

Bob Strong's Band Highlights IFC-PanHel Ball Tonight

Greek Motif Lends Atmosphere to Annual Dance; Tickets Now on Sale at Union Desk

By JANE HELBIG
Tonight from 9 to 12 p.m., MSU will swing out to the music of Bob Strong's orchestra at the annual Intercollegiate-PanHellenic ball held in the large auditorium. A Greek motif will lend the proper atmosphere for the occasion. Representations will represent Greek organizations sponsoring the dance, according to Parlin, Athens senior. The band will be spotlighted against a black drop. Upon the stage two large Greek figures will be seen. They are clothed in Greek costume and are painted between two Greek columns in silver.

Secret in Low
Strong's orchestra is noted for its distinctive arrangements and tunes it features written by the bandleader. Highlighted in the performance will be Marie Carroll's vocalizations. Tickets are still available at the Union desk for all students, including non-fraternity and society members.

Ralph Fenstermacher, Hudson sophomore, dance co-chairman, will escort Lois Worden of Benton Harbor. Parlin, chairman of decorations, will escort Jean Ansell, Anderson, Ind., junior. Invitations are chairmen Albert Chafets, Detroit senior, who will attend with Beverly Wheeler, Chicago sophomore, and Pzyser, Battle Creek junior, in charge of publicity, will escort Barbara Glassbrook, Lansing junior.

Dates Named
Dorothy Glaeser, Buffalo, N. Y., senior, and Bill Graham, Detroit sophomore, co-chairmen of the band committee, will attend with Lt. Steven Gooderham of Ontario, and Marion Murchison from Detroit, respectively. Pzyser and Mrs. John A. Handley, Dean and Mrs. F. T. Mitchell, Secretary and Mrs. K. H. McDonald, Dean and Mrs. S. E. Olson, and Dean and Mrs. E. L. Anthony will be honorary patrons.

Others are Col. and Mrs. D. R. Boney, Dean and Mrs. H. B. Boney, Dean Marie Dye, Dean and Mrs. L. C. Emmons, Dean and Mrs. Ward Giltner, Dean and Mrs. R. C. Huston, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Kuykendall, and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Nickle.

In Fact, Too

In explaining the relative size of China as compared to the United States, Dr. W. R. Fee, head of the history department, really clarified matters for his class on the History of the Far East. "You know how the United States looks," said Dr. Fee, "It looks good on the map."

A Bad Penny

The about the Scotch money Thomas, Ferndale freshman was seen the other morning frantically at something wedged in the always ice. Friends rushed up to help her in what they thought was her plight only to find the object of her serious attention was three bright pennies. They watched her open mouth as she dug frantically and then walked away muttering to herself that she would go home and get a screw-driver.

Debate Teams To Compete Here Today

Seven Colleges Included In Intercollegiate Speech Contest

Michigan State will be the scene today of the Michigan Intercollegiate debating tournament. This meet, sponsored by the Michigan Intercollegiate speech league, will bring to campus representatives of approximately seven Michigan colleges.

Because of the size of the group to debate, the meet has been divided into three sections. Debates will begin at 1 p.m., 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. The debates will be held in the Union annex, Home Economics building, and Morrill hall.

Decisions Given
Decisions will be given in all debates. Each college will enter an affirmative and a negative team in the league debate which will decide the meet champions. Debating for State in the debate will be June Szosz, Elgin, Illinois, sophomore, and Gretchen Wright, Vickery, Ohio, sophomore, on the affirmative and Fred Meyer, Fairhaven sophomore, and Jack Walker, Port Austin sophomore, on the negative.

Michigan State will enter representatives from all three of its main teams. Bernard J. Knittel, varsity women's coach is entering six coeds. Miss Szosz, Miss Wright, Wilma Helfrich, Traverse City sophomore; Margaret Troup, Jackson junior; Leota Calkins, Haslett sophomore; and Fay Blakely, Rockwood sophomore.

Men's Team

The freshman team will be Margaret Cline, Bay City; Edith Nolte, Plymouth; Maxine Finkbeiner, Middleville; Warren Pearse, Detroit; Jane Hansen, Eaton Rapids and Alice Finley, Milford.

Erica Morini Will Present Concert

Miss Erica Morini, world-famed violinist, will appear here Tuesday night at 8 in the Music auditorium. The concert is one in the music series and admission is by season ticket.

Making her debut in Leipzig under the baton of Artur Nikisch at the age of 8, she has been studying violin since she was four. Having completed her master course at the Vienna conservatory she began a long series of European concerts.

Many times she has played for royalty, among them Emperor Karl of Austria.

Her American debut was made in Carnegie Hall while she was still in her early teens. Achieving immediate success here as in Europe, she is ranked with Heifetz and Kreisler by the critics.

Miss Morini's violin is the "Davidoff" Stradivarius, which is dated 1727 and valued at $45,000. Her father, a professor of music, first heard the instrument before her birth. When he recognized his young daughter's talent he set out to secure it for her.

RED CROSS DRIVE

Hannah Starts Ball Rolling for Annual Red Cross Drive

A faculty committee appointed by President Hannah to conduct a Red Cross drive beginning on March 1 among the faculty and staff members was announced today.

Dean H. C. Rather will head the committee and assisting him are C. G. Gard, of the poultry husbandry department; Miss Dorothy Kerth, women's physical education; Bert Sangster, engineering; Miss Marie Dye, Home Economics; J. M. Barbour, music; C. V. Millard, education; Townsend Rich, English, and C. K. Ball, chemistry.

Others are Mrs. L. H. Irland, political science; H. J. Stafseth, bacteriology; R. C. Whiting, accounting office, and E. E. Kinney of buildings and utilities.

This will be the first year a student Red Cross drive has held. Heading the student committee is Marion Chenery, Ann Arbor sophomore. Detroit junior, Darrell Coucy, will act as treasurer.

Last year the faculty and army air force men stationed on campus raised $3,890. No goal is set for this year, but it is hoped that inclusion of civilian students in the drive will top last year's figure, Rather said.

Organizations and student groups will be asked to participate in this drive to obtain funds for the Red Cross and possibly surplus last year's quota.

11th Army Smashes From Naval Base on Subic Bay

By C. YATES McDANIEL, MANILA, Feb. 17 (AP)—Bataan has been captured by the Yanks—accomplishing in a little over two weeks what it took Japan more than three months to do in 1942.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today the regaining of the historic peninsula where hundreds of Americans died near the war's outset before forced back by lack of arms and food to capitulate April 9, 1942. The master stroke was an amphibious swing by the 11th Army corps from Olongapo Naval base on Subic Bay around to Mariveles, the south tip of Bataan, protected by guns of the U. S. seventh fleet and planes of the Far East airforce.

Maj. Gen. Charles P. Hall's 11th corpsmen landed at Mariveles Thursday morning. Preceding the landing, the harbor was cleared of mines "in a daring and skillful operation," today's communique said.

The American battle for Bataan's recapture opened Jan. 29 with Yank landings on the San-Bales province coast in a push toward Olongapo.

Gunfire from Corregidor fortresses was neutralized before-hand by cruiser and destroyer batteries, and by American warplanes.

The invasion started from the Olongapo Naval base in Subic Bay, immediately north of Bataan on the Luzon west coast.

American losses were light. Seizure of the peninsula, on which Americans and Filipinos fought a gallant but losing battle in the spring of 1942, puts the Yanks in position for knock-out blows against Corregidor, the fortress which guards the Manila bay mouth.

Tokyo radio announced earlier that a score or so of American minesweepers were clearing the channel in preparation for a likely invasion by warships and troopships.

Sixth division Yanks drove down the peninsula's Manila bay coast from captured Pilar, meanwhile, and moved toward a juncture with the 38th division along an east-west road.

The Japanese sealed off on Bataan peninsula are doomed.

In war-blackened Manila, MacArthur announced that three American divisions were continuing "the progressive reduction of the enemy's final position" in the old intramuros district along the bay shore just south of the mouth of the Pasig river.

Auction Sale Planned to Raise Funds For World Student Service Drive

A last-chance auction to raise funds for the World Student Service fund will be held in the Union ballroom this afternoon at 2:30 immediately preceding Party-party, Union board announced yesterday.

Servicemen stationed on campus will be admitted free to Party-party which begins at 3 p.m. Dancing to the music of Dick Snook will highlight the affair, and tables set up for card and board games will also offer amusement, Marty Kelly, Kalamazoo senior, said.

WSSF drive will be extended from today until Monday as the intake so far has fallen short of the quota. Today the drive will honor Lt. Paul Sundheim, '46, and Monday Lt. Allen Eastman, '44, will be honored. Both of these officers are German prisoners.

Spartan Varieties, all-student talent program, will be broadcast from Party-party from 4 to 4:30 p.m. over WKAR. Larry Frymire, master of ceremonies, said that the program will open with the Chi Omega trio singing "Rocking Chair" and "Trucking." Barbara Quayle, Pontiac junior, will accompany Jean Zock, Hamburg, N. Y., junior, and Mary Greene, Deckerville sophomore, will sing a duet version of "Begin the Beguine," and "My Buddie," accompanied by Evelyn Rohlfis, Akron freshman.

Lenore Huddleston, East Lansing senior will play a concert arrangement of Peter de Rose's "Deep Purple" and Russian born George Drouth, from Chicago, will play several Russian dance pieces on his accordion.

Articles to be auctioned off will be those which have been in the campus Lost and Found for at least two months.

American Folklore

By RICHARD M. DORSON

History and Political Science Instructor

Place legends associate fanciful fictions with mountains, lakes, rivers, islands, rocks, trees, houses, and other natural or man-made phenomena. Indian lovers, doomed to tragedy, leap over a precipice, hence known as Lovers' Leap; steps of an inn where a traveler was mysteriously murdered are ineradicably stained with red. Under a knobby tree the notorious Kidd hid his treasure, guarded by the ghost of one of his men killed for the purpose; the shape of a footprint in the rock testifies to the searing passage of the Fiend, hell-bent for the soul of a greedy one who had covenanted for gold.

Legends attach to persons as well as places; a village crier infamous in town records, bewitched the milk so butter would not come, or the horse so he could not budge, or the man whom she saddled and bridled and rode through the night.

But burn, beat, or pick the contrary object or animal, and she with herself ever after bore the disfigurement. Besides witches and wizards, town gossip weaves lore about scapegraces, strong men, eccentrics, and wags.

Better known than American folklore is the broad river of American folk songs. Many currents flow into the river, traditional English and Scottish ballads often textually adapted to the transatlantic scene; occupational ballads created by lumberjacks, miners, cowboys, sailors, dust-bowl farmers.

Other currents are the hero ballads that celebrate bad men like Jesse James and Sam Bass, or the Negro superman John Henry who died with his hammer in his hand; broader the range of Afro-American song, human love lyrics, nonsense and play-party songs, sea chanteys and work songs. A vast repertoire that John Jacob Niles will superbly illustrate March 7 for an MSC audience.

Although folk literature limps itself to the tale and the song, the field of folklore expands to include every aspect of traditional living. Beyond the immediate domain of folk superstition, proverb, riddle, game, dance, drama, pageant its sphere swells over custom and belief, arts and crafts, even cooking and building, all facts of human activity that reflect the persistence of tradition.

Traditional life in the United States has received even less attention that traditional literature—but what country person does not know an antique recipe, cure, omen, saying, observance, ritual, or practice?

As the memory of these matters flickers, and society grows urban and technological, folk culture ceases to exist as active tradition, and, if not deliberately preserved, passes from the knowledge of man.

What is the value of American folklore, whether narrowly or broadly conceived, to the teacher and student of the humanities? For literature, it deserves study in itself as folk expression and as well in its influence on conscious expression.

Scores of American writers have drawn nourishment and themes from the folkstuff about them, and a complete understanding of Twain, Whittier, Hawthorne, Mrs. Stowe, Irving, for example, or an appreciation of their art requires a knowledge of folk life. See—FACULTY—Page 3.

Four State Lettermen Listed as Casualties

The death of three former Spartans was announced this week by the war department.

Capt. Max Hindman, former basketball star, Lt. Arthur Ungren, and "Little Joe" Bale were among the casualties. Bale was on the freshman basketball squad.

Ungren, former advertising manager of the Michigan Farmer, is a former Lansing resident. His widow lives at 912 West Kalamazoo street.

Earlier in the week Warren Anderson, track and cross-country star, and Alex Kelzko, football player, were also listed as killed in action.

Monty Grinds To Southeast Toward Ruhr

Bombs, Bullets, Rockets Prepare Way for Canadian Army

PARIS, Feb. 16 (AP) — A roaring battle raged today on a 10-mile front south and east of Kleve, where Field Marshal Montgomery's offensive crunched southeastward yard by yard into a strongly-reinforced German line standing between his forces and the rich Ruhr and Rhineland.

Over a battlefield where hundreds of big guns blazed, swarms of Allied warplanes attacked with bombs, bullets and rockets, trying to knock the Germans from rising ground before the three strategic road networks of Goch, Uedem and Calcar.

The Canadian first army — now disclosed to be made up of 75 per cent British forces — was about two miles from Calcar, five miles from Uedem and two and a half miles from Goch. More Allied tanks were joining the bruising struggles as the ground firmed underneath.

German civilians, men, women and children, streamed from the battle zone, seeking safety behind the Allied lines.

Scottish infantry driving east and gaining nearly a mile were attacking bitterly defended heights south of Moyland, possibly within two miles of Calcar and 17 from Wesel at the gateway to the industrial Ruhr valley.
