COLORED SALESMEN.

The Black Man Beginning to Turn to Mercantile Pursuits.

From the New York Times.

It isn't going to be many a day before New York stores will support colored salesmen. The black man in the metropolis has never ventured far toward getting a foothold in mercantile circles, but there are indications that point to the turning of his attention in that direction. An instance illustrating this came to my notice yesterday. It shows a black man's capacity, and, too, it shows that he may command a custom of his own that storekeepers find profit in.

A gentleman who owns a big clothing store was applied to by a young negro man last month for employment. There was a good deal of ambition in the young fellow, for he asked for a clerkship. He had a fair education, was quick at figures, and was blessed with a tongue that knew no halting. He didn't get the post of salesman that he wanted, but was hired to play the part of general utility man in the establishment at six dollars a week. He did up bundles, ran errands, swept the floors-did general menial service. But he didn't complain. One day, three or four weeks ago, he approached the proprietor with a new proposition.

"I suppose," said he, "that you've got no objection to my drumming up a little trade." The merchant smiled, perhaps a little sarcastically, and assured the young man that he might drum to his heart's content. "And what's the commission?" quoth the very amused, named a very liberal percentage. had to be hired to do the errand running and other things in the general utility line. The young man had time only to receive his friends and show them the store's line of goods. In a moment he had developed into a full-blown salesmen. His commissions were twice that. The proprietor's eyes were wider open than ever they dared peep before. Such push and enterprise, such success, were amazing from such a source. sticks to it. Some of the white clerks objected a little at first, but that sort of prejudice is over now, and ex-errand boy brunette has been put on a salary that would make the heart of many a pale-skinned col-

How Bohemian Glass is Colored. Henrich Schwarz, in Popular Science Monthly.

The ornamentation of the glass is done partly in connection with the exposure in the furnace and partly in the finishing shops, where the work is completed by cutting, polishing, tarnishing, etching, painting and mounting in metal. The glasshouses have at their command a very complete color-scale for transparent, opaque and clouded glasses. But it must not be supposed that a crucible is placed in the furnace for each color, from which glass colored for each ornament is to be made. The colors are worked out by means of what are called pastes, which are kept on hand in sticks or cakes. From pieces of these pastes previously warmed till they are soft, suitable quantities are cut off, laid upon the foundation of white or colored glass, and then spread out by drawing or blowing. By this means only is an economical use of such costly material as gold and silver composition possible. Some of the glasses thus treated-gold, copper and silver glassesremain still little, or not at all colored after the melting, shaping and quick cooling, and do not take on their bright hues until they are reheated. This is the case with the new yellow-silver glass, which continues uncolored after the inter-melting of the silver salt, until it is exposed in the furnace again. Very fine effects are produced by blending or over-running of the paste-colors.

Brief Digests of Recent Decisions in Courts of Last Resort.

PUBLIC OFFICER—SUIT FOR SALARY.

Where a public officer was entitled by law to a fixed salary, but, through no fault of his own, was for a time prevented by his superior from preforming the duties incumbent upon him and earned during that time the wages of another and different employment, the New York Court of Appeals held that in a suit brought to recover his unpaid salary, the officer need not deduct the wages

PROVISION AS TO ARBITRATION.

A building contract contained a provision that disputes with respect to the value of extra work, or of work omitted by direction of the owner, should be determined by arbitration. The owner refused to allow the contractor to finish the work and let the work to another. The contractor brought suit to recover damages for breach of contract, and the Supreme Court of New Jersey held that the provision regarding arbitration was no bar to the action.

CONTRACT BY LETTER-ACCEPTANCE.

Where a contract is to be made by correspondence between distant parties, the writing of a letter or telegram containing a notice of acceptance is not of itself sufficient to complete a contract. The act in such a case must involve an irrevocable element. The letter must be placed in the mail or the telegram deposited in the office for transmission and thus placed beyond the power or control of the sender before the assent becomes effectual to consummate: contract, and not then unless the offer is still standing. So held by the Supreme Court of Kansas.

MUNICIPALITY NUISANCE-USE OF HAND-

the use of a hand-sled upon a street in a city is not per se a nuisance, nor is it a negligent act on the part of a municipality to fail to pass an ordinance against the use of hand-sleds even if the common council has the power to do so, nor is it negligent in the city if it passes the ordinance and it is violated. The suit was brought by the plaintiff to recover damages for injuries received by being struck and knocked down by a PARTNERSHIP-SALE OF INTEREST.

One partner in a firm offered to give a certain sum for the other partner's interest cinnati in the firm, or to sell his own interest for the same sum, concluding with the words, "the party purchasing to give sufficient security for the payment of company indebtedness and for purchase price." This offer was accepted by the other partner "to sell on the terms mentioned." The Michigan Supreme Court held that there had not been a complete sale, and that the first offer was only one of the steps leading to a sale which contemplated that the parties should mee and complete the transaction.

The Michigan Tradesman.

SOLOMON SNOOKS

ol Teachers as Dealers in Stationery. CANT HOOK CORNERS, Sept. 11, 1886. Editor Michigan Tradesman:

DEAR SIR-Fall trade has now opened up in pretty fair shape and smiling prosperity seems to stalk abroad in the land, as you

Do you have any trouble in Grand Rapids from folks selling things that have no business to? We have such up here considerable. The merchants in some of the surrounding towns are kicking at it. It don't seem exactly the thing for folks that don't pay any taxes or rent or anything to take the trade away from men who do pay such

Then there seems to be a disposition to cut in ahead of some one else on most every thing, until some things are cut so fine that nothing is left in them. A few years ago a man could make from three to four cents a gallon on kerosene; but now you cannot even sell it out of a store at one cent a gallon profit, because men go about the country peddling oil right into farmers' cans at a profit of one cent a gallon. It don't seem to help the case any if a merchant reduces the price on things until he can't make enough to buy skim milk for the baby. Some one who has no rent or expenses to pay can undersell him. As a case in point, school teachers are paid good wages to teach our youngsters. They have the use of the school house free of rent to do business in and the customers right before them and under their orders, to sell to. What could be more favorable than the opportunity thus afforded to do a fine business in slate pencils, lead pencils, copy books, scratch books, paper, etc. The teachers in the school at Cant Hook Corners are fully alive to this fact and I must say that Bilson is alive to it, too, as well as myself. Jim Fell might as well try to compete with John L. Sullivan in the prize ring as for us to try to compete with the teachers. For instance, I get on a lot of scratch books that cost me 45 cents a dozen. I make only a small margin selling them at five cents each. No one can sell stationery at a less margin and live; but that does not save me, for the very next day in comes a boy with the inquiry: "How do you sell them scratch books?"

"Five cents each."

"Five cents!" with a look of contempt at me, "why, teacher sells that same book for

"Why don't you buy them of the teacher, then?

"'Cause, I thought maybe you sold 'em Five minutes later, outside, boy says,

"Say Tommy, I wouldn't go in there to buy a slate, if I was you, Old Snooks charges too much for everything."

Fancy the feelings of Snooks, at hearing this, when he remembers that he had to buy in gross lots and discount his bill at that, to make 10 per cent. profit on his slates. This is only a sample and the effects are much worse in other things. In our school the teachers ordered the scholars to use a certain brand of between-lines ruled paper. As soon as I found it out I sent an order down to my wholesale stationers for a ream of it, with sample. It came, and I marked it very low, for I knew the teachers would keep it, too. It so happened that I bought it so much cheaper than they did that I undersold them. But do you suppose I could at them in any such way as that? Not much. They sent off and got a new lot with a green line instead of a red in it and made a proclamation to the school that they would hereafter not be allowed to use the red line. That fixed it, and I've got a lot of unsalable paper on hand.

If I get a certain brand of fead pencils on, the teachers order the scholars to use some other brand and I am getting sick of it. I don't suppose anything of that kind is allowed in Grand Rapids, or else there would be a fuss made.

What I want to know is, whether this state of affairs is legal. Do teachers have the right to run stores in opposition to merchants, thereby hurting the reputation and sales of such merchants? If it is according to law, then I think it high time that we made some move to have it repealed, or something.

Bilson was just in after his mail. Philan der is hot as a flat-iron. He has heard that Snider, the head teacher of our school, has just got on a case of boys' boots and girls' shoes to sell to the children this fall. If this is so, there goes our boot and shoe trade. We must draw a line somewhere, or by the great jingoes! the teacher will put in a coffee mill and run it by the steam from the heaters and furnish families with coffee and tea as well as other family groceries.

Gentlemen of the State Mercantile Congress, what are we going to do about it? SOLIMON SNOOKS,

G. D., P. M. & J. P.

A Natural Conclusion.

A little "fresh air child," who had never seen a cow before, was watching the milking process, with eyes full of astonishment. After looking in silence for some time she drew near and, placing her hand on the cow's distended side, exclaimed: "Why! she's chock full of it, ain't she!"

Grocers' Ass'n of the City of Muskegon

Secretary—Wm. Peer.
Treasurer—John DeHass.
Regular Meetings—First and Third Wednesday ings of each month.
Next Meeting—Wednesday evening, Sept. 21. Kalamazoo Retail Grocers' Association.

Early Closing at Detroit.

From the Detroit Journal.

The grocers who transact business on Third avenue are now having a little excitement over the early closing movement. A large proportion seem to think that the movements of their more aristocratic neighbors on Woodward and other prominent business thoroughfares have nothing whatever to do with them and wish to keep right along doing business at all hours of the night, in the old-fashioned way. D. C. Nichols, who does business on Third avenue, looks at the matter in a different light. however.

"I think it a shame that we can't have as much leisure time as other people," he said to-day. "I do enough business in the daytime to have my nights to myself. I have been to see every grocer on the street and not one of them would agree to close in the evening. This thing of keeping open after night is all nonsense, anyhow. If people understand that stores are going to close they will easily find a way to do their shopping earlier. As it is now, a fellow never knows what hour of the night he will be able to put up his shutters. I have made up my mind to one thing, however. Beginning with September 15, I am going to close promptly at 6:30 o'clock, except on Saturdays.'

Kalamazoo Retail Grocers' Association. KALAMAZOO, Sept. 15, 1886. E. A. Stowe, Grand Rapids:

DEAR SIR-The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Kalamazoo Retail Grocers Association was held at their rooms on Sept. 14, First Vice-President O. K. Buckhout in the chair. Applications for membership were received from three grocers, all of whom

W. C. Davis made a motion, which was carried, that a committee be appointed to visit Mr. Hicks, manager of the Imperial Tea Store, to induce him join the Associa-tion. Messrs. Davis and Scheid were appointed as such committee.

Vice-President O. K. Buckhout appointed Messrs. Van DeKreeke, Bochove, McHugh, Doyle, Davis and Second Vice-President Hugh Beggs as a committee to call upon all members of the Association for the purpose of procuring a perfect list of all dead-beats and hand to Secretary for publication.

G. VanDeKreeke made a motion that all grocers close their respective places of business at 8 p. m. from October 1 to April 15, S87. The motion was carried.

J. Schuster moved that the Secretary, M. S. Scoville, be appointed as delegate to the State Association, held at Grand Rapids, Sept. 21. Also all members were given a cordial invitation to be present.

M. S. SCOVILLE, Sec'y.

The Cranberry Crop at White Fish Point. Several of the most successful cranberry growers in the State are located at White Fish Point, the Northeastern point in the Upper Peninsula. Inquiries as to the present status of this year's crop were sent out about a month ago, but answers have only lately been received from White Fish Point, as follows:

John Clarke—The cranberry crop is light this season. I shall probably have 700 to ever, furnish an iced refrigator car for any $\gamma$ ton. Ships, $14 $\gamma$ ton. Middlings, $15 $\gamma$ ton. 800 bushels. Last year's crop was 500 shipper along the C. & W. M. who has 5,bushels. Berries are better in quality this year, however.

Alex. Barclay-My cranberry crop is just

Wm. Hawkins-According to your wishes, I will give you the present condition of my cranberry crop. The probable yield will be 100 bushels and last year's crop was 100 bushels also. The berries this year are larger than they were last year. The vines are in a healthy condition. There is no insects troubling them.

"Ought to be Refused Christian Burial." From the Tekonsha News.

Traveling grocers are again doing the country. No use to tell the farmers that they are selling inferior goods, give weights and demand high prices, for they delight to be hoodwinked and bamboozled by the oily tongued agents who make them thirk that they have been cheated and defrauded by home dealers. A man who will patronize these traveling hucksters and pay cash for their adulterated concoctions, when he owes his grocer at home accounts of six months' standing, ought to be refused Christian burial when he comes to balance his last acounts.

Necessity for Organization at Fremont. FREMONT, Sept. 18, 1886. E. A. Stowe, Grand Rapids:

DEAR SIR-We have read with much interest the numerous articles and proceedings of the business men's associations given in the columns of the The Tradesman. That it is a grand success, is perfectly evident. The business men of Fremont need the benefits of such an association-at least, we do and its protection is mutual. We hope soon to have an organization here. Sincerely, MERICLE & HOPPER.

"Appreciated by the Trade."

From the Rockford Register. THE MICHIGAN TRADESMAN has completed it third year. A good paper and appreciated by the trade, as is shown by the support it receives.

IT SOARS HIGH.

'Eagle' Coffee Following the Example of Its Namesake.

Age and standing naturally give Messrs. Cody, Ball & Co. a commanding position among the jobbing trade of this market. Recognizing that such a postion, which has been acquired by continuous effort, can be maintained only by the exercise of the greatest vigilance as to the quality of goods handled, Messrs. Cody, Ball & Co. have invariably striven to secure the best and purest goods to be obtained in the country. They have always been noted for their aversion to adulterated goods and fictitious labels, and their influence has always been thrown against inferiority in any department of the grocery business.

Realizing the importance of the trade in package coffees, and the great number of poor brands now in the market, Messrs. Cody, Ball & Co. set about experimenting on the subject, for the purpose of producing a brand which would be uniform in color, strength and taste and possess genuine merit-a brand which would please the palate of the consumer and tickle the purse of the dealer. The result of these experiments, which have been pursued during a period of several months, is the placing upon the market of a new brand of package goods, to be known as "Eagle" coffee. This brand is produced by a blending of the best grades of Rio, Mocha and Java coffees, resulting in a combination which is uniform in every respect and pronounced by competent judges to be ahead of any other package goods on the market. As the aroma of coffee is greatly destroyed by roasting, when exposed to the air, this coffee is roasted in an improved patent air-tight cylinder, which constantly revolves, thereby preventing it from scorching (which renders coffee bitter), and the cylinder being air tight, but little of the aroma can escape; and it is impossible for the gases from the fire to enter the cylinder and injure the flavor of the coffee, as is the case in other roasters. Coffee roasted in this way will go farther and be better flavored than that roasted by any other process, and is consequently cheaper.

Another point of superiority which places this coffee ahead of its competitors is the manner in which it is put up. It is hermetically sealed by a patent process, which preserves the aroma and settles the coffee, thus saving the cost of eggs to settle.

"Eagle" coffee is put up in 60 and 100 pound boxes, a handsome picture card accompanying every package. It sells to the trade at 1/4c less than Arbuckle's coffee, and is frequently preferred to that brand. It has been on the market about two months, but so great has been the demand for the goods, that Cody, Ball & Co. have frequently been compelled to delay in filling orders. Arrangements have now been perfected, however, by which all orders can be filled the some day they are received.

Those who have not yet handled "Eagle" coffee should send for a sample case without further delay.

The Grocery Market.

Business and collections are both excellent. Sugars are a trifle firmer. Coffees continue to advance, package goods having advanced an even cent in the past week. Other articles in the grocery line are without change, although a firmer tendency is manifested in many articles.

Candy is active and firm. Nuts are steady. Few fruits are in market. Oysters are in good demand and prices are without change

The Merchants Dispatch Transportation Co. has taken off the refrigator car running between Hartford and Grand Rapids, on a count of its not paying. The line will, how-000 pounds at one place.

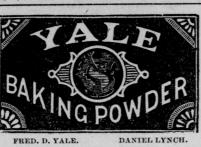

A weak galvanic current which will often cure a toothache may be generated by placmiddling and I shall probably harvest 200 ing a silver coin on one side of the gum and bushels, which is about the same as last a piece of zinc on the other. Rinsing the mouth with acidulated water will increase

Final Arrangements for the State Conven-

A special meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association, held at Sweet's Hotel last Fri- the following: day evening for the purpose of completing arrangements for the coming convention, was attended by about twenty-five members.

Applications for membership in the Association were received from the following grocers, all of whom were elected: Albert |. S. Damskey, 190 Fourth street; B. Wynhoff, 127 Butterworth avenue; P. Scally, 181 Butterworth avenue; Hascher Bros., 79 Straight street; H. VanderVeen, 196 Logan street.

The Secretary read a number of letters from business men, announcing their intention of being present at the convention.

The Committee on Reception was requested to meet at Sweet's Hotel at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning for the purpose of entering upon the work of the day. On motion of A. J. Elliott it was voted to give clerks the privilege of the banquet on the purchase of a ticket. Squires' band was engaged to furnish music during the banquet. Chairman Harris, of the Committee on Arrangements, reported that $450 had been subscribed to meet the expenses of the entertainment feature of the convention, of which sum $430 had been collected.

After a free discussion of the methods deemed best to welcome the outside trade, during which it was evident that the visitors would never have occasion to regret their participation in the event, the meeting adjourned.

E. A. Stowe, Grand Rapids:

DEAR SIR-I am happy to say that we have a full-fledged "Oceana Business Men's Association," having met last night and organized the same. Representatives from Shelby and Pentwater were in attendance and heartily joined hands with us. Both towns would have been with us in full force Article 2 of the bylaws, relating to the election of new members, was amended so as to read: "Provided that he or they be proposed by a member at a regular meeting and elected by a two-third vote of the members present. If your committee has arranged matters for those intending to come, I do not want to disappoint them, as nothing but death or sickness will prevent my coming. I intend, if I can get away, to be with you as early as possible. Yours in haste,

On August 28. Dibble bought a forty acre farm of the Allegan agents for the property, giving them the stock. The mortgage was not put on record, however, until September 10, which enabled Dibble to secure several thousand dollars worth of goods, notably $1,800 worth from Young, Smith & Field, of Philadelphia, and $1,500 from J. J. Bailey & Co.. of the same market. As soon as the news of the filing of the mortgage reached Grand Rapids, creditors began turning their faces toward Burnip's Corners, the result being

The stock, which inventoried at the figure above given, is said to be singularly bright and clean, and to contain no dead stock. Arrangements are being made by the first five secured creditors to foreclose the Olney, Shields & Co. mortgage, which will probably enable them to realize their claims in full. The other creditors will probably receive a proposition for a percentage settlement from Dibble.

Detroit Doings.

The Detroit Patent Brush Co. has just gotten out a new thing in the way of a sponge dauber, which has been designated the "Shine 'Em Up." The device meets with the hearty appreciation of the trade and is evidently destined to reach a large sale. The same concern has lately gotten out a new line of horse and scrub brushes, made of palmetto fiber. L. D. Harris, of the firm of Harris &

Marvin, paper dealers on Jefferson avenue, states that the firm will transfer its stock and business to Grand Rapids about October 15, occupying the north store in the Barnhart block on North Ionia street. George S. Davis, of Parke, Davis & Co., asserts that he has not authorized the use of his name, is not a candidate for and would not accept, under any circumstances, the nomination to Congress. Pingree & Smith has begun suit in the Wayne Circuit Court against the Detroit, Lansing & Northern Railway, claiming cases of boots and shoes, while en route from Detroit to Edmore. J. M. Thurber, D. C. DeLamater and David Adams have been admitted to partnership in the hardware house of Buhl Sons & Co. The firm name remains the same as before. Matthew R. Mathewson and James H. Rudell entered into partnership under the firm name of J. H. Rudell & Mathewson, April 1, 1885, to conduct the business of merchandise brokers and commission merchants. The partnership was renewed April 1, 1886, and still exists, but Mathewson has filed a bill in the Circuit Court complaining that since August 1 Rudell has paid no attention to business and has become an excessive drinker, and as a result the business has become involved and the firm is in debt. He asks that the partnership be dissolved, a receiver be appointed, and that Rudell be restrained from interfering with the business or handling the firm funds.
