FEATURES

Registration is a time of frustration for most students and of fun for very few. The whole process begins with early enrollment. During Finals Week students pick up their schedule cards to find out which classes they have received. At this point, the students either continue through registration, paying fees and filling out cards; or they enter "the pit" to spend time begging their way into classes.

Besides "the pit," the hold card line is probably the other big obstacle in the registration process. Many students find that they have neglected to pay a library fine or a bill at the Health Center. Once the hold cards have been issued students may not continue until they have paid their bills.

Moving-In Fall Term 1974

Each year more than 17,000 students move into the MSU dormitories. The moving-in process is not an easy one. Station Wagons, U-Haul trailers and trucks are filled to the top as students move almost all of their worldly goods. Parents and younger brothers or sisters march back and forth with their arms loaded with anything from books to stereo equipment. Returning students rush to greet their old friends while new students tour the dorms to locate themselves in their new homes.

 Center: "Hotel Hubbard" offers a newer dorm lifestyle .

MSU again faced a problem of overcrowding in the dorms when an increased number of applicants for residence halls forced the university to triple more than 1200 rooms. A decision by the Board of Trustees alleviated part of the problem. During the summer it was announced that for the 1974-75 year sophomores would be allowed to live off campus.

Co-ed floors by suites was a new lifestyle for a few floors in three of MSU's dorms. Students involved in the new option were generally pleased and called the atmosphere a healthy one. Other dorms hope to be included in the option next year.

The dorms offer a variety of activities from private parties to all-complex events. Private parties within the dorms are the most common. These range from spur-of-the-moment ideas to plans made weeks in advance.

Brother-Sister floor activities provide pixie weeks, exchange dinners and dances. Keggers between floors are also quite common. Dances with live bands, picnics, football, volleyball and frisbee games make up some all-complex events.

Co-ops: Not Just a Cheap Place to Live

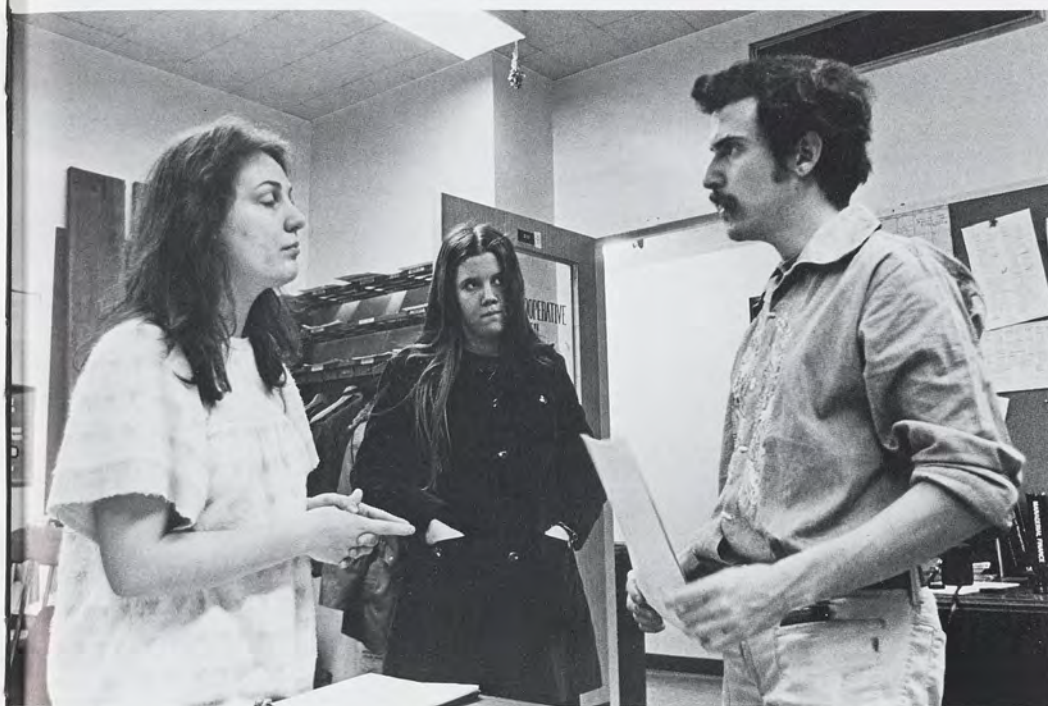

Cooperative housing has become the answer for those students who find living units elsewhere too expensive. This, however, is not the only consideration for choosing a coop.

Coops are now exerting more effort towards demonstrating to other students the ideas on which their organization is based. The philosophy of coops springs from Robert Owen's utopian idea that the best human characteristics are developed by cooperation, not competition.

All coops elect officers who coordinate activities, arbitrate disputes, make the work schedule and work with the main office in the Student Services Building. Coops are run by democratic control with each member carrying one vote. Individuals are responsible for three to five hours of house duties per week.

Cooperatives do not only involve living units but also include the Wolfmoon Food Coop, the Co-optical, an Auto Coop and a Bicycle Coop. A cooperative exists solely for the purpose of supplying some service to its members and not for making a profit.

Greek organizations are on the rise throughout the country, and MSU is no exception. There are 22 fraternities and 19 sororities which offer an alternative lifestyle for some 2000 MSU students.

Why do men and women become Greek? Many Greeks feel that living together in a house as sorority sisters or fraternity brothers creates a homelike atmosphere which encourages caring for one another while also preserving individuality. In addition, the Greek system gives many opportunities for demonstrating leadership and organizational abilities.

MSU's Greeks pride themselves on their concern, awareness and involvement.

Apartment Life Means New Experiences

Apartment life in the East Lansing area offers a variety of experiences to the student seeking off-campus housing. Students may choose from a maze of apartments located as close to the campus as some of the dorms or they may elect to travel a little further for less rent.

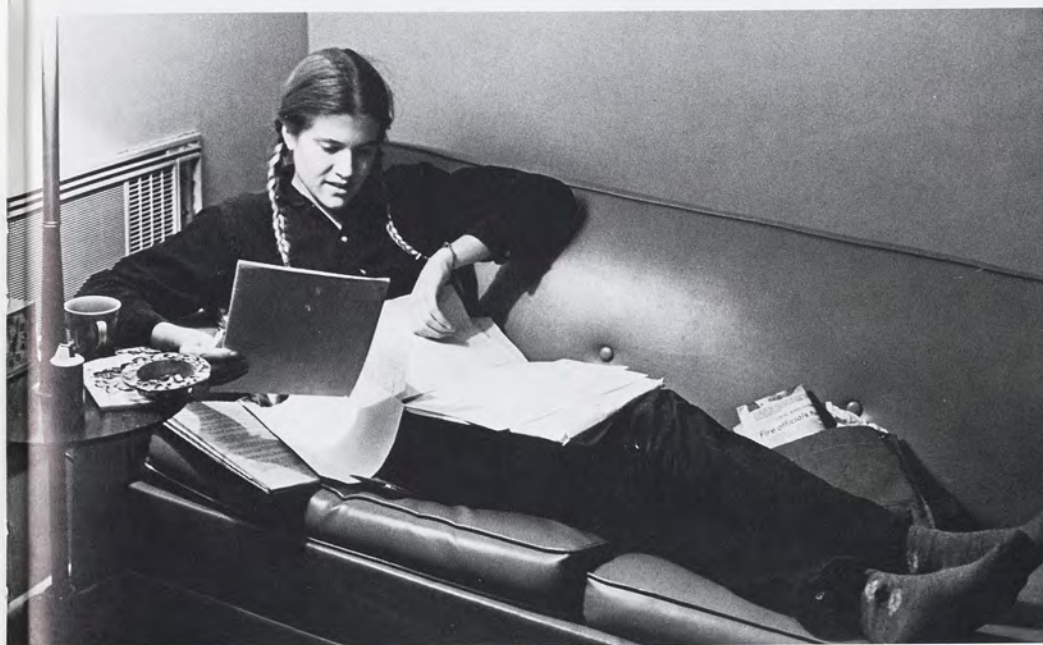

Responsibilities grow in apartment life — planning meals, washing dishes, cleaning more rooms and remembering to pay monthly rent.

Advantages of apartment life soon cover up the increased responsibilities. In addition to usually being less expensive than the dorm, apartments provide a more private atmosphere for either studying or entertaining.

Lower Cost of Houses Lure Students

Students who are looking for a place to live off campus often choose to rent a house because of its size and privacy .

One of the main advantages of renting a house is that most of the residents can have a single room, decorate it to their own liking and still avoid high rent. However, finding furniture for all the rooms sometimes poses a problem.

Where Shall We Eat Again?

The rising cost of food has caused many students to find that living in dorms has actually become cheaper than living off campus. In order to economize food production, MSU recently designated different dorm complexes to specialize in the preparation of specific types of food. Brody, for example, prepares all the baked goods which are then delivered to the other residence halls.

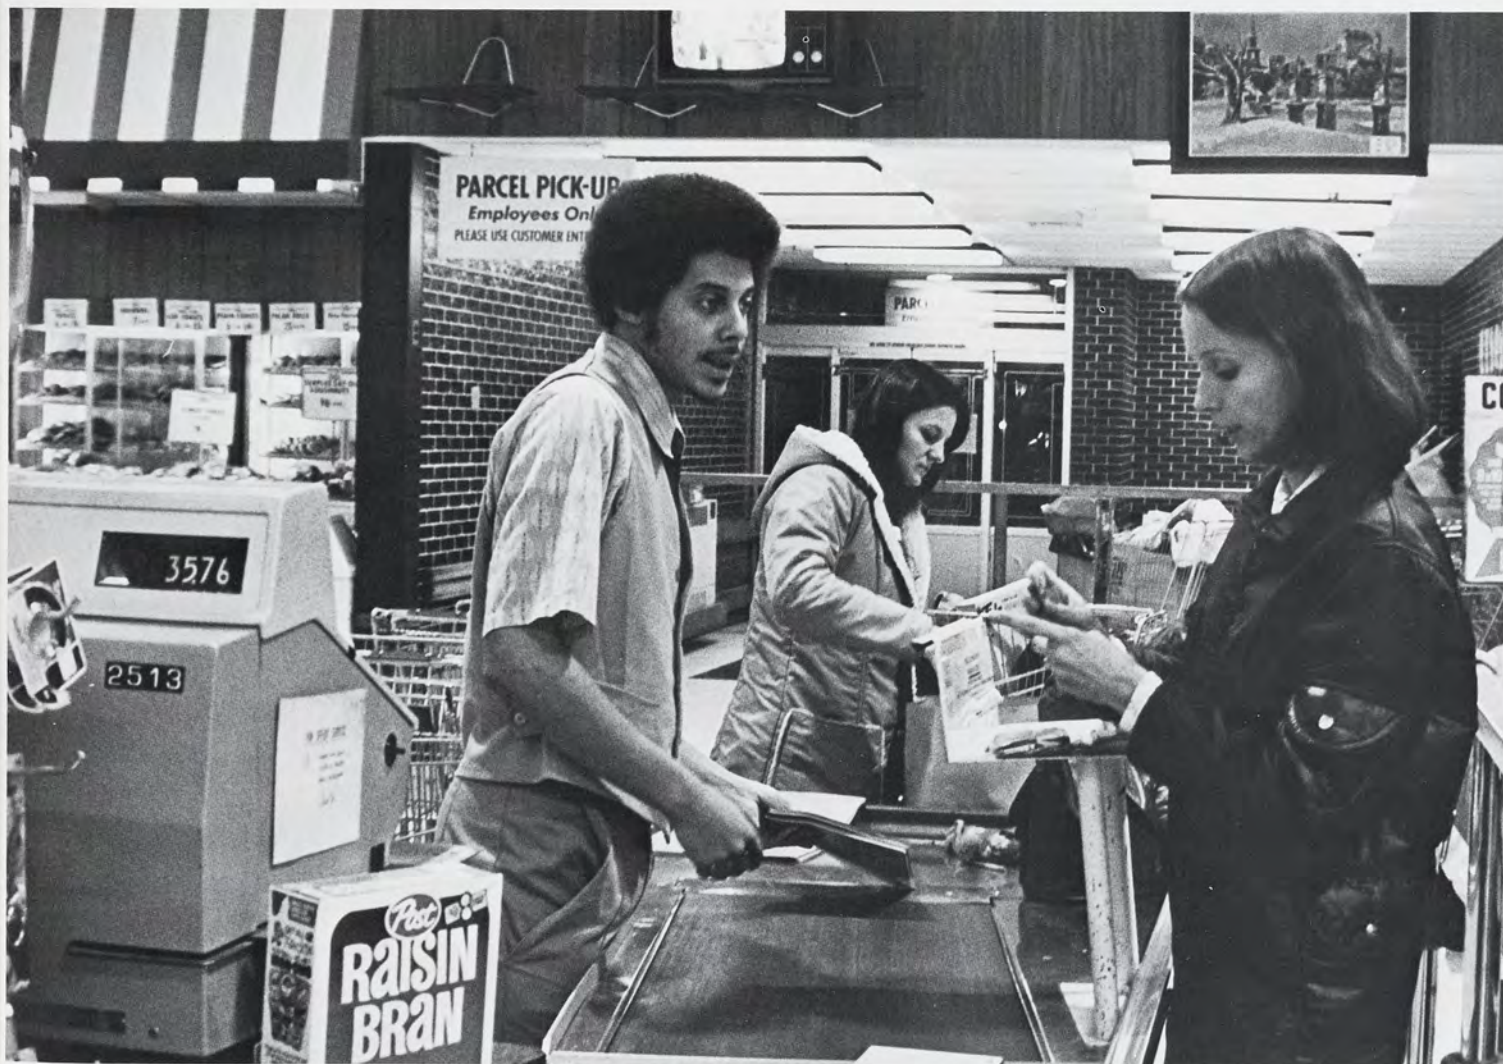

Even though most of the dorms have grills, quick-service restaurants are very popular with students both on and off campus. Students eagerly order pizza, hamburgs, tacos, chicken or fish either in place of their regular meals or as late evening snacks.

Top: Meals are produced for over 2300 students in Brody Cafeteria, the largest non-military cafeteria in the world.

The College of Agriculture and Natural Resources offers about 20 degree programs in areas such as Agricultural Biochemistry, Agricultural Engineering, Animal Husbandry, Crop Science, Dairy Science, Fisheries and Wildlife, Parks and Recreation, Resource Development and Packaging.

At least a half dozen MSU farms, located south of main campus, provide students with an opportunity to conduct special research projects. Students also gain experience in farm operations. In addition to the learning experience, the farms help supply the university with products such as the cheese which is sold in the MSU cheese shop and often served in the dorm cafeterias.

Lecture Halls Rarely Filled for Classes

Human and Osteopathic Medicine Share Learning Facilities

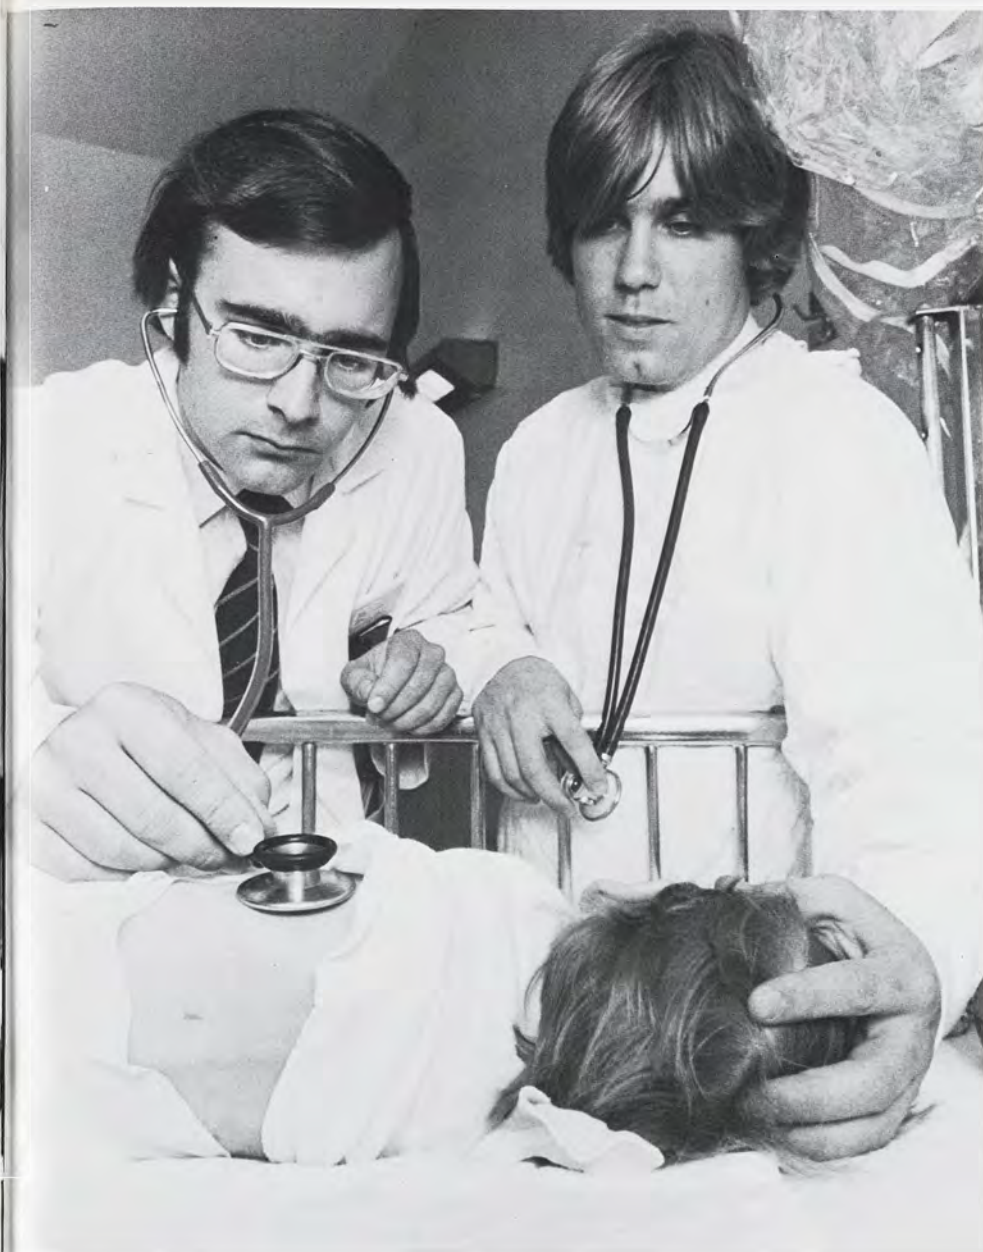

The Colleges of Human and Osteopathic Medicine have combined in many areas to provide their students with a better opportunity to learn.

The Gross Anatomy Lab and microbiology labs are two areas where the students are able to do research together.

Students also gain practical experience by interning in various hospitals and clinics in Michigan. These programs are set up to meet the individual needs of the student.

A new hospital and research center is presently under construction and scheduled to be completed in 1978.

College of Social Science: Study Through Involvement

The College of Social Science offers 17 degree programs which provide their students with a working knowledge of human behavior and social institutions.

Students may choose from such areas as Multidisciplinary Social Science Programs, the departments of Anthropology, Geography, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology; the schools of Criminal Justice, Labor and Industrial Relations, Social Work, Urban Planning and Landscape Architecture; African and Asian Studies Center and the Computer Institute for Social Science Research.

The College of Engineering offers degrees in eleven majors including the professional fields of mechanical, civil, electrical, chemical, agricultural and metallurgical engineering.

National programs provide research projects for students to work on either individually or as a group. Scholarships are often presented to the leaders of these research projects.

Students of the department follow programs that will help them keep up with the continually changing field of engineering.

The department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation offers a variety of classes for students at MSU. Many students participate in the classes to have a break from routine lectures and to keep in shape. Other students take the classes to fulfill their graduation requirements. New classes like Neuromuscular Relaxation have promoted a renewed interest in the HPR department among both majors and non-majors.

The Kresge Art Center provides facilities for MSU art students and enthusiasts. Classrooms and studios give artists space to work on their drawings, paintings, sculptures and other projects. Most instructors place the finished work on display. The center also includes a gallery which exhibits both touring and permanent collections.

Music Students Gain Experience

Students majoring in music may earn degrees in Applied Music; Theory and Composition; Choral, Instrumental or Stringed Instrument School Music; Music Literature and Music Therapy. The Department of Music requires most of its students to present recitals or participate in internships before they graduate. This is to give the students some practical experience. Organized groups within the department present concerts each year to both on and off campus audiences.

Residential colleges provide students with a smaller college community within the larger University. Integration of the students' curricular and extra-curricular activities is brought about by having classrooms, faculty offices and housing under one roof. MSU's three residential colleges offer students an alternative to the traditional undergraduate program.

Lyman Briggs College is geared for students interested in science and math oriented programs. The curriculum is varied to enable study and experimentation in science, mathematics and sociology.

Justin Morrill College places greater emphasis on the teacher as a partner working with students in their educational experience. Experimental programming consists of courses in fine arts, humanities, social sciences, natural sciences and writing.

James Madison College seeks to identify and analyze public policy problems. Students develop communication skills along with the ability to think through complex issues of an international, judicial or socio-economic nature.

President Wharton — Smiles from the Top

Michigan State University is a community of varying social ideas where men and women can develop their full potential in the academic world. Students, faculty and staff combine to create the academic world of MSU.

President Clifton R. Wharton and the administration perform important functions — the outlining, coordinating, directing and formulating of the complex maze of memos, forms and meetings that make the University run like a well-designed piece of academic machinery.

Besides his administrative duties, President Wharton is an active member of the University community. Senior receptions, graduation and informal talks at residence hall dinners give the President the opportunity to get a closer look at student affairs and concerns.

President Wharton graduated cum laude from Harvard in 1947 with a B.A. in history. He also earned a Ph.D. in economics from the University of Chicago and has several honorary degrees.

He is presently a member of several boards of directors including the Ford Motor Co., the Burroughs Corporation, the Rockefeller Foundation, and the Agriculture Development Council.

International Programs Encourage Involvement

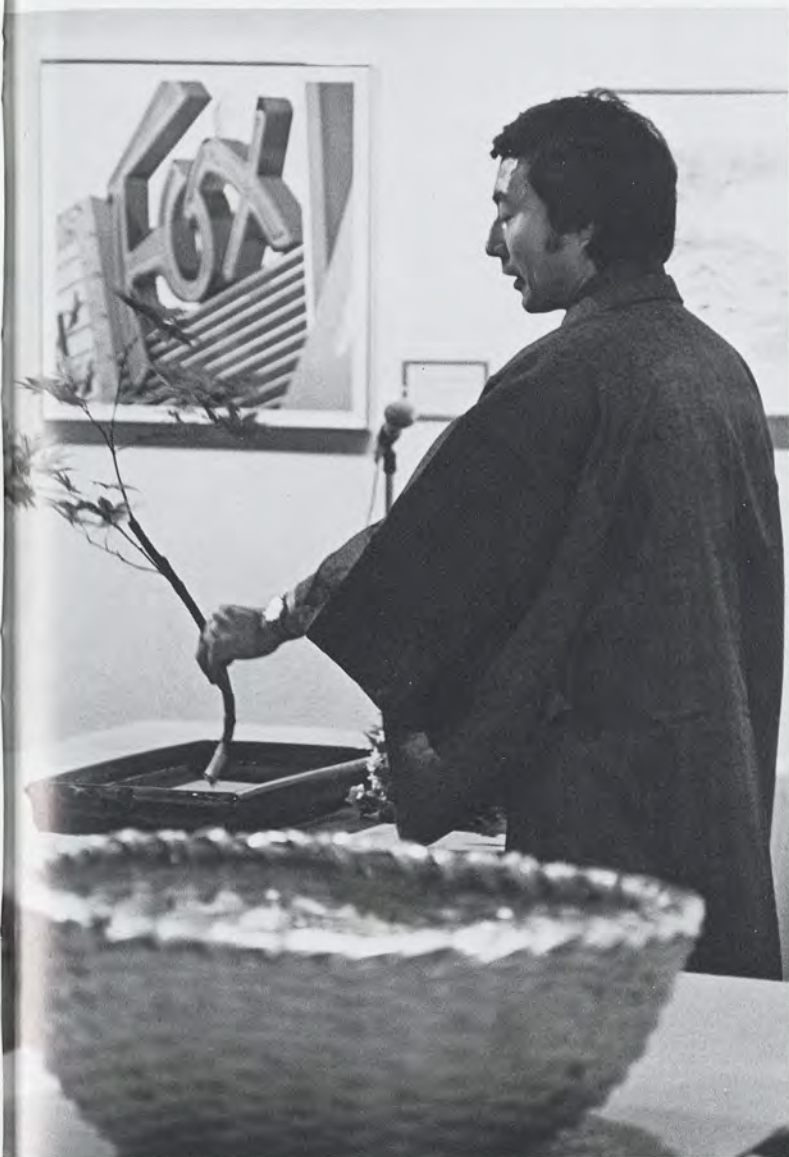

The Center for International Programs provides many opportunities in overseas employment and studies for the student who is interested in travel. Students may elect to spend one year abroad or just one term studying languages, university requirements or following an independent course.

The International Center also helps foreign students adjust to life in the United States. MSU offers English classes, films and lectures for the foreign student. Host Families in the East Lansing area work with the students to provide a "home away from home".

International Week, an event held each fall term, gives international students a chance to display exhibits about their countries.

Campus radio stations serve the students who live in the dorms. Each dorm complex has a radio station which provides its residents with entertainment, news and special programs. Frequently, stations will have contests in which pizzas or movie tickets are given away as prizes.

Radio stations also provide practical experience for the students who run them. Some students work for enjoyment while others plan to seek a career in the broadcasting field following graduation.

WMSN, located in the Student Services Building, serves the whole campus. The three dorm complex stations are WBRS in Brody, WEAKE in Wonders and WMCD in McDonel.

Coffeehouses: Informal Entertainment

Coffeehouses have gained popularity in the last few years. This increase has been reflected in a greater demand for more coffeehouses in the dorms. Students often join together in the dorms to create their own programs. Sometimes these coffeehouses are planned as finals-week breaks.

Mariah, a branch of the MSU Pop Entertainment program, presents many distinguished folk and blues artists in intimate settings. The program is run entirely by student volunteers.

Four Corners Coffeehouse provides entertainment for those dorms that call and wish to set up a program. They have a list of students with talent who wish to perform when the opportunity arises.

All of the coffeehouses are organized on a non-profit basis. Organizers hope to encourage students to further develop their talents and to share them with others.

Free University

Interested in sharing your knowledge with others? The Free University is the place to go. Established in the 1960's, the Free U remains an outlet for education in non-structured surroundings, providing courses outside of and in supplement to today's liberal arts curriculum.

Free U operates on two basic assumptions. One, that the desire for knowledge should spring from an aroused interest in the subject matter rather than an external stimulus (i.e. grade point). Two, that the Free U can serve as a channel for communicating greater awareness and understanding of individuals by working with constant growth in a small community setting.

The Free University is not officially affiliated with MSU, but it receives financial support from ASMSU, the student government.

Dancing of all types has become much more popular over the last several years at MSU. This year, the student dance group Orchesis formed its own repertory company. This smaller, more professionally oriented group will provide the community with several dance concerts in addition to the annual Orchesis performance held under PAC auspices each spring.

The HPR department has completely revamped its 35-hour dance minor and because of the demand has greatly increased the number and variety of dance offerings. Those who enroll in dance courses range from theater students to math majors, according to Dixie Durr, HPR assistant professor.

Lecture-Concert again offered an Art of Dance Series. This popular mini-series brings to the campus modern and ethnic dancing and traditional ballet.

Believe it or not, social dancing seems to be making a comeback. This Fall term witnessed the opening of a Fred Astaire Dance Studio on M.A.C. Avenue. Ballroom dancing from the fox trot to the tango is being taught to a number of MSU students.

The Performing Arts Company

Long rehearsals, set and costume designs, lighting and directing are all elements which combine to establish the high degree of professionalism that the Performing Arts Company strives to maintain.

PAC consists of graduate students, although occasionally an undergraduate is involved in a production. Each event is a joint effort of the entire theater department. Professor Peter Landry directed Child's Play last spring and chairman Frank Rutledge directed A Touch of the Poet fall term.

The Arena Theater, associated with PAC, gives undergraduates a chance to become directly involved with theater productions. Professor Robert Klassen directed That Championship Season in the Arena during winter term.

Performing Companies Give a Variety of Dramatic Entertainment

Providing variety for MSU community theater-goers are The Company, Players Gallery and the Black Arts Manifesto.

The newly created Players' Gallery is a semi-professional organization with members from the University and the community. This group offers a new style of theatrical entertainment — dinner theater in the Union Ballroom.

The Company returns for its fifth year to the McDonel Kiva with an opportunity for all students to get involved in any phase of play production.

The Black Arts Manifesto was organized by Gerald Emmons, Robert Gaines, Pat Ford, Mike Gordon, Dannielle Rendor, and Lamar Boyd. This group expresses the Black experience through music, poetry and drama. Many productions are written by members. Proceeds from the performances are given to charitable organizations.

Pigs vs. Freaks for ALSAC

The Freaks downed the Pigs 7-0 in the fifth annual Bull Bowl game. The proceeds from the game, which was the fourth win for the Freaks, were donated to St. Jude's Children Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., to support the ALSAC fund (Aid to Leukemia Stricken American Children).

Comedian Danny Thomas, founder of ALSAC, attended the game along with folk singer Josh White Jr. who led the national anthem.

The Pig's Team included local police officers, firemen and federal agents while students, street persons and former jocks made up the Freak's team.

Most students acquire extra money from one source or another. This money is not usually spent at the University but on Grand River Avenue.

The small stretch of Grand River near the MSU campus is cluttered with stores of every type, fulfilling almost any need or desire a student may have. All of these establishments have one common goal: Student Capital. Every day, Grand River is crowded with students seeking the best deals on clothes, books, records, furniture, athletic equipment and gifts.

Every other Friday is payday for the students who work on campus, time to cash checks before the banks close at 4:30. Lines are long. While waiting, the students cannot help noticing the windows of the nearby stores. Upon leaving the bank, these students head out to look for the latest sale items or a new album. Once again, Grand River begins the process of absorbing the students' money.

Grand River Entertains

Shopping can become an exhausting experience while pacing Grand River comparing prices. If the process is so tedious that the student cannot get home without some help, then it's time to look for a bike at Velocipede, Crossroads, Sportsmeister or the Schwinn Shop.

Along with the variety of stores comes the entertainment. Campus Theater shows the latest in major pictures and The State Theater offers movies along the special interest line. For those students who prefer their entertainment at home, Grand River includes several stereo shops. Tech Hi-Fi, The Stereo Shoppe, Hi-Fi Buys and Marshall Music all claim to have the lowest prices. Records are also available at The Disc Shop, Discount Records and the Campus Music Shop.

Relax, Dance, or Get Drunk

Keyed to go out for a beer? East Lansing bars have been on the rise in the past few years. Many students have found them to be welcome escapes from studying and bad exams or just good places to go for some entertainment and relaxation.

Students have the choice of going to a bigger bar to boogie down or finding a quieter atmosphere to talk with friends. Area bars offer a variety of entertainment from nationally known bands in concert to local groups. Pool tables, air hockey games and pinball machines are found in one corner of the bar, testing the coordination of a patron after a few drinks.

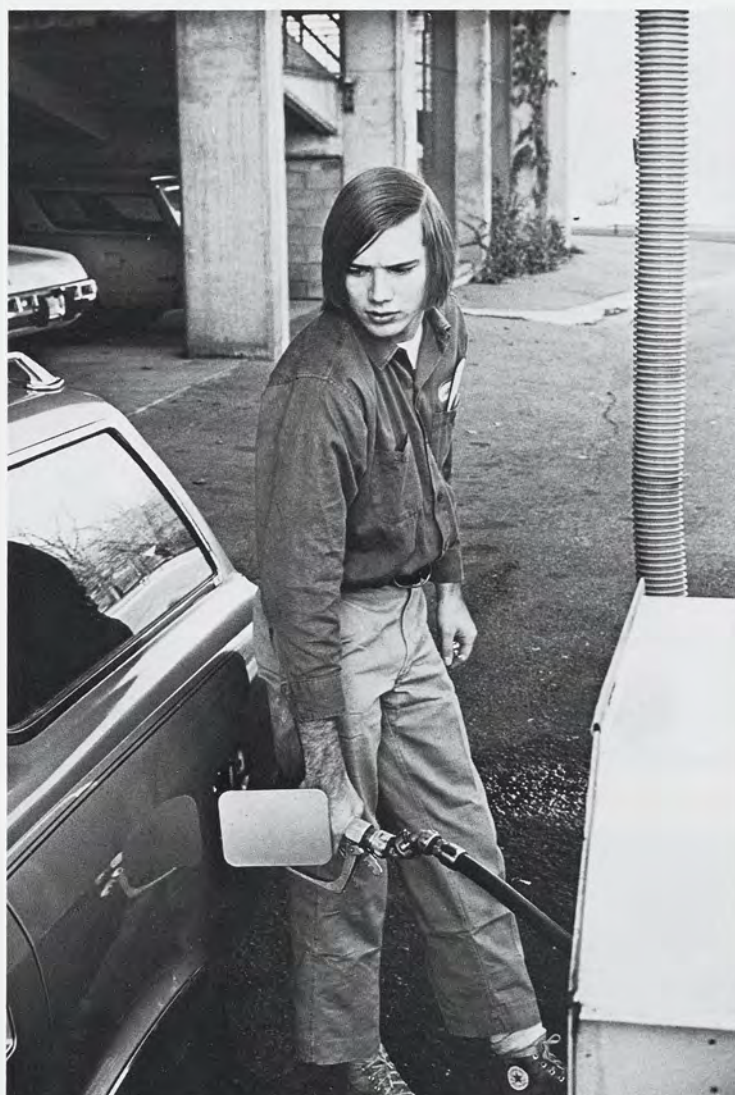

Friday T.G.'s, Pitcher Nights, Flaming Hog Specials, Tall Boy Nights and Half Price Afternoons lure students to the bars to celebrate anything from birthdays to the end of finals.

Experience, Enjoyment, and Money

Employment is a major concern for most students whether they are earning their own way through school or not. Students seek employment to pay for tuition, entertainment, and clothes. Experience and future job references also cause students to look for work.

University wages range from standard pay of $2.05 per hour (compared with $1.90 in 1973) to salaried student personnel. Jobs can be found in almost anything from manual labor to graduate assistantships.

Rallies and demonstrations were not prevalent on campus this year, but there were a few issues which seemed to bring controversy.

The United Farm Workers were looking for support from the University in boycotting non-union lettuce as they gathered near Beaumont Tower to talk to interested people. Supporters of the Veterans' Bonus Proposal also assembled at Beaumont to urge students to vote for the proposal in November. The measure passed, providing Vietnam veterans with more money.

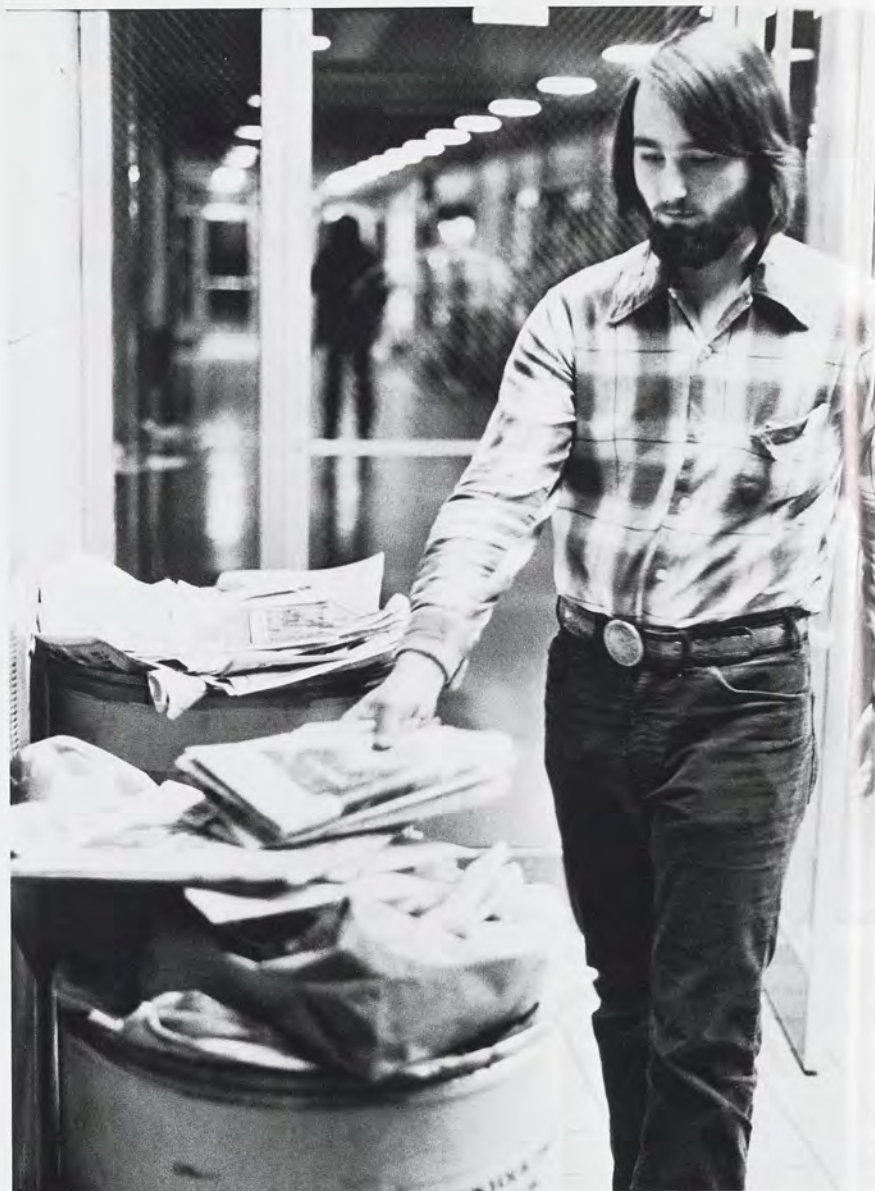

The Union Building lobby hosted several groups which were reaching out for support of their causes. Among these groups were the Wounded Knee Defense Fund and supporters of the abolition of the CIA.

A small group of MSU students joined together to form the Student Workers Union. Tim Cain, president of ASMSU, was one of the main organizers of the union. Because of his involvement, some people were interested in ousting Cain from his position on the ASMSU Board; but they were unsuccessful. Nevertheless, Cain's unionization attempts met with little support from most students.

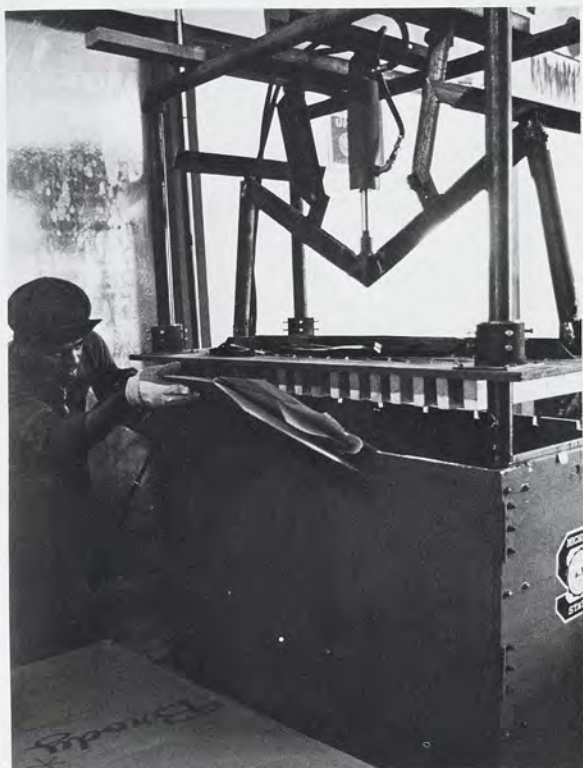

Waste Control Authority, an operation devoted to recycling paper, cardboard and plastic, began Fall Term 1972 with three student employees and a rented U-Haul trailer. The program has expended to over 80 student workers and four vehicles.

A new phase of WCA, Project Recovery, will save the university money and provide more student employment opportunities. The project will employ workers for a new warehouse and for waste pick-up. Waste is delivered to the warehouse where it is sorted before being bailed and sold to companies.

Waste Control has 13 collection sites on and off campus and about 300 waste barrels in campus offices. Off campus, the Authority has three collection bins for glass and one for cans.

Student Union Building

The Union Building serves all students, employees, alumni and guests of MSU. Facilities available at the Union include a grill, cafeteria, browsing library, newsstand, postal office and billiard room. The ticket office in the lobby is a familiar sight to students who have slept outside waiting for it to open in the morning. The Union also has private dining rooms, meeting rooms, lounges and a ballroom.

DPS — U and the Law

The Department of Public Safety provides several services for MSU. Police officers patrol campus in order to keep activities under control. Often the department conducts programs on self-defense for interested students.

The Records Office issues all permits and gate cards. Students and faculty-staff members must register their cars, motorcycles and bikes here if they plan to operate them on campus. This office also handles complaints about all student parking violations.

During Fall Term 1975, the department will move to a new building which is being built near the Audiology and Speech Sciences Building. The quonset huts, those "temporary" shelters which have housed the department for years, will soon be destroyed.

Campus Mobility Improving for Handicapped

Handicapped students and faculty-staff members have special problems as they try to move around campus. In the past year, MSU has made several changes that make mobility easier. Ramps and curb cuts are the most noticeable of the changes. The Office of Programs for Handicapped Students has been instrumental in planning many of the ramps and curb cuts as MSU starts the construction of new buildings.

The University provides transportation for those confined to wheelchairs at the cost of about $160 per term to the individual. The van used for this is outdated and does not accommodate all of the wheelchairs. It is hoped that in the near future better lifts can be purchased.

Blind students at MSU were presented with braille maps this year, making the maze of sidewalks on campus less confusing. The maps, made at the Michigan Transcribing Service at Southern Michigan Prison, in Jackson, cover the central area of campus.

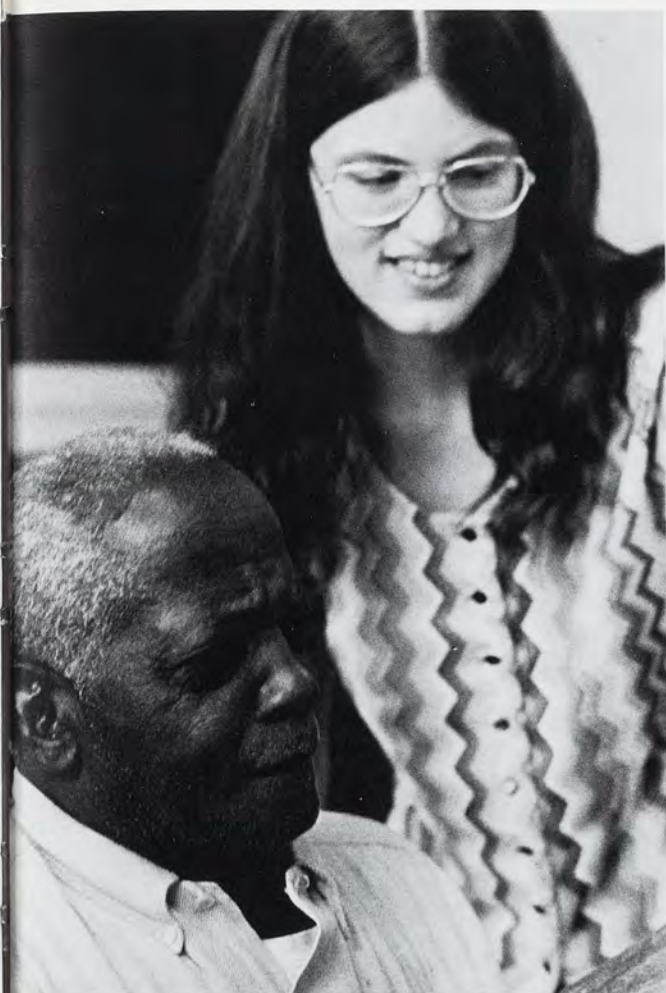

Above: A bus for the handicapped, from Colorado, is demonstrated as a possibility for future use in the Lansing area.

MSU Volunteers: A Rewarding Experience

Student volunteers at the Ingham County Medical Care Center plan special activities for the 185 residents. Group interaction is encouraged through programs like Horticulture Therapy. Volunteers also give individual attention by helping the residents with personal matters such as letter-writing.

The MSU Volunteer Bureau places students in more than eight different programs. These vary from group projects to one-to-one relationships. Some volunteers work with organizations like the YWCA or the Boys' Club. Becoming a Big Brother/Sister or working as a Volunteer Probation Officer gives opportunities for individual work with juveniles.

The Volunteer Action Corp is a group of students who help local people in need of painting, raking or moving jobs. The Corp usually needs a day or an evening to complete a project.

ATHLETICS

Spartans Back to the Big Time

It was a typical autumn day in early November. Spartan Stadium was overflowing, filled to the extreme. Over 80,000 people were in attendance, and millions more sat in front of their color televisions opening beers, chewing on potato chips, preparing themselves for another Ohio State victory. But something happened between the kick-off and the final gun. Some forty men, all dressed proudly in green and white, came together to prove they were a football team. Some forty men beat the unbeatable. Some forty men sent out a nationwide message — Michigan State is back!

There was more to the season than the Ohio State game. MSU opened with a 41-7 rout of lowly Northwestern and then shut-out Syracuse 19-0. A 56-14 shellacking from UCLA left the Spartans bruised and battered; but against a highly-ranked Notre Dame team State fought back unmercifully after giving the Irish two easy touchdowns in the first half, only to lose 19-14. In nearby Ann Arbor the Spartans again gave up early TD's and lost to arch-rival U of M 21-7. The trip to Illinois resulted in a disappointing 21-21 tie, but the team returned home to annihilate Purdue 31-7 in front of an enthused Homecoming crowd.

At Wisconsin, State continued its flawless play, defeating a good Badger squad 28-21 before facing number one ranked Ohio State. The Spartans edged Archie Griffin and company 16-13. State then beat a scrappy Indiana team 19-10 and demolished Iowa 60-21 in the final contest of the year.

Michigan State finished third in the Big Ten with the tie against Illinois keeping them from a three-way tie for the championship. MSU also ended the year ranked in the nation's top twenty. For the Spartans there was no trip to Pasadena in 1974, but next year ...

The year was 1949 and the United States was a nation returning to peace-time stability. Michigan State was still a college known for its agricultural excellence, not its liberal arts program. It was the time of "Biggie" Munn and his football powerhouses. It was the year of a new ice rink, billed as one of the finest in the nation. It was the year of Demonstration Hall.

It is now 1975, and we are a nation fighting a slumping economy. MSU is a university moving out of the shadow of the University of Michigan. Demonstration Hall is a crumbling relic of a past era. It is unsuitable for such a progressive school. So a new arena has been constructed, the Clarence L. "Biggie" Munn Ice Arena.

The rink is the newest ice-skating facility in the country, seating over 6300. Every seat in the complex offers a clear view of the ice, whether it be a Steve Colp break-away or a brilliant save by goalie Ron Clark. The arena will also serve as the largest plantings project on campus. The Munn Arena has become another reminder to campus visitors that this just isn't Cow College anymore.

Spartans Fizzle Out, End Season in 5th Place

Hockey caught on like wildfire on campus this past season. With an MSU team that was number one in the nation for a major portion of the campaign and with the opening of Munn Ice Arena, this enthusiasm was quite naturally expected.

The Spartans started their season by winning 7 of their first 9 outings including two key, away victories over Michigan Tech. After Bowling Green edged the Spartans 5 to 4 it was uphill for the hockey team as they won 11 out of their next 12 clashes. The tough third-period play that the Spartans became known for ended with injuries to center Steve Colp and defenseman Kelly Cahill. Then the balloon burst and the Spartans proceeded to drop 8 of their last 11 games to plummet from first down to a fifth place finish in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association, WCHA.

In the post-season action the Spartans faced Wisconsin and earned a berth into the second round of the WCHA playoffs by defeating the Badgers 7 to 4 after losing 5 to 4 in the third period the night before. With that victory the Spartans clinched a bid at the finals as they tallied the most goals in the series.

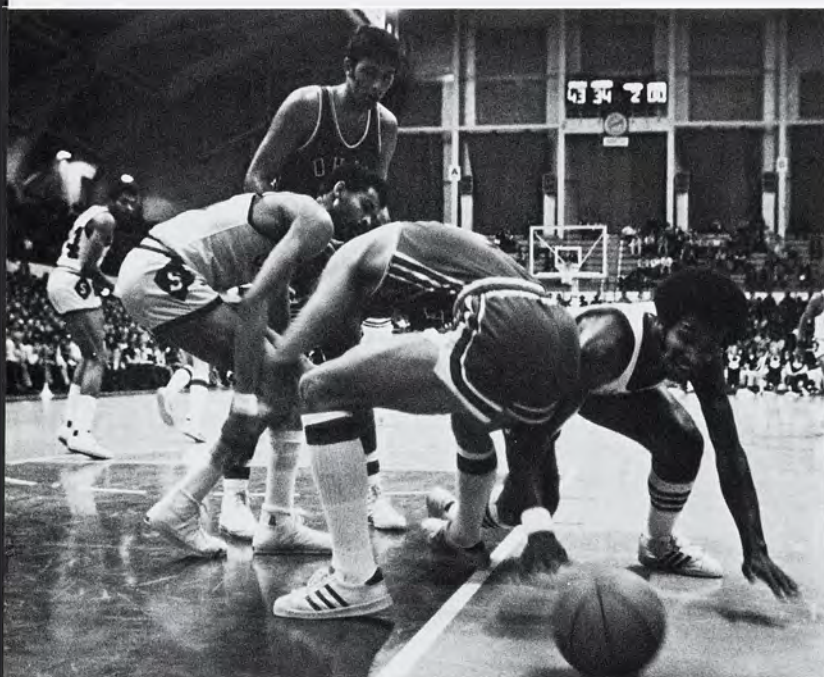

State Starts Fast and Then . . .

Michigan State's basketball team opened the season with the specter of Mike Robinson, the graduated all-time leading scorer in Spartan history, hanging over their heads. Could MSU compile a winning season without Robinson's scoring punch? The team answered that question quickly, sweeping their first five opponents and finishing Christmas break with a 6-2 record. It seemed State had survived Robinson's graduation and were on the way.

But down in the lockerroom a number of the players were unhappy with Coach Ganakas and his starting lineup. A freshman from nearby Holt, Jeff Tropf, had captured a starting spot some of his teammates felt he did not deserve. This and other petty grievances came to a head before the Indiana game, resulting in the suspension of ten varsity members. Surrounded by a screaming sell-out crowd, the ten walked out of Jenison a few minutes before the opening tip, leaving Ganakas with a motley crew of JV's and Tropf to face the likes of Quinn Buckner and Steve Green. The Spartans of the day were no match for the number-one Hoosiers, losing by the largest margin in MSU history.

A day later the ten were reinstated and the participants "kissed and made-up." It was back to basketball and winning. But can the 6500 avid fans forget that the suspended varsity left them and the rest of the team alone to face the toughest test MSU would receive all year? And can they forget how determined the JV's and Tropf played while those on full-rides sat in Benny White's apartment without the time or the inspiration to wear the green and white?

Hustle and Tough 'D' Make up for Lack of Height

In the land of the giants and the sport of the giants the Spartans are not about to brag about height, but their record is something to brag about. With two devastatingly great jumpers in the forms of center Lindsay Hairston and forward Terry Furlow the Spartans have proven a basketball team does not win by height alone. A balanced attack of playmaker-guard Bill Glover, hustler Pete Davis at the other guard and high scorers Hairston and Furlow made for a tough team.

After getting plastered by Indiana during the walkout, the return of the team brought on two back-to-back victories over Ohio State and Michigan. A hot shooting percentage of .640, a season high, provided the spark for that victory. The Spartans were on the road next and continued their away-game slump by dropping games to Minnesota and Iowa. After those two crushing defeats they went on a rampage, winning 5 of their next 6 games. These victories included a 105 to 87 win over Wisconsin, a 54 to 50 victory over Northwestern in what proved to be a defensive battle, and wins over cold shooting Illinois and Ohio State for a second time. The biggest win was over the fighting Irish of Notre Dame. The final score down in South Bend was 76 to 73. Then it was on to Ann Arbor where after jumping out to a 12 to 4 lead early in the game the Spartans fell behind and lost by 12 points, snapping a five-game winning streak.

In the land of the giants the MSU Spartans proved to be giant killers. Next year with many returning lettermen the giant killers will be tough.

Freshmen Find Success

The Michigan State swimming team coming off an exceptional recruiting summer finished near the top of the highly competitive Big Ten, placing behind perennial powerhouses Indiana and Michigan. Coach Richard Fetta successfully combined a group of experienced veterans and talented freshmen to produce a team that won 6 of 9 dual meets. Behind the swimming of junior Bruce Wright, freestyler sophomore Mark Outwater, backstroker and upperclassmen divers Barry Van-Amberg and Tom Benson, the old guard held its ground; but the youngsters were not to be outdone. Led by Floridian John Apsley, long distance freestyler Greg Forman and diver Jesse Griffen the rookie swimmers scored their share of the points. Fetta can afford to look to the future, and possibly to a day when the Big Ten title will lie in East Lansing and not in Bloomington, Indiana.

At Old Ballgame Litwhiler is King

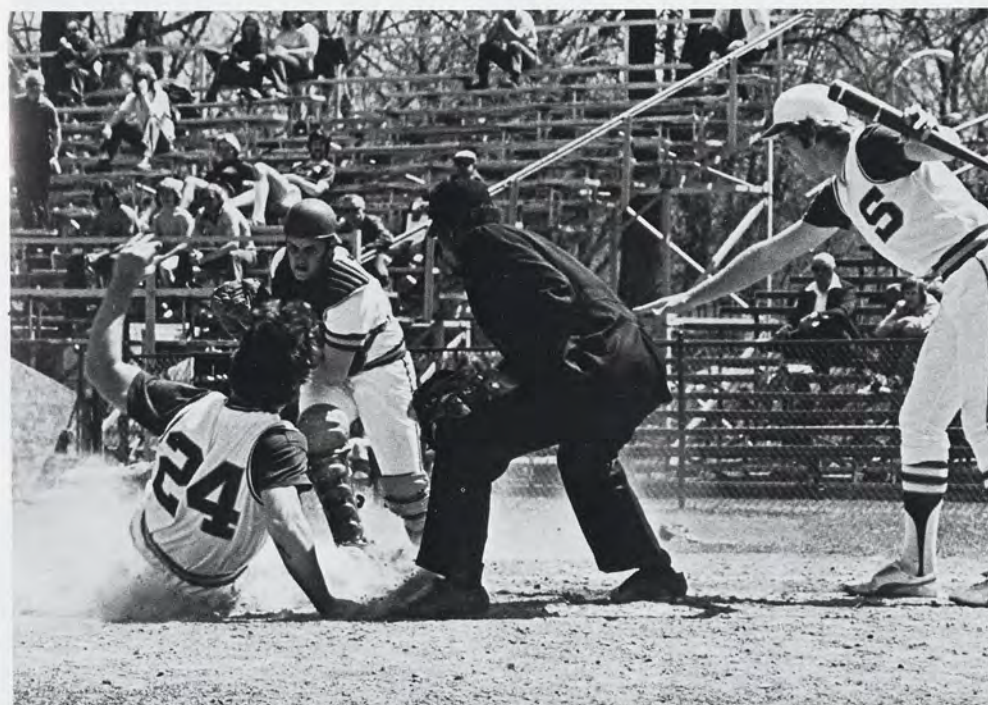

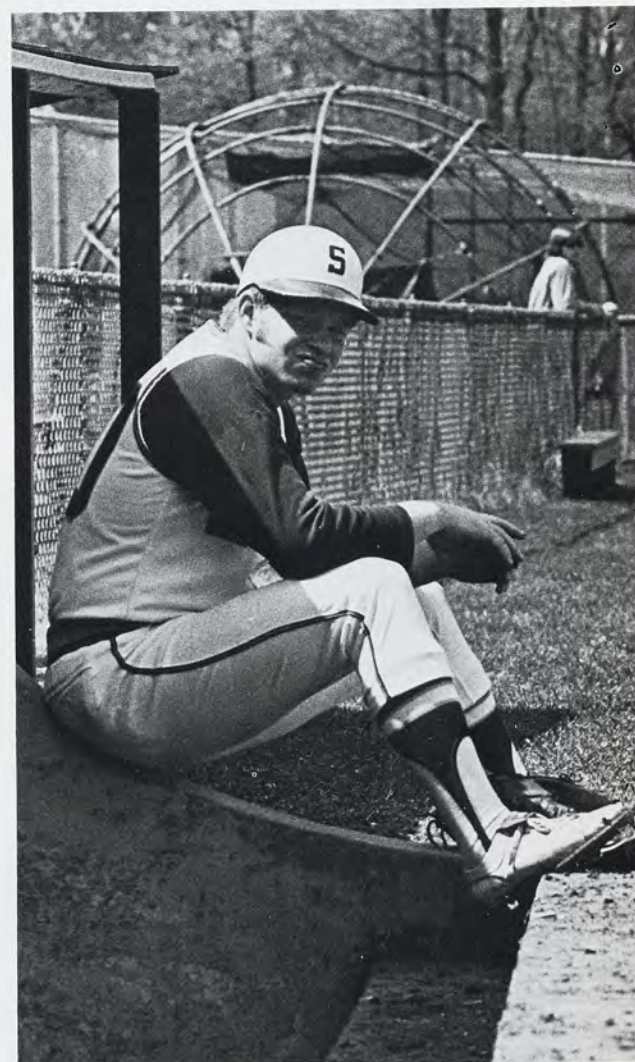

Danny Litwhiler is a perfectionist. He is also one of the winningest baseball coaches in the nation and his '74 Spartan team proved him again.

The Spartans came through last spring with a fine 23-16-1 record; yet for this fine showing they placed a mere sixth in the Big 10. This was due to a 7-8 record in league play. The Spartans lost 8 of their first 15 games because of cold pitching. But the old arms came up with 11 victories in 16 games during April. For the rest of the campaign the Spartans played .500 baseball. Capping the season, catcher Dale Frietch was selected Academic All American and coaches' All-American.

With 16 returning lettermen Coach Litwhiler predicts, "we'll be in the race next year."

Oops! Spartans Boot Season Finale for Only Loss

The booters proved to be quite a soccer power this past year as they went undefeated in their first 10 outings and lost only the season finale to number one rated Indiana, 3 to 0. Although the Spartans were not a high scoring team their defense made up for their lack-luster offense. Fine goaltending by sophomore Gary Wilkinson and a tough defense earned the Spartans the honor of giving up the fewest number of goals of any team in the Midwest Soccer Association.

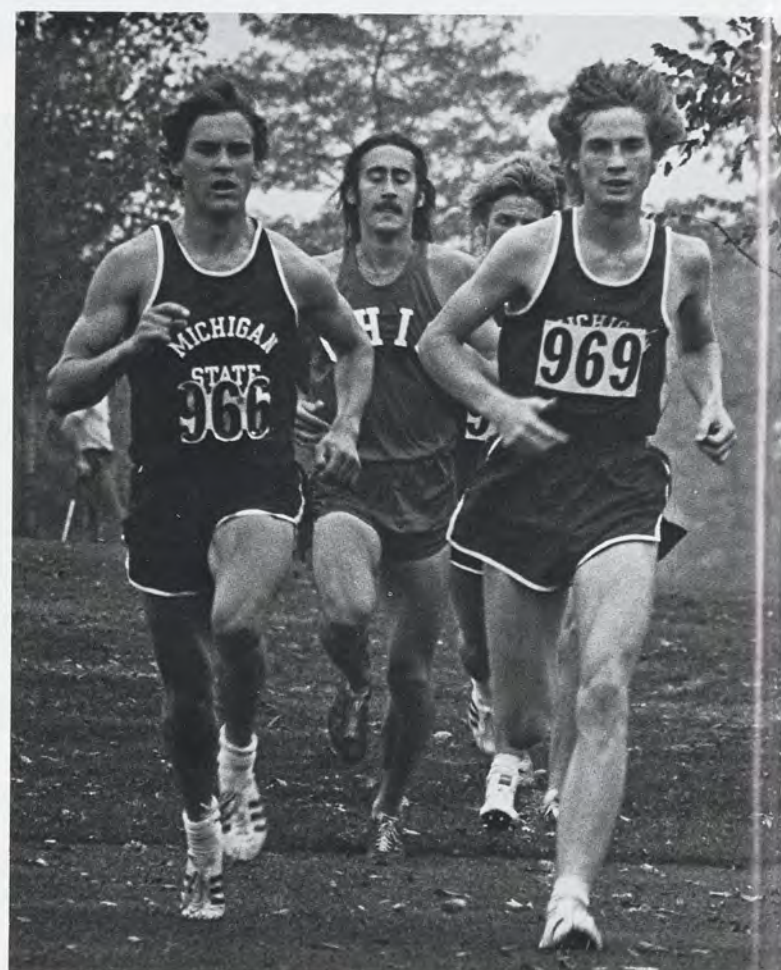

The Spartans began this season by winning their first three games including a 7 to 0 romp over Eastern, before tying always tough Oakland University. In their next 7 games the booters came up with 5 victories, including tough 1 to 0 victories over Michigan and Ohio State. Then with an undefeated season within their grasp they lost their campaign final. Halfback Phil Smith was given an honorable mention on the All-Midwest Soccer Association team; he was one of three players in the state of Michigan to receive such an honor.

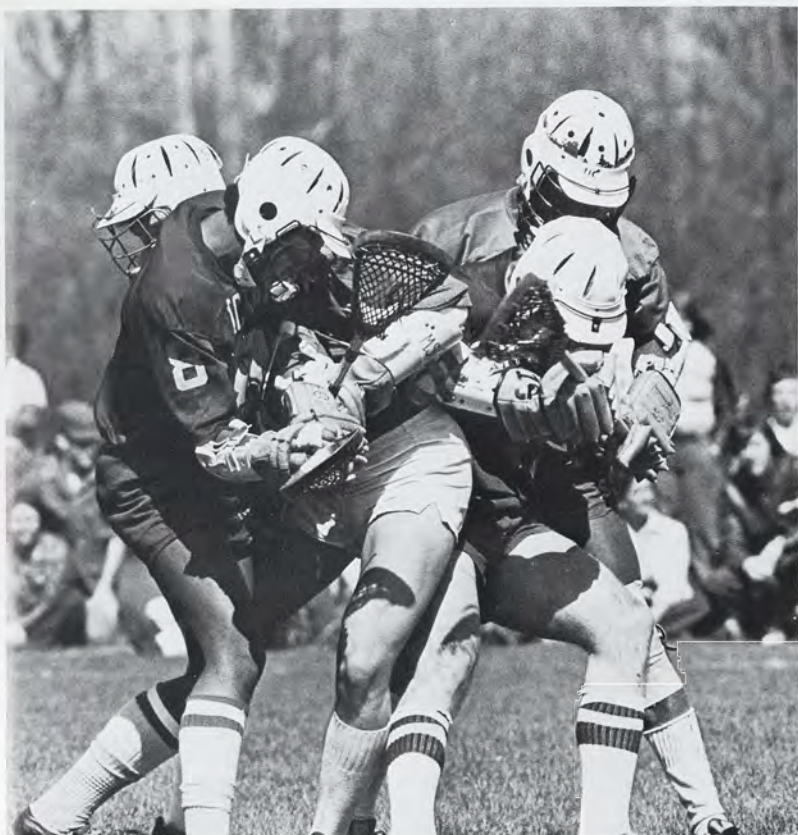

Some new faces will soon be seen on the booter's schedule including some nationally ranked teams, but Coach Rutherford commented, "We'll be a better team next year. My boys aren't strong, but they are conditioned."

Lindsay Leads Harriers

Off in the distant mist a lonely harrier moves over the moist turf of the Forest Akers Golf Course. His face is hidden by the steady drizzle. Perhaps it is sophomore Herb Lindsay, leading the Spartans to a win, and setting another of his course records. Lindsay finished third in the Big Ten championships, gaining a berth in the NCAA districts and ultimately reaching All-American status. Or is it Jeff Pullen, a freshman who stepped into varsity prominence immediately and gained a district spot with his fine performances? Other runners quickly come into view. Fred Teddy, Amos Brown and Stan Mavis push to the tape, securing a Spartan victory. Coach James Gibbard waits anxiously as his charges compile a note-worthy 4-1-1 dual meet record and a credible fourth place Big Ten finish. Gibbard, head coach of five years, leaves the course with a smile, well aware he has all of his lettermen returning for the '75 campaign. The team's record affirms Gibbard's talents and the success of his rebuilding program, which he hopes will culminate in MSU's thirteenth Big Ten title next season.

Lacrosse Looks Ahead

The Spartan lacrosse team suffered through another disappointing season, winning five and losing seven. Coach Fred Hartman had predicted a winning record in '74. With key veterans returning, his optimism was well-founded; but as his team will attest, experience does not assure victories. Although the team fared poorly, many individuals achieved stellar status. Goalie Ron Herbert continued his excellent play in the nets and once again was acclaimed as one of the nation's finest goal-tenders. Co-captains Val Washington and Jon Kudnufsky acted as the catalysts for the experienced veterans and the unsure newcomers. Washington also added to his career scoring mark set back in 1973. If a season can be judged on individual performance, the lacrosse team was successful. But in team sports, the team wins or the team loses. This team lost seven times too often.

Tennis Team Breaks Even

The netters showed some signs of improvement last spring. This was due to the consistent play of number one single's man Larry Stark and freshman Brian Smith.

The team lost their first three outings. They ended this losing streak by winning in 6 of their next 8 tourneys, but the streak ended in Columbus as the Buckeyes edged the Spartans. The next day the netters lost to the Hoosiers. The Spartans then redeemed themselves by winning the season finale over Western Michigan. Their final record was 7-7 and they finished sixth in the Big 10.

Coach Stan Drobac has two returning lettermen to build on next year. Freshman Brian Smith who finished second in the Big 10 championships is one.

Grapplers Show Improvement

Pat Milkovitch came through with another fine individual season record. The grapplers were very deadly in the 190-lb and heavy-weight spots with senior Scott Wickard and Larry Avery providing the punch. Another bright spot on the team was freshman find, Dennis Brighton, who wrestled at 134 lbs.

The grapplers led off the season with victories over Penn State and Michigan. The winning streak ended as the always tough Hawkeyes of Iowa State defeated the Spartans. In their next 7 matches four easy victories were recorded along with a tough 19-18 loss to Iowa.

G-Men Are Up Up and Away

Jenison Fieldhouse was packed when the men's and women's gymnastics teams combined for a dual meet against Penn State. Bright spots in the meet were Rich Stout in the floor exercises and freshman Jeff Rudolph on the horizontal bar.

As for the rest of the season the Spartans dropped 4 of their first 5 meets. The lone victory was over the ever-loved Buckeyes of Ohio State.

Despite a poor start and what proved to be the beginning of a dismal season, gymnastics turned out to be a great spectator attraction. Coach George Szypula hopes for more strength next year.

Through the efforts of Dr. Nell Jackson, women's athletic director, and the gradual increase in funds allocated to the female athlete, Michigan State's women's program has become one of the finest in the nation. The individual teams have responded to the program's overall success with several Big Ten championships and numerous winning seasons.

The tennis team, for the second consecutive year, took the Big Ten title with a brilliant performance in the conference meet. Susan Selke won the singles championship, leading the team throughout the season. MSU's record was 7-1, with the lone loss coming at the hands of Ohio State.

The women's golf team also won their second back-to-back championship. Coached by Mary Fossum and captained by Manono Beamer, the Spartanettes captured three tournament titles, including their own Spartanette Invitational and finished the year undefeated in dual meet competition.

Women's Program Worthy of Applause

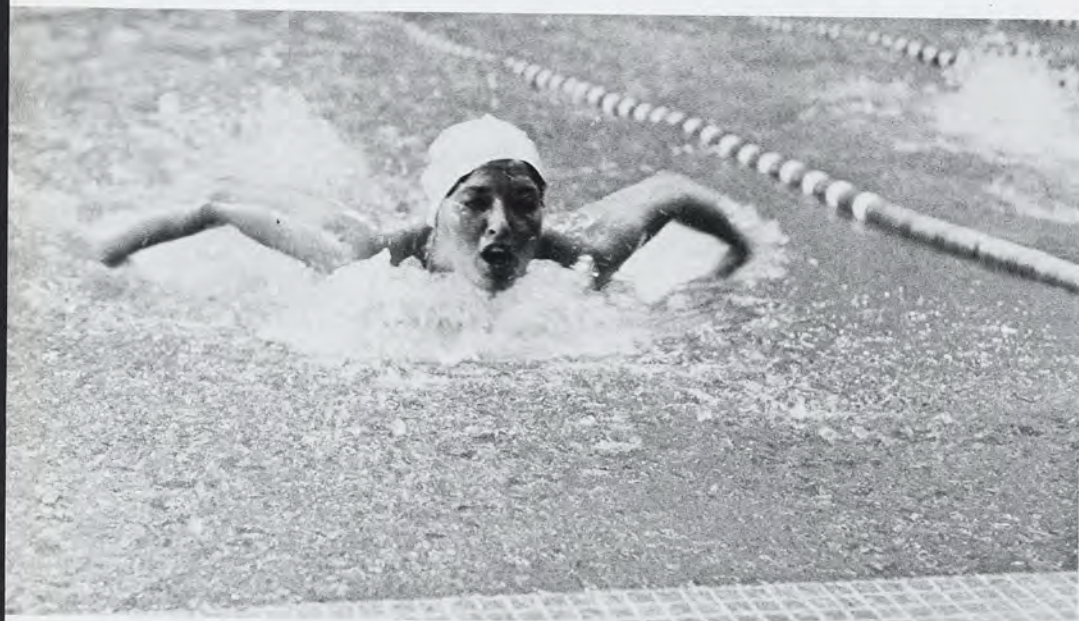

Women's track is not yet a Big Ten sport, but that did not stop the powerful MSU team from defeating their conference opponents on the way to another successful campaign. Running in five invitationals the Spartanettes came home with four first-place trophies.

The State women's softball team managed to win the Calvin Invitational Tournament and place ninth in the College World Series, while compiling a fair 14-13 win-loss record. Senior Connie Bunch led her team during the Series, batting a solid .500 to place third among all participants.

Women Excel in Winter

MSU women's sports are here to stay. This year's winter sports which included basketball, gymnastics, track and swimming produced many romping victories and fine athletes.

In basketball senior forward Linda Stoick averaged 23 points a game. A fine team effort made for a devastating 84-23 victory over Notre Dame. In gymnastics Ann Weaver was consistent all season long. On the swimming team hard work made for such overwhelming victories as their 93-27 pasting of Oakland. In track Ann Forshee and Karen McKeachie were strong in distance running.

All in all, the Spartanettes put together an impressive '75 winter campaign.

IM — The Fun Means More Than the Final Score

The athletic program at Michigan State University goes beyond the football stadium, the Big Ten, and the sellout crowds. More MSU students participate actively in some facet of intramural athletics than in all of the intercollegiate sports combined. In fact, both of the intramural buildings were so packed university officials were forced to close the facilities to guests, requiring a State ID for admittance. While this solution may have helped the problem, it has definitely not been alleviated. The crowded gyms and the absence of empty handball courts both attest to the success of the intramural program.

Alpha Phi is much more than just an organization. To us the members of Beta Beta it's sharing, love and a chance for friendships to grow. Alpha Phi means scholarship, sisterhood and involvement not only with ourselves but with the community. We were rated second in scholarship; but we go much further than that with serenades, Dad's Day, Mom's Day and holiday parties while still maintaining high enthusiasm in rush.

The appearance of national figures highlighted an extremely exciting year of activities for the men of Beta Theta Pi. William O. Douglas, a Beta alumnus and the longest serving member on the U.S. Supreme Court, visited us in commemoration of Law Day. On a different note, Stephen Stills stopped in to campaign for Bob Carr for Congress. The year 1975 marks our chapter's silver anniversary. With the concerted efforts of all brothers and little sisters, the next 25 years should prove an even more significant era in the history of Beta Theta Pi at MSU.

The Michigan State Chapter of Delta Chi recently celebrated its 40th year of existence on Jan. 5. The 40th anniversary was marked by increased membership, scholastic success, and widespread individual accomplishments on the part of our brothers. Social concerns and service projects taken on by the brothers of Delta Chi included the Mothers' March of Dimes campaign last spring and various efforts to aid the MSU volunteers. Our brothers also collected for muscular dystrophy in the spring.

Delta Delta Delta has been involved in several philanthropic projects in the past year. We gave a Thanksgiving party for St. Vincent's Home for Children, painted rooms for the elderly and sang to Sparrow Hospital children's ward on Halloween. We had women involved in Pan-Hellenic Council, ASMSU, college advisory councils, President's Advisory Council, a variety of university choruses and bands, Orchesis, Volunteer Bureau, Block and Bridle, and Promenaders. All told, the women of tri-Delta involved themselves in a variety of university activities and still held a top rating scholastically among sororities.

The brothers of Delta Sigma Phi were on the upswing in 1974, especially in sports. After a couple of years of teams unable to get it together, they did in 1974. The softball team went into the division finals while the football team went all the way to the championship game. Also, membership in the fraternity was on the way up in '74. With well attended All-Greek TG's in the spring and this year in the fall, the Delt Sigs are looking forward to another good year in 1975.

This past year has been one filled with activities for Kappa Alpha Theta. Homecoming was a great success for us with Betsy Wells, one of our senior members, as a representative on MSU's Homecoming court. Term parties, TG's, exchange dinners and rush functions kept us both excited and involved this year.

ΣAM

sigma alpha mu

Again Sigma Alpha Mu is continuing on an innovative path that began several years ago. We made new additions to our unique apartment complex style of living. These additions have helped us improve scholastically, financially, and fraternally. We have implemented new ideas in our pledging program, social activities and our overall outlook. All of these have made additional contributions to our recent rapid growth.

sigma chi

In the past year, Sigma Chi sponsored a Muscular Dystrophy drive and staged a "mock disaster" for the MSU Emergency Medical Technicians program. We continued to support Wallace Village — a treatment and rehabilitation center for minimal brain damage children and assisted Multiple Sclerosis and the American Cancer Society. Because of our philanthropy program, athletic achievements and responsible leadership, we received our second significant chapter award from Sigma Chi National.

Rifle Team

The Army ROTC Rifle Team competes in Smallbore rifle competition through the Southwestern Michigan — Northwest Ohio ROTC Rifle League. Competition within the league is conducted under a system similar to Olympic shooting and consists of firing in the prone, kneeling, and standing positions. In addition to their regular competition schedule, non-league matches at the University of Kentucky and Eastern Michigan University round out the team's activities for the 1974-75 school year.

Rangers I

Ranger I is made up of highly motivated cadets of Army and Air Force ROTC at MSU. At meetings and in the field, Rangers strive for excellence in small unit tactics and leadership. High standards of physical conditioning and military training enable the Rangers to prove their motto: Rangers Lead the Way.

Spartan Guard: B. Antis, CO, L. Hatten, T. Logan, T. Prosser, M. Youngren, Advisor: LTC Brokow.

Military Science

The Military Science Department at MSU provides the opportunity for dynamic leadership and management training for men and women cadets. The academic program is supplemented by numerous extra-curricular activities to broaden the scope of the program and provide varied experiences to suit the students' tastes.

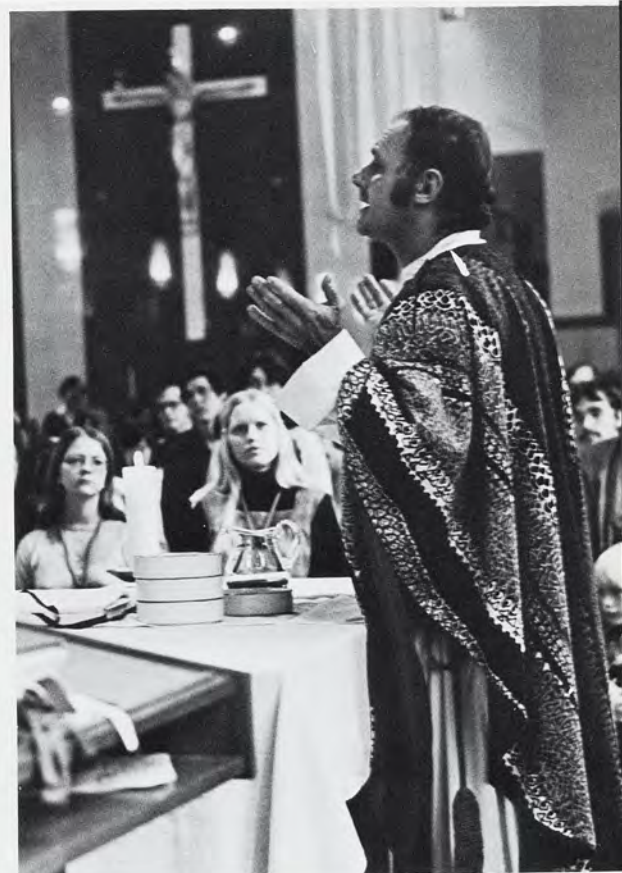

St. John's

St. John's is many people — students, spouses, children, faculty — sharing activities and events that focus on faith-in-community and developing spiritual values. A staff of eight, made up of both religious and lay people, coordinates some of the central activities, such as Sunday and daily liturgies, courses in religious education, week-end experiences in Christian living, action and discussion groups in various areas of concern. Many other things happen because of a real interest: music groups, prayer gatherings, marriage encounters, faculty discussions, women's groups, ski and canoe trips, potluck suppers, and social action projects.

Two facilities house some of these activities: St. John's Student Center at 327 M.A.C. Ave., where the main offices are located, and St. John's East at 4828 S. Hagadorn, serving as a center primarily for those on the east side of campus.

Other work for the yearbook is done on a commission and/or volunteer basis.

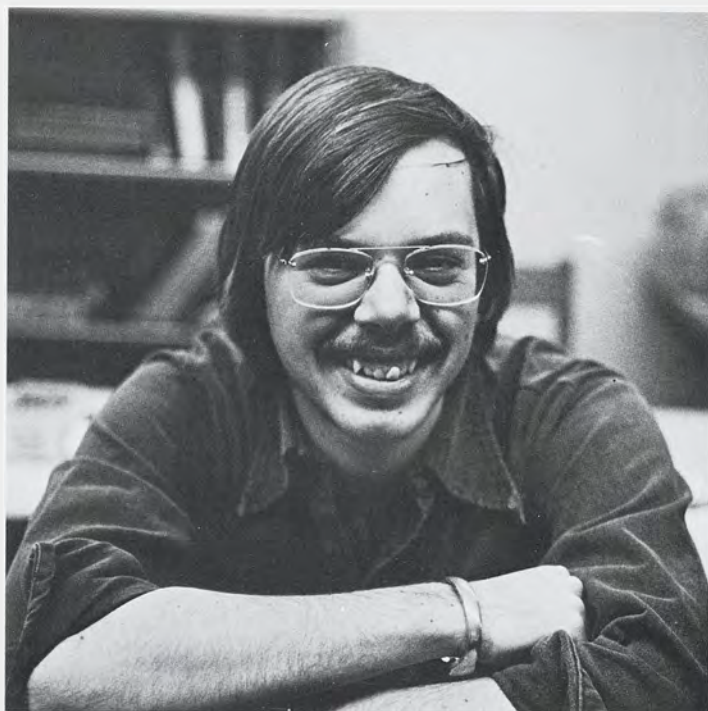

The Wolverine office is located in Room #30 of the Student Services Building on the Michigan State campus, phone 355-8263. Advance subscriptions to the Wolverine are available Fall term each year. Senior pictures are taken in a Union Building studio, phone 353-5292, during the Fall term only. They appear in the Wolverine at no cost to the student.
