... Gingham Dog

Dogs will be dogs—twas ever so. Jodie finally became a well-behaved puppy that the Theta's allowed her to stay at the house and profess-calico cats didn't mind her pre-cat since she sat quietly beside her mistress in class—by a leash. Then she upset things by chasing an equalblack kitten in Professor W. H. Combs' 8 a.m. history class yesterday. The future looks black now, too.

... By Any Other Name

Even the best persons make mistakes including grammarians. In a book published recently, the author referred to the little green text, so well known on campus to freshmen English students, written by Prof. Ben Euwema. But the bibliography contained a slight typographical error and Professor Euwema is now known to his associates, affectionately, as "Bess."

Department Adds Business Courses To Curriculum

The department of business administration is developing a series of two-year terminal curricula to meet the requirements of returning veterans and others who want a vocational college training along with their comprehensive core course.

To date, the planning for four of these courses is well advanced. Secretarial science has already been approved by the faculty and is being offered this term.

Other courses which are expected to start next term are retailing, which is to be administered in collaboration with the School of Home Economics, insurance and general business.

The retailing curriculum will probably include technical courses such as textile merchandise, ready-to-wear merchandise, equipment and housewares, business arithmetic, fundamentals of merchandising, and retail merchandising.

Supervised retail practice in cooperation with Lansing merchants is to be included, along with training in advertising, principles of display, business writing and speaking, and general psychology.

The insurance curriculum will enable the student to enter the employ of the general insurance office or become affiliated with an agency with considerable academic background.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Fighting has broken out between troops of Generalissimo Francisco Franco and Maquis forces of Spanish Republicans reentering Spain from France, and is increasing in fury with Franco forced to bring up artillery and mechanized equipment against the Spanish Republicans, a blue network broadcast from London said today.

Drive Extends Across Lithuania to Trap 150,000 Germans

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Red army drove a band of steel across Lithuania to the Baltic sea 14 miles above Memel today, cutting off the German garrison in Riga and trapping probably 150,000 Nazi troops in Lithuania and Latvia.

A Soviet communique announced that Russian forces had crashed through to the sea at Palanga, in Lithuania on the north border of Memelland, and captured more than 300 other towns and villages north and southeast of Memel, virtually sealing the fate of that seaport and historic bone of international contention which Germany annexed in the spring of 1939.

The breakthrough did not appear large railway station 12 miles away.

Students to Hear Viennese Opera

Johann Strauss' "Gypsy Baron" will be the next presentation of the lecture and concert series, following the appearance of Dr. Will Durant in College auditorium this Friday evening. The opera will be given in the auditorium on Wednesday, Oct. 18, at 8:15 p.m.

Musically "The Gypsy Baron" is considered among the most beautiful of the works of the Viennese "waltz king", and has been more frequently performed by orchestras than any other of his compositions.

There have been many performances of the opera in America, most of which were given in German and with the original book. However, the production next week will be George Meade's English version, a new adaptation with a prologue and three scenes.

Principal roles will be sung by Brenda Lewis as Saffi, Richard Tyrol as Barinkay, Grant Garnell as Count Homonay, Helen George as Arsena, Norman Roland as Zsupan, Brooks McCormack as Ottokar, Hubert Norville as Count Carneio, and Teresa Gerson as Zepira.

Jean Oviatt Awarded National Recognition

Jean Oviatt, Washington, D. C. senior, was recently elected president of the College Club department of the American Home Economics association. She is the first State woman to gain such a distinction.

Miss Oviatt, who was president of the local Home Ec club last year, was chosen from about 200 representatives of nationwide colleges at the convention in Chicago last June.

At that time, Miss Jeannette Lee assistant to the dean of Home Economics, was also selected as the new state advisor. Representing MSC at the convention were Miss Oviatt; Marjorie Graff, Detroit senior; Aileen Wilson, Detroit senior; and Mary Gorsline, Battle Creek senior.

As president, Miss Oviatt will work with the field secretary of the Home Economics association and the adult chairman of the student club department.

They will work on the development of a national program, national projects, province

Aachen Faces Artillery Destruction If Surrender Ultimatum Is Declined

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The historic German frontier city of Aachen is threatened with "ruthless" destruction by American artillery and bombing planes beginning at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow (5:50 a.m. E.W.T.) if the commander of some 1,500 enemy troops in the surrounded stronghold declines an ultimatum delivered to him today to surrender unconditionally.

For the first time in the war a German city, rich in tradition, faced occupation by a land army. It was the first great test of whether the Germans were willing to see their cities destroyed one by one in carrying out Hitler's orders to fight to the death.

Aachen, whose pre-war population of 165,000 had been reduced to fewer than 15,000 civilians by evacuation and which already was badly damaged by nearly a month of fighting on its outskirts, was ringed by a tremendous concentration of American artillery—sufficient to smash the city to the desolation of Stalingrad in a short time.

The order to surrender unconditionally within 24 hours was delivered to the German command by three Americans under a white flag of truce.

Scholarship Holders Confer with Pratt Whitney Advisers

Four Pratt-Whitney scholarship holders will complete the course at the end of fall term, according to Dean of Students S. E. Crowe. Twelve other students will finish the course at the end of winter term.

A. A. K. Booth and Charles Kirchner of the Pratt-Whitney Aircraft company spent Monday and Tuesday talking with the women about the plant into which they will go upon completion of their studies.

Following their work here, the women will be given nine weeks of special training, after which they will be assigned positions in various divisions of the plant. The different jobs will be in designing, drafting, testing, and engineering.

There are no new entries into the course this term.

Bold Raid Hits 58 Nip Ships, 89 Airplanes

U.S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ. PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 10 (AP)—Sweeping the Ryuku islands some 200 miles south of Japan and only 500 miles from the China coast, carrier planes of the third fleet sank or damaged 58 ships and small craft and damaged 89 planes yesterday, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

The planes attacked in great force and achieved complete surprise, Admiral Nimitz said.

Nothing Escaped

In the first American strike into the islands, commanding the sea approaches between Foochow and Shanghai, Admiral William F. Halsey's planes attacked every naval vessel and merchant ship they could find and bombed and strafed island installations.

Preliminary reports indicated they sank 12 ships, including a destroyer, probably sank 14 and damaged 12. They also sank or damaged 20 luggers and other small craft.

75 Planes Destroyed

They destroyed more than 75 Japanese airplanes on the ground and shot 14 down in combat.

American plane losses were light, and none of the surface ships was damaged.

Vice Admiral Mitscher was in immediate command of the carriers.

Losses Listed

The enemy shipping losses:

Sunk—one destroyer, one minesweeper, one submarine tender, two medium cargo ships, two small cargo ships and five coastal cargo ships.

Probably sunk—two medium cargo ships, four small cargo ships, one medium oil tanker, and seven coastal cargo ships.

Damaged—three medium cargo ships, six small cargo ships, one destroyer and two small oil tankers.

Outside the church 35,000 persons waited in mournful tribute during the 35-minute funeral service conducted by the Rev. John Sutherland Bonnell, pastor and a long-time friend of Willkie.

Greek Life Is Not Indispensable

Seven hundred women are walking about the campus today believing they have lost their last friend . . . or worse that they haven't got what it takes to be a college success. These women are the rushees who did not get that final bid from a sorority.

Broken hearted as they may feel for the next few days . . . all-important as a sorority bid may seem to them right now . . . as a student at State a sorority is not the passport to success.

Less than one out of every three women belongs to a Greek organization. Fewer women actually belong to sororities than went through rushing this year. Arithmetic and not pull or glamour, pretty clothes or personality prohibits every rushee from becoming a sorority member.

Sorority membership is limited by a quota. Sororities are not encouraged on this campus to keep them from gaining an almighty importance among women.

Because a woman wears a sorority pin makes her no better than the woman who does not. Sororities realize this . . . so do independent upperclassmen.

Too many women have gone through Michigan State college proving that it is the woman, herself, and not the pin she wears that gets her dates, worthwhile campus positions, good marks and real friends.

Sorority rushing this year wore out everyone concerned, sorority members as well as rushees . . . Nevertheless, it was a sincere attempt on the part of PanHellenic council to work out a program which was fairest to both sorority and rushee alike. Less hurried rushing will be continued throughout the year for the women who were not pledged Monday.

Many freshmen wait purposely until their sophomore year to choose a sorority. By this time they can pick more wisely the group with whom they would be happiest.

In the end there is little room at State for broken hearts. Too many exciting things are happening. Too many new opportunities are knocking at every student's door to weep over the ones that are left behind.

Success will not come to any woman on this campus because she wears a sorority pin. The freshman wearing a pledge pin now must prove herself as well as her roommate who thinks college happiness has ended because she didn't make "the grade."

SPEAKING FOR MYSELF

By BARBARA DENNISON

AS STUDENTS at the first school devoted to the study of Agriculture in the world, Michigan State students should be interested in the new School of Pan American Agriculture opening tomorrow in Zamorano, Honduras.

It is altogether appropriate that the school, the first of its kind in the Central American countries, should open on Columbus day, a day which is observed jointly by all states of the Western Hemisphere.

The value of education has never been underestimated, and the new school of agricultural education is of even greater significance to the Americas. It is not only a means of bettering relations, but will lead to better utilization of undeveloped land and resources.

As the school is set up, it will have permanent enrollment of at least 160 boys for the free three year course, with the students selected from citizen families with varied backgrounds. For the most part they are poor children who would otherwise be unable to go to school.

The boys will spend four hours each weekday at manual training, four hours at study and at least two hours at games and recreation. Permanent maintenance of the school has been pledged by the United Fruit company, although the educational center is separate from the company, with its own staff.

One of the objectives of the new school is to experiment with and develop new crops not previously grown in the Central American countries.

In addition, the training of these boys will lead them back to their own communities to apply what they have learned, and will result in continued advantages to the people of the Central Americas.

Vice-President Henry Wallace, who will speak tomorrow for the inauguration ceremonies of the new School of Pan American Agriculture at Zamorano, will express the thanks and good wishes of the people of North America in the new project being undertaken by our neighbors to the south.

WITH ALL the campaigning and speech making going on in connection with the approaching presidential elections, FDR seems to have neglected making one particular point clear.

It won't be long before November rolls around, and the American people must have learned by now that they can't expect Thanksgiving to be any particular day any more.

Until recent years, Thanksgiving was observed the last Thursday in November, but that has more or less gone out of the window now.

The calendars are made up this year with Nov. 30 as Thanksgiving day, but so were they made up once before indicating the day, and it wasn't right, as it turned out. It's all mighty confusing and if there is any changing to be done, it's about time something was said about it.

WITH a sigh of relief and a slightly deflated look, some 1,500 or more sorority women and rushees put the last two weeks behind them Monday night, and vowed not to do any more rushing until absolutely necessary.

There is nothing quite so wearing as formal rushing, but in spite of the individuals who complain, "There shouldn't be any formal rushing until winter term," the idea never passes all the sororities as a body.

And in spite of the complaining that is done, and the relief when the session is over, no one will deny that a lot of wonderful women were added to the ranks of MSC's modern Greeks as a result.

LETTERS To The Editor

TO the Editor:

Would it be possible to have a reply to this letter printed in the State News?

I should like to know why tickets to the opera "The Gypsy Baron" are being made available first to those persons too lazy or too asleep to go and get a ticket for "La Traviata" before it was too late? The same goes for those who had seats beyond the twenty-fifth row.

I cannot see why those persons who did get tickets because they were on their toes should be penalized in favor of those who kept putting it off until the last minute.

I got my ticket Monday morning and I did not see any crowd around the ticket office. No line, no nothing, just stepped up and got a ticket and now Lazy Joe and Lazy Sue get first chance. It's a crazy world when we reward a person for being asleep.

State Grid Eleven Prepares For Kansas State Battle

Scrimmages, Offensive Drill Stressed

By JOE HEAGANY

Girding themselves for their third tussle of the season with a team whose past record promises easier going Saturday, the Spartans participated in a spirited scrimmage last night. Kansas State, weekend foes, lost to Missouri by a 33-0 score last Saturday.

After a day's rest the first team got back in the swing of things last night, and with the exception of Tackle Mike Prashaw who aggravated an old shoulder wound all participated in the drill. Offensive tactics will probably hold the limelight this week.

Offensive Game Stressed

After displaying a high-geared offensive against Scranton the Spartans seemed to lose their punch against Kentucky, and Coach Charley Bachman and staff will no doubt try and recover this much needed weapon. One bright spot in the green and white offense last week-end was the passing that kept State in the game all the way.

Two long passes in the first period that covered half the field deep in enemy territory were called back or the score might have been different. Bob Bruegger and Jack Breslin have been hitting their targets with unerring accuracy in the two games and if the conditions call for it there will be plenty of pitching come Saturday.

Line Proved Worth

Under the tutelage of John Kobs, line coach, the Spartan forward wall proved their mettle Saturday, and will not have such a hard time of it this weekend, but they will be ready for anything Kobs had a chance to see his reserves in action, and all who played displayed dependability.

A dark horse in the Spartan offense may be uncovered to a great extent Saturday in the person of Ben Johnson. Johnson tallied in the Scranton game and last stepping lad from Pennsylvania may easily cause havoc if he gets underway.

Cross Country Team Will Leave for Ohio State Friday Morning

Facing the first meet of the season Saturday at Ohio State, the cross country team is working furiously to get in condition to grind out a win over the three mile course at Columbus.

Coach Lauren Brown will take the runners with him to the Ohio State meet. They will leave Friday morning, in a car.

Pace setter for the team is Bob Price, Belding junior, who took a fourth in the national collegiate two mile run this spring.

Another outstanding runner is Wayne Finkbinder, who is a graduate of Western Michigan college where he captained the cross country team. However he is handicapped because he has not run in several years.

Churchill, Stalin Talk of Peace Plans

Post-War Topics Hold Spotlight At Moscow

MOSCOW, Oct. 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill came to Moscow for talks with Premier Stalin which should lead to guarantees of peace after victory, it was learned in responsible quarters tonight.

The British and Russian leaders spent three hours together in the Kremlin last night and met again tonight at a gala banquet arranged by the Soviet government and attended by the entire delegation and the U.S. and British ambassadors and envoys from the British dominions.

Leaders Discuss Germany
The willingness with which Stalin met Churchill was indicative of the Soviet Marshal's readiness to discuss the mighty problems which must inevitably face the United Nations after the war.

High on the agenda is the Balkan situation—what to do to make sure the German and pro-fascist spilt is eliminated in southeastern Europe.

The question of what to do with Germany is, of course, one of the biggest topics before the United Nations.

Poland Becomes Topic

The two also are expected to talk about Poland. Churchill's attitude on Poland is well known because he has spoken recently in a fashion that met with Soviet approval, especially when he said Russia had a right to expect a friendly Poland.

With the two leaders personally discussing the problems confronting the United Nations, Izvestia, the official Soviet government organ, stoutly expressed opposition today to altering the principal of a unanimous vote by the four major powers on the international security council in case of postwar aggression.

Permission Granted

Women attending the evening performance of "Othello" in Lansing will be required to give up a D coupon. Those returning later than the allotted hour and a half must return as quickly as possible and show ticket stubs to their housemothers.

Record Ban Holds Despite FDR Plea

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 (AP)—James C. Petrillo, head of the American Federation of Musicians, today rejected President Roosevelt's request to remove the union's 26 month old ban on making recordings, and contended such a step would take business away from concerns that have agreements with the AFM.

In a nine page telegram to the President, the AFM chief stated that since the prohibition went into effect Aug. 1, 1942, the union had entered into contracts with 105 firms and individuals, that they were producing nearly 4,000,000 records a month, and that the restriction now affected only two companies—RCA-Victor and Columbia.

"There is only one solution to this problem," the Petrillo message set forth, "the federation can accept, and that is for these two companies to sign the same contract as the 105 other companies have signed if they wish our members to work for them in making recordings and transcriptions."

AWS, Theta Sig Will Hold Final Sale Of Activities Blue Book Today

Freshmen, today will be the last chance to buy the answers to all those questions which upperclassmen haven't yet covered. Any query about activities on campus or any doubts about what it takes to get into these associations are cleared up in the new Activity Blue Book.

The women behind the editorial scenes of this handbook for coeds are Billie Morley, New Troy senior, representing AWS, Ro Howland and Peg Middlemiss, Detroit seniors, of Theta Sigma Phi.

CDC Information

First and most important is the information telling just what is being done by Michigan State college in the war effort, and how anyone can help through the Co-ordinating Defense Council, more commonly known as CDC.

For music lovers there is something interesting on page 12 entitled "Music Maestro, Please". And the cooks in the crowd will find out how they can get their finger in the pie by reading "If You Could Only Cook".

All Activities Included

Upperclassmen can brush up on the workings of the Point Supervisory System by reading the explanation on page 31.

No one is left out and every interest is given its due. One warning thought, however, from the pages of the Activity Blue Book itself: Since there are so many interesting clubs to be joined and activities to try, it is easy to do too much. No one wants to "grow up to be a pig"—or a nervous wreck, so take things calmly at first.

The Activity Blue Books can be called for between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. in the main Union lounge.

Rather to Be Speaker at Detroit Meeting

Howard Rather, Dean of Basic College, will be guest speaker at an annual meeting of the Michigan Association of Registrar's and Admission Offices at the Canterbury House in Detroit.

High school principals, assistants, and senior counselors have been invited to hear him explain the Basic College that they in turn may pass the information on to students interested in Michigan State.

Registrar Robert S. Linton and Glen O. Stewart, director of alumni relations, will also attend the meeting. For the past ten years Stewart has promoted new programs with seniors in Detroit and is now fostering interest in the Basic College.
