau, local all-engineering honorary.

The most outstanding senior engineer is selected each spring by Phi Lambda Tau, to be honored at the annual Engineering Exposition.

Phi Mu Alpha

The Phi Mu Alpha ensemble presents periodic concerts in the Union Ballroom. The group provides music for dances varying from informal theme dances to formal term parties.

Music for the "Pajama Game" production, participation in the Union Board Creative Arts Festival, and presentation of an annual jazz concert are only three of the campus activities in which Phi Mu Alpha played an active part.

Members of Phi Mu Alpha are students selected for their active interest in music and who have maintained a 2.4 all-college average. The Phi Mu Alpha's annually present the All-American Music Program featuring compositions written entirely by American composers.

Pi Sigma Epsilon

Pi Sigma Epsilon, the first professional fraternity in the food distribution industry, is open to all men enrolled in food distribution. The group plans field trips to food manufacturers, linking their academic work with the food industry's current developments. Leaders in the food industry speak to the fraternity at dinner-meetings each term.

Pi Sigma Epsilon annually crowns "Miss Kay", who serves as their official hostess, at an all-university dance held spring term.

Members of Pi Sigma Epsilon meet frequently with prominent faculty members and leaders in the food industry.

Pi Mu Epsilon

Pi Mu Epsilon, mathematics honorary, held their annual winter banquet in honor of Dr. L. C. Plant, former head of the MSU mathematics department. At this banquet, the members were addressed by Dr. Wallace Givens, head of the mathematics department at Wayne State University.

Throughout the year, Pi Mu Epsilon asks various speakers to talk on subjects related to the mathematics field but above the usual classroom lecture. A typical discussion was that given by Dr. John Kelly, on the "Number Theory."

Pi Tau Sigma

Pi Tau Sigma, national mechanical engineering honorary, played a prominent role in the annual Engineering Exposition. To foster the high ideals of the engineering profession and to promote the welfare of its members, Pi Tau Sigma contributes such services as the "Michigan Registration Refresher Courses" to all engineering students spring term. These courses are given mainly for the benefit of graduating engineering students preparing for the engineering exam.

Top Row—Williams, Scovel, Belcher, Miller, Krise, Laham, Matzen, Hagerman; Fourth Row—Bonney, Mueller, Hamilton, Dorer, White, Marshall, Johnson; Third Row—Rogers, Borchardt, Clarke, Kaufman, Martinson, Hall, Grose; Second Row—Lowe, Waltz, Vedder, Decker, Sandford, Downer, Wirereno; Bottom Row—Van Howe, Garter, Root, Slocum, Wood, Thorson, Wakulat.

Scabbard and Blade

"Take me to your leader" could very well be the phrase keynoting Scabbard and Blade, an organization which furnishes guides for many special situations.

Scabbard and Blade is a national military society organized to promote better relations between the military service and the civilian population.

On campus they provide assistance during Freshman orientation and registration. During spring term, the group conducts a school for guidon bearers and also participates in national and local pistol and rifle matches.

Sigma Delta Chi

Sigma Delta Chi, men's professional journalism honorary, spent much time organizing and planning their money raising projects this year. Members have solicited many local firms for advertising material in order to compile a desk blotter which will go on sale at the beginning of fall term.

Sigma Delta Chi also has plans for producing and selling a calendar in conjunction with a contest for a "girl of the month". Prospective members of Sigma Delta Chi must be of junior or senior status with above average scholarship and demonstrate proficient journalistic ability.

Sigma Lambda Chi

Membership in Sigma Lambda Chi, national honorary for men in residential building and lumber merchandising, is in recognition of scholastic achievement and active participation in campus activities. Sigma Lambda Chi members strive to set higher standards for students in the curricula and to meet many of the leading figures in the industry.

The group sponsors a booth for the National Retail Lumber Dealers Association and other home building organizations. As a climax to the year, an annual spring banquet is held for students, friends, and alumni.

Sigma Phi Delta

A new organization on campus this year, Sigma Phi Delta is an international social and professional fraternity for engineers.

The first year for the Sigma Phi Deltas has been an active one. Besides solving the problems of organization, the fraternity has taken an active part in the social life on campus.

Term parties were held during fall and winter terms at the Lansing Civic Center, and a picnic was held spring term. They also were active in intramural sports.

Sigma Pi Eta

Sigma Pi Eta, national hotelman's honorary, frequently visits the outstanding local restaurants and hotels to sample culinary skills as well as to gain a perspective of different operating techniques. Prospective members of Sigma Pi Eta must be of junior status with a 2.5 minimum average and also possess an avid interest in the hotel industry.

Throughout the year, members act as guides for specific conventions held at Kellogg Center, and also publish a brochure on graduating hotel students which is sent to leading hotels throughout the country.

Tau Beta Pi

If you visited the Engineering Exposition, chances are your guide belonged to Tau Beta Pi. Members of the national engineering honorary acted as guides for the annual event.

Another project is the publication of information on scholarships and fellowships offered by major engineering schools. They also visit high schools to recruit prospective engineering students.

Tau Sigma

Each year Tau Sigma honors two outstanding freshmen, selected for their scholastic achievements in the two schools which the honorary represents.

A Science and Arts and Business and Public Service honorary, Tau Sigma recognizes high scholarship in Science and Arts and Business and Public Service. Members must have a 3.4 all-university average.

The most outstanding event sponsored by the honorary is the initiation banquet, which is held traditionally during winter term.

Theta Alpha Phi

Members of Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatic honorary, are chosen on the basis of their outstanding interest and ability in the theatre. Theta Alpha Phi was organized to increase interest, stimulate creativeness and develop artistic achievement in all of the allied arts and crafts of the theatre.

The group produces a drama each spring, and co-operates with Alpha Epsilon Rho, national radio and television honorary, in producing television dramas on WKAR. "Peace in the Valley", winter term television production, was an all student production.

Theta Sigma Phi

Theta Sigma Phi is MSU's honorary for women journalists. Coeds must intend to enter the field of journalism for a career and have an outstanding scholastic record to be eligible for membership.

Active on campus since 1947, the Theta Sigma Phi's hold six professional meetings a year, scheduling speakers on different phases of newspaper, advertising and public relations work.

They also sponsor a "Ladies of the Press" banquet, and give an award to an outstanding Theta Sigma Phi alumna.

Xi Sigma Pi

Forestry students in the top quarter of the junior and senior class are scholastically eligible for membership in Xi Sigma Pi, national forestry honorary. Xi Sigma Pi honors the student who is doing outstanding work in forestry and possesses a personality which will assure his success in the forestry profession.

During the year, many guest speakers talk with the members of Xi Sigma Pi on various aspects of forestry. One of their speakers was Dr. D. H. Brunnschweiler, who spoke on "Climate Trends in Climatology".

Governing Bodies and Services

The jazz show and photo display are typical of the many popular Union Board services offered throughout the school year.

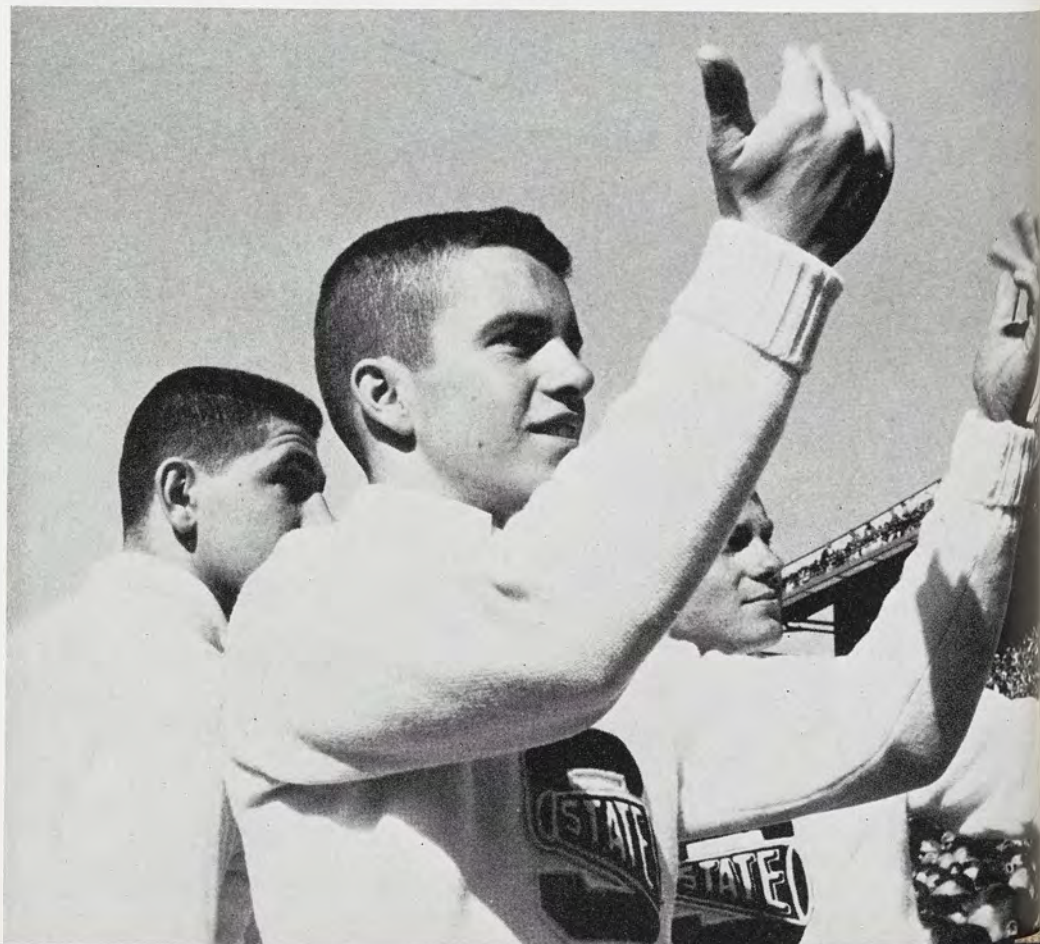

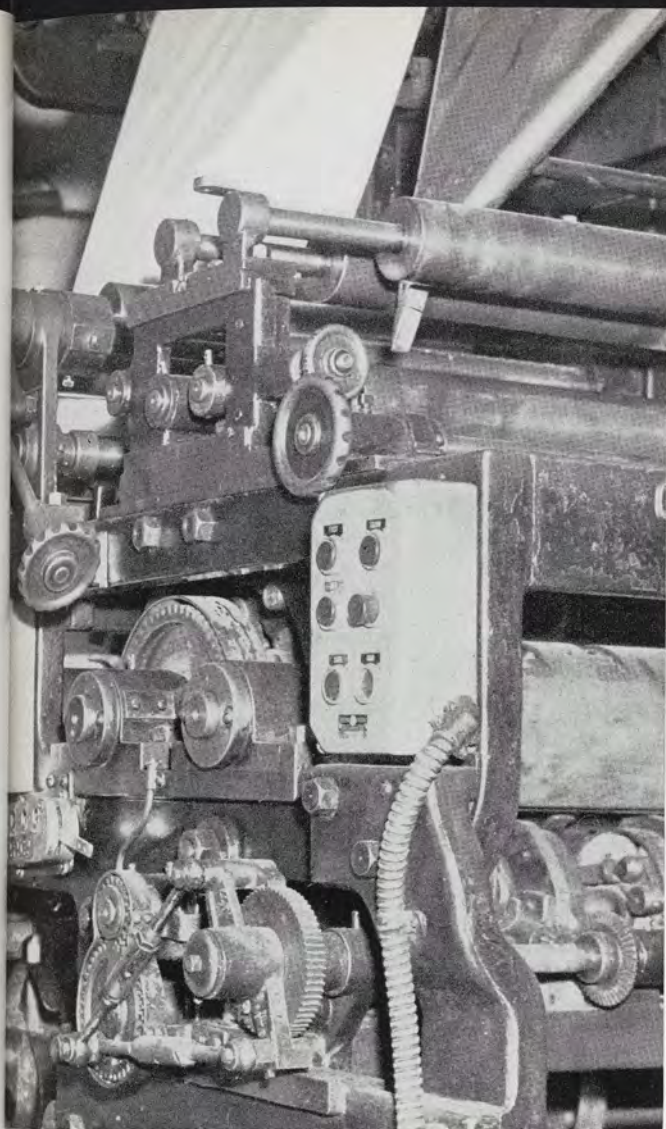

Though few groups on campus are not involved at one time or another in some all-university project, there are student organizations at Michigan State which exist entirely for the purpose of campus-wide service. Indeed, several of them are responsible for many of the very projects in which other groups occasionally participate. The efforts of these governing bodies and service organizations touch the lives of everyone on campus from the faculty member who reads his morning State News to the art enthusiast who haunts the Union Board shows with a critical eye. Even the student most indifferent to things extra-curricular finds no argument with AUSG health insurance and polio shots, or the APO blood drive. Through such activities, the members of these groups represent the student community at its best.

The enthusiasm and skill of the cheerleaders sparked Spartan spirit throughout even the toughest games of the season.

Wheels turn within wheels as the new high-speed rotary press runs off another edition of the State News at Campus Press.

State News Editorial Board

The Editorial Board is the policy-making body of the Michigan State News. After a trial period last year, the Editorial Board plan was adopted on a permanent basis this year.

Composed of the Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor, Editorial Page Editor and his assistants, and all Night Editors, the board meets once a week to discuss current campus problems and adopt their stands on all issues affecting MSU.

State News Advertising Staff

Members of the State News Advertising Staff are the people who keep the money coming in, helping to finance one of the nation's finest collegiate papers.

As the paper's reporters work day and night getting stories for the news columns, the advertising staff is busy contacting Lansing and East Lansing merchants for advertisements. National advertising is increasing each year, also, which adds to the duties of the staff.

Selling is not their only responsibility. Before the job is complete staffers have to layout the ads and check them for errors.

State News Editorial Staff

A State News week for reporters and editors begins on Sunday and ends Friday morning at about 3 a.m. when that day's paper is locked into position at Campus Press. The mornings, afternoons and nights between are spent gathering news, editing copy, laying out pages, tracking down people and things—jobs which are supervised and carried out entirely by students.

The editorial staff is in charge of 60 percent of the 900-1,200 column inches the newspaper prints every day of class.

Wolverine Editorial Staff

Publishing a book like the Wolverine is a year-long job. Fall term the editorial staff keeps a slow but steady schedule, writing copy and taking photos.

Winter term the pace quickens as deadlines approach, bringing with them last minute nightmares concerning missing copy and idents. Working under great pressure, however, the job gets done.

Spring term permits some relaxation and a chance to catch up on study time. But not for long! Shortly after the Publications Banquet the new staff takes a long breath and starts planning the layout for the next Wolverine.

Wolverine Business Staff

While the editorial department of the Wolverine is busy compiling the book, Wolverine business staffers are busy planning sales and promotion campaigns.

The business manager is responsible for paying all bills, collecting money for Wolverine operations and preparing the required financial reports.

Many "legmen" go to work, contacting businessmen in the area and selling advertising space. Others prepare the ads and check the copy for errors.

The office manager supervises the typing and bookwork performed by the staffers, and coordinates the many jobs.

Spartan

The Spartan, MSU's feature-humor magazine, chalked up its twenty-third year as a campus publication. The magazine is managed and written by students, and aimed at student readership.

Traditional features such as the popular Sparty Pix and Kleptomania add continuity to the magazine.

Work on the Spartan is divided into two staffs. The editorial department is responsible for production and content, while the business staff takes care of all advertising, promotion and publicity.

Spartan Engineer

The Spartan Engineer rounded out its twelfth year of publication this year. Starting as the official publication of the College of Engineering, the magazine now includes schools which are closely related to the field of engineering.

Many changes have occurred in the magazine since its initial inception in 1948. The publication has doubled in size, adopted a modern format, and has increased in circulation. Aimed primarily at engineers and students in related fields, the magazine publishes technical articles by students, faculty members, and leaders in different phases of engineering.

MSU Veterinarian

The MSU Veterinarian has been the winner for the past three years of the "Oilcan", presented annually at the Publications Banquet to the publication which puts on the best humorous skit.

Published three times a year, the magazine keeps students informed on the most recent scientific developments in the field of veterinary medicine. It is translated into 12 languages and disseminated to 36 foreign countries.

Staff members are students in good standing in the College of Veterinary Medicine and members of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

Darkroom

The Pub Row Darkroom is the nerve center for photographs which appear in all student publications. All feature and special interest photos for the Spartan and Wolverine, as well as all local shots for the State News, come from the student Darkroom.

Though assignments may seem awfully routine at times, the photographers occasionally get the pleasant assignment to photograph such celebrities as Miss America when they visit campus.

The dark room is fully equipped to develop, enlarge and print pictures. The group works in conjunction with Kappa Alpha Mu, honorary photography society.

AUSG Executive Branch

Many of the services enjoyed by MSU students result from the direct efforts of the All-University Student Government executive branch. These range from the orientation program for new students to the student insurance program which covers over 40% of the student body.

The executive branch is administered by an elected president and his cabinet, while all funds are controlled and allocated by the AUSG Treasurer.

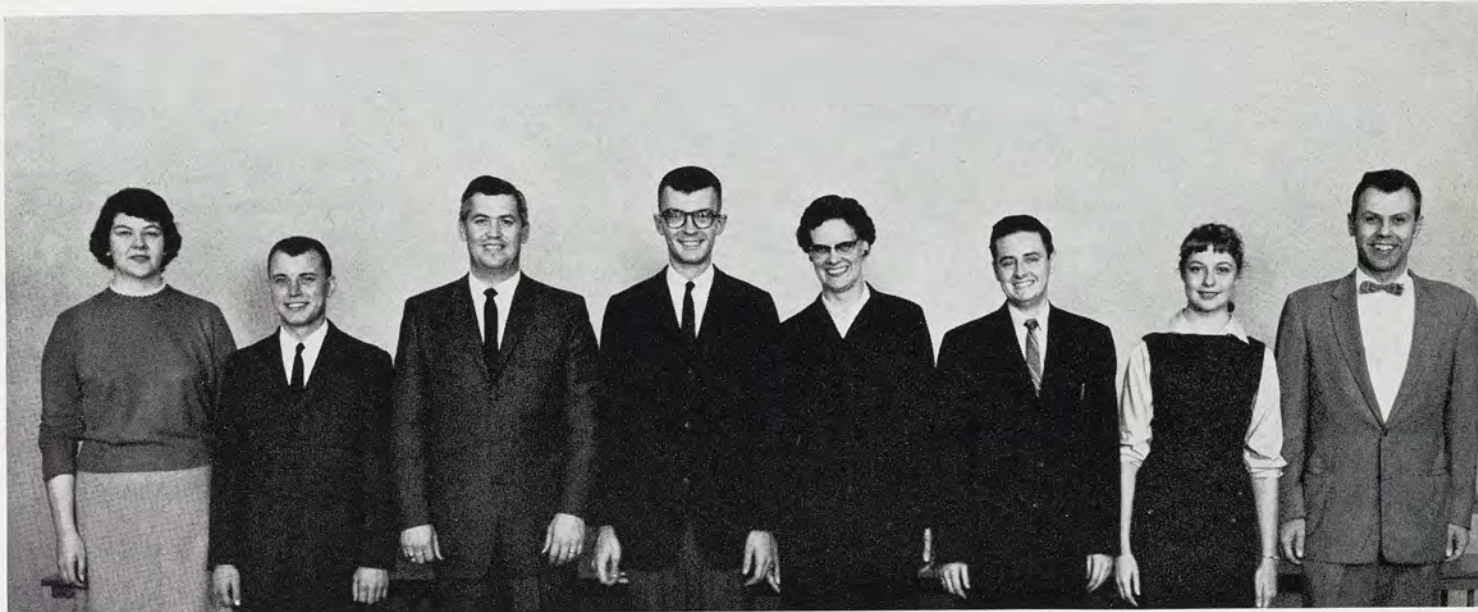

Student Congress

All student living units both on and off campus are represented by Student Congress. Each of the 54 members of the legislative branch are elected in the general spring elections, after which the new group meets to elect officers and determine procedure for the coming year.

Operating under the leadership of its elected speaker, Student Congress is responsible for matters ranging from the appropriation of all AUSG funds to the chartering of student organizations.

All-University Judiciary

Formed in 1956 by constitutional amendment, the All-University Judiciary was instituted primarily to rule on the actions of the executive and legislative branches of student government. A second highly important function of the court is the hearing of those student disciplinary cases not involving special action such as medical treatment.

The nine members of the court include a chief justice, one graduate and six undergraduate students and a representative from the offices of both the Dean of Men and the Dean of Women.

Student Traffic Appeal Court

The Student Traffic Appeal Court, installed along with the All-University Judiciary in the general judicial reorganization of 1956, performs a unique service on campus. Composed of seven student members, the court is empowered to dismiss any traffic fines imposed by the Campus Police for driving or parking violations.

Although the decisions of the court are subject to review, not one has been reversed during its three active years of existence.

 Nicholson, Luhman, Osner, Toth, Kersheske, Di Cenzo.

Members of the AWS Activities Board are elected each winter term by MSU coeds, who are all members of AWS automatically. All women's living units and major women's organizations on campus elect representatives to the Board.

Some of the Board's services require much work before the opening of fall term each year. Under the Board's "Big Sister" plan, letters designed to acquaint new students with life at MSU are sent to all coeds entering their freshman year.

The Board sponsors a "Who's Who and What's What" program during Welcome Week. Purpose of the event is to give freshmen and transfers a view of all the activities for women on campus.

Thanks to the Activities Board, students can buy less expensive books each term. In connection with Men's Union a program called STUN (Students Texts Used and New) is offered. The two groups also sponsor Activities Carnival.

Members of the Activities Board participate in Lantern Night, honoring fifty outstanding senior women.

At their regular weekly meetings, members of the AWS Judiciary review all disciplinary cases involving violations of AWS rules.

Composed of representatives elected each winter term from all women's dormitories, sororities and off-campus living units, the Judiciary members also discuss problems which have occurred in the living units and handle all petitions from coeds.

Work is begun on revising the AWS Handbook soon after new members take office spring term. Revisions are made according to the changing needs of the women students. Members of the Judiciary are aided in this task by housemothers and coeds who offer suggestions through their representatives.

Many of the regulations are established as a result of contacts with the coeds and with other AWS Judiciary Boards throughout the nation.

The AWS Judiciary Board cooperates with the Activities Board in supervising all AWS elections.

After petitioning to bring her case before the AWS Judiciary, a coed must abide by their decision concerning disciplinary action. Late minutes and other measures may be invoked or repealed by this group.

Senior Council

It is only fitting that the senior year should be a climax to undergraduate days. With this realization in mind, the Senior Council insured that senior activities were at their best by good, sound planning.

The Senior Council is composed of the four senior class officers, elected by the class under the direction of the Student Government, plus those class members who are chosen by the class officers on the basis of petitions and interviews.

The council's work gets underway with the traditional Homecoming weekend activities. They also begin selecting members for the "Senior of the Week" series, which honors outstanding members of the class.

Representing a class which has several thousand members provides communication problems. In order to keep class members in closer contact with each other, the Council sponsors coffee hours. Other council projects are Senior Swingout and the Senior Ball, traditionally held spring term. Water Carnival is regarded as a fitting preview for Commencement, which follows the next day.

Students inspect the Sr. Council's weekly selections for "Senior of the Week", which are displayed in the Union. The "Senior of the Year" is chosen from these selections.

Junior Council

The Junior Council is made up of the four class officers elected by class members under the regulations of the Student Government, plus fifteen members of the junior class chosen by petition and interview. The council serves as the governing body for the class.

In an effort to promote better communication between the council and class members, coffee hours were one of their main social projects. These events provided juniors an opportunity to present their ideas to the council and gave council members the opportunity to describe their projects. Circulation of a newsletter also provided further contact with juniors.

The biggest project undertaken by the class was the J-Hop. Many students take this annual event for granted, forgetting the long hours of work involved. The Tommy Dorsey Orchestra and Sauter-Finnegan provided the music for the two night "Tambika", while Ella Fitzgerald sang during intermission both nights.

The Executive Council holds periodic meetings to discuss proposed class projects ranging from coffee hours to J-Hop.

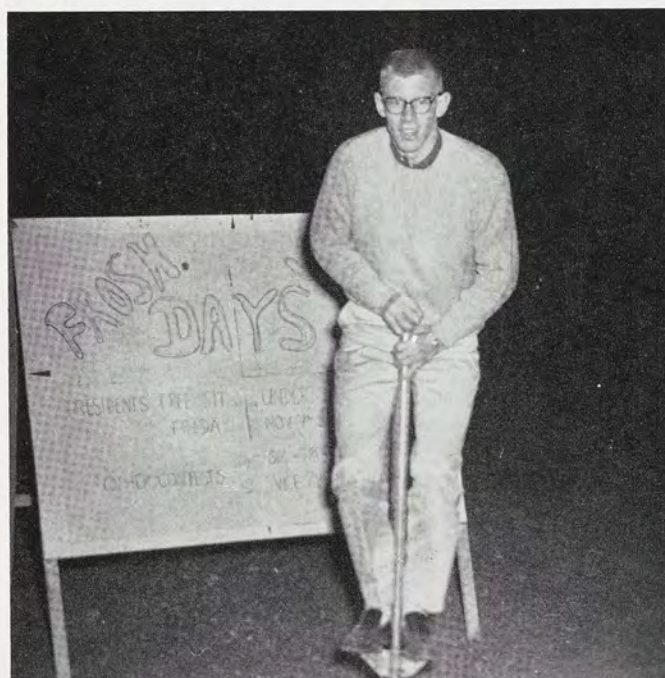

Frosh-Soph Council

Sophomore president, Gil Cox, and freshman president, Larry Campbell, survive a long cold night during the annual tree-sitting contest of Frosh-Soph Daze.

A scholarship award is presented annually by the Frosh-Soph Council.

Frosh Soph Council

The Frosh-Soph Council is composed of one freshman and sophomore representative from each of the dormitories, fraternities, sororities and off-campus students. Also included on the council are all finalists in the class officer elections.

The Frosh-Soph Council aims to promote class spirit and friendly relations between the classes and to assist in the direction of the classes.

Before each council meeting there is a meeting of the Executive Board, which is composed of the class officers and standing committee chairmen. All committee reports are made and business for the council meeting is planned at this time.

The big event fall term was Frosh-Soph Daze, a weekend of class rivalry when class members competed against each other in a tug of war by the Red Cedar and canoe races. Volleyball games and greased pig and sack races added to the contest for the coveted Little Brown Jug, won by the freshmen, who scored the most points.

The council also participates in the Activities Carnival and schedules coffee hours throughout the year in an effort to promote class spirit.

The Little Brown Jug is presented to Larry Campbell, right, president of the freshman class, as sophomore class president Gil Cox, left, admits defeat. The "Jug" is awarded annually to the winners of the Frosh-Soph Daze competition.

PanHellenic Council is the governing body of the national sororities on campus. Composed of two representatives from each house, the council seeks to maintain a high standard of sorority life and to compile rushing, pledging and initiation rules.

PanHel sponsors numerous philanthropic projects, including hospital visitation and a scholarship for a foreign student.

PanHel also works closely with the Inter-Fraternity Council. The two councils sponsor Greek Week, a traditional spring term event which is the highlight of Greek life on campus. Athena's Holiday is one of the many sorority activities of the week.

WIC

Women's Inter-residence Council (WIC) is the coordinating body organized to further activities and policies of the women's living units on campus. The organization is broken down into two groups—the Women's Presidents Council (below), composed of the dorm presidents, and the Women's Inter-residence Council (above), comprised of a representative from each dorm. WIC meets in an appointed dorm for dinner every Tuesday night.

As a member of the Big 10 Inter-residence Hall Association, representatives from the council attend the Big 10 Conferences held during spring term.

Here on our own campus WIC sponsors the Sno-Ball and the Snow Sculpture contest each winter term. Other projects are Inter-Dorm Sing, Welcome Week Mixer, Homecoming activities, Blood Drive, International Week, Activities Carnival, and Who's Who and What's What. WIC also sponsors a Christmas Charity Project.

This year saw the finish of a three year project concerned with selling dorm stationery. The purpose of this project was to help the dorms acquire money to start dorm libraries.

Officers' workshops and desserts are also given to help all the officers within the dorm become acquainted with their duties and responsibilities and to honor old and new members.

IFC

The Inter-Fraternity Council is the main coordinating body for the fraternity system on campus. Composed of two representatives from each house, the council governs activities of all fraternities and colonies on campus.

One of their special projects this year was the Bring Lots of Books (BLOB) campaign which helped the library retrieve many lost books. The council also cooperated with other campus organizations during the Sparta Claus drive.

With the PanHellenic Council, IFC sponsors the IFC-PanHel Ball during fall term, and the Greek Week events in the spring.

Men's Hall Association

The Men's Hall Association has been a part of dormitory life since 1949. The group, composed of representatives from each of the men's dormitories, was formed to promote residence hall spirit and coordinate men's inter-dorm social and athletic functions.

A member of the Big Ten Inter-Residence Hall Council, the group aims to be of service to all men living in residence halls by making dormitory life as attractive as possible at all times.

Home Economics Council

Home Ec Council serves as a guidance council for seven home economics clubs and integrates all club activities. It also directs home economics high school recruiting.

A part of the Michigan Home Economics Association and American Home Economics Association, the Council promotes its activities through catering, child care, registration and hostessing at the annual tea for foreign home economics students.

Each term the Council sponsors a general meeting. Dean Thelma Porter is feature speaker at the first meeting.

Agriculture Council

Agriculture Council consists of one representative from each organization recognized by the Council. It was founded in the early 1930's to unite the various agricultural clubs.

Ag Council works for the general interest of the College of Agriculture to sponsor activities in the field each term.

Harvest Ball, held each fall term, is a highlight of the Council's events. During the fall it also participates in Activities Carnival. A winter term activity is Ag Honors night. Ox Roast is a spring term extravaganza of the group.

Union Board

The Playboy Bunny was a familiar sight this year in the Union, thanks to Union Board. The bunny was an unofficial guest during Union Board Week, which stressed a "Playboy After Hours" theme.

The highlight of Union Board's varied activities, Union Board Week is traditionally a winter term event. All the board's committees combined to put on a display of art, jazz concerts, talent shows, fashion shows and a special dance.

Union Board is a service organization designed to stimulate social, cultural and civic development among the student body.

The board is governed by a Board of Directors consisting of 14 members selected by the previous board. Three of the directors serve as officers, while the remaining eleven each have a special committee.

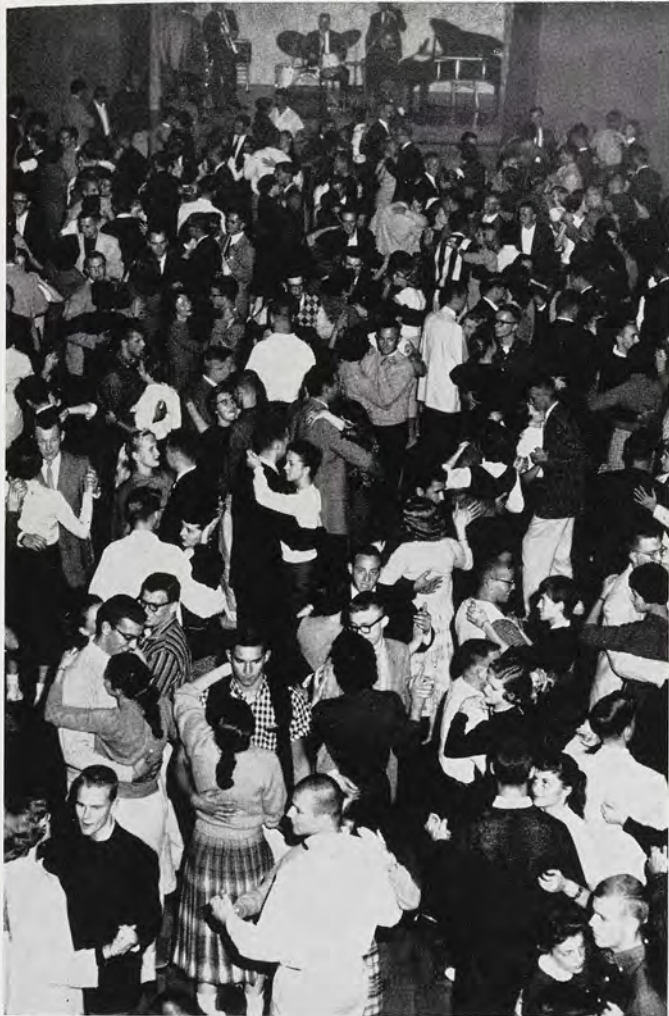

The committees conduct all the Union Board activities for the year, which include such varied programs as dances, speakers, special trips, and bridge tournaments and lessons. Membership is obtained through petition and rush.

The Union Board fashion show ranges from bridal gowns to Bermuda shorts, modeled by the campus' prettiest coeds.

Weekly Union Board dances are among the most popular social activities on campus.

All of Union Board's many policies and projects are determined by the Board of Directors under President Gordon Smith.

J-Hop Executive Committee

Members of the J-Hop Executive Committee were selected at an open rush smoker held early fall term. Headed by council members, and composed of members of the junior class, various organizational committees organized the traditional, all-university dance.

The Auditorium was converted into a South African village to carry out the "Tambika" theme. The Tommy Dorsey and Sauter-Finnegan orchestras played during the two-night event, while Ella Fitzgerald entertained the crowd during intermission both nights.

Cheerleaders

Each fall term Saturday means football, and down on the field not two, but three teams go into action. The first two teams carry the ball (one for us and the other against us) while the third team has the equally important job of carrying Spartan Spirit. We mean the cheerleaders, of course.

Coached by Pauline Hess, the group spends many hours practicing intricate routines and cheers to rouse Spartan fans at all athletic events and pep rallies throughout the school year.

Spartan Women's League

Spartan Women's League strives to help the women of MSU make use of their capabilities, to create a stronger bond of friendship among women and to answer the call for service anywhere on campus.

Their annual orientation program for transfer students was held by the Spartan Women's League at the beginning of fall term. The new Spartans were given a chance to meet campus leaders and organization officers at the coffee hour, and MSU began to feel a little more like home for them.

One of their main social events of the year was the Spinners Spin, which is jointly sponsored by SWL, Tower Guard and Mortar Board. The Spin, a semi-formal dance to which the girls invite the boys, has become one of the most popular all-university social events.

Alpha Phi Omega

If you have ever been a patient in Olin Memorial Health Center, chances are you have been helped by a member of Alpha Phi Omega.

Running errands for students in Olin is only one of the ways this organization serves the campus.

Alpha Phi Omega was organized to assemble college men in the fellowship of the Scout Oath, to develop friendship and to promote service.

This group is responsible for signs on campus which remind us to "Save Our Grass", and are also famous for their Ugliest Man on Campus contest.

Activities Carnival

Activities Carnival was one of the highlights of campus life fall term. Sponsored by the Activities Board of AWS, any chartered group on campus can participate in the event.

The purpose of Activities Carnival is to introduce all students to the various clubs, organizations and activities on campus. Each group constructs a booth which demonstrates their purpose.

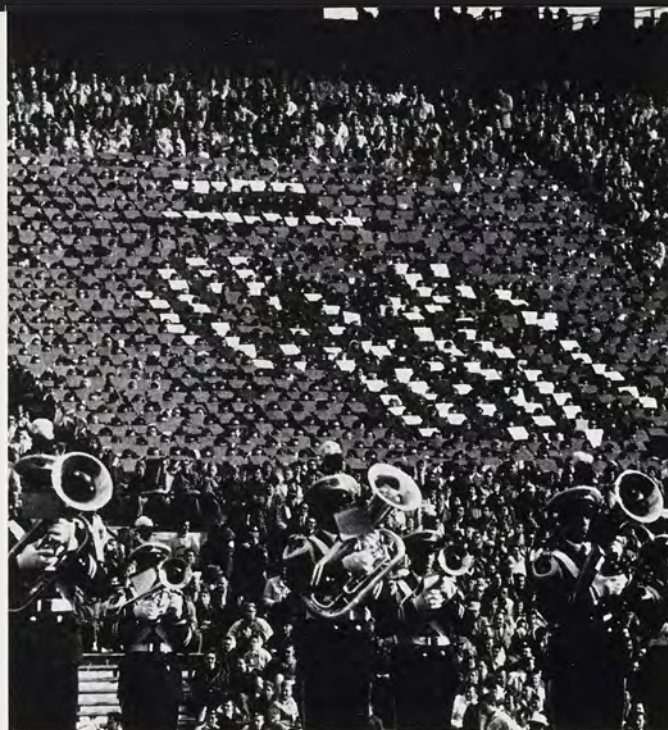

Approximately 2,800 people visited the 76 booths erected in Spartan Stadium for this year's Activities Carnival.

Block S

Block "S" was a familiar sight to the thousands of people who watched Spartan football games. Even though the finished product was viewed only at the home football games, members of the executive committee of Block "S" were hard at work during the entire school year, selecting themes to give plenty of color and variety to next season's half-time activities.

But themes were not the only problems the group faced this year. They had to conduct membership drives to insure they would have enough people to carry out their themes effectively. This required distributing more than a thousand membership cards, and getting the proper cards signed to the right people. Rehearsals were an absolute must, especially when the eyes of the nation viewed the performances on television. Movies were taken of the flashing sessions and were shown later at coffee hours.

Varsity Teams

Among the most active student groups on campus are the varsity teams. Those students who win a berth on one of these teams not only have to satisfy the requirements expected of them as students at MSU, but they must also undergo all the voluntary self-sacrifice which is necessary to become a good athlete. Over 300 Spartans feel this is a worthy goal.

Every day throughout the year, members of the varsity teams can be seen in the gymnasiums, swimming pools or practice fields, keeping in condition, performing that extra practice that produces good teamwork. Some individuals stand out as stars and attain national fame, but this would not be possible except for the determination of each member of every varsity team to do his very best.

The value of their effort is made evident in many ways . . . by their records . . . by the manner with which they take the losses as well as the victories . . . by the enthusiastic fans who come to cheer each team.

GREEKS AND COLONIES
DORMS AND CO-OPS
MARRIED HOUSING
OFF-CAMPUS LIVING

Whoever tagged university housing with the "home away from home" label must have been thinking of Edgar A. Guest's "heap o' living" criterion, for this much is certainly true of MSU away-from-home-life. From the immense Brody residence halls to the sorority house on M.A.C., Michigan State students have one characteristic in common: they get their rent's worth. The married grad who in other years might have had to forego advanced studies here because of a housing problem, now finds in the "bricks" an asset instead, while the bachelor-about-town has no trouble finding that inexpensive hat rack that frees his funds for those more social investments. These, then, are the Living Units at MSU.

LIVING UNITS

Big doings begin for many MSU coeds with the sorority rush sign up spring term.

The IFC smoker held fall term in the Union gave new men students a chance to view the fraternity system.

Homer probably couldn't have fit the Greeks at MSU into another epic poem, since they're not the "have toga, will travel" variety. But their own version of Mount Olympus extends from M.A.C. Avenue to Hagadorn road.

Their lives may not reach epic proportions, but there were some big scenes worth noting this year, such as Greek Week, the highlight of fraternity-sorority life, which is sponsored by PanHellenic and InterFraternity Councils.

Greeks

The annual spring term event began with Sorority Sing, the occasion when groups of coeds in pretty pastel dresses with pretty, pastel voices warbled their versions of "Night and Day" or "Begin the Beguine" or "S'Wonderful." (The burning question: Should we do it a la Fred Waring or Ray Conniff?)

Then there were the exchange dinners between sorority and fraternity houses—a chance to get acquainted and see how the other half eats.

Leadership conferences, an important part of the week, featured separate officer workshops and special speakers. The conferences included discussions, question and answer sessions, and exchange of problems and solutions.

Fraternity Sing was next on the agenda and this time fraternity men in black tie sans tails crowded the stage and filled the Aud with red-blooded renditions of "There Is Nothing Like a Dame" or "Lil' Liza Jane."

Coeds didn't have to be muscle-bound to get a big charge out of the next event on the Greek Week calendar—Athena's Holiday. Who needs muscles in a potato-sack race, anyway? But prerequisites for this throwback to the ancient Olympic games are a good sense of humor and an uninhibited flair for wearing "togas."

Jr. 500 Queen Nancy Stevens presents the winner's trophy to Alpha Phi Alpha.

There were mock chariot races complete with thrills—and spills, hurdles, and even a discus throw which had the coed contestants straining to hurl that pot-lid as many yards away as possible.

Fabulous Greek Feast rounded out the hectic week with a sumptuous, buffet-style spread on a fraternity lawn, for Greeks and independents. The affair is hosted by a different fraternity each year and features entertainment and dancing under the stars.

Winter term brought the familiar sight of snow-booted coeds trudging down icy streets carrying an extra pair of high heels. At each house, the boots were deposited on the front porch, dress shoes were donned, and the fledgling rushees got their first glimpse of sorority life.

Before this stage, the rushees attended convocations and question and answer sessions designed to make rushing as uncomplicated as possible. A counseling service set up by the PanHellenic Council provided each group of 35 rushees with a sorority member who was available as their guide and adviser.

After a series of rush smokers and parties, pledging was held. If pledges made their grades, initiation was the next step and the "try out" period was completed.

The new actives now shared the fun of working with another fraternity or sorority in events including Homecoming, Spartacade and Water Carnival.

The buffet style Greek Feast at the Psi U house climaxed another activity-packed Greek Week.

Excitement takes over as the Jr. 500 campus classic shifts into high gear.

High spirits and minor casualties characterize the Athena's Holiday sack race.

There are a lot of things to remember besides the hammer and nails and float building aspects of Greek life.

There were the parties—themes ranged from a “Saints and Sinners” costume affair to the pseudo Greenwich Village atmosphere simulated for some “Beat Generation” type soirees.

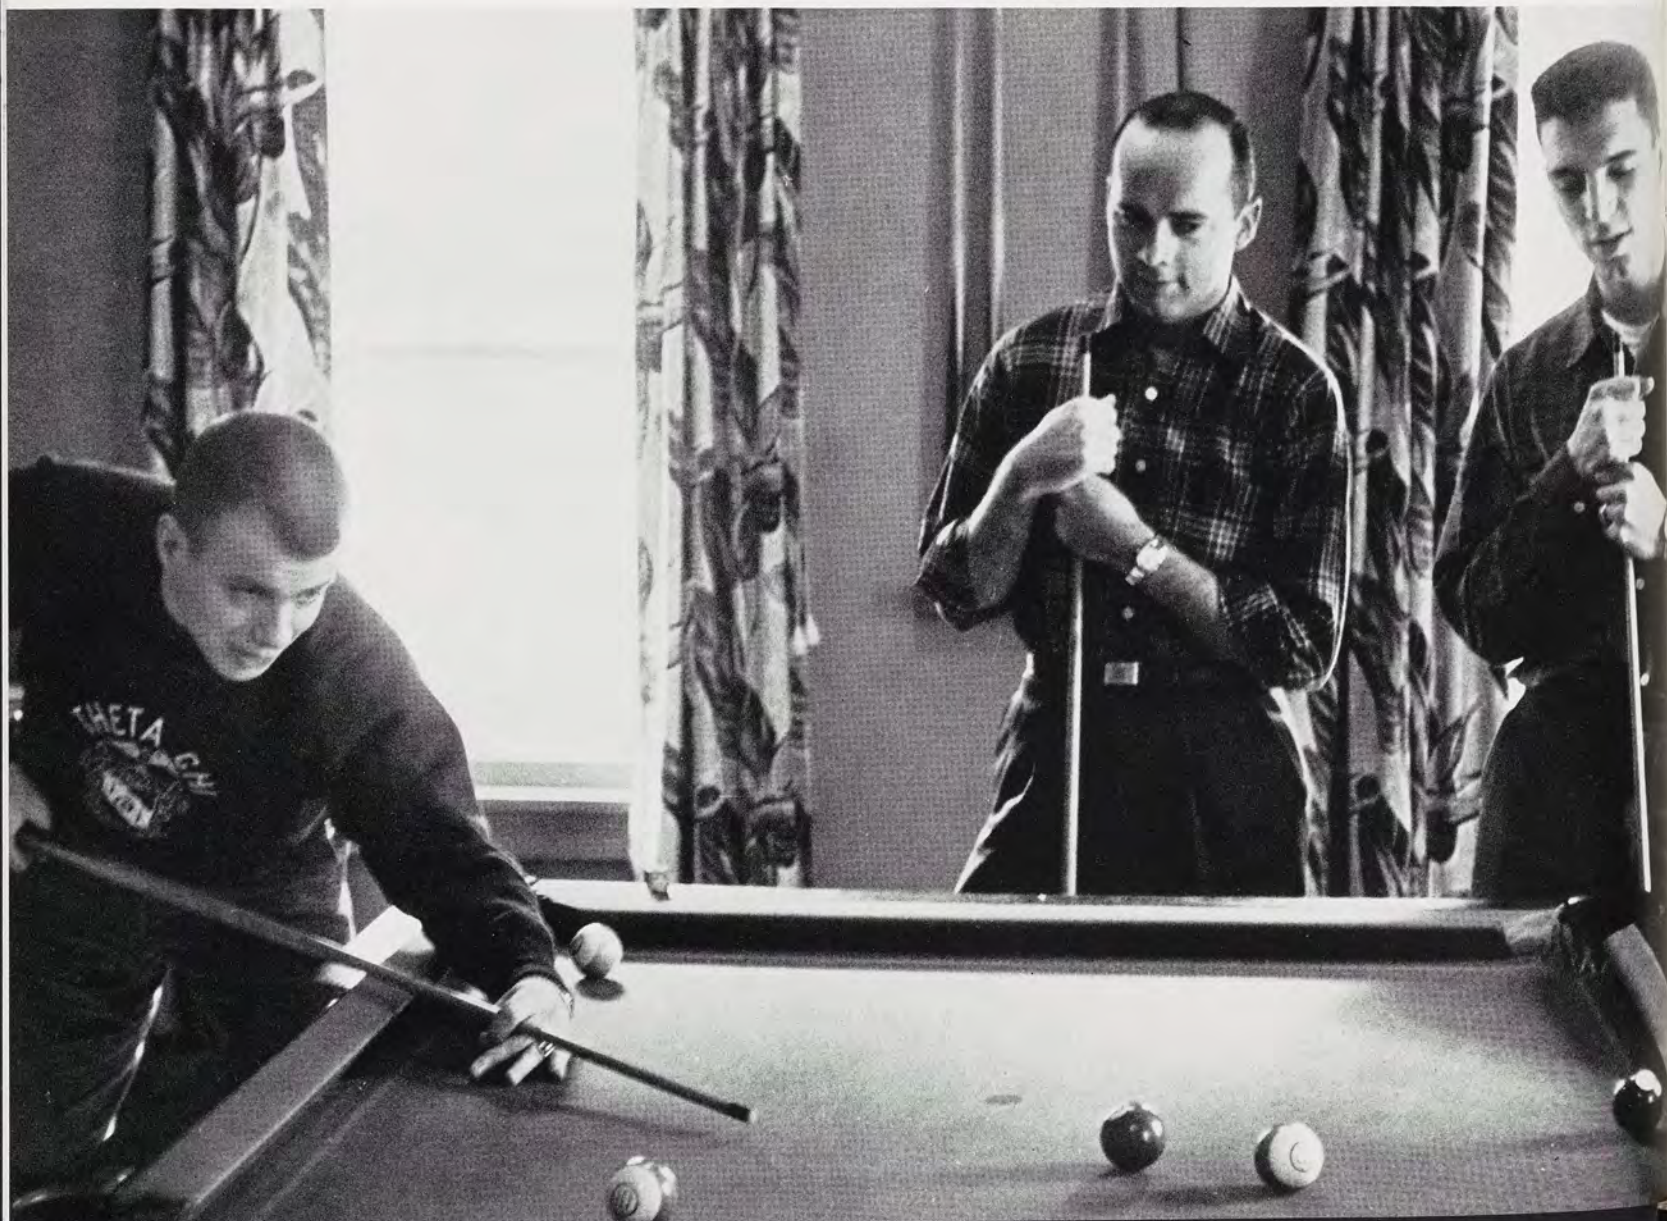

It seems that the term for the Angry Young Men really became a household word this year, judging from the number of “parties at the pad.”

And who can forget the younger-than-springtime serenades during fall and spring term? With their intangible, collegiate magic, they are a part of the classic Betty Coed dream of romance.

This moonlight and roses affair climaxes the “getting pinned” stage—a source of excitement in sorority houses.

Then there were the desserts and the parties for children, the Christmas caroling, picnics, and formal dinner dances—all part of the '58-'59 picture of Greek life.

A friendly billiards game is an enjoyable way for fraternity brothers to relax after class.

The right mood is generated in frequent "do it yourself" jam sessions at Greek houses.

A willing and able tutor is seldom far away in the effort to raise the house average.

Other epidemics may come and go on the sorority scene but bridge lingers on.

Alpha Chi Omega

Talk about hard luck . . . the Alpha Chi's had it this fall during Homecoming weekend. They had finished a gala display in their front yard when a crucial fuse blew and the motor broke down, just in time for the judges!

Besides taking part in all campus activities, the Alpha Chi Omega's also look forward to one large term party each year plus several smaller dances.

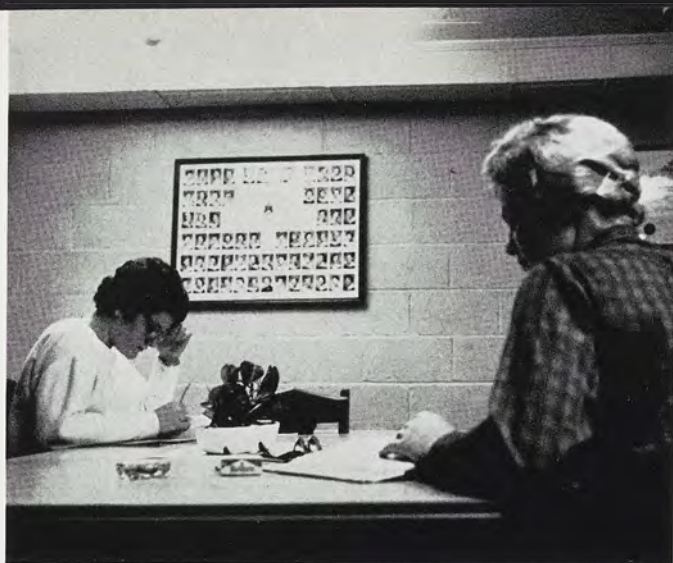

Their national altruistic project is the Cerebral Palsy Project, which they help by sponsoring a Christmas party for local children stricken with the disease.

Alpha Chi Omega was founded at Depauw University in 1885. The sorority was installed on campus in 1928.

Alpha Delta Pi

"Bicycles, bicycles, everywhere, and not a place to park!" With the growing need and popularity of the vehicle on this far-flung campus, there also arises the problem of what to do with them when you're not riding them. The Alpha Delta Pi's came up with a neat solution and now claim that this year their front yard held more bicycles per inch than any other house on campus!

Besides coping with the parking problem, the Alpha Delta Pi's also took part in the whole roster of campus activities.

The local chapter of Alpha Delta Pi was installed on campus in 1956.

Alpha Epsilon Phi

In addition to taking part in all-university activities such as Spartacade, Water Carnival and Athena's Holiday (excellent form in the potato sack race!), the Alpha Epsilon Phi's also had the usual round of term parties and dances.

This year the main philanthropic project of the Alpha Epsilon Phi's centered on aid to the tuberculosis sanitarium and to Israel.

Founded in 1909 at Barnard College, the local chapter of Alpha Epsilon Phi was chartered on the MSU campus in 1952, one of 44 other national chapters throughout the country.

rick, Rakestraw, Schiller, Humphries, Metzger, Cranmer, Mess-more; Bottom Row—Brozak, Soper, Anas, Cutler, Buckley, Gambill, Knilians, Towns.

To keep up with the social calendar this year, the Alpha Gamma Delta's staged a "Roaring Twenties" party (the cat's pajamas!) and an exotic "Polynesian" party.

These coeds also participated in all-university activities including Sorority Sing and Spartacade. They also had a Dad's Day, a Mother's Christmas tea, International Reunion Day, and their traditional May Morning breakfast.

Alpha Gamma Delta had its beginnings as a literary society on campus. In 1921, this group, originally known as Chi Lambda, became the Chi chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta when they affiliated with the national sorority.

Alpha Kappa Alpha

Franklin, Wyche, Wills.

The Alpha Kappa Alpha's gave a new meaning to the term "Can-Can Party" this year. Admission to their fall term party, held one week before Thanksgiving, was one can of food. The "proceeds" went into a food basket for a needy family in Lansing.

Active in all phases of campus life, the Alpha Kappa Alpha's have won the Athena's Holiday trophy for the past three consecutive years.

Four members of the local chapter attended the 50th anniversary celebration of Alpha Kappa Alpha, held in Washington, D.C. last summer. For their national project, the coeds support the Council on Human Rights.

Alpha Omicron Pi

From the wilds of darkest Africa came the AOPi's prize Homecoming display this year—"Shrink 'Em Down To Size." Complete with throbbing drums, jungle calls and headhunter's paraphernalia, this novel display took the first place trophy for the annual event.

Besides participating in Homecoming, members of Alpha Omicron Pi also took part in all-university functions, among them Spartacade, Sorority Sing, Water Carnival and Greek Week.

Alpha Omicron Pi was founded nationally in 1897 at Barnard College. They were established on the MSU campus in 1934.

Alpha Phi

The Alpha Phi's had a busy social calendar this year. Included in the social side of their life was a fall skating party (they nursed sore muscles for a month!), Dad's Day, Homecoming open house, Founders Day and a Mother's Club tea.

Besides these social events, the usual term parties were also enjoyed by the Alpha Phi's.

In the spring there were many more activities, including a Bermuda party, a Mother's Day luncheon, and State Day.

Alpha Phi was founded in 1872 at Syracuse University. The local chapter was installed in 1932. Their national philanthropic project is cardiac aid.

Top Row—Cotter, Russell, Johnston, Beadling, Higgins, Derr, St. Clair; Fourth Row—Stimpson, Lotz, Crane, Thayer, Payne, Yoe, Peterson, Johnson; Third Row—Park, Miller, Boyles, Smith,

Alpha Xi Delta

"Shall we dance?" said the Alpha Xi Delta house-mother, Mrs. Jones,—and with that, she did. She demonstrated her Arthur Murray technique tripping the light fantastic during winter rush, to the delight of actives and rushees.

Besides giving rush parties, the Alpha Xi's also had the usual round of dances, open houses and term parties. Then there was time out for Sorority Sing, Greek Week, Spartacade and Water Carnival.

Alpha Xi Delta was founded nationally at Lombard College in Galesburg, Illinois in 1893. They were established on the MSU campus in 1934.

Chi Omega

Besides taking an active part in all-university functions, members of Chi Omega also present a Social Science award to an outstanding coed in the field of social science.

Later, they present a National Achievement award to a woman who has been exceptional in her field in contributing to better international understanding.

Chi Omega was founded nationally in 1895 at Fayetteville, Arkansas. They were installed as a local chapter on campus in 1926.

A costume party with a "Kiddies" theme, which produced a surplus of "Little Eloises" and "Little Lord Fauntleroy's," started Delta Delta Delta's social circuit, which also included a pledge dance and term parties.

This year their list of activities was highlighted by vesper services, a Christmas party for underprivileged children, open house and exchange dinners and desserts. To really keep these coeds hopping there was also Parents' Weekend, Dad's Day, and Mom's Weekend.

Tri Delt dates back to 1888 and was installed on the MSU campus in 1948.

Delta Gamma

There's a great big beautiful doll at the Delta Gamma house with wide black eyes and blonde hair—and she's only three feet tall!

The lady in question is "Hannah" the DG mascot made for the house by an ambitious pledge class. This year the big project was to outfit her in the best Betty Coed style. "Hannah" was in evidence at rush parties in her versatile wardrobe which included a sophisticated cocktail dress, a Hawaiian sarong, kilts and bermudas and blue jeans and sweatshirt.

Besides participating in all-university activities the DG's also had the usual round of term parties and dances, among them the annual "Pledge Presents" party, a modified "coming-out" party for the new pledges.

Delta Gamma was founded nationally at Lewis School, Oxford, Mississippi, in 1873. They were established on campus in 1946.

Delta Zeta

"The winter winds blow and we shall have snow" . . . coming in the Delta Zeta storm door, that is. On a certain wintry day, these coeds took time out from finals for a snowball fight with a neighboring fraternity. But one girl resorted to the subversive tactic of throwing water from the second floor, and in his haste to get away from this deluge a fraternity member smashed his elbow through the storm door window. He escaped unscathed but the DZ hallway was awfully chilly for quite a while.

Besides engaging in these impromptu battles, the Delta Zetas also took part in all-university functions including Homecoming, Sorority Sing and Spartacade.

Delta Zeta was founded nationally in 1902 at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. They were established on the MSU campus in 1941.

Gamma Phi Beta

It was a tense moment on Old College Field as a slender player intercepted the ball, snaked through the line and triumphantly ran the length of the field for another touchdown. Gamma Phi Beta scored again!

This year with some extra practicing and expert coaching the Gamma Phi's beat the rival Delta Gammas, 19-6. The "Powder Puff Bowl" this fall marked the eleventh year for this annual event.

Besides engaging in this mock football game, these co-eds also take an active part in all-university functions including Sorority Sing, Spartacade, Water Carnival and Greek Week.

Top Row—Goodrich, Wells, Foulds, Wheeler, Anderson, Daiger, LeFleur, Strickland; Fourth Row—Jones, Dickens, Gray, Foster, Cronander, Sweet, Mike, Melstrom, Delor; Third Row—Kolm, B., Sanders, Fox, Bishop, Simpson, Holmes, West, Rosenbaum; Second

Kappa Alpha Theta

Though they boast of "always winning", the members of Kappa Alpha Theta had to go some this fall to beat a fraternity rival in their annual "Bermuda Bowl."

Alas, in order to keep the record intact, these coeds resorted to unorthodox and illegal tactics, such as "leapfrog plays," "throwing powder in their faces," and putting in the entire chapter against the regulation number of men.

Besides showing their prowess in football, the Thetas also took the third place trophy in Homecoming and came up with a first place rating in the flower show.

Kappa Alpha Theta was founded nationally in 1870 at DePauw University. They were established on campus in 1926. For a national project, the Thetas help support the Institute of Logopedics in Wichita, Kansas, which aids persons with defective speech.

Top Row—Cuthbertson, Nielsen, Gusse, Seymour, Butz, Heflin, Parker, Baker, Morsches, Dollahan; Fourth Row—Maxwell, M. S., Elliott, Stevens, Lennartson, Maxwell, M. G., Wilson, Schweinsberg, Day, Baetz; Third Row—Gordon, Rohs, Schaeffer, Pabsf, Top Row—Ellis, Premo, Colwell, Worsfold, Swanson, Slack, Gibson, Pearce, Pyrros, Cole; Fifth Row—Hicks, Duff, Mange, Terrill, Reed, Sorensen, Wagner, Stockwell, Brezina, Edmondson; Fourth Row—Bevan, Hoover, DeMers, Stewart, Flenner, Sparks, Harris,

Kappa Delta

Take a brisk fall afternoon after a football game, add a roaring fire, refreshments, a swinging combo and a group of congenial Greeks, and you have the Kappa Delta open house this fall. The KD's launched this swinging affair this year and plan to make it an annual tradition.

Besides organizing this get-together, the KD's also held their annual bridge tournament for all women's living units this spring. Then there was Spartacade, Water Carnival and Sorority Sing.

Kappa Delta was founded nationally in 1898 at Longwood College in Farmville, Virginia. They were established locally in 1924.

Second Row—Giltner, Rossiter, Venneman, Garrington, Lechner, Jalbert, Wolff, Coffey, Bailey; Bottom Row—Harnett, Kubicek, Chinberg, Campbell, Hopper, Watt, Miller, Slabaugh.

"Monmouth Duo," a dance held with the Pi Beta Phi's, was the outstanding social event of the past year for the Kappa Kappa Gammas. The function was planned in honor of the college where both sororities were formed. Besides the full circle of campus activities, there were also faculty dinners, desserts and term parties.

The Kappa's national philanthropy is rehabilitation on a local level. This year they worked with a fraternity teaching children from a local orphanage how to swim.

In 1930, the Themians, a local group on the MSC campus formed national affiliations and became the present chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Phi Mu

Top Row—Ramsdell, Johnson, J., Zupko, Rysberg, Wolf, Hoffs, Boynton, Scratch, Weiler; Fourth Row—Miller, Otto, Fraser, Harrison, Yaeger, Grein, Harrigan, Lund, Huff; Third Row—Seppala, Misteli, Christman, Penton, Andersen, White, Greenwalt,

The high spot of the Phi Mu social calendar is (here's a mouthful) the "Philomathean Ball" held spring term. This annual term party with the tongue-twister title honors the new pledges.

Though these coeds were busy preparing for and attending their annual State Day and national convention this year, they also took an active part in campus affairs.

Phi Mu, one of the oldest national sororities, was installed on campus in 1954. Their national philanthropic project stresses service to children.

Pi Beta Phi

A real epidemic hit the Pi Beta Phi house this year. Probably because of the influence of their new housemother, Mrs. William Foster, there was a rash of bridge fanatics. Two or three games were in process "before dinner, after dinner and at almost any time."

But Goren's game didn't take up all their time. These coeds also took part in those other time-consumers . . . Homecoming, Spartacade and Water Carnival.

Originally founded as I. C. Sorosis in 1867, Pi Beta Phi was the first national fraternity for college women. The local chapter was formed in 1947.

Sigma Kappa

Besides taking an active part in all-university functions such as Homecoming and Water Carnival, the Sigma Kappas found time to play football with a couple of fraternities, stipulating that the men run backwards. Need we say that the spirited coeds won hands down? Who says chivalry is dead?

Their local service project is in the field of gerontology. The coeds visit homes for the aged several times a year. Nationally, Sigma Kappa aids charity cases on the Maine seacoast.

Beginning locally as a literary society, Sigma Kappa was installed on campus in 1927. The first Sigma Kappa chapter was founded at Colby College in Maine in 1874.

Zeta Tau Alpha

The ZTA's didn't have to go to Florida for a glowing sun tan. With the addition of a new sundeck this year, these coeds got the southern exposure right in their own back yard.

Another new addition to the house was a recreation room complete with hi-fi, built in bookcases and a double fireplace.

To show off these facilities, there was a big Homecoming open house, besides the usual round of term parties and dances.

Zeta Tau Alpha was founded nationally in 1898 at Longwood College in Farmville, Virginia. They were chartered locally in 1931.

Finn, Neu, Everett, Webster, Grigsby, Kenworthy, Oberg, Scheltema.

Alpha Chi Sigma

There was a real menagerie in the Alpha Chi Sigma backyard this year. The "Zoo's Who" included a couple of hunting hawks and two skunks! The fellow who owned them just happened to like unusual pets.

Besides participating in all campus activities, this year Alpha Chi Sigma burned the midnight oil and won the IFC Scholarship Cup.

Alpha Chi Sigma was founded nationally at the University of Wisconsin in 1902. This fraternity, whose members are primarily men with an interest in chemistry, was established on the MSU campus in 1928.

Hollinger, Druckman, Rosen, Zeif; Bottom Row—Golub, Einstandig, Klopot, Rice, Kroll, Ripps, Weisberg.

One of the several fraternities that had its beginnings as a local literary society was Alpha Epsilon Pi. Known formerly as the Alpha Literary Society, in 1934 they affiliated nationally and became Chi chapter of Alpha Epsilon Pi.

Alpha Epsilon Pi was founded nationally at New York University in 1913.

At MSU, these men participate in all-university functions and are active in many organizations such as I.F.C. and Men's Council.

In addition to activities, the A.E. Pi's also hold parties, hayrides, and exchange dinners.

Alpha Epsilon Pi

Alpha Gamma Rho

It was "fun in the sun" for eight lucky members of Alpha Gamma Rho who attended the national convention in Daytona Beach this year. With a lot of campaigning and work the group earned approval to host the 1960 convention at Michigan State. But since only the two official delegates were required to attend the meetings, the remaining six took full advantage of the beach day and night.

This year these men took part in all-university functions including Spartacade, Junior 500, Greek Week and Water Carnival. There were also toboggan parties, dinner dances and the highlight of the social calendar—the "Pink Rose Dinner Dance" during winter term.

Alpha Gamma Rho was founded nationally at Ohio State University in 1904. They were established on campus in 1922.

Alpha Kappa Psi

Top Row—Wenner, Lindholm, Dunsmore, Murphy, Harding, Seid, Weber, Goll, Glisson; Third Row—Wolkenstein, Briegel, Voiers, Davidson, Bliss, Grabow, Julier, Jewell, Drummond; Second

As might be expected, a business fraternity would play in the "Business Bowl." So it was with Alpha Kappa Psi as they encountered their rival, Delta Sigma Pi. Besides sponsoring field trips for members to various business enterprises in Michigan and Canada, the fraternity also participated in all-university functions such as Junior 500 and Spartacade.

Since the purpose of this social organization is to "foster scientific research in the field of business, to educate the public to appreciate and demand high ideals in business, and to promote and advance courses leading to a degree in business," the members are naturally in the school of Business and Public Service.

Though they were installed as the Gamma Mu chapter on the MSU campus in 1951, the national founding of Alpha Kappa Psi dates back to 1904.

Alpha Sigma Phi

This year, the Alpha Sigma Phi house had the dubious distinction of being tarred (molasses) and feathered and though it wasn't run out of town on a rail, the Alpha Sig actives were considering this as an apropos punishment for their pledges who engineered the prank. Besides coating the basement with this unfortunate concoction, these pledges also absconded with the silver, the shower handles, and the elbows from the sink drains.

Though house members had to live with this condition for four days, eventually the culprits were rounded up to clean up the mess.

This year the Alpha Sigs also participated in all-university functions including Spartacade, Homecoming and Greek Week.

Alpha Sigma Phi was founded nationally in 1845 at Yale University. They were chartered on the MSU campus in 1956.

Hillshafer, Outman, Savage, Stemm, Rose, Surrell, Brydon, Hildebrandt, Schuster; Bottom Row—Walther, Marsh, Miedke, Allen, Van Deventer, Landmeier, Escher, Samuelson.

Alpha Tau Omega

Though they're still in their old house, this year the ATO's decided to get a new picture of their new house (still in the blueprint stage) to replace the old picture of the new house-to-be that "we've been showing rushees for the past three years." Comprenez?

Besides planning their home of the future, the men of Alpha Tau Omega also took part in all-university activities including Greek Week and Junior 500.

Keeping up their traditional strength in intramural sports, the ATO's won the annual Turkey Trot and made the finals in basketball and badminton singles. The IM All Sports trophy has been won by the men of ATO six times during the past 12 years.

Alpha Tau Omega was founded nationally at Virginia Military Institute in 1865. They were established on the MSU campus in 1940.

Beta Theta Pi

Members of the Beta house were really passing out the cigars fall term. Herman, their beagle mascot, was the father of nine pups!

Another big event for the Betas was the arrival of their new hi-fi set, the first prize in a campus contest sponsored by a national tobacco company. They scavenged for empty cigarette packages in every nook and cranny of East Lansing and managed to salvage 2,410 empty packs.

Besides participating in all-university functions, Beta Theta Pi also kept up with the social pace with "Beta-Phi Tau Shuffle", their annual "Alpine" party, and a pre-historic "Caveman" party.

Beta Theta Pi was nationally founded in 1839 at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. They were established on campus in 1950.

Tom Dooley had nothing on the Delta Chi Homecoming chairman this year as he was hung in effigy in front of their house to make the most novel Homecoming display of the year! This unfortunate fellow got his just desserts for neglecting to turn in the entry form in time to the Homecoming committee, thereby disqualifying the fraternity for the event.

Though they were plagued with bad luck in that activity, the Delta Chi's were successful in intramurals and made it to the final playoffs in fraternity football this fall.

Delta Chi was founded nationally in 1890 at Cornell University. The local chapter was established in 1935.

There was a roar from the field, football was forgotten for a moment, and all heads turned to the sky as an airplane flew over Spartan Stadium trailing a banner inscribed with "Delt Sigs Off Pro."

Besides planning this well-publicized stunt during the Michigan game, the men of Delta Sigma Phi also found time to construct a Homecoming display and won third place in this event. During fall term they also copped the Scholarship Improvement trophy.

This year, on the social side, there was the annual "Sailor's Ball" and "Gangster Party" complete with appropriate costumes.

Delta Sigma Pi

Hendrie, Perry, Rodriguez, Pizzimenti, Frank; Bottom Row—McDonald, Sebastian, Connell, Wilson, Mason, Monte, Olsen, Gilar-dino.

Though they had to be satisfied with a second place in Inter-Fraternity Bowling this year (they were the defending champions) Delta Sigma Pi did win the first annual "Business Bowl" by edging out rival Alpha Kappa Psi.

Since most members are in the college of Business and Public Service, the fraternity, besides taking part in all-university functions, also sponsors professional tours to commercial enterprises in Detroit, Grand Rapids and Lansing.

Delta Sigma Pi was founded at New York University in 1907, and established at MSU in 1949.

Delta Tau Delta

"A pretty girl is like a melody"—and the Delts must all heartily agree with Rogers and Hammerstein since they host the campus "lovelies" at the annual Homecoming queen's dinner at their house.

They also took part in the annual Christmas Tree Lighting ceremony and were active in all-university functions.

Delta Tau Delta originated at Bethany College in Virginia and was chartered locally in 1872. Though the chapter went off campus in 1896, they returned to MSU in 1947.

Delta Upsilon

"Ten . . . eleven . . . twelve!" And MSU students chant another Spartan touchdown to the tolling of the DU's bell, "Big Bill". The tones of the gigantic bell have a familiar sound as it clangs out the score during home football games.

Besides supervising this tradition, Delta Upsilon also took part in all campus activities, including Greek Feast, IFC Sing, intramural sports and Water Carnival.

Delta Upsilon was founded in 1834 at Williams College, in Massachusetts as an anti-secret fraternity. It is now the only national non-secret fraternity in existence.

Farmhouse

This year, Farmhouse fraternity's Homecoming display took its cue from a song persistently popular during fall term. The final result was "Hang Down Your Head, Bucky Badger."

The Farmhouse men were active in all extracurricular activities on campus in 1959, participating in such events as the Intramural sports program, Greek Week, and Junior 500.

A big event for Farmhouse during winter term was the annual "Crescent Ball" which featured a serenade for those who were pinned this year.

Farmhouse was founded at the University of Missouri in 1905. MSU's chapter was formed in 1936, and is open to all students interested in agriculture regardless of major.

From the sound of things the Kappa Sigma house took quite a beating this year. They had such a passion for authenticity for their "Bermuda Beach Party" (complete with calypso singers and a "Limbo" dance contest) that real sand was part of the picture on the main floor! Try cleaning that out of the floor boards!

Then there was the "Beat Generation" party. This time they hauled all the furniture out of the house to produce a so-called Greenwich Village apartment atmosphere. This event featured a combo on the front porch playing cool progressive jazz.

The Kappa Sig's also took part in all campus activities and came up with an outstanding hockey team.

Kappa Sigma was founded at the University of Virginia in 1869 and received their charter at MSU in 1937.

There aren't too many campus functions that create as much excitement as Junior 500. Held during spring term, this annual event sponsored by Lambda Chi Alpha is famous for its abundance of thrills, chills, and—naturally, spills.

Besides organizing this time consuming event and taking part in all-university functions, the Lambda Chi's took time out to win the fraternity football championship. During spring term they also staged their biggest social affair, the "Crescent Ball."

Lambda Chi Alpha was founded nationally at Boston College in 1909. They were established on campus in 1922.

Phi Delta Theta

Gertz, Ullman; Second Row—Brunetto, Dickinson, Tyus, Best, Thompson, Brook, Laidlaw, Tuffley, Davis; Bottom Row—Shotell, Blasen, Carter, Cary, Lyon, Schlaff, Jakeway, Hargrave.

Winning your own trophy can be fun—or so the Phi Deltas say. This house has annually presented themselves with their own “Bleed the Greeks” trophy for the past seven years! The award was originally intended to be given to the house which contributed one hundred per cent to the all-university blood drives, but these men have copped the prize every time.

Besides bleeding for the house, the Phi Deltas were active in many all-university activities.

Phi Delta Theta was founded in 1848 at Miami University in Ohio and was the first national fraternity installed on the MSU campus.

Phi Kappa Psi

Scholarship was the word at the Phi Psi house this year. They had the good fortune this year to pull their point average up "higher than it's been for a long time."

Besides burning the midnight oil, these men rounded out their activities picture with participation in all-university functions such as Homecoming, Spartacade, Water Carnival, Intramurals, and Junior 500. They were also in attendance at their national Founders Day held in Detroit.

On the social side, there were all kinds of term parties and dances including the big "Founders Day" dance.

Phi Kappa Psi was founded nationally in 1952 at Jefferson College, Canonsburg, Pennsylvania. They were established locally in 1954.

Phi Kappa Sigma

Though they're known as the "Skull House", the members of Phi Kappa Sigma are not really a bunch of ghouls! The macabre name stuck because of the skeleton's head which is part of their pin.

During spring term fraternity colors were very much in evidence at the "Black and Gold Ball." This annual dance is the starred event on the Phi Kap social calendar.

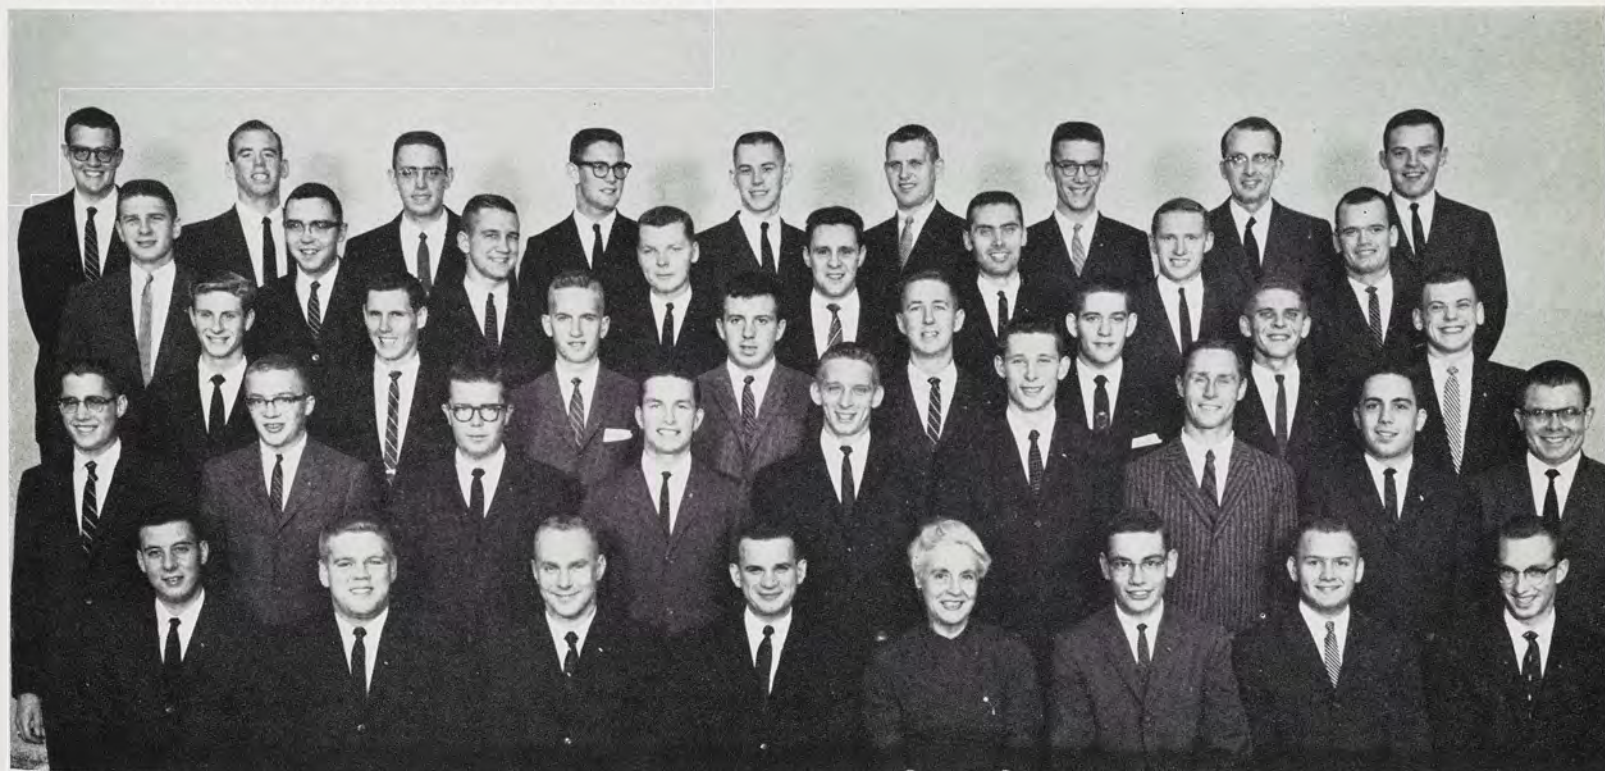

This year the chapter also participated in the many campus activities, among them Spartacade, Water Carnival, Intramurals and Junior 500.

Phi Kappa Sigma was founded nationally in 1850 at the University of Pennsylvania. They were established on the MSU campus in 1949.

Top Row—Tollette, Helmling, Massello, Mann, Abel, Simmons, TeWinkle, Chapman, Siefert; Fourth Row—Warren, Berkebile, Przybyla, Tauriainen, Reiseck, Larsen, Van Budget, Hanley; Third Row—Hinman, Kennedy, Gailey, Olson, Waid, Wildon, Lazarczyk,

Phi Kappa Tau

To keep up with their activities record, in addition to moving into a new house, the Phi Taus participated in intramural sports, Water Carnival, Spartacade and Homecoming. They also sponsored a junior high track team.

Then there was Dad's Day, a Christmas party for underprivileged children and the big Phi Tau "Dream Girl" spring term party.

And to start things off socially in the fall, they co-sponsored the "Beta-Phi Tau Shuffle" with Beta Theta Pi.

Since their arrival 35 years ago, Phi Kappa Tau fraternity has been an active organization on the MSU campus scene.

The big event for Pi Kappa Phi this year was the ground breaking ceremony in November at the site of their new home located on the corner of Abbot and Whitehills Drive. Construction is scheduled for completion by next August, and will be ready for occupancy by fall term.

The Pi Kappa Phi's were also busy with skiing and football trips, intramurals, term parties and their spring formal, the "Rose Ball."

Founded at the College of Charleston, in South Carolina in 1904, Alpha Theta chapter of Pi Kappa Phi was installed on the MSU campus in 1925.

The familiar grey house on the hill is known as the home of the Psi U's. But way back when, at Michigan Agricultural College in 1888 when the chapter was originally formed these men were known as members of the Hesperian Literary Society.

They discarded the weighty title and affiliated nationally with Psi Upsilon in 1943.

This year Psi U's took part in all university activities and surprisingly (there must have been a secret weapon) won their block in football with only nine men!

They also sponsored a Christmas party for underprivileged children complete with Santa Claus and presents for all.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

"Love at first sight!" That's what the SAE's claimed as they benevolently watched romance bloom this year between their St. Bernard, "Brandy," and the Delta Sigma Phi mascot, "Prince".

Besides sponsoring this canine "True Romance," the SAE's also took part in all campus activities and copped the first place trophy for their Homecoming display featuring the caption, "It's in the cards that we will crush, For we've been dealt a royal flush."

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was founded at the University of Alabama in 1856 and was chartered on campus in 1927.

Sigma Chi

The big white house on Grand River was the scene of some pleasant activity on a certain big weekend spring term as the men of Sigma Chi judged campus beauties vying for the title of "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi." The winner was honored at the "Sweetheart Ball."

Besides organizing this main social event, Sigma Chi participated in each of the all-university campus activities.

Sigma Chi was founded nationally in 1855 at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. They were chartered locally in 1942.

Sigma Nu

A good time was had by all this winter term when the Sigma Nu's got together with the ATO's to co-sponsor the annual "Blackfoot-Whitefoot Ball." And spring term brought the "White Rose Formal" to complete the Sigma Nu social calendar.

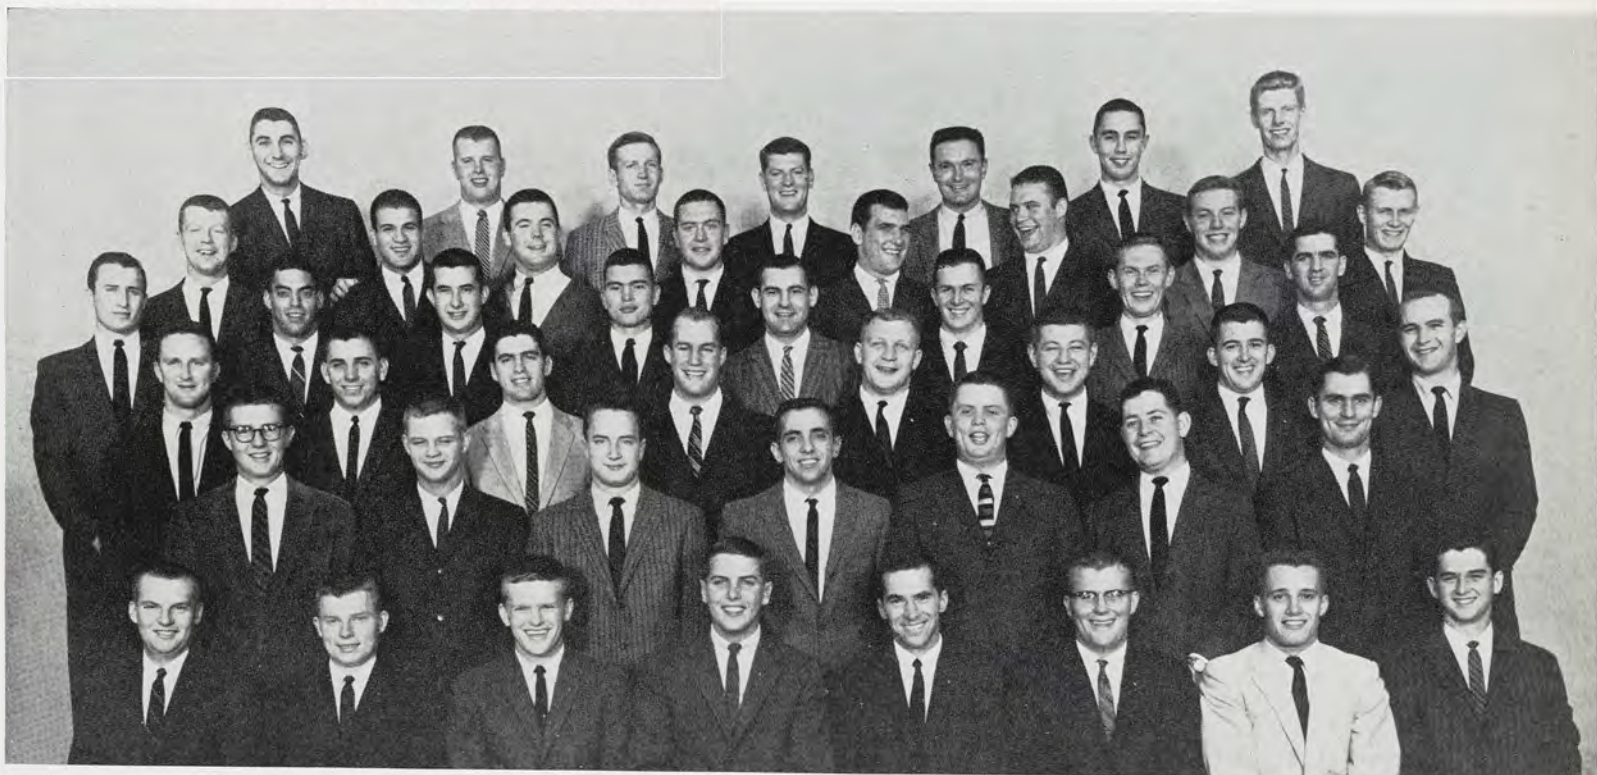

Active in all-university functions, the fraternity took part in many events, among them intramurals, Water Carnival and Spartacade.

Founded at VMI in 1869, Sigma Nu formed its MSU chapter in 1934 with the merger of two local groups, the Eunomians and the Olympians.

Theta Chi

And then there was the case of the invisible car at the Theta Chi house. All in the spirit of good fun, some members shoveled snow off the driveway and buried a friend's car. He managed to find it and drove away with both car and humor intact, however.

Besides furthering another Ice Age, the Theta Chi men were also hosts to all other national chapters when their national convention was held in East Lansing this year.

Theta Chi was founded in 1856 at Norwich University in Vermont. They were chartered locally in 1939.

Myers, Foley, Roberts, Skamser, Briggs, Hawkins.

1959 was a year of transition for the men of Theta Xi. Active in campus Greek life since 1950, the men are currently in a transition between houses. The fraternity was first located on Charles Street, moving later to 501 M.A.C. Winter term the Theta Xi's leased their house to the men of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Colony.

Many of the Theta Xi's are planning to attend their national convention this summer. The four day event will be held at Estes Park, Colorado.

Triangle

Frost, Herfurth, Langdon, Kleis; Bottom Row—Malone, Weiss, Wloch, Reiter, Catherine, Burk, Foster, Kilby.

Homecoming, intramural sports, formal and informal parties and desserts were only a part of the Triangle fraternity's activity this year. To tie in with their main interest, engineering and architecture, these men also participated in a big way in the Engineering Exposition and the micromidget races in the spring.

In 1955, Triangle Club was installed as the MSU chapter of Triangle fraternity. Members are from the school of engineering or architecture.

Zeta Beta Tau

The men of Zeta Beta Tau moved into their new home on Grove Street early this year. The home, the first one the ZBT's have built, houses 40 men and is tri-level and ultra-modern.

Despite the chore of "moving in", the ZBT's participated in all campus activities.

Zeta Beta Tau was founded at Columbia University in 1898. They came on campus in 1947.

Alpha Phi Alpha

Each spring term the men of Alpha Phi Alpha go through a rigid period of self-denial at the dinner table. Reason? The Junior 500 race. Passing up desserts in favor of practice runs around Circle Drive has been worth the effort, though. Alpha Phi Alpha has won the coveted Lambda Chi Alpha trophy more times than any other campus group. Besides the Junior 500 contest, the fraternity participates in all other campus activities.

Founded at Cornell University, Alpha Phi Alpha has been on campus since 1948.

Sanders, Grissom, Northcross, Wynn, Clark.

Phi Gamma Delta

The biggest event for the Phi Gamma Deltas this year was moving into their first house on campus. Redecorating the house, located at 334 Michigan, kept the men busy, but somehow they found enough time to participate in all the campus activities.

The Phi Gamma Deltas took second place honors with their "Tip A Canoe" entry in Spartacade. The men teamed with the Tri Delts for Water Carnival activities spring term.

Kappa Alpha Psi

The membership of Kappa Alpha Psi continued to expand this year. Active on campus since 1958, the members have concentrated on membership drives and participating in most of the all-university campus events.

Socially, the men held several informal term parties and dances. Scholarship was stressed this year, as many of the Kappa Alpha Psi's burned midnight oil to insure a good point average. Participation in the intramural sports program made 1959 a well balanced year for this active colony.

Phi Sigma Kappa

One of the newest groups on campus, Phi Sigma Kappa made its appearance this year. Originally known as Kappa Phi, the men were active as a group in 1958 before being accepted as a colony by Phi Sigma Kappa and recognized by the IFC.

The men concentrated on membership drives and scholarship this year. They had several term parties, and participated in most all-university events, including the intramural sports program. They hope to receive their charter from the national and have a house in the near future.

Top Row—Goldstein, Spielman, Gordon, Siebert, Philko, Matlow, Miller, Kalniz, Reisman; Second Row—Sokobin, Wilder, Hirsch, Galin, Syers, Mendelsohn, Newman, Glazer, Marcos, Ginsburg;

Sigma Alpha Mu

Evidently the men of Sigma Alpha Mu were "auto minded" this year. Fall term the men sponsored their annual "Sammy Scrub." The men give a Christmas party for local tubercular children with the fees received for washing cars. Having polished the autos, the group proceeded to wreck them winter term. They joined West Landon coeds for their "Have Car, Will Smash" Spartacade skit.

Sigma Alpha Mu had their annual party spring term. Parents are always invited to this formal dinner-dance.

Sigma Alpha Mu was founded in 1909 at New York University.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

The house at 501 M.A.C. took on a different appearance this winter term when the men of Sigma Phi Epsilon moved in. The Sig Eps lost no time painting the door red, in keeping with the custom of all Sig Ep houses. Their familiar heart-shaped crest also adorned the house, their first on campus.

On a weekly radio program the men gave "previews" of coming campus events over WILS. They also were active in all campus activities.

Sigma Phi Epsilon was founded in 1901 at Richmond College. Locally, the men are organized as a colony, and expect to receive their charter soon.

Smith, Dibasio, Linden, Smith, Sharpe, Jensen, Cushing, Vogel-sang.

The Brody Christmas party is the year's big event not only for the children invited but for the dorm residents as well.

If a sociologist were to spend a year wandering through MSU dorms taking notes on the conversation and antics he observed, he would have no trouble at all in compiling several volumes on "The Campus Behavior of the Human College Student."

Dorms

Eavesdropping on the residents, he could gather an abundance of material between the "Who took the aluminum foil for the Homecoming display?" of fall term to the "Hey, Kathy, let's go canoeing," of spring.

One of his main sources would undoubtedly be the office window, at which he could observe the daily ritual involved in picking up mail, with the accompanying exclamations of delight at the discovery of a letter from "that certain someone" or a long-awaited check from home.

"R.A.'s," "late pers" and "meal tickets" would soon become a part of the scholar's working vocabulary, while he also gained information on everyday occurrences such as borrowing clothes, exchange dinners and blind dates.

The buzzer system, especially important in women's dorms, could easily occupy a chapter in a book concerning campus life. Coeds wait expectantly in their rooms for a "long" to be sounded and then scurry to the nearest available phone booth, which may be two floors and several precincts away. If the signal is given that a caller is waiting downstairs, there is last-minute primping to be done and her roommate's approval to be obtained before a coed can descend into the lounge.

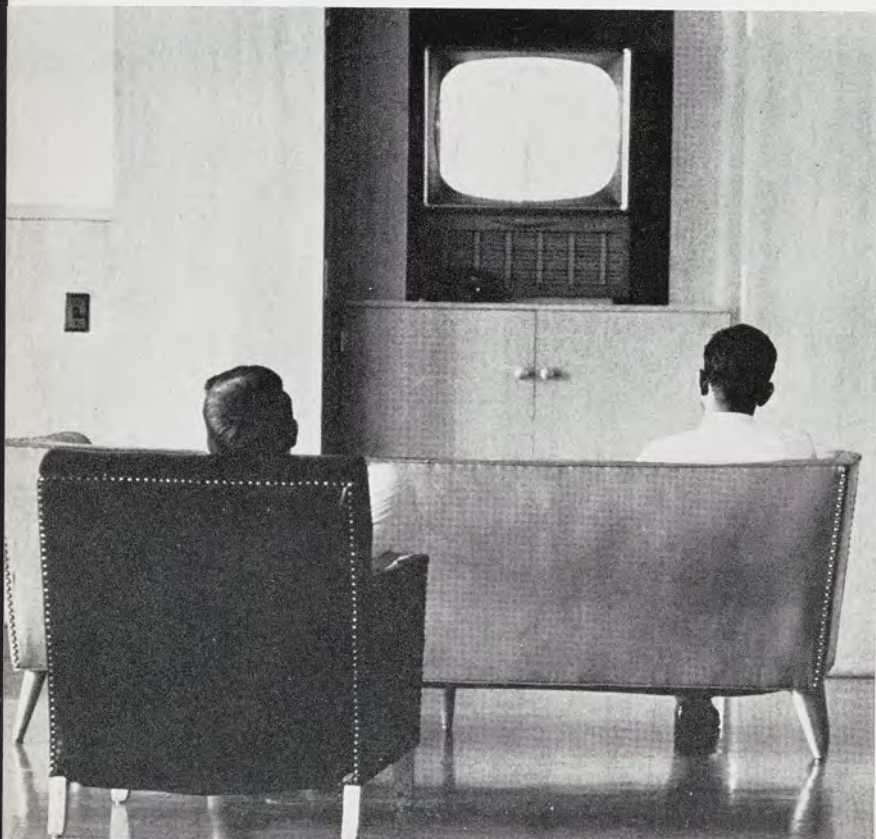

Each day the Brody kitchen prepares and serves meals for the 2,500 residents.

Important to any dorm is its participation in campus activities. Among the projects a student will be asked to work on during the year are Homecoming, Spartacade, Christmas projects, Snow Sculpture, blood drives, Water Carnival and intramurals. A student's perseverance in "getting that head to look just right" or pounding a nail straight can prove to be an asset when the time comes for judging his dorm's display in an all-university contest.

Our sociologist would soon discover, however, that while the students are becoming adjusted to life in a dorm they are also developing their personalities by living with people of different backgrounds and ideas—perhaps the most rewarding part of their college experience.

Taking advantage of the residence halls' facilities, these men spend their leisure time watching TV.

The Brody radio station, WBRS, is wired into every dorm in the group, and may become campus wide in the future.

Meal time is campus news time as the dorm coeds compare notes and friendly gossip.

The dorm lounge is seldom free of at least one good game of bridge.

While others were complaining about the snow and ice this winter, the coeds of Abbott Hall got busy and walked off with top honors in the Snow Sculpture contest.

The Christmas season found Abbott Hall decked out in holly and pine, which helped brighten spirits during final exam week. The tables were turned on the busboys when the girls served them at a Christmas tea. Their house-mother and dietitians were not forgotten, either. They were honored at a party and received gifts.

During the rest of the year the coeds were kept busy with informal dances and sings. Those with a flair for acting got their "chance" during the skits Abbott sponsored for Spartacade. A term party and participation with East Shaw in Water Carnival climaxed another year for the coeds of Abbott Hall.

"The Spartan Squeeze turns Wisconsin to Cheese" according to North Campbell—and they were so right! Who needs Sports Illustrated's predictions when a residence hall's forecast in their Homecoming display is such a sure thing?

On Halloween there was a surplus of black cats and assorted ghouls at a party complete with the traditional witching hour costumes. Then the holiday season brought not only final exams, but also the annual Christmas party—all tinsel and holly and Santa Claus jolly.

South Campbell

A lot of blood, sweat and papier-mache went into South Campbell's Homecoming display this fall, but it was worth all the coed manpower since the alumni were definitely in favor of their "We did it before, We can do it again" graveyard scene.

These coeds also demonstrated more of their constructive talent in all-university functions including Water Carnival and Spartacade. In the spring the sopranos and altos joined forces to vocalize in Inter-Dorm Sing.

The big train with Sparty at the controls came roaring onto the Gilchrist lawn ("We're a little off the track but still pulling") and brought with it the first place trophy for Homecoming in the women's residence halls division.

Gilchrist had another success at Spartacade and gained an honorable mention for their audience participation booth. Their "It's In The Book" theme featured a gambling casino—"a fool and his money are soon parted."

This year Gilchrist took an active part in other all-university functions including Water Carnival, Junior 500 and Inter-Dorm Sing where they came through with a spirited rendition of "It's a Grand Night For Singing."

And there was a birthday. Since 1958 marked the 10th fall term that Gilchrist has welcomed its coeds, there was a gala birthday party for the occasion after Homecoming.

East Landon

East Landon residents must have looked in a crystal ball this fall when they planned their Homecoming display. "Four and Twenty Badgers Baked in a Pie" was all too prophetic, since the MSU squad was in top form for the alumni.

At Christmas time they joined forces with West Landon and held the annual Christmas tea. Star performers at the formal buffet supper were members of the dorm chorus.

Another familiar aspect of the holiday season was the door decoration contest with prizes for the best in the religious, humorous and "most unusual" categories.

Top Row—Anderson, Sisson, S., Peterson, A., Gibson, Hedlund,

They really had the Christmas spirit at West Landon this year. Coeds in this dormitory raised over $100 to contribute to needy Lansing families. Money raising efforts even included an old-fashioned sewing bee.

Before the holiday season was upon us, there was the rah rah excitement of Homecoming in the fall. Residents put returning alumni back in a nostalgic collegiate mood with their top notch display and welcoming tea.

During fall term there was also evidence of hitting-the-books action and midnight oil burning since West Landon tied for the scholarship trophy.

Second Row—Denkema, Rosso, Miller, Crawford, Gibson, Amos;

Residents of Mason found several changes in their dorm when they returned fall term. Along with new study and typing rooms, a second lower lounge had been completed and was equipped with a second television set.

Coeds in both Mason and Abbott celebrated the opening of a culinary establishment located below the two dorms. Besides supplementing the meals served in the dining rooms, the new grill provides an excellent meeting place for the coeds and their dates.

Term parties and record dances have highlighted Mason's social calendar this year and there also have been the ever-popular exchange dinners.

At the end of spring term, the voices of the underclasswomen will blend in a farewell serenade to the seniors. This event traditionally follows a banquet given in honor of those who are about to graduate.

East Mayo

In East Mayo during spring term seniors make a big splash whether they want to or not. No matter how much they may struggle, kick or cajole ("Honestly, this is my best skirt and blouse!") every year Seniors get "The Treatment" or their just desserts—namely, a traditional dunking in the dorm fountain.

The holiday season signals the time for the annual Christmas Tea—a strictly white gloves and cocktail dress affair, featuring the daintiest petits fours and the best Emily Post and/or Amy Vanderbilt type manners.

The residents of West Mayo enjoyed dormitory life with a new housemother this year. Mrs. Fenstamacher took over the duties of looking after the West Mayo coeds fall term.

One of the bright spots in the social life of West Mayo was the Christmas tree decorating party. All the West Mayo busboys are invited to this annual, festive occasion.

To round out the year, the coeds also participated in such events as Water Carnival and Inter-Dorm Sing. Spring term they had their annual dorm party, traditionally given with members of their sister dorm, East Mayo.

Phillips Hall

Bloomquist, Crandall; Bottom Row—Schrader, Fields, Yule, Wildes, Kasa, Clark.

Honey chile, “a rose in a basket is worth two in a bush” according to Phillips Hall, anyway. During Sparta-cade, the gimmick in their booth was to throw weighted flowers at a sweet ’lil ole Southern belle swaying back and forth on a swing. If the roses landed in her wicker basket, bingo—you won a prize.

Success was in the air for these coeds with their clever Homecoming display. A multi-armed (or are they legs?) octopus was the clinching factor in winning the third place trophy in the women’s residence halls division.

Later in the year, for a little get acquainted action, there was a swinging song session with Butterfield dormitory, besides the usual exchange dinners with various men’s residence halls.

Snyder Hall

Ginter, Keenan, Addison.

Blue lips, chapped hands and soaked mittens—but it was worth it to Snyder Hall residents. A combination of two apathetic Nebbishes (“Next term we’ve got to get organized”) and some ingenious hard work brought this dormitory a second place in the Snow Sculpture contest. What would they ever have done if there weren’t any contemporary cards?

But winter brought more than snow. There was also the annual Christmas tea with that formal, candlelit, dressed-to-the-hilt atmosphere. And needy families were not forgotten during the Yuletide season—stockings were filled to the brim and delivered by coed Santa Clauses.

For a little meeting and eating there were exchange dinners with men’s dorms and naturally a good time was had by all.

North Williams

Like most living units, North Williams has its long-lived traditions. One of the oldest, a Christmas tea honoring prominent campus administrators, is an affair that dates back to 1937, the year of the dorm's opening.

This year, coeds again donned "dressy dresses" and/or their best bib and tucker to join university officials in raising a little holiday cheer.

To make sure that everyone had a share in the Christmas spirit, dorm residents also donated money and gifts to be sent to children's hospitals.

Besides participating in all campus functions, including Water Carnival, Homecoming and Spartacade, this dormitory also was noted for its achievements in the sports program.

Top Row—Hussey, Westphal, Atchley, Frost, Weekly, Simms, Gargett, Mendler; Fifth Row—Healy, Hilton, Cowan, M. E., Haber, Langkamp, Potter, Cowan, M. A., Bigham, Hepp; Fourth Row—Jax, Frazier, Dear, Flueck, David, Alcumbrack, Oswalt, Klene, Dypold; Third Row—Price, Uligian, Lindow, Deutsch, Wil-

South Williams

Social life for the coeds of South Williams got under way with Homecoming weekend activities this year. Besides entering the display contest, the coeds also had an open house for parents and friends.

During the Christmas season the coeds held their annual Christmas Tea in honor of the administration. The coeds also honored all those personnel necessary to keep a dorm running smoothly—the housemother, administrative personnel and the busboys.

Though they didn't take any prizes, the coeds turned the problems of snow and ice into fun when they participated in the Snow Sculpture.

During spring term, South Williams gave their best talent and effort to such all-university endeavors as Water Carnival and Junior 500.

East Yakeley

MSU may not have been champions in football this year but East Yakeley was in first place in volleyball—intramural sports that is. These coeds also took the third place trophy in bowling.

But lest you think sports was the only big interest, they also copped the third place trophy for scholarship during fall term—evidence of a really well-rounded group.

There were roars of laughter during Freshman Talent Night as the newest residents demonstrated that their humor was more than sophomoric.

Who says virtue goes unrewarded? At West Yakeley those who kept their nose to the grindstone a reasonable amount of time were duly recognized at a scholarship dinner honoring dorm residents who had maintained a three point all-college average.

Besides hitting the books, these coeds were also busy with Homecoming, Spartacade, Water Carnival, Inter-dorm Sing and intramural sports.

To commemorate a holiday dear to every romantically inclined coed's heart, there was a Valentine's Day party complete with hearts, and naturally, flowers.

Bailey

Bailey hall won first place in the Homecoming display contest with a "Duffy's Menu" theme. The display depicted a football player ready to eat a meal of badgers served by Headwaiter Daugherty.

First place also went to Bailey in the Turkey Trot fall term.

A Christmas party for orphans brightened the Bailey Christmas season. A tree-trimming party held before this created a holiday atmosphere for the visitors.

The superstitious attended the Bailey term party, "Jinx-Jump," winter term. A Friday the 13th theme prevailed, complete with ladders and black cats.

Along with the Bailey Echo, the dorm newspaper, a year-book is published annually for the residents. It includes pictures of precincts, events and scholastic information.

Bryan

The men of Bryan Hill did their best to help the football team get the "Badgers All Mixed Up" during Homecoming. Result? Their display, which showed Sparty stirring up some Badgers in a mixing bowl, won honorable mention.

The men proved that they were as good at participating in sports as they were at watching them, for they won the dorm championship in football, and took second place honors in swimming, handball and table tennis.

For the past several years the men of Bryan Hall have entertained children from a local orphanage. This year the halls were decked with holly and all the trimmings once again for the Christmas party, which is enjoyed as much by them as by the children.

Catching the Christmas spirit winter term, Butterfield sponsored a dorm window decorating contest. Trophies were awarded to individual men for the best window painting. Holiday greetings were also given to underprivileged children in a joint party with Rather hall.

Second place for Homecoming was won by Butterfield with "Badger Barbecue." It pictured Sparty at a tasty badger roasting.

For the lusty in voice, Butterfield held a song fest with Phillips and Abbott halls. Besides a glee club for entertainment, Butterfield sponsored Friday night movies.

Butterfield houses the all-university ping-pong champion and enthusiasts in basketball and bowling.

Resources were pooled for a joint term party for all men's dorms. The dance was entitled "Springtime Down South." Decorations included a plantation in a warm Southern setting.

Fall term Butterfield became the first men's dorm to design a dorm crest. The crest was made into lapel pins for Butterfield residents.

Top Row—Coggeshall, Mathews, Korb, McCallum, Heaton; Fourth Row—McCook, Mukamal, Lagerberg, Bray, Mastri, Loughner, Schmidt; Third Row—Sharon, Jordon, Johnson, Bruno, Klee,

Emmons

Studies were one of the chief interests of Emmons hall during winter term. Study seminars featuring talks by Basic College professors were started to aid the men students. As a result, precinct one came in second in scholarship for men's dorms fall term.

Emmons men showed their civic-mindedness by sending the highest number of eligible voters to the polls spring term for AUSG elections.

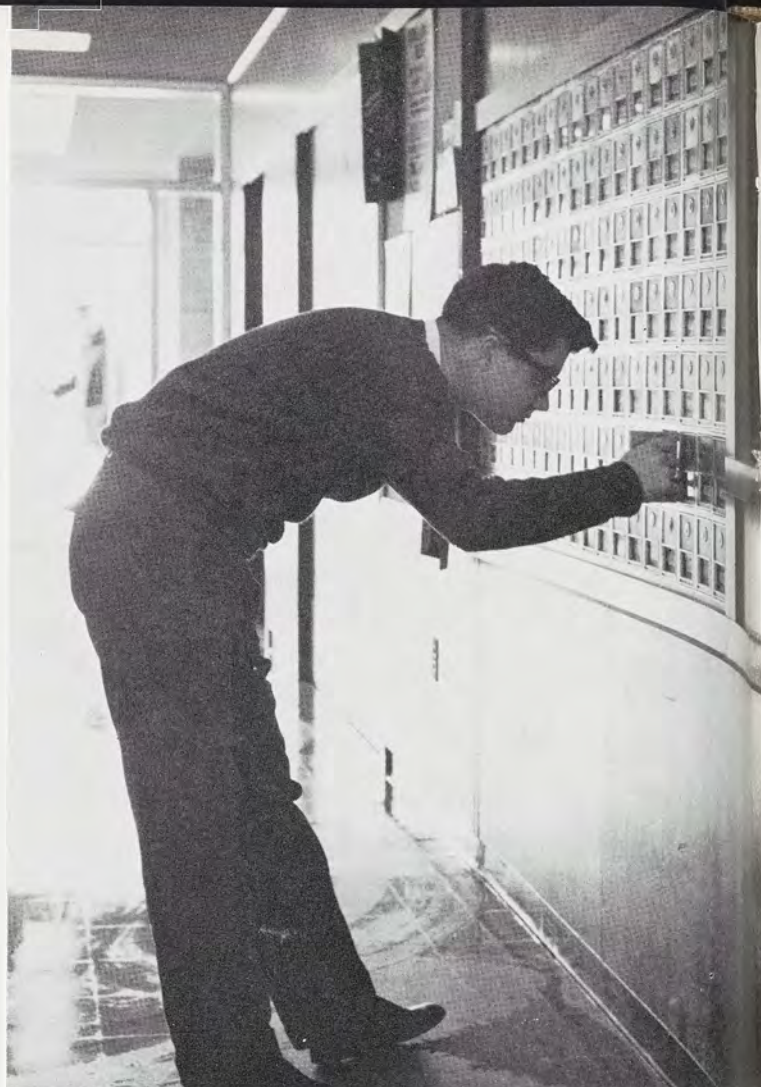

Fall term brought a new addition to Emmons hall—a club room for student use. It includes a library, files and a private phone. Organizations and committees can make good use of the room.

Recreation fall term meant movie programs for Emmons men. Films are shown once every two weeks.

Showing ability in sports, Emmons residents won the intramural track and swimming trophies spring term. Winter competition for the less hardy include chess and card tournaments. Runners from Emmons also brought home the second place Junior 500 trophy.

Christmas brought decorating parties with Gilchrist and participation in the AUSG Sparta Claus project.

Rather

To be sure that they got off on the right social foot this year, the men of Rather Hall teamed with coeds from one of the women's dorms who gave the boys dancing lessons. A mixer climaxed the series of instructions.

Possibly because of this extra footwork, the Rather men were the leaders in the all-dormitory intramural competition winter term. They participated in all of the traditional athletic events and held their annual Turkey Bowl.

For their Homecoming display, the men helped a Spartan football player spear a Badger, who in turn offered his victim to Sparty as a sacrifice. During the entire football season the men sat in the Rather Seating Bloc.

Rather Hall held its first electoral convention when they elected their president fall term. Spring term the Rather men initiated a new organizational plan, changing precincts to "houses", and adopted a new constitution.

West Shaw

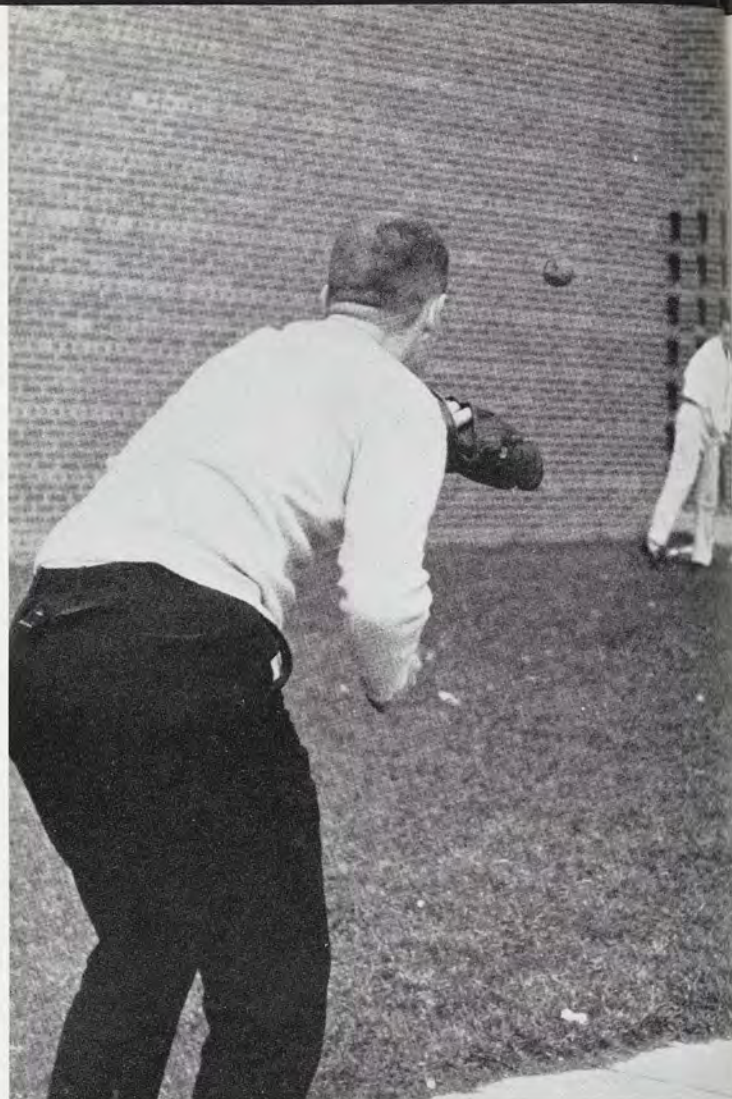

Sports was the byword for residents of West Shaw, which won the all-university intramural sports trophy last spring term. They had the most points for competition in football, basketball, track, bowling, swimming, badminton and golf. Winter sports for the dorm included hockey, chess and ping pong.

Shaw men got away from it all during their fall term party, "Hibernation." Papier-mache created caves and a lazy atmosphere.

Christmas brought a tree-trimming dance and caroling with women's dorms. Record dances were held once a week and exchange dances with the women's dorms were a new feature of Shaw social life. Those who attended the spring term party found a country club setting of candle-light dining and dancing on the patio.

An active camera club kept Shaw men in constant focus. The club judged photography exhibits and sponsored its own competition.

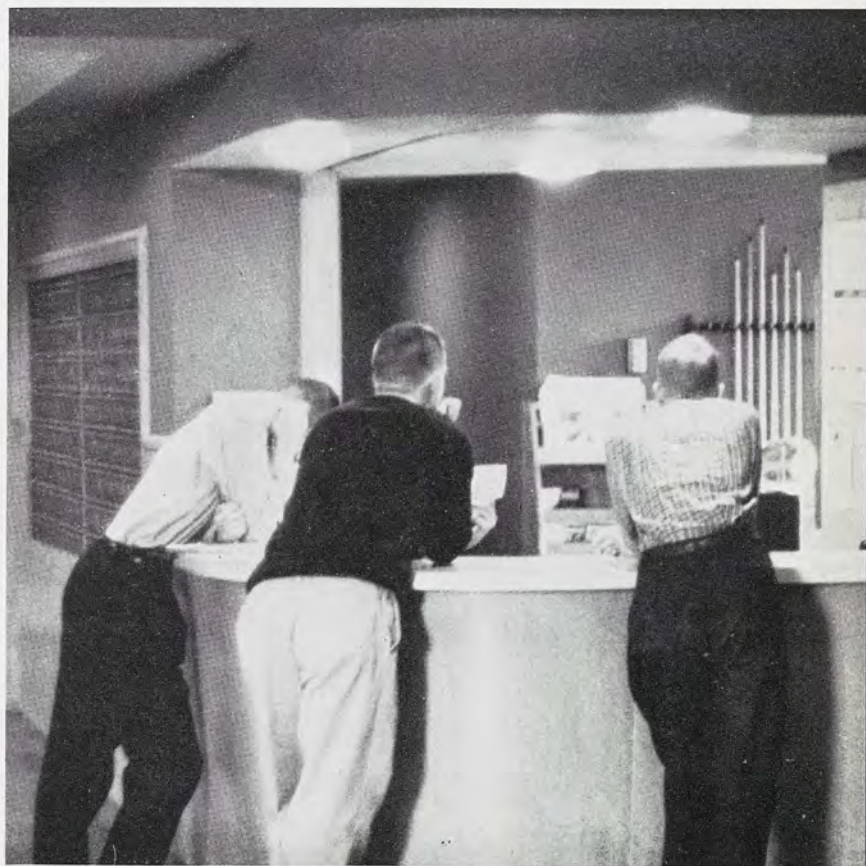

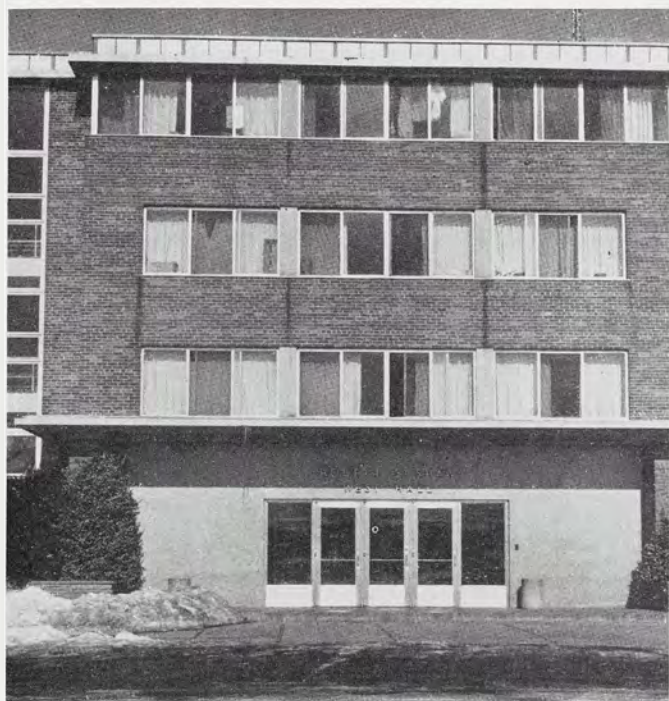

For information purposes, Shaw men ran an activity information service to keep the dorm posted on newsworthy events. The West Shaw Informant, a bi-weekly newspaper, listed various hall and individual activities.

East Shaw

Judging by the number of trophies they won, most of the East Shaw men participated actively in the intramural sports program. The dorm was awarded the first place trophy in swimming, bowling and badminton. The men also placed first in the fall and winter term blood drives.

The General Council adopted a new method of conducting business this year. Patterned after the All University Student Government, all business is introduced in the form of bills or resolutions. Each spring term, all dorm residents participate in a "convention" held in connection with General Council elections. This is conducted like a national convention.

On the social side, the men held various informal dances and joined with West Shaw to present their spring term dinner-dance.

Co-ops

As a means of living economically, the co-ops prepare their own meals in addition to doing all the rest of the work necessary around the house.

The co-operative houses served as home for approximately 250 Spartans during 1959. Membership in any of the seven co-ops is open to any male student who fills out an application and is accepted by the members. The only requirement is a 2.2 grade point average.

Average cost of living in the co-ops is $150 per term plus four and one-half work hours a week. For this members receive both room and board. In some instances kitchen privileges are also granted. In addition to being economical, the co-ops aim to give all their members the experience of solving the day-to-day problems of group living and operating a business. All co-op members take an active part in the social and extra-curricular life on campus.

The co-operative movement began winter term, 1940, with the opening of Hedrick House. Since that time six additional houses have been activated: Elsworth (fall, 1940) Ulrey (fall, 1946), Bower (fall, 1947), Motts, (winter, 1947), Howland (fall, 1948) and Beal (fall, 1948).

Pillows at ten paces may slow down the bed-making, but these Van Hoosen coeds don't seem to mind.

Van Hoosen

What better way to show a fellow that your heart's in the right place than to wear socks that match his? Van Hoosen coeds proved this at their "Sweetheart Sock Hop." Each girl knit socks for themselves and their dates.

Aside from brain power (the coeds tied for first place in scholarship fall term) Van Hoosen residents are noted for friendliness. Early in the morning milkmen are greeted by humorous notes, and Sarah the Squirrel is a regular noon-time visitor.

Coeds must have an all-university 2.2, be above freshman standing and have two staff recommendations to live in the Van Hoosen unit.

Beal

Work was mixed with pleasure as the men of Beal House combined the chores of cooking, cleaning and planning with the joys of informal term dances and parties. The men also participated in all intramural sports events. Their annual picnic is always a spring term affair.

The nineteen members of the house pledged themselves to cooperation, economy in living, and social fellowship. The house was founded in 1949 by veterans.

Bower

Bower House has been an active cooperative house since it was founded at Michigan State in 1947.

Besides the regular duties that must be performed to keep a cooperative house in good working order, the men have found time to keep up their studies and social life.

Each term the men had exchange dinners and parties with various living units on campus. The men also gave their muscles a workout by participating in the intramural and inter co-op sports programs.

Elsworth

Members of Elsworth House can claim the distinction of winning the Inter-Cooperative Council Scholarship Trophy for the past eight consecutive terms.

All of their time is not spent on studies, however. The 40 members sponsored various informal dances and parties.

Elsworth House was named in honor of a former Michigan State University instructor who was instrumental in establishing the cooperative movement in Michigan.

Hedrick

The men of Hedrick House added a touch of casino days and hard times to the campus atmosphere during several of their informal parties this year.

The 32 members of the cooperative, the first to be founded at Michigan State, also participated in all intramural sports, taking first place in basketball and football.

The members, who maintained an all-university 2.5, held a rush and accepted new members each term.

First known as Ajax Men's Co-op, Howland House has been active in campus life since 1947. Largest of the men's co-ops, the 45 members of Howland House paid off the ten year mortgage on their house this year. With this accomplishment behind them, the men went ahead with plans for a new house.

Howland residents got away from it all and went "left-banking" at one of their term parties, "Escape to Paris." The group usually has live music at their term parties.

Scholastics were not overlooked this year. Howland took second place in scholarship fall term. They also competed in the ICC athletic program, performing notably in softball, football and basketball.

Howland House boasts six foreign students, whose backgrounds range from European to Far Eastern, among its members.

Motts

Alumni of Motts proved their loyalty to their Alma Mater and their co-op home this year. The 22 members of Motts were hosts to 75 alumni and parents Homecoming Weekend.

The group fosters international understanding by including foreign students. Many of them have written Motts saying they felt they gained a better understanding of American college students because of this experience.

Social activities included their annual spring picnic and several informal term parties. Athletically speaking, the men participated in the Inter-Co-op League.

Ulrey

The men of Ulrey were a familiar sight on the athletic fields this year. While not winning any trophies, Ulrey House entered all intramural sports contests. The men have permanent possession of an All-Independent Sports Trophy.

On the social side of life, Ulrey House held picnics with several of the women's dorms this year.

Ulrey House is named in honor of Dr. Orion Ulrey, one of the initiators of the co-op movement on campus. The house has been active since 1946.

Wilks, Shankland, Kaczanowski, Hieftje.

The younger residents of the second floor "bricks" have a large and safely screened play area to keep them under mother's watchful eye.

Most married housing families stay right where they are to be "home for Christmas."

Married Housing

As the university's fastest growing housing program, the married housing "bricks" appear as the barracks are demolished. All of the remaining barracks are scheduled for removal by June of 1959.

A red wagon, a Volkswagon and an English bike can sum up married housing—1958. The red wagon can be seen with Mr. and Mrs. Married Student's two boys in it—being pulled by the smallest girl in the block. The Volkswagon is generally filled, either with kids, laundry, groceries, or any combination of the three. The English bike is his transportation to and around campus, particularly since this year saw the erection of the ten cent parking gates on campus.

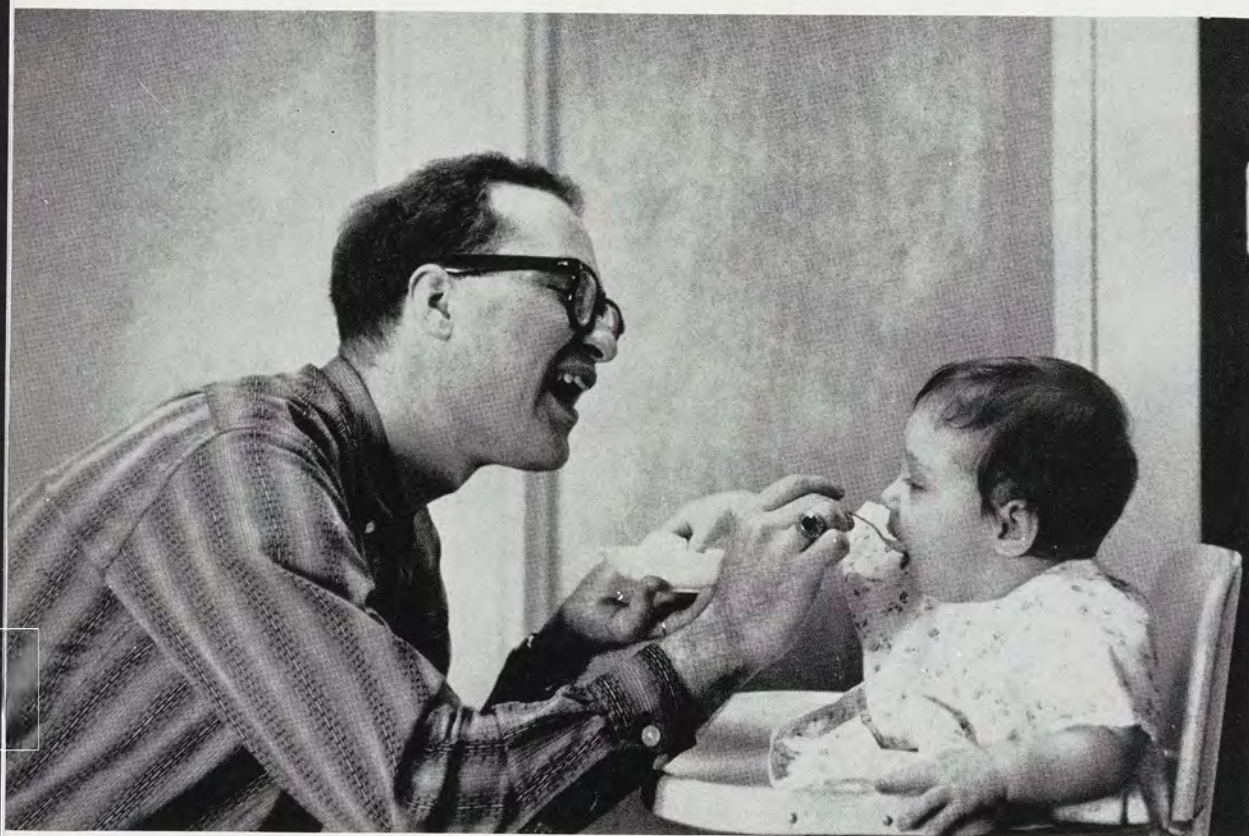

MSU can be very proud of the housing facilities it makes available to married students, for it is the largest program of its kind in the nation. A steady stream of families moving away from the now all-but-demolished barrack apartments near the stadium to the newly completed "bricks" of Spartan Village continued most of the year. As the Spartan Village apartments were finished, the silent buildings soon became alive with milk boxes, diaper racks and the other necessities of married living. Each apartment follows the same basic floor plan and contains essentially the same furniture, but the similarity ends at the door-step. Soon each apartment takes on the personalities of the couples and the more than 2,000 children that make them a home.

As Mr. MSU studies and Mrs. either works or keeps house, they both are aware of the participation in community living that they are experiencing.

As in any home, the holiday season brings colorful decorations to the doors and windows of married housing units.

With his two best girls to greet him, this Mr. Married Student gets a big lift at the day's end.

Big daddy does all but eat the supper himself when he subs for mother at the evening feeding.

There are often more "men of the house" at work in the married housing laundry room than wives.

Residents of married housing admit that at times (usually when the kids are arguing at the top of their lungs, the formula is boiling over and the telephone is ringing) it becomes a bit difficult to study. However, statistics prove that married students have a better grade point average than their single classmates.

The fine art of budget stretching between the collection of her wages and his veteran's checks has many practitioners. In spite of all the problems of kaleidoscopic university-home life, a sense of shared triumph and tragedy forms an essential part of married housing living.

Textbook lessons are forgotten as father and son learn why the mechanical steam shovel won't shovel.

Some youngsters show an understandable lack of interest during the Sunday afternoon roast inspection.

Few married student social gatherings avoid the topic of children, either planned or present.

Whether it's hula hoops in the fall, snowmen in the winter, or jump ropes in the spring, the diversions of children are ever present.

Though modern central laundry facilities are located in the married housing villages, that last minute ironing is still a perennial predicament of Mrs. Married Student.

Mimicking mother's coffee breaks, the tea party is, as always, a favorite social affair of the younger set.

The traffic jams that resulted from the widening of Harrison Road were only one of the hazards that married students faced going to and fro this year. The railroad put gates across the tracks near Spartan Village, which residents claimed stopped traffic for entire lunch hours. University Village olfactories were again assailed by certain unpleasant odors from the nearby sewerage plant. However, by autumn things were much better due to a new filtering system that was placed in use. The winter was the worst in years and caused many agonizing moments due to run-down batteries, frozen gas lines, and snow-clogged parking areas. A common sight on a sub-zero morning was the team work of men giving their wives and neighbors a push to get free from a snowy rut or patch of ice. Fortunately, the grounds department did its usual good job keeping roads, bays and walks clear. The snowmen, ice forts, and sleds testified to the activities of the children from December to March.

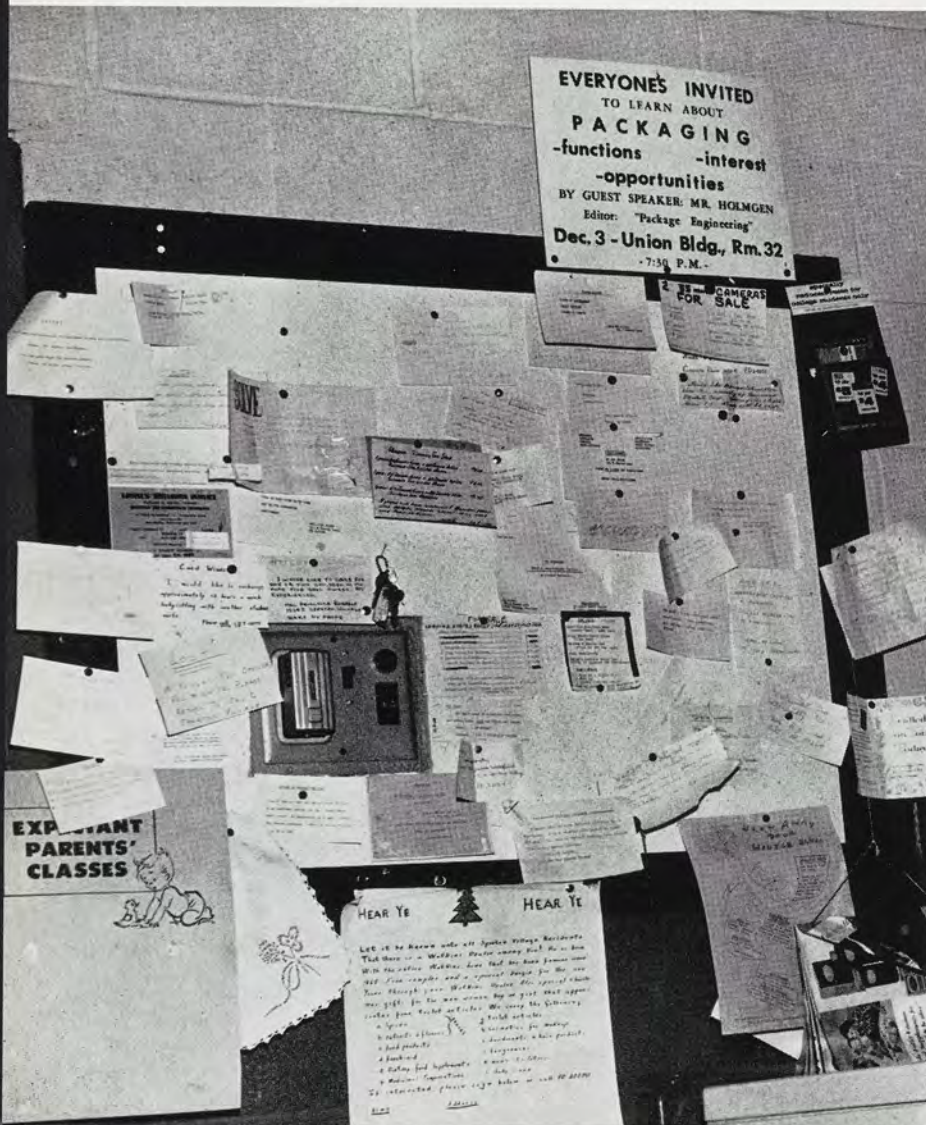

Bikes, trikes and wagons in the community "garage" await their many-sized owners.

There are few empty shelves in the married student's bookcase, and few books not read regularly.

The laundry room bulletin board is a veritable library of news and notices familiar to every married student.

The married student active on campus is exemplified by AUSG President, Chuck Walther, shown here spending an evening at home with wife, Carol, and the books.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Married Housing had two crazes during 1959. Every apartment had at least one Frizzbee for dad to take from Jr. so he could throw it around after supper, and every child had at least one hula-hoop. This consisted of nothing more than a round piece of plastic, but the kids jumped through them, walked with them spinning around their middles, and gyrated happily through the year. Adults tried them too, but never reached the proficiency of their children at keeping them twirling. They soon went back to evenings of bridge, TV, or just plain chatting with the neighbors.

The private telephone is one prominent asset in off-campus apartment dwelling.

Off-Campus Living

Thousands of Spartans met the challenge of off-campus living this year. Approximately 7,500 students made their "home away from home" in an off-campus dwelling. Those who waited until the beginning of fall term to find a roof to put over their heads found the competition keen, with many of the better places spoken for well in advance.

As individuals or in groups, they rented rooms or apartments. Occasionally friends would join forces and rent a house.

The big question which faced students interested in off-campus living was an old one. "Shall we live in approved or unapproved housing?"

Approved housing applies to those landlords who request the university to inspect their units and judge whether they comply with standards the university recommends as adequate housing. These standards are concerned mainly with health and safety factors, and whether or not there is adequate supervision in the dwellings. Students of sophomore standing are eligible to live in approved housing.

Since private rooms seldom mean private baths in off-campus housing, the value of patience is often enhanced.

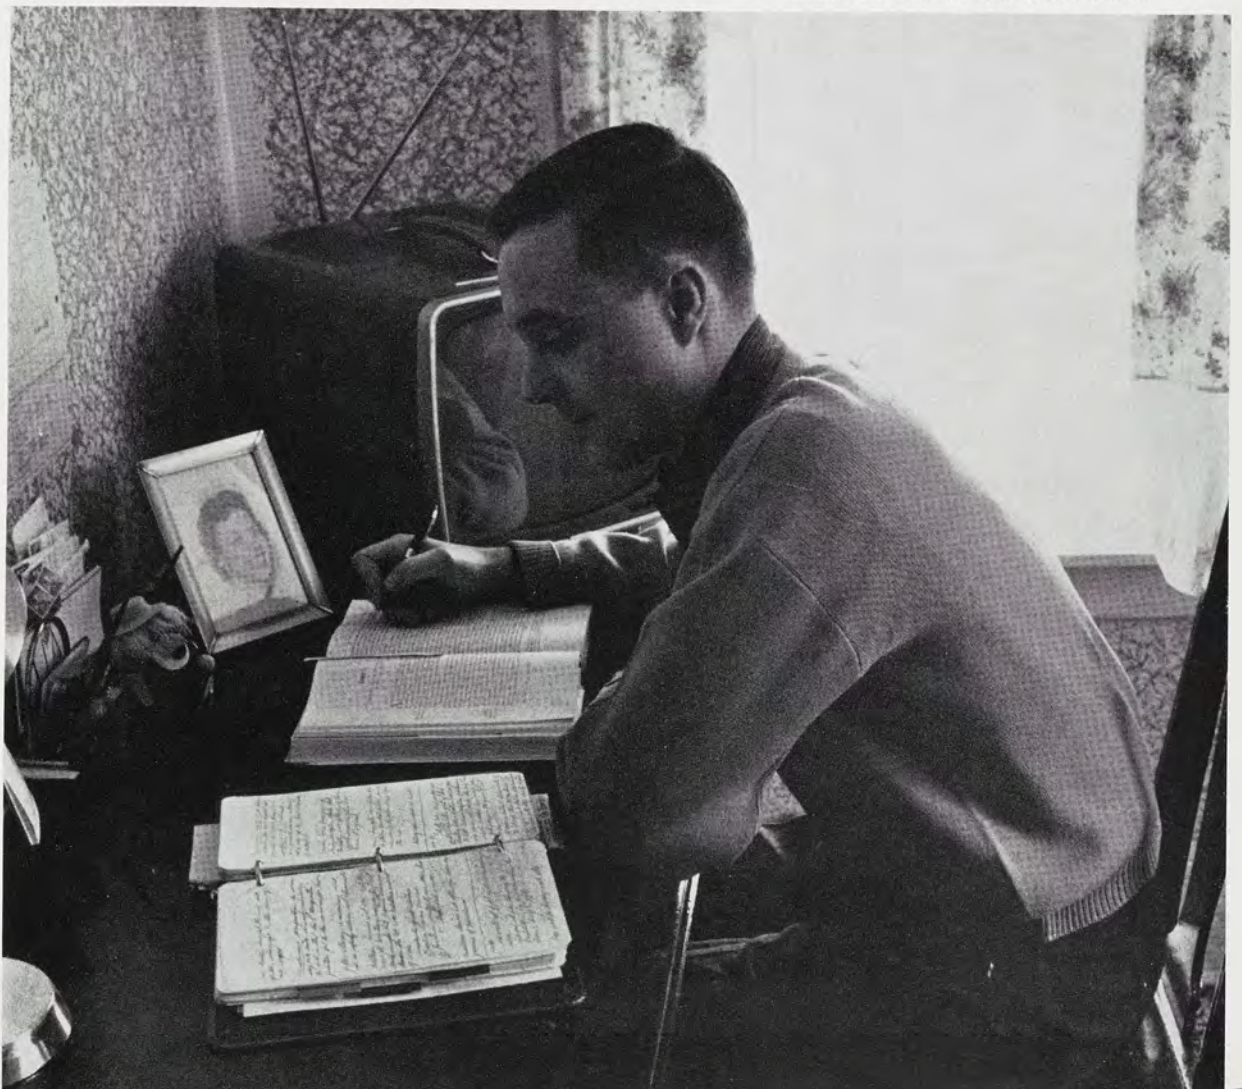

That quiet day at home is a relaxing affair in the comfort of an apartment living room.

That good home cooking, bachelor style, is the off-campus rule.

A private room is also a private study hall if the TV doesn't take precedence.

Unapproved housing is not as derogatory a term as it may sound. It simply means that the owners have not requested the university to make an inspection of their premises. In most cases these homes meet all the requirements for approved housing.

Those students who chose to live in the unapproved facilities faced a new set of requirements this year. The age limit for unapproved housing was raised from 21 to 22, and an all-university 2.2 was required. There were rumors that the age limit would be raised still further.

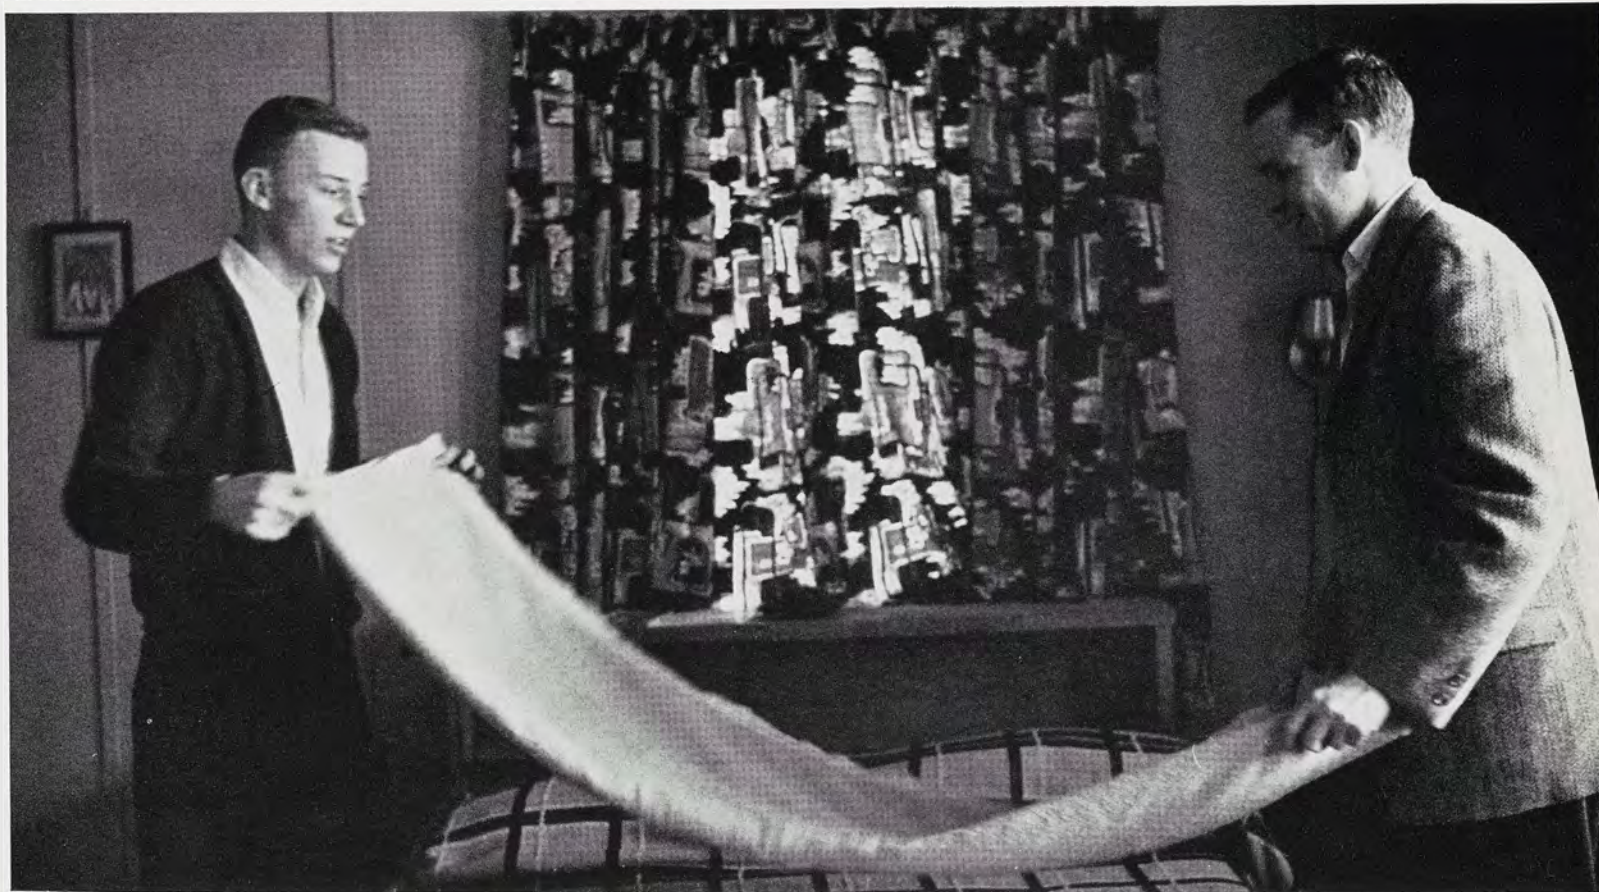

Coeds had to be 25 years old before they could live in an off-campus dwelling.

Off-campus students proved to be a true cross section of student life. Over 2,000 of them were married, while more than 1,000 lived at home in nearby communities and commuted to the campus each day.

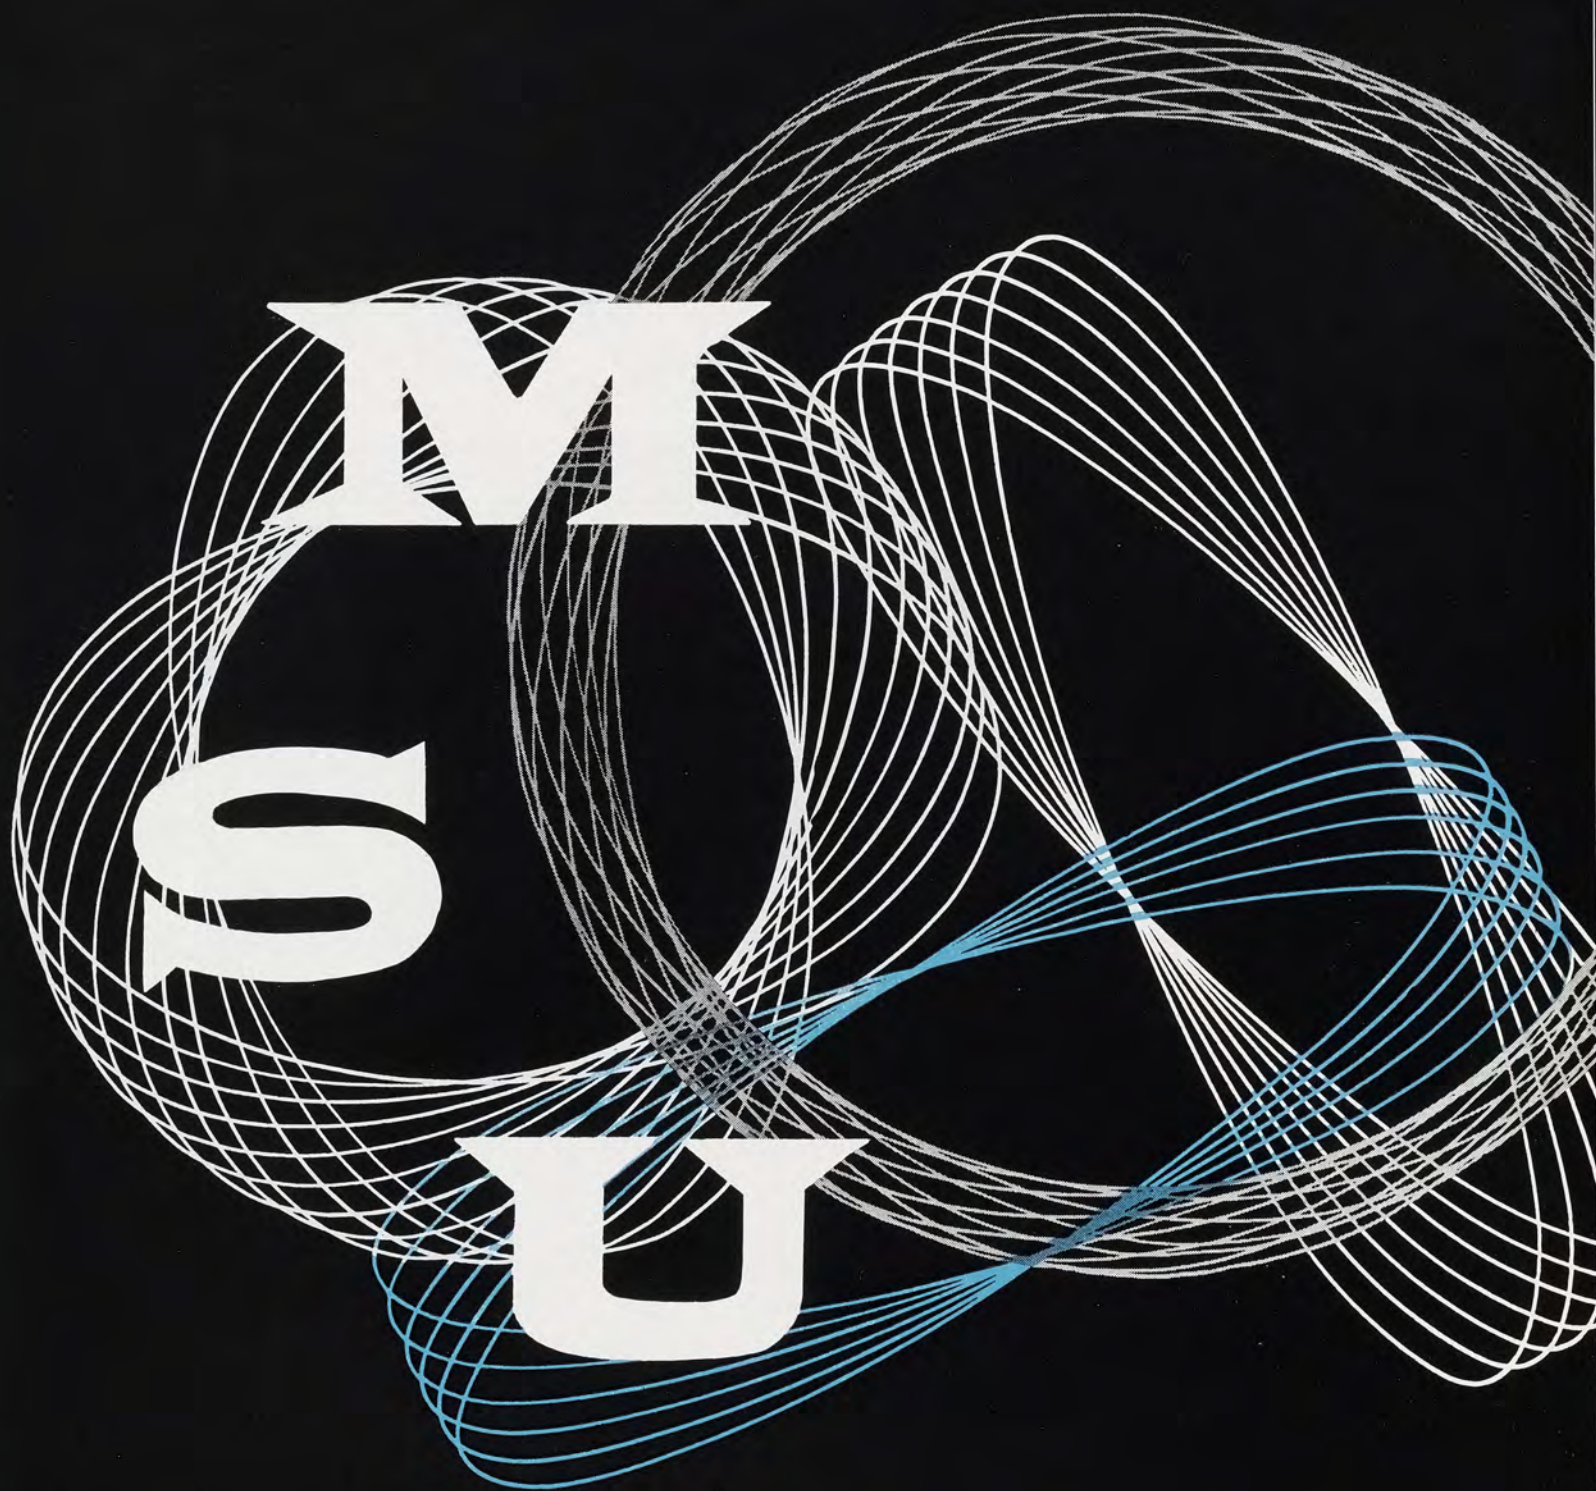

Record collections find room to grow in most apartments.

THE CLASS OF 1959

The class of 1959 is typical only in its elusion of pat description. In its heterogeneous membership one will find almost as many interests and intentions as individuals. Even the word "class" itself is applicable only to the year of graduation. The class has, however, one distinction which may never be shared. Since 1861 when MSU's first graduating seniors were excused two months early to join the Union Army, veterans have come and gone from the campus scene, but until 1946 they were seldom more than occasional. Since then and for the past 13 years they have dominated their college generation. But this year may be their last of significant influence. From a peak of 4,100 three years ago their number has dropped to less than 2,700, with over half of these seniors. In this respect, then, the class of 1959 ends an era.

WOLVERINE...

THIS magnificent yearbook for 1959 is a worthy exemplification of the high standards achieved by the student body and the faculty of Michigan State University in all its endeavors.

IN addition to carrying on their daily scholastic duties, time has been found to create this outstanding visual record of the year's work in a manner that equals the professional best.

WE are proud to have been selected to portray in picture and type this very excellent editorial content. It is an honor to serve so great an Institution. It is a rare privilege to serve so fine an Editorial Staff.

THE DOORWAY TO FINER YEARBOOKS

CHICAGO

"Jahn & Ollier Again"

A familiar and reassuring slogan

FAMILIAR...because it has appeared in thousands of the country's finest yearbooks for the past half century.

REASSURING...because those years of specialized experience bring complete service, outstanding quality and dependable delivery to the yearbook staffs, with whom we work.

It pays to be particular . . .

Yes, this fact applies to yearbook covers. This is why we never overlook the smallest detail of color or finish, which adds to the beauty of your yearbook cover.

Congratulations from your

Certified Gemologist

REGISTERED JEWELER
AMERICAN GEM SOCIETY

We too, feel pride in our Degree, obtained, like you, through four years of hard work and study; only, unlike most of you, we must take a yearly examination to retain our title. Our business ethics must be of the highest, and our presentation of sales material must be correct and authentic to retain both our title and membership in the American Gem Society. Our diamond-scope leased to us as long as we retain our title is our most valued asset.

CALLING SENIOR MEN AND WOMEN

Like to get in on the ground floor and stay there? Sorry, we can't help you. But we do have lots of room for first-rate seniors who want to get places fast in the communications industry. Seniors with a flair for science, engineering, business, accounting, management and personnel work.

You can find out how you fit into this business in just one interview. See your Placement Counselor now and arrange a talk with our representatives — they visit the campus regularly. Or call our College Placement Office in Detroit.

The editors wish to acknowledge the cooperation of the Michigan State University Magazine, the MSU Reporter and the Michigan State News for aid in locating photographs and for furnishing reference material for much of the copy in this book. The University Magazine's excellent series, "Science at State," was particularly valuable in the writing of "Research," page 14. We further wish to thank Mr. Edwin Hackleman of the Jahn and Ollier Engraving Company, Chicago, Mr. Sam Fields of Delma Studios, New York, Mr. Jack Bundy of the S. K. Smith Company, Chicago, and especially Mr. John Vitovsky of Speaker-Hines and Thomas, Inc., Lansing, for their invaluable aid in solving many of the problems arising during the 1959 Wolverine's conception and production.
