SCIENCE SCHOOL REVISES STUDY

Teach Conservation of Wild Animal Life, Minerals, and Propagation of Game.

Administrative officials recently approved a rearrangement of the science curriculum whereby the study of this division have been coordinated into series of study designed to attract students interested in the propagation of wild animal life, minerals and the propagation of game. The demand for new courses and the faculty will be able to direct along this line with a minimum expenditure for equipment. Requirements in this work correspond largely to those of the applied science school as a whole, and the first two years of study has only a few variations from the regular course. When the time for electing and seniors to select majors arrives, however, there are three fields of study open to the student. He may specialize either in wild animal life, minerals and the propagation of game, or in the propagation of game. Covers were laid for 45 guests at the banquet, and Prof. C. Allen, head of the civil engineering department, was toastmaster for the occasion. Dr. E. L. Austin, acting dean of the Liberal Arts school, gave the address of the evening in which he drew a parallel between the problems that men in the engineering and educational fields must face.

LET CONTRACT FOR WOLVERINE

Assurance of Reasonable Rates to Allow Expansion of Book.

TO PRINT 1,500 COPIES Will Have Special Rotogravure Feature Section Done in Duotone.

Coincident with the letting of the printing contracts yesterday for the 1931 Wolverine, details of the plans for the yearbook were revealed by the staff. Exceedingly reasonable rates, additional sections, cuts, and pages, and satisfactory returns on page advertisements make it certain that this year's annual will set a precedent in beauty and elaborateness.

Contracts for the printing of 1,500 copies were let to the low bidder, Dick Short company of Lansing, specialists in color work, and color catalogs who have handled large orders for Rex Motor company and General Motors, among others. Rates were obtained at a low figure that it will be possible to include additional pages. William Pratt, yearbook editor, stated.

Covers for the yearbook are practically completed. They will be in three colors when finished, with blue and gold predominating for the background of a picture of Bealmead Memorial Tower. Contracts for the covers were let some time ago to K. Smith, Inc., Chicago. Specialists in cover making, the firm handles covers for college annuals for the majority of schools in the Big Ten Conference.

The modernistic theme of the annual is held to be an outstanding feature of the publications, both of the cover and the book itself. Although the modernistic has been attempted in previous years, never before has it been incorporated in the book to such a thorough degree. The completed work (Continued on page 2)

FIVE U. OF M. FRATERNITIES CLOSED BY STUDENT GROUP

Members Required to Find Lodging Elsewhere as Committee Action Bans Habitation of Houses; 182 Affected; Ask Legislative Action.

AUTHORITIES PLAN NO ACTION; SOLON ASKS PROBE

News Flash

Ann Arbor, Feb. 13.—Trial of the 84 University of Michigan students who were arrested in a series of fraternity house liquor raids Wednesday was today postponed for two weeks. No legal action was taken today.

FIVE PROMINENT UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN FRATERNITIES ORDERED CLOSED FOR THE REMAINDER OF THE SCHOOL YEAR BY ACTION OF THE COMMITTEE ON SOCIAL AFFAIRS

Late Thursday as a result of an investigation instigated after Ann Arbor city police made a series of liquor raids early Wednesday morning, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Phi Delta Theta, Kappa Sigma, Theta Delta Chi, and Delta Kappa Epsilon, all national fraternities, were the houses affected by the university committee action.

The closure of the fraternities will affect 182 men students, the combined membership of the five organizations, who will have to find new rooming houses in the near future. The committee on student affairs is scheduled to meet this afternoon to continue action on the case.

Although 84 students were nabbed by the police in the series of raids during which a quantity of liquor was discovered, city and university officials yesterday did not believe that civil action would result although the men were scheduled to appear in justice court at 10 o'clock today. The students were booked on disorderly conduct charges.

The raids, staged but two days previous to the traditional University of Michigan J-Hop, is said to be the most extensive liquor raid made on fraternity houses in Michigan history. The students were routed out of bed by the raiding party which discovered various sized amounts of liquor on the fraternity premises. Ownership of the intoxicants had not been determined at a late hour last night, according to a telephone interview made by the State News.

Because of student feeling concerning the matter, the 84 students, held on disorderly conduct charges, are expected to be dealt with leniently by university officials. The five fraternities closed yesterday have also been told that they could not officially attend the J-Hop scheduled for tonight.

The raids resulted in the arrest of Joe Loney, 30, and Shirley O'Toole, 20, both of Ann Arbor, who are alleged to have made deliveries at the houses under investigation. City police officials made it clear Thursday that they were interested in mopping up Ann Arbor by driving out all bootleggers.

As an aftermath of the U. of M. liquor affair, Representative Barn of River Rouge asked for a legislative investigation of liquor traffic at the University of Michigan at the regular session Thursday. The resolution demanded that the University of Michigan committee of the house be authorized to thoroughly investigate the entire affair.

Graham, Sarah Shaw, Rosalie Ruonavaara, Norman McCullough, Fleming Harbour, Clare McCullough, Mary Goodman, Ruth Johnson, Bernice O'Brien, Dorothy Green, Currier Hampton, Paul Grady, Timothy Ankeny, Evelyn Allan, Norma Keller, Dorothy Troth, John Etchells, Marian Sprick, Marian Allerton, and Genevieve Hatner are the students honored.

At a meeting for informal initiation, and a date set for the swingout and banquet Thursday night, February 19, at room 333 of the Chemistry building. The swingout will be held a week after Thursday, February 26, with the banquet at 8:30.

In honor of Abraham Lincoln's birthday the band opened the evening program with Victor Herbert's "American Fantasia," probably the only weak number of the concert another of Herbert's, "The Three Solitaires," followed in "The Merry Men of the Band" and "Turrill," of the band made their part a credit to more trained artists than they. The ever popular "Semper Fidelis" by Sousa, closed the group.

The second part of the program was filled by the co-ed glee club, who opened with Wagner's "Singing Song" from the Flying Dutchman. Brahms' "Cradle Song" followed and a comical number, "The Big Brown Bear" completed the group.

The William Tell Overture (Spirits-Kruger) was the xylophone solo by Paul Grady. His performance was skilled and well received by the crowd.

The men's glee club, directed by Ed Killeen, filled the next part of the program. They opened with the rickety "Winter Song" of Bullard, followed by "Cable's Lullaby," "Kentucky Babe," They ended with "On the Sea," by Buck.

The band returned for its second appearance presenting Friedman's "Slavonic Rhapsody" and "The March of the Little Leaden Soldiers," Pierre.

Leonard Falcone, band director, came next on the program with his solo number, "Fantasia on Tyrolia" Themes by Felix Mendelssohn. Falcone displayed a marvellously clear and bell-like quality in his baritone note. His encore was "O Sole Mio."

SMALL CROWD HEARS CONCERT

Michigan State College Music Night held last night in the Lansing Prudential auditorium, attracted approximately 500 Spartan supporters to a concert that was presented for the benefit of the college band fund. While the audience was unusually small, it was said that it represented only a fraction of the number which actually purchased tickets to help the band pay a deficit contracted on the Georgetown trip last fall.

Although the Spartan military band was the principal feature of the program, the men and women glee clubs and two soloists added to the atmosphere of the concert that was distinctly student in character. Leonard Falcone, band director, presented one of his infrequent baritone solos, and Paul Grady, band member, was heard in a xylophone solo.

Any group of students wishing to inspect the building may do so by first getting an appointment from Secretary Halladay and then going to the building in a body.

BEGIN WORK ON DORM INTERIOR

Date for Completion is Set for June 1; Exterior is Now Finished.

WILL COST $425,000

Detailed Plans for Furnishings Are Given; to Be Well Equipped.

With all of the outside work on the new co-ed dormitory practically completed, the workers are turning to the work of finishing up the plastering and decorations. The top floor of the building has been plastered and is ready for interior decoration, while the remaining two floors and the basement are in the process of completion.

The building program is proceeding very well and the date for the finishing of the dormitory has been set for June 1. In all events, it is not expected that it will take longer than the middle of June to complete the structure.

The new building when finished will be one of the finest and most modern on the campus, and will compare favorably with dormitories of large institutions. The cost of the building is set at $425,000.

The office is of letter H design. It is three stories high with a basement. The general floor plan is to have the kitchen, dining rooms and lounge rooms on the main floor. The second and third floors will be used for sleeping rooms, while the basement will be used for trunk rooms, laundry rooms, and refrigerating rooms.

The sleeping rooms are 11 1/2 feet by 12 feet 3 inches. The furniture in the sleeping rooms will consist of two beds, two dressers, two study tables, floor lamps, three chairs, including an overstuffed easy chair, end tables, and bookshelves. All of these rooms have outside exposures.

The main lounge rooms, one in each wing on the main floor will have several overstuffed sofas, bookcases, a fireplace, and study tables.

The dormitory is being built by Reniger Construction Co. of Lansing. All materials used in the construction of the building are first-class. The dormitory is on West Grand River avenue, located in a natural bower of trees, landscaping of the ground about the building will be started by the college landscape department as soon as the scaffolding is taken down.

Any group of students wishing to inspect the building may do so by first getting an appointment from Secretary Halladay and then going to the building in a body.

TOM SKEYHILL SCHEDULED FOR REPEAT LECTURE HERE TUESDAY NIGHT ON LIBERAL ARTS COURSE

Internationally Famous Lecturer and Traveler to Present One of His Best Orations, "The Last of the Long Hunters"; Was Sensation Here Last Winter Term.

TOM SKEYHILL, WORLD-FAMED LECTURER, biographer, and traveler, will deliver a lecture at the Peoples church, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The lecture, which will be the fifth on the Liberal Arts board, will deal with "The Last of the Long Hunters." This topic is reputed to be one of his best in a repertoire of many famous subjects. Skeyhill is noted for his oratorical ability and has been termed "one of the greatest living orators."

Skeyhill was born in Australia in 1896. For 18 years he studied in his native land and wrote poetry. In 1914 he enlisted with the Anzacs, one of the most famous divisions in the world war. He distinguished himself both as a fighter and entertainer. He was in the thick of the fight for several months, but was forced to go to a hospital when a large shell exploded and destroyed his eyesight. In addition to the loss of his sight he had suffered bayonet wounds in both hands and legs.

While totally blind, Skeyhill did not give up the cause of the Allies. He took to the lecture platform and began raising money for the allied armies. As the "blind poet" he was able to raise $23,000.000 in 23 minutes as the result of a lecture in the Metropolitan Opera House at New York. He also gathered $130,000.000 in various other lectures.

Skeyhill regained his eyesight after three years of stone blindness. With the return of light, he began a life of study, travel and adventure which, coupled with his great ability as a student and public speaker quickly made him one of the most successful and sought after lecturers on the platform. He attended the peace conference at Paris and made several valuable suggestions.

Turning entirely to literature and speaking as well as to travel, he covered over half a million miles. His travels brought him in contact with many famous people and also with adventures that have materially effected his life. He ran the lines into soviet Russia during the hey-day of the revolution. He marched with Mussolini and the Black-shirts to Rome. He was Polish mix-up. And he was out in the Near East when Smyrna was burned and the Turks defeated the Greeks. All these experiences have broadened his vision and foresight, and these are reflected in his speeches.

As a speaker Skeyhill is said to be unapproached. He has a dynamic personality, a good voice, and the ability to put his subject across to his listeners. He is witty and clever; his vocabulary is large and he can handle the English language with agility. His lectures have gained him the title of "the most brilliant word painter on the American lecture platform." Theodore Roosevelt once said, "I would rather be on the platform with Skeyhill than with any other man I know."

Last year Skeyhill spoke to a crowded auditorium and it was the success of that lecture which caused the Liberal Arts board to select him as a speaker on this year's program.

COX EXPLAINS BEAN DISPUTE

Charges of Bean Jobbers That State Is Fighting Them Refuted by Ag Dean.

Answering charges sent by the Michigan Bean Jobbers' association to Gov. Wilbur M. Brucker yesterday that Michigan State college representatives are organizing state bean growers against them, Joseph F. Cox, dean of agriculture, today said that the college was merely carrying out the dictates of the federal farm board.

Metropolitan newspapers yesterday carried a story to the effect that the jobbers' exchange had sent a resolution to the governor condemning college payers money in an endeavor to organize farmers in uneconomic schemes that are injurious to the farmers, cooperative elevators and independent elevators now handling beans.

TO INTRODUCE COLLEGE SONG

Sphinx Society Sponsors Presentation of "Shadow Song"; to Print Copies.

"Shadow Song" a tune composed by a graduate of M. S. C. is being introduced to the college by the Sphinx society with the hopes that it may become the college song in place of Alma Mater. The general feeling on the campus is that the present Alma Mater is too common, for many other schools use the same tune. With this thought in mind the Sphinx are backing this new song and earnestly desire that all students become acquainted with it.

Pres. R. S. Shaw has given permission for the students to hear and sing the "Shadow Song" at the next convocation. At that time mimeograph copies will be furnished and with the aid of the music department the song will be officially introduced.

The words of the "Shadow Song" are as follows:

M. S. C. we love thy shadows when twilight silence falls
Flushing deep and softly paing our ivy-covered halls
Beneath the pines we'll gather to give our hearts to thee.
Sing our love for Alma Mater and thy praises, M. S. C.

When from thy scenes we wander, and twilight shadows fade,
Our memories still will linger where light and shadow played
In the evening of we'll gather, and turn our thoughts to thee.
Sing our love for Alma Mater and thy praises, M. S. C.

The Sphinx have a song book compiled states Madeline Dulso, president of the society. Financial aid is needed to put this book out. The Sphinx are endeavoring to find some means of raising the necessary money for this book.

To further the cause of this new song, Lucille Morris is willing to play the "Shadow Song" for any society. She has copies of the song and will help anyone in learning the tune.

DIPLMACY NEEDED

Petty but irritating rulings by social advisors are the constant bane of undergraduate life. This school does not have a corner on such procedure for reports continually exude from other colleges showing that the affliction is universal. Stories from the neighboring university will bear this out.

State has been remarkably free from such interference hitherto, but within the last two terms an undercurrent of antagonism is emitting from the office of the Dean of Women. Insistence upon minor enforcing regulations not only is irksome to certain fraternities, but their use upon every advantageous opportunity points to either the satisfying of personal animosities, or a childish heeking not in accord with the position.

What the Michigan State News refers to in particular is the stringent enforcement of a heretofore disregarded clause in the social constitution, so to speak, that calls for the appearance of a dyed-in-the-wool professor as a patron to fraternity parties. Until this time an associate professor or even a common instructor was held to be sufficient.

Surely the resorting to trivial rulings such as this is not necessary. Fraternities, almost without exception, will listen to a point blank statement of their mistakes or deficiencies and will co-operate with proper authorities to the best of their ability. Procedure such as the above comes in neither the categories of tact or diplomacy.

TAKE HEED

Five University of Michigan fraternities were raided this week for liquor and 84 student members apprehended by Ann Arbor police. Resulting in this official move, the Committee on Social Affairs has closed the houses and placed the organizations on social parole for the remainder of the year.

That liquor is in evidence on this campus is quite well known. Our parties have been remarkably free from open drinking, but the fact remains that the problem constantly confronts us.

Many State fraternities realizing the seriousness of the situation as exemplified by the official action taken by our neighboring institution, have cleaned house of all evidence.

It is not so much the jurisdiction of the city police that is feared as the ultimate action that the college administration is obliged to take, should any similar investigation ensue here at Michigan State. Out of the 182 members affected by the procedure taken by the University, there are perhaps more than 150 who are entirely innocent of liquor possession. But they must suffer the consequences along with the true offenders.

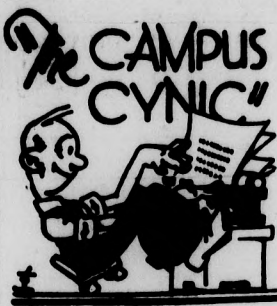

It would be well for Michigan State fraternal organizations to follow a practice of moderation in the future.

BARBECUES

WITH THAT REAL SOUTHERN TASTE
Rex's Subway Lunch
QUICK SERVICE

By JOHN TATE, JR.

The biggest thing in the collegiate neighborhood is the last one they pulled on the fraternities at the University of Michigan Wednesday morning.

Apparently a man's home is just another place to hang your hat under the surveillance of the police.

Nevertheless there is something dirty somewhere, and most of the students there are convinced that it's not necessary to go beyond the walls of the university to discover it.

To get back home, the societies here are seriously considering the possibility of the disease spreading. Whether or not the results would be the same is a matter of conjecture. And we won't tell.

It's a strange pedagogical practice but students are not considered capable of taking care of themselves. That is, while they are in school for the moment they graduate some mystifying process is supposed to take place and the student is equipped to go forth in the world and conquer.

The matter can be boiled down to the fact that we must have moralized with our education. Which might be all right were it not that the ethics are those that died when our puritan fore-fathers gave up the ghost. At least they got terribly sick, and are continually getting worse.

The most amusing part of it all is that the student is required to accept the moral aspect in order to get credit for the education to which he has been subjected. Over his sinful head hangs the continual threat of the pedagogical displeasure. And that's always uncomfortable. By the time the innocent student gets through he knows the methods of being successfully hypocritical. So most of them should go into politics.

Even in some of our most revered (in some circles) educators moralize abominably at a great length. And they wonder why students go to sleep in their classes.

It's interesting to note that just at this time when the student liquor situation is having an armistice that a secret society which was found by men whose attitude on liquor was at least broad had its suspension during the last few days. Although the organization has deteriorated into a political organization it still has its Bacchanalian traditions.

Despite all the conventions shackling the student, he and the Wickersham report remain human. As a whole, student bodies are dry, but as individuals they go like the members of the Wickersham committee.

Like the sins of ones childhood prohibition refuses to be ignored and insists on being an issue in spite of our national leaders who claim that it isn't. Prohibition was merely a New Year's resolution, and somebody with a head airtight slipped it into the books. And like any fault has they had to forget it, and have everyone else do likewise.

Which brings us down to the cut system now in force. If you miss a class, in order not to make the instructor feel badly you take a certified excuse to him to show him that only illness can prevent you from listening to his kernels of wisdom.

The next step in all probability will be to appoint nursemaids over the underclassmen to lead them to their classes to be sure they get there.

Hard to explain is the contribution of some absent minded male who left for the application a brand new shirt collar unattached, unbuttoned and a necktie all neatly packed in a cardboard box.

In the Tuesday issue of the Michigan State News an error was made in the story concerning Phi Delta Theta national fraternity. Brothers in the Ancient and Honorable Order of Yellow Dogs

We, the undersigned, feel that there has been a great lack of interest shown by the present Chief Cur of this society. As yet there have been no meetings this year. Farmers' week has come and gone without anything happening in the way of initiation, being in itself an unprecedented proceeding.

There has been considerable comment adverse and otherwise concerning the new "cut" system instituted in this college. For the most part, the criticism by both instructors and students has been unfavorable to the recent change requiring the student who has had his absences excused to present a slip to the instructor of the missed class.

The primary purpose for a college existing is to give education to those attending it. Students really serious about absorbing a little knowledge will attend classes, frequently will not put in so many hours per week. The basis for the determination of a grade in a subject should be the student's knowledge of the subject as determined by examination. Attendance should carry no weight if the student has absorbed the subject matter. Those who make a practice of cutting classes frequently will automatically be dropped through failure to pass the examinations.

The dispute evidently is a result of the efforts of the federal farm board to organize bean growers into federally subsidized marketing pools instead of dealing with the jobbers' association. A local bean authority said today that the whole dispute was unfortunate and that the total result of it was that Michigan was losing its long-held lead in the bean growing field to aggressive western interests who are presenting a solid front.

MARCHING with modern industry to World-Power

In the great new power plant that serves the city of Buenos Aires, Crane valves and fittings are found in use. In the paper mills of Ontario and the water power developments of Niagara Falls, engineers swear by them. Camels carry them into the depths of the Abyssinian Desert and dog sledges into the wilds of Canada.

The quality of Crane piping materials has won them a world-wide demand. The globe-girdling Crane distributing organization has placed them within easy reach of power and industrial builders everywhere.

Naturally, this distributing organization is most complete and efficient in the United States. In this country are factories in five cities manufacturing industrial piping materials; branches and sales offices in 160 cities; warehouses in close proximity to every important industrial center. All these facilities are keyed to receive orders for quickly needed materials and have them on the spot with no loss of time.

No matter where you take up your career after you leave school, you will find need for piping materials from the complete Crane line, and a Crane office nearby to make it easy for you to get them.

Hindus Lecture on Soviet Question Attracts Enthusiastic Audience

Speaking before an audience of nearly 1,500 students and town-people Maurice Hindus explained a "World That Never Was" Tuesday evening at the Peoples church. Hindus' lecture was well received by the enthusiastic crowd that gathered to hear the eminent author and lecturer. His speech proved popular in that it cleared up in the minds of many the Russian situation, which has been an enigma to historians and students since the beginning of the Bolshevik revolt.

Not mindful of the criticism he might arouse, Hindus proceeded to lecture on both sides of the Soviet question and later to explain the purpose of the Soviet government as he saw it. His speech gave evidence of much study of the subject and a vivid realization of the needs of the Soviets.

The Soviet plans to destroy the Hindu, Hindus stated, to abolish private property to do away with religion, and to destroy the individualistic family. Private property he considered was the basis of all disagreement and war, and it was going away with private property as fast as they can for with it will go all the cause for discontent.

To destroy private property the Soviet is striking at the business man. In all Russia there are no business men. All stores are owned by the government and they are government operated. A business man is not wanted in Russia. Citizenship rights are taken from him and he is an outcast an outlaw and enemy. And the Russians hate their enemies. Hindus said during the attack on the Russian government.

The Russian government forbids the destruction of churches. If in a locality the local police officials "beat down a church they are held liable by the government and in many instances punished. Religion may be taught at home but may not be taught outside of the home to children under eighteen.

Of the destruction of the individualistic family Hindus said that the Russians were trying a new and vastly different experiment. The idea of marriage is much like our idea of companionate marriage on a large scale. "Their idea is that of universal companionate marriage. And to state it more frankly it is one large experiment in free love."

The Russian custom, according to Hindus, is to have a man marry a woman stay with her as long as he wants to and then leave her. The marriage does not have to be registered. In case it is registered then a divorce must be obtained. A divorce in Russia costs less than a mailed milk in America. The divorce idea works both ways in Russia. A woman if she so desires may divorce a man and does not even have to notify him of it. A woman is paid by both sexes. If a man divorces and he is the wife must pay alimony for a year. The same is true for the man who divorces his wife. He also must pay alimony for not to exceed one year. In case there are children the alimony is one-third of the person's wages for one child and one-half for more.

In answer to many queries as to the success of such a scheme Hindus stated that it could work out well because the human animal is essentially desert and in the long run this decency will assert itself. The Russian people are clean sexually and will do the same out all right.

Hindus continued his lecture on the agricultural revolution in Russia and stated that in five years a good beginning will be made. But the Russian revolution is a thing that will last for many years. And it will be many years before people will know exactly how the greatest experiment in history turns out.

The dynamic personality of Hindus added materially in his presentation of his lecture. His witty allusions and humorous jokes broke the monotony of the deeper, more abstruse speech. Hindus made a great success and was appreciated by all who heard him.

Debaters Argue Unemployment Insurance Bill

To decide whether to promote the Unemployment Insurance bill, now being introduced to the state legislature, the Michigan League of Women Voters sponsored the debate between Michigan State college and the Ypsilanti Normal college held at the Lansing City Hall on Wednesday evening, February 11.

At a round-table discussion tonight, representatives from all the divisions of the State League of Voters will decide whether they will sponsor the proposed bill. Prof. Joseph D. Menchhofer has been invited to participate in the discussion.

Coach Menchhofer chose three men to argue the negative side of the question in the debate: Robert Hurley and Paul Younger, who have debated before this season, and Richard Hutchison, a leading member of last year's team making the trip to Wichita, Kansas. Mr. Hutchison has been out of campus activities until now because of an automobile accident last summer.

Forensic Team to Engage Hillsdale College Feb. 13

Coach O. J. Drake's varsity debating team will uphold the affirmative side of the question of State Medicine against the women's team of Hillsdale college at Wyandotte high school Friday evening, February 13, at 7:30 o'clock.

Members of the team are Miss Dorothy McDonald, who debated two years at Lansing Central high school, and Miss Ethel Killham, who was a member of the East Lansing high school team for two years.

Michigan State's affirmative debating team, composed of Harry Skornia and Jack Jones, won by audience decision over the Hope college men in Nashville high school last Monday evening.

The Parent-Teacher's association of Nashville, for whom the debate was given, have asked Coach J. D. Menchhofer for a return debate this season.

GROVE, SCOTT, HAGA TO APPEAR BEFORE STUDENTS FOR LAST TIME IN SPARTAN BASKETBALL GAME

Loyola of Chicago to Furnish Opposition for State Quintet; Men of Van Alstyne Push Detroit Basketeers Aside Tuesday, 34-16; Pinneo Sets Mad Scoring Pace.

THREE VETERAN SPARTAN CAGERS, men who have made basketball history at Michigan State, will pass out of the home picture tomorrow night when Coach Ben F. VanAlstyne's quintet plays the last home game of the season with Loyola university of Chicago. Co-captains Roger Grove, Art Haga, and Ed Wayne Scott will be appearing for the last time in the Spartan floor in Demonstration hall when they stack up against the team from the Windy City. Only two games remain on the schedule after Saturday's encounter—a game with the Titans at Detroit and the season's finale with Marquette university at Milwaukee.

The game with Loyola is expected to provide the Spartan court men with a good workout but they are doped to hurdle the Chicago team by a comfortable margin. Over-confidence may wreak havoc with the Spartans who have won twelve games in a row, and the Chicagoans may furnish them with an upset, but it is improbable from dope predictions. Loyola secured a hard earned victory from the University of Detroit earlier in the season but the Titans proved no match for the fast traveling Spartans who snuffed them under with a large score this week.

Conquer Titans

Coach Van Alstyne has been giving his men a rest after the Detroit game and his pupils should be in tip-top shape for tomorrow's encounter. Roy Grove and Don Pinneo will start at their usual positions. Pinneo has proven more conclusively with each succeeding game that he is a worthy running mate for the versatile Roy Randy Boeskoel. Spartan pivot man has also shown vast improvement as the season progressed and has not been accorded a lot of the praise that was due him. At the guards will be Art Haga and Ed Wayne Scott, playing their last home game for State. When these two Spartans turn in their court suits a few weeks hence State will have lost perhaps the greatest defensive duo it ever had on the basketball floor.

Coach Lloyd Brazill's maroon clad quintet was completely outclassed Tuesday night when they went down to defeat before a much smarter Spartan cage team. The final score being 34 to 16. The score at the end of the first period was 20 to 6 in favor of State and gave an idea how completely the Titans were checked in the initial period. Only two dunks were registered by the Detectors during the entire opening half.

The outstanding star of the first half was Don Pinneo, diminutive Spartan forward, who more than makes up for his lack of height in abundance of ability and drive. The rambling State forward who was continually disrupting the Titan offense, cashed through with 11 points in the first period, making five baskets and one charity toss. To those on the sidelines he brought back memories of Don Bill Grove, last year's midget, with his quick starts and uncanny eye for the basket.

Reserves Given Chance

Pinneo started the scoring when he bounced the ball through the hoop for the first basket of the evening giving State a two-point lead. The score was seen tied at two all when the Detectors, cashed in on an assortment of charity throws for two points. The deadlock was short lived, however, for

Basketball Wind-Up

THE curtain drops on the home basketball season Saturday night when State entertains Loyola of Chicago. Coach Ben F. VanAlstyne's Spartan cagers are undefeated on the home court to date and bid fair to keep their record intact for the season. Two more games remain on the schedule after the Loyola game, Detroit and Marquette. The State quintet has lost but one game this season and is conceded a chance to go through the remainder of the season without defeat.

Pinneo Picks Up

"Dynamic Don" Pinneo developed into the best ball hawk that has played on a Michigan State basketball team in recent years, and we have not forgotten about some of Coach Van Alstyne's other "half pint greats." Pinneo is nearly always in the thick of the battle fighting for the ball. He is a speedy floor man on offense and is constantly a thorn in the side of State's opponents when he is playing on defense.

Randy Boeskoel, elongated center from Grand Rapids, which by the way is Don's home town, is also developing steadily. The center has a tough assignment in the style of basketball used by Van Alstyne, and Randy is a capable performer.

Chamberlain Gets Chance

Clark Chamberlain, Coach Morton Mason's premier distance runner, is facing a busy week. He gets his first chance for fame as a miler Saturday when he runs a special match race at the West Virginia relay. He is due to compete against such famous runners as George Bullwinkle, New York City college distance ace, and a victory for the Spartan speedster would give him a high ranking in national track circles. Wednesday night he runs against Jack A. Pratt and will compete in the Ohio Wesleyan meet Saturday. He will probably double and run the two mile race in the Marquette and Wesleyan meets. This is a grueling campaign for the long-legged Spartan and would discourage a less determined athlete.

Fresh Show Promise

State has some exceptional freshman track material this year, which should prove a valuable addition to the varsity squad next season. A. Hurd and Otto W. Ponzarek, both of Detroit, made their mark in frosh cross country. They also ran on the Spartan frosh medley relay team which placed first in the Michigan A & U meet at Detroit last week end. W. R. Guy and William Burgess were the other yearlings on the team.

Pinneo again eluded the Detroit team and sunk a bucket and a free throw in quick succession. Randy Boeskoel then widened the gap by flinging a short shot in. The first ten minutes of the game was slow with both teams missing plenty of shots.

The score stood 7 to 2 in State's favor after the first ten minutes of action. The Spartan offense started to click a little better by this time and began scoring almost at will. When the gun sounded ending the first period the scoreboard read 20 to 6 with the Spartans on the long end of the count. Besides Pinneo's sensational work, Roy Grove ended the aggregate and rating up two dunks while Haga and Boeskoel each contributed one.

After the rest period the Titans came back and put up a much better performance, playing the Spartans on more or less even terms. The score stood 21 to 15 when the Spartan mentor decided to give his reserves a chance to perform and sent in an entire sophomore lineup. The reserves acquitted themselves creditably and kept the Titans from sinking any field goals. Von Dettle and Garner added a bucket and a free throw respectively to State's total, the final score being 34 to 16.

The game was featured by its aggressiveness with neither team resorting to extensive stalling. Roger Grove and Art Haga were closely guarded all night and had a hard time eluding their men. Aaron, Detroit captain, who was assigned the job of guarding the Spartan's scoring ace, was relegated to the bench late in the final period with four persons checked up against him.

TRACK TEAM REMAINS IDLE OVER WEEK-END

Thinclads to Take on Marquette Wednesday, Ohio Wesleyan Saturday.

STIFF OPPOSITION AHEAD

Michigan State track men, with the exception of Clark Chamberlain, have a breathing spell this week-end, the track meet previously scheduled with Marquette university having been postponed until next Wednesday, February 19.

What the tracksters miss this week, however, they will make up later, since the Saturday following the meet with the Hilltoppers, they will be called upon to face Ohio Wesleyan runners for their second dual meet in four days. In the case of Chamberlain, who is competing in the mile at the West Virginia relay, this Saturday, it will mean three hard contests in eight days, a prospect that would floor any but the toughest of runners. In the latter two meets he may be called on to double in the mile and two-mile.

In the Marquette meet Wednesday he will meet a man who has already beaten him at his favorite race, the mile, Jack Walter, who, with his brother Pete, ran on the 1928 Canadian Olympic team, took the Spartan leader's measure last spring in the Central Intercollegiate running the distance in 4:18.4. The feat won him a place on the National Collegiate honor roll for 1930.

Besides the mile the Walter brothers will compete in two more events, the mile, Jack Walter, who, with his brother Pete, ran on the 1928 Canadian Olympic team, took the Spartan leader's measure last spring in the Central Intercollegiate running the distance in 4:18.4. The feat won him a place on the National Collegiate honor roll for 1930.

FROSH TANKERS SET NEW MARKS

Six New Records Established by Yearling Swimmers; Show Promise.

Six varsity and frosh swimming records have been broken by this year's yearling squad. The 1931 freshman swimming team is proving to be one of the best of recent years, in so far as supplying promising material for the next year's varsity is concerned. Though the team as a group is not far above the average of other years, the team boasts of several individual stars who will fit in well with next year's varsity material.

To date they have not only smashed six of the Frosh swimming records, but have also broken an equal number of varsity best timings.

L. Montgomery splashed through for two new records in the dashes. His time in the 50-yard free style was 25.4, as compared to a former varsity mark of 26 seconds. In the 100-yard dash he clipped two-tenths of a second from the varsity record. Vandaveen set a new record of 2:30 in the 200-yard free style. R. Long set the following new records: 1:11 in the 100-yard back stroke; 1:35 in the 150-yard back stroke; 2:44 in the 60-yard back stroke. The 180-yard medley relay record has also been broken this year. The new time is 1:59.3. Blair, Courstange and Mount make up the team.

Elaborate Plans Made for Winter Term Chautauqua

The Winter Chautauqua given by the Peoples church is scheduled for Friday evening, February 13, 7:45, in the social hall. Rev. R. M. Pratt states that the affair will be entertaining. The Mystic Knights, blackface minstrel quartet, Prof. J. Black Tombstone, magician, The Bean String Ensemble, musicians, May Be McManus, cartoonist, Prof. Geo. Damon, Koi, lecturer on "Ohosts," and The Green Beet Players in comedy sketches will compose the program for the evening.

Unsophisticated Freshman Gives Jim Crowley a Recreational Break

James H. Crowley, head football coach at Michigan State, enjoys contact with the student body. The Spartan mentor was seated in a recreation hall recently, watching the games and coinings of the students. A freshman circled him a couple of times, hitched up his belt and challenged Crowley to a game of billiards. Crowley accepted. From the trend of the conversation those nearby soon gathered that the freshman did not recognize the varsity coach. Crowley consented to enjoy the situation. He talked chess and instructed throughout the game, discussed some of the latest campus topics and problems in general. Finally, the game came to a finish and the freshman expressed pleasure with the game. He suggested that they would meet again some time for recreation. Crowley panned out of the picture, the suspicion of a smile in the corner of his mouth. After his departure, someone standing nearby informed the freshman of his partner's identity. The youngster was completely flabbergasted. "O, my gosh!" he moaned. "I'll never be able to look him in the eye again." And it is said the freshman has never been seen in that particular recreation room since.

Star Distance Runner to Compete in Special Race at West Virginia Relays.

Clark S. Chamberlain, Michigan State's national cross country champion, will have another opportunity Saturday night to pit his speed and stamina against the stars of the eastern intercollegiate track world. He will compete under the Spartan colors in the annual University of West Virginia relays at Morgantown, West Virginia, running in a special mile event arranged by the Mountaineers.

The exact personnel of the field not known, but indications are that his chief opposition will come from George Bullwinkle, New York City college star. Bullwinkle was mentioned for All-American honors in the mile last spring.

Chamberlain's time of 4:26.8 last Saturday in the Chicago meet, on the Spartan 16-lap track, is considered the equivalent of a 4:16 mile outdoors. If the slim Green and White speedster can travel the distance at this clip, he warrants ranking as one of the premier milers of America, and certainly in the top row among college runners. A victory Saturday night would push him far toward national recognition.

Intra-Mural Sports

Monday night results in Inter-Class League were as follows: In the Frosh division the Engineers defeated the A's, 17 to 9. The Science team was taken down by the Lits 19-11, with Kramer rolling up high point total for the winners. In the Soph section the Engineers took the A's 20 to 7, and the Science five beat the Lits 15-7.

Wednesday night, with the Juniors and Seniors in the limelight, brought the following results: The Junior Science outfit expounded the Ag team Science's high point man. The Junior Engineers proved a little bit too much for the Lits, taking them in 21-16. And to close the evening, the Senior Science aggregation walked over the A's 14-8. Altogether, things look rather bad for the A's, with defeats in every class.

In the first of three games last night in the Inter-Ward division the Ward F boys routed the huds from Ward C in a lopsided contest 32-2. M. Elliott starred for the Ward F team with six baskets. The second game in this league ended with Ward B team leading the Ward A outfit 30 to 10. Freehold at center had high total for the winners with six baskets. In the final tilt of the evening, Ward D ran over Ward E with 20 points to the D team's 7. The scoring on both teams was fairly well divided among the players.

Inter-Fraternity League Inter-Frat basketball opened with a thriller last night at the gym, with the Phi Delt's edging out the Theta Nus in a neck-and-neck struggle 20-19. The game was close throughout, and was not decided until the final whistle. Lawford, for the winners, led the scoring with ten points. This was the only exciting game of the evening, for in the second tilt the Phi Delt's ran over the Hesperian quintet 12-3. In the final game of the A. E.'s swamped the Phi Delt's 24 to 5. The contest was lopsided all the way through, and the Phi Delt's never threatened after the first moments of play. Monnett and Grafing starred for the winners, Monnett rolling up a grand total of fifteen points.

Interclass Basketball Four games were played in the Inter-class basketball league Monday. Two victories were in the Frosh block when the Lits met the Science quintet and the A's clashed with the Engineers. The other two games were in the Soph block. The Lits played the Science five and the A's met the Engineers.

In the game between the Frosh A's and the Frosh Engineers, the Engineers were the easy winners, taking down the A's five 17 to 9. In the second game the Lits beat the Science quintet 19-11. In the Soph block the Engineers also took down the Ag team, the game ending 20-7. The last game of the evening was between the Soph Science and the Soph Lits. The Lits lost the final score was 15-7.

State Freshmen Meet Reserves at Olivet This Week

Michigan State's yearling cagers failed to get along Wednesday night in their game with the Olivet first year men at Olivet and went down to a 25 to 20 defeat. The performance turned in by the Spartan yearlings was mediocre and failed to please their coach. The Olivet freshman will be seen the game February 19 when they play State's first year cage team in the Spartan gym.

Bishop, with two dunks and two lay throws was high point man for State team and was closely followed by Dekker, who garnered five points. Dekker played about the best the game for the frosh despite the fact that was his first appearance as a regular player.

The Spartans' starting lineup consisted of Patchett and Bishop at the forward, Dekker at center, and Neberg and Keast at the guards. Peans and Walker also saw action during the game.
