Starr Keesler, '41, Is Named Alumni Director

Starr H. Keesler, '41, is the new director of alumni relations at Michigan State College, having taken over the reins from Tom King, who became dean of students July 1.

Keesler at MSC Since 1943

Another new face in the Office of Alumni Relations is Jack Breslin, '46, one of MSC's all-time football greats, who replaces George Guerre, '48, as assistant director of alumni relations.

The 30-year-old Keesler first joined the Michigan State staff in 1943 as an instructor in short courses. Following a tour as an officer in the U. S. Navy in World War II, he returned to MSC in 1946 as director of college housing. Since January he has become a familiar figure to Spartan alumni all over the nation through his work as assistant director of alumni relations.

Breslin Joins Staff

Breslin won six letters in football, baseball and basketball during 1944 and 1945. The Spartan fullback won the "Governor's Award" as the most valuable during the 1944 season, captained the 1945 football and baseball teams and participated in the 1945-46 Shrine All-Star games.

In addition, he was vice-president of the Varsity Club and president of the senior class and Union Board in 1946. Breslin came to Michigan State in June from Allentown, Pa., where he was district manager for the Dodge division of Chrysler Corporation.

King achieved an outstanding organizational record during the time he served as alumni director. The number of active alumni clubs in the U. S. have almost trebled during this period, having increased from 30 in April, 1948 to 85 today. The present organization includes 59 Michigan clubs and 26 clubs in 16 other states. In the process of formation are alumni groups in Hawaii, India and China, which are expected to be in full swing by the end of this year.

Dr. Connor Smith Named To Board of Agriculture

Dr. Connor D. Smith 30, has been appointed by Gov. G. Mennen Williams to the State Board of Agriculture, governing body of Michigan State College. He replaces the late Ellsworth B. More, '16, who died April 28.

Dr. Smith was born in St. Johns, Mich., October 6, 1907, and received his D.V.M. degree from MSC in 1930.

A member of the American Veterinary Medical Association, Dr. Smith now resides in Standish, Mich., where he has been engaged in the veterinary medicine practice since his graduation. Prominent in civic affairs in Arenac county, he is married and has two children.

His appointment to the State Board of Agriculture was effective May 18, and he will serve the remainder of Mr. More's six-year term through January 1, 1954, when he may run for reelection.

Michigan State Opens Four Year Nursing Curriculum In September

A new four-year course for training professional nurses will be started by Michigan State College in September, according to Lloyd C. Emmons, dean of MSC's School of Science and Arts.

Nurses Needed in State

The curriculum is the result of a survey on nursing needs made by a special seven-man committee, headed by Dean Emmons, in consultation with hospital nursing staffs and local committees on nursing located within a 75-mile radius of East Lansing.

The course will be a combination of academic study at MSC and practical training in near-by hospitals. It will be jointly administered by an MSC director of nursing and staffs of hospitals where students will take their clinical training. The course will be offered in the Division of Biological Sciences of the School of Science and Arts, Dean Emmons said.

Student nurses will earn a total of 200 credits, 140 at Michigan State and 60 at the hospitals where they take clinical training.

Named acting head of the new curriculum was Prof. H. J. Stafseth, who is director of the MSC Division of Biological Sciences. He will remain in this capacity until a full-time director is named.

Many Cooperate in Venture

Between 15 and 25 young women are expected to enroll in the course this fall, Dean Emmons said. Until enrollment expands, he said, two hospitals will be used for the clinical phase of the course—Edward W. Sparrow Hospital in Lansing, and Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids. Graduates in the curriculum will receive the degree of bachelor of science with a major in nursing.

Cooperating with MSC in setting up the new course are: the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, the National League of Nursing Education, the U. S. Public Health Service and the Michigan Board of Registration of Nurses.

Funds for Veterinary Building Are Approved

Michigan State College prepared itself for further economy measures in operational expenses for the 1950-51 year, following a net decrease of approximately $300,000 in legislative appropriations over last year's budget.

Operation Budget Cut

MSC received $7,213,773 to operate the on-campus teaching program, although college officials had requested a net increase of $1,082,236 over the 1949-50 budget of $7,513,254.

The Michigan Legislature insured MSC against further loss of operating revenue, however, when it set aside $910,340 to be used to make up the anticipated decrease in income due to the rapidly-dwindling veteran enrollment. It still left Michigan State with $299,841 less to operate the college than it had last year.

Michigan State also received $1,400,000 with which to begin construction on the new $2,400,000 veterinary medicine center. The Legislature gave assurances that the remainder of the money for the building would be appropriated in the near future. The building is expected to be completed in the fall of 1951.

Extension Funds Decreased

For its agricultural research and extension programs, MSC received: extension, $798,889, compared to last year's $840,936; Experiment Station, $785,000, compared to $750,000; and the Hope-Flannagan program of marketing research, for matching federal funds, $180,000, the same as was received last year.

A number of economy moves have been instituted by MSC in order to live within the operations budget, according to James H. Denison, administrative assistant to the president. Included will be the limiting of the summer program, considerable reduction in planned expenditures for new equipment, and not filling certain positions on the teaching staff as they become vacant, he said.

Open House at Shaw Hall Draws 10,000 Persons

An estimated 10,000 persons got an inside look at MSC's Robert S. Shaw Hall for Men, largest college dormitory in the world, an open house held June 3, in conjunction with the Alumni-Commencement week-end.

The dormitory, housing 1,600 single male students, was completed this spring. It was named in honor of President-Emeritus Robert Sidey Shaw, who retired as head of Michigan State College in 1941.

Streamlining of Course Offerings Brings Major Changes for MSC

Broad-scale administrative reorganization, designed to group existing areas of study more effectively and to modernize course offerings, went into effect at Michigan State College July 1.

Action included the revision of curricula in the School of Business and Public Service, reorganization of the Continuing Education Service, and the naming of department heads for the newly-created Division of Conservation.

Name Conservation Heads

Four national authorities in the conservation field will serve under Prof. Paul A. Herbert, director of the Division of Conservation. They are Dr. Terrill D. Stevens, forestry; Dr. Peter Tack, fisheries and wildlife; Dr. A. J. Panshin, wood utilization; and Prof. L. R. Shoenmann, Conservation Institute.

Dr. Stevens, who received his Ph.D. from Yale University and was a former MSC faculty member, has directed the Department of Forestry at the University of Alabama since 1947. Dr. Tack received his Ph.D. degree from Cornell University and has been on the MSC staff since 1940.

Panshin at MSC Since 1935

Dr. Panshin a 15-year member of the MSC forestry staff, received his Ph.D. degree from the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse. He is co-author of two books on wood utilization and has written numerous articles in this field for professional journals.

Prof. Shoenmann, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, has been director of the MSC Conservation Institute since 1937. A prominent author in the field of conservation, he held numerous administrative positions with state and federal agencies and institutions prior to 1937.

Harden Gets New Post

An exchange of personnel between departments placed Edgar L. Harden, of the Institute of Counseling, Testing and Guidance, in the directorship of the Continuing Education Service. Prof. Harden, who received his M.A. at Iowa University in 1937, has been on the MSC staff since 1946.

Prof. Carl M. Horn, head of the Continuing Education Service since 1948, joined the Institute staff, where he will be brought into more intimate association with the public schools of Michigan, his primary field of interest.

Tack

Create New Divisions

The State Board of Agriculture also authorized the creation of two new divisions in the School of Business and Public Service. They are the Division of Business which replaces the Department of Business Administration and the Division of Hotel Restaurant and General Institutional Management, which succeeds the Department of Hotel Administration.

Leslie W. Scott, '35, manager of the MSC Union since 1946, was named director of the Division of Hotel,

Scott

Restaurant and General Institutional Management. The old Department of Hotel Administration became the Department of Hotel Management and Prof. Bernard R.

Proulx remains as head. Two other new departments in the division, dealing with hotel management and general institutional management, were also created, and department heads will be named later.

Scott served as assistant manager in charge of catering services for the Hotel Morrison in Chicago from 1938 to 1946, excluding three years of military service.

The Division of Business will include departments of accounting, general business, and business educational and secretarial studies. Prof. E. A. Gee, who has directed the Department of Business Administration, heads the new Department of Accounting. He will also serve as acting head of the other departments until permanent appointments are made, officials announced.

THE AFFAIRS OF STATE

Student Affairs

It cost Robert Boston, a Flint junior, the price of an orchid to test a long-standing Michigan State College legend.

Students for years have suspected that instructors, pressed for time, didn't read all the way through term papers.

Boston handed in one with a notation buried back on page 15. "If you read this far, I'll buy you an orchid."

Prof. Lucia Morgan, a speech instructor, did, and Boston did. Said Miss Morgan, "The price of an orchid is eternal vigilance."

Another MSC student made the headline via the route of direct advertising. Arthur H. Miller, Chicago mechanical engineering student in search of a job, painted his qualifications on a big roadside sign and posted it on highway 27. He's now with a Lansing consulting engineering firm.

Senior Class president for the coming year will be Bob Klein, of Detroit, and Robert Rombouts, Ironwood sophomore, was elected president of the Student Council.

A repeat performance, which has become traditional with Water Carnival in the past four years was the float of Gamma Phi Beta and Delta Sigma Chi. Since 1947, the Delta Sigs have taken three grand prizes in the traditional spring parade of floats along the Red Cedar river. Their theme, "Depression."

State Board of Agriculture scholarships were awarded to two MSC seniors who had the highest scholastic average for four years study, at Senior Swing-out ceremonies. President Hannah presented them to Carol Eleanor Parker of Birmingham, and Richard E. Michel of Saginaw. Michel's average was 2.97 out of a possible 3.00, and Miss Parker received a grade average of 2.95. Michel was only one point off the all-time record which was set last year by John H. Brown, Vicksburg, who attained a 2.98.

Commencement

Vice-President Alben W. Barkley, side-stepping political issues, had some grave words for Michigan State College graduates at commencement ceremonies.

"You find a greater challenge than any class heretofore ever met and a greater opportunity, also, than any other class heretofore ever faced," he said.

Urging an intelligent approach to the world's problems, he pointed out the challenge was to solve the increasingly complex problems of a modern society and the opportunity emerges from an "aristocracy of intellect" which college students have more aptitude for attaining.

More than 13,000 people heard the address and watched the awarding of a record 4,469 degrees. Vice-President Barkley received an honorary doctor of laws degree. A native of Kentucky, he received his B.A. degree at Marvin College, Clinton, Ky., studied law at Emory College, Oxford, Ga., and the University of Virginia Law School. He served as U.S. Senator from Kentucky four times until becoming vice-president in 1948.

A second honorary doctor of laws degree was awarded retired army Brig. Gen. Donald A. Stroh '15, for "distinction and gallantry" in a life of service with the U.S. armed forces. Holding the highest military rank ever achieved by a graduate of Michigan State, General Stroh led the Eighth Infantry division in the campaigns of Brittany, Luxembourg, Belgium and Hurtgen Forest.

Two other MSC graduates, Max W. Gardner, '12, and John W. Sims, '18, received honorary doctor of science and doctor of agriculture degrees, respectively.

Dr. Gardner, who has devoted his life to teaching and research in the field of plant pathology, received his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees at the University of Wisconsin. He has been a professor of plant pathology and plant pathologist of the University of California Experiment Station since 1932.

Dr. Sims, an expert in the field of soils and organizational work among farm groups, was a leader in the organization of the Ohio cooperative movement. A vocational agriculture teacher, county agent, member of the MSC staff and extension specialist, Dr. Sims used his combined experience in "promoting agricultural practices."

Achievement honors were also bestowed upon five MSC alumni who received Distinguished Alumni Awards.

Enrollment

Summer enrollment on the Spartan campus gave added proof that the serious-minded veterans, who don't mind sacrificing vacations in order to speed up graduation, are really on the way out.

Registration of full-time students in the first session numbered 4,508, more than 200 less than last year's 4,739. Enrollment in a half-dozen credit workshops, however, boosted this figure to near the 4,600 mark. Veterans held a bare majority of 51 per cent.

Enrollment for the second six-week term, which got under way July 26, was expected to total slightly over 2,000, as compared with last year's 2,320, according to Registrar Robert S. Linton.

THE AFFAIRS OF STATE

Case of the State News

The Michigan State News, showcase for youthful journalistic ingenuity on the MSC campus, found itself in a lot of hot water this summer with the American Legion and college officials.

The State News, in its second weekly issue under the editorship of Ronald Linton, Detroit senior, issued a harsh editorial blast at the administration of the Wolverine Boys' State. Boys' State is an annual program designed to teach high school youths the principles of American government through the administration of a mock state.

The editorial charged that the Boys' State, as supervised by the American Legion, was "an experiment shot with narrow principles, bald-faced fascism, and militaristic ideas." "It was quite obvious," the editorial continued, "the American Legion was again blandly passing out their 'American' bill of goods which constantly reads as follows: Preserve Americanism, preserve militarism, stamp out Communism because it threatens Americanism, and stamp it out by all means available, fast, slow, fair or foul, but stamp it out."

The American Legion convention, assembled in Sault Ste. Marie, took sharp issue with the editorial, charged that it followed "a familiar Russian Communist pattern and form," and that no one "could read it without recognizing the hand of an expert in the sinister technique of subverting our American institutions." They demanded an immediate retraction and called for an investigation by Gov. Williams and the Michigan Legislature of the individual responsible for the editorial.

College administrators, realizing that it was not a case of Communist editors, but rather an example of "scatter-gun accusations and poorly-worded logic," decided nevertheless that something should be done.

It was not the first time the college had been embarrassed by student editorials, nor was it likely to be the last.

The State News, subsidized by the college and distributed free of charge to students, was suspended for the rest of the summer by the Board of Publications.

It was announced simultaneously by Prof. A. A. Applegate, journalism head, that W. F. McIlrath, veteran newspaper man who is now managing editor of the Dowagiac Evening News, will become the first full-time director of student publications at Michigan State this September. Rather than appoint a temporary director of student publications, the board decided that it would be simpler and more satisfactory to suspend publication until the new plan could be put into effect in September, Applegate said.

At that time, the State News will be brought directly under the supervision of the Department of Journalism, and will serve as a laboratory for journalism students.

Faculty Affairs

Harold E. Sponberg, assistant director of placement, picked off a coveted honor in June when he won the national U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce public speaking contest, "Speak Up For Democracy."

His address titled "This Above All," won the unanimous decision of three judges at the state finals held in Detroit, did the same in Pittsburg at a regional contest held June 2, and was selected as best at the national competition in Chicago, June 15.

"Best Symphonic Work of the Year," the annual New York Composers' press award, has been won by Dr. H. Owen Reed, member of the MSC music faculty. The verdict of the jury was, "Although other works tie rather closely for first place, the jurors chose Dr. Reed's work because of its excellent quality with respect to orchestration, as well as musical content."

A new textbook in psychology has been written by Dr. S. Howard Bartley, of the MSC psychology department. It was published by McGraw-Hill in June.

A. G. Kettunen, state 4-H leader and staff member for 33 years, received the Superior Service Award of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The award, presented in Washington, D.C., cited Kettunen for his work in building one of the nation's most effective 4-H Club programs. "Kett" joined the Michigan extension staff in 1917, following graduation from MSC.

On The Cover . . .

Is a sketch of the proposed Michigan State College alumni memorial chapel, as drawn by Architect Ralph Calder. Construction of the building, made possible through contributions of Spartan alumni all over the world, will begin this fall. Michigan State officials want Spartan alumni to select a name for the chapel. Cast your ballot by using the form on page 15.

Dr. Margaret Ohlson, head of the Department of Foods and Nutrition, received the annual Borden Award at the mid-century dinner of the American Home Economics Association in Boston, July 13.

Cited for outstanding fundamental human nutrition research, the MSC home economist was selected on the basis of research papers published during the past three years. Dr. Ohlson also shared in a previous Borden Award, given in 1942 to a five-member group for cooperative research.

MSC Studies TV

Michigan State College is investigating the educational possibilities of television, with an eye toward offering instructional courses, and later, when licenses are available, the actual setting up of a television station.

The State Board of Agriculture appropriated funds to purchase equipment necessary to institute basic television courses in several fields, it has been revealed by James H. Denison, administrative assistant to Pres. Hannah, and chairman of the MSC television committee.

One important function of the campus television station would be to further expand the college's broad extension program, both in agricultural and non-agricultural fields. This work would be developed along the same lines as the campus radio station, WKAR, is used to carry informational programs to the people of Michigan, Denison added.

The station could also be utilized for practical experience for students desiring to enter the video field, and for transmission of non-lecture material from laboratories to classrooms.

Public Relations Award

Michigan State's Department of Information Services (formerly the Department of Public Relations), won its fourth national public relations award in five years last month.

The citation for the best press relations with national magazines was presented to W. Lowell Treaster, department director, at the national convention of the American College Public Relations Association held at Ann Arbor. The award was based on an 18-month project handled largely by Alvie L. Smith, news editor in the department.

Michigan State took first honors in the news photo category in 1946 and 1947 and in 1949 won the best sports promotional citation.

Veterans and Newcomers Will Share Honors in Spartan Football This Fall

If the results of the annual spring Green-White intra-squad football game mean anything, fullback Everett Grandelius and sophomore right halfback Vince Pisano are going to have major roles in the 1950 Michigan State grid plans.

Grandelius, a Muskegon Heights senior, mastered the switch from the left halfback spot he occupied in 1949 to the graduation-depleted fullback position so well that he won the Calhoun County Alumni award as the "outstanding player" in the spring game. Pisano, one of several candidates in the fight for the place vacated by All-American Lynn Chadnois, was outstanding for the White team and was runner-up to Grandelius for the trophy in a poll of radio and press representatives present.

Pisano Scores White Tally

Grandelius sparked the Green team to a 14-7 win over the White unit by scoring both touchdowns, one a 56-yard jaunt, the other on a short plunge. Pisano scored the lone White tally on a pass from Willie Thrower, but earlier in the game thrilled the 15,000 spectators with a brilliant 60-yard run before being hauled down from behind.

Munn will have a squad of 14 lettermen which will serve as a team nucleus for the season. Eight linemen and six backs are in the group headed by Captain LeRoy Crane, who was held out of spring drills because of an injury. Besides Crane, Munn will recall quarterback Bill Carey; left halfbacks Al Dorow and Jesse Thomas; fullback Sonny Grandelius; and Bob Ciolek, a candidate for the right halfback post. Linemen include ends Bob Carey, Hank Minarik, and Dorne Dibble; tackles Don Coleman and Bill Horrell; guards John Tobin, John Yocca and J. C. Williams.

Many Sophomores Shine

As Coach Biggie Munn and his staff begin preparations for the opening of fall football drills, much time and effort will be spent readying the long list of sophomores who will be making their first varsity bid.

Bill Hughes, and John Rhodes; guards Frank Kush and Gordon Serr; and centers Dick Tamburo, Dick Abraham, and Doug Weaver.

New Assistant Coaches Named To Spartan Staff

New assistant coaches in baseball and football have been announced for the 1950-51 school year.

The new addition to the baseball staff is Dick Massuch, former Spartan first baseman, who completed work for his degree in physical education in June. Massuch served as student aide to John H. Kobs during the 1950 season and will begin his full-time duties Sept. 1.

Massuch won major awards in football during the 1944 and 1945 grid seasons and baseball letters in 1946 and 1947. He also brings two years of professional baseball experience to his new post.

Hal Vogler, 1949 football captain, has been appointed a student assistant to freshman mentor Steve Sebo for the forthcoming season. Vogler will fill the post vacated by Bob McCurry, three-time Spartan captain, who resigned to enter the business field.

Kobsmen Win 19, Lose 9 In Season Diamond Play

Coach John H. Kobs' 25th Spartan baseball team climaxed its season's record of nineteen wins and only nine losses by being selected for a berth in the NCAA District IV playoffs.

Although losing to Wisconsin in the tourney held at Old College Field, the Spartans regular season record, based on games played since returning from the annual southern training tour, was 16 wins and four defeats.

Magi Named Captain

Spartan teammates elected Vince Magi, Detroit centerfielder, to captain the 1951 team, State's first in Big Ten competition. Magi replaces Jack Kinney, Owosso rightfielder.

A big factor in the team successes were the five Spartans who finished the season over the .300 batting mark. Al Cummins, a starter in every game during the season, piled up a .367 average and led his mates in runs scored and stolen bases. Charley Joblonski, a sophomore catcher from E. Rochester, N.H., appeared in 17 games and compiled a .413 average in 46 times at bat. Captain-elect Magi came through with a .348 batting mark.

For the second straight year, Jack Kinney led the team in the all-important RBI department, adding 31 this season to his 1949 record 35.

A lion's share of the credit for the team success must also go to the Spartans ace righthander Lou Bloch, Dearborn senior. Bloch won seven straight, and lost only to Wisconsin in the NCAA play-off. Tom Lawson, Detroit sophomore, was the workhorse of the staff. He pitched 70 innings, recorded 50 strikeouts, and compiled a record of four wins and three losses.

Hot Weather Relief

Keeping in trim and beating the heat was easy at Michigan State College during the summer months. The MSC Ice Arena, one of four or five in the nation available for hot-weather skating, remained in operation from June 24 to Aug. 12.

Professional instructors were on hand to accommodate the record crowds, and play host to skating clubs.

Relay Team Sets World's Record

Michigan State College Athletes Ink "Winning Season" In Annual Ledger

By "BUD" ERICKSON, '49

A winning way again wrote itself into the Spartan sports annual ledger, as MSC athletes swam, ran, booted and batted to victory, around the calendar.

On the football side, Coach "Biggie" Munn's gridders ranked among the 20 top grid teams in the nation. Their record: six wins, two losses.

Sharing the fall spotlight, MSC cross-country runners repeated last year's win for the NCAA title and placed second in both the IC4A and NAAU events.

Before winter sports fans, they added the IC4-A and CCC indoor titles and had starring roles in the Michigan State Relays, Purdue Relays, Knights of Columbus meet in Cleveland and the Chicago Daily News meet.

Boxers Have Perfect Record

In spite of basketball and hockey reverses, other teams kept the winter page of the ledger in top order. MSC swimmers won nine meets, lost but one to NCAA titlist Ohio State. They defeated Michigan for the first time in history.

Spartan boxers went undefeated in dual competition, while the fencing team recorded seven wins, a loss and a tie. MSC gymnasts took second place in the Midwestern Open and won four out of seven meets, while Coach Fendley Collin's inexperienced wrestling team posted a .500 record and took third place in the NAAU (Sr.) championships.

Successful Spring Season

Baseball and track shared the spotlight during the spring quarter, with the former winning 19, losing 9 and gaining a berth in the District 4, NCAA baseball play-offs. In California, MSC's two-mile relay team set a new world's record at the Coliseum relays, then returned with other team-mates to compete in the highly regarded triangular meet with Southern California and Yale.

The Michigan State tennis team won the Central Collegiate crown, sported an 8-3 record, while Spartan golfers, competing against the Mid-west's best, won four and dropped six.

It was a good year for most Spartan fans and athletes with, of course, some room for improvement. Nevertheless, more green and white than red has been inked into the ledger.

Tickets Still Available

Early rushes over, there is still a chance to see all Spartan football games this coming fall, according to Ticket Manager Lyman L. Frimodig.

Eastern MSC alums can still secure seats in the Michigan State section for the Pitt-State tussle, Nov. 19.

Newest Alumni Group Formed by Class of '50

Michigan State's newest alumni left the campus in June with an organization ready made from a nucleus of class leaders.

Before graduation, they created the "50 Club," designed to serve as an active organizing group for future alumni activities of the class.

Select 50 Members

The Club has 50 members, picked on the basis of scholarship, activities, quality of their non-academic work, and tentative location after graduation, according to class president Ed Pino of Lansing.

"Members were selected to compose a cross-section of Michigan and out-of-state students who were most interested in promoting Michigan State as alumni," Pino said.

Club Has Six Aims

He pointed out six functions: (1) to sustain contact with outstanding high school students, (2) lead local alumni groups, (3) organize class alumni activities, (4) help in tracing "lost alumni," and (6) help college alumni officers form new clubs.

Members were selected by two class committees from more than 400 applications. It is the first such club organized at Michigan State, although it is hoped that succeeding classes will follow the lead of the 1950 graduates.

The class recently made a movie, "The Fifty Story," a film record of senior class activities for use in "setting up new and lasting ties between graduates and their alma mater," Pino said.

Annual Alumni Roll Call Goes Over $17,000 Mark

The $17,000 mark has been reached in Michigan State's first annual Roll Call, according to William L. Davidson, MSC fund director.

"I would term the project highly successful," said Davidson. He pointed out that about half of the pledges were yet to be received, and additional replies should greatly increase the final total.

Will Give Financial Aid

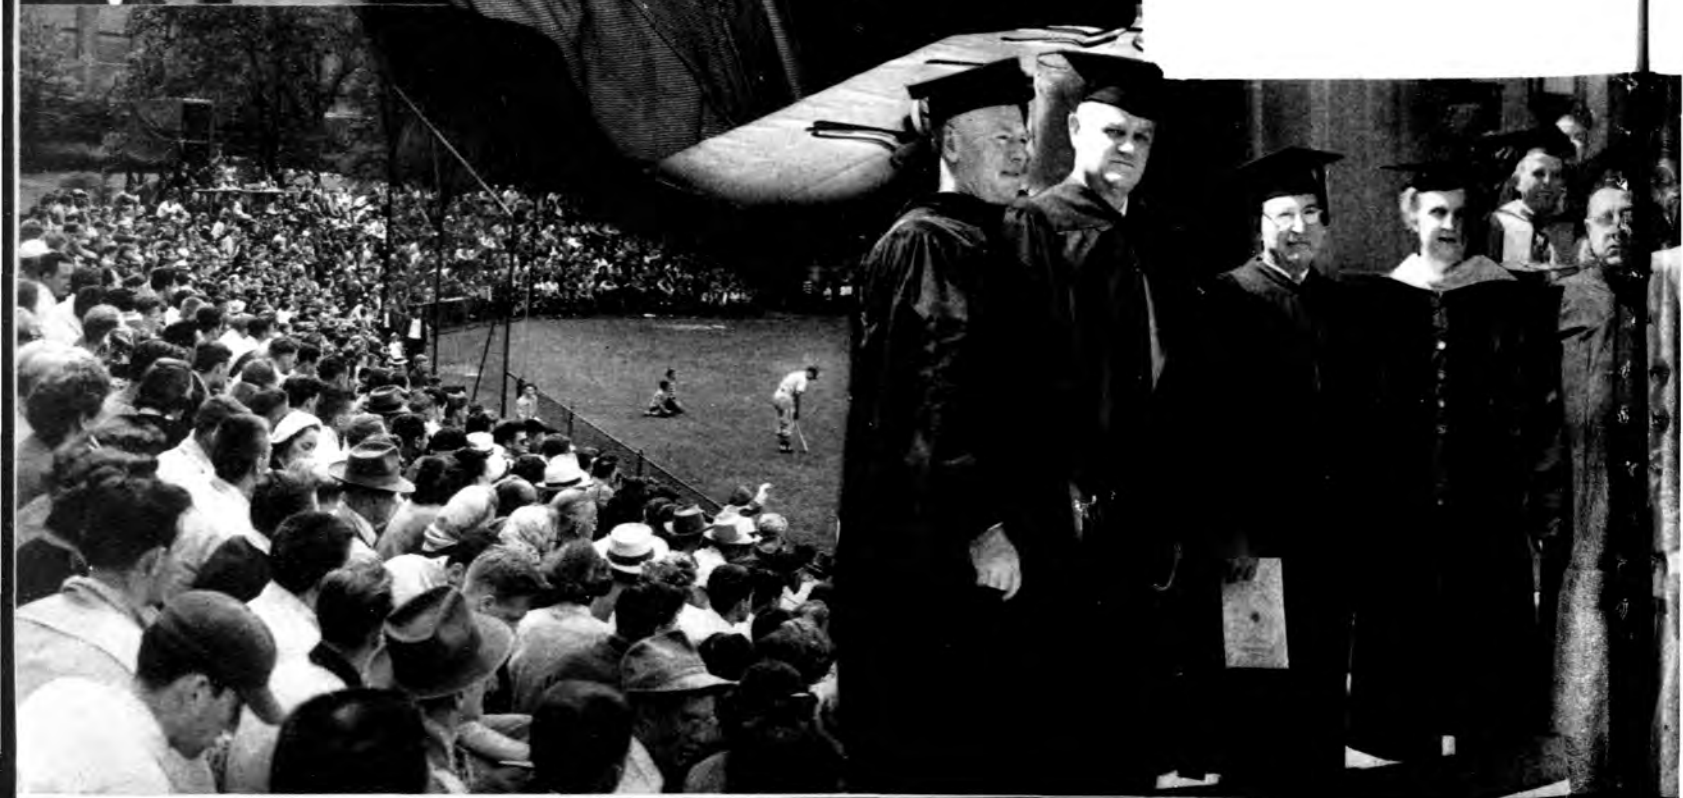

The Roll Call, instituted in January, is a plan designed to give financial aid to college activities not adequately taken care of in the regular budget. Funds are to be used in the purchase vitally needed research equipment; for expansion of research and extension services; a student loan fund; and the scholarship program.

More than 600 class officers participated in the drive, which will continue through the summer, Davidson said.

Commencement

Michigan State College had a carnival air during the June 2-4 week-end. Close to 20,000 alumni, students, faculty and parents took part in the end-of-the-year activities which included the annual Water Carnival, Alumni Day banquets and meetings, baseball games, campus tours and the college's 92nd annual Commencement. Alben W. Barkley, vice-president of the U.S., addressed the record-breaking 1950 class assembled in Jenison Fieldhouse.

FOLLOWING ALUMNI CLUBS

By Starr Keesler

Alumni activity tended toward picnics, golf parties and outings, as grads headed for the nation's lakes and streams to beat the summer heat. Chief concern of most clubs was election of officers for the coming year.

MICHIGAN CLUBS

Banquet at Standish

Robert Marshall, '34, was elected president of the Arenac-Ogemaw-Roscommon Alumni Club at the group's annual banquet held June 5 in Standish. Serving with him for the coming year will be C. D. Smith, '30, vice-president; and Ben Good, '41, secretary-treasurer.

Approximately 40 members attended the meeting and heard short talks by Starr Keesler, director of alumni relations at MSC, and Vice-President Smith, who is the newest member of the State Board of Agriculture, governing body of Michigan State College.

Dr. Hugh P. Baker, '01. Noted Educator, Dies

Achieved Notable Record

Dr. Baker, who served as president of the University of Massachusetts from 1932 to 1946 and as president emeritus since 1947, compiled a notable record of educational contributions during his career.

He received a master of forestry degree from Yale and a doctor of economics degree from the University of Munich. He also held five honorary doctorates from American universities.

Established Forestry Schools

Dr. Baker is credited with the establishment of departments of forestry at Iowa State College, Penn State and laid the foundation for the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse, where he served as dean of forestry for 10 years between 1912 and 1932. He also held important positions with federal agencies and commercial forestry firms, including service on President Hoover's National Board of Timber Conservation.

Under his leadership, the Amherst institution expanded its course offerings from an agricultural and science core to include liberal arts, engineering, business administration and other fields. Under his guidance, the Massachusetts State College became, both in name and in fact, the University of Massachusetts.

Dr. Baker is survived by his wife, a son, a daughter, and a brother, Harry D. Baker, '95.

Your Chapel Needs A Name

Because Michigan State College's new memorial chapel has been made possible by alumni donations, the Alumni Advisory Council is asking your aid in selecting a name.

The chapel, to be of formal gothic design and of stone construction, will serve as memorial to 341 alumni and students who lost their lives in World War II. It will seat more than 200 people and will be used for weddings, memorial services and other sacred events.

Some names have already been suggested and are listed below. Please indicate your preference or write another name you think would be noteworthy in the allotted space. Construction of the chapel is expected to begin early this fall. The name receiving the most favorable consideration will be carved above the main chapel entrance. Deadline is August 30, 1950.

Mail your suggestions to the Director of Alumni Relations, Box 551, East Lansing, Michigan.
