THE SINS OF THE FATHERS.

The first of April in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, is something more than All-Fools' Day; it is the great day for adjusting all the accounts for the year past, and for entering into engagements for the year to come. For generations the farmers of that region have crowded the year's business as far as possible into that one day, and it probably never occurs to them that accounts might more conveniently be settled oftener. Ideas have never made rapid progress among these slow-going tillers of the soil, whose thorough conservatism resisted the freeschool system as long as possible. As the fathers have done so must the sons, so far as circumstances will permit. Thus it was that on the first of April five years ago, as on scores of such former anniversaries, the county roads were noisy with the passing of farm wagons, all headed in the same direction, and with the town of Lancaster as their destination. Long before light had many of the drivers begun their journey, for much was to be done ere they could return. The yellow oil-cloth-covered wagons of the Amish farmers were occasionally to be seen. but were not as numerous as the less-conspicuous vehicles of their Mennonite neighbors. On reaching Lancaster these were all ranged in long rows in front of the smaller taverns with which the city abounds, while the drivers crowded the banks, drawing or depositing money, and elbowed their way into the stores and shops to make their annual payments.

It was not an unpicturesque throng that what was required of him. filled the streets that April day, and a stranger would have detected within it many novel and striking features, for, although it costume. The Mennonite women, with mind him of the flight of time. True, his placid faces within outlined by a white muslin cap-border, formed no small portion of his own years were increasing. Stricter members of the Mennonite faith-New Mennists as they are called-might be known by an extra breadth of brim on their wide black rich, shaking his head in denial. hats, the absence of coat collars, and similiar peculiarities of custume. Less frequently there might be seen the singular figure of an Amish man clad in a long reddish-brown overcoat, with numerous capes and skirts reaching to his heels. Sometimes the coat was lacking and the farmer appeared in a jacket fastened by hooks and eyes, and characterized by a total absence of skirts. Unlike their Mennonite brethren, these religionists wore beards, and their hair, falling to the shoulders at the back. was cut squarely across the forehead just ove the eyes. Hats of extravagant brim completed an attire having more oddity than observed an entire family of Dunkards, or German Baptists, the children of each sex looking in their quaint garb and serious

Two young men in more worldly attire, who were loitering down King street in search of amusement, found plenty of it that morning in merely noting the people about them. The taller and finer-looking of the two was a visitor in the town and his friend, a resident was enjoying his exclamations of surprise at the unfamiliar situation and accepted the inevitable.

"Look at that poor old fellow, Clem," said the stranger to the town. "He doesn't look as if he had a spare cent to bless himself with."

The old fellow in question was a middle aged farmer of decidedly shabby appeargaged in eating an unpalatable-looking sausauge which he had drawn from his pocket Singleton, the one addressed, gave the old

He made no offer to move, but merely looked at them with that slow gaze which, while it amused Singleton's friend, made Singleton himself impatient.

"Come, let us pass, will you?" he said sharply, and with a lumbering gait the farmer moved aside.

"That is another of your county millionaires, I suppose, isn't he, Clem?" questioned the other a moment after.

"I don't know him," was the response; but he may be, for most of these Mennonite farmers are well off, especially if they are tobacco raisers." The latter part of Singleton's assertion was true enough, but Heinrich Bruner, the man who had so deliberately made room for the young men, was far from being rich, though by no means a poor man. Like the other farmers, he had been making his yearly payments and settling his bank account, but unlike many of his neighbors, there was not the amount at the bank to his credit that it would have been pleasant to see there. To be sure, he had, beside, odd sums tied up in bits of stocking and hidden away in nooks and corners at home, but the whole amount was less that his brother Sigismund Bruner at Petersburg possessed, and their cousin, Adam Bruner, of Manheim, was worth double what the brothers owned. He was thinking of all this as he turned away from the bank, and when met by Singleton and his companion had paused in his walk, completely lost in his confused reckonings. He was not so stupid as the young men had imagined, but he did not grasp ideas readily; and, already pre-occupied as he was, it needed the stimulus of Singleton's words to rouse him to full consciousness of Having reached this point in his soliloquy, he urged his horses into a faster gait, and the ten miles of distance that lay between Lancaster and his farm were soon overpast. He had not spoken to his son during the whole time, but conversation was not a strong point with any of the Bruners, and the boy thought nothing of his father's sihe had seen that day. It was the first time in his life that he had ever been so far from that such a serious event was not to be lightly contemplated. Johanna's attire was more worldly in character, for her dress so new a thing in his experience that it was was a gay purple, and there were earrings in the small ears. But then Johanna had about it. His instinct told him that if he not yet "entered the meeting." Whenever entered the bar-room of the Cross Keys, that event should take place, she would put on the plain dress of the sect. The next youngest, Sigismund, named for the tised, he would say first: "Stop, my good Petersburg uncle, was a red-cheeked boy of friend, how much did you lose?" And so it eighteen, whose appetite at this period of life was much sharper than his intellectual perceptions. There was no display of affection among the Bruners, but the family tie was strong, nevertheless. As the father looked about npon his children, his mind went back to the money up stairs. If the twenty thousand dollars were only his, what might he not do for them? His father, Conrad, when he died, thirty years ago come lence, being wholly busied with the sights next Good Friday, had done well by his four children, and Heinrich would like to do no less for his. Truly it would be a good thing home as Lancaster, and he naturally felt for him if he should never hear who had lost the money. When supper was over and the necessary work at the barn accomplished, the family all went to bed, although it was not much past seven o'clock, and there still lingered a faint glow in the west. But people who feel called upon to rise and begin the work of the day at two or three in the morning, have need to be in bed at an early

Cold Comfort. From the New York Times.

A grocer's boy complained to his employer that he was worked too hard and did not get sufficient rest. "I know, Johnny," admitted the grocer, "that you are kept busy most of the time, but I'll see what can be done. Perhaps when cold weather sets in I'll let you draw molasses once in a while."

Recent scientific investigations have demonstrated that timber cut in the spring is not so durable for building purposes as that cut in the winter. This conclusion is borne the majority of whom have long held to the same view. It has been found that wood containing large amounts of phosphoric acid and potassium is more liable to rot than when those elements are present in only small quantities. In the spring, standing timber contains about eight times as much phosphoric acid, and about five times as much potassium as in the winter; hence the desirability of cutting it before the sap has distributed these substances through the

"THE TRADESMAN" CONGRATU-LATES ITSELF.

The organization of the grocery trade of Morley. Grand Rapids is now an accomplished fact, and the object for which THE TRADESMAN has striven for over two years is no longer a vague unreality. The large number who attended the meeting last Tuesday evening, and the character of those who are prominent in the movement, augur well for the future success of the organization, and it goes without saying that the Retail Grocers' Association of Grand Rapids will accomplish the same good for the retail trade of this city Deuel & Co. in the retail furniture business that similar organizations have elsewhere at 17 Canal street. The "Co." of the new accomplished for the business men of their respective localities.

THE TRADESMAN advocated the organization of the retail trade only after a thorough investigation of the working of such associations in the Eastern states, which investigation brought with it a realizing sense of the advantages invariably obtained by concerted action, intelligently and sensibly exerted. Second Annual Meeting of the Grand Rapids Pharmaceutical Society.

At the second annual meeting of the Grand Rapids Pharmaceutical Society, held at THE TRADESMAN office last Thursday evening, the following members were present: President Wurzburg, Secretary Escott, Will L. White, John E. Peck, H. B. Fairchild, Albert F. Hazeltine, Isaac Watts, Eugene Klein, H. E. Locher, Theo. Kemink and A. Sanford.

The application of Wm. H. Tibbs, for membership in the Society, was received and referred to the appropriate committee.

I am sorry that no roll has been kept during the past year, as it might be interesting to such cases. know who attend the meetings and who do not. This should be remedied by the new Secretary. Scientific work has occupied very little time in the meetings of the Soeiety, most of the time being given to trade matters. The great work of the year has been the securing of uniform prices on proprietary articles, with what success you all know. These results bid fair to continue during the coming year, and give the Society more time for the discussion of matters relating to pharmacy.

Starting with an attendance of only ten at our first meeting, and now having a membership of more than forty, the Society has reason to congratulate itself on its success and to anticipate great results in the future.

The report was adopted. The election of officers being next in order, President Wurzburg appointed Albert F. Hazeltine and A. Sanford as tellers.

The Poison Question.

child had drunk one of his prescriptions, he law compelling all druggists to keep poisons within scarlet wrappers. This seems to THE TRADESMAN to be a foolish provision, N. Y. A gentleman entered a drug store as the wrappers are easily lost or destroyed, and asked a boy for rochelle salts. The boy after which there is greater liability to make mistakes than ever, owing to the fact that drug was kept, the man stepped to the shelf, the dispenser will put a certain amount of and saying that he would help himself, took reliance upon the wrappers and will not three tablespoonfuls of antimony, from the stop to examine the contents of bottles not most feasible method of preventing mistakes Mr. Watts stated that some physicians in dispensing which The Tradesman has would not allow their prescriptions to be yet seen advanced. He suggests that all taken to drug stores which make a practice containers of poisons be made of black glass, with roughened surfaces, like diamond shaped spots. The black color has a funer-

The Custom of Giving Dry Goods Samples

and What it Costs. From the Detroit Tribune

"The custom of giving samples," said a said a Woodward avenue dry goods clerk, "costs the dry goods dealers hundreds of dollars annually that would be a clear saving if the practice could be broken up."

"Is the custom of such long standing that it cannot be discontinued?"

"That's it exactly. People expect to be given samples and you can't deny them. Silks, costly lace and dress goods, embroidery, ribbons and everything goes. Some laces cost over $12 a yard wholesale, but you've got to clip off a piece for the first woman who asks for it. We got some dress trimming worth $27 a yard. A woman who bought a silk dress yesterday wanted a slice of it and I had to give it to her. Figure up the cost of two inches of $27 trimming.

That's the way it goes."

"Do you give samples to everybody?" "Well, nearly everybody that asks for them, but there is a limit. Samples of the costliest goods are given only to our best and richest customers, persons who have money to buy if the article pleases them. Hundreds of ladies, wives of rich men are constantly hunting for something new. When it comes out they buy it, not because they need it, but simply because it's a novelty, and they want to have something that the mistress of the next mansion does not

"Why don't you get up a sample department?

"We come pretty near it. Of every new piece of goods that comes in several yards are cut for samples and put in the sampledrawer. Many well-regulated retail dry goods houses have from two to half a dozen sample-drawers. In the country trade the practice of cutting samples is, perhaps, advantaheous. Country people write to us for samples, which are nearly always sent, and when these people come to town, if they don't buy a large piece of the goods matching the sample, they take something else that suits ihem better."

"Why doesn't it work as well in the

"As a rule you never hear afterwards of eight out of ten of the women who get samples. There are hundreds of them who have not the slighest idea of buying a piece of the goods. They are after patches for quilts-erazy quilts. When the crazy quilt mania was at its height we shut down on cutting samples of the costly goods. It was something like the picture card craze giftracket, only a good deal worse."

Weighing a Hair.

"To number the hairs of your head is not a very difficult task," the refiner of the assay office said. "A very close approximation can be made by weighing the entire amount of hair on a man's head and then weighing a single hair. The weight of the former divided by that of the latter will, of course, give the desired number. If you will pluck out a hair of your beard, I can show you." A long and straggely one was accordingly detached, the refiner putting it on a scale, which was enclosed in a glass case, and graduated with extreme accuracy. With little weights of aluminum he piled up one arm untill an equipoise was reached. The hair weighed three milligrammes. "If you reduce this to figures," he said, "it would supposing you have six ounces, you have 48,000 hairs."

Here's a Hint. From the Philadelphia Record

"I suppose I'll have to go; but, indeed, it wasn't my fault," said a pretty servant girl when the mistress of the house surprised mistress; "since you have been with us we are saving money. My husband remains in the evenings watching for chances to hug you, and I stay home to watch him. His remaining at home is from $1.50 to $2 in his pocket every night, and I'll want some of the money shortly to buy a new dress, and there'll be trouble if I don't get it. Oh, no, don't go. Most married women will not have a pretty servant girl about the house; but when a pretty servant girl will enable me to get pretty clothes I'm willing to tol-

Brief Digests of Recent Decisions in Courts of Last Resort.

MEANING OF "MERCHANT OR TRADER." In the matter of Conant, noted in the Albany Law Journal, the Supreme Judicial Court of Maine held that casual transactions in mining stocks, independent and outside of an established business, amounting in all, in the course of a year, to about $3,500, did not constitute a man a "merchant or trader" within the meaning of the state insolvent law.

DEBTOR-EXEMPTION-SELECTION.

In Kansas, according to the decision of the Supreme Court of that state in the case of Rice vs. Nolan, a merchant tailor, who is the head of a family and a resident of the state, is entitled to an exemption of such portion of his stock in trade as he may seto claim his exemption until the morning preceeding the sale of his property, made by an officer upon an attachment, does not operate as a waiver of such right.

PROMISSIORY NOTE-SIGNING AFTER MA-TURITY.

After the maturity of a note, and while it was still held by the payee, two sons of the maker, for the purpose of inducing the payee not to pass the note into the hands of a third person, and to give further time for payment, placed their names under that of their father, already upon the note. The New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals held that there was a good consideration to support their contract, which was to pay the amount of the note on demand, and that their contract was not within the statute of frauds.

PROMISE TO PAY DEBT OF ANOTHER. Where a cropper had raised certain cotton on rented land and his landlord was about to sell it when a person holding a mortgage on the cotton, given by the cropper, resisted the sale and threatened to stop it under his mortgage, and, in order to free the cotton from this threatened interposition and the lawsuit consequent thereon, the landlord promised to pay the debt of his cropper and tenant for advances made to him in raising the crop, the Supreme Court of Georgia held that this was not a voluntary verbal promise to pay the debt of another within the statute of frauds, but was a promise based upon a valuable consideration.

MORTGAGOR AND MORTGAGEE-NOTE.

Where a note and mortgage were executed for an amount in excess of the actual indebtedness existing from the mortgagor to the mortgagee, to take up an old note and mortgage given in good faith to secure an actual indebtedness, with the understanding that upon the execution of the new note all the credits that were upon the old note should be placed upon the new note, and such understanding was carried out by the mortgagee, and in the overstatement of the amount secured there was no intent of either party to hinder, delay or defraud the mortgagor's creditors, the Supreme Court of Kansas held that such mortgage was not fraudulent in toto, because upon its face it secured an amount of indebtedness in excess of that actually existing from the mortgor to the mortgagee.

A Tradesman's Philosophy.

"Ef time is money, they's dead loads o' people hez more money than they know what to do with." "Poverty ought t' be considered a good friend o' man, fer it allers sticks to him when all other friends desart him."

"The best gold comes from the roughest country, and the best and truest hearts are found under th' ugly faces."

"Necessity is like a good many lawyers I kin call to mind-it knows no law."

"Lots of men talk b' the yard and thinks b' the inch."

"Doctors hev the best o' all professions. Ef they do good curin', th' earth proclaims it, an' ef they fail, why th' earth covers it.

"I b'lieve that th' bread o' repentance we sometimes eat durin' ol' age is made out o' th' wild oats we hev sowed earlier in life."

"When a man an' woman's married, they are made one by th' mintster. Now the question is which is the one? I've obsarved that often there is a terrible scrimmage afore the matter is settled."

The Tradesmen's Courtship.

The tailor preserves his suit.

The shoe maker lays his awl at her feet.

The wood-chopper offers himself as her feller.

The carpenter says her society adz joy to his existence.

The dairyman declares he is bound to heifer and can love no udder. The poet wooes her with a sonnet, and her big brother starts out in search of him with a shotgun. The furniture dealer is so much in love with her that he is willing to accept her affections in installments, one-tenth down. The mason believes his chances rest on a good foundation, when he informs her that refusal would be mortar-fying to him. The sailor first ascertains how the land lies, then approaches her when she's in stays and informs her that she's in need of a first

THE FIRST STEP.

The "Retail Grocers' Association of Grand Rapids" an Assured Fact.

Pursuant to the call isssued by the editor of THE TRADESMAN, sixty-three of the 176 grocers of Grand Rapids met at THE TRADES-MAN office last Tuesday evening, and resolved to organize a retail grocers' association. Twelve others sent word by telephone and otherwise that they would be bound by the action of the majority. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Stowe, who suggested the election of a chairman as the first thing in order. E. J. Herrick and E. J. Horton were both nominated, but the latter withdrew and the former was elected. Mr. Herrick thanked the meeting for the honor conferred upon him, and presented several cogent reasons for the organization of the grocery trade. B. S. Harris was elected secretary, pro tem., and was asked to read the platform of the Muskegon Association. Four of the points contained therein were made a declaration of principles for the Grand Rapids organization, as follows:

Prevention of wholesale houses selling at

Agency for bad debts. To use our united efforts to have the present disgraceful nuisance of peddling and beddlers, put under proper restraints and a heavy license.

To afford Farmers and Gardners who produce their own goods, an opportunity to peddle any of their goods from house to ouse without a vendor's license.

Chairman Herrick stated that with such objects in view an organization of the retail trade of this city could accomplish much good to the trade at large. Referring to the practice of some jobbing houses of selling the consumer direct, he stated that he knew of several families who were buying their supplies in that way. An organization could remedy such an abuse in short order.

Jas. Brooks referred to the practice of some commission houses selling consumers a couple of dozen of eggs or a jar of butter.

A. V. Chapman and W. E. Knox advocated the establishment of a central market, similar to those maintained at Boston and Detroit, where farmers may dispose of their own products.

On motion, the chair appointed the following committee to draft a constitution and by-laws: Henry A. Hydorn, W. E. Knox, Eugene Richmond, B. S. Harris, E. E. Walker and John A. Brummeler. The chairman was instructed to act as chairman of the committee.

The meeting then adjourned until Tuesday evening, Nov. 10, at the same time and

The committee on constitution and bylaws met at THE TRADESMAN office Friday afternoon, and prepared a report, which is given below. It is printed entire, that all may know the exact wording of the draft before the meeting, and thus be prepared to make any amendments which may suggest themselves. The constitution and by-laws will be printed again next week as they will November. stand amended.

Horner Bros., clothiers, of Petoskey, will open a branch store here in a few

M. Scott, alias "The Liliputian," has opened a blacksmith shop on State street. Geo. B. Martindale, our hardware man, Bovee & Kelsey, our "hardwood" lumberman, A. T. Burnett, our "hard money" man, Shurtleff Bros., our "hard-working" men and N. G. Burtt, our "hardy" man swell their potato bins to the tune of from 500 to 800 bushels daily.

D. W. Root, the baker, is tearing down and building larger.

The hardwood lumber firm of Bovee & Kelsey are preparing for a big cut the coming winter. C. B. Fenton, fancy goods dealer at Mackinac Island, will open up a stock of dry goods here in exchange for Indian grass, bark and quill work for next season's use on the Island.

Geo. F. Owen, (too well-known,) called up one of our business men by telephone from Petoskey last week, and gave the in-strument to a young lady to receive the reprimand due him for past jokes.

Geo. McClellan's meat market occupies the front store in the McSimon block.

Overholt Bros.'s mill, Gill Bros.' mill and B. C. Lark's mill, situated from five to seven miles east and south-east of here will all be stocked with hardwood logs and the lumber drawn here by teams this winter. E. W. Monroe, of Clarenden, Pa., an experienced mill man, takes charge of the large hardwood mill here this season.

For a safe and profitable investment here, a chair factory would meet with more than ordinary encouragement, as hundreds of cords of hardwood that would not make A1 lumber could be used in the enterprise.

Hartford.

The hotel formerly known as the Richmond house has been purchased of the pro-prietor, Ralph Richmond, by E. A. Palmer, M. D., and is now undergoing repairs. It will be under the management of John McAllister, who recently run the Lake View at St. Joseph.

There are ten apple buyers located here

Holland City.

Trade during the past week has been dull, the heavy rains being the cause, and the shipments of potatoes and apples are rapidly declining to what they were a week ago. At that time, it took 1,000 empty barrels per day to equal the requirements for apple shipments alone. Aside from the rail shipments, three vessels are kept constantly busy transporting this staple alone. All our manufacturing establishments are running full time, and our large tanneries are more than busy. The force of men employed is larger than ever before, and all who under stand the trade who apply for work find work. Great improvements are in order in this line, and our city will soon be called the "tanbark town of Michigan." The building boom will undoubtedly continue all winter. Foundations for many new buildings were laid again this week, among them one for a residence for the president of Hope College on the college campus and a $10,000 church on the corner of Market and Ninth streets. A beautiful new college building will soon be erected on the college campus, to cost twenty thousand dollars. Macatawa Park, never thought of in winter, but visited by thousands during the heated term, will have more cottages erected than in its whole his tory next year.

Messrs. Torrent & Ducey own a large tract of timber land in the vicinity of St. Regis Lake, Franklin county, N. Y., which is a favorite locality with sportsmen from New York City. Several have erected camps and temporary abiding places on the bank of the lake, and a few days ago it occurred to them that it might be well to secure the permission of the owners, in order to avoid actions for trespass. Whitelaw Reid, of the New York Tribune, was delegated to communicate with Messrs. Torrent & Ducey, who readily granted the privileges asked river, and yet reports that not nearly as many logs will be put in this winter as last. Henry Jacobs, of Muskegon, manager of Ryerson, Hills & Co., has been stopping here for a few days.

A. Pierce, whose hoop factory was recently destroyed by fire, has concluded not to rebuild.

M. G. Sleezer's new bowl factory is now up and enclosed. The main building is 20x 30 feet in dimensions, with an engine room 21 feet square.

The sawmill of Hileman, Hessar & Co., of this place, has shut down indefinitely, hav-ing cut their last log on the 6th. The mill has run thirteen seasons and cut over 100,-000,000 feet.

The Michigan Hoop Co., a new enterprise here, is now in active operation, turning out from 4,000 to 6,000 hoops per day. It is the intention of the company to double its present capacity another season. The company has the Michigan agency for the Campbell hoop machines and the Concord saw sharpener and knife grinder, and has ordered machinery for the manufacture of spokes and handles.

Cadillac.

Cadillac's railroad prospects are growing brighter and the people are proportionately

The Cadillac end of the C. & N. E. R. R. is now being extended into the business por-tion of the city. The northern terminus will be at Lake City in a few days.

Lewis Bellaire, of Vosberg & Bellaire, is now rusticating in Newaygo county.

Boiler Insurance.

In steam boiler engineering the only observable change seems to be the slow but steady gain made in the introduction of water-tube coil boilers and sectional boilers, and in the extention of a rational system of J. E. Mailhot, the Manistee grocer, writes inspection and test while in operation. To- consumptive invalid, that we warrant it. A clever swindle was that of a Boston man who built two houses side by side, one for himself and one to sell. In the house he sold he had placed a furnace against the party wall of the cellar, and from its hot air chamber he had constructed flues to heat his own domicile. The owner of the other T. M. A Family of Boiler Makers.

The Turnbull family, composed of eight sons, all boiler makers, is probably the most exceptionpl in that respect of any family in the country. All the sons learned the trade of their father in England. Thomas started the first boiler shop in Muskegon in 1863, selling out to his brother Luke in 1867. The Jennings', latter continued the business until 1879, when he sold out to his brother Joseph and partners, who carried on the business under Railroad the style of the Turnbull Boiler Works Co. WALL PAPER.

The Condition of the Trade and Prospect for the Coming Season.

New York Correspondence Chicago Tribune. The wall paper men have begun to distribute their samples for next spring's business, and there is accordingly some little excitement in the jobbing branch of that trade. The samples are a surprise to everyone. In points of cheapness, durability and beauty of color and design they excel any yet produced. The improvements of machinery and the various inventions and discoveries of last year being taken into consideration, the unusual cheapness and fine quality would create little cause for comment were it not known that the fifteen largest manufacturing establishments are under the domination of a rigid Commissioner and managed as a pool. Other pools have had a tendency to bring high prices from the consumer, but this is not that sort of a pool, apparently. It is claimed that the manufacturers did not earn even a fair percentage last year and that they do not expect to make a fortnne out of the forthcoming product of their mills. This is said years. It is because they were more fortunto be due to the fact they are all taking a ate in bringing out "taking" patterns. pride in their business and each endeavoring to outdo the other as to the grade of goods instead of cutting under the prices of one another as in years past, when the grades of paper grew worse and worse until it threatened the utter ruin of the industry. During this time wall paper fell into disrepute. It was no better than whitewash, and whitewash and paint carried the day. The pool has now been in operation for about six years, and during that time wall paper and its concomitant ornaments have advanced in public favor. Wall paper is now quite the fashion, and the forthcoming designs are destined to increase the strength of its hold on the popular fancy. The firms included in the pool evidently make more money than they did before the pool was organized, but the prices are cheaper because the grades of goods are superior. It is a source of wonder that the prices remain so low when the whole working system of the pool is so excellent; but there seems to he no inclination to advance them. The business of the pool is transacted by the Commissioner who resides in Boston. He is employed by the fifteen manufacturers who comprise the pool, and all sales are reported to him at the end of each month and the close of each season. Outside of the regular pool there are associate manufacturers, who maintain prices but do not pool their earnings as the others do. The total business of the pool jobbers last year amounted, the poorest the pool has yet had, to $3,300,-000. The pool comprises all the wall paper manufacturing houses in the United States except four. Most of the wall paper factories are situated in the three cities of New York, Philadelphia and Brooklyn. Not one of them is west of Buffalo. There are fifty pool jobbers in the United States, all of whom sell at manufacturers' prices and are allowed a discount for their sales of 10 and 15 per cent. To get a discount of 10 per cent. they are requested to pay over $1,000 to the pool, and to get 15 per cent. off they must pay $2,000. This money is not a deposit but a contribution, which constitutes a purchase of membership in the pool as a jobber. If a jobber cuts the manufacturer's prices to undersell a competitor he is "fired" out of the pool and denied the right to purchase any more goods, the pool being then the gainer to the tune of his $1,000 or $2,000 already paid. The following shows the total purchases of jobbers in the cities $283,197; St. Louis, $153,945. There are but three jobbers in Chicago, although it took the lead in last year's business. These are: S. A. Maxwell & Co., whose proportion of the business was $413,-204; J. J. McGarth, $364,057; and Spoor Mackey, $183,608.

The reason why the New York trade appears so small in the showing made by the Commissioner in his report is that the bulk of the business in New York is done by the manufacturers themselves. There are but two jobbers in this city.

Wall Paper Pool Figures. From the Western Stationer.

The wall paper pool this year includes all the manufacturers of wall-paper in this country except three firms. Of the twentysix members, fifteen are located in New York city and Brooklyn. The trade in this branch of industry last year was the poorest since the organization of the pool, yet its members sold 31,000,000 rolls, or 248,000,-000 yards. Of this amount, one firm is credited with having sold 6,000,000 rolls, or a half million more than the next highest. Hand made goods to the value of over $100,-000 annually are said to be sold by one manufacturer alone in New York.

Below will be found the amount of the sales of thirteen jobbers of the pool for the past year in the order in which they stand. These figures will, we believe, be found to correspond with those reported by the commissioner of the pool:

S. A. Maxwell & Co., Chicago	. $413,204.5
J. J. McGrath, Chicago	. 364,057.3
Jos. Hill, New York	. 189,934.5
Spoor McKay, Chicago	. 183,608.9

E. L. & F. S. Rollins, Boston	. 98,698.3
Brown, Eager & Hull, Toledo	. 90,710.4
Newcomb Bros., St. Louis	. 78,560.7
Elder & Bentley, Philadelphia	. 76,721.6
F W Rosenthal & Co. St. Louis

And thirty others, whose purchases were less than $50,000 each; making the total amount of the pool purchases, $3,324,187.66. Of this amount, there was sold alone to three Chicago pool jobbers $960,870.84. Thus it will be seen that nearly one-third of this amount is credited to Chicago.

To more clearly show the amount credited to each city, we give their figures in their
