Final Raid Decisions Expected

Court Suggests Release of Names

Recommendations on 21 student rioter cases were made by the All-College Judiciary Friday. The recommendations are expected to go to Dean of Students Tom King this morning.

Final decisions will probably be made early this week.

Dean King has the power to reverse any judiciary decision, but he has never done so in the past.

"So far we have never reversed a decision, but I cannot say we won't in this case," King said.

The judiciary recommendations have been made after three weeks of hearings and discussion. All of the 21 cases are ones in which the police had either taken the defendant into custody or confiscated his ID.

The court has recommended that names be released at least if the defendant was cleared.

In another meeting today the court will consider the cases of five Mason coeds. Four or five more students may be asked to appear before the judiciary.

TV Musical, Opera Filmed on Campus

TV development at Michigan State reached another milestone over the weekend, when an entire musical and opera were kinescoped Saturday and Sunday under the direction of James S. Tintera of Television Development and the Speech Department.

The productions were set up as an experiment to see if MSC facilities could be used to produce TV programs over commercial stations.

According to Tintera, the result will be viewed by the department June 9 when the film is returned from New York.

A musical extravaganza entitled "Music of Our Times," was presented Saturday. Included in the one-hour production was the Men's Glee Club directed by Edward L. Richmond.

The first half-hour program consisted of a modern dance interpretation of "Cindy" led by Nancy Egan, Grand Rapids sophomore with the glee club leading background music.

Next the group sang several spiritual numbers including, "King Jesus" and "Meal-Away" in a church setting.

The third scene took place in a 17th century tavern and the glee club sang "Schubert's Drinking Song." Closing the first part was a curfew song, "The Bell Man."

Harlan Keyes, Elsie junior, took the spotlight during intermission and performed several popular hits.

In the second part the Men's Glee Club was dressed formally for a Norwegian sea song, "Land-sighting." Filmed during this were tableaux describing the early Vikings in their explorations.

Next the choir sang "There's Something Like A Dame" and "You'll Never Walk Alone."

Lending sparkle to the film were cartoons accompanying the favorite "Sophomore Philosophy." Concluding the musical were college songs.

Menotti's opera, "The Telephone," was performed Sunday directed by William Tomlinson, director of TV Research and Promotion and Milan Vantich of the Music Department.

The opera will run for 11 minutes on film.

U.N. Agrees To Permit Extra Delay

Bitter Charges Hurdled By Both Allies, Reds

MUNSAN (AP)—President Syngman Rhee summoned the South Korean Cabinet to meet today in what may be a "crisis session" over the truce talks after reportedly drafting a reply to a message from President Eisenhower.

The South Korean move came on the heels of a request by the Communist high command Sunday for an additional three day delay in the talks which had been scheduled to resume this morning at Panmunjom.

The U.N. Command quickly agreed to extend the current recess until Thursday but the South Korean member of the Allied delegation announced he would continue his unprecedented boycott of the talks.

An air of crisis hung over the truce negotiations and bitter charges were flying in two directions.

Maj. Gen. Choi Duk Shin, the Korean U.N. truce representative, in a statement at Seoul charged the senior Allied truce delegate, Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., with being "not sincere" and said he would remain away from the Panmunjom negotiations until the U.N. withdraws or changes the latest Allied truce offer to the Reds.

Harrison declined comment when advised of Choi's statement.

Choi, last Friday, released the text of an embittered letter he wrote to Harrison. It revealed important provisions of the new Allied plan and disclosed the immediate unfavorable reaction to it at least one part of it by North Korean Gen. Nam Il, the chief Red delegate.

Meanwhile, on the central front rain-soaked South Korean soldiers fought hard to hand with 1,000 Chinese Communists Sunday and hammered the Reds back out of Allied lines with heavy losses.

The U.S. Eighth Army said 223 Chinese were killed or wounded in the unsuccessful attacks on Capitol Hill and another main line Allied position just east of it. Allied losses were not given.

The Reds hurled a battalion of 800 men at the veteran South Korean Capitol Division holding the hill named in its honor. A reinforced company of 200 Reds attacked the adjoining main line position.

The attack at midnight reached close range after two hours and raged for another hour with bayonets, knives, rifle clubs and bare fists on the crest of an outpost hill.

Although outnumbered, the South Koreans broke the back of the Chinese attackers and then drove them off with the aid of mortar and artillery fire, an Eighth Army spokesman said.

Letters Asked On 'Stragglers'

Everybody dislikes the intentional late registrant, but up until a few days ago, nobody did very much about him.

Students who have sweated through the regular registration process between the fact that the "let's make it a long vacation" kids often come up with better schedules.

Administrative officials see the additional clerical work, the tying-up of staff workers needed elsewhere, and the bother to instructors whose classes are entered several days late.

But what is to be done? A little extra expense doesn't seem to bother those who want to stretch the vacation a few more days.

Thursday, a faculty-student "registration committee" put forth four suggestions. Their proposed solutions were:

- 1—Have no late registration at all.
- 2—Add four credits to the number the late registrant needs to graduate.
- 3—Allow the late registrant only 12 credits of class work.
- 4—Limit late registration to those who cannot possibly avoid it, and make the limit 15 credits.

Sickness, an accident, or death in the family are considered acceptable excuses, the committee said.

There would probably still be imposed, at least, under suggestions two and three.

But, wisely, the committee has turned to the student body for further suggestions, or comments on the above proposals. They have asked any student with an opinion on the matter to write the editor of the Michigan State News.

All letters will be forwarded to the committee for study before any recommendation is made.

Although the term is rapidly drawing to a close, the problem will be with us in the fall again unless action is taken now. The committee has generously asked for student opinion on the matter. Why not write and offer your ideas today?

Coach Ben Van Alstyne's golfers shot 77 strokes under last year's conference score at Madison, Wis. last weekend, but failed to climb out of the Big 10 cellar.

Iowa's Hawkeyes edged the Spartans linkmen by just two strokes for ninth place. State totaled 1,584 compared to last season's 1,561 in the conference finale.

Purdue's Boilermakers won the conference crown, while Michigan's Wolverines took second place. Michigan won the title last year.

Don Stevens led State with 311 for a 77.7 average. Bill Albright and Dave Mahreer tied for second with 317 and a 79.2 average.

Bill Hills carded 318 for 79.5, while Co-Capt. Carl Mosack shot 321 for 80.2. Co-Capt. Hal Ware showed 327 strokes for an 82.5 average.

Both of Brown's homers, his third and fourth of the season, were over the right field fence. Bill Hoppling and Chuck Mathews were on base for his second four-bagger.

In all, State batters knocked out 15 hits off the slants of Howie Hughes and Jim Wagner. Idzkowski walked four and struck out four to chalk up his
