The proper way to proceed under the circumstances is to present a petition to the Board of Trustees, signed by the entire grocery trade of the town, setting forth the fact that legitimate trade deserves the recognition of the corporation—that the grocery trade buy lots and erect store buildings; that they pay taxes on lots, buildings and stocks; that they build sidewalks and keep them in repair for the convenience of pedestrians; that they sprinkle streets or pay for having them sprinkled; that they contribute to churches, benevolent societies, celebrations and public events of nearly every description: that they are foremost in every good work and are never backward in any movement which tends to build up the community in which they live.

Quinine from a Newspaper Standpoint.

From the New York Tribune.

It may be some consolation to sufferers from malaria to know that there is little if any impure quinine in the market at present. This desirable state of things is not due to any sudden spasm of virtue on the part of druggists, but arises from causes that are purely economical. Quinine is lower in price now than it has ever been; it is selling wholesale at 55 cents an ounce, and said Mr. Roys. "The fact is, many went it is so much cheaper proportionately than into the business without experience, and its usual adulterants, that a loss rather than a profit would result from mixing these with "People are almost certain to get quinine pure this season, no matter where they buy it," said the proprietor of a large drug store. "The most unscrupulous druggist has no incentive to adulterate it now as he did when he used to pay $3 and $4 an ounce for it. Then it paid to mix it with cinchona, which sold for $1 or so an ounce. Yes, that is about the only ingredient used and it has the properties though not the strength of quinine. About the only fault found with a compound of this kind was that it lacked power. Nothing injurious ever resulted from its use nor, in fact, do I know of any substance that would probably be mixed with quinine which might harm the system. The most despicable form of fraud practiced with this drug, is the short weight dodge. This is worked by some of the extreme 'cut-rate' stores and unprincipled dealers. They sell a pill that contains but one grain of quinine for a two-grain pill, thereby making just double the usual profit, which one would think large enough at present. An ounce of quinine costs the retail druggist a little over 50 cents. There are 480 grains in an ounce. At a cent a grain this gives a profit of over $4 an ounce, oxalic acid, and afterwards rinsing thorallowing for the cost of the rice flour and gum-arabic which form the body of the pills as well as for the time required to roll them. Some of the high priced druggists charge two cents a grain, making a profit of about $9 an ounce, or something like 1,800 per cent on their investment. The cheap stores believe. Merchant-He did before-. Stran-I referred to that give one grain instead of ger-Before what? Merchant-Before he two to their customers, make almost as much as this and few of them are ever found

"How do you account for the cheapness of the drug at this time?" was asked.

"Quinine, as you are aware, is derived from Peruvian or Jesuit's bark, obtained from various species of cinchona which grow in the Columbian, Ecuador, Bolivian ried on to such an extent that pure water is

The Countess de la Cinchon, wife of a PIONEER Peruvian viceroy, was cured of a fever by its use, and when she returned to Europe introduced the medicine there about the middle of the seventeenth century. It derived the name cinchona from her. This bark used to be gathered by the Cascarillas Indians chiefly, who obtained it by cutting down the trees that produced it. This, of course, soon thinned out the more valuable trees and such was the reckless stupidity of the Peruvian government that though it put every obstacle in the way of the tree being planted elsewhere, it never attempted by a system of forestry to renew the riches thus improvidently wasted. The result was that quinine became scarcer and scarcer every year; the price of it went up to an extravagant figure; at one time it seemed as if this most important drug was likely to become unobtainable. It was at this time that the East Indian government determined to try to naturalize the cinchona tree in India. To obtask, but Professor Clement R. Markham, Dr. Spruce and others accomplished it, and in a short time a flourishing plantation was yielding large quantities of quinine on the Neilgherry Hills of southern India. The tree has since become naturalized in Java, the mountainous regions of Jamaica and many other places, so that we are almost if not entirely independent of the Peruvian forests for this great febrifuge. It is this increased production of it all over the world, one might say, which is making the drug cheaper and cheaper every year as the demand for it becomes more widespread in this and all other countries where "'Men shiver and shake. Dose, swear and bake'."

Forty-Three Out of Sixty-One.

At the third regular meeting of the State Board of Pharmacy for examination purposes, which was held at Detroit last week, sixty-one candidates presented themselves. #### Peppermint Prospects Not So Good As Month Ago.

Graham Roys returned last week from a trip through the Michigan peppermint district and was seen by a reporter of THE TRADESMAN and questioned as to the status of the crop.

"The appearance of the peppermint crop has changed considerably in the last month. with much of the land in poor condition. Late planting, poor roots and the drouth have changed the prospects to less than an average crop. A Mendon man tells me that he will not have half an average crop. A Florence man says that fields which looked so well four weeks ago must have rain soon or it will be a failure. I am sure that there cannot be more than an average crop, even if rain comes this week."

Beyond Redemption.

"Do you believe in the power of the Holy Almost Instantly Relieved by Using Spirit?" asked a street preacher of a gentleman in the crowd before him.

"I'm sorry to say that at present I do not," replied the gentleman. "Did you ever believe it?" pursued the preacher.

"Yes, several years ago." "Then why not now, dear, dying, sinning brother, why not now?" pleaded the preach-

A MERCANTILE JOURNAL, PUBLISHED EACH WEDNESDAY.

E. A. STOWE & BRO., Proprietors

Office in Eagle Building, 49 Lyon St., 3d Floor. Telephone No. 95.

Entered at the Postoffice at Grand Rapids of

WEDNESDAY, JULY 14, 1886 How to Endorse a Check.

Very few otherwise intelligent and educated people understand how to properly endorse a bank check payable to their order, and few realize the inconvenience they cause by placing their endorsement in an awkward position. An observance of the following rules will enable anybody to place their signature in the proper place:

1. Write across the back-not lengthwise. 2. The top of the back is the left of the

3. To deposit a check, write "For deposit," and below this your name. A clerk not having the power of attorney to sign or indorse checks, can deposit his firm's checks by writing on the top of the back "For deposit only to credit of ----, and below this write his own name.

4. Simply writing your name on the back of a check signifies that it has passed through your hands and is payable to the

5. Always endorse a check just as it appears on the face. For instance, if the check is payable to "G. Read," endorse "G. Read;" if to "Geo. Read" endorse "Geo. Read;" if to "George F. Read" endorse GRAND RAPIDS. "George F. Read." If the spelling of the name on the face of the check is wrong, endorse first just as the face appears, and below the proper way. For instance, the check is payable on face to "George Reade," endorse "George Reade," and below this first indorsement write what it should have been, "George Read."

6. If you wish to make the check payable to some particular person, write "Pay to - or order.

In England all checks are payable to bearer, but in this country all strangers presenting checks for payment must be identified by some one known to the bank.

Medicines in Disguise.

"Do you know," said a bon vivant to a Chicago Mail man as he poured a liberal supply of Worcester sauce over his chop at the club, "that this relish was first introduced as a medicine?" The club man didn't know it. "It was, though. It contains at least one of the most nauseating drugs known, assafætida, and the original formula was evolved by a noted physician for a noble patient, whose high living had impaired his digestion. An effort was made to dis- NIMROD, guise the drugs, and it is generally conceded that the attempt was successful, but they are there all the same." And the stream of information was interrupted while the drug drenched chops were put where they would do the most good, no diminution of appetite following the revelation.

"That is not the only medicine in common use without a suspicion of its origin," he continued. "The famous Eau de Cologne was first put up as a panacea for all the ills that flesh was heir to. It was taken internally and used as a lotion. At the house of the original maker in the ancient city on the Rhine is to be seen the old circulars and labels in Italian and French, setting forth the valueof the cure all. Its remedial effect no proving so great as its elegance as a perfume and as its sale for a medicine began to be restricted by taxes and stamps and licenses, it was sold without any indication of its intended use, and it is now an example of the survival of the fittest. I am told that even now it is used as a 'tipple' by many French and English ladies."

Cheese Two Centuries Old. Washington Despatch to the Boston Herald.

Boyd Winchester, the Consul-General of the United States to Switzerland, has just completed some exhaustive researches in regard to the cheese industry of that country. He has made certain discoveries that the cheese makers of this country will be a little slow to believe. He claims to have seen cheeses that were more than 200 years old. One of the customs that formerly prevailed in the cheese regions of that country, Mr. Winchester says, was for friends of the bride and bridegroom to join in the presentation on their wedding day of an elaborate cheese. This cheese was used as a family register and heirloom on which the births, marriages and deaths were recorded. He says that he has seen some of these "old cheeses" that date back to 1660. In many parts of Switzerland cheese forms the principal diet of the people. He says that new cheese often causes sickness. When this is the case the patient is treated in the homœopathic fashion with old cheese, which generally effects a cure.

Maxims for Merchants.

From the Dry Goods Chronicle. If a man cheats you once it is his fault, but if he cheats you twice it is your fault. The majority of those who engage in businesi, strictly, so-called, fail at least once in their lifetime.

Wisdom in business consists in adopting such rules as tend to make the business an agreeable pursuit.

Books have been called the merchant's repeating clock, to tell him how he goes on. They should be carefully looked after.

There is no position so strong as that of the man who stands upon his head-if he be not induced to the activity of just thinking and clear reasoning he will hardly be coerced

When an agent has deviated from his orders and you do not intend to assent to it, give immediate notice of your dissent. Silence is considered in law an equivalent to a rati-

A merchant who desires to make a wise disposition of his time should so regulate it as to give each of these great sources of happiness-religion, knowledge and businessits proportionate share of his attention.

A merchant should not only be a good judge of the articles in which he deals, but he should also know where they are manufactured, of what, the manufacturer's prices, how bought, and the best markets to buy and sell in.

There is unquestionably an analogy be- At lowest prices at tween all the various pursuits of mankind. Those who have been distinguished for success in business are of the same stamp as those who have been eminent in politics, war, literature or science.

In all cases of credit the seller impliedly promises to deal fairly, and charges a profit proportionate to his opinion of the risk, and the buyer agrees to make a fair representation of his circumstances, to act with such prudence and to live with such economy that he may reasonably hope to pay his bills at maturity.

A merchant who aims to succeed in business must aim at these two points; first, to Dainty A fine revolver with each butt. be sure that he can satisfy a wide demand for the articles he deals in on the lowest practical terms; secondly, that everybody within the proper scope of his business is made aware of his ability and confident of his disposition to do so.

A merchant who resolves, but suffers his resolution, to be weakened by the first counter suggestion of a friend, who fluctuates from opinion to opinion, from plan to plan, and veers like a weathercock to every point of the compass, with every breath of caprice that blows, can never attain to greatness or

Cheese Made from Potatoes.

A foreign paper says that cheese is made from potatoes in Thuringia and Saxony. After having collected a quantity of potatoes of good quality, giving the preference to a large, white kind, they are boiled in a sured in the cauldron, and, after becoming cool, they are reduced to a pulp, either by means of a grater or mortar. To five pounds of this pulp, which ought to be equal as possible, is added one pound of sour milk and the necessary quantity of salt. The whole is kneaded together and the mixture covered up and allowed to lie for three or four days, according to the season. At the end of EST Accident Insurance is this time it is kneaded anew, and the cheeses are placed in little baskets, when the superfluous moisture escapes. They are then Accident Association, of Pittsallowed to dry in the shade, and placed in layers in large vessels, where they must remain for fifteen days. The older these original not to be secured in cheeses are the more their quality improves. Three kinds are made. The first and more common is made as detailed above; the second with four parts of potatoes and two parts of curded milk; the third with two parts of potatoes and four parts of cow or ewe milk. These cheeses have this advantage over other kinds-they do not engender worms; and they keep fresh for a number of years, provided they are placed in a dry situation and in well closed

The Word Bankrupt.

Few words have so remarkable history as the familiar word bankrupt. The money changers of Italy had, it is said, benches or stalls in the bourse or exchange in former times, and at these they conducted their ordinary business. When any of them fell back in the world and became insolvent, his bench was broken, and the name of Cough Cure will not disappoint the most sanbroken bench, or bancho rotto, was given him. When the word was adopted into English, it was nearer the Italian than it now is, being "bankerout" instead of bank-

A Popular Creed.

Dimes and dollars! Dollars and dimes!
An empty pocket's the worst of crimes!
If a man is down, give him a thrust!
Trample the beggar into the dust!
Presumptuous proverty's quite appalling;
Knock him over! kick him for falling!
If a man is up, oh! lift him up higher!
Your soul's for sale, and he is buyer!
Dimes and dollars, dollars and dimes!
An empty pocket's the worst of crimes!

I know of a poor but worthy youth,
Whose hopes are built on a maiden's truth;
But the maiden will break her vows with For a wooer cometh whose claims are these:

A hollow heart and an empty head,
A face well tringed with the brandy red;
A soul well trained in villany's school,
And-cash-sweet-cash he knowth the rule.
Dimes and dollars, dollars and dimes!
An empty pocket's the worst of crimes!

I know a bold and an bonest man,
Who tries to live on the Christian plan;
But poor he is and poor he'll be;
A scorned and hated wretch is he.
At home he meets the starving wife,
Abroad he leadeth a leper's life.
They struggle before the fearful odds,
Who will not bow to the people's gods,
Dimes and dollars, dollars and dimes;
An empty pocket's the worst of crimes!

So get the wealth! no matter how:

"No questions asked," of the rich I trow!
Steal by night, and steal by day,
(Doing it all in a legal way);
Join the Church and never forsake her,
Learn to cant and insult your Maker;
Be hypocrite, liar, knave and fool;
But don't be poor! Remember the rule;
Dimes and dollars, dollars and dimes;
An empty pocket's the worst of crimes!

How to Select a Ham.

Do not select too lean a joint. The fat of a ham is often considered so much waste weight; so it may be in many families, but one would not buy a very lean piece of beef for roasting; it would surely be dry and tough when cooked. A well fed and quickly fatted pig will furnish tender, juicy and fine flavored meat. Bear this in mind and you will be willing to lose a little extra fat for your gain in the superior qualities of every other ounce of the fish. Let the joint be well rounded and plumb rather than thin and flat, and see that the skin is thin and pliable.

"Sounded the Warning."

From the Saranac Local.

The city of Grand Rapids has a class of men who fondly imagine that the world was created for their especial benefit. This class, fearing that unless a celebration of some sort was advertised for the Fourth in and sell for 12c. that city, the rural towns might have a large turn out, got up a snide program and with the aid of the daily papers, drew in a large crowd. Of course these people were disgusted, but the object was attained-Grand Rapids got their spending money. THE TRADESMAN sounded the warning of the imposture and for it deserves due credit.

Grand Rapids Dairy Board of Trade.

ids Dairy Board of Trade, held on Monday, the offerings consisted of fifty full cream cheese June make, and twenty-five tubs creamery butter. The cheese was bid in at 7 cents and the butter sold for 151/4 cents.

J. C. B. Galer, of Ingersoll, Ont., and J. H. Murdaugh, of Croswell, write that they will attend the meetings of the Board whenever there is sufficient quantity of cheese offered to make an export shipment.

The Grocery Market.

Business is only fair and collections partake of the droutht somewhat. Sugars are without marked change. Package coffees have been advanced 1/2 cent. Other articles in the grocery line are about steady.

Oranges are about out of market. Lemons are in good demand and fair supply. The market is firm. Bananas are in good supply and fair to fine in quality. Candy is steady. Nuts are steady.

Had to Take it Off.

From the Philadelphia Herald. "Mamma," she said, "I don't like the way this bustle sets."

"Neither do I," was the prompt reply.

"And, besides, your father is swearing about the rat trap being lost, so you must really the rate of the rate o take it off."

Good Words Unsolicited.

"THE TRADESMAN is a fine paper." am pleased with it. I consider it the best paper of the kind I have ever seen."

ful to traveling men. C. B. Howard, formerly on the road for Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., of Chicago, has engaged to travel for the Plumb & etc. Lewis Manufacturing Co.

A. A. Howard, of Coldwater, was in town Monday on his way to Muskegon, where he will spend several weeks with friends. He will spend several weeks with friends. He was accompanied by his wife, A. F. Peake -he of the white hat. Mr. Howard represents the Merrick Thread Co., of Holyoke, Mass.

C. Crawford wishes it understood that he participated in the base ball game at the traveling men's picnic. And THE TRADES-MAN might add that had it not been for Mr. Crawford, Mr. Cole's side would not have won so signal a victory over the cohorts of the opposing nine.

The drummer's profession is prehistoricat least it dates back to the founding of Carthage, the greatest commercial city of ancient times. It is said that Queen Dido, being conspired against by a family relative, fled from Tyre and landed at the site upon which Carthage was artefward built. Here she erected a palace, and her fame for luxurious living drew after her a train of the merchants of Tyre, who could not afford to lose so valuable a customer as Dido was. Many of them remained at the place in order that they might supply her with the Tyrian purple, and thus it was that Carthage was founded.

India Rubber.

From the Commercial Bulletin.

The change effected in rubber by the vulcanizing process as discovered by Goodyear may be compared to what is wrought in a perishable hide or skin by tanning; it produces an article that has all the valuable properties of rubber in its highest perfection, without the imperfections of the native rubber; it can be made as hard as iron with a beautiful polish almost equal to glass, or it can be made as elastic as the native rub-

In the manufacture of rubber from 3 to 10 per cent. of sulphur and various metallic oxides, chiefly lead and zinc, are combined with it, the quality of the latter depending on the elasticity and other properties required of the article to be manufactured, and to judiciously combine the substances with rubber in suitable proportions to produce the desired results requires great skill and experience. Besides these, honesty on Woodbridge street West. Dealers cordially the part of the manufacturer is also esseninvited to call on us when in town. tial, for it is comparatively an easy thing to introduce mere adulterating substances into the compound, and thereby cheapen the product at the expense of the quality-a process that is not only annoying but also expensive to the consumer.

It is a common error among the many, who are not conversant with the subject, to Having been witnesses of the truly miracu- suppose that rubber, in being made into the various shapes, is melted and run into a mould like iron or lead. Nothing of the sort occurs. Before the discovery of vulcanization, solvents were experimented with, but since that event no solvents have been used; the intermixing is done by machinery, mostly by huge rolls, after the manner of mixing dough for bread, and at no stage up to the time of vulcanizing is the rubber softer than stiff dough. It is pressed and moulded into various forms required.

Flour from Sweet Potatoes.

From the Milling World. Wheat and other grains are likely to have more or less of a rival in the sweet potato. A patent has been issued for a process of treating sweet potatoes for making flour. The object of the invention is to produce a wholesome and nutritious article of diet from the sweet potato-one that will not be liable to become frozen or decayed, and which shall embody all the valuable proportions of the potato, especially the starch and saccharine matter. The sweet potato is a luxury, and when in its natural state and out of season, is difficult to get, except at exorbitant prices, owing to its liability to rot and freeze. This invention designs so to treat the potato that the starchy and saccharine matters, with a quantity of the glutinous portions, may be obtained and readily transported to any portion of the world as a staple product similar to flour; and it being a well known fact that chemical changes which accrue to the liquid portion of the potato in climates other than where it Dry Goods! grew destroy its natural flavor, an essential feature of the process is to quickly evaporate such liquids while the potato is yet in a healthy condition, and reduce it to a flour our own make. A complete or meal which will retain the natural flavor of the esculent. The product obtained according to the invention may be made into puddings, pies, cakes, custards and the like.

Points for Retailers.

From the Dry Goods Chronicle.

Man is the only trading animal in exist-

Let yourself feel a want before you provide against it.

Brand the man who violates confidence and abuses trust as a thief.

The true definition of merchant is, men who live by buying and selling.

"A busy man," says a Turkish proverb,

"is troubled with but one devil, an idle man with a thousand."

Business, in one sense, means employment, or serious engagement, as distinguished from trivial transactions.

Whatever is expected by one side and known to be expected by the other, is to be deemed a part or condition of any contract.

Did you ever know anybody to stick to any kind of business, no matter how unpromising, ten years at most who did not prosper?

It is a general rule of law that whenever a person has power to do a thing he may consequently, as incident to his right, do it by attorney or agent.

There is no success in common life without industry. To have the character for it is the passport to favor, and to practice it gives daily additional power and worth.

Be cautious in sanctioning acts unauthorized by you, even if they are apparently insignificant or to your advantage, as permitting such acts confers an implied authority.

upon the supposed agent.

Those kinds of business are the safest which are concerned in the production, manufacture or sale of articles of commerce, and on which a large percentage of profit can be made, though the cost to the consumer is inconsiderable.

Many young clerks seem to think that when they labor at the employment regularly assigned to them it is all that should be expected. It is probably all that is expected, but the faithful clerk will not neglect opportunities when by a little extra labor he can do his employer service.

A good buyer is a man of few words. He posts himself as to the market, goes to the houses at which he usually deals, and makes his offer as near the market value as he can without comment on the prices of others. If accepted, the bargain is closed; if declined, he doesn't want it, or will look further.

Why is the Wayland cheese better than any other? Because the maker operates the factory on the sweet curd theory, and does not allow the goodness in the cheese to burn up with the acids.

His X's Were Big.

Not long ago a young Boston grocer went out into a northern Massachusets city to establish a grocery on a large and liberal scale, says the Record. He rented a big store, filled it up with electric lights, put an immense and glittering coffee mill in the front window, filled up his store with new goods, stacked up in ingeniously constructed pyramids and the like, and invited patronage with double column advertisements in the daily papers. The trade started in briskly enough, but he soon discovered that his patrons were somewhat interested in the prices that he sold his goods at, as well as ness. There was a rival establishment very like his own, with electric lights, h coffee mill, glittering pyramids of baking powder, boxes, etc., further down the street, and purchasers were continually comparing his prices with the rates in this rival store. One day a male customer, with an open confiding face, came in and remarked:

"What do you sell the best Haxall flour

"Five dollars and a half a barrel."
"But the other store down the street sells it for five dollars."

"Best Haxall, is it?"
"Oh, yes."

"Well," said the new grocer, "they don't sell this kind of flour for five dollars. Did you notice how many X's there were on the barrels down at the other store?"

"There were three, sir."
"Well, I'll sell you this flour for $5 and it has four X's on the band! Do you see?

They can't begin to do that for you!"

The open faced man went out and traveled right over to the other store.

"The man in the new store," said he "offers to sell me the best Haxall flour, with four X's on the barrel, for $5, and your flour hasn't got but three X's."

The grocer scratched his head.

"Did you notice the size of the X's on his barrels?" he finally asked.

"Yes," said the customer. "They were about three inches long.

"Ah, that makes the difference, don't you see. The X's on my barrels are six inches long. Just look at them?"

The customer was convinced, and ordered a barrel delivered at once.

The grocer from Boston is beginning to get an idea of the sort of competition he has to fight, and thinks that when he gets the population well learned he will manage
