Ally Refuse to Ship Red POWs

U. N. Leader Calls Move Impractical

Consul Suggests Custody in Korea

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The Allies told Communist truce delegates today they would not agree to transport 48,000 prisoners held by the U.N. command to a neutral Asian country after a Korean armistice. The 48,000 refuse to go home.

Li Gen, William K. Harrison Jr., senior Allied delegate, made the statement in reply to a question by North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Red negotiator.

Nam Il noted that the U.N. Command Monday had nominated Pakistan as a neutral custodian of bulky prisoners, but he said he still wanted to know whether the U.N. would agree to send the prisoners to the neutral country.

Harrison said such a movement was impractical. The Allies previously had rejected the Communist proposal on this score.

Moreover, Harrison said, the prisoners could not be moved prior to the resolution of their status without force, and many of them will destroy themselves rather than submit to removal from Korea.

The U.N. Command wants the neutral nation to take custody of the prisoners in Korea.

The meeting adjourned after 59 minutes. Another session was slated for Wednesday.

The U.N. Command warned the Reds Monday that time was fast running out in the newly revived Korean armistice negotiations.

Alpha Phi Omega has issued its last call for blood donors for the drive to be held May 6, 7 and 8. Registration has been extended until today in an effort to meet the 1,200 pint quota.

Only 649 donors have registered for the drive. Registration is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Union Courtyard.

The blood drive will take place in the Union Pine Pong room. The Red Cross estimates that it takes 15 minutes to give a pint of blood.

Army ROTC and AFROTC cadets who give blood will receive grade credits from the Military Science Department.

Chairmen of "Block S" committees will be introduced and each will give an outline of his or her duties.

All interested students are urged to attend, Spelman said.

Board Tries First Case In Elections

Reviewers Allow Rabe to Campaign

The Election Review Board held their first meeting Monday.

Their first case was an appeal of a decision by the student Congress to disqualify the candidacy of Norm Rabe, Battle Creek Junior, for senior vice-president.

The Board decided to overrule the Congress act on the grounds that the reason for disqualification was inadequately covered by the rules and that in the Board's mind, there was no purposeful evasion of the rules.

Rabe had obtained a petition from the student Congress office on April 21, two days before the petition were to be given out legally. At that time, no mention had been made in the rules that petitions would be invalid unless stamped officially by the student Congress.

Rabe said that he had not obtained signatures for his petition prior to the official date, April 23.

The Board said that the first case that petition were available ahead of the prescribed date and the fact of this case, had an oversight on the part of the student Congress. In their opinion, Rabe had fulfilled all of the necessary requirements.

It was recommended to the student Congress by the Election Board that steps be taken to insure that petitions should not be available to anyone, except the Elections Chairman, until the official date for distribution. They also recommended that the State News be designated to carry all official election notices.

Registrations To Receive Revamping

Late Camera Adds Work, Expense

Plans are being made to study and change late registration, according to Registrar Robert Linton.

This decision was reached by the Registrar's Office after a survey of late registration showed that over 150 extra man-hours were spent by the Registration and Tabulating Department in processing 874 late registrants. This does not include the extra time spent by other offices such as Admission and Records, Housing, Dean's Offices and Counseling Center.

The report, which was completed April 26 before 20 other students had enrolled, also showed that $2,210 in late fees was spent by students.

Raising the fee for late registration and giving the students who register at the regular time priority on adjustments to schedules were among suggestions to decrease late registrations. In order to study these and other suggestions, a joint faculty-student government committee has been appointed by Dean Tom King.

The registration report included a breakdown of late enrollment by high schools and colleges for those having five or more late registrants. The closest to MSC's 874 was Highland Park Junior College with 19.

According to the report, the number of late male students.

Autumn changes were apparent when Herman switched from older jazz patterns to newer ideas in mood-building.

Solos in general were not outstanding but the traditional Woody Herman power and drive was still there.

Things really began to pop when Ella Fitzgerald appeared. A big gal, in size and in talent, Ella sings well both hot and sweet as jazz lovers everywhere know.

Alternately sighing and shouting through such favorites as "Lover Come Back to Me," "Someone to Watch Over Me" and "Serenade in Blue," she was magnificent.

As if this wasn't enough, Ella presented a fabulous combination of song and singer in doing "St. Louis Blues" as only she can do it, and ended with some scat singing Saturday.

Reason for Effort

The announcement that the United States will gather all possible data on alleged mistreatment of Allied prisoners of war has raised a question. That question is: For what? It is argued that none of the violators can ever be brought to trial. That is, unless we fight and win a total war in Asia, which is not a pleasant prospect.

The Army announced Monday that two C-54 military transport planes, each carrying 100 U.S. prisoners of war, will arrive in Honolulu from Japan on Monday night and early Tuesday.

The announcement corrected an earlier report that a C-54 enroute to Honolulu was carrying 13 American POWs—the last to obtain medical clearance.

One of the two transport planes is carrying 19 ex-prisoners of war because of mechanical problems and that those men were transferred to another C-54.

The Army said later that the prisoners will stay temporarily in Honolulu.

The first of the two transport planes is scheduled to arrive at Hickam Airbase at 11:00 p.m. The second is expected at 1 a.m.

Of the 149 American prisoners of war, 100 are being held by the Reds in North Vietnam, and 97 have reached homes or relatives in the U.S. mainland.

But Europe Produces More Dr. Jaffe Upholds American Scholars

Although Europe is reported to produce more true scholars than America, the best American scholars are equal to the best European, says Dr. Adrian Jaffe who spent the summer of 1951 in France, England and Italy.

His opinion is that the American is handicapped by a lack of diversified background in his schooling, but he gains the advantage of freedom from traditional straight-jackets in thinking.

"There is too great a tendency to under-rate the American scholar," he believes.

The continental student, he explained, is started very early on a variety of subjects. He studies a general course from the time he starts school, and before he has reached the equivalent of our junior high school level he must prove his ability for university work. A distinction is then made between the pre-university and the practical education course.

Foreign universities concentrate more on the well-grounded scholar, Dr. Jaffe said. In Europe, one seldom starts to specialize until he has finished four years or more of general study.

He believes that Americans today take democracy in education to mean similar schooling for all, rather than opportunity for schooling for all. In his opinion it should mean that no qualified person be barred from schooling because he lacks funds, but that availability of funds alone should guarantee a particular type of college education.

"At Oxford, 80 per cent of the students are from poor families and are attending on scholarship," he estimated, saying that European education is not restricted as popularly believed, to upper-income persons.

While American schools stress specialization, he said, it is possible for a student to get a really broad education if he tries.

"The courses are there; it is only an attitude which keeps anyone from reaching that goal."

Both the European and the American educational systems are succeeding in producing what they want to produce, is Dr. Jaffe's conclusion. Changes in the systems must be preceded by popular acceptance of new goals, he said.

Not in Grill, Tho' East Lansing Coffee Goes Up One Cent

The seven-cent cup of coffee is fast disappearing in East Lansing. Half of the drugstore managers said they had to raise the price to eight cents when wholesale prices rose early in the month.

But the Union Grill intends to hold the seven-cent line until the end of the term, at least, according to Phillip Ball, grill manager.

Drugstore managers denied they were upping the price to discourage student "coffee-huffers." "We love them," said one, "but of course, it would be nice if they bought a little more."

Contrary to popular belief, managers report students linger just as long at the counters as they do in the booths, but in the booths they spend more.

Enrollment Includes Fox, Coons, Alligator

The college has its own little zoo on South Campus behind the temporary classrooms.

The zoo includes a two-year-old fox for raccoons with a litter and an alligator with a push-in nose. Students have been dropping in to watch these and other animals for more than 10 years, according to Earle Harrison, keeper of the Animal House.

The four raccoons display the intelligence of a five-year-old child, psychologists say. On winter mornings, Betty, who shares the cage with Pete, may be observed cooling her hot water drinks with ice.

Raccoons have domestic troubles, too. Once, Harrison said, Betty got so miffed at Pete that she poked her nose and teeth in the cage until she was a temporary separation. When she was put in a separate cage she curled up happily and went to sleep.

All raccoons have a passion for candy bars and will perform for student visitors who bring them. Betty, however, is not so much concerned with her public as present because she is busy having a family.

The alligator got his put-nose from prodding it against the wall of the sink trying to get out. Harrison said that because the alligator is a cold-blooded creature, he must be kept warm during the winter when his metabolism rate drops so low that he stops eating.

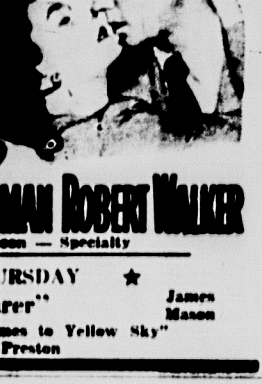

This winter Harrison pulled a trick on the gator and placed a light bulb over his sink with a reflector. The heat generated from the bulb caused him to start eating. In 10 months, two months ahead of time.

The fox also likes warm weather. He can be seen sleeping high in the cage during rainy or cold weather, but he will come down to the ground when it gets warm.

Kobsmen Take Big Ten Rest; Prepare for Fighting Irish Title

Even Houtteman Shines

Tigers Nip Yankee Myth, 10-8

DETROIT (AP)—The last-place Detroit Tigers, getting a big and unexpected boost from relief pitcher Art Houtteman, slammed four Yankee hurlers for 10 hits and a 10-8 victory Monday which knocked the New York Yankees out of undisputed possession of first place in the American League.

Pounding Yankee ace Vic Raschi and three relievers, the Tigers dropped New York into a first-place tie with Cleveland and set up a battle for the league lead tonight when the two teams meet in a game at Cleveland.

Detroit also used four pitchers and it took Houtteman, a big bust this season until Monday, to still the Yankee bats.

The big righthander came on in the eighth inning, and amid boos from the crowd of 7,405, cut off a four-run rally by the Yankees. With the tying run on first, he got the last out of the inning then retired the side in order in the ninth, striking out Mickey Mantle to end it.

Three Tigers—Freddie Hatfield, Bob Nieman and Don Lund—each had three hits, while Matt Batt's knocked in four runs with a pair of two-run singles.

But despite all this hitting, the Tigers needed Houtteman.

The Yankees came into the eighth trailing 9-4. A single by Mantle, an error, and a single by Gil McDougald brought in one run. Irv Noren batted for Billy Martin and drilled a home run into the lower rightfield stands, leaving the New Yorkers one run behind.

When pinch-hitter Bill Benna followed with a single, Houtteman was called on to replace Dave Madison, who eventually got the win. Bob Cery became the Yankees' third straight pinch-hitter, batting for Phil Rizzuto and was the first to fail, lifting an easy fly to right.

When Houtteman was called in to pitch, some of the fans chanted: "Home Run Houtteman... Home Run Houtteman..."

But, for the first time this year, Art came through in the clutch as Houtteman retired the Yankee power men—Johnny Mize, Gene Woodling and Mantle. Mize had hit a home run in the sixth inning as the Yanks tied the score, 3-3. It was the first homer of the season for the 40-year-old first baseman.

Hal Newhouser had started for Detroit but had to retire after four innings because of a pulled muscle in his left leg.

Newhouser was gunning for his first win of the year and the 201st in his lifetime.

GIANTS SPLIT WITH REDS

NEW YORK (AP)—Rookie Daryl Spencer climaxed a seven-run eighth inning with a grand slam home run as the New York Giants pounded Cincinnati for 10 hits to shatter the Redlegs, 12-4 in the first game of a doubleheader Monday.

Ken Kuffenberger started the game for the Redlegs and was plastered with his third loss without a victory giving up nine hits and five runs in four innings.

A grand slam home run by outfielder Gus Bell in the seventh inning after first baseman Ted Kluszewski had clouded a first inning, three-run homer helped the Cincinnati Reds to a 9-5 victory over the New York Giants in the nightcap of the doubleheader.

The triumph ended an eight-game losing streak for the Redlegs.

Renew Ancient Rivalry With Notre Dame

As a result of their two weekend victories, the "Kob" Spartans have a little 'breathing room' in the Big Ten standings. But the rest won't last for long. Notre Dame's powerful line invaded Old College Field Wednesday afternoon to renew a rivalry with the Spartans. Formerly occupying the center of the Big Ten, the Spartans now rest in eighth place with a 2-4 league record.

Sharing first place are Wisconsin and Northwestern, both with two wins against no losses. Both squads were rained out of all three games in the scheduled weekend series.

Ohio State holds the third place with a surprising 5-1 record. The Buckeyes beat Purdue, 6-2, Friday and drubbed Indiana Saturday, 12-8 and 10-4.

Michigan's Wolverines were dumped from first place to fourth-place tie with Illinois when Iowa's Hawkeyes took both ends of a twin-bill, 4-2 and 5-3. Iowa, upset 3-2 by the Spartans, is in sixth place with a 1-2 showing. Minnesota, with all credit going to Paul Giel, is just ahead of the Spartans with a 1-2.

Behind State are Indiana and Purdue, both with 0-5 records in conference play.

Showing wins over Ohio State, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin and Northwestern, the Irish led at 10 innings before being forced to quit due to darkness.

Notre Dame brings a record 10 wins in 14 starts while the Spartans have won but four outings. Last weekend, the team beat Northwestern, 6-4.

Stan Konopska, who was plagued by a sore arm last year, has become the ace of the big mound staff this season and has a 5-0 pitching record to date. Included in an 8-4 win over

Policeman Foils Attempt To Assassinate Nehru

Train Nearly Strikes Bomb Set on Track

BOMBAY, India (AP)—A policeman foiled an attempt to assassinate Prime Minister Nehru Monday when he picked up a live bomb from a railway track in the locomotive headlight glare of the Indian leader's own parading train.

The incident occurred at Kalyan railway hub, 35 miles from Bombay, at 5 a. m., a few minutes before the Amritsar Express thundered along carrying Nehru from Jaipur to Bombay.

Following the track, the policeman found an unidentified man believed to have placed the bomb on the track. He built a wall wide and the trespasser escaped in the early morning glow.

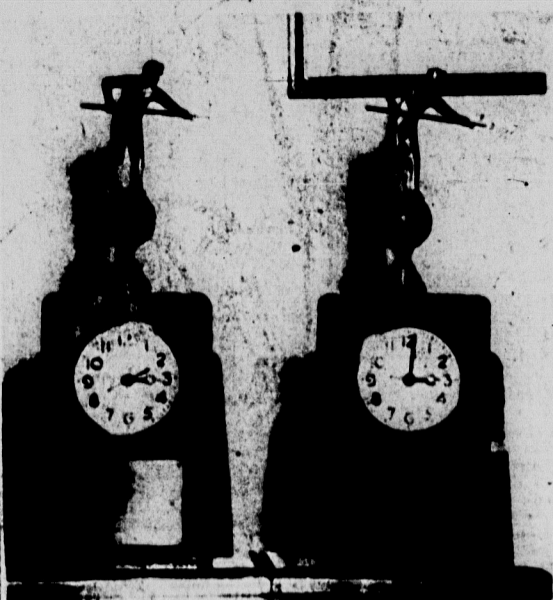

As Nehru's train bore down, the engine's headlight reflected on the bomb and the policeman removed the explosive, without recognizing it at the moment for what it was.

Nehru went on from Bombay to New Delhi by plane, arriving late in the day, unaware of his narrow escape. He was concluding a 1,200-mile tour of the Maharastran famine areas, ending at Jaipur.

The bomb, probably of a type used under pressure, was examined at Amherst Ordnance Factory and later sent to Bombay for analysis.

Nehru, 63, a lifelong battler for Indian independence, became India's first Prime Minister on Aug. 15, 1947, after Britain relinquished sovereignty. Communists have fought to stir up trouble throughout India and Nehru fought back by jailing more than 6,000 of them in the first years of independence.

It didn't seem like it was a comparatively small-time musician like Louis Jordan to put to Ella Fitzgerald but he had a charm of his own with his snappy vocals that went over well.

It's hard to tell if the lyrics make Jordan or if he makes them, but with material like "Caldonia," "Beware" and "Three Handed Woman," it didn't matter.

The Tympany Five seemed only an excuse to show off some of Louis Jordan's talent for clever vocals but that alone justified their being there.

Ella and Woody joined Louis in a bit of Calypso tempo, "Star Cuddled in the Market" to end the first part of the show.

Following intermission, Woody and the band did a nice job on "Perfidie" with some of the best solo work of the evening. Senior Ball perceiving, they did well enough on "Harlem Nocturne" but that's a tune they should leave for Ray Anthony.

Despite Pobby, just another tapdancer, Ephram, even the fill-in acts were enjoyable. Dusty Fletcher, like other one shot stars, by carrying an antiquated torch for his particular claim to fame, "Open the Door Richard" but even the band at times responded to his shenanigans.

Comedian Frank Martore, with camp-stained humor, was best of the lesser fry and well received.

Appearing last on the program would have been a tough trick in this production for anyone but Frankie Lane. Echoes of the applause he won here a year ago rang out louder than ever though after favorites like "Sunny Side of the Street," "That's My Desire" and "Jezebel."

Even singing current-cornballs, "I Believe" and "Cheatin' Heart," Frankie is a personality-plus guy with a tremendous sense of rhythm. From the first number he had the band and the audience in the palm of his hand.

Other "Biggest Shows" have been great but 1953's has them all beaten.

Campus Police Patrol All Day

By ART MURKELL

I arrived at the Campus Police station at 8:30 p. m. last Tuesday. Assignment: a typical night with the campus police, who cover all the campus.

dorms. Prowlers usually don't give any trouble, though the stolen cars try to make a run for it.

We drove around Clark Dr. in front of the women's dorms, checking for unregistered cars driving on campus. Officer Bissel looked over his shoulder and winked.

"We don't do this to annoy any campus romance, just to catch unregistered cars. To get this operator's license are checked against the student directory."

We drove back around Circle Dr. and checked the book shop and stores in back of Adams Hall. Everything was locked up. We noticed a car parked on the road in a line. There were no signs of drinking, so we drove on.

Ninety-nine per cent of police work is like this, and efficient," said Li. Fagan.

Li. Fagan stopped to check a figure hanging from the flagpole at the Red Cedar School. It was paper mache—on it a sign, "Red Cedar School, Sixth Grade Mascot."

"A man ought to get a citation for handing something like that," Li. Fagan grinned.

We drove back through the After getting the address, hurried towards the place. Minutes later, the radio came again. "Calling car six, please Police request," said Li. Fagan.

The car had run out of gas. The driver had gone for a gas can. We drove back to the station. "Car six, out of station," said Li. Fagan.
