The Effect of the Drug on the Dead and the Living. The Prevalence of the Morphine Habit—Women the Usual Victims.

From the Detroit Evening Journal

A citizen and a local physician were recently engaged in conversation in front of the City Hall. As they stood talking a handsomely dressed and attractive woman passed large and dark, contrasted with indescribable effect with her pale, delicate but beautiful complexion. The two gentlemen were for the moment lost in admiration of the woman, and did not resume their conversation until she had disappeared in the crowd.
"What a beautiful woman," repeated the "Very," replied the physician.

"Arsenic possesses great antiseptic powers It has a marked effect in preserving the body from decay. When arsenic is taken, and it destroys life, if the person lives long enough for it to pervade the entire body, the remains will continue for an indefinite period in a remarkable state of preservation. Skins that are intended for stripping have arsenic rubbed on the flesh side. The habit of eating arsenic is prevalent in certain por-tions of Austria. In the city of Vienna it is a common custom to put arsenie in the food of horses. It gives them a glossy coat, and makes them fat and gives them good wind. It has the same effect on man. The body is rounded, the eyes are brightened, and the respiration is improved. But when the habit of arsenic eating is once formed, any irregent of alse the cating is once formed, any free ularity in taking it is dangerous, and may end fatally. Arsenic eating shortens life. However, there have been cases where persons, who have been slaves to the habit from their youth, have remained in good health at the age of 60, and even older than that. The practice of arsenic eating, confined to a small territory at first, is rapidly spreading all over the world. It is popular among the demi-monde, and is used by them to enhance their charms. A great many ladies in this country resort to this practice, and Detroit has its share of arsenic devotees. I know a number of ladies, who move in the highest circles of society in this city, who are slaves to arsenic-eating!"

A gentleman was recently talking with a prominent Woodward avenue druggist when a well-dressed woman entered the store. Her features were perfect, and her eyes, is substance was dealt out to her, and after ish substance was dealt out to her, and after paying for it, she stealthily put a small amount into her mouth. Suddenly her eyes brightened, her countenance assumed a more cheerful aspect, and she became talkative. When she had gone, inquiry was made, and the apothecary explained:

"That woman is a confirmed opium eater. Three years ago morphia was prescribed for her to relieve severe pains. The pleasing sensation gave her a taste for the drug, and beginning with a dose averaging one-fourth of a grain she now consumes 30 grains of morphia daily. "I suppose there are many such charac-

The drug is prescribed for them by physicians, and the opium-eaters gradually increase the dose un-til some day it becomes large enough to carry

"What are the effects of continual opiumeating?"

"At first a pleasant sensation is produced. 'We go off to the third heaven,' one of them once told me. The system is stimulated to unusual activity, and when the effects of the drug have passed away, languidness takes possession of the whole frame. The opium eater is in reality little weaker when not under the influence of the drug than before, but his condition, when compared with his previous exhilaration, is so inferior that he takes another dose of the drug in order to reproduce the same feeling. We can always tell how long they have been addicted to its use. When they use it at first they come in boldly and ask for their consolation. Then they grow shy, and strive to hide the use they make of it. Finally they say little or nothing, handing their package, for we know want is wanted.'

"Where do they wind up?" "In the county houses and insane asylums.

The brain is destroyed, and they end in a pauper's or a lunatic's grave."

At Astoria, Oregon, all the offal of the salmon used for canning is thrown into the sea at the shore, the canneries being so situated that the great Pacific Ocean, at the mouth of the great Colorado River, receives all the rejected matter. According to the Portland Oregonian, this seeming wastefulness is a means of constant reproduction of the salmon. The first operation in the can-neries, he argues, is to relieve the fish of their entrails, fins, heads and spawn, and these in almost every instance, are dropped directly into the river. Much of the spawn, of course, is eaten by fish or destroyed, but a goodly share, he thinks, finds lodgment on the bottom, where in the natural process it hatches. It is a fact well known that the water about the canneries fairly swarms with young fish during the summer and fall.

The meeting at Lansing last week was a representative gathering of apothecaries, albeit Grand Rapids was not largely represented, and the proceedings show that the members were governed by moderation and extreme good sense. A draft for a legislative enactment governing druggists was presented, discussed, and adopted, and the convention adjourned to meet in Detroit next Fall, until which time suggestions will be in order from those favored with copies of the proposed law. OFFICE OF

BLACKWELL'S DURHAM TOBACCO COMPANY

To the Distributors of Blackwell's Durham Smoking Tobacco throughout the United States:

DURHAM, N. C., August 20, 1883.

GREETING:-It has been our aim for some time to supply you with an article that would not only advertise our brand of W. T. Blackwell's Genuine Bull Durham Smoking Tobacce, but also be useful to you and an ornament to your place of business; just what to select has been our difficulty. Chromos, and articles of that nature soon lose their novelty, and we regretted to expend such an enormous sum on anything that would not last and be of some value. The novel idea finally struck us of producing a bale of Blackwell's Genuine Durham Smoking Tobacco, containing "Works" instead of the original well-known article, guaranteed to furnish you with Correct Time and be a pleasing reminder when your orders should be sent in for the "Bull." Respectfully to the Trade,

BLACKWELL'S DURHAM TOBACCO CO.

ALABASTINE!

Alabastine is the first and only preparation made from calcined gypsum rock, for application to walls with a brush, and is fully covered by our several patents and perfected by many years of experiments. It is the only permanent wall finish, and admits of applying as many coats as sired, one over another, to any hard surface without danger of scaling, or noticeably adding to the thickness of the wall, which is strengthened and improved by each additional coat, from time to time. It is the only material for the purpose not dependent upon glue for its adhesiveness; furthermore it is the only preparation that is claimed to possess these great advantages, which essential to constitute a durable wall finish. Alabastine is hardened on the wall by age, moisture, etc.; the plaster absorbs the admixtures, forming a stone cement, while all kalsomines, or other whitening preparations, have inert soft chalks, or glue, for their base, which are rendered soft, or scaled, in a very short time, thus necessitating the well-known great inconvenience and expense, which all have experienced, in washing and scraping off old coats before refinishing. In addition to the above advantages, Alabastine is less expensive, as it requires but one-half the number of pounds to cover the same amount of surface with two coats, is ready for use by simply adding water, and is easily ap-
