Michigan State University

Annual Commencement

This is the centennial year of the Morrill Act, that created the system of land-grant colleges and universities, at least one in every state, charged with providing a liberal and practical education "for the industrial classes in the several pursuits and professions of life."

This revolutionary theory differed widely from the traditional philosophy of American institutions of higher learning at the time. They were built largely on the pattern of European universities, where education was available only to the privileged few, and offered instruction in law, medicine, theology and the liberal arts.

In Michigan this problem had already been met with action. Michigan Agricultural College had been founded in 1855 by men who held that education, in the broadest sense of the word, could work miracles only if it could be made available to the common people. That pioneer institution has since become Michigan State University.

When Justin Morrill introduced his bill in the United States Congress, he paid tribute to the pioneering work in Michigan. In his only formal speech supporting the measure, Morrill cited as an example of what he would create: The college "in Michigan, liberally supported by the State, in the full tide of successful experiment."

In 1862, President Lincoln signed the Morrill Act, a bill conceded to have been the outstanding single American contribution in the educational history of the world. With the signing of the bill, higher education came out of the cloisters of the past and addressed itself to the service of the American community.

The farmers, who made up 85 percent of the population at that time, were the first to benefit from this new kind of education. Through the years, however, our changing society has brought forth new needs from new groups as America has gradually assumed the role of leadership in the world community. All of these new groups — engineers, homemakers, teachers, government workers, businessmen, industrial workers, scientists and all the rest — are being served by the land-grant colleges as the farmers were served at first. Classroom instruction has been augmented by an extensive program of scientific research and the carrying of new research findings to the people for use in their daily living; again and again the educational benefits have been extended from the relatively few to large numbers of people. The Cooperative Extension Service is the largest adult-education program in the world and other programs reach into the cities and their suburbs.

During this school year, Michigan has joined with the 67 other land-grant colleges and universities across the nation in recognizing the centennial of the signing of the Morrill Act. It seems an appropriate time for the University to reaffirm its continued dedication to the philosophy embodied in the spirit of the Act — that of service to the people of the state, the nation, and the world.

SEATING DIAGRAM FOR GRADUATES AND COMMENCEMENT GUESTS

ACADEMIC COSTUME

The pageantry and color at commencement exercises reveal a record of academic achievement of the various individuals taking part in the exercises. The following brief description is given that the audience might more readily interpret such achievement.

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, met at Columbia University to draft a code which would serve to regulate the design of gowns and hoods indicating the various degrees as well as the colors to indicate the various faculties. This code has been adopted by most of the colleges and universities in America and its use has made identification of scholastic honors an immediate activity.

Three types of gowns are indicated by the code. Those worn by the bachelors are made of black worsted material and have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters may be made either of black silk or black wool and have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. The arm goes through a slit, giving the appearance of short sleeves for the master's gown. Doctor's gowns are made of black silk and are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood.

Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree. If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department or faculty to which the degree pertains.

Historical associations of color have been continued to signify the various faculties. Art and letters can be recognized by the white, taken from the traditional white fur trimming of the Oxford and Cambridge Bachelor of Arts hoods. Red, long traditional of the church, indicates theology. The royal purple of the King's court signifies law. The green of medicinal herbs immediately identifies a medical degree. Philosophy is signified by the color of wisdom and truth, blue. Because through research untold wealth has been released to the world, science is identified by golden yellow. Oxford pink indicates music and russet brown, the color of dress worn by ancient English foresters indicates forestry.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the bachelors graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code.

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

As one of the leading land-grant universities and the first agricultural college in the nation, Michigan State University provides a technical, practical and cultural education for its student body, in addition to extensive research and extension services to the people of Michigan.

Now in its 108th year, Michigan State University has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the ten largest universities in the nation. It has approximately 2,000 staff members engaged in teaching, research and public service, 455 buildings, and 4,250 acres of land, including 880 acres in the campus and housing area.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day — farming — Michigan State University has broadened its offerings as young people, preparing for other vocations, have sought the advantages of university training. Today, Michigan State University has eight colleges — Agriculture, Business and Public Service, Communication Arts, Education, Engineering, Home Economics, Science and Arts, Veterinary Medicine — and the School for Advanced Graduate Studies, and offers approximately 150 different courses of study at the undergraduate and graduate level. This excludes the curriculum of the University College, which has been recognized as one of the most progressive ideas for higher education in the nation today, and the Honors College established in 1957 as a unique program designed for the superior student. All students finishing their freshman year with a "B plus" average, or attaining this average in their sophomore year, have the option of entering the Honors College. Once a student is designated an Honors College scholar, all requirements for his graduation from Michigan State (other than total number of hours) are waived. He is assigned a special adviser in his field of major interest and together they work out a program appropriate for the individual.

Effective July 1, the College of Science and Arts will be reorganized into three new, separate colleges. The three will be designated the College of Natural Science, the College of Social Science and the College of Arts and Letters.

Michigan State University continually strives to expand its service to the people of the state through the Agricultural Experiment Station, the Cooperative Extension Service and the Continuing Education Service. The Agricultural Experiment Station conducts research on campus and at five off-campus substations. Through the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service, more than 333,000 families are reached with technical information on agriculture, homemaking and the 4-H Club program. The field staff, located in every county, extends M.S.U.'s campus into every township in Michigan. During the 1960-61 year, the Continuing Education Service reached more than 100,000 persons in programs conducted both on campus and in local communities.

Today, more than 22,500 students from Michigan and other states and from nations all over the world are attending the University at East Lansing — about 11,000 of whom are housed on the campus proper. With about 85 percent of these students coming from communities in every section of the state, Michigan State University is doing its part to fill the greatly increased demand of the younger generation for higher education.

In the agricultural, business and professional fields and research, Michigan State University has proved its worth to the people of the State of Michigan. Noted for its democratic and friendly spirit, the student body harmonizes with the University faculty to make Michigan State University one of the great educational institutions in America.

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI AWARDS

Nominations for the award are submitted by the Alumni Advisory Council and local alumni clubs representing alumni throughout the United States. The awards committee of the Alumni Advisory Council recommends no more than five alumni to the Board of Trustees of the University for final action. The awards are presented each spring at Commencement. The chairman of the awards committee is Harold W. Rockwell, Class of 1947.

Recipients of the awards for 1962 are:

HELMUT CHARLES DIEHL

Class of 1919. Food Technologist. Author. Executive. Currently Managing Director, Trans American Refrigerated Services, Ltd. Was first employed by the United States Bureau of Plant Industry in 1920. Then was in charge of Fruit and Vegetable Handling, Transportation and Storage Investigations, Pacific Northwest. He established the United States Frozen Pack Laboratory in 1931 in Seattle for U.S.D.A., the first of its kind in the world. Next placed in charge of Food Processing Investigation, Pacific Northwest, and served for two years as Chief, Commodity Processing Division, Western Regional Research Laboratory. Served as Director, Refrigeration Research Foundation, 1944-58, and then was appointed to his current position. He has served as President of the Institute of Food Technologists and as Vice-President, American Society of Refrigerating Engineers. Consultant to Western Regional Research Laboratory and Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company. Trustee of Packaging Foundation, Inc., Michigan State University and Midwest Research Institute. Author of many government bulletins and technical reports. Received Man-of-Year Award from Frozen Trade Association of Delaware Valley, the Nicholas-Appert Award from the Institute of Food Technologists and a special award from Frozen Food Industry. Affiliated with many professional organizations. Additional study at Johns Hopkins University, University of Maryland and Washington State College. Received Honorary Doctor of Science Degree, University of Rhode Island.

GRAYTON F. DRESSSEL

Class of 1924. Chemist. Executive. Currently President and Director of Ethyl-Dow Chemical Company, Vice President and Director, Cliffs-Dow Chemical Company, and Manager of Inorganic Chemical Production, Dow Chemical Company. Started with Dow in 1924, and helped develop processes for extracting bromine from sea water. In 1933 he was appointed manager of an ethylene dibromide plant which he helped design and construct for Ethyl-Dow. He later served a year as Manager of Cliffs-Dow Chemical Company. He then served as production manager for Dow's magnesium metal fabrication facilities and vice president of the Dow Magnesium Corporation, formed to produce magnesium during World War II. He was named Dow's assistant production manager of Inorganic Chemicals in 1947 and advanced to manager in 1953. He is credited with several patents on bromine processes and gas separation techniques. Affiliated with the American Society for Metals, American Chemical Society, American Institute of Chemical Engineers, Tau Beta Pi Engineering Society, and several other professional organizations. HONORARY DEGREES

Industrialist, friend of education, and civic leader. A stirring example of the American success story, your career exemplifies the best traditions of vigorous growth in business affairs and in public service. The industrial concern you lead is on the forefront of technological advances, and yet you have found time to involve yourself increasingly and with mounting effectiveness in civic affairs. Your services have been particularly valuable in winning acceptance of the concept of united giving for charitable and philanthropic purposes in your community, your state, and the nation. You have given of your time and talents to such individual organizations as the Chamber of Commerce and the Michigan Society for Mental Health. You have encouraged and assisted education by your service as trustee of school, college, and university. Michigan State University recognizes the diversity and worth of your contributions in many areas of human concern by conferring upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

MALCOLM P. FERGUSON

Engineer, scientist and industrialist. You have guided one of the nation's most accomplished groups of aeronautical scientists through the most significant period of its history and thus have directly helped to launch America's scientific assault upon the mysteries of space. Moreover, in so doing you have demonstrated that the talents of the engineer and scientist need not be restricted to machines and matter but are useful to the successful organization of human endeavor. You have synthesized the work of thousands of specialists and technologists, molding their diverse talents, time, and temperaments into a most useful and efficient instrument for the exploration of human capabilities in a bewilderingly complex universe. You have further demonstrated your high esteem and deep concern for your fellow men and fellow citizens by expending your energy, effort, and experience in the guidance and support of benevolent institutions and higher education. Michigan State University acknowledges your attainments by conferring upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

THEODORE WILLIAM SCHULTZ

Economist, educator, national and international public servant. As a teacher and scholar you have added to our fundamental knowledge of the economic foundations of society, and contributed especially to our understanding of agriculture as a basic industry. As a member of many boards, committees, and missions you have made that knowledge available to the peoples of the world striving for a more complete life. You have given distinguished service as a citizen, both within this nation, as an officer and consultant to such organizations as the National Planning Association, the Institute of Current World Affairs, and the Population Council, and beyond its borders as a member of United Nations Missions to Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay, and India, and director of technical assistance to Latin America. For these reasons, Michigan State University confers the degree of Doctor of Laws upon you, who have so eminently contributed to the intellectual wealth of nations.

ARTHUR F. VINSON

Engineer, industrialist, philanthopist. By your services you have made your country a better place in which to live and work. Your engineering ability and business acumen have provided employment and economic security for many thousands and the fruits of that employment for millions. Your work as a servant of the principle of free enterprise has thus resulted in the strengthening of the values upon which the American way of life is based. Your philanthropic activities have reflected your recognition of the historic American dream that on the material base of plenty for all can be constructed an image of the good life which transcends the material. As an alumnus, you have loyally supported this University and contributed generously to its advancement. For these reasons, Michigan State University confers upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

MICHAEL JOSEPH MANSFIELD

Your career as an administrator, educator, and statesman has been marked by eminent achievement. Your vigor and courage were evident early in your life, when you served with the United States Navy, and later with the Marine Corps. During your years as a mining engineer in Montana and as a professor of history and political science at Montana State University, you acquired the knowledge, patience, and devotion to truth which prepared you for the heavy responsibilities of political life. As a member of the House of Representatives and particularly as a United States Senator you have acquitted yourself as an exceptional statesman with a deep loyalty to the principles of democracy. Your efforts on behalf of the American people, both at home and in international conferences in many parts of the world, have met with uncommon success. Because of your intellectual integrity, your patriotic devotion, and your contributions to the advancement of a free American society, Michigan State University confers upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

VISITORS ARE WELCOME

ALUMNI MEMORIAL CHAPEL

The Alumni Memorial Chapel was erected in memory of over 400 boys who left this campus to serve in the armed forces of America and who paid the supreme sacrifice.

The funds were provided by gifts from alumni, graduating classes and friends of Michigan State University.

The chapel is available for weddings as well as for other services which may appropriately be held in such a shrine. There are accommodations for approximately 200 persons.

The building is located on Auditorium Road and will be open all day to visitors..

UNIVERSITY MUSEUM

The Museum, located next to Beaumont Tower is open to visitors on weekdays from 8:00 to 5:00 P.M. and on Saturday and Sunday from 1:00 to 5:00 P.M. On display are exhibits of animals, plants, fossil life, minerals, historical items of the farm and home, fabrics and ornaments of primitive man, and examples of fine workmanship in arts and crafts. Attention of the public is directed especially to the exhibits of Michigan fishes, birds, deer, beaver, bear and other animals in natural habitat groups, the Richey collection of ceramics bearing a corn motif, breeds of poultry, the Chamberlain collection of antique watches, porcelain figurines and the Lee collection of Chinese embroidered textiles. Materials preserved by the Museum for both display and study are obtained largely through the generosity of alumni and friends.

Visitors are cordially welcomed. A member of the staff is always on duty to answer questions or to direct you to exhibits of special interest.

ART EXHIBITIONS

Visitors are cordially invited to visit the annual exhibition of art work by M.S.U. students in the Gallery of Kresge Art Center on Auditorium Road. Classrooms and studios in the art center will also be open for inspection. Visiting hours on Commencement day are 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. There is no charge.

WKAR-AM, WKAR-FM, AND WMSB-TV

WKAR-AM and WKAR-FM, the University Radio Stations, with studios above the main entrance to the Auditorium, and the WMSB(TV) Studios, 600 Kalamazoo St., will be open today to visitors after 10:00 A.M.

THE UNIVERSITY FARMS

The University Farms are located on the south side of the Red Cedar River. By driving south on Farm Lane, the road running north and south past the University Auditorium, many of the farm buildings can be seen.

BEAL-GARFIELD BOTANIC GARDENS

Plant collections in the Beal-Garfield Botanic Garden number approximately five thousand species and varieties arranged in economic, systematic and ecological sections. The garden is open to visitors any time.

HORTICULTURAL GARDENS

The Horticultural Gardens, the Horticultural Greenhouses, south and east of the Horticultural Building, and the Plant Science Greenhouses on South Farm Lane, will be open all day to visitors.
