'Nuclear War Is Possible'--Ike

Airs View On Berlin Conditions

Stands Against Defense Boosts

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Wednesday ruled out ground warfare in Europe and said everyone might as well understand that nuclear warfare over the Berlin crisis is not "a complete impossibility."

Yet Eisenhower stood firm at a news conference against pressure from some powerful congressional Democrats to bolster the nation's defenses with more money, missiles and men—particularly men.

If Congress persists in providing more manpower for the Army and Marines, the commander in chief said he supposes he'll have to put them "some place where it's nice, to keep them out of the way, because I don't know what else to do with them."

A bit plaintively, Eisenhower said that every time something called a crisis develops, whether it is Sputnik, Germany or Korea, "everybody has an answer."

He pleaded with the country to stand steady, to avoid hysteria and gang "a little bit of half-cooked because of the actions and attitudes of communism, the President said, "we are living and we are going to live in a tense period."

He said it would be ruinous to be "pushed off" time and again, by something suddenly described as a crisis, from a defense plan which he said represents the nearest approach to a consensus of those people who are best informed on the subject.

While he was at it, Eisenhower took a dig or two at what he termed wisecracks of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. He didn't think much, he said, of Khrushchev's suggestion for making West Berlin a free city and garrisoning it with Soviet as well as French, British and U. S. troops.

He took a series of swipes too, at critics of his defense program and at those who say it ought to be strengthened regardless of whether this through the budget out of balance. Key Democrats fired back in a manner to indicate they still intend to write their own ticket on defense.

Eisenhower said he was tired of talking about "the idea of balanced budget against national security," and he added:

"I say that a balanced budget in the long run is a vital part of national security."

Greeks Schedule 'Godlike' Week

Greek Week 1959, scheduled for May 19-17, features a week-long series of events for Greeks and non-Greeks alike. The theme of the annual affair is "Fit for the Gods," and each day of the week will be named after an appropriate Greek god.

General co-chairmen for the IFC-Pan-Hel sponsored week are Ross Meyer, Lansing Junior, and Don McClain, Bronson senior.

IFC Elects Heads, Passes 2.5 Ruling

Panel Installs New Officers, To Begin Terms This Spring

Inter-fraternity Council President's Assembly elected Ed Reuling of Psi Upsilon as new president of IFC and instituted a new scholastic average requirement Wednesday night.

In a three and a half hour meeting, the members also selected Mike Oldham, executive vice president, Alpha Tau Omega; Bill Durell, administrative vice president, Theta Chi; Tom Grimes, treasurer, Psi Upsilon; Chuck Martell, secretary, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Elected as members-at-large were Jerry Franz, Lambda Chi Alpha; Fred Niven, Lambda Chi Alpha; and Ken Haveran, Phi Kappa Psi.

The newly-passed amendment to the by-laws states that "the regulation requiring a 2.2 all-university average to go active be waived in the case of an individual receiving a 2.5 or better the term prior to initiation, providing he is a full time student not including repeated courses."

"This regulation is designed to allow juniors and seniors, who may have pledged with a 2-point to go active without performing the almost impossible task of raising their all-university average to a 2.2 in one term," said Eldon Nonnamaker, fraternity advisor.

Installation of officers highlighted Senior Pan-Hellenic's weekly meeting Wednesday night in the women's lounge of the Student Services building.

Installed were President Sue Schiller, First Vice President Joyce MacNamara, Second Vice President Mary Rogers, Recording Secretary Sandy Cayo, Corresponding Secretary Sue Bishop and Treasurer Molly Maxwell.

New officers will begin their terms of office spring term.

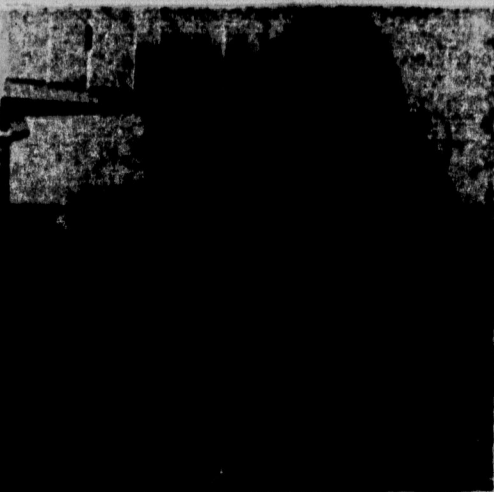

Spring Rush Sign-Up Runs Through Friday

Coeds interested in participating in spring rush, which begins April 9, can register this week in the Pan-Hellenic office, Student Services building from 9-4.

To be eligible a coed must have a two point all college average and a two point winter term. A convocation will be held April 2 to acquaint freshmen with spring life.

Attack Budget Problem

Solons Cooperate

An unusual blend of capitulation and cooperation led House legislators to join hands Wednesday in the first successful effort to solve the state's budgetary woes this season.

Republicans and Democrats were able to meet on neutral political ground with the passage of a $50 million bond issue to be financed for the next five years on "nuisance" taxes.

The passage vote was 84-19.

Republican Floor Leader Allison Green of Kingston made clear his displeasure over the bi-partisan proposal, but said Republicans were forced to support a plan they would ordinarily have opposed after Democrats rejected a GOP sales tax increase plan before it could reach the voters.

Green joined 18 other rural Republicans in opposing the bond proposition.

Democratic Floor Leader Joseph Kowalski of Detroit said his party was in no way capitulating, but was willing to support a mutually agreeable bill to aid the state treasury.

The bond plan was the work of a 10-member group headed by House Speaker Don Pearson (R-Buchanan), Green, Kowalski and Rep. William Baird (D-Detroit), top-ranking Democrat on the General Taxation Committee.

The leaders presented the plan in their parties in caucus Wednesday afternoon, then returned to pass the bill on the House floor.

Reps. Louis Cranston of LaPeer, James Mielock of Alpena, George Gillespie of Gaines and 16 other Republicans voted against the measure because they said it wouldn't provide enough money to solve the state budget problems and it offered no answer for future budgets.

Cranston charged the "nuisance" taxes were only adding to the "nubwork" condition of the Michigan tax structure.

Classes are held all term, however, and an additional two-hour lab period is held during the three weeks of residence. This will entail 30 scheduled hours per term in place of the present 36 hours.

Students who live in a situation where they already carry a managerial role, such as in women's cooperatives or married housing may enroll in the "living out" section.

They will meet as a group, three hours per week throughout the term, in a discussion-conference with correlated problems to be carried out in their own managerial situation. The "living out" section will have 30 class hours per term in place of the three weeks of residence.

To qualify for a "living out" section a student must carry managerial responsibilities for a group—by taking a major role in decision making, handling funds for a group and actively participating in providing food and other needs.

AMONG GUESTS at the Senior Reception at the House Wednesday night were Dick Stoltz, Birmingham (l) and Pat Meloy, Libertyville, Ill.

Officials' Minimum Average Boosted to Equal All-U Level

By MARY HUFF
State News Editor
Scholastic requirements for candidates for elected offices were raised by a vote of Student Congress Wednesday night. The bill, attempting to raise a greater academic awareness among the student body, raises candidates to meet the university grade point average as determined each fall.

maintain at least a 2.0 all-college average while in office.

Rep. Dave Gronauer, (E Shaw), one of the bill's originators, pointed out that anyone running for a major office should at least be able to equal figures from last spring term, showing that 3,412 of 10,713 students averages fell below the all-university grade point.

The rather confused discussion, which involved more clarification than actual debate, finally resulted in the bill's passing by a two-vote majority.

Students will vote at spring term registration on a constitutional amendment required to raise the average for AUSG presidential candidates.

Grade requirements for other offices are not set by the AUSG constitution and thus do not require a student referendum.

A resolution to recommend lowering the minimum age required for living in unapproved housing to 21 for both men and women was referred to the Student Rights and Welfare Committee.

Rep. Duane Chapman (Bailey), who introduced the proposal said according to his talks with administration officials the ruling has not been changed because: 1. Among women, no objections to 24 as the minimum age have been raised; 2. The standards of conduct of the community must be upheld by students; 3. Students have not proved their ability to take care of themselves at 21.

Chapman advised Congress, "If you think we are incapable of deciding for ourselves where we should live at 21, then vote against this." Congress decided further study was necessary, however.

Rep. Jerry Perry (Butterfield) told Congress one of his constituents had inquired as to what would be necessary to change the compulsory nature of ROTC. A resource board of investigation was suggested, but no definite action taken.

6 Cage-Trip Tickets Available to Students

Six students are needed to fill the student bus going to the NCAA basketball regional at Evanston, Ill., according to Wayne Reganall, Spartan Sport director.

Twenty-four students have signed up for the bus which will leave Friday afternoon.

Tickets may be purchased in 326 Student Services this morning or 329 Student Services until 3 p.m. today; see deadline. Bus fare is $7 and game tickets are $8.

New Big 10 Aid System Draws Mixed Reaction

Editor's note: The following is the third in a series of four articles devoted to recruiting practices in college athletics. The Big 10 plan will be discussed in today's article.

By LARRY WROBLEWSKI
THREE YEARS AGO, the Big 10 adopted a new financial aid plan to restrict talent hunting.

This innovation was a major attempt to curb unrestricted recruiting practices. This plan was to solve the question to find an acceptable aid of subsidizing college athletes, a plan acceptable to the public and university faculties, a plan not too costly, and a plan that would work equally well for all conference schools.

Aid to athletes is now given on the basis of "need"—as being determined by certified financial statements of parents.

THE BIG 10 FACULTY representatives voted 6-4 in favor of this plan. Michigan State, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Purdue and Northwestern were for it. Objectors were Indiana, Minnesota, Iowa and Ohio State.

Under conference rules, such a vote isn't necessarily final. The faculty representatives must then get approval of faculty groups at their own campuses.

The plan was finally passed by a 6-4 vote; but this time, Northwestern was against it and Indiana for it.

Most resentment of this new program came from the coaches.

"WE'RE THE GUYS on the firing line," said one coach. "We're the guys who have to live with this thing. It's obvious that a bunch of pencil-pushers, not men who know anything about football, thought this up."

"The man who actually works with the football players the coach—has been almost totally disregarded in setting up this program." Nine conference coaches are ardent opposers to the plan.

One Big 10 school significantly pointed out that under the old work-aid program, the cost for 42 freshman athletes was $37,900. Under the new plan, it is $48,300 for 65. THE OVERALL COST is up, but it is lower per capita.

Under the "need" clause questionnaires are filled out by athletes and his family; using this information, the Big 10 See BIG 10, Page 2.

STON, Conn. (AP) — The Skipjack will have no record and we won't say that it is the greatest in the world.

35-year-old skipper, commanding the nuclear-powered ship's first builders trials, won't be out to set any record without even trying.

Navy has described the long, blimp-shaped ship as the fastest but has said it will exceed 20 knots in an attack-type submarine.

Atomic Energy Commission announced in Washington that the transfer to a complete "Skipjack" design plant together with related secret data authorized by the British "Dreadnought" now under construction.

Teachers Union To Sponsor Talk

The MSU Teachers Union will sponsor a meeting with the two Republican candidates for spring election to the State Board of Agriculture Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Union art room.

The candidates are Frank Merriman, DeKalb county dairy farmer, and A. Lee Brown, president member of the board and a businessman from Boone City.

The meeting will follow the pattern of a similar one held Feb. 24 for Democratic candidates. Students from the Young Republicans Club will be present. The meeting is open to all faculty members, students and the general public.

Audience members will have an opportunity to comment on University problems as well as ask questions.

At the meeting with the Democratic candidates in February, students from the Young Democrats Club, as well as faculty, expressed concern that some of the best teachers at the University are leaving because of low salaries and lack of cost-of-living wage increases. Ken Martineau, Union president, said.

Commercial-Educational TV Channel 10 Schedules 1st Broadcast Sunday

Just three more days to go. This Sunday channel 10 will go on the air after a series of delays caused by bad weather and operational difficulties.

With its combination commercial and educational format, the station will offer a variety of programs never before seen on one channel.

The two stations sharing in this project are WMSB-TV, MSU's own station and WILX-TV, a commercial station broadcasting from Jackson.

Uninterrupted by commercials, WMSB will telecast from 9:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. and 6-7 p.m. Monday through Friday. On Sunday it will broadcast from noon-3:30 p.m.

WILX-TV on the NBC network will telecast its commercial programs for the remaining 8 1/2 hours of air time.

Complete coverage of news and sports coverage, TV cartoons, children's shows and student participation programs are some of the highlights planned for WMSB-TV.

Rob Downey is the news director and Bob Shackleton, long a familiar figure to central Michigan sports fans, is WMSB sports director.

Kay Eyde will present "Ladies Time" at 1 p.m. Monday through Friday and "Foods for Life" will broadcast over WMSB at 12:00 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday.

It will feature Dr. Denis Celsky, head of the department of food and nutrition at the College of Home Economics.

office would determine how much the family must contribute for the boy's education.

On the questionnaire, the boy would indicate the Big 10 schools from which he would like to receive bids. After a prospective athlete has been offered a tender in aid, he must accept it in 21 days or by Aug. 1, whichever comes first.

THE SCHOOLS COULD OFFER to pay for his board, room, tuition, books and fees—LESS the family contribution. The bare cost of going to these schools varies from about $1,100 a year at Iowa to $1,900 at Northwestern.

In December at the Big 10 winter meetings in Chicago, the faculty representatives rejected a proposal by Iowa, Northwestern and Minnesota to eliminate the "need" factor in the conference's recruiting policy.

So far the program has proved to be workable and realistic. Other colleges should incorporate the plan. It would curtail the violation of recruiting.

To See Masters Tourney Golf 'Team' Travels South This Spring

Four prospects for the 1959 MSU golf team will start the season off early when they travel to Gulfport, Miss., during Spring vacation. The golf team has not been scheduled for a southern trip this spring because of the bad weather they encountered on previous trips.

To compensate for this, the four decided to drive and pay their own way in order to get practiced up for the coming golf season.

Fencing Team Nice Surprise

Third-Place Finish Nets Three Men NCAA Bid

BY CAROLYN VALONE

Who would have expected it? Probably not even the most loyal fan of the fencing team would have predicted that the sword would come through with a third place victory in Big 10 Championships last week in Columbus, Ohio.

But that wasn't all. Three of the fencers collected medals and qualified for the fencing nationals to be held March 27 and 28 at Navy.

Chuck Schmitter, Jr., and Terry Gilman were third place medal winners in epee and foil respectively. Steve Arnest, team captain, brought home the other medal for a fourth place.

These victories are a tribute to the persistence and the spirit of a team who simply wouldn't believe they were as bad as their 2-8 record showed.

Coach Charles Schmitter's team has been working under a great handicap all year. Graduation last year took many of the lettermen and experienced fencers. This year's team could boast no lettermen. For many of the fencers, it was their first year in collegiate competition.

At the beginning of the season, Schmitter commented, "we're hoping that our new kids can find themselves early so that we can make a stronger bid for success later on. In the beginning, however, we'll be hard pressed."

Not even he could have known how true his prediction was. Schmitter, Gilman and Arnest could be tough in the nationals. Schmitter compiled a 26-6 record in foil during the season, but competed in epee at Columbus. In his first year in collegiate fencing, he had five 3-0 meets.

Gilman, the only senior on the team, competed in all the bouts of the season and has an 18-14 total in foil. He looked particularly good in the Big 10 finals as he was 7-2 for the day and missed second place by only one touch.

Arnest had a 14-19 season in sabre, but finished strong with two 3-0 meets against Indiana and Case at the last tournament of the season. Last year he competed in one bout and was out the rest of the season due to illness.

These three will carry the MSU hopes in the nationals. They have already surprised the public once this year. They could do it again.

Campus Question of Week

Should MSU Raise the 2-Point?

The question of the week is: Do you think the university should raise the 2-point all college average requirement for students seeking an office or position in a university approved organization?

Gordon Smith, Westfield, N.J., senior: "I don't believe a 2-point is a creditable mark for campus leaders. I think the grade requirement should coincide with the all-university average which now stands at 2.35. If a student can't maintain good grades he should get out of college activities."

Nelda Trout, East Lansing senior: "I think scholarship is important, but I don't believe a requirement higher than a 2-point should be mandatory. A person should know himself if he can spare the additional time in fulfilling an office and still maintain grades that he considers satisfactory."

Chuck Walther, White Pigeon senior: "I feel an organization that sets social activities as its goal should not raise the requirement. Organizations where emphasis is on ability and intelligence should have leaders that have the all-university average. A person that has only a 2-point is close to the borderline."

Britt Engstrom, Detroit junior: "If it's a social club, a 2-point is fine. For organizations that have an influence in campus activity the average should be higher. Any position of authority should be held by someone with good grades to back him in his job."

Robert Slade, Grosse Pointe senior: "I think the requirement should be raised. It should be determined by an average of the all-university average over a period of three to four years."

Karen Fox, Flint senior: "Don't raise the requirement. If it was raised the exceptional person who can do a tremendous job for an organization might be left out. However, I think the organization itself should look for the student with higher grades. I'm for a personal selection by the organization, rather than the university imposing another rule."

Steve Will, Long Island, N.Y., senior: "I think officers should maintain the all-university average. I think a good leader knows how to budget his time; therefore, it is possible for him to get good grades and do a good job for his organization."

Main Storm Sewer Break Creates Cave-in on Campus

The plugging of a main storm sewer is responsible for the large hole in the area on campus between the Old Power Plant and Machine Shop.

The sewer is used to drain residue when the boiler in the power plant is blown down, cleaned and drained. This takes place once every 24 hours, Ronald Telling, assistant-foreman of plumbing and heating, said.

Water has been backing up in the plant each time the boiler was blown down. Recently the drainage fell below 13 percent creating a rush job to investigate the cause.

Crushed sections of tile were found after 10 feet of digging and bracing other pipelines.

New sections of tile will be installed and inspection of the sewer line will continue to the central draining area at the Red Cedar river, if necessary, Telling said.

The boiler supplies about one-third of the steam to various buildings on campus through its two main lines. The normal steam supply will continue during this repair period.
