Drop Overtime Tilt After Boston Win

By DAVE BARRELL (Special to the State News)
TROY, N.Y. — Michigan State's hockey squad returned to the East Lansing campus late Sunday night after almost clinching the first NCAA ice championship in the university's history.

The Spartans won the semifinal match Friday over Boston College, 4-2, but dropped a hard-luck overtime decision to North Dakota, the NCAA champion, Saturday night, 4-3, before 1,000 spectators at the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute field house.

Reg Morelli's goal at the 4:18 mark of the overtime period was the difference which gave the Sioux the NCAA crown. It came with both teams having a man in the penalty box.

Morelli, chosen the Most Valuable Player in the tournament, scored on a rebound when Spartan goalie Joe Selinger was sprawled on the ice after blocking Bill Miller's shot.

The Spartans had rebounded from a 2-1 deficit after two periods of play to send the game into overtime. Andre LaCoste talked at the 8:05 mark of the third period, with assists going to Bob Norman and Jack Roberts.

Roberts then sent the game into overtime with his rebound shot at 16:20. He was assisted by LaCoste and Eddy Pollesel.

The Spartans opened the scoring with Pollesel hitting the net at 14:28 of the first period. Points went to LaCoste and LaMontagne.

But the Sioux came back with two goals in the second period, with Ralph Lydon scoring from the foot at 7:51 while Jerry Wall and Stan Paniche hit the net in two minutes apart.

Saturday's game was the third of the four-game tournament to go into overtime, the first time in the journey history that there have been three extra-period games.

In the Friday semi-final clash, the inspired Boston College team gave the Spartans a scare, although State took the 4-3 decision. During the EPI Christmas tournament, the Spartans had beaten Boston College by a 6-9 score.

The MSU team took a 4-1 lead before Boston College came back in the third period with two quick goals.

Discussion Planned on Dress Rule

Result of Brody Demonstration

By KEN GREINKE
Plans to hold a convocation with university officials and Brody Group residents are being made for some day in the near future.

Green Hartman, Rafter Hall president, and Chuck Walther, AUSG president, are making the preparations for the meeting.

Dress regulations will be the topic of the discussion.

The convocation is a result of a discussion which took place in Kather Hall after a public demonstration by Rafter residents Thursday.

"The purpose of our demonstration was an effort to show the officials concerned just how the majority of the students feel about the dress regulation. We want the regulations relaxed on a Monday through Friday basis. I feel that we've made our point, now it's up to the administration," Hartman said.

Hartman and Walther plan to invite university officials directly concerned with the dress regulations to the convocation.

"So far, only one side of the issue has been presented. The convocation will provide an opportunity to air both viewpoints at one general assembly—both those of the students as well as those of the university," Walther said.

Donn Scott, Bryan Hall and MHA president said Thursday at a roundtable discussion that "The proper channel is through MHA, which works with the university as representatives of students."

However, at the discussion following the demonstration, Ronald F. Little, a Rafter resident from Detroit, asserted that "MHA does not represent the desires of the students. We asked for relaxed regulations through the week MHA proposed Fridays only. This is representation."

Little's statement was largely applauded by the group at the meeting.

Scott answered Little's charge, "As president of MHA and Bryan Hall, I feel we should represent the mature thought. Although I knew we need a foot in the door before we can bargain for more."

Cooperates With WILX-TV WMSB-TV Begins Educational Operations

By JOAN MILLER

"The use of television as a medium of education is based simply and directly upon the urgent need for effective communication and exchange of ideas between men, between institutions, between communities, between nations, and between cultures," said Dr. Armand Hunter, director of broadcasting at WMSB-TV, in the dedication ceremony of Channel 10 Sunday.

"This is one of the critical conditions to the survival of our modern civilization. Television can be an effective medium of such communication. Educational television must be such a medium. There is no other choice. To this end we dedicate WMSB in service to you," he said.

Sunday marked the beginning of a pioneer venture in the history of television.

MSU's own WMSB-TV and Television Corp. of Michigan's WILX-TV, a commercial station, have become sister stations on Channel 10. They are the first TV stations in the world to combine the features of both educational and commercial broadcasting on one channel.

Among the visiting dignitaries at the opening day ceremonies was Dr. John A. Hannah. "Today we dedicate this station to the public interest in behalf of the people of Michigan who are the real owners of this station," he said.

Even as the ceremony unfolded in Studio A of WMSB, the rest of the studio and control rooms were the scenes of first-day activity.

A crowd of employees and visitors clustered around the television set in the lobby. In the control room Director Lee Frischknecht watched and timed the ceremony and calmly gave orders to the cameramen and boom operators.

Hunter introduced the next guest speaker, Lynn Bartlett, superintendent of Public Instruction and ex-officio member of the State Board of Agriculture.

Premier Accuses Nasser

Possible Crisis Drawing Near

BAGHDAD, Iraq (P) — Leftists here are demanding that Premier Abdel Karim Kassem give arms to the people and purge the army and government of "traitors."

Iran may be approaching the crucial moment for deciding the future course of this strategic Arab Republic.

The uprising in Mosul last week has been suppressed. It dealt a severe blow not only to Arab unity, but to the already disorganized anti-communist forces here.

Kassem is reported to believe the Mosul revolt was the work of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Western diplomats here expressed belief the evidence is pretty conclusive the revolt was plotted in Cairo, and that its chief figure, Col. Abdel Wasim Shawal, was inspired by Nasser.

President Nasser continued his attack on Kassem and communists in the Middle East. In a speech at Damascus Sunday he denounced Kassem as one who took no part in last July's Iraqi revolt, but came to power after others ousted the old regime. Nasser termed Iraqi communists anti-religious.

U.A.R. military spokesmen said in Cairo Saturday three Iraqi jet planes carried out an attack six miles inside Syrian territory, damaging an Arab vessel with machine gun and rocket fire. Nasser made no mention of this in his 45-minute speech.

This is the story pieced together here by talking with officials and diplomats.

Shawal, who was reported killed in the revolt, was supported by some army officers, local members of the Baathist party and Shammar tribesmen.

But the revolt was poorly conceived and mismanaged. Kurdish tribesmen, ancient enemies of the Shammar, rushed from the countryside into Mosul to help soldiers loyal to Kassem crush the revolt.

Achmad Ajil Alldaywar, Paramount shiek of tens of thousands of Shammar tribesmen in north-west Iraq and Syria, was killed and strung up by his feet from the girders of a bridge over the Tigris River.

Robert Shaw Performance Set Tonight

Choral works ranging from Handel to Stravinsky will be performed by the Robert Shaw Chorale tonight at 8:15 in the Aud.

Known widely as one of the world's greatest choral groups, the Robert Shaw Chorale achieves its musical excellence through uncompromising rehearsal and musical training.

Shaw like to begin rehearsals with a short period of limbering up exercises: calisthenics, back bends, stretching, yawning all designed to relax tight throats and tone up the singer's breathing apparatus.

These are followed by vocalizing, singing soft and loud, sustaining notes on different vowels and as he goes through these exercises, Shaw extends the range of the singers in both directions.

"You can fool them into doing things in a group that they would never do by themselves," he says. "Bassists, for instance, are always afraid of high notes. But if you don't give them warning before they get there, you can sometimes bring them up to high E-flat before they know they realize what he is doing."

Shaw's moods during rehearsal range from the cool perfection of an experienced conductor to the uninhibited verve of a college cheer leader.

By CHUCK RICHARDS
Michigan State's basketball team shouldn't have too many regrets over losing out in the second game of the NCAA regional tournament.

It is probably true that the Spartans failed to play the best game of which they are capable against Louisville in Evansville, Ill., a fact verified by Coach Fordey Anderson.

But it probably wouldn't have mattered anyway because Louisville is probably the hottest team in the tournament, and proved it Saturday night by racing to an 88-81 victory to eliminate State.

MSU had to scramble to dispose of Marquette, 76-69, Friday night.

Virtually all of the 9,200 fans were surprised when Louisville knocked off Kentucky in their first game, 76-61, with a phenomenal 48-point second half.

That is, all except Anderson, a coach who seems to have some strange predictive power.

"During the first period in a (Louisville) trail, 36-28, I told Bob Stevens, (assistant coach) to stop sending Kentucky and begin concentrating on Louisville," admitted Anderson.

It looked as if the scouting would do the job when the Spartans managed to grab a 41-42 halftime margin against the much taller Cardinals.

But while Stevens was counting West Virginia in anticipation of a semi-final clash with them, Louisville opened up with a 48-point second half, same as in the Kentucky game, and stopped MSU.

The Cardinals poured in well over 50 percent of their shots from the field and refused to miss from the foul line while throwing up a tight man-to-man defense.

Only John Green was able to escape the great defense of Louisville in the second period with 29 points.

Anderson blamed the Spartans' failure to hit well from the outside in the second half and the failure to get the ball into Green in the pivot frequently enough for the defeat.

"They deserved to win," he said, "but I was greatly disappointed in the way we played out there."

It was a hard way to end the season for MSU. The Spartans were the class of the Big 10 this season, running away with the crown by the widest margin in 50 years.

They rolled up a 12-2 league mark and a 19-4 season slate, the best in history. The quintet drew Anderson's praise as the

Dress Regulations Need Revision

WE COMMEND Rather Hall's Thursday night demonstration protesting dress regulations. The orderly procedure caused no violence. But it certainly initiated some serious thought—and, we hope, effective action. As Glenn Hartmann, Rather president, said following the protest, the group "made its point."

Residents of the men's halls generally agree that dress regulations should be modified—how much modification seems to be a source of conflict.

Men's Halls Assn., composed of residence hall presidents and supposed to represent the men of the halls, proposed a measure to relax dress rules on Friday night and during final exams.

This was felt by many to be an unwanted compromise measure. What they really want is to abolish dress regulations every day except Sunday.

TWO QUESTIONS come to mind as we examine these findings—first, concerning the dress regulations themselves—do they have a valid effect, do they merit their existence?

The regulations seek to stress the importance of habitual neatness and personal appearance as a trait expected of university graduates.

But who has the right to say that "proper attire" includes a "shirt of a texture appropriate for a dress shirt, with one pocket only."

WHY SHOULD THE university try to establish "proper attire" at all?

We also question the authority. Does the university have a responsibility to educate the student in this area—or does this divert energy away from their chief aim of intellectual achievement?

Trying to follow the rules, many men, instead of attempting to appear "neat and presentable," simply aim "to get by the checker." Is this instilling awareness of "habitual neatness"?

Women's dormitories do not have similar regulations regarding dress for the dinner meal. Coeds simply go to dinner, except for the Sunday noon meal, in clothes they wear at camp—and we have heard no objection from this side of campus. We are certain the wackier they would raise their voice if women were forced to wear nose and heel (and girlish) for every evening meal.

THE WEARING OF suit, tie and dress shirt certainly causes at least as much inconvenience to the men. There get by the checker." Is this instilling awareness of "habitual neatness"?

We do not urge abolishing these representative groups—rather, make them effective.

Dress regulations should be relaxed. Nothing will be achieved except through proper channels—through MHA to the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs.

Effective representation must first be gained. If it isn't, student action will take care of abolishing dress regulations.

Letters to the Editor

Blue Key Members Urge Action Through Representatives

To the Editor:

We would like to praise the men participating in the recent demonstration at Brady Hall for being so well behaved. We would also like to thank the student body that this type of effort could perhaps be more useful if directed elsewhere.

Each male graduate student on the campus has the opportunity to have at least three representative groups to express his views to the proper controlling agency. (At this time, students living off campus and in married housing are not taking advantage of all three.)

First, we have representation to a living unit government such as a house or room council.

Second, we have representation to a living unit group government such as Men's Hall Association, Inter-Faculty Council, Women's Hall Council and Inter-Class Council.

Third, we have representation to All-University Student Government Congress.

Organized groups important. Each of these organizations is far more important than most realize because these groups can sit down and work on their problems with the university, town or state and thus proceed to the best solution for all concerned. Who, on the other hand, can talk to a man or carry on a conversation with a politician?

We realize that many times mass action and petitions are direct results of two prevalent emotions on campus—one being, "Our representatives do not represent the way we think and feel," and the other, "Our representatives do not have the power to do anything for us." We would like to comment on both remarks.

If our representatives do not reflect your opinions and feelings, there are two obvious courses of action. Convince them through personal contact and group meetings that your ideas and methods are better, or when it is proven that they are not doing the job they were elected to do, replace them with someone that will.

Replace Authority. If you feel that your representative body has no "power," you are absolutely correct. However, they have something far more important and impressive. That is, the responsibility to represent you and the authority to carry out his function and any others they have proven sufficiently responsible to carry out.

It might be wise to note here that no individual or group of individuals on this campus has "power" only the responsibility and commensurate authority to carry out these responsibilities. With the All-University elections coming up in April, it is the student body's duty to insure that only the best prepared, best qualified and most capable individuals are in office. Then, once these individuals are in office, make use of them.

Make Them Work. Make them work for you by being vocal about your problems and desires. Governmental agencies are like any team; only practice will produce an efficient working group.

Stay in contact with them, determine whether progress is being made, and, if a demonstration is felt called for as is sometimes the case, demonstrate to the individuals directly responsible to you, your representatives.

A demonstration to any other group indicates only that we are not yet ready to live in a democracy with a representative form of government. We are not ready to take our place as citizens of the United States.

Stand Against Sterilization Disapproved

To the Editor:

Thursday's editorial criticism of eugenics commissions should have an answer. The freedom which may be taken away from productive unwed mothers in North Carolina is the freedom to burden society with improperly cared for children.

These mothers are not free-thinking intellectuals who scorn convention but feeble-minded, unrespectable destitutes, who may not be sophisticated enough to make a minimum-standard living from the basis of production of their continuing progeny.

Two Children Enough. Sterilization would provide them with a more stable means of earning a living for themselves and their two children, which is as many as any family that considers the future of the world should have.

State support for the children who have heretofore been born is costly, especially since the ratio of criminals and bums to laborers and artistically creative adults is rather high from such origins.

Intellectual or pseudo-intellectual young women who are capable of supporting an indefinite number of children and rearing them to be responsible adults may form a line to the night. The courts presumably will uphold their position.

'Old Man and the Sea' Belongs With Classics

By ED FLOURNOY

For once, Ernest Hemingway has not resorted to law suits and production rights withdrawals to express his opinion of a film based on one of his novels. As a matter of fact, he appears in a scene of "The Old Man and the Sea" which opens Tuesday at the Lucon.

He even offered personal counsel to the film's producer, Leland Hayward, and to its top performer, Spencer Tracy. In spite of this however, "The Old Man" has not been successful at the box office (definitely no indication of the film's quality, because it has been considered too slow).

Tracy started when the film's producer and its first director, Fred Zinneman, was replaced by John Sturges who, upon completion of the final product after nearly two years of consistent interruptions, announced that it was his supposed piece of work to date.

Nevertheless, the National Board of Review, an organization independent of public whims, voted it the Best Film of 1958 because it dealt with "the most significant drama involving man, to wit, the individual human being's contest with the universe."

To be sure, the screenplay certainly deals with a number of truths basic to the existence of man as the lone creature among all others on earth who has the gift of consciousness.

We see the superiority of man as we watch the old man vainly conquer a giant marlin after a lengthy and furious struggle. The dignity of man is given treatment when the old man cannot save his quarry from a school of hungry sharks which consequently highlights the fact that human purposes are not the only ones in the universe.

The inevitable generation of man is elucidated by the juxtaposition of the tired old man to the vigorous young Cuban boy; this is especially visible during the closing scenes. There are a number of other profound truths to be found in this highly commendable film.

Spencer Tracy's performance as the Old Man is a tribute to his many years in the film capital and belongs among the classics of the screen. Felipe Pando as The Boy is undoubtedly a wooden "The Old Man and the Sea" deceiving any student's time and attention, as it is a noteworthy piece of cinema.

Macmillan to Visit U. S.

'Washington Authority Is Lacking'

Direction Change Expected Result

LONDON (AP)—With Prime Minister Harold Macmillan packing for his trip to the White House, British commentators took a look at the state of the U.S. presidency Sunday and found it wanting.

Much-traveled Macmillan, just home from Paris and Bonn, is due in Washington Thursday to talk about the Western approach to the Berlin crisis.

Newspapers here built up the impression that he goes as the Western world's undisputed leader—and that Macmillan will get the credit if his talks with President Eisenhower produce any new coherence in the Allied line. A dispatch in the conservative Sunday Times put it this way:

"Washington without the strong hand of Secretary of State Dulles lacks authority, but after the Macmillan-Eisenhower meeting a new sense of direction is expected."

The Liberal Observer said America, and France and Germany, too, have "grudgingly accepted the leadership of Macmillan because no other leadership was forthcoming."

Christopher Lucas, Washington correspondent of the mass circulation Sunday Dispatch, pictured America's chief executive as "jovely, low-spirited, and in his political enunciations lackingly inconsistent."

Said Lucas: "In 1953 America's most popular war hero, the universal father image, swept the Republicans into power with the magic of his name and embarked on a crusade for a new era in government."

"In 1956 a weary, disillusioned, figure enters the home stretch with his popularity tarnished and his crusade forgotten."

"In one breath Eisenhower announces 'we won't give an inch on Berlin and in the next adds quietly 'or mobilize a man either.'"

"He endlessly urges disarmament and atomic controls, yet dismisses Macmillan's proposals for a test agreement as impractical."

With Hawaii becoming the 50th state, several Hawaiian students presented the following reactions to statehood:

Joyce Harada, Kapaa, Kauai, senior: "I think it's great. Now the kids can't call me a foreigner anymore. And besides that, now we have 'taxation with representation.'"

Abe Takahashi, Wahiawa, Oahu, sophomore: "Well, to be specific—we've been waiting 40 to 50 years for this and though we were classed as second class citizens, we've always felt our first loyalty to the federal government. With statehood we'll be considered first class citizens with the right to vote."

MSU Prof Discusses Pasternak

Claims 'Zhivago' Not Anti-Russian

It is a mistake to assume that Doctor Zhivago, Boris Pasternak's Nobel prize winning novel, currently a best seller in the United States, is an anti-communist novel or an attack on the Soviet system, the head of the department of English said Sunday on Viewpoint over WMSB-TV and WKAR-radio.

Appearing on the program with Dr. Robert Wright, associate professor of communication skills, and Major John Barron, host on Viewpoint, Dr. Russell Nye said that the Russian author does not disavow anything he has written, but he objects strongly to its treatment as a political pamphlet for or against communism.

Pasternak, he added, is not interested in politics, but in the larger questions of man's fate, his relation to God, his attempt to keep his dignity and self-respect in a world out of control.

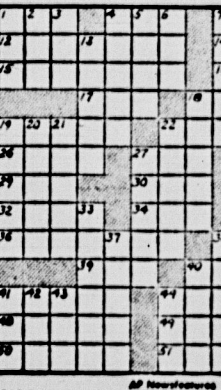

Wright though the book overrated. He said Americans have praised Doctor Zhivago extravagantly for the same reason the Soviet critics have condemned the novel.

"We have allowed our jubilation over the anti-communist remarks in the book to obscure its many literary shortcomings," he said. If we are to praise the work at all, he said, it must be for its courage rather than its merit as literature.

Wright took the novel to task for what he called its "loose, formless structure."

Writing Contest Short of Funds

The annual creative writing contest, sponsored for over ten years by the English department, has been temporarily discontinued according to Prof. Virgil Scott, chairman of the Creative Writing Contest Committee.

The contest, which offers prizes for the best short stories, poems or essays, has no funds for prizes.

The contest committee is investigating possible sources for funds in order that the contest may be continued in 1960.

Degree programs in Business Administration, Engineering Science, Liberal Arts and Teacher Education will be offered at Michigan State University—Oakland when it opens next fall.

Storm Strands Basketball Fans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A massive late winter storm drove eastward out of the Midwest Sunday, leaving at least two dead in the wake of tornadoes and thousands stranded by heavy snows.

Snow propelled by strong winds stymied traffic at Des Moines, Iowa, and Lincoln, Neb., and stranded an estimated 7 persons attending state high school basketball tournament at Des Moines, thousands stranded teen-age basketball fans staged an impromptu all night rock 'n' roll session, munching hotdogs and guzzling soft drinks.

Telephone engineer Stu Black—and the booming Southern California region he serves.

"The telephone company helps you blueprint your future"

Stuart C. Black had job offers from seven companies before he got his B.S. degree in Engineering from U.C.L.A. in 1954. His choice: the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company in Los Angeles.

"They told me exactly what to expect," he says. "Every phase of my training, covering two years of rotational job assignments, was outlined. They made it easy for me to see where I could go."

Since Stu was hired, he's climbed poles, installed telephones and worked with architects and contractors. He's designed ventilating systems and studied labor-management relations. He's handled million-dollar-a-month commitments with connecting telephone companies for mutual use of Long Distance lines. And he's learned how complex bookkeeping is reduced to punches on IBM cards.

Today, Stu is a Staff Engineer in San Diego. He programs equipment and money for engineering projects as far ahead as 2½ years in one of the fastest growing areas in the United States.

"The telephone company is a 'look-ahead' kind of business," says Stu. "It can predict future telephone needs and the need for more and more management people. So there's a whole lot of opportunity for the young fellow who really wants to get ahead."

Many young men like Stu Black are finding interesting and rewarding careers in the Bell Telephone Company. Find out about career opportunities for you. Talk with the Bell interviewer when he visits your campus. And read the Bell Telephone booklet on file in your Placement Office.

Lenten Season Begins For Eastern Church

The penitential season of Lent begins for Eastern Orthodox Churches today, and Easter will be celebrated on May 3.

The date for the celebration of Easter in the Orthodox Church was set by the First Ecumenical Council at Nicea in 325 A.D. It was decreed that Easter should always fall on the first Sunday after the vernal equinox and after Jewish Passover. The Lenten season for the Orthodox Catholics lasts seven weeks; forty days in memory of Christ's fasting in the desert, and Passion Week.

Strict fasting, more frequent participating in church services, spiritual reading and meditation, confession and reception of the Eucharist, and an intensive life of prayer are urged upon Orthodox Catholics during this season.

There are over 150,000,000 Orthodox Catholics in the world today, with about 5,000,000 in America. English is becoming increasingly the language for the Mass and the administration of the sacraments in the English-speaking countries.

The Pan-Orthodox Student Assn. is planning a series of Lenten Vespers to be held on Wednesday evenings at 7:30 p.m. in the Alumni Memorial Chapel on campus. The Assn. will sponsor a week-end spiritual retreat for Eastern Orthodox students at the Romanian Orthodox monastery at Grass Lake on April 10-11-12.

All Orthodox students who are interested in participating in the retreat should complete arrangements with the Assn. before Sunday.

Flint Musician Murders Family

FLINT (AP)—Police said a 32-year-old part time musician has admitted beating and stabbing his wife to death and drowning two of his four daughters in the family's east side Flint home Sunday.

Held for investigation of murder was James R. Seeley, a part time music teacher in the Flint Public School System and a musical instrument repairman.

Det. John Burton said Seeley admitted beating his wife Carol, 32, to death with a hatchet and stabbing her with a knife in their bedroom and drowning his 4-year-old daughter Carol and his 8-year-old daughter Connie in the bathroom in what he said was "an urge to kill."

Placement Interviews Increasing

A total of 8500 students were interviewed for jobs during fall and winter term, according to Jack Kinney, Placement Bureau director. Five thousand of these interviewed winter term.

Kinney attributes the rise in interviewing to the new facilities of the Bureau, plus the improved business climate. Approximately 1100 interviewing schedules were drawn for the two terms.

Engineering and science majors are most in demand, Kinney said. There have been increased interviewing opportunities for general business and liberal arts majors.

The bulk of the Michigan public school systems will be interviewing during March and April. Other states will also be interviewing, including the school systems in California, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and New York.

Kinney approximated engineers' starting salaries as between $6,000-6,100. General business is approximately $5,100 and liberal arts $4,800. The starting salary for teachers is anticipated as close to $4,400.

Kinney quoted the visiting employers as being pleased with the quality of interviewees as well as the quantity.

EYE HI-LITES by Dr. Joseph B. Griststein

QUESTION: How come my little brother is wearing bifocals? I always thought bifocals were for older people only.

ANSWER: Bifocals for children may be (generally) fitted for two reasons:

a) Uncommonly we find a youngster who for any of a variety of reasons has "premature presbyopia." Simply translated this means eyes that are "old before their time."

b) More commonly bifocals are fitted to children as an attempt to halt the (too rapid) progression of their myopia or nearsightedness. I no longer use bifocals for children very much. Instead I recommend contact lenses, which stop the progression completely.

QUESTION: I have a 16 year old daughter who is very conscious about her glasses and tries not to wear them. However, she must wear them to see. Will she be a good contact lens patient?

ANSWER: More than likely, yes. I would have preferred it if you were able to tell me that your daughter is very anxious to wear contact lenses. This is the positive approach. It is generally agreed by contact lens experts that the DEARE to wear contact lenses, is most, if not all, of the battle.

MSU Students Receive Wilson Fellowship Awards

Outstanding MSU students have been awarded coveted Woodrow Wilson Fellowships, the Wilson National Foundation of N.J., announced.

The 10 recipients are from the Honors College, a program of wide latitude of high ability. The Woodrow Wilson Foundation is a national-wide organization for future college students and selects and sponsors scholars for the year of graduate study.

Wilson Fellow receives allowance of $1,500 plus cost of tuition and fees. Students receive additional awards.

Over 1,200 Fellows were chosen from 7,000 candidates from more than 700 universities and colleges. All nominees were rigorously screened by a faculty member.

John H. Bower, program's national director, said the need for college students in the 1960's can only be met by every single Woodrow Wilson Fellow. He said the class of 1959 prepared themselves for careers.

Wilson Fellowships academic year 1959-60 will work next fall at universities.

Fellows selected from John Abbott, Earl Robert Bush, Decatur Caldwell, East Lansing, Carroll, Mason Charles, Norman, Netherlands, Jordan, Larson, Paul, Richardson, Warren, Bennett, Hurley, N.Y., South, East Lansing, and Winters, Chicago.

Opportunity Offered Foreign Students

Students are offered opportunity to live with a host family during the semester from March 25 to May 15. Students will live in the town of Cedar Rock, Rockford Park, Rockford.

The program includes the Grand Rapids and Lansing. The group is made up of representatives of the club and taken to their homes. There will be visits to schools and places of interest. Time for resting and sight seeing will be provided. Plans must be made by the student. Bahaullah Karamat, president of the International Club, Louise Carpenter, director of the World Traveling, 106 C Wells Hall, has accepted. The total fee is $6.00 for a round ticket.

Show Well Received German Music Sung By Heidelberg Chorus

By NELDA TROUT
State News Night Editor

An enthusiastic group of 28 students from Heidelberg University are having the time of their lives touring the United States. And on top of it, they are bringing to Americans some of the fine music of Germany.

Friday night's program at the Aud consisted of madrigals and sacred songs of the 16th, 17th and 18th centuries, along with German student songs from Heidelberg.

For a concert leading many to believe that the general public performance was very well received. However, a few German songs known and loved by Americans such as "Tannenbaum" and "Auf Wiedersehen" would have added to the enjoyment of the program.

Dressed in somber navy blue suits bearing the crest of the university, the men and cords presented numbers by Bach, Orlando Gibbons and Haydn, singing in English, French, Italian and German.

Choosing to brighten their program with a few popular songs, the group sang "The Rose Tree" and "The Bird Song" to present folk and German drinking songs.

The familiar "Gaudete" by Schubert, "The Rose Tree" and "The Bird Song" were the songs which the chorus sang under the direction of Dr. Sigfried Hennrich, who founded the group in 1946. Over the last 13 years, the group has performed more than 200 concerts over the South West German Radio, the Bavarian Radio and the Radio-Diffusion, Frankfurt.

The students are well versed in music history and come from all academic fields.

Dr. Hennrich has said his chief aim is to give his pupils musical, rather than academic, performance.

By arrangements with Pan-Hel, IFC and Union Board, the students shared Friday night at fraternities and society houses.

Those participating were Pi Beta Phi, Delta Delta Delta, Alpha Phi, Gamma Phi Beta, Delta Zeta and Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Patronized included Theta Chi, Phi Kappa Sigma, Alpha Chi Omega, Delta Chi, Phi Gamma Delta, Kappa Sigma, Phi Kappa Tau and Alpha Gamma Rho.

Final Examination Schedule for Winter, 1959

The last day of classes for Winter Term is Wednesday, March 18. All final examinations will be given in accordance with the following schedule. The time of the examinations in Basic College courses is given below. Examination rooms will be announced by the instructor during the last week of classes.

Communication Skills

Social Science
Humanities

Thursday, March 18, 10:15-12:15
Friday, March 19, 10:15-12:15
Saturday, March 20, 10:15-12:15
Sunday, March 21, 10:15-12:15

The time of examinations in sections other than Basic College courses is determined by the day and the time the class is scheduled during the term. Examinations will be given in the same classrooms used for class meetings during the term.

If at least two of the days and hours follow the regular pattern, all students, instructors and room schedules will automatically clear in a few minutes at the request of the department concerned. The final examination has been scheduled by the single hour lecture section and in some instances students may encounter conflicts. In that event, the examination will be given in a two-hour session. Two hours each week will take precedence over the examination scheduled by the single hour lecture. The examination will be arranged between the student and the department requesting the special scheduling of its examination.

All instructors having examinations from 8:00 a.m. until from 1:30-3:30 p.m. are requested to complete their examinations promptly so that rooms and buildings may be cleared for the examination periods which follow.

Keeping pace with established traditions, the MSU debaters took first place Saturday in the first annual Flint College Tourney of 100 students from 14 colleges and universities. MSU received the highest rating in quality.

The four representatives from the Kappa Kappa Gamma Chapter of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society took part in the debate. On the affirmative were Harry Boughton and Charles Herbert Lansing sophomore.

On the negative were Lynn Miller, Grand Rapids sophomore, and Mary Barrone, Grand Rapids freshman.

The highest ranking part of the event was Mine Denale director, Jack Carter, accompanied the group. March 20 and 21, the Forensic Union will participate in the West Point Eliminations at Briar University in Indiana.

Dedication Ceremony Set Today For Redecorated Cadet Lounge

The newly decorated Air Force Cadet Lounge will be rededicated today. A dedication ceremony will be held 2:4 p.m. Coffee and doughnuts will be served to all cadets wishing to attend.

The project, sponsored by the Officers' Wives Club and the Silver Wings Organization, equipped the lounge with new floor covering, furniture and drapes.

The major task of putting the floor covering in and setting up the furniture was performed by the Leadership Training Office.

The remainder of the lounge received a thorough cleaning from the janitorial staff.

The project was designed to give everyone in the Wing more conducive atmosphere in which to relax or study. It is for the use of both basic and advanced cadets. The lounge will have a stock of current magazines of interest to airpower enthusiasts.

The decorative personnel will install a varied assortment of vending machines in the near future, according to Major James Driscoll.

California's Defense Will Bother Cincinnati

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"California's type of defense will bother Cincinnati."

That's the opinion of St. Mary's Coach Jim Weaver whose Gaels lost 66-46 to the Golden Bears in the Far West Regional NCAA basketball playoffs last Saturday night.

California meets Cincinnati in the semifinal of the NCAA championships at Louisville, Ky., Friday night.

The big question is just how much the Nation's No. 1 defensive club can bother the Cincinnati team that ranked second in offense nationally and possesses the top collegiate scorer in all-America Oscar Robertson.

"California is a good, solid club and well coached," Weaver asserted.

"I think it has an excellent chance of going all the way. They put on a lot of pressure and that undoubtedly was a factor in our cold shooting."

The Gaels hit 51 per cent of their shots in beating Idaho State in the first round game Friday night but only 31 per cent Saturday night against the Bears.

California hit 42 per cent, about its normal.

"Our defense kept them from their perimeter shooting and was the major reason for our success," Cal Coach Pete Newell declared.

Earlier he had said, "If we can get by this weekend, we will have an equal chance with anybody in the NCAA championships."

Foytack: A Natural Pitcher

LAKELAND, Fla., (AP)—Paul Foytack seems to have found that happy medium between laziness and nonchalant.

He never has been accused of being a lazy performer but some of his managers and teammates have wondered how the good-looking righthander manages to take things so easily.

Seldom does Foytack get mad at himself or do any of the tricks that are almost trademarks with other pitchers—things like throwing the glove, kicking the water cooler, refusing autographs to youngsters or sulking in a corner.

"I like to play baseball," said Foytack. "I like to pitch. It's not a big game to me. I think I'm serious enough about my work."

"But what's the sense in getting all upset if someone hits one out of the park or you lose a game? That's not going to make the ball hop back into the outfielder's glove and it's not going to change a guy's wins and losses."

"I take things as they come. If I win, that's fine. If I lose, then I'll try to win next time out."

Wildness kept Foytack in the minor leagues. Then hampered his progress once he made the Detroit Tiger roster.

The Tigers think highly enough of Foytack that they have turned down offers from Kansas City, Baltimore and two other clubs.

"Paul has the tools to become a real big winner," said General Manager Rick Ferrel. "He's shown he's capable of winning 14 or 15 games a season. But I think he can be a 20-game winner. Few pitchers have as much natural ability."

Dee Edington of Ind., a specialist in the fly and breaststroke, one of the swimmers to break into the line breaststroke Frank M.

Tony Kaufman, of Saginaw, has been a great asset, but this top year, McCaffree and Dave McCaffree, from East Lansing, "Modine pacer," placed in the Big 10 in the breaststroke, just short of a small margin done well, considering in Modine's shadow. Don Patterson, captain and sprinter for view, Ill., stands by a captain, a prince of a who has taken his good stride and is all determined to defend title in the 100-yard. McCaffree said. The of him capable of setting records in the NCAA, on good terms.

Bob Thomas, Elkhart butterfly artist, has been year in the butterfly. McCaffree said, and has a dependable job.

A junior from John South Africa, Billy Ste also has lost next year ineligibility because of Olympic competition, case is reconsidered. State's triple winner in 10 Meet in the 220 and freestyle and the 1 freestyle.

Ann Arbor Wins Class 'A' Swimming Crown

Ann Arbor just squeezed in for the title in the Class A High School Championship Swimming Meet held over the weekend in the Men's IM Pool.

Ann Arbor with 41 points was followed by Battle Creek Central with 40, due to a fourth place showing in the last race, which quelled Central's hopes. Birmingham was third with 38 points and Lansing Sexton fourth with 31.

Battle Creek Central had an outstanding butterfly artist in Terry Laberle, whose time, 54.5, in the 100-yard even broke state, national and pool records, the latter being set by U of M's triple winner, Tony Tashnick, in the Big 10 Meet held here the week before.

Laberle also aided his 200-yard medley relay team in cracking the state and national records with a 1:45.5 time.

John Baker, also of Battle Creek Central set national and state records in the 100-yard breaststroke. First, second and third place swimmers surpassed the former record, set in preliminaries earlier Saturday.

Ann Arbor's Owen Kleinschmidt was a double winner. His 4:15.0 time was a state record. He was defending champion and record holder in the 200-yard freestyle, and kept both distinctions in breaking national and state records with a 1:52.5.

Steve Thrasher of Ann Arbor broke his own state record in the 150-yard individual medley in 1:29.4 time. Royal Oak Kimball set a 1:33.8 state record in the 200-yard freestyle relay.

Saginaw Arthur Hill dominated the diving, placing first in first and second positions. The winner, Bill Williams, got a high award of nine and a half points, and his teammate, Pete Cox, got one award of 10 points, which is perfect in the judge's opinion.

Gymnast Festa Hits High Point

Conference Meet Showing Tops Up-and-Down Career

By PETE WALTERS
State News Night Editor

Angelo "Angie" Festa reached a peak in his up-and-down career as a Michigan State gymnast last weekend.

Four events, most by a margin of one or two points, were his. He placed first in the pommel horse, vault, uneven bars and floor exercises. He placed second in the parallel bars and rings.

His 1958 season was more than respectable, but was even better than that. His 1959 season was the best of his career. He placed first in the pommel horse, vault, uneven bars and floor exercises. He placed second in the parallel bars and rings.

He began 1958 competition still in the footstep of Giarattino, captain of the Spartans (Muzzeo was ineligible).

Regarded as a top talent in all rings, he had the ability to pull an exercise and meet it with a perfect execution. He was a natural on the uneven bars, putting two with a second and a third against Ohio State and again turning in a strong performance the next week at Indiana.

Then came the promotion to senior, knocking Festa off the squad for four meets, including State's only two losses of the year. The priority was removed in time for the Big 10 contest, and he came through again, despite a sore to a month of only partial practice.

Festa held up well under the added pressure of a conference meet, according to his coach. "It's not always easy to do that, either."

Only the national collegiate match at Berkeley, Calif., was a weekend session on the gymnastics. The Spartans had a 2-1 record in the Big 10. Festa was still looking for an all-around year of service from his coaches. Festa's coach, Bill Back, said he was looking for a full season of service from Festa. SPORTS NEWS IN BRIEF

Booster Makes Trials Tigers Win in Ninth

LAKELAND, Fla. — The Zerials blasted a ninth inning homer over the left field line Sunday to end a two-game exhibition baseball losing streak for the Detroit Tigers and give them a 2-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Zerial blasted Bob Shaw's last pitch down the line and it was foul by a few feet. Then with the count at 2-2 Zerial jammed his home and ended a tight pitching battle.

KNAPP'S

'What is a Value' CONTEST

We want the people of Central Michigan to tell us what their concept of a value is . . . Your answers may enrich you with one of 68 big cash prize awards. $1,000, first prize, $2,500 in all.

What has happened to America's sense of values has been a concern of us all . . . The old standards of value no longer prevail and today, there is much doubt and suspicion of values that are offered by retailers because of the widespread use of deceptive pricing and misleading advertising practices. The subject of value is a bread and butter matter to every person. So we've taken the lamp of Diogenes, the legendary man who searched the streets for an honest man, and with the lamp in hand, Knapp's is searching the avenues of Michigan to find an answer to this question: WHAT IS YOUR CONCEPT OF A VALUE? Tell us in your own words. Pick up a contest form as soon as you can and write your answer to this interesting question. We'll all profit from the answers, but you'll profit most. If yours is one of the best answers selected by our panel of judges, you will be enriched with one of the 68 cash awards.

Tell us in your own words
What is YOUR idea of a value?

Yes, tell us in your own words, "What is YOUR IDEA OF A VALUE?". Write your answer in 300 words or less and submit it to Knapp's. Official contest forms are available at Knapp's Street Floor Service Desk. Get your entry form now, so that you can get started with your answer.

Any person 15 years or older can enter . . . Get started NOW!

We invite everyone to take part in this exciting contest. In particular, we invite students in high school and from colleges to participate. This is a subject which should "hit home" with every person . . . homemakers, office and faculty members, salesmen, students . . . in fact, your whole family can enter.

It's easy! It's fun! It's interesting!
There's Nothing for You to Buy!

All you have to do is pick up an official contest form or have one mailed to you. Write your answer and submit it to Knapp's contest board before midnight, April 30, 1959.
